BE CHIVALROUS AND VOTE TO

"Give the Girl a Chance—The Man Has Had His" is Good Good Logic

If there is one position more than another requiring special education and natural adaptability, it is the office of county school superintendent.

It is not enough that one should have a county certificate — any high school student can easily obtain that; many of our teachers are not even high school graduates.

It is not enough that one should have taught in country schools an average lifetime—such experience is most decidedly evidence of incompetency as an instructor.

Were these the necessary qualifications, Miss Trumbull would not be competent. She has neither the one nor the other.

That she has no county certificate is due to the fact that, having a better one, she is not required to take the examination.

That she has not had many years experience in country schools is partially owing to circumstances not under her control—for while out of her teens, she has not yet reached a ripe old age. Besides which, she has been fitting herself for something better than country school work, having made the backwoods school with its end-week pony rides thru mud and rain, the means of paying expenses at the state normal, nine months more of which, as a finishing term, will give her a life state certificate, her constant aim.

At present she is teaching in the Angeles public schools, a position secured by virtue of her course of study and teaching experience at the normal.

She is familiar with the duties of the office of superintendent, having, accord- to Mr. Risley, proven a most efficient deputy, thoroly capable in every respect — far more so, Mr. Risley says, than some who have held that office in the past.

With few exceptions, our teachers are women, employed in preference to men because of their special adaptability — why, then, not a woman for superintendent? The position is one which is filled by women in hundreds of counties in this and other states, and always filled acceptably.

Vote for the lady; the man has had his share of office holding anyway.

Will Make Competent Official

From every quarter comes the intelligence that the people of this county are doing some thinking for themselves this campaign. The voters are realizing that a county office is a public trust, and are determined to act independently and vote for the best men. And this is one reason why Mr. A. J. Cosser has such good and reliable assurance from every quarter.

Mr. Cosser is a young man of family, wholly disinterested and absolutely free to act solely in interest of the tax payer. He is an honest, capable, sober, industrious and painstaking man, preeminently well qualified to administer the office of sheriff without fear or favor, and if elected, promises a clear-cut administration of the office free from graft or intrigue — everybody will get equal service and privileges. Mr. Cosser will make a safe and reliable sheriff.

Ennis Creek Nursery

T. H. Carter, the Ennis creek nurseryman, makes a pretty strong assertion in his adv in this issue; we believe, however, after a visit to his nursery, that he tells the exact truth. His fruit trees are certainly shapely, entirely free from mildew, and judging by the rapid growth of the past summer they must be well rooted. He has all the leading varieties, as well as nut, ornamental and shade trees. Yet, Mr. Carter tells us, people in both city and country send to Port land, and even further, for stock almost every year. Human nature is much the same everywhere, but in the case of fruit trees which one must care for for three or four years before knowing whether he has been sold and must try again, or whether he has fine trees, it would seem no one could be so foolish as to send their order away. Mr. Carter has fine large privet plants for hedges, plain and golden holly, rhododendrons of all shades, clematis, roses, and many other ornamental plants, vines and shrubs.

K. O. Erickson

K. O. Erickson, the unanimous choice of the republican convention for county commissioner of the third (west) district of this county, came from California in 1888, and packed his blanket over the mountains in the winter of 1888-9 to La-Push. He did not have any "chink" but was chuck full of days' work and was willing to do anything honest that there was to do. Soon after arriving at La-Push, he started to clear up a ranch on the lower Quileute (Quillayute) river. While clearing it up he worked for his neighbors to get means to do it. In 1898 he got a chance to sell goods for the Washington Fur Co. on commission, and by strict application to business and hard work he succeeded in building up quite a trade. When the Washington Fur Co. failed he bought out their intersets at LaPush. He then started a branch store at LaPush, a store at Mora, and at several other places in the country. By fair dealing and good judgment he has succeeded in keeping his credit good and his business in a prospering condition, and today he controls the trade of the lower Quillayute valley, besides he sells block-lots of goods at Ozette, Forks, Bogachiel, and even Hoh.

He has been U. S. Commissioner for more than ten years, and has handled all kinds of land cases and other United States business during that time.

He enjoys the confidence and respect of his neighbors.

The fair netted the ladies nearly $2000.

BUY TWO MORE STEAMERS

Reported that Indianapolis May Be Put on Straits Run Next Summer.

General Manager Charles E. Peabody of the International Steamship Company, announces the close of a deal through which the International comes into ownership of two especially fine vessels, well adapted to the trade in this section.

The vessels are the Iroquois and Chippewa, two of the fast boats plying on the Great Lakes.

The Chippewa has a gross tonnage of 996; is 200 feet long, 34 feet beam, and 19 feet depth of hold; engines 1000 horse power; built at Toledo, Ohio, in 1900.

The Iroquois is 1169 gross tonnage; other dimensions, and capacity of engines, same as her sister vessel, the Chippewa, except that the Iroquis has 21 feet depth of hold, built at Toledo, 1901.

The Chippewa is 147 tons and the Iroquois 275 tons larger than the Indianapolis, both vessels are 20 feet longer and have 2 feet more beam than the white flyer, while the Chippewa has 1 foot and the Iroquois 3 feet more depth of hold.

One of these new vessels will probably be put on the Alaska run, as an excursion boat in the summer, and the other on the Seattle-Victoria run. How Angeles is to be benefitted by the new purchases remains to be seen. We ought to be able to at least secure the Whatcom out of the deal for the Angeles run.

The purchase of these two steamers by Mr. Peabody brings the total of the Alaska Steamship company's fleet up to sixteen steamers, viz: Iroquois, Chippewa, Indianapolis, Dolphin, Jefferson, Dirigo, Farallon, Whatcom, Bellingham, Rosalie, Dode, Lydia Thompson, Alice Gertrude, State of Washington, George E. Starr and Utopia.

The Iroquois will start on the voyage around the Horn from Chicago to Seattle as soon as she can be got in readiness. The Chippewa will sail a few weeks later.

Unless something unforseen happens the Chippewa and Iroquois will be operating on Puget Sound flying the flag of the Black Ball Line, by next February. The two boats will follow the route taken by the steamer Indianapolis on the voyage to this coast. Leaving Chicago they will cruise across the chain of Great Lakes, enter the Atlantic Ocean at the Gulf of St. Lawrence and go to New York for coal and supplies. Stops will be made enroute at ports on the coast of South America and at San Diego and San Francisco for fuel.

THANKSGIVING: A Proclamation by The President.

The president has issued a proclamation naming Thursday, November 29, as a day of thanksgiving. The text of the proclamation is as follows:

"The time of the year has come when, in accordance with the wise custom of our fathers, it becomes my duty to set aside a special day of thanksgiving and praise to the Almighty because of blessings which have been received, and of prayer that those blessings may be continued.

"Yet another year of widespread well-being has passed. Never before in our history, or in the history of any other nation, has a people enjoyed more abounding material prosperity than has ours; a prosperity so great that it should arouse in us no spirit of reckless pride, and, least of all a spirit of heedless disregard of our responsibility; but rather a sober sense of our many blessings, and a resolute purpose, under providence, not to forfeit them by any action of our own.

"Material well-being, indispensable though it is, can never be anything but the foundation of true national greatness and happiness. If we build nothing upon this foundation, then our national life will be as meaningless and empty as a house where only the foundation has been laid. Upon our material well-being must be built a superstructure of individual and national life, lived within the laws of the highest morality, or else our prosperity itself will, in the long run, turn out a curse instead of a blessing.

"We should be both reverently thankful for what we have received and earnestly bent upon turning it into a means of grace and not of destruction.

"Accordingly I hereby set apart Thursday, the 29th day of November, next, as the day of thanksgiving and supplication, upon which the people shall meet in their homes or churches, devoutly acknowledging that which has been given them and to pray that they may in addition receive the power to use these gifts aright.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the city of Washington, this 22d day of October, in the year of our Lord, one thousand, nine hundred and six, and of the independence of the United States, the one hundred and thirty-first.

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

WARDEN KEES OUT

PENITENTIARY SUPERINTENDENT IS SUMMARILY DEPOSED.

M. F. Kincaid, Member of Board of Control Will Take His Place. Penitentiary Grain Bags in the Hands of Dealers Given as Reason for Change.

Olympia, Oct. 22.—M. F. Kincaid, of Seattle, chairman of the state board of control, Saturday resigned that position and was appointed superintendent of the state penitentiary at Walla Walla, in place of A. F. Kees. The board Saturday morning addressed a letter to Superintendent Kees asking his resignation, and gave out a statement that as a result of its investigations it has found that Kees had permitted state grain bags to be purchased for speculative purposes, after he had been warned that bags applied for were bought for speculation. The board in its statement declared that it believed Kees had not personally profited by the speculation.

The appointment, Kincaid says, came as a surprise, as he had not an inkling of it until the governor offered the place to him. Kincaid has given the penitentiary jute mill much study and has gathered data for the proposed enlargement and has stated that he believes the institution can be made to pay the entire expenses of the penitentiary and at the same time give a much greater number of farmers the benefit of cheap grain bags.

Matthew Piles, of Olympia, was appointed member of the board of control to succeed Kincaid. Piles is a traveling man and a brother of Senator Piles.

KEES WILL NOT RESIGN

Declares He Has Been Given no Opportunity to Defend Himself.

Walla Walla, Oct. 22.—A private message was received in Walla Walla Saturday evening announcing the removal of Warden A. F. Kees by Gov. Mead. No particulars were given in the message. Friends of the warden called the governor on the long distance telephone and asked him to confirm the report, which he did.

When asked to give his reasons for the removal of Kees the governor stated that the action was taken by reason of the warden permitting L. M. Knettle, a banker of Pomeroy, to purchase grain sacks for which he had no use, having made the purchase for speculative purposes.

In conversation with a newspaper representative, Warden Kees said, in response to a question regarding the rumor of his removal or resignation:

"All the information I have in regard to the matter is what I have heard through a friend who talked with Gov. Mead over the telephone. The governor confirmed the report that I had been removed. I did not resign and do not intend to do so. Of course, when the time comes I will step down and out and I do not intend to put up any fight for the position.

"I have never been notified of any charges having been prepared against me and have been given no opportunity to defend or vindicate myself."

Birmingham, Ala., suffered half a million dollars loss by fire last week.

REPORT ON LABOR

State Commissioner Reviews Conditions in Washington.

Olympia, Oct. 22.—It is announced from the office of State Labor Commissioner Hubbard that the fifth annual report of the labor bureau of Washington will soon be ready for publication. The report will contain much information relative to labor and industrial conditions in the state and also valuable statistical data covering the development of Washington manufacturing interests. The information for the latter feature is secured by the deputy factory inspectors, whose dutiess require them to visit and inspect practically all the manufacturing establishments of the state. All the data thus obtained during the fifteen months the law has been in effect will be presented in properly tabulated form.

An excellent showing will be made of new enterprises that have been established since January 1, 1905. Reports relating to this subject have been received from 61 cities and towns, with reports from Seattle and Tacoma yet to be included. New concerns to the number of 177 are reported, with aggregate capital of $4,113,850 and giving epmloyment to 4,150 persons. These industries are grouped as follows:

Lumber, 26; electric power, 3; shingles, 26; beer, 3; brick, 6; wagons and agricultural implements, 3; iron foundries and machine shops, 6; wood products, 5; cigars, 7; butter and cheese, 7; concrete blocks, 2; flour and feed, 5; ice, 3; miscellaneous, 13.

A chapter of the book will be devoted to an investigation of the cost of living in Washington, together with such facts as could be obtained relative to the variation in wages in different lines of industry. It is found that there has been a marked increase in the cost of living and the general rate of wages, although the former is shown to have advanced more rapidly than the latter.

The report will show a decrease in the number of industrial disturbances in the state, as compared with former years. This condition is attributed largely to effective organization by both labor and capital, resulting in greatly increased mutual respect and to more general recognition of the community of interest. A compulsory arbitration law is recommended to the legislature.

Supreme Court Vacancy

Washington, Oct. 20.—President Roosevelt will take up in a few days the vacancy in the supreme court of the United States caused by the retirement of Associate Justice Brown. Secretary Taft, asked as to his attitude in regard to the position, declined to make any positive statement. Reminded that the president had on his return from Oyster Bay suggested that the secretary had practically eliminated himself from the probabilities, Mr. Taft simply smiled and said that the president's views are usually correct.

To Give Filipinos Control.

Manila, Oct. 24.—The native press is jubilant over the proposed changes in the provincial boards and declares faith in the promises of the government. One of the changes proposed will give Filipinos control of various boards of the government, replacing Americans on the boards with natives.

Expo Buildings Destroyed

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 22—Fire which started in the grand stand at the exhibition grounds totally destroyed the grand stand and swept through the principal buildings. The loss will be about $200,000.

MUST SHOW BOOKS

WISCONSIN JUDGE ISSUES A FAR-REACHING ORDER.

Equitable Life Assurance Society Directed to Allow Examination of Books in Order to Determine Actual Value of a Certain Policy—What It Means.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 24.—The Equitable Life Assurance Society, of New York, is ordered to deposit with the circuit court of Milwaukee county all its books, data and memoranda showing reserve fund, accumulated surplus and other funds, covering a period from March 11, 1884, to March 10, 1904, in a decision handed down by Judge Tarrant in the suit of Albert Ellinger, of Racine, Wis., a policy holder, against the Equitable society, in the circuit court here. Judge Tarrant gave the Equitable the alternative of permitting Mr. Ellinger or his representatives to examine the books of the society at its New York offices at a time and place to suit the convenience of both parties.

The effect of Judge Tarrant's decision, if it is sustained by the higher court, will be that the Equitable will be subjected to a searching inquiry along lines not included in the investigation of the Armstrong committee.

Permits Wide Latitude.

By the terms of Judge Tarrant's decision all the company's papers and memoranda affecting Mr. Ellinger's policy must be produced for examination. Mr. Ellinger charges that the company has not only mismanaged the funds of the society, thus affecting his policy, but also has discriminated against him by permitting clerks and others to tamper with the funds upon which his policy would naturally depend. The scope of the examination, therefore, would permit of the largest latitude of inquiry into the methods and practices of the officials of the society and the provisions made for the maturing of all tontine policies.

The suit was started in 1904. Mr. Ellinger was the holder of policy No. 493, a twenty-year semi-tontine policy for $10,000, which matured on March 10, 1904. When Mr. Ellinger demanded that the society make good the representations of the agent who negotiated the policy twenty years ago, that at maturity he would be entitled to $13,000, the society officials informed him that there was due under the policy only $9,122.70. Mr. Ellinger refused to accept the $9,122.70 and maintained that an examination of the books would show that a larger sum was due.

Mr. Ellinger was offered other options under the policy, but declined to consider them.

SUGGESTS EMPLOYING IDLE NEGROES ON CANAL

Washington, Oct. 24—N. F. Thompson, of Chattanoonga, Tenn., called at the White House Tuesday and invited President Roosevelt to attend the immigration and quarantine conferences to be held in Nashville next month. The president, however, declined the invitation, because he could not find time to attend. Mr. Thompson, on invitation of the president, called again in the eveining to discuss a suggestion that the idle negroes of the South be utilized to dig the Panama canal.

"The better class of negroes in the South," Mr. Thompson explained, "would aid the white people in securing this class of labor for that work. It is the idle negro that makes the trouble in the South and reflects on the better class of negroes.

"The president was impressed with the suggestion," said Mr. Thompson, and asked me to have a talk with Secretary Taft and Mr. Shonts on the subject. I will see them tomorrow."

HINDUS COMING SOUTH

Recent Arrivals in British Columbia Cross Boundary

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 23.—Hindus who have lately arrived in Vancouver claim that they have been sent here on false pretenses by a band of money lenders of Calcutta. Most of the thousand immigrants who have landed in Vancouver are homeless and without a cent of money. Many of them, as rapidly as they get enough money to pay their fares and acquire enough English to pass the immigration officials, are heaidng for Blaine, Bellingham and Seattle.

The arrivals declare that they and their relatives gave mortgages in India on everything they possessed for the purpose of getting an advance of $50 apiece for the passage money from Calcutta to this port. Not only that, but in each case their friends are required to pay $5 per month until the $50 has later been returned in a lump sum.

CLEAN UP VALLEJO SAYS BONAPARTE

San Francisco, Oct. 20.—Word has been sent by Secretary of the Navy Bonaparte to Mayor Madigan, of Vallejo, Cal., ordering him either to clean up the town or prepare the city for the withdrawal of government business from the Mare Island navy yard. Vallejo has become a hotbed for saloons and low resorts, according to reports which have reached the national capital. Bonaparte says if these demoralizing conditions are not overcome at once he will have the navy's work done elsewhere.

Too Many Liquor Licenses

Washington, Oct. 20.—The secretary of the navy has written to the mayor of Vallejo, Cal., calling attention to the complaints that an undue number of liquor licenses were granted in Vallejo and that licensees were not prevented from carrying on gambling and immoral practices. The secretary said that in consequence of a similar situation near another navy yard on the Pacific coast the department was compelled to reduce the number of vessels in the yard until the conditions had been remedied.

VERDICT OF GUILTY IN STANDARD OIL CASE

Findlay, O., Oct. 20.—After 32 hours of deliberation, the jury in the case of the state of Ohio against the Standard Oil Company of Ohio, returned a verdict of guilty on the charge of conspiracy against trade in violation of the Valentine anti-trust law.

Standard Oil attorneys immediately gave notice of the filing of a motion for a new trial and declare they will carry the case to the highest court. Prosecutor David said that no further action against the trust would be taken pending the final disposal of the present case.

The statute provides a fine of from $50 to $5,000 for the violation of the law In addition it provides a penalty of $50 a day after an accused company has been notified to discontinue doing business as a trust. Two of the Standard's auxiliary companies were served with notice three months ago and the $50 a day penalty can be exacted.

NO ROAD TO PACIFIC COAST

President Hughitt Denies Report About Northwestern Line.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 22.—President Marvin Hughitt, of the Chicago Northwestern road, while in Milwaukee Saturday afternoon, put to rest speculation regarding the company and a Pacific coast line, which has been suggested as a result of the company's action in increasing the capitalization of the company from $100,000,000 to $200,000,000.

"The new stock is in the nature of an authorization by the stockholders, not an issue of stock, and it may be some time before it is issued," he said.

"As to this talk of a Pacific coast line, the company has at no time contemplated such an extension, or any other extension of the present system. It does not contemplate it now.

"We expect, however, to use money as needed for desirable improvement of our present lines, just as we have been doing in this state, where our Green Bay-Manitowoc line will be opened for business on Monday."

Portrait of Wallace Received

Olympia, Oct. 22.—A portrait of William H. Wallace, governor of Washington territory in 1861, has been received at the governor's office for addition to the collection of governors of the state and territory. But one is now missing from the entire list, that of R. D. Gholson, territorial governor from 1859 to 1861. Search for his picture is now being made by the governor of Kentucky, from which state Gov. Gholson was appointed.

Bridge Companies Ousted

Bellefontaine, O., Oct. 23.—The circuit court has handed down a decision which in effect ousts from the state of Ohio all the bridge companies that failed to surrender at the so-called "bridge trust" hearing two weeks ago. The companies deprived of their charters are the Iron Substructure Company, of Columbus, and the Columbus Bridge Company. Trustees were appointed to wind up the business of the two companies.

Early Loved Military Pomp.

Even as a child Emperor William loved military pomp. It delighted the little prince to have the sentinels present arms to him. Sometimes he would run out not fully dressed to receive these honors. Great was his surprise one day when the sentinels took absolutely no notice of him. Burning with indignation, he rushed to his father and told him the terrible fact with the utmost excitement. His father listened with sympathy, and then asked, in a tone clearly expressive of doubt:

"Your dress is in perfect order, I hope, before you show yourself in public?"

William answered, "No."

"No sentinel is permitted to render the honors due to a prince who is not dressed entirely as prescribed," calmly said "Unser Fritz," his father.

Prince William left the room, and since then no sentinel has ever seen him dressed otherwise than "entirely as prescribed.'

Cross-Continent Auto Record.

The recent automobile trip made by L. L. Whitman from San Francisco to New York, over a 4,200-mile route, was completed in fifteen days, twelve hours and two minutes, at an expense to the company of $8,000. During the journey relays of men kept pace with the car by rail, but they were not needed; also a complete outfit for repair was sent along by rail from point to point, including a complete running gear and duplicates of every part. But no part of that gear was required, as it was out of reach when the smash-up occurred at Conneaut, on the Ohio border. The gasoline used averaged one gallon to fifteen miles. Whitman received $2,500 for his services.

Effect of Industrial Combination.

A new census bulletin shows that the number of manufacturing establishments in this country increased only 4 per cent from 1900 to 1904, while the capital increased 41 per cent. An interesting comparison is made between the iron industry in this country and England. Although England has 362 furnaces at work and the United States 323, still almost half as much more product is credited to the American industry. Another economic effect is said to be the steadying of prices.

Artificial Milk.

Artificial milk is one of the latest attempts of science to duplicate by synthetic processes the products of nature. In Germany, where chemistry has reached its highest state of development, they are offering a so-called artificial milk, which is recommended for use in bakeries as a substitute for the natural product. According to one of the reputable German chemical journals, this latest product of the laboratory consists of a mixture of syrup and sesame oil, emulsified with some proteid substance. This is of sufficient strength to be diluted by the consumer with nine parts of water. It is stated that in some of the southern states, remote from milk supplies, an artificial substitute is made from cotton-seed oil in much the same manner.

A Good Record.

Out of all the external remedies on the market we doubt if there is one that has the record of that world-renowned porous plaster—Allcock's. It has now been in use for sixty years, and still continues to be as popular as ever in doing its great work of relieving our pains and aches. It is the remedy we all need when suffering from any form of ache or pain resulting from taking cold or over-strain.

Allcock's Plasters are sold by Druggists in every part of the civilized world.

A world without mistakes and without suffering would be a world without real men and women, without literature, without music, without painting or sculpture, and without love, and even without history, for history is a record of struggles toward better and higher things. Without obstacles to overcome and errors to correct men and women would lapse to a level with beasts in mentality. Intellectual and spiritual development would cease and souls not refined by the fire of ordeals would die of something akin to fatty degeneration. After all, it's a pretty fair sort of world as it stands. Much advice might have been offered at the world's making if a few experienced old ladies had been standing by, but the odds are that it would not have been so good a world as it is.

An Ingenious Housewife.

A young wife who finds catering for two without a waste of provisions perplexing makes a part of her own cooking butter.

A bottle of cream, unless it happens to be needed for a dessert, is never used up, so she turns what is left into a bowl, day by day, until she accumulates enough to pay for churning. Then she beats it into butter, drains off the buttermilk, salts it and works out the moisture. Left-over peas go into puree of pea soup the next day. Cold corn is used up in fritters or succotash. Cold mashed potatoes reappear in potato cakes or potato pancakes, says the New York Evening Sun. The ways of meat fragments are many, the housewife's repertoire of "cutlets," souffles, croquettes, ragouts and the like being a long one. "The ragout," she whispered in a friend's ear, "is nothing but mother's 'stew,' with less gravy, only, some way, not half so good."

Legend of the Zulus.

The Zulus account for their origin by a story of a talking elephant who fed upon children. He met a woman laden with an ax and bundle of fagots, accompanied by her child, says the Country Gentleman.

Seeing the elephant, she guessed his intention, and pleaded: "Spare my child, oh, elephant!" The elephant refused. "Then," said the mother, "if this evil must happen, swallow me, too, oh, elephant!" So the elephant swallowed mother and child and they found themselves with all the other children who were eaten previously.

By and by the child grew hungry and the mother lit a fire with her fagots. She then, with her ax, cut away the elephant's flesh, cooked it and they all ate. As the fire burned its great heat filled the elephant with pain and he ran and ran and ran till they felt the thunder of his hoofs racing over hill and valley.

At length, exhausted, he dropped down dead. Using her ax, the mother chopped until she make an opening in the elephant's side. After this they crept out and became a new nation in a new country.

Vast as is the production of the forests of the Pacific Northwest, the annual cut amounts in board measure to only twice as much as the annual consumption of timber for railroad ties alone in the United States. About 200 railroad ties is the average yield of forest per acre, and to replace worn-out ties and lay new track for one year means the stripping of 500,000 acres of American forest. Bridge timbers, telegraph poles, etc., swell this demand to 1,000,000 acres of forest cut down each year to maintain American railroads.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

PORT ANGELES IN POETRY

The poet, parapetetic, from the Southland is here,
With a purpose most vestal, though perhaps somewhat queer.
No superlative minstrel your attention doth crave,
And desires that all critics their censure might waive,
And condemn not the Neophyte to utter dejection,
Nor deem him penurious without due reflection.
He comes gentle reader, your heed to implore,
To the vantage he finds at each business man's door.

They have queensware and glassware,

To be sung of in sonnets.
Ladies' coats, tailor-made,
Of the swellest of fabrics,
And a fit guaranteed,
To all of the trade.
A line of umbrellas
That has just arrived,
Is the swellest in town.

Caldwell Real Estate Co.

In these days of speculation, when you look for bargains rare,
When real estate is booming and you want to buy,
There's a company in this city, I am sure, is where
You can get the biggest bargains if you try.
Timber lands they have in plenty of the very best,
Also ranches in the country, city property galore,
They will sell or they will rent you just as you request,
Any of the many bargains that they have in store.
They are Fire Insurance Agents, with a line of companies great.
The "West Chester," "Underwriters," of N. Y.; American Central," of St. Louis. The "Pioneer," of this State.

Herbert Baker & Son,

Here everything the household needs
Is found in great profusion.
Both new and second-handed goods.
You'll come to the conclusion
Such bargains are not often found
Of useful household things
Where every article is sound,
And fit for titled kings.
The stoves and ranges are the best,
The furniture the latest.
And sporting goods that stood the test,
Of makes that are the greatest.
The ten-cent counter is a dream,
So all the ladies' say.
A thousand useful articles
Ten cents is all you pay.
They buy all second-hand goods
That you may have to sell,
And pay you cash as well.

Lucretia H. Peddicord.

Did visions of a fairer thing
Than woman's head well dressed
Fleet through your memory in spring,
When sweetheart looked her best.
Here is where she bought her head-gear,
Stylish and so neat,
You'll find the latest of the year,
Over on Front Street.

Merchant's Hotel.

When coming to Angeles
To tarry awhile,
If you want to be cared for
In most excellent style,
The Merchant's Hotel
Is a pleasant retreat,
When the time o' day comes
To get something to eat.
The "menu" contains
Everything that is good,
Served in the best style,
Be that understood.
You will sure like it
If you go there
Day makes you happy
Without a care.
Stay over night too,
Whenever you're here,
The beds will delight you,
Of that never fear.
When you rise in the morning,
Go into the bar
And take an eye opener
Or else a cigar.
Then go tell your friends
That the service is swell,
And tell them to stop
At the Merchant's Hotel.
Tell them what a good fellow,
The boniface seems.
How 'tis pleasant all day—
At night sweetest dreams.

P. J. Wiliams.

Here you will find choice goods, in the jewelry line,
The best clocks and watches, also bracelets and rings,
Diamonds and rubies and all jewels that's fine,
And ten thousand other most excellent things.

Merrill Grocery Co.

And now, oh "Muse" I implore thee to come,
And sharpen my wits for this pleasant duty,
That in rhyme I can tell all the people in town,
That the store of this subject is surely is a beauty.
The stock that they carry will open your eyes,
To the fact that they want the best trade.
Their greatest success in the past surely lies
In handling only the best goods that are made.
They have groceries both staple and fancy of course,
Some things that you can't get elsewhere,
They've exclusive control of all goods from that source,
And selected the brands with great care,
"Holly Flour," which all house-wives pronounce excellent,
And can only be purchased from this grocery store.
'Twas selected with care from all brands that were sent;
If you use it once you'll always go back for some more.
"Ivy" coffee 's the best for both flavor and strength.
The "Reliance" canned goods are in great demand,
So are Golden Gate spices and Teas and Extracts,
Pronounced by all users the best in the land.

Cash Meat Market.

The beefsteaks are tender,
The roasts are the same,
The pork-chops and lamb-chops
Are worthy the name.
The meats arrive daily
From cold storage houses,
Shipped direct to Fred Pollow,
From various houses.
'Tis a neat and clean market,
Where those meats are for sale.
He has fine hams and bacon,
All sold at retail.
Fresh chickens and turkeys,
Are all kept in season.
He keeps vegetables also
To sell, is his reason.

Gray & Henderson

For groceries fancy and staple,
Just try this popular store;
They handle a flour exclusive,
That's a joy evermore.
The "Best Everet" is the name,
But this is a special they say,
When you order your goods,
Try a sack of this flour, anyway.

Goldwater Bro's.

Do young people take much pleasure, when they eat ice cream,
"Well they buy it," answered Benny, so 'twould seem,
That they like it as I make it.
Now look here, just tell the people that my stock of candies are
The finest in the city, and are sold near and far,
They'll believe you, never fear.
Yes, I've got cigars, the choicest that was ever seen,
One I have that is a leader, it is called, "Tom Keane.'
Try one,
That's on me.

Johnson & Bork.

When the spring time comes you will find
That your home will need new paper and paint.
This firm has wall paper of every kind,
And their work stands out pretty and quaint.

Chinese-Japanese Bazaar.

Here you will find the choicest Oriental goods,
Silk handkerchiefs and scarfs and fans of sandal woods,
Toys of ivory, sun shades of every color and style,
And Japanese teas that you'll like if you give them a trial.

Mrs. A. Goldwater.

For many years this store has had the name,
For giving bargains to the ladies of the town,
In dry goods, notions, furnishings, and silks of fame,
And many other articles of great renown.

The People's Meat Market.

I believe in home industry, said Ahlvers to me.
When I called to see him that day.
So I buy all my stock and kill it at home.
'T is surely, I think, the best way.
I always buy the very choicest of beeves,
The sheep and lambs that I kill are tip-top.
The hogs are the best that money can buy,
And are fattened on corn, not on slop.
That's the reason my trade is the best in the city,
And they always go home satisfied.

Robert Shields.

Whether we win or whether we lose
With the hands that life is dealing,
It is not we nor the ways we choose,
But we always like square dealing.
He's familliarly known as "Bob,"
The Cigar Man,
And is surely onto his job
And a square man.
His stock of cigars
Is full and complete.
Also of tobacco
Both natural and sweet.
He handles the Seattle papers,
Both "Times" and "P.-I,"
Delivers them out to your home
On the day that the come.
His circulating library
A new feature in the town,
Is a thing of great renown.

AVERAGE VOCABULARIES.

IF 300 old spellings are to be tabooed in the President's first order, how many will the second order include and how much of the language will there be left in its received form for old-fashioned people to console themselves with? An uneducated man's vocabulary contains altogether, according to the authorities, only some 300 or 400 words. Italian operas require not over 800 words, and the system of Egyptian hieroglyphics has but 800 symbols. Well educated persons of fair intelligence use, it is said, not over 3,000 or 4,000 words. The Bible of 1611—commonly known as the King James or the Authorized Version—without the Apocryphal portion, has under 6,000 words. Poets, dealing much under abstractions, employ a larger vocabulary. Milton found 8,000 words necessary for the composition of his poems; Pope, 11,000, and Shakspeare, 15,000. These are large figures, compared with the prosy talk of the "average man," who gets along comfortably with 500 words.

Everybody knows or understands a great many words which he never uses. "Dictionary words" include a long list—never heard in speech and rarely seen in print. The number of words, including scientific and art terms, which are not obsolete, that are used by good authors, may reach 100,000. Dictionary makers score a point on their rivals by introducing in large numbers rarely used technical terms derived from Latin or Greek. Slang, colloquialisms, hybrids, special coinages and semi-naturalized words may be used to pad the list indefinitely. Early editions of Webster had but 70,000 words, but Worcester's has 116,000, Webster's Unabridged, 118,000, and Webster's International Dictionary 140,000, while the Encyclopedic Dictionary contains 180,000 words, or, if compounds be included, 250,000. The Century Dictionary, including therewith the Cyclopedia of Names and Atlas, defines 450,000 words and names. It should be added, however, that of this large total 170,000 are to be credited to the Atlas, and a number, similarly large, to the Cyclopedia of Names.—Baltimore Sun.

THE FAMILY PEW.

SOME of the most vivid of the emotions which thronged upon the summer pilgrim to the old home were those which awaited him in the family pew of the old meeting house. As he took his seat there, and heard the familiar note of the organ and the clear thin voices of the choir, the years melted away, the faces changed, the new carpet faded into the well-remembered colors of fifty years ago—and he was in truth a child again.

His thought went back to the time when he was allowed to sit on the footstool as a concession to his short, restless legs. He tasted again the luscious raisin which found its way from grandmother's pocket to his mouth, and sniffed the pungent southernwood of the Sunday nosegay in a neighbor's silk-mitted hand.

It was in that pew that he first realized to the full the dignity of trousers. It was there that he was proudly conscious of the approving glances of his friends on his first college vacation. He recalled in a flash the intolerable length of the sermon on that Thanksgiving day!

The pew has sad memories as well as sweet ones. Most poignant of them is that of his mother's funeral and the awful Sunday after it, when no one could bear to take her empty place and the emptiness of it seemed unendurable. Close upon that time followed the Sunday when he made solemn profession there of the faith she had loved so well.

Then came the days of the great war, when the meeting house blazed with flags and thrilled with the music of bugle and drum. The blessing of the volunteers, the prayers for their safety, and the sad, sad series of soldiers' funerals—all these came up to the man's memory in the old pew.

Suddenly out of this dreamland he is called by the stir of the congregation—and is conscious that he has missed the good pastor's sermon. But perhaps God Himself has preached to him out of life's grim struggle—in the vision of some of his own deep experiences and the discovery that they are still potent to arouse the will and confirm the faith with their rich and tender memories.—Youth's Companion.

MILE-A-MINUTE RAILROADING.

ALL the signs point to an eventual electrification of the transportation business of the country, at least except in the case of very long hauls through thinly populated regions. Will this transformation bring with it the practical impossibility of mile-a-minute travel? There seems considerable justification for an affirmative answer. It has been amply demonstrated that the electric locomotive is capable of attaining and maintaining far higher speeds than this. On the Zossen experimental road in Germany speeds of over 125 miles per hour were reached.

The chief difficulty in the way of operating a commercial line at such enormous velocities aside from the question of cost has to do with the safety of passengers. The rails and cars can be built strongly enough to stand the wear and tear, motors competent to push them at this speed are available, and methods of transmitting current to the motors from an overhead conductor have been perfected. In fact, the realization of a ten-hour train between New York and Chicago seems to require only the devisement of a protective block system which would render practically impossible the terrible fatalities liable to result from collisions and derailments at these speeds. * * * If the rolling stock could be made accident proof, and the road bed sufficiently straight and solid to do away with the danger of derailment, there seems nothing in the way of a mile-a-minute line, but its cost. How much heavier this would be than in the case of a fifty-mile per hour service is a question on which the early construction of such a line seems to depend.—New York Globe.

HIPPLE'S HYPOCRISY.

THE damage effected by the late Mr. Hipple is not confined to his depositors. The exposure of a hypocrite always endangers the faith in human nature of the grudging and the weak. Mr. Hipple was able to deceive his creditors by parading his religion, by practicing with convincing ostentation the qualities that usually indicate character and principle. But this proves nothing except Mr. Hipple's success at simulation—a success which is not unique, but which, on the other hand, it would be contemptible to consider universal.

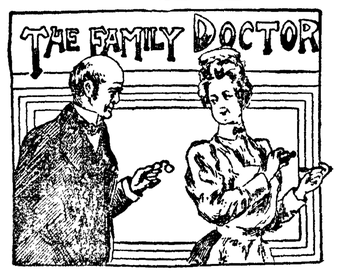
Speculations as to our neighbors', our rivals' and our enemies' sincerity will always be one of the interesting occupations of mankind. Yet it is a courageous man who makes rigid rules, who is prepared to condemn or affirm on general principles. Mr. Hipple refrained from the Sunday newspaper—he now proves a hypocrite, but that makes the Sunday newspaper neither better nor worse. Unfortunate indeed would it be to weaken one's capacity for belief in one's kind because a knave had a measure of success.—Chicago Post.

OUR BIG TRADE IN MOTOR CARS.

The Country's Traffic for the Year Approximated $30,000,000.

More than $4,000,000 worth of automobiles were brought into the United States during the fiscal year ending with the last week of June, and more than $3,000,000 worth were exported during the same time. Figures of our foreign commerce in automobiles show the value of automobiles imported in the eleven months ending with May to have been $3,502,244, and of parts thereof, $378,389, while exports thereof during the same months amounted to $2,957,748. It is apparent, therefore, that the figures for the full fiscal year which ended with June will show more than $4,000,000 worth of automobiles and parts thereof imported, and more than $3,000,000 worth exported.

Meanwhile the manufacture of automobiles in the United States has amounted to presumably more than $26,000,000, since the bureau of the census has recently issued a preliminary statement which shows the value of automobiles manufactured in the United States in 1905 at $26,654,064. This figure includes amounts received from custom work and repairing and value of products other than automobiles; but as it does not include automobiles, valued at $879,205, manufactured in establishments engaged primarily in the manufacture of other products, it may probably be safely set down that the value of automobiles produced in the United States approximates $26,000,000 and the imports $4,000,000, and that out of this total of $30,000,000 there was exported about $3,000,000 worth.—Harper's Weekly.



Sucking the Thumb.—As a preventive put a piece of adhesive plaster, such as surgeons use, a little less than one-half inch wide, above the first joint, or between the two joints of the child's thumb. Paste the end securely, but be careful not to interfere with circulation.

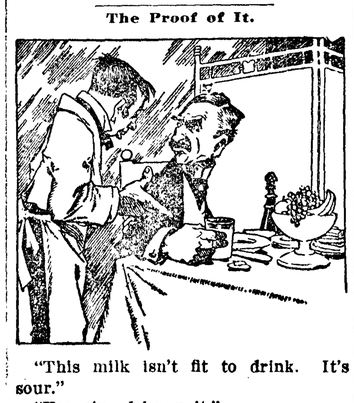
Origin of Spotted Fever.—Recent experiments prove that the deadly spotted fever of the Rocky mountains is caused by the infection of ticks acting much like that which sets up splenetic fever in the bovine race. This confirms a widespread belief which has hitherto been controverted by physicians.

The Danger in Headache Powders.—Acetanalid poison is found in practically all of the patent headache powders and they should either be avoided or taken with great caution. This poison is a dangerous drug, and if the stomach is weakened to a certain extent the quantity in a headache powder may be sufficient to kill. In fact a boy died recently in Mesa County from this poison.

Rheumatism.—One of the latest remedies is that of a gardener who recommends the familiar plant so well known as chickweed. The method of using it consists of filling a wide-mouthed bottle three-fourths full with a plant and then pouring in spirits of wine sufficient to cover the whole. The preparation is then allowed to stand for from four days to a week, at the end of which time the tincture is to be rubbed into the affected parts in the usual way.

Whooping Cough.—Procure a mixture of peroxide of hydrogen two drams, sirup of tolu 1½ ounces and water one-half ounce. Give from ten drops to one teaspoonful according to age every hour for two or three doses, then every two hours for six or eight, getting farther between doses as the patient improves. This is a newer and better formula than that of any of the old-fashioned cough sirups, the most of which depend upon morphine or opium as a palliative.

The Proof of It.



"This milk isn't fit to drink. It's sour."

"Yes, sir. I knew it."

"You knew it, and gave it to me just the same?"

"Yes, sir; in these days of pure-food agitation we serve it sour to prove there's no formaldehyde in it."

Modest Chief.

When Lord Selborne, high commissioner of South Africa, appointed a new paramount chief of the Basuto tribe the other day, and admonished him to walk in the ways of his fathers, the new chief replied: "I am strong, yet I am frightened of the blanket that has descended upon me, and I do not know how I shall carry it."

Probably you have no call to talk about ugly people.

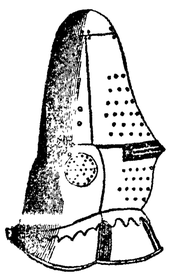
DANCE BY THE WAKIKUYU IN BRITISH EAST AFRICA.

The Wakikuyu are known as the Kikuyu and Akikuyu, and they inhabit the Kikuyu hills, one of the most beautiful, fertile and economically important parts of the British East Africa Protectorate not far from Nairobi. Sir Charles Eliot says that they are intelligent and fairly industrious, and live a semi-settled agricultural life; that is to say, they burn a clearing in the forest, build a village and cultivate for a few years. As soon as the soil shows any sign of exhaustion they move on, burn another clearing, and repeat the same process. Sir Charles says that the Kikuyu are almost a comparative recent hybrid between the Masai and a Bantu stock, and there is no reason why such hybrids should not continue to be formed in the future, to the great advantage of the country. It is estimated that the natives of the Kikuyu country number some 300,000. Kikuyu is said to be derived from Kuyu, which means a fig, fig trees of various kinds being abundant in the country.

Marvelous, Quaint and Curious.

Helmet of Crosby.

We here present our readers with a sketch of the helmet of Sir John Crosby, as it originally appeared when suspended over his tomb in St. Helen's Church, Bishopsgate. He was an eminent merchant of London; but is represented upon his tomb in a full suit of armor. He died in 1475. The extreme height of the crown of the helmet resembles that on the tomb of the Earl of Warwick, in the Beauchamp Chapel at Warwick; and was intended to support the crest of the wearer, the holes for affixing it being still visible.

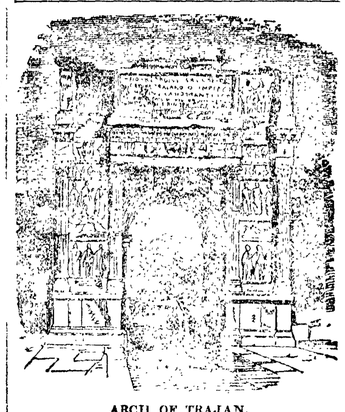


CROSBY'S HELMET.

Arch of Trajan.

Triumphal arches were among the most peculiar forms of art which the Romans borrowed from those around them, and used with that strange mixture of splendor and bad taste which characterizes all their works.

These were in the first instance no doubt borrowed from the Etruscans, as was also the ceremony of the triumph with which they were ultimately associated. At first they seem rather to have been used as festal entrances to the great public roads, whose construction was considered as one of the most important benefits a ruler could confer on his country. There was one erected at Rimini in honor of an important restoration of the Flaminian Way by Augustus; another at Susa in Piedmont, to commemorate a similar act of the same Emperor. Trajan built one on the pier at Ancona, when he restored that harbor, and another at Beneventum, when he repaired the Via Appia, represented in the woodcut here given. It is one of the best preserved as well as most graceful of its class in Italy. The arch of the Sergii at Pola in Istria seems also to have been erected for a like purpose. That of Hadrian at Athens, and another built by him at Antinoe in Egypt, were monuments merely commemorative of the benefits which he had conferred on those cities by the architectural works he had erected within their walls. By far the most important application of these gateways, in Rome at least, was to commemorate a triumph which may have passed along the road over which the arch was erected beforehand, for the triumphal procession to pass through, of which it would remain a memorial.



ARCH OF TRAJAN.

PIETY HAS COST HIM $500,000.

But Wilcox Still Refuses to Run His Railroad on Sunday.

Denver is the home of a man the courage of whose convictions has been tested to the extent of $500,000. And he still holds steadfastly to his principles, in spite of the fact that his friends have warned him that the pursuance of his policy will injure him financially.

E. J. WILCOX.

The man is Edward J. Wilcox, builder and sole owner of the Argentine Central Railway, in Colorado, and he has displayed his courage by not permitting a train to run over his road on Sunday. Neither will he permit the insertion of a line of advertising concerning his railroad or other business interests in the Sunday issue newspaper, although a great believer in advertising and spending a liberal allowance with the dailies of Denver every other day in the week.

The Argentine Central Railway cost Mr. Wilcox more than $450,000, and he built it entirely with his own money. Yet he believes that no man should do business on Sunday, and he insists that his road will pay expenses and be a winner in due time if he strictly observes the Sabbath.

Strict adherence to religious and business principles has marked the career of Mr. Wilcox, who went to Colorado penniless and is now reckoned a multi-millionaire, his fortune being estimated at about $5,000,000. He was born in Creedmore, Ont., Canada, and when 21 years of age went to Colorado, with no advantages to place him at the top rung of the ladder of financial success beyond the possession of good health and a strong pair of arms. He became a mining engineer and saving as much of his salary as possible, invested it wisely.

Different.

"Young Dr. Walker always impressed me as having nerves of iron, judging by the cool way he performed the most serious operations," remarked his friend, "but yesterday when I met him in consultation he was the most excited man I have seen for a long while."

"It must have been a most unusual and extraordinary case."

Deliberate.

"My!" exclaimed Mr. Klumsay, at the summer hotel hop, "this floor's awfully slippery. It's hard to keep on your feet."

"Oh!" replied his fair partner, sarcastically, "then you were really trying to keep on my feet? I thought it was accidental."—Philadelphia Press.

LUXURY OF OCEAN TRAVEL.

With Their Splendid Equipment the Great Liners Are Floating Palaces.

There was a time, and not so long ago, when crossing the ocean seemed quite an undertaking, and the person who had ventured twice or thrice was brave in the eyes of his associates. But, significant of the wandering spirit developed in America within the last decade, a few days ago the writer was speaking with a man, not a professional traveler, who had made eighty trips across; and to the moneyed man or woman of this century a record of from ten to twenty trips across is not so extraordinary as to cause comment. The eight or ten days formerly spent on the waves between here and Europe have been reduced to a trifle over six, and during these six days the vessel is not only in constant communication with land, but every morning a paper containing brief accounts of the news features of the world is printed and distributed free of charge among the passengers.

Because of their bulk and weight the large liners are comparatively steady, and few storms of the summer are of sufficient strength to roll or toss them. The broad decks are like small streets, and the dining rooms and saloons are more like those of a metropolitan hotel than a ship. In place of the stuffy little cabins of old-time ships, the up-to-date liners are equipped with rooms en suite, with baths, full-length mirrors and wardrobes, and even the smaller cabins are provided with all the furnishings of a well-appointed boudoir.—Leslie's Weekly.

An Infant Prodigy.

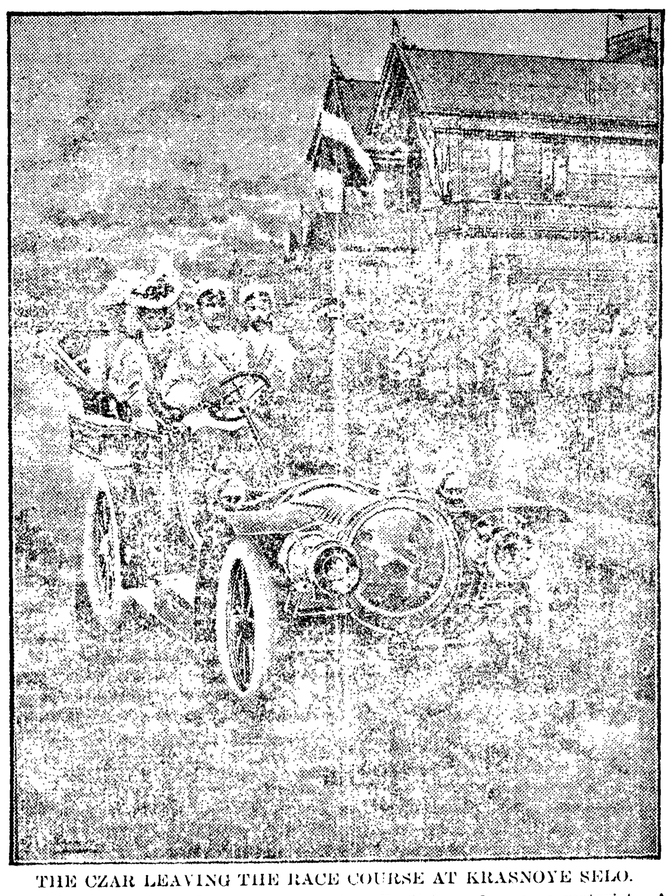
Hercules was only six months old when he uttered the first words under most unusual circumstances.

He happened to be looking over the side of his cradle when he saw approaching two huge reptiles.

"Great snakes!" he exclaimed, as, reaching out, he took one in each chubby fist and strangled the life out of each twenty-footer.—Baltimore American.

Here is a question that came up among some people who were talking down town to-day: Which is worse—to have some one around who is willing but dumb, or some one who is unwilling, but wise?

CZAR NICHOLAS IN AN AUTOMOBILE.



THE CZAR LEAVING THE RACE COURSE AT KRASNOYE SELO.

The Czar has rarely been presented to English readers as a motorist. A correspondent of London Sphere, however, has snapshotted him at the miltary horse races at Krasnoye Selo, which is sixteen miles southwest of St. Petersburg, whereas Tsarskoye Selo is fifteen miles south of the capital. This particular view shows the Czar motoring down the race course after the races.

Fitting.

On the evening of the first Sunday after their removal from their house in the suburbs, which was the only home the children had ever known, to the top floor of a seventh-story apartment house, the family gathered around the piano for the usual hour of song, each member in turn, according to time-honored custom, requesting a hymn of his choice. When 10-year-old Marjory's turn came she said: "I think the most appropriate hymn is:

"'I'm nearer my heavenly home to-day
Than ever I've been before.'

"I think of it every time I come up in the elevator."—New York Press.

One of the jokes of this season is to decorate a house with golden rod for a party, and find out when the guests have arrived that half of them have hay fever.

FIXED GRAIN PRICES

SENSATIONAL EVIDENCE AT DES MOINES HEARING.

R. W. Harper Testifies Regarding Action of Cereal Club in Fixing Prices---Members of Club Scored for Giving False Evidence.

DesMoines, Ia., Oct. 27.—Sensational incidents marked the offering of testimony before the interstate commerce commission, in session here yesterday, relative to the fixing of prices for grain by the Des Moines Cereal Club for the members of the State Grain Dealers' Association and the pooling of elevator business at many Iowa points. R. W. Harper testified that, as a guest of the club, he had often attended its meetings, which were held at the Grant Club, weekly, and that, after discussion of prices, the vote of the meeting was taken on motion of the presiding officer, George A. Wells, secretary of the Grain Dealers' Association, and expressed by uplifted hands. as a baisis for quotations for the ensuing week, furnished to m mbers of the Association by G. W. Ca.e, of this city.

Commissioner Lane gave the members of the Cereal Club who had testified that prices were not fixed at meetings of the organization, an opportunity to amend their testimony, after which Mr. Harper left the stand.

Secretary Wells took the stand and said he had intended to testify that he had not made motions of this character at every meeting of the club, and was about to proceed with amendments when Commissioner Lane, quickly leaning over his desk toward Mr. Wells, created a sensation by asking:

"Didn't you try to mislead the commission on that point?"

Mr. Wells said he did not.

"Why did you testify as you did?" continued Mr. Lane. "Did you not try to create the impression that there was no fixing of price and that nothing was done to fix prices at these meetings? Didn't you do that?"

Mr. Wells insisted that he had not done so.

"Was not that your distinct effort in answer to the questions?" asked Mr. Lane.

"No, sir," replied Mr. Wells.

"Didn't you try to evade answering the questions of Mr. Marble (the commission's lawyer) to you at the time when asked regarding fixing prices?"

Mr. Wells started to make some answer when he was dismissed from the stand.

Mr. Case, who was said to furnish the price card to the members of the state association of grain dealers, was called to the stand. He was not certain about much of the information he disclosed, and denied any arrangement with the Cereal Club.

The testimony of the day was to the effect that the G ain Dealers' Association is making a fight against the farmers' elevator, which is not a member of the association, by restricting its terminal market when possible.

PRESIDENT TO INDORSE ALASKA-YUKON EXPO

Washington, Oct. 29.—Dr. H. W. Coe, of Portland, had a long conference with the president at the request of the managers of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition, and was assured that the president in his forthcoming message to congress will favorably mention the enterprise in about the same manner that he mentioned the Lewis and Clark exposition. He will not, however, urge any congressional appropriation.

Speaking about the exposition, the president said he felt it would prove an entire succes, for he knew the spirit and enterprise of the people of the Northwest and had confidence that they would make good.

At the time the exposition board was being formed, many governors were invited to become members, including the governor of Alaska and the governor of Yukon territory. Both accepted. It now develops that the governor of Yukon territory was invited directly by the Seattle people and not through the state department, as should have been done, inasmuch as he is an official of a foreign government. Secretary Hitchcock, learning of this, has written Gov. Hoggatt, saying that he must withdraw from the board or relinquish the governorship of Alaska.

Steps are being taken to have an invitation extended to the governor of Yukon through official channels and, when this is done, there will be no further objection to Mr. Hoggatt's serving on the board.

Police Stop Cleveland Cars

Cleveland, O., Oct. 29.—The street car situation assumed an acute phase when the police, acting under instructions from the city hall, suddenly stopped the operation of the Cleveland Electric railway and suburban lines on Erie Street between Prospect street and Central avenue. The action wa taken, it is stated, because it is held that the franchise of the Cleveland Electric Railway on Erie street has expired.

C., H. & D. Makes Straight Fare

Indianapolis, Oct. 27.—The Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton Railroad Company has announced that, beginning November 1, a straight fare of 2½ cents a mile would be charged in Indiana.

GREAT NORTHERN STATISTICS

Figures Taken From Report to Washington Railroad Commission.

Olympia, Oct. 30.—Among the features of the report of the Great Northern for the year ending June 30 last, as filed with the state railroad commission, are the following:

The mileage operated is 5,183.11 miles. The total income from operation was in round numbers $46,500,000, and operating expenses were about $23,000,000. Nearly $1,000,000 was received in dividends and about $400,000 in interest on bonds owned by the company and $600,000 in miscellaneous income, making the total net income about $25,328,000. From this was paid $150,000 interest on funded debt, $4,107,000 for lease of road, $1,605,801 taxes, $2,786,000 for permanent improvemennt fund and $2,344,618 for replacement of equipment, leaving a net income after paying a 7 per cent dividend, $9,148,520, to the stockholders, $5,184,569. This was added to the surplus of other years, making a total surplus June 30, 1906, of $23,593,105.

During the year 4,781,947 passengers were handled, an average haul of about 79 miles, and 16,000,000 tons of freight were carried at an average rate of .778 of a cent per ton mile. Thirty-seven per cent of the total tonnage was ore and about 18 per cent was grain.

HINDUS IN HORDES COMING TO VANCOUVER

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 30.—Hindus are coming in hundreds to Vancouver. It is said that at least 1,000 are on the way from Hongkong and that they will be followed by still more.

The Empress of China, which left for Vancouver on Thursday of last week, is bringing 150. The Tartar is on her way over with probably four times that number.

An attempt will be made by the city officials to keep out as many as possible of the immigrants. The last steamer brought 100. The police guarded them on the wharf for several days, but it was then announced that the new arrivals had secured jobs up country and would not be freed in Vancouver to become beggars, as many of their fellows now are. This was, however, a ruse, for the Hindus got off the train just outside the limits of the city and all marched in again under cover of darkness.

Just how the city will welcome the small army that is now on the way is a matter of speculation.

TROOPS PREPARE FOR TROUBLE WITH INDIANS

Sheridan, Wyo., Oct. 31—A hurried change yesterday in the disposition of the troops of the Tenth cavalry under Col. Augar disclosed the fact that the real danger now lies in the anticipated junction of the Cheyenne Indians with the Utes. A portion of the Tenth was hurried out to Sheridan, where supply wagons were started north.

According to a scout who is familiar with the Cheyennes, these Indians are ready to fight at the drop of the hat and are the best armed tribe in the West. He says they have been buying modern arms and ammunition for the past year, and the young bloods are anxious to follow in the footsteps of their fathers, Little Wolf, Lame Deer and Standing Wolf.

Private advices just received here report the killing of a sheep herder on Butte creek by a band of Utes and the destruction of a band of sheep.

Utes Are Entrenched

Butte, Motn., Oct. 31.—A Miner special from Billings says that a telephone message from Aravada, Wyo., states that the renegade Ute Indians are intrenched in a strong position in the hills adjacent to Aravada and are reconnoitering the country and that the Tenth and Sixth cavalry are preparing to close in on the red men.

OREGON OFFICIALS INSPECT JUTE MILL

Walla Walla, Oct. 31.—Gov. George Chamberlain, Warden C. W. James, of the Oregon prison, thirty-two members of the Oregon legislature, fifty-two members of the Pendleton commercial club and a number of citizens yesterday inspected the jute mill at the Washington prison. The visitors were escorted through the prison by Gov. Mead Warden Kincaid and H. T. Jones, of the state board of control. The Oregon men inspected the prison with a view to establishing a similar plant in the Oregon institution After the inspection the visitors appeared favorable to the establishment of a jute mill at the Oregon prison.

Warden Kincaid Takes Up Duties

Walla Walla, Oct. 30.—M. F. Kincaid yesterday took up the duties of warden of the state penitentiary, relieving A. F. Kees, who has been in charge since Januarly, 1905. Mr. Kincaid has been in Walla Walla several days familiarizing himself with the work of the institution and checking over the accounts. Warden Kees did not leave until all the accounts had been thoroughly checked over.

New Fleet on Coast

Victoria, B.C., Oct. 30.—Special dispatches to the Times from Ottawa state that the Grand Trunk Pacific railway is about to place orders for several big freight and passenger steamers for the Pacific and Atlantic trade. This foreshadows a transpacific fleet out of Prince Rupert.

ROOT SENDS PLEDGE

ASSURES JAPANESE GOVERNMENT OF FAIR TREATMENT.

Conditions Complained of at San Francisco are Purely Local and Grow Out of Conditions Following Earthquake and Fire. State Law Is Blamed.

Washington, Oct. 29.—The text of a cablegram to Ambassador Wright at Tokyo, given out by the state department, bearing on the alleged discrimination against Japanese laborers and school children in San Francisco, disclosed that the United States took prompt action to acquaint the Japanese government with the purely local character of the case. The dispatch answers one from Mr. Wright calling attention to the view taken by the newspapers of Tokyo and explains that this government will not tolerate any other treatment toward Japanese than that accorded the most friendly European nations. The cablegram was sent three days before the first visit of Ambassador Aoki to Secretary Root. It says:

Trouble Purely Local

October 23.—"To Wright, Tokyo: Troubles your dispatch of 21st are so entirely local and confined to San Francisco that this government was not aware of their existence until the publication in our newspapers of what happened in Tokyo.

"The best information we have been able to obtain indicates that there is nothing even in San Francisco but an ordinary local labor controversy, excited by the abnormal conditions resulting from the earthquake and fire. We cannot prevent men desirous of a labor vote from making speeches in favor of excluding any kind of competition. This does not seem to have gone beyond irresponsible agitators, to which no attention can be paid by this government or should be by the people of Japan. The trouble about schools appears to have arisen from the fact that the schools which the Japanese had attended were destroyed by the earthquake and have not yet been replaced.

Equal Treatment for All

"You may assure the government of Japan in the most positive terms that the United States will not for a moment entertain the idea of any treatment toward the Japanese people other than that accorded to the people of the most friendly European nation and that there is no reason to suppose that the people of the United States desire our government to take any different course.

"The president has directed the department of justice to make immediate and full investigation and take such steps as the facts call for and maintain all treaty rights of Japanese in the spirit of friendship which our people have so long entertained. The purely local and occasional nature of the San Francisco school question should be appreciated when the Japanese remember that the Japanese students are welcome in the hundreds of schools and colleges all over the country.

(Signed) "ROOT."

State Law Is Blamed

San Francisco, Oct. 29.—"When Secretary Victor Metcalf arrives to inquire into the rule by the board of education of the city and county of San Francisco regarding providing a separate school for Japanese children, we will meet him more than half way," was the statement of President Aaron Altman yesterday.

City School Superintendent Roncovieri said the coming of Secretary Metcalf to San Francisco was unnecessary, as the exclusion of Japanese children from the public schools for white children is required by law.

"Many of the so called Japanese school children," said President Roncovieri, "are men of from 20 to 23 years of age. They have no right to attend the schools established for our little boys and girls, and we would not allow white men of the same age to go to these schools. These pupils are largely of the Japanese servant class, working for their board and lodging. They are to be commended for so working, but they are not entitled to go to school like little boys and girls.

"Of course, if the United States declares our state law in conflict with a treaty, that's another matter. But at present we are guided solely by California laws."

Spokane Now on Canadian Pacific

Portland, O Or., Oct. 27.—The Canadin Pacific has issued announcements that Eastern agents for the road will hereafter accept freight for Spokane. The ading of Spokane to Canadian Pacific stations has just been accomplished through the completion of the new line from Kahk, at the boundary between British Columbia and the United States, through the Crow's Nest pass route to Spokane. Passenger service will not begin over the new line until the first of the year, as the road is not in condition for the running of passenger trains.

WOMEN AND FASHION

Don't Be Your Husband's Domestic Servant.

If there is any advice that young wives need to take home to their hearts, it is: "Don't let yourself become your husband's domestic servant."

There is real need for such advice. There is nothing a bride takes such pleasure and pride in, if she is a normally constituted woman, as the arrangement and conduct of her household affairs. Waiting on her husband, attending to his creature comforts, bearing in mind the wise old adage that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach, she is too likely to become engrossed in these matters to the exclusion of others which at the time seem remote.

It is a sorry day in married life when a man awakens to the fact that all that his wife does for him can be done by hired labor; not as painstakingly nor devotedly done, but still done well enough by some one who comes in to work.

Many a woman vaunts herself for years on the skill with which she keeps her husband's apparel in order, his home swept and garnished, never thinking that she so wears herself out in these smaller things that when he comes home weary with a day's labor he finds her equally tired and so quite unable to brighten his spirits.

Working at such things constantly, all day and every day, they naturally become the wife's chief topic of conversation. She finds her husband engrossed in his business and asserts for herself the same right to be engrossed in what, to her, is the chief business of life.

She comes not to be seriously interested in his affairs; he is certainly not disposed to take any of the burden of her small domestic labors on shoulders already carrying the weight of providing for their joint future; and the gulf between them grows—too often it comes to be impassable.

It is the duty of a wife who wishes to keep her husband interested in her to, first of all, keep herself interested in him. To that end she must put upon the shoulders of others as much of her housekeeping as possible.

If she is to encourage him for the battle of life she must beware of overfatigue as of any other illness. Let him find her willing, even anxious, to hear of his struggles and successes. Are they not her own?

Newest Calling Costumes.

The gown at the left is of green and white checked voile, or tussor silk, in Empire style, all trimmed with folds and buttons of plain green tussor or taffeta, of which the girdle is also made. The collar and chemisette are of white silk batiste, finely tucked, trimmed with lace insertion; the yoke is of lace. The sleeves are finished at the elbows with turnover cuffs with green silk and frills of batiste or lace. The other gown is of silver gray tussor silk. The skirt is encircled at the bottom with a wide band of beautiful embroidery. The blouse is of lace ornamented with passementeries, and the bretelles, made at the shoulder, are of the tussor silk bordered with embroidery. The knot is of liberty, the girdle of taffeta finished at the top wtih silk of a contrasting color.

Girls Should Know.

That the home kitchen, with mother for teacher and a loving, willing daughter for pupil, is the best cooking school on earth.

That "the most excellent thing in woman"—a low voice—can be acquired only by home practice.

That true beauty of face is possible only where there is beauty of soul manifested in a beautiful character.

That the girl everybody likes is not affected and never whines, but is just her sincere, earnest, helpful self.

Women's Waists Growing Larger.

Reports from many sources say that women's waists are larger than they used to be. Physical culture, we are told, and this seems reasonable, is responsible for the change. Golf, tennis, swimming and almost all of the outdoor sports strengthen and develop the muscles of the waist, so that it is impossible to get them into as small a space as they once occupied. Some few persons, it is said, object to the new appearance the back takes in consequence, but as all common-sense folk regard it as an indication that women are growing healthier, the old question, "What do you care how you look if you only feel well?" is pertinent and polite.

TAILOR GOWNS IN ENGLISH WOOLS.

Health and Beauty Hints.

Deep breathing will tend to decrease the size of the abdomen.

The skin, especially that of the face, should be treated as the finest china, tenderly and delicately.

Before applying a poultice cover the skin lightly with glycerin to prevent any particles from adhering.

Don't torture your eyes, but humor them, for if ill-treated they revenge themselves by making formidable wrinkles and crow's feet.

Shoes that are too large sometimes slip and cause the heel to blister. To prevent this fit the heel of the shoe with a piece of velvet.

One teaspoonful of glycerine to a tablespoonful of boiling water taken ten minutes before meals is said to be a certain cure for indigestion.

Physical Culture.

It should give a perfectly erect poised figure.

A straight, flat back.

A broad, deep and capacious chest.

Uplifted, flexible and harmonious development of all the muscles.

Perfect ease and grace of movement.

Marked muscular power and endurance.

Splendid health.

Bright, sparkling eyes.

Perfect digestion.

A love of activity.

A voice of notable, clear quality and power.

For Tender Feet.

A good bath for tender feet is composed of five quarts of hot water, two hundred grams of boric acid and five grains of tanning. The feet should be soaked in this bath for ten minutes. Dry thoroughly. If your feet are sore after a long walk or vigorous exercise massage them with olive oil. They respond to care very quickly. If your feet swell from long standing, dissolve one ounce of alum, two ounces of rock salt and two ounces borax in the bath.

Woman Farmer Does Own Work.

Farm help is so scarce in many localities that women farmers have been obliged to do their own work. Miss Condell, who has a sixty-five-acre farm within an hour's ride of Chicago, in Illinois, plowed her own land, harvested her hay, hauled it in, took care of a field of oats and a big fruit and truck garden.

Colored crepe de chine underwear is considered the height of luxury.

Petticoats with silk flounce and jersey top that fits like a glove are worn under princess gowns.

Princess gowns of flowered silk, with lace neck fichus as the only trimming, are worn in the evening.

Silver chain purses and bags are exceedingly popular, owing, perhaps, to the vogue for gray dress effects.

A filmy, smoke-gray veil, trailing off the hat like a misty smoke wreath, is the newest accessory to be possessed of.

The newer neck ruffs have a bow of wide velvet ribbon at the back, with streamer ends reaching below the waist.

Much gauze and tulle are to be worn, even the earliest furs showing great bunches of tulle caught on by jeweled ornaments.

Veiling the flowers and ribbon trimmings in hats is quite a feature at present. The veiling is usually the color of the hat itself, or of a tint to harmonize with the foliage.

Blue is even more popular than brown, although less noticeably so, because of the peculiar staple position it enjoys, and plaids—odd editions of Scotch plaids, rendered even more sober than the soberest of them usually is—are in daily requisition.

White felt hats are pretty for autumn. One imported hat has the brim cut to a point back and front, with an upstanding green ribbon, veiled in green net around the crown, with green wings on one side. The bandeau beneath is also covered with green loops.

A feature of the new black is that much of it is embroidered in heavy serges as well as fine henriettas and silk-and-wool eollennes show silk embroidered figures, rings and dots scattered over the surface at somewhat wide intervals. Charming voiles are seen with openwork silk figures that give a very novel touch.

Blouse of Japanese Silk.

It is now demanded of a shirt waist that it be not only useful but that added to its utilitarian qualities it must carry a style as well. Our model is a smart little blue lawn with stitching of white, very fetching when worn with its blue serge skirt. At each side of the center plait, back and front, is one side plait, while, to help give the popular broad-shouldered effect, the fronts have wide box plaits quite over to the sleeve seams. A stitched strap buttoned down over this adds a little decorative touch. The sleeves are made with the shirt cuffs but, if preferred, may be cut off just below the elbows and finished with straight narrow cuffs. The style is a very attractive and becoming one. Linens, lawns, Japanese silks or mercerized madras are all used for such blouses.

Linen Hints.

When hanging your linen to dry use two lines comparatively close and parallel for your tablecloths and sheets.

After the table linen is thoroughly dried, remove it from the line and prepare to dampen it. A whisk broom is excellent for the purpose.

Table linen, in order to bring out the bright gloss that makes it attractive, should be dampened quite considerably.

Sprinkle the tablecloths freely, being sure that the selvedge ends or hemstitched borders are thoroughly damp. Roll up tightly, patting the roll frequently to spread the dampness.

DEMOCRATIC RALLY SATURDAY 3RD

The local candidates on the Democratic ticket will hold their closing rally tomorrow, (Saturday) evening at the opera house. All are requested to come out and hear what the gentlemen—and lady—have to say for themselves.

Mr. Richardson's ability as a lawyer is unquestioned and is amply confirmed by his long and successful professional career in this county. His past record is a sufficient guarantee that he will make a safe counsellor and advocate, and that under his administration the laws will be impartially enforced.

There is no office within the gift of the people so important to the tax payer as that of commissioner. Through his wisdom or ignorance, frugality or extravagance in managing county affairs the taxpayer finds his interests handled wisely or otherwise. Mr. Erickson has managed his own business with wisdom and frugality; and it is safe to say that he will attend to the affairs of the county in the same business like manner, and, that, when serving the people, it will be his honest endeavor to further the progress, development and best interests of the county.

Before another issue of this paper the electors of Clallam county will have exercised their sovereign right as American citizens. The Olympic-Leader has supported what might be called a mixed ticket in so far as county affairs are concerned, supported the men—and woman—whom its publishers believe to be best fitted for the various offices to which they aspire. We have tried to be fair and consistent in what we have said so that no animosities might result. If we have erred it has been unintentional on our part. The publishers believe in a clean campaign and have had their say with that end in view. May the best men—and woman—win.

Miss Trumbull has her opponent scared to a finish. He is willing to promise anything since he has seen the handwriting on the wall. But it is too late, promises won't save him. Miss Trumbull will be the next Supt. of Schools by a large majority.

The register books will be re-opened from Nov. 7 to 26th, at the office of the city clerk. If you expect to vote at the coming city election, you must register.

PROOF OF EFFICIENCY

Will Save County Nearly $400 During His Term of Office.

Elsewhere in this issue is a comparative statement and abstract of monies paid out for deputy hire in the county clerk's office in Clallam county for the two previous terms as compared with the present term of E. A. FitzHenry. A careful perusal of the same will convince the most skeptical that Mr. FitzHenry has conducted the business of his office on the most economical lines.

The yearly average of Mr. FitzHenry's deputy hire is $116.25. The monthly average given in the statement of $8.33⅓ is the monthly average for the year 1906 only.

The yearly average for clerk hire in this office for the previous four years was $310.

Mr. FitzHenry promises that if reelected he will pursue the same economical course in the future, and retire at the close of his second term with the satisfaction that his administration of the office has cost the people less than that of either of his recent predecessors.

The Honor of Jefferson County

The honor of Jefferson county is at stake in the present senatorial contest. This county had no right whatever to claim the senatorship at this time as its due. It had a perfect right to ask for it, of course, and no doubt the republicans of the other counties in the district would have stood loyally by a regular nominee from Jefferson county.

But for republicans of Jefferson county to even support an independent candidate, in opposition to the regular party nominee from another county in the district, is downright political dishonesty. The Leader makes the deliberate prediction that if Mr. Bishop secures the vote in Jefferson county that his supporters are claiming for him, it will be twenty years before this county will ever receive another nomination for senator in this joint district.

The logic of honest politics really dictated that the senatorial nominee this time should be the San Juan candidate. Honor demands that Jefferson county should support that nominee.—Port Townsend Leader.

As the campaign draws to a close it becomes more evident that Mr. Cosser will receive a large vote. His campaign has been a clean one; by his courteous manner and honest face he has everywhere won new friends. Not only are his home friends supporting him, but those friends who have moved to other parts of the country are interested in his candidacy. We quote, in part, from a letter of one of these absent friends, W. E. Graham, San Jose, Cal., as follows:

"I have a home interest in Clallam county and I believe deep in my heart that no man living within her borders would give the county a more fearless, fair, honest and upright administration of the sheriff's office than Andy Cosser."

It is perhaps needless for us to say that Mr. Graham is a republican.

ALWAYS WORKED FOR CLALLAM COUNTY

Mr. Cosser Has Been Faithful to Home Interests for Many Years

Whatever may be your personal opinion, whatever your political faith, there is no denying the fact that the character and personal integrity of A. J. Cosser is absolutely above reproach. However it may have been with others, he has been upright in his methods, his expressions frank and sincere, and his life, as regards both business and politics, has been an open book. He has been a resident of Clallam county for seventeen years—grew up from boyhood here—and this is the first time that he has asked for or would accept an office at the hands of the people, but has always worked quietly in the ranks for the best interests of the county, without compensation. Can his opponent say as much? Was he not honored only a short time ago with an office, with all its emoluments, and is now asking for another chance at the public crib? He has had his share of office holding. There should be no office holding oligarchy in this country. If it is a good thing, pass it around. Give the poor, honest and capable man a chance. Vote for Mr. Cosser; vote for a worthy man, one who is deserving and one who will administer the affairs of the office of sheriff economically, efficiently, and without fear or favor.

There is no better way of judging of the qualifications of a candidate than by the same rules that apply to and influence the selection of competent employes in the ordinary business transactions of life. That being the test, his friends are willing Mr. Hickok shall stand a comparison with his opponent. He has been selected by his party for assessor, and if elected, will make a fair and impartial assessment, wherein the large timber holder, the banker and bank stocks and other large intersts shall pay an equal tax with the small accumulations of the wage-earner. By reason of his abstracting business and work for the county in writing up the assessment rolls for a number of years, he is familiar with the records and duties, and being a man of good judgment he will be able to properly classify values to the end that assessments will be properly made and all will pay their just portion of taxes. He promised the convention, after nomination, that he would "Give every man a square deal," and he will do it. Vote for Hickok and a reduction of taxation.

The claim is made by opponents of Miss Trumbull that a woman cannot visit the schools of the county, owing to the long drives over lonely roads that she would be compelled to make. This in best refuted by the following, which we clip from the Willapa Harbor Pilot. What one woman can do another equally resolute can accomplish. The Pilot says:

"Mrs. C. A. Murdock has served two terms as county school superintendent, and in each instance gained the hearty approval of teachers and patrons of the schools in every part of the county. She visited schools that had never seen a county superintendent before. No duty was too onerous for her and not one was neglected."

Elect Miss Trumbull, and our word for it, her record as superintendent will be equally as good.

History Repeats Itself

Ten years ago the present republican candidate for Superintendent of Schools was a candidate for the same position. His opponent was Miss Ella Guptil. In the campaign the same arguments were advanced that Mr. Taylor has advanced in this campaign. It was said that Miss Guptil was not qualified, was not eligible, had not the experience, etc. Nevertheless the people voted for Miss Guptil and Mr. Taylor was very badly defeated. Instead of taking his defeat like a gentleman, he caused a contest to be initiated against Miss Guptil. The Court in Port Anreles held that Miss Guptil was not eligible because she was a woman. She appealed to the Supreme Court which promptly reversed the decision and ordered the contest dismissed. This was in 1896. In this year of grace, 1906, we find Mr. Taylor still greedy for office. He procures the republican nomination. Miss Trumbull is nominated by the democrats. What does Mr. Taylor do? Go out in the open and conduct his campaign on his own merits? Oh, no. He questions first Miss Trumbull's certificate. The state superintendent and attorney general puts a quietus to that. Next, he questions the length of time she has taught. Then that she is too young and too inexperienced. In short, it is the same campaign he conducted against Miss Guptil ten years ago and it will have the same result. Time and experience does not seem to have learned him anything. So far he has not pointed out to the voter what his experience has done for him and what his superior qualifications are. Mr. Taylor will find it to be a good plan to devote his time to endeavoring to convince the people that he is qualified for the office, and leave the people to find out the disqualifications of his opponent. History repeats itself.

"Good Government" Issue

The Bishop supporters are loudly and formally proclaiming that he was induced to become an independent candidate for state senator in the interest of "good government."

What good government issue does Mr. Bishop represent that is not also represented by Mr. Blair?

Government is conducted by parties. Mr. Blair will be a member in good standing of the party in control of the state senate. He will be one of the counselors of that party on matters of legislation. In other words, he will be in a position to help shape the legislation of the state in its formative stage. Mr. Bishop, on the other hand, as an independent, would be outside the counsels of any party and would have no part in the shaping of legislation until it was actually before the senate.

The people of this senatorial district will not voluntarily deprive themselves of their own rightful share in the legislation of the state for the next four years by sending a political nondescript to the state senate.—Port Townsend Leader.
