TO THE RESCUE COMES

Baby McKee as Mediator For Angeles.

THE CHILDREN PETITION

The Influential Baby to Present to the President Their Request in Behalf of the Worthy Squatters on the Government Townsite.

An interesting petition signed by nearly 150 school children is now being conveyed to Washington by the delegates selected by the Citizens Association and the Port Angeles Board of Trade, in which is stated by the children the hardships which they, with their parents and friends are now being subjected to on account of the long delay of the government's acceptance of the survey of this townsite.

The petition in a childish way—being composed by a child—suggests the relief which Baby McKee can afford by using his good offices with his grandpa in their behalf and requesting him to intercede with his influential personage to secure an early acceptance of the field notes and appraisement of the lots, that they may soon know they have truely a home in Angeles which they may call their own, and that the cloud upon their titles to the property they have fairly earned may be removed forever.

There is but little doubt but that Baby McKee will feel himself so highly complimented by this appeal that his great influence will be enlisted in the interests of his youthful petitioners without delay.

The general appearance of the document is unique, presenting, as does every stage in the art of chiography, from the printed letters executed by the bad small boy, who is too busily engaged in mischievous schemes to learn to write at present, to the well formed and perfectly rounded letters of the studious little miss of ten years, but though their signatures are all different their object is one, and their methods of realizing it are the same, and may success attend their efforts.

The delegates in whose custody this petition is now, are well qualified, by reason of their past experiences to do much that will render probable its favorable consideration by the president. One, a man of national reputation; another whose circle of acquaintance is confined only by our national borders and the third, a man whose body and soul are interested in his work.

AT THE CAPITOL.

WASHINGTON, April 9, 1892.

Republicans are no loneer doing much talking about the "do nothing house." Passing two tariff bills—free wool and free cotton ties and bagging—in one week is legislating entirely too fast to suit the Republicans, and then the subject of this legislation is not a pleasant one for them to contemplate; it recalls memories of the cyclone of '90, which makes theirs knees shake at the prospects for its duplication next November.

It has leaked out that prominent Republican members of the senate finance committee wish to dodge the tariff issue by smothering these bills in committee, that is not reporting them back to the Senate at all—they do not wish to hear, nor allow the country to hear the tariff speech which Senator Carlisle has prepared, nor that of Senator Mills, which was not delivered in the house because the senator preferred it to be his maiden speech in the senate.

Another reason for wishing to smother these bills is that there are several Republican senators who are considered by the Republican leaders as shaky on the tariff question. Democratic senators have served notice on the Republicans that they would resist the smothering process, and intended to have a vote and a discussion, which would show the country where the senate stands, and and that may result in making the dodgers toe the mark.

Commissioner Raum's attempt to draw the attention of the country away from his own shortcomings and mismanagement of the pension bureau, because a man who had been employed by Representative Cooper, of Indiana, had used that gentleman's signature to obtain information from the pension office, which he afterwards sold for his own benefit to pension attorneys, was a flat failure; that Mr. Cooper knew nothing about the transactions was fully shown by letters in Raum's possession.

The case with which a real estate pool has been shuffling off depreciated ground upon the government at a fabulous price is creating much talk. Last year all Washington wondered why a bill was smoothly passed locating the postoffice on the south side of Pennsylvania avenue, in the most disreputable part of the city. At least three prices were paid by congress for the ground; and now the engineers are trying to find a foundation on the site in a swamp and under water. A plan has been devised to line the entire cellar, covering a square, with Portland cement, like a cistern, and a pumping apparatus will be used to keep it dry. The cellar will be placed on forty foot piles.

Last week a bill was presented in the senate to build a new patent office in the same locality and on a like foundation at a cost of $3,500,000. To understand the situation, the reader must know that the glory of Pennsylvania avenue has departed. The low, unhealthful locality, subject to overflow, has been abandoned for higher ground, three blocks north, on F and G streets, where are now all the best stores and most of the government buildings. The avenue property owners have formed a lobby to unload their declining real estate upon the government. They are assisted by the largest paper here, which has a plant on the avenue; by a syndicate of real estate agents, who get a goodly slice in commissions, and it is surmised that there are members and senators whose hands are not clean. This is more than a local scandal. Every paper in the country should take editorial cognizance of it, and every reader should cut this article out and send it to his member of Congress. There are too many members of Congress who vote gregariously, and hence ignorantly. There should be no excuse for ignorance when this bill comes to a vote.

Assistant Secretary Nettleton is the guilty man. It is he who was responsible for the spending, without legal authority, of a large sum of money at Ellis Island, money that was certainly extravagently lavish upon favored contractors, and which later developments may show to have been dishonestly expended. Immigration affairs have been taken out of Nettleton's hands, but that is not enough; every member of the house and senate committee on immigration, which are conducting this investigation, believes that he should be compelled to resign. Superintendent Owen had nothing to do with spending the money, but the investigation has made his general incompetence so plain that it may be regarded certain that he will have to retire.

Representative McCreary introduced the House a bill prepared by Representative Springer, providing for the holding of an international monetary Congress, to endeavor to reach an international agreement as to the relation which should be maintained between gold and silver and the uniformity in weight and fineness of coins. The bill is a long one, and was prepared by Mr. Springer previous to his late illness.

Only three Democrats — English, of New Jersey; Cobum, of Wisconsin; and O'Neill, of Missouri—voted against the bill to put cotton ties on the free list.

Beauty on the Bar.

It was quite a lesson in metamorpeosis to recognize a swell girl we had seen on the avenue an hour before hanging head downward from the horizontal bar; or to see the daughter of a leading divine taking a little excursion up and down the room on the "traveling rings;" or another meek-tongued woman transformed into the woman with the iron jaw.

Two young ladies whirled round and round the horizontal bar with a rapidity that would make you dizzy, while others were performing on trapeze rings in a way to substantiate the Darwinian theory. The high jumping was excellent.

Mme. Beserer with three of her pupils gave a brief exhibition of a fencing lesson. Last in order were the fancy steps. The girls formed in two platoons, at each succesive descend of the hall was added an extra hop, or kiek, or piroutte, until there was scarcely a motion left untried. There was 72 pupils, the youngest under 7 years, ant not a few gray haired. The figures were well developed and they were by no means like the inmates of Mrs. Squeers' school, where "the general run of limbs were crooked."

New Cruisers.

Cruiser Nos. 12 and 13 are being rapidly completed and the Cramps hope to launch No. 12 in July. These cruisers are known as the "commerce destroyers" and are in a class by themselves. They are longer and narrower than the other cruisers, being 416 feet in length, 56 feet beam and 21 feet draft. They are of 7,500 tons displacement; each has three screws and must make twenty-one knots per hour. When all the ships now under contract are completed, the new navy will have forty ships, including the practice vessels, and the general opinion is that congress will continue the present progress for ten years and the number of vessels will reach 100.

THE BAND ENTERTAINS

The Easter Ball a Gand Success.

GATE CITY TO THE FRONT

The Early Struggles of the Organization—Considerable Energy Displayed in Obtaining the Best of Instruments—Some of Its Promoters.

One of the most successful entertainments ever given in Angeles, was the Easter Ball which occured Monday night at the opera house, under the direction of the Gate City Band. The time selected for the dance was most fitting being at the close of Lent when those devotees of religion who had obstained from any indulgence in the frivolities of life, renewed their broken acquaintance with the dance.

The grand march occured at 9:30, being led by Mr. Ben Crockett and Miss Bella Shearer, who performed that office with credit to themselves and with satisfaction to everyone one present. The couples were all upon the floor by 10 o'clock and nine sets were formed when to the lively strains of inspiring music, figure after figure was executed with a precision which was as marvelous as they were beautiful. The music was exceptionably good, and a well arranged programme con duced largely to the pleasure of the evening.

An elegant luncheon was served in the gallery by the Ladies Aid Society, of which the pleasure seekers refreshed themselves at 12 o'clock. after. the sets were formed again and dancing continued until 3 o'clock, when the sweet dissipation came to an end.

The object held in view by the Gate City Band in giving this entertainment was to raise a fund with which to purchase uniforms for its members, and a moderate degree of success was realized. This band may now be considered one of the best—outside of professionals—in the state, and is an honor to Angeles. It was organized but one year ago, Mr. L. H. Smith being the moving spirit and now numbers fourteen members, all possessing considerable musical talent.

This is the second band which Mr. Smith has organized in Angeles, the first being formed about four years ago, and was called the Port Angeles Cornet Band, but after a brief existence it broke up. A few details in regard to the formation of the first band may not be out of place showing the adverse circumstances which surrounded the colonists in Angeles at that time. The musically inclined men of the town could not afford to purchase new and first class instruments, so, hearing of an old set of band instuments in the East, negotiations were immediately instituted for their purchase, and colony stock was offered as legal tender, which was accepted, and the aspiring musicians became possessed of instruments. These were gradually sold and new ones purchased until a complete set of first class instruments were obtained, and to-day there is but one of the original set in Angeles, this one is the bass drum, which George Meagher was happy in trying to beat music and time out of in the old days, but now by way of emphasis only, is used by the Salvation Army, out of which, after a vigorous and full length swing of the arm, comes the amens and selahs at the most mournful places in their tunes.

The Gate City Band is now provided with silver instruments of the best make and under the leadership of Mr. E. A. Walhin are making remarkable progress toward the goal of music as a high art.

OUR GREATEST EDITOR.

An Estimate of Franklin K. Lane and his Brilliant "News."

A Tacoma correspondent in the Spokane Review, (Republican) pays the following high tribute to Washington's brainiest editor, Franklin K Lane of the Tacoma News:

Lane, of Washington, and his News are a pair of animated factors that the Republican party in the State has to look out for in the future. Lane has brought to his assistant factor, the News, some war material that cannot be treated with contempt. He is mentioned flippantly as having "Tammany methods." Whatever his methods may be they are charged to the muzzle with very dangerous missels and they may be named anything, they will be none the less affective. He fought the Democratic fight here and he fought it to a finish and came up smiling even after the last round. When a man full of vim, vigor, political sense, campaign strategy, youth and journalistic ability, can run a red hot newspaper through such a remarkable vexatious fight as we have just had, and can make brilliant speeches, organize processions and then on election day get out and ride from poll to poll, exhorting from the bow of his buggy, that sort of a fighter needs watching by his opposition, and the need shifts to the opposition for the organization of forces to successfully oppose him.

THE NEWS.

The anarchists of Madrid exploded two bombs in the midst of a procession which scattered in every direction. Though many were injured none were killed.

Edwin Booth has grown steadily worse since his Boston attack and it is regarded as a matter of impossibility that he will ever again appear upon the stage.

The ship West Indian, which was wrecked at Acajutla March 19, was sold for 7,000 soles. Forty hours after the sale she went to pieces. Her entire cargo was lost.

The sugar trust has ordered the Spreckles refinery in Philadelphia to shut down, and several hundred men will be thrown out of employment. The suspension is for an indefinite period.

It is rumored that a definite proposition has been received by Secretary Foster from the English government, for an international conference on silver to consider the means by which the use of silver as a money metal may be extended.

The United States ship Thetis sailed from San Francisco to begin the work of surveying a line for the cable between the Hawaiian islands and the Pacific coast. The Thetis will complete the survey begun by the Albatross, which vessel has been sent to Bering sea.

Harry Phyfe, an American, was arrested at Nice, being suspected of having assissinated an Italian. He happened to have in his possession some letters which established his identity and secured release for himself and a severe reprimand for the officer who arrested him.

A strange German whose acts excited suspicion in Indianapolis was arrested and in his room was found a quantity of dynamite fuses and caps. He registered as Joseph A. Schadler and at first claimed to hail from Chicago, then stated he was trom East St. Louis.

Our diplomatic relations with Chili are to be suspended indefinitely if not broken of entirely. The leave of absence granted Egan and McCreery is to be indifinitely extended, and ultimately they will draw no pay. Neither will return to Chili.

The Democrats and citizen's committee of Portland completed their fusion April 14, by nominating a full legislative and county ticket. There is a strong feeling against the Republican ring now in power, and the prospects are good for the election of the fusion ticket.

A METHOD OF PROCEDURE.

The method of electing United States senators prescribed by our Constitution is being severely and justly criticised by all who love purity in politics. It has become the custom of those seeking election to the Senate to practically buy their seats by making a quiet canvass of the state, and offering to pay the "legitimate" campaign expenses of candidates for legislative honors, provided the ambitious candidate would promise to give his support for senator. We need go no further than our own state for examples of such campainging. Then it does not end here. If no candidate has secured a majority of the legislators in this manner, the fight is carried on in the legislative halls. Bribery and jobbery is then a natural result—one that too often occurs.

These corrupt methods make it impossible, almost, for anyone who has not wealth to back his candidacy, to be elected United States senator. Painful though it is, we must admit that this is a condition and not a theory that confronts us.

Senator Palmer's resolution providing for a constitutional amendment to elect senators by a direct vote should pass and the amendment be adopted. This will be done without doubt sooner or later. But how are we to avoid the dangers of another such a campaign in this state, is a question that the people may well ask themselves.

There is but one way. Let the parties follow the example of the Democracy of Illinois, and nominate their senator in state convention. This is a chance for the Democratic party of this state to do themselves and good government a great service. Let us, when the party meets in state convention, nominate a man who can add strength to our ticket, one who is known to possess energy of character and honesty of purpose. We would thus put ourselves on record as opposed to such disgraceful proceedings as were witnessed last year in the legislature, and would make success much more probable.

OUR MINERALS.

The indications that the Olympic mountains in the neighborhood of Port Angeles contain minerals—gold, silver, copper and iron—in paying quantities get more and more favorable as the prospecting therefor progresses. This is encouraging. Nothing could do Angeles more good than the development of mines in the Olympics.

The location at our beautiful city of smelters for the reduction of ore would bring a class of monied men who are not undesirable. The laborers who would by it get employment is unlimited, depending entirely on the quantity found. The pay would be good and sure.

In the last week very rich specimens, found in place veins of large size, have been brought into THE DEMOCRAT office from points ten miles apart in the Olympics. This should be followed up, and the mines developed if found to pay. Here is a chance for our new Board of Trade. Can it not take this matter up and prosecute the prospecting until a satisfactory conclusion is reached? THE DEMOCRAT believes the result would be a successful find.

WELL, WHAT OF IT?

Twenty-seven years ago today Booth assassinated Abraham Lincoln at Ford's theater in Washington City. That shot and the blow at the flag on Fort Sumpter, four years before was heard around the world. The assassin of the good president and the would-be assassins of the best government on earth belonged to the same party now controlled by Hill's Tammany cohorts and Crisp, of Georgia.- Olympia Tribune.

Near eleven years ago Charles J. Guiteau foully assassinated James A. Garfield, the only statesman the Republican party has made president since Lincoln, and twenty years before that Horace Greeley, the greatest Republican editor in the country, favored answering the assault on Fort Sumpter with an offer of dissolution of this grand Republic. Both the presidential assassin and the would-be national desecter belonged to the party now controlled by Boss Quay, Czar Reed and Tom Platt. These are incidents of history that are parallel with those mentioned by the Olympia organ. All count for nothing.

HONESTY IN POLITICS.

There are some in the community who cannot understand or appreciate honest politics—Port Angeles Tribune.

No wonder the Tribune feels the lack of appreciation of its methods. The people of this country have commenced to estimate the honesty of politics by the actions of the politicians—especially by their discharge of public trusts confided in them. So a journal that will make itself the mouthpiece of the Clallam county commissioners cannot help but reap the result of its own folly.

THE Tribune thinks all the talk about Democratic gains in the west end of the county bosh. It announces that those who joined the Democratic club were insincere, and intimates that they will be whipped into line for the Republicans. THE DEMOCRAT would suggest that the people of that community are plenty able to speak and act for themselves, and has confidence in their doing so in no unemphatic manner.

THE Democrats of the western portion of this county deserve great credit for the manner in which they have taken hold of the fight against corruption and extravagance in county government, and are pushing it to a finish. The people of the Quillayute are up to the times. No moss grows on their backs.

JAMES A. SMITH wasn't in it at the Seattle convention. The ring had arranged otherwise, so the Clallam county delegation did not present his name for a delegateship. He received twenty-two votes for alternate.

THE Union City Tribune has been purchased by Herbert McReavy, son of Hon. John McReavy, the old Democratic war-horse. The publication will hereafter be Democratic in politics. Let the good work go on.

THE organization of clubs at Beaver and Forks are signs of the times. It indicates that the people of those precincts can be depended upon to work for honest government.

NEWS AND COMMENT.

Secretary Blaine has put himself under the care of Muldoon for a course of physical culture and fears that the newspapers will poke fun at him when the fact becomes generally known, consequently the secretary denies the report, while Muldoon corroborates it.

When two such emminent men as our secretary of state and the man who trained Sullivan to such perfect renown should be at variance regarding a simple statement, it is evident that someone is exceedingly unhistorical. But which? Muldoon is a man who can fondle and toy with a 200 pound dumbbell, and it would not be safe to lay the charge at his door, so, the safest conclusion is that the secretary is a-no such of-a-thing."

The Seattle Telegraph gives an account of the narrow escape from death of a citizen of that burg, who barely missed passing into the unknown land by the accidental discharge of a "48 caliber derringer." The article ends with the statement "Mr. Snow had entirely forgotten the fact that the revolver was in the draw."

It would truely be a "won-der-uf-ul" gun to which the name derringer and revolver could both be applied. A derringer goes off but once without more ammunition being put into the proper place, while a revolver—as its name implies—is supplied with a cylinder which turns around and may shoot several times. It is probably very fortunate for the electrician that the thing was in truth a derringer, or it might have kept on blazing away at him until its malicious purpose of killing somebody was crowned with success.

The greatest scandal and business sensation of the year in St. Paul, was created recently by the arrest of Copeland J. Snapp, who, during the past fifteen months, has embezzled from the Northern Pacific Railroad company $4,778.

Copeland J. Snapp was interested in the steal of the funds of the back tax collector of Louisville, Ky, about '82 or 83, and while popular sentiment believed Snapp to be the arch thief. Dave Fergu son, the collector, was made to suffer by serving a term in the states prison, but Snapp got clear. The Northern Pacific railroad will now join in with the corporation of the city of Louisville and admit that it can neither cope with Snapp, and by the same token it can not snap with Cope.

It is stated and belived that the eleven men who acted and were sworn in as Pinkerton detectives to protect the cattle barons of Converse and Johnson counties, Wyo., and who caused the present trouble, by killing two men who were reputed rustlers, were sent out by order of President Harrison in response to a request made by the large cattlemen of that country.

It is more than likely that there is good foundation for this belief, as our president is known to favor a large degree of force in all matters, as is shown in his advocacy of the Force bill regarding southern elections, so it is not hard to believe that from this act he regards favorably the sending of Pinkerton's cutthroats to all mining camps and other places where labor is engaged in a struggle with capital, for has not Benjamin a "stand in" with Wall street.

The attacks on the Catholic church, which have been appearing in Colonel Shepard's Mail and Express, have caused the Republican leaders much annoyance. A letter was read before the Republican executive committee from Senator John Sherman, stating, among other things, that he thinks no Republican wants to interfere in any way with a man's religion, which question should not enter in the domain of party politics.

And now comes son-in-law Shepard, though nearly eight years behind, to echo the sentiments of Brother Burchard, who once accused the Democrats of being the party of "Rum, Romanism and Rebellion." Son-in-law Shepard, very likely is one Republican who has the timerity to express his convictions. His statements are evidently but the escaping of a large sentiment against the Catholic church which has been harbored by his party for many years, because, they have invariably voted with the Democrats.

Doings of Society.

At Mrs. Stewarts.

Mrs. L. D. Stewart gave a social party Wednesday night, which proved a most enjoyable affair. The carpet in the parlor was removed and an elegant dancing floor was provided, which the company took advantage of after having exhausted the pleasure derived from card playing. An elegant luncheon graced the table of the dinning room, which was served at 12 o'clock. Those present were: Mrs. and Miss Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Bickford, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hoag, Miss Jeffries, Miss Boggess, Miss Fitzsimmons, Miss Smith, of Clallam Bay, and Messrs. Keller, Brewster, White and Hall. The guests took there leave at 2 o'clock, feeling that the evening had been replete with pleasure.

A Farewell Reception.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Sheldon of Tatoosh Light house gave a farewell reception Tuesday night at the City Hotel, to a few of his old time friends of this place, The evening was spent in whist until midnight, when all repaired to a well arranged supper in the dining room, after which they adjourned to the Opera House and spent two hours in dancing. All had a good time.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sheldon, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Smith, Dr. and Mrs. F. S. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. L. Rockman, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Meagher, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Church, Mr. and Mrs. Wm Clegg S. G, Morse and L. F. Person.

In Cupid's Net.

The nuptials of J. Dill Stage and Miss Anna B. Tolford were celebrated at the residence of the groom, corner eighth and Laural streets, Wednesday evening at 9 o'clock, the invited guests, pursuant to written invitations assembled at 8:30 o'clock. The ceremony being the beautiful and imprssive one of the Baptist Church, Rev. Squire, of that Church, officiating, Miss Frank Tolford acted the part of maid-of-honor and Will Rex as best man.

The guests were; Mrs. Tolford, the brides mother, Judge and Mrs. McClinton, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs Ben Chambers, Mrs. M. U. Squire, Miss Frank Talford, Miss Ruth Taylor, Miss Grace Ware, Miss Wilbur Crockett, Professor A. N. Taylor, Professor J. B. Taylor, Will Rex and John W. Troy.

Among the many wedding presents were: Rochester lamp, Miss Mamie Guptill and Harry Holden; Silver knives and forks, Mr. and Mrs. Patten; Silver butter dish, Judge and Mrs. McClinton; Silver table spcons, Will Rex; Silver tea spoons, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Johnson; Butter knife and sugar spoon, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Chambers; Scott's poems, N. W. Merrifield; Water set, A. N., J. Teachers' Meeting.

Professor Taylor called the teachers to order last Friday evening at 4;10 P. M.

Mrs. Wilcox read a paper entitled, "Are the Stars Inhabited?" Those present then participated in an interesting debate regarding grammar.

the committee appointed a few weeks ago to make arrangements for a County Teachers Association reported somewhat as follows: "We, the committee, have decided to hold a preliminary teachers meeting on the Thursday of examination week (May 12) at which all the teachers of the county are requested to be present if possible, and to which all who are interested in our schools are invited. An interesting programme has been prepared. On Friday evening (May 13,) we propose to hold a meeting of as many teachers as can be present, for the purpose of discussing and probably organizing a teachers' Association for Clallam County." Programme and place of meeting will be announced later.

Harbor Survey.

Captain Gilbert of the United States coast survey arrived in this city Tuesday, having received instructians from the department to stop all other work in the state, and immediately establish the harbor line at Port Angeles. Captain Gilbert has established an office in the Cooper Building and will start immediately upon his work. He will employ a force of from four to six men, who have been engaged.

The tide land commissioners will closely follow captain Gilbert, when a division and appraisment of this land which will belong to the state, lying between the harbor line and the original government townsite survey, will be made.

At The Squatters Hall.

The Young Men's Club gave a dance at the Squatters' Hall Wednesday night. As usual there was a large crowd, and all had a good time. The dancing was carried on until a late hour. This club will give another hop next Wednesday night.

CALL FOR THE DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION.

Following is the call for the Democratic state convention to assemble at Vancouver; Wednesday, May, 26, 1892:

A general convention of the Democratic party of Washington is hereby called to meet in the city of Vancouver, Clarke county, Washington, on Wednesday, May 25th, A. D. 1892, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of selecting eight delegates and eight alternate delegates to represent the Democracy of Washington in the Democratic National Convention which meets at Chicago, Tuesday, June 21st, 1892, to nominate a candidate for President and Vice-President.

The basis of representation shall be as follows, viz:

Three delegates-at-large for each county and one delegate for each one hundred votes, and one delegate for each fraction thereof in excess of fifty cast for the Hon. Thomas Carroll, Democratic candidate for Congress at the general election held November 4, 1890.

Upon the foregoing basis counties are entitled to representation as follows, viz:

LOCAL PARAGRAPHS.

The steamer Michigan will make two calls per month at Port Angeles, one from San Francisco, and one from Portland. She will reach here from San Francisco about the first of each month, and from Portland about the 15th. The freight rates from Portland will be the same as shown by the old schedule, and from San Francisco will be the same as from Portland which gives the lowest rates ever given from San Francisco to Angeles.

All couples attending the Leap Year hop, are requested to appear upon the scene early, as the grand march will open the hop at 9 o'clock.

Colonel Coolican, Professor Young and Mayor N. R. Smith, left Angeles Saturday morning for Washington D. C. Important business connected with the hotel Angeles necessitates a short stop in Portland, after which the journey to the national capitol will be resumed.

The Northern Pacific Express Company have establish an office in this city, and installed J. H. Young as agent.

Sheriff Gould, made a trip to Seattle this week on a hunt for Frank Codan, the last of the gang of thieves uncaptured, but Godan had left Seattle, and is still at large.

Ed Bobo, was arrested by sheriff Gould last Friday just as he stepped off the Hermosa, a good deal of difficulty was incountered in finding someone to identify the prisoner. He was finally identified by deputy Carey, who served upon him the warrant of arrest, and placed him in jail.

The familiar whistle of the steamer Michigan was heard in Port Wednesday. She delivered a fair run of freight and cleared for Victoria.

FORKS, Wash., April 16—[Special]—Pursuant to a call issued by R. L. Sebastian, the Democrats of Forks and vicinity met in the school house to-day to organize a Democratic club.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. R. L. Sebastian, who was chosen chairman and C. J. Johnson secretary.

Mr. Sebastian stated the object of the meeting and dwelt at some length on the condition of affairs in the county.

At the conclusion of Mr. Sebastian's remarks Mr. J. Behner was chosen president of the club, J. Quincy Adams, vice-president and R. L. Sebastian, secretary and treasurer.

Chairman Adams and Mr. Sebastion were appointed a committee on constitution and by-laws and a recess taken to allow them time to prepare a report upon reassembling the committee's report was read, from which the following extracts are taken:

This club shall be known as the Thomas Paine Democratic Club of Forks.

The object of this club shall be the expounding of sound Democratic doctrine; the disseminating of economic facts and the exposure of all Republican shams and chicanery.

To educate the people in the great principles of government as eminated by Thomas Jefferson and to promote the general welfare and further the success of the Democratic party in county, state and nation.

Messrs. Sebastian and Christian Fasel were appointed a committee on information. The club then adjourned to meet May 21. Interested spectators were Messrs. John Sutherland, M. Whittier and L. M. Ford, all staunch Republicans. Forks has long been a very stronghold of Republican doctrine. For a number of years but one Democratic vote was polled here, but that condition no longer exists, fully twenty-five Democratic votes will be polled at the coming election. There were nine good Democrats to sign the constitution and many more to hear from.

From Beaver.

BEAVER, Wash., April 16—[Special.]—At a meeting called by the Democracy of Beaver precinct on above date, for the purpose of organizing a Democratic club. On motion, Ely F. Carliss was elected president and A. A. Richardson temporary secretary, and, it was unanimously:

RESOLVED, That in view of the gross mismanagement, to use no harsher terms, in state, county and municipal affairs, that has characterized the administrations thereof throughout the state of Washington, under the control of the Republican party during the several years last past, it is the sense of this meeting that a club be formed for the purpose of banding together all Democrats residing in Beaver precinct and all others of whatsoever former political affiliations who are willing to join hands with us in our efforts for reform in state, national and local affairs and to this end it is further

Resolved, That all legal voters of said precinct are hereby invited and urged to join our club and with their votes and influence as citizen of our great republic to assist in such reformation that in future the affairs of the people may be conducted in an honest, honorable and economical manner.

Clallam Bay News.

CLALLAM BAY, April 19—[Special.]—A. Carrot was drowned last Friday afternoon by the capsizing of a small boat in which he and two other men were attempting to get into the Clallam river. A very heavy sea and a strong wind was blowing. The unfortunate man was buried at East Clallam Sunday. Deceased was a Frenchman and a rancher on the Hoko river, where he was located with his brother. He leaves no family.

The Other Side.

MR. EDITOR: In the last issue of THE DEMOCRAT Mr. Pederson made a statement, which is lacking considerable of the most important ingredient, truth. Allow me therefore, in behalf of the parties interested, to rectify the same and supplement it with a few facts.

Mr. Pederson claims that his wife left him, although he admitted before the court that he deserted her. Mr. Pederson says that his wife has been away from this country for fourteen years; while the fact is, that when he discontinued to support her she returned home to her native country in 1882. A brief sketch of their married life would be justice to her.

They were married in 1859 and came to this country in 1869, where they lived together until November '79. During the first ten years of their married life she earned their living by the mangling machine, while he provided for the rent and spent the balance of his income in the lottery much against her wishes. In this country she likewise made her part of the living by washing, except during the last few years when she, deprived of the use of her right arm, was unable to work any more. For a period of two years she was the sole support of the family, except a dollar now and then earned by her husband.

Besides faithfully attending to her washtub she always kept her home in the most scrupulous condition of neatness and Mr. Pederson will not be able to recall to his memory the time when he chopped a piece of wood, or the morning when he arose from his bed without first having got his coffee. After thus trotting together for twenty years some mere trifle caused a dispute and Mr. Pederson raised a chair threatening to kill her, he did not carry this into effect though, but resolutely left the house without troubling himself for the future fate of his family. His wife and myself were penniless at the time and we had a hard struggle to make both ends meet, as his wife by this time had completely lost the use of her right arm. Now and then we received some help from Mr. Pederson, but as this became insufficient she thought that her relations might help her if she once was home in Denmark, and at my request Mr. Pederson sent her a third class ticket to Europe, where she is now, an invalid 59 years of age with no means of support. I will now leave it to the public, whether or not the old lady is entitled to the 40 per cent. of the property, which she obtained legally by the decision of the court, or can a husband desert his partner after twenty years union and, an economical way, force her abroad without any responsibility whatsoever.

For the correctness of the above statement I refer you to Mr. Pederson himself and to the United States consul, of Copenhagan, Denmark.

Respectfully yours,
MRS. L. CHRISTENSEN.

Little River Mines.

Mr. A. Hutton, who has been out in the mountains prospecting for a few weeks returned to Angeles Tuesday for a supply of provisions bringing with him some specimens from his different leads which certainly may be considered excellent. His best specimen was taken from a cropping almost three feet wide and contained rich peacock and chloride of copper, with some small particles of native. The body of the quartz being spar. His other specimens were of iron.

These leads are located near the head of Little river and are not over ten miles distant from Angeles.

Smallpox on the Elwha.

A rumor has reached town, which has been received with considerable credence, that smallpox has made its appearance in the settlement on the Elwha, but so far is confined to the Indians. Makah Jimmie being afflicted with this disease, and as all Indians entain great fear of smallpox the afflicted man is probably without any attention whatever.

All travelers over the road which leads by Jimmie's house avoid it now by taking others which leads around it, and his Indian neighbors can not be induced to enter his domicile or render him any assistance.

Tide Heap Washee Wagon.

Tom Lee, the Chinese tenant of C. W. Thompson's ranch, who sells vegetables on the street in Angeles, got himself and team into a predicament last Saturday, from which it required the efforts two men with a boat and a hundred feet of rope to extricate him.

It seems that Lee has been long accostomed to using the waters of the harbor for the purpose of cleaning the mud off his wagon, and the labor saving method of driving through that part of it south of the Front street extension, recommended itself to his mind, which was adopted, tried and perserverd in until last Saturday, since when, the celestial does not hold the scheme in such high regard.

The tide was out and to find water of sufficient depth to meet his requirement the confiding man drove under Front street and in between the piling. The water began to deepen quite rapidly, and Tom fain would turn his wagon round and beat a retreat, but the piles willed it otherwise, so Tom was forced to drive on and out into still deeper water. When the last pile was passed his horses were swimming and the wagon floated nearly submerged like a water-logged spar, and Tom was on the seat trying to bail the water out of his wagonbox with a bucket.

He realized the fact that something had to be done, and quickly, or he would be short of two horses, so after several minutes he managed to free the horses from the wagon and started them for the shore, which they gained nearer dead than alive.

The men at the bath house were then appealed to for aid in rescuing the wagon, which was readily given, and in a few minutes more Tom Lee was in full possession of his team, a very much wiser man.

Not Gone Yet.

Port Captain Rathbone of the Union Pacific fleet on Puget Sound continues in the employ of the company with orders to hold himself in readiness to assist in carrying out the plans which that company may formulate.

Officials at Portland state that it may be found expedient to resume operations on some of the Union Pacific's former runs on Puget Sound. The Sehome, Hassalo, George E. Starr and North Pacific are tied up at Seattle, and instead of carrying out their intention to take them to Portland the order has been given that they remain on the Sound. Propositions to purchase some of these vessels have all been declined.

Hatch's Lecture.

The lecture of George C. Hatch Sunday night at the opera house on "Stumbling Blocks I Find to a Belief in Christian Theology," was well attended. Mr. Hatch was conservative and scored Ingersoll quite at much as he did the "dogmatic preachers of orthodoxy," for his attempting to tear down our churches and offering nothing in their stead. Hatch believes churches should be reformed and not distroyed. He is strongly opposed to the theory of eternal punishment.

The Michigan's Trouble.

The steamer Michigan cleared from Victoria Wednesday morning for Seattle after unloading a part of her cargo at that place, and instead of proceeding at once to the place for which she cleared, she went to Port Townsent. Her lines were no sooner made fast, when the custom house officers boarded her, and ordered her entire crew ashore, when a vigorous search was made through her hold. The hunt was rewarded by the finding of 300 pounds of opium. The vessel is now in possession of the custom house, and arrangements for bonds have not as yet been consumated, that will prevent her to continue on her run.

THE ARIZONA KICKER.

EXPLANATORY.—The editor of the Kicker started for Lone Tree on Friday last to collect some overdue subscriptions, but fully expected to be back Monday morning. That day and yesterday passed without bringing him, and we have taken charge and issued the inside pages. We are the agricultural editor.

LATER.—Early this morning we received a telephone message from Half Way to the effect that the editor was seen on Sunday riding in hot pursuit of Tom Jackson, of Lone Tree, who owed for two years' subscription. Tom was ahead, but the editor was gaining.

THE LATEST.—Just as we go to press a telephone message from Lone Tree announces that the cowboys on Colonel Kyle's ranch have got hold of the editor and will probably lynch him. We were asking further particulars when the wire was cut.

CALL.—We respectfully request those who have a grievance against the editor that they delay calling at the office until his return. Major Henderson came in yesterday to shoot him for an article which appeared two weeks ago, and, although it was explained to him that we were only temporarily in charge and not personally responsible, he shot two bullets through our hat and otherwise unnerved us. We don't want any more such callers. We are a purely agricultural editor from Boston, and a man of peace. When our salary has been raised to $30 per week we shall expect to take some chances, but we can't do it on $8.

WASTED HIS TIME.—Yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock an individual known as Jim Furlong, who supposed the editor of the Kicker was at home, rode up and down the street in front of the office for half an hour on an old mule, daring the editor to come out and shoot the icicle off the end of his nose. He was finally informed of how matters stood, and he fired three bullets into the front door and rode off.

It is needless to observe that had our chief been home Mr. Furlong would have made No. 11 in his private graveyard. As it was, he made no demonstration. We were not only very busy ready proof, but, as stated elsewhere, we can't afford these luxuries on our present salary.

AN EXTRA.—It is very likely that an extra will be issued from this office to-morrow or the day after, containg the latest news from the editor. We do not consider the second message as to his whereabouts reliable. Knowing that Colonel Kyle's cowboys were hankering to get hold of him, he would give the gang a wide berth. If by accident he fell into their hands they would have allowed him to at forward a brief note. Cowboys are rather odd in their ways, but they try to hang a man decently.

We think the first report is the key to the situation. Tom Jackson to come down with his cash. The editor sighted him and gave chase. We think he run him into the Black Mountains, sixty miles beyond Lone Tree, and there lost the trail, but is still looking for it. We have many reasons to hope that he will turn up safe and sound.—M. Quad.

The Thugs of the Ganges.

It was sundown and Chester Clarkson, an officer in the British army of India, and myself were seated beneath the awning of a native dingy (boat) which was slowly ascending the mighty Hooghly.

We were nearing its confluence with the Ganges, and were in hopes of coming out upon the bosom of the sacred stream by the time that the moon, which was approaching its full, should rise and shed its silvery light over the scene.

The confused murmur of sounds reached us from either bank; at the right, where nestled a native village, the hum of human voices was heard, but on the left bank, along which stretched a dense jungle, the barking of the jackal was the most pronounced disturbance, although an occasioned deep growl indicated the presence of some beast of a more ferocious disposition lurking in the neighborhood.

To these noises, however, we gave but a passing thought, as they are too common to the dweller in India to attract particular attention. As soon as the sun disappeared, the night was upon us, for the beautiful twilight, so pleasing in the temperate zone is wholly unknown in the topics; but the stars were twinkling brightly overhead, and when the moon arose from behind the minarets of a papado, surrounding objects were rendered almost as plainly visable as if the god of day were in the ascendant.

"Look, sahib, the Ganges!" exclaimed one of our servant pointing ahead to where the shore appeared to recede from sight, leaving naught but a vast expanse of water in its place.

The feeling experianced upon first gaining a view of this ancient and sacred stream is difficult to describe. The natives who accompanied us fell prostrate upon their knees with their dusky foreheads pressing against the boords which formed the deck of the dingy, while my friend Clarkson and myself stood gazing at the famous river, wrapped in awe and veneration.

We were bound for the hilly country for a month's shooting, my companion having obtained a furlough from his regiment, and I a four week's leave of absence from the mercantile establishment where I was employed as clerk.

We had with us two servants only, intending to employ bearers and guides when we should reach the wilds. The rest of the company were the three boatman who, as I now remember them, were a villanous-looking set, but that opinion was probably colored by their subsequent behavior.

We remained on deck enjoying our beautiful surroundings until midnight, then our servants having spread blankets beneath the bamboo shelter which could hardly deserve the name of cabin, we retired to rest, intending to leave the river early the next morning and continue our journey by land.

Sleep came on our pillows readily, although my slumber was far from being quiet and peaceful.

Hideous dreams, yes, nightmares, chased one another through my brain. At one time I though the dingy had sunk; that a huge alligator, a reptile so venerated by the Hindoo, was about to crush me between his ponderous jaws, but Ben Vida, my Mohamedan servant dragged me to the short just in time to escape the horrible fate.

Scarcely had I emerged from the water, dripping, ere I was confronted by a tiger which stood directly in my path, lashing his sides with his tail and snarling in anger.

Then came the spring.

I was borne to the earth beneath the weight of the ferocious animal. I felt his hot breath upon my cheek. His claws were at my throat. The pain was exerucialting, and I felt that he was strangling me.

All at once a deafening report rang in my ears, and even through my closed eyelids I discovered a bright flash. I was now awake, but, oh, in such agony.

My temples seemed to be bursting, my eyes were leaving their sockets, and I knew that I was being slowly but surely suffocated.

Suddenly the terrible pressure upon my throat was removed. I heard another explosion, and by the dim light of the moon which streamed in through the forward part of the cabin, I saw Chester Clarkson upon his knees with the still smoking revolver in his hand, and his voice calling.

That terrible word was sufficient to call me to action. Reaching for my own weapon I found that it had not been removed from my hip pocket. I drew it and lay rather than stood upon the defense.

"Where are they? Where are they?" I asked in a hoarse whisper, for I could not have called aloud had I tried.

"Two are lying before us; where the others are I know not."

At that moment we heard a heavy plunge near the side of the boat. We rushed out upon the deck just in time to see a dusky form swimming away.

"Give it to him Tom! give it to him! shoot the murderer!"

Both our revolvers spoke at once, but if my bullet found the mark for which it was sent, is was by accident, as I was trembling in every fibre of my body.

"That was the last one!" declared Clarkson.

"But where are our servants? Have they fallen victims to these merciless wretches, or did they belong to their guild? Let us come forward and see."

Alas! our worse fears were to be realized, for there lying upon the deck in the moonlight were our two faithful followers, lifeless and rigid. The dingy no longer propelled by the sweeps was drifting broadside down the stream.

The left side of the bank was not far distant so seizing the long oars we forced the little craft close enough in to the shore to take a turn with a line about an overhanging limb, and then we seated ourselves to await the coming of dawn.

"How did it happen? How we e you awakened at such an opportune moment, Chester?" I asked.

"It was by accident," Clarkson replied. "Probably had the Thugs not been in such a hurry to complete their wicked work, you and I would be in another world. I was sleeping none too quietly when I was arroused by feeling something touch my side. Opening my eyes I was horrified to see the captain of the dingy kneeling upo n your clest, with his hands at work about your throat. I comprehended the situation at once for I had lived long in India. To draw my weapon and fire it point blank at the assassin took but a minute. Then while busied in removing the silken cord by which you were being slowly strangled, I saw one of wretch's companions enter the cabin. I fired again with what r sult you know."

It was a most miraculous escape, and I can never repress a shudder as I recall the incidents of that night. When morning came we cast off the line and allowed the dingy to drift back down the stream until we reached a large town where we disembarked, and turned the boat with its inanimate freight over ts to the authorities.

After taking our depositions we were allowed to proceed, which we did and enjoyed our trip immensely, despite the fact of its having such an unpleasant beginning.

The silken cord which came so near terminating my existance is now one of my most treasured relics, and I am frequently called upon to display it and rehersе the account of my experiance with the Thugs of the Ganges.
