CHRISTMAS AT HOME.

The Day Merry With Festivities and Dinners.

SOME ENTERTAIN, AND

Others Pass the Day in Quiet and Peace at Home--Private Dinner Parties and Exercises at the Churches, Unite in Making the Holiday Very Enjoyable.

Christmas has come and gone and will leave many pleasant recollections of happy family reunions, enjoyable gatherings, interesting entertainments, public and private Christmas trees, the latter so long observed, and really a beautiful custom, that stirs nobler sentiments that springs from the human heart, that of giving tokens of friendship and of love to those near and dear to you.

The day was indeed, as nearly perfect as nature could make it—the sky clear, the air mild, pure spring like, the snow capped mountain peaks stood out in bold relief as silent sentinels seemingly acquiescing in the festivities of the day.

Christmas eve at the churches was one of the interesting and ever pleasurable features to the young as well as to the old. At the Methodist, Congregational and Baptist churches, appropriate programs were produced and evergreen trees heavily laden with numerous presents both useful and ornamental, brought together members and friends of the respective churches and Sunday schools. At the Congregational Church

The Christmas festivities were for the Sunday school only. The gifts were mostly on the part of the school. All were given a generous supply of candies and nuts. A few of the teachers had some special gifts for their scholars, and some were sent in for members of the school by parents or friends. Santa Claus, who seems to be hovering about on all Christmas occasions, and now and then manifesting himself bodily, put in an unexpected appearance. He tarried only for a walk up one aisle and down another. The program at this church consisted of recitations and singing. The children acquitted themselves nicely. The Christmas tree was a handsome one—quite a perfect forest specimen. The articles thereon were tastefully arranged; bunches of cotton here and there among the green and pretty little candles added prettiness to the scene.

The Sunday school children of the Baptist Church

Produced a miscellaneous program of songs and recitations, that was in every way praiseworthy. The tree was one of the principal features of the evening's exercises. It is indeed an interesting scene to watch the expression of childlike pleasure that plays upon the young as his name resounds throughout the church announcing him the recipient of some longed for treasure which the youthful heart can only feel that intense desire.

The exercises at the Methodist Church

Were of an interesting and pleasing nature. The program, consisting of songs and recitations produced by the Sunday school children, was very creditable indeed. The trees was, of course, one of the features of the evening. And it was laden with precious presents the distribution of which gladdened the hearts of the recipient.

At Clallam Bay, in the Quillayute country, Dungeness, Sequim, Port Crescent and other places in the county, the day was appropriately observed with out door sports, entertainments, dances, etc. Of all holidays Christmas affords infinitely the greater measure of real, lasting pleasure, it is a period of reciprocity in its most perfect development.

FACTS AND FIGURES

About Municipal Ownership of Electric Lights.

SLEDGE HAMMER POINTS

That Cannot be Controverted. Every Patriotic Citizen Who Believes in Cheap Lights and Water will Vote for the Proposition.

Shall the city of Port Angeles own and control its own electric light plant? is a question which seems to cause much perturbation in certain quarters

Many who claim to favor the city being the possessor and operator of all its franchises have seemed to accept without question all manner of exparte street gossip as truth and peddle it indiscriminately in opposition to voting the bonds.

The question at issue is a plain business proposition, capable of of easy solution by men of ordinary business ability, but not without some consideration of the facts in the case. These facts we propose to lay before the voters of the city and they are as follows:

In December 1890 the town of Port Angeles granted to Louis Rockman, his successors and assigns a franchise for an electric light plant to be operated in said town for a period of twenty-five years. This contained the usual stipulations as to construction etc., but there was no clause under which the city could ever purchase it.

On December 4th, 1890, an agreement was entered into with L. Rockman which contains the following: "The said party of the first part (i. e. the city of Port Angeles) agrees to take electric light from said second party (L. Rockman) for a term of five years from date hereof, and from no other electric light company during said term of five years * * * and it is further agreed by and between all the parties to this agreement that the town of Port Angeles aforesaid is not bound by the terms of this agreement to take any lights whatsoever of said L. Rockman, provided said town does not use electric lights during said five years." Signed

JOHN DYKE, Mayor.
W. BRUMFIELD, Clerk.
L. ROCKMAN.

This agreement should not be confounded with the franchise of which it froms no part. It is true the city cannot grant an exclusive franchise i. e., a franchise which would exclude any other company from building, and, operating electric light works in the city, but it can enter into a contract to purchase all its light from a certain company for a term of years and in fact has done so by the terms of the above agreement.

It has been flippantly said by some that the present city council was speculating in the future of the city. To this charge the city council can well afford to plead guilty, as it is for this express purpose that such bodies are elected.

Nearly every act of a city council does and necessarily must take into consideration the future growth and development of the comunity. Accordingly on May last when Mr. Rockman tendered to the city a lease and option of purchase the city council—after making a careful investigation of the cost of the plant and the probable value of the franchise—became the lessee of the present plant. If the one year option is accepted by the city before May 1st the price is to be $25,000. If not the cost will be $30,000. But it is proposed to purchase at once for the sum $25,000, of which amount $5,000 is claimed as the value of the franchise and contract, a matter which can only be approximately arrived at by forecasting the future.

It is safe to say that a twenty-five year franchise absolute for that period is worth something. During a trifle over a year and a third, ending last June, the city paid the Washington Electric Light Company $1,954.70, for two lights, three months; nine lights, eight months; fourteen lights, two months and sixteen lights, three months, including lights for the council chamber. For the first year therefore the city paid for lights a sum equal to the interest on $31,000, at 6 per cent.

On June 1st the city was using sixteen arc lights and a few incandescents, for which it was paying $201 per month, or at the rate of $2,412 per annum or the interest on $40,000 at 6 per cent., and yet parts of the taxpaying portion of the city is in Egyptian darkness. Lights are imperatively needed on Fourth and Tumwater, Second and Cedar, Firstand Lincoln, Francis and Caroline, Chambers and Water and Liberty and Yeoman, to say nothing of the newly added territory. If these lights are in place by June 1st next and they certainly ought to be. the charge against the city would be for the third year of Mr. Rockman's contract $3,348.

If our friends on the reserve waited patiently till the summer of 1894, and then got say twelve lights, the charge for the fourth year of the contract would be $5,076.

But the wants of a growing city never cease and in another year twelve more arc lamps to light the way to the forthcoming residences of Messrs. Coolican and Gore are sorely needed and the prayer of petitioners is granted and in the of fifth year his contract Mr. Rockman is paid by the city $6,804. Making a total to June 1st, 1896, of $19,594.70 or almost the total cost of the original plant paid out by the city and absolutely gone, or an average of $3,918,94 per year.

It was expected and frankly stated by members of the council that under the lease entered into last June the city would lose money for perhaps two years, using the present outfit, but by putting in a water power at an expense of $25,000, the expense of wood and fireman amounting to $2500.00 per year would be avoided and the lines could be so extended as to increase the income to a point which would give the city its lights free in the near future.

The actual loss to the city during the first six months of the lease as shown by the books of the superintendent has been $1184,90. Much of this loss would have been saved had the council immediately extended the incandescent wires so as to accommodate the residence portion of the city. But such an expense could not be incurred unless the bonds are voted. If the city grows in accordance with the expectations of its people the plant will show a large percentage of gain before the expiration of the lease, to say nothing of the advantage to the city of terminating a twenty-five year franchise at a comparatively small cost.

The city of Seattle once owned its own water system. It sold it for a song to the Spring Hill Water Co. which grew fat on the franchise by giving the city and its people a scanty supply of water at a high price and ended by burning down the city or allowing it to be burned down through lack of water supply. Last year that city purged itself of the Spring Hill Water Co. at a cost of $300,000, for the franchise besides the cost of the plant.

That the opposition suddenly developed in the board of trade, (an organization at present used as the cat's paw of the Development Company) comes not from any great interest in the welfare of the taxpayers of this city is apparent on its face as neither of the three men most active in the matter owned a dollar's worth of real estate in the city. Why then the opposition? Does the "Development Company" wish to get hold of our water power and thus lay the city and all its future manufactures under tribute as like companies have done in the cities of Spokane and Oregon City? Such seems at least to be the case. They are willing the city should own the plant but apparently want

Eighteen Hundred and ninety-two will soon have exhausted its sands of time, wraught its might. and passed into history.

The year has been a remarkable one in many respects. Its events have made history for nations. Many questions of great importance to civilization have arisen, or have been settled during the year, many of the age's great minds have departed earth's time and many literary productions of great merit have been given to the world, but, by far the most important and far-reaching in results, of all the events of this year, as time will without doubt show, is the ascendency of the two greatest democratic political parties in the two greatest nations of earth.

England's democratic party—the Liberals—under the gallant leadership of her greatest democrat, is in power. Gladstone, he who stands for political freedom, is England's chief magistrate, and another epoch in Great Britain's advancement is marked.

In America, the world's greatest democratic party, under the leadership of one of the world's greatest democrats is soon to be in power. Cleveland, whose name stands for commercial freedom, is the United States' chief magistrate, and an-another epoch in American advancement is marked.

The sensation of the generation has also developed during 1892. France is shaking from centre to circumference, in a manner that threatens the republic with destruction.

This, from present indications, will have more to do with 1893 than 1892, however, excitment has run high already, the president has had an excedingly hard time in getting a cabinet and a duel has resulted. All caused by the unearthing of bribery of deputies by the Panama canal schemers. The indications are, though, that the French republic will come out stronger by the ordeal. War need not be expected.

Eighteen Hundred Ninety-two has been an eventful year, but it is no longer. In the light of its experience, let us turn our faces toward 1893 hopeful and confident.

MR. INGALLS, THE PHILOSOPHER.

"A poor old party without a hope," were the words uttered by that intellectual giant, who, for a decade, like a meteor, brillantly blazad the way where others of his party feared to tread, John James Ingalls, and he had reference to his old love, the Republican party.

Not very encouraging words these for those who again hope to ride into authority with that party. But the evidence is that Mr. Ingalls spoke as a philosopher, and not as a "sorehead" politician, as the ex-senator expects nothing at the hands of the People's party. While it may be true that Mr. Ingalls smarts under defeat it is also true that he possesses as keen and as philosophical a mind as any one in this country. It is also a fact that Mr. Ingalls has had a way of speaking his mind quite freely and entirely fearless as to the results for a good while now. In fact, since before the election of 1890, he has ceased his war on the south, and he remarked before congress adjourned that his vote for the "McKinley bill was THE mistake of a lifetime."

Senator Ingalls' keen, analytical mind recognized the resultant forces in that pernicious measure; he saw the gathering storm. He realized before the battle commenced thot defeat was inevitable. Why? It did not take a mind with the gigantic reasoning forces of Mr. Ingalls' to see that the Republican party had outlived its usefulness, and that no longer could he and his kind by burning and eloquence keep the bitter, sectional hatred engendered by the civil war uppermost in the people's minds as a political issue.

Mr. Ingalls took his defeat as a matter course. He expected it.

Since going out of office Mr. Ingalls has apparently discarded his his old mark and appears before the people simply as a man of intellect and not as a dispenser of sectional hatred.

It is Mr. Ingalls the philosopher who has spoken—and he gives but cold comfort to his old allies.

"A poor old party without a hope."

Not very encouraging words these.

GALL AND WORMWOOD.

That the Tribune-Times has no knowledge of affairs national, further than a faint, benighted, flickering idea, stale, though it was, a quarter century ago, which would lead one to think that only Northern Republicans were entitled to office, is clearly proven by an editorial criticism of Mr. Cleveland last week. This article is a marvel for narrowness of mind that is seldom seen in journalism of today.

That paper infers that popular government is a failure as it proves (?) that the American people have twice blindly elected a man president who has never "performed a single act in his life that should give him consideration or prominence" and he was not in the army, This shows that popular government must be a failure, as the people had both the record of Mr Cleveland and that of Mr. Harrison before them, when they passed judgment, and by a majority reaching three-quarters of a million decided for Mr. Cleveland.

The Tribune displays its ignorance of American people and their history in this sentence:

"The South is aristocratic and would willingly see a Democratic president elected for life, which would be the next thing to monarchy."

Any school boy who is at all acquainted with American history knows that the south has opposed monarchy or the encroachment of federal authority from colonial days down to the present. The great representative of Republicanism one hundred years ago, Alexander Hamilton, proposed a government that was almost a monarchy, and it is said even favored crowing Washington king. The opposition to this was from the south, while the support it received was north. The constitution, as adopted, was the work of James Madison, a southerner, and was as strong a central government as the south would stand. The first ten amendments, which make the constitution so dear to us, were given to us by Virginia through Thomas Jefferson and Patrick Henry. They are known as the "Virginia bill of rights."

THE Port Townsend Leader is unfair in accusing the Democracy with not properly recognizing the Pacific coast. Such a charge certainly comes with exceeding ill grace from a Republican paper, when it is considered that for a quarter century—1880 alone excepted—the electoral votes of the Pacific coast have been given to the Republican party, and in all that time the coast has but one cabinet member—Attorney-General George H. Williams. Mr. Cleveland did better than any president since Grant, for this coast. He appointed General Rosecrans Register of the Treasury.

The East Clallam Record asks for appropriations for state and county road purposes.

There is some sense in this. If our legislature would make more appropriations for such necessary institutions and throw away less money to commissions and bureaus, whose only use is to draw salary, it is possible the people of the state would not vote down a proposition to increase the limit of the public debt.

Good roads are a state necessity. Other state have taken this building in hand, and why not Washington? "Chop off" on unnecessary some of the stuped expenditures of the past, and assist in building county roads.

THE Dungeness Beacon refers to Alfred Ware, Esq., one of Clallam county's efficient ex-surveyors, as the first county surveyor in Clallam county.

There you are mistaken, brother, Clallam county was a more important institutionthan you seem to thinkin the olden days. Old Clallam has been dignified with such a dignitary since the memory of the editor of this paper runneth not to the contrary.

Confer Brother Beacon, with those longer of your soil.

THE Tribune-Times, referring to Pierce county legislators says: "The Republicans of the state have slight confidence in the Republicanism of anyone from that county." What's the matter with Doolittle?

THE Spokane Chronicle refers editorially to ex-Governor William J. Stone, of Missouri. Why, [illegible] Flynn!

WILL GO TO WASHINGTON.

Secretary Carrigan Goes to Urge Immediate Appraisement.

A special meeting of the board of trade was held to take under consideration the advisability of sending Secretary Carrigan to Washington to urge immediete action on the part of the government officials looking to the early appraisement of the reservation lots.

It appears that the corrected report of the survey of the reservation, recently made, will not be filed by Engineer Schwartz until tomorrow. It is expocted that the corrected data will be forwarded to Washington Monday or Tuesday next.

The advantage of having a representative in Washington when the corrected report is filed, cannot be easily estimated. He can urge through influence of Secretary Noble that the matter be speedily pushed to a finalty, and instructions to appraisers forwarded without unnecessary delay.

Mr. James Perkins, a member of the board of trade of London, has informed President Coolican that if the local board of trade can prevail upon the United States government to request the former organization to designate Port Angeles a signal station, the petition would doubtless be granted.

It was ascertained that the steamer Island Belle would be placed on the Victoria-Whatcom-Angeles route, making two trips each week, about the last of January. She will connect at Whatcom with the Canadian Pacific railway, at which point passengers and freight over that railroad will be transferred.

When at Seattle east week Secretary Carrigan saw Appraiser Worthington, who expresses the opinion, concurred in by the other appraisers, that the appraisement of the reservation should be made from a basis of acre valuation.

ATTENTION.—Any person desiring a carriage to any part of the city, will find the undersigned on Lincoln street wharf, nearly opposite the Y. M. C. A. rooms. Passengers taken to and from all boats; also baggage promptly delivered. Terms reasonable. Orders left at the Y. M. C. ATTORNEY ALLEN WEIR.

Hon. Allen Weir Admitted to Practice Law at Olympia.

Hon Allen Weir, Secretary of State has been admitted to practice law by the State Supreme court and will locate in Olympia.

THE DEMOCRAT wishes Mr. Weir all success in his new avocation, which he doubtless will acheive, as he is is a man possessing natural ability that will succeed in most any line to which he devotes himself.

HON. ALLEN WEIR, Olympia, Wash.—MY DEAR SIR—I congratulate you on your admission to the legal fraternity. You could doubtless have been admitted long since if you had so desired. There have been many occasions during the past three years when I have recognized your knowledge of law and ability to construe both statute and constitutional law. I feel confident that your eminent qualifications will at once give you a standing at the bar and a lucrative practice. Yours very truly,

ELISA P. FERRY.

Mr. Weir has addressed the following circular letter to his numerous acquaintances which explains itself:

OLYMPIA, WASH., December 20th, 1892.

Having been admitted by the supreme court, to practice in all the courts of the state, I wish to respectfully solicit employment whenever you need legal services, promising prompt and diligent attention to all business entrusted to me. I have had several year's experience in legal business, during two years of which I was justice of the peace and judge of a municipal court. During the past three years, while occupying a state office, I have necessarily become familiar with our state laws and have repeatedly defended official action in the superior and upreme courts. Have had my official and judicial judgment appealed from in important cases, and have never yet been reversed. Have been a member of the state tide land commission and state school land commission ever since their organization, and familiarity with the laws and the practice established by these boards especially fits me to handle litigation in either of these lines.

Very respectfully,

ALLEN WEIR.

SURPRISED HIS FRIENDS.

Dr. Strother will find a warm welcome from his many friends, and Angeles will regain a physician of skill and ability who will add materially to the corps of able physicians of this city.

Picking Out Thieves by Their Eyes.

The eye always indicates the character of the man. This is particularly true of thieves, for the expert detective can tell in almost every case whether or not a man is a thief by simply looking him squarely in the eye. A well known detective in speaking of this matter, said:

"Yes, I can pick out a thief every time. I can't tell you what it is that gives the man away except that it is the expression of the eye. In the first place, there are few thieves that will look you squarely in the eye unless they are obliged to do so. They will avoid your glance as long as they can, and even when they do face you and gaze steadily at you it is always with the same expression. Although their eyes may be wide open and the gaze apparently steady you will see, if you look closely, that there is something away back through the corner trying to avoid you. I have picked out numbers of thieves by this little dodging movement. I never saw a thief who was free from it.

"Everybody has met that man who resolutely refuses to meet a steady gaze for more than three or four seconds at a time. It is not fair to say that all such persons are dishonest. In many cases this peculiarity is a direct result of bashfulness. A little close observation will enable the observer to put persons in the class to which they belong. The man whose eye is almond shaped is almost always dishonest at heart, if not in overt act. The eyes of some of the most notorious thieves in the country are of this pattern, and the expression given the face by this sort of eye is very striking."—Pittsburg Press.

Eugene Sue's Vanity.

Notwithstanding the extraordinary literary success which he enjoyed when his works were the vogue, Eugene Sue posed much more as a man of fashion than a man of letters. After his dinner at the Cafe de Paris he would gravely stand on the steps smoking his cigar and listening to the conversation with an air of superiority without attempting to take part in it. His mind was supposed to be far away, devising schemes for the social and moral improvement of his fellow creatures. These philanthropic musings did not prevent him from paying a great deal of attention—too much perhaps—to his personal appearance, for even in those days of beaus, bucks and dandies, of Counts d'Orsay and others, men could hot help thinking Eugene Sue overdressed.

He rarely appeared without spurs to his boots, and he would no more have done without a new pair of white kid gloves every evening than without his dinner. Other men, like Nestor de Roqueplan, Alfred de Musset and Major Fraser, did not mind having their gloves cleaned, though the process was not so perfect asit is now. Eugene Sue averred that the smell of cleaned gloves made him ill. The unhappy man finally fell into poverty, was quietly cashiered from his fashionable clubs and died in obscurity.—Chicago Post.

Black Costumes in Paris.

There's a black rage in Paris; it's the style to look as if you were in light mourning there, whether it's so or not. All the toilets one sees are black of some description or black and white—that is, all but the hats. A woman may go out deeply and solemnly robed in a garment that one would surely suppose to be worn as a token of grief until one's eyes reached the headgear, when its light and brilliant coloring would immediately dispel the effect. They're not a bit consistent in gay Paris, else one might think they had at last reached a period of sobriety and common sense; that they had concluded to be more like their English sisters and settle down in quieter and more subdued colors. But when a woman wears a black gown and a hat containing several colors of the rainbow in bright display there is little foundation for the belief, after all.—Paris Letter.

How to Get a Postoffice.

There are a great many interesting facts and figures connected with postoffices and their masters. For instance, when a countryman is tired of walking or driving several miles for his mail and concludes that the government should bring it nearer, he should state that fact to the first assistant postmaster general, whose clerks will furnish him with instructions and a blank petition for the neighbors to sign. If he wants the new office bad enough to make the government think it a necessity, he will doubtless get it.

At the same time he will be told that in naming it prefixes such as "east," "center" and the like, the suffixes "boro," "burgh," "city," etc., are equally objectionable. Short, characteristic names are preferred.—Kate Field's Washington.

Meters for Measuring Electricity.

In a discussion in London on meters for measuring electrical energy it was shown that in the Frager meter the energy could be made from 300 to 400 times greater than that indicated by the meter by simply closing and opening the circuit at proper intervals. With a Thomson meter it was said to be very easy to force the readings with the aid of a strong magnet applied outside the meter boxes. Fraud is therefore very easily practiced upon such meters, provided one understands them. — New York Telegram.

A Mat Made of Jewels.

The costliest mats in the world are owned by the shah of Persia and the sultan of Turkey. The shah and the sultan each possess a mat made of pearls and diamonds, valued at more than $2,000,000. The largest mat ever made is owned by the Carlton club, of London, and is a work of art.—New York Sun.

The North Side of a Tree.

The side of a tree on which most of the moss is found is the north. If the tree be exposed to the sun, its heaviest and longest limbs will be on the south side.—Boston Globe.

How Ants Are Eaten.

Ants are eaten by several of the minor nations. In Egypt they are eaten raw with sugar; in Brazil they are served with a resinous sauce, and in East India stewed in buffalo grease or fried in butter.—St. Louis Republic.

A Grave in the Center.

The exact geographical center of the United States is marked by a grave—the last resting place of one Major Ogden, who is buried on a little knoll a short distance northeast of Fort Riley Kan.—Exchange.

LOCAL PARAGRAPHS.

New Year Sunday.

At the Squatters' hall Wednesday night a dance was given.

THE DEMOCRAT extends wishes for a happy and prosperous New Year to all.

The O. d. H. S. No. 3. will give a social hop at Squatters hall, to-morrow evening.

The steamer Island Belle will be placed on the Whatcom-Victoria-Angeles route, the beginning of the year.

There will be a grahd New Year hop at the opera house Monday night. Admission gentlemen 50 cents.

The social hop at the opera house last Friday evening under the auspices of the I. O. O. F. was a pronounced success.

Invitations have been issued for a New Year party at the residence of Mr. Frank Chambers, Sr., in honor of Miss Sarah Chambers.

The county commissioners have been in session during the week. They have been settling up matters, preparatory to turning the office over to their successors.

One of the social events of the season is the dance given at Squatter's hall Saturday evening, the 1st of Jan. under the auspices of the Sons of Herman. A general invitation ia extended. Admission 50 cents.

The painting of Port Angeles by Gustav Kalling, of Seattle, has been received by the Ladies' World's Fair Club, and will be on exhibition at the opera house this evening, at which time a social dance will be given.

The following officers were elected at the last semi-annual election of Clallam Tribe No. 4, Improved Order of Red Men: William Smith, Sackem; Samuel D. Maxwell, S. S.; Robert N. Wilson, J. S.; S. P. Carusi, C. of R.; Edward Metcalf, K. of W.

Judge McClinton has fixed the bail of Benjamin F. Schwartz at $2500. It is not known whether or not Schwartz will take out bail, pending the hearing of his case in the supreme court. Later: Schwartz will not take out bail. He, with true American genuis, discovered a more satisfactory plan.

The tide land appraisers, Messrs. A. H. Howells, Jas. Smith and William Ward, will soon begin the appraisement of the tide lands of Port Angeles' harbor. Following their labor the opportunity will be given to water frontage property owners to perfect their title, by purchase at appraised valuation.

Fell and Broke His Neck.

Recently Charles C. Ames, a young man who was engaged as lineman on the government telegraph near East Clallam, slipped and in the fall broke his neck.

The untimely death of the young man, is peculiarly sad, taking into consideration the circumstances surrounding his death, and the fact that he leaves a young wife and babe, to mourn his tragic end.

Ames lived with his wife and child on a ranch near Pysht, Wn. He was engaged with Mr. R. S. Dimmock repairing the line running from Port Angeles to Cape Flattery. The late rains and snow caused considerable damage to the telegraph lines, and it was for the purpose of repairing these that Dimmock and Ames started out last Friday morning over the route. They remained together until about noon, when Mr. Dimmock left Ames and returned to East Clallam. Ames was then four or five miles out from the town. While repairing one of the wires, having climbed one of the telegraph poles, Ames undoubtedly lost his balance and fell to the ground dislocating his neck. His body was found lying upon the ground at the base of the pole Saturday night. There were no marks of any kind on the body indicating that Ames met with foul play, and it was the opinion of the East Clalam physicians, who examined the body, that death resulted from the cause stated.

Ames was 25 years of age and had been married about three years. His wife will probably accompany the body to Minneapolis, the home of his parents.

Off for Foreign Shores.

B. F. Schwartz, the convicted embezzler and ex-banker of this city, lit out by the light of the moon last night for parts unknown.

Schwartz was standing in the door last night smoking, when Tom Bryan, the jailor, rebuilt the fire, thrning his hack to the prisoner, Schwartz, made use of the opportunity to skip. The jailer became excited and before Sheriff Gould or Deputy Mackintosh could be notified he had made good his escape. He was tracked up First street to the Congregational church and from there to Front street. Here his trail was lost. The sheriff at once notified Indians not to take him to Victoria or elsewhere. Mrs. Schwartz's rooms were searched but nothing further could be learned.

Several theories are advanced as to the escape. It is generally thought that his flight was assisted. It is thought that Schwartz either left on a lumber laden vessel for the south. or has got transportation to Victoria.

YOUTHFUL DEPRAVITY.

Albert Sherard Startles Dungeness Citizens With His Daring Pranks.

The good, peaceful, lawabiding citizens of the Dungeness country have beed in a thros of excitement during the past month by the daring pranks of Albert Sherard, a youthful thief, who has shown an alarming degree of recklessness and degeneracy. His acts of thievery became so numerous, that farmers were compelled to take steps to effect his capture, and have them brought to justice.

Like all wayward youths, he was a victim of the gambling table, and recently lost all his possessions in a game of chance at Port Townsend. Chargined, doubtless, over his losses he returned to Dungeness and began his career as a robber.

He was captured by Constable Potter and his deputies, Henry Fitzgerald and Frank Donnell, near Dungeness.

Young Sherard is only 17 years of age, and shows an alarming degree of abandonment in one so young. While he is not possessed of a very strong mind, he is far from being an idiot.

Quinn moved that the extention of the electric lighting to Morse's wharf to supply the warehouse and custom's house with incandescent lights be referred to electric light committee for investigation and report. Motion carried.

On motion of McInnes the council adjourned to meet Thursday afternoon.

FACTS AND FIGURES.

to sell power to the city with which to run the plant. Let the organs of the "Development Company" answer the above questions.

The city of Port Angeles has no time to trifle away if it would own its water power. There is but a limited power cheaply available.

It should be secured at once by the laying of suitable pipe lines and made available for use.

Competent experts say that the amount of the bonds is sufficient to do what is claimed. If so the city would have 500 to 700 horse power to spare which could be loaned to enterprises desiring to locate here at a minimum rate as an inducement for them to establish works at this place, which power rentals would eventually bring a very large income to the city.

In the opinion of many citizens. it is this fear that the city will take control of the water power in question that has raised the outcry against the bonds and which still actuates the Leader in its otherwise groundless opposition.

The following estimates of the cost of light to the city under the original contract—the present contract and as operated by water power will be of interest:

Probable cost to city from June 1st, 1892. to June 1st, 1897, under the old contract for light, $24,444.

Probable cost under present lease less extensions $15,000.

The probable cost for the same term if run by water power will be nothing, as in that case the sale of light and power will pay all expenses and interest on the bonds from the beginning.

The average loss, based on the last half year, for the first year will be $2,369 80.

The present plant is being operated at about two-thirds of its capacity. We will give the specific figures next week.

THE SOUND-HONOLULU TRADE.

Trans-Pacific Line of Steamers will Soon be Established.

Doubtless one of the most important commercial achievements yet accomplished in the history of the growth of the Puget Sound country, is the establishment of a trans-Pacific line of steamers with Honolulu and the Hawaiian islands. For some months past prominent business men of the Sound have been laboring for the consummation of this enterprise. A transportation company has been organized for some time past known as the Puget Sound and Hawaiian Traffic Company. The general manager, Mr. W. E. Simpson, has just returned from a two months' visit to Honolulu, whither he went to make arrangements looking to the placing of a line of steamers between the Hawiian islands and the Sound. His mission in every way resulted satisfactorily and within a very short time the steamers will be making regular trips.

The advantage of establishing friendly trade relations with Honolulu cannot easily be estimated. The islands have products that can be exchanged with profit and advantage for the products of the Sound.

Then goods from the east can be shipped as cheaply if not at a lower rate of transportation than from San Francisco, as the Sound now has three transcontinental railway systems, that will be active competitors for increasing and extending traffic in any direction offering. These islands certainly afford a field for trade capable of the richest cultivation, and if the business and commercial interests of the Sound do not embrace this opportunity they will certainly commit a serious mistake.

Upon this subject the Tacoma News says:

The report that the Hawaiian government had not yet made an appropriation to pay $500 for each monthly round trip made by the company's vessel is untrue.

The subsidy has been granted and the appropriation made. Further than this, Mr. Simpson succeeded in securing other concessions from both the government and the people. He secured a contract from Commissioner of Interior Wilcox for the remission of all port charges, light house dues and wharfage charges, together with the full and exclusive use of wharves. warehouses and coaling stations.

"I have placed a cargo of 1,100 tons of the products of the state of Washington to take to the islands on the first trip," said Mr. Simpson. "The success of enterprise is going to depend very largely indeed upon making his first shipment satisfactory to the merchants of Honolulu. I have also secured a return cargo from there on the first trip. If these shipments prove successful much larger shipments will follow. And it will stand the merchants in this community well in hand to give this enterprise their heartiest support. One of the hardest tasks that I had to perform was to convince the merchants there that Tacoma and the state of Washington were large enough to compete with San Francisco and California.

"The fact that there are now three transcontinental railroads on Puget Sound appeals to the merchants there as giving them an opportunity to extend their trade. They are particularly anxious to open up new territory for other products besides sugar, which has predominated the mercantile interests of the islands."
