NEEDED IMPROVEMENT

An Energetic Street Committee and Its Work.

OUR GRAND HIGHWAYS

The Good Work Which has Been Accomplished Within the Last two Months—Day Labor Employed Only Under the Street Commissioners.

The present city council with its street committee have placed the residents of almost every part of the city under special obligation to them for the manner in which the duties of their offices have been discharged. A number of important streets have been graded and opened in a manner at once cheap and beneficial to the entire community. Wagons may now deliver their loads of merchandise in many parts of Angeles where, but three months, ago it was difficult to go afoot.

Laurel street, one of the most important thoroughfares in the city, has been rendered such within the last two months by the splendid grading made at its junction with First street, which establishes a connection between that street and Front.

Lincoln street from First to Second has been made passable for teams. the street committee having ordered a fill and cut, the fill being supported by a crib, which is second only to that of the Second street bridge. At the head of the Lincoln street grade Second street is graded from that point to Oak. The work performed here is of the very best quality, as the entire street has been improved by puncheons, which have been covered with a foot of sandy soil, with a ditch upon each side.

Laurel street has again been graded and cleared from Second out to Sixth street, and gives to the public four blocks of good highway, with a ditch upon either side. Nearly this entire street is underlaid with puncheons so that there will be no danger of teams miring there in the future.

Francis street, from Front to Caroline, is now provided with an important ditch, which not only drains the immediate roadway, but also the property adjoining. This street is underlaid with cedar puncheons, after the same manner as Second and will prove a great convenience to the inhabitants of that part of the city.

The Second street bridge will be completed immediately and gravel will be thrown upon Lincoln street from First to Second. The street commissioner will use the earth which came down in the slide on First street to finish the fill on Laurel between First and Front. Before the summer is half gone Angeles will have a number of good streets over which it will be a pleasure to drive. All this week teams and men have been at work filling the holes on Front street between its extention and Lincoln street.

It is the intention of the present street committee to improve, as far as possible, all the streets of the city. Cherry street will next receive their attention, upon which, some needed and important work will be performed.

AT THE CAPITOL.

WASHINGTON, April 2, 1892.

Speaker Crisp probably wishes as sincerly as any man in or out of Congress that the Bland free coinage bill had been disposed of last week, and that there was some honorable way of escaping a renewal of the fight this week. But there isn't. Nothing will satisfy either side but a decisive victory. Mr. Crisp's position in the fight last week was anything but pleasant to him. Although it had been sometime ago decided that the free coinage of silver should not be made a party measure, he found himself confronted by a majority of the Democrats in the House, together with eleven Republicans and the Alliance members, who favored free coinage, and a strong minority of Democrats and seven-eighths of the Republicans, among whom were some of the ablest and most experienced parliamentarians in the House, who were opposed to it. That the speaker, who has always been in favor of the free coinage of silver, found the role of presiding officer a trying and difficult one to fill, to his own satisfaction, to say nothing of others, is not strange; and it is greatly to his credit that no serious fault was found with his rulings.

This week he will have it all to go through with again, as the committee on rules will report another special rule, calling up the silver bill, and, it is expected, cutting off debate and fillibustering of all sorts. It is probable that the contest over the adoption of this rule will be as bitter and exciting as were any of the fights in Czar Reed's billion dollar congress, and its result appears to be in doubt. Since last week's surprise the prophets are all lying low and sawing wood."

The out of town engagements made by the sub-committees of the committees on the World's fair and on manufactures of the House are off until the silver bill shall be finally disposed of by the House.

The House census committee has invited General Francis A. Walker to tell what he thinks of the proposition for establishing a permanent census bureau.

Mr. Harrison has approved in a special message the bill appropriating $100,000 for the G. A. R. encampment in this city next September, but there is a good deal of opposition to the bill, on constitutional grounds. It is held that if it be proper for the general government to appropriate money for a national gathering of the members of one non-official organization, it will be the same for all others.

Representative and Senator-elect Mills will not take his seat in the Senate until the free coinage bill and the free wool bill are finally disposed of by the House.

Certain friends of Mr. Harrison have been making an effort to make an alliance, offensive and defensive, with Secretary Rusk, to whom they have offered the second place on the ticket with Mr. Harrison, but Secretary Rusk, while personally in favor of the renomination of Mr. Harrison, hesitates to do any thing that might prevent him from accepting the nomination himself, should it be discovered that the convention was not favorably disposed towards Mr. Harrison.

Besides Mr. Rusk has been requested by prominent Republicans of his State to keep himself free from any entangling alliances with any other candidate, in order to give them a chance to work for his nomination.

The Senate is going through another violent attack of the newsparer fever, and is pretending to be very much interested in discovering by what underhanded methods the wicked correspondents get the full details of everything done in the executive sessions, whereas every school-boy in Washington knows it is the senators themselves that furnish the correspondents with news. The special occasion of this attack was the publication of what the senators said in executive session about the arbitration treaty, which they had formerly concluded to ratify, but are as yet undecided whether to make a renewal of the modus vivendi a condition of its going into effect. They will decide this week.

There is a curious story going around concerning Mr. Harrison and Mr. Blaine. It says that Mr. Blaine attended the last cabinet meeting, and there for the first time learned the full extent of Mr. Harrison's management of the Bering sea business, and that when asked to give his advice declined to do so, saying, in effect, that he preferred having nothing to do with it.

It is denied at the navy department that any orders have been issued concerning the policing of Bering sea, but it is well known that there are not enough revenue cutters in the Pacific to do the work, and that naval vessels will have to help if it is to be done.

Silver Mines to Close.

The closing down movement in the big mines of Colorado continues.

The Larmartine in the Idaho Spring district has given the men its ultimatum to either accept a reduction of 50 cents per day or close down

Henry R. Wolcott has said that his company was considering the closing down of their mine at Creede.

Hailey B. Morse admits that he is going to close down all his silver properties in Gilpin county.

Racing on the Ocean.

The race between the British ships Buteshire and Armadale, from San Francisco to Dunkirk and Falmouth respectively, was mentioned a few days ago when both vessels were sighted off Falkland only a mile apart. At that time the two ships were fifty-six days out from San Francisco with the Buteshire in the lead. A dispatch received at the Maritime exchange from Falmouth on March 31, announced the arrival at that port of the Buteshire.

Trouble of Steamboat Men.

The long threatened strike of river men occured ot St. Louis March 31, and 2,000 marine firemen, longshoremen and roustabouts, all negroes, are idle. The strike is for increased pay and the employment of union men only.

Four vessels arrived the night before and are unable to discharge their cargoes and a number of others are lying at the docks unable to unload.

Stole the Signals.

A gang of well organized theives certianly must inhabit Angeles. Some of their petty pilferings have nearly caused damages of a serious nature. Tuesday morning as the Hermosa came into port from Neah Bay, no lights were out upon dock, although Ed Campbell placed two signals in their accustomed places at dark Monday. The miscreants seeing them, concluded that the lanterns might be converted into money, and removed them.

The Hermosa Tuesday morning seeing a light at the mast head of the sloop, Morning Star, steered for it, thinking it was the dock light, and narrowly missed cutting the sloop in two. Charles Cook, the efficient night watchman, seeing the mistake the Hermosa's pilot had made, hailed the boat when the landing was made and all danger avoided.

THE BOARD OF TRADE.

A Permanent Organization Formed.

IMPORTANT MEASURES.

Colonel Coolican and C. S. Young to go to Washington—They are Instructed by the Board of Trade—The Squatters Make Prof. Young Their Representative.

Last Monday evening a meeting of the business men and other citizens of Angeles was held at the office of C. E. Mallette for the purpose of organizing a Board of Trade. Among those present were: N. R. Smith, James Meagher, B. F. Schwartz, C. M. Kent, R. A. Grimes, M. Geraghty, A. A. Smith, Dr. E. George, Frank Fisher, J. H. Johnson, C. E. Mallette, J. S. Coolican, C. S. Young and L. Rockman.

B. F. Schwartz was elected temporary chairman; Mr. Coolican was elected president. R. A. Grimes vice-president C. E. Mallette secretary and James Meagher treasurer.

It was moved by N. R. Smith that a committee be appointed to draft a set of by-laws. The chair appointed R. A. Grimes, W. Brumfield and N. R. Smith.

Prof. C. S. Young, of San Francisco, was elected an honorary member, which motion was carried.

A motion was then made that members of the Board of Trade discontinue their subscriptions for the Seattle papers until such time as they can be delivered here upon the day of publication.

A committee was then appointed to correspond with and instruct the delegates to Washington regarding the matter of the appropriations of the proceeds of the sale of the Port Angeles reserve to Clallam county. This committee was composed of A. A. Smith, C. W. Kent and S. P. Carusi.

A resolution was passed to be sent to the Seattle Board of Trade expressing their dissatisfaction with the present steamer service, and requesting the aid of that body in securing a better.

Col. Coolican and Prof. C. S. Young made a few remarks upon the importance of the organization, after which the meeting adjourned until Tuesday at 4 o'clock.

The adjourned meeting of the Board of Trade convened at the appointed hour when the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The report of the committee on by-laws was submitted, which laws were a revision of those at present governing the Chamber of Commerce of Seattle, and were not considered to be such as would answer the requirements of this Board of Trade, so, upon motion, the by-laws were recommitted for alteration; Mr. B. F. Schwartz being appointed to act with the former committee.

The report of the instruction committee was read and approved, when the secretary was instructed to furnish each member of the committee with a copy of the instructions, which were as follows:

To the Honorable Norman R. Smith, James S. Coolican and C. S. Young.

GENTLEMEN: We, the committee, appointed by the Board of Trade of the city of Port Angeles, Wash., to suggest matters of vital interest to said city, to the delegates elected to proceed to Washington city for the purpose of bringing to the immediate attention of the United States government, and to representatives, the pressing wants of said city, beg leave to submit for your earnest consideration, the following as the most imperative and momentous of our infant city, and urge upon you the necessity of untiring energy and zeal in the prosecution thereof:

The speedy opening of the United States reserve to public sale.

To urge the early appointment of appraisers to appraise the same.

To secure to the squatters the privilege of making final proof at the city of Port Angeles, before a commissioner or agent, to be appointed by the honorable, the commissioner of the United States land office, and the last, on account of the impoverished condition of said squatters.

ALLEN'S BILL.

To endeavor to have Senator Allen's bill, in regard to the sale of the United States reserve accruing to Clallam county.

CEMETERY.

To petition commissioner of United States land department to set aside sixty acres of the United States reserve as, and for, a public burial ground for the dead of Port Angeles, Wash.

PORT OF CALL.

To make our city a port of call.

QUARANTINE.

To have a quarantine fixed, or located at Neah Bay.

FERRY BETWEEN ANGELES AND VICTORIA.

To secure permit from the treasury department to own a ferry between Port Angeles and Victoria, B. C. Name no party to whom license shall be granted. Leaving minor details to the collector of the port at Port Angeles, Wash.

Naming you, Norman R. Smith, mayor of the city of Port Angeles, Colonel James S. Coolican and C. S. Young, delagates elect of the Borad of Trade of the city of Port Angeles, Wash. We have the honor to be Very respectfully,

S. P. CARUSI,
C. M. KENT,
Committee.

A committee was appointed to present to the public the objects and functions of the Board of Trade. This committee was composed of A. A. Smith, C. D. Ulmer, and W. W. Dedman. The meeting then adjourned until Thursday at 4 o'clock.

At Squatters' Hall.

A meeting of the squatters upon the reserve was held in the Squatters Hall, last Tuesday evening, for the purpose of taking some action leading up to the appraising and opening of that land. Mr. Banks voluntarily occupied the chair, and stated the object of the meeting. Nominations were called for a chairman and Mr. John Henson was unanamously elected. Mr. Henson addressed the meeting and said: "The object for which we are gathered here this evening is, that the Squatters Association, or their representatives may meet and receive advice from Col. Coolican and Prof. C. S. Young, which gentlemen in company with our mayor N. R. Smith intending visiting Washington city immediately, and as the gentlemen are very much interested in Port Angeles they have kindly offered to perform any good office which may become necessary and possible for the people of Angeles. They are here to-night only waiting to receive instructions from you regarding the manner in which their efforts will in the greatest degree conduce to your prosperity and happiness. They do not ask you for a cent, but only want your hearty endorsement that the good they may do, will not be hampered by a lack of proper credentials and authority."

Col. Coolican addressed the meeting for a few minutes and was followed by Mayor Smith.

Prof. C. S. Young made a few very impressive remarks, and was followed by John C. Murphy. Judge Smith favored the assemblage with a short address.

The result of the meeting was happily attained by the act of the squatters in giving Prof. Young full power and authority to act for them in matters connected with the opening of the reserve during his sojourn in Washington city.

The three gentlemen were appointed delegates to Washington to use their best endeavors to bring about a realization of the instructions given them by the Board of Trade committee Monday evening. Col. Coolican, the president of the Port Angeles Board of Trade, Mayor Smith, in his official capacity and Prof. Young, as the representative of the squatters, will leave in a few days for Washington where they will leave nothing undone, to promote the welfare of this community.

At a meeting of the Essex County (N. J.) council, the lunatic asylum committee reported that the superntendent of the asylum had informed them that the chief cause of lunacy was the marriage of cousins and the next principal cause was drink.

John and Samuel Manning, twin brothers, living on the same farm near Reserve, Ind., married twin sisters in 1881, both of whom died in 1889. In 1891 the brothers became acquainted with twin sisters named Swope, and there was another double wedding.

How much a man may love a horse and hate to lose him has recently been shown in the case of an old farmer back in Illinois, who traveled over 1,000 miles of country trying to find an old $25 plug which was stolen from him two years before. He found the animal at last in Georgia.

A Utica, N. Y., church has placed in its Sunday-room what is known as a Sunday school thermometer. It is a novel device for registering the attendance of the Sunday school every Sunday as announced by the secretary. It runs from zero to 560, and changes every Sunday.

CALL FOR THE DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION.

Following is the call for the Democratic state convention to assemble at Vancouver; Wednesday, May, 26, 1892:

A general convention of the Democratic party of Washington is hereby called to meet in the city of Vancouver, Clarke county, Washington, on Wednesday, May 25th, A. D. 1892, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of selecting eight delegates and eight alternate delegates to represent the Democracy of Washington in the Democratic National Convention which meets at Chicago, Tuesday, June 21st, 1892, to nominate a candidate for President and Vice-President.

The basis of representation shall be as follows, viz:

Three delegates-at-large for each county and one delegate for each one hundred votes, and one delegate for each fraction thereof in excess of fifty cast for the Hon. Thomas Carroll, Democratic candidate for Congress at the general election held November 4, 1890.

Upon the foregoing basis counties are entitled to representation as follows, viz:

MORE ABOUT SILVER.

THE DEMOCRAT is not opposed to the agitation of free coinage of silver for political reasons. It is not afraid of the free coinage issue. But it is opposed to its consideration for the sake of the issue itself. If it can be shown that it is not a political question, that there is no political capital to be made out of it, the people of the West, regardless of party, will unite as they did on the Chinese question, and demand favorable legislation. The South and West, with their great agricultural interests and all their boundless resources, can compel legislation that will give them an equal footing with Eastern capitalists. They will do this in the matter of coinage, as soon as it is seen that it is not a question of party fealty. But, in the meantime, let Congress give its attention to the tariff. It is of first consequence now.

GOVERNOR LEWIS.

The movement for the nomination of Colonel James Hamilton Lewis for governor has become almost an irresistable boom.

It is announced that the coal miners of Black Diamond and other mining districts are unanimous for the eloquent colonel. The Montesano Democrat thinks he would be all right. The Vancouver Register announces itself for Colonel Lewis, when it was supposed that Clarke county had a candidate of its own. Now Chester H. Warner, the farmers candidate of Eastern Washington, has said he is not a candidate, and that he thinks James Hamilton Lewis the man for governor. The Snohomish Democrat says the colonel will get the Snohomish county delegation. To this may be added, without much doubt, the delegations from Clallam and Jefferson, in fact the whole northwestern portion of the state.

The citizens of this state are to be congratulated on the happy result of the State Convention. James Hamilton Lewis will be nominated and elected governor of Washington.

AN INSULT.

The Democrats claim to have a club of forty-nine members at Clallam Bay. If they had only gone a little farther west and struck the Indian reservation they might have formed a much bigger club—all natives.—Port Angeles Tribune.

This is an insult to the business and professional men, the farmers and laborers of Clallam Bay, that will not be relished by that enterprising and thrifty people.

THE DEMOCRAT dislikes to offer explanations for any impression that may be created away from home by the idiocy of this alleged newspaper, but it will take occasion to assure the people of Clallam Bay that the hybrid organ of the county commissioners does not represent the best element, or the true sentiment of Port Angeles. The citizens of Port Angeles entertain a far different opinion of the thriving town of Clallam and its progressive citizens, than this slur of the Tribune would lead one, who does not know the character of the paper, to believe.

IN consideration of the present unwarrantable condition of our postal service, caused by the withdrawal of the Geo. E. Starr from the Port Townsend-Port Angeles route, a condition of adversity confronts us, which every citizen of Angeles should use his best efforts to overcome, and by concerted action upon our part only, can we hope to see our grievances mitigated. Our mails will arrive one day at 11:30 a. m., the next day at 5 p. m. and so on, until our citizens will be worried into being thankful that they are permitted to breathe one day as another. Our cup of unhappiness would truly be full to overflowing if the tide should fail to ebb once each day, thus uncovering the clam beds, but, thank goodness, no transportation company controls the tides.

THE organ of the Republican ring of Clallam county is supporting McGraw for delegate to the National Republican convention. McGraw is the leader of the Seattle ring that was so humiliated in the late election, the ring that is now managing the affairs of our young state. This brief statement shows something. It is a pointer to the citizens of this county that if they wish to be safe they had better not depend on a ship that is in such hands as the Republican party of this state and county. Do as was done by the people of Seattle, McGraw's home, where he is best known. Act with the Democrats. Help that party to set things right in this county as your fellow Republicans did in Seattle.

THE Republicans of this section are not, by any means, so highly elated over the result of the Tacoma election, as were the Democrats when the magnificent 2,000 majority was given by the voters of Seattle to defeat the ring which had controlled that city's affairs for years. A majority of 150 votes elected Huson mayor of Tacoma, which result, though meager, was attained by almost superhuman efforts on the part of the ring.

The normal Republican majority in Tacoma of 1,200 in dwindling down to 150, makes that number seem so insignificant, that it may not be considered as of any importance whatever, and certainly argues most favorably for a Democratic victory in Tacoma next fall, when other and greater issues of state and national importance will incite the 150 to down the ring which has ruled to ruin, and elect officers whose public careers have been consistent with honesty.

THE chicken which adorned the the second column of the "Rag" in the issue of the 6th inst., is probably the same which the west end citizen was looking for so far away from home. It really seems to have travelled far, and to have been fed upon forlorn hope.

THE Tribune says there will be several candidates for Superior judge before the Republican convention. Is this a news item, or is the ring sharpening its knife for Judge McClinton?

MCGRAW and his gang still cast their blight over Tacoma.

Bank of Port Angeles makes loans to settlers to prove up with.

NEWS AND COMMENT.

Earl Delaware, formerly Sackville West, has arbitrarily stopped a public foot-path because it enabled the villagers to walk near his house.

Now listen. It will not be many moons until some English worshiping American will emulate the earl's example and do precisely the same thing, or as near it, as his very limited amount of brains will allow.

Detectives arrested six sisters near Boise City, Idaho, suspected of having robbed the stage. They are said to have committed many highway robberies in that section in male attire, and under the compulsion of their father.

Now is the acme of womans' rights attained, and Idaho has the glory of furnishing the most brilliant example of what a woman can do, who will. How delightful it would be, to be "stood up" and "touched" for all you had by a beautiful female bandit.

Electricity, as a mode of punishing refractory children, has been introduced in a New Jersey reform school. A current of electricity is received at the base of the skull throught a wet sponge.

This is hardly humane, and its tendency to produce serious injury is greater than the time honored process of spanking. If the same inventive genius will improve upon his machine an develop an electric spanker, many mammas' slippers and papa's boot-johns may be retired from office.

Five cadets at the military school in Krajova, who were members of a Suicide club of nineteen, shot themselves dead in their rooms. Each member had sworn to kill himself when his lot was drawn.

How fortunate, that this sad affair occurred not at our West Point, or thereby five valient soldiers might have been lost to Uncle Sam. Our boys are content with cigarette clubs, which produce death more slowly, but just as sure.

Elizabeth, N. J., has passed an ordinance which provides for the arrest of any female, under 16 years of age, caught attending any picnic, ball, dance house or like place of amusement, unattended by one of her parants or legal guardians, imposing a fine of $10 for each offense.

New Jersey should send a few mosquitoe delegates out to the wild west to imbibe a few of the principals taught girls in the noble art of taking care of themselves at picnics. The new law is a sad commentary upon the inate virtue and moral rectitude of their young women, which implies that an opportunity is all that is needed to make a virtuous girl a harlot. The New Jersey girl must now have lost all confidence in herself, and consequently has parted with one of the most admirable attributes of American womanhood.

The house passed the Chinese exclusion act April 4, by a vote of 179 to 43. The bill absolutely prohibits the coming into the United States of all Chinese persons except the minister from China, his attaches and servants. The Chinese consul at New York, says, that his country will certainly adopt retaliatory measures of equal severity.

As a class, the Chinese are certainly the most undesirable of all immigrants who seek homes in this country. In no wise do they contribute to the general weal, but, by their religion, secret societies and vicious opium habit, have added much to the general woe. They have reduced the price of a day's labor upon the Pacific coast to such a figure that an American laborer with a family—among which, in time to come, may be two or three brave soldiers—cannot earn enough to keep his family in food, and yet, this glorious government, which one day may call upon his sons to defend it from a foreign enemy, stunts the growth of his children by forcing him to compete with heathen labor. O Democracy! save us from greater evils, and make the pig-tails shinny on their own side of the Pacific.

The Pawnee Indians, of the Indian territory, are holding ghost dances, have donned the war paint and trouble is anticipated. White Black and Buffalo Black, two leaders, have been arrested by United States marshals.

"On with the dance" and soon the Pawnee country will be declared open for settlement.

Roger Q. Mills, elected United States senator from Texas, is a bold, bright, frank, hot-tempered man, a crank on the subject of absolute free trade and an income tax, but a man of superior powers of debate and personally popular with all who know him. He was an officer in the Confederate army during the rebellion. In point of intellect and general parliamentary equipment Mr. Mills is superior to any man who has represented Texas in the United States senate since the war.—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

In taking medicine due regard was formerly paid by the superstitious to the moon at that time—different parts of the body, they supposed, being under its influence, acording to the zodical sign through which the planet happened to be passing at that time.

ON TO WASHINGTON.

Past Experiences of the Men Elected to Go to Washington.

In consideration of the high compliment paid the delegates selected by the Squatters' meeting Tuesday evening, a more intimate acquaintance with their public career was sought by THE DEMOCRAT representative, that the squatters might from it become informed as to the ability of the gentlemen to perform all they have promised. The following brief resume is given with this end in view:

C. S. Young, who was named by the Squatters' association at their meeting last Tuesday evening to represent their interests at Washington, has had a great deal of experience in public matters at Washington and elsewhere. In 1882, on the same ticket with our Lieutenant Governor Laughton, he was elected state superintendent of public education, of Nevada; in 1884 he was first vice-president of the International Educational association, and one of the speakers at the World's Fair at New Orleans; in 1885 he gave an address at the National Educational convention, at Washington, on the "Co-education of the Races," on educating the Indians and Chinese of the Pacific coast, and the following year (1886) he was unanimously elected as the president of that convention, also held at Washington. Among the prominent speakers named on that program were: State School Superintendent McElvoy, of Oregon; State School Superintendent Campbell, of California; also Senators Stewart, of Nevada; Blair, of New Hampshire; Congressmen McKinley, (now governor) of Ohio; and General John A. Logan, of Illinois. In 1884 he was a delegate to the National Republican convention in Chicago, and represented his state on the committee to notify Blaine and Logan of their nomination. In 1887 and '88 he was attorney and land agent for the state of Nevada, to secure to the state the title to a half million or more acres of lands.

He now represents a large number of clients, having claims against the government for depredations committed by Indians, and amounting to several hundred thousand dollars. In addition to other matters he is on his way to Washington to prosecute those claims before the court of claims, recently established by a special act of Congress.

Mr. Young went East several times to secure an appropriation for the establishment and maintainance of the school for Indians, now at Carson City, Nevada, and not less than four different times he went East representing officially the city of San Francisco and the state of California, to induce the National Educational association to hold their sessions in San Francisco, and it will be remembered that this was done three years ago. It will be seen that, upon his record in public service, both at Washington and away from there, the Squatters' association need have no fear but that their interests intrusted to him will be carefully attended to, and, that everything will be done that can be done to obtain for them their legal rights.

Colonel J. S. Coolican is too well and favorably known throughout the entire width and breadth of the land, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, to require very many comments made upon his career but suffice it to say, that he has been connected with more gigantic enterprises than almost any other man upon the coast, and in each and every attempt the most flattering success has rewarded his efforts. Winnipeg is to-day, and enduring monument to his business ability and untiring energy.

In 1879 Colonel Coolican established the price of real estate along the line of the Canadian Pacific railroad from Winnipeg to Vancouver and in that country is remembered to this day as the real estate king of Canada. No reports of shady transactions have ever followed in his train, and in all his business relations he receives and merits the confidence of all with whom he comes in contact.

That our mayor, Norman R. Smith, will leave nothing undone to promote the interests of the people of Angeles, is a conclusion easily arrived at, since his entire life has been devoted to this cause and the most untiring exertions have marked his career.

To him, our citizens owe nearly all the prosperity they have ever known, and confidence in him was fully demonstrated when his name was placed before the people as a candidate for mayor, which act, complety set aside party lines and Democrats and Republicans with one voice placed him in the office.

Our City Fathers Meet.

The meeting last night of the city council, was made memorable by its very stormy nature, much talking being indulged in, in regard to the water franchise requested by L. Rockman who proposes to put in another system of water works to be taken from Ennis creek. Mr. Rockman, intends by the great fall obtainable by using water from this creek to dispose of steam power entirely as a motor power in the electric light-plant. The granting of the franchise was opposed by Mr. Mallette. Nothing was done in the matter, but the council will meet tomorrow at 2 p. m. when final action will be taken.

Being a quarterly meeting the different reports were read, and the meeting was a very busy one.

A party composed of Messrs. Z. Burkhart, of Idaho, James Shaw and J, W. Clark, of Hunterville, Eng., were in Angeles this week looking for a location for a large woolen mill plant.

A DESPERATE GANG.

The Officers of Angeles Discover and Foil Their Plans.

The arrest of Charles Croke, who operated the blacksmith shop on the Laurel street wharf, was the first step in bringing to light the existence of an organized gang of thieves in this city. Croke was arrested upon a warrant sworn out by James Harlow and M. Albright, and was tried before Judge Grant, who sentenced him to ten days in the county jail and imposed a fine of $25. Immediately upon his arrest Croke confessed to H. B. Willson, Cliff Thompson and Sam Morse that he was a member of an organized gang of thieves, whose opperations were confined to the plundering of the cabins upon the reserve. His confession implicated Frank Godan, Edward Bobo and James Parkes, the two former skipped the town, but Parkes was landed in jail Wednesday by Deputy Sheriff Carey.

The meeting in the jail between Croke and Parkes was rather a stormy one, as Parkes, according to a statement made by Croke, had sworn to kill him (Croke) if he gave away the gang, and much abusive language passed between the prisoners.

A great deal of stolen property was found by the officers, among the lot was an electric battery from the cabin of James Heard, in fact his cabin was looted of everything it contained. In Croke's house were six sacks of flour, nearly all had been opened, and only a small quantity had been taken from each.

A cache was found on the reserve beneath a large windfall containing almost every article of household furniture and many tools used by woodsmen. A number of tools were found in the well at Croke's house, being sustained by a float. There is yet much stolen property hidden away, for which the officers are diligently searching, and a number of articles are still in their possession unclaimed by the owners.

Croke made another very startling confession, to the effect that his gang had under contemplation the burning of Dave Morse's store, for the purpose of robbing it during the excitement which would follow.

A LAND SLIDE.

John Peterson Caught Beneath Several Tons of Earth.

A very serious accident occured last Tuesday at noon on the Laurel street fill between First and Front by which John O. Peterson, one of workmen, nearly lost his life and escaped only with many bruises.

Just after the noon hour when the men had resumed work for the afternoon John Peterson was working at the toot of the embankment when several tons of earth came down with such rapidity that he could not make his escape, though he saw it coming.

Mr. Peterson was caught by the mass and quickly overwhelmed by it, being forced down doubled up in such a manner as to severely strain his legs, hips and back. The unfortunate man was carried into the drug store of Keller & Randall and a messenger was dispatched for Dr. Lewis, who, after a brief examination of Mr. Peterson, arrived at the conclusion that injuries of any consequence were confined to the hips and back and no internal injury had been sustained.

Mr. Peterson was conveyed to his home on Tenth street, between Oak and Laurel, and though he may be confined to his house some time, it is not thought his injuries will prove serious.

MAIL AND NO MAIL.

One Half the Week Papers are Received, the Other Half They are Not.

The new time card of the Hermosa, which went into effect last Monday, is as follows: Leaves Port Townsend Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 8:30 a. m., and arrives at Port Angeles at 11.30 a. m. Leaves Port Angeles for Neah Bay and all intermediate points at 12 m. Returning up-Sound; leaves Port Angeles Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 6 a. m.

The Seattle papers of Monday, Wednesday and Friday will not reach Angeles upon the day of their publication Leaves Port Townsend Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 2 p. m., waiting until the mail is delivered at Port Townsend by the City of Kingston. Upon these days the mails arrive at Port Angeles at 5 p. m. and will contain the morning papers.

This transportation and postal facilities while, not so poor as was at first anticipated by the people living west of Port Townsend, when the change in boats was effected, and the George E. Starr was withdrawn from this route, still they are so far short, of what we think our position of importance demands and justifies, that our people are well warranted in entering a most vigorous protest.

The idea of a community, the size of that inhabiting Port Angeles, being at the tender mercies of one transportation company, is simply apalling and the most substantial encouragement will be given any boat, whose services will tend to lessen the burden placed upon us by the withdrawal of the Starr.

If the Flyer, upon leaving the ways, should be placed upon the run between Seattle and Victoria, touching at Port Townsend and Port Angeles, she will be accorded a welcome by the people of Angeles never before extended to a vessel, and patronage that will certainly make the experiment a glowing success.

TWO RACES.

"Will you go with me to the races, to-morrow?"

"I will," comes the reply, promptly.

Jim Vaughn is at all times a very good-looking young widower, but to-day he is especially handsome. He has just alighted from a brand-new buggy, and looks as if he had togged himself out in a new raiment in order match his glittering harness. We must not fail to give a description of the horse, for that sagacious animal plays a most important part in our story. He is a powerful-looking iron-gray, with a shapely head and beautiful main and tail, and shows in every line and curve of his magnificient body a fire and mettle hardly to be looked for in other than the genuine race-horse. But he is not a race-horse—at least, not yet.

All this time Vaughn is holding a pair of warm, small hands tightly within his own, and looking down with a very tender expression into a pair of very lovely brown eyes. Is this girl pretty? Certainly her heathenish first name—Mack—is not. But she likes the name and tosses her saucy little head as she tells you that at least it has the merit of being uncommon—for a girl. But whether strictly pretty or not she is altogether attractive, as more than Vaughn will testify. Finally they part, his last injunction being that she must be ready by 1:30 the following day.

Half-past one comes at last, and the shining buggy drives up in spanking style. Vaughn hurries in and gets a sensation as the pretty vision in the parlor sends him a coquettish glance. Some whim has made her dress herself entirely in black The stylish black silk is perfection in its simplicity and fit; the long, black gloves wrinkle to the elbow over the tight-fitting sleeves; a bewildering confection of black silk and lace sits atop the warm, brown hair, and a great cluster of glowing, purple flags, whose subtle fragrance gives Vaughn another delicious thrill, nestles on the dainty breast. Vaughn says not a word, but wraps her in the inevitable ulster and then by a quick movement swings her up into his arms and carries her bodily out to the buggy. "You wicked boy," she whispers, but she is not cross, so he clasps her a very little closer and wishes he had a mile or more to go. But they are in the buggy now, speeding toward the race-track.

They have a delightful afternoon and Vaughn makes up his mind to ask the all-momentous question on the way home. They will start directly and he is wondering feverishly what she will answer, when all at once he hears her give a queer little gasp, and looking around sees sulky Joe Dalton at her other side, Dalton is madly in love with Mack, and she is the least wee bit afraid of his gloomy black eyes. She prefers blue—Vaughn's are of the brighest blue. Dalton is speaking. "I thought you were not coming out to-day," he says, with a fierce glance at Vaughn.

"I suppose I am at liberty to change my mind," says saucy Mack, and gives him such an icy look that his face pales under it.

"Well," he cries at length, "there is one thing you have got to make up your mind about, and at once; and that is which one of us you are going to marry." Mack stares at him in dismay, but he is resolute.

"I say, Vaughn," he begins again, "let us race for her. I have a good horse and so have you. We will start from here and whoever reaches her house first is to be the happy man."

Vaughn laughs at the idea of such a thing. "Why don't you ask her to have you and take your answer, whatever it may be, like a man?" he says. But Mack claps her small hands and gives a delighted consent.

She thinks it will be something out of the unsual run of things to have these two men engage in a bona-fide race for her hand. She believes that Vaughn has the best horse and can easily win the race. and she knows now that she loves him. At last Vaughn yields, and it is arranged that Mack is to go home on the train with a party of friends. They see her safely aboard and then hurry off to lighten their respective rigs as much as possible and see that the horses are in good shape. A third friend is taken into their confidence and acts as sta ter. Just before they leave, this friend takes Vaughn aside and whispers: "Look out for Dalton. He looks ugly and means mischief." Vaughn sets his teeth hard as he glances at Dalton's glowering face.

They set off and now the agony begins. Dalton has the lightest buggy, but Vaughn has the best horse. It is four miles from the track to Macks' house. Two of them have been covered and the third pretty well gone over. The horses and their drivers are straining every nerve. The tention is horrible. The veins stand out on Vaughn's forehead and his breath is coming in quick gasps. He believes now he can win Mack in any case, for he remembers vividly the close hand-clasp and the last look she gave him as she wished him good speed. But he wants to show her that he is willing to do as much for her as anyone else, and he also wants to show Dalton that he has the best horse in spite of that young man's sneers to the contray.

Up to this time they have kept side by side, but now Vaughn begins to give his horse the reins and he suddenly shoots a neck ahead of the other. Dalton sees and grows pale with rage and anxiety. He has proposed this race because he feels that if he wins Mack at all it must be by stratagem, and he has determined to win both her and the race by fair means or foul. He knows that Vaughn never carries a whip because his high-spirited horse will brook neither the sound or touch of one, and knowing this, he deliberately stands up in his buggy, grasps the handle of his long whip in his powerful right hand, sends it whizzing through the air and brings it down with cruel force across the back of Vaughn's horse The outraged beast give one mad, horrible snort and rears straight up in the air. It is a miracle that does not fall back into the buggy and crush his driver. Vaughn sits pale and angry, trying his best to quiet the maddened creature.

The moments are flying and so is Dalton. At last Vaughn succeeds in bringing his horse's feet down to the ground. A few more soothing words and the intelligent animal, responding to the well-known voice, flies forward like an arrow. Vaughn looks ahead and sees a queer sight that brings joy to his soul. In trying to cross a car track the wheel of Dalton's buggy has in some way become entangled with the rails and he cannot move. In vain he shouts and swears. It is all to no purpose. Retribution has overtaken him and he is forced to remain where he is, while his rival's buggy rolls past him as swiftly and smoothly as a magic bicycle.

In a very short time Vaughn is at the home of his little love and has turned his panting, victorious horse over to his friends to be cared for, while he goes into the house to claim his well-earned reward. Instead his outstretched arms Mack calmly takes one hand and leads him to a mirror. Can that disreputable object be the immaculate young widower? His hat is gone and every individual hair is standing straight on his head; his face is besmeared with prespiration and several layers of dust; his clothes are torn and covered with dust and foam from the horse's mouth, and altogether he is a remarkable sight. After he has duly surveyed himself he turns once more to Mack. "I am going to wash up," he says, "and when I return I have a question to ask of you. Will you listen?"

But Mack does not answer. She has discovered that the hand she is holding is cut and bleeding, and all her sauciness has left her.

Looking down into the misty, brown eyes Vaughn sees that which tells him his answer will be to his liking.

The Quaker's Garb.

There was once a well-disposed young man of large fortune whose only fault was the habit of swearing, and so thoroughly did he detest the habit that he often said he would willingly give one-half of his fortune to be rid of it.

The desire came to the ears of a Quaker, who thereupon sought an interview with the young gentleman and said: "Friend, I think I can cure thee of that bad habit of thine."

The young man caught hold of the Quaker's hand and giving it a hearty shake, inquired: "How can you perform this miracle?"

"I will tell thee my plan," retunred the Quaker. "Thou art, as I have been told, about to take a journey occupying about six weeks.

Now my plan is this, as thou art about my size I propose to have thee come to my house before thee starts out upon thy journey and put on a Quaker garb belonging to me. Thou will find that the strangeness of thy dress will have such an effect on thee that when thou art about to speak it will restrain thee from swearing, for thou knowest that we Quakers never swear and thee would not wish to disgrace thy garb."

The young man cheerfully assented to the proposal and accompanied the Quaker to his house, and after changing his clothes, he took his departure in the garb of a Quaker and went on his way rejoicing. At the end of six weeks the young gentleman returned and was met by his friend, the Quaker, who anxiously inquired, "Well, friend, how hast thee got on in thy brave endeavor to overcome thy profane habit?" And the young man sleepishly replied:

"Oh, very well."

"Hast thou sworn at all, friend. since thee donned the Quaker's garb?"

"Yes I have," returned the young man desperately, "and just now I felt a d——d inclination to lie about it too."
