A FIVE-HOUR SENSATION

That Involved the Active Sympathy of the Entire Population While it Lasted.

A BOY'S STARTLING DISAPPEARANCE

And the Wild Commotion it Created—Johnny Tower's Quiet Nap and What Came of it—A Five Hours' Search Over Roads and Trails, Through the Forest, Ditches and Sloughs, Along the Dock and Beach, and its Amusing Wind-up.

THERE was a scene of wild commotion in Port Crescent, Monday night—one involving the active interest and helpful sympathy of the entire community.

Word went from house to house, about dusk, that evening, that Johnny Tower, the nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Tower, was lost, presumably in the forest. The lad had been seen between 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon, on the old county road. He had started out to meet his father, who was at work on the road some distance east; but after passing the men whom he asked about his father's whereabouts, nothing further had been seen of him, by any one. It was believed that he had gone on out the road, and not knowing the way, had gotten into one of the by-roads, and had lost his way—a very easy thing to do, indeed, in the present state of the trails, generally. And having lost his way, it was presumed that he was wandering around in the woods, tired, hungry and exhausted, and probably frightened out of his senses at the prospect of spending a cold, wet night in the forest.

The thought of the poor lad's terrible plight, of his parents' anguish, instantly appealed to every one who heard the story, and soon a large company of eager searchers were in the field, intent on finding the lost boy, if that were possible.

Mr. Tower had started out to look for his son, immediately on reaching home and finding that he was missing, and he had made an unsuccessful hour's search alone, before darkness finally settled down and the general alarm was given.

When the big search party turned out, the men composing it divided up into squads, and every road and trail within a radius of a mile or two of town, was thoroughly gone over, and the woods, where accessible, hunted through; every ditch and slough, in which it was possible for the boy to have fallen, was explored, and the searchers peered under and behind all logs and stumps, that might conceal the body of the missing lad. Others carefully examined the dock and beach, and information was sought of every one, and in every locality that gave the faintest promise of furnishing a clue to the boy's whereabouts. But all in vain. Johnny Tower seemed to have disappeared from the face of the earth. It had been raining, and the ground, everywhere, was very soft, but even the keenest-eyed hunters in the party could not discover the boy's tracks. The case was growing hopeless.

A five-hours' search, covering miles of territory, had not produced a single clue to the boy's fate, and the conviction began to settle down upon every one that the lad, in attempting to cross the slough on logs, had missed his footing, fallen into one of the deep pools, and been drowned; or that, finding himself lost in the forest, he had become crazed by fear, ran until he had exhausted himself, and fallen into a sleep, from which he would never awaken—for the night was cold and miserable, and death from exposure was feared.

The sympathy of the whole community went out to Mr. and Mrs. Tower, who were sorely stricken, for they, too, feared that their boy had perished.

It was getting late—after 10 o'clock. All of the searchers had come in to report their ill-success, and to arrange for continuing the hunt. Mr. Tower had gone home for a few moments, to offer his wife such consolation as he could in that hour of gloom, and was just starting out to rejoin the searchers, when he concluded to make a second and more thorough hunt about the premises. He looked everywhere, and was about to leave the yard, when he noticed an opening giving access to the roomy space under the veranda. Stooping down and calling the missing boy by name, to his intense delight, he was answered by a faint, childish cry.

"He's found!" cried the overjoyed father; and rapidly the news spread, carrying with it pleasure and relief to every household in town.

Answering his father's call, Johnny Tower, stiff, sleepy and shivering with cold, emerged from under the house, and was carried into a warm room and cared for by the parents who, a few moments before, feared that he was dead.

The boy, in crossing the slough, had slipped off of a log, getting his feet wet. With a boy's instinct to conceal his plight, he had concluded to "stay out" until he had "dried off." It was cold outside, and he had sought the warm recess under the veranda, while going through the drying process; had fallen asleep, and remained in that blissful condition during all the hubbub created by his mysterious disappearance.

And hence Monday night's five-hour sensation.

The Road to the Lake Will Soon be Reopened.

The work of undoing the mischief done to the wagon road to the Lake by the big windstorm, was begun in earnest, yesterday morning. A big force of men, composed of settlers about the Lake and in the Solduck, have started in at the Lake-end, and are rapidly cutting their way through the mass of trees that, in places, actually hide the road from sight. Another force of men, from this end of the line, began at Whisky creek, and are pushing the work of clearing toward the Lake, to meet the men who are working this way. The clearing of the section between here and Whisky creek will be completed in a few days.

The Way to Prospect in the Olympics.

Captain Dick Falkenberg, who has spent the greater part of the year in the Olympics, searching for precious minerals, has sent the following interesting communication to the Hoquiam Washingtonian:

"More than fifty people have come to me and asked me, "Captain, what do you think of the prospect of minerals in these mountains—are there any, or do you agree with Lieutenant O'Neil that there are none?"

"Briefly, I will answer these questions through the columns of your valuable paper.

"The outlook for precious minerals is about equal and nearly the same as in any other mountain chain. There are plenty of good prospects waiting for the real prospector. Nature has not deprived the Olympics, any more than the Cascades, Rockies, etc., of minerals. The only difference—and a vast one it is—is that prospecting here in the Olympics is more difficult than anywhere else. All rocks, elsewhere bare, are covered thickly with vegetation, moss, soil and brush, devil's club, salmon berry, grass, mountain onion, etc. Consequently the ledges and veins are hidden from view; and not only that, but through many volcanic eruptions, possibly hundreds of years ago, the formation of these mountains is entirely changed.

"The only possible and successful way to prospect here is to look for a spot, not in the chain, but on some isolated, single mountain, and follow either an old creek bed or some watercourse; make two or three trips and supply camp with provisions enough to last all the season, so as to be able to stay right with the work. Dig near the creek-bed holes from 15 to 30 feet deep and keep on moving from a westerly to an easterly direction, or vice versa, as nearly, you may say all, main ledges run from a north-east to a south-west direction, rarely differing from that course. In case a prospector has "struck" it he'll know at once which way the land runs. This is the best way of prospecting here, and nearly the only reliable way.

"I have found some very fine gold, silver and galena specimens, and have three copper claims over in the Cushman country. This I mention to show that there is mineral in the Olympics, although some of the gold and silver samples were sharp cornered, and not a bit rounded by washing.

"One must not be overjoyed and think he has got it, for the specimen may have lain there fifty years, and may have been thrown there by a volcanic eruption, while the ledge may be miles away from the spot; still he may retain the hope of finding it some future day, by earnest, hard work."

The North American Review for January.

Among the contributors to the January number of the North American Review will be the Hon. R. Q. Mills and ex-Speaker T. B. Reed on the question of the quorum and the rights of minorities; Andrew Lang on French novels and French life; the Mexican Minister on Wages in Mexico; Gov. David B. Hill on the Pardoning Power; Lady Henry Somerset on the Slums of London and New York; Charles H. Cramp on the First Cost of Ships; Theodore Voorhees, the General Superintendent of the New York Central Railway, on the Life and Work of Locomotive Engineers, and Signor Alonzo Martinez on the Speakership question. The same number will contain a symposium on The Best Book of the Year, the contributors to this being Sir Edwin Arnold, Gail Hamilton, Agnes Repplier, Amelia E. Barr, Rev. Dr. Briggs, Julien Gordon and Dr. William A. Hammond.

They Were Splendidly Entertained.

The attractive and hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. James Frank was the scene of a large and happy gathering of friends, Christmas day; friends who had assembled at the bidding of the host and hostess, and who found cause, as the hours sped by, to congratulate themselves that they had not permitted either weather or bad roads to interfere with their acceptance of an invitation so cordially given.

Some fifty-two guests celebrated Christmas under the cheerful roof-tree of the Franks, that day, and royally were they entertained. An early dinner was served at 4:30—and such a dinner! Everything that could tempt human palate, seemingly, graced the bounteously-burdened tables; and everything was beautifully served.

Early in the evening, dancing was inaugurated, and continued until well on toward morning, the music being furnished by Messrs. George D. Raney and M. L. Hollister. After midnight, a delightful supper was served, and then dancing was resumed, and enjoyed, until the near approach of a new day's dawning.

They Are Frequently Seen Here.

"'Look at the whales!' was the exclamation that struck a Ledger reporter's ear, yesterday afternoon, while he was walking along the water front. And sure enough, a brief scrutinizing gaze over the harbor disclosed the fact that a number of cetaceans had come to spend the holidays with us," says the Tacoma Ledger. "Every now and then a black object would rise over the water, increase to a dark mass, with something like a rudder—the dorsal fin—sticking out on top, make a slow, regular movement resembling the arc of a circle, and then disappear again. It was not possible to ascertain the exact number of whales that were thus attracting the attention of the chance observers, but it is safe to say that there were about ten or twelve. They varied somewhat as to size; the largest one was at least twenty-five feet long. It was said that these animals generally come up the Sound in winter for the purpose of breeding.

"This whale that pays us an occasional visit is not the Greenland or common whale, but a smaller species of the cetacean animal. Its scientific name is phocane grampus, according to Cuvier, or grampus orca, as English authorities have it. In this part of the country, it is popularly known as finback whale, or California grey whale, the former name being given it on account of its dorsal fin, and the latter being due to its prevailing color, which is, however, of a very dark grey. The name grampus is said to be derived from the French grand poisson (large fish), and the animal is well entitled to it for its size. Its length varies from 25 to 30 feet and its circumference from 10 to 12 feet; the snout is short and rounded and the lower jaw broader and shorter than the upper one. The most remarkable peculiarity of the grampus is its dorsal fin, near the middle of the back, which attains a length of about 4 feet."

Mr. Villard's Position Defined.

The Journal of Finance quotes one of Mr. Villard's close associates in the Northern Pacific as saying:

Mr. Villard has never given us an intimation that he proposed to resign from any of the companies with which he is identified. In fact, it is important that he should not resign. They could not have been where they are to-day if he had not pushed them along.

As to the Northern Pacific, there may be a bearish feeling on it by those who are watching its earnings, because these are falling off on account of blockades, and compared with unusually large earnings last year. There is nothing in its financial condition at the present time to cause any uneasiness.

In fact, Mr. Villard, at a meeting the other day, stated that never before, during the last twelve years in which he has been connected with the property, has he been so easy in his mind with regard to the finances of the Northern Pacific Company. The Company is steadily reducing its floating debt and getting an easy financial position, and its outlook was never brighter.

THE storm "on the outside," Saturday and Saturday night, was a corker, resulting in the roughest sea of the year, on the Strait, Sunday morning. The swells that chased each other up-Strait, for three or four hours that morning, were of truly majestic proportions. There was an unusually big sea on Tuesday, too, but it wasn't comparable to Sunday's mountainous demonstration.

SUPERVISORS James McFarland and August Petterson are in the field, with two gangs of men, clearing the wreckage of the storm from their respective divisions of the old county road, running from here to Freshwater Bay.

PURSER SWIFT of the Hermosa, who has been wrestling with typhoid fever at Seattle for several weeks past, is now convalescing, and hopes to be able to report for duty, soon.

A New Store and Hotel.

Good Fortune and Bob Getty seem to be bedfellows, and mighty congenial bedfellows at that. Mr. Getty, as every one along this coast is aware, is the gentleman who called Gettysburg into being and who stood sponsor for it at the christening. He conducts a prosperous general store, as well as the Post-office, and a modest hotel, down there, and all branches of his business have kept up a very healthy and encouraging growth for the past eighteen months.

So pronounced has this growth been, in fact, that the business quarters that once amply sufficed to accommodate his needs have become wholly inadequate to meet the demands constantly made upon them; and so, Mr. Getty has completed all arrangements for erecting, at once, a new store and hotel building, that will afford him the room he now so much needs.

The main building will be 24x30 feet in dimensions, two stories high, with a one-story addition 16x24 feet. The store and Post-office, and the dining room and kitchen, will occupy the first floor, while the second floor will be devoted to sleeping apartments.

Mr. Getty will also erect a new boathouse and warehouse, and all told, will put some $1,500 or $1,800 into attractive improvements at Gettysburg, within the next few months. The plans for the store and hotel building were drawn by Mr. M. L. Hollister of this place, and the new structure will be built by him.

Senator Allen's Opportunity.

Says a Washington press dispatch: "When the list of Senate committees was being made up, Senator Hoar of Massachusetts, for several days refused to give up the chairmanship of the committee on relations with Canada, even though he was to succeed to the most important chairmanship in that body. The venerable Massachusetts senator claimed that the importance of this committee in the future was great, and he believed that in a short time it will play an important part in internal affairs with Canada. Probably after the holidays it will be made a standing committee and Senator Allen will find himself at the head of a committee which will deal with the important problem of Canadian annexation, Chinese exclusion and many other matters now agitating the northern boundary. Senator Allen was made chairman of a more important committee than any other new state senator."

A Very Pleasant Affair.

Mrs. Sophia E. Coleman handsomely entertained a large company of guests at her pleasant home, Christmas night—as she does at every recurrence of that joyous holiday. Every care had been taken to see that nothing was lacking that could contribute to the pleasure of the merry company there congregated, and what with music, feasting and dancing, the hours slipped away all too rapidly. The supper served during the evening was notable for its bounteous array of delicacies.

THAT section of the Government telegraph line, between here and Port Angeles, has been repaired and is again in operation; and it is expected that the line from Port Crescent west to Neah Bay, will be up and in usable shape, within a few days. Operator Otto Hart and his men have been crowding repair work on this division with all possible despatch—and crowding it under difficulties, too; and if those in charge of the other divisions, west, do as well as he has done, it will not be long before through telegraphic connection is again established.

MR. AND MRS. J. J. Gichard and their bright and handsome sons, Masters Fred, Joe and Frank, of Port Townsend, spent a portion of the holidays here, as the guests of Mrs. Richard McDonnell of the Hotel Markham. They exchanged greetings with many of their old friends and neighbors while here—for Mr. and Mrs. Gichard were residents of the Gettysburg neighborhood for five years—and pleasantly extended their acquaintanceship. They took their departure for home, yesterday morning.

CAPTAIN L. B. HASTINGS, of the Hastings Steamboat Company of Port Townsend, owners of the Hermosa, the Garland and other boats engaged in traffic on the Sound, went through to Neah Bay on the Hermosa, Monday, taking a look at all of the points at which that handsome boat touches, along the route.

MR. ARCH MCDOUGALL took his departure, yesterday, for a visit to Seattle and Everett. It is probable that he will undertake a clearing contract or two at the latter place.

MESSRS. Harry E. and Sam J. Lutz were visitors to Clallam Bay, the present week, going down Monday and returning this morning.

THE steamer Rapid Transit came into port, Monday, and left here yesterday with a cargo of lumber and live stock for Seattle and Tacoma.

NINE ELK AT ONE INNING

Is the Record Made by Mr. Elmer Decker, One of the Crack Hunters of the Quillayute.

A POINTER FOR THE COMMISSIONERS

That They May or May Not Care to Have—An Observing and Well-Informed Correspondent Calls Attention to the Legal Aspect of the Infamous Order Issued by the Commissioners, Directing the Supervisors to Remove the Timber from Burlingame's Road—The Doing of the Work Ordered Will Constitute the Scow Line an Accepted County Road.

"THE most talked-of occurrence in the vicinity of Shuwah and Beaver, just now," said Mr. Frank Ackles, who came to Port Crescent in company with Mr. Arch McDougall, a few days ago, "is the killing of nine elk, at one inning, by Elmer Decker."

"Nine elk—in one day?" asked the LEADER.

"Nine elk—and in a very few minutes," answered Mr. Ackles. "Mr. Decker is very well known here, having worked on the townsite, while clearing was in progress. He is now holding down a rattling good ranch near Shuwah, and is known as one of the best hunters in that locality. A few days ago he went out for a hunt, accompanied by his thirteen-year-old nephew, Frank Stevens. When on what is known as the "rough ground" back of Higgins' prairie, they struck a band of 60 elk, and Decker's magazine gun was soon at work, dropping big game. Before the animals could get out of range, nine had been killed and two crippled—one of the latter having been shot by young Stevens, with a small-calibre gun. That was a pretty big killing, wasn't it? But none too big, for there is a little army of settlers in there, always eager for fresh meat—a rare enough luxury to many of us. All of the meat was packed out and saved, and for days, many a table was bountifully supplied, as a result of Mr. Decker's fortunate hunt.

"The boy, Stevens, often goes out with Mr. Decker, on his jaunts through the woods. One day they were together, when they came upon an elk. The only weapon at hand was the boy's light rifle. Taking that, Decker fired at and struck the elk, but it did not fall immediately, and a second shot was necessary to bring it down. This two-shot business didn't suit Decker, and he said, disparagingly:

"'If I owned a pop-gun like that, I'd throw it away.'

"The lad heard him, and stepping forward and taking his weapon, he said:

"'Well, now, look here. What's the use of abusing my gun? Isn't that elk as dead as if you had shot it with your big rifle?'

"Mr. Decker dropped the subject right there, and proceeded to bleed and skin the elk."

Mr. Ackles has had some little success himself hunting, this winter. With Messrs. Fred Mason and J. Hennessey, he recently killed three deer, just back of the house on his ranch.

Yesterday's mail brought to the LEADER a most interesting letter from an exceedingly well-informed gentleman, touching the extraordinary action of the Commissioners, relative to the new county road. Although the letter was not intended for publication, the LEADER takes the liberty of presenting this telling extract from it, in full. The writer, it will be noted, clearly presents a most important point, the full import of which will be readily apparent to the people, if not to the Commissioners:

"I have read with considerable interest your various articles concerning the Clallam county road, and with your permission, will draw your attention to one point, which has apparently escaped your attention. You state that the Commissioners have given orders to the Supervisors to remove the fallen timber from the road. And as the Supervisors are county officials, the removal of this timber is equivalent to making improvements on the road. This they are only authorized to do on county roads or roads which are the accepted property of the county. The making of these improvements will constitute this road an accepted road, and consequently will relieve the bondsmen from responsibility in regard to such portions of the road as these improvements are made upon.

"The Commissioners may or may not be aware of this point, and to avoid trouble arising in regard to it, it may be well that they should understand it. It will be regarded by the contractors as prima facie evidence that such portions of the road as may be so improved have been accepted by the Commissioners."

To Prevent the Waste of Timber.

Commissioner Carter, of the general land office, with the approval of the secretary of the interior, has issued a form of permit to be granted to persons applying to cut timber from the public lands under the act of March 3, 1891. Among the stipulations in the permit is one forbidding the cutting of more than 50 per cent of the timber of each class growing on any acre. Monthly statements under oath are required, giving descriptions of tracts from which timber is cut, the amount cut, and how disposed of.

No trees shall be cut or removed that are less than a specified number of inches in diameter, except for needed roadways through the timber. The person cutting timber is required to cut, remove and burn or otherwise dispose of the tops and brush of trees, and the rails, slabs, sawdust and other refuse from the saw-mills, with a view to preventing forest fires, and he is held liable in damages for the spread of any fire attributable to his neglect.

Burdette's Patent New Year Resolves.

Bob Burdette has assumed the editorship of a new department in the Ladies' Home Journal, "From a New Inkstand," and in the January number of that splendid magazine, he presents this series of patent New Year resolutions:

I will get up and dress when the breakfast bell rings.

I will not complain when everything goes to suit me.

I will treat my wife as politely as though she was a perfect stranger.

I will strive to be more thoughtful for my own comfort that others, seeing me happy, may also endeavor to be contented.

I will not spend so much money this year on the useless frivolities of life.

I will remember the poor if I have to make a memorandum to that effect every morning.

I will endeavor to impress upon my family the duty of greeting, with cheerful voices and laughing faces, the father of a family when he returns home, wearied with the depressing cares and labors of a long business day.

I will go out by myself oftener, in order that my family may enjoy the tranquil and improving pleasure of a long, uninterrupted evening in the quiet sanctity of a happy home.

I must be more unselfish, and take better care of myself that I may long be spared to be the joy and light of the home which it has pleased an appreciative Providence to bestow upon me.

I will pay my pew rent this year, if I have to deny myself a new overcoat, and my children have to go without shoes. I feel that we have not heretofore sufficiently denied ourselves in little luxuries for the sake of maintaining a good appearance at church.

I will be, in all things, an affectionate husband, a loving father, a good provider; and I will rear up a family that will love and respect me, and render to me prompt and cheerful obedience, with perfect deference to my wishes and thoughtful regard for my comfort, or I will break their backs in the attempt.

In the same number of the Journal, Rev. T. De Witt Talmage writes on the same subject, but in a different vein. Here are some of the New Year's maxims that he suggests:

Make it the best year of all your life—the brightest, the happiest and the best. Imbue your heart with the freshness of the morning, your soul with the sparkle of the dawn. Resolve by good deeds and thoughts to make this the most triumphant year of your life. As a series of short maxims to carry with you through this year, let me give you these:

Make every day begin and end with God.

Be content with what you have.

Have a hearty, joyful family altar in your domestic circle.

Fill your home with as much good reading and bright music as your means will allow.

Think ill of none, but well of all.

If fortune favors you, think of others.

Don't sham; be real.

Keep busy and you will keep healthy.

Respect all sacred things.

Love God.

A Valuable Gift.

Mr. C. M. Ogden, Receiver of the land office, has presented the Seattle public library with a complete set of the records of the war of the rebellion, to date, and has arranged with the Department that the volumes of this valuable publication shall in future be sent direct to the library. The library commission has passed a resolution thanking Mr. Ogden for the gift.

MR. FRANK BONNEY, the Willowy Fir of Lyre River, was here from Gettysburg, Monday.

MR. WM. GAMBLE has gone to Puyallup, possibly to remain for some little time.

MR. OWEN MORRISSEY returned from Port Angeles to his home near Gettysburg, Monday.

SETTLERS living at a distance—at any of the various points west of Port Crescent—can have their papers, giving the Land Office notice of their intention

TO MAKE FINAL PROOF,

Made out and forwarded to Register Reed, by sending the editor of the LEADER their filing papers, containing the number and description of their claims, the names and places of residence of their witnesses and the date on which they desire to prove up. All filing papers so sent in, will be returned to their owners by the first mail after their receipt, with the required final proof blanks properly filled out and ready for the signatures of claimants. After being signed and returned to the LEADER, they will be at once sent in to the Land Office at Seattle, and a notice for publication will be issued within a few days.

Write it with a 2, after to-day.

The Port Townsend Leader has been sold to Mr. W. B. Dennis, formerly of Dayton, O., for $11,200. Mr. Dennis is backed by a local syndicate, and means to make a capital newspaper of his new property.

Wouldn't it be a good idea for the Commissioners to contract for a couple of whalebacks, to be placed on the new county road?

We believe the people would be willing to bond the county for $100,000 more, to purchase some sort of craft that could be used in navigating the road; and the whaleback seems to be just the thing.

So much has been said about the Burlingame Company's bonds being good, and about "holding the contractor's bondsmen" for the faithful performance of work that the contractors themselves should have been compelled to do, before being paid for it, that the suspicion is fixing itself in the public mind that, after all, the much talked of bonds may prove to be straw-filled.

Murat Halstead, who is now traveling in Europe, was interviewed at Rome, a few days ago, as to his views on the Presidental question. He expressed the belief that Blaine would be the candidate of the Republicans, with either Sherman or McKinley occupying second place on the ticket; and that Governor Flower of New York, and not Cleveland, would lead the Democratic forces to defeat.

The windstorm that swept along this coast, without doing much damage, Monday morning, developed into a holy terror by the time it reached Seattle and Tacoma, and for a time, threatened to play havoc with the shipping in the harbors. The Bailey Gatzert badly damaged herself and three docks at Seattle, and at Tacoma, four deep water vessels were driven ashore, on the mud flats across the harbor.

It is now said that the Czar has been grossly deceived as to the true facts touching the terrible famine now scourging great sections of Russia; and that the object of this misrepresentation, was the desire of officials high in authority to cover their own neglect in not preparing promptly to meet the failure of the harvest and the scarcity of food.

Now that the Czar has had his eyes opened, it is believed he will inaugurate more effective methods of relieving the distress of his people.

The Commissioners should have prepared, at once, an accurate chart of the new county road, showing the depths of the liquid mud on all sections of the road; the location of the cavernous stump holes, sunken stumps and snags, and other obstacles dangerous to navigators of the tortuous scow line; and all supervisors should be compelled to qualify themselves to act as pilots to voyagers over their respective divisions of the dangerous route.

Some provision, too, ought to be made for equipping the line with bouys, marking the places most to be avoided, and a light-house or two would be of great assistance to those who are compelled to risk their lives by venturing out on the road at night.

Talk of war between the United States and Chile is on the increase, and the administration at Washington is evidently making energetic preparations for holding up our end of the string in good shape if serious trouble actually occurs. But it is not probable that war will ensue, in any event, until the virtue of Blaine's policy of arbitration has been thoroughly exhausted. The Government is alive to the fact, however, that it is but the part of prudence to be prepared for war, if the South American bantam insists on having its comb cut.

The Port Crescent LEADER is making a big effort to lead the people to believe that the county road is a tremendous swindle. It surmises and assumes that something may be wrong. Carrigan is working himself into a frenzy on very thin foundation.—Port Angeles Tribune.

Carrigan isn't doing anything of the sort. He is simply endeavoring to acquaint the people of the county, in a plain, straightforward way, with the fact that the Burlingame Company is building a most miserable county road at a big cost per mile; that the Commissioners are paying for this wretched work, about as fast as Burlingame asks them to pay for it, and that the result of the whole farce will be, if there is not an immediate and radical change of programme, that $100,000 of the people's money will have been blown in on a fake road, which, as built, will be of precious little value to any one.

The LEADER would like to see the tax-payers get, for their money, exactly the kind of a road the contractors agreed to give them. They will not have anything to be proud of, even if they get that—to which they are surely entitled.

Senator Squire, it is said, is confident that at this session of Congress he will be able to get through some measure, either as a separate bill or amendment to some appropriation bill, a provision for the still better patrolling of Puget Sound, to prevent the smuggling of Chinese and opium across from British Columbia. The people as a whole are not much interested in Chinese coming into this country, but the smuggling of opium affects the revenue, and it is a a subject that attracts a great deal of attention.

Consumption Cured.

Anold physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all throat and Lung Affections; also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper. W. A. NOYES, 820 Powers' Block, Rochester, N. Y.

An Exceptional Year.

THE YEAR 1891 has been marked by a greater advance than any similar period since the Magazine was established. Not only has the literary and artistic excellence been maintained and increased, but a corresponding gain has been made in the sale and influence of the Magazine. At the end of 1891 the circulation has risen to more than 140,000. It may justly be promised that the further improvements for the coming year will be proportionate to these largely increased opportunities.

For Next Year.

It is not possible to give, in a brief space, an account of all the features in preparation, but the material is deficient in neither importance nor range of subject. Among the subjects treated:

The Poor in the World's Great Cities.

It is proposed to publish a series of articles, upon a scale not before attempted, giving the results of special study and work among the poor of the great cities. The plan will include an account of the conditions of life in those cities (in many lands) where the results of research will be helpful for purposes of comparison as well as for their own intrinsic interest. While, from a scientific point of view, the articles will be a contribution of great importance, the treatment will be thoroughly popular, and the elaborate illustrations will serve to make the presentation of the subject vivid as well as picturesque.

Washington Allston.

UNPUBLISHED REMINISCENCES AND LETTERS of this foremost among early American painters. A number of illustrations will lend additional interest to the articles.

Important Moments.

The aim of this series of very short articles is to describe the signal occasions when some decisive event took place, or when some great experiment was first shown to be successful such moments as that of the first use of the Atlantic cable, the first use of the telegraph and telephone, the first successful experiment with ether, the night of the Chicago fire, the scene at the moment of the vote on the impeachment of Andrew Johnson, etc., etc.

Out of Door Papers.

In the early spring will be begun a number of seasonable articles, among them being:
SMALL COUNTRY PLACES, how to lay out and beautify them, by SAMUEL PARSONS, JR.
FISHING LORE FROM AN ANGLER'S NOTE-BOOK, by DR. LEROY M. YALE.
MOUNTAIN STATION LIFE IN NEW ZEALAND, by SIDNEY DICKINSON.
RACING IN AUSTRALIA, by SIDNEY DICKINSON, with illustrations by BIRGE HARRISON.
The illustrations are made from original material.

LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE.

Twenty-Fifth Annual Prospectus.

A QUARTER OF A CENTURY has elapsed since LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE was first presented to the reading public. By adding new and original features it has kept in advance of the times and now occupies a unique position among magazines. It was the first to abandon serial stories, and by publishing a complete novel in each number, the magazine has wonderfully increased its popularity. This popular feature will be continued, and leading American and English authors have been engaged to contribute novels for the ensuing year. The January number will contain a remarkable novel dealing with newspaper life, entitled, "The Passing of Major Kilgore," by YOUNG E. ALLISON, late Managing Editor of the Louisville Courier Journal. This number will fitly inaugurate The Journalist's Series, which will consist of a number of contributions from prominent newspaper men who will tell their personal experiences, and give glimpses of the editorial sanctums and inner workings of various leading newspapers throughout the country. An insight into the lives of newspaper men at work and at play will be given, and the methods of getting out the great dailies will be illustrated. A series of articles on Athletics will also be commenced in the January number, the initial article being one on "Boxing," by DANIEL L. DAWSON. The articles will be prepared by experts in such sports and exercises as rowing, fencing, base-ball, cricket, walking, swimming, archery, tennis, foot-ball, riding, sailing, golf, la crosse, polo, etc., as well as articles on Physical Training and In-Door Exercises. New Talent will be heartily encouraged as heretofore, and writers from every section of the country will be represented in the pages of Lippincott's during 1892. A series of articles dealing with reminiscences of men famous in our political history, and giving hitherto-unpublished correspondence, will form a feature. Among such articles may be mentioned "Personal Recollections of Abraham Lincoln, Andrew Johnson, John C. Calhoun," etc., the Clay-Randolph Correspondence and Duel, Social Life in Philadelphia during the Administration of John Adams, etc.

MRS. M. E. W. SHERWOOD will contribute a series of papers entitled Collections and Recollections. These will include reminiscences of many famous people in "society," also recollections of the Brook Farm Community, and other interesting data. Leading Actors have been engaged to contribute articles on the modern stage, and an initial paper by E. S. WILLARD, the English actor, will be published in and early forthcoming number. It would be impossible to mention in detail the wealth of material that has been secured for 1892, in the shape of Short Stories, Essays, Sketches, Poems, etc., by well known writers.

THE BEST OF

CHILDREN'S MAGAZINES.

THE publishers of St. Nicholas, that famous young-folks magazine, are offering to send a sample copy, free of charge, to any father or mother who would like to consider the question of taking a children's magazine during the year to come.

Certainly if that question is up for discussion in any household St. Nicholas will be the magazine selected. From its first number, in 1873, the pens of the greatest writers of the English world, and the pencils of the most famous illustrators, have been at its service. Tennyson, Longfellow, Bryant, Thomas Hughes, Whittier, Bret Harte, Bayard Taylor, Mrs. Burnett, Miss Alcott, Donald G. Mitchell, George Macdonald, Mrs. Oliphant, Professor Proctor are a few of the many great names which have been upon its list of contributors. Mrs. Mary Mapes Dodge is the editor. Everything in it is illustrated.

there are to be serial stories by Brander Matthews, Lieutenant Robert H. Fletcher (the author of that charming book, "Marjorie and Her Papa,"), Laura E. Richards, William O. Stoddard, Charles E. Carryl (author of Davy and the Goblin"), and Frances Courtenay Baylor. There will be short stories by Thomas Nelson Page, Mary E. Wilkins, Mary Hallock Foote, Richard Malcolm Johnston, Octave Thanet General O. O. Howard and many others, with papers of travel and adventure by J. T. Trowbridge and Lieutenant Schwatka, and useful articles on "How Columbus Reckoned," "William the Conquerer," "Volcanoes and Earthquakes," "Straight Lines and Circles," etc. In "Strange Corners of Our Country," the Great American Dessert, the Cliff-Dwellings of Arizona, and other interesting places, will be described, and in "Honors to the Flag" and "Boys and the National Guard" the patriotism of the young readers will be aroused and stimulated. Julian Ralph is to describe "The Making of a Great Newspaper," and the arc and incandescent electric lights are to be clearly explained.

APPLIED CHRISTIANITY

is what St. Nicholas teaches: unselfishness, faithfulness, courage, truthfulness—these things are taught is a hundred ways by stories, poems and pictures. Do you need such an assistant in your work with your boys and girls? If so, and if you are not already familiar with St. Nicholas, send a postal card to The Century Co., Union Square, New York, N. Y., and ask to see a sample copy. A year's subscription to St. Nicholas makes a splendid Christmas present, for it brings Christmas twelve times a year.

BABYLAND.

Baby's delight and mother's relief.

Gay jingles, sweet little stories, dainty pictures will make BABYLAND for 1892 a charming magazine for the little ones. Among the many good things will be NURSE KAREN'S NORWAY TALES—stories told by a Norwegion nurse to little Americans—by EMILIE POULSSON, whose "Finger Plays" and "Toy Closet Stories" have made her our fairy godmother.

THE SWEETHEART STORIES by BELLA D. CLARK, a new friend, but one who knows all about baby folks.

THE TIPTOE TWINS, and their doings, will be described by MARGARET JOHNSON, whose "Toddlekins" and "Booler Kitten" have never been forgotten.

A GREAT MAGAZINE.

The Century's Programme in 1892—A New "Life of Columbus"—Articles for Farmers, etc.

THAT great American periodical, THE CENTURY, is going to outdo its own unrivaled record in its programme for 1892, and as many of its new features begin with the November number, new readers should commence with that issue.

In this number are the opening chapters of a novel by Rudyard Kipling, the famous author of "Plain Tales from the Hills," written in collaboration with an American writer, Wolcott Balestier. It is the story of a young man and a young woman from a "booming" Colorado town, who go to India, he in search of a wonderful jeweled necklace, called "the Naulahka" (from which the story takes its name), and she as a physician to women. The novel describes their remarkable adventures at the court of an Indian maharajah. Besides this, the Century will print three other novels during the year, and a great number of short stories by the best American story-writers.

The well-known humorist, Edgar W. Nye ("Bill Nye"), is to write a series of amusing sketches which he calls his "autobiographies," the first one of which, "The Autobiography of a Justice of the Peace," is in November. This number also contains a valuable and suggestive article on "The Food Supply of the Future," which every farmer should read, to be followed by a number of others treating especially of the relations of the Government to the farmer, what it is doing and what it should do. This series will include contributions from officers of the Department of Agriculture, and other well known men will discuss "The Farmer's Discontent," "Co-operation," etc., etc.

A celebrated Spanish writer is to furnish a "Life of Columbus," which will be brilliantly illustrated, and the publishers of the Century have arranged with the managers of the World's Fair to print articles on the buildings, etc.

One of the novels to appear in 1892 is by the author of "The Anglomaniacs," and the magazine will contain a great deal about the metropolis during the year among other things a series of illustrated articles on "The Jews in New York." In November is an illustrated description of "The Players' Club," founded by Edwin Booth, and one of the features of the splendidly illustrated Christmas (December) number is an article on "The Bowery."

To get the Century send the yearly subscription price ($4.00) to The Century Co., Union Square, New York, N. Y.

THE ARENA FOR 1892.

"The boldest, ablest, and most original magazine in America."—Jewish Times and Observer.

| Subscription price . . . | $5.00 |
| Arena Art Portfolio . . . | 4.00 |
| | $9.00 |
| We send The Arena and Portfolio, postpaid for | $5.20 |

THE ARENA for 1892 will eclipse its previous brilliant record in the strength and ability of its contributions. As in the past, it will continue to be the most aggressive, fearless, and outspoken review of the age. All great living issues will be fully, freely and impartially discussed by the foremost thinkers of our day. Great wrongs and growing evils will be unmasked without fear or favor, while the root problems underlying civilization will be more fully discussed than in the pages of any other review.

Some Special Features for 1892.

I. "A Spoil of Office," by Hamlin Garland, which opens in the January ARENA. This is, without question, one of the greatest novels ever written by an American author. It deals with the social, economic and political condition of the Trans-Mississippi West, and is characterized by beauty and strength. A golden thread of love runs through the woof and web of this great story, which opens in Iowa, shifts its scenes to Kansas, and closes in the National Capitol. "A SPOIL OF OFFICE" will be the most talked-of story of 1892, and you should read it.

II. Popular Social and Economic Problems. It will be an encyclopædia of social, economic and political information, giving its readers a masterly exposition of the true conditions and needs of the present, depicting the evils of the hour, and suggesting remedies calculated to secure a wider need of justice and liberty for the great toiling millions of our land. From its inception THE ARENA has been THE STEADFAST CHAMPION OF THE PEOPLE, absolutely fearless in its denunciation of plutocracy, monopoly and all means and measures which wrong the multitude or infringe upon the liberty of the humblest citizen.

III. Psychical Science. During 1892, THE ARENA will have the ablest, most authoritative, and brilliant series of papers ever published on psychical science, by leading thinkers of the new world and the old.

IV. The Condition of Woman Throughout the World. Recognizing the fact that the present is the cycle of woman, THE ARENA for 1892 will contain a brilliant and powerful series of papers on the condition of woman throughout the world. The opening paper appears in the January number, by Professor A. N. Jannaris, Ph. D., of the National University of Greece. It is on "Women in Mohammedan Lands."

V. Scientific Papers. Popular papers on scientific subjects by the most profound thinkers of the age will also be a feature of THE ARENA for 1892. The first paper of this series appears in the December ARENA, by the eminent French astronomer, Camille Flammarion, on "Recent Discoveries in the Heavens." The second is by the great English scientist, Alfred Russel Wallace, on "Human Progress, Past and Future."

VI. Religious and Educational Problems and Social Conditions will be fully and freely presented by the master spirits in each department of thought.

VII. Short Stories and Biographies. Each issue will contain, in addition to Mr. Garland's great novel, a brilliant short story or a biography of some eminent person; thus every member of the family will hail the arrival of THE ARENA with delight.

VIII. Full-page Portraits and Illustrations. Each issue will contain superb full-page portraits of distinguished personages, with autographs, printed on heavy plate paper.

PORT CRESCENT.

THE POINT at which the American Continent most nearly approaches Vancouver Island, the distance being LESS THAN TEN MILES. The most favorable point for

DIRECT - INTERNATIONAL - COMMUNICATION

Between the two countries.

The Harbor is already, to a large degree, protected by natural headlands, but

Breakwaters which will Encircle it and

Double its Capacity are Being Provided,

At a cost of $350,000. The more important one is in full progress and partly completed.

PORT CRESCENT is the extreme western port of Puget Sound, and THE FIRST DEEP-WATER HARBOR north of San Francisco, without a bar, a shoal or a sandbank. It will accommodate 120 ships at cable length, besides 100 more alongside wharves. A short and clear waterway of 43 miles to the ocean, enables ships to dispense with the heavy charges necessarily incurred for tugs and pilots on the Columbia river and the upper ports of Puget Sound.

Its unique geographical position secured for it the attention of the officials of the

Northern Pacific R. R. Co.,

And in view of its capacities, it has been selected as an Ocean Terminus, in preference to any other point.

THE PRESIDENT of that corporation, Mr. Thomas F. Oakes, of New York, and other influential officers of the Northern Pacific, are Trustees of the Victoria, Port Crescent & Chehalis Railroad Company, with a Capital of $4,000,000.

This Line Will Run from Port Crescent

WESTWARD of the Olympic Mountains and connect with the existing Northern Pacific system on Gray's Harbor. It will traverse a series of river valleys of the richest agricultural character, INTO WHICH SETTLERS ARE FLOCKING IN GREAT NUMBERS; lands especially fitted for Hops and Fruit Culture, with a climate, induced by the genial warmth of the Japan current, equal to that of California, without its aridity. The timber is unexcelled, inexhaustible and very accessible. The clearing of the first section of the Right-of-way from Port Crescent is completed; the preliminary surveys of the whole line made, and its early completion is now assured.

An essential feature of the project now being developed at Port Crescent is the

Ferrying of Solid Northern Pacific Trains

Over to Port Beecher, on Vancouver Island, and thence

Into the City of Victoria, B. C.,

Conveying freight without breaking bulk and passengers without change of vehicle.

Immediately adjoining Port Crescent, and connected with it by a good road, is

LAKE CRESCENT,

TEN MILES in length, from two to three miles in width, and of surpassing beauty. This Lake, with its wonderful coloring and magnificent surrounding scenery, was visited by hundreds of delighted pleasure seekers, the past summer, and is destined to become one of the most famous resorts in the Pacific Northwest. It is without a rival in Western Washington. Its waters abound in trout, and it is an ideal rendezvous for fishermen and sportsmen.

A Mail Route has been recently established between Port Crescent and the west end of Lake Crescent, for the accommodation of residents of the rich valley of the Solduck—which valley, now conveniently reached by way of Port Crescent, is being rapidly filled up with a fine class of settlers. In addition to thousands of acres of choice Agricultural and Timber Lands, the valley possesses

HOT - MINERAL - SPRINGS - OF - GREAT - VALUE.

A LUMBER MILL has been established at Port Crescent, and stores, hotels, warehouses and residences built, and all indications go to show that a city of the very first rank must arise here—and one backed by one of the largest and richest agricultural regions in Washington. No point in the State offers Sounder Opportunities for Safe Investment on the part of the most conservative, and further particulars, with plans, prices of City Lots and Desirable Acreage, will gladly be afforded on application.
