CHRISTMAS FESTIVITIES

Yule-Tide Observed in Pleasing Manner by the Various Sunday Schools.

BAPTIST CHURCH.

The young people of the Baptist church were treated to a full rigged ship to take the place of the usual tree, and under the handiwork of Ed Elliott and pastor Whelan she was made a thing of beauty. Capt. Call lighted her up with electric lights, and Mr. Bork painted her; and the whole body of visitors pronounced her beautiful. Friends of the First Baptist Church in Seattle, and the firm of Rhodes Bros. of Tacoma, donated toys, and every child in the city, who did not belong to a local Sunday school, received presents of candy, fruit and nuts, and a gift of books or toys.

Mrs. Nellie Engesser trained the classes in all they did. The result in excellent work showed how painstaking and comprehensive her task was. All the numbers were good; some excellent. It was voted "the best time of all." The ship was named "Glad Tidings" and was commanded by Capt. Charlie Beam; First Officer, Clarence Johnson; Second Officer, Lee Mitchell.

METHODIST CHURCH.

The Christmas exercises at the First M. E. Church, under the leadership of Superintendent Caldwell, assisted by his special committee (if current comment means well) were even better than was expected. The Christmas tree was given due prominence on Saturday evening, and its meaning beautifully emphasized by the children in their readings.

Sunday morning following Sabbath school, in which was reviewed the Christmas lesson, the pastor spoke from the Announcement: Luke 2:14. A program entitled "All Hail the Messiah," was rendered, consisting of Scripture readings, songs and recitations; a specially drilled choir led the singing and in all these services our orchestra led on effectually.

What a review this Christmas-tide! We were all young again. We heard Christmas anthems of long ago. We opened again the boxes prepared by father and mother, before going to their long home, to await our coming. We understand now their one time joy in giving. The true Christian spirit is upon us. "Good will toward men." May it abide with us while we count off the days of the new calander, that shall bring us to the next mile stone one year hence. GRAHAM.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

St. Andrews Episcopal Sunday School held their Christmas celebration last Wednesday evening in Haning Hall. The hall was filled and Christmas cheer and good will was in the hearts of all present. A beautiful tree, artistically decorated and heavily laden with presents, greeted the eyes of the children and their parents and friends as they came into the hall; this was an especial object of attraction for the litte ones whose upturned faces were all eager anticipation. A short impromptu program was beautifully rendered by the children: those taking part were: Maude Hirsch, Margaret Delabarre, Addie Smith, Mabel Griggs, Verna Wolverton, Margaret Cross, Athelene Fisher, Angeline Ritchie, Helen Troy, Marion Carrigan and Jack Cross. Following the program came the distribution of presents, when anticipation was changed to delight. Beside the regular gifts to all the scholars of the school, a package of candy, a book and a toy, several special gifts were awarded for the best attendance at Sunday School during the past year, the following receiving them: Lorna Smith, Addie Smith, James Cross, Jack Cross. After a delightful time the children went home, made happy through the efforts of the teachers of the school and their helpers, Mrs. Herbert Babcock being the one most in evidence Wednesday evening.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

The Christmas exercises given by the Congregational Sunday School were well attended, the church building being packed to the doors with people drawn by the undying charm of that ever young, ever beautiful festival of the Christ-child.

The interior of the church was beautifully decorated by the ladies of the church superintended by Mrs. Brophy. The decorations consisted of festoons and wreaths of evergreens, clusters of ferns and holly branches, arranged in a most artistic manner, all crowned by a great bell of holly suspended from the ceiling. To the left stood a magnificent Christmas tree laden with gifts for the little ones, commemorative of the gifts brought by the Wise men of the East to the Christ-child nineteen hundred years ago; while, to the East, over the tree shone the star that led them on their way.

The exercises opened with the hymn, "Joy to the World," Scripture reading and prayer by Rev. Edwards, followed by a Christmas carol by the school.

The following program was then rendered.

Recitation. "The Shepherd's Christmas,".....Hazel Morse
Recitation. "Under the Holly Boughs," Lucile Foster.
Recitation. .....Lola Welter
Song. .....Evelyn Gasser
Recitation. .....Aldridge Monroe

CANTATA.—"IN SEARCH OF THE KING."

In the Cantata the three Wise Men were represented by Paul Farmer, Duanne Allen, and George Nestle. The Spirits of Christmas by Ruth Hogan and Beatrice Allen; and the Shepherd's children by Lucile Foster, Marie Allen, Bessie Fowler, Hattie Nestle, Ione Monroe, and Kema Monroe.

Mrs. Farmer presided at the organ.

The Cantata was rendered in a most pleasing and effective manner, reflecting much credit on all who took part in it; the Wise Men of the East were especially good.

Next followed the distribution of the presents, this part of the program was inaugurated by a few happy remarks from Rev. Mr. Edwards.

To Mrs. John Trumbull, who kindly took charge and drilled the children for the cantata, is much credit due for the perfect arrangements in every detail.

Rev. Mr. Edwards made a short but very interesting talk to the children; it was listened to with great interest by the grown-ups as well. He said in part, that the question is very often asked by the children, "Is there really a Santa Claus?" He answered that by saying that as long as they believed in a Santa Claus there was really a Santa Claus for them. When they ceased to believe in a Santa Claus, why then Santa Claus ceased to exist for them.

We could not help but think that this is true of a great many other questions that we ask between childhood and mature years, and it is not always a joy to have the illusions of our childhood dispelled. Thomas Hood in one of his poems beautifully laments this distruction of childhood fancies:

"I remember, I remember, the fir trees dark and high,
I used to think their slender tops were close against the sky.
It was a childish fancy then, but now 'tis little joy
To know I'm farther off from heaven than when I was a boy."

LUTHERAN.

Christmas observances at the German Lutheran church were postponed until this (Friday) evening, in order that Rev. Drahn might be present. The customary exercises will be held and the little folks made happy.

Grip QuicKly Knocked Out.

"Some weeks ago during the severe winter weather both my wife and myself contracted severe colds which speedily developed into the worst kind of la grippe with all its miserable symptoms," says Mr. J. S. Egleston of Maple Landing, Iowa. "Knees and joints aching, muscles sore, head stopped up, eyes and nose running, with alternate spells of chills and fever. We began using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, aiding the same with a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and by its liberal use soon completely knocked out the grip." These tablets promote a healthy action of the bowels, liver and kidneys which is always beneficial when the system is congested by a cold or attack of the grip. For sale by W. J. Mathewson.

PORT ANGELES, Dec. 24, 1905.

Ed. Olympic-Leader:—The People of Port Angeles having turned down the Heermans proposition for building water works, it now stands us in hand to try and devise some plan to secure a necessary supply of pure water. I, for one, believe the city should own and operate its own plant. Of course there are those who will argue we cannot do so on account of present indebtedness, and lack of money to work with. I want to say that Seattle was just in our condition when they built their water works; but Seattle had a persistent engineer, who was backed by a persistent number of citizens; and I tell you they had no easy task before them, having to fight their ground inch by inch to get the people to see the advantages of city ownership. They finally succeeded, and there is no doubt but that they are proud of their water works. The superior Judge was opposed to it, and he was at last won over to the proposition, when they had almost given up hope of getting it, for lack of funds, and the opposition. The Engineer, in a paper published in Spokane, read how the Supreme Court of the State had made a ruling that any city in Washington could build, or have built, a water system and give a lien upon the plant until it was paid for, with interest, etc., out of the gross earnings of the plant; and no other fund of the city would be liable for this indebtedness. If I remember correctly, Seattle paid 75 per cent of the gross income on investment, annally, until debt was paid, reserving 25 per cent for running expenses.

Now, as our chances of getting a railroad seems sure, and our population will double in a few years, it seems to me we ought not to have much trouble in raising the necessary funds with which to build, or have someone build for us. Let us own our own plant as soon as possible. The plant would undoubtedly pay for itself within a few years—it will belong to the city—and in a few years more it will be a paying investment for the city.

In 1800 there were sixteen public water works plants in the United States, all privately built and owned, excepting one at Winchester, Va. Fourteen of these private plants have since become public. Of the fifty largest cities in this country, twenty-one originally built and now own their water works plants. Twenty have changed from private to public ownership, and only nine depend upon private capital for their water systems. The peculiarity in these changes lies in the fact that they are practically all one way.

Those who have tried the public ownership system would no more consent to a change than they would think of handing the post office system over to a private corporation.

In this connection, just to show the trend of public opinion, I would call attention to the fact that at Zurich, Switzerland, the government assesses the people one hundred thousand dollars a year with which to pay the doctor's bills. The gov't hires forty doctors at a salary of $2,500 each, at a cost to the people of eight cents each per year for medicine and medical attendance. The physicians are required to give their entire time to the public.

Yours,
PRO BONO PUBLICO.

TO PUNISH OFFENDERS.

Empress Takes Action in Matter of Shanghai Riots.

Peking, Dec. 22.—The dowager empress has issued an edict commanding the viceroy of Chili province, Yuan Shi Kai, commander of the Chinese army, to proceed to Shanghai, investigate the disturbances, secure the punishment of those implicated and impeach the civil and military officials repsonsible for the maintenance of order.

The scucess of the bocyott in securing concessions in the new treaty from the American government undoubtedly encouraged the Chinese to engage in the recent demonstrations.

The Chino-Japanese treaty will be signed tomorrow. The utmost secrecy is maintained regarding the agreement. The foreign legations and Chinese officials are ignorant of the terms.

Say Order Is Restored.

Shanghai, Dec. 22.—Order has been restored here. The viceroy yesterday settled the mixed court dispute, and the court has reopened. American, British, German, Italian and Japanese sailors are guarding the foreign concessions and mounted volunteers are patrolling the roads outside the city. An attack on the waterworks yesterday was repulsed.

Eliot on Child Slavery.

New York, Dec. 27.—President Eliot, speaking before the Society for Ethical Culture, said, among other things: "A new kind of slavery which has grown up in the last few years is the employment of young children in Southern mills, where there are 30,000 under the age of 14 working from 10 to 14 hours a day, besides being compelled to work alternate nights. Four or five years ago there were only 14,000. There are also 8,000 children working in and about mines, and thousands employed in clothes factories, when they should be at home, and this terrible slavery is spreading."

FIERCE FIGHTING IN MOSCOW STREETS

Five Thousand Dead and Fourteen Thousand Wounded--Revolutionary Government Proclaimed, and Thousands Call for Arms.

Moscow, Dec. 26.—It is estimated at this hour that the casualties during Monday's fighting will reach 5,000 killed and 14,000 wounded.

A fierce conflict is still raging throughout the city and hardly a building remains that is not bullet scarred or marked by shells.

Horrors such as eclipse anything ever known during the Paris reign of terror, are being enacted in every quarter of the city.

A few hours ago a revolutionary government was again proclaimed and a proclamation scattered broadcast calling upon all citizens to rally around the revolutionary' command and compel the soldiers to retire from the city.

Days of Commune Repeated.

The result was electrical. Thousands of persons who heretofore remained in their homes flocked to the places of rendezvous and demanded that they be supplied with arms and ammunition to help their brothers win the "fight for life."

The days of the commune simply are intensified in these early years of the twentieth century, and now it seems certain the troops will be unable to quell the rioting.

During the last five hours there have been 1,000 buildings destroyed by fire. They were mostly structures occupied or owned by loyalists and the fires have been set by the revolutionary party, who kept the firemen from interfering.

Shortly after sunset last night a detachment of insurgents swarmed down on the railway storehouse in which the troops were. Cossacks were stationed there to guard the structure, but most of them were shot down or stabbed by the frenzied revolutionists, who drove the guards from the scene and carried away everything portable within the building.

The "murder" of the revolutionists who were ambushed beside the walls of the government ammunition factories early on Monday morning has wrought the anti-monarchical residents to such a pitch that they do not care what happens to them.

Bombs are being used to an extent not heretofore dreamed of.

Men carrying explosives of great power approach the ranks of the soldiers and throw their missiles right in the faces of officers and men. The men throw up their arms and die, their bodies pierced by many shots, but happy in the hope that they have killed some of those responsible for the "murder" of their comrades.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 26.—Communication with Moscow was interrupted just before midnight, and it appears, according to the officials of the telegraph companiés, that the wire either has been cut on the outskirts of the city, or that the stations in the city, or that the stations in the city have been burned. At that time fighting was in progress in every section of the city, and everything indicated that the last supreme struggle between the revolutionists and the troops was on.

Odessa, Dec. 26.—Russian soldiery is unable to overcome the dauntless spirit of the Moscow townspeople, and despite superior arms, enormous advantage in military training and complete supply of all warlike applications, the troops are hardly holding their own. Fighting is now going on in every section of the city and the dead number hundreds—some reports say thousands—and the end is not in sight.

Terrible slaughter of the revolutionaries took place Sunday night and early Monday, when the terrorists attempted to capture the enormous ammunition factories held by the soldiers.

By order of Gen. Mistchenko, the famous Cossack chieftain, who is now in command of the garrison, the artillery was instructed to mount rapid-fire guns at every window and on the roof, so that they would command all avenues of approach to the storehouses. Order was given that these rapid-firers should not be unmasked until the people actually began breaking into the structure.

The result was that mobs packed the open street in front when the signal was given to fire. Immediately as one, all the wooden shutters fell back and withering volleys poured into the crowds, while the guns on the roofs were turned on the crowd that had been unable to get into the immediate vicinity.

Defeat Soon Forgotten.

The crowd was stunned for a moment, and turned to flee, but the firing kept up and simultaneously there issued from places of concealment whole troops of the Cossacks, who, using carbine and sword, swept through the panic-stricken crowds, killing all whom they could reach.

Inside half an hour the people dispersed and declared fully two thousand were killed outright and five times as many wounded. These reports, however, are mostly conjecture, as it has been impossible to secure any accurate details.

This sanguinary defeat, while it had the effect of dampening the spirits of the revolutionists for a time, was soon forgotten, and by noon Monday fighting was renewed along the boulevards and cross streets in the center of the city.

A force of Cossacks attacked a schoolhouse where the leaders of the revolutionists were reported to be in hiding, but were driven back with great loss by a company of former reservists who have joined in the movement for the establishment of a provisional government, and who have been detailed specially as a guard for the leaders.

Reinforcements came up and at the end of an hour the losses were considerable on both sides, when the revolutionaries retired slowly, carrying their dead and wounded with them.

Peasants Join Revolt.

Thousands of peasants from surrounding districts are swarming into the city and they are being pressed into service in attacking the troops. The need of the revolutionaries is arms and ammunition, as their stock is not great, but it is reported that large supplies have been smuggled across the border and soon will be available. Meanwhile new recruits are being armed with home-made weapons and small bombs, which are being used with terrible effect against the Cossacks.

It is freely admitted that the infantry and artillery would refuse to fire on the people were it not that they too are in great fear of the mounted riders, who fear nothing and obey the orders of their commanding officers blindly. Scenes within the city, according to a report just received, are absolutely indescribable. Dead bodies are lying all over the streets, attempts to remove them having failed. There is a scarcity of food and medical supplies

A large number of buildings have been destroyed by fire and in every instance either the troops or the mobs kept the firemen from attempting to check the flames.

It is freely prophesied that unless either the troops or the revolutionaries gain the upper hand within forty-eight hours, a large portion of the city will be laid in waste by flames.

APPLES OF WASHINGTON.

James J. Hill Presents Perfect Fruit to Friends.

St. Paul, Dec. 22.—Selected boxes of apples from the best orchards in Washington have been sent as Christmas gifts by James J. Hill to a number of leading men of this country, titled heads of Europe, and even rulers of the Orient.

Mr. Hill has made a selection of several boxes of apples, each apple of which is as perfectly formed as it is possible for an apple to be, large and juicy, and one which will against all competitors uphold the fame of the Coast state as an apple producer. Each apple is elaborately packed.

Many boxes were shipped last week to friends of Mr. Hill, who desires to show what can be done in the way of apple raising in the state of Washington.

MILLIONS TO BE SPENT IN RAILROAD IMPROVEMENT

New York, Dec. 27.—According to the Wall Street Journal railway extensions and improvements now under way in this country will cost $333,000,000, while those in contemplation amount to $454,000,000. These figures do not make allowance for any new transcontinental road except those built or under construction. Any allowance for prospective transcontinentals would swell the total to the billion mark.

The roads enumerated in the table are the following:

Milwaukee, Rock Island, Santa Fe, Burlington, Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Northwestern, Western Pacific, Gould roads, San Pedro, Denver, Northwestern & Pacific, Colorado Southern, Illinois Central and Soo line.

Advocates Wage Reduction.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 22.—President A. L. Faulkner, of the Amalgamated Window Glass Workers of America, has issued a special letter to the members of the organization advocating that a redcution in wages be accepted in order to prevent disaster to all who are not interested in machine made product.

ORIENTAL EXPORTS DOUBLE.

Figures Given Out by Bureau of Statistics.

Washington, Dec. 27.—No feature of the export trade of the United States for 1905 has shown a larger growth than the trade with China and Japan, according to a bulletin issued by the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor.

In the ten months ended with October the exports to China aggregated more than $50,000,000 in value, against $20,000,000 in the same months of 1904. Exports to Japan were $46,509,000, against a little less than $22,000,000 for the same period in 1904 and $13,000,000 in the corresponding months in 1903.

No other country of the world to which our exports are sent shows gains approximating those of China and Japan.

The growth in exports to China is especially marked in copper, cotton cloth, flour, sewing machines, locomotives, paper, canned beef, manufactures of tobacco and lumber, though copper and cotton cloth are by far the most important of these items.

To Japan the growth occurred in flour, carriages and other vehicles, raw cotton, agricultural machinery, sewing machines, locomotives, leather, paper, canned beef, tobacco and lumber.

Flour is about the only important article of export to China showing any material reduction this year, while manufactured tobacco shows a material increase.

NICHOLAS IS ADVISED TO GET OUT OF RUSSIA

St. Petersburg, Dec. 26.—There is a persistent rumor in circulation here, a well known revolutionary leader being authority for the same, that the czar has been warned to leave Russia. This communication was sent to the ruler in three different ways in order to guarantee it reaching him.

The czar was notified that the limit of patience had been exhausted and that he had ceased to be ruler of Russia, save in name only. The czar was advised for his own sake as well as for his family, to leave the country at once.

The communication to the cazr is also said to have stated:

"We do not want to harm any member of the imperial family, but we will not be responsible for their safety in the present critical time."

The emperor, who has been unnerved over the events of the last few weeks, had looked to Count Witte as the one man able to keep the people loyal. Now that Witte has failed to prevent the strike, the czar is inclined to blame him for the present crisis.

A stormy scene occurred when the premier replied to the czar:

"Your majesty, I cannot save this dynasty. I am afraid I cannot save the people."

The czar is also greatly influenced by the grand dukes, especially Vladimir, who is said to demand a stronger reactionary policy.

TO TEST CORPORATION RIGHTS.

Courts to Decide Whether They Must Answer Incriminating Questions.

Washington, Dec. 27.—Upon the suggestion of President Roosevelt, the right of a corporation to refuse to testify on the constitutional ground that it cannot be forced to incriminate itself, is to be tested by the government. The department of justice is understood to have in preparation cases that are aimed to thoroughly determine the rights and immunity of corporations.

The decision will be of the utmost importance, for if it is held that a corporation is not entitled to the immunity granted an individual, the legal pathway of the government in its gigantic fight against trusts will be cleared of an obstacle that has hindered and often prevented a trial in court.

WORKS BOTH WAYS.

Property May Be Both Damaged and Benefitted in Law.

Olympia, Dec. 22.—A decision has been rendered by the supreme court in the case of C. B. Smith against the city of Seattle. Judgment for the city was affirmed. The plaintiff had property within the Pike and East Pike improvement district and was allowed $50 damages to his property for the regrade and then assessed $345.67 for the cost of the improvement. He contended that if the property was damaged he could not be taxed for benetfis, but the supreme corut holds against him.

Teachers of Languages Meet.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 22.—The annual meeting of the central division of the Modern Language Association of America is to be held here next week under the auspices of the University of Wisconsin. More than 100 insructors of modern languages in leading colleges and universities are expected to attend. The program provides for a number of papers relating to English, German and Roman philology and literature, and the discussion of methods of teaching modern languages.

To Change Date of Inauguration.

Washington, Dec. 22.—Representative Jenkins, of Wisconsin, has introduced a resolution fixing the last Thursday in April as the day for presidential inaugurations. Senator Clark, of Wyoming, introduced a similar resolution in the senate.

NO INTERFERENCE

CABINET DISCUSSES DOMINICAN TROUBLES.

Whole Trouble Appears to Be of an Internal Nature—Morales Dissatisfied With Support and Attempts to Establish New Government.

Washington, Dec. 27.—For the present there will not be any interference by the United States in the difficulty which has arisen in Santo Domingo.

The trouble is regarded by the state department officials as entirely an internal one, and so long as outside interests are not menaced this attitude of non-intervention will be maintained.

If, however, conditions should change materially and lawless acts should be committed against Americans and American interests and involving the collection of the Dominican customs by this government or other violence occur which in the opinion of the officials here would make it proper for this government to interfere, this step will be taken and measures adopted to quell the trouble.

This decision was reached by the state department officials during the day and confirmed at a conference at the White House late in the afternoon.

Roosevelt to Have Outing.

The cabinet officers remained at the White House until 6 o'clock. The gathering, however, was not called specifically for the purpose of discussing matters bearing on the developments in Santo Domingo, but to talk over a number of questions which the president is anxious to dispose of preliminary to his departure for an outing of several days in Virginia.

The secretary of war has received the following cablegram from Acting Comptroller and Receiver of Customs Edwards, dated at Santo Domingo:

"Carlos F. Morales, dissatisfied with cabinet support, left capital last night with a few followers. His intention is said to be to join the followers of Jimminez in opposition to the followers of Horacio. Conflicts between the two forces are imminent, probably in the vicinity of San Juan or in the vicinity of Puerto Plata.

"Carlos F. Morales may make attempt to establish a new capital and create a new cabinet. Political excitement, but without disturbances here. Receivership not yet affected. George R. Colton should be at Monte Christi Tuesday."

George R. Colton is the receiver of Dominican customs.

UNITED CHURCH OF CANADA.

Presbyterians, Methodists and Congregationalists Agree.

Toronto, Ont., Dec. 26.—The central committee, composed of members of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational churches throughout the Dominion, have agreed upon a code of doctrines that will unify the three denominations into one great church which it is proposed should be known as the "United Church of Canada."

The revised confession of faith of the American Presbyterian church will be used.

The new church is to be governed by the "general conference," after the Methodist form, with a president as the chief officer. Below is to be a council after the Congregational idea, with a chairman at the head. The next body is to be the "presbytery," governed by a moderator. The plan will be submitted to the several denominations throughout Canada for approval, which it is expected to receive.

District Attorney Removed.

Washington, Dec. 27.—Irving F. Baxter, United States district attorney for Nebraska, has been removed summarily from office by President Roosevelt. The announcement of Mr. Baxter's removal was made from the White House. The primary reason for the action is said to be found in the leniency shown by Baxter in prosecuting the Nebraska land fraud cases.

Walter Scott Only Wounded.

Los Angeles, Dec. 27.—A letter from Walter Scott, the cowboy miner who was reported murdered in Death valley, some days ago, has been received here by a friend, stating that Scott had been shot but was not fatally hurt. The letter gave no details of the shooting but stated that the wound was not necessarily serious and that he expected to be in Los Angeles by the middle of January. The letter was in Scott's handwriting.

Holiday Exodus Light.

Washington, Dec. 22.—Departing trains yesterday carried a number of members of congress who are going home for the holidays. For some reason or other the exodus this year does not appear to be quite so great as in previous years, a large number preferring to spend the recess at the capital. It is suggested facetiously that the announcement of the railroads cutting off free transportation may have something to do with reducing the number of official travelers.

Cannot Accept Resignations.

Budapest, Hungary, Dec. 22.—The emperor king has decided that in view of the existing political circumstances he cannot accept the resignation of the Fejervary cabinet, tendered Thursday.

IN MEMORIAM.

Mrs. T. H. Bradshaw

Lucy, wife of Theodore Bradshaw, has passed to the Great Beyond, and a circle of friends, limited only by the number of her acquaintances, are today in mourning over her sudden departure, and endeavoring to extend such comfort as may be to her dearly beloved husband. Among all the people living on Lincoln Heights, there was not one more universally respected and admired for those qualities which combine to make the perfect woman.

Mrs. Bradshaw was born in Pennsylvania in 1841; married in 1865; came to Garfield county, this state, in 1878, and to Port Angeles in 1892. Two sons were born to them, both having preceded their mother to the pearly gates.

She had not been in the best of health but her death was unexpected, occurring on Tuesday, the 26th. Funeral services were in charge of Rev. Edwards, and over one hundred friends were present, burial being from the residence.

Emma Daniels

Emma Daniels, infant daughter of Henry and Emma Daniels, was born September ninth, died December twentieth, 1905. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Graham at the home on Valley street, Friday, December twenty-second; interment was made in the Ocean View cemetery. During her brief stay the family had learned to love her and her going away brings great sorrow, in which they have the sympathy of their friends and neighbors.

Louie Alice Nye

In Clitheral, Otterdale county, Minn., Sept. 11, 1887, Louie Alice Nye was born; when four years of age she moved with her mother and one brother to Wadena, Wadena county, where was spent the greater part of her life. In July of the present year, the family came to Puyallup, Wash., to make their home. The subject of this sketch, though, greatly afflicted and a constant sufferer, had qualified to teach in our public schools, and bidding good-bye to her mother and brother in their new home, came to Clallam county, where she accepted a position of teacher in the school at Clallam. She possessed a courageous heart, whose zeal was for usefulness; her measure of ambition was greater than her physical strength, and on November 24 she was forced to accept leave of absence from her post of duty, when she came to Port Angeles for treatment in our hospital. The writer visited her there, and found her a patient sufferer, whom pain had in no wise mastered; no word of complaint escaped her; but she talked of the exceeding kindness of her physician, and the faithful nurses.

Miss Nye had been a member of the Methodist church five years, and a Christian all her life. Her Master of Galilee was with her, as her constant friend and helper. Their companionship was abiding. On last Wednesday they walked near the dark river. She trusted Him; He loved her; He noted her unequal struggle with affliction; He remembered her faithfulness; He invited her into that home where there shall be no more pain; she went. A mother is bereft of a loving daughter for a brief while; a brother will miss a gentle, confiding sister; fellowship is suspended for a moment, while they make ready to join her for an eternal stay. The church militant has lost an efficient member, for God has called another of his workers home, and we have left to cheer us the example of her unwavering faith in the Gospel of the Son of God.

Funeral services were conducted from the Fisst Methodist Church, Saturday, December the twenty-fourth.
GEO. F. GRAHAM.

The Deliniator fos January.

The Delineator begins the New Year with an attractive cover and a display of all that is new in the fashion world, to say nothing of the many features of literary excellence. Of particular interest is an article by Postmaster-General Cortelyou, describing woman's place and share of work in the postal service. The article in the "Safe Food" series is devoted to a discussion of the real value of glucose as a food product. Cecilia Loftus gives her impressions of "Ophelia" a character which she has acted with success, and N. Hudson Moore writes of "Old-Fashioned Beds". "The President of Quex", Helen M. Winslow's club story, is continued, a serious note being introduced in the discussion of child labor. "At Spinster Farm" is concluded, as well as John Luther Long's clever story of the stage, "Castles in Spain." The education of the child is the subject of a thoughtful paper by Dr. Grace P. Murry, and the pastimes for little folks include the first of a series of fairy tales by Alice Brown. The various departments are filled with matter of interest and value to the woman of the home.

The Companion as a New Year's Gift.

Can you think of a gift more certain to be acceptable than a year's subscription to The Youth's Companion? Is there any one, young or old, who, having once had the paper in his hands and looked through it, did not wish to possess it for his very own? It is a gift which, far from losing its freshness as Christmas recedes into the past, grows more delightful, more necessary to one's enjoyment week by week.

The boy likes it, for it reflects in its pages every boyish taste and every fine boyish aspiration. The father likes it, not only for its fiction but for its fund of information of the practical sort. The girl likes it for the stories, anecdotes, sketches and editorial articles printed in each number especially for her. The mother likes it for its stories of domestic life and famity affection, for its children's page and for its medical article.

On receipt of $1.75, the yearly subscription price, the publishers send to the new subscriber all the remaining issues of The Companion for 1905 and the "Minutemen" Calendar for 1906, lithographed in twelve colors and gold.

Full illustrated announcement of the new volume for 1906 will be sent with sample copies of the paper to any address free.

School for Farmers.

The winter school for farmers at the Washington State College commences January 2nd. The first two weeks of the course will be devoted to crop production with lectures on soil formation and classification, soil fertility and its maintenance, humus and its relation to soil fertility, study of soils in relation to moisture, soil aeration and temperature, soil bacteria, crop rotation, opportunities for seed production, culture of grasses, noxious weeds, useful grasses, roads for farming districts, the farmer's orchard, alfalfa and other legumes, various grain crops, sugar beets, and a study of wheats.

Horticulture will be taken up the following two weeks; then live stock production, and dairying the last two weeks.

Admission free; no charge for tuition or books; all are welcome. For further information address E. E. Elliott, Prof. of Agriculture.

Bulletins will be issued as the work proceeds; they will contain much valuable information and may be obtained by addressing Prof. Elliott, at Pullman.

Coughing Spell Caused Death.

"Harry Duckwell, aged 25 years, chocked to death early yesterday morning at his home, in the presence of his wife and child. He contracted a slight cold a few days ago and paid but little attention to it. Yesterday morning he was seized with a fit of coughing which continued for some time. His wife sent for a physician but before he could arrive, another coughing spell came on and Duckwell died from suffocation.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat, Dec. 1, 1901."

NEW YEARS
GREETINGS

A Happy New Year!

We extend our hands in friendship, wishing you all possible happiness for the coming year.

With pride we look back over the last seven months, as month by month we watched our business grow, and feel that our efforts have met with such a hearty endorsement at your hands.

We want your help for we are going to make this business one of mutual profit to you and to us.

How do we intend to this?

First, get you interested in our idea of co-operation. Next, show you how it will work.

The larger the quantity of goods we buy at one time, the cheaper we can get them, hence when we are able to dispense with the middleman we have make the first start

We intend selling at a certain profit which will enable us to do business without loss and with a margin to the good; the larger our trade, the more goods we will sell; the cheaper we can buy, the cheaper we can sell.

Don't you want to go in on this profit-sharing plan if so, give us a call.

Bring along your Chicago Catalogue and we will prove to you that we can save you money.

PAPERS BY THE PEOPLE

HOW TO BE HAPPY WITH YOUR HUSBAND.

By Paolo Mantegazza.

I have collected a large number of statistics of marriages which have fallen under my observation, and I have divided them into marriages contracted between really young people and those contracted by mature persons. In the second category I have found a much larger number of good homes than in the first. Discord between man and wife proceeds from three sources: The senses, the heart, the intelligence. The greatest of all unhappiness is produced when all the causes of discord are united. The greatest of happiness if there is an alliance of the three causes and harmony between them.

You have always thought that marriage is the sum of two existences, of two bodies, of two souls, united the one to the other, which shall produce the complete happiness of a man and a woman. Suppose that the happiness be represented by the number 100, and that, in order to make it the co-operation of both be necessary. If you will commence by fixing your share at 60 or 80, there will only be 40 or 20 left for your husband, and the sum will always be attained. If you can give 90 you will obtain the result all the more easily, in that there is only 10 left for him to furnish.

I know one of the happiest of homes in which the wife supplies 99 and the husband only 1. The generous wife has never found her husband too parsimonious. The sum is always complete and the happiness perfect. In this addition commence by placing as your contribution all that you can of love, of goodness, of indulgence, of tenderness, of delicate foresight, of dear divination, and then the sum total will attain a large amount. Woe to you if you remind your husband that you do not wish to bring more than 50, neither more nor less. Expect little of your husband and you will have run more than half the course that leads to marital bliss. In doing this all that your husband brings you will come as an unexpected gift, a dear surprise.

YOU CAN EARN AS MUCH AS YOU NEED.

By Jonas Howard.

A man properly ambitious, industrious, and willing can make just as much money as his needs require, and seldom can he make any more. If there is the right kind of stuff in a worker, and he is sufficiently aroused by pressing necessity, he can double his salary.

Suddenly into a man's life comes something that calls for an expansion of his income. There are two courses, either to say "can't" and surrender or to throw his whole being, his mind, body and hands into the task. If he follows the last course he will get what he needs. He will summon up his nerve and demand just as much more salary as he figures he will need, and, if he does not get it, he will go to some firm that will pay the increased salary.

There is one convincing proof that men can get what they want when the necessity arises, and that is that practically every man who gets married at once gets a better salary. His salary is not increased because he has taken a wife, but because he finds it necessary to have an increase in salary, demands it, and either gets it of that employer or of some other.

Have you ever faced a financial crisis in which it seemed impossible to raise the money? Have you ever scouted desperately around to "raise the wind" when you could not see any chance? If you have the chances are 100 to 1 that you raised the money and without much trouble. You had to have it and you got it. You were forced by circumstances to do things that, under ordinary easy going circumstances you would not have done. You have collected from some one who had owed you for years, perhaps. Would you have done it if the necessity had not arisen?

It is the same way with getting an increase in income. The emergency arises and you arise to meet it.

EVIDENCES OF THE EDUCATED MAN.

By Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, D. D.

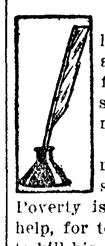
REV DR. HILLIS.

Education is an awakening. A child is born in a soul-house that has many windows, and each window has the curtain down. One window is named Reason, one Memory, another Imagination. Along comes the parent or the teacher and lifts the curtain from the window of Reason and the whole realm of truth and beauty comes rushing in. The ideal man is one who has all the windows open toward land and sea and sky. Some have the window of Common Sense open about a crack and some have lifted the curtain from the window of Judgment only a little.

Sleep is the true brother of death and ignorance is half sleep and half death. An educated soul is a fully awakened and vitalized soul. The old notion was that a boy was educated when his memory pocket was stuffed full of Latin and Greek roots. The new notion is that the soul must be awakened to all the truth and beauty of nature and of life. Culture, therefore, is not simply a knowledge of all the best that has ever been done, thought or said, to use Matthew Arnold's definition; it is that knowledge plus the full power to perfectly use and enjoy all that is good in the world of knowledge, beauty and duty.

HOW TO WIN SUCCESS.

By O. H. Oven.



Work just as hard as you know how; never let up after you have made up your mind to achieve anything, but stick to it, through good fortune and bad, with a purpose that knows no swerving, and if you are the right kind of a young man to-day you have success before you.

A man must never become discouraged, no matter what he comes to face, and he must not sit down and bewail the lack of early advantages. Poverty is no handicap in the beginning. Rather it is a help, for too many advantages for the young man are apt to kill his ambition, and without ambition success is impossible. Anyone, if he will work hard and faithfully and be honest in all his life, will find that success is possible, for the poor boy's chances to-day are just as good as they ever were. The sickening doctrine of the pessimist who bewails the lack of opportunity to-day should never find a responsive echo in the breast of any American boy with a strong arm and a level head and who is earnest and persevering in his efforts.

A young man starting out in the world to-day should banish the diseased idea that there is no room for him. There is room and plenty of it for every young man, and the only trouble is that there are not enough capable men in the world to fill the places that are offered.

I believe that every young man starting out in life will sooner or later meet his opportunity, and his success or failure will depend upon his ability to see and grasp this opportunity when it comes.

PROFIT-SHARING ON FARMS.

Depopulation of English Villages Prevented by This Means.

With a view to placing a check upon the depopulation of Kentish villages, which is reaching alarming proportions, several large land owners have decided upon a system of profit sharing with their agricultural laborers, hoping by this means to stimulate "Hodge" to take a greater interest in his employment.

The system of sharing farm profits was initiated by E. W. Hussey, a large estate owner, of Scotney Castle. Every year the hands are called together and each receives a share of the profits made on the year's working of the farms. On the last occasion of the profit-sharing each man received $13.13, while a youth's share amounted to $8.75. In cases where several members of a family are engaged on a farm sums approaching $48.66 have been taken home.

The system has had such successful results that Mr. Hussey has received numerous inquiries asking for details as to the working of the scheme, with the consequence that other farmers in the county have expressed their intention of working on similar lines.

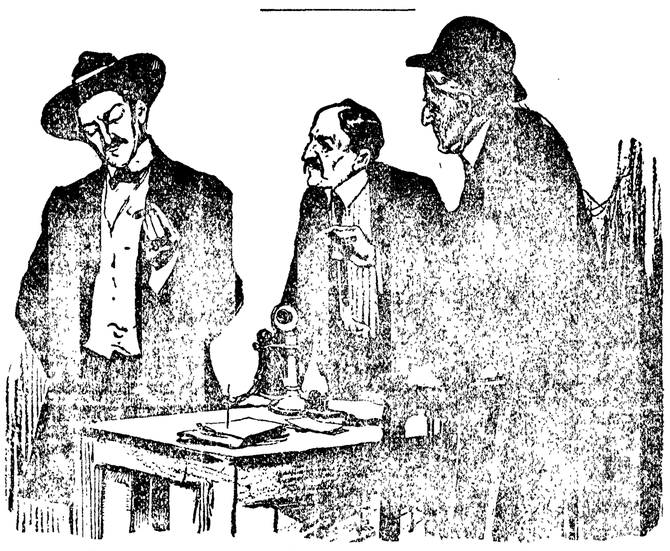
All the employes of Mr. Hussey's Lamberhurst estate now take such a keen interest in their work that they exhibit no inclination whatever to migrate to the towns. Lamberhurst, though a very small place, has long been looked upon as a model village, everything being done to encourage the inhabitants to remain within its boundaries. The wealthy residents in the neighborhood have established a number of up-to-date recreative institutions and the village is unaffected by the problem of the unemployed.

Curious Flowers.

The Chinese, Japanese and Siamese are peculiarly skillful at botanical feats. One of their wonderful achievements is known as the "changeable rose." This bloom is white in the shade and red in the sunlight. At night or in a dark room this curiosity of the rose family is a pure, waxy white blossom. When transferred to the open air the transformation immediately commences—the time of the entire change of the flower from white to red depending on the degree of sunlight and warmth. First the petals take on a kind of washed or faded blue color, and rapidly change to a faint blush of pink. The pink gradually deepens in hue until the lily-white rose of an hour before is as red as the reddest peony that ever bloomed.

A wise man lets his wife have her own way—otherwise she would have it, anyway.

THE WIRE TAPPING GAME.



Swindlers who make their dupes believe they are wire tappers have operated in the United States and in many European countries with tremendous success. The wire-tapper game is the successor of the gold-brick and green-goods swindle. In Greater New York the police have received complaints of wire-tapper losses amounting to more than $250,000 in the last year. Hardly a day passes but a new victim of the oily-tongued tapless wire tappers brings to police headquarters the same old story of being put up against the fake wire game.

Years ago there were legitimate wire tappers. Former telegraphers with an eye to making money saw how easy it was to juggle and delay for several minutes the results on horse races. A band of real wire tappers worked the game from San Francisco to New York. In Hot Springs and Chicago their winnings were estimated at $200,000. In 1888 the celebrated pool king of Buffalo, Prince Howard, was tapped for $35,000 in four days. Newspapers all over the country chronicled the enormous winnings of the wire tappers, and it gave the old green-goods and gold-brick men a new wrinkle to work on "come-ons."

There are many means by which the tapless wire tappers find their victims. In almost every poolroom in the country the swindlers have agents among the ranks of sheet writers and touts who receive a commission for every victim swindled. At the race track the leaders of the band mingle with the select of the grand stand and dine in the fashionable places frequented after the races. Every European steamship of note has aboard an agent of the gang. He may be a card sharp, a gambler on a vacation or one of the swindlers, making the trip for the sole purpose of picking up an easy mark.

The Real St. Mars.

Admirers of Dumas pere—whose name is still legion—should read M. Arrede Barine's "Geolier dans le XVIIIe Siecle," in the Revue de Paris. It gives one quite a different idea of St. Mars, governor of the Bastile and other prisons, from what we should have gathered from the relations with him of Aramis and the rest. Benigne d'Auvergne—St. Mars, like that of Athos and the rest, being only a nom de guerre—was obsequious even to cruelty to the commands of Louvois or other minister for the time being, and was in consequence looked upon by his master as a model jailer, who would stick at nothing.

His principal characteristics were avarice, which enabled him to amass a large fortune out of the sums allowed for the prisoners' "beef," and a desire for rank, which was skillfully played upon by Louis. Originally a corporal in the Mosquetaires, the Roi Soleil, though according him the rank of a lesser noble, steadily refused to promote him to a commission until quite late in his career, when he probably knew too much to be denied anything. And then there are those who think that an absolute king is necessarily an aristocrat.—Pall Mall Gazette.

The politeness of a good many people begins and ends with "Excuse me."

VITALITY OF YELLOW RACE.

More Vigorous than Caucasians, It Flourishes in All Climates.

Before the foundations of Rome were laid there was a homogeneous people dwelling in China with a form of government and no mean degree of civilization. Rome flourished for eleven centuries and became the empire of the western world, then decayed and passed away and her civilization became the heritage of others. But China remains as a united empire to this day. In this marvelous continuity in the past lies the promise of the future.

It took the nations of Europe 2,000 years to advance from barbarism to their present position. It took the Japanese, a branch of the yellow race, a generation to adopt and apply all the best results of this long struggle. We are told that when the present emperor of Japan was a boy the sort of training that was supposed to fit him for the part he was to be allowed to take in the government of his country was making artificial flowers. He is only now just over middle age, yet he rules as a constitutional monarch over an empire with which the most advanced and most powerful empire of the west was glad to form an alliance as with an equal. His navy has driven the Russian flag from the China seas. On land the tactics and strategy, the endurance, self-sacrifice and bravery, the care for the wounded in the field and the splendid hospital arrangements of the Japanese army are the admiration of the civilized world.

In the world's history there is nothing like the advance of Japan in the last generation. We see some of the results of the adoption of the civilization of the west by 30,000,000 of the yellow race. Will any one who really knows him venture to say that the Chinaman is less well equipped mentally and physically than the Japanese? What, then, will be the result when the 500,000,000 of China follow the example of their kindred of Japan? On the northern borders of China the white and yellow races have been face to face for some time, and the advantage appeared to be with the white. But the tide soon turned and to-day the aggressive armies of the white Czar, under his ablest generals, have had to retire, hopelessly beaten, before the yellow race.—London Spectator.

Vulgar Words.

A distinguished author says: "I resolved, when I was a child, never to use a word which I could not pronounce before my mother without offending her." He kept his resolution, and his example is worthy of imitation. Boys readily learn a class of low, vulgar words and expressions which are never heard in respectable circles. The utmost care on the part of parents will scarcely prevent it. Of course, we cannot think of girls as being so much exposed to this peril. We cannot imagine a decent girl using words she would not give utterance to before her father or mother. Such vulgarity is thought by some boys to be "clever," the "next thing to swearing," and yet "not so wicked." But it is a habit which leads to profanity and fills the mind with evil thoughts. It vulgarizes and degrades the soul, and prepares the way for many of the gross and fearful sins which now corrupt society.

Little Lessons in Patriotism

Peyton Randolph was one of the most intimate friends of Gen. Washington, one of those in whom he placed the most unbounded confidence. Randolph was one of the most prominent members of the session of the Virginia burgesses at which Patrick Henry made his famous speech for the liberty of the American colonists. In fact, it was he who gave to Patrick Henry his certificate to practice law, after the license had been refused by two other examiners of the colony.

PEYTON RANDOLPH

Randolph drew up the remonstrance of the burgesses against the threatened stamp act in 1764. On Aug. 10, 1774, Randolph summoned the citizens of Williamsburg, his residence, to meet in order to protest against the unconstitutionality of binding American colonies by British statutes. He was unanimously elected the first president of Congress on Sept. 5, 1774.

He has been described by his contemporaries as an honest man, having temper, knowledge, experience, judgmnt—above all, integrity—a true Roman spirit." His sterling worth won for him friends wherever he was known. The men of his own colony and those of other colonies joined Washington in their trust of the man. He was one of those great Americans who were the bulwarks of the State in time of storm, a pillar of righteousness and a rock of truth.

WITH THE "L" MOTORMEN.

Nerve-Racking Experiences of Employes Who Operate Cars.

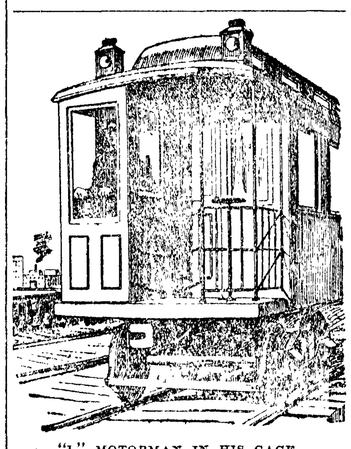
"Say, ma, I want to ride in there with the man in the little glass box—may I—say yes, ma," said the little 6-year-old as he pulled back and pointed at the motorman in the front end of the first car of the elevated train, while ma struggled hard to drag the youngster aboard the second car. With the assistance begrudgingly given by the guard the recalcitrant and obstreperous boy was finally boosted into the car, where his ma lifted him up and set him down hard on the stiffest cane-bottom seat she could pick out. But she wasn't strong enough to set the boy down with sufficient force to make him keep still.

"I want to ride where I can see the track with the man in the box," yelled the boy.

"Oh, just look out there at that back yard, all full of lovely scrap iron," said ma in a soothing tone of voice.

"I don't want to see no scraps, I want to see tracks."

Finally the poor mother had to compromise by taking the boy into the front car and sitting down near the forward end where he could look through the front window and see ahead over the stretch of tracks. Even that didn't satisfy her young hopeful, who squalled to get in the box with the motorman. The mother's explanation that no one was allowed to go in with the motorman failed to satisfy the child. Finally his yells and screams so rattled the motorman that he in his turn couldn't keep still.



"L" MOTORMAN IN HIS CAGE.

"Madam," he said, as he let down his little window and looked in through the partly opened front door, "if you don't take that young hyena away I'll go crazy and run past two or three stations or run the train off the track and kill everybody. Take him away quick into some other car before he goes into convulsions and I go into spasms."

Then the tired-faced, worn-out mother grabbed the boy by the arm once more and dragged him back to the second car again and the motorman regained sufficient composure to stop at the next station.

"Yes, sir, once in a while we have some pretty nerve-trying experiences," said an elevated motorman who had only been in the business a short time, the other day. "Every time I get in the box and take hold of the controller of the electric current my nerves get on edge. I am afraid that before I get off the train again something will happen. I imagine that I may run over some old man who has climbed down on the tracks for some reason or other or that I may bring the train on to a curve too fast and tip the whole thing over into the street, etc. I have never yet had any bad accidents, but a few times I have come pretty close to it."—Chicago Chronicle.

THE MINERS OF BUTTE.

For Them the Town Is a Way Station on the Road to Nome.

Probably nowhere in the world is there such a forceful, virile body of workers as are the miners of Butte. Ther are no graybeards. They are social rebels; not that they chant the Carmagnole to the waving of the black flag of anarchy, but in the sense that back in the well-ordered civilization of the east they rebelled against poverty and pushed on to the frontier, big-muscled, red-blooded, determined to sail the ship of their destiny into pleasanter places than their boyhood knew. From the copper mines of Berehaven, in the County Cork, from the coal mines of Tipperary, from the tin mines of Cornwall and from wherever in western Europe men go down into the bowels of the earth for treasure, the sturdy young men of the mines came to America, says Tom Watson's Magazine. At the Atlantic seaboard they heard the story of Mr. Baer and his partnership with God in the anthracite coal fields of Pennsylvania, of the company store and the company shack, with its yellow-fever paint by way of decoration.

In company with their American brothers they started across the continent to the Hocking Valley of Ohio, thence to the copper peninsula of Michigan, to the coal mines of Illinois, Missouri and Kansas, on to the gold and silver lodes of Colorado, and Utah, and finally to the miner's paradise of Butte, where eight hours is the day's work and $105 the monthly wage.

Beyond, the Butte miner has his eyes fixed on Alaska. Butte is but a way station on the road to Cape Nome.

Butte has a public library and churches that rank well with similar institutions in any American city. They are well patronized by the miners. It has beautiful and costly public buildings, hotels, business blocks and private residences.

Butte is rightly called the Gibraltar of trades unionism. Every conceivable occupation is organized, from the pin-boys in the bowling alleys and the shoeblacks on the streets to the reporters on the daily papers, all are organized. Wages are high. Plumbers get $8 per day and printers get $6.50 for a seven-and-a-half-hour day.

It is the proud boast of Butte that the greatest mining camp on earth has never had a boom.

Rats in the Bears' Den.

A visitor to the zoo saw a curious sight the other afternoon in the absence of all other spectators.

It was half-past 4 o'clock, and the polar bears had received their dinner of fish, beef bone, and long rolls of French bread. They consumed the fish and bread, and lumbered up to the entrance of their cave to gnaw at the beef bones as an after-dinner relish.

Some little squeaks were heard by the visitor. Where the bears had lately been a large mother rat and ten baby rats, scurrying out from nowhere, were feasting upon the crumbs of French bread.

The ratlets eagerly dashed here and there, seeking all the crumbs in sight. The mother acted more the part of a sentinel, eyed distrustfully the lone spectator, and admonished her brood in deep-toned squeaks.

The crumbs were all gone and the babies complained to their mother that they hadn't had enough. She finally led them up the rocky slope to where the white-coated monsters dozed before their den.

The bears glanced down out of half-open eyes, but made no movement against the small scavengers, who pounced joyously on new crumbs and shreds of meat. It seemed as if the bears were well accustomed to the visits of Mrs. Lazarus and her flock.

The footsteps and laughter of approaching sightseers suddenly caused the mother rat to squeak a warning, and the next moment only the dozing polar bears remained in their cave.

The Refinement of Rigidity.

A gentleman who was born in 1845, the fourteenth child of a family of sixteen, delights in telling stories illustrative of the severity of their upbringing.

Their father and mother were parents of the old school, and their children's deep affection was tinged with a wholesome awe.

"The awe was so pervasive and the discipline so rigid that we were never allowed to blow our noses in the paternal presence," declares this gentleman. "We had to go outside the room and close the door before performing that operation!"

At Last He Understood.

At first, although a business man, he failed to understand a little note received from his wife, which was written in a strictly business style. It read:

"Dear John X a sealskin sack. Mabel."

After puzzling over it for a good half hour, his eye happened to fall on a bill for a lumber shipment. The first item was 100 planks of a certain length 1x12. And then, at last, he understood the note meant: "Dear John buy a sealskin sack."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

BETTER THAN EVER

SPEAKER CANNON TALKS IN CHARACTERISTIC VEIN.

Same Pessimistic Talk as at Present Day Was in Vogue When He Was a Boy—Men and Conditions Are Better Than in the "Good Old Days."

Washington, Dec. 27.—Speaker Cannon was one of the callers at the White House yesterday. He desired simply to pay his Christmas greetings to President Roosevelt, but was obliged to defer them, as the president had gone for a horseback ride. The speaker was in excellent spirits and talked with the newspaper men in characteristic way.

"They say things are not now like they were in the old days; that we are becoming aristocrats; that there is no longer honesty in legislative bodies; that there is no ability at the bar; that we are liable to become a monarchy; that some strong man is liable to rise up and dominate everybody.

"But I say that there is no fair minded man, who studies the history of this country from its foundation down to the present time and who deduces the difference between 8,000,000 people and 80,000,000, who considers the telegraph, telephone and the railroads, who will not say that we are markedly better physically, mentally and morally than our grandfathers, or even or fathers."

House a Representative Body.

"Then you believe the house of representatives is just as representative as it was in years gone by?"

"Yes, yes, indeed," the speaker replied. "The house is just as representative a body now as it was when this country had only 10,000,000 of people. If you listen to all that is said you might believe the country is fast going to the devil, is fast becoming a monarchy and will cease soon to be a republic. Why, I heard the same kind of talk when I was a boy when we used to gather at camp meetings. They used to tell us that things were not what they were in the 'good old days.' You hear the same things now; that the country is retrograding; that everybody is corrupt and dishonest, and that there is wholesale immorality. It do not hesitate to assert that this country is better today than it ever was in its history; that the people are better—more honest, more moral and less disposed to yield to temptations that are put in front of honest men at every tturn.

"The people are just as mighty now in the matter of elections as ever before, and just as discriminating as to whether a man has done his duty. No man ever gets so big that he cannot easily be wiped off the political map. And how quickly the people do it, too. They settle a man so quickly that he is soon forgotten.

Names Wiped Off the Slate.

"I venture the prediction that few of the best men of the country could sit down today and give off-hand the names of 100 men who have helped to make history in the house of representatives. The others were defeated and forgotten and that was the end. In the old days there was William J. Brown, who put through the house the appropriation of $30,000 to build the first telegraph line between Washington and Baltimore. He did the world an immense service, yet at the next election afterwards he received hardly votes enough to count. The opposition put up a man who ridiculed the idea of sending messages by 'lightning,' and he beat Brown thousands of votes. So it is today, although a man's services are not so easily forgotten.

"Undoubtedly we are better off than our forefathers. The millenium is not here, it ist rue. We are doing better, though."

OPEN TREATY PORTS.

List of Those Designated in Chino-Japanese Treaty.

London, Dec. 27.—The Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says the Chino-Japanese treaty opens the following ports: Fenwangcheng, Liaoyang, Sinmintin, Tieling, Tunchangtse, Changtu, Fakomen, Changchun, Hiria, Harbin, Hunchun, Sansin, Tssihar, Rigun and Monjuria.

To Dredge Channel.

Seattle, Dec. 27.—Bids will be called for immediately after January 1 by the Pacific Railway Company for the dredging of the East waterway, in front of tide land blocks 373 and 372, which that company has acquired for its dockage facilities. It is the intention of the company to make extensive improvements on this property, and the work will be commenced as soon after the first of the year as it is possible to receive bids and let the contracts.

San Antonio, Texas, Dec. 27.—One million silver dollars, packed in 334 boxes and weighing 70,000 pounds, consigned to China, has just passed through the port of Laredo.

DIFFICULTY EXPLAINED.

Government Can Contract Only With Individual Water Owners.

Washington, Dec. 22.—Members of the Washington deleagtion in congress are still in telegraphic correspondence with State Land Commissioner Ross in regard to the state's selection of lands under the Carey act in Yakima valley. The delegation still believe that the matter cannot be satisafctorily settled unless the state withdraws its application for these lands, for the secretary of the interior made this a strict condition of his approval of the Tieton and Sunnyside projects.

Nevertheless, the senators and congressmen feel that they are in a delicate situation, for they wish to serve the best interests of the state. None of them care to talk about the matter for publication at the present time, but in reply to a request for an explanation of the difficulty between the state and the interior department one of the delegation said:

"It is essentially this: The state land commissioner wishes to secure 55,000 acres of land in Yakima valley under the Carey act, and he wishes the government to enter into an agreement to provide water for the land, declaring that such an arrangement existed between the state and the Washington Irrigation Company, which now proposes to sell out to the government. The reclamation service says the state land commissioner's plan is not a feasible one, for under the terms of the reclamation act the secretary of the interior cannot deal with a state, but must deal with individual water users.

"The feasibility of watering the lands in question is also a matter of uncertainty, according to the reclamation service. The secretary of the interior can deny the application for these lands and that would end the matter, but he has withheld such action pending friendly consultation between the state authorities and the congressional delegation to determine whether the application shall not be withdrawn."

The members of the delegation visited the interior department yesterday afternoon and had a talk with the law officers of the department with a view of finding out if there is any way out of the difficulty except for the state to withdraw. The conference was fruitless and a telegram to that effect was sent to Commissioner Ross

RAILROADS AGREE TO GIVE INFORMATION

Chicago, Dec. 22.—Executive officials of all Western railroads at a meeting here have entered into an agreement with a view to compelling a strict adherence of the provisions of the interstate commerce and Elkins laws.

Every road, it is stated, bound itself to inform the interstate commerce commission of any illegal acts on the part of any road. Through this action it is expected tto stop the payments of rebates and all devices for giving preference to shippers.

New York, Dec. 22.—The Times says:

The big railroads of the country have agreed to abolish rebates to shippers, according to reports circulated here. Several conferences on the subject have been held recently.

This action is the direct result of many prosecutions recently undertaken by the federal government against railroad officials for infringement of the anti-rebate clauses in the federal statutes. The action begun against the Chicago and Alton and several officials of that road and the indictments just found at Kansas City against a number of railroads, including the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, are cases in point. An officer of one of the railroads the officials of which were indicted at Kansas City, while denying that his own road had broken the law, said that there was not the slightest doubt that the giving of rebates would come to an end as a result of the prosecutions.

In his opinion the results of these prosecutions will be seen not only in the reluctance of the railroad officials to give rebates, but in the hesitancy of shippers to ask special concessions.

The information that rebates would be abolished came not only from railroad ocials, but from prominent banking interests which, directly or indirectly, control many railroads.

The agreement to do away with railroads is intended to weaken the arguments advnced in favor of rate legislation resolves itself finally into an agitation against granting rebates which is recognized by railroad officials themselves as a serious evil. The conferences which have recently been held have apparently resulted in the belief among railroad presidents that under existing conditions each road can trust its competitors.

Graduation at Annapolis.

Washington, Dec. 27.—The navy department has decided upon February 12 as the day for the graduation of the class of 1906 at the naval academy. The reason of the graduation of the cadets in advance has been the pressing need of officers, and if this condition still prevails it may require the graduation of the next class in February, 1907.

Canadian Minister Dies in Paris.

Paris, Dec. 27.—Raymond Prefontaine, the Canadian minister of marine and fisheries died suddenly last night. Mr. Prefontaine, accompanied by Randolph E. Lemieux, the Canadian solicitor general, recently came to France in connection with the establishment of a line of steamers between Marseilles and Canadian ports.

PROVIDES OPEN DOOR

CHINESE-JAPANESE TREATY HAS BEEN SIGNED.

Japan Gets Port Arthur, and a Concession to Build a Railway From Antung to Mukden—Sixteen Ports to Be Opened to World's Trade.

Peking, Dec. 23.—The Chino-Japanese treaty was signed yesterday by Baron Komura and M. Uchida in behalf of Japan, and Prince Ching and Viceroy Yuan Shi Kai in behalf of China. The China commissioners say the treaty relates solely to Manchurian affairs and that the reports of a Chino-Japanese alliance are false.

Washington, Dec. 23.—Important details of the treaty between China and Japan signed at Peking yesterday have reached the state department by cable. China consents to lease to Japan the Liaotung peninsula, at the southern extremity of which is Port Arthur and Dalny. This territory was formerly held by Russia under lease from China. China concedes to Japan the control of the railway on the peninsula northward as far as Changchin. This is one of the spurs which connects with the Russian Siberian railway system, and the point named will probably mark the division between Rusisan and Japanese control.

China also concedes to Japan the right to build a railway from Antung, on the Yalu river, to Mukden, the ancient capital of Manchuria, probably along the line of the famous old military or caravan road. It is provided, however, that at the end of a certain period of years the road may be purchased by China.

Most important of all the provisions of the treaty is an article whereby China agrees to open to the world's commerce and trade sixteen principal ports and cities of Manchuria, including Harbin, the modern Russian capital of the province and its most important railroad center, thus marking, in the opinion of the state department officials, the final success of the long struggle of the United States for the open door.

CONFERENCE IS ASKED OF ANTHRACITE OPERATORS

Philadelphia, Dec. 27.—The Press says:

President John Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers, has communicated with the presidents of the anthracite coal producing companies in regard to the demand the miners will make for the continuance of work in the hard coal fields.

It is understood the letter is in regard to holding a conference between the committee representing the United Mine Workers and the operators. As to what the operators will do no definite decision has been made.

Besides asking for an eight hour day, there are also to be presented other demands, the most imporant and the one which, if adopted, will cause a complete recognition of the union, is the request that an entirely new conciliation board be formed, one that will always be in session and will go from place to place to settle disputes.

The request will meet with considerable opposition from the presidents.

The proposed new board is to be composed of three members representing the miners and the same number representing the operators, and a seventh member to be chosen by the other six.

FAVOR REMOVING TARIFF ON PHILIPPINE PRODUCTS

Washington, Dec. 22.—By a vote of 7 to 5 the house committee on ways and means reported favorably on the Payne bill admitting all Philippine products into the United States free, excepting sugar and tobacco, which are to pay 25 per cent of the Dingley rates until 1909, when they are also to go on the free list.

Two amendments were made to the measure originally introduced in the house by Mr. Payne.

At the suggestion of Representative Hill, of Connecticut, a provision was added that all American sugar and tobacco are to be admitted into the Philippines free of duty, and a new section was added which provides that no Philippine products now in warehouses in the United States shall be exempted from duties under the proposed measure.

Combined Fleet and Army Dissolved.

Tokyo, Dec. 22.—The cobmined fleet of Japan has been dissolved and Admiral Togo has been appointed president of the naval command. The Manchurian army headquarters has also been dissolved and Field Marshal Oyama will resume his former position as president of the general staff office.

To Renew Eight-Hour Fight.

St. Louis, Dec. 27.—At a special meeting of Typographical Union No. 8, it was voted to renew the fight for an eight hour working day. It was also decided to increase assessments from seven to ten per cent in aid of the strike movement.

BIDS ALL REJECTED.

Insular Bureau Will Ask New Terms for Philippine Roads.

Washington, Dec. 22.—All the bids for concessionary contracts or grants for the construction of railroads in the Philippine islands recently submitted to the bureau of insular affairs have been rejected because of departures from the terms of the circular calling for proposals. Secretary Taft, after a number of conferences with Gov. Wright and Mr. Forbes, of the Philippine commission, and Col. Edwards, chief of the insular bureau, decided to readvertise the proposals, and January 20, at 10 a. m., has been fixed as the date for the opening of new bids for these concessions. The terms will be modified in some particulars.

Where bidders propose to construct the roads without guarantee they will be limited in their bids only by the terms of the Philippine government railroad acts of 1902 and 1903. But where bidders wish to take advantage of a guarantee of a certain interest on their investment they can vary from the original invitation to bid only in point of time or in the cost of construction per mile, as affected by contractors' profits. As to the latter the Philippine government reserves the right to fix the maximum cost of the road. The time in which the road can be completed and the contractors' profits will be important considerations in making the awards.

New circulars will be prepared at once for the guidance of those who may wish to enter the competition for the railroad concessions of the Philippines.

DECLARES POWERS INNOCENT.

Kentucky Man Says His Evidence Will Clear Him.

Bakersfield, Cal., Dec. 26.—Charles E. Ehler, on a cot in the county hospital suffering from a wound presumably self-inflicted, has admitted to the superintendent, Francis Buckrens, that he has information as to the killing of Gov. William Goebel, of Kentucky, which, if it were adduced, it is alleged would clear Caleb Powers, former secretary of state of Kentucky, and now under sentence of death for complicity in the murder of the late governor.

A few days ago Powers wrote from the Blue Grass state to Ehler, in Bakersfield, saying in substance:

"I see by a press dispatch that you may be an important witness in the Goebel murder. For six years I have lain in prison, and three times I have been sentenced to death for a crime of which I am as innocent as the angels around the throne. If you have any information that will throw light on the death of Gov. Goebel, then for God's sake declare yourself and aid in proving my innocence."

Ehler, on receiving this letter, permitted Superintendent Buckrens to read it, and the latter, realizing its importance, questioned Ehler. He said:

"Do you know anything that would clear this man of murder?"

Ehler, who is racked with pain, after a moment's silence, nodded his head.

"Then," said the superintendent, "in God's name, why don't you declare yourself?"

"Because it would implicate others," Ehler replied.

"But you would not see an innocent man executed?" said the superintendent.

Ehler reflected for a moment, and said:

"Well, Caleb Powers is not executed yet."

Thereupon he closed his eyes and refused to say more. Powers has been notified of the admissions of the man now in the hospital, and whether any steps will be taken by the Kentucky authorities is not known here.

CZAR REFUSES RUSSIA UNIVERSAL SUFFRAGE

St. Petersburg, Dec. 23.—A final council was assembled at the palace last night to discuss universal surffage. Among the speakers was Count Witte. A majority of the council voted without hesitation for universal surffage, as it was considered the country demanded the concessions and they deemed it unwise to refuse.

The cazr decisively refused to grant the demands of the council and it is said expressed himself with great bitterness against his subjects.

Big Los Angeles Hotel Burns.

Los Angeles, Dec. 27.—In the largest hotel fire in the history of Los Angeles, the Van Nuys Broadway hotel, one of the first-class hotels of the city, was almost completely destroyed by fire Sunday. Over a hundred guests, most of whom were still in bed at the time the fire broke out, escaped in scanty clothing to the street. Practically all of them suffered the loss of their entire baggage and personal effects. Six firemen were injured during the progress of the flames in the collapse of the rear of the second floor.

Half Million for Salvation Army.

London, Dec. 22.—Gen. Booth, of the Salvation Army, has written King Edward announcing that George Herring, chairman of the City of London Lighting Company and a prominent member of many other corporations, had donated $500,000 to the Army to be used in a home colonization scheme, but that the Army had engaged to repay this subscription in twenty-five annual installments to the king's hospital fund.

Broke All Records.

Major Harding states that the holiday mails this year were the largest ever handled in the Angeles post office, that of Christmas day being especially large, when twenty-one sacks of papers and packages, besides several pouches of letters and registered packages, were received. Extra help had been secured and special provision made to handle the mails expeditiously and despite the fact that the Major was a sufferer from acute rheumatism in his right arm to such an extent that he could not dress himself or hold a pen, good service was given the public.

We are all prone to criticise, and often unjustly. For just one day put yourself behind the post office boxes, and you will soon become aware that there is more to this distribution of the mails than you ever dreamed of. The writer has been there and knows.

Mr. Harding gave up yesterday and went home, but it is hoped a rest and care will enable him to be on deck again in a short time.

The Boosters.

Regular meeting of the Boosters Club at their club rooms in opera house block next Monday evening, 7:30 o'clock. New officers are to be elected, delegate selected to attend advertising conferenee at Tacoma on the 4th; question of providing street corner signs taken up; work on new boat service inaugurated; further report from committee on municipal water system; club motto finally adopted, etc. Let there be a good attendance.

Here's to your good health; to your family's good health; may you live long and prosper.

A Certain Cure for Croup.

When a child shows symptoms of croup there is no time to experiment with new remedies, no matter how highly they may be recommended. There is one preparation that can always be depended upon. It has been in use for many years and has never been known o fail, viz: Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mr. M. F. Compton, of Market, Texas, says of it. "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in severe cases of croup with my children, and can truthfully say it always gives prompt relief." For sale by W. J. Mathewson.

HERE'S SUCCESS.

Mayor Appleton returned from Seattle yesterday, where he had been spending several days look-into matters concerning his proposed municipal water system, and reports prospects of ultimate success to be most flattering. In consultation with bankers and other financial men he not only found them one and all willing to take up consideration of financing the enterprise as soon as the prospectus shall be ready, but also learned that fully two-thirds of the cities of the State have taken advantage of the new statute permitting municipal improvements, when under the old laws they would not have been able to issue a dollar's worth of paper. This statute has alreay been passed upon by the supreme court and monied men have no hesitancy in investing in bonds so secured. It is not believed there will be any difficulty in arranging for that part of the undertakiug.

In the way of mains, the Mayor found that the figures sent him by manufacturers were in the nature of rough estimates, the same people making reductions which will amount to about two thousand dollars saved on this one item. In getting figures from a dealer in steel and iron pipe, he was told that tho the party handled no wooden pipe himself, yet he would heartily recommend it for all purposes except where very high pressure was required.

In short, encouragement was

THE BIG STORE PORT ANGELES

Advertise the State.

Governor Mead, Commissioner Johnson of the Lewis and Clark Fair, and representatives of the Seattle, Spokane, Everett and Tacoma chambers of commerce met in Tacoma lately and decided to extend invitations to representatives of all the commercial organizations of the State to meet in the latter city January 4th to select a plan for an extensive advertising campaign. It is expected that the next legislature will appropriate the balance on hand in the state's exposition fund for the purpose and the intention is to keep the expense within that limit.

Elect Officers.

At the regular meeting of Port Angeles Lodge No. 69, F. & A. M., the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: W. M., John Hansen, re-elected by acclamation; S. W., C. E. Fulmer, re-elected; J. W., E. D. Elliott; Treas., W. F. Delabarre; Sec'y, S. M. Crooks, re-elected. Installation, which will be for the lodge and visiting members only, will take place on Monday evening next at 7:30.

The first degree was conferred on Harry Littleton at the last session.

Musical Club.

The regular meeting of the Musical Club was held in Haning Hall, Dec. 18, '05, and the following program was rendered;

Paper, Brahms of Bohm, Mrs. G. V. Smith; piano solo, Das Wiegenlied, Mrs. Brophy; vocal solo, The Little Dutchman, Mrs. T. Silverwood; paper, Buck & von Fieltz, Mrs. W. Brumfield; piano solo, Dancing Spirits, Mrs. T. Aldwell; piano solo, Voices of Spring, Mrs. C. P. Brown; vocal solo, Still As the Night, Mrs. C. E. Cushing; piano solo, Silver Stars Mazurka, Mrs. C. P. Brown.

A Good Record.

As good an indication of the prosperous condition of the people of Port Angeles as could be cited is to be found in the efforts of the Benevolent Department of the Civic Club who, with earnest workers in every ward before Christmas, failed to find a single family in need of assistance. There are probably but few towns of the size in the country for which the same might be said. Last year thirty-seven children were provided with necessary clothing where familes were destitute, owing to misfortune of various kinds. This year four children were provided with clothing simply that they might be better dressed, and because the supplies were on hand. In no instance could a family be found where the children would not be well remembered for Christmas.

The Civic Club has extended aid to a few families outside of the city, to make life easier for them.

Remarkable Cure.

"I was much afflicted with sciatica," writes Ed C. Nud, Iowaville, Sedgwick Co., Kas., "going about on crutches and suffering a deal of pain. I was induced to try Ballard's Snow Liniment, which relieved me. I used three 50c bottles. I is the greatest liniment I ever used; have recommended it to a number of persons all express themselves as being benefitted by it. I now walk without crutches, able to perform a great deal of light labor on the farm." 25c, 50c, $1.00. Sold by Mathewson's Pharmacy.

Easy Pill

Easy to take and easy to act is that famous little pill DeWitt's Little Early Risers. This is due to the fact that they tonic the liver instead of purging it. They never gripe nor sicken, not even the most delicate lady, and yet they are so certain in results that no one who uses them is disappointed. They cure torpid liver, constipation, biliousness, jaundice, headache, malaria and ward off pneumonia and fevers.

The Companion as a New Year's Gift.

Can you think of a gift more certain to be acceptable than a year's subscription to The Youth's Companion? Is there any one, young or old, who, having once had the paper in his hands and looked through it, did not wish to possess it for his very own? It is a gift which, far from losing its freshness as Christmas recedes into the past, grows more delightful, more necessary to one's enjoyment week by week.

The boy likes it, for it reflects in its pages every boyish taste and every fine boyish aspiration. The father likes it, not only for its fiction but for its fund of information of the practical sort. The girl likes it for the stories, anecdotes, sketches and editorial articles printed in each number especially for her. The mother likes it for its stories of domestic life and family affection, for its children's page and for its medical article.

On receipt of $1.75, the yearly subscription price, the publishers send to the new subscriber all the remaining issues of The Companion for 1905 and the "Minutemen" Calendar for 1906, lithographed in twelve colors and gold.

Full illustrated announcement of the new volume for 1906 will be sent with sample copies of the paper to any address free.

LUTHERAN CHRISTMAS TREE

Kind Friend Writes an Entertaining Story of Memorable Occasion.

The Lutheran church held its Christmas celebration last Saturday evening, and all who were present will agree that it was an evening of joy and Christmas cheer. The church was full to the doors, but not crowded, there being seats for all. The usual exercises by the children could in this instance be called unusual, for not only were most of the recitations and songs exceptionally well learned, but there was also a variety in the program that made it the more interesting, Mr. Gasser, Superintendent of the Sunday School, assisted by Mr. Holymann, had drilled the children for a number of weeks, and consequently there was not a hitch anywhere.

After the opening song and prayer, the pastor and children reviewed the Christmas Gospel by responsive reading, and responsive singing. Then the superintendent conducted the exercises by the children. During the last song the Christmas tree was illuminated, a signal of great joy to the little ones, and admiration to all, for it was a tree of exceptional beauty and richness. The ladies of the church spared no time or expense to make it a thing of beauty. The presents were then distributed and here again was displayed a generous heart and wisdom in selecting. The pastor was presented with nearly $20.00 in money and several other presents. Mrs. Drahn, though unable to be present, was also most bountifully remembered by her many little friends, and also the older ones. The church was decorated most artistically wilh holly and vine and in every way this occasion of great joy and good will toward men was attended by appropriate surroundings. The ladies had long planned to make this occasion a memorable one and they succeeded. *

Nerve Fag.

If You Waste Your Nerve Energy, After Awhile You Will Suffer For It.

You can waste nerve force by excess, over-work, worry, anxiety, etc.

You can weaken yourself by not eating proper food or securing sufficient rest to renew the nerve energy you use up.

The proper treatment, in addition to good phosphatic food, such as whole meal bread, prepared cereals, etc., is Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine.

This is as truly a brain and nerve food as any food you could eat, and besides, furnishes strength and tone of its own, which goes to the weakened nerve system, and sets it to rights.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is a refreshing, revitalizing tonic food-medicine for the brain and nerves. It reconstructs worn-out nerve tissue, and fills your languid brain with new life and vigor.

Dr. Miles' Nervine has made so many marvelous cures, of people so sick the doctors thought they were incurable, that it is today the standard medicine in many thousands of American homes.

The first bottle is guaranteed to help you, or druggist returns your money.

"The extreme heat, close confinement and intense mental strain incident to the banking business, has caused me to suffer with nervousness and insomnia. It gives me pleasure to say that I have used Dr. Miles' Nervine with very satisfactory results in the treatment of these affections. I am now on my fifth bottle, and eat and sleep well, in fact have almost forgotten that I possess nerves."—R. L. DALBY, Asst. Cashier, State Bank, Texarcana, Ark.

SEGUIN NOTES.

Bert Sindars returned Wednesday last from a visit with friends in Olympia.

The mill whistle will soon be heard in Seguin again. The Happy Valley Shingle Co. will start their new mill about the 15th, and the Seguin Shingle and Lumber Co. will resume operations about the same time.

J. B. Knapman and wife entertained a few friends at cards on New Years night.

There is to be a meeting of the so-called Seguin Local Telephone Co. Saturday, Jan. 6th, at which it is proposed to organize a company in fact and elect officers,

Capt. Jones has been confined to his bed for the past week.

Wm. Green is again on our streets after a weeks illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert VanAntwerp returned to Seattle Tuesday after spending the holidays with Mrs. VanAntwerp's mother, Mrs. Brown.

The Seguin Trading Co. have just completed their annual stock taking, and Manager Peterson reports a very large business the past year.

School opened again Tuesday with over one hundred pupils enrolled.

The clam cannery shipped ten thousand cases of clams last week. Manager John Bugge is certainly a rustler. He is employing about twenty people outside the diggers.

J. B. Middleton of the Independent Telephone Co., was a visitor in Seguin the first of the week. He reports that the company will have its new directory out in a few days.

Wanted—A schooner to carry ten tons of mixed cargo. Address J. L. Keeler, Seguin, Wn.

Go to H. L. Grant's store for bargains in holiday leftovers.

J. F. Nebergall held a successful auction of personal effects Saturday last and left with his family Monday. His jovial nature will be missed very much.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Absolutely Harmless.

JUST PHONE!

A local paper is often accused of being biased in regard to making personal notices—commenting on the comings and goings of some and omitting others. The accusation is entirely wrong and unjust. The fault is with the people and not with the editor. He is always willing and even anxious to tell who comes and goes, if he can find ont, but a country newspaper cannot afford to have half a score of salaried reporters. If you have visitors let us know who they are and where they come from; if anything happens in your vicinity let us know about it; if you die come and tell us; you will find us as ready to notice one as another, patrons or otherwise, friends or foes. There is nothing mean about an honest editor.

Order to Show Cause on Sale of Real Estate.

In the Superior Court of Clallam county, State of Washington.

In the matter of the estate of Henry Anderson, Deceased.

J. A. Johnson, the administrator of the estate of Henry Anderson, deceased, having filed his petition in this Court duly verified praying for an order of this Court for the sale of all the real estate of which the said deceased died seized, for the purposes therein set forth:

And it appearing to the Court from said petition, that the personal estate of the said deceased in the hands of said administrator being none at all and is not sufficient to pay the claims against the said estate and the expenses of the administration thereof, and that the sole heir at law of deceased is his mother Anderson residing in Sweden, Europe, that it is necessary to sell all or a portion of the real estate of the said deceased to pay said claims and expenses of the administration. And it appearing to the Court that said petition conforms to, and is in accordance with the requirements of law in such case made and provided, it is ordered by the Court that all persons interested in the estate of the said deceased appear before said Superior Court on Saturday, the 27th day of January, 1906, at the hour of 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day at the court room of the probate department of said Superior Court in the City of Port Angeles, in said Clallam county, then and there to show cause, if any they have, why an order of this Court should not be granted to said administrator authorizing and empowering him to sell the said real estate of said deceased, or so much thereof, as may be necessary to pay the aforesaid claims and expenses of administration. It is further ordered that a copy of this order to show cause be published at least four successive weeks before the said 27th day of January, 1906, in the Olympic Leader, a newspaper printed and published in said County of Clallam and of general circulation therein.

Done in open court this 26th day of December, 1905.

GEO. C. HATCH,
Judge of said Superior Court

State of Washington, County of Clallam, ss.

I, E. A. FitzHenry, County Clerk and ex-officio Clerk of the Superior Court of said Clallam County, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a full, true and correct copy of an orignal Order to show cause, made by said Court on the 26th day of December, 1905, in the matter of the estate of Henry Anderson, deceased.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Court this 26th day of December, 1905.

UPHOLD THE MAYOR

There seems to be a disposition in certain quarters—even in some where it should be least expected—to create a feeling of distrust in Mayor Appleton's plans for the building of a city water system, and to create a doubt in the minds of the people of the city as to the Mayor's ability in financing the enterprise. There can be but one object in such effort, that of throwing discredit upon the Mayor to such an extent that it will be impossible for him to succeed and thus open the way to another effort for a franchise.

This is a matter upon which the people as a whole have spoken most emphatically, and every fair minded citizen should, and will, do his utmost to overcome all obstacles in the way of success. It is not up to the Mayor to make this thing possible, neither now nor at any future time; it is up to the members of the council as representatives of the people.

GOODMAN AS CLERK

The new council organized on Tuesday evening and has taken up the work of the year. The only change in official circles of the city is the retirement of J. A. Smith as clerk, who is succeeded by E. E. Goodman. Mr. Goodman served the independent school district of Port Angeles six years as an efficient instructor; his work in that capacity was alway satisfactory, for the best interests of the school. The same energy and faithfulness that marked his school work when applied to the affairs of the city will insure success, and please the people. We are not advised of Mr. Smith's future, but trust that it will be along pleasant lines, in whatever he undertakes.

TIMELY SUGGESTION

Judge Penniman's recommendation that steps be taken to enforce ordinances restraining stock is timely. Horses have of late been turned out for exercise, or allowed to run at large, in several parts of the city, to the terror of passing children and destruction of sidewalks. Arrangements should be made for a pound and at least $5 per head charged on such stock.

It is asserted by newspapers that women are writing the best fiction of today. The head of a large publishing house goes further and declares that "nine-tenths of the good fiction of today is written by women." The substantial profits many women receive tell loudly and convincingly that in this channel their work is rated beside that of "mere man." In the light of the present discussion of the subject it is interesting to note that the January Lippincott's Magazine presents a novelette by a woman—Marie Van Vorst; five out of six of the shorter stories are written by woman; five of the eight poems are signed by women. Yet this is not by any means a "woman's number" in any other sense.

OUGHT TO BE IN PRISON

Can the Leopard Change His Spots? Has this Man Reformed, Think You?

Readers of the Olympic will remember, at the time we were advocating a more efficient patrol of the Upper Elwha last winter, the publication of a letter signed by one Humes, that "residents" on the Elwha were not guilty of violating the law protecting elk. The Olympic did not insinuate in any way that the residents of the Upper Elwha were the guilty parties, in fact we believed such parties to be residents of Angeles. But its being so denied, and the letter published being headed up in a manner to give inference that there was no slaughter of elk in that region, when it was a matter of common belief here in the city that the facts were as we alleged, has never had just the right look to us.

In this connection we publish the following letter which has just come to light, and which gives one an idea of the practices prevalent in that region:

McMurray, Wash., Nov. 10th.
Mr. ——, Pt. Angeles, Wash.

Dear Sir:— How are things up the Elwha and especially our cabin above Kranses? We boys, and also our brother Grant from New York, will probably be in Pt. Angeles in about two weeks, or a little later. We want to have an elk hunt and, if possible, get rid of some elk meat. Can you not arrange to go up with a couple of pack animals and bring out some meat, and if possible sell some on the same conditions as last year? We may be there for a few weeks, but probably not all winter. * *

Please write me immediately as to the condition of things, and also what you can do with meat.

Hope you were successful in disposing of your elk. * *

Your friend,
* *

We are withholding names, not from a desire to shield the parties, but because the deputy wardens have found sufficient evidence to warrant the belief that there is a regular traffic along the river in elk and deer meat during the winter months. One party has already been fined; others are known to be up on the trails with guns and camping equipment at the present time, and the wardens are making every effort to prevent any meat getting past McDonalds, in the hope of securing further convictions.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the Best Made.

"In my opinion Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best made for colds," says Mrs. Cora Walker, of Porterville, Cal'f. There is no doubt about its being the best. No other will cure a cold so quickly. No other is so sure a preventative of pneumonia. No other is so pleasant and so safe to take. These are good reasons why it should be preferred to any other. The fact is that a few people are satisfied with any other after having once used this remedy. For sale by W. J. Matheweon.
