

SODERLIND - HALEY WED

Mary Helen Soderlind became the bride of Timothy Richard Haley in St. Anne's Mission Church on Sept. 15. The Reverend William Maat, O. S. B. performed the ceremony and celebrated the Nuptial Mass in the presence of about one-hundred eighty guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. Soderlind of Forks, and Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Haley of Port Angeles are the bridegroom's parents.

White flowers accented with blue and green bows, circular candelabra with attached floral arrangements stood on either side of the altar, and bows decorating each pew graced the church for the late afternoon wedding.

The folk group from St. Thomas Moore Chapel near the campus of Washington State University provided the music for the occasion. They sang a "Brand New Day" as the wedding party entered.

Twin sisters of the bride, Alice and Ann Soderlind, entered with ushers, Robert Young of Port Angeles, friend of the groom, and David Soderlind, twin brother of the bride. Miss Sue Haley, sister of the groom, was escorted on the arm of her brother, Mr. Michael Haley of Seattle. Mrs. Non-Manninger of Aberdeen, friend of the bride, was matron of honor and was ushered to the altar by a friend and architectural classmate of the groom, Mr. Mark Hendrickson of Bellevue.

The maid of honor, Miss Jean Everett, friend of the bride, was escorted by the best man, Mr. Thomas Haley of North Bend. The little flower girl, Miss Alisa Jenson, entered with the young ring bearer, Master Gordie Adrian. The bridegroom, with his parents on either side of him immediately preceded the bride flanked by her parents.

The bride was radiant in her gown of white nylon sheer over taffeta in an empire design with lace inserts. A narrow blue ribbon was laced through the ruffles encircling the bottom of the skirt which fell into a short train. The shoulder length veil was held in place by a Juliet cap. Her bouquet was of white carnations, stephanotis and baby's-breath, accented with ivy and ribbon.

She wore pearl earrings, a gift of the groom. She had a six-pence in her shoe and carried the handkerchief her mother had carried at her wedding.

The maid and matron of honor wore gowns of flowered and striped nylon sheer over white green taffeta and carried two white roses with baby's-breath. The bridesmaids wore gowns of the same sheer material over blue taffeta. They carried a single white rose with baby's-breath. The flower girl wore a blue taffeta gown under blue net; her veil was of the same net material held in place with a crown of rosebuds. The bride wore this when she was a flower girl eighteen years ago for the sonita Cooper-Bud Ulin wedding. The bride's mother wore a flowered sheer of autumn color with a gold over vest. The groom's mother wore a blue shimmering dress with matching accessories.

The altar boys were Thomas Zepeda and Daniel Soderlind, brother of the bride.

The first reading was given by the bride's father and was taken from the Old Testament; the second reading from the New Testament was given by the groom's father. After the exchange of vows which were written by the principals, the choir sang "Wedding Song". They sang "Take Our Bread" at the offertory and were joined by the congregation in singing the great "Amen."

"The Lord's Prayer" was sung in a beautiful arrangement, original with this folk choir. At the kiss of peace the bride and groom extended their hands to their guests with the greeting of the peace of Christ as the folk choir sang "Peace My Friends" and "Pass It On". They chose the "Meditation Song" after the Communion of the Mass.

The guests and folk singers sang "They Will Know We Are Christians By Our Love" as the wedding party left the church.

A buffet supper was served in the Fellowship Hall of the Congregational Church with Mrs. Arthur Andersen as hostess, Misses George Deutsch of Seattle and Mrs. Gerald Ashe of Darrington, aunts of the groom, poured. Misses Alex Andersen of Bellevue and Mrs. O. V. Bolton of Vancouver, Washington, cut the beautiful wedding cake which was made and decorated by Mrs. Iva, Bishop of Port Angeles.

The cake was in the form of a large cross, with three layers at the top of the cross. In the center of the top layer was a gold cross with two gold rings attached. Blue rosebuds with green leaves decorated the cake.

The punch was laced by Mrs. Walter Bates of Darrington, aunt of the groom. Mrs. George Thompson made the arrangements of cedar accented with blue hills of the valley centered by a large lighted candle which graced each table.

Mrs. Terri Seigle attended the guest book and Miss Susan had charge of the gifts.

Miss Lorie McClaskey of Vancouver passed the scrolls.

After a wedding trip to Hawaii the newlyweds will be at home at 1 E South Fairway, Pullman, Washington, 99168, where the bridegroom will continue his architectural studies. He graduated from Port Angeles High School, Peninsula College, and received his B.S. from Washington State University in June. The bride is a Forks High School graduate Peninsula College, and received her B.A. in English education from WSU also this June.

Calawah Rebekahs

The Calawah Rebekah Lodge #229 of Forks entertained the members of District Association #21 at their annual meeting Sept. 29. The Association consists of 5 lodges on the Peninsula: Pt. Townsend, Port Angeles, Forks, Sequim and Chimacum. All lodges were well represented and Sequim took home the banner for most members present.

The Rebekahs were also honored by the presence of State Warden Mrs. Irma Mitchell of Bremerton and several members from Bremerton Lodge. Mrs. Vivian Hill of Port Angeles was elected president, and Edna Aldred of Port Townsend was elected vice president.

After a full afternoon of business a delicious dinner was served by the Women's Fellowship of the Congregational Church.

FORKS TOASTMISTRESS

Fourteen members were present at the last meeting of the Forks Toastmistress Club which is an organization founded for the purpose of individual improvement through study and practice in conversation, speech, critical listening, and group leadership. Through the training acquired in Toastmistress, women learn to progress through understanding and enlightenment, and are better prepared for greater participation in all phases of citizenship. Each person's actions and spoken words become the source of waves of activities that travel in ever-widening circles. There are seven keys to leadership, held by Toastmistress. Toastmistress is a challenge--Are you interested?

Special Interest to all Forks Toastmistress Club members is a meeting scheduled for October 18 in Port Angeles. It will be a joint meeting of all clubs in Pacific Northwest Region Council 4 which include Forks, Sequim, Port Angeles, Port Townsend, and Bremerton. Forks will be represented by Mrs. Bobbie Preece, who will be Toastmistress.

Miss Jackie Koon was Toastmistress at the last meeting. Speakers presenting topics were Mrs. Inge Akre, "Life in Forks" and Mrs. Gladys Maxwell, "I Was a High-School Drop-Out". Present was Mrs. Jackie Griffith, president of Port Angeles Juan de Fuca Toastmistress Club. By-laws were read and accepted. Hospitality Hostess and Membership Chairman were chosen who are Mrs. Georgia Fraker and Mrs. Bobbie Preece respectively. Pacific Northwest Region Council 4 Directories were distributed to all members. Guests present were Datta Jonsson, Rochelle Dimmel, Dolores Wood, and Gladia Lindley.

Congregational Church news

At church next Sunday, October 7, a report will be given by conference delegates Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Corbin in addition to the regular morning worship service.

A "Half-Way-Done Open House" will be held from 3-5 p. m. next Sunday at the Ringum's shack on the Solsduck in the Lake Creek Retreat area.

The annual Harvest Dinner will be held Friday, October 19. The women of the church will have a bazaar table at the dinner, and the church school children will also have their own bazaar table.

Community Council

Forks Community Council met Sept. 25 at the Forks Congregational Church with delegates from 10 organizations in attendance as well as 7 guests.

United Way chairman Fred Hosmond and his wife were introduced. A movie on United Way was shown by Mary Ann Hendicks and Nancy Butsch, Clallam County chairman of United Way.

HASS SPEAKS AT CHAMBER

by Rayna Abrahams Mr. Howard Hass, assistant principal of Forks High School, was the guest speaker at the Chamber of Commerce meeting Tuesday, noon, at the Vagabond. Also, in charge of special projects for the Forks schools, Mr. Hass informed the 19 people present that the total enrollment in the Forks schools is 1,546 this year, compared to last year's total of 1,405. He explained the Federal projects related to education and spoke about a new program to be instituted in 20 Washington schools. "The Right to Read" program is financed by the Federal Government and Forks has applied to be one of the schools that will institute this program. Reading is the most important key to learning and the mastery of reading determines what you do in life, Mr. Hass said. Out of 700,000 high school drop-outs, 89% have reading problems, and here in the United States we have a 10% illiteracy factor.

The meeting was adjourned promptly at 1:00 p. m. after a question and answer period.

WILD LIFE AGENTS BUSY

With the recent rise in illegal game violations, State Wildlife Agents throughout Washington have had their hands full during the last several months.

A statewide crackdown on poaching activities has been instigated by the Wildlife Management Division, the enforcement arm of the Game Department.

Some recent examples give evidence that State Game Agents have been working overtime, and that favorable court decisions have made it tough for violators.

On September 2, 1978 State Wildlife Agent Jim McCoolgan, of the Tri-Cities area, arrested Jerry C. Jacobson and Robin H. Scott of Pasco for illegal possession of 7 ducks and 5 pheasants. In addition, Jacobson was cited for having a loaded firearm in a motor driven vehicle. The 7 ducks and 5 pheasants cost the defendants $200.00 each; plus Jacobson forfeited $25.00 for carrying a loaded firearm in a motor driven vehicle.

State Wildlife Agent Larry Klump, of Ellensburg, recently arrested Edward J. Beedle of Cle Elum for possession of deer in a closed season and hunting grouse without a license. The illegal deer cost the defendant $500.00, plus a 30 day suspended jail sentence. In addition, a $25.00 fine was levied for hunting grouse without a hunting license.

On Friday, September 7, State Wildlife Agents Jim Knoolie, George Schullz, Frank Thomas, Dave Smulz and Dick Smith arrested three men and two women from Morton and Randle, for possession of elk during a closed season. Two animals were involved, a 3 point bull and a cow. They were taken out of a herd of 50 animals in the Lander Creek area, of eastern Lewis county. The defendants had the meat cut, wrapped and home canned when arrested. The case will go to court in the near future.

Over the past weekend State Wildlife Agent Dave Schultz, of Centralia, personally investigated 15 deer kills; three deer in the Dory area, 3 in the vicinity of Winlock, 3 around Centralia, 1 in the Mendota and 5 centered in the Pe Ell area.

In the North Central portion of the state, State Wildlife Agents Mel Sharp, David Ross, Sid Balke, Ron Trim and State Wildlife Control Agent George Brady came up with 10 deer cases in one orchard in the Okanogan Valley. Parts of 4 deer were found and the defendants are out on $250.00 bail, pending deposition of the 4 cases.

State Wildlife Agents Bruce Smith and Jerry Neal, of Everett, and Monroe, respectively, recently arrested a subject for illegal possession of a big game animal. The defendant was found guilty on 6 counts of illegal possession

Forest Service distribution of funds

Congresswoman Julia Butler Hansen, D.-Wash., said today the three West coast states received the major part of funds distributed by the U.S. Forest Service out of proceeds from users of National Forest products and services for the year ending June 30, 1978. The three West Coast states were given checks totaling $87, 388, 328. It was distributed as follows: Oregon, $42, 471, 876; California, $27, 520, 688; and Washington $17, 325, 765. By law the money must be spent for public schools and roads.

The payments are from 25 percent of total receipts from fees for grazing, recreation admissions and user fees, power, minerals and other land use, plus sale of timber.

These examples of persons trying to beat the high cost of meat certainly are undergoing a program of false economy.

State Wildlife Agents would appreciate any and all help from the public concerning any evidence of illegal activity. Persons seeing suspicious actions should contact the nearest State Wildlife Agent, Game Department Regional Office or the Washington State Patrol office and give full information regarding type of car, license number, number of persons involved, type of clothing and time and place of violation.

SOCIAL SECURITY BENEFITS

Social security benefits were being paid to 6577 residents of Clallam county at the rate of $973,000 a month at the close of 1977, Tom Deeney, social security manager in Port Angeles, said today. About 4000 of these persons live in Port Angeles.

Of the social security beneficiaries living in Clallam county, 4601 are re-tired workers and their dependents. Another 1281 are receiving benefits as the survivors of workers who have died, and 654 are getting benefits as disabled workers or their dependents.

RAINFALL REDUCES FIRE DANGER

"Rainfall has reduced the fire danger in Washington, permitting suspension of fire season closures on 775,225 acres of forest land," Paul E. Kansas, Supervisor of Fire Control, Department of Natural Resources, announced. The closures, which would have expired October 4, were suspended as of midnight, September 28. It is doubtful that the closures will have to be reinstated.

The closures had affected certain areas of high fire hazard in Clallam, Clark, Cowlitz, Grays Harbor, Jefferson, Kitsap, King, Lewis, Mason, Pierce, Pacific, Skagit, Snohomish, Skamania, Thurston, Whatcom, Wahakum, Stevens and Kllickitlan Counties. The Quinault Indian Reservation and parts of Mt. Baker, Sno-qualmie, Gifford Pinchot and Wenatchee National Forests were also included.

Timber stand improvement activity--intensive forestry practices such as chemical control of undesirable vegetation, thinning, Christmas tree cultivation, and fertilization--occurred on more than 184,000 acres (private) in 1972, the survey shows. That is some 58,000 acres more than in the previous year and nearly triple the similar acreage in 1968, Larson said.

Private reforestation and timber stand improvement programs represent a great deal more than measures increase wood production from the forests," the WFA manager said. "They are significant private investments in the long-term economic and environmental health of Washington State."

SPARTANS EXTEND WIN STREAK TO THREE GAMES

by Gary Osgood

That's the good news from last Friday's 20 to 12 victory over the visiting North Beach Hyalaks.

But there's bad news too. Hard-running fullback Jeff Sullivan suffered a broken leg in the third quarter that will sideline him for the rest of the year. According to coach Ralph Hill, "His leg is going to hurt."

Sullivan set up the first score of the ballgame with a 30-yard run around right end, advancing the ball to the Hyalak's five. Later, quarterback Ken Olson streaked the ball in from the one. Olson also added a two-point conversion on a fake kick.

The second quarter saw a number of fumbles by both sides. They Hyalaks

COW ELK PERMITS DRAWN

A drawing for cow elk permits was held this past week at the Dept. of Natural Resources in Forks.

Out of 1886 applications for Unit 10-A, 100 permits were drawn. Forks and Beaver residents included in the draw were Richard Hammond and Ma-Mie Klahn of Beaver, and Ted Kertle, Orin McCann, Donald Iote, Mike Bishop, Russell Palmer, Cliff Iote and Pete Dahligen, all of Forks.

Fifty permits were drawn out of 248 applications for Unit 10-B. Included were Edwin Oberg of Beaver and Clarence Engseth, Donald Engseth, Paul Dillard and Vic Ulin of Forks.

This Friday the Spartans travel to South Island and endeavor to continue their winning ways.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor: The Internal Revenue Service has unlimited (it seems) rights to harass individuals in many ways but no one can question them without a lot of money on Court cases. They have told the General Accounting Office it has no business examining IRS books. There has been a bill introduced in the House of Representatives and sent to the Government Operations Committee that the IRS and the Federal Reserve System open their books to examination by the General Accounting Office. This bill has to clear the Committee which has forty-one members before it can be brought before the house for vote. This bill would lay to rest many questions alot of Americans have on the Federal Reserve System; such as, is there any class A stock, who owns it, how much profit does it make from the tax payer, is it a private system of control of our money? As these two bureaus are the heart of our inflation, taxes, devaluation, etc., the people have a right to know what is going on.

These are four people you can write to on HR 9285. Rep. Sam Gibbons, who introduced the bill, Rep. Floyd Hicks who is a member of the committee it must pass through, Rep. Julia Butler Hansen our representative, and Rep. Carl Holtzfield, Chairman of the Government Operations Committee. All at the U. S. House of Representatives, Washington D. C. 20515. If you do not get a commitment from them to work for and vote for HR 9285, write back and ask why, it is our right to know where our congressmen or women stand. They are supposed to uphold the constitution and need to say the majority are not, and should be removed and replaced by Americans and not internationalists!

Yours, truly, Eleanor Thornton

New hunters and hunting

This year, the State Game Department expects many persons will take up the sport of hunting for the first time. While the Department welcomes newcomers, Game officials caution that hunting is primarily a recreational pursuit and that game bagged is really just a bonus to the over-all, total recreational experience.

Washington is blessed with some of the widest variety of game in North America. Few states or provinces can provide the outstanding opportunity for outdoor recreation that Washington nirrds enjoy each year.

With its deserts, high mountains, rolling farmland, waterways, rain forests and saltwater, hunters have the opportunity to be afield after two species of elk, three varieties of deer, ducks, geese, pheasant, quail, five species of grouse, two types of partridge, black bear, mountain goat, mountain sheep and wild turkey.

Hunters definitely should not take to the woods and fields this year with the sole determination to fill the freezer to try and combat the present high cost of beef. It just doesn't work out that way, cautions the Department.

Last year one out of every five persons who hunted deer was successful and one out of nine elk hunters connected.

Cost of gas to and from the hunting area, cost of an expensive camper or trailer, cost of hunting equipment and clothing cost of meals and a host of other items a hunter generally doesn't think about, all add up to make game on the dinner table one of the year's most expensive meals.

So, this fall the Department urges all hunters, especially new devotees to the sport, to enjoy some beautiful weather, fresh air, spectacular scenery, the opportunity to observe all types of wildlife, the companionship of good friends--and above all, the total recreational experience.

PUD BOARD MEETING

Bonneville Power Administration's Power Situation Statement was reviewed by the Board of Commissioners of Clallam County P. U. D. at their regular weekly meeting. The Statement stresses the continued need for energy conservation. The Board is noting the fine response of homeowners and businessmen alike in conserving electrical energy stated.

"Mandatory curtailment may not be required if each and every homeowner and businessman would respond to the need for a 10% reduction in power in the coming months.

Information received from the State Board of Health regarding an application for grant for the District's L. U. D. No. 3 was reviewed. The advisability of obtaining an engineering loan is to be reviewed, with a subsequent informational meeting to be called for residents in that area. Grant funds were not available on the District's request for the project since the first disbursement of funds was to be made to those projects which had progressed to a point where "dirt could be turned" in a construction program.

A manlift truck, which recently had a fiberglass boom broken, will be replaced with a new Pitman manlift unit. The work is expected to take 90 days to complete and will involve the installation of a new assembly. The cost for the replacement is $20,577.

ferred to the Department.

Family fire escape plan

The Washington Insurance Council warns against being unprepared should fire strike your home. The Council says that most home fires start between midnight and 6:00 a. m. and urges all families to draw up a plan-of-attack for nighttime escape procedures.

"You should sound the alarm but beforehand decide on a warning the whole family can use. It may be hot, loud, pounding on walls, whistling or striking pans.

"You should set doors before opening. Halls and stairways might fill with lung scorching, poisonous fumes. If a door is hot, do not open it.

"If you have a fire escape, make sure it is in good working order. Practice using it regularly. If you have a fire escape, make sure it is in good working order. Practice using it regularly.

*Before the fire, everyone should find alternative escape routes. You should figure out two ways to escape each room, especially bedrooms. *You should exit quickly. Speed is vital in case of fire. Get out fast.

*When making an escape plan, you should assign help for infants, the elderly and invalids. *You should plan ahead to gather at an outside meeting spot. Check if everyone is safe and then notify the fire department.

Fire Prevention Week -- October 7-13 -- marks a good time to begin practicing your fire escape plan, advises the Council.

ILLUMINATION ON HIGHWAYS REDUCED: Motorists using the state highway system are reminded by the Washington State Highways Department that illumination on highways, interchanges and rest areas has been reduced because of the emergency energy conservation program.

About half of the luminaires on the state highway system have been turned off to conserve electrical energy. Motorists are asked to drive carefully during this emergency cut back of highway lighting.

After carefully evaluating the safety aspect of reducing highway lighting, we have selected certain areas on the state highway system where we could temporarily reduce our lighting in accordance with Governor Daniel J. Evans' energy conservation program," said George H. Andrews, director of the Washington State Highway Department.

Andrews said the emergency cut-back will not apply to bridges, tunnels, traffic signals, sign lighting, or other areas with a high accident potential. Lighting in rest areas will be reduced in accordance with security requirements but lighting in the rest areas buildings will not be cut back.

Andrews said the cut-backs will have about 35 percent of the 29 million kilowatt-hours of electrical power used by the Department in highway lighting each year.

"We are deeply concerned over the safety factors involved in this lighting cut-back, and we are sincerely urging all drivers to be aware of this reduction in highway lighting and to drive safely in line with this emergency program," Andrews said.

PROFILE OF A DRINKING DRIVER: A profile of a drinking driver, compiled from a group of 100 drivers selected at random from among those arrested during the Seattle/King County Alcohol Safety Project, was released today by Jack Nelson, Director of the Department of Motor Vehicles.

BOGACHIEL GARDEN CLUB started the year with an indoor picnic at the Warren Paul home on September 20th. The affair was planned by Mrs. Richard Kallman, Mrs. Ron Shearer and Mrs. Tom Robinson. Mrs. Martin Shtitsky and Mrs. Jack Chapman, Second Assistant Director and Treasurer of Olympic Peninsula District, came from Port Angeles, and other guests were Mrs. James Whitehead, Mrs. Danny Payne and Mrs. Rex Hutchins.

Reports were given on the club's display at the 4-H Fair, their display at the County Fair which took 4th prize, and the Flower Show held in August.

Mrs. Warren Paul, president, reported the theme for the year will be "Beauty is our business", and the project for the year will be beautifying the city. The club voted to assist Mrs. Stanley's 3rd grade class in gardening and crafts. A number of garden books donated by Mrs. Vern Cone, a former member, were distributed to members by a drawing of lots. The program was presented by Mrs. James Whitehead, who told about raising dahlias from seed, as well as from tubers, and brought many beautiful specimens.

The next meeting will be a workshop with driftwood to be held at Mrs. A1 Ryberg's -- date to be announced later.

Because of the power shortage, the Christmas Trails contest in December will be daytime displays instead of night.

The "typical" drinker driver is a 40-year-old male earning $300 per month. Prior to his arrest by ASAP Enthusiast Patrol, he had 1.85 DWI (driving while intoxicated) arrests, .07 for physical control of a vehicle, .44 reckless driving, .44 negligent driving, .87 arrests for license violations, 1.44 arrests for speeding, 1.20 all other traffic arrests, and 23 accidents. Each arrest for DWI cost an average of $385 and took 11.18 hours.

His prior police record included 1.06 arrests for drunk charges other than driving, and .28 arrests for all other criminal charges.

Of the 6,000 drivers arrested for DWI during the three years of the federally funded project, less than two percent were women and their profile looks like this: 38 years old and earning $460 per month, she had one previous arrest for DWI, none for physical control or reckless driving, .34 arrests for negligent driving, none for license violations, .66 for speeding, .56 arrests for all other, and .11 arrests for accidents. Her prior police record included .44 arrests on drunk charges, and .33 arrests on all other criminal charges.

The (BAC) blood alcohol concentration of the sample shows that only 1.9% of the men refused to take the breath tests when arrested, there were none with a BAC under the legal limit of .10. 23% of the drivers stopped had a BAC between .10 and .14, 46% between .15 and .19, 27% between .20 and .24, and 7% at .25 or above. The mean BAC for male drivers arrested was .185 and for female .173.

Of those sampled among female drivers arrested none refused to take the BAC test and none had BAC levels below the legal limit. 22% were between .10 and .14, 44% between .15 and .19, 22% between .20 and .24, and 11% of the women had BAC readings of .25 or above.

Eighty-three percent of the random sampled males were employed. Most of the male drinking drivers were craftsmen, foremen, and kindred workers amounting to 27%.

The next highest category were managers, officials, and proprietors making up 20%, operatives and similar workers made up 15%, 13% were service workers, sales workers made up 11%, and both professional/technical and laborers made up 6% each.

One hundred percent of the sampled females were employed and most of those arrested, 83% were from the clerical field, 22% of the women were service workers, except private household, and 22% were managers, officials, or proprietors. Those employed in the professional/technical category amounted to 11% as did operatives and kindred workers.

Don Morehead, Project Director, said, "The figures prove again that the problem drinker driver is everyone's responsibility. Not only does he threaten all of us when he's behind the wheel, but he comes also almost equally from every level of society."

Geological Guide for Wash. coast available: A colorful and enlightening publication about rock formations of the Washington coast and the geologic history of which they reveal is now available from the Geology and Earth Resources Division, Department of Natural Resources, Bert L. Cole, Commissioner of Public Lands, announced today.

The report "Geology of the Washington Coast Between Point Grenville and the Hoh River" contains many outstanding photographs in both color and black and white. It has been designed for a wide group of readers and should be particularly attractive to hikers, or sightseers with a general interest in natural sciences, as well as students of geology.

The area covered includes a part of the Olympic National Park coastal strip, easily accessible at Kalalock, Ruby Beach and other beach trails.

Each illustration with its caption relates a geologic story in itself. The text develops more fully the geologic history of rock formations exposed in offshore sea stacks, low-tide out-crops, and many of the high cliffs along the Washington coast.

The text is in two parts. Part I discusses the processes that formed or deposited the various rock units, the conditions they have undergone, and at what time in the geologic past these events took place. Part II deals with the geology of individual segments of the coast along some 30 miles of a continuous traverse between Point Grenville and the Hoh River. The author, Dr. Weldon W. Rau, a geologist for the Geology and Earth Resources Division for the past 18 years, has devoted his professional career, including 10 years with the U.S. Geological Survey, to studying and writing about the geology of the Pacific Northwest. He is a specialist with microfossils of western Washington and Oregon and has written a number of technical articles on this and other geologic subjects.

The publication is an outgrowth of geologic mapping and tectonic studies that Dr. Rau is conducting along the coast and adjacent inland areas to provide basic geologic data for public use through published reports of the Geology and Earth Resources Division.

The report, Geology and Earth Resources Bulletin 66, can be purchased for $3 prepaid, from the Department of Natural Resources, Olympia, WA 98504.

MAKE HUNTING PLANS NOW

The State Game Department reports there will probably be a substantial increase in the number of hunters afield this year, as evidenced by increased licenses and tags sold this year to date. With this in mind, wildlife experts recommend that persons planning to go afield, especially the inexperienced plan their trips well in advance. Hunters should travel to prospective areas before the general season opens Saturday, October 13, in order to become familiar with public hunting areas. If you are planning to hunt on private land, landowner permission to trespass should always be secured whether land is posted or not.
