SAVE A LIFE

You never know when or where it may happen--at home in the office, on the beach or on the highway. You may be with someone who has a sudden accident or a sickness that can cause him to stop breathing. Common causes are drowning, poisoning, suffocation and heart attack.

But it only takes a few minutes to learn a few simple procedures that could mean the difference between life and death according to Washington State Heart Association which recommends that everyone over 10 years of age be taught rescue breathing. It uses air from your lungs to fill the lungs of the victim.

If you have difficulty determining whether the victim is breathing, put your ear to his mouth and watch his chest for rising and falling movements. If he is not breathing, act immediately. Have someone else send for a doctor or rescue squad while you begin rescue breathing.

The first step is opening the air passage way. Lift the victim's chin with one hand and head and tilt back his head. Keep one hand under his neck, pinch the victim's nose shut with your other hand, then take a deep breath, place your mouth tightly over his open mouth and exhale. If his chest rises you are doing the rescue breathing properly. Remove your mouth and let his chest deflate.

Repeat this procedure every five seconds until professional help arrives. If more than one person is available to help, take turns doing the rescue breathing.

Don't stop your efforts until medical help arrives. However if the victim begins to breathe by himself, you may stop the rescue breathing procedure. In this case the victim is placed on his side until help arrives.

For illustrations and detailed information, ask Washington State Heart Association, Arcade Building, Seattle 98101. The new pamphlet, "Rescue Breathing to Save a Life," gives information on how to resuscitate infants, children and adults. A wall-size card is also available illustrating these emergency measures and describing early warning signs or symptoms of heart attack. This card is your wallet may be worthwhile to have.

Now you see it--now you don't. It didn't take long for these red stucco houses to come down. According to John Simons, owner, by tearing these four houses down it will be four headaches he won't have. In their place John will put up a metal building with used furniture; thus Forks will have a second hand store downtown.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Brager returned recently after a two week vacation to Little America, Wyoming. Accompanying them on the trip was Jessie's sister, Ruby Caple, who had been staying with the Bragers for a couple of months. The weather was a little bit different from Forks weather--SNOW much to Jessie's delight. They left Forks driving their "OLD" motor lodge, but on their way home the Bragers bought a new motor lodge in Idaho.

Viet Poole is recuperating at home after undergoing surgery in the Naval Hospital in Renton, Get Well Soon.

Last week Mrs. Thomas O'Keefe and daughter Kathy came down from College, Alaska to visit her son Tom Jr., daughter-in-law and grandson Tommie in Seattle. Mrs. Vern Rouds, son Jim, Mrs. Edith Harby and Joyce Hiding went over to Seattle to visit them.

One of the chapter hunters during the hunting season is Mike Musick, who got his first 2-point deer.

Tom Pennyfather flew down from Alaska for a 5-day visit with his family, wife Norma and daughter Lets and the Bobby Barley. Both families went the cheer leaders.

POLITICS '72

by Terry Himmell

Into Seattle for an enjoyable evening at the Firelight Room. We have some newcomers in Forks. Mr. and Mrs. Robert McConnell from Pendleton, Oregon, moved here last week and are, for the time being, staying with her sister, Mrs. and Mrs. Tom Dixon. The McConnells have three children, Lomnie, age 2 1/2, Kiren, age 14 months and Bobby, age 1 month.

Mildred Ranney, Edna Leppell and Jessie Leppell went to Portland November 12 on a business trip.

Visiting Mildred Ranney last week was her sister-in-law, Mrs. Jean Kerr, who flew in from Gardiner, Wn. for a luncheon date with Mildred.

Mr. and Mrs. Duane Ullman from Lacey visited the Hank Zepeda's for a few days recently. While here the Kennedys, Harold and Mari, the Norm Sighly's, and 22 children all got together for a picnic at the Zepeda's.

The Jr. High school football team deserves a pat on the back for trying with speed. For first place last year the Jr. High team took first place. A banquet was held at the Congregational Church last Saturday in their honor. The young fellows were served a buffet style dinner, prepared by the mothers. The centerpiece for the banquet was arranged by Ellen Lindeman in a beautiful fall theme, and the place cards were in the shape of a football helmet. Seated at the head table were Mr. and Mrs. Leon Golden and Mr. and Mrs. Sam McEraway. Also attending the dinner were the cheer leaders.

The difference being 28 more percentile points for Democrat Hansen than for Democrat McGovern-Shriver.

This trend is very evident in the state races for office all the way across the slate as the incumbents for office were handily re-elected and the percentages are roughly as divergent as I've noted above. The exception being the savage--Only race which will be decided by the absentee ballot.

You may be asking what all this means. Quite simply put, it means the old party labels aren't what they used to be. The average citizen (the 80% who voted nationwide) votes by personality rather than party label. This trend was noted by the national news media by the lack of the coast-to-coast effect of the Nixon landslide. The voters have spoken in past elections but not as they've done this time. Perhaps this is the "New Politics" I've heard of in past years.

Local R.N. Attends Institute

Mrs. Janice Hillcar, R.N., Operating Room nurse at Forks Community Hospital, attended the regional institute on Operating Room Nursing Oct. 27 and 28, 1972. The theme for the institute was entitled "Mission in Space", and was held at the Olympic Hotel in Seattle, Wa. The institute was presented by the Association of Operating Room Nurses of Seattle, and sponsored by the association of Operating Room Nurses National Committee on Education.

Friday, Oct. 27, Dr. Gilbert G. Eade, President Wash. State Medical Association, Seattle began the day with an excellent lecture entitled "Health Care in the Future". During his speech he used Forks as an example in case of an emergency because of the small hospital and equipment available. A note was sent to the platform to inform Dr. Eade of "Forks Community Hospital Today" and he graciously apologized and extended his congratulations.

Mrs. Barbara Curtis, R.N., President of Wash. State Nurses Association, gave an inspiring speech during the "Space Nourishments" luncheon. Several of the physicians from the Seattle area were present. Mrs. Hillcar attended several sessions including "Chest Step in Orthopedics" and "Medicines of the Moon" which consisted of an excellent panel of physicians on treatments of tumors.

Saturday, Oct. 28: "Orbiting in Coronary Care Nursing" was an excellent session with speeches from a panel consisting of four cardiac specialists from the Seattle area.

"Pediatric Module", management of cardiac problems in children, consisted of lectures by Dr. Stannin and Dr. Lester Savage, Chief Cardiac Surgery of Children's Orthopedic Hospital and Medical Center.

The "Splash Down" was a look at kidney transplant and renal dialysis.

Mrs. Hillcar, escorted by her husband, Jack, found both days very educational, and the couple enjoyed their evenings with an excellent meal in the Space Needle and sight seeing. Jack spent his two days browsing, shopping and sight seeing, and ran into the Gordon Orca family from Forks.

Mrs. Hillcar also has applied for a "free" trip to the Association of Operating Room Nurses

Deer Hunting Success Varied

Deer hunters for the most part did not fare too well throughout the state for the second weekend of the general buck season, largely because of unfavorable hunting conditions. There were, however, several very good producing areas, especially in southeast Washington.

In the mountainous area of Garfield county Game Agents checked about one buck for every 11 hunters. In Asotin county the breaks of the Snake and Grande Ronde rivers also kicked out very good hunting. The Palouse river country of Whitman county was good as Game Department officials tallied 45 hunters with 5 bucks and 2 antlerless deer.

Hunting in the north central portion of the state was slow, but the Navaho Peak-Cold Creek area of Okanogan county did produce well, as did the deer areas of Douglas county.

In western Washington deer hunters found mild sunny weather, heavy foliage, fog and generally dry and dusty weather conditions -- none of which are conducive to good deer hunting.

On the Olympic Peninsula most hunters contacted by the Game Department reported seeing lots of deer sign, but few animals made their presence known over the weekend.

One bright spot in the west-side deer hunting picture, however, was the Wilson Creek area of Pacific county where 11

Where have all the country doctors gone?

- They've moved into the cities
- They've all retired
- I honestly don't know

Sometimes you may wonder where the good, old-time country doctor has gone. The fact is that in most places, comprehensive medical care is more available than ever before. It's just available in new places. In clinics. In hospitals. In group practices.

But no one will deny that some towns are facing acute shortages of medical help. But help is on the way. From giving Registered Nurses increased responsibility under doctors' direction to bringing in paramedics to assist doctors and provide basic medical services in small towns.

We think you should know where health care help is coming from and what it means to you. We have a free booklet on "What You Should Know About Health Care." We hope you will read it. If you have additional questions, we hope you will ask us. Because the sooner we understand the new kinds of medical care, the sooner they will be available. For everyone.

For a free booklet on "What You Should Know About Health Care" call (206) 624-3666. Or write Blue Cross, P.O. Box 327, Seattle, Washington 98111.

The water tank outside from Hill needs to be painted. The project will be held up while competitive bids can be taken. The pump on the City Hall's heating system caused too much pressure in the lines and broke a pipe. Bids will be taken for a system of blowers to be used for heating.

Forks received a letter from the Washington State Department of Ecology stating Forks' petition for "need" on the sewer had been returned to the Environmental Agency for reconsideration. Since Forks wants to involve outlying areas in the system, more planning time is needed. The town has been moved from the one year "need" list to the five year list.

This town's 1973 budget is double from this year. The 1972 budget was $270,000.00 next year's is $408,468.70 The monies under Law Enforcement include the salary for a second patrolman. The town council is also considering the trading in of a patrol car, each to take advantage of the higher trade-in allowances. The park allotment went from $1,500.00 to $2,500.00. The question of the quarterly payment of $1,200.00 to the county for the dump's maintenance was questioned. It was noted that after the first of the year, garbage pick-up will be mandatory.

The idea of the city taking over the library was again brought up. A letter from Boyd Rupp (President of the Board, Forks Memorial Library) was read. The correspondence asked the State Library Board to evaluate the library. A meeting with the Council and the Library Board will be held Nov. 20 in Chambers.

The meeting was adjourned at 9:30.

LIBRARY NOTES

Have you heard there's a baker's strike? Well, if you not terribly excited about making your own goodies for Thanksgiving, stop and shop at the Friends of the Library Bake Sale this Saturday at Paul's Serve-U. The proceeds will go to repair the roof, and if there's any money left over new books will be purchased. Bids to listen to some new sounds but can't afford the price? Check the new record bin at the library. There are some new Christmas records there too.

On display this month at the library, are a few pieces of Delft china, part of Mrs. Jane Warner's collection. Some of the plates are 80 to 100 years old and they are simply beautiful. If you have an interesting hobby or have you would display, ask the librarian and she will give you a schedule.

A delightful change of pace for this week's book review, "Beware of the Mouse", by Leonard Wibberley, author of "The Mouse that roared", a headway play of a few years ago. The story begins with Sir Roger Genivick. Sir Roger, you see, ruled his snug outpost for 30 years without once being troubled about a French invasion. Sir Dermot happened by and told him of a new French invention of warfare, something called a cannon. This tale of old complicated somewhat by Lady Matilda's sudden interest in the 15th Knight, Lady Matilda, by-the-way, was Sir Roger's very well-endowed daughter. To elaborate further would only spoil the story for you. Read the books you are to find it very amusing.

Ozette Project

Receives Grant
Washington State University has received a $101,500 grant from the National Park Service to provide for continued excavation at the Ozette Indian Village at Cape Alava on the north west Washington coast.

Project director Richard D. Daugherty, professor of anthropology at WSU, said the grant will permit excavation work to proceed through next summer.

The grant is the latest in a series since WSU archeologists resumed excavation at the Ozette Indian Village in the spring of 1970. Work was resumed following the discovery of an Indian "longhouse" which was remarkably preserved by a huge slide of clay.

To date, WSU scientists have located six of the buried houses and excavation of the first has yielded about 15,000 artifacts and specimens. Archeologists are attempting to reconstruct the cultural history of the Makah Indian tribe by excavating the Ozette site.
