NURSE PRACTITIONERS TO ARRIVE

The Olympic Peninsula's two nurse practitioners will arrive for duty the first week in September, according to the Washington/Alaska Regional Medical Program, the federally funded agency which has provided training for the two women.
Joyce Lingerfelt and Jo Ann Smith, both registered nurses, have spent the summer undergoing intensive training in a special course which W/ARMP arranged for them through the University of Washington School of Nursing and the Medex Program, which trains physicians' assistants. They were among seven young women selected for this opportunity to qualify to serve areas having inadequate health services.
The course, financed by a $12,000 grant from W/ARMP, included special instruction in emergency care, record keeping, patient examination and other skills which Washington state law now permits nurse practitioners to provide.
At first both of the Peninsula nurses will work out of Forks Community Hospital. Ultimately Ms. Lingerfelt will be based at the hospital and Ms. Smith will work in a clinic soon to be opened in Clallam Bay.
Other communities in Washington which now have nurse practitioner clinics through the help of the Regional Medical Program are Vashon Island, Longbeach and Darrington. W/ARMP has provided initial funding for some clinics and has instructed volunteer board members in business operation of the facilities.
Dolores Little, U.W. professor of nursing and director of the W/ARMP nurse practitioner program and Dr. David Lawrence, director of the Medex Program, will visit the Peninsula nurse clinics in October to check progress of the new installations and to meet with board members and local physicians. Each nurse practitioner is supervised by a physician who, in some cases, is located at a distance from the nurse clinic.

CITY COUNCIL

Plans were approved for a traffic light at Division Street and Highway 101 at a special meeting of the City Council last Tuesday evening. Nine persons were in attendance to hear the results of a traffic count taken by the Washington State Highway Department. The survey, taken July 13 through 19 between 6 a.m. and 10 p.m. indicated that more vehicular cross traffic used the Bogachiel intersection while the pedestrian count at Division was greater. It was the first recommendation of Don Earnst, Highway district maintenance and V.W. Korf, district engineer that placement of a light at Bogachiel be considered. After some discussion it was decided that a light at Bogachiel could possibly cause serious congestion and back up along 101. It was unanimously agreed upon by the Council and Marshal Eyrson that a signal at Division would best serve the public at this time and would, it is hoped, create a minimum of problems. The signal, to be installed early this winter, will be an actuated light adjustable to daily traffic needs. A detector loop buried in the street will regulate the maximum and minimum passing times depending on the number of cars occupying toward the intersection. A push-button pedestrian facility will be set up to aid persons crossing the street. The signal will be established on a temporary flashing basis to accustom travelers to the new situation. Earnst and Korf reminded the Council that every time a traffic light is installed the rate of rear-end collisions and other accidents sharply increases. Motorists using the streets involved should continue to use the utmost caution. In Earnst's words, "signals do not solve all the problems."

HOSPITAL REPORT

For the week ending midnight, September 2, 1973, the number of admission was 10; discharges 11; emergency room visits 68; outpatient visits 92. The hospital ambulance corps responded to 12 calls.
The hospital administrator and staff are pleased to welcome Nurse Practitioners Joyce Lingerfelt and Jo Ann Smith to the staff of Forks Community Hospital. These new staff members will spend this week receiving orientation (which includes visiting the various departments of the hospital, becoming familiar with the organizational structure of this institution) and just generally getting acquainted with their coworkers.

PUD Commissioners meet

On August 27 the preliminary 1974 electric and water system budgets were reviewed by the Board of Commissioners of Clallam County Public Utility District. The preliminary budgets will be under review until October 1, when a public hearing on the budgets is scheduled. The electric operational budget is anticipated to be the greatest in the District's history, at $5,156,000. The water operating budget is likewise at the highest point at $261,500.
Due to the Labor Day Holiday, the next regular weekly meeting of the PUD Board has been changed from September 3 to September 4.
A change order in the contract for the Sunland Substation was approved, which calls for the distribution circuits out of the substation to be underground for a distance of some 300 feet. The change order for this additional work totaled $7,600.
Energy conservation booklets were reviewed by the Board and approved for distribution through the District's service area. These booklets, featuring methods of conserving energy as well as the wise use of appliances, will be available upon request at

NEWBRY SPEAKS AT CHAMBER

Fourteen people attended the September 4 meeting of the Forks Chamber of Commerce which was held at noon in the small dining room at the Vagabond. Guests included John Douglas and Bert Mars.
A letter of resignation as Chamber secretary was read from Jackie Middleton who was commended by president Gordon Oks for her work this far.
Kate Campbell was also recognized for her efforts in manning Visitors Information Center throughout the summer and stated approximately 1,600 tourists had stopped in.
Councilwoman Marge Howard reported that the State Highway Department would install a traffic light at the intersection of Highway 101 and Division Street which should be in operation by the end of September. The Highway Department felt that 101 and "B" Street would be a better location, but the ultimate decision was up to the Town Council. Another traffic count will be taken a year from now.
Guest speaker was Mr. Joe Newbry, principal of the Forks Primary School, who spoke mainly on the curriculum at the primary level. He stated that due to double shifting in previous years, Forks students had lost out a great deal in reading and math, which is where the most stress would now be. A phonetic approach to reading will be used primarily, as well as a combination math program in which basic facts will be taught before going into modern math.
Mr. Newbry feels it's disastrous how many students in the lower grades are passed on before they are ready... he estimated 80%. He also said that on a national average, the average high school graduate reads only at a fifth grade level.
While other parts of the state are experiencing a decline in population, Newbry stated that Forks has had a 10% growth rate which

Counties share record NF earnings

Oregon and Washington counties with National Forest lands will receive nearly $60 million in receipts from National Forest earnings in fiscal year 1973, an all-time record.
Regional Forester T. A. Schlapfer said the 1973 allocation is about $17 million more than the previous record $42.9 million allocated to the concerned counties from fiscal year 1969 earnings.
The payments mailed to treasurers of the two states represent 25 percent of the receipts from all resources and uses of the National Forests, including timber harvest, grazing, minerals, recreation, power, and other land use.
Payments are proportioned according to National Forest acreage, with counties using the money for public roads and schools.
This year's total--$59,867,640.00--will be divided among 23 Oregon counties receiving $42,471,571.62, compared with $31,571,209.25 last year, while 27 Washington counties will receive $17,395,765.43 compared with $10,096,140.24 a year ago.
Lane County continued to receive the biggest share in Oregon, $8.5 million, while Yamhill county was high in Washington, with $4.5 million.
WASHINGTON: Clallam County was $892,455.12.

LANDLORD/TENANT LAW

What are the tenant's obligations under the landlord-tenant law?

Does a landlord have the right to come into a tenant's house or apartment any time he wants? Can the tenant keep him out? How about evictions? What must a landlord do to get rid of a tenant?

The new landlord-tenant law, which was passed by the legislature this year and has just recently gone into effect spells out the rights and responsibilities of both landlords and tenants, as well as procedures covering evictions, deposits and repairs.

Landlords have the responsibility of keeping their units fit places to live. Renters must follow reasonable rules of the landlord. The landlord must explain the rules when a tenant moves in and must notify the tenant in writing 30 days before changing them.

The renters must keep current in their rent, must comply with laws, must keep the apartment or house clean, use appliances properly and not damage or destroy property. The renter is responsible for any damage he or she causes.

The landlord can enter the property as long as he or she gives the tenants two days notice in writing. The time and date must be reasonable -- it can't be at 3 a.m. on Christmas morning, and the landlord can not harass the tenant by constantly coming in and out. But the tenant can not keep the landlord out if the request is reasonable.

If the renter causes damage, the landlord must give him or her notification in writing and if the damage is not corrected in 30 days, the landlord can come in and repair the damage and bill the tenant or evict the tenant.

If the renter is behind in his or her rent and moves out, he or she can be billed for additional rent and costs. The landlord must try and rent the house or apartment immediately, however.

After the renter leaves, the landlord can come in and store any property left behind. After 60 days, after giving notice to the renter, he or she may sell the property.

Eviction

If a landlord wants a tenant to leave or wants him evicted, under the new act, he must go through certain procedures.

If there is a lease involved, a tenant can not be forced to move unless he or she violated the terms of the lease or is behind in the rent. If the rental agreement is on a month-to-month basis, tenants can be asked to leave with 20 days written notice, and the landlord does not have to give a reason.

If the renter is behind in his rent, a landlord must give three days written notice to pay up or move out. If the tenant refuses to move, the landlord must go to court. At the court hearing, the tenant has the right to tell the judge why he should not be evicted.

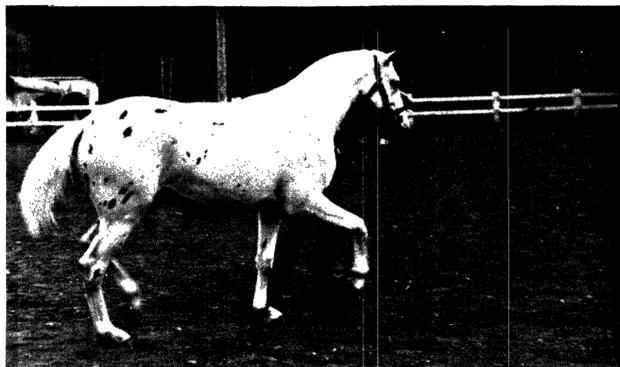

If a court orders eviction, only the sheriff can move people out. The landlord or his agents cannot. A landlord can not try and force a tenant to move by shutting off his or her utilities, locking them out, or taking their clothes or other personal belongings.

Tenants can not be charged with a crime for refusing to move as long as they are careful not to "disturb the peace."

For further information on the law, or free pamphlet explaining it, contact the Low-Income Housing Coalition, Box 1069, Olympia, Washington 98507, telephone (206) 340-4111.

If you need a lawyer and cannot afford one, contact the nearest Legal Services Center or the Lawyer Referral Service at the toll-free number (800) 552-0780.

NEXT WEEK: Deposits, rental agreements, arbitration -- a newer, cheaper alternative to going to court.

Hoh River Hobbau, the young Appaloosa stallion owned by Norman and Marilyn Snodgrass, is upsetting some of the Clallam County Appy owners at the local shows. His record is clean. . . . three shows, three blues and one championship trophy. His latest victory was in the Open Show at the Fair. He placed first in his class of 2 year olds and under and that put him in against the other first place horses from the Appy classes. The judge, George MacDonald, barely looked at Hobbau in the Championship Class, he just had a hard time deciding which was second best. The white leopard colt was definitely the winner. See him this coming Sunday, September 9th at the Rein Riders 3rd Annual Open Horse Show. He will be going for his fourth straight win. Good luck Norm, Marilyn and Hobbau!!

The Rein Riders show here in Forks at the Park Arena will begin at 8:30 a.m. with the Halter Classes being held during the morning and the Performance Classes during the afternoon. Halter classes being offered are: Arabian fillies - 2 and under; Arabian mares - 3 and over; Arabian colts - 2 and under; Arabian geldings - any age; Arabian stallions 3 and over; half-Arab fillies - 3 and under; half-Arab mares - 4 and over; half-Arab colts & geldings - 2 and under; and half-Arab geldings - any age; AQHA mares - 4 and over; AQHA geldings - any age; AQHA stallions - any age; Appaloosa mares - any age; Appaloosa geldings - any age; Appaloosa Stallions - any age; Paint-pinto mares - any age; Paint-pinto gelding - any age; grade mares - any age; grade geldings, any age; and an Open pony class.

There will also be two Western Showmanship at Hand Classes, one for Juniors and one for seniors. Just before the lunch break, there will be a Champion Halter Home Class, with all the first place animals from the first 20 classes competing.

Afternoon classes will include: Western Pleasure - 13 and under; Western Pleasure - 14 - 17; Western Pleasure Senior Amateur; Stockseat Equitation - 10 and under; Stockseat Equitation - 13 and under; Stockseat Equitation - 14 - 17; Stockseat Equitation - Senior Amateur; Western Saddleback Equitation - 13 and under; Western Saddleback Equitation - 14 - 17; Western Saddleback Equitation - Senior Amateur; Kindergarten Class for the kids 6 and under; Stock horse reining, Jr. Stock horse reining, Sr.; a Costume Class; and the highlight will be the H. and then Senior Trail Home Classes.

The Show this year has been approved by the Olympic Peninsula Zone of the Washington State Horsemen. This approval will not only bring in many more entries, but will make this one of the largest horse shows Forks has ever had. There will be ribbons to 5 places in all Halter classes. There will be a Champion and Reserve Champion Halter Home awarded ribbons. In all Junior Performance classes there will be ribbons to 8 places and there will be a Junior High Point Trophy. In Senior Performance classes there will be ribbons to 5 places and a Senior High Point Trophy. There will be first place Trophies in all Performance classes. In behalf of all the Rein Riders, I extend an invitation for all of Forks to come out and support this show by attending. There is no advance admission charge. For information or entry blanks, call 374-6005 evenings.

Tussock moth infestation uncontrolled

The infestation of tree-killing tussock moths that has gone uncontrolled under the federal DDT ban has spread to a total of 900, 000 acres in eastern Washington and Oregon and could spread further next year, a U. S. Forest Service spokesman said here today. Dave Graham, Portland-based pest control expert with the Forest Service, said the area of the outbreak is about a third larger than the state of Rhode Island and more than double the infestation acreage projected earlier this year. In addition, a new outbreak has defoliated trees on 90,000 acres in northern Idaho, he said.

Tussock moth infestation uncontrolled

Graham was one of four speakers at a special briefing session of the Forest Industry-News Media Roundtable, sponsored regularly in Seattle by the Washington Forest Protection Association (WFPA).

Bert Cole, Washington State Commissioner of Public Lands, told the Roundtable gathering he will repeat his appeal to the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) for emergency use of DDT if it appears necessary. So far, DDT is the only insecticide that has proved effective on the moth.

The tussock moths' ravenous feeding is now completed for this year, and the Forest Service will begin studies next month to determine prospects for 1979. It is hoped a virus and parasites natural to the insect will control the infestation before additional damage occurs, "but that's what we were hoping for this year and we want to be ready if it falls again," Cole said.

Cole's appeal to the EPA for a "one-shot" DDT application were among several such official requests that were turned down earlier this year. The land commissioner termed the denials as "more political than scientific," including warnings of the consequences now at hand, "were essentially ignored by the EPA," he said.

Graham said that test applications by the EPA, a chemical approved by the EPA, have not been completely evaluated. But preliminary data indicates "the insect population left after treatment apparently was too high and observations made so far indicate that unacceptable damage occurred in most of the treated areas," he said. Evaluation will be completed next month, "and meanwhile, we are intensifying our research to find a suitable alternative to DDT."

Zecran's ineffectiveness was strongly voiced by Gary Webster, manager of the Walla Walla Area Chamber of Commerce. "It might have disturbed the litter critters, but they're still pretty healthy," he said. The Walla Walla watershed is badly defoliated, Webster said, and severe impacts are in the offing in terms of water supply, recreational values, wildlife and the economy. "They're letting our environment go down the tube," he said.

Bill Larson, WFPA manager and chairman of the Northwest Forest Pest Action Council, said the Washington and Oregon infestation acreage amounts to over 1,400 square miles, and that timber already killed would be enough to build an estimated 83, 000 average homes. "If we had a forest fire on 900,000 acres, would you take away our fire tools?" Larson asked.

Although some of the defoliated trees are salvageable, they must be logged within about two years or they become unmerchantable. Even if it could be done, "we're talking about huge clearcuts--not by the timber industry, but by tussock moths," Cole said.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Dawkins drove Nancy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Wheeler, to meet the ferry to Victoria on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fox spent the Labor Day weekend at their property at Rimmon on Hood Canal.

Mr. and Mrs. A.M. Nordman drove their son and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Nordman, to Sea-Tac on Labor Day to catch the plane to their home in Chicago after a 10-day visit. On Friday, Mrs. Emma Nordman had taken Lisa Nordman to Aberdeen after she had spent 12 days visiting her grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Laes and family took advantage of the long weekend to move their home from La Push to Bremerton. While in Bremerton, they visited Gene's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Laes.

My family and I, accompanied by Mary Rood, took a picnic and drove up to Hurricane Ridge Sunday afternoon. The sights were absolutely breath-taking. The mighty Olympics were still wearing their velvet aprons and the Blue Glacier covered the side of Mt. Olympus in all its splendor. The meadows lay waiting for a drink from Mother Nature. They were teeming with wild life and we saw eleven deer; the buck's were decked out in their velvet attire and a doe had her twin fawns out for a Sunday stroll. We stopped at the Lodge to see all the craft work. As we got back in our car to leave, the local radio station couldn't have played a more fitting song, "If I were a Rich Man," from Flighter On The Roof. How could we be anything else with all these a-bounding deer. Also visiting the Ridge, were Cora Cowles and her daughter Jesse and son David, Rick Fuhrman and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kaemmlie of Wickenburg, Arizona.

Barbecueing-- an outdoor activity only

"The outdoor pastime of barbecueing should remain outside," advises Kent Stoner, Regional Manager of Allstate Insurance. Otherwise, what begins as a festive meal may finish as a tragic disaster.

"Many people regard the use of charcoal briquets harmless indoors, while dangerous quantities of carbon monoxide may accumulate," Stoner warns. "Sufficient air is needed to rid the poisonous gases from burning charcoal." Like coal, the combustion of charcoal generates odorless but deadly carbon monoxide gas. Poisonings and even asphyxiations have been reported when briquets were burned indoors.

"Never use briquets in a garage, basement or any other enclosed area, such as a porch, tent, cabin or car," warns Stoner.

The same caution applies to Japanese hibachis, often used on dining room tables. When a hibachi is used indoors, place it near an open window or door

YOU ARE NOTIFIED that written surrender of the above named by the mother, Linda Lee Dupuis, has already been given.

YOU ARE FURTHER NOTIFIED that this matter will be brought on for hearing in the above entitled Court on Monday, the 1st day of October, 1978, at the hour of 1:30 P.M. and that your failure to contest the surrender of the above named at the hearing described in this notice may result in the relinquishment of your rights to custody and control of the above-named and the adoption of the above named infant, William Dupuis.

MARJORIE M. FOREST, Attorney for Petitioners Office and P. O. Address: P. O. Box 696 121 North Sequim Avenue Sequim, Washington 98282.

Publish Thursday, September 6, September 13, and September 20, 1978, in the Forks Forum, Forks, Washington.

Most District roads are open and maintained. Roads #300, 301, 303, and 306B are under construction or reconstruction in some places. Logging trucks are using roads # 3027, 300, 2970, 312, 303, and 2971 quite heavily. Road 3116 is being used lightly by log trucks. Please drive carefully and use your headlights. It is a good step for safety.

Use of Klahanie and Klahowya Campgrounds has been moderate. This weekend will probably be a very busy one and the campgrounds will be near capacity early in the weekend. Come early for the best spots. There are no camping or day use fees charged at these recreation sites.

Huckleberries and blackberries are near the end of their seasons; however, there are a couple of spots with huckleberries still clinging to the bushes. Some of these areas are Bondi Mountain Road (#3024), Sandberry Pass (#2970), and Tom Creek (#2931). Log trucks are using Road #2970 and #2931. See you with your buckets!

The Vine and Big Leaf Maples are contributing their colorful fall leaves to the landscape. It is still a little early for the mushrooms.

It has sprinkled a little rain during the first part of the week, but the fire danger is still high. Special care should be taken in putting your campfires completely out.

All campgrounds on the Olympic National Forest are free (no charge). Occupancy is on a first come-first served basis. Most campgrounds will probably be filled by Friday evening. Best chances for campsites being open are at more remote camps such as Campbell Tree Grove on the Quinalt Ranger District.

This is the last recreation report for the summer season. The Olympic National Forest wishes you a safe and enjoyable weekend.

IN MEMORIAM Onni A. Mackey, - In cherished memory of our dear brother who passed away at Forks September 18, 1960.

He was gone before we knew it, Couldn't even say goodbye, He wished no one a last farewell, And only God knows why, His busy hands are resting now, His work on earth is done, His worries are all over, And his heavenly crown is won, Our hearts still ache with loneliness, Our eyes shed many a tear, God only knows how we miss him, At the end of 13 long years.

Lovingly remembered and missed by: Sisters, Hella, Ardelie and Violet.

This Week at the Library

A very incredible and fascinating book is on display. "The Curious World of Twins" includes the nature and life styles of twins and other multiples and illustrates the similarities of both related and unrelated twins.

The book is written by Vincent and Margaret Gaddis and they tell of personal interviews with famous twins, triplets, quadruplets, and quintuplets, with other historical facts and photographs concerning multiple births.

Bizarre cases of Siamese twins and other abnormalities are discussed, as well as occurrences of teratoma, in which men or women actually carry their own dormant twin in their bodies.

The strange riddle of identical twins is explained as well as the similarities of existence led by twins living far away from each other. Those who are interested in E.S.P. will especially enjoy this book.

The library is expanding and now that they have more books, it is hoped that more people will make use of the facilities.

TIMBER TAX

Forest excise revenues totaling $845,711 have been distributed this month to taxing districts in 31 counties.

Lewis County's share was $174,940, followed by Cowlitz, $147,730; Grays Harbor, $87,442; King, $82,616; Pacific, $76,148; and Pierce, $66,030.

Excise tax transactions totaled $1,108,110. In addition to the distributed shares, $324,999 was deposited in the Timber Reserve Fund, raising its balance to $852,340.

The Department of Revenue's gross collections since the new tax took effect in October, 1972, have been approximately $3.1 million, of which $2,213,742 has been distributed to local schools and governments.

Clallam County received $41,669.54 this quarter for a total of $109,392.56 to date.

INDIAN HEALTH SERVICES

With the problems of the American Indians drawing wide attention this year, Congresswoman Julia Butler Lester, D-Wash., said that significant progress has been made in recent years to improve the health facilities, schools and housing of tribal members across the nation.

Funding for the Bureau of Indian Affairs and Indian Health Services through the House Appropriations Subcommittee for the Interior and Related Agencies has made possible this progress. The committee is chaired by Rep. Hansen.

As a result of improvements in Indian Health Services and facilities, the last 15 years has seen a decrease in death rates for infants of 62 percent; for material deaths, a decrease of 54 percent from influenza and pneumonia, a decrease of 57 percent from tuberculosis, a decrease of 86 percent.

Rep. Hansen also states that during this same period hospital admissions have increased 104 percent; the percentage of babies born in hospitals has increased 12 percent; the number of outpatient visits has increased 391 percent, and dental services have increased by 396 percent.

She also reported that during the last two years 995 homes have been constructed and 9,040 homes renovated under the BIA Housing Improvement Program.

Since 1962, a total of 26,311 new classroom spaces and 18,548 replacement classroom spaces have been provided for Indian children through the BIA. In the last 12 years, enrollment in BIA schools has increased from 40,194 to 56,666. Before 1969 there was no kindergarten program in BIA schools, but starting in that year such a program was installed with 761 children in attendance. By 1972 the enrollment had increased to 2,522.

Rep. Hansen also said that in 1969 there were 783 Indian students receiving higher education grants which averaged $328 a year. In 1973, 13,500 Indian students will receive higher education grants that average $1,350 each.

However, she pointed out that despite these accomplishments, there is still much to be done. Some of these deficiencies, which came out in testimony before Rep. Hansen's committee this year included:

Despite the reduction in the mortality rate, it remains higher for Indians than the general population.

Twenty Indian hospitals need replacement and 16 additional hospitals require major modernization. The estimated cost of this work is more than $210 million.

Only 12 out of 51 Indian hospitals fully meet fire and safety codes; only 21 of the 51 hospitals are accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals.

An estimated 18,849 Indian homes need running water and adequate waste disposal facilities; an estimated 18,968 Indian homes need upgrading of existing sanitation facilities.

The estimated school construction needs for public schools, where there is a substantial Indian impact, amounts to over $110 million.

A survey show about 48,300 new homes are required to replace existing substandard Indian hospitals and about 20,500 homes need renovation.

TAXPAYERS ASK IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. My son is paying his own college tuition this year. Will this have any effect on whether or not I can claim him as a dependent?

A. Yes. Tuition payments are counted in determining total support. If you and your son furnish the total support for the year, and your son spent more on support items, such as food, clothing, shelter, education, etc., than you spent for his support, you will not be able to claim him as a dependent.

Q. In return for organizing a group of tourists for a European trip, a travel agency is giving me a free tour with the group. First, is the trip taxable? Secondly, if the trip is taxable, can I deduct the expenses I incur as the leader of the tourist group?

A. The free tour is taxable. Thus, it must be included in your income at the tour's fair market value. Secondly, your expenses are not deductible, even if you are serving as the leader of the tourist group without pay and at the group's request.

Q. I just found out that the fee I paid an employment agency last to get a job is deductible. Is it too late for me to amend my 1972 return so that I can claim this deduction?

A. No. Just prepare an amended income tax return, Form 1040X, which can be obtained at any IRS office. On this form, you simply recompute the portion that has changed from your original return and send it, along with any necessary related information to the address shown in your Form 1040X instructions.

Q. It is possible for me to reduce the amount of tax withheld from my pay?

A. Yes. This is done by filing a new W-4 form with your to my employer for tax purposes?

A. No. Your share of this service charge is not a tip, but is part of your wages paid by the employer. As such, it is taxable, but does not have to be included in your report of tips to your employer.

Q. My son is 20 and works full time during the day and goes to school at night. Can I still claim him as a dependent regardless of how much money he makes?

A. Generally, you may not claim a person as a dependent if he had gross income of $750 or more during the year. The only exceptions to this rule occur if your child is less than 19 at the end of the year or a full time student during five months of the year. In your son's case, he is over 19 and is not considered a full time student because he is attending school at night and is employed full time during the day.

Help for small businesses

As a result of a new agreement between the U.S. Small Business Administration and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, small businesses can look for increased help in matters relating to OSHA standards and regulations.

The agreement details procedures covering both business firms that have been cited by OSHA for violations and have requested financial aid from SBA to make the corrections, and others that have asked for aid to comply with OSHA standards, but have not yet been inspected or cited.
