WESTERN CLALLAM

Is Rapidly Settling With Energetic People

WHO ARE DEVELOPING

Its Wealth of Resources—A Large Area of Land Yet Open to Settlement—Clallam and Its Prosperity—New Industries Under Way.

George W. O'Brien, publisher of the Clallam Bay Record, was in the city Saturday and Sunday. To a DEMOCRAT reporter he replied in answer to a question as to how the west end of the county was getting along, "Down there our prospects are exceedingly bright. The country is rapidly filling up with people and the varied resources of a very extensive territory are slowly being developed into wealth."

"How much of a population do you think there is at the west end, say west of Gettysburg or Twin rivers?" he was asked.

"About 1,500 people on a conservative estimate."

"How much territory are those 1,500 people scattered over?"

"About one million acres, some of which of course is mountainous and consequently worthless, but out of that acreage the most of it is good timber or agricultural land. There is yet a large proportion of the west end still open to settlement and improvement by new settlers and it is safe to say that there is now no county on the Sound that has so much vacant government land to offer settlers as Clallam county has. If immigrants coming to this state are looking for free government homesteads Clallam county is the place to come to and there is no doubt that thousands of industrious emigrants from other states will take advantage of the opportunity offered here within the next few years.

"How many townships are there in this county west of Twin rivers?"

"About thirty-two townships and everyone of them ought to easily support a population of 500 people so that when the district you have mapped out is properly settled up, same as the other Puget Sound counties are settled, our isolated "west end" will have a population of 16.000 people, add to this that portion of Jefferson county lying on the ocean beach, south of Clallam, and which naturally belongs to Clallam county and it is safe to say that Western Clallam will easily support a population of twenty thousand people."

"Only a few townships and fractional townships as yet, the great bulk of it is still public land, but most of the townships have been surveyed either during during the present year or the year before, twelye of the surveyed townships have been officially examined in the field and we may expect that early next year nearly 300,000 acres of land will be thrown open for filings at the land office. The best part of this area is held by squatters, but there are many good claims yet to be had, and there are hundreds of good claims vacant on the townships not yet surveyed."

"How is East Clallam prospering?"

"The town is doing fairly well and its prospects are exceedingly bright. The townsite was platted a little over a year ago and I suppose that fifty buildings could be now counted within its limits. The lumber industry will always be a source of profit; the manufacturing of hemlock tanning extract will make business for the bay in the future, so will a box factory enterprise that has been temporarily postponed. One of our citizens is planning a sash and door factory and the Kellogg Land Company have been in consultation for some time past with a company that are projecting a railroad enterprise along the seaboard of the state. The conception of this latter project has awakened considerable attention. It means the development of the entire coast country from Gray's Harbor to the Straits. It would open an immense, unoccupied territory and draw along the Washington coast a flood of immigration that has for years been filling the counties bordering on the Sound. Present measures, however, that will benifit East Clallam are roads, the perfecting of titles to the public lands, held by settlers, and the settlement and improvement of the unoccupied tracts everywhere. The growth and prosperity of the Clallam Bay town is assured beyond a reasonable doubt, It must be plain to everyone that several hundred thousand acres of land cannot be thrown open by the government next year near the bay without stimulating the growth of East Clallam. And about the same amount of land will be similarly opened every following until the last of Uncle Sam's domain shall have passed into the hands of the settlers for whose benefit it has been held."

THE LUMBER INDUSTRY.

The Foreign Market—An Eastern Syndicate Will Acquire Large Tract.

The "protection howlers" in the state of Washington during the campaign just closed made a great point on the lumber tariff. "Why," said they, "if you take the tariff off lumber, every mill in Washington will be closed. British Columbia mills will flood the country." A few figures against this surprising bit of sophistry knocks it into a cocked hat. The following extracts are from the forthcoming number of the Puget Sound Lumberman, that enterprising journal which is edited with such great care by Mr. V. H. Beckman, formerly of the News:

Shipments from Puget Sound ports for the month of October to South America and Australia, in feet	24,406,800
In value	$286,465
Foreign shipment from San Francisco, in feet, for October	995,623
In value	$20,322
Total in feet	25,402,403
" " "	$306,691
Shipments from British Columbia ports from September 6 to October 5, inclusive, in feet	5,807,169
In value	$57,789

Now perhaps some good protectionist will explain why it is the cheap labor of British Columbia, which is going to enable them to sell their product under our very noses when the duty is removed, does not now enable them to sell it at the mill to ship owners who are shipping to foreign nations.

Editorially the Lumberman says: "It is becoming apparent that the tariff proposals, now before the Victorian parliament of Australia, in regard to raising the duty on Oregon pine (fir) $6.25 per 1,000 feet, are not being agitated by the merchants and builders, but by speculators in lumber. The McKinley bill is being used as the particular bugaboo by these gentlemen, who have immense sticks of lumber on hand, which they hope to dispose of at fancy prices in event of parliament passing the so-called retaliatory measure."

BIG LUMBER DEAL ON.

The Lumberman says: Frank Hartley, formerly a sawmill man at Brainerd, is negotiating a deal for an eastern syndicate, whereby fifteen quarter sections of fir and cedar land near Wickersham will be acquired. The amount of timber on the land is estimated at between 6,000,000 and 7,000,000 feet to the quarter. In reality the land will cut about 10,000,000 feet to the quarter, of the finest timber in the world. Much of the timber is Alaska cedar, worth about $50 per 1,000, and much of the timber is so large that it will have to be split before handling. Thousands of trees are from eight to twelve feet in diameter and 200 feet to the first limb. There are over 200 000,000 feet involved.

COUNTY NEWS.

Interesting Paragraphs From the County Press.

Clallam Bay Record:

Settlers along the Sekiou are getting a petition out for a county road to run from the Sekiou about due east to the Hoko to connect with the road to the bay. The proposed route is a little over two miles in length and will benefit a number of settlers. There are yet good claims to be had in that locality and the new road will be of great advantage in getting the country between the two rivers settled and improved.

***

Mr. Jenkins, step-son of Mr. W. W. Ulin, has started a foundation on a vacant claim lying near the mouth of the Hoko river. The place is claimed by Mrs. Colby, who says she has been holding it down for twenty-four years. "Before proceeding on this piece of land we laed the circumstances of the claim of Mrs. Colby before the land office of Seattle and were assured that we had a legal right to occupy and improve it, which no one has ever done," said Mr. Ulin in an interview. on Wednesday. The claim contains an old log house built twenty-six years ago by two very early settlers. They were driven out by a caprice of the Hoko, which has risen in its wrath and flooded thein house and they left the country.

SHALL THE CITY OWN,

Operate and Maintain the Electric System?

THE MOST IMPORTANT

Question of the Hour that Taxpayers Will Decide at the Coming City Election—Action of the Board of Trade on Last Tuesday.

Last Monday afternoon Secretary Carrigan called what proved to be one of the most interesting and spicy meetings of the board of trade that has been held.

The meeting was called to order by President Coolican.

A report was made by Health Officer Herrick regarding the steps taken to protect citizens against small pox prevalent in the up Sound towns. Dr. Herrick states thathe had vaccinated ninety-two persons and the incoming mails and baggage on all steamers were thoroughly fumigated, and every precaution was being taken against the possible spread of that dread epidemic.

Dr. Herrick also stated that some steps should immediately be taken to examine passengers and fumigate mails and baggage on all western bound boats. The matter was referred to the health and sanitary committee to confer with the county commissioners and take such action as was deemed proper.

President Coolican stated that a very important matter was pressing for action by the board. It was a matter that should be acted upon without acrimony or in a spirit of spite or revenge, but rather as patriotic citizens laboring for the best interest of Port Angeles and the community in general. "The question was," Mr. Coolican stated, "of bonding the city for $70,000 for the purpose of purchasing the electric light plant.

Dr. Gore spoke quite feelingly upon the subject. While he did not object to the city owning and operating its electric light plant, he doubted the advisability of purchasing the plant now in use and leased by the city at the price demanded by the owner, as he regarded it exorbitant. He believed that the interests of the tax-payers should be protected, but that end could not be reached if public money was squandered in paying an unreasonably high figure for the electric light plant. Mr. Gore then severely criticised the former and the present city government for extravagance referring to the cost of Front street cribbing and the grading of First and Front streets as being greatly in access of fair and adequate compensation for such work. He deemed it the duty of the members of the board to declare against such misadministration, and, to unite in the support of men competent and who would administer municipal affairs in an economical and in an intelligent manner. To prove that the city would be paying an excessive price for the electric plant he called upon Mr. Lawrence, of San Francisco, an expert electrician, who was given a hearing and stated that the dynamos and electrical appliances, exclusive of the wires, poles, arc-lights, incandescent jets, etc., in use in this city, could be purchased for $6,500.

The price asked by Mr. Rockman, the owner, for the entire plant is 25,000. The plant complete as it now stands cost about $21,000.

Mr. Greenleaf, of Seattle, a considerable property owner in this city, was requested to express an opinion. Captain Greenleaf said that he had unlimited faith in Port Angeles; abiding faith in the American government, and in the American people. He had invested his money in Angeles because he believed it was destined to become a large and a very impartant commercial port. The city was, as yet, however, in an embryo condition. The greatest danger threatening a new town was the tendency to assume responsibilities beyond the ability of taxpayers to meet. He regarded with no little alarm the increasing taxes, and the rapidly accumulating county and city debts. This was a condition that directly concerned every taxpayer in the city. It demanded that the influences of every citizen be exerted to elect men who would labor for an economical administration of municipal affairs. The [illegible] assuming any more liabilities. It should rather be a period of retrenchment, a rigid curtailment of expenditures.

Mr. James F. Meagher stated that he believed, now that the city had leased the electric light plant for a period of five years, that it would be a good business move to bond the city and purchase the plant outright, as it would in the end result in great saving to taxpayers. With the growth of the city the income from the plant would correspondingly increase. As a matter of self-protection he believed that the city should purchase the plant.

Mr. Louis Williams believed in puritannical reform. He was most emphatically opposed to paying an unreasonably high figure for the electric light plant. The city was in no condition for extending its liabilities. Did not oppose the city owning its electric light system, but believed that a thorough investigation should be made before definite action was taken.

Dr. Lewis made a clear, business-like statement of the action of the council in leasing the electric plant. Defended the position of the council upon the question of bonding the city to purchase the plant. Plainly showed that the present was an opportune time to secure the ownership of the plant. Demonstrated that the city could operate the plant more economically and provide consumers more cheaply than private owners could. The purpose of bonding the city was not only to enable the city to purchase the plant but to increase its capacity and put in water power, which would decrease the operating expenses of the plant fully one-half. Should the city continue the lease during the life of the lease all improvements would accrue to the owner. The natural growth of the city during that period—five years—would necessitate at least an outlay of $20,000 on the part of the city, which would result in a loss to the city, even though it was offset by the profits accruing from the plant. The purchase of the plant would protect the city against this loss, and also enable it to put in the water power and furnish consumers throughout the city at greatly reduced rates. Mr. Lewis denied that the city was paying an unreasonable price for the plant. Fair and conservative estimates had been made of the value of the plant and it actually cost about $21,000. And any reasonable man would not consider $4,000 too much for the franchise.

Mr. G. V. Smith favored purchasing the plant, even though at a slight sacrifice to the city for the present. Past experience had unquestionably proved that municipal ownership of these commodities always obtain better results than private. Consumers were supplied at least one-third the cost in cities that owned light and water systems that they were in cities supplied by private owners. These were important facts to consider. It is not only the present, but future demands that should gravely be considered. The opportunity to secure control of the electric light plant was at hand. Mr. Smith believed it was the duty of citizens to embrace it, as he honestly believed that it would never again be presented as favorable a form.

Mr. Chas. E. Mallette earnestly favored the purchase of the electric plant as he regarded it a wise move. It would result in profit to the city, in consumers receiving that commodity at the lowest rate obtainable—therefore protecting taxpayers.

As a large taxpayer he favored bonding the city to purchase the plant, and would do all in his power to bring about so desirable a result.

The board then adopted a resolution that provided for the appointment of a committee by the president and secretary, the duty of which would be to bring a representative of some electric supply house to Port Angeles to furnish the board with an accurate estimate of the cost of the local plant complete as it now stands.

The board then adjourned.

The county commissioners this week gave their attention to some matters of the greatest local interest to this section. In so doing they gave unmistakable proof of their considerate regard for the interests of the hardy pioneers who are devoting their brain and muscle to the task of the opening of the western part of Clallam county. The petitions for county roads from the Burlingame road to lakes Sutherland and Crescent and from Port Crescent to Lake Crescent were both allowed and viewers appointed. The viewers for the Port Crescent road are Messrs. Al. Miller, Joseph Hottowe and Richard McDonnell. The work on the survey will begin not latter than December 5th, perhaps earlier.—Port Crescent Leader.

The commissioners also appropriated $1,200 from the general road fund for the purpose of extending the Burlingame road westward beyond Gettysburg. This road has been petitioned for by all the section of county tributary to Port Crescent and Gettysburg and is of the greatest local as well as general interest by reason of its being a part of an important thoroughfare which must shortly be opened its entire length.—Port Crescent Leader.

THE LIGHT BONDS.

One of the most important propositions that is to be decided at the election on December 6th is that to bond the city for $50,000 with which to purchase and extend the electric light plant now leased and operated by the city of Port Angeles.

THE DEMOCRAT, with the welfare of Port Angeles in view recognizing that what benefits this city is for its good, favors this proposition. It should carry.

That the full situation may be known to the voters of Port Angeles, THE DEMOCRAT has made a careful investigation.

The electric light plant had cost about $22,000,at the time the light was turned on. Since that time improvements and extensions to the amount of several thousand dollars have been made—making the total cost of the plant nearly $25,000, the amount of the capital stock and the amount proposed to be paid for it.

On June 1st of this year the city leased this plant, paying therefor $250 per month or $3000 per year. By the terms of this contract, the city will have to return to the company the plant in good condition at the end of five years, together with everything that has been added to the plant in the way of repairs and extensions.

Now to run this with steam under this contract it costs besides the $3000 per year rent, $900 for fireman, $1,000 for engineer, about $2000 for wood, making $6,900 per year more expense than though the city owned the plant and run it with water power, besides the cost for repairs would not be so great under the last mentioned system.

Under its present management the plant is not making expenses, but under the other plan it would make money for the city after paying all its own expenses, and the city would get its lights free of cost.

Now the proposition is for the city to issue $50,000 bonds; $25,000 of which would go to purchase the plant, as it stands, and $25,000 to extend it and to put in water works to run it with.

Interest on the $50,000 at 6 per cent. would amount to $3000—the amount now paid for rent.

If this is done, the city would save the extra cost of running the plant, or about $300 per month,and all the extensions and improvements made would belong to the city instead of having to be turned over to the company.

Now, everybody admits that a city should own its own water and light. This is agreed to by business men everywhere, as is proven by the fact that over all the country cities are issuing bonds with which to purchase light and water plants. Many are the benefits derived from such a condition. Light and water are necessities which should be furnished the community at the lowest rates—therefore they should be owned by the community and not by a corporation, that will pay large dividends, wrung from the people without their being able to help it at all.

This much settled, the question arises whether or not now is the proper time for Port Angeles to purchase. If the city purchases now, it will cost but $25,000 to get possession of the plant. If they do not until after June 1st, it will cost $30,000. If the city does not purchase this plant, at the termination of five years, the people will be at the mercy of the present company, or the city will have to compete with the company owning the present plant, probably causing the city run at greater expense.

Considering all these,there seems but one conclusion:—the city will save money by purchasing the plant.

VOTE for bonds.

VOTE to own your own light.

EVERY progressive city should own, maintain and operate its light and water systems.

THE golden opportunity to own its electric light plant, is afforded Port Angeles. Will citizens embrace it?

BY purchasing the electric light plant the city will save at least $6,900 per annum in rental, fuel and labor. Is it not a business proposition to purchase the plant?

IF the city does not now purchase the electric light plant, but waits until the lease expires, before that important matter is consummated, an extended system such as the city will then require could not be purchased for much less than $150.000.

IT is always easy to show where mistakes were made when they are shown up by the light of inexperience. It is an easy matter for a man to come from San Francisco, or some other place, and show wherein the city government had made mistakes, and a charge of incompetence comes very gibly from the lips of such an individual. But the citizens of Port Angeles realize that it is a difficult matter to run a city without mistakes, especially where there is nothing in the way of experience to guide those in charge, and they will be slow to accept the sage advice of such an individual, wise [?] as it may be.

THE citizens of Port Angeles should use exceeding care in choosing officers for the ensuing year. Port Angeles has arrived at a period in its history when a careful management of its offices is essential to future prosperity. Upon the next administration severe responsibilities must of necessity fall.

The councilmen chosen, besides being men capable of grappling and handling city affairs in a business like way, should be men of integrity and honesty—men whose words can be depended upon.

ONE of the features of Monday's meeting of the board of trade was the fact that it was attended by several men from other cities. These gentlemen were certainly unprejudiced. Every one of them, after the meeting of the board of trade was over, and after they had listened to the able arguments of Geo. Venable Smith, Chas. E. Mallette, Dr. F. S. Lewis and James F. Meagher, expressed a firm belief that it was to the city's best interest to vote bonds and purchase the electric light plant.

MR. LAWRENCE, the expert electrician, who came to this place in the interest of his San Francisco company, to look over the ground for electric railways, etc, and who was invited to discuss the proposition to bond the the city to purchase the electric light works, by members of the board of trade who are fighting the proposition, says if he was a taxpayer in Port Angeles he would favor the proposition to bond the city and purchase the plant now in use here.

ANOTHER action of the board o county commissioners (since the election), quite in accord with the Republican administration of Clallam county, is recorded. Although Clallam county has a prosecutin attorney who draws a salary as such, and a deputy prosecuting attorney who is paid $75 per month to assist the said prosecuting attorney, and although there has been nothing to do in court for weeks, the county commissioners have employed George C. Hatch, at $200 to assist these worthy gentlemen to prosecute a man charged with embezzlement.

SWEET CHIMES.

The Chimes of Normandy Well Rendered by Local Talent to Crowded Houses.

The charming opera, Chimes of Normandy, put on by the Ladies' World's Fair Club, was successfully rendered to crowded houses on Friday and Monday nights. None but local talent was cast, a fact of which the people of Port Angeles should feel justly proud, as the rendition was certainly a credit for amatures, and worse has been done by many professional companies of note.

Ben C. Keller showed excellent taste in casting the characters in such a manner as to show the best talent of the city to its best advantage.

Miss Grace Davis, as Serpolette, showed an exceeding clear interpretation of the "good for nothing" character. Her stage manner is easy and graceful. Especially marked was the effect of her change from a giddy seryant to a silly marchioness in the third act, and then back again to her proper station. Miss Davis would not be unknown to fame had she accepted the stage as her profession. She has a rich, clear and cultivated voice.

Miss Minerva Lewis perfectly interpreted the character of Germaine, the lost marchioness. Every emotion of that emotional character was fully portrayed in a charmingly natural manner. Miss Lewis' singing added laurels to her reputation. Her voice is especially noted for sweetness and sympathy.

The four village maidens, Mrs. Meagher, Mrs. Foster, Miss Ferguson and Miss Ware, and the chorus added much to the play.

Ben Keller, translated the character of Gaspard, the miser, in a manner both graphic and entertaining. Mr. Keller has great natural power. He would be at his best in tragedy. His solos were rendered in his usual rich voice, which took the audience by storm.

Fred Lamoreux, as Henri, Marquis of Corneville, made a handsome and striking appearance. His part was also well rendered. Mr. Lamoreux showed to good advantage the fire and dashing of his subject.

The character of Jean Grenicheux gave George Meagher ample opportunity to show up his natural ability as a comedian. This part was well sustained and caught the audience, as Mr. Meagher always does.

John Spears, as the bailli, trying to be grave, but naturally amusing, did splendidly.

W. W. Dedman, as the notary, was both clever and handsome.

The cast was as follows:

Serpolette, the Good-for-nothing.....
..... Miss Grace Davis
Germaine, the Lost Marchioness.....

A fair-sized audience attended the Democratic ratification at the opera house this evening. The meeting was presided over by Mr. Thos. Malony. Able addresses were made by Judge Lane, Mr. Jno. Trumbull, of Port Townsend, D. W. Bryan and Dr. Lewis. After the meeting a large number of Democrats banqueted at the Olympian, where toasts were made by all the guests. The chairman of the evening, Mr. F. P. Fisher, discharged his duties with ease and dignity.

AT THE MASQUERADE.

The Opera House a Scene of Festivity---Merry Maskers Create Much Mirth.

Las Wednesday evening was the occasion of one of the social events of the season—the masquerade ball given at the opera house under the auspices of the Ladies' World's Fair Club.

We are told that the pleasure of anticipation is even greater than that of realization. If this be true, the exception in this instance must prove the rule, as it did seem that not only the participants but the spectators as well were inspired with the same spirit of exuberant, joy and possessed with unusual good feeling throughout the evening.

Fully 130 persons appeared on the floor under mask. And what a wonderfully peculiar, strangely interesting and curious appearing crowd they were. What a variety of costomes! The costumes of the people of nearly every nation — civilized and barbaric— were represented.

The fact that a number of prizes had been offered by citizens for the best sustained character, best dancer, etc, had stimulated considerable friendly rivelry among the maskers to win the prizes.

Five persons were selected from among the spectators to act as judges and decide as to who would be entitled to the various prizes. The persons selected were: Mrs. Sam'l Johnson, Mrs, Jas. Garrison, Mrs. Lee, Mr. Thos. Penniman Mr. Louis R. Flowers.

LADIES PRIZES.

Third—Most original costume, silk umbrella, presented by G. W. Meagher. The character representing "the baby" was awarded this prize—Mrs. Chas. A. Peters.

GENTLEMEN'S PRIZES.

Second—Richest costume, smoking set by many contributors. Won by Horace White.

Third—Most original costume, silk umbrella, present by Geo. W. Meagher. Won by the "country boy." Represented by E. C. Rich.

Fourth—Poorest dancer, sack flour by D. W. Morse. Won by J. W. Troy.

A prize was also given for the best group of four or more. The prize was won by "Two Queens and Three Kings group." The dancers were: Mr. and Mrs. Pringle, Mrs Dahlin, Mr. Louis Williams and Mr. W. E. Burnside.

Shipping Dull at Present.

"Shipping on the coast is pretty dull just now," said Captain Sander of the American girl, "foreign vessels come over here and carry freight so cheap that American vessels have to lay up. For instance an English ship will take lumber to Australia for 37 shillings per thousand feet; our vessels demand 70 shillings and as long as they are plenty of cheap vessels to be had Americans are not in it. What's the reason? Why foreign vessels cost less to build, they pay less wages to sailors and carry a lot of apprentices who have to serve four years for nothing. I came from Australia once in an English ship and we have had on board four able seamen, who got $15 a month, (big pay) seven apprentices who get nothing and four mates who got less than the seamen. Is it any wonder that foreign vessels are cheaper? The American shipping is now chiefly confined between home ports, foreign bottoms being barred out bo law."—East Clallam Record.

GERMANS ORGANIZE.

A Meeting for That Purpose in Thompson's Hall—To Meet Again.

The Germans of Port Angeles met Thursday evening in Thompson's Hall pursuant to notice to organize for the purpose of advancing the interests of the city of Port Angeles, and their own interests as citizens.

The meeting was called to order by W. J. Klaunig, who was elected chairman. A few speeches were made on the object of the meeting, but the hall being too cold to continue the meeting, they adjourned to meet at the council chamber Sunday evening at 7 o'clock.

About forty-five were present. Before the meeting adjourned it was moved and carried that each member present act as a committee to explain the purposes and objects of the organization, to the Germans not present. It is expected that the organization will have seventy or eighty members amongst the Germans of Port Angeles.

A Wonderful Music Box.

An interesting arrangement of pneumatic mechanism for the production of high class music has recently been exhibited. The instrument has two and one-fifth sets of reeds, the regular action of the air grooves being located above, and on top of the board containing these is a row of small pneumatics corresponding in number to the keys of the instrument; underneath this board are four rows of large pneumatics, one beneath the other, and from an arm on each of these pneumatics hangs a wire attached to a lever operating on the coupler buttons on the pitmans or wooden rods connecting the keys of the instrument with the reed board valves.

By means of these levers, operated by pneumatics, the movement of the valves becomes automatic, subject to the passage over the air board of perforated paper. A peculiar characteristic of the motor which operates the music roll, which distinguishes it from all other appliances of the kind, is its adaptability to running to the right to wind music and the left to rewind, or vice versa. When the instrument is in operation the keyboard becomes a thing of life, keys dropping with the exact rapidity required by the selection rendered.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Young Love's Dream and Awakening.

Harry Hamilton, aged sixteen and Annie Mead, aged fifteen, went to the same school in Philadelphia. They became attached to each other, and about a year ago became engaged to be married. Owing to their youth, however, the engagement was kept a secret, and the parents endeavored to keep them apart.

Monday Hamilton succeeded in getting a note to Miss Mead in a grocery package. The young girl escaped from home and joined Hamilton. They went to Camden and were married. They then took the train for Wilkesbarre and secured board at Mrs. Reeves', on Union street. Hamilton had a ten dollar note. He gave it to the landlady, saying, "We are solid for one week, anyhow, and can spend our honeymoon in peace."

The young husband endeavored to secure employment as a clerk, but as he was not known he failed. His father arrived and took him home by the ear. The young wife's sister came here on Saturday and marched her back to Philadelphia.—Wilkesbarre Cor. Philadelphia Record.

California's Jelly Palace.

The jelly palace which the women of California will prepare for the World's fair exhibit will be 16 by 20 feet and 25 feet high, with two open doors approached by three marble steps. The framework will be of wire. On this will be firmly placed several thousand jelly glasses—cups, globes, prisms, etc.—filled with jelly of many shades of color, arranged in artistic and beautiful designs. The interior will be brilliantly illuminated by electricity. The cost of the framework and glasses alone is estimated at $2,700.

Danger in Ice Water.

Many people owe summer sickness to the too free use of ice water. It is a question if any real ice water is safe. That which is cold without coming directly from the ice is quite as satisfying and is not dangerous. Strong men have died in fifteen minutes from the effects of drinking copiously of ice water while highly heated by hard work or the sun. —New York Press.

THE DEMOCRAT.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 25, 1892.

LOCAL PARAGRAPHS.

District court is in session this week.

Fred O. Lamoreux will have his office apartments with Will R. Gay.

The council meeting was adjourned from Wednesday evening to this morning at 10 o'clock.

Some of the young men of this city are organizing for a minstrel entertainment that will be produced about Christmas time.

The proposition to bond the city to purchase the electric light plant will not be submitted to the voters of this city until January 2nd.

The city election that will be held December 6th, will doubtless prove quite an exciting contest, as several tickets will be in the field.

There will be a social at the Y. M. C. A. rooms Saturday evening, Nov. 26th. Recitations, singing and refreshments. Admission 15 cents.

There will be a social at the Y. M. C. A. rooms Saturday evening, Nov. 26th. Recitations, singing and refreshments. Admission 15 cents.

Very little business of importance has thus far been accomplished in the district court. The Schwartz trial was set for hearing this morning.

One of principal reasons for the withdrawing the Monticello from the Angeles run was that she was not deemed safe for winter service on this route.

The schooner Teaser, Capt. Quinn, laden with a cargo of general merchandise for La Push, has been weather bound in the harbor for several days past.

Primaries were held in the several wards Wednesday to elect four delegrates from each ward to the citizens convention, that will be held tomorrow night to nominate a citizens' municipal ticket.

The Garland will soon change her schedule—arriving here every evening—at six o'clock. The change will be beneficial as it will enable citizens to receive the Seattle daily papers the day of publication.

The masquerade Wednesday evening was largely attended. Some of the costumes were grotesque, quite a number were handsome, while others were ridiculous enough to provoke no little amount of merriment.

Citizens of Port Angeles evinced a high sense of appreciation of the effort of local talent by the large attendance at the two productions of the "Chimes of Normandy at the opera house Friday and Monday evenings.

Save your money and make your purchases at the Christmas Bazaar given by the ladies of the Congregational Church to open Dec. 15th. Useful articles for the family and fancy articles for decoration for sale.

The steamer Monticello came in again Thursday, greatly to the surprise of many who had concluded that she had been withdrawn from thif route. It is not definitely known whether or not she will remain on the route.

LOST.—A five dollar gold piece of the year 1882, with an X mark on the head of the Goddess of Liberty. Five dollars will be given in return for it. The piece is wanted, as it was a keepsake. Leave at THE DEMOCRAT.

JOS. EGLAR.

The Royal Baking Powder maintains its vigorous hold on the public, and is active and aggressive against the impure and injurious baking powder palmed off on the people. In this task it is performing a good work for honest and unadulterated food products.

In the sermon at the Congregational church Sunday night the necessity of one day of rest in every seven will be shown. The subject will be, "The Sabbath, the Rest Day, the Holy Day." In the morning the subject will be, "The Sunday School." This will be largely a historical sermon.

"The Empty Grave of Jesus" will be the subject for discourse at the Baptist church next Sunday morning. In the evening the subject will be "The Disease and the Physician." The young people's meeting at 6:30 p. m., will be conducted by Mr. Daniel Campbell. A cordial invitation to all.

The council met this forenoon. Mayor Smith being absent, Councilman Quinn was called to the chair. Councilmen McInnes, Bell, Metcalfe and Thompson were present. The most important business transacted was the consideration and final passing of an ordinance providing for a special election to be held January 2nd, 1893, to vote on bonding the city for $55,000 to purchase and extend the electric light plant. The consideration of street and other municipal business occupied the rest of the meeting. At a meeting held in the afternoon the council decided not to take definite action on the bonding proposition, until next week. Sufficient data had not been prepared to enable the council to correctly estimate the cost of the construction of the water power, and extend the system under the plans outlined. It will doubtless be necessary to secure the services of an expert engineer to prepare an estimate of cost before the council takes final action.

Patronize white labor and take your washing to the Port Angeles Steam Laundry.

RIVERS ON A TEAR.

The rains of the last few days have been heavier than known for years in this section. Rivers have become raging torrents, carrying devastation and destruction in their mad career to the ocean.

The Dungeness river has been higher than has bern known for years. The bridge at the clay banks that has withstood for a quarter century nature's fury, went down as an egg-shell in a vice.

No other damage is reported from that section, excepts light washings of the fertile soil.

The Elwha has not been so peaceful since commencing its tantrums. Besides washing away acres of good land for the bordering ranchers, it has also taken in its cold embrace, and, carried into the straits the residence of Mr. W. D. Gleason and a sawmill owned by Mr. Chas. Peters. A cow and calf were also washed away for Mr. Peters. The calf was drowned but the cow was rescued a few hours after the calamity by Indians. She was tied to her stantion, and had lost both horns—knocked off in the crash.

The loss to ranchers on the Elwha is large.

Mr. Silas Goodwin an old settler in that section says he has lived on the Elwha's bank for nineteen years, and never saw it so high before.

No further damage has been reported.

THE "CITIZENS" ACT.

They Make Ward Nominations and Select Delegates to City Convention.

Pursuant to call issued, the citizens of Port Angeles met Wednesday evening in each of their respective wards to nominate councilmen for each ward except the second in which Edward Metcalfe will hold over, and to choose delegates to attend the city convention which meets Saturday to nominate a mayor, councilman-at large, city treasurer, city health officer and city assessor.

The result of the several ward meetings was as follows:

First ward—Councilman, Dr. F. S. Lewis; delegates, Thomas Malony, N. R. Smith, H. B. Wilson and C. S. Stakemiller.

Second ward—There was no councilman to nominate in this ward. The following were selected as delegates: Elmer E. Fisher, T. Mona, F. W. Meerwaldt and Edward Metcalfe.

Third ward—Councilman, Thos. Moore; delegates, C. M. Raymond, C. L. Babcock, D. W. Bryan and W. L. Adams.

Fifth ward—Councilman, J. E. Beam; delegates, Geo. C. Hatch, P. J. Williams, E. A. Fitz Henry and W. Starrett.

Sixth ward—Councilman, Warren R. Dodge; delegates, Frank P. Fisher, Ed. Hooker, C. D. Ulmer and W. D. Stivers.

The Reservation.

A few days since Secretary Carrigan, of the board of trade telegraphed Gen. Noble, Secretary of the Interior, to ascertain how soon appraisers would be ordered into the field. He stated that the settlers on the reservation were getting very, very impatient, and were very anxious to know when work would be begun. The following is the telegram sent and those received in reply:

PORT ANGELES, Wash., Nov. 16, 1892.

GEN. JNO. W. NOBLE,
Secretary of Interior,
Washington, D. C.:

Can you tell me when appraisers of townsite reservation will be ordered into the field? Have received no instructions yet. Our people getting very anxious.

M. J. CARRIGAN,
Secretary of Board of Trade.

Reply from Gen. Noble:

WASHINGTON, D. C., 19, 1892.

M. J. CARRIGAN,
Port Angeles, Wash.:

Instructions to appraisers townsite reservation must await return of plats sent to surveyor general for emendation in accordance with conditions under which survey was accepted. Deputy required to run new meander line and close subdivision thereon.

JNO. W. NOBLE.

Later the following telegram of a more encouraging nature was received, which explains itself:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 19, 1892.

M. J CARRIGAN,
Sect'y Board of Trade,
Port Angeles, Wash.:

Wire from surveyor-general received this morning says that Deputy Ashley will attend to amending the survey at once. Instructions to surveyor on receipt of amended plat.

JNO. W. NOBLE.

PERSONAL.

Andy Cosser returned from a visit to Seattle Thursday.

Mr. Harry Lutz, of Port Crescent was in town Tuesday.

Lewis Levy returned from a business trip to Seattle Tuesday.

B. John Baker returned from a business trip up-Sound Tuesday.

Col. Coolican returned from a business trip to Portland Sunday.

Captain Greenleaf, of Seattle, was in town several days during the week.

Mr. Lawrence, of San Francisco, has been spending a few days in Port Angeles.

Judge Lane will pay a visit to his old home in Missouri about the first of January.

George W. O'Brien, of the East Clallam Record, was in town Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Yerkes, of Port Townseud, of the Northern Pacific railway, was in town Monday.

Dr. Gore, of the Western Washington Development Comyany, left Tuesday for Portland.

Messrs. D. Lavin, George Talbot, D. Cronin, S. H. Wilkinson, of Clallam were in town this week.

Mr. Harry Holden, of Dungeness, attended the masquerade ball at the opera house Wednesday evening.

Dr. and Mrs. Lull left Tuesday afternoon for Seattle. Mrs. Lull will continue her trip to her old home in Wisconsin. She will be absent several months.

Charles B Wood, of Port Townsend, was in town several days this week settling the death claims of Charles R. Brewster, whose lift was insured in the company Mr. Wood represents.

Prof. R. S Dimmick, of East Clallam, has been spending the past week with his friend Prof. William Wallace Dedman. While here Prof. Dimmick secured a few new scholars, whom we trust, will receive the best of attention and prove themselves apt.

N. W. Merrifield, of La Push spent several days in the city this week. Mr. Merrifield has charge of the La Push school, and speaks flatteringly of the Quillayute country, and its bright prospects. He has, however, a warm place in his heart for Port Angeles, and it is not at all unlikely that he will again take up his residence here.

The City and Electric Lights.

The city now pays a monthly rental of $250 for the electric plant; that amounts to $3000 per annum; it would capitalize $50,000 at 6 per cent. per annum; it pay $150 per month for fuel to operate the plant; this would capitalize another $50,000 at 6 per cent. per annum.

If the city is bonded for $50,000 to puchase the plant, and then utilize Morse's creek as motive power to operate the plant, it will save $3000 per annum rental, $2000 per annum for fuel, $900 per annum for a fireman and $1,000 for an engineer. Here is a direct saving to the city of $6900. These are facts that should be seriously pondered, carefully weighed by taxpayers in considering the bonding proposition.

STATE OF WASHINGTON, } ss. Cause, No. 261.
CLALLAM COUNTY.

Anna D. Drannan, Plaintiff,
vs.
William F. M. Drannan, Defendant

The State of Washington to the above named Defendant.

You are hereby notified that Anna D. Drannan, plaintiff, has filed a complaint against you in the Superior court of the State of Washington for the county of Clallam, holding terms at Port Angeles, which will come on to be heard sixty days after the first publication of this summons, to wit; sixty days after the 18th day of Novembe, A. D. 1892, and unless you appear and answer the same on or before the 19th day of January, A. D., 1893, the same will be taken as confessed and the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint herein.

The said action is brought to obtain a decree of this court dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between the plaintiff and defendant upon the ground of desertion and abandonment by the defendant of the plaintiff without cause more than one year last past before the commencement of this action; and upon the further ground of willful neglect for more than one year last past before the commencement of this action, whereby you have failed to provide this plaintiff with the common necessities of life, you having the ability so to do; and for more than one year last past, before the commencement of this action you have willfully neglected to provide plaintiff the common necessaries of life and you have failed to do so by reason of your idleness, habitual laziness and improvidence, all of which is specified in the complaint filed herein, to which reference is expressly made.

Plaintiff prays for judgment and decree forever dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between plaintiff and defendant together with general relief.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Superior court, affixed this 15th day of November, A. D. 1892.

{SEAL} WILLIAM K. CLARK,
County clerk,

COLUMBUS DISCOVERED

America in 1492. Everybody knows that; but who Discovered Columbus?

We will not try to answer this question, but judging from the number of BOOTS and SHOES we are selling we know that the people of Port Angeles and Clallam County,

HAVE DISCOVERED

That the NEW YORK BOOT AND SHOE HOUSE is the best and cheapest place in town to buy their footwear.

WHY?

BECAUSE—Bright folks take heed of other people's experience. Few things cost more in this world than experience. Now our experience in the shoe trade has been quite extensive. All our customers get the benefit of our experience, for by it we are able to sell the best goods for the least money.

Against a Massachusetts Ruling.

The officers of the Illinois Humane society detailed to prosecute the participators in the tame fox hunt at Fairland are much disturbed over the methods of legal procedure in Douglas county. The action against the fox hunters was called before Justice Lamb at Tuscola. Witnesses testified before a jury that a tame fox had been chased by the defendants and their hounds and had been caught and torn to pieces by the latter. Attorney A. W. Thomas, of Chicago, cited a Massachusetts decision sustaining the position of the Humane society, which, while not denying the right of men to hunt and kill wild foxes, held that a tame fox, cared for in captivity by man from the time it was only a few days old, is a domestic animal.

C. W. Wolverton, of Tuscola, attorney for the defendants, then addressed the jury. He troubled himself but little about replying to arguments of the Chicago lawyer, but the fact that a Massachusetts decision had been cited severely wounded his local pride.

"Gentleman of the jury," he said, "we are residents of the state of Illinois in the glorious west—wild and wooly, if you will—where each man is an independent American citizen. What is Massachusetts? An alien commonwealth. It is Massachusetts. Why, gentlemen of the jury, on Boston common today witches are burned at the stake, and if a man is found outside of a church Sunday he is placed in a lock-up. What has Massachusetts to do with us? We are American citizens and we want to chase foxes and we chase foxes."

After hearing which the twelve good men and true of Tuscola rendered a verdict for the defendants. The Humane society had hoped to make this a test case under the state laws, which provide that any person guilty of "torturing any animal" shall be subject to a fine of not more than $200. The Massachusetts decision was directly in point, and although the justice before whom the action was brought was manifestly impartial, the jury, which was composed largely of friends of the defendants rendered a favorable decision on the question of law impossible.—Chicago Tribune.

Billiards Without Balls.

According to an eye witness a peculiar incident happened one evening recently in the billiard room of a hotel at Tacoma, Wash. The room was crowded and all of the billiard and pool tables were occupied but one. Two gentlemen entered the room attired in full evening dress. Engaging a billiard table the boy brought the balls, but the players, to his utter astonishment, told him they did not need them. Removing their topcoats, coats and hats, they took cues and commenced a mimic game.

They made the customary moves around the table, studied apparent plays, made the usual grimaces at misplays, and regularly counted their strings. A wondering crowd gathered about them They thought the men were crazy. A funny part of it was that they never smiled, took the "guying" of the crowd serenely and, when the points were marked up, paid for the game and unconcernedly walked out. The solution of the mystery was that the imitation game was played on a wager.—Chicago Times.

Bloomed in an Hour.

A Belfast gentleman woke about 4:45 a. m Sunday and glanced out the window at the clock on the Unitarian church, as was his custom of a morning, to see what time it was. Having found out he turned over for another nap. The next time he awoke he again glanced toward the steeple and was surprised to find that the budding leaves in the trees between his house and the clock had burst forth to such an extent that they shut out the clock so that he was unable to barely see the large face, let alone the hands. He was telling this circumstance to a neighbor later in the day, when the latter said he, too, noted the fact, as he also took time from the same clock.—Belfast Age.

An Electric Experience.

In Devonshire, England, one day recently, a party of young people were overtaken by a heavy shower of hailstones which lasted about ten minutes, and during that time they felt as though highly charged with electricity. The ladies of the party felt as though ants were running among their hair, which was fastened up with steel hairpins. One of the gentlemen held his hand to the head of one of the others and at once the hair stood on end. This was done several times with the same result, and for two or three days afterward their heads felt the effects of the electrical whipping.—London Letter.

Probably All in His Eye.

A freak of nature has come to light in the county jail at Fort Worth, Tex. His name is Jesse Lee, aged eighteen years. Turn the boy's face so that a strong light may shine into his eyes and a phenomenon is seen Around the pupils of the eyes, in the iris, are the twenty-six letters of the alphabet arranged symmetrically. There are thirteen letters in each eye, those up to "M" being in the left eye and the remaining ones in the right. Lee says his father and four brothers are similarly affected.

A Ripley County Peach Tree.

W. S Holladay, whose home is at Tucker, in Ripley county, Mo., has a curiosity in the peach tree line which he is thinking of sending to the World's fair. The tree is three years old, about an inch and a half in diameter at the butt, is thirty-seven feet high and has no limb or branch on it.—Doniphan (Mo.) Prospect News.

Blown from a Railway Train.

James Malloy was a passenger on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul train, and while running at the rate of forty miles an hour attempted to pass from the smoker into a rear coach. In doing so he was blown from the platform into a ditch.—Cor. Chicago Inter Ocean.

Fat People on a Hot Day.

On one of the recent hot, soggy afternoons, when every man hated his neighbor and tried to keep at a distance from him, a perspiring, heavily clothed fat man waddled into an elevated train at the city hall station and pre-empted one of the cross seats. He breathed like a porpoise and mopped his face with a large handkerchief.

Just before the train started a woman heavy almost beyond description with adipose tissue, entered the same car. The car creaked beneath her tread. The passengers were many, and those who adjoined empty seats watched her progress with a nervous glance. But with as great a degree of blindness of choice as is sometimes said to prevail in marriage, she plunged to the center of the car and pressed herself down into the space beside the fat man.

The fat man looked at her a moment, but she seemed oblivions of his regard. Then he braced himself for a move and got out of his seat. Then the fat woman became aware of his presence.

"Don't move—plenty of room," said she.

"Madam," said he, and his voice was high and clear, "it's a hot day. I am fat. You are fat. We've got no business to be any where near each other. So you'll excuse me." And he moved away with an imitation of dignity, while the passengers laughed at his forcible English.

But the fat woman, nettled at first, thought better of it, and as she spread herself over the entire seat murmured to a crowded neighbor, "There's some advantage in being fat after all."—Her Point of View in New York Times.

Clouds of Locusts.

The locusts are reappearing in Algeria in greater numbers than ever, in spite of the efforts that were made by the French administration last year to annihilate the pests. It is now believed that they come clear across the desert from the Soudan. The period of incubation varies from twenty to thirty days, and the locusts require only about two months to attain their complete development. This fact gives a realizing sense to the prodigious numbers in which the terrible insect may multiply during its progress across the Sahara. Great clouds of the locusts have already been seen on the northern edge of the Sahara making their way north. The news comes from Touggurt and Ghardaia in the Sahara that early this year the locusts suddenly invaded those places in such enormous numbers that for four hours they fairly darkened the heavens. About a month before similar clouds of locusts were reported in the valley of the Niger river in the Soudan, and it is believed that in the four succeeding weeks they had journeyed to the northern part of the Sahara.—New York Sun.

Italy's New Prime Minister.

Signor Giovanni Giolitti, the new Italian premier, is said to be the youngest head of a ministry that Italy has had since Cavour. He is barely fifty years of age, and has only been in parliament ten years. In the caricatures of him in The Don Chisciotte he used to be represented, owing to his being one of the tallest of the deputies, by what might be called a hop pole clad in a long overcoat and very high silk hat. When he was twenty-two he took his degree of doctor of law, and in 1876, when Signor Depretis was in power, he had become director of customs. Signor Crispi made him minister of the treasury in March, 1889, and in November, 1890, minister of finance. A month later Signor Giolitti resigned, owing to a difference with the minister of public works, whose expenditure he wished to cut down. He then helped to bring about the fall of the Crispi cabinet. Signor Giolitti is the leader of the Piedmontese group of the left center.—London News.

Sheep from Persia.

Thirteen sheep and three lambs are on their way consigned to the agricultural department at Washington—a fact that presents considerable interest for the agriculturally minded. They were shipped from Persia, and an attempt is to be made to introduce their breeding into this country.

These sheep are said to be noted for the beauty and richness of their skins, which are the purest astrakhan. As a warm climate is necessary for their existence, at least for the present, they will probably be sent to southern California or to some other warm climate, where their value and adaptability to this country can be determined.—Worcester Spy.

Fruits Attract Them.

Hosts of unemployed men and others seeking temporarily to better their condition are flocking to the Delaware peninsula now to pick small fruits for the markets of Philadelphia and New York. The fruit growers erect rude sheds in the open fields, and here the berry pickers eat and sleep while the season lasts. The earnings of berry pickers are considerably above the average pay of farm hands. Later in the season come the "peach plucks," a race of tramps from all parts of the northern Atlantic slope, feared by the native farmers and hated as competitors by the negro farm laborers.

Said It, and Then He Died.

Bert C. Hunter, a prominent mining man of Neihardt, Mon., died recently from a sixty grain dose of morphine, taken with suicidal intent. Physicians worked over him for seventeen hours without success. Toward the last, while being jolted on a board, slapped in the face and shaken to keep him awake, he looked up ruefully and muttered, "Oh, what a difference in the morning."—Cor. San Francisco Examiner.

Iron Deposits in Finland.

An important discovery of very extensive iron ore deposits, which are even supposed to rival the enormous iron ore mountain at Gellivora, in north Sweden, has quite recently been made in Finland by M. Stjeruvall, the geologist.

Carrier Pigeons for the Navy.

When the United States practice ship Constellation sailed on the cadets' summer voyage Monday afternoon it had aboard a number of homing pigeons, to be used as means of communication between the ship and points ashore. The birds will be liberated at intervals, and are expected to bring official messages from the practice vessel to the naval academy, where a loft or cote has recently been established.

If the experiment should prove successful the government will probably find it profitable to the navy to encourage the homing pigeon service with the small appropriation needed to carry out the plans of the projectors of the enterprise. At present the facilities for training birds at the naval academy are limited, no government appropriation being available. At Fortress Monroe, the first stopping place of the ship, it is possible several trained birds from Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York will be taken aboard and later dispatched with information from the cruising grounds. The headquarters at Washington will also be posted of the whereabouts of the vessel through winged messengers from that city. A loft of birds to accompany the ship will no doubt be sufficiently trained toward the close of the voyage to be useful in conveying messages ashore. — Annapolis Cor. Baltimore Sun.

No "Reversing" in Fashionable Dancing.

I am about to give society here and the leaders of the german at watering places this summer a bit of fashionable intelligence which I know will be startling in the extreme. The fiat has gone out in the best London and Continental society that the "reverse" in the valse shall no longer be permitted. This reform seems to have been originated by the Prince of Wales, and of course it was immediately taken up by the smaller fashionables in London. The ill natured say his royal highness never did dance well in his golden youth, and that since he has come to a liberal rotundity of belt, or, in other words, grown fat, his dancing is simply execrable. He always had great difficulty in "doing the reverse" in the waltz, and now that he cannot do it all he puts the ban of his disapproval on it. Hereafter there is to be no "reversing" at the state balls or at any dances which are honored by the royal presence. The fact is, the "reverse" was hardly ever seen on the other side of the water at any time, and now having the positive disapproval of "the first gentleman of England" it will disappear for good.—Lounger in Washington Herald.

Church Pillars in a Scrap.

A good thing has just leaked out concerning a church fair held in Utica not very long ago. When the booths were being put in position two men had a disagreement as to what position in the hall a certain booth should occupy. It was a small matter of course, but each disputant was sure he was right. There was a war of words, and one invited the other outside to settle the difficulty. Those who witnessed the settlement said that it was unique and amusing. Which party set the ball rolling will never be known. There was a swish of fists in the air, two angry grunts, a sprinkling of blood from two damaged nasal appendages, a whirl of arms and legs, and the booth builders rolled over one another in the mud. Two sorry looking pillars of the church they were when separated and sent home to recuperate. The booth went up, but whether its position was mutually satisfactory has not been learned.—Utica Observer.

Mr. Epstein Held Four Aces.

Burt Seiger, hailing from St. Louis, was yesterday afternoon bunkoed out of $160 on a poker hand, and James Cary, Charles Kline and Isaac Epstein were arrested on the charge of operating a confidence game. The four men were on an incoming Missouri Pacific train and were indulging in a quiet game of euchre for points. During the progress of the game Epstein remarked that he held a good poker hand. At this Seiger said he also held a good poker hand, and proposed that the game be turned from euchre to poker, which was accordingly done and the cigars bet. From cigars for the crowd the stakes grew to a box, and from a box of cigars to five dollars. Continuing at this rate, the neat bet of $160—all Seiger had—was made and the turn called. Seiger held four kings and Mr. Epstein four aces.—Kansas City Journal.

A Pretty Big Fourteen-year-old.

The youngest soldier in the British army, Private Defries, aged fourteen years and six months, is a fine child for his age. He is close upon 5 feet 5 inches in height, with a chest measurement of 33 inches, and weighs 126 pounds. It is no wonder, therefore, that the military authorities should have enlisted him without a demur when he told them that he was over eighteen. His father now seeks to have him discharged on account of his tender years; but the war office, not unreasonably, holds that the onus lies upon him to prove that his son is the lusus naturæ he would make him out. In other words, the condition of his discharge is the production of a certificate of age—and very right.—London Globe.

Good Dentistry by a Cow.

An Oak Hill (Litchfield) man had an aching tooth out in a novel manner the other day. He was removing a poke from a cow, when the animal threw up her head, striking the bow pin which he held in his hand against one of the lower front teeth, knocking it out. It happened to be the one that had been aching.—Winthrop (Conn.) Banner.

The mischievous rodents known as jack rabbits have caused great damage to the orchards in the state of Washington, and measures for the extermination of the pests are under consideration.

Creede, Colo., is not yet nine months old, but it has a population of 8,000 souls, two morning papers, one evening and four weekly publications.

Once Wealthy.

A third of a century ago Bob Gridley of this place was probably the best known and one of the richest gamblers in the United States. He conducted a place for years before John Morrissey came to the front. Bob was characterized as an "honest gambler," a scarce article in the world of chance today, and it was a common saying that "Bob Gridley's word is good for $50,000." As the years thinned his locks and bent his form his luck changed and false friends assisted in depleting his exchequer. Step by step he descended the financial ladder, and his continued misfortune soured him to the pessimistic extent that he believed everybody was against him. Reverses drove him out of gambling and the speculating fraternity soon looked upon him as a "has been."

With the small remnant of his fortune he established trout ponds and sought to obtain an honest livelihood. His wife died and his family became scattered. Two or three years ago he disposed of his ponds at a loss and established new ones a short distance north of the town. Adversity continued on his trail. The second investment cost him $11,000 and his last penny. In a few days a mortgage foreclosure will wipe even this out and leave him comparatively penniless, friendless and abandoned at the tottering age of eighty years. The present generation has forgotten old Bob Gridley. He smokes his pipe in his rural chimney corner, and, while a stray tear occasionally trickles down his wrinkled face, he wonders how soon he will be compelled to seek the refuge of the Saratoga county poorhouse.—Saratoga Cor. Chicago Times.

Warnings for Writers.

The Society of Authors in England has issued the following warnings, which are timely:

Never sign any agreement of which the alleged cost of production forms an integral part until you have proved the figures.

Never enter into any correspondence with publishers (especially with those who advertise for manuscripts) who are not recommended by experienced friends.

Never, on any account whatever, bind yourself down for future work to any one.

Never accept any proposal of royalty until you have ascertained exactly what the agreement gives to the author and what to the publisher.

Never accept without advice any pecuniary risk or responsibility whatever.

Never, when a manuscript has been refused by respectable houses, pay others, whatever promises they may put forward, for the production of the work.

Never, without advice, sign a receipt which gives away copyright.

Never forget that publishing is a business like any other business, totally unconnected with philanthropy, charity or pure love of literature. You have to do with business men.

Mr. Matsuo's Big Kite.

Jumatsu Matsuo, a native of Nagasaki, Japan, now residing on Rochelle avenue, Wissahickon, has built an enormous kite, shaped like an owl, which he intends flying from the hillside on Manayunk avenue. The kite is made of split bamboo frames, covered with rice paper, and requires a tail forty yards long to steady the aerial monster. He has two miles of string an eighth of an inch thick to hold the kite. After the kite has reached the height required he will send up on the string several mechanical objects to within a yard of the kite, which will again return to the ground. If the owl proves a success he intends on the Fourth of July to have one made like a ship, without tail or string, using gas balloons attached to each mast, and when at a certain height the ship will leave the balloons and float gracefully in space.—Philadelphia Record.

"Tesla's Glow" in England.

Tesla's experiments with high frequency currents before the Royal institution have laid such hold on the imagination of the English, who, as Tesla says in a recent letter to a friend in New York, "are the most enthusiastic people in the world in scientific matters," that crowds flock daily to the Crystal Palace to see the high pressure demonstrations given at the electrical exhibition. Many people find it hard to believe, without actually seeing it, that a tube carried in the hand, without any wire connection whatever, will fill a room with beautiful light and high pressure discharges with their dazzling and exquisite effects of color and light, and the illumination of wireless vacuum tubes promises to be indispensable at any afternoon party.—Exchange.

Evangelists in Jail.

The Rich brothers, who are known throughout Maine as the crazy evangelists of Piscataquis county, have been landed in Bangor jail. On May 29 they broke up a religious meeting at Sangerville because the exposition of the Gospel on that occasion was not according to their ideas, and a day or two later at a funeral, when the officiating clergyman remarked that the deceased was a good woman and was then in heaven, one of the brothers jumped up and declared that she had gone in an entirely different direction. That was the last straw, and the evangelists will suffer sixty days of martyrdom in a place where more attention is paid to the making of brooms than to theology.—New York Sun.

Floods Help Fishermen.

The recent high water at Marion, O., and vicinity has afforded the fish in the bigger streams a good opportunity to ascend the smaller, and they are found in abundance, and with little effort can be caught with hook or hand. Catfish of all sizes are found almost as numerous as the English sparrow and are caught with ease; also carp weighing five and six pounds are found in the Whetstone river in that county. Along the smaller streams and in ditches basketfuls of various kinds are reported to have been caught.

Stopping a Customer En Route.

A Maryland farmer who was waiting for the train to leave for New York was accosted by Detective McDevitt, who finally learned that the gentleman from the rural districts was going to New York with $400 in his pocket to buy "green goods." The farmer said that the agent of the green goods man would meet him at Summerville. McDevitt sent the farmer back to his family and saved him the loss of his money and the expenses of his trip. He says that men may be seen at the depots every day on their way to deal in green goods.—Washington Star.

The man who wrote to his wife in the country that he didn't know how to endure the heat was told to keep the gas turned down and not to play poker all night.
