LOG TRUCK ACCIDENT

STEERING WHEEL COMES LOOSE ON LOG TRUCK

LOGS ROLLED OFF ROAD TO CLEAR FOR TRAFFIC

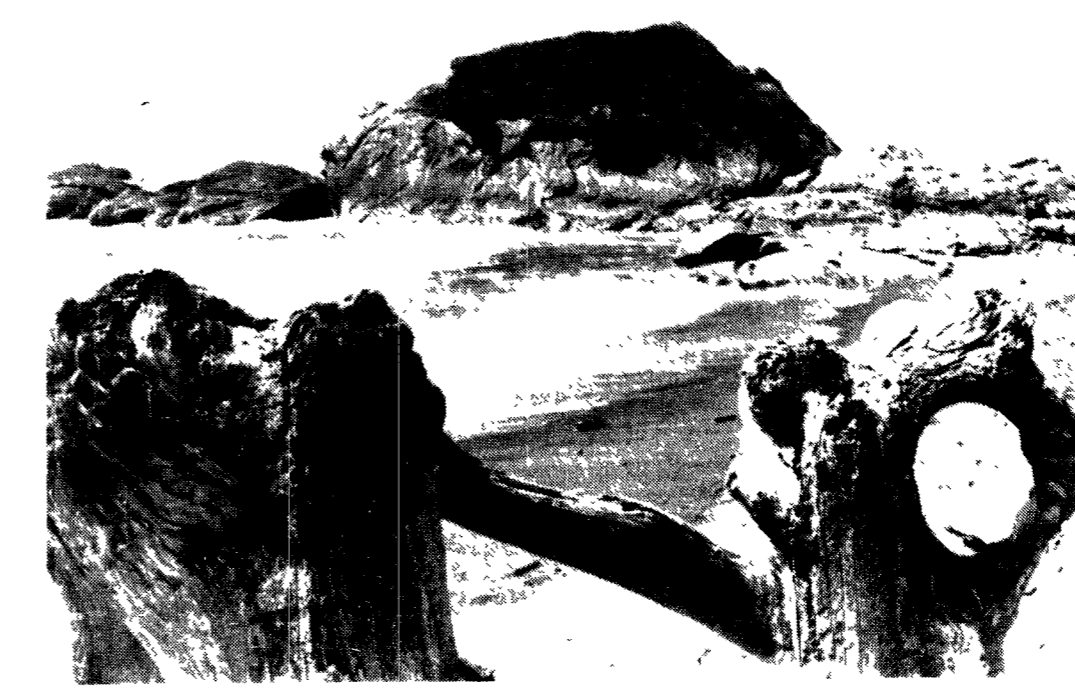

By Sheila Schott
Clyde E. Goakey of Beaver, can count his blessings. On Tuesday, September 7, while rounding a corner about 1 and 1/2 miles east of Fairholm on Lake Crescent, Clyde noticed his steering going out on his truck. He put on the brakes hard and pulled back on his steering wheel. At this point his steering wheel came off in his hands. Clyde was not injured, but according to the Olympic National Park rangers the damage to his 1963 Kenworth tractor and trailer is total. The accident occurred at 11:30 a. m. and with the help of the National Park rangers, the Washington State Patrol, State highway workers, and Jim Rich with his Industrial wrecker, traffic was completely open by 4 p. m.

HERE NEAR KALALOCHE - Waves wash gently against the shore near Kalaloch along the Olympic National Park's Pacific ocean strip. Driftwood stands boldly at the high tide line where it awaits the coming winter storms. A soft breeze flows from sea to land while fog lies off shore. A new announcer has joined the staff of KVAC Radio, his name is Don Squire. Don comes to us by way of Tacoma, but originally he's a New England boy, raised in the Boston area. Don first left his hometown in his late teens while he was singing with a vocal group, traveled around the country and performed. When the group broke up Don was living in California. Uncle Sam was next and Don served two years with the United States Army and was honorably discharged in 1965. While still in the Army, Don met and married his wife, Gloria who is of Hawaiian extraction. Don and GIGI (Gloria) have two boys, Donald Jr., 6 years old and Edward Anthony, 5 years old. Don has not always been in radio, when he first was discharged from the army he worked as a printer for the Globe Ticket Company of Tacoma. In 1969 Don enrolled in the radio and television broadcasting course at the Bates Vocational Technical Institute of Tacoma and has just recently graduated. While at Bates Don was able to pick up valuable experience by working weekends at various radio stations. Don was first introduced to Forks last March when he and Darren Lamb came here to do the Forks Invitational Basketball Tournament broadcast. Now Don is back in Forks and when asked why, he said, "the devil made me do it."

WILDERNESS AREAS TOTAL

Legally designated wilderness areas in the West now total more than 9.1 million acres, according to a survey by the Western Wood Products Association.
All forms of mechanized or developed recreation are prohibited within such land classification by provisions of the Wilderness Act of 1964. It defines wilderness as "an area of undeveloped federal land retaining its primal character and influence, without permanent improvements or human habitation." As a consequence, wilderness is primarily used by backpackers, mountaineers, fishermen, hunters and others who enjoy strenuous activity.
In the 12 western states where most wilderness country is located, an additional 9 million acres have been set aside in national parks, recreation, scenic, primitive and similar areas. Another 18.4 million acres in the West are under active consideration for wilderness and special use designation. About one-third of all such acreage is productive forest land.
Nationally, more than 10 million acres are in wilderness classification, 44 million more are scheduled for study, and another 6 million acres not now in primitive or other reserved status have been proposed for wilderness. The total of 60 million acres is equal to the land area of New York and Pennsylvania.

Land classified as wilderness in the West alone contains enough wood to construct 3 million homes, according to Wendell B. Barnes, Executive Vice President of the Western Wood Products Association. "We may pay a heavy price in years to come," he said, "for our failure to develop all the potential uses of our public forests, including recreation, timber, water, wildlife, range and other values."
Barnes also pointed out the tragic loss of wilderness timber resources resulting from prohibition of timber harvesting and roads. Lack of road access, he said, leads to heavy timber loss from fire, insects and disease in wilderness areas.
Barnes said: "We are already losing public timber to forest enemies: each year which equals the annual timber yield from public lands. We cannot allow this waste to prevail indefinitely."

The trade association executive pointed out that the timber industry regularly supports wilderness proposals with testimony on the public record. "Such testimony," he pointed out, "is always given with reservations about the wisdom of denying broader recreational opportunities and the use of natural resources to the public. Ultimately, the public must decide, not whether we need wilderness, but how much of the nation's forested land we can afford to set aside solely for primitive recreational use."

Barnes asked for careful balancing of the social benefits of adequate housing constructed from a replensishable forest resource against the social benefits of immense recreational tracts accessible only to the hardy.

FIRES ARE COMMON AND TRAGIC FOR HOMEOWNERS

Home sweet home is not always home safe home in Washington or across the nation. According to statistics released by the Insurance Information Institute, one out of every 86 homes in the nation was struck by fire last year, accounting for 125 lives lost each and every week.

In Washington for 1969, there was an estimated total of 10,000 home fires, or one fire in a private residence every 51 minutes of every day throughout the year. Across the state last year, 139 people died in fires. Approximately 89 per cent of those people died in their own homes.

The million dollar fires and those that cause multiple deaths get the headlines, the Institute remarked. The small home fires that occur everyday and take only a single life go almost unnoticed, yet they caused the deaths of 6,200 people and damage totaling $663 million in 1968.

In and Around Town

Mrs. Paul Lingvall, 374-6302

Leonard Kelo returned August 27 after a 7-week's stay in Seattle General Hospital. He is getting along fine and enjoys company. Visiting Leonard last week were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Reddington from Auburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Gunn and daughter Jennifer spent three days in Forks visiting her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Fullbrook.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clausen and five children are happy to be back home in Forks after a two-week's vacation. Their trip took them as far as Beck Falls, Illinois, where they visited Harold's sister and family. From there, the Clausens drove through Wisconsin to Minnesota where they spent a week with another sister of Harold's, enjoying picnics with friends and relatives. After a visit with Harold's brother, they started their trip home and stopped at Colville to spend some time with Aggie's mother and sister and at Darrington where another of Aggie's sister lives. One of the "highlights" of their trip was running out of gas in the middle of the night right in front of a gas station. Luck? Not at all. The station wasn't open!!

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ben Lonn for a week were Mr. and Mrs. Randall DeGood and children, Kelly and Brian from Renton.

Mrs. Claude Clark and son Michael drove to Vancouver where they spent 3 days taking in the P. N. E. exhibition which included 4-H livestock judging, and the All-terrain Vehicle Show. Among the highlights were the Royal Canadian Mounted Police's musical ride (on horses), the Festival of Forestry with high climber Art Williams as Copper Canyon Sal, and a dance group, the Young Canadians.

Mrs. Henry Halverson, school library aide, held an open house for the teachers at the grade school library September 1. Edna Halverson and Kay Stockman assisted.

Visiting the Phillipsmans over the Labor Day weekend was her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Royland Johnson, her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Johnson, Paul's parents, Reverend and Mrs. Ralph Hanson and Mr. and Mrs. George Davidson, all of Seattle.

Terrence Diimmel is back home after 4 years of service in the U. S. Navy. He was last stationed at Norfolk, Virginia and is planning to return to Peninsula College in a couple of weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Boury and family spent a few days in Sedro Woolley with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Johnson, and friends. Before returning home, the Boury's stopped at Mount Vernon for a visit with Dick's sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sheahn and son John.

Also there were Mrs. Gertrude Boury, Dick's mother, Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Fritsch of Bellevue, and Dick's niece, Jamie Boury from California.

HOSPITAL GUILD PLANS

Delicious refreshments were enjoyed by the Hospital Guild members who met at the home of Mrs. Phil Jaspers on September 2nd.

Some of the members are planning to attend the Washington State Hospital Convention in Spokane on October 14th. The members will have a bake sale to help with the expenses of this trip.

Supplies will be ordered to make puppets for young patients at the hospital in the future. Kate Jaspers turned in money that had been made with the gift cart at the hospital.

Mrs. Ryberg would like to have all of the baby quilts turned in to her before October 1st.

Karen Kallman took the traveling basket and will see that it is passed around and present at each meeting.

Kate Jaspers reported on the laying of the corner stone of the hospital on August 28th and the part that she took representing the Hospital Guild.

Citizens are reminded of the Edo Holenstein Memorial Fund. Donations are welcome and the money accrued from this will be used in making the lounge for the elderly patients more pleasant in the new hospital.

The next meeting will be on October 7th at Ingrid Lingvall's with Edna Haag as hostess.

GRAVES-PEGRAM PLEDGE VOWS

Miss Nyma Leigh Graves became the bride of David Lee Pegram in a lovely ceremony August 7 at the Prince of Peace Lutheran Church in Forks. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton L. Graves of Forks. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Orvel Pegram of Pasco.

Reverend Howard Stockman performed the ceremony in the presence of 125 friends and relatives.

Mrs. Kate Silves was the organist, and Mrs. Cheryl Rich sang "The Wedding Prayer" and "Theme from Love Story".

The sanctuary was decorated with altar baskets filled with white mums, baby-breath, light pink gladiola and ferns, accented with hot pink bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an empire-styled gown of nylon organza with a fall covering of Chantilly lace, high neckline and Bishop sleeves. A fingertip veil, attached to a cluster of nylon organza roses, and a chapel length train completed the attire. Seeded pearls were strewn over the veil and gown.

Mother of the bride wore a two tone gray knit dress with matching accessories. Mother of the groom wore a light pink knit dress with matching lace coat and accessories. Both wore a corsage of rosebuds.

Rodney Pegram was his brother's best man, and ushers were Dennis Bos of Forks, Russell Loweyn and Doyle Pegram of Othello. All the men attendants wore white tuxedos. Ring bearer was Allen Pegram, brother of the groom.

A reception was held in the social hall. Mrs. Alma Anderson, aunt of the bride, poured. Maryrose Jones of Othello ladled the punch. Helen Bearcraft and Marjorie Anderson, both aunts of the bride, cut the cake. Jay Strouf and Michael Peabody passed the grooms cake. Miss Terry Gustafson was in charge of the guest book and the gift table was tended by Mrs. Roy Strouf, Mrs. Mike Peabody and Mrs. William Schotak.

For her going away costume, Mrs. Pegram chose a yellow knit dress with matching accessories. She wore a pink orchid corsage.

After a week's wedding trip to Oregon and western Washington, the young couple is now at home at G & L Shake Co., Lower Hoh.

New law enforcement

Forest Service officials in the Pacific Northwest are hailing the passage of a new federal law as an important step toward curbing lawless behavior in National Forest recreation areas.

The new law comes none too soon, judging from the tense experiences of several National Forest recreation guards in Oregon and Washington this summer.

The law (PL 92-82), signed in August by President Nixon, authorizes cooperative law enforcement arrangements between the Forest Service and local police authorities.

Regional Forester Resler emphasized that incidents of unruly and unlawful conduct involve only a scant fraction of the millions of National Forest recreational visitors.

"Unfortunately, however, it seems that disrespect for law and order and the rigors of others is carrying over into the great outdoors," he said.

SMOKE GOT IN THEIR EYES

"Hot ashes on our roof, soot and ashes in our store and in our house, I was painting our house on the outside..." were some of the comments made after the slash burning August 25 and 26. Is burning really necessary? Did the Department of Natural Resources have to burn that day?

The slash burning was done south of Forks in Anderson Ridge No. 3 and Lagitos Ridge area, and north of Forks in 5 units in the Gunderson area. The purpose of the burning, according to Frank Dugas of the Department of Natural Resources, is to fire proof the area. It's done for silva culture reasons (kills the hemlock mistletoe and also the brush, thus giving the trees a head start over the brush). In a unit where burning has taken place, the planting of the trees goes quicker and easier. Approximately two or three dollars are saved on a tree planting cost.

Ten to fifteen years after the trees have been planted, pre-commercial thinning takes place, with a saving of up to fifteen dollars per acre in areas where burning has been done.

The Department chooses a day for burning that is dry enough for the slash to burn quickly and completely and so the smoke column goes high into the air. Some times though, Mother Nature steps in and there is a change of direction in the wind, which happened during the last burning. The right day for burning is determined by measuring the fuel moisture in the slash and in the adjacent timber.

The Legislature has exempted forest burning from the air-pollution law to allow forest owners to abate the forest fire hazard. The burning is spread throughout the year to keep the concentration of smoke as small as possible. The fire trails and the high fuel moisture in the timber prevents the fire from spreading out of the unit.

During the recent slash burning, the units were patrolled 24 hours per day for the first 5 days and 3-4 times per day thereafter.

LINDA SHEARER

MISS LINDA SHEARER will represent Clallam County at the state dress revue at the Western Washington Fair in Puyallup September 21.

Assembly of God special services

The Rev. Jack Chase will be speaking at the Assembly of God Church in Forks from September 15 through the 21st, 7:30 p. m.

At the age of 20, Rev. Mr. Chase was stricken with polio leaving his limbs paralyzed. Since then, he has attended the University of Illinois and after graduating, enrolled at L. T. E. Bible College in Los Angeles. Upon completion of his studies there, he entered the ministry.

While in California, he played basketball with the "Flying Wheels", a team composed of disabled veterans, and was privileged to meet President and Mrs. Eisenhower while playing basketball in Washington D. C. He also has appeared on several national coast-to-coast radio and T. V. programs including "Strike It Rich", "Welcome Travelers", and "You Asked For It".

In the summer of 1962, Rev. Chase was one of eighteen wheelchair personnel to go on an extensive tour of South Africa, Southern Rhodesia and Europe. The purpose of the tour, initiated by the South Africans and Southern Rhodesians, was to demonstrate to those countries the possibilities of activities and employment for the physically handicapped. During the course of this tour, Rev. Chase won first place in the "slalom" obstacle course race and played on the United States Wheelchair Basketball Team which won the World Championship in the Paralympic games in London, England.

You will not want to miss these inspirational services at the Assembly of God Church. Everyone is invited to attend.

THE PRIMARY CORNER

From Mr. Newbry's desk: The primary staff welcomes you to another school year. Good communication between the community and the school can make this an excellent year.

Good communication involves parents, teachers, students, administration and other interested taxpayers. To enhance this year's communication we again invite you to visit your primary school at your convenience. You do not have to make arrangements in advance; simply check in at Mrs. Rosmond's desk for your lapel badge. The badge indicates to the teacher that you are observing. The teacher will be conducting a lesson and may not have time to talk with you. Sit back in one of the extra chairs and watch and listen. Stay long enough to get the feel of the room and to catch the enthusiasm that accompanies learning.

Please be patient with our traffic pattern and parking facilities. Soon to be completed is a special loading and unloading area for parents bringing students to school.

If you, as parents, have any problems to discuss concerning the school, please come in and talk to me as soon as possible. Prompt action can solve a small problem before it gets big. We must work together to maintain the best possible atmosphere for the education of your child.

We hope that you will enjoy reading the "Primary Corner," a weekly column written by teachers, with pictures of classroom activities and contributions by students.

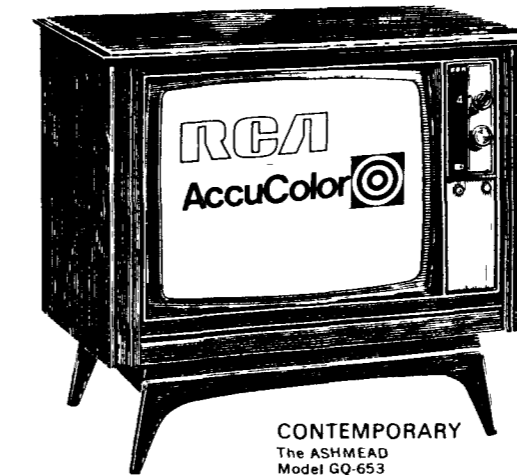

Thank you for a fine year in 1970-71. We are sincerely looking forward to another fine year and hope to see you at school. Joe Newbry
