Harrison's Last Message Sent to Congress.

ALRIGHT ON THE CANAL.

He Thinks the People Should have Defeated Mr. Cleveland—A Prosperous People and Country—For the Force Bill Still.

President Harrison submitted his final message to Congress Tuesday. He tries hard to prove to the people that they made the one great mistake of a century in refusing to elect him president.

He lays the ground work for his vindication "by himself in the following language:

"In submitting my annual message to congress I have great satisfaction in being able to say that the general condition affecting the commercial and industrial interests of the United States are in the highest degree favorable. A comparison of the existing conditions with those of the most favored period in the history of the country will itself show that such a degree of prosperity and so general a diffusion of the comforts of life were never before enjoyed by our people. The total wealth of our country in 1860 was $6,157,-616,068; in 1890 it amounted to $62,610,-000,000, an increase of 287 per cent. The total milage of the railroads in the U. S. in 1860 was 30,627; in 1890 it was 187,741, an increase of 448 per cent, and it is estimated that there will be about 4,000 miles added by the close of the year 1892.

Mr. Harrison shows the improvement in the manufacturing as follows:

"The official returns of the eleventh census and those of the tenth for seventy-five leading cities furnished the basis for the following comparison: In 1888 the capital invested in manufacturing was $1232, 839,670; in 1890 the capital invested in mantfacturing was $2,900,735,-884. In 1880 the number of employes was 2,271,134. In 1880 the wages earned were $1, 221, 170,454. In 1880 the value of the product was $2,714, 579,999; in 1890 the value of the produce was $4,860,-286, 837.

He quotes from the reports of labor commissioners from the different states to show the correctness of these statements taken from the census returns. Mr. Harrison then follows with the same old argument he has always used, showing that the great protection policy has caused the great development of the United States.

He urges upon the present congress to leave all tariff legislation to the coming congress.

Of our foreign relations Mr. Harrison says:

"Our relations with other nations are now undisturbed by any serious controversy. The complicated and threatening differences with England in relation to the seal fisheries in the Bering sea, and with Chile growing out of the Baltimore affair, have been adjusted.

He takes pride in the advance of reciprocity and complains some of unfriendliness of Canada. The Bering sea difficulty is about settled. Mr. Harrison continues to advocate the Nicaragua canal. He says:

"I repeat with great earnestness the recommendation, of which I have made mention in previous messages, as to the inadequate support given the American company engaged in the construction of the Nicaragua ship canal. It is impossible to overstate the value from every standpoint of this great enterprise. I hope there may be time given this congress to give to it an impetus that will ensure the early completion of the canal and secure to the United States its proper relations to it when completed."

As to financial affairs, the president is strongly convinced that his administration is alright. The debt has been reduced, but it was largely due, he admits, to the puting of the reserve and bank funding funds into the general fund.

The revenue has been decreased by the McKinley bill about $32,000,000 per year. The expense has been increased. The president recommends that the sinking fund law be repealed, that funds be on hand for general purposes. It will thus be seen that the government is not a paying institution, but is slowly eating up its resources.

The president does not want any changes in the currency. He says:

"In view of the fact that a general revision of our revenue laws in the near future seems to be probable, it would be better that any changes should be a part of that revision rather than of a temporary nature."

Mr. Harrison is strongly in favor of the continued subsidizing ocean steamship lines for mail purposes. He thinks it the only way to increase our tonage.

He urges the continuance of the policy of our navy. In this he admits to be carrying out the same old policy of Secretary Whitney and President-elect Cleveland.

The president claims that our interior affairs are in good shape. The land business is kept up in working order and Indians are getting lands in severality and being slowly but surely educated by the government.

He estimates that the highest expenditures for pensions will be reached in the year ending June 30 1894, which will amount to $188,-000,000. He still favors liberal pensions.

The president contemplates extending the signal service.

Mr. Harrison is still in favor of a federal election law. He, however, fails to mention his plans again, but he still thinks the people did not know what was for their interests when they voted his administration out.

Notes From Dungeness.

Dungeness Beacon.

A maquerade ball will be given here December 26.

There is a move on foot to erect several cottages in town.

The Ladies Aid Society of New Dungeness will hold a bazaar on Wednesday and Thursday. Dec. 14th and 15th,

There will be a Christmas tree given under the auspices of the M. E. church of Dungeness, on Christmas Eve at the Colony Hall. All are cordially invited to attend and bring their gifts to decorate the tree.

Last Tuesday evening Mr. Thomas Miller and Miss Hattie Wright, both well known young people of Dungeness, were united in the holy bonds of wedlock Rev. Kindred officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Miller will make their home near the mill where Tom holds the position of chief engineer. The Beacon tenders its best wishes.

Last Thursday evening the house of George W. Watts at Sequim was broken into and almost completely looted. The theives even took his bedding and everything of any value whatever. Mr. Watts has telegraphed sheriffs of surrounding towns to watch for the theives, but thinks they are secreted and have a rendezvous somewhere in the foothills. A certain young man of unsavory reputation who has not been at home for some time is suspected of the theft. This affair is rather hard on Watts as he is a poor man and not able to buy a new outfit, and the suspected party is fully aware of the fact. Too much of this petty stealing has been going on in this end of the county for the past few months. Some of the settlers should organize a still hunt and run the theives out,

MR. WANAMAKER'S REPORT.

Recommending One-Cent Postage, Free Delivery and Important Reforms.

WATHINGTON CITY, Dec 5.

The postmaster general in his annual report mentions among the chief developmonts of the year, $5,000,000 added to the gross revenue; the deficite reduced nearly $1,000,000; money order offices increase from 10,070 to 16,689; 82 cities supplied with free delivery; 2,700 new offices established; 263 advanced to the presidential grade; 19,755,000 miles of additional service; 1,590 new mail service; the ocean mail service extended; pneumatic tube service introduced, saving of $1,000,000 on mail contracts and $150,000 on stamped paper. The amount expended up to July 1 last for foreign mail service performed and expended under the new policy was $1,205,790, and the cost of the service for the present fiscal year would be greater.

Of free delivery the postmaster general says the experiments have related to villages, but it has been a daily service and has cleared a profit. It is easy enough, therefore, to say that free delivery can be extended further and further, and it ought to be done whether it pays a profit or not. He believes fully that a great advance could be made in the direction of country free delivery by evolution of the star route service, and we would see free delivery to persons living along the highways traversed by the star route contractors with little, if any, increased cost to the department, in a very few years.

Postal telegraphs and telephones are strenuously advocated, as in former years.

Of 1-cent postage Wanamaker says it is a near possibility. He urges a reduction in money order fees; simplification of the postal note so that it will better answer the need of a fractional currency, and abolition of box rents.

MONEY TO LOAN

On ranches only; am prepared to close without delay loans of small or large amounts at very reasonable terms.

NORMAN R. SMITH

Re-Elected Mayor by a Handsome Majority.

THE RESULT IS MIXED.

Citizens Elect Mayor and Assessor—Populists Capture Treasurership, Health Officer and Three Councilmen.—The Election Passes off Quietly.

The city election passed off quietly Tuesday. While interest was manifested it was not so intense as it was at the county election last month, as will be shown by the diminished vote though the registration is larger than a month ago. The result also shows that the citizens movement was not supported by the two old parties, as some thought it would be Democrats and Republicans mix a good deal like oil and water usually in matters political, and the result of Tuesday's election shows nothing unusual in the mixing of the citizens party.

On the other hand the Peoples' party stood fast to their colors in every instance.

Norman R. Smith received Peoples' party votes and lost Republican and Democratic votes to a small extent.

Before the election the First and Sixth wards were conceded to the Populists. In these wards, the Populists' strength was close to the combined strength of the two old parties, and it proved an impossibility to unite the citizens on any thing.

FIRST WARD.

This ward was conceded to the Peoples' party in the beginning. The Peoples' party nominated a strong man, J. E. Krueger, who is secretary of the Puget Sound Co-operative Colony, which in itself gave him a few votes from the old parties.

The vote in the First ward was:

	Vote.	Maj.

SECOND WARD.

In this ward no councilman was to be elected, E. Metcalfe holding over. The fight passed off quietly. S. A. Hall received the largest majority of anyone in this ward. The vote in the second ward was as follows:

	Vote.	Maj.
MAYOR—
Norman R. Smith	38	8
S. P. Carusi	30	..
COUNCILMAN-AT-LARGE—

THIRD WARD.

The genial Tom Moore had a walk-over in this ward. He won a position on the council with hands down. The Citizens all received a majority here except S. A. Hall for treasurer. The following is the vote:

	Vote.	Maj.
MAYOR—
Norman R. Smith	54	38
S. P. Carusi	16	..
COUNCILMAN-AT-LARGE—
A. M. Johnston	41	14

FOURTH WARD.

A spirited contest for councilman was won here by John Rose over J. D. Yarnell by seven majority. The fight over the other candidates was close. The Fourth ward voted as follows:

	Vote.	Maj.
MAYOR—
Norman R. Smith	69	22
S. P. Carusi	47	..
COUNCILMAN-AT-LARGE—
A. M. Johnston	51	..

FIFTH WARD.

This ward maintained its reputation as the largest ward in the city, casting a dozen votes more than its neighbor, the Fourth. J. E. Beam was elected councilman from this ward by five majority. The following is the vote cast by this ward:

	Vote.	Maj.
MAYOR—
Norman R. Smith	54	..
S. P. Carusi	71	17
COUNCILMAN-AT-LARGE—

COUNCIEMAN—
J. E. Beam	64	5

SIXTH WARD.

This ward was claimed by and conceded to the Peoples' party from the beginning. W. R. Dodge made a fair run, all things considered, but he lost by thirteen majority in spite of all that could be done. The vote cast in this ward is as follows:

	Vote.	Maj.
MAYOR—
Norman R. Smith	29	..
S. P. Carusi	43	14
COUNCILMAN-AT-LARGE—
A. M. Johnston	22	..

HEALTH OFFICER—
W. W. McGeorge	18	..
A. B. Lull	52	34
COUNCILMAN—
Warren R. Dodge	27	..
H. S. Carver	40	13

The result in all the wards looks exceedingly mixed when taken as a whole. Both of the tickets are so badly shattered that friends would fail to recognize them. The total for the candidates at large is as follows:

	Vote.	Maj.
MAYOR—
Norman R. Smith	289	51

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

President Harrison's message submitted to congress Tuesday is fully up to the standard of excellence established by him. One of Mr. Harrison's characteristics, which is always apparent in his messages, is satisfaction in self.

The president is thouroughly convinced that Mr. Harrison is a statesman. By the tenor of his message the president manifests his sincere belief that the people of the United States should not by any means have elected Mr. Cleveland president.

Mr. Harrison discusses the condition of the United States at length, deducting, as do the Republican leaders generally, from the manifest increase in capital invested in railroads and manufacturing, and from a general advancement of the sum total of national wealth, that the country is in an unusual prosperous condition, and all these benefits are attributed to the tariff policy of the Republican party.

Herein Mr. Harrison errs. The error is one that for years was common belief in our country. It was only the thorough education of the last few years that has led up to the correct understanding of this question that caused the general repudiation of these very ideas by the people.

The fact that the country has made general improvements is not an evidence of popular prosperity. It is rather an evidence of general depression, when the lines upon which the great strides were made are considered. It is admitted that many of the improvements that go to make up this increased wealth are due to the protection policy of Republican administration. Why? The tariff policy has made it possible to concentrate the wealth of the country into narrow channels, where it may be used with, probably, greater results than though the earners were permitted to keep it, and to expend it according to their own dictates. But the fact remains that the general prosperity of the people would be much greater, those who create wealth by their labor could afford much more of the comforts and luxuries of life, were they thus enabled to enjoy the fruits of their own labor.

The advancement has been the enrichment of a small class at the expense of toiling millions—the advancement of the employer on the profits of his employe's labor.

The president still clings to his force bill theory. He could not well do otherwise and remain consistant. However, his tone is much different than that of a year ago. He is less vehement now. In fact, there seems to be a plaintiveness that is somewhat sad. He seems to think the people, in this instance, have mistaken him and ill-used him on account of his ideas.

Mr. Harrison but illy disguises the fact that the national govenment is not on a good business footing. The expenses are greater than the income. Poor financial management is clearly shown by his own language. The debt has been decreased, it is true, but to do it required the expending of the great $130,000,000 surplus turned over by a Democratic administration, and the bank reserve and funding reserve funds. Mr. Harrison admits the desperate straits of the country when he recommends the repeal of the sinking fund law.

The review of the condition of foreign affairs, interior matters and navy is clear and comprehensive. Everything in these departments is apparently in good condition and creditable to the administration.

However, the people of the United States are to be congratulated that Mr. Harrison has penned his last annual message and that the next message to congress will be written by a statesman—in the broadest sense of that word—Grover Cleveland.

AMUSINGLY MAD.

It is amusing to read the editorial columns of Republican papers since the election and to note their different methods of giving vent to their anger, because most of them are mad. The Seattle Post-Intelligencer is very mad. It is even in a worse condition than most papers of its party. It is mad at Grover Cleveland, at Tammany and, in fact, the whole Democratic party, which means the greater portion of its country. It attempts to show by a ridiculous editorial entitled, "Why not Murphy?" that the Democratic party is dictated to by the worse element of citizens, and, by inference, at least, would indicate that the respectability, the intelligence and education of our country are all embraced by the Republican party.

There are a few hide-bound, orthodox Republicans who actually believe such stuff as this, but, be it said to the credit of the intelligence of the country, they are few, indeed. This comes with exceeding ill-grace from the party of Quay, of Dudley, of Elkins, of Higgins and of McGraw.

Mr. Edward Murphy, jr., if guilty of every political or other crime that has ever been charged against him, is not nearly so dangerous a man, nor so guilty an one as McGraw, whom the Post-Intelligencer was largely instrumental in making governor of this state.

The facts, Mr. P.-I., are otherwise than you would seem to indicate. The liberal, the educated, the broad minded reformer is largely on the side of Democracy. Not only are nearly all the American colleges and their nearest associates Democrats, but that class of people are active participants in the councils of that party.

It is true that Patrick Collins and Thomas Fitzgerald have voice in Democratic Boston, but is also true that the great colleges and nearly all the old line families who have stood for centuries as the great bulwork of our institutions, such as the Endicotts, the Russells, the Everetts, the Sumners, the Garrisons, the Phillips, the Andrews and the younger Hoars stand close at their side and assist in the dictation of the Bay state political policies.

In the state of New York today the great educational and reform elements of society are Democratic. Farther west it is also true. The change in Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois and Iowa was largely due to the active interest taken by these classes against the political methods, not of the Democratic party but of the Republican party.

These narrow minded editors will soon get over their mad spell, so there is not much need of giving space to their abusive tirades. They make amusement rather than excite anger.

THE NICARRAGUA CANAL.

President Harrison still shows good judgment in advocating the speedy completion of the Nicarragua canal. Since his first message, Mr. Harrison has steadily and persistently urged that congress hasten to act on this proposition.

In this, he has had the hearty support of many of the best members of congress of both parties. In fact, the bill the passage of which is so strongly urged by the president was introduced by that nestor of the senate, Senator Morgan, of Alabama. Its provisions, in brief are that the company issue $100,000,000 three per cent. bonds and that the government guarantee their payment. In return for which the government is to hold $70,000,000 worth of stock, as collateral to protect it from any loss may incur on account of this guarantee. The secretary of the treasury will be permitted to vote this stock at all corporation elections.

THE DEMOCRAT would prefer to see the government build, own and operate this canal as a government, and make tolls just large enough to pay the running expense of the canal and the interest on the bonds. The canal is a public institution of national importance and should be owned and operated by the government. But a company has the right-of-way, and it seems it will be impossible for the government to do this on account of opposition. Therefore, as the best of the alternatives, congress should at once accept and pass the bill.

The canal should by all means be built, and should be controlled by the United States.

Let Mr. Harrison's recommendation, in this particular, be followed.

CONFIDENCE IN CLEVELAND.

Despite all protestations to the contrary, the Republican press, as well as the Democratic and Independent press, of the country, with the business men and the farmers and laborers, cannot fail to show, in their comments, an abiding faith in Grover Cleveland.

Such expressions as "Cleveland recognizes the gravity of the situation;" "he will be be careful and give every detail his close and thorough attention;" he will not call an extra session until he is ready for it, as he is careful to investigate everything" and further on, the same editorial says, "he will have his hands full until December without having to go over to the capitol to tame wild brigadiers." and kindred expressions found every day in the columns of Republican papers indicate whatever opinion they have of the Democratic party, in Mr. Cleveland they really, after all, have confidence.

This is quite to be expected, as strange as it seems. Editors, as a class, are nearer the public pulse beat than any other class of people. They see it and feel it. They cannot fail to be affected by it. Naturally as the oak tree absorbs the oxygen of the air, do they drink in and absorb public opinion. The people of the United States have confidence in Grover Cleveland. They believe in him. The newspapers cannot fail, do what they may, to feel akin to the masses of the people. They, too, believe in Mr. Cleveland and have entire confidence in him.

THOSE who will for the next year direct the affairs of the city have now been chosen, and there is no doubt but that the people have chosen as wisely as is usually the case. Mayor Smith has proven his capacity by a years' effecient service in that office. Mr. E. E. Seevers who will be Treasurer is competent and courteous. He will make a good official without doubt. C. S. Stakemiller, the assessor, and A. B Lull, the city health officer, are both good men and well qualified to perform the duties of their offices. The councilmen, in the main, are reputable business men amply capable to manage the city's affairs. THE DEMOCRAT extends them greeting. It will watch their proceedings with its usual vigilience, and give full credit for what they do for the city.

WHEN an advocate of any thing stoops to misrepresenfation, and to eloquent nonsense with which to keep the attention of those whom it is desired to deceive from the point at issue, it is time to look into the merits of its case. The chances are that there is a "nigger in the wood pile." This holds good with newspapers. The citizens of Port Angeles would do well to carefully read the Leader of last week.

The Leader so palpable misrepresens facts and conditions without adducing a single fact to substantiate its charges, that one is naturally inclined to the belief that it is on the inside of a scheme for private gain.

Voters, be careful to make up your minds from facts only.

DESPITE the division in the Democratic party in Texas and the Populists' boasts, that state gave Cleveland a clear majority of 178,571 over all opposing candidates for president. His plurality over Harrison was 208,673, and over Weaver it amounted to 262,108. Yet some would have it that the Democrats were the "rain bow chasers."

THE gentlemen with bald pates, gold-rimmed spectacles and dandruff on their coat collars, are not, such fine figurers as one might think —Beila's comet missed the earth about 195,000,000 miles, and these gentlemen had us all about scared to death.

THE original contract with the Washington Electric Light Company DID bind the city to purchase ALL of its lights from the company for a period of five years, the Leader to the contrary, notwithstanding.

AN EDITOR MURDERED.

Thomas Henderson Boyd Murdered at Seattle Friday.

Thomas Henderson Boyd, the brilliant editor, able politician, genial good fellow was murdered by a woman claiming to be his wife at Seattle last Friday evening. The occurance is one of the most sensational of events. Everyone supposed Boyd to be a single man, but tne evidence seems to be that he had actually married "Belle Ashton" a demi monde of considerable reputation, who finally assassinated him. Boyd was buried at Olympia by the Elks. Thomas Henderson Boyd has resided on Pupet Sound for several years, having been connected with the Globe and Ledger of Tacoma. He was editor of the Olympian at the time of his death.

The Bureau.

George E. Fisher will open up a new saloon Saturday. It will be in the room recently occupied by the Bank of Port Angeles. Mr. Fisher has expended $1,500 in furnishing the building in first class manner. It will be one of the finest resorts on the sound. The handsome place will be known as "The Bureau." There will be a grand opening Saturday night.

Californir is Alright.

California official returns gives the Cleveland electors an average plurality of 152—the average vote standing, Cleveland 117,908, Harrison, 117. 756, Weaver 25.526, Bidwell, 7.898.

Harrison gets one vote from California and Cleveland eight.

The ballots of one precinct were stolen. This precinct will have a special election Dec. 12, but the result cannot be different.

East Clallam Notes.

East Clallam Record:

Messrs. Miller and Mohrdick are laying a skid road to the mill, over which to draw the logs.

Messrs. E. M. Brown and J. F. Raney, returned Tuesday from the Solduck valley and reported that the hunting party had killed a large elk.

The view and survey of the Port Crescent and Lake Crescent county road on the line of the present wagon road will commence on Monday, December 5th. The viewers are Messrs. Al Miller, Joseph Hottowe and Richard McDonnell.

Chief Engineer A. J. Blackwood and his gallant assistants are now engaged in the arduous task of surveying the south line of Lake Crescent township. As this runs along the summit of the snow capped range of mountains on the south side of Lake Crescent it requires a great deal of energy and persistence to stay with the work. Mr. Blackwood expects to finish the survey in a few days, as the south line on which he is now engaged, will complete the work, which was left unfinished by R. T. Sheets. The settlers hope to be able to file on their claims by next spring.

A subscription has been started in town to build a plank walk from the I. O. O. F. hall to the school house, as the road up the hill is almost impassable. Donations of cash and labor have already been made nearly sufficient to complete a sidewalk.

County Commissioner Gray has lately been making a tour of inspection of the roads at the west end.

Citizens on and around the Sekiou will petition the county commissioners to establish a road to the river, at the next meeting of the board, December 23rd.

Road Supervisor Keltner is at work with a small force of men repairing the bridge across Charley creek, washed out during the storm lately.

John T. Lewis is rebuilding his house on Frontier street lately used as a restaurant. It will be made into an attractive dwelling house.

Mr. J. E. Higgins is able to be out on crutches and his injured leg is now improving fast.

M. L. Barns, of Seattle, and H. P. Nielsen, of Kirkland are new arrivals here.

The annual election of road supervisor took place here Saturday, December 3rd.

A movement is on foot to get an express office established here.

Mr. R. R. Johnson's new dwelling house is completed.

Lead Pencil Factory

Thomas Molony received a letter this waek from H. Gilmour, of the Eagle Pencil Company, asking for a sample of Clallam county ceder timber, of two hundred pounds weight. He states that if it stood a fair test he would locate a branch factory at this place, that would give employment to 100 men. A sample of the ceder at Wenomah will be forwarded at once.

Bond Election Illegal.

At the bond election held last Saturday for considering the advisability of bonding this school district, the vote stood 113 for, to 36 against, but on reading over the statute the board discovered that they had closed the polls too early, thus illegalizing the election. A new election will be held on Saturday, the 17th inst.

Some Dangers to Be Avoided.

The average boy is very apt to risk his life and health in many ways in summer. When unrestrained he takes a great many more chances than he would otherwise do. The chief danger to life and health of boys who spend the summer in the country is from overexertion in sports, and by indulging in too much swimming. The exhilaration of country life makes them feel that they can do more than their strength admits of This is equally true of city boys who get a day or two off from their work. The best way to do is to take exercise moderately. If a boy is not used to long walks, he should begin his summer outing with an easy jog along some pleasant road for only a mile or two. By increasing the distance gradually each day, it will not be long before he can do ten or fifteen miles, or twenty for that matter without discomfort, and in reality making a positive gain to his health. This rule applies equally well to horseback and bicycle riding, rowing and other work boys may be unaccustomed to

One of the chief and healthful amusements of a summer outing is bathing but there is no part of the visit where the danger is so great as in going in swimming too often, and at times when the water is too cold. Not a summer passes that thousands of boys are not permanently injured by going in swimming at times when they should not do so. The waves on the seashore, the running streams and the fresh water lakes are very enticing on hot days.—Foster Coates in Ladies' Home Journal.

Photographing Flying Bullets.

Much interest has been excited among photographers by Professor Boys' account of how he succeeded in photographing flying bullets. He succeeded in securing a photographic picture of a rifle ball passing through the air at the scarcely conceivable speed of 2,000 feet in a second. The source of illumination was the electric spark, such as that given by the discharge of a Leyden jar. The most remarkable circumstance is that the camera and lens were for this occasion dispensed with, and the gelatine plate impressed direct with the shadow of the missile as it traversed the intervening space between the plate and the light source.

The next thing that had to be considered was the best means of causing the bullet to turn on the electricity for its own portraiture, the motion of a flying bullet being of too rapid a nature to admit of any other procedure. At first two copper wires were placed in the path of the projectile, the notion being that the bullet itself would make the necessary metallic bridge between them. But the wires were shot away before doing what was expected of them. Lead wires were then substituted with success.—London Public Opinion.

A Letter's Long Wandering.

On July 23, 1885, a gentleman of this city mailed a letter addressed to "Hon A. M. Swope, American legation, Rome, Italy," with the request that if not called for in five days it should be returned. The long absent missive has been received by the writer after having been in the mails six years and ten months The envelope bears the first postmark, "Louisville, July 23, 1885, 9 a. m.," and the time of its return, "May 14, 1892, 6 p. m." The reverse side of the envelope is covered with marks, among them Rome and New York, each giving the date on which the letter was handled in those cities.

Mr. Swope, who at the time was on a tour around the world, was the well known Kentucky Republican leader killed several years ago in an altercation at Lexington, by William Cassius Goodloe.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Remarkable Restitution.

An Albany dispatch says: "In July 1888, the bunko artist, John Price, now serving a nineteen year sentence at Dannemora, slipped up behind P. K. Dedrick just as he left his carriage on the front of the Farmers and Mechanics bank and extracted from the seat a package containing $35,000 in negotiable bonds. A few days ago the bonds were received by ex-District Attorney Hugh Reilly. The package was intact, and the accumulated interest makes them worth about $43,000. There is no clew to whence they came, except that they were sent from New York city. The mystery lies in the fact that they were returned at all, as they were negotiable."

A Lunatic's Pension.

The pension recently awarded to Charles Glengold, of Wawarsing, N Y. is one of the largest ever given to a private soldier. Unfortunately, the recipient is and has been for years a lunatic He and his father were in the same company, and during a battle the father was shot down This so affected the son as to cause mental disorder. He has been granted back pay to the amount of $10,770.40 and a pension of seventy-two dollars per month.—Yankee Blade.

A Clock That Has a History.

A clock which hung in the chamber of Jefferson Davis while he was president of the Confederacy, but which was taken from the executive mansion on the day of the evacuation by a Union soldier and traded to a Richmond man for liquor, has been purchased by a gentleman and sent to the World's fair

Twenty years ago a party of Mormons made numerous proselytes in the upper Androscoggin valley, and last week an emissary of the Church of Latter Day Saints baptized four converts at Dixfield Centre, in the same region.

The Russians have just had made two 118-ton guns for their Black sea fleet. The English admiralty seems to value its big 110 ton barkers more as torpedo throwers than as mere armor piercing weapons.

Navigation on the Elbe was open during the whole of the month of March this year, whereas last year it was only possible toward the end of the month

Diamonds at the Fair.

The exhibit of minerals and precious stones at the World's fair in Chicago will be unusually complete and interesting. The diamond department, under direction of a company from South Africa, will be more closely studied than anything else, for here in a mass of "blue stuff" will be hidden $250,000 worth of diamonds, some of which will every day be washed out and put on the polishing wheel in the presence of the public. The old ways of diamond mining, like the old ways of gold washing, are gone, never to return, and the industry is now reduced to the same matter of fact business as manufacture. The entire process, from shoveling the clay to the work of dredging, washing in rotary machines, sorting pebbles and cutting and polishing, will be seen daily.

The De Beers and Kimberly mines will supply most of the material. It is about a quarter of a century since old Farmer De Beers sat under a tree watching his little girl roll a pebble on his lawn. A trader named O'Reilly happened to pass and the glitter of the plaything attracted his notice. Examination proved it to be a fine diamond. Prospectors came swarming in as soon as the news had got about, and four years later the farmer was glad to sell his farm for $30,000 to get rid of the mob. Up to 1876 $9,000,000 worth of gems had been taken out of his farm, but he was probably satisfied, for he belonged to an unexcitable race.—Exchange.

A Gypsy Burial.

An interesting gypsy burial has just taken place at the Catholic cemetery in Weisseusee, near Berlin. The son of the gypsy chief was carried to the grave, accompanied by members of the race from far and wide. A band of music opened the procession, followed by gypsies playing the fiddle or clashing cymbals. The splendid metal coffin was carried in a first class hearse, on each side of which the cousins and uncles of the deceased rode on horseback, their bridles and saddles being covered with crape. Close behind the coffin rode the six oldest members of the clan, beating tambourines while they muttered prayers.

Then came a troop of gypsy men, women and children in carriages, on horseback or on foot, clad in their picturesque costumes. The procession was closed by the parents of the deceased, accompanied by four "mourning women," who raised a fearful howling. The sight attracted thousands of spectators. The burial was accomplished with the usual Catholic rites, but afterward the gypsies offered up a dog as a "sacrifice to the moon" in an open field near by.—London News.

Paying Rent with a Rose.

The ground on which is erected Zion's new Lutheran church of Manheim, Pa., was donated to the congregation 120 years ago for the consideration of an annual payment of one red rose by Baron Henry William Seigel, who founded Manheim, and was the first glass and iron manufacturer of any note in the United States. He demanded the rose twice, and was paid. The baron died poor and filled an unknown grave, and the payment was not legally demanded until recently, when, by arrangement, Mr. J. C. Seigel, a great-grandson of the baron, came from Harrisonburg, Va., to receive it. Services throughout the day had a memorial tinge. The Rev. Mr. Menges preached an eloquent sermon from the text, "I am the rose of Sharon." The afternoon was devoted solely to exercises incident to the payment of the rose and interest, the whole town taking part.—Cor. St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Smoke Consuming Scheme.

A correspondent suggests a method of abating the smoke nuisance in close manufacturing localities by having a smoke duct running through a town, connected in a suitable manner with the different furnaces. In carrying out such a plan it is suggested that the duct might be conveyed outside of the city to a condensing station, an exhaust machine being employed to force the draught. At the condensing station the soot laden air would be made to pass through water conveniently proximate, in this way depositing the solid matter, while the air passes away comparatively pure; the soot which remains might easily be collected, caked and used as fuel, etc. The dimensions of the duct for such a purpose would have to vary, as in the case of water and other mains, according to the work to be performed.—Indian Engineering.

The Hypnotic Social.

The latest kink in the society way is the "hypnotic social," which has been going about for the past three weeks. A company of friends is invited and an amateur hypnotist is brought in, who proceeds to divert the select audience by experiments with various persons of the company. There are three or four of these amateurs who are picking up a few dollars through these little exhibitions. One of them is said to be developing in such a marvelous way that his friends are endeavoring to persuade him that he could make a fortune as a full fledged professional.—Indianapolis Journal.

"High Card Bob" to Join the Church.

Bob Brewington, formerly of Kirksville, Mo., and known to his associates as "High Card Bob," who recently won $2,500 in Arizona, announces that he has given it back and will reform. He declares that twenty-five dollars honestly earned will go farther than $100 won over the card table, and that the gambler's life has lost all its charms for him. Finally he has promised to join the church.—Cor. St. Louis Republic.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Ray McFadden Almost Worried to Death by a Canine.

Last Saturday at noon little Ray McFadden was playing on Front street with some other boys when a half breed Siberian bloodhound, belonging to Herman Fisher, happened to pass them. Upon seeing the dog one of the boys began to tease him, in doing so he hurt his ear, which was sore, whereupon the dog became angry, and, as little Ray happened to go up to him at that time, the dog thinking that he was the offender began to punish him. After knocking him down he set his teeth in the side of the child's face and began to worry him, but luckily Frank Fisher was just returning to lunch and seeing the danger hastily called the dog off, and, as he was the only one who could control the animal it obeyed his call. Mrs. McFadden upon hearing his cries rushed out to Ray and carrid him in her arms to the store. When seeing the injuries the little fellow had sustained his mother almost fainted. A piece was bitten off from the top of the right ear and there was a hole in his cheek large enough to put a thumb in. Dr. McGeorge was called and dressed the wounds which allayed the child's pain.

The marshal shot the dog immediately there would not be any more accidents.

Little Ray is improving nicely and it is hoped will soon be fully recovered from his sad mishap.

AT THE COUNCIL.

The council held an adjourned meeting Thursday afternoon.

Mayor Smith being absent Councilman Hunn acted as mayor pro tem.

Councilmen Thompson, Bell, Metcalfe, Innes and Lewis were present.

The business coming before the council was the consideration of an ordinance establishing the grades of the various streets. The ordinance passed, but was withheld from publication to permit the city attorney to draw a penalty clause.

A NEW LAW FIRM.

W. R. Gay, F. O. Lamoreux and C. E. Gay Form a Partnership.

W. R. Gay, F. O. Lamoreux and C. E. Gay have formed a law partnership. The firm name will be Gay, Lamoreux & Gay.

These young lawyers are all well known. W. R. Gay is chairman of the Republican county central committee and has earned a reputation as a political orator and as a criminal lawyer since being in Clallam county.

F. O. Lamoreux is an exceptionally bright young lawyer who has been practicing in this state for a short time. He is also not unknown as an orator. In the late Democratic county and state conventions Mr. Lamoreux distinguished himself by the part he took. He will doubtless make a reputation for himself at the bar.

C. E. Gay, brother of W. R. Gay, studied law in his brother's office was admitted to practice in the court of Clallam county about a year ago. Since that time he served in the customs house as stenographer until a few months ago, when he resigned to practice law in Port Angeles.

The new firm has bright prospects ahead.

A Good Appointment.

George W. O'Brien, editor of the Clallam Bay Record, has been appointed by Judge Hanford, a United States circuit court commissioner for East Clallam.

This appointment makes it possible for citizens in the western portion of Clallam county to make filings or final proof at Clallam without entailing the extra expense of themselves and witnesses of a trip further from home.
