TERRIFIC STORM ON STRAITS

Waves Mountain High; Great Destruction on Angeles Water Front

During the terrific northeaster prevailing on the straits Sunday the steamer Transport, anchored in Port Angeles harbor, "broke her anchor chains and lies a total wreck on the beach; the crew were saved."

Such are the statements made by the P.-I. and other upsound papers regarding the effects of the recent storm—from them one would draw the impression that our harbor is practically an open roadstead. As a matter of fact, a northeast wind is the only one that can raise a surf along our water front and such winds, occurring but two or three times a year, seldom lasting more than three hours, and being generally on a receding tide, do no damage. Yet the storm of Sunday last is said to have been the most severe since 1890-1, a period of fifteen years.

Every winter upsound points experience a succession of southerly storms—from which we are completely sheltered by the Olympic range—often causing ships to drag at anchor, or even to go upon the beach, and wrecking old buildings along the waterfront. At such times, while the surf is being thrown over two story buildings and across the street, and while mail boats lie behind the shelter of wharfs, the bay here at Angeles is like a mirror of glass — its customary condition.

It was due, partially to the continuance of the blow until and during high tide and partially to the sense of security which the immunity of years has engendered, that the storm of Sunday caused any damage at all. While there are a half dozen buildings standing over the water on a few teredo-eaten piles, all of which might easily have been wrecked by the battering of floating logs, but one went down, the Chambers livery barn—and it has been emulating the Japanese juggler on his bamboo pole for these many years. Four or five horses dropped into the shallow water when the corner of the barn settled, but they easily reached shore. The remaining horses, carriages, hay, etc., were removed and no loss occurred except to the old building, which has since been torn down. The property belongs to C. W. Thompson of Dungeness. Mr. Chambers has leased the adjoining barn and will rebuild part of the old.

One of the sections of long piles, tied up alongside the City dock for use in the repair work going on, broke loose and knocked a few piles out from under Gutenberg Bros.' double store building, causing a section of the floor to settle an inch or so, and the hardware and furniture was temporarily removed. They are, however, again doing business at the old stand.

And the Gate City Contracting company's pile driver, which, owing to the large size of its barge and its location caught the full force of the surf, broke from its moorings and cut a swath out of Front street extension, its upper works being torn off in its efforts to reach the beach. This was the only other loss resulting from the storm, tho as the engine was on the dock at the time it was not so bad as might be. The company is working right along driving piles in the City dock and will also be able to handle their contracts on the Morse dock and the extension to the Craig dock with their No. 2 outfit, after which they will rebuild the big driver.

The extension has long been condemned and fenced up; it is useless and has gradually been falling to pieces; people have broken thru apparently sound planks, and its a blessing it was cut in two, before some of the entirely unsupported spans fell beneath the weight of foolhardy pedestrians.

The steam barge Transport, which the Angeles correspondent of the P.-I. had a total wreck on the beach, took on a partial load of stone and left for Seattle Wednesday; had she had an ordinary anchor cable, such as used by the ships and tugs anchored in the harbor at the time, or had she been able to steam against an ordinary tide, she would not have drifted to the sandy beach.

Lots Will Be Re-appraised

On March 2d, the committee appointed by the city council at the request of the Commercial Club, Messrs. Grubb, Brumfield and Thompson, met with Lauredsen, White and Appleton, representing the Commercial Club, and drafted a letter to Congressman Cushman requesting his influence and aid in securing a reappraisement of the ten-acre blocks forming the western part of the townsite, the object being to get them put on the market at such prices as would insure them passing private ownership.

Secretary White, of the Commercial Club, on Thursday received a letter from Mr. Cushman in which he states he will take up the matter immediately and that he thought he could secure the desired reappraisement by the first of June.

Secretary Aldwell of the Boosters Club, who had taken the matter up, sending plats and detailed information, has also received letters from our senators and congressmen, promising us prompt action, so that we will doubtless be able to get this property on the tax rolls by the next assessment.

Three Alarms in One Day

Three alarms of fire were turned in last Saturday during the high wind, all being quickly extinguished. The first was due to sparks falling in the gutter between Cole's restaurant and the Angeles Creamery and was the only genuine fire of the winter, burning a small hole in the roof. Mr. Cole's chief complaint was in the loss of his soup, in the addition of too much water. A burning chimney called a few members of the department to the Schuler residence with extinguishers, and at the same time a blazing chimney in Albert Goldwater's building created momentary excitement.

To Our Kind Friends

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to each and everyone of the many who so kindly turned in and helped in the removal of our large stock when our building was in danger Sunday morning—especially the members of the fire department, and Messrs. Short, Willson, Merritt and Belford, who so managed the work that there was but little damage done to our goods. May you never meet with misfortune, is our earnest wish, but should you, we trust it will be where as many ready hands and willing hearts combine to render assistance.

We have replaced the broken piling and are again located at the old stand, where we will be pleased to have all our old customers and many new ones call.

Very truly yours,

TO BEGIN INQUIRY

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION GETTING READY.

Investigation of Connection of Railroads With Coal and Oil Business Under Direction of Congress Will Be Extensive. Begins at Kansas City.

Washington, March 13.—The interstate commerce comimssion has taken preliminary steps toward compliance with the Tillman-Gillespie resolution adopted by congress, directing the comimssion to make an inquiry into alleged restraints of certain railroads in the handling of coal and oil.

Yesterday the committee announced that Edward B. Whitney, of New York, and William A. Glasgow, of Philadelphia, had been retained as specialc ounsel for the investigation. The inquiry will be directed toward traffic to tide water and the interior as well.

Hence the hearings will cover the East and Middle West. Just how long it will take to conclude the investigation and obtain the facts called for by the resolution is probleamtical.

Begins at Kansas City.

Kansas City, March 13.—Acting upon resolutions passed by both houses of congress, three members of the interstate commerce commission yesterday began an investigattion of the charges made by independent oil producers of Kansas that the railroads of Kansas discriminate in favor of the Standard Oil Company in the matter of rates outside that state.

The members of the interstate commerce commission who will make the investigation are: Francis M. Cockrell, Judson C. Clements and Charles A. Prouty.

John T. Marsh, who has been in the Southwest for the past two weeks making a preliminary investigation of the producers' charges, was present as attorney for the committee.

Frank S. Monett former attorney general of Ohio, and Clifford Thorne, of Washington, Ia., were present as counsel for the independent producers.

The railways also had representatives at the investigation.

Among the spectators was C. D. Chamberlain, of Cleveland, O., secretary of the National Petroleum Association, comprising the independent refiners of Ohio and Pennsylvania. He said he was here to watch the proceedings in the interests of his association.

LINEVITCH GIVES ADVICE

General Tells Czar of Conditions Existing in Manchuria,

Tsarkoe-Selo, March 12.—General Linevitch's report regarding the future of Russia in the far East is pessimistic. He claims that Japanese orces in Manchuria are intact and liable to open hostilities at any time. They argue that many breaches of faith on the part of the Russians invalidate the peace treaty and give hem the right to make additional demands. The general says the disaffection in the army is not serious, but the administration is bad. He advises that the Siberian railroad be turned over to a private company, that the investigation directed against military chiefs be dropped, that soldiers be treated with liberality and that a strong garrison be maintained in Manchruia.

The czar is said to have agreed with the views expressed by Linevitch. All the defeated generals will be given lucrative positions. In the Amur region the Cossack land system will be introduced and the land will be distributed among the soldiers who remain in the military service. Immigration of Russian peasants will be assisted with subsidies and thus Manchuria will be Russified.

HALF OF STATEHOOD BILL STRICKEN OUT

Washington, March 10.—Late yesterday afternoon the senate passed a bill for the admission of a new state to be called Oklahoma, and to be composed of the territory of Oklahoma and Indian territory.

It was the house joint statehood bill, with all the provisions relating to Arizona and New Mexico stricken out.

The motion to strike out was made by Mr. Burrows, and it was carried by the close vote of 37 to 35, after having been lost by the still closer vote of 35 to 36.

Immediately after the disposal of the statehood bill the house railroad rate bill was made the unfinished business.

The vote on statehood came as a climax of a day devoted exclusively to that measure.

Track Meet Not Abandoned.

Seattle, March 12.—Contrary to report, the University of Washington has not called off and will not call off the big triangular track meet with the Universities of Oregon and Idaho. At the regular meeting of the board of control of the Associated Students, the question was discussed of financing the triangular track meet and boat race, and it was decided to go ahead with no change in the program, both events coming off as scheduled.

AGREEMENT EXPECTED

Peaceful Outcome of Algericas Conference Now Predicted.

Algericas, March 12.—The committee having in charge the adjustment of the remaining differences between France and Germany over the Moroccan police question and the question of the bank, assembled twice yesterday.

On the bank question an agreement was reached on every point except the allotment to the capital, which will probably be left to the decision of the conference.

The police question was not touched during the sittings yesterday. The delegates, however, went over the situation formally, and a feeling of confidence reigns among the representatives of the neutral powers that a settlement of the question will be reached within a week.

London, March 12.—The correspondent of the Daily Mail at Algericas represents France as being coerced by the neutral powers into making concessions on the police question, probably as the result of apprehension on the part of the powers that the failure of the conference would mean war. The correspondent declares that for France to enter Morocco as one of two powers subject to the domination of a third power, would be suicidal. It would be better for France, he says, to surrender all her interests in Morocco rather than to suffer such a loss of prestige.

CZAR THREATENS USE OF SEVERE MEASURES

St. Petersburg, March 14—Epmeror Nichoas, in receiving a deputation of Tula peasants, who presented him yesterday with a loyalist address and an ikon, made the following significant reamrks:

"Do not allow yourselves to be influenced by the enemies of public order, who are going throughout the villages exciting the peasants. Do not take the law into your hands, but deliver the agitators to the authonrities, by whom they will be judged with all severity."

Ugly reports of another general railroad strike in Moscow are current. The government is taking exceptional precautions, and battalions of sappers are being massed at Moscow to take the places of strikers, and military trains are held in readiness at the various stations to proceed in any direction.

It is rumored that the officers of a guard regiment, upon receiving orders to go to the Baltic provinces to participate in the "pacification" of the country, met and resigned in a body.

Moscow, March 14.—Fears of a railroad strike are growing. The Nicholas station was occupied by troops last night. A battalion of armed reserves has been sent to Rybinsk owing to fear of agrarian troubles in the upper Volga region.

Rostoff on the Don, March 14.—With the advance of spring there are symptoms of a reappearance of agrarian troubles in a number of places in St. Vrapol province. The peasants are refusing to plow the land for the proprietors, and indefinite reports from other provinces show that the peasants are boldly seizing and sowing the estates of the land owners. This is too early, however, to deterimne how serious it will become.

Lodz, Russian Poland March 14.—Mariavitisa, a new Catholic sect, which is gaining converts by the thousands, is arousing intense hostility on the part of the orthodox Catholics here and serious clashes are occurring.

St. Petersburg, March 14.—The government has sent a circular to the governors general and the governors of provinces instructing them that persons taken into custody for political offenses must within twenty-four hours be confronted with the charges and allowed to make explanation.

The circular also generally insists upon expeditiong the trial of political prisoners. This step is the result of the tremendous outcry raised against the arbitrary action of the local militia in arresting suspects and holding them without trial or exiling them by administrative order. Over 70,000 persons have been arrested in European Russia since the government entered into its active campaign aaginst the revolutioninsts.

New French Cabinet.

Paris, March 12.—The efforts of M. Sarrien to form a cabinet have not yet been concluded., two places yet remaining to be filled. M. Sarrien will take the premiership and the ministry of justice; M. Bourgeoise or M. Clemenceau will take the ministry of the interior; M. Briand will be minister of instruction; M. Poincare, minister of finance, and MM. Thomson, Rau and Etienne will retain respectively the portfolios of marine, agriculture and war held by them in the Rouvier cabinet. Only the ministries of commerce, works and colonies remain unfilled.

Chinese Commission at Washington.

Washington, March 12.—The imperial commissioners, Prince Tsai Tseh, Sheng Chi Hong and Li Shengte, have arrived here from New York. Last night the commissioners were entertained by the Chinese minister. Today they are sightseeing. They also called on the president and Secretary Root, returning later to New York preparatory to sailing for Europe.

SIBERIA TO ALASKA

RUSSIAN OFFICIALS INDORSE THE BERING SEA TUNNEL.

Czar Grants Hearing and Appoints Mixed Commission to Consider Concession Asked by American Trans-Alaskan Siberian Company.

St. Petersburg, March 12.—A more favorable attitude is being taken here toward the scheme for a tunnel under Bering strait and an all rail route from the United States to Europe.

Baron Loicq de Lobel, representing the American Tanas-Alaskan Siberian Company, is again pressing the project vigorously, and has made considerable progress toward securing a desired concession from Russia.

A distionct party of the government, which has the sympathy of Premier Witte, earnestly favors closer commercial relations with the United States and this project appeals to it, not only as a method for accomplishing this end, but for developing the resources of Siberia.

The copmany, which believes the Siberian side is as rich in gold as the Alaskan side, offers to construct the tunnel and build a road 3,000 miles in length from East cape to Kansk, in the government of Yeniscisk, where it will join the Siberian railway, on condition that alternate sections of eight miles on each side of the line, together with the mining concessions covered, be granted the copmany.

Reports concerning the engineering difficulties and the financial responsibility of the promoters have been submitted and were in general favorably received by the ministers.

Czar Names Commission.

Emperor Nicholas has created a mixed commission, before which Baron de Lobel will make a final argument March 15, and ask for eighteen months in which to complete the arrangements and ten years to finish the road.

Should Russia, for strategic reasons, ask that the road, instead of following the Lena river, go directly eastward from Kansk to the point where connection will be made with Khabaroska, involving a detour of 1,200 miles, the copmany is willing to aceept this on condition that American materials be admitted free.

Generally speaking, the activity of Americans in seeking to secure concessions has aroused the ire of the radical papers, which see therein an attempt on the part of the old bureaucracy to "sell Russia to foreigners on the eve of the convocation of the douma."

W. B. HOGGATT WILL BE NEW ALASKA GOVERNOR

Washington, March 12.—President Roosevelt has announced his decision to appoint Wilfred B. Hoggatt to be governor of Alaska.

Mr. Hoggatt is a resident of Juneau, and will succeed John G. Brady, recently resigned.

The appointment was originally offered to Capt. D. H. Jarvis, but he declined it. He was a supporter of Mr. Hoggatt, and strongly recommended his appointment to the place.

Gov. Hoggatt was a former naval officer. He was a member of the war board during the Spanish-American war, retiring from the service soon afterward, locating in Alaska. He is widely known throughout the territory, where he has considerable interests

TO CUT RAILROAD RATES.

Big Reduction from Atlantic to Missouri Foreshadowed.

Chicago, March 12.—Western railroads, according to the Record-Herald, have decided to make voluntary reductions in transportation charges amounting in the aggregate to many millions of dollars annually. The proposed reductions are to be made in all the rates of the sax classes into which freight is divided and will be effective in the entire territory between the Atlantic seaboard and the Missouri river. In general the reductions will amount to approximately 15 per cent.

Asylum Warden Resigns.

Medical Lake, Wash., March 12.—Charles Fellows, who has been head warden at the Eastern Washington hospital for the insane during the past four years, has sent his resignation to the state board of control, to take effect March 15. Mr. Fellows will enter other business in Medical Lake. It is said his successor will be appointed from the present force of attendants in the hospital.

Paris, March 14.—Countess Boni de Castellane, accompanied by Edmond Kelly, her lawyer, yesterday appeared before Judge Ditte, president of the civil tribunal of the Seine, and asked for permission to amend her proceedings in her application for a separation from her husband so that the decree will give her an absolute divorce.

Attorney Collins Sentenced.

San Francisco, March 13—Attorney George D. Collins, convicted of perjury, has been sentenced by Superior Judge Burnett to confinement for fourteen years in the state prison at San Quentin. Notice of appeal was given.

INSTALL BLOCK SYSTEM.

Union and Southern Pacific To Be Equipped.

Omaha, Neb., March 12.—E. H. Harriman has authorized J. Kruttschmitt, director of maintenance and operation of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific railroads, immediately to install automatic electric block signals of the most perfect type from Omaha to San Francisco, 1,800 miles, and from San Francisco, via Colton, to Los Angeles, 542 miles—the route of the Overland limited. These 2,342 miles will be the longest piece of continuous automatic block signals in the world. The cost will be between $1,000 and $1,200 per mile, aggregating $3,000,000. The work is to be rushed to completion before the close of the year 1906, at which time the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific will have 3,257 miles protected by automatic electric block signals.

CHICAGO WINS FIGHT WITH STREET RAILWAY

Chicago, March 13.—By the decision of the United States supreme court, handed down yesterday, and which was at first heralded as against the city, the city of Chicago obtains almost complete control of the local traction situation.

The decision sustains the acts of the legislature extending the life of the charter of the street railway companies to ninety-nine years, but does not sustain the contention of the companies that contract rights which are limited to fewer years than remain to the charter life of the companies are also extended.

Contracts or ordinances of the city ilimting the use of the streets by the copmanies are upheld and the rights of the companies in the streets are held to expire according to the expressed terms of the ordinances.

In its effect the decision leaves the Union Traction Company without any right whatever, other than suffrage, in the streets of the north division of the city. It leaves the Union Traction Company in the west division without rights excepting the ordinance that contains a purchase clause.

PAPER TRUST DIRECTED TO ANSWER QUESTIONS

Washington, March 13.—In an opinion by Justice McKenna, the supreme court of the United States yesterday decided the cases against the witnesses in the "paper trust" cases, holding that they should answer questions propounded to them in the proceedings brought by the government against the alleged trusts.

The cases originated in Minnesota and Wisconsin. The Wisconsin cases were dismissed for want of jurisdiction, while in the Minnesota cases the verdict of the court for the district of Minnesota was affirmed.

The proceedings in these cases were the result of an effort on the part of the officers of the General Paper Company, commonly known as the Western paper trust, to avoid participation in the government's prosecution of that company under the Sherman anti-trust law.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP OF ALL TELEPHONE LINES

Seattle, March 12.—The Daily Star says:

"Public ownership of all local and long distance telephone lines in the state and reasonable scale of charges for telephone service is one of the slogans which some of the municipal ownership advocates will seek to take up as a rallying cry for a county and state municipal party in the coming county and state campaign.

"The telephone nuisance will be made the first point of attack, if the plans of some of the local leaders of the municipal ownership sentiment are adopted.

"As at present advanced, the plans of these leaders contemplate the organization of a state party and the conduct of a campaign on this and similar public questions as issues."

Lilly Company, of Seattle, is to take the output of 75 acres this year at 20 cents a pound. Cabbage seed forms one of the most valuable crops grown in this section. The total crop of the 75 acres is estimated at 50 tons, valued, at the price named in the contract, at $20,000.

White & Co, the new York engineering firm which was awarded the $11,000,000 contract for the building of a part of the railway system proposed by the insular government.

It is said that Francis Galton, perhaps the leading student of finger prints, tempers with scientific caution the familiar assertion that no two men's finger tips are alike and contents himself with saying that the chance of duplication is one in 64,000,000. This seems to be one of the few departments in which official police really accomplish more surprising performances than the writers of detective stories dare to ascribe to their heroes.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

SPIEGELSCHRECK AT PHONE.

Peculiar Message Makes a Bad Half-Hour for the Butcher.

Spiegelschreck was as mild-mannered a butcher as ever scuttled a beef or cut a sheep's throat, and when the telephone bell jingled merrily he took down the receiver with a broad German smile, in expectation of good custom by wire.

"This is Mrs. Smallwood," tinkled a far-off feminine voice, "and I wish you would send up a nice porterhouse steak for supper—one about two inches thick"—pause—"with a collar on and long, white silky hair—about seven years old, I should say."

Spiegelschreck gasped in astonishment, and the good-natured countenance wore an air of puzzlement.

"Vot did you set?" he inquired. "I guess I didn't get id ride. Ve don't got vot you vand, I guess, if you vand all you set."

Back came the voice to Spiegelschreck: "I said a poodle, with long, white hair, and a collar on—about seven years old."

"Iss she gone crazy?" muttered Spiegelschreck, rubbing one hand nervously on his butcher's apron and clasping the receiver tighter to his ear. "I guess ve don'd got vot you vand," he answered. "Ve don't got a very big demand vor pootles. Maybe vand blain sausage."

"Who said anything about wanting poodles?" came back a voice indignantly. "Have you been drinking, Mr. Spiegelschreck? I want a nice porterhouse steak for supper"—pause—"with long white hair and my name on the collar."

Spiegelschreck eyed the telephone curiously, wondering if it were playing a trick upon him.

"Vot you vand iss a borderhouse," he repeated; "but vat for do you vand long, silky hair on id? Ve could not gif you a borderhouse mit hair on id. You vand der hairdresser's. You haf der wrong number, nicht wahr?"

"I will pay a large reward if you get it for me," came back the voice over the wire. "I would give fifty dollars to have it back right now. I want it so bad, poor little lost thing!"

"Py chiminy! dot voman iss crazy!" declared Spiegelschreck in alarm. Then he replied: "I couldn't gif you a borderhouse mit long hair on id und sefen years olt if you paid a hundred dollars. You bedder delefone to der medical college. Vot you vand is mummies."

"Mr. Spiegelschreck," came back a voice quivering with indignation, "you are certainly intoxicated! I shall tell my husband to send you a check for your bill, and you will be bothered no more with our custom."

Here was fresh trouble. The Smallwoods were good customers, but the courtesy due good custom has its limits. Who ever heard of a porterhouse steak seven years old, with long white hair? Spiegelschreck had not, and he was a pretty good butcher, too.

"I peg your pardon," Spiegelschreck responded, "bud blease order again vot you vand und say it blain. I guess mein hearing is pad alreaty."

"A poodle, I said," came back the voice, "with long white hair and my name on the collar."

"Dit you vand id for subber?" gasped Spiegelschreck.

"Central, who is that crazy German on the line?" snapped out a sharp voice. "I'm talking with the business office of the Bugle, and advertising for a lost dog. Please tell Mr. Lagerbier to ring off."

"You are crazy yourself!" yelled Spiegelschreck. "You vand a borderhouse steak mit vool on id like a sheep. Voss iss los mit you?"

"Central," came another voice, "can't I order a porterhouse steak without getting a whole dog kennel on the line? Hello, Mr. Spiegelschreck, hello!"

But Spiegelschreck had fled. "Louie," he said to the boy, "der vire iss full mit crazy vimmens. Dey wand borderhouse steaks mit vool on 'em. Don'd go near der telefone. I am going out to get some schnapps."—J. W. Foley, in Judge.

Something to Be Thankful For.

Sir Wemyss Reid wrote as follows of one of his early experiences as a reporter: "On the first occasion of witnessing an execution, as I stood trembling at the foot of the scaffold on which the victim was about to appear, I noticed an old reporter, for whom I had entertained a great personal respect, pacing up and down beside me reading the New Testament.

"In the passion of horror and pity that filled my young heart I concluded that my friend was seeking spiritual comfort in view of the event in which we were about to take part as spectators and recorders. I said something to him about the horror of the act we were shortly to witness.

He looked up with a placid smile from his reading, and said gently—for he was essentially a gentleman: 'Yes, very sad, very sad; but let us be thankful it isn't raining.' And then he calmly returned to his daily reading of the Word."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

OLD Favorites

Hymn to the Night.

I heard the trailing garments of the Night
Sweep through her marble halls!
I saw her sable skirts all fringed with light
From the celestial walls!

I felt her presence, by its spell of might,
Stoop o'er me from above;
The calm, majestic presence of the Night,
As of the one I love.

I heard the sounds of sorrow and delight,
The manifold, soft chimes,
That fill the haunted chambers of the Night,
Like some old poet's rhymes.

From the cool cisterns of the midnight air
My spirit drank repose;
The fountain of perpetual peace flows there—
From those deep cisterns flows.

O holy Night! from thee I learn to bear
What man has borne before!
Thou layest thy finger on the lips of Care,
And they complain no more.

Peace! Peace! Orestes-like I breathe this prayer!
Descend with broad-winged flight,
The welcome, the thrice-prayed-for, the most fair,
The best-beloved Night!
—Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

The Height of the Ridiculous.

I wrote some lines once on a time
In wondrous merry mood,
And thought, as usual, men would say
They were exceeding good.

They were so queer, so very queer,
I laughed as I would die;
Albeit, in the general way,
A sober man am I.

I called my servant, and he came;
How kind it was of him,
To mind a slender man like me,
He of the mighty limb!

"These to the printer," I exclaimed,
And, in my humorous way,
I added (as a trifling jest),
"There'll be the devil to pay."

He took the paper, and I watched,
And saw him peep within;
At the first line he read, his face
Was all upon the grin.

He read the next; the grin grew broad,
And shot from ear to ear;
He read the third, a chuckling noise
I now began to hear.

The fourth, he broke into a roar;
The fifth, his waistband split;
The sixth, he burst five buttons off
And tumbled in a fit.

Ten days and nights, with sleepless eye,
I watched that wretched man,
And since I never dare to write
As funny as I can.
—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

For His Stomach's Sake.

"On what grounds do you expect to get a divorce from your wife?" asked the friend.

STATE FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS

Will Be Held at Townsend in Early Summer. A Great Success Promised.

An event toward which many women of the state are looking forward with pleasant anticipation is the convention of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, to be held in Port Townsend in early summer, says the P.-I. Since it is the tenth annual convention, a silver jubilee will be a feature of the meeting, and it is the plan to make this meeting one of the best and one long to be remembered.

It will be with great pleasure that the women of the state go to Townsend, that lovely little city by the sea, where the Strait of Fuca and the Sound meet in one wide expanse of water. The guests who are entertained by the women of Port Townsend, regardless of the literary or musical treat in store for them at the convention, will receive a soul tonic alone from a sight of the near-by Olympics, and to breath in the splendid air, which has in it the aroma of the forest and the salt of the Pacific.

Dr. J. Allen Smith of the University of Washington, will deliver an address on Child Labor. Mrs. Stoutenborough of the National Federation will address the convention. An interesting report will be submitted by the committee on the securement of better employment for the blind.

The musical clubs of the state are also making special efforts to give good concerts at the convention, and in consequence of a most ideal place, most hospitable of hostesses, and an excellent program, the convention of 1906 should be a help and inspiration to all who attend.

THEIR WEDDING CARD

[Original.]

"I once had a case," said the constable, "that was unique. I was called upon to arrest Frank Hickox, a steeplejack."

The listeners laughed and declared that the finish of the story was plain enough. The steeplejack climbed a spire and thus avoided arrest.

"Not at all," the constable proceeded. "Anthony Carver, a small merchant, had missed articles from his store and purported to have found some of them in Hickox's room. He had sworn out the warrant on which I was to make the arrest. Before I could get my fingers on the young man he had either left the place or gone into hiding. I had a conference with Carver, who was very bitter against the steeplejack. He admitted that the young man had often been at his house and had accepted of his hospitality. Carver gave that as a reason for his having turned so mercilessly against Hickox. Indeed he offered me $100 in case I succeeded in making the arrest.

I hunted the town high and low, but if the steeplejack was in it I couldn't find out where he was concealed. The next day I heard of him in Fairmount and, telegraphing the police to hold him, took a train to go there. When I reached the place the police reported that they had been too late, but had information that Hickox had taken a train for the junction, ten miles distant. I went there, but he had gone on. After spending a day following him from one point to another without getting any nearer to him I suspected his pals were misleading me. I returned to my starting point, called on Mr. Carver and reported my ill success. His daughter, a young woman of twenty-one, was in the room at the time. She listened to my account somewhat contemptuously and when I got through said snappishly:

"I saw him in Buckthorne yesterday."

"You? Saw him? How did that happen?"

"I went over there to visit a friend."

I looked at the girl's father inquiringly, but he made no comment on his daughter's information.

"Why didn't you call a policeman," I asked, "and have the fellow held?"

"In the first place, there was no policeman about, and, in the second, I wouldn't know what rights I have in such a case." And, turning on her heel, she whisked out of the room.

Had it not been for the reward offered I would have given up the job. It seemed to me that the members of the family had some grudge against the steeplejack and wished to get him in limbo. However, a hundred dollars was not to be made every day, and early the next morning I went over to Buckthorne. I had telephoned the police of that town among others to keep a sharp lookout for my man and on arriving went to the police office to score them for not getting him. They had kept watch of incoming and outgoing trains and were sure the accused had not either arrived or departed. Since they were especially sure that he had not departed I remained in the town all day, expecting that he was there and would show himself. But he didn't, and that night I went back home discouraged. I arrived after midnight, when the town was asleep. Happening to cast my eye up at the spire of St. Mark's church, near my home, I thought I saw something white at the very apex. I was a good deal puzzled, for I had never seen anything up there before—indeed, nobody had been there, so far as I knew, since the church was built. I was so interested that for the time being I forgot my ill success in arresting Hickox. However, since it was too dark for me to make out the curious thing, there was nothing for me to do but wait for daylight, so I went home and to bed.

The next morning on going to the window I noticed a knot of people standing opposite the church. They were all peering up at the spire, some of them with field glasses. I saw a man lower his glass and laugh. He handed it to another, who looked up and also laughed. Some appeared to be astonished and serious, but nearly every one laughed. Burning to get at a solution of the mystery, I dressed hurriedly and, seizing a field glass, ran downstairs and across to where I could see the church. There, lashed to the very summit of the spire, was an oblong, white, signlike looking thing swaying in the wind. There were letters on it, and, raising my field glass, I read:

MARRIED, JUNE 7,
FRANK PARSONS HICKOX
AND CYNTHIA ISABEL CARVER.

For a few moments ideas were tumbling about in my head like dice in a box. Then the revelation came to me, and it turned out to be the truth. Hickox and Carver's daughter were lovers. Carver, objecting to the match, had accused Hickox of theft and placed or caused to be placed articles from his store in the young man's room. Hickox had kept out of the way (he had probably been hidden by Miss Carver) till they could arrange for a clandestine marriage. She had sent me to Buckthorne on a fool's errand the day before (June 7) with that end in view.

I did not call on Mr. Carver again, but sent him a bill for the time I had spent on his case. He remitted the amount, with $100 added.

As for the wedding card which Hickox had placed on the church spire, it fluttered there a week before Mr. Carver could hire a steeplejack to go up

One would think the Laxative idea in a cough syrup should have been advanced long before it was. It seems the only rational remedy for coughs and colds would be to move the bowels and clean the mucous membranes of the throat and lungs at the same time. Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar does this. It is the Original Laxative Cough Syrup, the best known remedy for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Cough, etc. Tastes good and harmless. Sold by C.E. Nailor.

Nerve Fag.

If You Waste Your Nerve Energy, After Awhile You Will Suffer For It.

You can waste nerve force by excess, over-work, worry, anxiety, etc.

You can weaken yourself by not eating proper food or securing sufficient rest to renew the nerve energy you use up.

The proper treatment, in addition to good phosphatic food, such as whole meal bread, prepared cereals, etc., is Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine.

This is as truly a brain and nerve food as any food you could eat, and besides, furnishes strength and tone of its own, which goes to the weakened nerve system, and sets it to rights.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is a refreshing, revitalizing tonic food-medicine for the brain and nerves. It reconstructs worn-out nerve tissue, and fills your languid brain with new life and vigor.

Dr. Miles' Nervine has made so many marvelous cures, of people so sick the doctors thought they were incurable, that it is today the standard medicine in many thousands of American homes.

The first bottle is guaranteed to help you, or druggist returns your money.

"The extreme heat, close confinement and intense mental strain incident to the banking business, has caused me to suffer with nervousness and insomnia. It gives me pleasure to say that I have used Dr. Miles' Nervine with very satisfactory results in the treatment of these affections. I am now on my fifth bottle, and eat and sleep well, in fact have almost forgotten that I possess nerves."—R. L. DALBY, Asst. Cashier, State Bank, Texarcana, Ark.

Which is the Cheapest?

Cotton saturated with a solution of sulphuric acid, alcohol and nitric acid, after the alcohol has evaporated, forms one of our highest explosives.

Saltpetre, sulphur and charcoal forms the lowest explosive.

The lowest explosive was formerly used by the governments in warfare, but not now. They use a higher explosive, the same in quantity, perhaps, but having a greater explosive capacity.

The same rule applies to extracts. Folger's and Schillings extracts form the highest possible grade.

Cheaper extracts will produce the same result if you put enough of it together, granting it is not adulterated.

The Governments use less than half of guncotton to produce the same result as common powder, even then getting better results with the former.

Use one-half the quantity of our extracts to produce the same result as with inferior goods, and save money. The cheapest is not always the best.

If Merrill has it, its good.

WOMEN AND FASHION

Hasty Marriages.

A popular picture represents a mud-bespattered coachman sitting in the tap-room of an English inn, telling to a group of his fellow servants the story of the eloping lovers who sit on the other side of the partition.

The popularity of the picture doubtless represents the attitude of the general public toward the young man and the young woman who have determined to marry in spite of opposition. It is the old story of all mankind loving a lover, and if any further evidence were needed it could be found in the prominence of news of elopements, and in the repressed editorial chuckle with which certain places are called the Gretna Greens of America.

All this manifestation of sympathy may spring from a wholesome sentiment, but it is ill considered. The parents of these young people have clothed and fed and educated and cared for them, only to be made a laughing stock when they seek to advise their son or their daughter in the most serious event of life. Their labors and their sacrifices are entitled to more consideration than this.

Most of the hasty and clandestine marriages are performed by justices of the peace or other civil servants; but not a few are solemnized by clergymen, who thereby sacrifice their own dignity and lower the standard which the church ought everywhere to maintain. Is it any wonder that divorces are common when a youth who is earning hardly enough to support himself can find some one willing, without question, to marry him to a school-girl in short dresses?

The young people themselves may not be deterred by any advice which could be offered, but if the Companion might be permitted to address a word to them it would be this: Consider first of all whether haste be necessary; whether anything will be lost by waiting. Then think a little of the father and mother who will have to nurse their wound in silence.

Is it worth the price?—Youth's Companion.

A Leading Style.

The latest offering of the ultra-smart tailors in the way of long coats. The design, which is built of chestnut brown face cloth, is plaited both in the bodice and below the girdle of chiffon velvet, and insertions of heavy lace are let in between the plaits front and back. A flat collar of the velvet vies with an embroidered vest in the beauty imparted to the coat. The sleeves are quite plain, but are stitched in odd effect, with narrow bands of soutache braid and finished with a touch of the velvet at the wrist-bands.

The Way To Entertain.

How shall we entertain? asks a writer. Joyously! Pleasure is contagious. Remember, hostess, every house has its climate; some are in the torrid, some in the temperate, some in the frigid zone. Remember, moreover, that you create the climate of your house. More important than the style of your dress, the ordering of your banquet, the setting of your table, is the mood in which the appointed hour of entertainment finds you. When the door bell peals to the ring of the first arrival put aside all thoughts of how you look, how your drawing room looks, how good, bad, or indifferent the dinner may prove; banish every care, meet your guest with nothing on your mind save the anticipation of passing and helping him to pass a delightful hour. If you can do this the battle is already half won.

Advice to Girls.

Do the little things, and then, if you have the time, dream of the great things.

Be natural. Remember there are others as lovely as you are.

Have many friends. A chum usually is disappointing and leaves a sore spot which might have been avoided.

Be conservative. Your acquaintances do not want your confidences.

At all times me womanly. A masculine girl does not retain admiration.

Be careful not to grieve over the wickedness of others; watch yourself, "lest you grow a few sprigs of ungodliness."

Be quick to believe good. Believe the good until the evil is evident.

Be pleasant at all times. A smile does more good in this world than all the preachings.

Think beautiful thoughts. "Beautiful thoughts are angels bright."

Remember that you are judged by your actions. "Do noble things, don't dream them all day long."

Health and Beauty Hints.

Powdered rice applied on lint will stop a bleeding wound.

Celery is good for nervousness, being considered a nerve stimulant.

"Drink all the water you want between meals, but none with your food," is the latest cure for obesity.

Grapes and raisins are nourishing and fattening and apples eaten daily insure clear, bright complexions.

Rose water, eight ounces, and tincture of benzoin, two drams, make one of the best skin tonics and whiteners.

The orange stick is the only nail cleaner necessary. The stick properly pointed will not injure the enamel or the cuticle around the nail.

Vaseline will darken and increase the growth of the eyelashes and eyebrows. It should be heated a little and applied with a small camel's hair brush.

Fashion Notes.

The shoulders of all new gowns are broad in effect.

Neapolitan and milan straws are both in evidence.

Italian braid, closer woven than the Japanese, is very smart.

Embroidered roses in pink, green and silver decorate a white tulle hat.

Japanese straw, something like the tea-box coverings, is new and dashing.

French buttons, with the tone of the cloth in their center, are beautiful and in the best of favor.

To trim chiffon with cloth is a popular fad, and the contrast of the two materials is certainly most effective.

Little capes reaching only to the elbow are likely to be good style for the spring costume that has a princeless skirt.

The new short chemise consists of a chemise ending exactly at the hips and is worn under the corset in place of a shirt.

A novel ceinture is made of three soft strips of ribbon, blue green and lavender, twisted together in a rainbow effect and fastened with a fancy buckle.

To meet the new blouse demands there are collars of embroidery edged with lace, with a long strip down the front, that is tucked in at the waist. There is variety of design for these.

Among the simple but attractive white silk muslins, one has around the bottom a ruffle of thin, glossy taffeta, four inches wide, having a narrow quarter-inch lace for edging on both sides.

The tendency of evening dress is toward the lighter, almost invisible fabrics, such as chiffon, meteor and chiffon cloth, made up first over chiffon as a lining, with the colored silk under that.

BEAUTIFUL EMPIRE COSTUME.

The accompanying picture shows the use of fur upon a magnificent empire coat of the very latest vogue, carried out in copper brown chiffons, velours, a color that is new, lovely and assured of a distinguished future. Garnished with ruffles, as the picture reveals, here is another fashion that 1906 holds in store for us, for flounces are to be our portion to a considerable extent; flounces of velvet of the most supple type, flounces of lace, flounces of taffetas, flounces of satin, flounces, too, of cloth, just sparingly full and permissible only when the cloth is pliant and graceful in texture. The fur used is sable; this is perfection of beauty in its soft brown, coloring up the growing copper background and the buttons are great copper ones rimmed with green enamel, for a reason now to be explained. It is simply this, that each flounce is piped with green satin, a subtle introduction of a little emphasis of color that throws into relief the beautiful browns and brings into harmony the coat and the millinery worn, for while that piece of headgear is made of copper velvet, pinched up in the center like a man's Homburg hat, the feathers are green ones—to be precise, a tint of olive, that is immensely effective with copper, and also immensely smart.

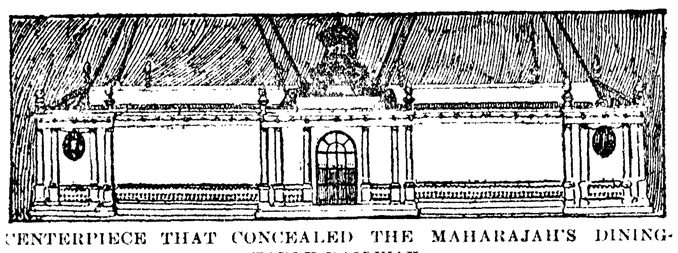
Floating about the hat is a pale brown net veil, and loosely knotted round the throat is a green taffeta cravat which has first of all been threaded through emerald and diamond slides and arranged round the throat like a stock beneath a little lace and cambric collar. Something uncommon, something bewitchingly smart, characterizes this costume and its coloring.

Smart Mid-Season Millinery.

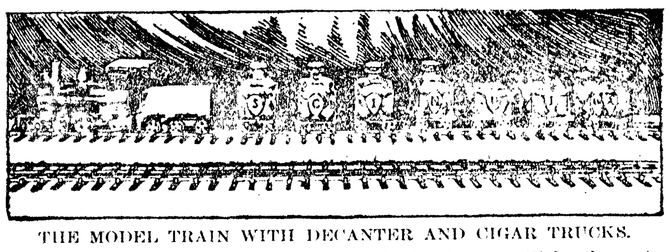
To Darken a Room.

Dark green glazed calico, if cut slightly narrower and shorter than a bedroom window blind and pinned behind it, will darken the room, and cannot be seen from outside. Many people are unable to sleep well in a room with light blinds only.

INGENIOUS ENTERTAINMENT IN INDIA.



CENTERPIECE THAT CONCEALED THE MAHARAJAH'S DINING-TABLE RAILWAY.



THE MODEL TRAIN WITH DECANTER AND CIGAR TRUCKS.

At the Maharajah of Gwalior's banquet to the Prince of Wales the center of the table was occupied by a sort of temple. It was decorated with flowers and electric lamps. Towards the close of the banquet this ornament was raised to the roof by pulleys, revealing a perfect model railway in the center of the table. The engine was an exact copy of the Gwalior light-railway locomotive, and the train, eight feet long, carried decanters, cigars, cigarettes, and matches. The Maharajah started the train by completing an electric circuit, and any guest could stop the train by lifting the decanter. By an ingenious system of compensating bogeys the train could turn a four-foot curve. Each truck bore one of the letters of the Maharajah's name, Scindia.

ALFONSO AND HIS BRIDE.

The King of Spain to Be Married to a British Maiden.

While the people of the United States have been taking a deep interest in the courtship and marriage of Alice Roosevelt, daughter of our chief magistrate, to Representative Nicholas Longworth of Ohio, the nations of Europe, more especially Spain and Great Britain, have been watching a royal courtship which is soon to result in an international marriage.

After casting his eyes over Europe and disappointing several match-making mamas of royal families, the young King of Spain has finally fallen as deeply in love as wearers of crowns ever do. His choice is Princess Ena of Battenberg, niece of King Edward of Great Britain.

KING ALFONSO OF SPAIN AND HIS BRITISH BRIDE-ELECT.

Alfonso XIII. will be 20 years old next May. He was born six months after the death of his father. With his first breath he was a King, but his mother ruled in his name till he was 17. Since then he has been a really, truly King.

Princess Ena's full name is Victoria Eugenie Julia Ena. She is 19 years of age and is the daughter of Queen Victoria's youngest daughter, Beatrice. Beatrice was 28 years of age when she married and her aged mother had hoped to keep her as a constant companion. When she married Henry of Battenberg her husband took up his residence in England and lived on an income provided by the British government. Their children have been reared as Britishers. Prince Henry died a victim to the Ashanti expedition to Africa in 1896. The Princess Beatrice, or Batty as the English affectionately call her, is a plump and healthy matron in middle life.

In the picture, which we present, the King of Spain and his future bride are shown side by side, while the mother of the bride-elect stands in the background.

ELECTRIC AERIAL RAILWAY.

A New Departure in Plan to Descend the Wetterhorn.

There is apparently no more attractive field for engineering than the mountains of Switzerland, and the greatest skill and ingenuity have been exercised in the various railways designed to carry tourists to the summits. Recently, says Harper's Weekly, there has been an entirely new departure from existing practice in a plan proposed for ascending the northwestern side of the Wetterhorn, which rises precipitously to an altitude of 7,700 feet above the sea level. The new scheme consists of a combination of the fundamental principles of the ordinary aerial cableway, now so much used in constructive engineering for the transport of materials, and of the elevated mono-railway, best exampled in the line between Barmen and Elberfeld, in Germany. In the latter a car is suspended from a single rail supported by a system of girders, while in the new Swiss railway, instead of a rail, a stout steel cable will be stretched from station to station, and from this will be suspended by its running gear a car or cage for the passengers. Each car will contain ten passengers, and be of the lightest possible construction.

The line will run from the Grindelwald upper glacier, at about 4,000 feet altitude, up to the Enge station in one lift, a distance of 1,300 feet. This station is of massive masonry and affords an anchorage for the cable. The gradient of the cable for this part of the line is about 80 per cent. This station affords access to a series of fine views, and there is a path along the Enge to the departure station of the second section of the line, which extends to a point at an altitude of 7,761 feet, or a lift of 2,300 feet. The motive power is to be electricity at high tension and part of the installation is already completed. The summit of the Wetterhorn is 12,150 feet above sea level, and from the present studies there is apparently no reason why access to it should not be gained by a series of such railways as the two sections already described. Only once before has the mono-rail system been used on a mountain railway, on Vesuvius in 1880, and this method was supplanted when the line was reconstructed.

A New Theory.

In an uptown school the teacher in one of the lower grades endeavored to instill a little information into her pupils on the subject of horses and their gaits, and then asked each of them to prepare a brief essay embodying some of the facts they had just learned. One of the boys thereupon prepared and turned in the following lucid offering:

"Some horses is called paceters. They can run faster 'cause they are bowlegged."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

TILLMAN'S REPORT

RAILROAD RATE BILL IS FORMALLY BEFORE SENATE.

First Clear and Concise Statement of Differences Over Various Features — Points Out Great Concentration of Wealth In the Hands of the Railroads.

Washington, March 17.—Senator Tillman, in his report to the senate from the committee on interstate commerce on the railroad rate bill, embodied the first cler and concise statement of the differences concerning the court review features and other proposed amendments that has made a unanimous report of the committee impossible.

The senator declares his belief that the bill should be amended, but that amendments should not be of a char acter to prevent the accomplishment of the objects of the legislation, which are set forth best, he says, in the president's message to congress, from which he quotes extensively. He emphasized the need of regarding the measure as non-partisan, but predicted that the issue created will be paramount in the next presidential election. As to the effect, he said:

"Those who are responsible for delay or inadequate legislation will find that when at last the floodgates of popular wrath and indignation are hoisted there will be some fine grinding done."

Commenting upon the absence of harmony in the committee's deliberations, the report says:

Party Lines Broken.

"Instead of being amended in committee, as is usual, so as to command as a whole the indorsement and support of a majority of its members, the bill was brought into the senate in a form not entirely satisfactory to more than two members. Party lines in the committee were broken down, and the bill is in the hands of the senate by reason of the union of five members of the minority party and three members of the majority in congress, who concurred in reporting it favorably; and while these eight senators are agreed as to the general purpose and scope of the bill, there are radical differences among them as to the amendments that ought to be incorporated in it.

"This lack of harmony among the supporters of the bill—it would be speaking with more accruacy to say the supporters of the policy involved in the bill—brings about the anomalous situation in which a member of the minority party is put in charge of the proposed legislation, which is generally regarded throughout the country as the scheme of the president, with whose general policy and principles that member is not in accord. At the same time the bill is designed to carry into effect his own long-cherished convictions and thrice reiterated demands of the party to which he belongs."

Emphasizing the claim that this condition is without precedent in legislative history, Mr. Tillman says it brings into prominence the fact that the proposed legislation is non-partisan, and for this reason he urged that Democrats and Republicans alike should bend all their energies to perfecting and passing so important a piece of legislation.

Great Concentration of Wealth.

Commenting on the gross earnings and net earnings of railroad properties and the great concentration of wealth consequent thereon, Mr. Tillman said:

"The gross annual earnings of the railroads of this country, in round numbers, amounts to $2,000,000, and the net earnings $700,000,000. Once every year every dollar circulated in this country passes through the hands of the railroads, and once in three years every dollar of this country becomes a part of the railroads' net annually the entire expenditures of the United States government.

"It is small wonder that the most brilliant legal minds are retained to make explanations, to frame laws and secure their passage and to exercise an overmastering influence over the judiciary and executive departments of the states and the nation.

"The average citizen is almost driven to believe the fight hopeless, as the government is controlled by the railroads, and the liberties of the people are in jeopardy."

Mr. Tillman urges that hereafter all issues of railroad securities be under the control of a commission, and that there be a speedy readjustment of capitalized values, and to protect, as far as possible the innocent holders of watered stock. He advocates the amendment prohibiting any interstate carrier to produce and transport any article for sale, but that roads be allowed to mine coal for their own use. He would compel all roads to connect with all others,and grant fair and just traffic arrangements, putting all shipments on the same footing.

NEWLANDS ADVOCATES NATIONAL RAILWAYS

Washington, March 17,—Senator Newlands said that while he has joined in Mr. Tillman's report to the senate on the Hepburn bill and is in sympathy with the general purpose he thought it incomplete and fragmentary. He expressed the belief that the legislation would not be as effective as it should be unless there is added to the pending measure a provision for the national incorporation of railways engaged in interstate commerce, guarding aaginst overcapitalization, fixing with certainty the rates of taxation of such railway property by the sates, and prescribing a fixed limit for dividends.

Such legislation should not simply cover the interests of shippers and common carriers—it should embrace the interests of labor by providing for an insurance fund against accidents and old age and conciliation of disputes between carriers and their employes.

Senator Newlands discussed corporate activity in politics, saying it has been increasing since 1896. Corporations are in politics, the senator declared, because they feel their property may at any time be the subject of attacks either by legislatures or by administrative officers.

National incorporation, he contended, contemplated a general law for the incorporation of national railways engaged in interstate commerce. This, he thought, should limit stock and bond issues to the cash paid in or to the value of the property acquired and no issue permitted save with the approval of the interstate commerce commission.

Senator Newlands said it is plain the people are restive under existing conditions. They realize, he said, that the men prominent in the great oil corporations are getting control over the transportation of the country, "and unless we unify and simplify this control in a few thoroughly controlled great national corporations whose finances and operations can be easily understood but whose functions will be entirely taken out of politics, we will drift into national ownership as the easiset solution."

SCHOOL FUND RULING.

Pupils in Private Schools Counted in Alloting Public Money.

Olympia, March 16.—The Seattle school district may draw state school funds for attendance of pupils at private schools, even if part of the instruction in such private schools is given in a language other than English. Such was the decison of Attorney General Atkinson, rendered on Wednesday, who wrote to the state superintendent as follows:

"The law does not exactly specify nor indicate the work that shall be done in a private school; and while it is to be presumed that it shall compare favorably with the work of the public school there is nothing in the law to indicate that another language than English shall not be used or partly used in such private school, and if such private school does failry good work, the district would be entitled to the attendance.

"It is my opinion that if the work is a farce and does not in any manner compare favorably with the ordinary work of a public school, then the district is not entitled to the attendance.

"As to compulsory attendance, I will say that the law as it now stands does not justify a truant officer in compelling pupils now attending private schools to leave such schools and attend a public school in the district."

MORAN BROTHERS SELL CONTROL OF SHIPYARDS

Seattle, March 17.—Control of the Moran Bros. Company has been sold to J. V. Patterson, for the past ten years naval architect in charge of the constrcution and maintenance of the transatlantic fleet of the International Naviagtion Company, and George H. Higbee, late manager of the International Navigation Company and the Empire Line. Associated with them are the Griscoms, of Philadelphia, who are connected with a number of large transportation lines and financial institutions of Philadelphia.

The official announcement of the sale was made by Robert Moran, president of the company, yesterday, when the deal, which has been pending for some time, was closed by Mr. Patterson and his associates.

HOUSE REPUBLICANS CAUCUS ON STATEHOOD

Washington, March 17.—As a result of a caucus which lasted for two and a half hours the Republicans of the house voted 125 to 25 to stand by the statehood bill as it passed the house, and to ask the senate for a conference on the measure. This vote followed immediately after a resolution offered by Mr. Mondell, of Wyoming, representing the insurgents, had been defeated, 123 to 43, Mr. Mondell's resolution being to agree to the senate amendment eliminating Arizona and New Mexico from the bill and asking a conference on the minor amendments to the measure.

For Relief of Settlers.

Washington, March 16.—A favorable report has been made by the house public lands committee on the bill for relief of settlers within the limits of the Northern Pacific grant between Portland and Wallula. The bill permits settlers to retain possession of lands and authorizes the railroads to make indemnity selections.

Losses In Agrarian Riots.

St. Petersburg, March 17.—The report of the special commission which investigated in nineteen provinces the agrarian disturbances which occurred last year, show that the losses exceed $155,000,000.

SHONTS TO GET OUT

THEN STEVENS WILL HEAD CANAL COMMISSION.

Stated that Friction With Taft, His Interest and Demands of His Railroad Associates Will Call Chairman Shonts Back to Clover Leaf.

Chicago, March 19.—A Washington special says:

Information comes from trustworthy sources that makes it seem practically assured that Theodore P. Shonts, of Chicago, chairman of the isthmian canal commission, intends soon to send his resignation to President Roosevelt. It is unquetsionably the intention of President Roosevelt to nominate John F. Stevens, the chief engineer, to succeed Mr. Shonts. Mr. Stevens will combine the duties of the two offices.

Pressure from his associates on the railroad with which Mr. Shonts is connected has been strong for some time to bring about this result—his return to railroad work and his resignation from the canal commission. Mr. Shonts has withstood the pleas of his business associates, but recent events have indcued him to consent.

Mr. Shonts is still president of the Clover Leaf railroad, and it is said that the interests of that railroad, in the mind of his colleagues, demand that he return and take active charge of the property. It is said he owns securities of the road of the value of about $3,000,000, and, in the interest of these holdings, as well as the holdings of others, it is declared that he feels he must no longer divide time and his labor.

Shonts Wants to Run His Railroad.

There has been no secret that the relations between Secretary Taft and Chairman Shonts have been strained at times. They are probably today not of the most amicable nature. It is probable that Mr. Taft will succeed to the vacancy in the United States supreme court caused by the resignation of Mr. Justice Brown, but will not take his seat before next October. Mr. Taft has his own views about the canal work, which are not in accord with those of Mr. Shonts.

Taftt Wants His Cwn Men.

When Mr. Taft goes to the supreme bench it is the intention of President Roosevelt to turn the supervision of the canal over to Secretary Root's department. The secretary of war desires to arrange the construction plans to suit his own judgment before the transfer is made.

It is the general belief in Washington that Mr. Taft personally would prefer that the officials of the commission at the time of the transfer would be men with whom he has been in perfect accord. It is possible that this belief is shared by Mr. Shonts, and, added to his desire to return to his railroad labor, it had some influence in making him consider seriously offering his resignation.

PRESIDENT DEFERS NAMING A JUSTICE

Washington, March 19.—Secretary Taft had a consultation with President Roosevelt and later the president authorized the issuance of the following statement regarding the successorship of Justice Brown in the supreme court:

"As Mr. Jutsice Brown will not retire until June, when the supreme court will take a vacation until the second Monday in October, and no public inconvenience can arise from a vacancy continuing through the vacation, the president will take further time to decide the question of Mr. Brown's successor. Several names, including that of Secretary Taft, have been under consideration, but no decision has been reached or is likely to be reached or announced in the near future."

Secretary Taft went to the war department for a few minutes before the meeting of the cabinet. When he was asked his intentions he directed his inquirers to the statement issued from the White House, saying that was the expression of the president's views, and that his (Taft's) lips were sealed. All that he could say was that the matter was indefinitely postponed.

Seattle Council Sells Tide Lands.

Seattle, March 17.—The tide land block of city property on Fourth avenue south and Weller street has been sold to F. K. Srtuve, representing Harriman interests, for the sum of $341,000. John P. Hartman, representing the Union Pacific, has announced that the Union Pacific would utilize the site for railway terminals. It is just east of the new Union depot, now nearing completion.

Great Feast for Senators.

Washington, March 20.—Senator Fulton, of Oregon, last week received a 50-pound royal chinook salmon frozen in ice. On Monday he had it prepared at the senate restaurant and had it served to members of the senate for luncheon.

National Railroads Assurde.

London, March 17.—The Daily Telegraph's Tokyo correspondent says that as a result of party meetings the passage of the railway nationalization bill by the diet is now assured.

MR. MOODY TALKED

ATTORNEY GENERAL ARGUES CASE AGAINST PACKERS.

Attorney Miller's Immunity Claim Characterized as a Great Legal Discovery for Which, if Sanctioned, Countless Captains of Industry Will Be Grateful.

Chicago, March 21.—Attorney General Moody spoke nearly all day in the hearing of the immunity pleas advanced by the packers, concluding his argument just in time to allow him to take a train for Washington.

In his speech he declared that the pleas of the packers were not well founded and that they could not be entitled to immunity because they had given their evidence of their own free will and had not been placed on oath nor subjected to compulsion of any kind.

He at times grew very sarcastic in his references to the statements of the attorneys for the defendants who had claimed that their clients could not be punished because they had voluntarily given evidence to Commissioner Garfield.

Concerning the compulsiion said by the packers to have been exercised by Commissioner Garfield, the attorney general said:

"There is no longer any contention here that there was any actual compulsion in the acts of Mr. Garfield other than the powers vested in him.

"'The claims are made that the information furnished to government officials entitled to have it was furnished under compulsion of the law and that under the act of 1903, this entitles the defendants to immunity. That and nothing else is the issue in this case."

The attorney general declared that the statements of Attorney John S. Miller, who represents Armour & Company, in the case were utterly at variance with the terms of the immunity act. The attorney general said:

Confession and Absolution.

"Mr. Miller said in his argument that if a man had committed a crime in the postal service and went voluntarily to the proper person and made confession he would be entitled to immunity if the law gave immunity. Let us see where this most extraordinary claim leads to. It is a great discovery of my learned friend for which yet uncounted generations of captains of industry will thank him.

"It will be much easier instead of running away from a subpoena to run towards the government agent. Anybody in this land who is now seeking to avoid service of a subpoena will thank my learned friend for giving him a very much shorter road to travel.

"Washintgon, under the circumstances, would become a great resort, not only in winter, but in summer. All the people who are violating the laws of the land may go there at intervals and obtain their immunity. All they have to do is to go there in obedience to the compulsion of the law.

"He can do it at intervals. The law is a license to commit crime. Now, I can fancy these gentlemen gathering there. I can fancy Mr. Swift and Mr. Armour and their meeting in Washington with some other great magnate who has been washied in what I may call 'Miller's bath.'

"I can imagine them meeting and saying, 'Good morning, good morning, Mr. Rockefeller, have you had your immunity bath this morning?' Look at the absurdity of the thing."

The sarcasm of the attorney general brought out much laughter and the bailiffs had some trouble in restoring quiet in the court room.

INDORSES WELLMAN'S PLAN.

Geographical Society Will Assist Balloon Trip to Pole.

Washington, March 20.—The Geographical Society has pledged itself to assist Walter Wellmsan in his trip to the north pole in a dirigible balloon. It has also selected Henry B. Hersey to accopmany the explorer as is representative. The leading scientists of the city, Professor Alexander Graham Bell, Professor Cleveland Abbi and Professor Willis Moore, are among them, and have become so impressed with Mr. Wellman's explanations of his airship now under construction in Paris that they have issued the following announcement:

"It was the opinion of the scientists that while the proposed trip is one of unusual haazrd, there has been such an improvement in the method of navigation in balloons that there is today stronger probability of the pole being reached by this method than by any 'over-ice' route."

Cells Not Up to Specifications.

Walla Walla, March 19.—On the adverse report of H. T. Jones, the board of control has ordered the work on the steel cells in the new wing at the penitentiary suspended owing to the failure of the contractor to comply with the specifications.

Many Afraid to Vote.

St. Petersburg, March 15.—Elections to the republican assembly are slow, the people generally being afraid to vote. Many liberals who have been elected were immediately banished to Siberia.

The Secret of Prosperity

Every community has a desire to be prosperous and it can be safely affirmed that each community has it within its power to be prosperous. The secret of it is to make an attractive place for transients and home people. Those living in a town year after year, seldom or never visiting other towns of similar size, are all too prone to grow careless of the appearance of their property and their homes. Having acquired all the outward appearances of shiftlessness, so far as the keeping up of property is concerned, and failing to realize that they are neglecting their duty as citizens, they cannot understand why the visitor within our gates should not be favorably impressed.

We are too likely to forget that the chances are a hundred to one the visitor has come from a town, or is only familiar with towns, where the streets are well graded and drained, likely parked, rows of shade trees flanking cement walks and lawns of velvety grass dotted with flowering shrubs and plants. Where houses are kept well painted and yards spruce and clean. To his expressions of surprise at conditions here, we quote the early history of the town, explaining how it came to pass that 2,500 people should have homes scattered over at townsite which would accommodate ten times that number without crowding. We direct attention to the obvious impossibility of so small a population maintaining so many miles of streets and sidewalks.

We think the stranger within our gates should "look up" and beyond the unimproved portions of our townsite. We fail to realize, owing to that familiarity which breeds content, that it is not the unavoidable conditions which impress the stranger, but rather the lack of civic pride so glaringly manifested in many instances.

A town should be made as attractive as may be possible, individual effort on the part of every resident being directed to that end, in order, not only that not only that those who may visit it will speak a good word for the place, but that its own people shall take pride in it, and be glad to get back again when away. Well kept streets and walks and stores and pretty yards and gardens give an air of prosperity that nothing else outside of a boom town can give. Just as an attractive store draws business, so also does an attractive town.

It is therefore for each individual, if he wants prosperity for the town and himself, to make the best appearance that he can, and by improving his own property, help himself when he is helping the town. If this is done, nothing can keep prosperity away.

Shingle Prospects Good

Seldom before in the history of the lumber business on the coast have the orders been piled up as they are at present. The mills, far behind on their orders, have raised the price on all grades. The entire fir list has been advanced $2, cedar siding and the entire spruce list $1, and lath 25c. The shingle situation has also taken on a decidedly more favorable aspect, the bottom price being $1.70 for stars and $1.90 for clears. Shingles are showing a sympathetic advance with the rise in lumber and some large manufacturers are said to be already asking and getting $1.75 and $2.00. The demand from the east is beginning to expand and the outlook is very favorable.

Three Cars Stone

The stone quarry crew, after working under the disadvantage of frozen water pipes for a few days, the first occurrence of the kind in the history of that institution, managed to get out its customary shipment of three cars, which were taken upsound by the freighter Rapid Transit.

Always Keeps Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in His House.

"We would not be without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is kept on hand continually in our home," says W. W. Kearney, editor of the Independent, Lowry City, Mo. That is just what every family should do. When kept on hand ready for instant use, a cold may be checked at the outset and cured in much less time than after it has become settled in the system. This remedy is also without a peer for croup in children, and will prevent the attack when given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears, which can only be done when the remedy is kept at hand. For sale by all druggists.

CULTIVATION OF OUR NATIVE PLANTS

Many Are Highly Prized for Beauty and Oddity on Eastern Lawns.

It is always a source of wonder to the visitor from the east, enjoying his first walks or drives through our timberland, that the native flowering shrubs are not more frequently planted in the lawns or along the division fences of our homes. He sees great quantities of sword ferns and devil's clubs in the ravines and, accustomed as he is to puny specimens bought at fancy prices and cared for with great solicitude, marvels at their size in their native climate and wishes it were possible to take some of the finest home with him. The wild syringa, so highly prized on eastern lawns, is here almost entirely neglected. A bordering hedge of selected Oregon grapes suggest to him a beautiful background for flower beds, and with the many varieties of wild flowers, more beautiful by far than those raised from planted seed, he sees the possibility of transforming the neglected corners in so many yards into virtual beauty spots at no expense whatever.

In this connection we copy an article by Ella Higginson, which contains some good points:

The wild syringa is one of the most beautiful and most exquisitely fragrant of our native flowering shrubs and should be cultivated more generally in our gardens. The meadow-sweet, steeple-bush and golden-rod are graceful dwellers on our lawns; and the broad green leaves and cool blooms of the thimble-berry are lovely banked around trees.

Of wild flowers that will bear cultivation, calypso, the exquisite, must, of course, be yielded first place. There is no wild flower that approaches it in elf-like beauty and perfume. I have had these rare orchids come up from year to year in my flower beds and put forth blossoms of unusual size and perfection, losing none of their enchanting forest perfume by removal, and none of their rich rosy purple coloring. The twin-flower, the favorite flower of Linnaeus, opens in pairs upon the prettiest vines our forests know; the blossoms themselves are tiny pink velvet bells. (It is said, however, that unless one wishes to follow the President's advice, one should not cultivate the twin-flower vine in one's garden.) Columbine, blue bells, star flowers, asters, wake-robins, different members of the pulse family, and many others, will repay cultivation.

Have a rhododendron, a dogwood, a "candle" pine, a madrone, and by all means a tall, graceful alder for the birds. The vine-maple, too, is a beauty, spreading its foliage out in a light, feathery way and taking on most exquisite tints in autumn; while a balm of Gilead, turning over the silver undersides of its leaves in the breeze and shaking out its indescribable fragrance, is a joy day and night.

Go Sixty Miles for Ship

For a long time past there has been an intense rivalry between those of the pilots at Townsend who depend upon the tramp steamships for fat fees. Reported vessels are anxiously watched for, launches being engaged to cruise down as far as Dungeness in the effort to be first aboard. For three days this week two pilots have been waiting for the Glenfarg, due from the West Coast. One launch, the "Pilot," owned by Harry Garfield, has been as far down as Port Crescent, stopping in here for a time while Harry met some of his old schoolmates. The Pilot, formerly the Nettie B., has just been equipped with new engines and easily makes ten knots. It would seem as though, when the new ruling goes into effect, requiring pilots to be taken on at Angeles, these men would of necessity have to make this place their home, in which event launches would follow as a matter of course.

Prune Your Trees Now!

If you haven't the time to do it yourself, or don't know just how to go at it, I should be pleased to do it for you. I know how to prune trees JUST RIGHT, and will not mutilate and disfigure your orchard, but on the contrary will make good trees out of some of your old cripples.

If you want roses trimmed I will promise to leave them as if a Kansas cyclone had gone through them, but you need not settle with me for that kind of work, either with a rolling-pin or otherwise, until the daffodils bloom in the springtime and the roses will have recovered from the terrible shock and show evidence in my favor.

Spraying will be in order next month sometime. I shall be prepared with a good big outfit to do the work properly, and if you have any poor, worthless fruit trees that you want grafted to better fruit, I can do it for you. I am now cutting my scions (or slips) from some of the best bearing trees I can find in city and country, and shall get some new varieties from Pullman and other places to try.
