Judge McClinton Decides the Annexation to Be Illegal.

INTERESTING HISTORY.

Judge McClinton Makes a Decision on the Annexation—He Rules the Reservation Out—What the Lawyers Think.

As is well known, last June quo-warranto proceedings were commenced by E. B. Mastick, Jr., against the city of Port Angeles to have the incorporation declared void.

There were in all about twenty counts in the complaint filed In the first count it was alleged that the original town was illegally incorporated; that the law only authorized the incorporation of one square mile, an area of 640 acres; that the original town had attempted to incorporate 783 acres. It further alleged that insufficient notice of intention to incorporate had been given; that the petition had not sixty qualified electors as signers; that the original town had unlawfully advanced from a municipal corporation of the fourth class to a municipal corporation of the third class. In another count it was alleged that new territory had been unlawfully added, the defect being legal notice had not been given.

Twelve times the opposing attorneys met in legal combat on motions and demurers over the pleadings, before the case was at issue. In ruling on one of these motions, Judge McClinton held that it required five insertions to make four week's notice.

With this holding in his mind, evidently, Prosecuting Attorney G. V. Smith, with Ben. Chambers, a property owner in the annexed territory, as relator, filed an injunction against the city of Port Angeles and its officers Oct. 9th, in which, besides the failure to give notice as above set forth, he alleges that other errors were made in the election on annexation, among them, that ten day's notice of the close of registration was not given; that the election officers returned the vote as being cast for advancement, and the council canvassed these returns as having been cast for annexation. The information also alleges that the city council has caused this property, pretended to be annexed, to be assessed for taxation, and is proceeding to collect the taxes on the same; that the city council, for want of funds, refuses to build and repair bridges and roads in this territory; and that the board of county commissioners do not claim jurisdiction over the same; that such annexation is causing much damage and loss to the relator, who prays the court to declare the annexation of such territory null and void, to grant a permanent injunction against the defendant, its officers and servants, restraining it and them from exercising any of the powers of a municipal corporation over the territory pretended to be annexed, and for his costs in the action.

To this information City Attorney Wilson demurred, admitting the facts alleged, but holding these not to be sufficient to constitute a cause of action.

Judge McClinton overruled the demurrer, and the city attorney decided to stand on the demurrer, whereupon the plantiff moved for judgement on the pleadings, which was granted by the court. How this will effect pending litigation remains to be seen. The case of E. B. Mastick, Jr., as relator against the city is set for trial on the 20th instant. Judge L. M. Lane and W. R. Gay represent the plantiff, and City Attorney Wilson and Judge W. S. Bush, of this city, and Ronald & Pyles and A. F. Burleigh, of Seattle, represent the city in this case.

The rulings on the pleadings thus far have all been in favor of the plantiff Some alarm is felt by many citizens in regard to the result of the trial and its influence on the local money market and scrip.

WHAT THE LAWYERS THINK.

A DEMOCRAT reporter called on various city lawyers, and what they have to say is given below. R. C. Wilson and H. B. Wilson being out of town, were not seen, All the rest were interviewed. L. M. Lane and Will R. Gay being asked "what do you think about the anexation being excluded?" said "a wrong should always be righted, the sooner the better. It will not hurt the welfare of the city at all. All legislation in which the members of the city council residing in the excluded territory, took part; all matters and contracts of every kind and character are liable to be overthrown by judicial interference, to what extent we are not prepared to say without thorough investigation of the records and legislative acts arising from the proceedings of the council in which these members took part. In other states when similiar matters have arisen, it has caused a great deal of litigation, and legislative action taken and contracts entered into with the city council where a portion of the body taking part were afterwards removed by judicial action, it has generally been held and declared to be void by the courts of last resort. Each case, of course, depending on the facts therein, governed largely by the charter."

Mr. Hatch, of the firm Smith & Hatch, being asked the same question, said; "Many things have been done by our city council that requires a wiser man than I to explain or settle. Contracts made since the extention will probably be born by the city, as it was prior to the extension. The extended part being treated as though it had never been in the city. Requires more artention than I have had time to give. Think that getting the city into difficulties of this kind by the the city council, is simply inexcusable and if they cannot show a feasible method of extrication they should give way to a council more efficient."

Judge Bush—I have nothing to say. No opinion to express."

Benton Embree—"My opinion is that it does not invalidate the contracts that were executed, contracts that are executory may be affected. I regard the exclusion of the anexed territory as good for the city, the area was entirely too large."

Jno. C. Murphy—"I have no opinion except for clients."

THE TACOMA EXPOSITION.

County Surveyor Smith Interviewed—Clallam County Should be There.

County Surveyor W. E. Smith returned from Tacoma Friday evening. Mr. Smith visited the exposition while there. He said to a DEMOCRAT reporter that it was a grand success. The New York military band was the best he ever heard. Mr. Smith was especially laudatory in his remaks about the mineral, fruit and vegetable display.

Mr. Smith thinks, however, that Clallam county could beat anything in that line seen. He says the hops raised by M. Whittier, of Forks, are equal to, if not ahead, of anything he saw at the exposition; also that S. B. Laughlin, of Beaver, has yellow dent corn that surpasses that on exhibition.

Clallam must be represented next year.

WHO MAKES THE MONEY?

Protected Manufacturers get Rich by Starving Operatives and Farmers.

The Massachusetts state report on manufacturers of 1891 shows that there are 240,000 persons employed in Massachusetts cotton factories at "under $5 a week," while the United States census shows that in the ten years since 1880 the wealth of the State has increased $569,000,000.

The only way to understand the meaning of such figures is by comparison, and this increased in the wealth of the wealthy class of Massachusetts can be understood better by comparing the figures for Massachusetts with those for Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Ohio and Wisconsin, which give a total increase in assessed property of $591,000,000 as against the increase of $569,000,000 for Massachusetts alone.

When we seek to find who has the money accumulated by Massachuetts, we find that the factory operatives are living "from hand to mouth," and that Massachusetts farmers, becoming too poor to own their farms, are obliged to abandon them. The immense sums Massachusetts draws from the Western states are not distributed among the people of the state. They go to the beneficiaries of the Massachusetts tariff.

It is not hard to trace the process by which Massachusetts forces money from the West. Take the case of an Iowa farmer in a good crop year when there is no famine in Europe. He has bought his supplies from Massachusetts during the year, and he will have to settle for them when he sells his crop. In selling to him Massachusetts is protected by a tariff averaging over 50 cents on the dollar's worth. When he comes to sell his crop Massachusetts is still protected against him, for the same tariff prevents him from exchanging it for European goods, in which he could get fifty per cent. more than Massachusetts will pay So, whether he buys or sells, Massachusetts is protected at his expense.

With the price of farm products cut down by the laws preventing their exchange with Europe and robbing them in so much of their exchange value, and with the price of Massachusetts goods increased by the same law, the Western producer is robbed when he sells and when he buys. At this rate he is soon obliged to borrow money, and Massachusetts lends him at high interest what it has taken from him under the operations of the tariff. So the Western states go deeper into debt, and so the immense wealth they produce every year enriches the Northeast, while all the West gets out of it is a bare living for its producers.

A clergyman in the Northwest is being tried on a charge of maintaining fast horses. The sportive divine seeks to justify his conduct by the plea that he never lost a race, and the defense does not seem to be a bad one.

A writer in the National Stockman says that the speed of bees is greatly over estimated. He evidently never tried to get away from one.

PARNELL IS DEAD.

The Great Irish Patriot Passes Away.

THE NATIONS MOURN

Parnell Is Suddenly Taken Ill and Dies—The Startling News Was a Surprise to All—His Career Full of Brilliant Achievments.

On Thursday morning of last week the whole civilized world was astounded by the announcement of the death of Charles Stewart Parnell.

While it was generally known that Parnell has not been enjoying the best of health, it was not dreamed that death was so near, no inkling of his illness had reached the newspapers.

He died at his home, Washington terrace, Brighton, at 11:30 p. m., October 7. The death is said to have been indirectly due to a chill, caught last week, which at first was not regarded as serious. Mr. Parnell, however, grew worse, and his physician was called in, with the result that the patient was ordered to be taken to bed. This was Friday, Oct. 2d, and from that time Mr. Parnell lost strength and finally succumbed.

From the day he took to his bed, however, the state of Parnell's health was such as to require the constant attendance of two physicians, but, in spite of their untiring efforts to prolong or save his life, Mr. Parnell gradually sank lower and lower, until he expired in the arms of Mrs. Parnell, who is utterly prostrated by the shock.

The last time he appeared in public was at Creegs, Ireland, September 27, when he delivered a long speech upon the attitude and alleged inconsistencies of Dillon and O'Brien. Upon that occasion Parnell stated that he was speaking in defiance of the orders of the doctors attending him, who had ordered him to keep to his room.

Charles Stewart Parnell was born at Avondale, Ireland, in 1846. His mother was the daughter of Charles Stewart, an admiral in the United States navy.

He was educated at Cambridge, and returning to Ireland, began at once to take an interest in public affairs. He was elected to parliament from Meath in 1875 as a candidate of the Home Rule party. He early impressed himself upon his contemporaries as one who gave promise of leadership, and in 1877, when his Irish Church act amendment bill was rejected, he became conspicuous as the chief of the new obstructionist party.

He was not popular with his political associates, but on the contrary soon fell out with Shaw and Butt, who, previous to his entrance into the arena, had held the chief places in the confidence of the Home Rulers. This quarrel led to a bad break in the Irish ranks, nevertheless Mr. Parnell was able in 1879 to organize the National Irish Land League, to the presidency of which he was at once elected. He then entered with vigor upon the fostering of home rule interests, and in a short time attained immense influence. In the following year he came to America and made a very successful effort to raise funds for the league. At the next general election three constituencies returned him, namely, Meath, Mayo and Cork. He selected the last named. The Home Rule party recognized his prominence in 1880 by giving him the presidency of their organization. In the same year informations were laid against him by the attorney general for Ireland for seditious conspiracy. On the trial the jury disagreed. During the session of 1881 he was particularly conspicuous by reason of his obstructive tactics, and succeeded in almost paralyzing legislation but was finally suspended by the speaker. Twenty-eight Irish members followed him from the house. In the autumn of 1881 he was arrested and imprisoned in Kilmainham jail on the charge of being connected with an illegal organization. The result of this arrest was the famous "no rent" manifesto. In 1882 occurred the Cavendish and Burke murders, which, for a time, stopped all Irish agitation. This was not renewed until 1883. The latter witnessed a rupture in the Land league over the question of the appropriation of funds, but Parnell succeeded in overcoming all opposition, and the year 1884 saw him able to throw his influence with the Conservatives and bring about the defeat of the Gladstone administration. He was able to sweep Ireland at the general elections which ensued, and throwing his forces upon the Liberal side, was able to secure from Gladstone, who was returned to power in 1886, a come rule measure of a radical character, but the measure was defeated by a majority of 30, and Gladstone resigned. The next striking incident of Parnell's career was the famous commission to inquire into the Parnellism and crime charges made by the London Times, which resulted in a complete defeat of the newspaper. Parnell's position was now stronger than ever, but unfortunately he was made co-respondent in the celebrated O'Shea divorce case. Parnell did not make any defence against the grave charges preferred. In consequence it became impossible for him to retain the leadership of his party, and he was compelled to give way to Justin McCarthy. His marriage to Mrs. O'Shea in a measure rehabilitated him in public esteem, and he was preparing for a vigorous campaign when death removed him.

SEQUIM RACES A SUCCESS.

Seven Loads of Angeles Sports—Brave Riding of an Angeles Boy.

Last Saturday morning seven turnouts filled with admirers of the turf from Port Angeles headed for Sequim. Returning the same evening satisfied with the sport and financial results.

Several scrub races were run, and a cayuse race, in which Fred Church "who grows more like his 'dad' every day," distinguished himself by his expert riding. The cayuse the boy was riding in the race, jumped the track and went through the woods and brush like mad, but the boy, with great presence of mind and wonderful courage, kept his seat firmly and whipped the refractory pony over the head until the beast jumped into the track and won the race. The feature of the day was a race between Trinket, owned by Joseph McKissick, and ridden by himsilf, and Salmon Back, owned and ridden by Alf Cays, for $50 a side, and additional bets, making about $1,000. The race was won by Trinket by about twelve inches. Salmon Back claimed a foul, but the judges overruled his complaint. The last race of the day was a free-for-all dash. The entrees were: John Brown's Trigger Tail; rider, J. Brown. General, by same owner; rider, Fred Church. Ed. Jackson's Unknown; rider, E. Jackson. General won, Trigger Tail second. Among those in attendance from Angeles were John Dyke, Wm. Ritchie, Ken. Church, Frank Fisher and W. J. Dyke.

A NEW POEM BY WHITTIER.

Between the gates of birth and death
An old and saintly pilgrim passed,
With look of one who witnesseth
The long-sought goal at last.

"Oh thou whose reverent feet have found
The Master's footprints in thy way,
And walked thereon as holy ground,
A longer of thee I pray:

"My lack would borrow thy excess,
My feeble faith the strength of thine;
I need thy soul's white saintliness
To hide the stains of mine.

"The grace and favor else denied
May well be granted for thy sake."
So, tempted, doubting, sorely tried,
A younger pilgrim spake.

"Thy prayer, my son, transcends my gift;
No power is mine," the sage replied,
"The burden of a soul to lift,
Or stain of sin to hide.

"Howe'er the outward life may seem,
For pardoning grace we all must pray;
No man his brother can redeem
Or a soul's ransom pay.

"Not always age is growth of good;
Its years have losses with their gain;
Against some evil youth withstand
Its bands may strive in vain.

"With deeper voice than any speech
Of mortal lips from man to man,
What earth's unwisdom may not teach
The spirit only can.

"Make thou that holy Guide thine own,
And following where it leads the way,
The known shall lapse in the unknown
As twilight into day.

"The best of earth shall still remain,
And Heaven's eternal years shall prove
That life and death and joy and pain
Are ministers of love."

REPUBLICAN HONORS.

It has been said that "when rogues fall out honest men get their dues:" Anyhow it is, that the truth is often told in this way.

Senators Chandler and Gallinger. of New Hampshire, are both Republicans, but they are not very good friends.

That the Republicans stole the New Hampshire legislature and thereby a United States senator, and that "Bill" Chandler, who so successfully planned the robbery of 1876, was the manager of the theft, has always been maintained by the Democrats. Now, Chandler was not so successful in the election of a senator as he was in the theft of the legislature, and evidently wishes he had not meddled so much. Gallinger, the successful man, is Chandler's bitterest enemy. The senators have been talking out in meetiug about each other of late. Here is what Chandler has to say in response to a taunt from Gallinger that he bought his seat in the senate, Chandler says:

"Gallinger charges me with having bought my seat in the senate, and there's a cloud on my title to a senatorship. Everybody knows that we stole the legislature from the Democrats last January, and that if we hadn't a Democrat would have been elected senator, and not Gallinger. There's the cloud on Gallinger's title. Honors are about even, I reckon."

Republican "honors" in New Hampshire apparently are of a rather low grade.

THE TRIBUNE published a list of its stockholders and incorporators last week, among whom was one of the county commissioners, to whose careful perusal we recommend section 2686 of the code of Washington, which reads:

"No county commissioner shall directly or indirectly be concerned in any contract for work to be done or material to be furnished for the county under the penalty of $200 to be recovered by an action at law for the use of the county, and such commissioner shall moreover forfeit any compensation he was to receive on such contract."

Of course the county attorney will not take advantage of anything for the county's interest when it is against the "click." But the work is too coarse, the people see it.

A BEAUTIFUL sight was to be witnessed from the residence portion of our town on Sunday. A sight which would be bound to make the most skeptical think what a bright future there must be in store for the Cherborg of America. Far out to the ocean could be seen ships making up the Straits of Fuca, and passing by our fine harbor were, by actual count, eight more vessels in full sail, only to be snaked further up the straits by tugs. When we get our railroad there will be no need for these vessels to pay all the expenses incidental to towage.

THE County Commissioners have met and adjourned again without taking any action in regard to investigating the complaints about the county road and bridges. As has been said by THE DEMOCRAT, if the road is not what the people voted for, and are paying for, the county officers, whom they have chosen to look out for their interests, will be held responsible for it.

THE TRIBUNE is misleading when it calls the New York Sun a Democratic paper. The Democracy long ago repudiated the Sun. Mr. Danna is a political pirate, sailing under false colors, and doing all he can to injure the party to which he professes to belong. But his influence is lost. He can do the party no harm. The disguise is so thin that anyone can see through it.

ACCORDING to the official directory of the Times, Morris B. Sachs is still Superior Judge and John J. Calhoun Prosecuting Attorney. Our esteemed contemporary should shake enough moss off their backs to keep up with the names of our county officers.

THEY ARE RUNNING.

Major McKinley and Governor Campbell met at Ada, Ohio, in joint debate on the 8th instant, before 20,000 people. The result of the debate was so satisfactory to the Democrats that they wish them continued throughout the state, but the major declines. He has evidently had enough. In this connection we might also state that the Democratic State Central Committee, of Massachusetts, challenged candidate Charles H. Allen to meet Governor Russell in joint debate, but the Republican State Central Committee refused to let Allen accept.

Again, Henry Cabot Lodge, of "force bill" fame, accepted a challenge to meet Representative Russell, of Massachusetts, and afterwards squirmed out, and now refuses to do so.

The Republicans are on the run everywhere.

THE death of Parnell removes from the active scenes of this life one of the very few international characters who have figured in the political affairs of the world during the present decade. Parnell was a great statesman, patriotic and sincere. His mistakes were errors in judgment, rather than faults. His unfortunate weakness in private life should not detract from his noble career as Ireland's greatest champion. His place in history will be with that of Emmet, Grattan and O'Connell.

THE PEOPLE, in a wild burst of eloquent enthusiasm over the disfranchisement of the squatters, says: "The sun will rise on January first next on a new city." This may be true. We believe the squatters may cause the rise or fall of aspirants for official honors. They can make the city council rise to a point of honor, but when they begin to calculate on having the sun rise at their call in the winter time we grow skeptical.

THE attention of the city council is respectfully called to the rotten condition of the Laurel street wharf. It should be ordered repaired or condemned. The planks are decayed and holes are already in many places. In moving a safe weighing about 5,000 pounds, planks had to be laid down lengthwise to distribute the weight.

PAPA SMITH, of the Times, devoted a page of his paper last week to a half-humorous half-melancholy review of the press of Clallam County. Papa was kind to the infant DEMOCRAT, and it is our nature to return a pound of affection for an ounce of kindness, so we won't criticise the ruminations of his old age.

COL. JAMES HAMILTON LEWIS is being urged by the young Democracy to consent to the use of his name as a gubernatorial candidate next fall. The gallant colonel is very popular, and if nominated will make a splendid run and a good governor.

MANY flattering things have been said about the first issue of THE DEMOCRACT, which made the hearts of the editors palpitate with pleasure and feel proud of its first born.

EX-PRESIDENT and Mrs. Cleveland have named their new daughter Ruth—after its grandmother—Truly this is Jeffersonian simplicity.

A MOVEMENT is on foot to start a literary union and free reading room in Port Angeles. This is right. It merits all encouragement.

PAPA SMITH, of the Times, it is said, is not brilliant in conversation because he saves his bright sayings for his paper.

THE news-gatherer of the Tribune will be in on the next shipment. Its subscribers are to be congratulated.

THE PRESS.

A Port Angeles bank cashier is unable to manipulate his time lock, and for several days has been trying in vain to open the bank safe. Experts from Seattle were sent for, but could not open the obstinate lock, so San Francisco experts are to be tried. If all experts fail it might be well for the Port Angeles bank officials to open negotiations with the Seattle police force and have them round up some of the crooks that frequent that city, for Seattle has been visited by some very skillful safe openers in the past three years. They can discount any expert in the country in that business. Years of practice have made them perfect.—Port Townsend Leader.

It will be very unfortunate if the good work contemplated by the San Francisco grand jury should be frustrated and the efforts of Judge Wallace to investigate the supposed corruption be thwarted, "all on account of elisor."—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

In view of the fact that President Harrison must soon appoint United States circuit judges to fill the two vacancies, it might be well to look to Washington for one and promote Judge Hanford, an honest, conscientious and able jurist, who during his services as district judge has proved himself worthy of higher honor.—Port Townsend Leader.

Governor Campbell is handling the Sherman Bullion Storage act in a way that is caiculated to make John Sherman groan. There is a Democratic Senator in that act, if there is nothing else good in it, and if he is not got out of it, it will be the fault of the Ohio Democrats.—St. Louis Republic.

RESPECT TO THE DEAD.

A Meeting of the Friends of the Irish Patriot—An Estimate of Parnell.

A meeting was called Saturday evening by the friends and sympathizers of the Irish cause of home rule. at Thompson's hall, to show respect to Charles S. Parnell. John C. Murphy was made chairman, and A. H. Howells, Secretary.

Among those who spoke were J. C. Murphy, A. H. Howells and S. A. Hall.

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS.—The great Irish national and political leader, Charles Stewart Parnell, has been suddenly removed by the grim hand of death from the present scene of life and activity. at the forty-fifth year of his age, we, the people of Port Angeles, in conjunction with the Irish race of this vicinity, have assembled in public mass meeting, without destinction of tongue, race or creed, and passed the following resolutions, to-wit:

Resolved.—That we recognize in the person of Charles Stewart Parnell one of the greatest national leaders, not only among his own race, but of the world.

Resolved.—That his reorganization of the National party in the year 1879, and his masterly leadership of it until November, 1890, has made him famous and admired by the liberty-loving people of all nations.

Resolved.—That, in our opinion, his eminent services to his country during this period of reorganization, in his successful management of the National party in the British Parliament, so as to lead the great Liberal party of England to espouse the cause and demands of home rule for Ireland, convert the hitherto long established opposition of the British people into friendship and goodwill. as well as to win over to his laudable cause the sympathy of the civilized people of the world, will perpetuate the memory of his name for untold ages in the far and distant future.

Resolved.—That we, in conjunction with the Irish race, and all lovers of equality and liberty all over the known world, express our deepest sympathy and condolence with his aged mother in this hour of darkness and bereavement in the loss of her loving and brilliant son, and with all the members of his family that mourn his premature death; and commend her and all to the tender mercies of Him who holds the destiny of men as well as nations in his own hand.

Resolved. — That we earnestly implore the unity and co-operation of the whole of the Irish race at the humble grave of their once matchless leader, and push forward, notwithstanding any difficulties in the way; inspired by the justice of their cause. the consciousness that the right will inevitably prevail; and the sweet memory of the dead that have sacrificed themselves for the land of their birth, to accomplish the momentous work undertaken long, long ago, of liberating their beloved nation from the thraldom of poverty and oppression, to rank well among the nations of the earth, which task is already on the border of a triumphant victory in the near future.

Resolved.—That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the headquarters of the Irish League of the United States, and they be published in the public press of our own city. JNO. C. MURPHY, Chairman.

A. H. HOWELLS, Secretary.

A DEMOCRAT reporter asked some Irish Americans, among them John C. Murphy, the following questions.

What is your estimate of Parnell? What effect will his death have on Irish politics? Who will be the next leader? What will be the ultimate outcome of the Irish cause? Mr. Murphy said:

Chas. Stewart Parnell was a statesman pure and simple. He had the gifts that would have enabled him to have been a most successful politician, but he scorned to employ them. We can say of him what our Quaker poet said of Robert Rontoul, the last Democratic Senator from Massachusetts.

"No wild enthusiast of the right.
Self-poised and calm he showed alway
The coolness of the northern light;
The rich repose of autumn.

"His step was slow, but forward still
He pressed when others paused or failed
The calm star climb with constant will
"The restless meteor flashed and paled."

Spending most of his life "with common in common ways." without rank or future, he became the pride and won the regard of the civilized world. He leaves an imperishable name. The future historian of Ireland must place his name side by side with Grattan, Curran, Emmett and O'Connell.

No tidings ever brought a wider wave of sadness over the heart of the thinking world than the message: "Parnell is dead."

No bannsr ever floated for human freedom, no hand was ever stretched towards liberty, that was not grasped and championed and saved by Charles Stewart Parnell. He had his faults. Who has not? But "charity can find a place at his grave.

Wealth could not awe him. He knew no fear except the fear of doing wrong to his beloved Ireland. He raised his hand, not to strike, but in benediction, and lived to see, in a measure, pearls of tears on the cheeks of the people of Ireland.

With unfaltering fidelity and courage, his policy was Home Rule for Ireland. He wished to see his country have her own parliament. His name will be forever linked with Ireland, and yet, Ireland's cause will go on until triumphant.

That incomparable man and friend to Parnell, John Dillon, will most likely be the one upon whom the mantle of leadership will fall

And now as to the future outcome of Ireland's cause we can only hope for the best. What a grand country and yet what poverty! What industrial resources, and yet no industry! And, what industry can yeu expect in a country shorn of her nationality and self government? The soil of Attica is still visited by the same same sun which warmed the genius Pericles, and shone on the work of Phydias; but there his beams no longer illuminate a land of liberty whose "alchemic power" purifies and transmutes whatever it touches into gold. The cause is just—yea, ust—and grey with patience. Besides, there is a power fighting on the side, to which ultimate victory is never denied. As sure as God rules the world, so sure must right prevail in the end. Israel in Egypt was week in chariots and horsemen, but it is not recorded that their slavery was without end.

The Irish people united, and Home Rule is at hand. I see it in the vigor and determination of the people; I see it in the countenance and speeches of liberty-loving English statesmen. Wherever I look I can see it. God hasten the day when the sun of freedom will shed its benign radiance on the Emerald Isle!

THE DEMOCRAT.

John W. Troy, R. A. Grimes, - - - - - Publishers.

OCTOBER, 16, 1891.

HOLY SMOKE! WHAT A SCARE.

We were expecting it. He came, and he found us in. It wasn't our fault. He wouldn't have been so successful had we seen him before he got to the door. We didn't know what he wanted, but be had a gun, so we modestly got under the table.

We told him that it was a mistake, that it was the devil's fault; that we were just going out to find him to tell him all about it; that we would take it back in our next issue; that we would give him a free subscription and ad. as long as we were in the business; that we would support him for city councilman; that——we stopped to get breath—we needed it. He pulled out a copy of the———.

Oh, the relief of soul and mind!

It was an opposition editor he wanted.

We gave him the necessary directions to find the wanted man. We offered to go with him, but he thought our services would not do him any good.

We are going to get a sign. It will read this way: This is not the ——— office.

PERSONAL.

John D. Hickok, went to Clallam Bay Monday.

Robert Smith, of Clallam Bay. was in the city Tuesday.

George P. Moore, of Clallam Bay, was in the city Wednesday.

Mrs. Ida Govan, who has been visiting Mrs. W. B. Gould and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Evans, of Dungeness, left for her home at Neah Bay, on the Hermosa, Monday.

Col. R. M. Blair, of Clallam Bay, a veteren Kansas journalist, now doing the county for the Post-Intelligencer, called on THE DEMOCRAT Tuesday, and complemented our general appearance, which, coming from whom it did, is much appreciated.

THE SQUATTERS MEET.

They Discuss City Affairs—Large Public Meeting in Squatter's Hall.

Pursuant to the call of the Squatters for a public meeting Monday evening, to discuss city affairs, and especially to discuss the proposition to incorporate the reservation as a municipal corporation, Squatters' Hall was well filled at 7:30 p. m., Monday last, when John Hensen, Chief Squatter, called the meeting to order and stated its object.

Jas. A Power was elected chairman and John W. Troy secretary of the meeting.

The chairman read the call, which on motion was accepted and the matter opened for a discussion of the city affairs in general.

The speakers followed a "go as you please" style, the principal topic being the city council and the result of the suit on the annexation of the reservation.

They very generally criticised the council and condemned the "disenfranchisement of the squatters," as they termed it.

The speakers were Jno. Hansen, E. B. Mastick, Jr., Wm. Peterson, Geo. Wunderlich, T. M. Graybill, Mr. Gherke, formerly master of the Portland Knight's of Labor, R. A. Doom, Mr. Van Dolan, F. S. Lewis, Thos. Malony, Wm. Banks and L. Williams.

A motion was carried to have a committee of three appointed to draw a petition praying for the incorportion of the reserve and to get the necessary sixty signers thereto to present to the county commissioners.

There was a considerable opposition to this course, and many doubt that the step will be completed.

THREE MEN KILLED.

Steamer Evangel Explodes at New Whatcom.

CAPT. MORGAN ESCAPES.

The U. S. Mail Steamer Explodes Killing Three Men and Injuring Others The Parties Well-Known in Port Angeles.

Special to THE DEMOCRAT.

About ten o'clock last evening the United States mail steamer Evangel, just after tying up for the night at the Schome dock, New Whatcom, blew up. The boiler burst, killing Gus Carson and injuring Willie Briggs, Al. Briggs, the cook and David Ross, all employed on the steamer. Captain Morgan, the chief engineer, the United States mail clerk and the first mate had just stepped ashore when the explosion took place.

The boiler went out through the forward end of the boat, carrying away both decks, the pilot house and the masts landing clear out over the bow and into the bay clear of the vessel. Two of the wounded men have since died.

They were all brought to Port Townsend this morning on the steamer City of Seattle, and taken to the hospital.

The Evangel run on the Port Townsend, Neah Bay mail route from November, 1888 until August, 1890 and is well known by all Angeles people.

A SAD ACCIDENT.

Little Albert Land Severely Burned by an Exploding Oil Can.

Last Sunday little Albert Land, son of Stephen Land, of this city, met with an accident that might yet cost him his life.

He was building a bonfire in a vacant lot near his father's house. The fire didn't burn free enough to suit the lad, so he got a can of coal oil and proceeded to pour it on the fire, when the oil become ignited and the can exploded, setting the boys cloths on fire.

Joel Pugh heard the boy scream and started to his assistance. When Mr. Pugh got to the scene little Albert's clothes were all ablaze, and the boy was badly frightened, screaming at the top of his voice. With great presence of mind, Mr. Pugh took his coat and wrapped it around the burning lad, smothering the flames out.

The boy's chest and abdomen were badly burned. Dr. Lewis was called and has been in almost constant attendance ever since.

At one time the doctor and the boy's parents had almost ceased to hope for other than fatal consequences, but the patient changed for the better Thursday morning and now its thought he will recover.

Had it not been for the presence of mind evidenced by Joel Pugh, the boy would have inevitably inhaled the flames and death resulted.

PLEASANT WORDS FOR ANGELES

Mr. Corgan, of Chicago, Visiting Here—He is Pleased With Port Angeles.

George H. Corgan, a prominent business man of Chicago, is in Port Angeles visiting his daughter, Mrs. Elmer E. Fisher.

Mr Corgan was out on the Pacific coast in the forties. prior to the discovery of gold in California, being in the Mexican war under the gallant Col. Stevenson.

Mr. Corgan is greatly pleased with Port Angeles and its surroundings. He was forcibly struck with the resemblance of Port Angeles' bay with Chicago's harbor. He says Angeles' natural harbor can go Chicago one better, althought it has cost millions to make the Chicago break-water.

Mr. Corgan, in company with W. H. Greene, of California, and his son-in-law, Elmer Fisher, went out to the latter's ranch on Lake Southland Wednesday for a few days outing. He will remain with us for sometime.

THE COMMISSIONERS MEET.

They Fix the Rate of Taxation for Next Year—Reconsidering Again.

The County Commissioners met Tuesday in special session, with a full board present, and at once proceeded to business. Among other things they discussed and fixed the rate of taxation for the ensuing year.

They approved the report of S. Goodwin, as Overseer of Road District No. 6, and allowed bills contracted by him for $731.57. Mr. Goodwin was reappointed Overseer.

$300 were appropriated from the general road fund and credited to Distrint No. 9.

M. Geraghty was allowed $100 in addition to contract price for the vault built in the Auditor's office.

The rate of taxation on each dollar of the assessment valuation will be as follows:

For county purposes - - - -	3 Mills
For school purposes - - - - -	1 "
For road purposes - - - - -	2 "
For bridge purposes - - - -	2 "
For bond interest - - - - -	2 "

The board reconsidered its action in instructing the Auditor not to enter the special levies of school tax on the roll, and instructed him to do so.

LOCAL.

L. F. Person has bought W. F. Drannan's interest in the City hotel, and will hereafter conduct the business himself.

Elmer Fisher is having an elegant residence built on Nob Hill, near D. P. Quinn's residence. This is one of the prettiest sites in the city.

Lewis Levy is selling his entire stock of goods at below cost. This is a good chance to buy cheap. Read his advertisement on our editorial page.

Mr. Frank Baker has opened a saloon in the Levy building on Front street. St. Louis beer, all kinds of drinks and polite attention are assured patrons.

P. J. Williams, the jeweller, is the place to buy new watches and have old ones repaired. Satisfaction is the sure result to those who patronize him.

The Auditor is extending and making out the tax roll for this year. It will take eight books, of 150 pages each. Last year one book of 144 pages held the whole roll.

Dr. W. T. Strother, formerly of Port Crescent, has opened an office in the Colony building. Dr. Strother is thorough in his profession, and THE DEMOCRAT wishes him the success his skill merits.

The People has merged into a stock company with a capital of $10,000. J. A. Powers, editor and general manager. Trustees are J. M. Grant, F. S. Lewis, G. W. Vail, E. B. Mastick, Jr. and F. McGill.

On the tapis for Christmas week is a dramatic comedy to be given by the Clallam Tribe No. 4 "Pocahuntas" and a roaring farce. Miss Daisy Stewart, Lou. Smith and members of the tribe will be the performers.

Mr. J. E. Becker. of the Hurricane Hill mine, came into town Tuesday. Mr. Becker reports that the shaft is gradually being lowered. They have three men at work, and expect to keep at work until January 1st. They had eighteen inches of snow Wednesday of last week.

As we go to press Mr. Hibbard, General Manager of the Port Angeles Coal Co., informs us that they have struck something, from the manner in which it work is either fireclay, coal or lead, but lying, as it does, under a stratum of sandstone, is first-class indications of coal.

A serious accident came near happening to a team of James Guyer last Tuesday. One of the horses, as Mr. Guyer was backing his team for unloading, got his foot in a hole in Morse's wharf. As the team was moving slowly the watchful care of the driver prevented a serious mishap.

Two small girls, daughters of Anthony Blaeter, of Elwha, strolled away from home Monday and got lost. The neighborhood turned out about twenty strong and found them Tuesday. The children were much frightened and very hungry when found, otherwise no harm had befallen them.

Judge L. M. Lane received a dispatch last week announcing the death of his father-in-law, Capt. Thomas L. Howden, of Skidmore, Mo. Mr. Howden was a captain in the Federel army during the late unpleasantness, and one of the Missouri pioneers. Mrs. Lane is prostrated with grief.

A fight occurred on the street in front of the Mount Baker Saloon this afternoon. The men were separated by bystanders, and Mr. Stivers came up and took charge of them. Just about that time Stivers' dog got into a fight. Turning to Stephen Lane, Stivers said: "Watch that man," and turned to separate the dogs. Lane said: "Do you think more of the dog than a man?" The reply was: "Mind your own business." Result: one man got away. Possibility: one man might have been killed.

Mr. Gibbert, of San Francisco, the expert mechanic here at the instance of the First National bank, to open their safe, says the lockout occurred by an effort to change the combination. The tumbler was taken off, and not screwed back to the place. Mr. Gibbert says that the safe will probably have to be taken to San Francisco to be opened. The safe is of an improved patent which is very hard to drill through. It is tantalizing to roll it over and hear the money jingle and not be able to get at it.

Mr. C. E. Mallette, manager of the Port Angeles Southern railroad has returned from San Francisco, where he has been on business connected with the railroad. Mr. Mallette says that Angeles is known and being favorably talked about in California. That he expects lively times here in the spring. He also says that the survey is being rapidly pushed, and if the weather will permit the right of way will probably be cleared this winter; at all events the road will be built in time to secure the bonus without a struggle.

EVERYONE WILL BE THERE.

At the Masquerade Ball, October 16. This will be the event of the season. A cordial invitation is extended to the general public to be present and participate in the festivities, but the right will be reserved by the management to exclude all questionable charactors, and care will be exercised to see that such is done.

You are hereby notified that George G. Clark, the above named plaintiff, has filed a complaint against you in the Superior Court of the State of Washington, for the County of Clallam, holding terms at Port Angeles, which will come on to be heard sixty days after the first publication of this Summons, to-wit; Sixty days after the 16th day of October, A. D., 1891, and unless you appear and answer the same on or before the 15th day of December, 1891, the same will be taken as confessed and the prayer of said complaint granted.

The object and prayer of said complaint is that the plaintiff be divorced from the bonds of matrimony now existing between him and the defendant upon the grounds of cruel treatment by the defendant of the plaintiff, and personal in dignities rendering his life burdensome; and upon the further grounds of the abandonment of the plaintiff by the defendant without cause, and upon the further grounds of the adultry of the defendant occuring within one year and which is unforgiven on the part of the plaintiff and for further causes too numerous to mention but contained in said complaint filed in this cause.

Witness my hand and the Seal of said Superior Court, affixed this 15th day of October A. D. 1891.

ESCAPED WITH HIS LIFE.

Colonel L. A. Leonard Makes a Horrible Mistake.

"The funniest experience I ever had," said Col. L. A. Leonard, of Cincinnati, "was during a visit I recently made to New York in company with my sister. We went to the Grand Union hotel, and I requested the clerk to give us a couple of adjoining rooms.

I understood the clerk to say that we were assigned to rooms 99 and 101. We were conducted to the rooms and I was shown to 99. Shortly afterward my sister informed me that she could not succeed in getting any one to answer the bell and requested me to ring mine and order a pitcher of ice-water for her. I rang, and requested the boy who responded to take a pitcher of ice-water to room 101. Before going down stairs, a few minutes later, I asked my sister if she received the ice-water, and was informed that she had not. I rang again and told the second boy to take a pitcher of ice-water to room 101. I went below and soon returned, and was surprised to learn that no ice-water had been delivered to my sister's room.

By that time I was interested, and told my sister that I would see that she got some ice-water if I had to go after it myself. So I rang once more and told the bellboy that a pitcher of ice-water must be taken to room 101 right away, and he said that he would surely attend to it.

After waiting some time I made inquiry of my sister again and she said that no ice-water had come, and begged me not to bother myself about it, as it seemed to be a hopeless task. But I replied that water was cheap and she should have some sure. I went to the person in charge of our corridor and preferred a request that a pitcher of ice-water be sent to room 101. I received a promise that it should be attended to instanta. But it wasn't.

My next attempt was to prevail upon the elevator-boy to take a pitcher of ice-water to room 101. He declared that he would do so on the next trip.

He failed. In despair I went to the office of the hotel and asked the clerk if it were possible to have a pitcher of ice-water sent to room 101.

'Certainly,' was the answer, 'that can be done without any trouble.'

I have been trying to have it done ever since I came here, and I haven't made the riffle yet, I said, and if it is a possible thing I would like to have it done.

Later I stepped into the elevator, and the boy there asked me if I were going up to the 101 floor.

Yes, I responded. Why?

'A hundred and one will throw you out of the window if he catches you,' said the boy.

What are you talking about? I asked.

'Why, there is a bride and groom in 101 and you have been firing ice-water in their room all evening, and the man is wild. He swears that he will murder you.'

Upon investigation I found that my sister's room was not 101 at all, but was 97. My room was 99, and as my sister's room was next to it I thought it was 101. There I had sent about ten pitchers of ice-water to 101, and didn't know it.

I had left a call in the office for 99 and 101 for 4 o'clock the next morning when I was going down stairs last, and never thought to have it changed. So at o'clock the bride and groom were awakened by a thundering knock at the door, which made them furious, and they were firmly persuaded that the early call was a part of the ice-water fiend's scheme to annoy them.

I escaped with my life and was glad of it."
