VOL. 2. NO. 7. PORT CRESCENT, WASHINGTON, THURSDAY, JULY 9, 1891. PRICE FIVE CENTS

THE LAND OF PROMISE

Into Which Home-Seeking Settlers are Now Pouring.

CLALLAM COUNTY'S ATTRACTIONS

And the Legitimate Results that are Attending—Acquainting the People With Them—A Long-Neglected Corner of the State, that is Destined to Become Washington's Garden Spot—Thousands Upon Thousands of Acres of the Finest Agricultural Land that Have Long Awaited Settlers, Now Being Taken Up With a Rapidity that Promises Great Things for the Territory Through Which the V., P. C. & C. R. R. Will Pass—Colonizing the Quillayute and Queets Countries.

THAT THIS long-neglected corner of the state—the great Olympic peninsula—with its hundreds of thousands of acres of deep, rich, warm soil—as fine as the finest hop lands of the Puyallup valley, the richness of which has rightfully made that reigon famous—is one of Washington's grandest agricultural possessions, is now rapidly dawning upon the public mind; and as a consequence, settlers are pouring into Clallam county, and the fertile territory between Port Crescent and Grey's Harbor, that will be developed, in its entire length by the Victoria, Port Crescent & Chehalis R. R., with a rapidity that is unprecedented.

It has become the Mecca of an excelent class of settlers seeking homesteads, for in no other part of the state is to be found land of equal richness and value, and with a future so assuredly bright, as in the extensive territory that will find a quick, easy and satisfactory outlet for its crops through Port Crescent, on the completion of the railroad.

It is an ideal country for the home-maker; and the tact that considerable portions of it are now difficult of access, counts for little with them. They know that it will not long remain so—and they know, too, that if it hadn't been for its comparative inaccessibility, it would have been gobbled up by settlers long ago, and they would have lost a heritage that will make them all comfortable, and many of them rich.

It is a land of promise in this splendid peninsula of ours—a paradise for the farmer, the stock raiser, the dairyman, hop-grower and fruit grower; and now that the true merits of the county have become public property, nothing can stop the rush of settlers who are eager to get in before it is too late to secure a first-class claim. Good homesteads are getting scarce, in Washington; and it can be truthfully said that there is more good agricultural land in Clallam county, open to settlement under the homestead law, than in any four counties of the state.

An evidence of the enthusiasm and determination displayed by settlers, who have learned of the richness of this territory, to get in and secure claims, the LEADER presents the following article, taken from the issue of the Tacoma Daily Ledger of a few days ago, and headed, "To Colonize the Quillayute:"

"Not dismayed by the almost fatal termination of the last attempt of colonists to reach Quillayute, another party will leave Tacoma on Tuesday next to take up claims in the fertile Quillayute and Queets river valleys.

"W. R. Mundell, a well-known Sound shipping broker, and agent for the steamer Lucy Lowe was in the city yesterday, arranging for the transportation of the party on the Lowe from here to the "promised land." Twenty-five persons, mostly young unmarried men, but a few families, will leave with a full supply of household goods and provisions.

"John Powell, one of the leaders of the expedition, speaking to a Ledger reporter last evening concerning the expedition, said; "The last party that went down, the one that came so near to being lost in the Lowe, is now safely settled on their ranches in the valley. When this party arrives we will have 100 families settled in this heretofore uncultivated region.

'"Is the country not heavily timbered?" was asked.

'"No; in fact very lightly. It takes but little clearing to put it in condition for cultivation. Brush, salmonberry bushes and such small shrubs cover most of the land, and that is easily disposed of. The soil is rich and fertile, and with our colony there we can be almost self-supporting. Of course we have not ready transportation with the outside world, but with semi-occasional trips of vessels to Tacoma for some supplies, we can manage rather better than most pioneers.

'"Will we make a settlement there? Well, a sort of a one. Of course we will be close together and will have to depend greatly on each other to get our farms in condition.'

"The members of the party are all enthusiastic over the prospect of opening up a new country. Those who have visited the region are loud in their praises of it, but on account of lack of harbor facilities, say, it will depend on places on the Sound for an outlet of their products.

"The Quillayute and Queets rivers find their headwaters in the Olympics far toward the northern boundary of that range. The streams, with many tributaries, run in a southeasterly direction through a country not as hilly as that of the northern Sound.

"At Quillayute there has been an Indian settlement with a few white persons for some years and except for occasional elk hunters the region has been little traveled. Since the many rivers and valleys of the Olympics have begun to be discussed considerable attention has been directed to the region and this first venture at colonizing the country will be watched with considerable interest.

"The valleys of the two rivers named are adapted principally for small fruit raising. The dense growth of salmonberry bushes is a proof of this.

"The captain of the Lucy Lowe is putting his boat in shape for the short ocean voyage and is confident that a repitition of the last lengthy trip will not be made."

A correspondent, writing from Forks Prairie, this county—one of the garden spots of the Quillayute country—says:

"Many emigrants are coming into the valley, and those who have settled here are at work like beavers, improving their homes and preparing to raise as many and as large crops as they possibly can.

"This is a fine farming country, possessing good soil and plenty of it. The hop business has just commenced to develop there, under favorable conditions. The probabilities are, that Forks Prairie, and the valleys of the Solduck, Bogachiel and Kalawa rivers have as good hop land as that of the famous White river valley.

"There is surely coal in the earth, near here, as lumps of it are washed out of nearly every ravine in this vicinity—there has been no regular prospecting done, as yet, by any one competent to do that class of work—or by any one who knew anything about tracing a lead.

"There is a nice vein of what is said to be fire clay, by parties who have worked much in that material. At the prices quoted in Seattle, there would be a fortune in it, as soon as there are railroad facilities for shipping it. One prospector, who went up the Bogachiel river, has now been gone about a month, and is looked for in another month. He is after gold and silver, which are surely there."

The New York Clothing House.

Mr. Lewis Levy, one of the best-known, most successful and most reliable business men of Clallam county, has opened up an extensive clothing establishment—The New York Clothing House—at Port Angeles, and is making a sensible, vigorous and straightforward effort to secure for his house, not only a large percentage of local patronage, but a large volume of trade that has heretofore gone to up-Sound cities, and been wholly lost to the county. If there was a reason for this trade "going away from home," Mr. Levy has concluded to remove it, by placing at the disposal of residents of the towns of the county, and of settlers generally, a stock of men's, boys' and children's clothing, of every description; underwear of all grades; hats, caps and rubber goods, from which satisfactory selections may be made, to please any taste or satisfy any purse. His stock is large, varied and complete, and his prices will be found to be as satisfactory as his goods. Turn to Mr. Levy's advertisement, on the third page, and see what he has to say to you.

A Delightful Excursion.

Misses Fannie G. Haswell, Lottie Walters, Mary and Margaret Elliott, and Messrs. S. R. Haddock, S. J. Lutz, Paul Barnes, J. Newcomb, and Charles Haswell, comprised a very happy picnic party, that spent the Fourth as guests of Mrs. Sarah Barnes, at Lake Crescent. The day was one long delight, from the hour the well-mounted cavalcade left here for a ride through the majestic forest to the lovely Lake, until the homeward journey was completed. They found Mrs. Barnes to be a most delightful hostess; boating and fishing were all that could be desired, and the noble character of the scenery about the Lake calculated to bring the poetry in their respected souls to the surface.

MR. AND MRS. S. L. Maddux are guests at Fairholme, Lake Crescent.

MESSRS. Olaf Fjærtoft and Mr. L. E. Davick are away on a pleasure trip for a few weeks.

MESSRS. James Elliott, Andrew Cosser and Henry Elliott spent the Fourth in Port Angeles.

THE VIEW RESUMED,

And it Will Not be Long, Now, Until the County Road is Located.

The work of viewing, locating and surveying the new county road through this district—from the Elwha river to Clallam Bay—was resumed Monday afternoon. The work, this time, will be done strictly according to law. The viewers are Messrs. W. S. Miller, Sebastian Downie and M. L. Hollister—the latter gentleman having been chosen to fill the vacancy occasioned by the non-appearance of Mr. H. C. Miller—and they were accompanied by County Surveyor Warriner Smith, with Messrs. C. E. Hughes and C. H. Adams as chainmen; C. L. Niles as markers, and William Crole as packer and cook. The viewers have entered upon their work with the determination to push it to a conclusion, with all possible speed.

Coming to Washington.

Private advices from the East bring the information that a large party of prominent lumbermen of the Mississippi valley are organizing a trip to the Pacific coast and will leave for this vicinity shortly says the Tacoma Globe, in the course of a lengthy and important editorial on "Washington's Timber." They intend to visit Washington and go thence to Alaska, spending many weeks upon this coast. Half a dozen years ago the wealthy lumbermen of that section sent experts to Washington to inspect the timber and report as to whether it was worth while for the Mississippi valley pool to invest largely in timber lands in this state. These experts reported that the timber was all that could be desired, but from the danger of fire and the scant population and development, such an investment would be of doubtful value. This report was adopted.

The gentlemen interested in lumbering in that section are beginning to appreciate their mistake. The timber supply tributary to the Mississippi is rapidly decreasing. Already it is necessary to build railroads some distance from water courses to ship the logs to mill. The leading lumbermen of the Upper Mississippi have declared with great unanimity that the timber supply will be exhausted within twenty-five years. Each year makes logging more difficult and more expensive. Already it is claimed that stumpage is worth as much as lumber. Under these circumstances, it is quite natural that the lumbermen should turn to the Pacific coast. They are now able to appreciate the opportunity they threw away. The Northwest coast can alone supply the demand for timber. Experiments with Southern pine have shown that there is no comparison between the product of that section and of Washington.

Eighteen months ago, one of the great railway companies of the Mississippi valley, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, which runs through the great timber regions of Wisconsin and Minnesota, sent a party of experts to Tacoma to test the fir of this state. Hydraulic tests were made at the St. Paul & Tacoma mill in this city and it was proven that our fir was not only superior to Eastern pine, but was practically equal in strain strength to Eastern oak. These tests were so satisfactory that a large order was placed in this city for bridge timbers and it was arranged that all timbers of this nature should be secured by that railroad company in this city hereafter. Following the lead of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, other Eastern railroad companies have since placed orders here for bridge and other long timbers.

The fact that a party of the leading officers and stockholders of the great Mississippi river lumber pool are about to visit this section to inspect the timber and study the opportunities for securing and shipping it, only adds evidence to the already established fact that a great portion of the lumber of the Northern United States from the Pacific coast to the Mississippi river, doubtless many miles east thereof, is to be furnished by the state of Washington. We have the timber and the greatest transcontinental railroad to transport it. We have many fine mills. Logging roads are being pushed rapidly through the most accessible timber belts and will be extended as need requires. While the timber supply of Washington is not inexhaustable, it is sufficient to meet the demand of this country and of foreign countries for many years to come, and it is but one of the rich natural resources of this phenomenal state.

He Represents a Strong Company.

Special attention is directed to the "Money to Loan" advertisement of Mr. J. E. Beam, on the third page of this issue of the LEADER. Mr. Beam represents one of the strongest and best financial institutions of the state, and what he has to say cannot fail to be of interest to persons desiring to borrow money.

MR. M. J. CARRIGAN went up to Tacoma, Tuesday, to meet his sister Miss Margaret, of Chillicothe, Ohio. They will reach Port Crescent to-morrow.

THE ROAD IS FINISHED.

And Now You Can Journey to and from Lovely Lake Crescent by Buggy, Road-Cart or Wagon.

IT WAS A BIG UNDERTAKING,

But the Public Spirit and Enterprise Were Equal to the Task, and as a Consequence a Wagon Road is Now Open Through to the Most Beautiful Body of Water in the State of Washington—A Road that Will Have a Tremendous Influence in the Development of the Country South of Port Crescent and One that Will be of Great and Immediate Benefit to Every One, Whose Possessions it Opens Up or Makes More accessible—A List of Those Who Subscribed to the Road Fund With the Amount of Their Contributions.

THE WAGON ROAD to Lake Crescent is completed. The work was brought to a finish yesterday, and this thoroughfare—the foundation of what is to be one of the greatest highways of travel in this portion of the state—is now open from Port Crescent to beautiful Lake Crescent, five and a half miles distant. The building of this road was a big undertaking. Just how big it was, no one can know, save those who actually participated in the task. But while its construction involved difficult work and lots of it, and involved the expenditure of a pretty stiff hunk of money, the fact that it was pushed to a satisfactory conclusion but adds to the credit of the settlers and business men whose enterprise, public spirit and liberality made its building possible—for it must be borne in mind that the road was built entirely by private subscription, no aid whatever having been received from the county, or from any public funds.

Below the LEADER presents a list of subscribers to the Lake Crescent Road Fund, with the amount of their respective contributions:

The Road Construction Committee will prepare a clear statement, showing the receipts and expenditures of the Road Fund, at the earliest possible date for publication in the LEADER.

MR. RICHARD MCDONNELL has leased the Hotel Markham for another year.

MR. JOHN HARDIN went up to Port Townsend this morning to be absent a few days.

MR. JOHN E. LUTZ is absent this week on a business trip to Portland and San Francisco.

DR. W. T. STROTHER spent a very delightful day with friends in Victoria, last Sunday.

MESSRS. James A. McFarland and George W. Davis, were visitors to Seattle, the present week, having gone thither as witnesses for Mrs. Anna R. Albright, regarding that lady's timber claim.

MRS. ANNA R. ALBRIGHT went up to Seattle, Saturday, to make final proof on her timber claim in range 8, this township—a desirable piece of land, on the water front. Proof was made before Register Reed, on Monday.

A FESTIVE SEA-SERPENT

Is Seen at Lake Crescent, and the Leader's Correspondent Stands Ready to Prove it With His "Swear"—The Sad Fate of a "Natural Curiosity."

It is pleasant to note that, while the LEADER'S staff correspondent at Lake Crescent is recuperating his weary brain on delicious Lake trout, and fishing, boating, hunting and dangling in a hammock, to his heart's fullest delight, he is also making a stagger at earning the princely salary that enables him to thus luxuriate, while the poor, toilsome editor must stick to his desk, and kick himself because he can't swop places with the correspondent.

And this is the way he earns his royal stipend—the following "Lake Items" being from his gold-tipped pen:

We are now in a position to confirm the existence of the ever appearing and as often denied sea-serpent.

A few mornings ago, looking to seaward, Mr. Nollain observes an object gliding along near the surface of the water, and which, from time to time, lifted its head far out of it. Seizing his rifle, with unerring aim he fired—missed his mark. The monster was seen—he was, when fired at, about a mile to windward—to wink his right eye, and with a defiant flourish of tail, to disappear beneath the crystal surface.

If an affidavit be necessary to prove the truth of this sea-serpent's presence in our waters, we will readily give it, as we were lying in bed at the time and heard the report of two shots fired at him.

On the 2nd inst., Mr. U. B. Vidal, while reposing in his hammock, enjoying the aroma from a Havana filled meerschaum, his attention was attracted to an object gliding rapidly along the ground and endeavoring to gain the woods. Mr. Vidal, with great presence of mind and rare courage, sprang to his feet and attacked, unaided, what proved to be a snake. After a desperate struggle he dispatched it.

We forgot to mention that this battle occurred just as Aurora was about to sink in the western heavens. We regret that we are unable to give the dimensions of the monster reptile. Before we could get the measurements, we saw it carried off by a hen.

On last Monday, one of our hens brought out a chick that was totally blind. Such an occurance, we are informed is very rare. On the following morning it, however, died. Its death, it is believed, was due to it brooding over its blindness to the pec(k)ulations of its brothers and sisters.

The glorious Fourth arrived here on time. It was greeted by us in true Republican form. The national emblem was run up to the top of the staff and unfurled while "The Lake Crescent Band" filled the air with the strains of "The Star-Spangled Banner," the music being taken up by the feathered songsters until the entire woods were filled with the patriotic air. Fire-works and bon-fires, were important features in the day's celebration. Desirous of commemorating the day as our fathers have never failed to do, we retired to the "Olympian field," at the foot of the hills, and there delivered the usual Fourth of July oration. The soul inspiring words, as they issued from our lips, caused so much enthusiasm that even the leaves upon the trees were stirred. We closed with the following: "Friends, if ye have tears to shed, prepare to shed them now." This was irresistible, and moisture was seen to issue from the ground, while the heavens expressed their sympathy in large drops of rain.

They Lead in Their Business.

Mr. J. McGarvin, of the firm of McGarvin & Draper, of Port Townsend, was a business visitor to Port Crescent, Tuesday, and a gentleman whom a great many people here were glad to see. McGarvin & Draper are wholesale and retail dealers in guns, pistols, fishing tackle, sporting goods and hunters' articles of every possible description, and they have a large trade on this coast. Mr. McGarvin will return, at the earliest possible time, to enjoy a week's sport at Lake Crescent.

They Had a Merry Fourth.

A large party of picnickers made a jolly day of it in the vicinity of the school house, not far from Mr. Frank Robinson's attractive place. A great many of the settlers living east of Port Crescent—notably those of the Freshwater Bay neighborhood—participated in the day's festivities, and every one present assisted in making the occasion a very happy one.

MR. AND MRS. Harry E. Lutz and children, started for Lake Crescent this morning, enjoying the happy distinction of being the first to drive over the new wagon road.

GETTING IN IN SEASON.

And Developing Their Properties in Anticipation of the Railroad.

AN IMMENSE RICH TERRITORY.

Embracing Miles of Land as Fertile as the Famous Puyallup Acres, that is Now Being Rapidly Taken Up by Settlers, and Which Will be Opened Up, Made Easily Accessible and Brought Into Touch With Good Markets, by the Northern Pacific's Line from Gray's Harbor to Port Crescent—Enterprising Mr. Frye, and How He is Laying the Foundation for a Fortune.

FROM a gentleman who had just returned from the Quinault country—that great, rich territory, embracing thousands upon thousands of acres of as fine agricultural land as is to be found in the state of Washington, and which will be thoroughly opened up by that great iron highway that will bring a splendid measure of prosperity to this great peninsula—the Victoria, Port Crescent & Chehalis R. R.—the Seattle Press-Times obtained the following interesting information concerning that section, into which a little army of settlers are now pouring.

Mr. Frye, the hop-grower alluded to, who is making so many important improvements on his ranch, and doing all that he possibly can to get his land in crop-producing condition, in anticipation of the building of the Northern Pacific's line (the V., P. C. & C. R. R.) from Gray's Harbor to Port Crescent, is a man of great good sense and judgment, and one who will be among the first to reap the rich benefits that will accrue to the owners of improved lands, when the railroad is completed to Port Crescent:

=

"The Quinault river is being made the highway for a great deal of Olympic exploration this summer. Provisions are being brought up in canoes almost daily by the Indians, and Higgly's store is running quite a business. It is a pity that the county road has not been carried right through from Humptulips, but the settlers look forward to a level thoroughfare by fall for wagons now as the Chehalis county bonds have been carried.

"Higgly, himself, with a party, are prospecting on the range.

"Provisions are still very high; flour $3.50 per 50-lb. sack; Oatmeal 10 cents per pound, and rice, cornmeal, coffee, tea, etc., correspondingly dear—5 to 6 cents per pound being charged as freight. This is caused, of course, by the long 56-mile canoe voyage from the ocean beach, occupying three days and sometimes more.

"The settlers, however, stand it out very well, not doubting a good return in a few years for their grit in staying by their holding.

"Although nothing definite has been heard of the application for a township survey, the men are hopeful. About seventy claims have been taken now, everyone of which is covered with timber, indicating the very best of soil—alder, vine, maple, cottonwood, soft maple, crab apple, with a few scattering spruce. The soil is a rich, black loam, sandy near the river, and is already producing a living for some of the boys who have cleared a few acres. Slashing and burning are going on fast, and some substantial improvements are being made. A Mr. Norwood has brought in two cows, and several more are expected. Poultry is making its appearance, too, for the first time, feed being easily raised for them.

"Strawberries, both wild and cultivated, are in fine condition. So are potatoes. Winter wheat, planted by a Mr. Bell in the fall, is immense, and the old man expects to live without buying flour for a few months.

"Frye the hop-raiser, is looking forward anxiously to the time when the Northern Pacific will drain the valley along the coast here of their produce, and in view of the improvements being made by the Northern Pacific upon the breakwater at Port Crescent, and upon the strength of their surveying parties he is importing hop plants and slashing for all he is worth.

"The sad accident, by which the young man was shot above Runner's, some weeks ago, is to be commemorated by a small cross, as being the site of the first death which occurred to a human being in the valley.

"Mail for the Quinault settlement leaves Hoquiam, passes through Humptulips, and is carried from the latter place by the settlers, they taking turns at it. This will occupy two weeks' time, and a month is required for a round trip. A letter carried over this route is worth its weight in gold and a bundle of newspapers is an unknown luxury which does not fail to be heartily appreciated."

SETTLERS living at a distance—at any of the various points west of Port Crescent—can have their papers, giving the Land Office notice of their intention

TO MAKE FINAL PROOF,

Made out and forwarded to Register Reed, by sending the editor of the LEADER their filing papers, containing the number and description of their claims, the names and places of residence of their witnesses and the date on which they desire to prove up. All filing papers so sent in, will be returned to their owners by the first mail after their receipt, with the required final proof blanks properly filled out and ready for the signatures of claimants. After being signed and returned to the LEADER, they will be at once sent in to the Land Office at Seattle, and a notice for publication will be issued within a few days.

The settlers of Lake Crescent township would take a deal of pleasure, just now, in welcoming Surveyor J. T. Sheets within the confines of their unsurveyed bailiwick.

The matter of extending the horse-trail from the Solduck to Beaver is a most important one, and it is gratifying to know that the project is getting into satisfactory shape.

It is entirely probable that surveys of Townships 29, Ranges 9 and 10 west—the two Solduck townships nearest Port Cresent—may be secured, under the special deposit system, the present year.

It's about time to turn a search-light upon the inside workings of the Custom House at Port Townsend. The charges made against Collector Bradshaw are of a character so serious that he should insist upon a proper opportunity being given him to disprove them.

Ex-Vice President Hannibal Hamlin died suddenly at Bangor, Maine, Saturday night in his eighty-second year. He was one of the few remaining eminent public men who were in at the birth of the Republican party, and a man who had rendered his country distinguished services.

President Oakes of the Northern Pacific asserts that the outlook for immigration to this state is quite as attractive as at any time in the past, but the difficulty of disposing of their eastern holdings prevents thousands from coming this way. The rush to the northwest will recommence as soon as the financial stringency loosens.

The jury before which young Wood was tried at Port Angeles, last week, for the murder of Mrs. Moss, failed to reach a verdict. After a prolonged struggle to reach an agreement, the jury stood, six for acquittal and six for murder in the second degree. Mr. M. L. Hollister, of Port Crescent, was one of the six who favored the acquittal of Wood.

Will R. Gay, Esq., the leading criminal lawyer of this county, has added largely to his reputation by his masterly defense of James Wood, arraigned for the murder of Mrs. Moss. Those who heard it—and his audience packed the court room to suffocation—say that Gay's plea in behalf of the boy prisoner was a singularly eloquent and effective performance, and there are those who add, that Wood may credit Gay with his life.

If the funny man of the Port Angeles Tribune will but come to Port Crescent, the LEADER will agree to take him out to Lake Crescent, furnish him with a good boat and first-class fishing tackle, and keep tab for him while he yanks in more, and larger and handsomer trout in an hour, than he ever before caught in any body of water in the state of Washington, in a day. And furthermore, the LEADER will agree to furnish the bait—if it can be packed in any reasonable-sized demijohn. Will you come, Brother Ulmer?

The immigration into the United States from 1820 to 1890, is the subject of a special report which has been prepared by the chief of the bureau of statistics of the treasury department, and will soon be published. The arrivals of immigrants from 1820 to 1890 have reached 15,641,688. The proportion of the arrivals from Europe increased from 69.89 per cent of the whole immigration in the time from 1821 to 1830, to 91.67 per cent. in the last decade, from 1881 to 1890, Germany and Ireland are the countries sending the greatest number of immigrants. The only leading countries from which the arrivals have fallen off during the past ten years are France and China. The year of the largest immigration yet reported was that ended June 30, 1891, when the arrivals were 788,992. The immigration from Italy was 15,401 for the fiscal year of 1881, and has steadily increased until 1890, when it was 52,000, and the present year, ending June 30th, when the total for six months reached 51,153, as against 34,310 for the corresponding months of 1890. Of arrivals during the ten years from 1881 to 1890, 61.1 per cent. were males. The greatest proportion of females come from Ireland, and the smallest percentage of females from Italy and Hungary. The classification of the character of the immigration during the past decade shows that only 26,267 males were of the professional classes, 514,552 skilled laborers, 1,833,325 of miscellaneous occupations, 732, 327 made no statement in regard to their occupation, and 759,450 were without occupation. Of the 2,040,572 females 1,724,454 were without occupation.

Among the many publications issued by the several departments of the Government the forthcoming report of the bureau of statistics on international commerce will be one of unusual interest to the public. It is devoted to the interests of the Pacific Coast, including the states and territories lying west of the Rocky mountains and sets forth the wonderful natural resources of the forests, the fisheries, the grain interests, the great magnitude of the agricultural, manufacturing, commercial and transportation interests of that much-favored region.

The papers of the special agents who gathered the statistics will appear in the appendix to the main report. They cover a wide field of inquiry, and while it may be added that they are all of a high order of merit, yet that relating to California deserves perhaps especial mention, not only as a faithful portrayal of the varied and abundant resources of the state, but for its valuable statistical features, its logical arrangement and scholarly style. Attention may also be invited to the portion devoted to Alaska as being peculiarly interesting, in that it contains the latest facts concerning that terra incognita of our republic.

Aside from the seal fisheries comparatively nothing has been developed as to the unknown possibilities of this territory. Even its boundaries are unknown. Enough, however, has been brought to light in the pages of this report to show that she has within her borders evidences of great mineral wealth and her fishery resources are scarcely to be estimated. While the paper necessarily contains little of statistical matter, yet it conveys a knowledge of its people, which will be of interest and value to the general public. The reports of Arizona, Idaho, Nevada, Oregon, Utah and Washington are also very interesting and full of valuable information. This report completes the series instituted by the bureau on the states and territories, the first volume of which was published in 1886.

What Causes the Tides?

Says the Northwest Magazine: It is high time that the old superstition about the moon controlling the tides be dropped. The moon has some effect on the tides and on "looney" people; but the main cause of the ebb and flow of tides is the pulse-beat of the earth exercised by the positive and negative currents of electricity generated in the dynamos at the heart of the earth. All of the planets that are near us affect not alone our tides, but our climate, our crops, our health and our temper. The Japanese current of the Pacific Ocean and the Gulf Stream of the Atlantic Ocean are the arteries of the earth; the rivers are the veins. The movement in the arteries and veins and the ebb and flow of the tides make up the circulation of the blood of the earth. Other influences besides the planets and the pulse-beat of the earth affect the tides—for instance, the elliptical motion of the earth.

A New Teredo Killer.

A new teredo killer and preventive has just been patented by a Tacoma man, which gives promise of great things in the way of getting even with these small pests of the sea. The patent article is in the shape of a wire brush, which by the action of the tide and the disturbance of the water by the steamers, rises and falls twice each day and brushes the worm germs from the piles. An experimental test has been made at a certain wharf in Tacoma for a year past, and the report is that the test is satisfactory.

A Chicago man is out here in search of a stick of timber 110 feet long and 4 feet square. He has not been able to find such a stick in any of the lumber yards thus far, and so has gone down to Nehalem to look for a tree to make one. He is working in the interests of the Columbian Exposition and it is supposed that the stick is wanted for the center pole of the great circus. In this case it is likely that the stick will need to be four feet square at only one end. The agent has given reporters a wide berth, which is not right, as by making his wants known he might have secured the stick long before this time. If he succeeds in finding such a stick and getting it out of the woods, let alone out of the state, without people knowing it, he will be a daisy.

My Opal Sea.

(PUGET SOUND.)

O my Opal Sea's blue bosom,
Washed with silver, zoned with gold!
Swelling with her heart's emotions,
Always pure, but never cold.
Flushing with the sunrise splendor,
Glowing with the sunset's red;
Soft, wet lips that call and woo me,—
Lo! I follow, passion-led,
Bare, cool arms that clasp and hold me,—
Low I lean with swelling chest,
Breathe her breath and know her kisses,
Sleep and dream upon her breast;
Feel her pulses trembling, thrilling,
Feel her heart throb passionately,
O, my wild, sweet, lawless mistress!
My one love—my Opal Sea!

—Ella Higginson in July Overland.

Seldom is a more commendable nicety of manner, coupled with indomitable perseverance so clearly shown as in the case of the Minnesota man who, after striving vainly for 20 years to convert his wife to his religion, beat her to death, but did it with the family Bible.

A Siwash Burial at La Push.

A special correspondent, writing to the daily press, gives this description of a Siwash funeral at La Push, this county:

It was in a low building, built of posts in the ground, sided up with rough split lumber and covered with shakes. There was a fire on the ground, in the space in the middle, around which sat twelve women and four men, hired mourners. On the floor, in sackcloth and ashes, some were expressing heartfelt grief; all wailed indiscriminately. Some seemed as if it was all put on; others appeared as if exhausted—as if it was hard work to keep up the appearance of sorrow. Above the fire salmon and smelt were hung up to dry in the smoke.

In either end was a small, half window to admit light to the smoky, dingy domicile. No escape was found for smoke except through the roof. The entrance was a low door in the west end. In one room, in the corner, was a grindstone, a pile of shingles, a washtub, kettles, barrels and other fixtures, wood, baskets, fish-net, gun, trunks, boxes, washboard, sacks of flour and dry fish.

A boy about 9 years old had been sick but a few days, and lay on a low bed, cold in death. The father lay near him; the mother was in the middle of the bed, with her feet near the boy's head. The father and boy were covered with two double blankets, as if to make the boy warm and bring him back to life. The father wept as if his heart would break. The floor around the bed was covered with rough rush mats. Three or four hours were spent in this wail over the dead.

The Siwash doctor had collected some of his fees for several nights of howling to drive the devil away, but after the boy had died he had to refund it, as his labor was not a success. Heathens, as we call them, they have some idea of justice, not to pay for work that doesn't pan out.

A trunk about forty-two inches long was purchased. The boy was doubled up like a jack-knife, and rolled in a new blanket, put in the trunk and locked up. No hearse bore him to his resting place on the ocean spit, by some low evergreens near James Island. The trunk was set on the sand, some of which was piled up around it; then a low coop, built of shakes, was erected over it, about the size of a dog tent.

A short time was spent decorating the grave with calico, and wailing, when one by one the friends retired, the father and mother being the last, for it was an only son. On the return from the funeral the house was torn down, carried away and burned. All that pertained to the boy was also burned, to prevent further ravages of death.

Here is an itemized account of the cost of the Siwash funeral: Trunk, $4.50; blanket, $10; calico, $3; overalls, 75 cents; handkerchief, 25 cents; stockings, 25 cents; mourners, $21.25. Total, $40.

The Discovery of the Salal Berry.

"In connection with this beautiful flower—the delicately-tinted rhododendron—it is interesting to note that it is closely related to what is here called the salal berry, the principal food of many of the Indians during a good part of the year," writes a botanist, who is interested in the flora of Washington. "The sala bush is also an evergreen shrub and grows as profusely and recklessly, as regards soil and light, as any member of the vegetable kingdom, though it is partial to damp, heavy woods. The flowers bloom in June, and the rather sweet tasting, wholesome fruit ripens in the fall, when it is gathered by the barrel by the Indians.

"The salal berry was first discovered at the time Vancouver made his famous voyage around the world and made discoveries in Puget Sound and along the northwest coast. The plant was found by Vancouver's botanist and was named in his honor. The genera take their name from Andromeda, a goddess of ancient fable and wife of Perseus."

He's Going to Set Out an Orchard.

Mr. James B. Davis, of Twin Rivers, dropped into the LEADER office, Tuesday, to assure the agricultural editor that the oats, from which he cut three crops, last season, are coming on again, and that the promise of a fourth crop is very flattering, indeed. Encouraged by his success, thus far, Mr. Davis has made up his mind to set out an "oat orchard," so that he may have a perpetual crop of this cereal.

T. M. REED, Jr., Register.

NOTICE.

NOTICE IS HEREBY given that the Board of County Commissioners will, at their August meeting receive bids for the construction of the county road from the Clallam-Jefferson line to the Quillayute river, for which bonds were voted on December 19, A. D. 1890. The said bids to be governed by the following conditions:

1st.—The bids to be made for the work on the said county road in accordance with the plans and specifications on file in the county surveyor's office in Port Angeles, Washington.

2nd. All bidders will be required to furnish a good and sufficient bond in a sum equal to the amount of the contract price of the division or divisions bid for.

3d.—All bidders shall bind themselves that they will, under no circumstances, employ Dagos or Chinamen in the construction of said county road. And that they will, as far as practicable, give preference to residents in Clallam county in the employment of laborers.

4th. All bids must be accompanied with a certified check of ten per cent. of the amount of the bid. The check of the successful bidder to be forfeited to the county as liquidated damages should he fail to furnish to the county a good and sufficient bond, as the law directs, to be approved by the County Commissioners, and said bond must be filed within ten days after the awarding of the contract.

5th.—All bids must be filed in the Auditor's office by 12 o'clock, M., of August 1st, 1891, and no bid will be entertained that is filed at a later date.

Bids will be opened by the Board of County Commissioners at their regular session on Tuesday, August 4th, 1891, at 12 o'clock, M. The board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

B. JOHN BAKER,
Auditor.

LEGAL NOTICE.

STATE OF WASHINGTON, } ss
COUNTY OF CLALLAM.

In the Superior Court of the State of Washington, for the County of Clallam, holding terms at Port Angeles.

Donald G. Munro, Plaintiff, vs. Winnie Munro, Defendant:

TO THE ABOVE NAMED DEFENDANT:

YOU ARE HEREBY notified that Donald G. Munro, plaintiff, has filed a complaint against you in the Superior Court of the state of Washington, for the county of Clallam, holding terms at Port Angeles, which will come on to be heard sixty days after the first publication of this summons, to-wit: Sixty days after the 18th day of June, 1891, and unless you appear and answer the same on or before the 18th day of August, 1891, at the hour of ten A. M., of said day, the same will be taken as confessed and the prayer of said complaint granted.

The object and prayer of said complaint is that the plaintiff be divorced from the bonds of matrimony existing between him and the defendant, upon the grounds of cruel treatment by the defendant towards plaintiff and for personal indignities offered plaintiff by the defendant, rendering the life of plaintiff burdensome.

SEAL

WITNESS my hand and the seal of said Superior Court, affixed this 16th day of June, A. D. 1891.

WILLIAM K. CLARK,
County Clerk and Clerk of the Superior Court.

L. M. LANE AND W. R. GAY, Att'ys for Plaintiff.

Their Beauty Captured the Admiral.

Every one who visits this portion of Washington—the Puget Sound country—is captured by the beauties of the great inland sea and its 1,900 miles o shore line; but it must be borne in mind that the enthusiastic appreciation now bestowed upon this country by visitors is not one of sudden birth. Puget Sound and its surrounding country have always made a profound and most favorable impression upon visitors, and the commercial importance of the Sound has always been vividly apparent to everyone acquainted with its waters. This is evidenced by the report submitted to the government by Admiral Wilkes, who surveyed the Sound in 1841, in which, among other good things, he said:

"Nothing can surpass the beauty of these waters and their safety. Not a shoal exists within the strait of Juan de Fuca, Admiralty Bay or Hood's Canal that can in any way interrupt their navigation by a seventy-four gun ship. I venture nothing in saying that there is no country in the world that possesses waters equal to these. They cover an area of about 2,000 square miles. The shores of all its inlets are remarkably bold, so much so, that a ship's side would strike the shore before her keel would touch the ground.

"The country by which these waters are surrounded is remarkably salubrious, and affords every advantage for the accommodation of a vast commercial and military marine, with conveniences for docks, and a great many sites for towns and cities, at all times well supplied with water and capable of being provided with everything by the surrounding country, which is well adapted for agriculture, etc."

The Poisonous Effect of Overwork on the Brain.

Brain weariness is analogous to weariness of the muscles. After exercise a muscle becomes very tired. If some other form of exercise is substituted, the tired muscle will soon be rested again. As to the cause of fatigue, interesting experiments were made some years ago by an Italian chemist, by taking a little blood from some exhausted soldiers and injecting it into the veins of a dog. It had the immediate effect of making the dog tired. He made further experiments, by causing dogs to run and injecting some of their blood into the veins of other dogs, with the same result; and by actual analysis it has been demonstrated that when a muscle is tired it is poisoned. These poisons are the result of bodily activities, mental or physical, and in effect they are paralyzing, which gives the sense of weariness which is experienced; so in mental wearness the brain is poisoned by the products of its own work. It is like an engine choked with its own ashes and debris. Brain weariness can often be relieved by a change of work, which will bring into activity another portion of the brain. This will draw the blood away from the parts of the brain previously used and thus give it the chance to recuperate. Some business men have a practice of solving hard problems in mathematics as a means of rest.

FOR SALE.

A BIG BARGAIN.

TWENTY-FIVE ACRES of splendidly located, level land, 7¼ miles from Whatcomb, the terminus of the Great Northern Railroad. This property is but ¼ of a mile from a Plank Road on one side, and ½ mile from the county road, on the other side. It is but 1¾ miles from the Noosack river; boats run by it regularly, and there is a good wagon road from the land to the river. There is one school house ½ mile from the place, and another one, within a distance of ¾ of a mile. The surrounding country is all thickly settled up, and land in that vicinity is all very valuable. This land will be sold for

$50 AN ACRE,

And is to-day the cheapest property in the vicinity of either Whatcomb or Fairhaven. The land has all been cleared of timber.

TERMS OF SALE—$100 cash, and the balance in easy payments; deferred payments to bear interest at ten per cent. per annum. For full information regarding this prime buy, apply to,

Buy Lots, Singly or in Blocks, in the Southern Addition

TO

PORT CRESCENT,

WHILE the present schedule of prices is in force. Get in in time, and get the full benefit of the advances in values that are inevitable. We can sell you

LOTS IN THE SOUTHERN ADDITION FROM $40 UPWARD

AND there is no property to be had in PORT CRESCENT, to-day, that commends itself to investors with greater force than the property in this advantageously located addition, and none that will make purchasers more money, or make it more quickly.

The Depot and Station Yards of the Northern Pacific R. R. Co.

WILL be located in the very heart of the SOUTHERN ADDITION. It will be traversed in its entire width by the line of the Northern Pacific R. R., and is the only addition to Port Crescent through which the Railroad will pass. Railroad Avenue is destined to be a great, busy thoroughfare, and property on and adjacent to this avenue must attain great value. The PORT CRESCENT MILL COMPANY'S Saw and Shingle Mill is located near the center of this addition; through which the County Road and the road to Lake Crescent also pass. It is directly in the line of the city's development, and will enjoy a growth in values which will not be exceeded, if equaled, by property in any other portion of the city.

WE CAN POINT YOU TO BARGAINS

IN THE SOUTHERN ADDITION that you can scarcely afford to ignore, unless you are out here strictly for your health, and don't care to make money. If you are living at long range, however, and can't study the situation here on the ground, but want full detailed information about this property, don't hesitate to ask for it. That's what we are here for—to serve you as you wish. Just tell us what you want, and you'll get it, and get it right away.

IF YOU CAN'T handle as much of this property as you may desire, with your own means alone—it dont require a great deal of capital, though, to handle a good block of it—pool issues with your friends,

Organize - a - Syndicate,

AND BY COMBINING CAPITAL, control such property as you want. Barrels of money have been made in Washington realty by well-managed syndicates, large and small. Try a syndicate venture, and pave the way to large results. Excellent property can be had in the Southern Addition for from $40, $45, $50, $55, $60, $65, $70, $75, $80, $85, $90, $95, $100 to $250 and upwards.

YOU ARE SURE to find something to please you, and afford you a good investment. We will be glad to show you locations—money making buys—or to send you maps and prices, and all the information you want.

Lots in the New Saw Mill Addition

ARE GOING RAPIDLY. If you want to get in in season on a good thing, you'll find it good policy to act quickly with reference to these lots. We are agents for the property, and will show you around, or tell you anything you want to know about property and values in this front-rank addition.

WE GIVE SPECIAL ATTENTION TO THE MAKING AND HANDLING OF INVESTMENTS FOR NON-RESIDENT INVESTORS.
