PORT ANGELES AND COUNTY

Natural Resources Make Clallam County an Empire Within Itself.

It is universally conceded that the State of Washington has within its boundaries all the elements—fertile agricultural lands, lumber, coal, iron, minerals, fisheries, water power, etc.—requisite to place it with the foremost in the sisterhood of states. Nature's bounteous offerings for wealth production are each year attracting wider notice. Past promises of its greatness have been more than realized and the future is constantly brightening with its ever broadening development. Washington stands second to none among the states in its phenomenal growth in material wealth and population.

The power of man alone cannot create a prosperous state or county. The foundation must first have been laid by the processes of primeval creation. It was not by accident nor by commercial genius and American aggressiveness that New York and Chicago became the leading cities of this country; that their states are peopled with seven and five millions of as prosperous inhabitants as can be found on the globe. Were it a matter of productive soil and human enterprise New York City could have been founded at Albany and Chicago on the prairies of Minnesota. There will never be an Illinois nor a New York realized by any interior state. Such results cannot be developed unless all the essentials of paramount greatness are present.

No commonwealth in the American continent, except New York and Illinois, can match Washington is meeting all the requirements that go to make an Empire State. Here, as in New York, nature was generous in planning the requisites for a state of widely diversified and splendid resources, and the foundation for vast industries and a supendous commerce.

Of its counties, Clallam, by reason of its greatly varied natural resources, is easily typical of the whole state. Its valley lands are productive almost beyond belief; its bench lands grow the finest grasses in the world making its future as a dairy region beyond question; its fruits are a never ending source of wonder even to its own people; in standing timber it leads the state; coal, iron and minerals are known to exist in paying deposits awaiting development; it has the finest and largest deposit of building stone on the coast; there are vast deposits of cement, and of sand for the making of glass; the halibut, salmon, and other fish caught off its shores yield a goodly revenue, and its rivers can furnish almost unlimited power for railroads and manufacturing.

The presence of water power alone, whether direct or transmitted by wire, has built up many of the large cities of our country—Minneapolis and Spokane are notable examples.

Speaking of natural resources and the many opportunities for development of water power, a few facts concerning the Elwha river, which empties into the straits three miles west of Port Angeles, may be of interest. I quote from Wm. J. Ware, the resident hydrographer:

"The grandest river of its size in Washington, beautiful, clear as crystal, rushing down from the snow-capped peaks of the majestic Olympics, through gorges, over cataracts, through and among immense boulders, cool and pure and powerful, containing the energy of thousands upon thousands of horse power, it carries along upon its crest the mighty monarch of the forest as easily as it does the tiny Indian canoe. The Elwha, sublime in its majestic and awe inspiring scenery, is destined to become a mighty power for good in the hands of ingenious humanity, for the present and future generations.

"It pours into the straits over 5,000,000,000 cubic feet of water per year, enough to cover 1,000,000 acres a foot deep, the weight of which would be 1,500,000,000 tons. If one could collect a royalty of one mill per ton, his annual income would be $1,500,000. Its yearly discharge would make a continuous stream one foot square and 8,500,000 miles long; it would make a belt around the world one foot deep and 344 feet wide. The discharge will average about 125,000,000 cubic feet per day.

Quoting from the United States Geological Survey: "This river rises on the southwestern slope of Mount Olympus and is the largest stream flowing into the straits or sound from the Olympics. It is a tortuous and turbulent stream, winding between high and precipitous mountains, cutting its way through rocky ridges and forming deep and narrow canyons. At its head are a number of large open plateaus containing thousands of acres of land covered with a luxuriant growth of grass and affording an excellent range and abundant grazing for cattle and sheep for about eight months of the year. Only elk, deer, and other wild animals in vast numbers inhabit the country. The difference in volume of water is not so great as in other sections of the country, for while rain is falling along the coast during the winter months snow is being stored in the mountains, which, gradually melting in the dry season, gives a regular supply.

On Elwha river are a number of water powers as yet undeveloped, which are capable of producing a maximum power of 25,000 horse power each. The one of most value is at Aldwell's canyon, five miles from Port Angeles where the canyon is from thirty to sixty feet wide, one hundred feet deep and one-qnarter of a mile long, being a solid lime and slate rock and nearly perpendicular. An estimate of the cost of installing a power plant at this point shows that a dam thirty feet high developing 1,000 horse power, would cost $47,000; one 130 feet high, costing $250,000, would develop 10,000 horse power, and it would be possible to build one 200 feet high, giving 25,000 horse power."

WHERE THE FAULT LIES

From Port Townsend Call.

"The Call has long mantained that heretofore advertising of the Pacific northwest has been devoted too much to descriptions of the cities, and not enough to the possibilities of the agricultural sections. Settle up the country with consumers of manufactured products and there will be a demand for factories. While it is advisable to put forward the advantages a city may have for manufacturing establishments, the advantages must be real, and not imaginary, and details must be so thoroughly given that a man seeking location for manufacturing can see certain profit in his venture before making it. Where is the man who can do this? It must be shown that the cost of raw material, wage, power, insurances, and taxes on his plant are all lower than where he is situated, with a better market for his products.

But it is an easy matter to show where the tiller of the soil gains by coming here. Then settle up the country, and manufacturers are sure to follow.

In line of this reasoning is an article in the Port Angeles Olympic-Leader, a part of which we quote."

"FEW CAN GRASP THE SITUATION."

The state dairy instructor advises the farmers of Jefferson and Clallam counties to engage more extensively in dairying. He has made a tour of the district and reports the natural conditions for that class of farming perfectly ideal. There are thousands of acres of logged-off lands that can be purchased at reasonable prices. The soil and climate present the best locations for successful home dairies. A world of opportunities is open to the homeseeker who desire to establish farms and supply the market with their products.

Figures from the bureau of statistics show that the dairy industry is one of great commercial importance in this state. It is really in its infancy. There are 387 creameries with an output of 7,500,000 pounds of butter yearly; thirty-four cheese factories, having an output of 500,000 pounds. They cannot supply the demand.

The possibilities of dairying are so great that few can grasp the situation. The markets are expanding with every season. On every hand there is a call for more of the products and by-products of the dairy farms.

The income is certain and the profits large. A well managed dairy farm can pay its debts and keep money in the bank. That has been demonstrated in scores of cases where the owners formerly failed at other occupations. When the land produces abundantly and the seasons are perfect, there is no reason why every active dairy farmer should not be financially independent.—P. I.

An answer has been filed in the suit brought by G. M. Lauridsen against D. A. Christopher, of the Board of Commissioners, and date of trial will doubtless be arranged tomorrow. The trouble, it will be remembered, arose over one of the county's warrants, and damages of something like $10,000 were alleged. The case has lain dormant for about two years, awaiting further action by the plaintiff. It promises to furnish considerable interesting reading in the way of records and comment thereon later on.

The prize ball to be given by the Pacific Store Co., at the opera house on Saturday evening, Nov. 11th, is a capital idea, and will give the "boys", and ladies too, something to think and talk about. Talk to your neighbor about it, and go prepared to win one of the prizes.

Civic Club Asks Members of Council to Superintend Work on Walks.

At the meeting of the Civic Club on Tuesday, which was called for the purpose of discussing the best method of procedure in regard to the Side-walk proposition, the Secretary was instructed to send to the City Council the following petitions.

First—That the City give to the Civic Club of Port Angeles for Side-walk Day three thousand feet of lumber and nails to be used that day in repairing.

Second—That the Civic Club would respectfully solicit the co-operation of the Council, and would request that the Councilmen of each ward would each act as chairman of a committee to be made up of residents of the ward, and that committees thus formed should decide and designate each for their own ward what work should be done, where it should be done, and should superintend the work on Side-walk day, and that this committee should favor the Civic Club with a report on Tuesday next, in the afternoon, at their regular meeting, in order that the Club may be able to act accordingly.

HANNIBAL HOMAN'S WEDDING

Olympic Reporter Takes in Wedding Festivities.

"It is not good for man to be alone."

Acting on the principle promulgated in the above maxim, and, ignoring the heresies of George Meredith, our esteemed fellow citizen, Hannibal Homan, of Ninth and Laurel, was married on the 18th inst. to Mrs. Roderick McAuley, of Victoria, B. C., at the Catholic church, in this city, in ths presence of a large concourse. After the ceremony, the happy couple repaired to the home of the groom where a wedding breakfast was spread in true Baronial style, and where during the day and evening, friends to the amount of about 100 called to offer congratulations, and, incidentally, to partake of the good things, which were, lavishly, provided for all. The festivities closed with music, and

"Sure an Opera, or Ball,
Was nothin' at all,
Compared to the style of

and the stars were paling when the last of the guests left the happy couple in the enjoyment of their own home.

The largest block and the most perfect stone yet taken out at the quarry was blasted the first of the week. It measured 10 by 15 by 21 feet and weighed 245 tons. The ledge is in such shape now that there is practically no limit to the size of rock obtainable, and it would not be difficult to get one weighing a thousand tons. The quarry is running full time on the North Yakima court house contract, three car loads being ready for shipment.

McFarland, was drowned in the river at Millville, near Stanwood, October 25. The body has not yet been recovered, and no particulars are at hand as to how the accident happened. TO OUR CITIZENS

Recognizing the fact that the side-walks of Port Angeles are in a most deplorable and dangerous condition, thereby constituting a grave menance to the public safety, and also realizing the fact that, owing to the present financial condition of our city, it is impossible, at the present time, for the city to remedy the matter by proceeding thro the proper channels, as proscribed by law; we, the ladies of the Civic Club, have called a "Side-walk Day" for Nov. 3, 1905, for the purpose of repairing the side-walks of the city, as a matter of necessary protection to life and limb for the coming winter.

The ladies of the Civic Club would also earnestly solicit the hearty co-operation and assistance of the loyal citizens of Port Angeles in this work; and especially would we request that the Booster's Club give us their support, and join with us in our endeavor to make the Side-walks Day a success.

TURN THE CAN AROUND

and you will learn what is the "power behind the dough." In the high-class powders it is cream of tartar, extracted from clean, delicious grapes, and that is healthful. In the low-grade powders it is "phosphate alum," or "sodium aluminum sulphate," which is also alum, a mineral acid, and that makes the food unhealthful.

Of what use are twenty-five ounces for twenty-five cents, if eight of these ounces are alum?

Food baked with alum baking powders is found to contain a portion of the alum unchanged!

The continued use of alum made food impairs digestion, causing dyspepsia. When buying baking powder, examine the label and take only a brand whose label shows it to be free from alum.

Communication from P. J. Woods asking privilege to construct a flume along Valley St., for purpose of bringing wood from timber secured by him into the city was referred to street committee. Mr. Wood states that there are no roads leading to his tract of old growth fir, that proposed flume to First St. would not interfere with travel or obstruct creek, that as wood now has to be hauled three miles it is expensive and he would furnish it at lower prices and that he would extend flume to power house if desired and supply wood at a cost not otherwise to be obtained. He asks for a two years franchise.

Mrs. J. C. Roberts' request for crossing adjacent to her property was granted.

Claims allowed: D. O'Brien, wood, $51.75; C. Wise and men, streets, $19.60.

EXIT THE BARON

"There's no use holding out any longer. I am the man you want. I took a long chance and have lost. Now I'm ready to take my medicine."

Thus spoke "Baron" Martin von Schlosser at the county jail in Seattle last Tuesday evening to the detectives of that city a few minutes before the detectives of Detroit arrived at the jail to take the prisoner to the depot on their way to the scene of his alleged crime. And then the "Baron" broke down and wept bitterly, but his confession seemed to lift a heavy load from him and afterwards he appeared to be more cheerful.

The prisoner declined to talk further or to give his past history. He admitted that he is not a German Baron and that he had been known under various names.

Some Seasonable Advice.

It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before the winter is over, and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. For sale by W. J. Mathewson.

CLALLAM BAY

Insomnia and Indigestion Cured.

"Last year I had a very severe attack of indigestion. I could not sleep at night and suffered most excruciating pains for three hours after each meal. I was troubled this way for about three months when I used Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and received immediate relief," says John Dixon, Tullamore, Ontario, Canada. For sale by W. J.
