Roads a Patchwork of Logging and Skid Roads

Mr. Oscar Nelson of Gettysburg, writing to the Olympic-Leader, touches rather forcibly upon the question of road expenditures in his vicinity. Mr. Nelson owns 200 acres of logged-off land upon which he has made his home for some four years, and is engaged in sheep and cattle raising. It seems he is barred from the most lucrative industry of the Clallam county farmer, dairying, by the lack of good roads.

He says the logging company, not satisfied with taking the timber out of the county to be manfactured elsewhere, have gobbled up all the logged-off land in that vicinity at five dollars an acre, thus preventing the settlement and improvement of the township.

As to roads, he says they have only a patchwork made out of skid roads and old railway tracks. "Our road money is taken and put, God only knows where. If our road money, which amounted in three years to over $2,000, had been expended for honest contract work, we would have had one new road and this valley would be in the hands of small holders, and the taxes would then be more than doubled. We do not kick against high taxes, but we want equal taxation. Double the road taxes for a few years, if necessary, but let the gentlemen that handle the road money be men who are not owned by the timber corporations, and Clallam county land would not have to go begging."

We get letters of similar import every little while, and hear the same objections made in every quarter. The demand is for good roads, for permanent roads—for a small portion of modern road work in each portion of the county each year, instead of some few sections getting it all year after year.

WATER TO BURN

Ennis Creek Alone Would Furnish 250,000 With Water

City Engineer Gherke measured the flow of water in Ennis Creek last week, for information of the city council. He reports the stream the lowest he has ever known it to be, having a flow of but 65 gallons per second. It may, in fact, be safely assumed this year, with the snow entirely gone from the northern slope of Mt. Angeles, and no rain whatever during the summer months, that stream has reached its lowest possible condition.

At the rate of 100 gallons per day to each family, that being the figure used everywhere in estimating on water supply, the stream, on its present basis, would supply a city consisting of 30,000 families. Even were we to allow a decrease in flow of one-half, yet the stream would furnish ample water for 25,000 families, or a city of over 100,000 people.

Considered as a source of power, Ennis creek would not be as desirable as Lake creek, yet it would furnish sufficient power to run our electric light plant, and not use half the water available.

In short, the only possible objection any one could make to the use of this stream, or of these two streams, for a municipal system, is that they are too near home; the cost of a plant would be too low; the chance of getting in a graft being thereby proportionately reduced.

The Citizen's Band.

The Citizen's Band, an organization composed of a number of the best band musicians in town, was recently organized with the following officers and members:

They propose giving open air concerts each Sunday afternoon at the bandstand, Front and Laurel, an arrangement which will be greatly appreciated by the music loving public; two such concerts have already been given and are very highly spoken of. A social session, including a serenade, was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Bayton Wednesday evening, in honor of their recent marriage.

Milwaukee Still Buying

The Townsend papers state that a representative of the C.M.& St.P. has filed, with the county auditor, fifty deeds to timber lands in western Jefferson; the purchases in some cases including entire townships. In addition to these, there are a number of deals under way. The admission of the principalship, says the Leader, was received with no great surprise, for it had been known for several weeks that some big railway was endeavoring to obtain holdings of an extensive nature in the Olympic peninsula. From these purchases, and those heretofore made in Clallam, it is convincing that the Milwaukee proposes to enter this field, and if the Northern Pacific does not hurry with its building in this direction, it will not be the pioneer of railroads into this section.

MAY IMPROVE LOTS

Commissioner Richards Says Law Authorizes Settlement.

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., Sept. 28, '06.

Mr. Lawrence E. Doyle,
Port Angeles, Wash.

Sir: I am in receipt thru the Department, of your letter of September 10, 1906, which letter is herewith returned with the advice that under the Act of May 2, 1906, (34 Stats., 167), authorizing the reappraisment of the unsold suburban lots in the townsite of Port Angeles, Washington, it was provided:

"That no patent shall issue to any of the lots so appraised until the purchaser thereof has proven to the satisfaction of the Secretary of the Interior that he has expended not less than $300.00 in permanent improvements on each lot purchased by him."

The law therefore authorized settlement and improvements upon the unoccupied suburban lots and their purchase by such occupants at private entry, at the reappraised price, and until reappraised such lots are not subject to purchase under the old appraisement. No permission is necessary to authorize such settlements and improvements to be placed on said lots, in any other manner.

Very respectfully,
W. A. RICHARDS,
Commissioner.

The City Council

City clerk's request to be relieved from collecting light bills laid over one week.

Requests from Civic Club that loose planks on main thorofares be nailed down was filed.

Ordered that council meet in extra session this Friday evening to make annual tax levy.

Bills allowed: Wood, $67.50; engineers $125; oil $12.80; lumber for Tumwater hill $7.75, spikes $3.75, labor on streets $124.00; two teams for council $12.00.

Clallam Millmen Organize.

J. A. Coulthurst, of the Shingle Mills Bureau, has returned from a trip of several weeks in Clallam county, where he organized the mills in the bureau movement. The sixteen mills of the county were brought into close touch with the bureau, and representatives will attend the next mass meeting here. Mr. Coulthurst reports that railroad development is the great topic of interest around Port Angeles, owing to the coming of the Northern Pacific belt line around the peninsula, which will bring Port Angeles into closer relations with the rest of the world and incidentally make it a point of importance in the handling of the enormous timber resources of the Olympic peninsula.—Townsend Call.

The new federal meat inspection law went into effect October 1st. It is unlawful to carry between states any meat carcasses or parts thereof that have not been inspected, and so marked by a government inspector. Any substance that will tend to lessen the wholesomeness of canned meats is prohibited, as also are false labels.

Right-of-way Agent Cook, of the N. P., was investigating titles at the Jefferson county court house last week.

Better not delay registering with the city clerk; your last chance will be on the 16th of this month.

Steamer on the Beach

The Santa Anna, which left Seattle Monday night for Valdez, is on the beach at Clallam Bay. In the severe storm prevaling, she sprung a leak about fifty miles off the Cape; the firemen were soon knee deep in water, which had to be kept below the fires or the steamer would be thrown upon the rocks of western Vancouver. Some sail was set, steam from the donkey engine used, and with hand pumps and bucket brigade, the water was kept down till the ship could be worked up the straits. During the night the women and children were kept on the upper deck, to be near the life boats, which were in readiness for launching. As darkness came on the surf along the reefs of Vancouver, where the Valencia went ashore, was plainly visible. Sufficient steam could not be made to clear the shore, and she skimmed along the edges of the reefs all night, making about two miles an hour. The passengers, some twenty in all, were put ashore and sent upon on the Alice Gertrude. The steamer is resting on a sand bottom; the load will be lightened by a wrecking company and the water pumped out, so she can proceed to Seattle for repairs.

When you have a cold it is well to be very careful about using anything that will cause constipation. Be particularly careful about preparations containing opiates. Use Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar, which stops the cough and moves the bowels. Sold by C.E. Nailor & Co

The Peoples' Popular Candidate.

Mr. A. J. Cosser, popular candidate of the people for sheriff of Clallam county, is without doubt the best known man in the county today. He was born in Chicago in 1872 and came to Port Angeles in 1890, at the time of the boom, thus being numbered among the older residents of the city. After working at the printer's trade for a time in the office of the Times (now the Tribune-Times), and at Port Crescent, he aspired to the higher and more responsible vocation of publisher and in 1896 laid down the "stick" for the pen and became editor and manager of the Democrat-Leader, and sole owner from June, 1898, to July, 1905, when the present publishers took over the paper.

As an editor and publisher, Mr. Cosser was fearless, but manly, in expressing his views, and made many friends by his straight forward manner among republicans as well as democrats. This is nowhere better shown than by the fact that the readers of his paper included as many of one party as of the other, many, if not most of whom, were subscribers to no other county paper. Those of the socialist party, too, finding in Mr. Cosser an able champion of their creed—equal rights to all men—were almost to a man readers of the Democrat-Leader.

Mr. Cosser is a man with a clean record and enjoys the respect and confidence of the community at large. He has always taken a keen interest in good government and was a member of the city council of Angeles in 1900-2. He made a conservative servant of the people, and his voice and vote was always on the side of justice and good government. As a police officer he would be equally fearless and conscientious in the discharge of his duties. No one can question his fitness for the office of sheriff; no better selection could have been made. We consider it a pleasure to recommend every intelligent voter in Clallam county, irrespective of party, to do everything possible and honorable to give Mr. Cosser a rousing majority at the coming election.

Improvement of Blocks Begun

The receipt of information from the commissioner of the general land office to the effect that the ten acre tracts are open for location and improvement has caused a decided stir in that part of the city the past week. Many of those who have located on claims are having lumber hauled and are putting up substantial little dwellings, the nucleus of what will at no distant day be a system of beautiful parks. Clearing is rapidly going on in every direction, roads are being built, and every evidence is given of intention to comply with the spirit of the act in completing the required improvements.

Some of our business men who have taken tracts along the bluff claim the intention of making summer homes, an ideal location for the purpose. But most of those locating, including the many employees of the Filion Mill and Lumber Company, have had an eye solely to character of the soil and have located in a large tract of what was once rich cedar land, but upon which there is now no standing timber, and which can be easily cleared, giving them homes but a short distance from the mill. Thus the new law will give the very results most desired—the benefit of the actual settler and the gradual and continuous improvement of what is now waste land. The opportunity to locate upon and improve prior to purchase is far superior to any lottery or other system, which would give speculators and non-residents an equal chance, thus defeating, in a large measure, the very intention of the act.

It was reported, the first of the week, that several claims had been jumped, but we believe all parties have now been satisfactorily located.

Will Run Independent

It appears that Mr. Bishop, the present senator of this senatorial district, is not satisfied with the outcome of the nominating convention, and is anxious to hang on a while longer. The Port Townsend Call says that Mr. Bishop has definitely decided to take up the independent cudgel and run anyway; that several lists are in circulation, and that they are being quite generally signed by the people who hold it was political chicanery practiced which wrested the nomination away from Bishop, and that there will be no difficulty in securing sufficient signatures to insure his name having a place on the ticket. Some men are never willing to let loose.

That stalwart journal of republicanism, the Post-Intelligencer, stated the situation very tersely in its leading editorial last Monday when it said: "In this campaign, more than in most, the issue is men, not measures. With few exceptions and a few changes the platform of one party would do for members of the other party to stand upon."

Senator Beverage of Indiana, says this time the American occupation of Cuba will be permanent. This is not according to Mr. Taft's views of the situation.

Chairman DeBruler of the Republican State Committee says active campaigning will not start until about October 15th, thus making the shortest campaign on record.

INCONSIDERATE HENS.

Lazy men are scarce in New England, and lazy women are scarcer; nevertheless, they exist. "Libby" Dutton of Dulverton was so lazy that even in early youth she began to put on flesh amazingly, and, naturally, the fatter she grew the lazier she became. At last she ceased going to church, because she had not energy to struggle into a sufficiently formal costume; indeed, she was never seen in anything less "free and easy" than a flowing calico wrapper of the Mother Hubbard type. Her friends remonstrated.

"It's because of the buttons," explained Libby, the easy tears starting to her eyes, for she wept at trifles as frankly as a big baby. "It's all because of the buttons. They kept a-busting and a-rolling and me a-chasing, till it wasn't human nature to endure! The Lord didn't build me for stooping and crawling; and besides, I got tired of sewing 'em on and sewing 'em on, and them everlastingly popping off again, as if they was shot out of pea-shooters, every time I stirred a finger. And I should think folks might make allowances for a person afflicted with flesh as I be, and not expect her to be buttoned up tight and bouncing round spry."

But the climax of Libby's laziness was reached when a neighbor, one fine day in early spring, found her seated on an overturned wheelbarrow near the barn door, weeping large and copious tears into a basket of fresh eggs that she held on her knee. To an inquiry as to what was wrong, she replied plaintively, dabbing her eyes:

"It ain't anything but the eggs. I'm so tired of gathering 'em; and every day there's more. Those hens, they keep right on laying, faster and faster, till I'm downright discouraged. Seems as if the fool creturs didn't understand the meaning of moderation!"

It is a noticeable fact that at no time during his patriotic address to his Sunday school did Mr. Rockefeller refer to the United States as "my country."

My Hair Ran Away

Don't have a falling out with your hair. It might leave you! Then what? That would mean thin, scraggly, uneven, rough hair. Keep your hair at home! Fasten it tightly to your scalp! You can easily do it with Ayer's Hair Vigor. It is something more than a simple hair dressing. It is a hair medicine, a hair tonic, a hair food.

Now Walking on the Water.

Two inventors are claiming attention of the scientific world just now in connection with a kind of aquatic shoes. Jose Antonio, a Mexican student in the department of mechanical engineering at Cornell, gave a successful test of his device by walking a mile and a half on the surface of Cayuga lake. The shoes, which closely resemble small boats, are constructed of tin, 5 feet 3 inches long, 14 inches wide and 9¾ inches deep. Each contains four separate air chambers, besides the compartment for the foot. The shoes are equipped with collapsible fans, which close as the wearer steps forward and then open to prevent the shoes from slipping backward.

A somewhat similar footgear for water walking is described in the Technical World Magazine for August, and credited to Lieut. Arthur T. Sadler of the United States volunteer life-saving crew at Charlesbank, Mass. Sadler claims to have made a two-mile trip on his shoes. He says he got his idea from watching the way a duck uses its feet. His shoes are 4 feet 3 inches long, 9 inches wide and 8½ inches deep, being the smallest that would carry his weight, 135 pounds.

American Laborer Better Off.

The bureau of labor has issued statistics for 1905, and estimates that the laboring man is better off as to wages and hours of labor. In 1905 the purchasing power of wages was 1 per cent higher than in 1904 and the retail prices of food were slightly higher. This advantage was more than offset, however, by the increase in the purchasing power of his wages. The average wages per hour in 1905 were 18.9 per cent higher than the average period from 1895 to 1899, and the number of employes were 36 per cent greater.

BITS OF MANY METEORS.

Collection of the Late Prof. Ward the Largest Private One.

Contrary to the layman's assumption, the comparative value of a meteorite collection lies not so much in the size of the individual specimen as in the number of known meteorites which are represented, says the New York Tribune It is just that which makes the late Professor Henry A. Ward's collection, now on deposit in the American museum of natural history, so important, for it contains specimens of 603 out of a possible 677 known meteorite "falls" or "finds" in all parts of the world.

The untimely death of Professor Ward, who was killed by an automobile at Buffalo on July 5, has called renewed attention to his splendid collection, far and away the most valuable in America and the largest private collection in the world. Professor Ward's enthusiasm and prodigal expenditure of energy and money placed him head and shoulders above his rival collectors. Part of his success in making the collection so nearly complete came from exchanging valuable duplicates for specimens which he needed, but which money could not dislodge, in other collections.

Meteorites are named after the place in which they fall or are found. A meteorite on meeting the earth's atmosphere becomes heated to such an extent by friction that disruption takes place. Consequently parts of the same "fall" or "find" are on exhibition at different museums, and the aim of the collector is to have all known falls or finds represented in his cabinets. The Ward collection, which is valued at $100,000, has representations of 95 per cent of all known meteorites of Australia, Asia, Africa and South America, 95 per cent of those of North America and 97 per cent of those of Europe. Thirty of the specimens—there are 1,600 in all—are the largest single pieces known in their respective falls. The total weight of the collection is 5,509 pounds, and some of the bits are worth $20 a gram.

Afraid It Would Slip.

Senator Tillman piloted a constituent around the capitol building for a while and then, having work to do on the floor conducted him to the Senate gallery.

After an hour or so the visitor approached a gallery doorkeeper and said: "My name is Swate. I am a friend of Senator Tillman's. He brought me here and I want to go out and look around a bit. I thought I would tell you so I can get back in."

"That's all right," said the doorkeeper, "but I may not be here when you return. In order to prevent any mistake I will give you the password so you can get your seat again."

Swate's eyes rather popped out at this. "What's the word?" he asked.

"Idiosyncrasy."

"What?"

"Idiosyncrasy."

"I guess I'll stay in," said Swate.—American Spectator.

A Correction.

"You called me a 'political jobber' in your paper this morning," began the irate visitor.

"Yes," replied the editor, "that was a bad break. I discharged that typo immediately."

"Oh, then you didn't mean to say that?"

"Certainly not. I wrote 'robber' very plainly."—Philadelphia Ledger.

TIRED BACKS.

The kidneys have a great work to do in keeping the blood pure. When they get out of order it causes backache, headaches, dizziness, languor and distressing urinary troubles. Keep the kidneys well and all these sufferings will be saved you. Mrs. S. A. Moore, proprietor of a restaurant at Waterville, Me., says: "Before using Doan's Kidney Pills I suffered everything from kidney troubles for a year and a half. I had pain in the back and head, an almost continuous in the loins and felt weary all the time. A few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills brought great relief, and I kept on taking them until in a short time I was cured. I think Doan's Kidney Pills are wonderful."

Strife.—Shame upon the man or woman who only knows how to stir up strife that can only lead to a battle and has not learned yet the necessity of following the same to the final issue.—Rev. W. L. Simmons, Baptist, Peoria, Ill.

Pardon.—Salvation not only pardons but cleanses and Jesus plucks with His hands, through which the iron has crashed, the bitter canker from our hearts. He pardons, cleanses and breaks the power of sin.—Rev. T. H. Rice, Methodist, Atlanta.

Character.—Character is a result, a product. Character tells the story of our conduct and industry. Character is the fruitage of our thinking, our willing, our loving, our doing. And character is the man. Rev. A. H. Goodenough, Methodist, Bristol, Conn.

The Supreme Need.—The Jews' supreme need is "conversion" to religion, ear cultivation of the spirit which we share with total humanity and with God at its core, with which and with whom the atonement day bids us be as one.—Rev. Charles Fischer, Hebrew, Boston.

Civic Virtue.—The happiness of the republic depends on the virtue of its citizens. Political health is as important as physical health. Religion is the guiding star of nations as well as of individuals. It alone can safeguard liberty.—Rev. T. J. Conaty, Roman Catholic, Worcester, Mass.

Success.—Success in the eyes of the world is failure in the sight of God. For a time the things upon which we set our affections may satisfy, but when at the end of our earth life we sum it all up it will be but to say with Solomon, "All is vanity, vanity!"—Rev. R. H. Sawyer, Disciple, Missoula, Mont.

Marriage.—Every man over 25 years of age who is earning enough to keep himself and a wife should establish a home and if he persists in remaining unmarried he should have good reasons to give to society and to God for his abnormal behavior.—Rev. R. A. George, Congregationalist, Cleveland.

Enthusiasm.—We should be enthusiastic concerning the Christian religion because of its founder. All great movements for human good center in some farseeing person, who, held by the purpose of his mission, is wiling to endure much to accomplish his aims.—Rev. C. H. Pettibone, Congregationalist, Denver.

A False World.—We live in a world of flattering hopes, false valuations and vain imaginations. There is so much pretension in the world, there is so much difference between what seems and what is that our judgment of men and things often becomes confused.—Rev. Daniel Dorchester, Methodist, Allegheny.

Labor and Capital.—When labor and capital are both Christians then "the lion and the lamb will lie down together and a little child be able to lead them." But until they are thus Christian governments are going to be taxed more and more to keep them within bounds.—Rev. G. B. Vosburgh, Methodist, Denver.

Apple Cream.

The engineering skill which puts steel and iron bridges in almost impossible places, which lays railroad tracks along the most perilous routes; the architects and builders who rear sky scrapers to dazzling heights; the steel ships of commerce and of war, surpassing the wildest dreams of the past generation; the marvelously swift railroad trains; the development of industry and commerce to a volume that almost exceeds belief—of these things man may well be proud. But there is not a mart of trade, there is not a manufacturing center created by the genius and industry of man that may not be reduced to ruins in a few moments if nature brings her forces to bear upon it. The railroad track may disappear, the iron and steel bridge may go down to destruction before the irresistible forces beneath the earth. The sky scrapers may topple to the ground as though they were so many ant hills. The ships of war and of commerce, anchored in peaceful harbors, may become the prey of tidal waves. Nature in her angriest mood may make the strongest and most impressive creations of man appear to be the toys of prattling children.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. Custards.

Steamed custards are delicious, but must be steamed slowly and carefully. Adding cold water will undoubtedly cause a steamed pudding to fall. A very hot oven will scorce any pudding in which whipped white of egg is spread on the top, while the inner part will be quite uncooked. When boiling a pudding such as rolypoly, or a suet dumpling, it often sticks at the bottom of the saucepan when dropped in. A plate in the pan will prevent this.

DOG HAD APPENDICITIS.

Flinky, Mascot of Torpedo Boat, Ate Too Much Muck.

A vermiform appendix containing some portion of the West Indies was taken from Flinkey, mascot of the torpedo boat Hoskins, the other day by Dr. G. R. Hartman, says the Philadelphia corespondent of the New York Mail. The operation was performed at the dog and cat hospital in the presence of several bluejackets.

Flinkey is a skye terrier, and is believed to be the first dog in the United States navy to have appendicitis.

He always had a fine appetite, and when the Hoskins was in West Indian ports he would frequently get shore leave, but as soon as the Hoskins set sail for League Island the inactivity of sea life began to tell on him.

"Flinkey's seasick," said one of the sailors.

"And it's dangerous in animals, too," nodded another. "I've heard tell of cattle and horses dying of it, and any circus man will tell you that the minute an elephant gets seasick they get the tackle ready to have him overboard."

Permission was obtained to send Flinkey to the sick bay, but the surgeon said that he was not prepared to give the case the scientific treatment it required. He thought Flinkey had appendicitis, and he prescribed a course of treatment which kept him alive until the vessel reached port.

This advice was taken and a delegation was appointed to see that Flinkey got fair play. He was laid on a table and etherized. Then an incision was made in his right side and his appendix removed. The superfluous innard was found to contain chunks of dirt and a number of stones, all of which he must have picked up in the West Indies.

Flinkey came out of the anesthetic in good shape, and his physician predicts that he will recover.

Much has been said of the reckless waste of human life in the steel mills of Pittsburg, which largely employ immigrant laborers. At least one foreign consul has been moved to enter a protest. The accident in a Pittsburg mill in which a workman was overcome by burning gas and the thirteen remaining men in the shift successively attempted to succor those ahead of them, with the result that the entire fourteen were overcome, three fatally, proves that there is heroic stuff in these new Americans with foreign names. They deserve every precaution for their safety that can be devised.

SEGUIN NOTES.

This section has been favored with very fine weather for the past month; many of the ranchers are putting in their third crop of hay.

P. W. Gallup brought in some fine strawberries the first of the week. How is that for Seguin?

Farmer Fortman, of Lost Mountain, has some fine fruit on exhibition at "The Corners."

The Basket Social in the New Wilbur building was very well attended and a good time had by all.

W. M. Nichols, of Clines Piano House, has been placing some phonographs in Seguin homes. W. L. Bracon and O. B. Hart are the latest purchasers.

The county politicians are beginning to get interested in alfalfa and other grasses and are visiting the rancher to get his ideas

The large force of men on the Seguin Trading Co's. new store are making a very good showing, and it is anticipated will have it completed inside of thirty days.

The Wilbar Bros. will open their new butcher shop the first of the week.

There has been a large number of business visitors to Seguin lately.

The Bugge Mercantile Co. will move into their large store in a few days, when they will put a delivery wagon on the road.

H. J. Knapman has leased his Happy Valley Ranch to Lew Doran who will take possession Nov. 1st.

The Seguin School is moving along quite smoothly under the able principal, C. H. Bown.

Superintendent Knapman, of the State Hatchery, reports the run of silver salmon as on in earnest. He took three hundred out of the traps in one day this week.

The woods are so full of hunters and hounds now it is impossible to take your morning nap on account of the deep baying mingled with the sharp crack of the rifle. It is a common thing for a party to bag two to four deer in one day.

A SECOND SAN FRANCISCO.

Stricken Valparaiso and the Earthquake Which Devastated It.

Valparaiso, the South American city that has suffered a fate similar to that of San Francisco, is built upon 19 hills or mountains belonging to the coast range and varying from 300 to 1,100 feet in height. These hills are sometimes separated by deep ravines through which flow small streams of water. The level ground along the bay covers only a narrow strip, in some places wide enough for four parallel streets, in others barely wide enough for two. It is nowhere more than one-half mile in width. Much of this narrow strip was made by filling up the low ground along the bay and protecting it from the sea by stone walls and iron rails.

Streets in the level part of the city are generally straight, but the hills are reached by winding roads, stairways and steam lifts Belgian blocks form the principal material for street paving, while sidewalks are flagged. Calle Victoria, the principal street, is a wide thoroughfare, stretching along the bay from one end of the city to the other; it is lined with handsome government buildings, hotels, banks, stores and offices. The majority of these edifices are built of brick, three or four stories in height; carved facades are a prominent feature; stores are large and have plate glass windows. The city is divided for administrative purposes into four sections, which in a general way coincide with the physical divisions.

The city is the chief port of the republic of Chile. It is situated on the edge of a beautiful curving bay, the houses climbing up the hillsides which form the background of the city. Its population was estimated at over 150,000. It had already suffered severely on three former occasions—in 1822, 1829 and 1851. During recent years it had been immune and had been growing in prosperity, its imposing buildings, tram cars, and electric light suggesting a busy European city. It has received. however, what will probably prove to be a disastrous setback. The extent of the shock is reported to have covered an area of 2 degrees, or about 140 miles in length. The city is backed by the enormous range of the Andes which is famous for its terrible gorges and towering peaks. recently successfully surmounted by the Transandean railway, which connects the west coast with Buenos Ayres on the east. Railways, telegraphs, water and electric mains were all broken down as in San Francisco, but in many cases the solidarity of the houses preserved them from ruin. The tremors caused by the earthquake spread over the world and were recorded on numerous seismographs.

WHERE THE QUAKE OCCURRED.

The earthquake at Valparaiso occurred on the slopes of the great chain of the Andes, a district which has been shaken by such movements ever since the country has been known to history. The strata of the continent has been pushed up to heights of nearly 20,000 feet, all along the western side of South America. A large number of volcanoes exist in the chain of the Andes, but they are not continuously distributed. There is one numerous group in Colombia and Ecuador, and then a gap occurs, Peru being almost free from volcanoes, the second group occurring near the southern boundary of the country in the Lake Titicaca district. Then another break occurs, and the third series of volcanoes begins just south of Santiago.

The sectional view shows how the great range of the Andes rises on the western edge of the continent and slopes away to a wide plain towards the east. The ocean depths off Valparaiso are also severe, the 6,000-foot line coming close in shore as indicated in the one-column map. The strata adjacent to these great inequalities of height and depth are in a state of great strain.

Men, do your shirts open all the way down in front? If not, you are not in style.

If all the people were candidates we could get along easier with them.

Boys Desert the Farm.

How to secure farm help, is one of the most vital questions before the farmers of this country to-day, says Farming. Wherever one goes, he finds that every farmer is deficient in the proper kind of help on the farm. and that many farmers are hampered and prevented from doing the best work possible for lack of efficient help.

Twenty-five years ago this difficulty did not confront the farmers to anything like the extent existing to-day. Then, the boys of the families remained on the farm and were not above aiding their fathers in their farm work. The daughters were satisfied to help their mothers in the dairy and kitchen and to join with the men and boys on the farm in milking the cows and doing the chores.

Who Would Be Our King?

If Washington had accepted the American crown when it was offered to him during the revolution who would have been king to-day? If that dynasty had continued according to lineal descent the reigning monarch would be one of Louisville respected and honored citizens—Mr. George Washington Lewis. Only two reigns would have intervened between that of George I. and the present day. Mr. Lewis is now 87 years old, and divides the evening of life between here and California. says the New York Examiner.

The heir-apparent to this great throne would have been Mr. John C. Lewis, who is one of Louisville's leading merchants. Instead of being known throughout the South as a great merchant prince, presiding over a great department store, he would be living leisurely in the royal palace, looking forward to his coming reign.

Thanksgiving Proclamations.

The first proclamation of Thanksgiving Day that remains in printed form is that issued by Francis Bernard, governor in chief of the Province of Massachusetts Bay.

This document was read at the council chamber in Boston on November 4, 1767.

When a man tells you an important secret, and you are thinking what a good time you will have telling it, he says: "Now promise me you won't say anything"

WOMEN AND FASHION

What the Mothers Do.

Playing with the little people
Sweet old games forever new;
Coaxing, cuddling, cooing, kissing,
Baby's every grief dismissing,
Laughing, sighing, soothing, singing,
While the happy days are winging—
This is what the mothers do.

Planning for the little people,
That they may grow brave and true;
Active brain and busy fingers
While the precious seedtime lingers,
Guiding, guarding, hoping, fearing,
Waiting for the harvest nearing—
This is what the mothers do.

Praying for the little people
(Closed are eyes of brown and blue),
By the quiet bedside kneeling
With a trustful, sure appealing;
All the Spirit's guidance needing,
Seeking it with earnest pleading—
This is what the mothers do.

Parting from the little people
(Heart of mine, how fast they grow!),
Fashioning the wedding dresses,
Treasuring the last caresses;
Waiting then as years fly faster
For the summons of the Master—
This is what the mothers do.

Ugliness Woman's Salvation.

You see this wart on my nose. That wart is my salvation. That mole on your neck, the one that has irritated you so much since the lace yokes and peek-a-boo waists came into fashion; well, get right down on your knees and give thanks for that mole, writes Cynthia Grey.

See that scar on your forehead. Be ye altogether thankful. There is that little constellation of brown freckles across the bridge of your nose. Lift your voice in joy over every one of them.

Are your teeth set on edge? How grateful you must be. Are you cross-eyed? Are you pigeon-toed?

Oh, you lucky thing! Your husband must be so proud of you, and how your friends must rejoice in these little earmarks of morality.

We ugly women have more than we know for which to be thankful. The beautiful women are having their troubles. One-half are mixed up in the White-Thaw mess and the other half are enjoying private enterprises of a nature wholly as interesting and as intensely startling.

Look around! There goes a beauty! In her wake are three or four millionaires. There is another Venus. Stage managers are chasing her. This beauty has this and that admirer and the other beauties have their choice of select and cultured (?) attentions.

Away with the bleaches and the lotions! Be done with wrinkle-killers and face powders!

Moles and warts and wrinkles are but the ammunition that protects woman from man's perfidy and her own vanity.

About Wall Paper.

A large-patterned paper makes a small room look smaller.

A plain pale-tinted paper is apt to fade when exposed to the sun; in this case a white ground with colored flowers is better.

In a bedroom a plain paper on the ceiling is more restful to the eyes.

If the furniture covering and the carpet both have large patterns over them select a plain wall paper of a harmonizing shade.

If possible, a hall paper should have a figured base.

French Make Distinctions.

A writer from Paris says there is a great difference between the words "feministe" and "feminine." The first is a woman who strives to make a man of herself, and the second is the right of a woman as a law-abiding, intelligent member of society, who does not preach unnatural laws. "We have," says the writer, "much to do to bring the rights of women up to the standard of those in America, and our movement is the more important here, in that the married women must continue business or professional work.

In the Sickroom.

Good cheer is better than medicine.

The jest has an important part to play as a remedy for irritability.

Don't tell long stories.

Don't rehash other people's trials.

Don't think up miserable possibilities.

Add to these tact, the want of which is the base of nearly every sin a nurse may commit.

Your Health.

Nature's price for health is regularity. We can not safety bottle up sleep to-night for to-morrow night's use, nor force our stomachs at one meal because we expect to eat sparingly at the next, nor become exhausted in working day and night, expecting to make it up later. Nature does nothing before her appointed time, and any attempt to hurry her invariably means ultimate disaster. She takes note of all our transactions, physical, mental and moral, and places every item to our credit. There is no such thing as cheating nature. She may not present her bill on the day we violate her law, but if we overdraw our account at her bank and give her a mortgage on our minds and bodies, she will surely foreclose, says Woman's Life. She may lend us all we want to-day, but to-morrow, like Shylock, she will demand the last ounce of flesh. Nature does not excuse man for weakness, incompetence or ignorance. She demands that he be at the top of his condition.

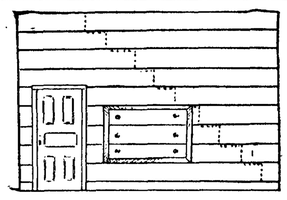
Little French Frock.

Unquestionably, there is an air about French designs that is always noticeable and attractive, in children's dresses as well as in those for the grown-ups, a fact which this dainty little frock strikingly exemplifies. White batiste is the material, with Val insertion and edging for the decoration. The front is cut in one piece, with Val inser- from the body tucks being sufficient for the lower part, but the back has a little gathered skirt set on finished with a big bow of the material at the back. The sleeves are little more than short, full puffs, with epaulettes across their tops, finished with lace and insertion, also. Saucy little bows of pink ribbon give the touch of color that a French woman loves, and the low Dutch neck is becoming and charming. The little frock is as sweet and dainty as the fondest mother could desire. The design, as will be seen, can be simplified for plainer frocks, if desired.

AUTUMN GARB OF THE TAILOR GIRL.

Chiffonier Built in Wall.

A correspondent of the Practical Farmer says: The illustration shows how space can be utilized, and at a convenience. It is original. When we built our house I did not like the idea of losing all of that space under the stairway after taking off the closet, and I vetoed on the spot one of those "catchalls" with a little door large enough to stick your head in it. All that is necessary is to open the door and throw it in and afterwards it takes the whole family to find it. So I conceived these drawers, which are very useful in the bedroom for holding bed linen, comfortables and blankets, or fresh ironed clothes, such as white skirts and dresses.



CHIFFONIER IN THE WALL.

Fancy Footstools Fashionable.

Footstools are quite fashionable again. Charming drawing-room footstools are made on a slender-legged wooden foundation, which is gilt enameled ivory white, while the stuffed top is composed of a striped or flounce brocade, which reproduces the harmonious colors and designs of the Eighteenth Century and early Empire days, says "Woman's Life." Dining-room and library footstools should be handsome and plainly severe, while chintz-covered hassocks are just the thing for the spare room and "den."

For Mothers-in-Law.

No mother has a right to interfere between husband and wife when they are satisfied with each other. No husband is a good husband, no wife a good wife, who allows such interference.

The mother who really loves her son does all in her power to make his wife love her, and to act as a conciliator, if any slight misunderstanding arise between the two.

But since the really good mother who loves her children unselfishly and wisely is as rare as a white blackbird, it is not to be wondered at that the good mother-in-law is not found every day, says Woman's Life. A mother should remember that when her daughter marries she passes entirely from her jurisdiction, and should strongly discourage any desire to interfere with the young wife's daily life.

Making Baby's Clothes.

It used to be considered part of the expectant mother's duty to provide all the pretty garments for the child, and these to be of finest material and handmade, of course. That is all changed now, and it is considered as very detrimental to the mother's health to spend months on fine sewing. The little garments are now generally purchased, are machine made and much cheaper than they used to be.

Chinese Wares in Vogue.

Canton ware, especially that with the open-work bordering, which in the fruit stands and plates has particular charm, and the Chinese medallion china in green, gold and red on white, are the most correct for dining-room furnishings for houses of the colonial type, for both were widely used by the wealthiest of the early settlers in New Amsterdam, being brought by their trading vessels from foreign ports.

Latest in Children's Shoes.

Embroidered linen shoes are very fashionable at present for young children. They are usually worked in a design of roses and forget-me-nots, in wash silk, and the straps fastened with small crochet buttons. In lieu of bows, tiny embroidered butterflies are to be seen, while the favorite broderie Anglaise is responsible for some charming little shoes, the fastening straps being composed of narrow scalloped bands of linen secured with embroidery buttons.

Cure for Neuralgia.

Women who suffer from neuralgia will be interested in the simple remedy suggested and might try it. If the neuralgia is on the left side, dip the right hand in water as hot as can be borne, and if it is on the right side, dip the left hand. As the fibers of the fifth and median nerves cross, the theory is that any impulse applied to the right hand will affect the left side of the face, and vice versa.

Passing of the Country Girl.

A New York paper deplores the passing of the country girl, who now wears exactly the same style of clothes, long gloves and so on, that her city cousin wears, and the fact is attributed to the automobile. However, street cars and cheap excursions to the city have had much to do with it. The traditional country girl disappeared a great many years ago.

She Sleeps Outdoors.

Mrs. Henry Siegel of New York is an advocate of the outdoor life, and not only spends as much of the day as possible in the open, but she and her two daughters sleep on the veranda in all kinds of weather. She spent a long time in Europe looking for a health cure, and that was what she found.

THE TRUST LAWYERS

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT PAYS HIS RESPECTS.

Speaks at Dedication of New Pennsylvania Capitol--Selfishness Unchecked May Transform New Epoch Into Powers of Unequalled Destruction.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 6. — In a speech delivered here at the dedicatory ceremonies of the new state capitol building, President Roosevelt referred in the most severe terms to those men in the legal profession who have engaged in the defense of the big corporations under fire during the past year or two. He said in part:

"Each generation has its special and serious difficulties, and we of this generation have to struggle with evils springing from the very material success of which we are so proud, from the very growth and proserity of which, with justice, we boast. The extraordinary industrial changes of the last half century have produced a totally new set of conditions, under which new evils flourish, and for these new evils new remedies must be devised.

"Some of these evils can be grappled with by private effort only. But many of these evils are of such a nature that no private effort can avail against them. These evils, therefore, must be grappled with by governmental action. In some cases this governmental action must be exercised by the several states individually. In yet others it becomes increasingly apparent that no efficient state action is possible, and that we need through executive action, through legislation, and through judicial interpretation and construction of law, to increase the power of the federal government.

At Mercy of Lawyers

"If we fail thus to increase it, we show our impotence and leave ourselves at the mercy of those ingenious legal advisers of the holders of vast corporate wealth, who, in the performance of what they regard as their duty, and to serve the ends of their clients, invoke the law at one time for the confounding of their rivals, and at another time strive for the nullification of the law, in order that they themselves may be left free to work their unbridled will on these same rivals, or on those who labor for them, or on the general public.

"In the exercise of their profession and in the service of their clients these astute lawyers strive to prevent the passage of efficient laws and strive to secure judicial determination of those that do pass which shall emasculate them. They do not invoke the constitution in order to compel the due observance of law alike by rich and poor, by great and small; on the contrary, they are ceaselessly on the watch to cry out that the constitution is violated whenever any effort is made to invoke the aid of the national government, whether for the efficient regulation of railroads, for the efficient supervision of great corporations, or for efficiently securing obedience to such a law as the national eight-hour law and similar so-called "labor statutes.

Shield of Incompetence

"The doctrine they preach would make the constitution merely the shield of incompetence and the excuse for government paralysis; they treat it as a justification for refusing to attempt the remedy of evil, instead of as the source of vital power necessary for the existence of a mighty and ever growing nation."

Trust legislation was referred to by the president as follows:

"All extension of the national power to oversee and secure correct behavior in the management of all great corporations engaged in interstate business will render the more stable the present system by doing away with those grave abuses which are not only evil in themselves, but are also evil because they furnish an excuse for agitators to inflame well meaning people against all forms of property, and to commit the country to schemes of wild, would-be remedy which would work infinitely more harm than the disease itself. The government ought not to conduct the business of the country; but it ought to regulate it so that it shall be conducted in the interest of the public."

Behooves Us to Look Ahead

"It behooves Americans to look ahead and plan out the right kind of civilization, as that which we intend to develop from these wonderful new conditions of vast industrial growth. It must not be, it shall not be, the civilization of mere plutocracy, a banking house, Wall-street-syndicate civilization; nor yet can there be submission to class hatred, to rancor, brutality and mob violence, for that would mean the end of all civilization. Increased powers are susceptible of abuse as well as use; never before have the opportunities for selfishness been so great, nor the results of selfishness so appalling; for in communities where everything is organized on a merely selfish commercial basis, such selfishness, if unchecked, may transform the great forces of the new epoch into powers of destruction hitherto unequalled."

PALMA ASKED HELP

CORRESPONDENCE IN CUBAN MATTER IS MADE PUBLIC.

Early In September President Palma Acknowledged Inability to Deal With Situation and Asked United States to Take Charge. Annexation Discussed.

Washington, Oct. 6. — Secretary Root has made public the correspondence leading up to the intervention in Cuba. The correspondence took place between Consul General Steinhart at Havana and Assistant Secretary of State Bacon.

Intervention was asked by the Cuban government as early as September 8, and as long ago as September 14 President Palma had determined to resign as president of the republic, and the vice president and cabinet ministers had determined to no longer continue in office.

It is shown that intervention by the United States has long been planned by the Palma government, and was communicated to the state department in a letter by Consul Steinhart as early as September 5. The correspondence consists of a dozen or more cables and letters, in which it is stated by President Palma, through official channels, that he was powerless to cope with the insurrection to the extent of putting it down or even to protect life and property. He begged that the United States might send troops to take wharge of affairs and prevent destruction of life and property.

The correspondence began on September 8 and continued until September 14, the last letter telling of the intended resignation of Palma and other government officials, leaving Cuba without a government of any kind.

This resulted in the hurried sending of Secretaries Taft and Bacon to the island and the subsequent action taken by them.

Havana, Oct. 6.—Now that the disarmament of the revolutionists and the government volunteerss is progressing steadily, the thoughtful portion of the public of all nationalities are animatedly discussing the possibilities of Cuba's future form of government.

The desire for annexation, which has been carefully concealed for the past four years is now voiced openly and the wish that the United States retain some measure of actual control in Cuban affairs is heard more insistently than ever.

Representatives of leading elements, both Cuban and foreign, have been asked to attend a meeting to discuss the feasibility of holding some sort of plebiscite by which all classes of the population would be enabled to express their ideas on what the future form of government should be. One plan suggested is the formation into groups of the various elements, each of which will formulate its own project of government. The idea of holding the next elections in January has been entirely abandoned, the general preference among appearing to favor the holding of elections in June.

MAGOON WILL HAVE MILITARY POWERS

Washington, Oct. 8.—Gov. Charles E. Magoon, who left Washington Saturday for Havana, will exercise in Cuba all the power which was vested in Gen. Wood when he ruled Cuba under the title of military governor.

Gov. Magoon will be known as the provisional governor, but his authority will be plenary and he will be subject only to the orders of the president and secretary of war.

Cuba will have the semblance of an autonomous government and the United States will continue to be represented in Havana by an American minister and the consuls will be at their posts.

Cuba will be represented in Washington by a minister, and the Cuban consuls are expected to remain at their stations.

It is officially stated that there has been and will be no subversion of the Cuban constitution. By incorporating the Platt amendment into the constitution, Cuba provided for just such an emergency as has arisen and for the United States to intervene and restore order, consequently, it is said, Cuba is still to be governed by constitutional means and by machinery such as is provided in any community when martial law is necessary.

During the occupancy of Cuba it is not expected that the Cuban congress will exercise any power.

THE HUNTING SEASON.

—Cincinnati Post.

Little Lessons in Patriotism

In the battle of Lake Champlain, where more than one American distinguished himself for bravery, notably among them Commodore McDonough and Capt. Henley, Lieutenant Commandant Stephen Cassin performed services which won for him a medal from Congress and widespread recognition of his bravery.

CAPT. CASSIN.

The British force was superior in numbers, the calmness of the lake permitted heavy armaments on comparatively light vessels, and of this circumstance the British availed themselves, giving their commander a ship equal in force to two of the American ships, with which he, being a veteran officer of no mean ability, made sure of capturing the young American, Cassin.

But the naval discipline—Cassin had served in the Tripolitan war—the skill, the coolness, the courage and the daring intrepidity of Cassin were brought into action. He made the attack instead of waiting for it, thereby gaining an advantage over his rival.

His undaunted spirit, which had enabled him to endure two years' imprisonment in Spain in the previous war, now bore him forward. In spite of the apparently overwhelming obstacles that confronted him, he overcame the enemy, and by his action so inspired his own men and even the men in the other ships that he deservedly won his reward of the praise of the Congress of his country.

A FORTUNE FOR DRESS.

Miss Morosini, New York Heiress, Spends $100,000 Yearly.

Most people would be satisfied and consider themselves well fixed for life if they fell into a fortune of $100,000. That is the sum, however, which Miss Giulia Morosini, daughter of the millionaire banker of New York, spends on her clothes in one year. At times her outlay for clothes exceeds even these enormous figures. Miss Morosini does not consider the sum at all large and was surprised that the statement should create any public interest, when a newspaper writer interviewed her at her father's palatial home at Riverdale on the Hudson.

Many of the gowns in Miss Morosini's wardrobe cost from $4,000 to $8,000 each. Her lingerie alone costs $5,000 yearly.

She is interested in road driving and maintains the most costly stables owned by a woman in the world. Of course, the cost of maintaining her stable has nothing to do with the item for frocks. But yet there is a connection. Her friends regard her as the most expert woman whip in the country. And therefore it becomes her to conduct herself as such. Accordingly, when she takes the air in one of her $10,000 turnouts behind her three-abreast team—a matter of some $15,000 to $20,000 worth of carriage horse—she must naturally be appropriately dressed, with a due consideration to the matching or proper contrast between the colors in horse, harness, whip, hat, hair, cloak, gown, etc. She designs her own harnesses, to match the coloring of the horses. When driving she is clad in colors which harmonize with the harness and elaborate equipage. One set of harness and a cart cost $7,000. Even the whips are made to match the turnouts, of which there are seven. One of them has a nine-inch handle of solid gold and cost $500.

Miss Morosini is a girl of striking beauty and superb figure. Her father, Giovanni Morosini, first came to this country as a refugee with the great Italian patriot Garibaldi. He met with great success in the financial world and was once a partner of Jay Gould.

AMHERST SWIMMING RULE.

Undergraduates Now Required to Become Adepts in the Sport.

The decree that has gone out from Amherst College, now that the institution has a large and complete swimming equipment, that all students of that institution must not only bathe but learn to swim, is arousing much interest in the press, says the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Heretofore, swimming has not been dignified as an accomplishment to be require of college undergraduates. It has either been ignored altogether, or, if encouraged, left optional with the students whether they should acquire it or not.

But Amherst has initiated a forward movement in the matter and her experiment will be watched with some curiosity. It is, at least, a pretty good advertisement for the college, and will no doubt popularize the institution in the estimation of many young men; for in this day of athletics swimming should be in favor with all who love manly exercise or sport.

Strange as it may seem, it is said that a large percentage of college youths have not acquired the art of swimming. A sturdy, healthy boy should take to the water with the eagerness of a young duck. In the old days of deep-creek or swimming-hole indulgence there was much danger attending one's experiments in the water; but despite that the boys generally took the risk and learned to swim. The modern institutional swimming tanks is much safer, and there is no excuse for a natural youth, having access to these or any other safe bathing places, remaining incapable of taking care of himself in the water. Of course there are danger for even swimmers; but the boy or girl, man or woman, who can swim, on the whole, is better assured of escape in a water accident than one who can't.

Moreover, there is a lot of pleasure and fun in swimming when the practice is judiciously indulged. So every encouragement should be afforded to the youth of our time to cultivate the art of swimming, even if it is not made compulsory in our schools, colleges and universities.

Disappointing.

A car had stopped at a busy corner. Just as the conductor had reached to give the signal to start, there were yells of warning and an answering yell from the outside.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1906.

For commissioner, 3rd district, the republicans nominated K. O. Erricksos, of Mora, a candidate. He is well known over the western part of the county and is willing to stand on his record. He is a good business man and in every way qualified for the position. His neighbors speak of him in the highest terms as a man who will bring good judgment and sound business principles to the position he will be called upon to fill. The farmers of the county and residents of this city know him as a conservative and careful rancher and active business man. His home friends urged him to make the contest and he is consenting to their call and making a good natured effort for the place.

We are pleased to know that the disposition of the people of this county is to have a board of commissioners with the best sort of qualifications, and in electing Mr. Errickson and Mr. Lauridsen they will continue to manifest that disposition.

The republicans of Clallam county have great reason to congratulate themselves upon securing such a man as Nat Hawkins as a candidate for auditor. Clallam county is well supplied with good men, but a long and diligent search would hardly find a man so well qualified, and in every way fitted for the position as Mr. Hawkins. He served two years as deputy treasurer, and was deputy sheriff for a time under W. B. Smith. He is the present deputy auditor and has filled that position for nearly four years to the entire satisfaction of everyone. Always obliging and painstaking he has made hosts of friends in both parties. The fact that he had no competitor for the office from the beginning, stamps him as a man of strength, and one in whom the people have placed much confidence. Of course he will be elected.

The work of a county superintendent is two fold—office work and school visitation. Miss Trumbull has had nearly a year's experience in the former, having assisted Mr. Risley as deputy and taking charge of the office on numerous occasions when it was not convenient for him to be in town. Mr. Risley speaks in the highest terms of her efficiency in that line. Should Miss Trumbull be elected, she will devote her entire time to the duties of the office and make a special feature of school visitation—something that one who earns two salaries, one as teacher and one as superintendent, cannot do with justice to the latter.

A competent, trustworthy and economical public official is entitled to the endorsement of a second term; the laws of the state concede this and it is the custom everywhere thruout the land. County Clerk E. A. FitzHenry has made the economical administration of his office an especial study; he has conducted it in such a manner as to require very little help, less in a given length of time than any preceding official. During his brief vacation, as well as on the few occasions when he has been absent for a day, he has employed, at his own expense, the most competent deputies available. No man can put his finger on a spot and say, "He has neglected his duty here," or, "He has shown incompetency there."

Mr. FitzHenry is one of the best known men in the county, having lived here sixteen years, and his work of civil engineer having kept him in touch with all the people. He is one of our most public-spirited citizens, his popularity being attested by the vote given him at the last election. The conduct of his office affairs being such that the confidence reposed in him has been fully justified, he will without doubt be given the endorsement of a second term.

A. A. Richardson, nominee on the democratic ticket for county solicitor, is an attorney of acknowledged ability. He needs no introduction to the people of this county. He is many years older in this county than is the editor of this paper. His name and face is familiar to almost every voter in the county. Of his fitness for the office for which he is the nominee it would be superfluous for us to speak. That, like himself, is too well known. If elected, he will take care of the legal business of the county without fear or favor. No man will ever be able to accuse him of being incompetent; no expensive assistance will have to be engaged to protect the county's interests, neither will he ever be accused of conniving with crime to save the county expense and himself the trouble and work of prosecution in cases where his duty under the law and his oath of office is plain.

The duties that devolve upon the man who sees to it that the laws are upheld are most important. It is not sufficient that the man selected for this position should be temperate, fearless, honest and popular. It is a position that, filled properly, requires a man specially adapted for the work. Such a man is A. J. Cosser, the people's candidate for sheriff. He has grown up from young boyhood in this city, and no man can say aught against him. Ask your neighbor about him. His manhood is of that kind to bear inspection.

Mrs. P. O. Forsberg.

Mrs. P. O. Forsberg passed peacefully away at her home on the Elwha last Saturday morning, Oct. 6th, at 4 o'clock. She was born at Gysenge, Sweden, March 3, 1840; resided there until her marriage, December 1863. Came to America July 16, 1868, settling in Chicago. In 1890 she came to Port Angeles, and has since resided with her husband and family in this vicinity. Mrs. Forsberg was a member of the Swedish Lutheran Church, a loving wife and indulgent mother. Seven children were born to this union, five of whom, besides the husband and father, are living, Mrs. Mary Goodwin, Mrs. B. T. Smith, Mrs. Walter Darrow, Miss Alice Forsberg and Chas. Forsberg. Funeral services, conducted by Rev. Edwards, were held at the residence on the Elwha river, at 1 o'clock Monday, Oct. 8. Interment in Ocean View Cemetery.

W. R. C. Inspection.

Pacific W. R. C. held a very interesting meeting on Saturday, Oct. 6th, in the afternoon. The work of the order was inspected by one we all love and almost claim, Mrs. Mock, Department Councilor. After a very pleasant and profitable session held in I.O.O.F. Hall, we repaired to Masonic Hall to partake of dinner with the Post, Rev. Mr. Mock Dept. Chaplin, and a few friends. The evening was spent enjoying an interesting and instructive program, including speeches by both Mr. and Mrs. Mock. God bless them! May they be with us often, is the desire of every member of Pacific Post and Corps. Press Cor.

An Olympia dispatch says that the State will cooperate with Jefferson county in the prosecution of Geo. Wright, to be tried at Port Townsend on a charge of perjury in connection with fradulent claims for wild animal bounties in that county. Assistant Attorney General Robert F. Booth, of Seattle, will assist in the prosecution.

"The man who will send out of town for a piece of printing, even if it's only a dollar's worth, is in no position to ask people to patronize him. With good print shops in town, there is no excuse to go away from home to get printing." This is something, it seems, that Clallam county officials have not as yet learned.
