Thanksgiving

... to give, with gratitude

Thanksgiving... in the word lives the essence of the day. We give thanks... for blessings large and small, bestowed on one and all. And because we are thankful, we gladly give of our energy and our efforts, our aims and ambitions, on behalf of all, that everyone may be blessed, and be thankful. On this Thanksgiving Day, we look back across the years and forward to the future with thanks for the plenitude that we have been privileged to enjoy, and with the steadfast resolve that in the years ahead we will do our part to bring forth more achievements, more good things for all. To our many friends, best wishes for a Happy Thanksgiving.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

NOTE: Letters to the editor, in order to appear in print, MUST be signed by the writer. If not signed, they will not be accepted.

Editor, "Love Thy Neighbor"--a simple phrase that rejects all color, ethnic and religious barriers. To put it crudely, it lumps us all into one category--humans. Cut us--we bleed. Give us food--we eat. Starve us--we hunger.

Great civilizations have risen, only to crumble as internal corruption feeds upon the ignorant. Racism is one of these corruptions. It feeds on biased theories, regarding the "pitfalls" of different races and nationalities.

Unfortunately, Lena Fletcher's letters regarding the Indian and his way of life seems to fall into this category. Of course, your historical references are undoubtedly accurate. But to claim that all of these problems only involved the red man is impossible for me to grasp. Look at the American Civil War. Brother fought brother, father fought son--a nation was divided.

In regard to the Indians of the Northwest, it is a proven fact that they were a peaceful "nation". When the white man came with his "forked tongue" and huge "thundersticks", the only choice for the Indian was to either fight and die, or succumb to the superior might of the "invaders". If the Sioux or the fierce Apache couldn't defeat them, how could simple, feuding fishermen, unused to fighting wars on a large scale?

But enough of the past, ---let's talk about the present. Because I'm concerned about the future, I think that it is only fair that I overlook the past. Not forget, but overlook. Perhaps you, Lena Fletcher, should also do so. It may help everyone in this community to eliminate racial discrimination. Remember this old (but corny) phrase: "Untied we stand, divided we fall".

Peace, Steve Lingvall P.S. So that there are no more misunderstandings as to whether I agree with Lena Fletcher or not---I don't.

Editor, The following letter was received from the Department of Game in answer to my letter published in the Forum November 11:

Dear Mr. Garbrick Your letter received November 15, 1971, has been referred to me for reply.

1. In the absence of a severe winter, blacktail deer populations build rapidly and create a surplus which may or may not be harvested. We had neither sex seasons in 1966 and 1968, and populations this spring were comparable. When these surpluses develop, we set a short either-sex season to increase hunter opportunity without deterring reproductive capacity. In the past five years hunters have taken only 10 does and fawns per 100 bucks, and in 10-B, 20 per 100. Since herds can be stabilized at 70 per 100, these harvest levels are very low.

2. The Monday elk opening was a decision by the Game Commission to solve the tremendous hunting pressure on opening weekend which resulted in a disgusting herd shooting situation in eastern Washington on November 7, 1970. In anticipation of your reply of separate openings for eastside and westside, we tried that one year and had very heavy pressure on both openings.

3. In your next statement you accuse us of "considering revenue more important than conservation." Since the Monday opening may cost us as much as $200,000 in decreased elk tag sales, we plead "Not Guilty."

Either-sex elk permits, while admittedly very popular, are as necessary to our elk management program as either-sex deer seasons are to deer management.

4. Revenue obtained from the sale of hunting and fishing licenses and big game tags support the operation of the Game Department's program and pay the salaries and expenses of Wildlife Agents who work that area. We presently have Agents in Sequim, Port Angeles and Forks. The regional office in Aberdeen also services this area.

Our employees are hired under the merit system of State civil service. They are career positions and many of our people stay with the Department for 30 years. Qualifications vary with the position and the degree of specialization. For instance, fish biologists must have a degree in Fisheries management.

Since I am one of the administrators you are complaining about, I should tell you where I've been and what I've done: (1) 15 years as a Wildlife Agent in Bremerton, Port Angeles, Tonasket and Spokane.

(2) 6 months as a field biologist in Yakima. (3) 4 1/2 years as a regional biologist in Seattle. (4) 2 years as Big Game Supervisor in Olympia.

Since I have spent two-thirds of my career as a Wildlife Agent, your complimentary words to that group of employees is appreciated. I enjoyed reading your letter and hope that I have answered some of your questions.

Sincerely yours, THE DEPARTMENT OF GAME L.D. Parsons, Supervisor Big Game Management In answer to my first question, Mr. Parsons states that blacktail deer multiply rapidly. In my opinion, and in the opinion of many others who spend more combined man hours in the woods than the Wildlife Agents and Biologists in this area possibly could, the deer were just beginning to make a comeback, but hadn't yet developed a "surplus". It has been suggested to me that large timber companies have a lot to do with the exterminatory policies of the Game Department.

On the question of the Monday elk opening, I can't see the connection between what happened in eastern Washington and our area. Mr. Parsons contradicts himself by stating that the Monday opener was conceived "to solve the tremendous hunting pressure," but the cow permits were necessary to their elk management program and are "admittedly very popular". I fail to understand their reasoning. It seems the abolishment of cow permits would relieve a lot of hunting pressure.

As for the revenue-conservation question, the alleged loss of $200,000 should be indicative of the sportsman's feelings concerning this policy. Mr. Parsons failed to mention the increase in license and tag fees, which I assume will go a long way towards offsetting the loss. I have complete confidence in the commission as businessmen.

The answer to question number four, concerning revenue use in this area, sounds like the answer to a different question. Unless, of course, wages and operating costs are much much higher than I expected.

The explanation to my final question also leaves me as much in the dark. It was aimed at the top administrators not the supervisors and employees. If supervisors and employees are the final decision makers, then I see no real need for the Director, Assistant Directors, and Commissioners whose names appear at the top of the letter-head.

In conclusion, I wish to state that I am in complete accord with Mr. Henslering on the need of representation from this area and can think of no better qualified person than Russell Thomas. Thanks to everyone who has shown their interest in the issue.

Sincerely, Gail Garbrick Forks, Washington

EASTERN STAR NEWS Mrs. Barbara Hoffman, worthy matron of Mt. Olympus Chapter #258 O.E.S. presided over the meeting November 15th with Arthur Maxfield assisting. She opened the meeting with a poem entitled "A Wise Father".

The Sunshine report was given by Francis Maxfield and the Rainbow report was given by Signey Udd.

Installation of officers for the Masons will be held December 11 and a Christmas party will follow.

The Masons were honored at the meeting with a small program. Also honored were those with birthdays in August, September and October.

Refreshments were served by Lucille Read and Irene Goldman.

Marshal speaks at chamber mtg.

Forks Marshal Dave Huson spoke at the November 17 meeting of the Chamber of Commerce and brought out accomplishments made in the office since he has been appointed.

The Town of Forks now has a functioning jail, firm guidelines on record keeping and identification of arrested subjects, and a good reserve system. Traffic noise has been reduced, particularly at night, and he has been able to reach some of the local youngsters through sports programs, a junior reserve club and work-programs.

Marshal Huson invites everyone to stop in and visit and see what the department is accomplishing. "I make it a point to be in the office at 10 a.m. every day," said Huson, "and from 5 p.m. on, a jailer and dispatcher is in the office."

Goals for the future include 24-hour-a-day jailing and some kind of holiday relief as he and the deputy marshal many times work 7 days a week.

One of the prime problems for the department is the "second guessing" of the people. Carol Lunsford reported Fourth of July income and expenses. This year's net income was $2,046.14, an increase over last year.

Verl Poole, chairman of the Fourth of July committee, turned part of his commission over to the co-chairman and the remainder to the Forks Community Center Fund.

The nominating committee, headed by Jon Erickson, will present a slate of officers to be voted upon at the next meeting, December 15.

DRIFTWOOD ON DISPLAY

Forks Memorial Library has on display a variety of driftwood arrangements made by Mrs. David Dickson. Mrs. Dickson has been an avid collector of driftwood since 1963 when she moved to LaPush. "I don't go looking for that special piece of driftwood," says Mrs. Dickson. "Instead, I gather what I can find, sort through it, polish it with deer horn and make the arrangement. It's an inexpensive hobby."

The Dicksons have three children; Rick attends Western Washington College, David is just out of the Coast Guard and will be attending Peninsula College, and Dan is married and lives in Portland.

OUTDOOR LORE

By Lonnie Archibald

WILDLIFE RECREATION AREAS

As man steadily cuts away at the great outdoors and in its place builds structures for industry, sportsmen must search out new areas in which to hunt and fish.

Here in the Evergreen State, we are fortunate that the Department of Game, with the help of sportsmen, has set aside many lands for outdoor recreation. Washington ranks second only to Pennsylvania in terms of land owned or controlled by the State Game Department.

The Department has announced that a full color brochure covering the state's wildlife recreation areas is now available. Free upon written request at any of the game department's regional offices. Forks area sportsmen may write to the Aberdeen regional office, 905 E. Heron, Aberdeen, Washington. This colorful brochure lists 28 wildlife recreation areas throughout the state. A map is found on one side of the brochure with a thorough description of each area found on the reverse.

RIVER MAPS AVAILABLE

The Game Department is also in the process of publishing maps of all the top 30 winter-run and top 10 summer-run steelhead streams in the state. To date, maps of the Hump-tulls and the Puyallup Rivers have been printed and made public. By the end of the year maps of the Toutle, Wynoochee, Satsop, Grande Ronde, Kalama, East Lewis, Green, Pilchuck, Solduck, Calawah, Bogachiel, and Hoh will have been printed. Additional maps will also be printed at later dates.

Included on these maps are: Stream bank access, boat launch sites, parking areas, mileage, and roads. These maps are also free for the asking. Write your Department of Game regional office.

The State Game Department has also published a fall issue of "Washington Wildlife" which is also free upon written request to the State Game Department, 600 North Capitol Way, Olympia, Washington 98504.

"WORDS EYE VIEW"

By Don Squire

The football season has drawn to a close and we begin to focus our attention to the upcoming basketball season which officially begins with the Hoop-go-Round on December 3rd.

This pre-season basketball tournament will be held at Sequim this year, for the participating teams and spectators, it is a golden opportunity to become acquainted with your favorite club.

The December 3rd tournament at Sequim will have four teams from the "A" league playing; Port Townsend and Chimacium in the first game and Forks and Sequim in the second. The winners of both games will play for the championship; and the losers will play in a consolation game.

After being in the basketball program at Forks for three years, Jerry Cash takes over the helm this year for the Spartans. Coach Cash will be building anew this season with only one returning varsity member from last year's squad, senior Ray Maxwell. Coach Cash is very high on his boys this year, though, and he predicts they'll be a fast breaking team.

Elwha salmon decline studied

Serious declines in the salmon runs on the Elwha River, which empties into the Strait of Juan de Fuca, were discussed at a legislative hearing Nov. 23 at Aggie's Restaurant in Port Angeles.

Senator Peterson, chairman of the Interim Committee on Fisheries, Game and Game Fish, said the committee was directed by the Legislature to study the causes of the serious decline of the Elwha River salmon runs.

In recent years, this decline has caused a total loss of the wide range of economic and recreational benefits formerly enjoyed by those citizens of Clallam County and the state, from the previous good salmon runs.

Senator Peterson said the study resolution, sponsored by Reps. Paul Conner and Charles Savage of the 24th Legislative District, directs the committee to make recommendations on the best means for restoring the run to the Legislature.

"The Elwha River is the largest river of Clallam County and the largest emptying into the Strait of Juan de Fuca," Senator Peterson noted. "It formerly was one of the best salmon producers in the state's river system."

Elwah flood problems to be studied

Funds have been received by the Seattle District, Army Corps of Engineers, to make a detailed investigation of the flood problems along the lower reaches of the Elwha River near Port Angeles. Preliminary investigations by the Seattle District, initiated at the request of local residents and the Board of County Commissioners for Clallam County, indicate that improvements to control flooding along the lower Elwha River may be possible.

Residents of the flood plain along the lower reaches of the river have become increasingly concerned over the frequent flooding of their property and the possibility that the river may change course and flow across their developed lands and residential areas.

According to Colonel Howard L. Sargent Jr. Seattle District Engineer for the Corps, second phase studies will consider a full range of possible plant or alternatives available for reducing flood damages along the lower 2 to 3 miles of the river as well as the alternative of "doing nothing." These alternatives will be developed through workshop meetings with interested local residents and officials, arc Federal and State agencies.

Following the workshops the Corps of Engineers will make detailed technical studies of the most feasible proposal for solving the flood problem.

Arctic Ocean to Fort Yukon. His pictures will cover both wildlife and scenic beauty.

November 21, a Thanksgiving Sunday family potluck dinner and program was held in the Fellowship Hall. Community singing was first on the list, led by Stan Sells who was accompanied by Bernice Baldwin at the piano. The Chapel Bell Ringers performed, directed by Mrs. Ringsmuth, followed by the Cherub Choir, led by Mrs. John Henson and accompanied by Mrs. Ivan Burr at the piano. Mrs. Art Kelm, Jr., played the harp, accompanied by Mrs. Jim Rich and her flute. Mr. Sells played a trumpet solo, a composition of his own. Ross Jones showed slides of the ocean and other outstanding features of scenery, both local and in other parts of the country, including closeups of flowers and fauna and a variety of interesting subjects. Wilmer Ulin showed pictures of the men of the church cutting shake bolts and preparing the shingling of the church roof and the actual job of working on the roof. The adult bell ringers also performed for the first time at the program as they have had only one practice. Rehearsal nights are Monday at nine, following regular choir rehearsal. It is both fun and interesting to play the bells and they are a pleasant addition to the church music activities.

On Sunday, November 28, the Cherub Choir will perform at church and the sermon will be "Samuel, Saul and David."
