An Extraordinary Sale of the Latest Styles ..of.. Spring Hats ..at..

One Half the Regular Price

We have been very fortunate in our purchase of Spring Style Hats.

A manufacturer had taken a very large order for Spring Hats from a retail merchant very early in January. Since then the retail merchant sold out his business and the manufacturer offered the Hats on hand at one-half the regular price. We purchased part of the order and offer the Hats to the Ladies of Clallam county at One Half the Regular Price as long as they last.

SURVEY IS AUTHORIZED

$880 to be Paid Seattle Engineers for Water Survey and Estimates.

Dunn, Coale & Dunn, civil engineers and surveyors of Seattle, will make surveys, and prepare plans and estimates for Angeles' new water system. Their proposal of March 5th, recommended by the special water committee, has been accepted by the council and contract for the work will be made in a day or two. It is expected that three months will be the specified time for completion of the contract, tho they may be able, by the employment of a sufficient force, to submit estimates in slightly less time. Until this work is done no further steps can be taken towards a city water system, nor can any one say from what source water should be secured, nor at what cost.

The engineers divide their proposition into that for Ennis creek without power, Little River with power, and the general distribution system. For work on the first they charge $310; on the second $420, and on the last $150, a total of $880. Should it be necessary to run the Ennis creek line further than Smith's ranch, an additional payment of $40 per mile to be made.

Their Ennis creek proposition specifies a transit and level line from Smith's ranch to the city; a plat showing location and sizes of pipe and location of two reservoirs for gravity distribution of water to high and low service systems; connection with present system by means of a main pipe on Eighth, from Washington to C, and to estimate cost of system.

The Little River line will be run from the Lewis holdings to a connection with present system; plat will show location and sizes of pipes and two reservoirs; size of pipe sufficient to carry the necessary water to develop 200 horse power.

General distribution system to subdivide city into high and low pressure systems and to use plan of present system, as far as possible in designing a distribution system to cover entire city; cost of changes found necessary in present system to be estimated also.

Ordinance regulating construction, repair and changes in halls, theaters, churches and schools was passed by council. It prohibits wheeling or circular steps, requires a platform to each ten feet rise of steps, doors of exits must open outward, regulates number of doors, etc.

Electrician instructed to notify delinquent light consumers that rents must be paid by the 10th, or lights will be cut off and action brought to recover such rents.

Bills allowed: Street work $12; setting light poles $3.60; water $4, hydrants $25; wood $119.25

A Favorite Remedy for Babies.

Its pleasant taste and prompt cures have made Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a favorite with the mothers of small children. Boosters Club Meeting

Regular meeting of the Boosters Club at the council chambers Monday evening, 12th inst. At its last session the Club decided to accept the offer of Council for use of hall, and propose to use the seventy-five dollars a year thus saved for improvement of the city park.

NEW TRAIL TO HOT SPRINGS

Famous Resort to be Ready for Guests by May 1st.

Chris Storm was in town from the Hot Springs again this week and reports the new trail, on which he has employed four men since early December, to be nearly completed. The present trail which crosses the river twice in 13 miles, is tortuous and often dangerous. The new trail will be but 10 miles long, and aside from one grade will be level as any road. There will be but one bridge and that right at the springs. The distance will be shortened three miles and the time fully two hours. Five more bath houses will be built, making ten in all, and accommodations provided for a greater number of guests. Mr. Storm will also keep provisions for sale at lower prices than they can be brought in by small parties. The trail will be finished in three weeks and the Hot Springs opened May 1st. They have had four feet of snow this winter, but its all gone except in patches.

TIMBER LAND VALUES

Earnest Effort Will be Made to Increase Revenues.

The assessor and deputies and the taxation committee from the Boosters Club met with the county commissioners this week for the purpose of getting the concensus of opinion as to a fair basis of assessing the timber lands as well as all other interests and commodities in the county. The commissioners will provide for extra help wherever necessary in order that land may be properly assessed, all timber to be actually examined. It is hoped that this necessary aid will result in a considerable increase in the total valuations this year.

The Civic Club

The Civic Club will resume its meetings on Tuesday, 13th, at the railroad offices. A full attendance is requested.

The Socialist Ladies will give a St. Patricks dance on March 17th at Norden hall. There will be a short lecture on Socialism by Mrs. Irene Smith, and dancing after. Gentlemen 25c, ladies free. Refreshments served.

We haven't the Alice Roosevelt gown on view in the Times Clothing Mart, but have a fine line of fancy ginghams and precales which surpasses in value anything yet shown in town. See our windows for the newest styles in fancy zepher ginghams and wash goods. Times Clothing Mart.

SEVEN CARGOES MINING PROPS

Probable Expenditure of Over $25,000 for Raw Material and Labor.

P. J. Woods has again secured contracts for the furnishing of timber to be used as props in the mines of Mexico and is employing every available man and team for the work. The first ship load, or sufficient thereof to keep the stevedores busy while the balance is hauled in, must be ready by April 1st. Two cargoes have so far been contracted for and Mr. Woods expects to secure other contracts in a few days. The first loads of poles, peeled second-growth fir 6 to 10 inches diameter and 12 to 32 feet long, were hauled yesterday. The Gate City Company is rushing repiling of the City Dock to enable it to carry the load.

About two years ago, or during the fall of '04, Mr. Woods shipped four cargoes, or 727,000 lineal feet, of poles to Santa Rosalie, besides several deck loads of cedar for grapevine trellis to Frisco. At one time two hundred men were employed in the work, at from $2.50 to $5.00 per day, and over $20,000 was thus brought to the county.

The Parlor Theater

L. E. Cole returned from Seattle today where he made arrangements for a weekly shipment of moving picture and illustrated song films for the entertainments he will give weekly at the Parlor Theater during the summer. The opening night, under Mr. Cole's management will be the latter part of the coming week. He has one of the best equipments manufactured and will undoubtedly make a success.

STEEL TRUST GIVES WARNING TO OPERATORS

New York, March 7—"The United States Steel Corporation will not stand for any strike at present in the bituminous coal regions, at least not in that portion from which we draw our coal. We have a 25-year contract with the Pittsburg Coal Company which must be taken care of or given up. Give these miners their advance and keep them working or the United States Steel Corporation will grant the advance themselves where it will do good. We have a year's solid work ahead and cannot afford to have our mills shut down even for a day for lack of coal."

In so many words, spoken to President Frank Robbins, of the Pittsburg Coal Company, W. Ellis Corey, president of the United States Steel Corporation, has killed all prospects of a strike among the miners of the Pittsburg district, says a Pittsburg dispatch to the Sun.

At the same time George J. Gould, representing interests in the West and Southwest, has declared himself to the leading bituimnous operators there, and as a result it was positively announced that there will be no strike of the bituimnous miners. They will get an advance. How great that advance will be is yet to be determined.

READY FOR ACTION

NEUTRAL POWERS FORCE HANDS AT ALGERICAS.

Conference Decides on Initiative of Great Britain to Proceed Immediately to the Discussion of Question at Issue—Germany, Austria and Morocco Alone in Opposition.

Algericas, Spain, March 5.—The conference on Moroccran reforms took a most important step Saturday by directing, on the initiative of Great Britain, to proceed to the immediate discussion of the police question. After Sir Arthur Nicholson, chief of the British delegation, had submitted this proposition, Marquis Viscomti Venosti, head of the Italian mission, actively seconded it, eloquently appealing for conciliation and asking for the abandonment of the absolute and unbending standpoints taken by France and Germany. His words were listened to with deference.

The voting showed that Germany had with her Austria and Morocco, while eight representatives of powers supported Sir Arthur Nicholson. Belgium and Sweden announced that they would abide by the decision of the majority.

Brought to Direct Issue.

One of the delegates then proposed that the police question be referred to a special commission, which should prepare a project and submit it to the conference, but this proposition received a negative vote.

The result of the vote on Sir Arthur Nicholson's proposal has caused something of a sensation, as it means that the delicate Franco-German contest over the policing of Morocco has been forced to a decisive issue, in which both sides will be compelled to show their hand. Moreover, the vote gave the first inidcation of the strength of the two sides. While this was not decisive, yet it disclosed that Austria and Morocco were the only countries voting with Germany.

It is understood that France will not pesent a project to the conference and that, therefore, she will be consulted simply on the question of principle involved.

Kaiser May Startle World.

Concerning a dispatch to a London newspaper from Washintgon to the effect that Emperor William contemplated a dramatic stroke by announcing to the world that France and Germany had agreed, the delegates declare that they do not possess information warranting such a statement. However, many of them admit that the character of the German emperor makes such a step possible. Herr von Radowitz, head of the German delegation, while denying the statement, expressed a hopeful view of a settlement of the controversy. Count Cassini, the chief Russian plenipotentiary, says that he pins his faith on the events of the last hour when both sides are face to face with the tremendous responsibility of the failure of the conference. On the whole, the trend of opinion among the delegates is that the reasons for optimism are growing.

Middle Course Probable.

Rome, March 5.—The official news received here from Algericas is hopeful and points to the possibility of the adoption of a middle course between the French and German pretensions, toward which Italy and Austria are working, while at the same time endeavoring to obtain the adhesion of the United States.

It is believed in official quarters here that this combination would exercise such a moral influence that it would assume almost the character of mediation. The copmromise, it is added, may consist in practically giving control of the Moroccan state bank to France, which in exchange would make important concessions regarding the control of the Moroccan police.

Pressure Applied at Berlin.

Vienna, March 5.—Diplomats here regard the situation at Algericas as more favorable. It was stated authoritatively that Austro-Hungary, Russia and the United States made strong representations to Berlin, in consequence of which Prince von Buelow, the imperial chancellor, appears to have adopted a more conciliatory attitude, and is inclined to entertain French proposals.

COLVILLE BILL PASSED

BOTH HOUSES AGREE TO OPENING OF THE SOUTH HALF OF RESERVATION.

Washington, March 6.—Representative Jones yesterday called up in the house the bill for the opening of the south half of the Colville Indian reservation to white settlement, and the measure was promptly passed.

The senate had already passed the bill and the small amendments made by the house will, it is believed, be accepted by the senate conferees.

Jewish Relief Fund.

London, March 7.—The amount which has passed through the hands of the London committee for the relief of Russian Jews is $2,354,365, including $200,000 received from America during the past week. Half of the total was collected in America.

JARVIS DECLINES OFFICE.

Alaska Governorship Lies Between Hoggartt, Perkins and Clum.

Washington, March 5.—D. H. Jarvis, ex-captain of the revenue cutter service and now engaged in business in Seattle and Alaska, has informed the president that, owing to a business agreement, he would be unable to accept the governoship of Alaska, recently tendered him. The president expressed considerable regret that Capt. Jarvis found it impossible to take the office, for he assured him that he had every confidence that he would give Alaska a splendid administration and insure to every man a "square deal."

Since Gov. Brady resigned, prominent persons from all parts of Alaska have been clamoring for the appointment of Capt. Jarvis and, were he not tied up in business, he would be glad to accept the office; but under the circumstances the president said he would abide by his decision.

The race probably now lies between W. B. Hoggett, of Juneau; W. T. Perkins, of Seattle and Nome, and John H. Clum, recently appointed postmaster at Fairbanks.

NELSON DELEGATE BILL PASSED BY THE HOUSE

Washington, March 6.—An epoch in the history of Alaska was marked yesterday, when the house passed the bill already favorably acted upon by the senate, granting the territory a delegate in congress to be elected by the votes of the people.

The measure was called up by Representative Lloyd, of Missouri, and its chief provisions were explained by Representative Cushman, who has labored for several years on behalf of this legislation. There was non debate and no objection of any kind following Mr. Cushman's remarks. Representative Lacey made a short speech, warmly advocating the measure, and it passed without a dissenting vote.

HOUSE COMMITTEE TURNS DOWN ALASKA

Washintgon, March 3.—The remote chance that congress would at this session take favorable action on a measure looking to a territorial form of government for Alaska has disappeared.

After a discussion of the general subject, lasting more than an hour, the house committee on territories, meeting behind closed doors, decided by a vote of 8 to 4 to lay the question on the table. The Alaska delegation here, and especially the veteran ex-Gov. Swineford, are deeply disappointed at the action of the committee.

WILL DROP OUSTER CASE.

Kansas to Dismiss Proceedings Against Oil Octopus.

Topeka, Kan., March 6.—Kansas will drop its ouster proceedings against the Standard Oil Company, which have been pending in the supreme court for a year. An announcement to this effect has been made by Attroney General Coleman. He will move the dismissal of te suit when the supreme court convees for its March sitting. The suit will be dismissed with the knowledge and consent of the officers and organizers of the Kansas Oil Producers' association, the body which conducted the anti-Standard crusade during the session of the legislature a year ago, according to the statement of Attorney General Coleman.

TARIFF EXTENSION.

President Makes Expected Proclamation Regarding German Tariff.

Washington, March 3.—President Roosevelt has issued a proclamationn imposing the rates of duties provided by section 3 of the Dingley act upon imports from Germany in return for Germany's concession of minimum tariff rates on United States products.

The articles and rate of duty named in the president's proclamation are the same as those now in force, which would have been terminated March 1 but for the recent action of the German government in giving this country the benefit of its minimum tariff.

Can Afford to Remit Alcohol Tax.

Washington, March 5.—Secretary of the Treasury Shaw, before the house committee on ways and means, spoke in favor of the movement for free alcohol, and said in his opinion the revenues of the country are in such condition that the government could well afford to remove the tax on denatured alcohol.

COLVILLE RESERVE BILL PASSES SENATE

Washington, March 5.—The senate has passed the bill opening the south half of Colville reservation to white settlement. This measure has already been reported favorably in the house.

Gov. Hogg Passes Away.

Dallas, Texas, March 5.—Ex-Gov. James S. Hogg died at Houston Saturday afternoon. The ex-governor had been in failing health for a year or more, but his condition was not considered dangerous by his physicians, and he was planning a trip to Michigan. Hogg reached Houston Friday night, and, feeling indisposed, took to bed at the home of Frank C. Jones, his law partner. He died at 11 o'clock Saturday.

PHILIPPINE TARIFF

SENATE COMMITTEE TABLES THE HOUSE BILL.

End, However is Not Yet, for Senator Lodge Will Appeal Direct to the Senate to Have the Measure Passed Upon—Taft Says He Has Just Begun Fight for Relief of Islands.

Washington, March 3.—By a vote of 8 to 5 the senate committee on Philippines yesterday defeated the Payne bill which had passed the touse by a vote of 258 to 71. The action of this committee had been foreshadowed for nearly a week, although the exact vote had not been known.

The senators voting for the bill were Lodge, Beveridge, Long, Carmack and McCreary. The negative votes were cast by Hale, Burrows, Dick, Nixon, Brandegee, Culberson, Dubois and Stone.

After this decisive action had been taken, Mr. McCreary moved that the bill be reported to the senate adversely, in order to give the senate a chance to consider it. Mr. Brandegee moved to table the motion, and this was carried by a vote of 7 to 6, Mr. Nixon voting with the minority on this proposition.

This action effectually disposes of the measure, unless the chairman should appeal to the senate by resolution.

After Mr. Brandegee's proposal that the bill should be tabled, Mr. Lodge, the chairman, addressed the committee. He said the course pursued was unusual, and that there could be no good purpose accomplished in thus preventing the senate from reviewing the action of the committee if it desired. The opponents of the bill made no reply.

After the bill had been effectually disposed of Mr. McCreary moved to report his bill, which provided for free trade with the Philippines immediately. This motion was lost, only four senators voting in the affirmative.

LODGE WILL ASK SENATE TO CONSIDER MEASURE

Washington, March. 5.—President Roosevelt has talked with Secretary Taft, Senator Lodge and Speaker Cannon about the refusal of the senate committee to report the Philippine tariff bill. Secretary Taft has been extremely anxious to have the measure enacted into law, and said:

"I have no idea what congress may do regarding the bill. I do not attempt to dictate to or interfere with congress, but, so far as I am personally concerned, this fight for lower tariff on Philipine products is just begun. I shall continue to do that which I believe right and proper to afford the Philippines the relief and assistance they need."

Senator Lodge, chairman of the committee on the Philippines, has decided to make a motion that the senate discharge the committee from further consideration of the tariff bill and that it be taken up for consideration. Under the rules a motion of this character is debatable. The senator proposes to make an argument in favor of the bill and ask that action be taken by the senate concerning it.

The means suggested provide the only way in which the bill may be brought before the senate, in view of the action of the committee. Opponents of the bill declare the senate is overwhelmingly opposed to the passage of the bill, and that Mr. Lodge's motion, if made, will be met with a counter motion to lay it on the table.

GOVERNMENT URGES UNION OF WATER USERS

Washington, March 7.— Instructions have been sent by the reclamation service to the representiatives of the service in the state of Washington, urging that the formation of a water users' association in the Yakima valley be hastened as rapidly as possible.

Representative Jones said yesterday that there is no obstacle now to irrigation in the Yakima valley except the lack of a water users' association. Legal questions regarding the purchase of the Washington Irrigation Company's works have been decided favorably to the proposed purchase, but the actual contract will be deferred until the government is ready to begin actual work in the Yakima valley.

Commission Seeking Counsel.

Washington, March 5.—The interstate commerce commission is hunting for a proper man to act as counsel in an exhaustive investigation to be made into railroads and their interest in properties and products shipped. Attorney C. E. Hughes will most likely be offered the position. Judge Calhoun, of Chicago, is also being considered.

To Protect Game of Olympics.

Washington, March 5.—Congressman Humphrey has introduced a bill in the house for the protection of game animals, birds and fish in the Olympic forest reserve. The penalty for infraction of the law, should the measure be enacted, is $1,000 fine and imprisonment for a period not to exceed one year.

MILLIONS FOR DEFENSE.

British Ministry Adopts Estimates of Predecessors.

London, March 7.—A memorandum attached to the army estimates has been issued. It estimates the expenditure for the current year of the army at $148,630,000, which is a reduction of only $85,000 on the previous year.

As in the case of the navy, the new government has simply adopted the estimates prepared by their predecessors. Thus, including $180,000,000 for the navy, the nation's defense bil is nearly $330,000,000, which detsroys any possibility of a large budget surplus or a substantial reduction of taxation.

The Liberal papers are disappointed that the government has seen no way to effect a greater reduction in national expenditure, which the country naturally hoped from a Liberal government pledged to retrenchment, especially as the cost of the army is now $50,000,000 yearly more than it was a decade ago.

At the same time it is considered by the Liberal press that the army should have a rest for a year from the constant projects of reorganiaztion which characterized its adimnistration under Mr. Broderick and Mr. Arnold-Forster.

Therefore, Mr. Haldane's decision to consider the matter maturely before he proposed a scheme to reduce the expenditure is generally approved by the Liberal press, and it is expected that in the course of time he will submit a plan enabling such redcution through greater reliance on militia and volunteers.

RECIPROCITY REQUESTED FOR GOODS OF BRITAIN

London, March 7—Communications have passed between Great Britain and the United States respecting the former's contentions that she should participate in the privileges granted to other nations under the Dingley act in return for the reciprocal concessions which Great Britain has made on similar representations to other countries granting the most favored nation treatment.

Great Britain also takes the grouud that, having no tariff, she, of all countries, should be favorably treated commercially. It was stated in the house yesterday that negotiations on this subject had been opened with America. This is incorrect. Thus far only communications have passed.

Washington, March 7.—The statement in the London dispatch concerning Great Britain's contention for participation in the privileges granted other nations by the United States under the Dingley tariff act, caused considerable interest here.

What reply may be made by this government to such representations it is not possible at this time to say. The United States has no commercial arrangement with Great Britain as with other countries by which the president is enabrled to extend the benefits of certain concessions in matters affecting the customs duties.

JEROME TO GET BUSY WITH GOTHAM POLICE

New York, March 7.—One of the greatest upheavals in the history of the police department is predicted as the eventual result of the trial of Berthe Clache, who yesterday pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the first degree for killing Emil Gerdron.

The girl, by virtue of an agreement between the district attorney and her lawyers, is to testify and to lay bare the system of graft practiced on women by dishonest police attached to the tenderloin precinct and "vice squad."

District Attorney Jerome will secure her testimony in the invetsigation of grafting in the police department, which, as he indicated yesterday, he is to begin immediately. It was in order to allow the girl opportunity to testify and reveal what she knows of grafting policemen and their methods that Justice Davis postponed her sentence until March 29. Between now and then the investigation will start. It is conceded that the girl will receive a light sentence in view of her revealing the facts desired by the district attorney.

Germany Hopes for Agreement.

Berlin, March 5.—The foreign office reagrds the prospects of an agreement being reached at Algericas as having been improved by the partial acceptance of the plan for the organiaztion of a state bank for Morocco. Although the most difficult question, that of the control of the police, still remains, hopes are expressesd at the foreign office that this question will also be settled.

Morocco Conference Checked.

Algericas, March 3.—Another check threatens to prolong the Moroccan conference. The Germans now wish the diplomatic corps at Tangier to exercise surveillance over the state bank, thus preventing its use for further French political designs. The French resist this, claiming that Germany is chiefly occupied with minimizing French influence in Morocco.

Land Office Nominations.

Washintgon, March 5.—The president has nominated Andrew J. Gillis to be register of the land office at Walla Walla, and Jesse G. Miller, of Dayton. Wash., to be receiver of public moneys at the same office.

Pure Blood

Is certain if you take Hood's Sarsaparilla.

This great medicine cures those eruptions, pimples and boils that appear at all seasons; cures scrofula sores, salt rheum or eczema; adapts itself equally well to, and also cures, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles; cures rheumatism and catarrh; cures nervous troubles, debility and that tired feeling.

This is proved by thousands of testimonials, 40,366 by actual count in the last two years—a record unprecedented in the history of medicine.

Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Liquid or tablets. 100 Doses One Dollar.

Mrs. Helen L. Thompson of Lewiston, Me., reports great benefit to her little girl from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which thoroughly purified her blood after an attack of that blood-poisoning disease, scarlet fever. It gave her strength and renewed health. Thousands of others tell of similar cures, also cures of scrofula, salt rheum, eczema, etc.

Do you throw away your old calendars? A Paris statistican has discovered that it is a mistake to do so, and being of an economical turn of mind, has discovered further that calendars for 1900 will serve equally well for 1906. As a rule, of course, a calendar is only of use eleven years later, and leap year upsets this calculation pretty often. But as 1900 was allotted 365 days only, instead of 366, the days of the 1906 week fit exactly those of 1900.

How to Fool a Lazy Liver with Artificial Exercise

EVERY serious Sickness has a small beginning.

And, in nine cases out of ten that small beginning is made in the Bowels.

Indigestion is the beginning of most diseases.

It paves the way for all others.

Lack of exercise, hasty eating, improper food, are its first causes.

Laziness, and postponement, permits it to grow into Chronic Constipation, which means life-long Discomfort.

It isn't necessary to be sick-a-bed, you know, in order to be mighty uncomfortable.

Even slight indigestion affects the nerves, dulls the mind, and obscures the merry sunshine of Life.

And, Indigestion once started, grows fast, corrodes temperament, and discounts happiness, good cheer, capacity.

It does that long before it puts you on the Sick list.

Every thinking Doctor knows why.

Professor Rand knew it.

That's why he framed up for students his famous formula for Happiness, viz.: "Trust in God, and keep your Bowels open."

The Bowels need adjustment from time to time, just like a clock, or a watch.

No "Good time" is humanly possible without this.

And, the time to adjust the watch is not when it has run down, nor when the main spring is broken, but at the very minute adjustment is discovered necessary.

The time to adjust the Bowels is not merely when your Head Aches, when your Liver is Sick, your Stomach in Revolt, and Nature's Food Process retarded for 24 hours or longer.

The proper time to adjust them is the very minute you suspect they need adjustment.

—If your tongue is slightly coated,

—If your breath is under suspicion,

—If your Head feels a trifle heavy or dull,

—If digestion seems even a little slow,

—If Heartburn, Belching, Colic or Restlessness begin to show themselves,

—That's the time to eat a Cascaret.

Don't imagine the Cascaret is ineffective because it is pleasant to eat as Candy.

It acts as pleasantly as it tastes. It is as congenial to your Bowels as it is to your Palate.

It is not a "Bile-driver" which floods out your stomach today with fluid juices needed for tomorrow.

But, it acts like Exercise, instead.

It stimulates the muscular lining of the Bowels and Intestines, so that they mechanically digest food and drive out the waste.

The time to use a Cascaret is when you first suspect you need one.

The only way to have them ready to use precisely when you need them is to carry them constantly in your pocket, as you do a Watch or a Lead pencil.

The ten cent box of Cascarets is made thin, flat, round-edged, and small, for this precise purpose.

Be very careful to get the genuine, made only by the Sterling Remedy Company and never sold in bulk. Every tablet stamped "CCC."

SOLD HIS NICKEL FOR 2 CENTS.

When Approached by Boy Financier, Youth Imagined He Was Gainer.

"The first and best example of real 'frenzied finance' I ever saw," said a Kansas City lawyer, "was a transaction I witnessed when I was a boy. A number of us lads of the village were picking berries for a fruit grower. When one of the boys received his pay he found that a coin that had been given him as a cent was really a discolored 5-cent piece.

"'Ho, ho!' he exclaimed, 'the boss gave me a nickel as a penny.'

"'That's right,' said another youth, examining it, 'I'll give you 2 cents for it.'

"'Huh hu, gimme three,' said the owner.

"'No, I won't,' replied the prospective purchaser, firmly.

"'All right, give me two then,' was the eager response, and the brilliant financier actually sold a 5-cent piece for 2 cents.

"The kid with the discolored nickel did not have reason or 'sense' enough to know that although he received it as a cent he could not afford to sell it for 2 cents. However, he had sufficient native cunning to refuse to sell it for 2 cents until he learned he could not get three. Right there is the difference between man's reason and an animal's instinct. I have often maintained that few human beings ever exercise reason, but go through life guided only by the cunning of the fox and other lower animals. The spectacle of this youth selling a nickel for 2 cents and believing that he had gained 1 cent on the deal is a clincher for my argument.

"That boy grew up and was never accused of being less competent than his fellow. The lad who bought the nickel for 2 cents is now a millionaire, as anyone with such ability cannot long avoid being."—Kansas City Times.

Mothers will find Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup the best remedy to use for their children during the teething period.

Everything is by comparison. Said a woman recently of a young married couple whose families are counted "immensely rich:" "They really cannot live on their income; it is shocking to pinch as they must. Why, you know, his father only gives him $10,000 a year. He has a salary of $5,000 and she has an allowance from her family of $10,000—only $25,000, with a $100,000 house to keep up. It's outrageous with all the money there is in those two families!" Twenty-five thousand dollars income and a completely furnished house and yet counted paupers by the world in which they move. Better change the orbit and come into one of common sense.

Wireless telegraphy, from a marvelously interesting scientific demonstration, has become an accepted commercial fact. Nowadays ships on the seas, that once were as entirely cut off from communication with the land as though they were on another planet, are now constantly within speaking distance of some wireless station or some sister vessel. It is all wonderful and awe-inspiring and recalls that day only three-quarters of a century ago when the first pious message of wonderment was transmitted between New York and Washington.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

"No man who hazes," says Admiral Dewey, "is less than a coward." Fortunately for one's faith in human nature there is an answer to that. "Man" in the vocabulary of colleges means "boy," and most boys live to learn. Many a youth who has done wrong of one sort or another grows to be a sensible, courageous man.

CATARRH ANNOYING—DANGEROUS

Catarrh is usually regarded as nothing more serious than a bad cold or slight inflammation of the inner skin and tissues of the head and throat, when it is, in fact, not only a vexatious and troublesome disease, but a complicated and dangerous one. It is true that Catarrh usually begins with a cold in the head, but when the poisons, which are thrown off through the secretions, find their way into the blood, it becomes a constitutional trouble that affects all parts of the body. It has more annoying and disgusting symptoms than any other disease. There is a sickening and offensive discharge from the nostrils, a constant buzzing noise in the ears, headaches and pains in the eyes are frequent, while filthy, tenacious matter drops back into the throat requiring continual hawking and spitting, and in certain stages of the disease the breath has an odor that is very offensive. Catarrh is worse in Winter, because the cold weather closes the pores and glands, and the poisons and unhealthy vapors which should pass off that way are thrown back on the tender linings and tissues, causing the inflammation which starts the unhealthy secretions to be absorbed by the blood. When the blood becomes diseased with this catarrhal matter all kinds of complications may be looked for. As the blood circulates through the body the foul matter finds its way into the stomach, ruining the digestion and producing chronic Dyspepsia, or Catarrh of the stomach. It also affects the Kidneys, Bladder and other members of the body, while the general health is weakened, appetite lost and the patient feels despondent and half sick all the time. But worst of all, if the trouble is not checked the lungs become diseased from the constant passage of poisoned blood through them, and Catarrh terminates in Consumption, the most fatal of all diseases. You cannot get rid of Catarrh by treating it with sprays, washes, inhalations, etc., because they only reach the membranes and tissues, while the real cause of the trouble is in the blood. These relieve the annoying symptoms for a time, but the poison is all the while getting a stronger hold on the system and when they are left off will manifest itself in worse form than before. S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and when it has cleansed the blood, this pure, rich stream circulates through the body, carrying healthful properties to the diseased parts. Then the inflamed membranes and tissues begin to heal, the discharges cease, the general condition of the system is strengthened, every one of the annoying and disgusting symptoms pass away, and the patient is left in perfect health. S. S. S. is the best remedy for Catarrh. It goes right into the blood and removes all effete matter and catarrhal poison and cures the disease permanently, and at the same time builds up the entire system by its fine tonic effect. S. S. S. is a purely vegetable remedy—non-injurious to the system and a certain, reliable cure for Catarrh. Catarrh sufferers will find our free consulting department helpful in advising local treatment to be used with S. S. S.

Several years ago my blood was bad and I had in addition a dreadful case of Catarrh. My nose was stopped up, I had headaches, ringing noises in my ears and felt unfit for work. I commenced the use of S. S. S. on the recommendation of a friend, and in a short time it cured me sound and well. It put my blood in good condition and I have never had the slightest return of the Catarrh since that time.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. The Board adopted the following resolution:

Whereas, By reason of the fact that the county is sparsely populated, and that many of the electors are transient men, and neither householders nor freeholders; that many are exempt because over the age of 60 years, or following the professions, or teaching in public schools, or belonging to fire departments, or holding civil offices, or having served twice as jurors within two years, it is impracticable to select more than 157 jurors known to be competent, Therefore Be It

Resolved, That only the 157 names heretofore drawn be selected as jurors.

The following resolution was presented to the Board by Commissioner Christopher.

Whereas, We believe that the best interests of Road Districts Nos. Three and Four would best be subserved by the removal from office of J. A. Rainey, Road Supervisor of District No. 3, and Guy Lesure, Road Supervisor of District No. 4, Therefore, Be It

Resolved, That the services of J. A. Rainey, Road Supervisor of Dist. No. 3, and Guy Lesure of Dist. No. 4, be, and the same are discontinued. Be it further

Resolved, That J. A. Green be appointed Road Supervisor of Road Dist. No. 3, and that Casper Maxfield be appointed Road Supervisor of Road Dist. No. 4.

The vote upon the following resolution being as follows: Commissioner Christopher voting aye, Commissioner Filion voting nay, and Commissioner Bugge not voting at all.

The board allowed the following Commissioner's claims.

A. L. Filion, 3 days salary $12 00
mileage 20c $12 20
H. J. Bugge, 3 days salary, $12.00
mileage, $5.00 ..... 17 00
H. J. Bugge mileage for session of Feb. 15th, 1906 ..... 5 00
D. A. Christopher, 3 days salary, $12.00, mileage $13.20 ..... 25 20

The board adjourned to meet Monday the 2nd day of April, 1906, at 9:00 a. m.

Afflicted with Rheumatism.

"I was and am afflicted with rheumatism," says Mr. J. C. Bayne, editor of the Herald, Addington, Indian Territory, "but thanks to Chamberlain's Pain Balm am able once more to attend to business. It is the best of liniments." If troubled with rheumatism give Pain Balm a trial and you are certain to be more than pleased with the prompt relief which it affords. One application relieves the pain. All druggists.

Eczema, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Itch, Ring Worm, Herpes, Barbers' Itch.

All of these diseases are attended by intense itching, which is almost instantly relieved by applying Chamberlain's Salve, and by its continued use a permanent cure may be effected. It has, in fact, cured many cases that had resisted other treatment. Price 25c per box. For sale by All druggists.

One would think the Laxative idea in a cough syrup should have been advanced long before it was. It seems the only rational remedy for coughs and colds would be to move the bowels and clean the mucous membranes of the throat and lungs at the same time. Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar does this. It is the Original Laxative Cough Syrup, the best known remedy for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Cough, etc. Tastes good and harmless. Sold by C. E. Nailor.

BALLARD'S HOREHOUND SYRUP

PERMANENTLY CURES
CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS, BRONCHITIS ASTHMA, SORE THROAT, HOARSENESS WHOOPING COUGH AND CROUP

DO NOT DELAY

Until the drain on your system produces permanent disability. The human breathing machinery is a wonderful system of tubes and cells. To have good health it must be kept in good order. A COLD is considered of no importance, yet if it was known by it's proper name of "throat inflammation," or "congestion of the lungs," its dangerous character would be appreciated. When a cold makes its appearance use at once Ballard's Horehound Syrup which will speedily overcome it.
WHOOPING COUGH and CROUP Require Prompt Action. SNOW LINIMENT applied to the throat and chest gives wonderful relief, while Ballard's Horehound Syrup will rapidly stop the violent paroxysms of coughing. IT IS THE ONLY COUGH REMEDY THAT WILL POSITIVELY CURE WHOOPING COUGH AND CROUP.

BEST FOR CHILDREN

Mrs. Maud Adams, Goldthwaite, Tex., writes:—"I have used Ballard's Horehound Syrup and find it the BEST medicine for croup, coughs and colds. My children use it and it is pleasant to take and quickly cures."

Worst in Nine Years

Sunday and Monday the Pacific slope experienced the severest and most wide-spread storm of the winter, attended by the coldest weather of the season in the Puget Sound country. High winds occurred throughout the region from the Strait of Juan du Fuca to the Gulf of California, blowing sixty miles an hour on the straits. The temperature was below zero east of the mountains and snow fell generally over the eastern states. Here, the first real ice of winter formed on the pools and for the first time the more newly opened and tender leaves of roses, pansies, and other flowering plants were killed, wilting in the warm sun which has followed. This much abridged specimen of an eastern winter —minus the snow—was all the more felt by reason of following a long spell of fine June weather.

A Double Birthday Prrty

A happy event transpired at the Filion-Wright Shingle Camp on Saturday evening last. The occasion was a double birthday party in honor of Mrs. Charles Filion and James Leon Wright; the parties being cousins, and their birthdays occurring at the same time. The following persons were present:

Mr. Felix Filion, Mr. and Mrs. Will Filion, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Filion, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Filion, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Mathews, Mr. and Mrs. Beaumont, Messrs. Lou Griffin, Fred Wiggins, John Woodley, Peter Peterson, Masters Emerson Mathews, Lyle Filion, Louie Filion, Herman Mathews, Jr., Misses Caroline Haller, Mamie Mathews, Josephine Haller, Rosa Haller, Beryl Filion, Esther Filion, Lila Filion. The musicians of the occasion were Herman Mathews and Lou Griffin, violinists; accompanied by Mrs. Mathews on the guitar.

The evening passed off pleasantly with games, dancing, refreshments, etc. The first diversion, although not down on the program, was the appearance of a genuine cowboy, or perhaps he was one of Roosevelt's Rough Riders. He was accompanied by a strapping female. They designated themselves as "Electric Lights," and they certainly electrified the assembly. On close observation they turned out to be Mr. Homer Filion and Fred Wright. They finally disappeared as mysteriously as they came, and games and dancing were indulged in for a time, when an elegant repast was served, followed by a poem by Sara V. Beaumont, the "Mt. Angeles poet." The lines are as follows:

With eager steps we hastened here
To greet our friends and share good cheer.
But most of all, the birthday feast
Of all good things is not the least.
It seems that Time has stayed his flight
To give us all some joy tonight,
And in return we are not loth
To wish for Grace and Leon both
That they may each and many more
Such happy birthdays to their score,
Let time go on—and so go we
To live in peace, let all agree.
This is the wish of—S. V. B.

Another increase in dividends has been made by the Northwestern Mutual Fire Association in the dwelling department. This now makes its policy holders a saving of 40 per cent. Northwestern policy holders are not complaining of high insurance rates, as they get the profits. This is not only keeping the insurance premiums in the state, but the profits are going where they rightly belong, namely, to the property owners who pay the premiums. The company now has over $13,000,000.00 of insurance in the State of Washington, which is $5,000,000.00 more than is carried by any other company.

BEAT LOTTERY OF DEATH.

AN INCIDENT OF THE CIVIL WAR.

During the great Civil War hundreds of brave soldiers who participated in that memorable conflict had very narrow escapes from death, but of them all none was more miraculous or thrilling than that of Captain John M. Flinn, a Shelbyville, Ind., boy, who commanded company F of the Fifty-first Indiana infantry and who through a most mysterious agency succeeded in escaping the penalty of death after he had drawn a "black bean" in the lottery of death and his execution at the orders of the Confederate general whose captive he was seemed inevitable.

The story of how Captain Flinn was imprisoned at Libby prison, of how he was one of a number of Union officers who had to draw in the lottery of death, of how he with one other drew a death prize as indicated by a black bean, of how on the very hour set for his execution he was given a ten days' reprieve and of how at the end of that period he finally through a mysterious agency escaped the death penalty—all these incidents form a most remarkable story, which is passing strange and in its very truth is even stranger than fiction

Among the thousands of hoosier boys who volunteered in the Union army was John M. Flinn, a Shelbyville youth, who enlisted first in company C, Seventh Indiana infantry, and later on Oct. 11, 1861, became first lieutenant of company F, Fifty-first Indiana. He became captain of the same company on Nov. 1, 1862.

Early in the year 1863, shortly after he was promoted to the captaincy of his company, Flinn was captured along with a number of other Union soldiers at the battle of Day's gap and Crooked creek, near Gaylorsville, Ala., and confined in a rebel prison.

Shortly afterward he was removed to imprisoned criminal catches at every straw which he thinks might make him free, the officers thought they were to be exchanged or discharged. Consequently they "lined up" rather cheered by the prospect.

Their bright hopes for freedom, however, were soon dispelled when all the captains from among the prisoners were summoned to the lower room of the prison. There, instead of hearing an order read for their release or exchange, they were confronted with the startling news that a special order had been issued by the Confederate war department that two captains should be selected by lot to be executed in retaliation for the execution of two Confederate officers by General Ambrose E. Burnside a short time before.

The Union captains, who with death-like stillness listened to the reading of the order, were amazed and dumfounded. What could it mean? What was to be done? What was the reason for the order? Would the rebel informer explain its full meaning to them?

These and other questions flashed through their minds and when replies were asked for Captain Turner, who had charge of the prison, refused to enlighten them. Instead, he cold-heartedly and calmly asked them:

"In what manner is it the desire of the captains that the selection be made?"

It was several moments before the company of prisoners regained their composure sufficiently to answer. Presently, however, Captain Sawyer suggested that as many beans be placed in a hat as there were captains to draw them. Since two of the captains were thus by lot to be selected for execution Captain Sawyer suggested that two of the beans be black ones and the rest white. The black beans were to represent "death prizes."

DRAWING THE "DEATH PRIZES."

Libby prison—that southern dungeon the very mention of which sent cold shudders over Union men—where he was held in confinement for many weeks. It was indeed an unkind fate that brought him behind the dingy bars of this dingy old prison. But, as brave blue-coated soldiers who found themselves there. Captain Flinn viewed his misfortune as an incident belonging to the expected events of cruel warfare and made no complaint.

When he was taken to Libby prison Captain Flinn was placed in a cell with Captain Henry W. Sawyer of company K, First regiment of New Jersey cavalry, who had fallen into the hands of the Confederates after having been in a hospital at Culpeper court house for some time. These two captured captains became fast friends and after suffering the torments and hardships of the southern prison side by side for many weeks became resigned to their fate and calmly awaited the hour when they would be liberated either by human hand or the the hand divine.

So poorly were they fed that day by day the two men, as well as many other unfortunates who were prisoners along with them, grew weaker and became thinner and thinner until they thought their very life blood would soon be sipped from their bodies. Indeed, they thought their summons of death was inevitable and that such would be their only means of freedom from the prison. To them it seemed that they would never again hear the familiar strains of a bugle call or lead the members of their companies charging against the enemy.

It was while in such a plight as this, while their spirits were exceedingly depressed and while life seemed to offer precious little for them in the future, that one day the monotony of their prison existence was broken by an inspection call. The rattle of chains the grating of the ponderous iron door of the cell which they occupied aroused them. Looking up they recognized Captain Turner, a Confederate officer, as he entered and announced that all Union officers then imprisoned were expected to "line up" for inspection.

This was on the morning of July 6, 1863, and the announcement made to all the officers who were in prison created no little excitement. At first, catching at the slightest straw which gives promise of freedom, just as the

With the approval of the plan the drawing began. Captain Sawyer drew first, Captain Flinn followed him. They both drew "black beans."

The execution was soon to follow and preparations were at once begun for the death march. The two captains were not compelled to wait long for the coming of the summons. Soon a Confederate officer appeared with a guard, who marched Flinn and Sawyer to where a car was in readiness to convey them through the streets of Richmond on to the place of execution.

Before they had reached the city limits they met a Roman Catholic bishop. Learning that they were being marched away to be executed, the bishop inquired the cause. The Confederate officer paused in his reply and at that Captain Flinn, who was a Catholic, said he was being executed without the "rites of clergy."

Fortunately for the two captains, the bishop was a friend of Jefferson Davis, and with the words that he would hasten to see Mr. Davis the bishop requested the officer to march the men away slowly and if possible delay the execution until he returned. The bishop's intercession for the condemned men was not in vain, for he came back with the word that Mr. Davis had granted them a reprieve of ten days.

Years afterward, in relating the incident to his friend, Lieutenant James M. Strading, who contributes an article to a recent number of McClure's Magazine telling the story of this "Lottery of Death." Captain Sawyer said:

"The cart moved on and the bishop hurried at a rapid pace to interview President Davis. The bishop was mounted on a full-blooded and a very spirited horse and he seemed to us to go like the wind when he started for the residence of his friend. We moved on to a small hill on which was a single tree and to this tree the car took its way. When the tree was reached ropes were placed around our necks and we were doomed to be hanged. This would have been an ignominious death if we had been guilty of any crime punishable by death, but we had committed no crime and yet we did not want to die in that way. We had a slight ray of hope in the bishop's intercession for us, but it was too slight to allay our fears for the worst.

"I was so weak that the tree and the guards seemed to be moving in a circle around me. We stood up in the cart so when it moved away we would dangle between the earth and sky and in this way our existence was to end. No courier from the bishop was in sight and the suspense was terrible for us to bear. The Confederate officer took out his watch and informed us that while his instructions were to have us executed before noon he would wait until one minute of 12 and then if there was no sign of a courier the cart would be driven away and the arbitrary orders of the war department of the southern Confederacy would be obeyed.

"Half-past 11 arrived and yet no signs of any courier from the bishop. Our legs became so weak that we could not stand any longer, so we requested that we might be permitted to sit down in the cart until the time for us to be executed arrived. Then we would stand up and the ropes could be adjusted to our necks and the execution concluded. The ropes were then untied and we were permitted to sit down on the side of the cart. Ten minutes more passed in dead silence, and yet no eye could detect any signs of a courier. At the end of another ten minutes we stood up and the ropes were adjusted to our necks and the Confederate officer was raising his sword as a sign to the driver to move away when a cloud of dust was observed in the distance and the Confederate officer hesitated for a few moments, when a horseman white with dust and his horse covered with foam dashed up to the officer and handed him a dispatch. He opened it and quickly read: 'Captains Sawyer and Flinn are reprieved for ten days.' I never felt so happy in my life, and Flinn and I embraced each other and cried like babies. The ropes were then untied and the cart started slowly back for Libby prison. Our comrades were greatly rejoiced to see us return alive and made many inquiries concerning the postponement of the execution."

It was not long after their return to Libby prison that word was sent back home by the captains that they had but ten days to live. As soon as the word was received Captain Sawyer's wife went to Washington and personally reported the matter to President Lincoln.

To the kind-hearted president, who loved his people dearly and who ever was ready to help one in trouble, the news was both startling and shocking. After studying the matter over during that night he told the woman next morning to return to her home and that he would do what he could.

And he did do what he could. He saved the lives of the two condemned captains.

Knowing that the two Confederates who had previously been executed by General Burnside, and because of which execution Captains Flinn and Sawyer were to be executed, had really been deserving of their fate, and knowing, too, that Captains Flinn and Sawyer were innocent, he delivered a message to the Confederate agent for the exchange of the prisoners to the effect that if the two men were hanged he would at once order that General W. H. F. Lee, son of General Robert E. Lee and then a federal prisoner, would be immediately executed.

The order created consternation among the Confederate authorities. But it had its desired result. Word was at once sent to Libby prison to the effect that Captains Flinn and Sawyer were not to be executed.

President Lincoln had saved their lives.

Following this the captains were confined in the dungeon of Libby prison for twenty days, when they were relieved and placed upon an equal footing with the other officers who were imprisoned.

They remained thus prisoners until March of the following year, when they were exchanged for General W. H. F. Lee and Captain R. H. Tyler, of the Confederate army, both of whom had been federal prisoners for several months

After that Captain Flinn returned to his company and served until the close of the war, when he was mustered out with his regiment. The great struggle ended, the captain returned to his home in Shelbyville, Ind. For the next few years until his death, Aug. 5, 1872, he was a familiar figure in and around Shelbyville. At the time of his death he was forty years old. He left a widow and one daughter. The daughter died several years ago, but the widow is still living in Indiana.—Chicago Chronicle.

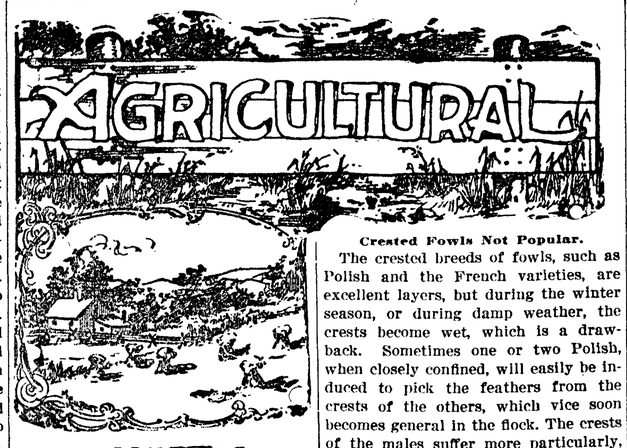
A Horse's Hands and Feet.

Now the horse never puts his heel on the ground, nor even the ball of his foot. He stands up on the very tips of his toes, and this is, in part, the reason why he can trot so fast. Dobbin's heels are half way up his hind legs, and what we call his knees are really his wrists. The part corresponding to the upper arm is short, and is so embedded in the muscles of the shoulder that the elbow comes next the body. But the horse has only one digit on each limb, and the wrist bones are comparatively small. The so-called ankle, then, is the knuckle where the digit joins the hand or the foot, and the "foot" is only a single thick finger or toe, with a great nail for a hoof. The lower half of the horse's fore leg is really a gigantic hand with only the middle finger and a piece out of the middle of the palm, while the corresponding part of his hind leg is a big, single-toed foot.—St. Nicholas.

Feline Humor.

"Does the literary atmosphere effect you any?" asked the tramp dog of the newspaper office cat.

"Oh, I drop into poetry once in a while," answered the cat, as she climbed into the waste basket and went to sleep.—Buffalo News.



A Practical Icehouse.

The plan here suggested for a small but complete icehouse will be found not only useful but decidedly a reliable guide to builders. The manner of construction is as follows: Figure 4 in the illustration shows that part of the wall extending two feet under the ground and is composed of loose stones rammed into a trench. The top of the wall, figure 3, is built one foot high with stone and cement in the usual way. Stones are filled in to the depth of a foot to form the floor of the house, figure 2, and above these is a 12-inch layer of sawdust, tramped down to give a level surface. Figure 5 shows the drain pipe. The smaller diagram shows how the lumber is put together. The boards of common lumber both inside and outside are indicated by A, while X shows the air chamber between. P indicates a layer of paper, and lastly, on the outside, the clapboards are shown at C. The illustration is plain, and will serve as a guide for building in any dimensions desired. On the farm where poultry, milk and fruit is raised an icehouse is a necessity, and if one is near a body of water that freezes, the ice obtained is worth all it costs to haul it and to build a house for it.

PLAN FOR SMALL ICEHOUSE.

Don't Sell Inferior Hogs.

Cull and cull closely. If there is any doubt remember that if sold for pork the hog is worth in most cases what it cost to raise it. If you have pigs to sell for breeders keep in mind that a worthy specimen, a better hog than was described to the buyer, will become a walking advertisement for your herd and you as a breeder. But much as such a pig and such a policy can do for you is little compared to what a poor pig cannot do ror you and your business. To ship an unworthy specimen under false representations is to buy trouble in abundance for the future.

Sheep Hay Rack Feeder.

This sheep hay rack and grain feeder can be made any size; four pieces of scantling, FA, MB, DC, EX. Join by four pieces more, AB, BC, etc., and there is the frame. Build floor of common, strong boards. Along center of floor run a piece, BO. From FM and DE run slats a, b, etc., two inches apart; there is hay rack. Get two boards, AS, B, for bottom, nine inches, and one for top, FM, and run pieces six inches apart, GH, IJ. Attach with hinges to AB. Do same at other side and board up ends. The sheep put in their heads through spaces and pick hay out of rack, floor holding waste. For grain open FB and clean out the trough, put in grain and close up. The advantages are no crowding and no waste. Sheep waste at every other rack.—Exchange.

Draughts in the Barn.

It is during the snowstorms and cold winds entering the barn that young colts, pigs and calves are checked in growth. A night's exposure in a cold barn may not harm an adult, although even in that case the animal may suffer, but the young ones will feel the cold severely. The important matter is to see that all cracks and crevices are closed. It is sometimes the case that a small stream of air will cause all the animals to be uncomfortable.

Keep Out of the Rut.

Give us the farmer who takes time to look up, now and then, to see what is going on in the world about him. Living is not all in bending the back over the hoe or in growing good crops. Life is more than a living. There is a rut in farm life, from which every farmer should try to turn.

Crested Fowls Not Popular.

The crested breeds of fowls, such as Polish and the French varieties, are excellent layers, but during the winter season, or during damp weather, the crests become wet, which is a drawback. Sometimes one or two Polish, when closely confined, will easily be induced to pick the feathers from the crests of the others, which vice soon becomes general in the flock. The crests of the males suffer more particularly, on account of their topknots being more open. One should separate them until the feathers are sufficiently grown to hide the skin. When the topknots are very large, and in wet weather it is a good plan to confine the feathers with an elastic band, but the surer method is to keep the birds under shelter during such periods.

Points on Making Hay.

This is what a Canada farmer says: If a first-class article is wanted do not leave it exposed to sun and air too long. Wild hay should be raked at once after cutting and put into cocks. Being green and heavy it will settle quickly and will not be blown around by the wind. Do not be afraid that it will spoil. I have raked it right up after the mower in the rain, and it made bright, sweet hay. I believe that farmers generally let their hay cure too much and thus lose a large amount of the substance. This plan may mean a little extra work, but I believe it pays. Try it and see.

Sheep as Gleaners.

Turn sheep almost anywhere on the farm, in the stubble field, the cornfield, around the buildings, in the garden after everything has been harvested, anywhere else that there are weeds or feed of any kind that will be wasted if they do not eat it. The sheep will not only make satisfactory gains and return a good profit on the money invested, but they will add greatly to the appearance of the place and decrease materially the weed crop another year. Sheep will eat weeds and clean up rough feed that no other stock will, and feeder sheep make very satisfactory gains indeed.

To Handle a Big Hog.

An easy way for one man to handle a large, vicious hog is by means of a ⅝-inch rope 10 feet long. Cut off three feet and tie a loop in each end, as shown in cut. Now tie the remaining seven feet to the center of the short rope midway between the loops. Pass the loops over hind feet of hog, then draw long rope between front feet and over nose, then back again over short rope, pull forward over nose and back again as before and tie. With this arrangement the hog is in complete control.—Charles C. Bower, in Practical Farmer.

Steer-Feeding Experiments.

The experiment station of the Kansas State Agricultural College, Manhattan, Kan., has just issued Bulletin No. 130, entitled "Steer Feeding Experiment VII." The object of the experiment was to test alfalfa as the sole roughage fed with corn-and-cob meal, as compared with a mixture of roughages, it being the opinion of many feeders that a mixture is preferable. In this experiment the steers getting alfalfa as the sole roughage made better gains and at less cost. The bulletin may be obtained free by applying to the station.

Poultry for Market.

Probably no article marketed from the farm sells on so wide a range of prices on account of condition and appearance as poultry. The market calls for undrawn stock. The reason of this is that drawn poultry sours in from twenty-four to thirty-six hours, while undrawn will hold from a week to two weeks without tainting. Another fact should be remembered, that the crop of the bird if filled at time of killing will sour very soon. For this reason the bird should be kept from all food (if possible) at least twelve hours before killing. But if filled, do not remove it.

Measuring Land.

A handy tool for measuring land is made from an old buggy wheel fitted to a light frame. Measure the tire and mark a point in the rim so that the revolutions of the wheel can be counted. Walk around the piece of land with the wheel and multiply the number of revolutions by the measure of the tire.

A Rooster Carousal.

Two prize roosters drank themselves to death in Allentown, Pa. They were really roosters of the Leghorn variety. They were on exhibition at a chicken show and their owner, to freshen them up a bit, gave them colchium wine, from the effects of which both died. They were valued at $500.

TOKIO'S DAILY NEWSPAPERS.

Many Little District Publications, Reminding One of Paris.

There are thirty daily newspapers in Tokio, some of them confined mainly to the particular district in which they are published, says the Atchison Globe. This is like Paris again—I insist that the Japanese are much like the French. When a newsboy appears with an extra he excites attention by tying a bell to his feet, and this clatters when he runs along.

Many of these extras are printed on one side of a sheet no larger than the Globe was when it originally appeared. I visited a newspaper office located on a prominent corner. The entrance, which was rather ornate, was cluttered up with ink barrels. There were four or five flat-bed three-revolution presses in the press-room. The Globe's press will print more papers in an hour than the presses I saw could print all day. The guide said the newspaper was a reliable one, but not particular prominent. He then took me to see the office of the leading newspaper in Japan. In its pressroom it had a new Hoe press of the latest pattern and an old perfecting press in a room adjoining. The mailing room had a dirt floor and the pressroom was heated with a little coal stove, one of the kind you see in a $1-a-week room at home.

Every editor and reporter has a rickshaw man, and a number of these were waiting in the lobby. In New York and Chicago the newspaper offices are among the great show places. I do not believe the Japanese know as much about the newspaper as they know about war.

I asked the guide if the Japanese newspapers use linotypes, but he didn't understand me, so you can have it any way you choose.

Worst in Nine Years

Sunday and Monday the Pacific slope experienced the severest and most wide-spread storm of the winter, attended by the coldest weather of the season in the Puget Sound country. High winds occurred throughout the region from the Strait of Juan du Fuca to the Gulf of California, blowing sixty miles an hour on the straits. The temperature was below zero east of the mountains and snow fell generally over the eastern states. Here, the first real ice of winter formed on the pools and for the first time the more newly opened and tender leaves of roses, pansies, and other flowering plants were killed, wilting in the warm sun which has followed. This much abridged specimen of an eastern winter—minus the snow—was all the more felt by reason of following a long spell of fine June weather.

A Double Birthday Prrty

A happy event transpired at the Filion-Wright Shingle Camp on Saturday evening last. The occasion was a double birthday party in honor of Mrs. Charles Filion and James Leon Wright; the parties being cousins, and their birthdays occurring at the same time. The following persons were present:

Mr. Felix Filion, Mr. and Mrs. Will Filion, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Filion, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Filion, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Mathews, Mr. and Mrs. Beaumont, Messrs. Lou Griffin, Fred Wiggins, John Woodley, Peter Peterson, Masters Emerson Mathews, Lyle Filion, Louie Filion, Herman Mathews, Jr., Misses Caroline Haller, Mamie Mathews, Josephine Haller, Rosa Haller, Beryl Filion, Esther Filion, Lila Filion. The musicians of the occasion were Herman Mathews and Lou Griffin, violinists; accompanied by Mrs. Mathews on the guitar.

The evening passed off pleasantly with games, dancing, refreshments, etc. The first diversion, although not down on the program, was the appearance of a genuine cowboy, or perhaps he was one of Roosevelt's Rough Riders. He was accompanied by a strapping female. They designated themselves as "Electric Lights," and they certainly electrified the assembly. On close observation they turned out to be Mr. Homer Filion and Fred Wright. They finally disappeared as mysteriously as they came, and games and dancing were indulged in for a time, when an elegant repast was served, followed by a poem by Sara V. Beaumont, the "Mt. Angeles poet." The lines are as follows:

With eager steps we hastened here
To greet our friends and share good cheer.
But most of all, the birthday feast
Of all good things is not the least.
It seems that Time has stayed his flight
To give us all some joy tonight,
And in return we are not loth
To wish for Grace and Leon both
That they may each add many more
Such happy birthdays to their score,
Let time go on—and so go we
To live in peace, let all agree.
This is the wish of—S. V. B.

Another increase in dividends has been made by the Northwestern Mutual Fire Association in the dwelling department. This now makes its policy holders a saving of 40 per cent. Northwestern policy holders are not complaining of high insurance rates, as they get the profits. This is not only keeping the insurance premiums in the state, but the profits are going where they rightly belong, namely, to the property owners who pay the premiums. The company now has over $13,000,000.00 of insurance in the State of Washington, which is $5,000,000.00 more than is carried by any other company.

COURT CALLS A HALT

SAYS LICENSING BUSINESS IS CARRIED TO FAR.

If It Continues, It Will Not Be Long Before No Man Can Engage in Honest Toil Without a License—Liberty Not Secondary in Our Fundamental Law.

Olympia, Wash., March 10.—The state plumbing board has been wiped out by the supreme court in the decision of the case of A. J. Richey against Sheriff L. C. Smith, of King county. Richey was arrested and fined $15 and costs in justice court in Seattle for doing work as a journeyman plumber without securing a license from the state plumbing board.

Riley sued on a habeas corpus application, which the superior court denied. An appeal was taken. The supreme corut in its opinion says in part as follows:

"The doctor, the lawyer, the dentist, the baker, the horseshoer and the plumber have already received favorable consideration at the hands of our legislature, and the end is not yet, for the nurse and the undertaker are knocking at the door.

"It will not do to say that any occupation that may remotely affect the public health is subject to this kind of legislation. If so, it will be but a short time before a man cannot engage in honest toil to earn his daily bread without first purchasing a license or permit from some board or commission.

"The public health is entitled to consideration at the hands of the legislative department, but it must be remembered that liberty does not occupy a secondary place in our fundamental law.

"We are not permitted to inquire into the motive of the legislature, and yet, why should a court blindly declare that the public health is involved when all the rest of mankind know full well that the control of the plumbing business by the board and its licensees is the sole end in view?

"We are satisfied that the act has no such relation to the public health as will sustain it as a police or sanitary measure, and that its interference with liberty brings it in direct conflict with the constitution of the United States."

Justice Rudkin wrote the opinion, which is signed by Chief Justice Mount and Justices Dunbar, Fullerton and Hadley. Justice Crow files a dissenting opinion.

The court also wiped out the act of the legislature of 1905 requiring the payment of a $300 annual license by agents of agricultural machinery and carriage houses of other states who do business in Washington. The decision was made in the habeas corpus application of George T. Bacon. Bacon is the agent of the Spaulding Manufacturing Company, of Grinnell, Iowa, and sold a wagon in this state without procuring a license.

The supreme court goes into the matter at length. It holds that the act is discriminatory, is an interference with interstate commerce and is unconstitutional because it applies only to the sale of goods manufactured without this state and requires no such license for articles made in Washington. The writ is ordered issued and that Mr. Bacon be discharged from custody and the charge against him dismissed.

OKANOGAN IRRIGATION PROJECT IS APPROVED

Seattle, March 12.—Engineers of the reclamation service have practically completed the plans and specifications for reclaiming 10,000 acres of land in Okanogan county, lying between Alma and Riverside, and to supply 2,000 acres in the same section that are now being watered by private interests.

H. C. Richardson, president of the Okanogan Water Users' Association was in the city Saturday on his way home from a trip to Portland, where he was called to consult with the reclamation engineers in regard to the project. Mr. Richardson states that the plans for the construction of this irrigation system have been approved, and the engineers will be ready to commence actual construction work within a short time. The full plans will be ready in about ten days, and a corps of engineers will be on the ground within the next two or three weeks.

The owners of the property to be irrigated under this scheme have complied with the requirements of the government, and the members of the Okanogan Water Users' Association have also signed the necessary papers.

To Remove Tax on Alcohol.

Washington, March 12.—The house committee on ways and means has asked Chairman Payne to appoint a sub committee of four, with himself as chairman, to draw a committee bill for the exemption from internal revenue tax of grain alcohol rendered unfit for drinking purposes and designed for domestic and industrial use.

Initiative and Referendum in Ohio.

Columbus, O., March 12.—The senate, by a vote of 23 to 13, has adopted a resolution providing for submission to the people of a constitutional amendment permitting the people to initiate and to vote on legislation. The resolution has not been acted upon by the house.

CHELAN NATIONAL PARK.

Wenatchee Commercial Club Endorses the Proposal.

Wenatchee, March 12.—Resolutions favoring making the Lake Chelan region into a national park were adopted by the Commercial Club here The matter was brought before the club by Julian Itter, an artist from Spokane, who has painted a number of views of the scenery of the park.

Mr. Itter believes that the scenery of Lake Chelan is as beautiful as any that is to be seen at the national parks in the Yosemite valley in California and the Yellowstone park in Wyoming. The resolution proposes having the government immediately set aside 300 miles adjacent to the lake as a forest reserve and later converting it into a park.

Game of all sorts abounds in the Lake Chelan region, and Mr. Itter believes that a national park would do much to keep the animals from extermination.

The move which has been started by Mr. Itter has the approval of Senators Ankeny and Piles and of prominent men all over the state. Mr. Itter lately brought the matter before the Spokane Chamber of Commerce and the One Hundred and Fifty Thousand Club, and both organizations are working for the scheme.

ANTHRACITE OPERATORS REFUSE MINERS DEMANDS

New York, March 12—The demands of the United Mine Workers of America for a readjustment of wages has been considered and denied by the committee representing the anthracite operators. As a counter proposition the operators suggest that the awards made by the anthracite coal strike commission, the principles upon which they were established by the commission, and the methods established for carriyng out their findings and awards shall be continued for a further term of three years from the first day of April next. The present agreement terminates March 31 of this year.

Announcement of the anthracite operators' decision and their counter proposition was made in a long formal statement, which was given out for publication. This statement includes the correspondence on the subject at issue between President John Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers, acting for the miners, and George F. Baer, president of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal and Iron Company, for the operators. It discusses the miners' proposition in detail.

Reasons Given by Operators.

In every instance the contention is made by the operators either that the conditions in the coal fields do not warrant the change proposed by the miners, or that the questions at issue already have been acted upon by the strike commission.

The demand of the miners that the operators enter into an agreement with the union is declined on the ground that the anthracite operators "stand unalterably for the open shop and again decline to make an agreement with the United Mine Workers of America, an organization controlled by a rival industry."

Of the demand for an eight hour day the statement says the operators know of no change in conditions that can be used to sustain the renewed demand for a redcution in hours; declares that the declaration of the strike committee that the reduction from ten to nine hours would not result in any decrease in the output of the mines has not been realized, and adds:

"We might justly say that with the experience of the past three years, the ten hour day should be restored, but we are willing to abide by the decision of the commission."

The proposition that a uniform scale of wages be established in the anthracite fields is met by the operators with the reply that this would be impracticable by reason of the varying capacities of the workmen and the varying conditions existing in the region and at the collieries.

"We cannot increase wages without avancing the price of coal, and we are not willing to advance the price of coal," is the reply to a general demand for a general increase in wages.

TO KEEP FORT DAVIS.

Secretary of War Decides Not to Abandon Alaska Post.

Washington, March 12.—The plan of the general staff of the army to abandon Fort Davis, the military post established in 1900 near Nome river, Alaska, will not be carried out at present. Secretary Taft has intervened in the matter by instructing Lieut. Gen. Bates to take no action in the matter without first consulting him. This means that the post will be continued indefinitely, for the secretary believes it is unnecessary, if not unwise, to remove the military garrison at present.

Fort Davis was established at a time when upwards of 20,000 people were in Nome or the immediate vicinity, and when the conditions in the country were extremely unsettled. The general staff has recently taken the view that, since the region is quiet and law-abiding, and since the expense of maintaining the post is larger than in other parts of Alaska, Fort Davis should be abandoned.

For Work on Columbia.

Washington, March 12.—A favorable report has been ordered by the senate committee on commerce on the bill to appropriate $400,000 for completing the improvement at the mouth of the Columbia river.

MANY MOROS SLAIN

GEN. WOOD REPORTS SEVERE FIGHT NEAR JOLO.

United States Troops, a Naval Contingent and Constabulary Engaged for Greater Part of Two Days—Fifteen Americans Killed and Thirty-Six Wounded.

Manila, March 10.—Major General Wood reports from Jolo as follows:

"A severe action has taken place between troops, a contingent of the naval department, the constabulary and a body of hostile Moros at Mount Dajo, near Jolo, opening on March 6 and ending on the morning of March 8.

"The action involved the capture of Mount Dajo, a lava-capped cone, 2,100 feet high from the crater on the summit, extremely steep, the last 400 feet being at an angle of 60 degrees. Traversing its slopes are fifty perpendicular ridges, covered with a growth of timber, strongly fortified and held by an invisible army.

"The army casualties were fifteen enlisted men killed, four commissioned officers wounded and thirty-two enlisted men wounded.

"The naval casualties were:

"Ensign H. D. Cook, commanding the Pampanga, wounded in the foot, severe; Gilmore, coxswain, wounded in the elbow, severe. The constabulary casualties were:

"Capt. John R. White, wounded in the thigh, severe. Three enlisted men were killed and thirteen wounded.

"The wounded are doing well.

"The action resulted in the destruction of a band of outlaws, recognizing no chief, that had been raiding friendly Moros on the target range at Jolo and through defiance had stirred up a dangerous condition of affairs.

"Col. Jos. W. Duncan, of the Sixth infantry, directed the operations.

"All the defenders of the Moro stronghold were killed, and 600 bodies were found in the works.

"The artillery lifted a block and tackle a distance of 300 feet into position on the tip of the crater.

"The officers and men engaged highly commend the Moro constabulary, who did excellent work, their casualties numbering seventeen out of the force of forty-four engaged.

"It is impossible to conceive of a stronger natural position than that attacked."

NO MORE CROP REPORTS.

Government Has Abandoned That Branch of the Service.

Seattle, March 14.—The various stations of the weather bureau will hereafter make no more reports of crops and the abandonment of this branch of the service has already gone into effect.

This action was taken as the result of a recent order from Washintgon, and from this time on the army of observers will confine their attention to the strict forecasting and recording of temperature, precipitation and barometric pressures.

The abolition of the crop report has been brought about through the constant inacuracies that crept in through no fault of the bureau or its officials. It arose, according to those conversant with the workings of the bureau, from the tendency of the farmers themselves, on whom the bureau relied for observations, to constantly underquote crop returns and outlook, according to their desires to sell, a big crop report having the tendency to depress prices.

Those in position to know state that a resumption of the crop report will take place only when the department of argiculture can put a trained force into the field just for this purpose.

Against Campaign Contributions.

Washington, March 14.—The senate comimttee on privileges and elections has instructed a sub-committee to examine the several bills to prohibit national banks from contributing money for campaign purposes, and report if, in their opinion, any of these measures, if enacted into law, would prevent such contributions in the future.

Governor Promises Disclosures.

Des Moines, Ia., March 14.—The house by a vote of 73 to 6 passed the Gillitand resolution calling on Gov. Cummins to make good his charges that railroad influence was used to defeat the primary bill. The governor promises now to make the disclosures which he claims to have regarding the work of the lobbyists in the state.

Extend Terms of Congressmen.

Washington, March 12.—The house committee on the election of the president, vice president and representa tives in congress has agreed to make a favorable report on a bill providing for the extending of the term of members of congress to four years and for election of senators by popular vote.

For High Saloon License.

Columbus, O., March 14.—The house last night, by a vote of 66 to 46, passed the Aikin bill increasing the Dow tax imposed upon saloons from $1,500 to $3,000. The passage of the bill is attributed largely to the recent riots in Springfield.

For Government Powder Plant.

Washington, March 14.—The senate comimttee on appropriations has added an amendment to the fortifications appropriations bill providing for a government powder factory.

FRIEND OF RICH AND POOR.

Noted New York Divine, Who Has Resigned.

The resignation of Rev. William S. Rainsford as pastor of St. George's Episcopal Church in New York takes from the ministerial life of the metropolis one of its most brilliant clergymen and one who became widely famous through his pulpit utterances and the unique methods he employed in advancing the cause of Christianity. Dr. Rainsford's resignation came in the form of a letter from the eminent divine in Cairo, Egypt, and was addressed to J. Pierpont Morgan, senior warden of the church. It was read to the congregation Sunday, and in it the pastor explained that he was reluctantly compelled to relinquish his duties as head of the flock because of continued ill-health.

Dr. Rainsford was born in Dublin, Ireland, and is only in his fifty-fifth year. He was graduated from St. John's College, University of Cambridge, England, in 1873, and two years later became a priest. His first post was as curate in Norwich, England. Subsequently he made a tour of the United States and Canada, devoting his time to evangelistic work. In 1878 he became assistant rector of the Cathedral of St. James in Toronoto, where he remained until 1883, when he was called to the pastorate of St. George's Episcopal Church in New York City.

When he accepted charge of St. George's he found that in the onward march of wealth up Fifth avenue he had a large and wealthy parochial list, but few worshipers. He perceived instantly the good that could be done to the thousands of poor on the east side. He determined to throw open his church to them and yet keep his wealthy parishioners. He built a parish house with clubrooms for boys and girls, with a gymnasium. He organized educational classes for the young men and women. He drew into an enlightening circle uneducated men and women and inspired them to a better life. He established a trade school for the boys and founded a seaside cottage for the weak and suffering. In all his work he kept the wealthy interested and many prominent society women assisted in the educational classes. His work grew greater every year. He strove to make its scope still greater; but finally the strain was too great and he had to yield. More than a year ago he broke down from the labor that devolved upon him.

Dr. Rainsford beame a mighty power for good in the metropolis. He attacked shams and hypocrisies with unrelenting hand and his utterances were widely quoted. His liberal views on the temperance question caused a great deal of comment and some criticism. In Cooper Union some years ago he declared that the present methods of dealing with drunkards were sometimes misdirected and always inadequate. "There are enough sins in the world without making it a sin to drink," said Dr. Rainsford. "Some men want beer, and it's no more a sin for a man to drink beer than it is for a man to drink coffee."

He was often referred to as an example of muscular Christianity. He possessed an attractive personality. More than 6 feet 2 inches tall and athletic, he appealed to the eye as to the heart. He won the hearts of many persons who never thought of going to church. He can box with superior skill, is a crack shot, and the wildest game of Canada and the Rockies has fallen before him. He is an enthusiastic fisherman, too.

In Dr. Rainsford's congregation some of the wealthiest and most prominent men in New York were leaders. Among his closest friends and helpers was J. Pierpont Morgan. R. Fulton Cutting and ex-Mayor Seth Low are also members of the church. This, however, did not keep Dr. Rainsford from frequently scoring society and the wealthy.

Queer Vote Collections.

Collections of voices are being made for various purposes. The phonograms of the British Museum are designed to preserve for future generations the voices of famous people of our time; but the Vienna Academy of Sciences is going further, and seeks phonograms of languages and dialects for the comparative study of languages.

Already its collection includes popular songs of gypsies and Arabians favorite airs of red Indian tribes, the idioms of negroes and Malays, and so on. It is sending out special voice-hunting expeditions every year, and its agents are now scouring Australasia, Roumania, Istria and other localities. Its latest plan is to phonograph the voices of animals for scientific study.

We worry as if we had to go through a whole year to-morrow, instead of just one day.
