THE HOTEL ANGELES.

Col. Coolican Makes a Hotel Proposition to Angeles.

OUR CITY FAIRLY IN IT.

Mayor Smith, Colonel Coolican and Party Entertained in Victoria—All Are Very Highly Pleased with Our Prospects.

The initiatory step of the united action of the people to place Port Angeles in the van of growing young cities of the sound was taken on the 14th inst., at a meeting held at the Colony's office, where Col. Coolican, Charles Allen and David Oglivy, of Portland, were met by a deputation of our citizens among whom were men of such high business ability and prominence as Thomas Malony, E. B. Mastick, Jr., N. R. Smith, W. E. Smith, W. Brumfield, Louis Williams and L. Rockman, who were a committee appointed at a previous meeting of the Citizens' Association to confer with Colonel Coolican and party as regards the most advisable step to be taken toward bringing the advantages of Port Angeles into general public notice. That the conference resulted favorably, can be better understood, when it is known that the plans and specifications of a splendid modern hotel were submitted for the inspection of the assembly.

The committee were well pleased with the details of the hotel, and also with the terms offered by Colonel Coolican, which were that the building should be owned by himself and the capital which he had interested in the enterprise, and the citizens of Port Angeles, and each were to come to the front with their half of the costs, which were estimated at $120,000.

Colonel Coolican stated that he could command $60,000 immediately for this purpose, and wanted the citizens to subscribe an equal amount in real estate. In thirty minutes $25,000 was raised for this purpose, and assurance was given that the remainder would be forthcoming as soon as necessary.

The era of prosperity and rapid growth of all the largest and best western towns has commenced and acknowledges its greatest impetus to have been given by the hotels at which the traveling public finds accommodation.

Please a man with his board and he is delighted with your town. A short description of the hotel will prove very attractive reading:

The building will be 150x175 feet and will occupy grounds 200 feet square. It will contain in all 115 rooms of which eighty-five will be sleeping appartments. The ground plans are in the form of two wings at right-angles. Two sides of the building are encircled by a verandah from twelve to twenty feet in width. The office will be located in the center, at the junction of the two wings and connects with all apartments of the lower floor. On the right of the office are the billiard and commercial rooms, the main staircase hall and the stairway to the basement. On the left are situated the parlors, dining rooms with kitchens, the serving rooms and pantries being in the rear. A servants' entrance and stairway, leading to the attic, is found in the rear. The dining room is large and will be furnished in harmony with the hardwood panels of the ceiling. A private dining room opens off the principle dining hall on the left.

The music hall is located on the second floor and opens out onto a balcony. The second, third and attic floors are divided into chambers and rooms en suite. The plans are so perfect that every room in the house is lighted from the outside. Lavatories are situated on every floor, and many en suite apartments have private bath rooms. The structure is to be built of stone and brick, the stone to be quarried on the Coolican & Chandler estate, and the brick will be made in Port Angeles—in a word—this building will be constructed as far as it is possible, entirely of material found and manufactured in Port Angeles; by Port Angeles and for Port Angeles, and its name will be "The Angeles" and a fit abiding place it will be for angels if in its completion is realized the results promised by its plans. This ideal modern hotel will be a beauty spot upon a scene in the construction of which nature must have been in her happiest mood, and tried to see how beautiful a picture her hand could fabricate, and made this site sublime.

The Hotel Enterprise.

In consideration of the fact that many chronic grunters, from their own limited sphere of observation, may think the hotel project a little premature, and lacking the resources necessary to make it a success; it is well to state here in brief detail, some of the events which have transpired but recently to make this enterprise not only feasible but an absolute necessity.

It is a fact, conceded by even the envious enemies of Port Angeles, that a railroad will be constructed during the coming summer, which will connect this point by rail with the East, thereby establishing the best ocean terminus possessed by any of the great transcontinental lines. That Port Angeles possesses this facility and that her claim is a just one, is made apparent and indisputable by the fact that vessels employed in the South American, Australian, Chinese and Japanese trade can anchor securely in this harbor and await orders from their agents without the cost of extra towage or loss of time. For instance, if a vessel goes to Seattle or Tacoma for orders, she may receive such as will send her to Ports Gamble. Ludlow, Discovery, Utsalady or some other this side of her waiting berth, which would require the increased expense of towing back, while at Port Angeles, a vessel can be towed direct to the point at which she receives her cargo for a foreign port. To accomplish this desirable end; this must be made a port of call, and allow the vessels to enter and clear from any port which is most convenient, and not compel them to enter within forty-eight hours as is the case at present.

This is an advantage which our Victoria cousins have been aware of for several years and many there are who do not know that the Victorians have even now in an advanced stage of construction, a mole, built of solid masonry in which is a slip to receive the vessels of the transstraits railroad ferry system and they are looking upon Post Angeles as the other end of that line. There is no lack of funds to establish this system as, through the agency of Colonel Coolican and his colleagues, many capitalists of Portland and Victoria are only waiting for Port Angeles to take the initiatory step when they will respond to almost any financial demand made upon them. Then will the dreams of both Victoria and Port Angeles be realized.

A Visit to Victoria.

There is no end to the good feelings and fellowship existing between the people of Port Angeles and Victoria, whose interests are almost identical, the prosperity of the one depending in a great degree upon the other, and that this is appreciated by both parties, was demonstrated last Saturday and Sunday when a small party composed of representative men of this side paid their Victoria co-laborers a brief visit. The party comprised Colonel Coolican, Messrs. Charles Allen and David Oglivy, Mayor N. R. Smith, Ex-Mayor W. Brumfield, Messrs. B. F. Schwartz, president of the Bank of Port Angeles, Louis Williams, a well-known real estate dealer, E. P. Brown and L. F. Person. The visitors were met at the Hotel Driard by a large number of personal friends and the friends of Port Angeles, who covered themselves with the mantle of hospitality most completely. Speeches were made, toasts were drunk, hot scotch and champagne flowed freely, and a good time was enjoyed by hosts and guests.

For hospitality, Victoria has won laurels and a place in the heart of Port Angeles, which time, with all its change cannot dim nor efface.

The visitors were escorted to the dock by their hosts and returned to Port Angeles, Sunday night, glad to know that they had such delightful neighbors.

The G. A. R.

Pacific Post, No. 48, G. A. R., Woman's Relief Corps and the sons of Vetrans, held a joint installation of officers at the Opera House last Saturday evening.

The house was well filled and the audience was pleassd with the evening's exercises. The officers of the G. A. R. were installed by P. W. Gallup, and the officers of the Relief Corps were installed by Mrs. Ella Place. The officers of the Sons of Vetrans were installed by Captain Scott Wilcox.

After the installation ceremony was completed, remarks were made by Captain J. M. Dennis, C. M. Armbrust, Reverend J. M. Baxter and Judge McClinton. Recitations by Miss Ella Place and Mrs. Scott Wilcox were given. Rev. M. U. Squire made a few remarks, after which, solos were rendered by Misses Madge Haynes, Sarah Ferguson, Ethel Ferguson, Sealy Armbrust and Dolly Maloney, then Thomas Maloney addressed the audience, after which refreshments were served.

The young people indulged in a quiet little dance after the exercises were finished, which added much to the enjoyment of the occasion.

Mary Parker Sold.

The Farmer's Merchantile Company, of Dungeness, have sold their schooner Mary Parker to the Neah Bay Indian s, who will use it in the sealing industry. The Dungeness firm will, it is said, shortly buy a steamer for their jobbing business, which is so large that they are compelled to own a vessel of their own.

NOT YET, BUT LATER.

The Pacific Coast Steamship Company Heard From.

THERE IS HOPE YET.

An Account Will be Kept of Angeles Traffic, and the Boats Will Call as Soon as it is Justifiable—The New Road to Lake Crescent.

Messrs. C. A. Lundy & Company have received a communication from the superintendant of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company in regard to the matter of having the vessels of that company call regularly each trip at Port Angeles.

The result is a little disappointing, but gives hope that in a short time we may hear the whistles of their vessels blowing in our harbor, as the amount of freight received at this port is certain to increase.

The following is the substance of the communication:

"We have just completed arrangements under which our steamers will now have to go to Vancouver, B. C., each trip. The Canadian Pacific Railway company guarantee to us a large amount of business between San Francisco and Vancouver. The short time that the steamers have under their present schedule between the time of their departures on the return trip from that port, would alone prevent us, for the present, from calling at Port Angeles. We will, however, for the present at least, take freight for Port Angeles from San Francisco to Port Townsend at rates as follows: The wharfage at Port Townsend on such freight will be 25 cents per ton and connecting line will take such freight from us at Port Townsend to Port Angeles at one dollar per ton. This will enable you to received your freight at very low rates indeed, really less than the cost of transportation as business now is, and I think if we were making Port Angeles one of our regular places of call we could not afford to give you, permanently, rates that would average better than the through cost to you will under the rates as below. If, therefore, you get your freight via Port Townsend with dispatch, as you may, and at rates that would be very favorable if we were delivering goods at your port direct, your loss by our not going to Port Angeles for the present would be chiefly the loss of prestage which the calling of the steamships of this line might give to Port Angeles. We will keep a special memorandum of the quantity of Port Angeles freight that now comes forward by us, and whenever the volume of the business will warrant,, rates necessarily taken into consideration, we will send our steamers to Port Angeles.

General merchandise and articles not otherwise provided below, 20 per cent. off the rates as per our tariff, which is the tariff under which we have been doing business at Puget Sound for a considerable length of time. Tariff rate on general merchandise is $5 per ton, weight or measurement, steamers option. That would make our rate to Port Townsend on general merchandise $4 and the through cost to Port Angeles $5.25, or 25 cents per ton more than our regular tariff rate to Seattle, for example: Flour, feed, salt and table meals, $1.50 per 2,000 pounds; canned fruits and vegetables, $2.40 per 40 cubic feet; bacon and hams, $3 per 40 cubic feet; chain in packages, $3 per ton; oranges, $3 per 40 cubic feet; wire, $3 per ton; oil, lubricating, $3 per ton; powder, $7.50 per 2000 pounds; household goods, owners risk, released, $3 per 40 cubic feet; stoves, owners risk, released, $4 per 2,000 pounds; asphaltum or bituminous rock, in packages $2.50 per 2,000 pounds; machinery, 30 per cent. off of tariff; live stock, as per tariff; single package, not less than 75 cents each; sugar, $2.40 per ton; cement, $2.40 per ton; cigars, $4.80 per 40 cubic feet; coaloil, turpentine, etc., owners risk, $4 per ton; liquors in wood, value not over 50 cents per gallon, $2.40 per ton; other articles rated at over $6 per ton in tariff, 25 per cent. off."

This regulation of freights is probably the best arrangement that can be made for the present, and leaves us with the hope that a more favorable condition may be effected, at an early date, as the summer sun will shine upon Port Angeles through clouds with a golden lining.

On to Lake Crescent.

A petition for private subscription has been circulated among the ranchers settled upon land between Port Angeles and Lake Sutherland, for contributions for the building of a wagon road to connect with the county road at James Frank's ranch, thence up Bear valley two and a half miles to the lake.

The settlers of the Solduck are anxious to get into Port Angeles, to facilitate which they propose to act in conjunction with the settlers this side of Lake Sutherland and build a road from there to Lake Crescent. For this purpose $250 have already been subscribed, and as it will require about $500 to complete the road, the petition will be circulated among our business men, who will be expected to subscribe liberally, as they will be benefited most of all others by the opening of the road.

There are in the neighborhood of sixty settlers in the Solduck and vicinity, and as there is a large territory in that section unsettled, more are going in constantly, and Port Angeles can with little cost be made the outfitting depot for these homeseekers. Goods can be taken by wagon over a good road to Lake Crescent, across it by the steamer Lady of the Lake, to the west end, and from there to the Solduck by pack-horses.

There are settlers on every foot of desirable land around Lake Crescent, who are also desirous of coming to Port Angeles for their supplies, and are willing to aid in every way the opening of this road. Altogether the building of the road will bring about one hundred more customers to this place. Suppose that each individual requires an outlay of fifteen dollars per month for his maintainance. This would aggregate $1,500 per month spent among our merchants which they do not now get, and the end will certainly justify the means.

It will open a beautiful drive for the tourist, and there are no finer lakes for trout fishing on the continent than Lake Sutherland and Lake Crescent, and finer scenery cannot be found anywhere.

Senator Squire has been installed chairman of the committee of fortifications and coast defenses, which Senator Dolph resigned. The project of establishing on this coast a foundry for maksteel forgings for high-power guns for coast defense, will come before this committee, and Senator Squire will be in a position to wield great influence in having some point upon Puget Sound selected as the site. The plant will cost $1,000,000. Oregon's senator will make an effort to have it located somewhere near Astoria.

Superintendent Porter, of the census bureau, was before the committee on appropriations, requesting more help and more money and told of the volume of work his little force of men had to do. Representative O'Neil, of Mississippi, asked: "How long do your people work?" "From 9 o'clock until 4," answered the sensus superintendent. "Couldn't you accomplish 23 per cent. more work by making them work eight hours?" asked O'Neil, who added that people who did hard work worked eight hours and he did not see why those who had big pay and soft jobs should not work equally as long.

W. C. P. Breckenridge. in an address delivered at the annual of the Reform Club of New York, on the 16th, in regard to free trade said:

Our exports have exceeded imports, presumably an evidence of profit, by nearly $130,000.000, yet the commercial failures of the past twelve months are roundly estimated $193,000,000, compared with $175,000,000 for the much-talked-of hard year before. If, under conditions exceptionally, phenomenally favorable, we have these results, what will be the condition of our country with normal crops in Europe, and normal crops and prices here? The plain remedy for this is to radically reform the tariff.

"THE HOTEL ANGELES."

On another page will be found the details of the Hotel proposition made by Colonel J. S. Coolican, David Oglivy and others. It is gratifying to note the readiness of outside capital to take hold of the matter. It indicates the feeling of public opinion. It shows that Port Angeles is not unknown by those who have money to invest. It is not less pleasing to note the enterprise shown by our citizens in taking hold of the matter as they have, and it is to be hoped that they will not let the matter drop. The scheme is feasible. It is practical. The Hotel company propose to build an hotel of modern class. They ask one thing only; that is, that a bonus be raised to partly pay the expenses of the first year or two.

This is a reasonable request, and the company show good faith in taking the bonus in land, thus indicating their faith in the city's prospects. They also show that they mean to act as they say they will do, as they do not want the bonus until the building is finished and furnished.

It is simply a business proposition Colonel Coolican does not pretend to be doing a work of love. He has a large landed estate near our city, and, as a keen sighted business man, he sees the benefits our city would derive from the location of such a business institution in our city. Colonel Coolican is not a millionare. He does not claim to be one. He is not making junketing trips here from Portland for amusement. He expects to get value received for the money he expends.

This he will never do unless Angeles advances. He has spent thousands of dollars advertising our advantages and buying Angeles property, so, in a business way, he is interested in our growth and prosperity. In this connection, we might say, that a city's interested friends are its best friends. Now, let us show our appreciation of the situation, and what is being done for us, and get in and help to raise the bonus. Do not let the matter drop.

"MICHIGANIZED."

A great deal is being said by our nation's press about what is becoming known as "Michiganizing" a state. This term comes, as its names indicates, from the state of Michigan, and refers to the manner of choosing the members of the electoral college recently adopted in that state.

Under this system, instead of choosing the electors from the state at large, by popular vote, each congressional district chooses one member and the state at large two, each state being entitled to as many electors as it has representatives and senators. This system most Republican and some Democratic papers think all wrong. President Harrison deemed it of enough importance to discuss it in his message. He thinks the system objectionable and dangerous.

While there are two sides to this question, as there is to most questions, the chief objections lies in its innovation. There is always a howl sent up when anyone proposes a change. It was this prejudice against a change that made the people so slow to accept the Australian ballot law.

Mr. Harrison's talk about danger in the system is all nonsense. Its only real fault is the proneness of politicians to gerrymandering. However, there can be no doubt, but that the people are more thoroughly represented in the electorial college when it is chosen on the Michigan system than under that now in vogue.

For an example, the vote of New York, in round numbers, in 1884 was for Cleveland 563,000 and for Blaine 562.000. Thus, it will be seen that for all practical, the vote was a tie. Nearly as many voters in that state desired to see Blaine president as did Cleveland. But how was the state counted in the electoral college? Cleveland got the entire vote of the state, 562,000 voters were in other words not represented.

Now, if New York had been "Michiganized" in 1884 Cleveland would have received nineteen votes and Blaine 17. Who is there to say this wouldn't have more nearly represented the people of that state? It would also do away, in a great degree, with the influence of the "pivotal" states. The object for fraud and corruption would be greatly decreased. Campaign funds would be distributed over the country, and not into one or two states with the object of buying the state's vote.

That it would be a change for the better, there can be no doubt, and that we need a change is quite positive. Let the states do something in this line, and the influence of such political rogues as Dudley, Quay, Clarkson and Woods would be lost, and the country's good correspondingly increased.

A PORT OF CALL.

Port Angeles should be made a port of call. In another column will be found an interview with Captain Corneliusen, which should be carefully read by every citizen of this city.

The business men of this city should take this matter up and push it through. If Port Angeles could become the headquarters for all vessels seeking orders, it would add immensely to the trade of our merchants. It would at once become the headquarters for all the American tugs on the Sound. It would be a great boon for American tugs too, as every boat that goes to the Royal Roads has to be towed away by a British tug, thus taking trade that naturally belongs to our own boats.

Organize into a board of trade and take this matter in hand.

SENATOR CARLISLE is being talked of for President. If the nomination comes west the party could do no better than nominate him. Carlisle is the ablest man in congress.

"MADE for seeking vessels," is what Captain Cornilusen, of the Prince Edward, says of Port Angeles Bay.

TODAY THE DEMOCRAT publishes a call for a meeting of the Central Democratic Club of Clallam County. This is the first step in the right direction. The next will be for every one interested in good and genuine Democratic government to come in and help to redeem the county, state and nation.

PORT ANGELES needs a board of trade. In a live town like this there is always work for an active board of trade.

IF our prosecuting Attorney does not intend to prosecute cases, why does he commence them?

The Last Dance.

The second of the series of dances given by the "Angeles Club" was as a perfect a success as the first, in point of enjoyment and attendance.

The dancers were a little tardy in arriving, so the grand march was omitted, and the ball was opened with a quardrille.

The second program seemed to give greater satisfaction than the one adhered to upon the first occasion, as more waltzes were introduced, however, it would be a difficult matter to improve even in a slight degree upon these entertainments.

NEWS AND COMMENT.

The P.-I. in a special says: "If there is anything in the McKinley law that is popular with the masses in this country, it is the reciprocity clause. Any move to repeal this law would be rebuked at the polls next November."

Reciprocity and free trade are terms so nearly synonymous, that the P.-I. should have said anyone and everyone opposed to free trade will be severely sat upon next November—but it didn't.

OUR PEERLESS HARBOR.

The Prince Edward in our Bay—Visited By Citizens—An Interview.

One of the attractions in this city during the week has been the Norwegian iron ship Prince Edward, that has so gracefully floated at anchor in our bay. Not less attractive has been her genial captain, who has been frequently on our streets. Each time becoming acquainted with our townspeople and making friends, as to know this hale old seaman is to be his friend.

Saturday the Captain entertained a number of our prominent citizens, who met the ship's boat at the Laurel street wharf. The party consisted of Mayor N. R. Smith, Councilman F. S. Lewis, A. A. Smith, of the Times, J. W. Troy, of THE DEMOCRAT, L. F. Person, G. W. Meagher and Louis Williams.

Our beautiful harbor was never more beautiful than as the cutter gracefully moved off toward the good ship. At anchor in the bay were the Norwegian ship Kathinka and the Norwegian bark Czar. As the party party passed each of these vessels the inspiring emblem of old Norway was raised and the ship's officers appeared, with bared heads, on the quarter-deck. The salutes were returned by waving hats and handkerchiefs. As the good ship's cutter approached the leviathan proportions of the Prince Edward and rounded her stern, the colors were displayed in honor of the occasion. The party were received by the Captain, who proceeded to pilot them over the ship.

The Prince Edward is truly a magnificent ship. Her length is 297 feet and she registers 2,170.38 tons, having a carrying capacity of 3,100 tons. She has been engaged in the wheat traffic between San Francisco and Liverpool, making one trip a year, returning with a miscellaneous cargo, for some southern port from where she goes to San Francisco under ballast, or with Australian coal.

This good ship carries 52,000 bags of wheat and earns a goodly renumeration for her owners. The sides of the Prince Edward are of one inch plating, braced by solid iron stuntions five inches thick and strong iron beams. Her strength is great, and Captain Carneliusen says: "She has never brought home a pound of damaged cargo."

About the time all had become thoroughly aware of their ignorance of matters nautical, they were shown into the well aranged cabins and treated to old port that had become delicious by many times crossing the equator.

Captain Corneliusen is much pleased with Port Angeles, her citizens and, more than all, her peerless harbor. The Captain said that if Angeles was a port of call, as it should be, all the vessels coming to the Sound could lay at this place while awaiting orders, instead of laying at Royal roads as they now do. Continuing he said that "Port Angeles' bay was made by nature for seeking vessels."

"It combines good anchorage with entire protection from all storms. It not only surpasses Port Townsend," he said, "on account of its easy access, but it is safer and easier to get away from when orders are received." He said that if vessel owners knew they could come into Port Angeles and not be compelled to enter, as they now do, within forty-eight hours, nine-tenths of the vessels coming here would come this far without a tug, thus saving much expense. As it is, though, they are compelled to either enter or go to Royal Roads. In either case they will have to have a tug, and they get one at the cape. If they go to Royal Roads they have also to pay an English tug a fee of $100 or more. This would either be saved or paid to an American tug if Angeles was a port of call. Captain Corneliusen thinks that the people of Port Angeles should take this matter in hand, as Angeles is becoming known the world over as the safest and most accessible harbor on Puget Sound.

Late in the afternoon the party was escorted to the ship's boat by the officers. Everybody wishing that it may be Fortune's design to again, at no distant day, direct the Prince Edward and her fascinating captain toward our fair city to load wheat at elevators on our own bay.

The Working Habit.

It is to the idler and the slave tha life seems not worth living, but to the energetic, busy and earnest freeman, ambitious to do his prrt of the world's work, the days are too short, and the procession of years moves forward with too swift a pace. Good fortune has no gift quite so gracious as that of a willing hand and heart. These, devoted to the noble purpose of doing honest work, will work out for him who has them, success of the truest sort. So, with all his other getting, let a young man not neglect to asquire the working habit. Let him learn to be earnest, persistent, and even in the commonest kind of work thoroughly conscientious, and let him finish every task. It is the finished work that counts; the finished work that measures the strength of a man. Plain, common, hard work always precedes competency in any department of life. Ability cannot be bought with a price; it cannot be cast in a mould; it has to be wrought out, and we must all work if we ever win. Those, surely, succeed best, in the truest way, who acquire early in life the working habit, who have the confidence of their fellow men, who have sought and found the Kingdom of God and His righteousness. —C. E. Chase, Sunday evening, Jan. 17.

More Trouble for Judge Sachs.

In the Coella murder trial to-morrow John Fairfield, attorney for the defendant, will submitt nearly a dozen affidavits to Judge Sach, asking for a change of venue, alleging therein that Sachs is incompetent and unqualified to try the case. The affidavits censure Sachs severely, and it is not improbable that some attorney may be fined for contempt of court.—Seattle Telegraph.

The Texas Valley People Build a Magnificent Bridge by Volunteer Labor.

TEXAS VALLEY Jan. 20 (Special)—The citizens of this valley have just completed a fine bridge across the Dungeness river. Some time ago the citizens of Texas Valley offered to build a bridge across the river here, furnishing all wooden timber and labor free, if the commissioners would furnish the iron. This was agreed to, and the citizens at once organized by electing L S Hughes foreman, and went to work. They did not rest until the bridge was completed, and that all by volunteer labor. The bridge is 194 feet long and is in three spans.

The timber is all hewn, the flooring being hewn on all sides. The bridge is a creditable structure, and cost the settlers over $600, all told.

CITY COUNCIL.

Mayor Smith Appoints His Committees—Two Ordinances.

Mayor Smith has made the following committee assignments.

Finance—Peterson and Thompson.

Streets and sidewalks—Lewis and Thompson.

Ways and means—Bell and Peterson.

Lights, water and fire—Quinn and Metcalfe.

Health—Quinn and Lewis.

Ordinances—Thompson and McInnes.

Franchises—Lewis and Thompson.

Yesterday the council had a long session, lasting from two o'clock until five. The time was all taken up in considering two ordinances, one providing for the bonds of city officers and the other for their salaries. The ordinance providing for bonds was passed. It provides that the City Engineer, Police Justice and health officer shall give bonds in the sum of $500 each. The Marshall's and Clerk's bonds were fixed at $1000 each. The big fight occurred over the salaries, Dr. Lewis making a noble fight for fair salaries. The ordinance as it now stands provides for salaries as follows: Clerk, $50 per month, Marshall, $50 per month and two per cent. of all taxes collected. City attorney, $50; policemen, each, $50; health officer, $20; city engineer, $1000 per year. The ordinance is still pending, and will come up at two o'clock.

A Dollar and a Half's Worth.

James Whiteman was the subject of an assaul with intent to force the payment of $1.50, by Henry Waechter on the morning of the 19th. Whiteman was accosted by Waechter who demanded the payment of $1.50, which he claimed he did not owe, nor had he ever the honor of Waechter's acquaintance, and inquired his name. This was too much for Waechter; seeing the $1.50 was not "flashed up," so he fell afoul of Whiteman with such vigor and celerity, that the latter was laid prone upon the ground. He regained his feet, and the sum of $1.50 was immediately produced, and the one-sided mill came to an end. Whiteman swore out a warrant for Waechter's arrest. The case came on in regular order to be heard before his honor Judge S. P. Carusi, who mulct the ideal collector of old accounts in the amount of $5.00 and costs.

THE ARIZONA KICKER.

Every-Day Incidents in Western Editorial Life.

CURIOUS COINCIDENCE.—Most of our citizens will recall to mind Major Blackshaw, who spent some two weeks here last summer trying to break the faro banks. It is perhaps needless to say that he did not succeed. The Major visited us almost daily, and on one occasion showed us a human ear which had once belonged to a man in Prescott who called him a liar We believe he claimed he had carried the ear for sixteen years.

It seems that when the Major left here he went north, and one day fell in with a man and exhibited the relic. The stranger proved to be a brother of the man who lost the ear, and he not only took possession of it, but both of the Major's to boot. The latter will now know how it seems to have somebody using his ears to put an edge on a jack knife, and we can't say we feel a bit sorry for him.

LOCATED.—As there was some little misunderstanding as to what had become of the man who stole Gen. Hennessy's white mule from in front of the post-office the other night, we rode out into the country about three miles yesterday and obtained all possible particulars. The stranger is at present located adout four rods to the west of the Raisin Valley trail after it crosses Buffalo Creek, and some one has put a head-board with an inscription on it to the effect that he died of heart failure. We think he did. We think that several other organs failed him at the same time. Any one who thinks he got away is laboring under a mistake, and such an idea also does the boys injustice.

TOLD HIM SO.—On several different occasions we have said to Ben Williams through these columns that this town couldn't appreciate a man of his eccentric conduct. Ben didn't believe us. He continued to drink, quarrel and shoot at everybody who differed with him on biblical questions, and last night the boys took him out and gave him four dozen lashes on the bare back and asked him if he wanted a change of climate. He did. He wanted it bad. He was hunting for it when last seen, and if he is wise he won't return here for some years to come.

In this connection it may be well to say a few words to Hank White, who acts as bouncer for the Red Star saloon. He has tried to kill three or four men in the last four weeks, and we believe him to be the party who fired a dead jackass rabbit through our bedroom window last week. Unless he makes a great change in his conduct the boys will get up a surprise party on him soon, and their little affairs are never pulled off without someone getting hurt.

***

WILL BE HERE.—We received word the other day from Col. John Fairbanks, who is running a cactus farm about twenty miles west of town, that he would try and come in sometime within a fortnight and shoot us full of lead. The Colonel seems to have got riled because we blasted his political ambition by proving that he sold himself to both parties last year and ought to be rode out of Arizona on a three cornered rail.

We shall be home every day in the week for the next month, and the Colonel needn't mind knocking on the door when he calls. He may just walk right in and begin popping away, and if he downs us no one about the office will do anything to prevent his getting away. We can feel our private graveyard just aching for another victim.

"BARBAROUS."

M. Tirard's Opinion of the American Protective Law.

M. Tirard, formerly French Minister of Finance, in an interview on the subject of negotations for a commercial treaty between France and the United States, said: "Treaties of this kind are useful as a modus vivendi between countries where tariffs are so high that they paralyze trade. A treaty with the United States will be extremely opportune, and will go a long way to secure our enthusiastic participation in the Chicago Fair. The McKinley law has so harmed our trade that I would favor going to the United States for staples when it is impossible to obtain them elsewhere. The McKinley administrative bill is a barbarous piece of legislation and has caused a great deal of ill-feeling in France. The whole McKinley law is due to an error of judgment. The Americans argue that as their exports are natural products that other nations must have, they would be sure to find buyers, and so they could shut their ports to foreign manufactures. This reasoning is fallacious. The population of the United States might easily increase to four times the present figure in twenty years. In that case America would become a still greater exporting country. Look how England has developed since she adopted free trade. If the United States were to adopt a like policy America would soon govern the markets of the world. By following the policy of prohibitory protection she restricts the future to the limits of home consumption. In France, where it is impossible to devolop resources any further, there may be some excuse for protection, but not so in America, where the possibility of development are unbounded."

King of Games—Some Suggestions to the Hostess.

This facinating game of cards is rapidly becoming the favorite pastime throughout the United States, as it has always been the society game in Canada and England. Apparently, Port Angeles is in her turn endeavoring to keep pace with the social customs of the east, by giving whist parties, and the charming hostess, who is diplomatic enough to apportion good players together is sure to earn their deep appreciation, for where one indifferent player is in a "four" it is rarely that any etiquette is observed. Even before a fair knowledge of the game is acquired, those who aspire to become "cracks" are advised to observe what is known as whist etiquette, otherwise their progress is sure to be retarded, and under such circumstances one would find it rather difficult to secure a good partner. For the benefit of those ladies, who are contemplating social gatherings with this game as an attraction, the following few rules are kindly suggested, and, if carried out, are certain to promote an interest in the play, and moreover, the hostess (and players) will be tacitly adopting the custom of polite society elsewhere.

Make up the first set from among the best players.

It is not necessary to have an equal number of each sex in a set; three gentlemen and a lady are always allowable, or vice versa.

Beginners should always play together.

If while play is going on, a guest arrives, the hostess should entertain him till the hand is finished, for, during the play absolute silence is to be observed.

By carefully following this simple routine, the game will have additional charm, and those who are partial to it can easily concentrate thinking powers so as to follow the run of the play.

The accompanying card is very much in vogue

Among the devotees here in town are a few scientific players, and a great many of both sexes, who are making great strides towards attaining a knowledge of the many difficult maneuvers necessary to become one of the first rank.

In the writers' opinion, the palm for proficiency in play among the fair sex is carried by one of Angeles' fairest daughters, who, by the way, shares the honor of being the belle of the city with another, whose many fascinating qualities have endeared her to a host of acquaintances.

Of the gentlemen Mr. Ben Smith, Mr. John D. Hickok, Mr. B. F. Schwartz, Mr. Frank Hall, Dr. I. R. Herrick, Mr. R. A. Grimes and Captain Dixon, are considered to be the "leaders," with Mr. Ben Smith perhaps as the masterhand.

Mr. Smith's play is of the regular modern school, cautious where he has the game well in hand, and daring where his side requires it. Mr. Hickok is, without doubt, the most phlegmatic of players, always cool and collected, never betraying by any outward sign the strength or weakness of his hand.

Mr. Schwartz is venturesome, and as a consequence, oftentimes suffers for it.

Frank Hall does not believe in playing his own hand to the exclusion of his partner's, but tries to fall in with him—a sign of good playing.

Dr. Herrick and R. A. Grimes are two of a kind, so far as playing goes, adopting nearly the same tactics.

Captain Dixon is also a careful player. WHIST.
