The Board of Trade Again Discuss City Matters.

SOME CORRESPONDENCE

Sequim, Quillayute, Texas Valley and Other Places Heard From—Clallam County Shingles—A New Schooner—More Soldiers.

The Board of Trade met Tuesday evening in special session. Squatters and business men were present pursuant to invitation.

The reservation matter was discussed at some length. Personalities were indulged in to more than a proper extent.

The correspondence with the Interior Department and the Angeles board of trade was read, which showed that Mr. Carrigan had not been inactive.

The perport of the correspondence was to the effect that all haste would be made by the Department.

A telegram from J. K. Ashly stated that he would be here this week.

A new deputy is promised unless Mr. Ashly moves at once

The bonding proposition was handled by different ones present. Insinuations as to the position of the city council were made by some. Dr. Lewis ably and forcefully sustained the latter institution.

He invited courtesy, assuring the members of the board of trade that they would be treated courteously in the council chamber.

A committee consisting of the president and secretary of the board, L. Williams, D. G. Harvey, G. V. Smith, J. S. Stewart, Dr. E. George, Charles Gore, J. M. Martin and H. Westphal was appointed to request the council to give them the plans and specifications for the proposed improvements of the electric light plant.

Special from Sequim Prairie.

The weather up here has been very, unpromising for the last week. It has tried to snow awful hard, but didn't succeed.

The farmers are all busy plowing for their fall wheat.

Bugge Brothers have purchased their Xmas stock of goods and a large assortment of groceries is always kept on hand.

Miss Maggie Brown visited Dungeness Thursday.

The school here will close very shortly on account of bad weather, after which Professor Dorsey leaves for his home in Dayton, Oregon.

Mr. Frederick Dean, of Blyn, was married November 23rd to Irena Ballard, of that place.

The Sunday school will probably run until Xmas. A public library is sent for and is needed very badly.

The masquerade ball at Sequim Thanksgiving didn't quite show up.

Mrs. Ipsen, of Blyn, was buried at Sequim to-day.

FARMER.

Texas Valley Brevities.

Your city folks have no idea how sociable we aim to be in the future, for this week our new postoffice sends mail direct to Port Angeles.

Gardens and meadows are bidding defiance to king winter. No snow as yet, though frequent frosts.

Mrs. J. T. Forrest and children have gone to Kansas for the winter.

Mr. Wm. A. Daniels is the delighted father of a big boy, who made his advent on the 11th inst.

Notes From Quillayute.

Married Thursday at the residence of the brides' mother Mr. R. H. Tyler and Miss Jennie M. Smith, both of Quillayute, Rev. R. W. Fletcher, of Seattle, officiating. A large company of relatives and friends were in attendence. Numerous and beautiful the presents. After the ceremony all repaired to the dining room, where a sumptuous Thanksgiving turkey dinner awaited them.

Quillayute hops are still patiently waiting for Baxter's schooner to carry them to market. People will learn after a while that they cannot depend on the above company.

Quillayute roads have been much improved this fall.

Mr. Balch will go up-Sound again for another load of goods. We expect he will get around now ahead of Baxters' schooner, which has been on the way over a month.

A bridge is badly needed at Balch's store. There is more crossing there than at all other crossings in the valley.

NEW SCHOONER.

The George T. Thompson to be Launched March 1st.

The new schooner being built by a stock company composed of the Puget Sound Co-operative Colony, Fred R. Thompson and others of this city and Seattle parties, is progressing rapidly. She will be launched about March 1st. It will be called the Geo. T. Thompson, named for Mr. Fred Thompson's brother who is a stockholder.

This is becoming an industry at Port Angeles that should be looked after. There is now a schooner being built at the head of the bay and another at the East End by Jasper Hanson.

MORE SOLDIERS.

J. K. Hutchinson Leaves for Michigan for More Soldiers.

J. K. Hutchinson, of the Michigan G. A. R. Colony left Wednesday for Michigan, whence he goes to bring back more soldiers, who were depending upon Mr. Hutchinson's judgment as to the propriety of coming to this place. Mr. Hutchinson is much pleased with this place and will so represent to those who are contemplating coming here.

Mr. Hutchinson is from Birch, Mich., where he ran a grocery and hardware store combined. He will go into business in this city in the spring.

To a DEMOCRAT reporter Mr. Hutchinson said he expected more than a 100 soldiers to return with him here in January.

THE HALCYON REFORMS.

Holcyon Sold for Sealing Purposes—E. B. Marvin & Co., the Purchasers.

The Halcyon has an interesting history, and her fame as the most daring and successful smuggler of modern days will go down in criminal annals. The Halcyon is a schooner yacht, and was built at Benecia in 1886, for Hary Tevis, of Sag Francisco. She is 74, feet long, 21 feet 2 inches beam, 8 feet 5 inches depth and 61 tons burden. She was handsomely fitted up and was one of the best boats in the harbor of San Franorancisco. Tevis sold the yacht after a while, and the purchasers resold her. On August 6, 1887, the Halcyon cleared and sailed for Victoria, B. C., in charge of Capt. Alfred Medcalfe, and the name of the owner had been given as Alfred W. Wilson.

For some time the boat was lost sight of, when it became known that she was taking on opium from the incoming China steamers, and that she was really owned by A. W. Whaley and E. W. McLean two of the renowned Boyd-Caprico gang of smugglers.

Emboldened by their success these men sent their schooner to Hong Kong, where they purchased two tons of opium.

Six months later she landed at Victsria without any opium on board.

About this time Al. Whaley and Ed McLean commenced to live high. Whaley soon removed to Honolulu where he now lives, entertaining and banqueting Royality, foreign embassadors and cabinet ministers in a manner befitting a Vanderbilt.

In a like manner McLean maintains his splendid Victoria mansion.

These gentlemen do not even deny that smuggling is their business, but simply suggest to revenue officers when approached "catch us if you can."

All the American revenue cutters on the Pacific have chased, laid in wate and otherwise tried to entrap the wily schooner, but all in vain.

The plan of these wary smugglers was to make the captain and crew, all men tried and found skillful, partners in the business.

Knowing ones are now puzzling their brains about what Whaley and McLean will be at next, as, both being young men, it is not believed that they are satisfied with their fortune, as large as it is even after living as they have, on the fat of the land.

The Halcyon's romantic career has probably given place to that of a sturdy fisherman.

CLALLAM COUNTY SHINGLES.

One Car Load Shipped as Surplus and Two Hundred More Wanted.

The Colony shipped one car load of shingles to Copper Bros. & Zoak, Nappanee, Ind., the fore part of this week.

These parties received the sample car on Oct. 15th, and reported that they were the best shingles ever offered in that market. They are large wholesale dealers in all kinds of lumber, and want two hundred car loads during 1893.

A car load was shipped by the same parties at the same time to the Dougherth & Moss Lumber Co. of St. Joseph, Mo, These two companies and other parties that were seen by Thos. Malony while East last summer want over four hundred car loads next year.

Here is an opportunity to bring money into Port Angeles, and our enterprising men should not allow it to pass without an effort being made to get it.

The convention then adjourned.

COUNTY NEWS.

Interesting Paragraphs From the County Press.

Port Crescent Leader.

Carrying the United States mails through the great forests is by no means an unalloyed pleasure, as a local incident will fully illustrate.

On Monday evening as Mr. Sam R. Snecal, the mail carrier on the route between Port Crescent and Gettysburg, was taking the mail out horseback as usual he had an experience that he will not soon forget.

When about half way toward his destination his horse suddenly stopped. On looking ahead through the twilight its rider saw two immense panthers in his immediate vicinity. One was on a log in an advantageous poise for a leap. The other lay directly in the trail.

The horse refused to move forward and and as its rider had nothing with which to shoot he shared the disinclination of the horse to proceed in the face of such unpleasant obstructions.

Whirling around the mail carrier soon had his horse galloping toward Port Crescent with all speed. On glancing back he was frightened to see the panthers following with great strides and steadily gaining on him.

He then whipped his horse vigorously until the beasts desisted from the pursuit.

He arrived at Port Crescent too late in the evening to obtain assistance and make the trip that night. The next day the panthers had disappeared.

Mr. August Petterson has made a contract to have forty acres of his ranch cleared by Sing Hop Lee, the Wa Chong of Port Crescent. In the consideration of the work of clearing Lee is to have the use of the valuable and productive ranch free of taxes or other rental for the period of seven years. Lee has brought down a force of Chinese farm laborers and will proceed to work at once. In seven years Mr. Peterson will have a fine agricultural ranch. It was by means of clearing contracts similar to this that the Dungeness region became the famous farming country it now is, and there is no reason to doubt that the rich lands adjoining Port Crescent will be made useful in the same way.

Mr. C F. Mr. Clapp will return via New York and San Francisco.

They also intend to bring back the carcass of an elk, which will be sent to the World's Fair from this county.

The rainfall in western Washington last week exceeded any previous experience for years. The streams were higher than ever known and great damage was done to railroads and bridges. The Solduck river washed out the bridges at Moore's store and George Icke's as well as numerous foot bridges. The ranchers on the south side for a while seemed likely to suffer for want of supplies. The Elwha river carried a new portable sawmill out into the Straits. The Dungeness river carried away the bridge at that place.

Train Did It.

Chicago News Record, New York correspondent.—In the two weeks preceding election the News Record correspondent talked to a hundred prophets. The only one who gave a correct forecast was George Francis Train. He predicted a landslide to Cleveland east and west, and gave him states which the Democratic committee regarded as hopelessly Republican. Now that his judgement has been vindicated, Mr. Train is chuckling gleefully at the people who thought that he was a political crank. It was the psychic force that did it, he says, and Mr. Train is writing a book entitled How George Francis Train Knocked Out the G. O. P."

JOHN W. TROY.....Editor

POLITICIANS, BE HONEST.

In another column will be found an editorial from that able journal, the Montesano Economist, which fully meets our commendation.

Politicians will learn, in time not, distant, we hope, that it is right to be honest with the masses, and, not only right, but it is "good politics"

The result of the national election should prove this to any fair mind. A majority of the delegates assembled in the national Democratic convention showed a proper sense of their responsibility as representatives of the Democratic masses of the land, by refusing the dictates of machine politics.

Despite the well arranged, thoroughly organized efforts of this class of citizens, that convention did as the masses desired that they should. They adopted a platform declaring that "protection is a fraud" and to emphasize this they nominated for president the great man whom fully ninety per cent. of the Democrats wanted them to—the man who, of all men, thoroughly represented this advanced position.

The result was a most triumphant vindication of this policy.

It is good politics to be honest.

But our illustrations need not end here. The state of Washington furnishes us another by the recent election.

When the late state convention met at Olympia, the masses of the Democratic party of the state asked for and demanded of that convention the nomination of a gentleman for governor of this state—a gentleman who is always the laborers friend, possessing those magnetic qualities that makes friends everywhere, Col. James Hamilton Lewis.

The people asked for this nomination because they believe in Col. Lewis. They recognize in him a man, fearless, thorough, reliable and honest with the resolute courage of honest convictions. The people believed, judging from the administration of the past, that a time had come in Washington's history, when such a man should be made governor of the state.

But a few designing politicians were opposed to Colonel Lewis. Amongst these were the organization of the Democratic state central committee. These men selfishly prefered party defeat rather than to see the will of the people win, went to work raising side issues, working on sectional strifes, personal ambitions and hatreds, to call the people's mind from the thing they demanded.

They succeeded. By cunning, and trading on these lines, they secured the adoption of the anti-canal plank. They made the Seattle-Tacoma fight the issue of the campaign, forsaking thereby the issues the people wanted decided.

The result of this was, James Hamilton Lewis could not accept the nomination. He could not permit the use of local spite, when his home was the point attacked, as could be expected the result was defeat, although as good a man as Hon. H. J. Snively was the standard bearer—who, be it said to his credit, fought these political tricks in the convention with all of his splendid ability.

Thus was certain and glorious victory turned to ignoble defeat by politicians refusing to be honest with the people, and submitting to their will.

We might add for the private benefit of these gentlemen, that they have signally failed in their stab at James Hamilton Lewis, as he stands today, without a rival—Washington's first citizen—a stalwart Democrat whom Democrats will await only a first opportunity to honor as is his due.

NEW YORK NOT NECESSARY.

It has been demonstrated that the state of New York is not needed for Democratic success in a national contest. This means much for the Democratic party—especially for western Democrats.

Now, in a degree never before, are each state on an equal footing. The western states have advanced in national importance by the recent victory. No longer will the Democratic party have to bid for New York's support, as, from present indications, Illinois and Wisconsin are permanently in Democratic hands. It is certainly better that it should be so. It is not well that the balance of power should lay in one state as it has for the last 15 years. Such a condition makes public officers and politicians, to a greater or less degree, neglect the interest of the great majority of the people for the purpose of catching a few votes in doubtful states.

Within the last four years Michigan, Iowa, Ohio, Illinois, Wisconsin, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, Colorado, California, Idaho, Nevada and Wyoming in the great west have shown at one time or another that they cannot longer be counted upon in advance to roll up a majority for the Republican party. It would be better were it thus in New England and southern states. Then would all the states be equal.

However, the Democratic party can now feel that New York is not essential to success. Western Democrats should know what this means and demand the recognition to which they are entitled. It will be much easier for the west to get recognition in this manner (through the Democratic party) than through any other channel. The western people have every reason to hail Democratic victory—without New York necessary—with delight.

THE members of the board of trade who are posing as the great friends of the taxpayers in opposing the submitting to the citizens of Port Angeles, the proposition to bond the city should not deceive the people. The city council is not attempting "to foist upon the people" anything. They simply permit the people to vote upon the proposition whether or not they shall own and operate an electric light plant for themselves, to be run by water power taken from Morse creek, and not to cost more than $55,000. This money will be expended by the new council, if voted. The new council will not be compelled to purchase the plant of the Washington Electric Light Company. There can never be harm in letting the people decide for themselves what they want. It would seem that one who opposes submitting anything of this nature to the suffrages fo the people is either distrustful of the people or hasother axes to grind.

The citizens of any place should be sovereign Let them decide upon the all important electric light proposition. If the members of the board of trade wish to maintain the usefulness that institution has developed, they must be fair in all matters.

ONE of the first things to be learned by an editor if he desires professional courtesy, or fair treatment from the people, is to not only make his paper truthful, but to make it fair and courteous himself. It istoo late, in the advance of intellegence, for unfounded abuse and billinsgate to win favor.

SEATTLE preachers are making themselves extremely ridiculous over the size of their congregations. Rev. Nutting of the Congregational church, in making figures comparing church attendance and saloon attendance, showed his church to be better attended than any Seattle church. This made Rev. George of the First Methodist church mad. Both are fighting it out in the newspapers, while the people generally think it makes but little difference which church has the largest attendance.

THE New West, published by R. F. Radebaugh, who is also its editor, is now a weekly visitor. Tipographically, it probably excels anything in Washington, but it so much Tacoma that its best field will undoubtedly be Tacoma and Pierce county.

THE Tacoma News urges upon Mr. Cleveland the appointment of Hon. Stephen M. White, of California as secretary of the interior. The Pacific coast certainly deserves a place in Mr. Cleveland's cabinet and none on the coast is more worthy than Senator White.

"TACOMA" is the venerable Edward N. Fuller's latest venture, which promises to supercede Every Sunday. It is independent, as Every Sunday was. In fact it much resembles the latter journal in its scope. It is locally opposed to the New West.

IT is announced that the president's message will be an exceedingly tame affair. This is quite acasonable, as Ben has become an exceedingly tame affair himself.

THE oldest inhabitant is on hand as usual, and, likewise as usual, he is a weather phrophet. He says we are going to have a hard winter.

AT THE COUNCIL.

An Interesting Meeting—They Call an Election.

The council met Wednesday evening in regular session, and, after passing a few claims, adjourned to meet Thursday afternoon. The board of trade had appointed a committee of citizens to meet the council and procure information on the matter of the proposed bonding of the city.

This committee failed to have its petition in proper shape to submit to the council, so it was refused a hearing.

Thursday, the committee was again on hand, having in advance filed a petition asking for information on the line of the expense of putting in a water plant.

Louis Williams, the chairman, was given permission to speak for the committe, who finally condensed his questions to the one "what facts and figures have the council to guarantee proper expenditure of $55,000?"

Dr. Lewis answered fully each question put by Mr. Williams, which showed that the city council had done all preliminary work required or necessary before submitting to the people. A survey had been made and a general outline of the manner of expending the money submitted with a maximum cost-attached.

Councilman Thompson stated that all necessary surveying had been done as could be found by investigation in the proper offices. That the city could not afford to expend $2,000 or $3,000 surveying and planning before they knew whether the citizens wished to make such an investment or not.

The question was asked if the council had attempted to bring Mr. Rockman down in his price.

Dr. Lewis answered that the council was not in position to do anything of that kind. The proposition to be submitted does not require the city council to purchase the plant of Mr. Rockman at any price. They are simply empowered to pay him $25,000 for it if it appears to them that it is the best thing for the city, that is for the new council to decide. If they can get it cheaper or if they can do better without purchasing it with the $55,000, it is their duty so to do.

Dr. Lewis then went on to justify the council's action on the matter of electric lights, showing that it is always advantageous for a city to own the water and light franchises itself. That the city of Port Angeles gave Mr. Rockman a contract with his franchise to take all lights needed for five years at $12 per light per month. In five years it would cost the city $27,000 or more for the lights needed by the city, therefore the city could run the the plant under the lease at a loss of $5,000 year, which no one admitted or claimed was the case, and still be better off than under the old contract. Then he went on to snow the additional advantage for the city to own the light itself.

Mr. Williams then waxed eloquent over insufficient information, etc., for submitting the proposition.

City Attorney Hatch met all these objections by showing that the city had done enough to make the people understand what was proposed to be done, and that all these matters whether or not the proposition is feasible and for the city's best interest should be argued before the people.

Dr. Gore, who had apparently bored not only the council and audience, but Mr. Williams, the chairman of the committee, and others of that body, at this point became absolutely irrepressible, and by a speech, smacking largely of egotism and bluff, charged that the council meant to "foist upon the city a steal." that he could duplicate the plant for $10,000 (which statement he amended and reamended until none knew just what the tall doctor could or could not do). He had an attorney's opinion that the orignal contract was illegal. He paid a Portland attorney $50 for the opinion.

Dr. Lewis stated if he would produce the opinion in writing he would favor the postponment of the matter.

Dr. Gore did not show up his opinion.

McInnes answered fully the charge of Dr. Gore and others that the city council was attempting to do anything of itself. He, as the rest of the council, was willing to submit the whole matter to the people and let them decide what they want. Their decision and advice he would cheerfully accept.

The council passed an ordinance calling an election January 23d.

GUILTY AS CHARGED.

B. F. Schwartz Found Guilty of Embezzlement Yesterday.

Not since the trial of Henry Bennett has so much interest been manifested in a Clallam county criminal case as was shown in the case of the State vs. B. F. Schwartz. This case was called for trial last Friday. It took all day to get a jury. Saturday the State commenced submitting evidence which continued until Monday evening. The defense closed its case Monday evening.

The evidence showed that on Nov. 14, '91 M. W. Gay gave a mortgage and note to the defendant to negotate for $12,00. The defendant, after many attempts, failed to do this as the amount was too high.

When Mr. Gay executed a second mortgage for $800, this was negotated to the Lombard Co.

In the meantime the first mortgage and note were put up for collateral security to the National Bank of Commerce, of Tacoma. Mr. Schwartz representing to Mr. Gay that he had lost the note.

Time went on and finally the Bank of Port Angeles failed, and the holder of the collateral note brought suit for collection.

Mr. Gay had Schwartz arrested for embezzlement.

The defense was mode by John Trumbull of Port Townsend, one of the ablest attorneys on Puget Sound.

The defense was—the note was made to Mr. Schwartz who had a right to assign it.

The jury was out obout 18 hours and brought in a virdict of guilty, with recommendations for mercy.

A motion for a new trial will be heard December 10.

Gov. Church Wins.

The many friends of Gov. L. K. Church will read with much pleasure the following taken from yesterday's P.-I:

The jury in the case of M. M. Gasser against ev-Gov. L. K. Church to recover $40,000 for alleged breach of contract in a real estate transaction, brought in last evening a verdict for the defendant. "WE TOLD YOU SO"

The Following is Taken from the Montesano Economist—[Populist]—

The Democrats of Washington now realize their great mistake in the selection of a candidate for governor. Mr. Snively is an able man and has a good record in the state both of a private and official character, but he lacked in one thing necessary to sweep Washington of its dirty Republicanism—personal magnetism and campaigning ability. Mr. Snively is a good campaigner, but his methods are more of a machine kind, and having a man opposed to him who not only posesses the shrewdness of Mr. Snively, but a thorough training in the lower grade of political work, but he had no chance of overcoming the large majority against him.

With James Hamilton Lewis as their candidate, the Democrats of Washington would have been rejoicing harmoniously with Illinois, Wisconsin, California, Ohio and other formerly Republican states. Mr. Lewis would have carried the state by a larger majority than McGraw now boasts. Personally magnetic, brilliantly eloquent, loyally Democratic, the soul of chivalry and the friend of labor, "Dude" Lewis would have signally defeated the "Knight of the Seattle ditch" and wrested the control of the state from that band of political tricksters in King county.

SUMMONS.

STATE OF WASHINGTON. } ss. Cause, No. 261.
CLALLAM COUNTY.

Anna D. Drannan, Plaintiff, vs.
William F. M. Drannan, Defendant

The State of Washington to the above named Defendant.

You are hereby notified that Anna D. Drannan, plaintiff, has filed a complaint against you in the Superior court of the State of Washington for the county of Clallam, holding terms at Port Angeles, which will come on to be heard sixty days after the first publication of this summons, to wit; sixty days after the 18th day of Novembe, A. D. 1892, and unless you appear and answer the same on or before the 19th day of January, A. D., 1893, the same will be taken as confessed and the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint herein.

The said action is brought to obtain a decree of this court dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between the plaintiff and defendant upon the ground of desertion and abandonment by the defendant of the plaintiff without cause more than one year last past before the commencement of this action; and upon the further ground of willful neglect for more than one year last past before the commencement of this action, whereby you have failed to provide this plaintiff with the common necessities of life, you having the ability so to do; and for more than one year last past, before the commencement of this action you have willfully neglected to provide plaintiff the common necessaries of life and you have failed to do so by reason of your idleness, habitual inziness and improvidence, all of which is specified in the complaint filed herein, to which reference is expressly made.

Plaintiff prays for judgment and decree forever dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between plaintiff and defendant together with general relief.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Superior court, affixed this 15th day of November, A. D. 1892.

Faith in Witchcraft.

Belief in witchcraft is still found among the people in many countries. The wife of a rich farmer in Styria, Austria, had been paralyzed for years, and the medical men gave her up as hopeless. The farmer lately applied to a soothsayer, who looked into the matter and pronounced the patient to be bewitched. She pointed out another farmer who had also been sick for years as the wizard, and prescribed that an old pair of pants of the man and a few drops of his blood must be placed over a dull fire and slowly burned. The patient must be held over this smoldering fire and thoroughly fumigated, after which she would recover. The pants were obtained and the old sick man one evening, when stepping into the doorway of his hut to get a breath of fresh air, was attacked and thrown down on his face to make his nose and mouth bleed.

The blood was carefully scraped up from the ground and the fumigation made, but of course without the promised effect of curing the woman. The old man was terribly shaken and has died since, whether as a result of the outrage committed against him is not reported. At Velilla, Spain, a farmer was sick. His son went to the only woman in the village that enjoyed the reputation of being a witch and demanded of her to restore his father to health. When a few days later his father had not improved he went and shot both the socalled witch and her husband dead.—Chicago Herald.

Divine Service by Telephone.

The mayor of Nottingham, accompanied by several members of the corporation and other leading men of the town, recently attended divine service in a novel fashion. The meeting house was the local exchange of the National Telephone company, but the service in which they participated was conducted at Christ church, Birmingham, fifty-one miles away, the communication being of course by telephone.

They sat on each side of the long table on which thirty receivers were placed, while at the church end were eight transmitters—two in the belfry, two in the choir, two in the reading desk, and two in the pulpit, switched on and off as exigencies required—an arrangement which has been in operation for some weeks for the edification of Birmingham subscribers. The Nottingham congregation were able to hear the bells very distinctly, and the responses and other musical portions of the service, while the preacher, having a clear voice and deliberate utterance, was very audible, and his sermon was listened to with close attention.—London Tit-Bits.

Ancient Tombs.

While legal processes as to the ownership of the famous Red Rock caverns, below Menton, in which has been recently found a still further group of neolithic skeletons of a giant man, are still pending, an almost equally interesting discovery has been made in a deep railway cutting at Andresy, in Seine-et-Oise, near Paris, where the workmen ran upon a huge Merovingian cemetery of the Sixth century. Already there have been uncovered nearly 600 tombs, extending over an area of 2½ miels, yielding a hitherto unheard of mass of carved sarcophagi, knives, spears, vases, ornaments and pottery of unique shapes and styles of decoration.

It is recalled now that the tiny hamlet of Andresy, in the generations succeeding the introduction of Christianity by Genevieve and Clovis, was an important missionary center. The expected scientific examination of these multitudinous remains will throw a flood of light on the origins of the church among all ranks.—Paris Letter.

Electric Locomotives for Steam Roads.

There are signs that one of the most startling revolutions of the century is approaching. Steps are being taken in the northwest toward the laying of an experimental track on which many points bearing on the substitution of electric locomotives for steam locomotives on trunk lines will be determined, and electrical engineers throughout the country are on the qui vive for the next developments. The three eighty ton electric locomotives to be used in the Belt line tunnel, Baltimore, will push a freight train of 1,200 tons, including locomotive, through the tunnel, up an eight-tenths of 1 per cent. grade, for a distance of 6,000 feet, at the rate of fifteen miles an hour, or a 500 ton passenger train, including locomotive, at the rate of thirty miles an hour.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Coins of the Mogul Emperors.

Mr. Stanley Lane-Poole has finished his "Catalogue of the Coins of the Mogul Emperors of Hindoostan in the British Museum," from the invasion of Baber to the establishment of a British currency by the East India company, in 1535. It contains descriptions of over 1,400 coins, chiefly gold and silver, 500 of which are represented in the autotype illustrations. This completes this author's description of the entire collection of Mohammedan coins in the museum.

Handel's Birthplace.

The house in which Handel was born at Halle, on the 23d of January, 1685, is to be sold, and seems likely to be bought by a brewer, who already uses the grounds as a garden. The great composer's admirers desire, however, to have the house converted into a Handel museum, as has been done with the birthplaces of Goethe, Beethoven and other famous men, and are collecting funds for the purpose.—London Standard.

Truly a "Circular Singumstance."

A calf belonging to a Mr. Houchen, near Seymour, became strangely sick the other day, and in a short time began to whirl around and around, as a pup after its tail, and within two hours was dead. It whirled for two solid hours, never stopping to draw breath or grease the axle.—Cor. Indianapolis Journal.

A Husband's Signature Void.

A very curious case in which a husband executed a will which had been prepared for his wife, and the wife executed a will which had been prepared for her husband, has recently been decided by the general term of the supreme court of this state. John and Jane Nelson, being husband and wife, wanted to make wills each in favor of the other, and employed William Cowie to prepare the instrument, which he did in due form.

The wills were read and placed upon the table for signature. Each then signed one of the wills, made the requisite declaration as to the character of the instrument and asked the subscribing witnesses to sign. After execution the wills were sealed up in an envelope, which was not opened until after the husband's death, when it was discovered for the first time that each had by mistake signed the will intended for the other. The wife brought a suit in the supreme court to correct her husband's mistake in signing the wrong will by re-forming the language of the will which he did actually execute, so as to make it conform to that which he certainly intended to execute.

Her complaint was dismissed at the special term, however, and the appellate branch of the supreme court holds that the dismissal was right. Mr. Justice Martin, in the opinion of the general term, says in substance that there is no will to correct, because the husband did not make any will at all. The instrument that he executed was his wife's will, and of no more legal significance than if it had been a blank piece of paper. No precisely similar case is reported in this state, but there are English and Pennsylvania decisions in point adverse to the position of the wife.—Albany Argus.

Defying Superstition.

Thirteen Philadelphia young men have banded themselves together, if rumors are true, in what timid superstitious ones will call a suicide club. This Club of Thirteen, as its name hints, has been organized in contempt of almost all known popular superstitions. The club meetings occur on Friday evenings, and on the 13th of the month, in room 13 of a house numbered 13. The fiery headed member is the first to enter the hall, and all pass under a ladder raised in the room. On taking his seat the president opens an umbrella handed him by the cross eyed janitor, and sits under it during the session. The sergeant-at-arms opens the proceedings by breaking a looking glass.

A skeleton sits opposite the president at all feasts and two black cats stalk around the room. The walls are adorned with peacock feathers. Every member is under solemn oath always to spill salt, look at the moon over his left shoulder, stumble whenever alighting from a journey, walk between couples on the street and when together pass on either side of a post. They are eager just now to purchase a raven and rent a haunted house to hold their meetings in.—Philadelphia Record.

A Thief in Disguise.

A miner operating on Sabe creek, Idaho, for some time past has missed a great deal of amalgam from his sluice boxes. He determined to keep watch for the thief, and several nights ago he saw a calf nibbling grass near the boxes, often reaching over the rim and drinking the water that flowed over the riffler. He, however, paid no attention to the animal. The theft of amalgam still continued, and a few nights ago, when the calf appeared, he shot it. He ran to where the calf was lying and saw a human leg, with the foot wrapped in sacks, protruding from the animal's stomach. It took him but a second to realize that he had shot the thief, who had been cleverly disguised as a calf. The miner took the culprit to camp, and, much to his surprise, he discovered that the thief was a young woman.—Exchange.

Air Pressure at the Cannon's Mouth.

Experiments were made during the last trial trip of the armed cruiser Beowulf to determine the air pressure at the mouth of a gun at the moment of discharge. Rabbits were placed near the muzzles of the guns and shots fired. In every case the animals fell dead at once. In order to test the probable effects of the enormous displacement of air upon human beings figures made of straw were used. These were torn to pieces in every instance. The trials were made with long bored 24-centimeter ring guns.—Berlin Cor. London News.

An Elephant Eats a Dog.

During the progress of a circus and menagerie on Monday, and while a number of people were watching the elephants, a keeper placed a bucket of water in front of them. Just then a small black and tan dog skipped up to the water bucket to take a drink. The elephant wound his trunk around the unfortunate dog, shoved him in his capacious mouth and swallowed him alive. The lady who owned the dog saw her pet disappear and burst out crying.—Poughkeepsie Eagle.

A Mixed Season.

A truthful farmer, living near Salem, Or., is authority for the statement that in his garden one day last week they were planting, digging and hoeing potatoes. They were digging last year's crop, after being in the ground through what the calendar calls winter, and they were hoeing potatoes that were planted some time ago.

Fishing for scup is always precarious business. The time is short to catch them in, and not infrequently a cold storm, a few days after the run begins, drives them off the coast, and the season is a failure. In one heavy blow recently 4,700 barrels of scup got out of the seines off Newport, R. I.

President Roberts, of the Pennsylvania, stated that last year that railroad carried 5,500,000 tons of coal monthly. In ten years there has been an increase of 500 per cent. in the carriage of coal.

A Hero of the Future.

History records the unselfish deeds and the bravery of our soldiers in time of danger, and future history will record the bravery of our workmen who earn their daily bread amid great danger and imminent peril. An inquest was held last week by Mr. Brighouse, county coroner at Parr, near St. Helens, on a man named Richard Gill, aged fifty years. About a year and a half ago he was working in the shaft of a coal mine with three other men, blasting rock. The deceased, after the shots were ready, told the other men to get into the hopper.

He then lighted the fuse connected with the shots and then got into the hopper. He fancied he had given the wrong signal and jumped out of the hopper to cut off the fuse. He managed to cut off one, but the others were too far burned. The other men begged him to give the signal to ascend and get into the hopper, but he said: "No, I will stay where I am. It is better for one man to die than for all." Just then the hopper began to ascend and the other men were drawn to the top, and soon after Gill pulled the signal wire and they went down to him and found him badly injured about the head. He had a compound fracture of the skull, and remained five months in the hospital, but never got over his injury.—London Lancet.

Spaniards as Shoplifters.

Spaniards are now said to be most predominant among the criminals arrested for stealing in large shops or pocket picking on race courses or at great public gatherings. Several Iberians have been caught purse snatching at the Gingerbread fair, and there have just appeared before the police court two men and two women from over the Pyrenees who practiced shoplifting on a large scale. The Spaniards, who had been suspected of pocket picking in the Jardin d'Acclimatation, were dogged by a detective, who saw them enter the Grands Magasins du Louvre. They drove to the place in a hired victoria the jehu of which was one of the men. After having remained for awhile in the shop they saw that they were being watched, so they left the place, entered their vehicle and were conveyed to the Printemps.

Thither the detective followed them, and although he had no ocular proof that the Spaniards stole anything he arrested the lot, the driver of the victoria being seized by a policeman who had received instructions to observe his movements. Under the cushions of the vehicle were found three large pieces of silk which had been stolen from the Louvre shops and were valued at a little over forty pounds.—London Telegraph.

English Reporters Must Be Educated.

There are to be no ignoramuses in the English journalism of the future. A special committee of the institute of the profession has prepared a report in which it is recommended that candidates for admission to membership must pass an examination in the English language, English literature, English constitution and political history, political and physical geography. They must also have a "sufficient knowledge" of Latin, either French and German, and "some acquaintance" with universal history.

But perpaps the most important recommendation of all is that every candidate shall be examined in "The Principles of the Law of Newspaper Libel." This is certainly a poser, and any journalist who succeeds in showing that he has mastered the law of libel will be well worthy of all the honors which his colleagues can bestow.—Pall Mall Budget.

Mr. Weslosky's Aristocratic Hen.

At the farm of Mr. Maurice Weslosky, of Albany, a Plymouth Rock hen had been set on sixteen eggs—thirteen of which were Plymouth Rock eggs and the other three eggs of a common breed of chickens. The motherly old hen hatched out the whole sixteen, but when they were all able to run about according to her clucking she seemed to eye the three little aliens suspiciously. That Biddy disapproved the mixture of the breed was at once evinced by the scornful manner assumed, and soon she showed it in an emphatic way by falling viciously on the three strangers and putting a sudden and violent end to their young lives.—Cor. Atlanta Constitution.

A Newspaper in an Earthquake.

Probably no issue of a newspaper was ever put in type under more trying circumstances than this issue. The type was badly pied, and as it was put in position it was necessary to wedge it securely to keep each shock from undoing the work of days. The compositors stood bravely at their posts, even in moments of the greatest danger, when the brick walls threatened to collapse and bury them in the ruins. We were compelled to move our office after Thursday's shock, and much more damage was done, but we, after all, were delayed but three or four hours with our edition.—Dixon (Cal.) Tribune.

Too Heavy to Go Down.

A corespondent sends the following tough story from Lancaster, which we don't believe: "Several days ago Walter C. Hardy noticed that a lot of tenpenny nails he had in a shed were disappearing, and he yesterday discovered that about three pounds of the nails had been carried to an elevated place by one of his pigeons and used in building a nest."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Twenty-one churches and chapels in England were struck by lightning last summer. An authority declares that 70 per cent. of the lightning conductors now in use are in an unsatisfactory condition.

The exact site of the famous Black Hole of Calcutta, long supposed to be lost, has lately been rediscovered in the course of excavating the foundations of buildings in Old Fort William.

Seventeen and fifteen years were the respective ages of a young couple who eloped and got married at Edgefield, S. C., one day last week.

Ghosts Mounted on Ponies.

Lately Cupertino has been visited by some spooks, or ghosts, or specters, or something of that sort. At least, several reputable citizens so declare. On their first appearance your correspondent was in San Francisco, and, of course, when told of the apparition, not having convincing proof, remained silent, but on Saturday evening he saw with his own eyes the apparitions, and this is what he saw: Five figures dash by on horseback at a mad pace; two were females and three were males. One of the males, who evidently was the leader, was a giant in size and was mounted on an immense charger. He was dressed in martial array and was of commanding mien. His companions I did not notice so closely, but they were all mounted on Indian ponies, and, as near as I could tell, his male companions wore no uniforms. The females had their long hair flying wildly about their faces, but from what glimpses I did get I should say they were Indians or Mexicans. Several others saw them, and some say they gave unearthly yells or warwhoops whenever they saw any one. This is their second visit, and as yet no one is able to explain the mystery.

Joe Kelly, an old settler, who resides on Stevens creek, tells a legend about an American soldier who was lured to his death by a beautiful Indian maiden, the daughter of a chief of a tribe which once owned the country around Cupertino. Mr. Kelly claims that these apparitions were often seen around here in the forties and early fifties and says their present activity is caused by their resting place being disturbed by some of the buildings that have lately been erected. In the fight that took place when the soldier found he was betrayed before the Indians killed him, two braves, his treacherous sweetheart and another Indian maiden met their doom; hence the five specters that are now disturbing our peace.—San Jose (Cal.) Mercury.

A Freak Egg.

Farmer Corseglia, of south Jersey, has a rather neat thing in the way of freak eggs, the production of one of his Cochin hens. What the hen tried to do was to lay two eggs at once, but she only partially succeeded. Having produced one complete egg correct in size and shape, she managed, in trying instantly to duplicate it, to inclose it in a flexible sack of semiopaque skin, which also contained the complete yolk and white of another egg. The effect was therefore that of a hard egg and an egg that has been dropped out of its shell, both inclosed in a seamless bag about four inches long and two inches wide.

After accomplishing this very unusual feat Farmer Corseglia's Cochin hen raised such a disturbance in order to call attention to her achievement that she was set upon by half the feathered inhabitants of the barnyard and forced to roost on the henhouse roof to escape their jealous wrath. The row having attracted a farm hand's notice, he investigated the cause and the Cochin's prize production was carefully placed in a cigar box filled with bran and taken to Farmer Corseglia.—Philadelphia Record.

The Fatal Thirteen.

Nov. 29, 1891, F. C. Cole, an old soldier, died at the county hospital. A few veterans went to the hospital through a driving snowstorm to give him a soldier's burial. The ceremony was simple and none but the veterans were present to do honor to the dead man. As they left the cemetery a superstitious comrade found that he was one of a party of thirteen. He declared at once that some one of the number would die within the coming year. "I dont know who it will be," he said, "but the sign is certain." "I know," said Captain J. S. Jones: "it will be you, Hall," and he pointed to Lieutenant A. D. Hall. Recently twelve of those who attended Comrade Cole's funeral went to Oakwoods to lay away the body of Hall.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

No Boom at Jerusalem.

The land speculation scheme which was associated with the railroad project seems to have come to grief, and the land boom near Jaffa and Jerusalem, started a year or two ago, has collapsed. There is much fertile land near Jaffa and on the plains of Sharon, and the Jaffa oranges are in great demand, like our Florida Indian river oranges, but so many discouragements are thrown over all industrial enterprises by the Turkish government, that while Palestine continues under the control of that dog-in-the-manger power there is not much prospect of any great amount of business development in that country.—Washington Star.

Runs a Freight Train Without Rails.

A new way of railroading has been started in this section. Jacksonville is a small country town about ten miles from Homer City and has no railroad. An enterprising farmer from near that point, who owns a very good traction engine, has started a train for the purpose of hauling freight to and from that place. He leaves in the forenoon and makes the return trip in the afternoon. The chances are the traffic will be heavy over his line all summer.—Cor. Pittsburg Dispatch.

To Oppose English Lawyers.

A society has been formed in London under the title of the Witnesses' Protection society. The objects of the association are to protect witnesses from insult by counsel, to put the matter of contempt of court into the hands of a jury, and to raise a fund to indemnify contumacious witnesses from pecuniary loss, provided always that the questions they refuse to answer reflect upon their honor, and are at the same time irrelevant to the issues of the case.

Look Out for a Sudden Change.

Now is the time when you should avoid sudden changes of air. Shut the window before the street organist finishes his operatic selection and commences "Annie Rooney."—Boston Bulletin.

It is proposed spending $900,000 in enlarging the docks at Liverpool. Eminent shipbuilders recommend that to prepare for the future it will be necessary to consider that vessels will be 700 feet long and that the docks should be 100 feet wide.

What is now North Berwick, Me., was known as Doughty falls thirty years ago. A postal clerk says that occasionally letters are even now addressed to Doughty's falls, and that he has had one such in his hands within the last month.
