ANGELES' SHIP YARD.

Experienced Manitowoc Ship Builders Located Here—A Schooner Building—Some Eastern References—What is Proposed—It Means Much for the Gate City—Encourage it.

Geographers, historian and descriptive writers, in speaking and writing about the natural resources and commercial prospects of this great state of ours, since away back in the fifties, have always said that a time would come when Puget sound would be the world's shipyard. All mariners acquainted with the Pacific's waters and with the natural commercial advantages of the Straits of Fuca and Puget sound have said that at a time in the near future this inland sea would supercede the coast of Maine as headquarters for shipyards. So prevalent and so unanimous has been this opinion that all interested in the growth and development of Northwestern Washington have fondly looked for the time to come when these waters, from Cape Flattery to Olympia, would be lined with great shipyards. This time has about arrived. The start is made, and the citizens of this city, the best port on all the sound for such an enterprise are to be congratulated that Port Angeles is in the van.

Some time ago THE DEMOCRAT made mention of the fact that there was to be located at Port Angeles a shipyard conducted by Hanson & Son, that promised in the near future, if properly patronized, to be one the leading industries on the Sound.

A DEMOCRAT reporter visited the yard yesterday, and found H. J. Hanson, son of Jasper Hansen and junior member of the present firm. Jasper Hanson, the veteran and hale old shipbuilder had gone to Port Townsend on business. Mr. Hanson showed the reporter the fine schooner this firm is building, and explained its qualities. The schooner will be 83 feet keel—more than 90 feet over all; the depth of hold will be 9 feet; beam, 22½ feet. She will be a two-masted schooner riged and of about 100 tons burdens. She has double sternposts, the first of which is cut so as to permit a propellor to go through as soon as the after post is cut, in case it is desired to make a steamer out of the craft. The vessel is built especially for strength, the timbers all being unusually large. The schooner will be adapted for either freighting or sealing and fishing.

Jasper and H. J. Hanson are from Manitowoc, Wisconsin, one of the greatest and best known ship building towns on the great lakes. For a quarter of a century past, Manitowoc has been the favored place for the great Chicago, Sheboygan, Racine and Two Rivers ship owners to get their large three masted schooners, tugs and canal schooners built, and during all that time the favored yard of that place has been that formerly owned by Hanson & Scove and afterward Hanson & Son, the firm that is now located at Port Angeles. The Inland Lloyd's Register—containing a register of all the vessels that trade on the great lakes—shows the names of many crafts familiar to all the marines of these great freshwater oceans to have been built by these firms. Jasper Hanson learned his profession from that world-renowned shipbuilder, Wm. W. Bates, and to this day refers to the ex-editor of the Boston Nautical Magazine as 'Billy' Bates. W. W. Bates now resides at Chicago, and he and John W. Griffith are probably followed by more shipbuilders than any other two men on our continent. John Roach oftentimes consulted Bates about his iron vessels. And that Mr. Hanson was an apt pupil is evidenced by his work. To say that he has built many of the best tugs owned by the great Vessel Owners' Towing Association, of Chicago, is a guarantee for his work. This association is one formed entirely of ship owners, who associated themselves thus for protection against the tug trust, who had raised the price of towing up so that it was a burden on shipping. J. L. Higgie, fondly called "Jimmie" Higgie, by his fellow ship owners, was president of the association. This is evidence that speaks more than words for his reputation as one who knows a boat when he sees it, and that Jasper Hanson made his boats shows that Hanson could build a boat satisfactory to the most critical owner.

Among the well known ship owners for whom these men have built large vessels, are Chas. W. Elphicke, C. M. Lingren, David Muir, O. B. Mullen, Guido Pfister, Martin Keller, J. L. Higgie, already mentioned, and others of Chicago, Osuld Torrison, James Richards and others, of Manitowoc. Among the well-known vessels that are registered as having been built by Jasper Hanson, are found the Guido Pfister, Emily B. Maxwell, "Bertie" Calkins, Thos. L. Parker, Christianna Nelson, Falmouth, H. C. Albrecht, H. J. Scove and others. Mr. Hanson got a reputation amongst the world's shipquilders by being the successful defendant in the great "Buckeye Case," before the Supreme court of Wisconsin. Bates, Griffiths and other world-wide experts testified in this case and all gave Mr. Hanson many compliments. Mr. Hanson prospered in his business in Wisconsin as long as prosperity was to be had. At many times he had hundreds of men in his employ. But as with many others of the lakes' shipbuilders, Mr. Hanson had to give way to the iron horse. A glance at the Inland Lloyd's Register, will show a rapid decline in shipbuilding on the great lakes, commencing about 15 years ago. The railroad and the scarcity of timber is the cause of Mr. Hanson's finally deciding to seek pastures new and to come Puget Sound. After looking the whole Sound over, his experienced and practical eye directed him to this place.

Messrs. Hanson & Son say that if they can secure a market for their vessels, they will remain here and enlarge their plant as the market demands it.

Mr. Hanson said to THE DEMOCRAT reporter that the fir timber is especially adapted to shipbuilding, and will last in salt water fully as long as oak, if not longer. They are greatly pleased with the position and prominent facilities of Port Angeles, but do not think that the people here fully appreciate the importance of the establishment to the place.

HERE'S A MEAN MAN.

He Won't Let a Woman Set Foot in His Hateful Old Home.

On a cross street running south from the Base Line road, a short distance beyond W. S. Ladd's farm, is a house which is not a Trappist monastery, but inside of which, nevertheless, it is said no woman has ever been allowed to set foot, s ays the Portland Oregonian. The proprietor is a stout, solid-looking man, probably about forty years of age, who lives alone. The house is a neat structure, quite fancifully painted, and everything around it is in good order, but it has a lonely, deserted look withal It is not known what this occupant's grudge against womankind is, but it is evidently a deep-seated one, and it is reported that the property has been willed to a man on condition that he never allows a woman to come on the place, and in case he does it is to escheat to the state. The neighbors look askance at the place when they go by, and whisper with bated breath: "That is a house in which a woman has never set foot." It is safe to bet that, notwithstanding the will, it will not be long after the present owner has vacated the premises till women folks are ruling the roost there.

Washington at Ann Arbor.

Washington has five out of the 303 students composing the junior law class of the Michigan university this year: One from Seattle, three from Olympia and one from Clallam, P. M. Troy. Of the senior class, which graduates next June, our state has five; one from Seattle one from Walla Walla, one from Centralia and two from Tacoma. The registry in all the departments of that school foots up in the neighborhood of 3,000, making Ann Arbor one of the largest as well as greatest universities in the world.

Manufacturing.

F. A. Holton is now cutting about 12,000 feet of lumber daily in his new saw mill, near Mt. Vernon.

A San Francisco firm is contemplating the erection of an iron-pipe making plant at North Yakima, to supply the artesian wells in that vicinity.

J. M. Colman & Sons are about to erect extensive creosote works in Seattle, and expect to do a big business in creosoting piles, to ward off the teredo's ravages.

Enumclaw's new saw, planing and shingle mill will be erected and in operation by next summer. Work is already commenced on the saw mill plant, which will have about 40,000 feet daily capacity.

WASHINGTON FISHERY.

Facts and Figures Regarding the Industry.

THE ASSESSMENT ROLL.

Clallam County Pushing her Way to the Front—Seventeenth on the List—The Assessed Valuation as Fixed by the State Board.

From a statistical review of coast fisheries of the United States, just issued by the fish commissioner, it appears that Washington has advanced from the fourteenth place in 1880 to the tenth in 1890. There has been a decided increase since the last census year in the fishery interests of Washington, notably in the the oyster fishery, the yield of which has advanced from 15,000 to 60,993 bushels; in the salmon fishery, in which the catch in 1880 was reported to be 350,000 pounds and in 1888 was 16,319,736 pounds; in the vessel fishery for food species (including halibut and salt salmon), which has been established in recent years, and the product of which in 1888 amounted to 686,000 pounds. The fur-seal fishery has declined considerably in value, though to a less extent in number of skins. Following are tabulated statistics of Washington fisheries:

WASHINGTON'S ASSESSMENT.

Clallam County Pushing Her Way to the Front—Seventeenth on the List.

Clallam county is rapidly passing the counties of the state and making strides to the top place in population and the valuation of her property. According to the assessed valuation of the property of the state as fixed by the state board of equalization, Clallam county, once about the poorest and smallest county in the state has now passed the majority, being 17th in rank. It is more than probable that another half-dozen counties will be passed next year, as the Port Angeles reservation and several new townships will, by then, have been added to our assessable property.

The assessment valuation of the state by counties is here given:

GOVERNOR RUSSELL.

The Boston Globe urges the nomination of Massachusetts' gallant governor, Hon. Wm. E. Russell, for the presidency by the Democratic national convention next year.

The Democratic party could go farther and fare worse for presidential timber. Russell's successful campaigns and able administration of Massachusetts' affairs has attracted the attention and praise of the whole country, regardless of party. He has all the qualifications requisite for a popular leader and successful executive. His fascinating disposition, flashing wit, eloquent oratory, profound arguments and acknowledged personal worth will make him irresistable in the campaign; and then his youth—being just of constitutional age—would bring to his support the younger element of this country. With him in the field, Massachusetts would cease to be a doubtful state and could be as surely counted on in advance as South Carolina.

But Governor Russell is an admirer and warm personal friend of Cleveland, and will never consent to the presentation of his name for the presidency as long as Cleveland is a candidate, but will advocate his nomination, which the convention will do on the first ballot, unless the New York delegation oppose him, which is not at all probable and but barely possible. In case it does, however, the nomination will, in all probability, be given to Russell or Pattison.

Twice elected governor of Massachusets and the acknowledged leader of the brainiest corps of young statesmen in the United States, Governor Russell's chances for a successful and worthy career are bright indeed.

PORT ANGELES SHIPYARD.

Port Angeles has an opportunity that should not be permitted to slip from them. The location of the shipyard of Hanson & Son here is the harbinger of better things if properly encouraged. That shipbuilding is soon to become one of the leading industries of this Sound is self evident. Not less obvious is the fact that the city that gets first place in the industry, must, of necessity, be up and at work without delay. The benefits that accrue to a shipbuilding city are manifold. Besides the pay roll, money invested in taxable property and the increase in population on its account, there is the reputation and advertisement that it gets with the commercial men of the world. Nothing makes a city better or more favorably known in foreign countries, especially, than to see its name in a nautical magazine as a favored ship building port.

The Citizens' Association should take this matter up and accord Hanson & Son all the assistance possible.

IT is now conceded by all, but a few of John Sherman's followers, that the next campaign will be fought out on the tariff question. The Republicans will fight their battle with the McKinley bill for a platform and Harrison to lead them, while the Democratic platform will be built on Cleveland's message of 1887 and that leader will again be the candidate.

Silver will not be an issue. Neither party will declare for free coinage. It is not even probable that a free coinage bill will come up in Congress this winter, on its final passage. Senator Vest and other great advocates of the free coinage of silver in Congress, and the St. Louis Republic and other great free coinage journals, have quit agitating it and say it can not.

The result will be the same as it was in 1890 and 1891.

THE AUDITOR'S estimate of the county's expenses, as published in the Tribune, places the expenses of the county for the ensuing year at $55,414.88. To meet this the county commissioners levy a little over $11,000. This is done for party purposes, but the people of Clallam county are too intelligent to be fooled this way. They understand the difference between a low rate of taxation and what it costs the county for running expenses. They know that every cent of the county's indebtedness must be paid sometime and therefore will judge the board's economy by what it expends and not by what it pays for in advance.

THE Tribune should give thanks where thanks are due. It was the people and a few of its party knaves who permitted the Republicans to retain a few scattering states. Not enough, however, to waste many thanks over. Just 18 out of 44 states have Republican governors, and they had to steal three of these. In Connecticut, Nebraska and New Hampshire the Democrats elected their candidates for governor, but they were stolen by the Republicans. This would give the Democaats 29 to the Republicans' 15 states.

L. S. J. HUNT, proprietor of the Post-Intelligencer, has fallen out with Editor Holman, of that paper, and a merry war wages in the editorial columns of their organ. The only thing strange about the matter is that Hunt hasn't disagreed with and fired him long ago. Under Holman's management the Post Intelligencer has been anything rather than a dignified and decent journal.

THE Tribune editor has not earned for himself a national reputation as a philosopher, but it must be admitted that he has a philosophical way of putting the Republican outlook for president next year.

His paper says:

"We do not see why the Republicans should bother themselves with holding a convention at all."

BRAZIL and China are both threatened with rebellion. In the former, it will be but short-lived. Brazil has made rapid strides towards civilization the last few years. Her republican form of government has come to stay.

CREDIT for the best joke of the season must be given to Brother Carragan, of the Port Crescent Leader. That paper says:

"The silver question is going to be the vital issue in the coming presidential campaign."

A real, mirth provoking joke can always be appreciated.

CITY POLITICS are warming up, but entire good feeling seems to prevail. This is encouraging and should be continued.

PORT ANGELES needs a telephone system.

The situation is not as bad as we thought. Francis Murphy says that all the newspaper men of Pittsburg are Christians, and that all are prosperous. They are a rare lot. Wouldn't it be a good idea to secure them for exhibition at the World's Fair?—Port Crescent Leader.

Mr. McKinley is opposed to any further "agitation" of the tariff issue. So are all the tariff barons. If there were a law passed legalizing pocket-picking, every pickpocket in the country would be opposed to agitation against it, on the ground that such agitation would disturb his business.—St. Louis Republic.

The German emperor is just now trying to persuade himself that he is a bigger man than Bismarck. The fun ahead in the reichstag is not welcome to him. There is no party which can afford to adopt as a part of their platform a resolution which calls for class legislation, neither could any party long exist which would not oppose it. These United States are not for any particular class of men, no matter how useful they may be as a part of the whole, and any legislation which is undertaken should be for all.—Montesano Vidette.

***

The lumbermen of Puget Sound do not look with favor upon a war with Chile, as up to the breaking out of the Balmaceda affair a large proportion of our lumber exports went to Chile, and a considerable cause for the present dullness in the lumber market is found in the shutting off of our exports to Chile. Therefore any international difficulty would soon complicate matters and postpone, if not kill off, all trade in that direction.—West Coast Trade.

***

It was hoped that when the court-martial held in Olympia last week was dismissed the Haines-O'Brien affair was settled. Now another great question is to be determined and the country is agitated an terribly disturbed in endeavoring to ascertain whether Colonel Haines apologized to General O,Brien. If these troubles are not soon adjusted the Chileans are likely to hear of it and rush madly to this country, capture the militia and annex the United States to Chile. It is a deplorable state of affairs, and the country is in danger. These men should patch up a truce, at least, until the country is free from foreign complications.—Port Townsend Leader.

POLITICS.

Numerous Candidates Getting in the Field—Another Caucus in Ward 2.

The city political situation is rapidly assuming definite shape. It is now clearly evident that party lines will not be drawn.

Candidaies are all getting in the field. The second ward now has six candidates in the race for councilmen, another meeting having been held Saturday evening, at which D. P. Quinn presided and Donald McInnes acted as scribe.

D. P. Quinn, on behalf of John W. Troy, withdrew his name from the race for councilman on account of there being a question whether or not he had lost his residence of a year, by living on the reservation during the summer.

Donald McInnes, John M. Bell, Ed. Metcalfe and and Joseph Ballinger were then nominated for councilmen, thus making six in the field, the other two being W. Brumfield and Jas. F. Meagher.

For councilman at large, D, P. Quinn and John Dyke are already nominated and the names of Thos. Malony and George W. Meagher are mentioned as possible candidates.

The first ward has no candidates up yet, but the prospects are that it will be no lees prolific than the second in candidates.

There are mentioned as probable candidates there, Thomas Malony, Dr. Lewis, Stephen Land, F. R Thompson, G. W. Meagher, J. W. Stewart, L. H. Smith and E. H. Foster.

For mayor N. R. Smith now seems to have the field all to himself, although E. H. Foster has friends who would like to see him run. The election promises to be interesting.

SOCIETY DOINGS.

A Double Wedding—A Birthday Party—The Delsarte Concert—Other Notes.

A Birthday Party.

Mr. D. S. Troy entertained a few of his many friends at the apartments of the Democrat club on the evening of the 17th inst.

The occasion was given in honor of his twenty-first birthday, and though an impromptu affair, it was replete wilh enjoyment, the guests remaining until the small hours of the new day.

Whist was the general order of the evening, after which the health of the young debutant in the rights and priveleges of a voter, was drunk. A speech from Mr. Troy was then called for, who responded as follows:

Gentlemen and ladies—[Being interrupted here by Mr. White, who, though not quite sure of it, informed the speaker that he did not think there were any of the prettier sex present.] Mr. Troy began again: Well, all I have to say is, I am glad I am twenty-one. I can vote now, and will not have to apply for naturalization papers like the man from Vermont. But, in case he obtains his, and votes, which I know he will not do in the proper manner, I will use mine to kill his. I am twenty-one to-day, and since I am a man, I want it distinctly understood by the tonsorial artists the question invariably asked me: "Shave your upper lip sir?" is to be taken for granted as answered in the negative, and such remarks from my friends as: "Why did you shave off your mustach?" when I have not done anything of the kind, is to be considered irrevelent and out of order, and will receive the silent contempt it deserves, for be it understood that it is turned out, is strong enough to make itself perceptable—to other lips which may surer throb with the hope, that a similar feature may adorn them, not being constructed upon the same plans and specifications."

Mr. Dodge then suggested that, as it had been in for twenty-one years it was certainly proper that he should allow as much of it as wanted to or could come out to do so.

Mr. Troy then changed the tenor of his address, and spoke of the prominent men who were his guests, and noticed that the oldest of them was but thirty-three, which he said argued well for the state of Washington as being the state for a young man and particularly Port Angeles and Clallam county. Refering to a piece of paper upon which he had requested each to write his name and age, Mr Troy continued his speech to show why his assertion was correct. "His honor, the mayor of Port Angeles, is but thirty years of age, and the same period of time has been lived by the busines manager of the Times. The county clerk has only numbered the sorrows and joys of twenty-six years. The manager of the Hall Drug Co., if counting his age in pills, would roll but twenty-two, while the manager of the Clallam County Abstract & Investment Co., if numbering his years in real estats transactions, would swindle him only thirty times, and our deputy sheriff could and would talk to an attentive listener for twenty-six hours, and devote but one hour to each year of his fashionable career. If the events of each year of his life could be written upon a single page, the ledger of our county treasurer's existence would number but thirty-three. The editor of the Times would grind out but thirty-one columns in telling the tale of his woe, each column containing the burdens of a single year, and ye DEMOCRAT editor would denote his age by electing twenty-three Democrats for each office in the United States.

There are fifteen of us present and not one has ever experienced the thrilling sensation derived from spanking an heir."

An hour was then passed in pleasant conversation when the guests departed for their homes.

The Salvation Army Wedding.

A large audience gathered at Thompson Hall on Wednesday evening to witness the double wedding which took place under the auspices of the Salvation Army. The contracting parties being Albert George Fletcher and Miss Dora Ella Lakin and Abner Banks Hall and Miss Bertha Christina Peterson, all of the Salvation Army. After the usual opening services Staff Captain Halpin instructed his lieutenants to bring forth the happy couples.

During the interval which followed one of the visiting soldiers sang two selections. After which the arrival of the bridal party was announced and as they entered they were welcomed with loud shouts and toots from Happy Bill's trombone. Staff Captain Halpin assisted them to the platform in his usual happy manner, and after a few remarks and reading a few lines of scripture, proceded to perform the marriage ceremony, which is here given:

Bridegroom.—I do solomnly declare that I know not of any lawful impediment why I, [name] may not be joined in motrimony to [name.]

Bride.—I do solomnly declare that I know not of any lawful impediment why I, [name] may not be joined in matrimony to [name.]

Captain.—Will you have this woman to be your wedded wife, to live together after God's ordinance, in the holy state of matrimony? Will you love her, comfort her, honor her, and keep her, in sickness and in health, and never seek to prevent her doing anything that is in her power to do, or giving anything that is within her power to give, to help the Salvation Army, and will you promise to use all your influence to promote her constant and entire self-sacrifice for the salvation of the world, and, forsaking all others, keep you only unto her so long as you both shall live?

Bridegroom.—I will!

The above question is asked the bride, who answers, I will.

Bridegroom.—I call upon these persons here present to witness that I, [name], take you, [name], to be my lawful wedded wife, and my continual comrade in this war: to have and to hold from this day forward, for better for worse, for richer for poorer, in sickness and in health, to love and to cherish, till death us do part, according to God's holy ordinance; and this I declare upon my honor, as a true soldier of Jesus Christ.

The bride here repeats the same as the above.

Bridegroom.—I put this ring upon your finger as a continual sign that we are married under the solemn pledges we have this day given to live for God and fight in the ranks of the Salvation Army.

Captain.—In the name of God and the Salvation Army. I declare you to be man and wife together. "Whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder!"

Captain H. S. Fano acted as best man for Mr. Hall, and Lieutenant Hudspeth, as bridemaid to Miss Peterson; Cadet A. L. Flock and Augusta Waetcher acted in the same capacity for Mr. Fletcher and Miss Lakin. Among the visiting members of the army were Staff Captain and Mrs. Halpin, of Portland; Captain M. Bigney and Lieutenant Hudspeth; Privates Humbleth, Berry and "Happy Bill," of Seattle; and Seaton and McKensey, of Port Townsend.

Besides these were about 300 of our citizens, all of whom seemed to enjoy the ceremony and banquet, which was served in the Salvation Army barracks.

Delsarte Concert.

The Delsarte entertainment given at the opera house on the 16th inst., under the management of Mrs. Stockton, for the benefit of the kindergarten class, was certainly a success, both financially and as a class exhibition. The amount of benefit derived by the little fellows participating in such entertainments can not well be estimated. They may not know or appreciate its value now, but in after years such early experience will stand them in good stead.

The entertainment closed with a farce, rendered by local talent, in which each participant acquited himself or herself with honor.

Little Lord Fauntleroy.

The Little Lord Fauntleroy company played to a small, but very appreciative audience at the opera house on the evening of the 13th inst.

This was decidedly the best performance that has ever been played upon a Port Angeles stage, the characters in every role being well cast, and had it not been that the theatre-goers of Port Angeles have been so often tortured by the indifferent troupes who have played here, the audience would have been larger.

This troupe, by the fine entertainment given by them, has in a large degree restored the public confidence in our opera house as a place of amusement.

THEY RESUME WORK.

The Crew of the American Bark California Desert—Collector Bickford Sustained.

The crew of the American bark resumed work on the morning of the 17th inst., having received a letter from shipping commissioner Bash, of Port Townsend, whose instructions and advice to them was substantially the same as that given by their captin, at the time Collector Bickford and THE DEMOCRAT reporter went aboard. At last, learning that their skipper was disposed to treat them justly, and with fairness they at once went to work to put their ship in good condition. Captain Morine has not yet received sailing orders, and thinks it is highly probable that his bark will remain here for several weeks, as there is but little doing in the shipping business.

A SAD ACCIDENT.

Harvey Lamoreux Falls and Breaks His Leg—A Damp Man.

BEAVER, Nov. 17th.—[Special.]—A very painful accident happened here this morning while Harvey Lamoreux, age 17 years, son of Postmaster Lamoreux of this place, was doing chores at the barn, his foot slipped and in some remarkable way broke his left leg about eight inches above the knee. Dr. Cleary was called, who set the limb and did all in his power to relieve his suffering. The doctor's opinion is that the bone had become softened from a hurt he received three years ago, as it has given him more or less trouble ever since. The patient is doing as well as could be expected.

Commissioner Gordon, who has been with us for the past few days, says he hasn't lost any elk. He returns to Pysht tomorrow, if not a better a wetter man. There has been plenty of water over here, but no damage done.

A MAN DROWNED

Wallace Darling Supposed to Have Fallen Into the Bogachiel—Teacher Wanted.

FORKS, Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Wallace Darling, a farmer living on the Bogachiel river, left Forks on the 5th inst., at 3 p. m. for home after buying some groceries, and nothing has been heard from him since. He is either lost in the woods or has fallen into the river. The latter is the most reasonable supposition as he had to pass a high bluff with the trail near the edge. He would reach this about dark, and is partially blind. He has a brother living on the prairie.

It has been raining steady here for almost a month. The rivers and creeks are all raging. Several accidents have occurred in crossing the swollen torrents.

The directors here wish to secure a school teacher for a year. They will pay good wages.

MISFORTUNE NEVER ALONE.

Lewis Cays Gets a Leg Broken—A Queer Coincidence—A Surprise Party.

DUNGENESS, Nov. 19.—[Special.] On Monday, while putting some heavy timbers in place for a bridge near this place, a skid pole broke and let a heavy stick af timber fall on Lewis Cays, breaking and badly mashing both bones of his right leg above the ankle. His father, L. H. Cays, had a leg broken while at work at the same bridge, Saturday.

A surprise party was given Miss Annie Dick at this place Tuesday. The evening was spent in games and dancing. All enjoyed themselves hugely.

If the lines were run as desired, Chicago would be found to be in Indiana.

THE ARIZONA KICKER.

It Is a Foolish Man Who Tackles a Western Editor

WANTED.—THE KICKER wants to engage a spirited and enterprising young man who is not afraid of work and is ambitious to build himself up, to act as a collector. We have about $600 standing out, and will furnish a mule and two revolvers as an outfit free of expense. The collector will be allowed to retain half of his collections.

We regard this as a splendid opening for some ambitious Eastern man who wants to work up in journalism. He will no doubt be shot at fifty times for every hundred dollars he collects, but if he's got the right sort of sand he'll pull through and come out on top of the heap.

After we've given him a dozen lessons on getting the drop, and he's had a couple of days' acquaintance with our mule we back him to tackle any one of our non-paying subscribers outside of a rifle-pit. In case of death we guarantee a fair to medium funeral. Apply at once.

***

AT IT AGAIN.—As is well known to the readers of THE KICKER we have a private graveyard with ten graves in it. The ten graves represent ten different men who were mistaken in sizing us up for editors without backbone. We did the fair thing in each an every case—sending for the coroner—buying a coffin—turning out the boys in procession, and so on. The average cost been $27 per funeral, and thats rich for the locality.

Our contemporaries, who have never shot a man, have been insanely jealous of our "plant" on the sand-lots, and on two occasions before last night have been caught in the act of trying to steal some of the head-boards to start graveyards of their own. At 10 o'clock last night we received word that they were out there again. We mounted our mule and rode out. They had just commmenced operations. They had their old mules hitched to the fence, and took the alarm and mounted before we got up. We run them seven miles, but their mules were the fastest and they got away.

We want to be neighborly as editors, but we also want these old lop-shouldered, bow-legged hyenas to thoroughly understand that they have at least made us tired, and that any further fooling around on their part will leave their milk-and-water old sheets without heads.

***

IT WAS A FAILURE.—We got a sly hint several days ago that the postmaster of this town, whom we have had to shoot in three different places within a year, in ordor to expedite the mail service and prevent him from walking on us, had sent over to Tubac to get a man to do us up. The routine of getting out one of the biggest and brightest weekly papers in America, (subscriptions payable in advance) went on just the same, however, and we didn't do any private and confidential worrying

All the forenoon yesterday we heard some one hollering around the streets for gore and upon inquiry learned that it was the man from Tubac. He was reported a being a real old-fashioned terror from Grizzly Mountain, with his toenails dyed red and his eyes shining like two camp-fires, and that he was also looking for us. We were never more calm nor serene. We sent to our-grave-digger to execavate another hole and wrote a note to Steve Williams, the undertaker to varnish up a white-wood 2x6 and get the trimmings on.

It was about 4 o'clock in the afternoon when we finished our editorial labors for that day and started out for a saunter. Just as we turned into Sioux place the man from Tubac jumped out on us from a doorway and started in to secure our right ear as a relic. We sat up with him most of the night last night. One of the bullets has been extracted, but the other couldn't be reached with a three-foot stick. Unless inflamation sets in he will very likely pull through. If he does he assures us he will be a changed man.

He wouldn't exactly say that the postmaster gave him $50 to come over and humble our proud editorial spirit, but he said enough to satisfy us that we must run over tomorrow and have another pop at Mr. Wanamaker's man. He's getting too coltish.—M. Quad in New York World.

The much mooted injunction case against the agricultural college commission to restrain them from locating that institution at Pullman, because the act did not receive the advice and consent of the senate, was decided in the supreme court at Olympia, last Saturday. It was held that the action was illegal, inasmuch as none but the attorney general has power to commence restraining proceedings in a case of this kind.

She Recovered.

It does one's heart good to see in anyone, no matter what his station in life, that blending of presence of mind and a kind, unselfish heart—neither a great blessing in itself, but together, invincible in dispelling sorrow and doing good—so nicely portrayed in the following little sketch by M. Quad, in the New York, World:

During a block of vehicles at the corner of Chambers and Washington streets the other afternoon a trim little working girl, who attempted to dodge under the nose of an ugly horse and fell flat in the mud. She picked herself up and reached the sidewalk, and stood there for a moment utterly dismayed and on the point of breaking down.

"There, don't feel bad about it," said a driver, who got down off his seat and used his coat-tail to wipe off some of the mud. "There are 10,000 girls in this town who'd be glad to tumble in the mud every day for a week to be as purty as you are."

The little maiden forced back the tears, with a laugh said she wasn't hurt the least mite, and went tripping up the street in such a jaunty way that a dozen men clapped their hands in applause.
