THE COUNTY ROAD.

"The Democrat" Goes Over the Middle Division.

INTERVIEWS RANCHERS.

Most of Them Think It All Right, But Are Mistrustful—Complaints Not All True—How the Specifications Read and Should Be Followed.

In order to investigate the cause for complaints over the construction of the county road THE DEMOCRACT sent a reporter over the middle division last Monday to gather the facts by observation and from such ranchers as the reporter could find on his way. The reporter of THE DEMOCRAT to whom fell this lot was more familiar with holding a pen and a seat in a chair than with holding the reigns and a seat on a prancing steed which, being used to trails, when it found itself on a good road, acted as if it were out on an exhibition ride.

We (the guide and reporter) left Port Angeles at 11 o'clock a. m. We wended our way over the Dry creek road, admiring the beauty of nature, enjoying the bracing air, and falling deeper and deeper in love with the United States government as we passed the homes of settlers, many of whom we knew to be industrious, deserving men and good citizens, some of them made so by the liberality of the government, which gave them the opportunity to acquire homes without money.

Just as we approached the Dry creek bridge we discovered an omnious looking paper, partly covered by bold, threatening letters. On closer examination we found these spelled out a warning that the bridge had been condemned by action of the city council, that who crossed did so at their own risk. What we wondered, was, what good it did to condemn a bridge and have it standing the only means of crossing the stream. For, of course, nine out of ten of the average citizens of this Northwestern country would cross, if he happened to be going that way and in a hurry, if he knew the bridge would fall. We did not get far out on the bridge before we could understand why it had been condemned, the floor was partly made of round logs, which rolled as the horse stepped upon them, and some were flattened on one side and decayed, and the other part was made of wide cracks through which great chunks of scintillating sunlight fell through into the water and drowned. We crossed and recrossed and have not yet found why any danger should be noticed, and action taken on it by authorities, and still left laying in the path, perhaps to kill some good rancher and his family.

Just before we reached the eastern beginning of the middle division of the county road we came to a cheerful little clearing, where the sun sh own on a small orchard of prunes and apricotes, and Mr. F. H. McDavitt sat in the door of the house near by, smoking contentedly his pipe and watching his profits grow. After a cordial greeting the scribe asked him if he had been over the new road and how he liked it? "Yes sir," he answered, "I was over the road yesterday afternoon. I am satisfied with it. The grade just across the Elwah and the cribbing is as good as I ever saw."

Mr. McGourty, a rancher living on the line of the road, was next seen. He said: "I think the road could have been better."

Mr. W. E. Grant, said he was satisfied. Mr. Grant has a ranch half a mile south of the Elwha.

Mr. M. F. Hays, another rancher, thought the road as good as could be expected and expressed himself satisfied.

We traveled over the road from the Elwah where the bridge is to be built to about six miles west over the part finished, and so much further (about three-quarters of a mile) over the right-of-way as was open sufficient for a horse to go through. The road is unquestionably ahead of any similar enterprise in the county. It is almost impossible to realize when riding over it, that a few days before it was covered with heavy timber and underbrush. That trees, some of them five and seven feet in diamiter, were standing in the middle of what is now the road, but on each side lay evidences of what had been, great roots turned up heavenward that must have reached a good ways towards the other country. It looked as if a Kansas cycione had followed the surveyors line. The road is a great benefit to the county.

Many complaints have come to this office about its crookedness, that trees have been dodged, that roots are left standing, that the specifications have not been complied with in any respect. These criticisms are not all correct of the middle division. In some places the bed might have been wider without serious damage to the road. The specifications read "right-of-way shall be thirty feet in width, nine feet on each side of center line of right-of-way shall be cleared and grubbed free of all stumps and other perishable material. Balance of right-of-way (twelve feet) shall be cleared of all trees, logs or brush, by either burn- or removing. No stump shall be left standing on the right-of-way higher than their diameter." If there is any part of the contract so far done not executed according to specifications it is in the failure to clear the proper width.

The reporter does not like to say positively this has not been done until the Eastern division has been gone over and measured. The ranchers generally, think that the county commissioners have not given the subject proper attention, that they have not been over the work in a body, which they should have done, and the greatest grounds for fear is that they may not properly investigate before they accept the road.

BRADSHAW IS MAD.

W. C. Garfield in Angeles—Bradshaw Will Fight—Great Prospects for Angeles.

W. C. Garfield, the Sequim merchant, was in Port Angeles Saturday. This was Mr. Garfield's first visit in four years and to say that he was astonished at the citified appearance of this place expresses his surprise but mildly, He said to a DEMOCRAT reporter that we had a splendid town. That it far surpassed his greatest expectations. He said that Port Angeles was sure to make a great city.

Mr. Garfield was auditor of Clallam county from 1885 until 1887, since which time he has resided in Port Townsend until recently, when he bought the Buckner store at Sequim.

Mr. Garfield was in the customs service during the early part of the Bradshaw administration. In speaking of the recent removal of Collector Bradshaw from the custom house, he said that Bradshaw would fight his enemies in the party as long as his life lasted or until he was again on top. He said, also, that Mr. Bradshaw was a much harder fighter from underneath than from the top, and would, if chance favored him, make it warm for his successful rivals.

M'KINLEY'S LEAD MEDALS.

No Use Trying to Explain That They Were Made of Tin.

Some of the ultra bourbon papers in this state, despite the exposure of the frauds, are still recording as a fact that there is a large tin-plate factory at Piqua, Ohio, and that it is putting out great quantities of tin-plate. The following is from a letter by Hon. W. L. Wilson, of West Virginia, who lately made a lecturing tour of the Northwest, which was published in the St. Louis Republic, and has to do with the subject. We quote:

"The thorough exposure of the fraudulent character of Mr. McKinley's campaign badges, 'made of Ohio steel and California tin, Piqua, 1891,' has greatly discomposed our Republican friends in Ohio, and they are trying to explain that the badges are a peculiar variety of 'terne tin-plate.' Governor Campbell has shown convincingly that this is nonsense. Terne-plate is one thing and tin-plate quite another. If the apologists for Mr. McKinley's fraudulent badges will turn to the McKinley bill they will see that he has taxed them as entirely different articles. Tin-plate may be made of 'Ohio steel and California tin,' which these medals profess to be made of, but terne-plate is made of sheet-iron dipped in a lead alloy in which 'the lead largely predominates,' as our chemical analysis shows it does in these medals.

Mr. McKinley as accepted them as samples of Republican tinplate fit for all the uses of tinplate, and his supporters have been wearing them and exhibiting them with that guarantee. Yet if cooking utensils were made of such stuff whole families would be poisoned. With a single exception all the salts of lead are deadly poisons, and it is well-known that lead enters into combination to produce its poisonous salts very freely. If fruit were stewed for a family in a vessel made of such leaded iron as the McKinley medals are made of, poisonous lead salts would be freely pro luced. So of meat and other foods put up in cans of such material.

If, instead of the legend, "McKinley and Protection; Made of Ohio Steel and California Tin, Piqua, 1891," these medals bore the inscription: "Made of Sheet Iron, Dipped in Lead and Must Only be Used for Roofing, as the Lead Will otherwise Produce Poisons," there would have been no fraud. As it is the fraud is manifest. The fact that Mr. McKinley was so easily imposed upon here suggests the fact of the ease with which he was imposed on and made responsible for the manifold frauds of his bill—frauds so numerous and so intricate that he is perhaps even yet unaware of the existence of many of them.

But he knows now that his campaign medals are fraudulent—that they bear a lie on their face. Honesty demands that he should pull off his own medal and should demand the recall of the thousands which have been circulated in his name."

NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

Facts About the Kindergarten System of Teaching.

THE MASQUERADE BALL.

An Angeles Man's Success—A Victoria Capitalist in Town—Other Notes of Interest Seen and Heard About Town.

Six weeks ago or there about, a stranger of the gentler sex came into our city, and her striking individuality and energetic appearance excited the curiosity of all the citizens on the alert for the new and unexpected. In a day or two one of our popular and enterprising business men was around to all the boys, soliciting contributions for a free kindergarten. Then it followed that this interesting stranger was the organizer and to be the teacher. The school has now become a reality. Mrs. M. A. Stockton, in a modest unassuming way, has worked with energy, and succeeded in building up a flourishing school with thirty or more little tots as pupils.

Kindergarten is a comparatively new mode of teaching and but very few understand the uses and advantages of such a school, and were such institutions understood thoroughly they would be much more liberally supported by parents.

The teacher to be qualified must study the ways and doings of infants from their birth, and to discover what kind of mental food and what kind of bodily activity nature prompted them at each stage of their existence to prefer. The early materials for instructions are presented to the child only when its nature and stage of development call for them. The child is not taught, but led by a set of ordered experiences to the perception of the principles of number and of space, and its senses and powers of hand and eye are cultivated by an elaborate series of exercises. The process, like the process of nature, is slow, tranquil and organic, but no part of it requires to be undone. The child sees, imitates, reproduces and invents new forms. The kindergarten system is bound to prove in time a potent influence in all important affairs of the world.

THE BALL.

The Masquerade Given at the Opera House a Great Success.

The Masquerade ball given by the Gate City band at the Opera House last Friday was socially and financially a success.

Only those wearing masks were permitted on the dance floor until 12 o'clock, when the masks were removed. Then the anxious spectators who had crowded the gallery made a rush for down stairs to the dance to find how badly mistaken they had been in guessing identities. An elegant supper was spread at the City hotel to which the party repaired, and ate as heartily as they had danced.

After supper in every face could be read the sentiment, "On with the dance, let joy be unconfined" and until the wee small hours of morning they practiced it. Our society reporter was prevented from getting the names of the participants, he was late and had to take a back seat in the gallery, where an occasional glympse of the merry dancers as they whirled past the stage, was all that could be had. Looking down on such a variety of gay figures from the gallery was like peeping through the small end kaledescope.

AN ANGELES MAN'S SUCCESS.

Dr. Poyneer, of this Place, Locates Some Splendid Mines in Idaho--Rich Assayes

Dr. D. H. Poyneer returned Monday evening from Eastern Washington, where he has been looking after his mining interests.

The doctor is interested with a large company in some rich quartz mines located in the now famous Elk City district, near the headwaters of the Clear Water river in Idaho. Elk City is about 120 miles from Lewiston. So far, the assayes had on the product of these mines have been favorable, indeed, running from about $20 to $6,037.14 per ton. The last and richest finds have not been assayed.

Dr. Poyneer has been at work getting capitalists interested and has at last succeeded. The new company will represent about $1,000,000 capital, and will probably put in their own reduction mills. At present they are compelled to send their ore to Spokane. But this great expense will soon be done away with by the completion of the smelter being constructed at Lewiston, Idaho.

Dr. Poyneer is justly very much pleased over his final success in this enterprise. He, at his own expense, has been having this country prospected and developed. That he has at last succeeded in getting capital interested is a matter over which he deserves congratulation.

Dr. Poyneer is well and favorably known in this place, having located here last January. He will continue to make his home in Angeles, but will probably be away a good deal looking out for his interest in the mines. The doctor's friends congratulate him over his success.

A VICTORIA CAPITALIST HERE.

Henry Croft Talkes About Port Angeles and her Prospects—The Feeling Good.

Henry Croft, of Victoria, was in Port Angeles several days during the present week.

He was interviewed by a DEMOCRAT reporter while here, and expressed himself as much and very agreeably surprised at the appearance and growth of Port Angeles during the last year. It has been thirteen months since his last visit to this place, and he said that, although he was expecting a change, he was not prepared to see such a marked improvement in Port Angeles.

Mr. Croft is a large property owner in Victoria and has about $50,000 invested in this place, owning, besides other desirable property here, Croft's addition and all of block 19 in the original townsite.

He is confident that the completion of the railroad will make Angeles one of the very best places in the Northwest. In this connection it may also be mentioned that Mr. Croft is intimately connected in business affairs with the managers of the Port Angeles Southern railroad, and, in speaking of the building of the road said that the road would be built; that the last reason for doubt had been removed, and that the road was a thing that could be depended upon.

In speaking of the feeling in Victoria for Angeles Mr. Croft said that the Victorians had always had a splendid opinion of Port Angeles.

Mr. Croft is much pleased with and encouraged by his visit.

WHEN A MAN BREAKS DOWN.

Th' swan, he sings hez only song jest ez he's going tew die,
Th' stream et ripples clearest p'raps when nearest t'tis tew dry;
Th' woods air never so galy decked ez when they're turnin' brown,
But a man es better buried once hez heart breaks down!

Ef he's stood the world-storm stoutchly—ef he's never shirked a blow;
Ef he's helped his friends et all times en' stopped to aid a foe;
Ef he's tried to wear right colors en striven fur th' crown;
He'll but find those facts agin him once he breaks right down!

Man 's ez cruel as a tiger, he's ez heartless ez a log;
His "love" 's not wuth th' affeeshun uv the yallerest sort o' dog.
He's a handshake fur th' prosprous—a cold en' cruel frown
Fur th' friend who helped tew "build" him, but who's "all broke down."

Keep yew're head above th' water en float easy with th' tide,
En' a thousan' "friends?" like brothers, will swim close agin yew're side:
But get wearied for a moment en they'll calmly see yew drown—
Yew shud not go in a swimmin' of yew're strength breaks down!

But th' hoary-headed reaper goes hez way en swings hez scythe,
En' th' man thet's dead ez better than th' sneak thet ez alive;
En' the rankest kind ev ingrate—"th' meanest cuss en town"—
Aren't so far from th' grim fingers thet'll break them down.

Then et seems tew me we'd better stop a moment in the race,
When, all pinched on the hard-life road, we pass some familiar face:
For, remember, en the struggle fur the dollar ur renown,
Thar's a heap o' better fellars then ourselves "break down."

En' et's small en' mean en' pitiful tew travel with a "pard"
En' leave him helpless, broken up, tew die alone en' hard.
Say! thar's only one end for us all—the same low grassy moun'—
En' beneath th' sod, proud stepper, every man's "broke down!"

GEO. H. CANDLER.

Missing Links.

If the world, as it is said, owes everybody a living, the world ought to get a mortgage on itself to pay its debts.

A young man who has just been "accepted" exultingly remarked that he is now a member of the weekly press.

It is well enough to tell a man when he is in trouble to look on the bright side. The rub is to find the bright side to look on.

A lover at Alton, Ill., squeezed his girl so hard that he broke her rib. That young fellow evidently belonged to a coarse-set.

The earth is said to have two motions, but to a drunken man coming home at eleven o'clock at night it doubtless has more than two hundred.

Melbourne, who is running a rainery, gets $500 per shower, and, as he brought down three in one day last week, the fall trade may be said to be quite brisk.

King Charles, of Roumania, threatens to go out of the monarch business. It is too hard work for him. He wants something easy—something like blacksmithing, for instance.

A little boy, the son of good Presbyterian parents, was asked the question in catechism, "What is the chief end of man?" and he answered; "Man's chief end is to glorify God and annoy him forever."

The homeopathic school of medicine may claim the new cure for drunkeness as another proof of Hahnemann's theory that like cures like. It is an elixir of gold and it is gold itself that produces drunkeness.

COUNTY TAXATION.

Last week THE DEMOCRAT, exclusively, published the rate of county taxation as decided upon by the Board of County Commissioners, at their recent session. It will be seen that they have decided to materially reduce the rate of the levy for the funds for county and for school purposes. The object for this is not apparent, and we believe the commissioners have made a mistake, which they should rectify. While low taxation is a thing always to be desired, the accomplishment of which is a result worthy of the commissioners' best efforts, we do not believe the condition of the county's finances warrant such a reduction as the board has decided upon. The reduction means that there will be collected this year something like $200 less for county purposes than was collected last year, and there was a deficiency last year of something like $15,000, the county's debt having been increased by about that amount during the year. This deficiency has embarrassed the commissioners during the whole year. Twice they stopped issuing county warrants on account of the indebtedness being in excess of the amount they are permitted to incur, Nor is there any immediate prospect of the expenses being cut down.

Deputy Auditor Hoole, pursuant to the requirments of the code, prepared an estimate of the county's expenses for the ensuing year. Here it is:

|---|---|
| Salaries (after deducting fees collected, based on the expenses of the last six months) | $ 12,000 |
| Maintainence of county poor | 1,000 |
| Court expenses | 5,000 |
| Micellaneous | 3,000 |
| Interest (estimated) | 1,500 |
| Total | $ 22,500 |

A 3-mill rate on our assessed valuation, about $3750,000.amonnts to about $11,250, not quite enough to pay the salaries of the county officers. Then there is our present outstanding indebtedness of $35,-636.24. It is clearly evident that none of this can be redeemed on a 3-mill rate of taxation. If the commissioners persist in this action the inevitable results will be to materially damage the county's credit, to embarrass the board, and to increase the debt.

There is but one legitimate way to reduce taxation, reduce expenses first. This county could stand a great deal of the latter kind of reduction before the former should be reduced.

As to the reduction of rate of school taxes to one mill on the dollar, their action is of questionable legality. The school law, approved March 7th, last, fixes the minimum school rate at 4 mills, and the maximum rate at 10 mills on the dollar. The general revenue law, approved two day's latter, makes the maximum rate 6 mills. and made no mimimum rate. The commissioners evidently believed that the general revenue law, having been approved after the school law, repealed the latter. THE DEMOCRAT thinks otherwise. It has always been held that a special act took precedence to a general law, And then the revenue law does not make a minimum rate, which would leave it at 4 mills. We believe Judge Smith holds this opinion. But then, even were it legal, we are opposed to this radical reduction of school funds. This rate will raise less than half of the funds raised last year. On the education of the youth of today America's future depends. We cannot afford to retard in any way the splendid advancement of Clallam's schools, that have done so well in the past.

It is not too late yet for the commissioners to correct this, and they should do it.

THE fact that all the new reform parties, including the People's and Prohibition, have taken up the fight for tariff reform is one of the strongest evidences of the popularity of this great Democratic issue. Cleveland has set the pace as a reformer.

THE SQUATTERS.

The squatters have voted not to incorporate the reservation as a city. This is as was fully expected, and as would have been predicted by THE DEMOCRAT last week had space not forbiden.

THE DEMOCRAT has believed the squatters, as a body, to be composed of sober, sensible, industrious and fair minded men. Its opinion is not changed. They have acted as such. It was, of course, annoying to these citizens, who are not unused to taking part in local as well as in state and national government, to suddenly find themselve in a position where they could have no voice in the coming city election, the result of which so materially effects them and their interests. But they have not lost their reason.

Inasmuch as the court had, in effect, decided, in ruling on a motion in the "City Case," that the annexation was illegal, the sooner the point was made one of issue and got out of the way, the better it was for all concerned. An error should be rectified as soon as detected. The only justifiable criticism for this action of the city council was its tardiness, but it was better then than later.

We believe the squatters take this view of the matter.

TODAY the now celebrated suit against the city of Port Angeles will be tried in the superior court. It is much desired that the result will sustain the corporation. This suit is a misfit, brought and maintained at a heavy expense to both sides, without any apparent chance for gain to anybody, no matter what the result, and with every chance for loss. It has already done the city's credit injury and if persisted in, cannot fail to continue doing so. For the good of the fair name of our beautiful young city, brethern, lets discontinue this unprofitable wrangling and dwell together in unity.

EX-GOVERNOR and would-be senator Foraker, of Ohio, says that everybody admits that the tariff is a tax. This is too sweeping Mr. Foraker. We admit that every thinking man knows it and that all fair men admit it, but there are a few bourbon protectionsits, including a Port Angeles paper, who even deigns to ridicule that idea. But they do not mislead anyone who studies the tariff question with a desire to know the facts and understand the truth. Protection, as an issue, is waning.

---

THE DEMOCRAT has commenced an investigation of the complaints in regard to the county road. Monday one of the editors of this paper made a partial examination of the middle division. One thing seems evident, if the road is up to the specificatiens and contract, the latter could have been improved, as a great many practical farmers and men who have to use the road are dissatisfied, and think they are not getting just what they are paying for.

---

THE TRIBUNE accuses papa Smith, of the Times, of demanding the resignation of our postmaster. Experience by observation teaches us that Uncle Sam always gives an employee a chance to resign before he turns the bogardus kicking machine lose on him. Brother Ulmer has been an office holder and he should understand what some people fail to see.

---

J. SLOAT FASSET is broader minded than some of the bourbon followers of his party. In a recent speech he said "the God of the harvest has poured out a full horn of plenty over this great land." A local paper would have it that the "God of the harvests," had nothing to do with our great crops. It gives credit all to the McKinley bill.

LAUGHTON THE BRAVE.

[As two men were walking in the direction of the Hotel Spokane a flag which had formed part of the decorations in honor of the Coeur d'Alene excursion was found lying in the dust and dirt of the street, blown down from its original position by the high wind. One of the men stepped into the street and picking it up, waved the starry banner until its folds were cleansed of the unwonted dirt which defaced it, and rolling it up tenderly carried it into the hotel and deposited it safely in the office, The actor in this significant little episode was Lieutenant-Governor Laughton.—Spokane Review.]

The sun was peeping o'er hill and dale,
Chasing the shades of the night so pale,
When forth on the highways of fair Spokane
There strode a remarkably awful man.
He stroked his chin with a modest grace,
Patted the fuzz on his hard, red face,
Patted the vest on his fat, round paunch
And gazed at the sun with defiance staunch.

Anon his eye swept the circling graund,
And a vision of horror his optics found.
There in the dust of the morning gray,
The flag of his country all crumbled lay.
A message of welcome to Coeur d'Alene
The banner had waved at the joyous train;
But the traitorious wind, with a rebel yell,
Had torn the emblem he loved so well
Down from its perch on a fragile pole,
And the spectacle fired his loyal soul.
"Blow if you must on this pie-bald head,
But spare your country's flag," he said.

His muscles twitched in the morning light
As the great man viewed this curdling sight,
Only a moment; his mouth grew grim;
Little recked he for his life or limb,
As down on the foe, with consuming wrath
The patriot charged on his gory path;
Charged with the vim of his war career
When he brandished the quill of a sutler's cashier.

Brief was the strief. In the morning gray
Dirt clouds flew like Snoqualmie spray
As, hip and thigh, with a deadly thrust,
He smote the ranks of the rebel dust.
It blunted the point of his hemlock lance;
It sullied the sheen of his doeskin pants;
Its scarred his boiled linen with many a bruise,
And wounded the shine on his low water shoes.
But the field was won. The glad sun rose
On a sad assortment of vanquished foes.
Out of the dirt of the combat bold,
Hero and banner, in triumphed, rolled.
Hero and banner- both flecked in the fray;
But Laughton had saved the flag that day.

Stars may fall from their orbits high:
Rivers and streams in their courses dry;
Mountains may shrink, and the grand old Sound
May run down a hole in the cold, cold ground:
But never shall fade from the tales of man
The valor of Laughton at fair Spokane.

All that is needed to dispose of Mr. McKinley for good and all, is half a dozen more joint debates like the one in which Campbell "wiped the earth" with him at Ada.—St. Louis Republic.

A war against England by any great continental power," says the Post, "could not fail to be disastrous to American trade and commerce." What of it? Would we not have the home market? That is what our fiscal policy is founded on.—Seattle Telegraph.

Having at last shaken off that very queer specimen, the Marquis de Leuville, and married one of the just as queer Wilde family, there is hope that Mrs. Frank Leslie will quit advertising herself so extensively. She has become a trifle tedious, and she is old enough to retire from public gaze.—Seattle Telegraph.

This country did not treat the Chilean revolutionists well, owing to the stupidity of our state department, but that should not be a valid excuse for its outrages on Americans. Chile is evidently bumtious, and may need a severe thrashing before she reaches a a proper appreciation of herself.—Seattle Telegraph.

Gov. Campbell is proving himself to be one of the best stump speakers in the whole country. In quickness of repartee, wit and humor, in capacity for seizing upon the salient points of the issue under discussion and to put himself in touch with his hearers he is superior to McKinley. In meeting Mr. Horr's claim that the increase of duty on certain farming implliments had made them cheaper, Gov Campbell asked the farmers: "Well, now, how high would the tariff have to be for you to get your tools free?" To the half-veiled claim of McKinley that "the foreigner pays the duty" the retort is equally pertinent: "Why not abolish the internal revenue and make the foreigner pay all the expenses of the government? Why stop at a billion dollars in appropriations if the foreigner pays?" The argument and the facts are with the Democrats, and Gov. Campbell is making the most of them.—New York World.

IN CUPID'S NET.

The Palmer-Brown Nuptials Quietly Celebrated—Some Elegant Presents.

Mr. Walter G. Palmer, of McMinville, Oregon, and Miss Lizzie Brown, of this city, were married at the residence of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Myers, on First street, Friday evening, October 16th. There were no cards, and only the relatives of the bride and a few intimate friends were present, who had assembled in the neatly and tastily decorated parlor at 8 o'clock pursuant to invitation. The beautiful evergreens and sweet flowers made the room look a thing of beauty. At 8:15 o'clock the bride and groom entered the room. The bride was dressed in orange silk and made a beautiful appearance. The groom wore the conventional black. Rev. C. E. Chase, of the Congregational church, officiated and the ceremony was a most beautiful and impressive one. The ceremony being over congratulations were extended, after which a delicate repast was served and the evening spent in social conversation.

Among the many beautiful presents may be mentioned, a beautiful gold watch and chain, a present from the groom; a silver caster, by Mr. and Mrs. Myers; silver fruit dish, by Mr. and Mrs. Brown; silver pitcher, by John Brown, Jr.; a pair napkins, by Mrs. Knoph.

There were present, besides the bride and groom and officiating clergyman, Mrs. John Brown, of Sequim, the bride's mother, Mr. and Mrs. George Myers, Miss Maggie Brown, Mrs. Thos. Knoph, of Dungeness, Miss Maggie Dowd, Messrs. John Brown, Jr., and John W. Troy.

The groom is a young man of splendid ability and fine education. His residence is at McMinville, Oregon, where he has large landed estate. He is one of Oregon's energetic, enterprising and well-to-do young men, whose future prospects seem bright indeed.

The bride is one of Clallam's noblest, most beautiful, accomplished and deservedly popular daughters. She has hosts of friends with whom THE DEMOCRAT joins in wishing for the couple many years of unalloyed happiness and prosperity in their splendid Oregon home.

Mr. and Mrs. Palmer left on the Geo. E. Starr Saturday morning for their bridal trip. They will visit Seattle, Tacoma and Portland, from which place they go to their home in McMinville.

Burgess G. Wilcox and Miss Oliva McLaughlin were married at the residence of the bride's parent's Wednesday evening, at 5 o'clock by Rev. C. E. Chase. The parties are both well and favorably known in this city and neighborhood. THE DEMOCRAT joins in the congratulations. Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox left Thursday morning for a wedding tour for about two weeks.

***

Mr. John W. DuBois and Miss Myrtle L. Battles, of Gettysburg, were married at the European hotel in this city, by Judge Louis Williams, Tuesday, October 20th, at 2:30 p. m. Miss Hattie Hastings, of this city, acted as maid-of-honor and David M. Purdy, of Gettysburg, as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. DuBois left Wednesday for Gettysburg where Mr. DuBois has a fine ranch.

A GOLD MINE.

Mr. Sauder Locates a Placer Gold mine Near Angeles—Fine Specimens.

Jerome M. Sauder, formerly of Seattle, has located near Port Angeles a placer gold mine.

This is the first and only mine of this kind, as far as we know, ever located in this county. Placer gold has been found and worked for a short time on Morse's creek and one or two other places in the county, but were not thought of enough importance to locate under the mining laws, and develop.

Mr. Sauder left at the DEMOCRAT office some fine specimens of wash gold, such as is found in placer diggings. He told a DEMOCRAT reporter that he intended to work the mine. If this turns out as Mr. Sauder expects it to it will mean much for Port Angeles.

A NEW DRUG STORE.

The Hall Drug Company to Open Their Magnificient Store Monday!

The Hall Drug Company is the name of a new drug house to be opened in Port Angeles next Monday. The new firm occupy commodious apartments in the Foss building, and offer to the public a new, fresh line of drugs, comprising a full assortment of the regular stock most common in the trade; the best class of patent medicines, and a large line of propriety compounds that are considered standard by the medical profession, and such as are recommended and prescribed by the best informed physicians.

The latest fads in stationery and toilet articles adorn his shelves and impart a very elegant appearance to the interior of the store, being arranged in a manner so tasteful, they at once proclaim S. A. Hall the manager, a man of cultivated and refined taste.

His stock of drugs is so well selected that anyone upon an examination would feel great confidence in his ability to conduct the prescription department, which he will give his personal and constant attention to.

A Card of Thanks.

The Kindergarten, owing to the near approach of wet weather, will shortly remove to Mr. Eacrett's vacant house on Front street, the present location proving unsuitable on account of the lack of proper yard conviencies. The committee in charge hereby tender their thanks to the Citizen's Association for past curtesies.

THE ARIZONA KICKER.

Everything Still Booming in the Great West.

FOUND DEAD. — Last Sunday morning some boys, playing in the neighborhood of our private graveyard, found the dead body of Big Jim, the half-breed, who has been a local character for years. The coroner's inquest developed the fact that whiskey downed him, and the boys chipped in enough to buy him a coffin.

Big Jim was the first man in this town to draw a gun on us, and he shot both hind buttons off our coat while we were on the run. He was also the first man to clean out our editorial office after we got started. On that occasion he threw us through a window and the stove after us, and we ran four miles before we made a halt. We can't say that we regret his death, but indulge in the hope that he will keep warm during the coming winter.

POOR OLD FLY!—The other day we received forty-eight large sheets of red cardboard from Chicago on which to print signs of "for sale" and "to rent" A red cardboard sign had never been seen in this town, and the enterprise of the Kicker in sparing no expense to introduce them was generally and favorably commented on. This, as a matter of course, rankled in the bosom of our contemporary down the street, and when one of those signs was nailed opposite his office he was goaded to desperation. He went up and waited for us at Cowboy alley, and when we came along he pulled his gun and began blazing away.

Poor old, cross-eyed, knock-kneed alleged editor! He shot and shot, and not a bullet came within a rod of us, and when he got through we picked him up and dropped him into an empty barrel and went our way. We have given him at least fifteen first-rate chances to kill us, but his shooting is on a par with his editing. We rather like to see him break out once in a while. It is proof that had he been rightly trained in the school of journalism he might have been something of a hustler, We shan't hurt him, and if it is any consolation for him to come gunning after us he's welcome to it.

A SUCCESS.—For some time past our enterprising fellow-townsman, One-Eyed Jack Johnson, has been preparing to open a beer garden in this town. There are 128 places where beer is guzzled, but nothing like a garden. Saturday night he had his opening and we most cheerfully announced it a grand success.

There was one shooting scrape at the door and three more inside. And some one who had the curiosity to count 'em said there was twenty-seven fights in two hours.

It was evident from the start that this garden was to fill a long-felt want. One-Eyed Jack was unbanely knocked over with a beer-keg and his popular assistant, Mose the Biter, was benignly accommodated with a broken head almost at the same moment. About a peck of ears, eyes and fingers were gathered up next morning, and owners are asked to call and take away their property.

SHE STILL FLOATS.—Last week we had an editorial advising Uncle Sam to take possession of Mexico and make it a portion of this great and glorious country. We were somewhat hilarious when we wrote it, and perhaps we bragged up the Star Spangled Banner ten or twelve feet higher than she is usually boosted. However, The Kicker never takes anything back which happens to be connected with Bunker Hill, Valley Forge and the immortal George.

It seems that the article gave offense to Senor Emanuel Garcia, the greaser who runs the gambling shop over the postoffice, and Monday forenoon he visited the office to pull our nose and express his dissatisfaction. He found us off our guard and rather had the advantage for the first twenty seconds, but when we got to work he didn't last long. The doctor says he will pull through if inflamation or erysipelas doesn't set in, and we are glad of it. He was imbued with patriotic motive, and hang a man who won't fight for his country. That's what we were imbued with when we wrote the article, and at this stage of the game the old flag still proudly floats in the breeze of liberty. We don't know whether Uncle Sam will take our advice or not, but we want to drop a hint right here that in case of a war with a foreign power this town will expect to do more whooping and to shed more gore than any other ten of equal size in the West.

ABOUT ADVERTISING.—We firmly believe that advertising pays. Here in this town it would be a dead loss to advertise in our contemporary, because he would have to use shingle nails in place of type to set it up and because no one but his uncle, and his wife and himself reads his alleged newspaper, and they are too poor to buy anything. But advertising in The Kicker is bound to pay. We do our best to make it pay. When a tenderfoot comes here from the East we steer him into such establishments as advertise with us, and a great many of them have left their boodle here through our efforts. We accept all sorts of advertising, from the Louisiana Lottery to the latest Gospel Hymn book, and we never deviate from our schedule rates.

There are several establishments in town not represented in our advertising columns. We want them to come in. We don't say we shall look up their respective records and communicate with sheriffs here and there if they don't, but we feel that advertising will pay them a profit, and that they won't feel half as nervous when the stage comes in with a stranger who looks as if he was in the detective business.—M. ## IN THE COURTS.

Proceedings of the Superior Court During the Week—New Cases—Probate Notes.

The week just passed has been a good—or bad—one for divorces in the superior court, one divorce having been granted and three cases commenced.

On Thursday the 15th, the case of John Dickinson vs. Emma Dickinson was tried. It occupied the court all day. John C. Murphy and Benton Embree represented the plaintiff and Robertson & Jenning the defendant. This case was commenced last January by the plaintiff, who simply sued for a divorce, alleging abandonment. The defendant came into court about a month later and filed a cross suit, alleging that the husband did the deserting act and was guilty of ill-treatment besides, and asked for a divorce and $3,500 as a half interest in community property, alleged to have been accumulated. The court united the cases, considering the second complaint as part of the answer to John Dickinson's complaint. Four witnesses were examined by the court, who decided in in favor of the plaintiff—finding "that each and every allegation and averment in plaintiff's complaint are true and that the allegations and averments of defendant's answer and cross-complaint are not true." Judge McClinton granted the divorce, decreeing that the plaintiff pay the costs of the suit, but that the defendant was not entitled to interest in community property alleged to have been accumulated.

George G. Clark has commenced action for divorce against his wife, Elizabeth F. Clark. According to his complaint his wife is a very, very wicked woman. He alleges that they were married in San Francisco in 1889, that shortly after the marriage it became necessary for plaintiff to leave San Francisco and go to Seattle, that he wrote to his wife numerous times from Seattle, but received no answer; that he went to San Francisco to ascertain the cause and found his wife an inmate of a house of ill-repute and she refused to leave it and go to his Seattle home. Clark has acquired 160 acres of land near Angeles, an equity in a lot on the reservation and some personal property, this, he wants the court to grant to him, alleging that it is separate property. There is no issue of the marriage. W. R. Gay and L. M. Lane represent the plaintiff in this case.

Christina E. Peters has sued her husband for a divorce. She alleges cruel treatment and failure to provide. She asks for all the household property. They have no children.

Caroline W. Westphal and Henry Westphal have gone into court to settle their differences. The complaint was filed Tuesday, by Benton Embree, attorney for Mrs. Westphal, and it if states the truth, their life has been anything rather than happy since their unfortunate marriage in 1884. They have had numerous disputes, in which the plaintiff always came out second best. In January of this year, they divided their property. Mrs. Westphal asks that the deeds made at this time be confirmed, that they be divorced and that she have judgment for $1,000, her attorney's fee and costs of suit.

SUPERIOR BRIEFS.

An order has been entered extending time to prepare decree in the divorce case of McLennan vs. McLennan.

The motion of defendant to dismiss the case of W. L. Church vs. Gharles A. Foss et. al. was, denied October 15.

Bond for stay of execution has been filed and approved in the case of O'Shanghnessy vs, Phil. A. Dolan.

Anton Kobel, of Norway; David R. Burness, of Scotland; Henry R- Suer, of Germany; and Joseph Marvin, Earnest Clenglois, and George Chicoine, all of Canada; have declared their intentions to become citizens of the United States.

The following named citizens have made final proof before the county clerk during the week, to-wit: Harmon Fortman, of Sequim, pre-emption; Elmer E. Fisher, of Lake Southerland, homestead; Herman Fisher, of Lake Southerland, pre-emption; M. W. Gay, of Rena, pre-emption; George T. Jacobs, of Port Angeles, homestead.

The motion to dissolve attachment in the case of Mark Ten Sui vs. Gee Lee, was denied.

NEW SUITS.

Besides the divorce cases mentioned the following new suits have cases have been commenced:

No. 174. Geo. W. Travers vs. Robt. W. Travers, for wages and services rendered; for $274 and costs.

No. 175. The Port Discovery Mill Co. vs. Harry Hoffman, alleges that they loaned Hoffman twenty boom chains and that Hoffman refuses to return them they ask the return of the chains, or $100 therefor and $75 damages.

No. 176. State vs. Grant Rollins, assault and battery; appealed from justice court.

No. 177. The Board of Trade vs. Carrie A. Wilcox, Myron D. Wilcox and Ella M. Wilcox, action to have deed set aside and quiet title.

PERSONAL.

E. R. Fraser, of Clallam Bay, is in Port Angeles.

E. J. Nailor, of Gettysburg, was in the city Monday.

Major Hooker, of Rena, was in the county seat Sunday.

Attorney Sam H. Piles and wife of Seattle, are in the city.

C. E. Burlingame returned Wednesday from a trip up-Sound.

Sheriff Gould returned from a trip to Dungenness Tuesday.

Miss Annie Dick, of Dungeness, was in this city Saturday.

Henry Hoffman, of Dungenness was in this city during the week.

J. G. Kaufman, of Sequim, was in this city Wednesday and Thursday.

Robert Smith, of Clallam Bay, was in Angeles Tuesday and Wednesday.

James B. Dick and wife, of Dungeness, were in Port Angeles on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Cays, of Dungeness were in this city Friday and Saturday.

Herman Fisher and his son Elmer have "proved up" on their lake ranches and moved into the city to live.

Among those from Dungenness who attended the masquerade ball Friday night were Miss Emma Cays and Mr. Lewis Cays.

W. L. Church, Jr., the popular manager of tha Farmer's Mercantile Company, of Dungenness, was in Port Angeles Saturday.

Mr. R. L. Warson, of Seattle, examiner for loan agent J. K. Edmiston, has been in this city for several days examining ranches for loans.

Simon Poot, of Gettysburg, passed through this city Wednesday returning home after a six months visit to his old home in Holland. Mr. Poot reports times in Europe as dull on account of the failure of the crops. Especially is this the case in France and Russia, where the failure of crops was especially marked.

Ex-Collector Chas. M. Bradshaw, who is in Port Angeles, was asked about what the prospects were for the appointment of a British vice-counsul at this place. Mr. Bradshaw said it was not customary to appoint more than one for each customs district. "But" Mr. Bradshaw continued, "this is not necessary, as is generally supposed, for the entering and clearing of vessels. Vessels can be cleared here for any port in the world, as well as enter from any port." Mr. Fenn, of the customs' force here, was spoken to by a DEMOCRAT reporter, and he confirmed this statement, saying that they could do more than either Seattle, or Tacoma at Port Angeles, as they could grant registers or licences either to go coastwise or foreign at this port.

The Bank of Port Angeles is a State not a National Bank. Pays interest on deposits. Makes no charge for drafts on Pacific Coast points.

CLEARANCES.

Oct. 18. Am. str. Sea Lion, for Nanaimo.
Oct. 19. Br. str Hope, for Victoria.
Oct. 19. Am. str. Mogul for Nanaimo.
Oct. 20. Br. str. Mystery, for Victoria.

Delsarte Concert.

Preparations are being made by the Young People's Literary & Musical Society for a grand Delsarte Concert, to be given in the Opera House in about three weeks. It will consist of songs and dances according to the Delsarte method interspersed with tableax, solos, etc., and as a finale, a very humorous play will be presented, with local talent in the cast. Mrs. Stockton, who has charge of it all, reports favorably of the progress made by her Delsarte classes.

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that I have this day purchased all interest in the City Hotel, and will conduct the same hereafter myself. All accounts due the old firm of Drannan & Person are payable to me. L. F. PERSON,
Dated Port Angeles, Oct. 14th, 1891.

LOCAL.

The Port Angeles Mill and Lumber Company will have a pay roll hereafter of over $2,000 per month.

The city council awarded a contract to build a sidewalk on Oak street between Front and First streets.

The record Tuesday was even up. Two marriage licenses were issued and two divorce cases commenced.

L. F. Elkins is starting a shoemaker's shop in one of the McInnes buildings next door to the butcher shop.

E. R. Fraser, of Clallam Bay, has sold his interest in the Clallam Lumber Company's sawmill to a Mr. Earle.

The Knights of Pythias had a very enthusiastic meeting Wednesday night. They confered the second rank on one candidate and the third rank on another.

A sawmill with a capacity to cut 1,500 feet a day will be put up on Geo. Venable Smith's ranch right away, and will be owned by Messrs. Beardsley, Manette, Killum and Judge Smith.

Commissioner W. W. Gray was out over the middle division of the county road Sunday. He directed some improvements to the bridge; he says that the road is up to the specifications.

The sports who were out boating Thursday morning fired several pistol shots from near the spit. One of the bullets passed about two inches over Mr. Myers' head at the boat house and burried itself in the weather-boarding of his house.

The Ladies Aid Society of the First M. E. Church will give a "chicken supper" on Wednesday evening, October 28th, in the hall of the Metcalf building on Front street. Supper will be ready at 5 p. m. Price of supper twenty-five cents.

Wm. Pendergast of this city and Robert Jackson, recently from Tacoma, have opened up a store in the McInnes building next door to the Nelson block. The firm name will be Pendergast & Jackson. They will keep fruit, candies, cigars and tobacco.

An error was made in our report of the commissioner's proceedings last week. We should have said M. Gerahgty was allowed $100.00 on the contract price of the vault built in the Auditor's office, instead of in addition to the contract price.

Wm. Dick, formerly of Sequim, was in Port Angeles Saturday. Mr, Dick left Sequim four years ago and went to Scotland. He expresses himself as much surprised at the changed condition of this county. He was looking the ground over here with the idea of starting a machine shop. Mr. Dick brings a wife with him from Scotland.

The Bank of Port Angeles received last week two new safes. One a large one to be used as a vault, having Hall's latest time lock and burglar proof, and weighing about 5,000 pounds. Mr. Schwartz has displayed good taste throughout in selecting the furniture for the bank, choosing such as indicates the dignity of a financial institution.

The Port Angeles Mill & Lumber Company will open up Thursday with a vim. Chas, M. Bradshaw will spend the most of his time here giving his personal attention to the business of the mill. Mr. Hatfield is the cashier and superintendant, and is a man of thorough business qualifications and will push the business to the front. The roopening of the business of this mill means another pay roll for Angeles of over $2,000 per month.

Mr. David Kellogg, of Seattle, the principal owner of the townsite of Clallam was in town Thursday. Mr. Kellogg is the originator of the idea of building a plank road from Clallam through to the Quillayute country. He says the plan proposed is a practical one. That the ranchers are enthusiastic ever the project and are trying to raise the land bonus. Mr. K. says he will undoubtedly build the road if the bonus is raised.

For some time past the ladies of the Roman Catholic church have been earnestly at work preparing for a Fancy Bazaar to be given the first week in November, at the opera house. A great number of exceedingly fancy and useful articles have been made which shall be retailed at very low figures; the ladies being able to do this on account of the work being contributed. Miss Maggie Fend, Mrs. John C. Murphy, Mrs. Chas. Foss and Mrs. Mathison are working energetically as a committee to make the Bazaar a creditable success. Mr. Geo. Fisher, Miss Minnie Lewis, Miss Daisy Stewart, C. D. Humphries, Dr. F. S. Lewis, and other well-known talent have very kindly promised to render vocal and instrumental music during the three evenings the Bazaar is open.

BORN.—To Thos. Evans and wife, a Dungeness, October 19th, twins, son and daughter. All parties doing well.

The Bank of Port Angeles is a State, not a National Bank. Pays interest on deposits. Makes no charge for drafts on Pacific Coast points.

"A Turkish Bath."

A Turkish Bath is a very funny farce or musical comedy, and made a great hit in San Francisco, where it had an immense week's business. The Chronicle, of that city, Sept. 22, said: "Once in a while a farce comedy is better than the expectation, and such is the case with "A Turkish Bath, as given at the Bush street theater last evening. The name has nothing to do with the the play, which might as well have been called anything else, nor is there very much of a play to call by any name, but there is really quite a clever company, especially musically, and there is humor enough in the piece to make up for the lack of a plot. Marie Heath, who is the chief attraction, plays the child better and more naturally than any grown-up actress on the comedy stage. Her voice, even, is childish, though she sings with a good deal of taste and execution. Emma Berg also sings very well, and the voices of Jessie Olivier and Maybelle Eckert are heard to good advantage in the concerted pieces. Frank Murphy as Robin McGoogle the Irish policeman, is very amusing, and T. D. Miles makes an excellent darky All the fun of the piece is clean and bright, without any suggestion of coarseness or vugarity, but with plenty of absurd and laughable situations and incidents, The "Turkish Bath" will be an agreeable surprise to theater-goers in San Francisco."

Birthday Ode—To Tennyson.

AUGUST 6, 1891.

I.

Love and praise, and a length of day whose shadow cast upon time is light.
Days whose sound was a spell shed round from wheeling wings as of doves in flight.
Meet in one, that the morning sun to-day may triumph and cast out night.

Two years more than the full forescore lay hallowing hands on a sacred head—
Scarce one score of the perfect four uncrowned of fame as they smiled and fled:
Still and soft and alive aloft their sunlight stays though the suns be dead.

Ere we were or were thought on, ere the love that gave us to life began,
Fame grew strong with his crescent song, to greet the goal of the race they ran.
Song with fame and the lustrous name with years whose changes acclaimed the man.

II.

Soon, ere time in the rounding rhyme of choral seasons had hailed us men,
We, too, heard and acclaimed the word whose breath was life upon England then—
Life more bright than the breathless life of soundless noon in a songless glen.

Ah, the joy of the heartstruck boy whose ear was opened of love to hear!
Ah, the bliss of the burning kiss of song and spirit, the mountain cheer
Lit with the fire of divine desire and love that knew not if love were fear!

Fear and love as of heaven above and earth en kindled of heaven were one:
One white flame that around his name grew keen and strong as the world-wide sun:
Awe made bright with implied delight as weft with weft of the rainbow spun.

II.

He fears not the voice he hears and loves shall never have heart to sing;
All the grace of the sun god's face that bids the soul as a fountain spring,
Bids the brow that receives its bow, and hails his likness on earth as king.

We that knew him when the sun's shaft flew beheld and worshiped, adored and heard.
Light rang round it of shining sound, whence all men's hearts were subdued and stirred:
Joy, love, sorrow, the day, the morrow, took life upon them in one man's word.

Not for him can the years wax dim, nor down ward swerve on a darkening way;
Upward wind they, and leave behind such light as lightens the front of May;
Fair as youth and sublime as truth, we find the fame that we hail today.

--ALGERNON C. SWINBURNE.

A Realism.

"At last we are alone!"

It was the man who spoke.

The woman trembled and lifted her eyes to his face.

They were beautiful eyes, but they were tremulous eyes; eyes which look out from a heart which is irresolute, fearful.

The echoes brought back in their invisible arms the sound, and let it ripple out again until it struck the walls once more, and fell into the vast void of silence.

A bat, disturbed by the unusual activity, darted from a corner, and blindly dashed in eccentric convolutions about the dusty building.

Great robes of cobwebs hung down from the ceiling, and across the corner of the room dead flies swung lightly in the hammocks the spiders had fastened there.

The dust rose in listless clouds from the shock of the heavy footfall and sank, overcome by its own inertia.

Even the air was resting.

The spirit of the desolation seemed to prevade the place.

The woman looked furtively around upon her dim surroundings and shivered.

The man laughed harshly.

"Alone, I said," he growled.

"Yes," she murmured.

A faint light struggled through the great windows in front, thick with dust.

"Where are we?" she whispered and shivered as the bat dashed into her hair.

"Listen," he replied hoarsely, "we are in a store which does not advertise."—West Coast Trade.
