HERE AT MORA---The sun rises on Mora campground, but today, unlike yesterday, there are no visitors to rise with it. The warmth of summer is gone, gone are those who camped here. A few leaves begin to fall while high above a squirrel harvests spruce cones for the coming winter. The beginning of another season here at Mora. ---Lonnie Archibald accord was reached on a possible counter-conciliatory agreement which would be generally acceptable to both agencies. To this end, the chairman of the Board of Directors has called a special meeting for Monday evening, November 8, 1971, at 7:30 p. m. in the Forks High School Library. The community should be pleased to hear that only matters related to our Indian minority will be discussed and that the possible rehiring or reinstatement of a former teaching staff member has been removed from consideration.

McBRIDE STILL GOING

After 35 continuous hours on the air, Pat McBride was still going strong at the time of this picture, 4:30 p. m. Nov. 2. Pat McBride, KVAC's evening disc jockey pictured here with Frank Horton, embarked on a marathon Nov. 1 at 5:30 a. m. to raise money for the community center fund. The public was asked to include a $1 donation to the fund with their guest as to the day, hour and minute Pat would give up broadcasting. Winners will receive the following prizes: first prize, a radio-phonograph combination donated by KVAC; 2nd prize, an 8-foot Stillely fiberglass boat also donated by KVAC; 3rd prize, a $50.00 savings bond donated by Forks State Bank.

SCHOOL BOARD

The regular meeting of the Board of Directors of Quillayute Valley School District No. 402 was held in the library of the high school October 21, 1971. Directors Myron Simmons, Cecil Wallerstedt, Fred Fletcher, and Darrel Gaydeski were present.

Mr. Sandy Poteet presented the Board with a petition signed by 135 citizens in support of the School Board in their working with the Human Rights Commission's complaint. A letter dated October 15 was read from the Human Rights Commission requesting a meeting with two Board members only. Mr. Hitchcock had conferred with Brooke Taylor, Prosecuting Attorney, on October 17 and he felt this was a legitimate request and suggested that two Board members only be sent to this meeting. There will also be a representative from Mr. Bruno's office, one from the Washington State School Directors Association, Mr. Traver, Mr. Hitchcock, and Mr. Taylor. The 2 Board members will be Mr. Wallerstedt and Mr. Gaydeski.

Mr. Ken Webster of the State Patrol, working with bus inspection, traffic safety, and school patrol, had gone over some of the bus routes with Mr. Hitchcock. He said he would not allow a bus to run up the Bear

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

NOTE: Letters to the editor, in order to appear in print, MUST be signed by the writer. If not signed, they will not be accepted.

Editor,

I assume that you are in the newspaper business to sell papers. To do that you would naturally print articles of interest to the people of the community. That makes me wonder why that you, the editor, have an "I could care less attitude", concerning the sports program that Forks has for it's youth. You have a sportswriter that covers the high school Spartans, but only occasionally is the Little League mentioned and the Junior High team is almost non-existent as far as the paper goes. In a town as small as Forks almost everyone is interested and concerned about how the few teams representing our town are doing in competition with the other towns. Everyone, it seems, except our local newspaper.

Last baseball season, Little League action was reported in the Forum, but once and only once was there any mention of the fine Babe Ruth team from Forks.

I've heard it suggested that it's up to the coaches to get their games reported in the paper. I disagree! Their job is coaching---yours is getting the news. Each Little League team has lost only one game this season and the Junior High team is so far undefeated. So the coaches are doing their jobs very well----, but are you?

Joyce Blair
Forks, Washington

***Editor's Note:

Please check the inside back cover of the telephone directory. There you'll find just a partial list of the many clubs and organizations in the area. All of these organizations, with one exception, consider their work important enough to delegate a responsible person as reporter.

We agree Forks has outstanding junior high and little league teams, but their partial coverage has not been due to an "I could care less" attitude as you suggest. Since little league and junior high programs are rungs on the ladder to high school, emphasis must be placed on the varsity.

Thank you for your complaint. Now, since you have children involved, would you care to take a more challenging step and get involved in a positive nature?

Editor,

This is in regards to the letter from Becky James. I don't know how old she is, but she didn't write in a very educated manner, so who is she to speak of non-educated Indians?

That in itself was a gigantic generalization with no backing whatsoever.

It's people like her that are destroying the people. That is not the "way" of the white man--to be discriminating. It's a conditioned evil that can be overcome.

I wonder what kind of person would say, that if it were only white man on earth it would be wonderful. It's a white world now! Is it wonderful? It's their land too, girl. The Negroes, Indians, Chinese, Japanese and on and on. So if I were you I'd look around and grow up....FAST! Rene Kesterson

Editor,

In your issue of October 21, Steve Lingvall commented on a previous letter of mine dealing with the Indian question in our school and demands being made, some of which I consider as far beyond good sense.

Anyway, I am unable to determine whether he agrees, disagrees, or simply is expressing himself. We elderly people eventually learn that in the things of this world, the pendulum usually always is far on one side or the opposite of a reasonable center, and that holds whether we are considering peace, war, racial or international distrust, styles, law, do-gooding, crime, punishment, religion or what you will. Right now we are well into a phase of racism where we insist not only that minorities have certain privileges even if they are that, but because they are minority races or political groups. It is, of course, certain that on various occasions the white people mistreated the Indians with whom they came in conflict, but it is equally true that among themselves the Indians fought like cats and dogs and put upon each other in various ways, conquering, depriving, killing and driving each other from their homes and lands in every bit as ruthless a manner as the whites later mistreated them.

The Indians who were old, when here, they first met the white settlers in the 1870's, used to tell how canoe loads of the "King George" Indians (British Columbia coastal people) used to come to the peninsula to raid the Quilleutes and Hohs, and on the way, just as a kind of recreation, would stop and attack the uninvoled Ozette, and then when the Hoh-Quilleutes in retaliation went North to raid them, too, stopped on the way to practice up on the Ozette. Poor oppressed Ozettes!

Many people here, especially the younger ones and late arrivals, do not seem to get the full picture of Indian-white relationship. The treaty of 1855, to which most of the Indians of Oregon Territory (Washington, Oregon, Idaho) subscribed, gave the Indians exclusive jurisdiction on their reservations and ownership of the game, wildlife, fish and other resources there under Federal guardianship and protection, and further in common rights with the citizens of the territory to the fish and game on their old tribal grounds outside their reservation. In 1889, by terms of the enabling act, the States (and that included Washington) disclaimed all jurisdiction on Indian reservations which included the right to tax. The U.S. Constitution provides that Indians not taxed shall not be allowed to vote. Since Indians are now U.S. citizens and presumably subject to Federal taxation, they are eligible to vote, but when they accept State jurisdiction they may also ultimately be accepting the right of the state to tax on a reverse of the theory of "no taxation without representation" "Watch it, you Indians"! How firm under our constitution is the right to vote in state elections without the responsibility of paying state taxes? Oh yes, the white people can be sneaky at times, and the constitution does not condone super citizenship, only equality. Why does the state want to extend services and law on reservations? The Quinaults have rejected the idea and proclaimed their ancient independence from state entanglements. They may be wise.

Now, as for hunting and fishing on the reservation, that belongs to the Indians who belong there. Outside, they may do so only on the same terms as any citizen of the state. That in common restriction, being by treaty, does not change by law or administrative act, so when the state fisheries provided for net fishing off their reservation and excluded citizens of the state, it was violating the Indian treaties. There have been other instances when our bureaucrats, leaning far over backwards, have imposed on the state citizens and taxpayers. There are the instances when indigent reservation Indians have been forced on state relief paid by state tax from adjacent areas whereas that should have, in entirety, been a Federal responsibility. The same with Indian schooling which in the past was accepted as a U.S. responsibility and was so implemented. The Federal Government paid tuition directly to the school district in which its Indian wards were educated. There has been the impression that Indians here were forced onto reservations. Whatever the case may have been in other places, it was not true

Any Indian who wished to could leave his tribes and become a citizen of the state on the same terms as anyone else with the same privileges and responsibilities. Some did and took up homesteads. Generally they sold them and went back to the reservations as a better way of life for them. We also hear that employers discriminated. An employer is always looking for an employee who is steady. The Indians were skillful enough but were likely to leave a job at a critical time to go to a potlatch or fishing or hunting. That could cost money or make for serious inconvenience. In a competitive world, the best is always selected where there is any choice. Believe me, if the Indians were as good as white people in competitive places, they would have em-

Editor, I've always been of the opinion that dogs buried their own bones. The reason I say this is when we took our boys (2,3,4, years old) trick-or-treating on Halloween, some people in a local trailer court gave them a chewed up port chop bone and scared them.

I think if people don't believe in Halloween they should just tell the kids or leave their porch lights off. Sincerely yours, Mrs. Billie L. Bryan Mrs. Erlene R. Henson

MRS. J. E. MERRITT

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Konopaski returned home last Thursday from a three-weeks' hunting and fishing trip in Eastern Washington. They found the bird hunting very poor, but fishing in O'Sullivan Lake was excellent. The Konopaskis visited Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Jeffries and Mrs. Dale Jeffries at Royal City, and before returning home they stocked up on potatoes, carrots, apples and other farm produce. The trip over there was somewhat in the nature of a Konopaski family reunion, as Mr. and Mrs. Gene Konopaski of Sekiu, Mr. and Mrs. Don Halbman (Lillian Konopaski) of Silverdale, and Mmes. Carl Raleigh and Warren Konopaski, all of Port Angeles, were also in the same area.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lewis had as guests over the weekend their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lewis of Aberdeen. They left for home on Sunday, and before leaving they visited Mrs. Lewis' son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Fisk and their new baby daughter in Forks.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Welch returned Sunday to their home in Shelton after a weekend visit with their respective parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walt Mason in Forks and Mr. and Mrs. John Merritt at Tyee.

PARENT-TEACHER CONFERENCES SLATED

In certain businesses and other organizations large sums of money are spent in public relations and in building a favorable image. No expenditure of money could buy the good relations created when parents and teachers enjoy working together towards a common goal.

Maintaining communications and good relations with the parents of children is one of a teacher's most important tasks. It is true that the child, the parents and the teacher will benefit if close contact between the child's home and school is maintained. A school year will be much more pleasant and profitable for everyone involved if channels of sincere and friendly communication are kept open.

Effective teacher-parent conferences are not easy. They take plenty of planning, patience and practice. The staff members of the primary school are behind the pilot program 100% and will work for success.

Thank you,
Joe Newbury

'WORDS EYE VIEW'

Well, sports fans, the football season will be grinding to a halt this Friday and the Blue and Gold will be up against the number two team in the state,

By Don Squire
Port Townsend.
Record wise, the Spartans have not fared well in the 1971 season, but if we look beyond the records and assess the team as a whole our assumption is they have the caliber, in their young ranks, to be a winner.

Last Friday night, the Spartans were a winner for three quarters of their ballgame with the Sequim Wolves, who are currently in second place in the league, but unfortunately the Spartans did not hold onto their 15-7 halftime lead. The Wolves were leashed in their attack and were in the doghouse with 4th and long yardage.

Sequim threw the pass and picked up the long yardage deep in Spartan territory. The Spartans dug in with their backs against the goal and stopped the Wolves' drive.

There is a record in Forks High School football annals of 18 unassisted tackles made in one game by a Spartan player, Pete Dahlgren to be exact, and ironically, John Dahlgren came close to breaking it. John had 14 unassisted tackles and a total of 19 for the game. The overall play of the team, both offensively and defensively, looked like it was adding a victory to the season, but once again the mistake turned victory into defeat, 25-15.

Saturday, November 6, at the Congregational Church a dinner is being held in honor of the Junior High School football team. The Babes went undefeated this season 6-0-0 and beat the Port Angeles "A" team for the first time. Trophies are to be awarded to the team members.

Last year the National 4-H Service Committee distributed at cost, more than 2-million copies of publications designed to increase project learning of 4-H members.

Four room mothers for Mrs. Swalling's room--Mrs. Dick Haberman, Mrs. Bud Howard, Mrs. Howard Stockman and Mrs. Williams enjoyed themselves at a Halloween party Friday afternoon.

Several visitors dropped in. The Banana Splits put on quite a performance much to the delight of the room mothers and children, and the friendly witch received a big "hello" from all.

Approximately 35% of 4-H members live on farms; 42% reside in towns with less than 10,000 population and 23% live in urban and suburban areas with population over 10,000.

RENEWAL VARIANCES GRANTED MILLS

On October 6, 1971, the first Wednesday of the month being a regular hearing day, the Board of Directors granted renewal variances to twelve shake mills. These were wood-product operations which previously held one-year variances originally granted in 1970 by the Olympic Authority. The original variances in general were given because no known combustion methods were evident at that time (1970) which could allow compliance with those pertinent air pollution control standards for such mills. Further, reasoning such as economic hardship which would be created by immediate compliance was a ruling factor in 1970 and again in 1971. However, the matter of no-known process to consume waste has become strongly questionable. It is now believed possible to burn wood waste and still comply with standards by the emergence of new and reputable firms who are offering guaranteed equipment that will comply. However, the Olympic Air Pollution Control Authority says you can purchase even the finest of automobiles, but with improper ownership it can be junk in no time. The same applies to combustion equipment.

Renewal variances are tougher than the original ones which were granted for a year. Now, most holders must present a written progress report each 90 days, otherwise lose their variance entirely. The Board feels that definite progress must be shown toward standard compliance to maintain a renewal variance in effect.

Other Board action during the October meeting included adopting an amendment to Regulation 1 to the effect of repealing all former exceptions to smoke control standards in OAPCA territory. The original Regulation had automatic exceptions built in the law. State and federal statutes concerning air pollution are known to conflict, therefore the necessary amendment. Originally by Regulation 1, all forms of vehicles were exempt from standards of compliance; so were combustion processes for space heating other than boilers. These sources of air contaminants are known to contribute to the overall problem in a similar manner as shake mills located deep in the Olympic forests. The latest repeal requires all forms of vehicles, including ships and locomotives, to pay proper attention to smoke abatement standards. Engine exhaust from highway operated vehicles also is caused by the amendment to come to attention, but under state management for the present in OAPCA territory. On the other hand, any material causing air pollution other than engine exhaust released on the highways will be dealt with directly by the OAPCA.

Final mechanical touches are being made to the field-located air sampler owned and built by the Authority. A self-contained trailer has been constructed by the OAPCA lab, and is intended to be located at critical spots in the territory where sulphur dioxide is known to be present in the immediate atmosphere. Here again, the station is to be operated to test the atmosphere for compliance with ambient air standards adopted by the federal and state laws concerning such matters. It is not believed that any area in the Olympic Authority is presently above those allowances permitted for the atmosphere by federal law, but a program of surveillance must be made in a preventative manner.

MEN WANTED NOW

The Commandant of the Coast Guard has recently announced that the service has a requirement for experienced petty officers. Former Navy or Coast Guard petty officers with less than 10 years military service may in most cases be enlisted or re-enlisted in their former rates if they are otherwise qualified. There is a particular need for personnel in the following specialties: Quartermaster, Radarman, Fire Control Technician, Electronics Technician, Engineman, Electrician's Mate, Telephone Technician, Boilerman, Yeoman, Boat-swain's Mate, Storekeeper, Machinist's Mate, Damage Controlman, Marine Science Technician, Commissaryman, and Dental Technician.

The Coast Guard has also exhausted its waiting lists of applicants without prior military service. Therefore, openings are available for immediate enlistment of qualified individuals without prior service, between the ages of 17 and 26.

Prior service in any of the other components of the Armed Forces will count for pay and retirement purposes in the Coast Guard. Individuals interested in entering the Coast Guard should contact their Coast Guard recruiter located at 782 St. Helens Ave., Tacoma, Washington.

Get dishes really clean with an automatic dishwasher

With an electric dishwasher, you get cleaner dishes.

• Here's why: A dishwasher uses water heated to 140 to 160 degrees... hotter than your hands can stand. Automatic dishwashers use special, high-strength detergents... stronger than the mild powders or liquids used in sink dishwashing. What's more, a dishwasher dries with clean, heated air, not a dirty dish towel. Dishwashers do a better job of removing stains, grease, food and bacteria. They get dishes really clean.

• A dishwasher does all this and saves you time, too—probably an hour a day or more. This is time that you can spend on other things.

• Think about it... wouldn't you rather buy a dishwasher than be one?

THE PRIMARY CORNER

As an enrichment to the arithmetic program, Miss Smith's first grade class has been experimenting with cuisenaire rods. These rods are colored pieces of wood that increase in length from one to ten centimeters. Each rod represents a number from one to ten. As the children manipulate these rods they're discovering and exploring the relationship that exists between numbers.

The beginning stage in working with cuisenaire rods is creative free play. The children are allowed to build houses, forts, towers, or make pretty patterns. Naturally questions arise such as "which is the shortest rod that will fit here?" and "how many different rod patterns can I make which have the same length?" Experience with the rods provide the answers. One of the concepts being formed is equivalence--rods of the same color have the same length. In other words, number 5 is equal to number 5. Another concept being introduced is addition--the sum of two or more lengths is equivalent to a third length (1 + 2 = 3).

Learning has become fun. Rather than memorizing facts and rules the children are learning through discovery by using concrete models to represent our abstract number system.

Son Construction Co., in the amount of $17,780.62.

This was considerably higher than the amount proposed in the levy. After lengthy discussion it was decided to accept the bid of Peterson Construction Co. for $17,780.62. Mr. Peterson estimated a completion time of approximately two months.

Gordon Johnson and Herbert Lesure have been hired for the openings in the maintenance department left when Mr. Orr decided not to stay.

Mrs. Shirley Ringsmuth has been hired for the payroll and accounting position in the Superintendent's office.

The Board denied the request of Mrs. Lenna Earley, custodian, for a leave of absence until September, 1972. Mr. Fletcher moved to hire Sherman Black for this position if he is still interested. If not, to hire Mrs. Wilma Shipley; if she is not available, contact Gilbert Spencer.

Mrs. Pearl Warren was asked to help set up a meeting with a representative from the Johnson O'Malley committee and one from the Quilteute Tribal Council to meet with Mr. Wallerstedt and Mr. Gay-desk, the Board's representatives, before their meeting with the Human Rights Commission representatives on Friday, October 29, in order for the Board members to understand the feelings of the Quilteute people in relation to the complaint.

It was noted Mrs. Warren had earlier presented a basket to Mr. James Traver on behalf of the Quilteute people. This basket was not ready at the time of the get-together at LaPush and could not be presented at that time.

STATE PARKS

PLAY HOST

Guest of state parks this fall will include school, college and military groups, in addition to record-breaking numbers of outdoor enthusiasts taking advantage of continued good weather.

John Huffstutter, Acting Chief, Consultation & Education Division, Washington State Parks and Recreation Commission, said today the state's public schools are booking week-long environmental education sessions in the 9 state park resident youth camps under the State Parks-Public Instruction cooperative program initiated last fall, while other State Parks facilities are being used by military groups under the Army's Adventure Training Program.

Arriving by helicopter of Old Fort Townsend State Park, Jefferson County, Saturday, September 11, was a 50-man Army unit from Fort Lewis, Pierce County, for a week of recreation to include tours of nearby Fort Worden and Fort Flagler State Parks, conducted by the park rangers. All three former Army fortresses are now operated by the State Parks Commission and offer a full range of outdoor recreation facilities in addition to bunkers, weapons and other relics of a bygone era of national defense.

Also arriving by helicopter from Fort Lewis, at Mt. Pilchuck State Park, Snohomish County, Monday, September 13, was a 50-man adventure training unit planning to combine environmental training with outdoor recreation. Activities during the week-long campout will include trail building, hiking, and fishing.

Scheduled into four state parks resident youth camps through September and October are faculty and student groups from Evergreen State College, Thurston County. Using facilities at Millersyl-vania, Thurston County, Camp Delany at Sun Lakes State Park, Douglas County, Brooks Memorial State Park, Klickitat County, and Camp Wooten, Columbia County, the Evergreen group will pursue a variety of academic programs in outdoor settings.

Huffstutter urged schools and colleges planning environmental education programs to contact him or Mrs. Lynn Martin, Resident Youth Camp Supervisor, at State Park Headquarters in Olympia for information regarding facilities and procedures for scheduling.

The first meeting will be on Thursday, November 11th, at 1:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Gloria Lindsey located on Evergreen Loop about one and one-fourth miles west of town. (Turn right at the Shell station). For information, please telephone Mrs. Lindsey at 374-5347.

John W. Adams, the minister of Unity in The Olympics, will lead the discussion as teacher. He says, "Every person can be better, healthier, happier than they have been. Each one has potential within that he or she has not yet expressed. The better life is found within the individual who learns to let it out into expression and manifestation. Desire is the primal key." The book, "Psycho-Cybernetics" will be the basis for study. All meetings are offered on the free-will offering basis.

forty-eight trailers and 36 campers tested recently showed that 50 percent of the campers and 20 percent of the trailers were actually leaking carbon monoxide into the living compartments of these units. Almost half of the campers and trailers tested had the burners and ovens improperly adjusted. Dr. Lane warned that leaking petroleum gas is heavier than air and if it escapes, it settles to the lowest point and presents an extremely dangerous flash fire hazard. Carbon monoxide, however, is not heavier than air, and mixes evenly throughout the enclosed space. All units should be checked for gas exhaust leaks and improper ventilation.

Overcrowding can be another health hazard, Dr. Lane noted. Too many people sleeping and eating in less than 700 cubic feet can lead to suffocation.

RATE REDUCTION FOR PEN. TEL.

On November 1, 1971, 134 Peninsula Telephone Company subscribers received a reduction in monthly rates and 63 were offered an upgrade in service to one- or two-party lines. The rate reduction and service upgrade was made possible due to an expansion in the company's Forks Exchange Base Rate Area, according to announcement made by manager, Jon Erickson.

Approximately $80,000 was invested by Peninsula Telephone Company to make the Base Rate Area expansion possible. This amount was part of the company's $250,000, 1971 construction program required to keep pace with station growth and the company's continuous service improvement program.
