JUDGE HATCH AT REST

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD IN THE OPERA HOUSE TODAY

Entire District Mourns the Untimely Demise of a Good and Able Man.

The sudden death of Judge George C. Hatch at his home in this city on Tuesday evening, Jan. 1,1907, at 8:45, thrilled many hearts of the community with sorrow, altho for the past twenty-four hours it had generally been known that his death was but a matter of a short time.

On Thursday, Dec. 20th, when leading his driving horses to pasture, and when inside the enclosure, one of the animals playfully reared up, when Judge Hatch was tripped by the halter rope and falling, struck on the back of his head. From the concussion ensued congestion of the brain, which caused him to take to his bed, but not until the following Wednesday; he continued to grow worse until death came to his relief Tuesday evening. Thus, in the prime of life and vigorous manhood, was this good man stricken down!

Judge Hatch, whose remains are consigned to the dust today, lived a life which is worthy of more than formal mention at its close. In an age of money getting, when we are absorbed in material things, the true success of living is too often overlooked.

Measured by the right tests this man overcame obstacles and won victories in noble contention for that true manhood that lifts the race and makes his fellows better for having lived among them.

Humble in spirit, leading a simple and unostentatious life, willing to do a labor of love to his fellows at all times, he rejoiced and evinced his nobility in purity of living, love and affection for the dear ones of his household and unbiased fairness and charity towards all his fellow men. He found his greatest pleasure and chiefest joy with his wife and children.

As a judge he was fair-minded and impartial in his decisions, and his interpretations of the law were just and upright. During his second term as judge of this district he was many times called to preside in the courts of King and Pierce counties, winning for himself an enviable reputation.

If we only had time to know such men in his world! To know the promptings of their great, generous hearts! To know of the battles fought and victories won in the citidal of the innermost life! Judge Hatch's life work is an open book. It is closed, and we are here to think of its lessons.

George C. Hatch was born June 24, 1857, on a farm near West Farmington, Ohio. Was a graduate of Oberlin College. Studied law at Warren, Ohio, and entered upon the practice of law at Youngston, Ohio, remaining there about ten years. Came to Angeles in 1890. Appointed deputy prosecuting attorney of Clallam county in 1891; elected city attorney in 1892, which office he held two terms; elected prosecuting attorney in 1896 and re-elected in 1898; elected superior judge of the district composed of the counties of Clallam, Jefferson and Island counties in 1900, re-elected in 1904, serving in that capacity when death claimed him. He leaves a heart-broken wife and two children; also mother, three sisters and two brothers in Ohio, and another brother, Ed Hatch of Bellingham, who arrived Wednesday to attend the funeral.

Funeral services were held at the opera house today at 11 a. m. A large assembly of neighbors, and friends from a distance, testified their love and esteem by their presence. The legal fraternity of Angeles and visiting members from other places attended in a body. Mesdames Cushing and Jensen and Messrs. Trebus and Riley sang "Lead Kindly Light," and "In the Sweet Bye and Bye." The floral tributes were very beautiful in design and generous in abundance. Judge Geo.E Morris of Seattle, a personal friend, conducted the services. The speaker gave a very appropriate and feeling address, paying a just and worthy tribute to the memory of the departed; the life of deceased was much in harmony with the words of the Psalmist:

"Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful.

"But his delight is in the law of the Lord; and in his law doth he meditate day and night.

"And he shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in his season; his leaf also shall not wither: and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper."

NEW PURE FOOD LAW

ARTICLES MUST NOT BE MISREPRESENTED

Use of Coloring Matter in Butter is Questionable.

The National pure-food and drug law passed at the late session of congress, went into effect January 1st.

Those provisions of the law requiring the label to state the ingredients of the various articles affected, and requiring that all such goods shall be labeled,make the matter interesting to the manufacturers and dealers.

The law seeks to accomplish two things. First to prevent adulterations in any way, and, second, to prevent misrepresentation in any particular. Under its provisions any article offood, drug or liquor that is in any manner adulterated so as to conceal a defect, to render it injurious to health or to lower its standard in any degree is prohibited from sale and liable to confiscation.

Any label or representation on package ofgoods which tends to misstate any fact in regard to the goods, or to deceive people into buying something which they are not, is a violation of the law, and lays the manufacturer open to prosecution.

Many merchants are confused over what they are to do with goods already on hand, but the solution seems to be that they must either get a written guarantee from the manufacturer or jobber that the goods are pure and within the law, or they must stand the consequences. Where the goods are up to standard, but of a character which the law required to be labeled, the goods must be labeled before they pass over the counter.

It effects foodstuffs if any substance has been mixed and packed with it, so as to reduce or lower or injuriously affect its quality or strength and provides:

"If any substance has been substituted wholly or in part for the article.

"If any valuable constituent of the article has been wholly or in part abstracted.

"If it is mixed, colored, powdered, coated or stained in any manner whereby damage or inferiority is concealed.

"If it contains any added poisonous or other ingredients which may render such article injurious to health.

"If it consist in whole or in part of a filthy, decomposed or putrid animal or vegetable substance, or any portion of an animal unfit for food, whether manufactured or not," runs a prohibition, "or if it is the product of a diseased animal, or one that has died otherwise than by slaughter."

"Pure maple syrup," made from corn stalks or other materials, cannot be sold as maple syrup, unless the label says it is not that kind of syrup.

All coloring matter used on meats and sausages to conceal some defect in the goods are barred. The same is true of coloring in butter. Under the law the only way to make a good saleable article of butter is to make it pure and clean and sell it on its merits.

If a merchant has a large supply of Mocha coffee grown in some other part of the globe, a sticker must be put on the package, showing where it was grown and what it is before it can be sold.

Soleduck Springs

A line from Chris Storm informs us that we were in error when we stated, on the 13th Dec., that everything was washed out at the Solduck hot springs Mr. Storm says "four bath houses are left, so we can still accommodate some people until we can fix the others. The trail is open so that people can come at any time."

These hot springs are fast becoming a favorite resort for rheumatic patients and others, and next season will no doubt see a much larger crowd there than ever, and Mr. Storm will be prepared to properly care for all comers.

SEGUIN BAY CANNING CO

WILL BUILD WHARF ON UPPER WASHINGTON HARBOR

New Corporation to Pack Salmon as Well as Clams

The Seguin Bay Canning Co., whose incorporation we mentioned last week, is as its local name would suggest, to be principally a clam cannery. The output of such institutions being about four thousand cases per season, packed at an average profit of one dollar per case, the incorporators believe they can realize better returns on the eleven miles of tide lands they own by operating than by renting on the basis of agreed percentage per case. The cannery, which involves the construction of an expensive wharf to deep water in order that the Rosalie and other steamers may run alongside, and which in itself will prove an advantage to those living on the upper bay, will be located above the present Washington Harbor wharf. It is also the intention of the company to put in a single line of machinery for the canning of salmon, arrangements having been made with one of the big fish companies upsound, making the plant a small overflow cannery in those years when fish are plentiful. Being nearer the salmon banks than canneries at Angeles or Townsend, a gasoline launch will answer every purpose for towing and thus the expense will be comparatively light. James Dick, D. McInnis and Geo. Davis will be the directors of the company.

Rev. Carlisle P. B. Martin. L. L. D.
Of Waverly, Texas, writes; "Of a morning, when first arising, I often find a troublesome collection of phlegm which produces a cough and is very hard to dislodge; but a small quantity of Ballard's Horehound Syrup will at once dislodge it, and the trouble is over. I know of no medicine that is equal to it, and it is so pleasant to take. I can most cordially recommend it to all persons needing a medicine for throat or lung trouble.

Raise Apples for Export

Washington, Jan. 1.—Several New York financial men who have studied the export trade in apples, are arranging to buy up a considerable area of land in Oregon and plant large orchards of high-grade trees. These men have found that Oregon apples command higher prices than any that enter the London markets, and there is demand for many times the present supply. If the project matures the New Yorkers will raise apples almost entirely for export.

FOR A REFORMATORY

GOV. MEAD'S PRISON COMMITTEE MAKES REPORT.

Recommends an Intermediate Prison for Those Inexperienced in Crime--Summary of Recommendations Made By the Committee.

Olympia, Dec. 29.—Gov. Mead has received the first draft of the report of thec ommittee appointed by him to investigate conditions at the state penitentiarya t Walla Walla. Among the recommendations which the comimttee will offer for the consideration of the legislature are the following:

"Believing that the welfare of the prisoners, moral and physical, would be promoted, the warden and officers aided and encouraged and the community in general aroused to a greater interest in matters so vital to the state, we suggest that you recommend a law authorizing the appointment of an advisory board of visitors, composed of representative men whose profession, education or occupatiion best fits them for such appointment. The members of such board should serve without compensation except for actual railroad fare, at the rate of 3 cents per mile.

Recommending an Intermediate Prison

"In the state penitentiary located at Walla Wallla are confined more than 800 criminals of all classes. Beginners in crime are forced to associate with old and hardened offenders. That the reformation of many beginners is rendered wellnigh impossible by this demoralizing influence is beyond dispute. Owing to the construction of the building and the mode of employment at the state penitentiary it is almost impossible to separate and class the men incarcerated here.

"The need of an institution to care for the criminals from 18 to 25 years, to separate first offenders from associating with hardened criminals, to afford the best and most modern methods of reforming the young offenders, has been long felt in our state. As it is, if the criminal is too old to be sent to the reform school at Chehalis, he must go to the penitentiary, where he is thrown into constant association with those who have made crime their avocation.

"We, your committee, therefore recommend the enactment of such legislation as may be necessary to a complish this, and we further recommend that such an institution be located on the west side of the mountains; that said institution be so equipped that convict offenders may be taught literary branches, moral effects, trades and proper physical branches.

Revolving Fund Discussed

"With reference to the revolving fund, which constitutes, as is well known, the manufacturing revenues of the state penitentiary, we, your committee, would respectfully recommend that it be made a revolving fund in fact, and not in dubious designation, as it may now be accounted.

"Under the custom at present in vogue, the proceeds of the jute mill and brick yard are transmitted back to the state treasurer, who, as we understand it, under a former ruling of the attorney general, holds them subject to disbursement solely at the discretion of the legislative assembly. Thus they are withdrawn from utility in behalf of the penitentiary, a proceeding manifestly unfair, seeing that a portion of the remittance represents profits earned by p rison labor. In lieu of such regulation, therefore, which necessarily carries in its wake many and obvious embarrassments, we would respectfully recommend that a sum be appropriated by the next legislature adequate in amount to operate the jute mill from year to year, and so legalized under the statutes as to be rendered accessibleto the state board of control or the superintendent of the institution.

The Recommendations

"In order to make this report of your committee more easily grasped, we append herewith a summary of the recommendations which we have seen fit to make, trusting that these may have been so stated in the report as to be easily referred to.

"First—A separation of the employes from the convicts as far as possible.

"Second—Modicfiation of the extreme form of punishment known as hosing.

"Third—Civil service for the employment of guards and employes.

"Fourth—Increase in salaries along the entire line.

"Fifth—Uniforms for women prisoners.

"Sixth—Improvement of the sewerage of the old prison and more sanitary appliances in the kitchen.

"Seventh—The employment of women in some active labor.

"Eighth—The enlargement of the dining hall and the contsruction of a new bakery.

"Ninth—Imrovement of the water supply through connection with the city system of artesian wells.

"Tenth—Enlargement of the dairy barn and herd, and greater development of the penitentiary farm.

"Eleventh—Removal of the jute mill to a site adjacent to the stocade and doubling its capacity.

"Twelfth—A better system of distributing the products of the jute mill throuhout the state.

Thirteenth—The employment of convicts on the public hizhways, and the construction of public works for the state.

"Fourteenth—The construction of a new hospital and the removal of the women prisoners to the present building used for a hospital.

"Fifteenth—The establishment of an intermediate prison west of the Cascades.

"Sixteenth — Recommending a change of the law regulating the revolving fund appropriations."

OPPOSITION CEMENTED

New Russian Regulation Causes Parties to Join Forces.

St Petersburg, Dec. 31.—Negotiations looking to a coalition of all the opposition parties in the coming elections have been inaugurated by the central committee of the constitutional democrats. The leaders of this party, up to the present time, have rejected all overtures looking to an alliance, on the ground that the party had power enough to win alone, but their conversion to the idea of coalition is due to reports from the interior, showin the prorress made by the conservatives and the propaganda and the administrative measures for the distribution of the land to the peasantry in many sections of the country, coupled with a realiaztion that the government had finally found a vulnerable point in their armor in the regulations issued last week.

In these regulations Premier Stolypin has copied the American and Australian systems to the extent of pro viding closed booths for secret voting and the use of official ballots. Electioneering is prohibited in the vicinity of the polls but it has been arranged to furnish beforehand supplies of official ballots, on which the legalized political parties, such as the Octoberists and the Peaceful Regenerationists and the Monarchists may print their tickets for distribution to the adherents of these parties.

The administrative veto to political meetings and the prevention of the disseminating of campaign literature will further prevent the non-legalized parties from communicating lists of their candidates to their adherents except through the newspapers.

FOR AN OPEN RIVER

Commercial Bodies Advocate Navigable Columbia From Canada to Sea.

Wenatchee, Dec. 29.—"Open the Columbia river from the boundary to the sea" is the slogan which will be used by the commercial bodies of the eastern and central parts of the state from now on until something is done in this direction.

For the purpose of making plans looking toward securing aid in this movement a meeting has been called for January 7, at which time delegates from the several bodies will meet in Wenatchee to discuss matters pertaining to the commercial development of this part of the state.

The delegates of the several clubs will meet at the call of the Walla Walla Commercial Club, which organization is forming the movement for an open Columbia river. The Wenatchee Commercial Club will act as host of the delegates who will attend.

At the present time navigat on is open from Wenatchee north to Bridgeport, a distance of eighty miles. From Wenatchee south, the main difficulties to be encountered are the Rock Island rapids and the Priest rapids, both of which may be made navigable by the proper amount of work.

The great irrigation districts of Central Washington are now practically without communication and the need of a line to connect the Wenatchee and Yakima districts has been felt for some time.

The opening of the Columbia would be the realization of a dream which has been discussed for many years.

SUPPORT IS PLEDGED TO CONGO REFORM MOVE

Washington, Dec. 29.—It was stated at the state department that the government had pledged its support in any steps taken by the British government toward ameliorating the condition of affairs in the Congo.

This is the first time that any official announcement has been made and sets at rest all question as to the stand the United States would take in case it became nercessary for one or more powers signatory to the Berlin treaty to intervene.

The agitation in England for some action by that government under its treaty obligation looking to reforms in the Congo has been as gerat if not greater than in the United States, but England has been loth to act while there was any prospect that Belgium would annex the Congo territory.

Minneapolis Flour for Russia

Minneapolis, Dec. 29.—It is rumored that a big deal is about to be closed whereby a Minnesota company will consign a large quantity of flour for Russian consumption. The exportation of Minneapolis flour to Russia will be without precedent and is possible only because of the great shortage of the Russian crop.

Another Chilean Earthquake

Santiago de Chile, Dec. 29.—Half the town of Arica, in the province of Tacna, has been destroyed by an earthquake and other towns in the neighborhood have suffered more or less severely. The seaport of Iquique, 120 miles south of Arica, was not damaged.

J. J. HILL TO RETIRE

ANNOUNCES HE WILL QUIT BUSINESS NEXT SUMMER.

Has Devoted Half a Century to Pursuit of the Realization of His Dream of a New Empire. Son Louis To Succeed to Management.

Seattle, Dec. 29.—A special dispatch to the Post-Intelligencer from St. Paul says that James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern railroad will retire from active business and active management of his many mammoth enterprises July 1, 1907.

The announcement comes from Mr. Hill himself. His successor will be his eldest son, Louis N. Hill, first vice president of the Great Northern,

From time to time in the past few years there have been rumors that Mr. Hill was planning to retire. The definite time for the retirement has never been announced until yesterday, when Mr. Hill himself named July 1 next as the date for getting out of the harness. He said:

"I had planned to retire as soon as I could safely do so. By that time I shall be able to leave the work of a lifetime, the business here on a safe, sound basis that will endure.

Fifty Years Work

Mr. Hill's dominating characteristic can be said to be a combining of the highest imagination, and stern common sense with an untiring energy that always follows the dream with practical accomplishments. For fifty years he has followed steadily his dream for the development of a new empire in the Northwest, and at the age of 68 will retire with his work achieved.

At the age of 18 Mr. Hill came to St. Paul and became agent for a packet company operating on the Red river. This was the beginning of his acquaintance with the transportation problem in the Northwest. He branched out, entering the railroad business, opening up communication with Winnipeg, and finally in 1879 began his life work when, with others, he took over the old St. Paul & Pacific railroad, a sickly infant consisting of "two streaks of rust" a few hundred miles in length, a bad name and a debt of several million dollars.

Record of His Genius

From this beginning he commenced with masterly genius the recreation of the Northwest. Today he controls transportation facilities covering almost an entire continent, steamship lines connecting with the Orient and a hundred other enterprises.

Mr. Hill rose from manager to president of the company reorganized as the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba, becoming president in 1883. Ten years later the Great Northern was completed to the Coast and the recent years have recorded wonderful advancements.

Today Mr. Hill is considered to have more knowledge of railroad affairs and management than any other man living.

This Says Hill Denies

St. Paul, Jan. 2.—J. J. Hill, in a statement published here, denied that he intended to retire July 1, as president of the Great Northern railway, saying that however much he would like to be relieved of the responsibilities of his position, he could not see his way to do so yet.

TACKLES HINDOO PROBLEM

Secretary Will Decide Whether to Admit "Undesirable" Foreigners.

Washington, Jan. 1.—An interesting and what is regarded by the immigration authorities as an important case, is under consideration by Secretary Strauss of the department of commerce and labor. It relates to the admission into the United States from Vancouver, B. C., of ten Hindoos who desire to go to San Francisco. The statement of the case shows that six of the ten are diseased and four are in good physical condition.

In the past two years 2,500 Hindoos have arrived in British Columbia. They are, accordng to the Dominion immigration authorities, an undesirable class of immigrants. The feeling in British Columbia is so strong against them on account of their habits and unsanitary methods of living that the inhabitants have in some instances burned the Hindoos' houses in order to compel them to leave.

The immigration officers on the Canadian border denied the Hindoos admission to the United States and the case is now on appeal to Secretary Strauss.

Guggenheim Assured Senatorship

Denver, Colo., Jan. 1.—Simon Guggenheim's election as United States senator to succeed Thomas M. Patterson is assured by the action of the Republican members of the general assembly in caucus. Mr. Guggenheim's candidacy was endorsed by a vote of 48 to 1. Seventy of the one hundred members of the legislature are Republicans.

Rockefeller Gives More Millions

Chicago, Jan. 1.—A new year's gift of nearly $3,000,000 was presented by John D. Rockefeller to the University of Chicago yesterday. This is the largest single contribution of Mr. Rockefeller to the institution and brings his total benefactions to the university up to $19,416,929.

IS RECEPTIVE CANDIDATE

Taft Not Seeking Nomination, But Would Not Decline.

Washington, Jan. 1. —Secretary Taft has made the following statement concerning his presidential aspirations:

"For the purpose of relieving the burden imposed by recent publications upon some of my friends among the Washintgon newspaper correspondents of putting further inquiries to me, I wish to say that my ambition is not political, that I am not seeking the presidential nomination, and that I do not expect to be the Republican candidate, if for no other reason than because of what seem to me to be objections to my availability, which do not appear to lessen with the continued discharge of my own official duty.

"But I am not foolish enough to say that in the improbable event that the opportunity to run for the great office of president were to come to me, I should decline it, for this would not be true."

EMPLOYERS LIABILITY LAW HELD TO BE INVALID

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 1.—Judge Walter Evans, in the federal court yesterday, declared the employers' liability act unconstitutional. The decision was given in the case of the administratrix of N. C. Brooks vs. the Southern Pacific railroad, and is believed to be the first handed down in connection with this act.

The alleged cause of action occurred in Kansas. The husband of the plaintiff was killed in a railroad accident and suit was brought under this act for $25,000 damages.

The court holds that the act in effect would regulate comme ce within the state, and is therefore unconstitutional. The demurrer of the Southern Pacific to the action for damages is sustained.

Judge Evans said careful nvestigation hade onvinced him that "The act of June 11, 1906, only creates and imposes a liability upon certain common carriers to their employes, and in no way prescribes rules for carrying on traffic or commerce along the states, and consequently in no way regulates such commerce.

"If the operation of the act could in any way affect commerce among the states, it would do so in a manner so remote, incidental and contingent as in no proper sense to afford a factor of any value in determining the question of the case in contention.

"It is obvious that congress in the act referred to had in contemplation no more than the creation of a liability mentioned, and it would be a most strained construction to hold that it included anything broader than that. Creating new liabilities, growing out of the relations of master and servant on the one hand and regulating commerce on the other, are two different things, and the confusion of the judicial mind upon them is hardly to be expected under normal conditions. In the opinion of the court the act does not regulate commerce among the states."

CHINA'S FAMINE IS WORST IN FORTY YEARS

Peking, Jan. 1.—Owing to excessive rains and consequent failure of the crops, the famine in the north of Anhui province, in the east of Honan and in the whole north of Kiangsu is worse than at any time during the past forty years.

It is estimated that four million people are starving. Tens of thousands are utterly destitute and wandering over the country. The danger is increased by the activity of the secret societies, as the wanderers are gladly joining them in order to obtain rice.

About 50,000 refugees have reached the vicinity of Nanking in pitiable condition. The authorities are unable to cope with the situation.

Ask for Corn and Wheat

Washington, Jan. 1.—The offer of E. H. Harriman to President Roosevelt to transport on his steamship lines all supplies delivered at San Francisc and intended to relieve famine sufferers in China has opened the way for the American Red Cross to make an appeal direct to the farmers of the country to provide corn and wheat. The appeal for money contributions has been effective, but it is believed the greater good would come from gifts of grain now that the transportation question has been met. Already the Red Cross officials in this city have suggested to Gov. Cummins, o Iowa, that he ask the farmers of the state to make grain contribution The call upon the governors had n been general for the reason that t Red Cross officers were waiting to whether it would be decided to e the army transport service to con grain to the Orient.

Baroness Burdett-Coutts

London, Dec. 31.—Baroness Burdett-Coutts, who has been ill at her residence since Christmas, is dead. The death of Baroness Burdett-Coutts, occurring at the age of 92 years besides depriving the country of one of its greatest and most famous philanthropists, removes from London a unique personality. As a link with the almost forgatten past, her life, beginning during the reign of Emperor Napoleon, she lived during the reigns of five Britihs sovereigns, inheriting an immense fortune, so using it to die

Railroads in the United States are pretty well under the control of the people. A late evidence of their mastery appears in the conviction of the New York Central Roalroad company for giving freight rebates to the American Sugar Refining company. The published rate by rail from New York to Detroit was twenty-three cents a hundred pounds. The rate by water was thirteen cents. To meet the competition by water, the agent of the railroad company secretly agreed to pay back to the sugar company five cents a hundred pounds on all sugar shipped. The company paid back many thousand dollars under the agreement. The railroad company has appealed the case to the Supreme Court. Whatever the outcome of the appeal, the conviction itself is important. It indicates the vitality of the law intended to secure uniform rates and fair treatment to all shippers. The Supreme Court of the United States has already rendered decisions that secure the rights of the people upon the railways, which are, in a certain true sense, public highways. The companies may not charge exorbitant rates, according to a decision made in March, 1898; but on the other hand, under the same decision, neither a state legislature nor Congress may make a freight rate so low that it will be unprofitable to the company. Such a rate would deprive persons of their property without due process of law, in violation of the Constitution. Thus we have three established rules: That the owners of the railroads are protected in their property against confiscatory freight rates; that the shippers are protected against exorbitant rates, and that the rate for a given service shall be uniform for all shippers enjoying that service. Congress has provided for an enforcement of these rules by the law governing interstate commerce, passed at its last session. Under these rules equitably enforced there can be no oppression of the people on the one hand, and no injustice to property on the other.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Nurserymen are getting high prices for seeds of hard pine, white pine, hemlock, black ash and other trees. There is educational as well as commercial value in acquainting children with these neglected harvests, and it is hoped that interest may be aroused among school authorities, farmers and landowners in the gathering of the seeds.

The bachelor is not as happy, does not live as long, is not so much honored while living or as much wept when dead as the man who marries, but as an individual he may feel that single blessedness best suits him, although not denying that as a general rule men should marry and the sooner the better. If he holds this view, for reasons sentimental or temperamental, he should be allowed to stand upon the constitutional and inalienable rights that entitle him to life, liberty and the pursuit of that which, under the circumstances in which he individually finds himself, seems to be the minimum unhappiness. And he is entitled to an injunction to restrain married men, blatant and bumptious because of their greater happiness, but knowing nothing of his reasons for not having found his way into their proud and happy estate, from prodding him as he pursues his lonely pilgrimage.

Safe, Sure and Speedy.

No external remedy ever yet devised has so fully and unquestionably met these three prime conditions as successfully as Allcock's Plasters. They are safe because they contain no deleterious drugs and are manufactured upon scientific principals of medicine. They are sure because nothing goes into them except ingredients which are exactly adapted to the purposes for which a plaster is required. They are speedy in their action because their medicinal qualities go right to their work of relieving pain and restoring the natural and healthy performance of the functions of muscles, nerves and skin.

Allcock's Plasters are the original and genuine porous plasters and like most meritorious articles have been extensively imitated, therefore always make sure and get the genuine Allcock's.

Scientists Resent Attack.

Christian scientists are greatly exercised over a series of articles begun in the December McClure, which propose to tell the truth about the origin and rise of their organization. Alfred Farlow, head of the committee on publication, declares that the portrait published is that of Mrs. Sarah C. He gives out a letter from the son of Mrs. Chevaillier, that it is a picture of his mother.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP

The new currency committee of the American Banking Association, after three days' conference at Washington, agreed to several propositions. One is the establishment of the 5 per cent guarantee fund for the redemption of the notes of failed banks, and the limitation of all issues of currency by any bank to that of its capital stock. Another plan favored by these banking experts is a tax on the emergency notes. The bankers are anxious to have it known that their effort to secure additional currency is not for making money, but with a view of accommodating the public. The bank of commission is composed of fifteen bankers from different parts of the country.

A statement has been given out at the White House reminding the public that it is the practice never to attempt to quote a private conversation with the President of the United States. The ground is taken that a man who quotes such a conversation usually misquotes, whether consciously or unconsciously, and that such an alleged conversation is not to be held as calling for either explanation or denial by the President, who is responsible only for what he himself says in public, or what he writes, or for what he authorizes officials to say. This is regarded as a warning.

The manufacturer must accept the responsibility of arranging his label to comply with the new law, and if he does not he will be prosecuted.

The War Department has adopted a system of identification tags for soldiers. Similar tags have been in use in the British army for years. The British tag contains simply a number which corresponds to a name on the service books and the regimental rolls. During the Boer war the tag numbers of those killed and wounded were often published before the department had identified the numbers with the names, and friends of a man who knew his number scanned the cold figures, so living to whoever could interpret them.

WHAT IS PE-RU-NA?

Is It a Catarrh Remedy, or a Tonic, or Is It Both?

Some people call Peruna a great tonic. Others refer to Peruna as a great catarrh remedy.

Which of these people are right? Is it more proper to call Peruna a catarrh remedy than to call it a tonic?

Our reply is, that Peruna is both a tonic and a catarrh remedy. Indeed, there can be no effectual catarrh remedy that is not also a tonic.

In order to thoroughly relieve any case of catarrh, a remedy must not only have a specific action on the mucous membranes affected by the catarrh, but it must have a general tonic action on the nervous system.

Catarrh, even in persons who are otherwise strong, is a weakened condition of some mucous membrane. There must be something to strengthen the circulation, to give tone to the arteries, and to raise the vital forces.

Perhaps no vegetable remedy in the world has attracted so much attention from medical writers as HYDRASTIS CANADENSIS. The wonderful efficacy of this herb has been recognized many years, and is growing in its hold upon the medical profession. When joined with CUBEBS and COPAIBA a trio of medical agents is formed in Peruna which constitutes a specific remedy for catarrh that in the present state of medical progress cannot be improved upon. This action, reinforced by such renowned tonics as COLLINSONIA CANADENSIS, CORYDALIS FORMOSA and CEDRON SEED, ought to make this compound an ideal remedy for catarrh in all its stages and locations in the body.

From a theoretical standpoint, therefore, Peruna is beyond criticism. The use of Peruna confirms this opinion. Numberless testimonials from every quarter of the earth furnish ample evidence that this judgment is not over enthusiastic. When practical experience confirms a well grounded theory the result is a truth that cannot be shaken.

"You don't realize that there are other considerations in life than money," said the censorious friend. "Yes, I do," answered Senator Sorghum. "But whenever I want anything done I can't get the other fellow to realize it."—Washington Star.

BLOATED WITH DROPSY.

The Heart Was Badly Affected When the Patient Began Using Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. Elizabeth Maxwell, of 415 West Fourth St., Olympia, Wash., says: "For over three years I suffered with a dropsical condition without being aware that it was due to kidney trouble. The early stages were principally backache and bearing down pain, but I went along without worrying much until dropsy set in. My feet and ankles swelled up, my hands puffed and became so tense I could hardly close them. I had great difficulty in breathing, and my heart would flutter with the least exertion. I could not walk far without stopping again and again to rest. Since using four boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills the bloating has gone down and the feelings of distress have disappeared."

A Mexican Philanthropist.

Pedro Alvarado, of the State of Chihuahua, Mexico, the owner of very profitable mining properties, proposes to distribute $10,000,000 among the Mexican poor. He has also offered to pay off the Mexican government debt. This offer has been declined on the part of the government in the fear that it was not altogether inspired by a patriotic desire to relieve the Mexican taxpayers.

Alvarado seems to be pushing ahead of Andrew Carnegie in the practical application of his own philosophy by taking good care that he will not die rich. He could hardly have hit upon a scheme of more widespread beneficence than the payment of the public debt of his country. This project ought to be brought to the attention of Mrs. Russell Sage, who seems to be finding great difficulty in so disposing of her vast fortune as to do the greatest amount of good.—Philadelphia Record.

Most Frequent Cause of Divorce.

"What's the most frequent cause of divorce?" the lawyer was asked.

"It is nearly incredible," he said, "but a thing that causes divorce oftener than you'd imagine is married people's quarreling over their right to open one another's letters.

"The husband will claim that he is entitled to open the wife's mail. The wife will claim that she is entitled to open the husband's. In the letters of neither will there be anything of a private or compromising nature; but nevertheless they both want to get their mail inviolate—it enrages them to have it opened and read.

"Quarrels over the letter opening question vex, I suppose, 90 per cent of married couples. Of this 90 per cent a distressingly large proportion go on from bad to worse till they wind up in the divorce court.

"So, young man, when you come to marry, leave your wife's mail alone, no matter how she may pry into yours."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

BAD BLOOD

THE SOURCE OF ALL DISEASE

Every part of the body is dependent on the blood for nourishment and strength. When this life stream is flowing through the system in a state of purity and richness we are assured of perfect and uninterrupted health; because pure blood is nature's safe-guard against disease. When, however, the body is fed on weak, impure or polluted blood, the system is deprived of its strength, disease germs collect, and the trouble is manifested in various ways. Pustular eruptions, pimples, rashes and the different skin affections show that the blood is in a feverish and diseased condition as a result of too much acid or the presence of some irritating humor. Sores and Ulcers are the result of morbid, unhealthy matter in the blood, and Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Contagious Blood Poison, etc., are all deep-seated blood disorders that will continue to grow worse as long as the poison remains. These impurities and poisons find their way into the blood in various ways. Often a sluggish, inactive condition of the system, and torpid state of the avenues of bodily waste, leaves the refuse and waste matters to sour and form uric and other acids, which are taken up by the blood and distributed throughout the circulation. Coming in contact with contagious diseases is another cause for the poisoning of the blood; we also breathe the germs and microbes of Malaria into our lungs, and when these get into the blood in sufficient quantity it becomes a carrier of disease instead of health. Some are so unfortunate as to inherit bad blood, perhaps the dregs of some old constitutional disease of ancestors is handed down to them and they are constantly annoyed and troubled with it. Bad blood is the source of all disease, and until this vital fluid is cleansed and purified the body is sure to suffer in some way. For blood troubles of any character S. S. S. is the best remedy ever discovered. It goes down into the circulation and removes any and all poisons, supplies the healthful properties it needs, and completely and permanently cures blood diseases of every kind. The action of S. S. S. is so thorough that hereditary taints are removed and weak, diseased blood made strong and healthy so that disease cannot remain. It cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Sores and Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Contagious Blood Poison, etc., and does not leave the slightest trace of the trouble for future outbreaks. The whole volume of blood is renewed and cleansed after a course of S. S. S. It is also nature's greatest tonic, made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, and is absolutely harmless to any part of the system. S. S. S. is for sale at all first class drug stores. Book on the blood and any medical advice free to all who write.

PROSPEROUS WASHINGTON

A Magnificent Illustrated Magazine Descriptive of State's Resources.

A special illustrated magazine entitled "Prosperous Washington and Its Resources," has just been issued by the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. The magazine is by far the handsomest and most comprehensive work of its kind ever issued in the Northwest, being a complete review of the various industries and resources of the state, descriptive of cities and the unlimited advantages offered those who desire to seek a home in this great and prosperous state.

The magazine consists of 160 pages, with cover pages in colors. The first cover page is a special design in fine colors, and is a specimen of highest art. The book is printed on high-quality book paper made especially to order for this edition. The descriptive matter is accompanied by over 150 new and attractive illustrations and in mechanical and typographical appearance the book is equal to the best work produced on the largest metropolitan magazines.

The compilation of this magazine has been in progress by the Post-Intelligencer for many months and everything pertaining to the progress and development of Washington — her industries — mining, agriculture, manufacturing, etc.— and to her cities, is covered thoroly and in detail. To the business interests of the state and the various cities it will prove a most valuable work.

Among the contributors to the magazine are Gov. Albert E. Mead, J. C. Rathbun, Sam H. Nichols, Sec'y of state; ex-Gov. James H. McGraw, William Hickman Moore, Mayor of Seattle, and many other prominent business and professional men of the strte. The price of the magazine is 25 cents.

"A GOOD MAN GONE"

From Port Townsend Call.

In the recent regrettable demise of Hon. George C. Hatch, superior court judge of this judicial district, not only the west side, but the entire state of Washington mourns the loss of a popular and progressive citizen. In two terms on the bench Judge Hatch proved himself a jurist not only skillful in the law and procedure of litigation, but blessed with the good common sense so essential to the position. His demise is all the more lamentable when considered with the fact that he was cut down in the very prime of vigorous manhood when his star was in the ascendency and his every prospect was bright and favorable. Governor Mead, upon whom falls the regretted duty of filling the place made vacant by the visitation of the grim reaper, will be entitled to great credit if he succeeds in selecting for the position anyone who can even in a measure approach the point of general satisfaction which it was the late Judge Hatch's proud pleasure to enjoy.

Upon the re-convening of congress after the holiday recess, Senator Piles introduced in the senate several bills which are of local interest. One authorizes the appointment of another appraiser from the Puget sound district. Another makes possible the appointment of two additional judges for the ninth judicial district. The third gives to Bellingham the privilege of direct importation of merchandise without appraisment at Port Townsend. Senator Piles also introduced an amendment to the child labor law.

Mothers who give their children Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup invariably indorse it. Children like it because the taste is so pleasant. Contains Honey and Tar. Ordinance, No. 351

An ordinance to specify and adopt a system and plan of waterworks and powerworks for the City of Port Angeles, and to supply said city, its inhabitants and others with water and power, declaring the estimated cost thereof and creating an indebtedness in the sum of eighty thousand dollars; to create a special water fund for the payment thereof, and to issue special water fund bonds in said sum; to submit to the qualified electors of said city at a special election, to be held in said city on the fifteenth day of February, A.D, 1907, for their ratification or rejection, whether or not the city shall be authorized to acquire, construct, own and maintain said system or plan of waterworks, including powerworks, for said purposes, and to create said indebtedness, therefore, and to create a special water fund for the payment thereof, and to issue special water fund bonds, in said sum and payable from said fund, and to direct legal notice of said election to be given.

Whereas, the City Council of the City of Port Angeles now deem it advisable, by a unanimous vote to execute its authority and should acquire, construct, own and maintain its own waterworks and powerworks for the purpose of supplying the city, its inhabitants and others with water and power in accordance with the laws of the State of Washington, applicable to cities of the third class. Now, therefore:

The City Council of the City of Port Angeles do ordain as follows:

Section 1. That for the purpose of furnishing to the City of Port Angeles, its inhabitants and to others, for all uses, both public and private, an ample and wholesome supply of water, and of power, the City of Port Angeles shall acquire, construct, own and maintain, a water works and power system, within and without its limits, and shall regulate the use, sale and distribution of the same, and for such purposes and objects aforesaid, the following described system and plan is hereby adopted and specified, to-wit:

First—That the city purchase appropriate and secure, as provided by law, all the necessary lands, water rights, rights-of-way and all other rights and privileges, and construct a gravity water system, including power works, in connection therewith, by first diverting the waters of Lake creek and other creeks of the Olympic mountains and turning the same into Ennis creek; the point of said diversion being at the intersecting corners of sections 1, 2, 11 and 12 in township 29, north of range 6 west of Willamette meridian, in Clallam County, State of Washington, or at any other suitable place or creek, or stream, flowing from the Olympic mountains in said county, that may be decided on, for the purpose of increasing the flow and supply of water into said Ennis creek. The diversion from the creek or stream shall be made by means of a timber crib diverting dam, through which a supply pipe and a washout pipe will pass, both being controlled by suitable gates and the entrance to the supply pipe, to be protected from ice or drift by a grating of iron or steel bars. At a convenient place close to the diverting dam, a screening tank of concrete or timber shall be built, which will contain the entrance to the conduit pipe proper, with it controlling gate, also a set of suitable screens, a by pass pipe and wash-out pipe, both to have suitable gates, and the whole to be covered with a tight wooden cover. The conduit or diverting pipe shall commence at the screening tank and extend about 2200 feet to the channel of a creek or inlet or tributary to said Ennis creek, by which said natural channels and by means of said conduit pipe the waters of said Lake creek and its tributaries, to the amount of 350 cubic feet or more per minute shall flow into and increase the flow of water down said Ennis Creek. Said 2200 feet of diverting pipe shall be lap-welded steel or riveted steel pipe, or any pipe that may effect a saving of cost or secure any advantage to the city in any other way. The size of said pipe shall be about twelve inches in diameter.

Second—At a convenient location, about eight hundred feet above sea level, in Ennis creek, the diversion for the supply of water and power shall be made by means of a timber crib diverting dam, through which a supply pipe and a wash-out pipe will pass, both being controlled by suitable gates and the entrance to the supply pipe to be protected from ice or drift by a grating of iron or steel bars. At a convenient place close to the diverting dam a screening tank of concrete or timber shall be built, which will contain the entrance to the conduit pipe proper, with its controlling gate, also a set of suitable screens, a by-pass pipe and a wash-out pipe, both to have suitable gates and the whole to be covered with a suitable tight wooden house or cover. This conduit pipe to extend about two miles down said Ennis creek to a convenient location at an elevation of about four hundred feet above datum or sea level, where a suitable tank will be placed, into which the waste water, after being used for power supply will discharge, to be taken therefrom by the water supply pipe, herein described. One-third of said two miles of pipe shall be about 18 inches in diameter; one-third about 16 inches in diameter, and one-third about 15 inches in diameter; it shall be lap welded steel or riveted steel pipe, slip-jointed.

Third—The water supply pipe shall commence at said tank which is to receive the waste water from power conduit, and discharge it into the water supply pipe, and extend from said tank to a convenient location for a high pressure reservoir, at or near the southeast corner of the Port Angeles townsite reserve, at an elevation of about three hundred and seventy-five feet above datum, and there to be connected with a suitable reservoir sufficient to receive the discharge of all the waters to be diverted from said Lake and Ennis creeks, to be retained and discharged into the city mains.

Fourth—At the place of discharge of said power supply pipe and near said tank there shall be constructed a convenient power house and incidental out-buildings for the housing of the necessary power machinery for the generation of power and for the engineer and keeper; and there to install the necessary wheels, dynamos and other machinery for the development and use of the water power and for the generation of electricity for light and power; there shall also be constructed therefrom a line of poles and wire to a connection with the city electric wire system. Said machinery to be sufficient to develop and generate 350 horse power.

Fifth—There shall be two reservoirs, the one mentioned in paragraph 3rd of this section, the high pressure reservoir, and another reservoir for low pressure service; the low pressure reservoir shall be located near the corner of 8th and Jones streets in said City of Port Angeles; the high pressure reservoir shall have a capacity of about one million gallons of water and the low pressure reservoir shall have a capacity of about ten thousand gallons, each of said reservoirs will be provided with a covered gate chamber, containing a full set of controlling gates, a system of wash-out pipes, a concrete and asphalt lining, and a tight board covering or roof. The supply pipe or high pressure conduit, will enter the city on 8th street, from the eastern limits and extend through the city so as to supply water to all portions of the city, directly to all the elevated portions of the city, including Lincoln Heights, all south of 8th street, and all the elevations of the eastern portion of the city where said conduit shall enter the city. The approximate quantities and sizes of pipe to be used shall be as follows:

8-inch pipe 21000 feet.
6 inch pipe 15000 feet.
4-inch pipe 25000 feet
3-inch pipe 5000 feet.
2-inch pipe 5000 feet.

The kind of pipe proposed being machine banded wooden pipe.

There shall be about 25 Fire Hydrants.

The conduit or supply pipe shall be buried in a suitable trench and shall be fitted with all necessary stand pipes, gate valves and blow off valves, all of which are to be protected by suitable boxes or covers.

The low pressure reservoir is to receive its supply from the high pressure reservoir and supply all the lower and other portions of the city not supplied by said high pressure reservoir.

6th. The service system shall be according to the gridiron system to which all service and fire hydrants shall be attached and connected, and ample gates shall be provided, so that when shut-offs are necessary but small areas will be affected.

7th. The estimated cost of said water and power system is Eighty thousand dollars, and is intended to cover and include the purchase of all the pipes, service and supplies of the water works of the Angeles Water Company or any other Company owning water works in said City, and the City of Port Angeles is hereby authorized and empowered to purchase and acquire, own and maintain, all the properties, service and works of said company or of any company, owning any water works in said city, provided the same can be included within the cost of said proposed system and not be the means of exceeding said estimated cost of Eighty thousand dollars for the whole system.

Section 2. That a special election shall be held in the city of Port Angeles on the 15th. day of February A. D. 1907, in the several precincts, into which the several wards of the city are divided, for the purpose of voting thereat, by the voters of said city, upon the propositions submitted to them, in and by this ordinance. Said election shall be held and conducted according to law, at the voting places in said wards and shall be conduced by the Judges and Inspectors as shall be respectively designated and appointed for holding and conducting said special election; and the city clerk shall give at least ten days notice of the time and place and purpose of said election and of the propositions to be submitted to the qualified electors thereat and of the form of the ballots to be used and cast for and against the propositions, as provided by this ordinance, by publication in the official newspaper of said city, in each issue thereof during said ten days or more, which publication shall contain a copy of this ordinance.

Section 3. That the propositions to be submitted, at said special election, for the ratification or rejection by the qualified electors of said city, and which shall be printed on said ballots shall be "Shall the city of Port Angeles acquire, construct, own and maintain the water and power system set forth in Ordinance No. 351 passed and approved on the 8th day of January. 1907, including the purchase of any other water system in said city, for the purposes therein mentioned and to become indebted against said special water fund mentioned in Section 5 hereof, in the sum of Eighty thousand dollars therefor, and to create a special fund for the payment thereof and issue its special water fund bonds in said sum from said special water fund, as prescribed by law and this ordinance."

For the adoption and ratification of said water and power system, indebtedness and bond proposition, Yes.

For the adoption and ratification of said water and power system, indebtedness and bond proposition, No.

Every elector who shall be in favor of said proposition shall vote "Yes" by making a cross on his ballot after the word "Yes" and every elector who shall be against said proposition shall vote "No", by making a cross on his ballot after the word "No,"

Section 4. If at said special election to be held as provided in this ordinance, three-fifths of the electors voting at said election shall vote in favor of said propositions set forth in Section 3 hereof, thereupon and thereby said proposition shall be ratified and adopted and the city shall thereupon be authorized and empowered to acquire, construct, own and maintain said water and power system as prescribed by law and this ordinance, and to create a special indebtedness in the sum of Eighty thousand dollars and to issue its special water fund bonds, in said sum in payment therefor, payable from said water fund, as provided by this ordinance and paragraph or specification "b" of the act of the Legislature of the State of Washington, entitled "An Act amending Section 1077 of Ballinger's Annotated Code of the Statutes of Washington, relating to the power of incorporated cities and towns to acquire, construct, own and maintain, waterworks, sewerages, works for lighting, fuel and power purposes, or cable or electric or other railways and declaring an emergency," approved on the 16th. day of March, 1901.

Section 5. That there be and hereby is established a special water fund to be called, "The Port Angeles Gravity Water and Power Works Fund," for the sole purpose of detraying all the costs and expenses of acquiring, constructing, owning and maintaining, the city water and power system, specified and adopted by this ordinance, including all the lands contemplated and the condemnations necessary, the purchase of any water system now using the streets of the said city (the pipes and mains of which to be used just ad of new pipes and mains) contemplated herein, together with such interest as shall accrue upon the obligations issued in payment therefor. Upon the completion and acceptance of said water and power works system, or not later than July 1st, 1908, and thereafter so long as any obligations are outstanding against said fund, the city shall set aside into said "The Port Angeles Gravity Water and Power Works Fund," from the gross revenues, derived from the said water and power works system, belonging to the city, a sum not less than seventy-five per cent per annum, for the payment of the interest on said bonds, and said bonds, after all the interest thereon is paid. The city council may transfer from such additional income from said water and power works, any surplus if any exists, to said special fund, by ordinance, as may be available.

Section 6. That all the moneys so set aside and placed in "The Port Angeles Gravity Water and Power Works Fund," shall be applied solely to the payment of the interest and then the bonds or obligations issued against said fund, in the payment for said water and power works system In the case of the issuance of any bonds or warrants on said fund as prescribed by this ordinance, the city hereby irrevocably binds itself not to sell, lease or dispose of, in any manner, its water and power system, until the obligations, issued therefor shall be paid for in full; or in case it should ever sell or dispose of the same, to pay out of any moneys derived from the sale thereof all of said obligations, that shall then remain unpaid, and that it shall not, in any event, sell said system for a less sum than enough to pay all of said obligations, outstanding, with all interest due thereon. And the city forever irrevocably binds itself not to reduce the rate of charges for water or power, so that the gross revenue therefrom, shall amount to less than five thousand dollars per annum, over and above all cost of operation, management and maintenance of said water and power system, until such obligations and all interest thereon shall have been fully liquidated and discharged.

Section 7. Bonds shall be issued against said special water and power fund, in the sum of Eighty thousand dollars, in denominations of not less than one hundred dollars and not more than one thousand dollars, which shall be numbered from one up, consecutively, and shall bear interest, not exceeding six per cent per annum, payable semi annually, and the principal of said bonds shall be payable, upon the call of the city treasurer, in the order of their numbers, whenever there shall be in such special fund, after payment of all interest on all outstanding bonds and warrants a sufficient balance, to pay the same. Said bonds shall be sold in such manner and at such rate of interest, not exceeding six per cent per annum, as the city council of said city shall deem for the best interest of the city, and they shall otherwise conform to and be governed by the said paragraph or specification "b" of the said Act of the Legislature of the State of Washington, amending section 1077 of Ballinger's Code, relating to the power of incorporated cities and towns to construct and maintain waterworks, sewerage, works for lighting, fuel, power and other purposes approved on the 16th day of March, 1901.

Section 8. The money derived from the sale of such bonds shall be paid into the city treasury, and all the costs of the acquisition, construction and ownership of the said water and power system and any water system secured in connection therewith, and all the costs and expenses connected therewith, shall be paid by warrants, drawn upon said special fund, out of the money derived from the sale of said bonds and the surplus of the money derived from the sale of said bonds, if any, shall be applied to the payment of said bonds.

Section 9. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and approval and after five days after its publication.

Passed by the City Council of the City of Port Angeles, January 8th, 1907.

Don't fail to hear the musical event of the season.

Mrs. J. G. Banks passed peacefully away last evening, at 8:20, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Pinyard. Since having a stroke of paralysis some two years ago, she has had several lighter strokes, and has not enjoyed the best of health, tho her demise was probably more due to a breaking down from advanced age, 79 years, than to anything else. Besides her aged husband, Mrs. Banks leaves to mourn her loss, nine children, all married. Those living in this state are, Mrs. Prinyard and Mrs. Winters, Port Angeles. Mrs. R. R. Raymond, Seattle, and John Banks, Yakima. Mr. J.A. Smith of this city was a brother of Mrs. Banks. Funeral services will be held Sunday at 11:00 a. m., at the M.E. church, by Rev. C. E. Fulmer.

We have had a taste of winter here this week, it being cold enough to freeze ice upon the ponds. When the news went forth that the surface of the pond at Cook's Prairie had frozen over, a glad shout of joy went up from the throats of a multitude of kids of all ages, for skatin' time had come. Garrets and storerooms were searched and skates of all ages and makes were dragged from their dusty retirement. Some had seen service evidently before the late rebellion and some looked as if they might have been the original skates. This motley army of relics of other days fitted to the feet of crowds of merry skaters of both sexes, made the air at Cook's Prairie ring again for several days and far into the night. Some of the pleasure seekers had accidents, but none so serious but that a few moments in rather a negligee costume around the boiler at Filion's mill sent the boys and girls home dry and happy.

We are now ready to do business on the scale of a single article at wholesale prices. We are buying our goods from New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Boston, Portland and San Francisco. These are all wholesale manufacturers. No middle-men touch our goods. They are right from manufacturers to The Times Clothing Mart. Besides, we are saving the enormous amount of $45 in rent per month, thus enabling us to give you the goods at a very low rate. The capacity of our rooms, 59375 cubic feet of space, giving us an immense amount of room to show the goods and to carry a much larger stock.

Now you see how we can sell so cheap, as I am so often asked the question. When people come in to look around they are surprised and will not go out without making a purchase. They say they can save money by buying at The Times Clothing Mart. They don't have to pay express charges, send their money in advance, and take what does not suit them; here they can buy cheaper, take the goods home and change if not satisfactory or do not fit. The floor space of room we have would cost for rent in Seattle about $500; we pay $30. Just think yourself what you can save by buying right at home where you work and make your money. Keep up our town and she will prosper. Spend your money at home where you get $1.00 for 90c. Ponder over this carefully and you will say it is all right.

All the Sound cities are threatened with a hay famine. Dealers are unable to get cars and only small quantities are coming in, altho there are ample supplies waiting at the depots in the interior. Prices have advanced 50 to 75 per cent on all the cheaper grades. A. L. Johnson has had three cars ordered from Lilly of Seattle since September and says they absolutely cannot get the hay to ship him or anyone else; he is still able to secure enough of the local product to keep up his stables, but it cannot last long. Local dealers are also experiencing the same difficulty. Eastern Washington hay brings $20 in Seattle, alfalfa and Puget Sound hay being quoted at $14,50.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, uric acid, catarrh of the bladder and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work and in private practice, and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all good druggists. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

CARRIE NATION

Certainly smashed a hole in the barrooms of Kansas, but Ballard's Horehound Syrup has smashed all records as a cure for coughs, bronchitis, influenza, and all pulmonary diseases. T. C. H—, Horton, Kansas, writes: "I have never found a medicine that would cure a cough so quickly as Ballard's Horehound Syrup. I have used it for years."

All the Sound cities are threatened with a hay famine. Dealers are unable to get cars and only small quantities are coming in, altho there are ample supplies waiting at the depots in the interior. Prices have advanced 50 to 75 per cent on all the cheaper grades. A. L. Johnson has had three cars ordered from Lilly of Seattle since September and says they absolutely cannot get the hay to ship him or anyone else; he is still able to secure enough of the local product to keep up his stables, but it cannot last long. Local dealers are also experiencing the same difficulty. Eastern Washington hay brings $20 in Seattle, alfalfa and Puget Sound hay being quoted at $14,50.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, uric acid, catarrh of the bladder and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work and in private practice, and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all good druggists. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

RAIDED COAL TRAIN

NORTH YAKIMA CITIZENS CONFISCATE FUEL.

Trainmen Call on Authorities for Help But Sheriff and Police Are Conveniently Absent--Railroad Had Been Warned of the Contemplated Action.

North Yakima, Jan. 9.—More than 200 desperate citizens of this city and farmers of the surrounding country held up a coal train at the station here at 3:30 yesterday afternoon and carried off all the fuel they needed to tide them over the cold snap. The train consisted of twenty-seven cars when it pulled into the yards north of the city at 3. p. m. Twenty-five cars were left on the siding a quarter of a mile above and the engine with two cars pulled down to the water tank at the station platform to take water. At once the two cars were boarded by people waiting for coal, and they began to throw off piles of it. When the engine was watered the engineer set the two cars into the yard of the Northwestern Improvement Company and started back to the siding for the twenty-five cars, which were to be taken to other points east of here. By the time the engineer arrived at his train there were fifty teams lined up alongside of it being loaded with fuel, and hundreds more were hurrying to the place.

The engineer hesitated about facing the angry citizens who confronted him. He pulled the throttle and moved slowly down the tracks to the station and stopped in front of the telegraph office to get orders.

In the meantime hundreds of people had boarded the cars and began to throw the fuel off along each side of the main track. Seeing that the company was determined to move the train eastward, someone began to pull the levers of the adjustable bottoms and let the coal out on the track. This was done with such quickness that the crew failed to realize what was happening till they found their train stalled in the midst of piles of coal. Twelve cars were released in this manner. It was then that the railway company realized the seriousness of the situation and a call was sent for help to Sheriff Grant and his deputies.

Sheriff Was Missing

The sheriff could not be found, and it was not until some time afterwards that a lone deputy appeared on the scene. The mayor was also appealed to, but he said he could do nothing. No policemen were in sight at the time. When the bottoms were pulled out of the cars the train could not move and had to remain where it was until all the coal was taken. There was nearly 600 tons, and this was all carted away and carried off in sacks within an hour's time.

The situation had become so serious that the citizens became desperate. Coal had been promised for several days, but only one car at a time was set in here each morning. This lasted no time with zero weather prevailing. Monday evening all those who had waited from early morning for coal and got none went to the mayor and asked him to take up the matter with the railroad company.

He sent them to Agent Meeks, but the latter had done all he could to relieve the situation. A telegram signed by the mayor, the sheriff and the chief of police was then sent to Vice President Levey at Tacoma, telling him of the critical situation here and that if coal was not forthcoming the first coal train to pass through the city would be raided.

Many Now Have Fuel

Many people have fuel tonight who were without it last night. It is now determined by the people that the raid will be repeated if the railroad company does not willingly bring in fuel necessary.

After losing twelve cars the engineer of the coal train pulled the rest of the train to the cattle yards below the city and shoved them on the siding. A second raid was here carried out, but not a great amount of coal was taken when the train moved to Yakima City, four miles from here.

RELIEF IS PROMISED ALONG GREAT NORTHERN

Spokane, Jan. 9.—Owing to the coal famine all trains except passenger and coal trains have been abandoned on the Great Northern. It is announced that other freight will all be sidetracked until the coal situation is relieved.

MUST REMOVE FENCES

Destruction of All Illegal Enclosures Directed By Land Commissioner.

Washington, Jan. 5.—By direction of the president, Secretary Hitchcock has issued an order to Commissioner Richards, of the general land office, at once to notify all special agents and receivers and registers of local land offices that the act of February 25, 1885, for the summary destruction of illegal enclosures and obstructions existing on public lands will be rigidly enforced after April 1, 1907.

After the president and Secretary Hitchcock had conferred regarding the matter the former sent a letter to Mr. Hitchcock in which he said:

"In response to your letter and in carrying out what after our conversation seems to be the best course, I approve the circular you intend to issue, with the modification of having it apply to all cases and of taking effect peremptorily April 1 next.

"I trust that the senators and representiatives from the great grazing states will realize that this means that if, as I believe there should, there is to be a modification of the law by which it would be possible to allow by lease the temporary enclosure of portions of the public domain for graizng purposes on such conditions as the government finds compatible with the best interests of the actual settlers, of the small homesteaders, the home makers—then that this change of the law must be made at this session.

"Year in and year out you and I have been besought by men interested in stock growing to permit the fences to stay up for another six months or another year, on the ground of the great damage certain to be done by taking them down.

"Many of the men making these requests are entirely honest men, whose requests it would be in the interests of the community to grant, were it legally possible to do so, though this, of course, does not apply to some of them making the requests, but it is impossible permanently to permit such an arrangement.

"There must be some adequate provision of law if there is to be any solution of this problem, and in default of this provision the present faulty law must be enforced. You are perfectly at liberty to show this letter to any and all senators whose constituents are chiefly concerned in this matter."

STANDARD INDICTMENTS SUSTAINED BY COURT

Chicago, Jan. 5.—Judge Landis, in the United States district court, overruled the demurrer of the Standard Oil company to eight indictments pending against that corporation, but sustained the demurrer as to two other indictments because of technical defects.

"These indictments, said, the court, "are for alleged violations of section 1 of the act of February 19, 1903, known as the Elkins law. The charge is that the defendant obtained the transportation of its property by various railway companies at rates less than those named in the carriers' prepared schedules."

The court ruled against the defendant's contention that the Elkins law was enacted really to prohibit the employment of indirect methods to obtain preferential rates, it being the defendant's contention that it was not a violation of the law if a railway company, dealing directly with a shipper, gave that shipper a cut rate.

Elkins Law Not Void

The court also ruled against the defendant's claim that the provision of the Elkins law requiring shippers to adhere to a published rate was void as being against that provision of the interstate law which required carriers to transport property for a reasonable rate. The court held that carriers and shippers were both required to adhere to a published rate until such rate was publicly changed in the manner provided by law.

The court further ruled against the defendant's contention that the indictments were bad because the interstate commerce law did not require railroad companies to publish rates between points beyond the carrier's own line of road, holding that if a carrier, having made an arrangement with connecting lines for the transportation of property beyond its own line, should thereon publish rates for the transportation of property between such points, the carrier must therefore be held as to the shipping public to have facilities for the transportation of such property to such points beyond its own line, and that such requirement of the law applied to such a case with the same force that it applied to a point on the carrier's own line.

Terminal Charges

The court ruled against the defendant's contention that the provision of the interstate commerce law requiring carriers to publish terminal charges was not operative upon consignees, holding that in respect to such terminal charges, inasmuch as the consignor would have little if any interest in the question, the law plainly was intended to be binding on consignees. The terminal charges in question consisted of large amounts of storage charges that had accrued to petroleum consigned to the Standard Oil Company at Chicago, and which the indictment charges the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Company cancelled and released to the Standard Oil Company thus giving the Standard Oil Company a rebate in respect to the transportation of the petroleum.

U. P. STRIKE ENDS

DIFFICULTY WITH TRAINMEN WILL BE ARBITRATED.

Board to Settle Questions In Dispute Between Firemen and Engineers--Old Employes Have Returned to Work Pending Final Settlement.

Houston, Texas, Jan. 8.—The strike of the Southern Pacific firemen was formally called off at noon yesterday, following the signing of an agreement by Vice President and General Manager Thornwell Fay and General Manager W. G. Van Vleck, for the Harriman roads affected by the strike; Vice Grand Chief W. H. Willis for the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Vice Grand Master Timothy Shea for the Brotherhod of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers. The agreement provides:

"A board of three arbitrators shall determine whether or not the Southern Pacific abrogated its contract with the firemen when it signed the new agreement May 1, 1906, with the engineers. The company shall name one of the board, the firemen shall name a second and the two thus chosen shall elect a tihrd.

"All employes who went on strike shall return to their former positions without prejudice.

"The seniority of the engineers who were on strike shall be determined at a meeting of the general board of adjustment of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers of the Southern Pacific railroad, Atlantic system, at a meeting to be held in Houston, Thursday, January 10.

"What each organiaztion shall concede will be determined by the board of arbitration."

Practically all of the men on strike, to the number of 500, have either already returned to work or will return to their former positions within the next 24 hours.

The railroad company will provide for really serviceable men employed during the strike, but the strike breakers who were brought from outside points will be dismissed.

EZRA MEEKER ENDS TRIP

Overland Journey East Over Old Trail Is Completed.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 8.—After eleven months on the way from Puyallup, Wash., Ezra Meeker arrived in Indianapolis last week in an old fashiaoned prairie schooner, drawn by an ox team. His trip was made over the old Oregon trail, which he first traveled 55 years ago, when he went West, and it was made this time for the purpose of marking the historic pathway which thousands followed through the wilderness to the new empire of the Northwest.

The old man stood in Monument Place at the head of his ox team and told the story of his return over the old Oregon trail, and of what the people along the route had done to assist him in carrying out his cherished ambition to mark the trail with monuments, that its memory would be forever preserved. He said that he had been hospitably treated all along the route, and especially had the school children been interested in the work.

Many handsome monuments have been erected, and he felt as if his trip has been a decided success. Mr. Meeker said that he left his home five miles southwest of this city, in January, 1851. He had just been married, and he and his bride concluded that the country was getting too thickly settled for them to make their way very rapidly, and they concluded to go West.

With a yoke of oxen and a covered wagon they started on their journey, spending the first winter in Iowa, and then going forward to Washington, where he permanently located.

Mr. Meeker was accompanied by his wife on the long trip, and both enjoyed the best of health. The pioneer is 76 years old. The couple expect to return to their Washington home in time to celebrate their fifty-sixth wedding anniversary next May among their children.

Harriman Lines Hearing

New York, Jan. 5.—The investigation of the alleged violations of the interstate commerce law by the Harriman lines began here yesterday before Commissioners Lane and Knapp. The commissioners hesitate to let the Harriman interests know the exact lines that they intend to pursue and the plan will probably not develop in full until the commission meets in Chicago on January 8, or perhaps later in San Francisco. The commission seeks to determine whether the joint ownership of the Oregon Short Line, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific amounts to a conspiracy in restraint of trade in violation of the Sherman act.

Chinese Boycott Again Active

Shanghai, Jan. 8.—As a result of the failure of the United States authorities to modify the Chinese exclusion act, the bocyott which was recently revived at Canton is spreading over China. Efforts are being made to induce the Chinese newspapers to refuse advertisements of American goods.

The Sunset and Pacific States Telephone companies have completed a merger. The new name is the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company. The capital stock is $50,000,000.

The Pawnbroker's Xmas.

By Richard Cranshaw.

IT was late in the afternoon of a rough winter day. The wind and the sleet having entered the town after the fashion of other belligerent armies—by storm—now sent out scouting parties to give chase and overcome any who might yet remain shelterless. Within the abode of a pawnbroker on a narrow retired street, the gathering darkness had entered, and to all appearance made itself at home for the night. Perched on his high stool he sat, with his lean arms folded, and his grisled chin resting thoughtfully upon his breast, while now and then he muttered indistinctly to himself:

"Twelve ones are twelve, and three—fifteen. A clear profit, therefore, of one hundred and fifty dollars. Not much, not much; but still not so bad—no, no."

He was interrupted in his calculations by a little clear voice proceeding from the room opening into the store, at the end of the long counter. Strange words to be chanted by so sweet a childish voice and in such a place as this.

"Peace on earth, good will towards men!" and though the one soft spot in Martin Grant's heart inclined tenderly towards that little voice, it was evident he was very much disturbed and put out in his mental arithmetic. Addition twisted itself into subtraction, so that four and four became nothing; and when he would have multiplied, he began to divide in a manner that confounded him. And the darkness gathered round him heavier than ever.

"I say, gran'pa, where are you? O, I see you, out there in the dark. I can just make you out. O, if you could only look in here and see how we've fixed up the room"—turning her curly head to some one within—"Mrs. Whirtle and I—eh, Mrs. Whirtle, if he only could!"

"If he only could," assented a fat voice.

"But you mustn't, you know," to the silent old man, "must he, Mrs. Whirtle?"

"Certainly not."

"Because you know this is Christmas eve, and your birthday, too, gran'pa. Ain't it funny that it should be Christmas eve and gran'pa's birthday, too, Mrs. Whirtle?"

The opening of the outer door of the dark warehouse was the signal for the retreat of the flaxen head, and the mysterious preparations went on once more within. Martin Grant descended and lit a dim, oil lamp, and placing it upon the counter, directed his attention to the person who had just entered—a wretched looking old man.

"Well, you're here again?" said the money lender, at length.

"I am—here again," faltered out the other.

"Did I not tell you to keep away from me—to pester me not with your importunities?"

"You did, Martin, you did," said the old man, with a trembling sob. "I could not help it—as heaven judges me, I could not. Martin, it is Christmas eve; will not your heart soften to me on this night, of all others in the year?"

The pawnbroker began poring over his ledger on the desk, as though determined to be unaware of the other's presence. He added up a column of figures, one by one, then began another column. The other watched him in silence, and with his tattered cuff wiped a tear from his furrowed cheek.

"Martin—brother—listen one moment. Do you remember that we are both of us sixty-five to-night?"

"Are we, really?" said the other. "Put down one and carry ten," inscribing again in the huge ledger.

"The remembrance affects you not. Is your heart adamant to every recollection, then?"

Hark! what was that? Once more from that interior room that little childish voice. Once more, in its sweet, pure accents, those golden words:

"Peace on earth, good will towards men!"

Even Martin Grant halted with his finger half way down a column of figures, to listen. The old man on the outside of the counter bent his head to drink in the sounds. His voice was very solemn as he again spoke:

"On this night, eighteen hundred years ago, voices like even unto that, proclaimed those self-same tidings." He reverently uncovered his white head. "'Peace on earth, good will towards men!' Martin, Martin, be not deaf to that solemn charge to humanity. You, as well as myself, have a grandchild; but you, unlike me, have bread and to spare to feed its hunger. I have two little ones dependent on me, and here, on this Christmas eve, I come to ask for them what I could not demand for myself alone. Will you send me empty-handed away?"

The pawnbroker looked up angrily from his book, and fixed his eyes upon his brother's face with a glance almost of fierceness.

"Why should you look to me for it? You chose your path in life—I mine. You preferred to put confidence in knaves and fools, and thus to squander what would have kept you in your old age. I, on the contrary, was careful. Why should I take from my own hard earnings to support you in your ease and idleness? Begone!"

With a choking groan the old man obeyed, and as he reached the door he turned once more and regarded his brother. The dim light of the lamp fell upon the figure of the pawnbroker as he pointed in stern silence to the door. One more imploring look, and he went forth, out into the fierce wind and the driving sleet, out into the mud and darkness, the cold and the slimy streets, out from that unnatural brother's threshold!

* * * * * * *

"Now, gran'pa, isn't it magnificent?" And the little maiden, never relaxing her grasp upon his arm, stood beside him and waved her little hand triumphantly round. The walls were decorated with evergreen and holly. Flowers made from various colored papers bloomed in every direction. Little candles of green, yellow, blue and red wax, twinkled on the window frames. A merry fire glowed in the grate, and the savor of various tempting viands arose from the white-covered table.

Mrs. Whirtle stood in the act of uncovering a pair of delicate chickens. Mrs. Whirtle was the tenant of the chambers unoccupied by Martin Grant, and it was to her valuable aid that Miriam Grant had been forced to have recourse in the preparations for the surprise of her grandfather on his birthnight.

"Isn't it more like a fairy's bower than anything else? And you're the fairy, gran'pa, that the bower has been decked out for." And the child laughed and clapped her hands and danced about the room in the extremity of her glee.

"It must have cost——"

"O, never mind the cost."

She jumped from her seat and took from the mantel a tin money box, fashioned into the semblance of a small but convenient country habitation, down the chimney of which she was in the habit of pouring any small moneys that her grandfather, at rare intervals, might bestow upon her.

"That's the way part of the treat was got. Mrs. Whirtle's son sent the other goodies home to her, and so she thought she would have her supper here with us. When Mrs. Whirtle's son comes home he's promised to bring something with him—we won't tell him what it is, though, will we, Mrs. Whirtle?—and then maybe you'll find another treat in store for you."

"Lord bless you, sir, she's been a-havin' of this here upon her mind for this week past;" and something very like a good round tear dropped into her upraised teacup, and was immediately swallowed with the refreshing draught. "She's the sweetest critter."

"And now, gran'pa, while you're shutting up the store," said Miriam, after they had finished, "we'll clear away."

Martin Grant, with the load half remaining still on his mind as to the guilty excess to which he had been partner, went into the warehouse. As he stepped forth into the gloom, a faint rattling at the outer door met his ear. He went to it. Looking down, a little shivering figure met his view. Conceiving it at once to be the messenger of some wretched parent's wants, he went behind the counter with a shrewd eye as usual to business. The wretched little object stood wistfully regarding him, but gave no indication of having anything she wished to pawn. In surprise, he asked:

"Well, what is it, child?"

A timid, low voice replied:

"If you please, sir, I did not bring anything to pawn. We have got nothing left, now."

"You did not bring anything in my way—what do you want of me, then?"

"O, sir!" and she now burst into a passion of tears, "I have been sent by poor old grandfather to tell you—to tell you—that I am Nelly Grant!"

"What, his daughter's child—John Grant's daughter?"

"O, yes, sir," sobbing.

Martin Grant's countenance became suddenly clouded.

"Does he mean to besiege me in my own house? Am I always to submit to this annoyance? He would do well to cease it, for I may at length be driven to demand assistance of those whose duty it is to rid the community of all such beggars and impostors!"

A demon at the moment certainly held Martin Grant within his thrall, or he could not thus have spoken in the hearing of that appealing child. It possessed him so powerfully and completely that he walked hastily round from behind the counter, as if he would have thrust that tearful, pale and shivering form forth into the street. But lo! an angel stood between, and face to face confronted the foul spirit of ill.

"Gran'pa!"

The demon recoiled.

"Miriam, you here?"

"Gran'pa!"

"Unloose your arms from that creature, and retire at once into the room!"

"Gran'pa!"

"Will you do my bidding?"

The demon once again held rampant sway.

"Then begone from my threshold! Begone from beneath the roof which has too long sheltered an ingrate. Before my face to side with such as these, and bite the hand that cherishes! Monstrous ingratitude! But I'll not submit to it another moment. Either unloose that child and retire as I have bidden you, or else forever quit my house."

With a flashing eye and a quivering lip; with a heart swelling nigh to bursting; with one arm twined closely around the little outcast's neck; with a steady and unfaltering footstep; with but one word uttered, the child was gone.

The pawnbroker stood stunned for a moment. Then he went into the little back room. The store was closed and locked. Save the embers of the dying fire, there remained no light in the room; and save the howling of the wind no sound to break the dead stillness that reigned around. A stillness that might be felt. A quiet that lay on him as he sat bending over the fire, with a heavy, smothering, choking weight, and one which could not be shaken off by the volition of his will. Loud and sonorous was heard the ticking of the clock in the corner, and as it beat back and forth, the pendulum became a living tongue, and shouted menacingly in his ear. And the never-ceasing burthen rang clear and sharp in the solemn silence: "Peace on earth, good will towards men!" Never stopping for a moment, never halting to take breath: "Peace on earth, good will towards men!" Louder still, seeming almost to be shrieking it in his terrified ear: "Peace on earth, good will towards men!"

He arose and stopped the clock. Then again seated himself, and bent once more over the decaying fire. And the wind came howling mournfully down the chimney. And this, also, was gifted with speech, and whispered forth for him alone of all the dwellers in the great city around him: "Peace on earth, good will towards men!"

The bells without chimed the hour of midnight. Again the same old words were uttered slowly by the bells. He put his hands over his ears, and as he did so he felt a chill pass through his body, as though a breath of air from the depths of a death-vault had suddenly swept past him. He looked up with a shiver. Close to his elbow a nameless, shapeless something stood silently regarding him.

"I am thy first remembrance," said the phantom. "I am the recollection of thy nearest earthly tie. I am the shadow of thy mother! Obey the words heard in the ticking of the clock, in the mourning of the wind, and in the voice of the bells!"

And the phantom, with its finger lifted upwards, dissolved and disappeared. Another took its place. He knew this face, too. The form had been present with him on his life-pilgrimage for many, many years.

"I am thy second remembrance. I was the partner of thy sorrows and thy joys, and thou didst greet me with the title of thy wife. Heed well my warning: Obey the words heard in the ticking of the clock, in the mourning of the wind, and the voice of the bells!" And it was gone.

Another; O, did he not know this one! He stretched out his trembling arms towards the phantom of his daughter! The shadow drew back from his touch.

"Thy third remembrance! Thy last warning! Obey the words heard in the ticking of the clock, in the mourning of the wind, and in the voice of the bells!" And the phantom grew misty and indistinct before him as he held out his hands imploringly towards it.

"My child, thou wilt not leave me yet? Only remembrance of my better nature, tarry yet awhile!"

"Remember!" The voice came seemingly from the far-off distance. The figure was a mere airy wreath. "Remember!" The sound came lingeringly towards him, and darkness fell upon him and upon the fireless room wherein he sat.

* * * * * * *

There was a terrible bustle, and running up and down stairs, and opening and shutting of doors, and shouts of gleeful, childish laughter in the old house of Martin Grant, the pawnbroker. There was a little witch skipping backward and forward in every direction. Her flazen head peered in upon stout Mrs. Whirtle, who, with her face in a full glow, superintended the basting of a huge turkey in the kitchen. Before the small apparition could be challenged, it was off in a twinkling, and had dashed pell-mell into the little back room behind the warehouse, embraced two old men, a little girl of about her own age, a lame boy and an old dog with a shaggy coat, and was gone again before any of them could recover from their surprise. Mrs. Whirtle's son Joe was embarrassed by her springing suddenly into his stalwart arms, and insisting upon being borne all the way down the kitchen stairs. And Mrs. Whirtle's son Joe carried her as if she had been a feather. And the witch at last becoming more composed, drew up a stool to the feet of one of the old men in the little back room, and looking archly up into his face, said:

"Gran'pa, you'll never turn me out of the house again?"

Whereupon this old man, without giving the least indication of such behavior, began to sob and to grasp the hand of the other old man seated at his side, and to shake it warmly, and this made the other old man begin to sob; and the little girl seated so quietly at the fireside sobbed, too, and so did the little lame boy, and even the shaggy old dog seemed to be struggling with a determination of not giving way to his feelings, when the door was thrown wide open, and Mrs. Whirtle bore down upon them under a full press of canvas, and heavily laden with the turkey. Mrs. Whirtle's son Joe followed with a huge sirloin of beef. Both being relieved of their burdens, disappeared again, only to reappear with an endless array of other dishes, bearing an endless variety of everything eatable under the sun. Last of all came a Christmas plum pudding, rivaling the largest-sized school atlas in its gigantic circumference.

And perhaps they didn't eat! Perhaps anybody was forgotten! Perhaps even the shaggy old dog, who had his meat served up on the hearthstone at one and the same moment with the rest of the family, didn't feel a somewhat uncomfortable sensation after dinner in the vicinity of his shaggy waistcoat. And when the cloth was cleared away, didn't the glee become more overpowering than ever? And didn't grandfather Martin Grant make a speech, and speak in the most eulogistic terms of everything and everybody in general—especially Mrs. Whirtle? And finally didn't grandfather John Grant rise, and with a trembling voice and a tear in his eye, relate how a certain person had followed two other certain persons into a miserable place, where on the bare floor an old man and a lame boy, together with a shaggy dog, lay extended almost perishing of want. And how, when she brought them, every one of them, back to her own home with the intention of taking them up to her own part of the house, how they were met by another person, who, with tears streaming down his cheeks, went down upon his knees before them and asked them for forgiveness.

The disappearance of the witch Miriam and Mrs. Whirtle's son Joe gave rise to some speculation. They speedily reappeared, carrying something covered with a green cloth and shaped like a picture. The cloth was removed, and it stood revealed—a beautifully worked legend in colored silks, and surmounted by a handsome gilt frame; and as his eye read on, something for a moment blurred the sight of old Martin Grant.

"'PEACE ON EARTH, GOOD WILL TOWARDS MEN!'

Miriam's offering to her grandfather on the anniversary of his birth, and on the eve of Christmas Day."

Not to make any further mystery of it, this had been worked by Miriam Grant's own fingers at school; the frame had been purchased with her own little savings. And as the pawnbroker lay his head upon the pillow that night, he made a resolution from thenceforth to try his best to follow out those words which would be ever present to him till his dying day. And they shaped themselves into the form of holy prayer, and went up from his softened heart in solemn accents: "Peace on earth, good will towards men!"

Roosevelt "Takes on" Nine.

"One day last summer," said Jacob Riis, "I was down to Oyster Bay. The President had a number of politicians with him, and pretty soon Archie came to the house and asked his father when he was going to get through. Mr. Roosevelt told him that he expected to be through in a short while.

"Well, when you do," said the boy, "will you come down in the barn and play with us?"

"How many are there?" asked his father.

"'Oh, only nine!' replied Archie.

"'All right; I will come; I guess I can get away with nine of you,' replied the President.

"And then," continued Mr. Riis, "after the politicians had gone the President went down to the barn and romped with the nine boys. Why, he always has a good time."—New York Times.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 11, 1907.

The Old and the New.

On next Monday, the 14th, four of the old and tried officials of the county will close their terms of office in the capacity in which they served and their places will be taken by new ones.

W. E. Burnside, the outgoing treasurer, who for the past four years has acceptably served the county in that most important office, has been popular with all who had business with him and has conducted the business and handled the funds of the county in a careful manner that has given satisfaction to all. A. R. Pringle, his successor in office, has served as deputy treasurer and is fully qualified for the position; he will give the best of satisfaction to his constituents. Mr. Pringle believes in the old adage, "You scratch my back and I'll scratch yours," and Mr. Burnside will be his deputy.

County auditor W. B. Smith also steps down and out. He has made a popular official, fully conversant with all the details of the county business, genial, obliging and popular with all with whom he came in contact. The new incumbent to the office, N. M. Hawkins, has a practical business education that fits him for the position to which he was placed by the voters of the county, serving as deputy auditor under his predecessor, which of itself is a sufficient guarantee that he will do his duties well. He, too, believes in reciprocity, and Mr. Smith will serve as his deputy.

E. E. Hopkins has made a good and efficient sheriff, and there are many who will regret to see him go, as his strict and unflinching attention to business and pleasant social ways made him popular with the people. A. J. Cosser will make a worthy successor to Mr. Hopkins, the outgoing official, and will bring to the office of sheriff excellent judgment, a careful and methodical manner, and a determination to do his duty without fear or favor. We predict for him a successful official career.

John Hickok succeeds Ray Maxfield as assessor. Mr. Maxfield has made a good official, and Mr. Hickok by reason of his having been employed by the county for a number of years to write up the assessment rolls, and is therefore familiar with every detail of the work, and because of his integrity and determination to give every one a fair deal, will also make a good assessor. Success to him.

Miss Annette Trumbull, elected county superintendent of schools for the coming two years, does not enter upon her official duties until the beginning of the school year, September 1st, next.

A. I. Filion and D. A. Christopher are the retiring county commissioners. Both of these men served the county faithfully and well, and retire from office with the unqualified approbation of their constituents. Mr. Christopher has been a stickler for what he believed to be for the best interests of the county—and there are many who say he was many times oftener right than wrong, but he could not always convince his associates to his way of thinking. Should the incoming commissioners, G. M. Lauridson and K. O. Erickson, render equally as good service—and no one doubts their ability or inclination to do so—the interests of the tax payers of Clallam county will be in safe hands.

None but the kindest feelings are expressed or felt for the outgoing officials, and we think it is safe to say no county in the state has been officered by better or as well qualified officials as Clallam. The same kindly feeling and good wishes are felt for the new officials and should their service be as satisfactory as that of their predecessors they will have reason to be satisfied.

The City Water and Power Problem.

After long incubation a chicken has been hatched in the shape of an ordinance fully providing for a water and power system for the city of Port Angeles and its submission to the electors of the city on the 15th day of next February; providing for the issue of bonds for the construction of the same in the sum of $80,000, an indebtedness, not against the city, but against a special water fund, into which must be paid the gross receipts of the water system; and providing that the principal of said bonds shall be paid upon call of the treasurer, in order of their numbers, whenever there is in such special fund, after the payment of interest on all outstanding bonds or warrants, a sufficient balance to pay the same.

The system is well outlined in the ordinance, which provides first that by means of a timber crib and dam and a 12 inch pipe 2,200 feet in length the waters of Lake creek shall be diverted into a tributary of Ennis creek, and thereby increase the flow of water down Ennis to the addition of 350 cubic feet per minute.

That for power purposes a dam is to be constructed in Ennis creek at an elevation of eight hundred feet, from which point steel pipe 18, 16 and 15 inches in diameter is to carry the waters of Ennis creek down to an elevation of about 315 feet, about two miles, where a power wheel will be placed. The waste waters, after being utilized for power, will enter a tank at this point; from the tank by a steel supply pipe about 12 inches in diameter it will be carried to a point near the southeast corner of the townsite, there to enter a high pressure reservoir at an elevation of about 375 feet. From this reservoir pipe will run to supply the high elevations of the city including all the eastern elevations, all south of Eighth street, and also Lincoln Heights, and will enter the city on Eighth. This conduit will also supply a low pressure reservoir near the corner of Eighth and Jones streets. All the other portions of the city will be supplied according to the gridiron system.

At the location of the power wheel and discharge of power conduit a power house and other necessary buildings are to be constructed, into which the dynamo and other machinery for the generation of electricity will be installed, to be conducted by poles and wires to a connection with the city electric system.

The pipes to be used in the city are stated approximately as follows: 21,000 feet 8 inch pipe, 15,000 feet 6 inch, 25,000 feet 4 inch, 5,000 feet 3 inch and 5,000 feet 2 inch; this pipe to be machine banded wooden pipe; there are to be 25 hydrants.

This system seems feasible and it will no doubt be authorized by the people who can have no objection to the same because it does not propose any indebtedness against the city or the tax payers, and is, moreover, the only promise of a new water system in sight. The people of the city are, and for a long time have been, in favor of an effort on the part of the city to construct its own water and power system, but the council, until the last city election, has been very slow in seeing this.

The bonds should sell, owing to the requirements of the laws that 75 per cent of the gross income shall be paid into the special fund and that the city provide rates for water and power high enough to guarantee a reasonable profit over and above all expenses, which is fixed in the ordinance at $5,000, being very low, according to the estimated income of the plant at about $12,000. Another good feature of this system is that the power to be furnished will save the city above $3,000 per annum over present conditions.

Is very careful about her churn. She scalds it thoroughly after using, and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows that if her churn is sour it will taint the butter that is made in it. The stomach is a churn. In the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts are performed processes which are almost exactly like the churning of butter. Is it not apparent then that if this stomach-churn is foul it makes foul all which is put into it?

The evil of a foul stomach is not alone the bad taste in the mouth and the foul breath caused by it, but the corruption of the pure current of blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the sour and foul stomach sweet. It does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn—absolutely removes every tainting or corrupting element. In this way it cures blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings, sores, or open eating ulcers and all humors or diseases arising from bad blood.

If you have bitter, nasty, foul taste in your mouth, coated tongue, foul breath, are weak and easily tired, feel depressed and despondent, have frequent headaches, dizzy attacks, gnawing or distress in stomach, constipated or irregular bowels, sour or bitter risings after eating and poor appetite, these symptoms, or any considerable number of them, indicate that you are suffering from biliousness, torpid or lazy liver with the usual accompanying indigestion, or dyspepsia and their attendant derangements.

The best agents known to medical science for the cure of the above symptoms and conditions, as attested by the writings of leading teachers and practitioners of all the several schools of medical practice, have been skillfully and harmoniously combined in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That this is absolutely true will be readily proven to your satisfaction if you will but mail a postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a free copy of his booklet of extracts from the standard medical authorities, giving the names of all the ingredients entering into his world-famed medicines and showing what the most eminent medical men of the age say of them.

GOVERNOR IS IN DOUBT

WOULD SHIFT RESPONSIBILITY OF JUDICIAL APPOINTMENT

Thinks Enlargement of District Might Be an Advantage to Other Counties of the State.

An Olympia dispatch of last Friday credits Governor Mead with saying that probably he will not appoint a successor to Judge Hatch; that he will put the entire question up to the legislature and see if a rearrangement cannot be made in the Northwestern Judicial District to enable the districts to get along with the present number of judges.

In our humble opinion the Governor should not shirk his duty but should take the matter in his own hands and immediately appoint a successor to the late lamented Judge Hatch, as the law provides.

On the matter of forming a new judicial district, the Port Townsend Call says, in part:

"The Call * * can say that the people of this judicial district most strenuously oppose any move which will have for its ultimate result the increasing of this judicial district. Ordinarily three counties in one district would be acceptable, but among those where communition is dependent entirely upon steamboat transportation, it is a matter that is deserving of the most serious consideration on the part of the legislature. There is but one line of communication between Clallam and Jefferson county, and but one between Jefferson and Island. By an unfortunate coincidence, if such it may be termed, the boats from down the straits do not connect with those from the island with the result that Jefferson county at least would be better off, in the matter of judicial accommodation, if its legal affairs were presided over by the bench of King, and even Pierce county.

It is therefore plain to be seen that the district will not in any wise look with favor upon the creation of a new district, to include Kitsap, for the reason that it is also separated from the rest of the division by water and boasts no communication beyond a desultory and unsatisfactory steamboat service.

"The commonwealth is not the only feature to be considered in connection with the judiciary of the state. The litigants in the various divisions being the people who ultimately pay the major expense, are entitled to some consideration. Jefferson, Clallam and Island have worried along under the existing inconveniences for several years; but they do protest against any political chicanery which, to satisfy personal ambitions, will put litigants to needless expense and delay."

Olympia, Jan. 7.—Governor Mead has made public the following letter to Geo. W. Morse, Oak Harbor, which explains itself:

"The Honorable George C. Hatch, judge of the judicial district including the counties of Clallam, Jefferson and Island, as you know, died at his home in Port Angeles, on Jan. 1st. I have received endorsements from candidates for the vacant judgeship and have discussed the filling of this appointment with Lieutenant Governor Coon and Representative Sewell of Jefferson county, as well as with other residents of the district. I am advised that during the forthcoming session of the legislature efforts will be prosecuted to secure an additional judge or judges in some of the Northwestern counties. It is possible that in some of the counties of the Northwest the judges are overworked and there is, therefore, a congestion of business on the calendars, while in other counties the work has been so light that a few of the judges were able to relieve the congestion of courts in other parts of the state. This condition invites a consideration of reforming the judicial districts in the counties of Kitsap, Jefferson, Clallam, Whatcom, San Juan, Skagit, Island and Snohomish. I have therefore decided to delay the appointment of a successor to the late Judge Hatch until the legislature convenes and until such time as the senators and representatives from these counties may have an opportunity to discuss the matter. If I am permitted under the law to invite one of the twenty-seven judges of the superior court outside of the district presided over by the late Judge Hatch to transact emergency business of the district, I will do so. I have submitted the matter to the attorney general.

"I have addressed a copy of this letter to the other members of the house of representatives and senate who represent constituencies in this judicial district. Until such time as I am further advised upon this subject, I will refrain from filling this vacancy and the selection of a successor to the late Judge Hatch will not be made."

In compliance with the governor's request for an opinion from the attorney-general as to the right of the executive to call upon other superior judges to temporarily try cases in this district, the assistant attorney-general says:

"The resident judge being dead no request can be made from the presiding judge as the law requires, and I am of the opinion that pending a reasonable time for the filling of such vacancy by appointment it would be within the power of the governor to request any superior judge to hold court in the judicial district of a deceased judge. I cannot refrain, however, from suggesting that the above conclusions are not so free from doubt but that the decisions of a judge so authorized and presiding, especially as affecting title to property and imprisonment of persons might give rise to litigation."

It would seem from the above opinion that it is up to Governor Mead to name at once a successor to the late Judge Hatch, unless the legislature should act immediately upon convening next Monday.

The Board af Commissioners accepted the proposition submitted by Frank Lotzgesell and Arthur Cays to grub and clear the portion of Road No. 58 to connect with graded road at Dungeness cemetery, for $700. It was also ordered that Lot 1, Block 36, N. R. Smith's subdivision be advertised and sold.
