RESERVE TO BE SECURED

Residents Upon Lots Lying Between Laurel and Oak Will Combine for Purpose

At the council meeting Wednesday evening but little business was transacted, it being the last meeting of the present body.

The electric light committee reported the receipt of $300 in cash, and a note for $200 due in one year, secured by mortgage, for the balance of $500, sale of old boiler, engine and dynamo. Report accepted and action approved.

New bills were read as follows: D. O'Brien, wood, $140; Angeles Water Co., water for light plant, $4; for hydrants, $25; Kilborne & Clark, wire for plant, $32.19.

Mayor Lewis then brought to attention of the council the need for concerted action on part of the residents upon the reserve, which lies south of First and mainly between Oak and Laurel, looking to the ultimate securing of such property from the government. The City, being one of the squatters on this reserve, was asked to take hold of the matter with the residents on the hill. Not only is the City interested to the extent of retaining the present locations of city hall and jail, but it is interested in getting these two principal blocks of valuable residence lots upon the tax rolls, and also in getting them out of the hands of an immovable body, in order that, when the question of street grading and other improvements comes to the fore, the City may not be compelled to bear the entire burden. If a re-appraisement were deemed to be necessary, the price of the lands would be determined by the condition of affairs in the city, but it would never be lower than now. And finally, the Mayor was convinced that at the present time every member of congress in the state would work for the city's interest in the matter, and hence this is the opportune time to have the matter brought to a definite conclusion.

Engineer Norman Smith of the P. A. Pacific Ry, who had just returned home from the east that day, then addressed the council, asking an expression of opinion as to whether the expiring franchise could be renewed, or again secured, when parties now interested in the financing of the road presented their request to the council. Mr. Smith stated that certain New York bankers, whose names he was not at liberty to divulge, had taken up the financing of the road, and its completion to connection with the N. P. R'y north of Gray's Harbor, and that they or their representatives, would be here shortly to look into the proposition.

Mayor Lewis responded to the effect that an expression from the present council would be of no value, as that was the last session of that council as a body. But that so far as he was concerned he could say he had never been approached by any proposition for franchises counter to the P. A. P.'s interests, and that as a citizen he believed that any undertaking or industry looking to the upbuilding of the county would be met more than half way by both citizens and council. He suggested the securing of an expression of opinion from the newly elected council, at the next meeting.

Mr. Smith thanked the mayor and council for the expression of good faith regarding the P. A. P. franchises, and again assured the council that the parties interested would soon be here to go into the details of the enterprise.

TIMELY SUGGESTION

Townsend Man Wants "The Wrong Side" Rightly Represented

The Townsend Call published a communication the other day which bears upon a "matter which should have the immediate attention of any body, chamber of commerce or other, which has the public interest at heart."

"Editor Call: In connection with the Lewis and Clark Centennial to be held at Portland next summer, would it not be well for the people of the "wrong side of the sound" to get together thru their chambers of commerce, mayors and other public officials and have a section of exhibits in the Washington state building to be devoted exclusively to the vast Quimper peninsula? A comprehensive exhibit of this kind, if systematically collected and properly managed, would compare favorably with any other portion of the state, and with suitable printed matter for distribution, the merits of Quimper peninsula would much the sooner become known to non-residents as a desirable section of the country for home-seekers. A united west side should show itself to the outside world as a whole. Who will step to the front, put the ball in motion, and see that it moves until the fair has closed?"

SCHOONER CAUGHT IN STORM

Sails Torn to Shreds and Six Feet of Water in Hold

The schooner John F. Miller of SanFrancisco tied up alongside the city dock Wednesday to discharge her deck load of lumber and ascertain if she be leaking. She left Mukilteo, loaded with lumber for Frisco a few days since and immediately ran into severe storms, during which half of the deck load shifted, permitting the seas to fall over in the center of the deck, as a result soon having six feet of water in the hold. This is the same ship that run out of provisions on the way up about the first of the month, owing to adverse winds, and whose crew were saved from starvation by aid from a steamer, when off the Columbia.

COURT IN SESSION THIS WEEK

But One Case of Any Importance Up for Consideration

The principal business before the Superior Court was the argument in the case of Owens vs. Union Lumber & Shingle Co. This case was tried to the Court some two weeks ago, but the argument was continued until the 27th by reason of the absence of the Judge. Messrs. Trumbull & Trumbull appeared for the plaintiff and Messrs. McClinton and McClinton for the defendant. After the argument was had the Court took the case under consideration and will render a decision on Saturday.

IS ROAD SYSTEM PRACTICAL

Effort to Ascertain Opinions of Commissioners of State Being Made

Mr. D. A. Christopher of the Board of Commissioners has had a circular letter sent out this week to every county commissioner in the state, requesting information concerning the practical working of the present road laws. The information thus received will prove of great value to the legislature, when the law comes up for consideration at the coming session. It is certainly a happy thought, for no one can speak with greater accuracy on the subject than those who have been in constant touch with it for the past two years. Especially interesting would be the opinions of the commissioners from the heavily timbered, sparsely settled counties of the Olympic peninsula.

Among the questions asked we note the following:

Is the present Road System satisfactory to the people of your county? If any part of the system is objectionable, what part is objectionable?

Do you have more work, or less, done for the money, under the present system, than under the former systems?

What effect do the ex-road supervisors of former systems have upon the popularity of the present system?

Do you desire the present road law repealed, or any part of it? If so, why do you desire it repealed?

That the advisibility of retaining the present road law, without amendment, is a very much disputed question, there can be no doubt. That it is, in the main, a good law, there can be no question. A similar law has worked wonders in many of the older states, inevitably leading to the thorough and permanent macadamizing of the main traveled roads, after their former deplorable condition had been partially remedied by heavy grading and the cutting down of steep hills. Scarcely a county in the east and middle west but that owns a portable rock crusher, bought after the first two or three years of well-directed work with road graders. The small granite boulders are crushed in the immense jaws of this machine with amazing rapidity, and these, given a top dressing of gravel, when placed on the already graded and well settled roads, gives a road bed that forever relieves the farmer from that perennial spring fever for the turning up of an already sufficiently wretched dirt road. In this county, the macadamizing stage has not yet been reached, but that the work of the past two years has been a long step in that direction any unprejudiced person will concede.

While we don't know what Mr. Christopher's views are regarding the present law, nor what the views of the other members of either the old or new board may be, still we are of the opinion that they will be found in good company if it should be that they favor the new system for the Good Roads Commission has recently gone on record for its retention.

"BURNT WOOD" WORK

Mr. Roy McClinton has on display and for sale at the R. D. Willson Hardware Co.'s store a half dozen specimens of his pyrographic work, which are attracting a great deal of attention and eliciting unlimited admiration. While Mr. McClinton has sent the finest pieces to various most fortunate relatives and friends as Christmas gifts, still these on display are perfectly executed and evince great artistic merit. It is said that the finest portrait ever made of Lincoln was drawn with a hot poker on a shingle by an artist—he knew how! And Mr. McClinton certainly knows how to draw a face—from the features of lovely woman to those of the jolly old monk.

WE TALK TOO MUCH.

Most everybody talks too much; I'm certain this is so.
I think about it more and more the older that I grow.
I talk a deal too much myself, and this is how I know.

There's quite a lot of ignorance that silence would disguise,
How very little people know you never would surmise.
If they didn't talk so much they'd be considered wise.

OPERETTA WAS A SUCCESS

Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs a Pleasing Production.

This pretty little operetta was given on Tuesday evening at the opera house for the benefit of the Episcopal Church.

The plot will be recognized as taken from the story of the same title in Grimm's Fairy Tales, and those who were so fortunate as to attend experienced again the joys of childhood as the forgotten tale was unfolded.

Mrs. Guy Richards was in charge of the production and under her skillful management all the possibilities of the plot were taken advantage of and brought out.

The principal character of the story, Princess Snow White, was taken by Mrs. N. K. Mead, and it is not saying too much that she looked and acted the part to perfection. In the last scene, where the young king makes Snow White his queen, the acting of Mrs. Mead was especially good and evidenced hard study and a thorough appreciation of the part she was portraying. Thruout, Mrs. Mead's singing was the feature of the evening and was a most pleasurable surprise to her friends.

Mr. Bown, as the Prince, gave a very intelligent rendition of his part and proved to be a very satisfactory prince.

Mr. Ritchie, as Carl, the Huntsman, was somewhat of a surprise to his friends, and demonstrated great versatility. He was an ideal huntsman and rendered his part fully in accord with the balance of the excellent program. The duet rendered by Mr. Bown and Ritchie was especially good.

The part of the wicked Queen who sought to encompass the death of Snow White was taken by Mrs. Carusi. As a queen, Mrs. Carusi was a decided success and her dignity and impressive appearance enabled her to delineate the character in a very realistic manner.

The choruses rendered by the little girls were very pretty and well rendered. In their pretty white gowns, gaily decorated with flowers, they contributed greatly to making the scene a fairy-like one.

The song, "Three Sailor Boys," by Angie Ritchie, Janette Hatch and Cecil Smith as the sailor boys, and Helen Hatch, Flavia Reid and Helen Troy as the girls, was exceedingly good and elicited great applause and an encore.

The Seven Dwarfs were seven very grotesque little figures, with their unique costumes and make-up. Masters Harold and Hugh Lutz gave evidence of great histronic ability and will undoubtedly develop into great comedians.

The musical score was all that could be desired under the skillful touch of Mrs. Richards presiding at the piano.

The opera house was well filled and a tidy sum was realized for the Church.

Alex. Ritchie is not enjoying the holidays to any great extent, having been brought home from Townsend with a severe attack of appendicfis.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Morse are going back to Nova Scotia for a visit with old friends, starting Monday.

LIPSETT BANQUETED

Angeles Elks Join the "Lonely 13" at Dungeness for a Farewell Spread

The "Lonely 13" entertained at Dungeness Wednesday evening and Thursday morning in honor of genial Ham Lipsett, who is about to take his departure from that burg and assume his duties as Chief Deputy under State Auditor Clausen.

A delegation of merry Elks from Angeles went down to participate in the festivities and lend to the brilliancy of the occasion, by their keen wit and a choice collection of stories and songs. From all reports and appearances the occasion was full of hilarity and good cheer for the jolly Elks and their friends who participated.

The following from Port Angeles were present: Exalted Ruler W. F. Delabarre, "Pete" Fisher, Morris Fisher, Frank Fisher, Sheriff Hopkins, Charlie Hirsch, F. A. Jensen and Al. Filion.

Mr. Lipsett will hereafter reside at Olympia. His prominence in social and fraternal, as well as political circles, will make his presence missed in Clallam county and when his term of office expires, or Ham gets tired of working for the State, he can rest assured of a warm welcome back to Clallam county.

Santa Claus was a little late in arriving at the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Butler this year, which may be accounted for by the important character of the Christmas gift he was bringing, viz: a ten pound boy. Judging by the width of the smile that the Doc. carries, he holds no grudge against Santa. Mother and child doing well.

A banquet, speeches and musical program will be given by the Grand Army and Relief Corps this evening, in honor of a visit from Commander F. M. Davis, President Mrs. F. M. Davis and Adj. Gen. W. L. Ames and Mrs. Ames. Rev. W. H. Whelan will deliver the address of welcome.

Get your dinner today at the room opposite the Commercial hotel. The ladies of the Catholic Church have prepared a novel an appetizing meal. 25c is the price.

STATE ROAD ASS'N

Secretary Meikle Advocates a System of Macadamized Inter-State Roads

At a meeting of the Oregon Good Roads Ass'n at Salem recently, resolutions were adopted favoring a law empowering the county officials to regulate traffic on county highways so that roads shall not be ruined by heavy loads being hauled on narrow tired wagons.

Secretary Meikle of the Washington Ass'n delivered the closing address — an appeal for concerted action looking to the construction of permanent macadamized roads, the first of which, as a main trunk line, he would construct across western Washington from British Columbia to California — a great trunk line which would open up the resources of a country which is an empire within itself. In order to accomplish such a great undertaking, aid must be obtained from the state legislatures creating a state highway commission; authorizing the counties to issue bonds upon vote of the people, to aid in constructing the main roads, and authorizing the property owners of certain sections to organize local improvement districts and issue bonds for road construction, to be paid by special improvement tax upon the lands directly benefitted. He would have the state, county and district each stand a third of the yearly expense of construction, after the example set by New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts. By unity of action and unselfish, broad-minded work with an eye single to the attainment of the one great end; by having the essential laws passed in both states, and by investing more power with the commissioners, it would be possible, by constructing a portion of the road each year, to complete it in three to five years.

ASKS FOR SOIL SURVEY

The Everett chamber of commerce has petitioned the department of agriculture for an official survey and map of soils in Snohomish county. The object of the work is to give prospective homeseekers official and accurate information about the fertility of the lands. Surveying the soils is a new feature of the department. The work has been in practical operation only a few years, but it has resulted in some wonderful transformations in the field of agriculture. In former years the old system farmers have cultivated whole sections without profit; they did not succeed because their energies were directed in the wrong field. They attempted to produce that for which the soil and climate were not naturally adapted.

The soil survey was carried on last year in sixty-three states, by an average of twenty crews of experts. 30,000 square miles were surveyed. The total area so far surveyed is about 75,000 square miles. There are reported applications on file sufficient to keep the entire force at work for the next two years.

MINNESOTA OF NEW YORK

The big steamer Minnesota arrived at Seattle last Friday evening and tied up alongside the water front, extending across the end of three wharves. About twenty thousand visitors were shown over the ship during the following days. The enormous cargo for the first trip is nearly all booked, and consists largely of flour, provisions and machinery; a number of passengers are also awaiting her departure, on January 21st, for the Orient. Her average speed around the Horn has been eleven and three-fourths knots; her trial speed was seventeen knots.

From the lettering on her stern it appears that the Minnesota is registered at New York, the navigation laws requiring the home port to be so shown. Thus Seattle loses the glory she had taken unto herself as being the "one and only" home port.

The length of the Minnesota is 630 feet, 190 feet longer than the battleship Nebraska. Built at New London, Conn., and launched in April, '03. Carries 2,000 persons, including 250 cabin, 68 intermediate, 1,500 steerage, and a crew of 250.

Attorney General Moody, for the United States, filed a petition in the United States district court at St. Paul, Tuesday, making the paper trust, known as the General Paper Company, the general defendant. The petition alleges that in consequence of the combination of the mills of the entire country all competition has been restricted and the price of all paper products greatly increased, even to fifty per cent on news paper. The action is brought under the trust law.

The Citizens' Club of Chehalis, Lewis county, has devised ways and means to raise the funds necessary to make a creditable exhibit at the centennial fair at Portland. The Chehalis business men are heartily in favor of the state making a very creditable exhibit at the exposition, and a resolution was passed urging Governor-elect Mead to recommend to the coming session of the legislature the appropriation of ample funds for the purpose.

Before a congregation of nearly 5,000 persons, Dowie declared that the assets of Zion were $30,000,000, and of this sum $21,000,000 was Zion City. He said that the total indebtedness was less than $500,000 and most of that was to members of the church.

The federal grand jury at Portland returned, on the 27th, seven indictments for land frauds. The mayor of Albany, a former forest superintendent, and a one-time government agent, are included in the list.

APPLES FOR CENTENNIAL

Displays of Fruit Now Being Arranged For.

Western states will show eastern visitors to the Lewis and Clark centennial that the Oregon country and California can produce apples equal to any grown elsewhere. The people of Michigan and New York, who come to the western world's fair, are likely to be especially surprised when they see the wonderful displays of apples on exhibition.

The Oregon state commission has for some months been preparing an apple display, and a large assortment of the fruit has already been placed in cold storage.

Recently, California has seen the advantage of advertising the state at the fair by an apple display and the state board of trade has sent communications to every apple-growing county in the state, addressing growers and local organizations that are in a position to help exploit their resources in this way.

Washington apple growers are likewise taking a keen interest in the fair, and Governor McBride has been approached with a proposition to have the state pay for the collection and storage of an apple exhibit. If the state funds should not provide for meeting this expense, there is no question but that individual growers and local organizations will take up the task and prospects are bright for an exhibit that will rival those of the states better known for their resources along this line.

SCHOOL PUPILS' TREAT

Teachers Close Term With Christmas Exercises

The Lincoln Heights school celebrated Christmas in a delightful manner Wednesday. The parents of the children all donated liberally towards buying refreshments and also showed their interest by all turning out to attend the excellent program prepared by the pupils. The exercises were given up stairs, at the close of which all repaired to the lower room where the little ones were greeted with a great surprise in the nature of a beautiful tree, which was loaded with pretty things, the work of pupils and interested parents. Each child received a stocking full of popcorn, nuts and candy; cakes and apples were served, and a jolly time enjoyed by all. Miss Babcock and Mr. Bown, the teachers, are certainly to be congratulated on the success of their entertainment. The Patron's Club are taking a great interest in Lincoln Heights school and are raising a fund to build a fence and beautify the grounds.

On the closing day, Wednesday, of the public schools, the primary room, under Miss Fields' care, and the fifth grade, Miss Palmer, teacher, each had a Christmas tree and program which was immensely enjoyed by the youngsters. Miss Palmer remembered each child with a pretty Christmas card, and other little gifts were exchanged by the children, so that each one had a present of some kind, besides candy and popcorn and a general good time.
