KEEP YOUR MONEY IN YOUR HOME TOWN AND COUNTY

Measures Taken to Prevent Flow of Coin and Currency to Other Places Where Cash is Needed.

Following the action of the East, the banks of Northwestern cities, last to feel the money stringency caused by the rout and ruin of Wall street stock gamblers, have had to adopt the Clearing House certificate plan, not because local conditions demanded it, but in order to prevent the present supply of currency from being drawn out of the Northwest. It was simply impossible to continue business on a cash basis — to send money east in payment for manufactured goods when none could be received for our products in return.

For the same reason, upon the recommendation of Seattle, the banks of Port Angeles, in common with all other towns tributary to that city, have had to adopt the plan now universal thruout the country, that of paying out money only in small amounts for emergency purposes. The present rule of both the Bank of Clallam County and the Citizen's National to pay out not over twenty-five dollars in cash per week on single accounts is endorsed by all the business men of the town. Were those visiting Seattle and other upsound cities to spend considerable amounts and were the customary sums, large in the aggregate, sent away by money and express orders for purchase of goods from Seattle and Eastern houses, our little community would soon be entirely out of money. The business community and the banks were never in better shape than they are today; during October the daily deposits were the largest ever recorded in the banks here. Every merchant is accepting personal checks, just the same as they have always done, and where the amount is considerable checks are given in lieu of change. For a day or two, before the situation was generally understood, the daily deposits at both banks were somewhat less than usual, but all customers are now depositing cash and checks as heretofore and no inconvenience is apparent to anyone. Both banks furnish drafts, without charge, to those wishing to send money away, so that, as a matter of fact, the person sending saves the fee he would, heretofore, have to pay for draft, or money or express order. Clearing house certificates, in small amounts, are necessary in cities where people are largely strangers to each other, in order to save the inconvenience of identification, but in Angeles its different and the check is good as the gold. Seattle certificates will be furnished by the banks here to those who wish to visit Seattle.

As to the question, How long will this condition of affairs last? the best answer probably is, that it is immaterial. It may be a month before New York and Chicago will again ship coin and currency against balances at present due western banks, and it may not exceed two weeks. The Northwest region is an empire in itself; cut off from the rest of the nation, it can maintain itself. A few Wall street failures cannot interfere with the progress and development of this section. The gold from abroad that pays for our $35,000,000 crop of wheat, our lumber and fish, and the products of our mines, cannot be held in New York. It must come directly west. The export wheat crop alone is sufficient to maintain this state for many months. $850,000 in transit from Europe for our wheat, is already on its way to Tacoma and Portland.

HIGH SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT.

The high school will give an entertainment at the opera house Nov. 15, benefit of the high school library, consisting of music, literary exercises, German songs, and songs by the High School Chorus. THE COMMERCIAL CLUB

Ten Thousand Folders Ordered for the Purpose of Advertising Port Angeles; Will Cost $600.

The Club is growing rapidly. Since the County Fair idea was broached there has been a steady increase in interest and membership and an eager desire is manifested to aid the good work of lifting Port Angeles and Clallam county to a position of importance that they have not previously enjoyed. The good work should go on. There should be no cessation or "let up." Every man and woman should feel that the Club is his or hers for a purpose. Let the idea be engrafted on the public mind that the club is a public institution, run in the interest of the public for the advancement of the public, and all will be well. Especially is it desirable that personal differences should not be permitted to enter into club affairs. The Commercial Club is not any man's private snap or pocket piece. It is a living institution formed for the purpose of putting down grumblers and croakers and educating the people here and abroad into the belief that Clallam county is one of the richest sections on the face of the earth. That in fruit, vegetables, cereals and live stock it has no superior on the Pacific Coast; and that in its healthy, hopeful and sinewy men, its lovely and industrious women and its rosy cheeked, intelligent and promising children it will rank with any other county in the northwest. Every one who wishes this fair land to advance should work for the prosperity of the Commercial Club.

LINCOLN FARM ASSOCIATION

Arrangements Made for Contributions to Project for National Park and Museum.

Sometime ago there appeared in these columns mention of the proposed project for the acquirement of the farm on which Abraham Lincoln was born and its maintenance as a national park and museum. Since then the matter has assumed shape and Major R. R. Harding has been commissioned superintendent of the project for this community. He purposes leaving subscription blanks at the various lodge rooms and other public places in the city for convenience of those inclined to aid this most worthy object.

In August, 1905, the birth place of Abraham Lincoln, a farm of 110 acres located in the blue-grass region about fifty miles from Louisville, Ky., was saved from the hands of speculators by the patriotic act of a private citizen. A few months later the Lincoln Farm Association was formed for the purpose of developing the property with a Lincoln Memorial National Park that should stand forever as a fitting tribute to the great president. Already there are more than 50,000 members; the association has possession of the property, and the preliminary construction work is under way. It is hoped to have the Park completed and dedicated on February 12, 1909, the centenary of Lincoln's birth. More funds are needed to complete the work, and as Lincoln was in every sense a man of the people, the management has thought best to appeal directly to the people. Subscriptions from 25c upward will be received and the amount subscribed not made public.

President Roosevelt, as well as many other statesmen and people in all walks of life, approves of the project. The President says: "I am glad that the scheme of preservation contemplates an appeal to individual Americans. Lincoln's memory, like Washington's, is one of the hallowed and priceless heritages of our people."

NEW ORGANIZATION FOR PORT ANGELES

Illinois Investment Company, with Capitalization of $50,000.00, a Welcomed Addition to Business Community.

The Illinois Investment Company, a corporation resulting from the visit to Port Angeles last summer of L.N. Campbell and associates, is the latest company to enter the real estate business in this city. The incorporators are Messrs. Conrad Luppen and Thos. F. Trumbull of Port Angeles, and L. N. Campbell, Dr. E. M. Eckard and Walter MackClark of Peoria, Ill. Offices have been opened in the Aldwell Block, where a general real estate business will be transacted. The company has already secured over $50,000 worth of property, upon which the first payments have aggregated $10,000. It is their intention and desire to buy for cash a very considerable amount of real estate, which will be sold, largely, to homeseekers in the Middle West.

LOST IN THE MOUNTAINS

Searching Party Out on Elwha River with but Little Prospect of Success.

Pat Greelish, a Seattle man, here on a hunting trip up the Elwha river, became lost in the snow storm last week and so far has not been heard from. Greelish and Underberg, who is also from Seattle, left camp last week Wednesday, going in opposite directions after agreeing to meet in a certain part of the woods before dark. Underberg waited all night and his friend not appearing, put in Thursday, Friday and Saturday searching for him. Not finding the least trace, he gave up in despair and left for Seattle on Sunday. Wm. Tucker, a partner of Greelish, and Greelish's brother, came down Monday to continue the search. A party consisting of Al. Kaufman, Dell Church, Geo. Richards and Mr. Mosher of Port Angeles are scouring the timber. While it may be he has met with some accident, it is also considered very likely that he merely became lost in the storm, and having a gun, may be able to kill enough game to keep himself going till he gets out.

Just received a shipment of choice Huckleberries at City Fish Market.

RIGHT KIND OF MATERIAL

Business Men Progressive and Pulling Together for City's Advancement.

From Port Townsend Call.

Port Angeles is deserving of becoming a city as its business men are of the right kind of material. They are imbued with one idea and that is to combine to bring their city and its business interests to the attention of the public. The columns of the two papers published there are well filled with advertisements of local business houses, and judging from that source it is doing a much better business than Port Townsend. Its merchants reach out for trade by letting the public know what they have. They do not confine their advertising to their business alone, but they are advertising their city and county. They have raised $600 for illustrated pamphlets to advertise the city and county.

They have also taken up the matter of having a county fair and the Commercial Club appointed a committee to arrange for the holding of a county fair at Port Angeles next fall and that the citizens of other localities be communicated with for the purpose of forming branch clubs throughout the county to further the object.

Such energy and enterprise are commendable and Port Townsend business men would do well to emulate the example of the Angeles people.

A Call for Clothing.

The Civic Club has had several applications for clothing, and requests all persons who may have cast-off garments of any description, to be kind enough to notify the chairman of the Benevolent Committee, Mrs. John Trumbull, or leave the clothing at her home, or at the residence of Mrs. Cochran on Lincoln Heights.

IMPORT SERVANT GIRLS

Two Hundred and Fifty Coming to Vancouver From England.

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 4.—Two hundred and fifty girls ready for domestic service will be sent from England direct to Vancouver, leaving Liverpool February 20. They will form part of an entire shipload of colonists destined for British Columbia.

Fifty selected families, being sent out by the Salvation Army, will also be on the steamship, but most of these are destined for the farming disricts of the upper country. The heads of families are unskilled laborers—not mechanics—and will be placed at work on farms and ranches.

Applications for girls for household service are now pouring into the Salvation Army headquartes in this city, and it is ilkely that all of the 250 girls who are coming will have been booked long before the day they reach Vancouver.

Land Leases in Tutuila Restricted

Tutuila, Samoa, Sept. 25.—(Via San Francisco, Nov. 4.—The governor of American Samoa has stated that he will not consent to any further leases of large blocks of land in Tutuila. The land is to be reserved for the growing population of the islands. The German government has arranged that all existign leases in German Samoa may be converted into freeholds. Further leaseholds will not be granted by natives to whites. There is ample freehold property, however, to satisfy all demands for some time to come.

To Test New Law

Olympia, Nov. 4.—The attorney general has brought suit in the local superior court against the Northern Pacific railway, which will be a test of the new law providing penalties for the use of bad order equipment. A fine of $2,000 is asked because the road July 4, 1907, used between Tacoma and Seattle a car with broken coupler and other defects.

Bids Were too High

Olympia, Nov. 4.—All bids for the huge barn to be erected at the state college at Pullman have been rejected by the state board of control as being in excess of the appropriation, amounting to $7,000. The bids ran well above this figure, one being $12,000. The board will now have the plans revised to come within the range of the appropriation. Similar difficulty was experienced with several other state buildings authorized by the last legislature, the price of building material and labor advancing beyond the estimate at the time the appropriations were made and the plans prepared.

Wages Reduced in Copper Mine

Houghton, Mich., Nov. 4.—Notices posted about the Calumet and Hecla copper mine works anounce a reduction of wages on December 1 of 12 1-2 per cent, approximately equal to the increase granted early in the year. The reduction affects 2,500 men.

TUESDAY'S ELECTIONS

Taylor aud Good Government Carry the Day at San Francisco, With Votes to Spare

Tom L. Johnson Has a Good Majority Over Burton at Cleveland--Tammany Carries New York.

New York, Nov. 6.—Elections held throughout the country yesterday passed off in comparative quiet. The general absence of national politics and the preponderance of local issues was a characteristic feature of the contests held in twelve states and many municipalities. Standing out most prominently in public interest were the victory of Mayor Taylor in San Francisco; Tom L. Jonson's reelection as mayor of Cleveland, the defeat of Hearst's Independence League in New York, and the Republican state victory in Kentucky.

Massachusetts re-elects the entire Republican ticket, headed by Gov. Curtis Guild, Jr. Henry M. Whitney, the Citizens' Democratic candidate for governor, polled a much heavier vote than Charles W. Bartlett, the anti-merger Democrat.

Pennsylvania elected John O. Sheatz, Republican head of the ticket, for state treasurer, by a majority which may reach 175,000.

Defeat for Independence League

New York state elected Edward T. Bartlett, and Willard Bartlett joint candidate on the Republican and Democratic tickets, for justices of the court of appeals over the candidates of the Independence League.

New York city elected the Tammany candidate by considerable majorities over the Independence League-Republican fusion candidates.

New Jersey is claimed by both sides, but the indications are that Frank. S. Katzenbatch, Jr., the Democratic candidate, is elected.

The Maryland contest for governorship is in doubt, owing to lateness of returns. Chairman Vandiver, of the Democratic state committee claims the state by 12.000, and conservative estimates based on early returns give the democratic candidate for governor 6,000 to 8,000 plurality.

The Rhode Island returns indicate the re-election of Gov. James H. Higginson, Democrat, over Frederick H. Jackson, Republican, by a plurality estimated at about 1,500, showing a Democratic gain over last year.

Kentucky Republican

The Kentucky returns indicate a Republican victory by close margins.

In Nebraska, M. B. Reese, Republican candidate for the supreme court, the most important state office voted on, is undoubtedly elected.

The mayoralty contest in Cleveland resulted in the election of Tom L. Johnson, the present mayor, over Congressman T. L. Burton. The early returns showed Burton ahead, but later the Republican headquarters at Cleveland conceded Johnson's election.

The American or anti-Mormon ticket at Salt Lake City is estimated to have the largest plurality ever given in that city.

At Toledo, Ohio, Mayor Brand Whitlock and the entire Independent ticket, is re-elected.

Cincinnati elected Col. Leopold Markbeit, Republican candidate, for mayor.

The people of San Francisco, by a large majority, elected Dr. Edward Taylor for mayor and William H. Langdon for district attorney and the men nominated on the Democratic and Good Government tickets for the minor offices. Both Labor Union and Republican candidates were defeated by large majorities.

BRITISH RULE IN INDIA DECLARED IN DANGER

Simla, India, Nov. 5.—With a cloud of revolution gathering against British rule in India, the executive council yesterday took drastic action to halt sedition and insurrection. It adopted a bill forbidding free speech and empowering provincial governors to prohibit public meetings of natives. All assemblages must first have the approval of the governor and any meeting held without authority will lead to wholesale imprisonment. Lord Minto, the viceroy, made a speech in support of the bill, in which he said it was impossible to ignore the warnings of recent months—the riots at Lahore, Pindi and elsewhere, the insults to the British, and the seditious attempts to inflame racial feeling and tamper with the Indian army.

FARMERS TO FINISH ROAD

Offer to Contribute Labor on Umatilla Central to Get Transportation.

Pendleton, Or., Nov. 4.—Umatilla county, from Pendleton to Pilot Rock, is enthused with a proposition made to General Manager O'Brien, of the Oregon Railroad and Navigation Company to complete the last three miles of the Umatilla Central into Pilot Rock, construction work on which was stopped last week, with volunteer labor furnished by the citizens of the towns and the farmers and residents along the line. Should the offer be accepted, it is expected business houses will fill their quota by draft, while hundreds of citizens and farmers will go to work without cost to the railroad company. There are 100 cars of wheat awaiting shipment around Pilot Rock and more than twenty cars of apples.

HARRIMAN EXTENSION NOT TO BE DELAYED

New York, Nov. 4.—As a result of a meeting of the board of directors of the Union Pacific railroad here, orders were sent out to continue all construction work mapped out for Portland, Tacoma and Seattle.

This means that work will be rushed as rapidly as possible on the Hariman extension from the Columbia river to Puget Sound and that there will be no delay about completing the road and getting it in operation to the Sonnd.

Filipinos Want Free Trade

Manila, Nov. 2.—The leading Filipino newspapers are now asking for free trade with the United States. Heretofore they have opposed tariff reforms on the ground that they would bind the Philippines too closely to the United States and endanger their independence.

CANADIAN PACIFIC MEN ARRESTED FOR TRESPASS

Bellingham, Nov. 5.—Six Canadian Pacific surveyors were arrested near Deming yesterday at the instigation of R. W. Shook, across whose farm they were running the line for the proposed extension to Seattle.

The engineers made a rough survey of the line along the Nooksack valley some time ago, but returned yesterday and appeared to be making a more careful survey. The farmer took this to mean that the right-of-way will extend right through the fertile river bottom, and against this there has already been a loud protest.

Mr. Shook was the farmer to take definite action. He ordered the men off his land, and when the foreman said that he had no intention of moving until he had completed his work, Mr. Shook asked him his authority for trespassing. The foreman said that he was acting under instructions from L. M. Rice, of Seattle, who holds a state charter to survey a railroad.

Mr. Shook determined to put the matter to the test. He swore out a warrant before Justice Bell, and shortly afterward Constable Wilson brought the six surveyors to Deming, where they are held.

CABINET OPPOSED TO EXTRA SESSION IDEA

Washington, Nov. 5.—There will be no extra session of congress. That has been decided at the cabinet meeting. That there is to be no extra session is due to the fact that the cabinet members fell on the proposition tooth and nail. They did not all oppose for the same reason, but each of them had such an array of arguments all spontaneous that the president was convinced. He closed the meeting by promising definitely not to call an extra session.

To Put Lid on in Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 4.—An appeal to the ministers of Chicago, urging them to join in an effort to arouse public sentiment on the question of closing all saloons on Sunday, has been mailed to 1,300 pastors. The letter is signed by officers of nineteen churches, temperance, law and order leagues and improvement associations. Each pastor in the city is asked to make a special plea on the subject of the enforcement of this statute on Sunday morning, November 24.

Suggests an Alliance

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 4.—The Kokumin Shimbun, a semi-official newspaper of the Japanese government, suggests that, with the growing American interests in the far East, an alliance with Japan would be profitable to the United States.

HOMESEEKERS' RATES

To Be Kept in Effect, But Slight Advance Will Be Made.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—At a meeting in Chicago last week representatives of the larger railway systems agreed not to abandon the homeseekers' excursions to the West. Since the passage of the two cent fare laws in many of the Western states there has been talk of discontinuing the rate.

For three days the general passenger agents of the larger sysetms were in conference here considering the question. There was a minority opinion that the rate be wiped out and regular tariff charged to all. Representatives of the Union Pacific, Burlington, Milwaukee, Northwestern and Rock Island said that under no circumstances would they agree to abandon these rates, as they had resulted in building up the West. It was agreed, however, that the homeseekers' rates be slightly advanced after January 1. The maximum advance will be $5 on each round trip ticket.

COUNTY DIVISION ACT DECLARED NOT LEGAL

Olympia, Nov. 5.—The act of the last legislature creating the county of Grays Harbor is invalid, according to the decision of the supreme court rendered yesterday. The court, by its decision, grants a writ asked to restrain Judge Rice, of the superior court of Lewis and Pacific counties, from passing upon the question of population which was referred to him under the act by Governor Mead.

The decision holds that, under article II, section 3, of the state constitution, the legislature can not pass a bill creating a county until it has first learned that the new county will have an excess of 2,000 population and more than 4,000 population will be left in the old territory. The court also holds that this power can not be delegated to a superior court, as was attempted to be done by this act, and that, anyhow, the reference of the matter of determining population to the judge of the superior court next nearest the proposed county kills the act because it is indefinite, as there are three different superior courts bordering Chehalis county, from which latter county it was proposed to carve Grays Harbor.

The opinion is written by Judge Root and is concurred in by Justices Hadley, Dunbar, Crow and Rudkin. Justice Mount writes a dissenting opinion, holding that the constitution does not require the legislature to ascertain the population, and that the legislature has power to establish counties by general laws. He also insists that the selection by Gov. Mead of Judge Rice as the next nearest judge, determines the question as to which is the next nearest judge, and that no law should be overthrown by the courts when interpretation is so easy in favor of its validity. Justice Fullerton concurs in its dissenting opinion.

HEIRS OF WASHINGTON BRING SUIT FOR LAND

Chicago, Nov. 1.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Washington, D. C., says:

To recover some little parcels of real estate given by two grateful governments to George Washington over 100 hundred years ago, and worth at the present time hundreds of millions of dollars, is the object of proceedings started formally last week by the heirs at law of the father of his country.

After an undisturbed rest of nearly a century in the circuit court of Fairfax county Virginia, the Washington estate has been reopened by the appointment of an administrator for the undistributed assets, which consist of this almost forgotten land which he possessed. The appointment was made upon the application of Lawrence Washington and S. W. Washington, heirs at law of George Washington. Robert E. Lee of Fairfax county, was appointed administrator. He is a grandson of Robert E. Lee and a great grandson of "Light Horse" Harry Lee, Gen. Washington's chief of staff.

The land which the heirs seek to recover is situated in Ohio, and is fully described in Washington's will. It aggregates nearly 10,000 acres. and includes practically all the land on which the city of Cincinnati is built. Another tract of the land embraces Point Pleasant, the birthplace of Gen. Grant, while another at the mouth of the Kanawha river, is rich in coal and oil deposits.

Part of the land was granted to Washington by the British government as a reward for his military services, and part of it was granted him by the United States later for the same reason. The heirs who have brought the suit scarcely hope to recover the specific tracts of land granted to their great ancestor, since by an error all the territory embraced in the grants has been, at one time or another given to settlers. But in default of such recovery, the heirs expect to obtain from congress a sum of money equivalent to the value of the land, whether its value at the time of the grant to Washington or at the present time is not known. If congress should award the heirs the present value it would run up in to hundreds of millions.

LUMBERMEN WIN

INJUNCTION GRANTED AGAINST RAILROAD COMPANIES.

Restrains Putting Into Effect the Proposed Twenty Per Cent Increase Pending Decision of Interstate Commerce Commission--Bond Is Required.

Seattle, Nov. 1—Against the united power of the Hill and Harriman railroads in the Pacific Northwest the hand of the federal judiciary is now raised to prevent the enforcement of the proposed 20 per cent advance in the transcontinental rate on forest products from Washington and Oregon to the East and the most important industry of the North Pacific is saved from what lumbermen contend would have been a wellnigh fatal blow had the new tariff schedules been permitted to go into effect November 1.

At the close of the hearing of what by all odds is the greatest case ever considered by a federal judiciary of the Pacific Northwest, District Judge C. H. Hanford last night ruled that an injunction should issue temporarily restraining the railroads from enforcing the new tariff on lumber and shingles. His decision was concurred in by District Judge Charles E. Wolverton, of Portland. The attorneys for the railroads and the complainants, the lumbermen of Washington and Oregon, were directed to prepare the necessary orders, which will be presented to the court today for signature.

Bond of $250,000 Required

The court ruled that the lumbermen should file a bond of $250,000 as security for the payment to the railroads of the difference between the new and the old rates on all traffic handled beginning November 1, providing the proposed new tariffs were, in the final adjudication of the case, held to be just.

The deciscion was held to apply to only those lumbermen bringing the suit, but other lubmer firms will be allowed to intervene.

That all the lumber and shingle mills not members of either the lumber or shingle manufacturers' associations will be brought into the case was decided late last night after a hurried conference between W. A. Wimbish and W. H. Abel, representing the legal end of the fight, and C. F. White, chairman of the lumbermens' committee in charge of the suit. These men went wto the Rainier club after the court adjourned and worked half the night sending hurry-up telegrams to the mill owners and shingle men not members of either organization, to instruct them to enter their names as parties in intervention in the suit today. By such action, it is believed, the effect of the court's ruling will be made to cover every lumber and shingle manufacturer in Western Washington.

Will Not Enforce New Rates

No expression could be obtained last night from the attorneys for the railways as to their probable procedure. It is believed, however, that the attorneys for the railroads will advise the heads of the different systems not to attempt to enforce the new tariff in this section of the country at least.

Judge Hanford and Judge Wolverton, in ruling against the railroads did so on the ground that no injury would be done the railroads if they were restrained from putting the new rate into effect until such time as the matter is passed upon by the interstate commerce commission, especially as the lumbermen are requird to put up a bond for $250,000 to pay the difference to the railroads on the shipments that will be made pending final decision, providing the higher rate is held by the interstate commerce commission to be just and legal.

From the wording of the court's order it appears that in the end the action of the interstate commerce commission will be well nigh tantamount to a final decision of the issues on the merits of the case. Lawyer W. A. Wimbish for the lumbermen stated that the amtter will be brought before the interstate commerce commission at once and every effort made to secure an early decision.

LOAD GRAIN CARS IN BULK

Elevators Being Erected by Two Companies in Columbia County.

Dayton, Nov. 5.—Corbett Brothers and Kerr-Gifford company are installing elevators in their warehouses in this county for the purpose of loading grain into cars in bulk. Kerr-Gifford company have warehouses at Turner, Whetstone and Dayton, and Corbett Brothers have houses at Turner Whetstone, Dayton, Longs, Huntsville and Coppel. The elevators being installed by the two companies differ only in the fact that the Kerr-Gifford company has arranged the hopper on the floor, while Corbett Brothers have placed it underneath to obviate the necessity of lifting sacks. Mr. Ridgley, Corbett Brothers' manager at this city, states that the grain will be carried to an elevation of about twenty-four feet, and will thus have head enough to flow to any part of the car.

TWENTY YEAR LIMIT

FORESTER PINCHOT SOUNDS ANOTHER WARNING

At Present Rate of Cutting Two More Decades Will Exhaust Timber Supply of This Country---Reforesting Might Add Five Years to This Limit.

Washington, Nov. 5.—"In twenty years the timber supply in the United States, on government reserves and private holdings, at the present rate of cutting, will be exhausted, although it is possible that the growth of that period might extend the arrival of this time another five years."

This announcement was made yesterday by Gifford Pinchot, government forester, who has just returned from a six months inspection trip, on which he traveled 10,000 miles. In sounding his warning. Mr. Pinchot urged that the danger of the situation should not be underestimated. He said that the United States uses more timber per capita than any other country and that every man, woman and child would be affected. He decried the policy of discounting the future of the country by failure to protect the natural resources and he advised each one who has not already done so to read President Roosevelt's speech at Memphis on this general subject.

About one-fifth of the forest area of the country is in government reserves, but Mr. Pinchot called attention to the fact that as privately owned timber lands are better than the government reserves, as a general rule, the government does not control one-fifth of the timber supply.

Ask Congress for More Money

The forest service will ask congress for more money and more men, in order to extend the service, and will push the work of reforesting the denuded timber lands. Mr. Pinchot says, however, that it is utterly beyond the possibility of the service to meet the situation and prevent serious trouble. One hope entertained is the Appalachian forest, and an effort will be made tto protect this and promote growth there.

A scheme advocated by the state forestser of California is being watched with a great deal of interest.

Under the police powers of the state the forester is endeavoring to protect the watersheds and prevent private owners from devastating these lands in such a manner as will injure irrigation of lands below. If this plan works well, the government forester believes it will be taken up in other states and federal authorities will be aided greatly by the cooperation.

In appealing for the protection of the natural resources, Mr. Pinchot said that there is a changing sentiment throughout the country and that the people are beginning to see that the right to use such resources does not carry with it the right to destroy them. The forest service will make additional efforts to educate the people along this line.

LUMBER EMBARGO WITHDRAWN BY N. P.

Tacoma, Nov. 4.—Warned by their attorneys that they laid themselves liable to a heavy fine for contempt of the Federal court, the Northern Pacific railroad officials in Tacoma have received peremptory instructions from the St. Paul offices of the company, notifying them that the embargo on lumber shipments is withdrawn.

So great was the fear of contempt proceedings on the part of the railroad men that every prominent shipper in the city was called up by telephone from the offices of Henry Blakeley, general Western freight agent, and informed that not only had the embargo been removed, but that every possible effort will be used to furnish the mill men with cars, the same as before the injunction against the increase in the lumber rate was granted by Judge Hanford last week.

The embargo was placed in effect as a counter move in the railroad's fight against the lumbermen, but prominent attorneys state that until the injunction granted by Judge Hanford is either dissolved or made permanent the railroad cannot openly discriminate against the lumbermen without being liable to a heavy fine for contempt.

Great Northern Quits Nebraska

Sioux City, Iowa., Nov. 4.—Stockholders of the Sioux City and Western railroad have elected a board of directors composed of Burlington officials to succeed the present board, which is composed of Great Northern officers. The old Pacific Short Line from Sioux city to O'Neil, Neb., will be under control of the Burlington instead of Great Northern. By this transfer the Great Northern surrenders all its mileage in Nebraska.

Enforcement League Wins

Colfax, Wash., Nov. 5—Judge Chadwick has rendered his decision in the case of the Law Enforcement League of Pullman against the city officials, deciding in favor of the league, finding that the Tribune is the city official paper and that the new ward ordinance is void. Voters for the city election must register in the old wards. The changing of the wards by the present officials was done to carry two of them for the saloon interests

FOR EXTRA SESSION

PRESIDENT URGED TO CALL CONGRESS TOGETHER.

High Financiers Now Ready for Federal Control Recognize Only Way to End Crisis Is to RemoveSuspicion of Corporate Crookedness.

Washington, Nov. 4.—It is learned here from undoubted sources that President Roosevelt is now being urged to call an extra session of congress. The request comes from and represents the judgment of conservative leaders in the financial and business world, who have represented the present situation as one compelling action of a character that will eradicate all ground for suspicion of American industrial msethods. The president has been assured fromg most reliable sources that there will be no opposition on the part of the great industries of the country to the enactment of the necessary laws to carry out his ideas of federal control to the extent to which he has expounded them in his recent public utterances.

To this end it is suggested that the president set congress to the task, first, of making such amendments to the financial laws as will result in the maximum of flexibiilty with the minimum of basic change in our system. Next, and perhaps most important, that the president embody his suggestions on corporation control into succinct recommendations for enactment into law. In this connection attention has been directed to what the president said at Provincetown, Mass., August 20 last:

"I believe in national incorporation law for corpaorations engaging in interstate business. I believe, furthermore, that the need for action is most pressing as regards those corporations, which because they are common carriers exercise a quasi-public function; and which can be completely controlled in all respects by the federal govenment, by the exercise of the power conferred under the interstate commerce clause of the constitution. . . The National government should exercise over them a similar supervision and control to that which it exercises over national banks. We can do this only by proceeding further along the lines marked out by the recent national legislation.

"Almost every big concern is engaged in interstate commerce and such a concern must not be allowed, by a dexterous shifting of position, as has been too often the case in the past, to escape thereby all responsibility either to state or to nation."

To meet his views, the president then suggested amendments to the Sherman anti-trust law and the adoption of a criminal clause to that and the interstate commerce regulations.

That the president has given the request for an extra session careful consideration is indicated by those who have been asked to lend their advice in the matter.

Failing in obtaining an extra session, those who made the appeal for it have presented an alternative, or an additional request, that the president shall make a public statement of the assurance he feels in the sound condition of public credit. This has met with a measure of opposition from the administration's advisers. Both suggestions are still matters of consideration, although no information whatever is obtainable regarding either directly from the White House.

BRITISH RAILWAYS FACE GREAT STRIKE

London, Nov. 4.—The legislative committee of the Amalgamated Society of Railroad Servants have adopted a resolution to call a general strike. The resolution says:

"The conference of representatives of the railway men of England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales regrets that the arbitrary refusal of the railway companies to meet the accredited representatives of the men even to discuss a settlement by friendly negotiations leaves no other course open but to carry out the mandate of our members."

Richard Bell, M. P., general secretary of the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants and leader of the strike movement, said:

"Not only the members of the society, but every man in the railway service will get notice. We took the opinion of our members, and knowing also that thousands outside the society are in sympathy with us, we resolved to call on every one to come out."

Secrecy is maintained as to the ballot, but it is understood that 70,000 to 80,000 declared for the general strike and that at least 100,000 men belonging to the Amalgamated Society will strike.

Lloyd P. George, president of local board of trade, has tried unavailingly to induce the copmanies to agree to some compromise.

Add to Width of Locks

Washington, Nov. 4.—One hundred and ten feet is the width which the navy department has finally fixed upon as desirable for the locks for the projected Panama canal. This is an increase of ten feet in width over the plans on which the commission is now working.

"I told him that ever since I'd known him he'd been doing some fool thing or another, but that took the cake," said the man with the white lawn bow necktie. "He got mad about it and now he won't speak to me."

"Then it worked all right?" said the man with the tennis shoes.

"What do you mean by 'worked all right?'" asked the man with the white lawn bow necktie.

"What I say," said the man with the tennis shoes. "I mean that your plan was successful, that its outcome fulfilled your most sanguine expectations. You wanted to get rid of him, didn't you? Wasn't that why you told him he didn't have any sense?"

"Certainly not," replied the man with the white necktie. "He's a good fellow all right, and I like him first rate. I guess he'll not be mad when he thinks it over and sees I'm right. I'd feel bad if he didn't. No, I told him he was foolish because he was foolish. Anybody would say the same thing. What did he want to buy on the other fellow's say-so for? That's what it amounted to, practically. You don't catch me investing money in land until I know exactly what it is and what the values of adjacent property are."

"That's all right," said the man with the tennis shoes. "I don't dispute that. I suppose he was a chump, but that doesn't seem to me to be a good reason for telling him so. I don't blame him for getting mad. He probably realizes his mistake. When anybody gets a thousand dollars' worth of experience put all over him it's apt to soak into his pores of itself. There ain't any need of rubbing it in."

"Well, perhaps not; but it was so obvious he needn't have taken offense."

"Because it was obvious, would you go to Charlie Soule and tell him that it was a pity his nose had been knocked all out of plumb, and that there was such a prolonged interval between his knees? Charlie's ears always did seem to me more prominent than candidates for the presidency, and when he gets his hair cut they stick out worse than ever, but I wouldn't dream of calling his attention to it."

"Yes, but that isn't a parallel case," objected the man with the white lawn bow tie. "Nobody can help being homely or bandy-legged. That's a personal misfortune. Nitzer didn't have to put his money into that crazy scheme, though."

"We're all apt to make mistakes," said the man with the tennis shoes. "Homer Pexler didn't have to marry Mrs. Peren. I'm kind of curious myself to know why he did, but I wouldn't ask him why the dickens he did it. I might ask you if you had any information on the subject, but I've a hunch he'd resent it. He must have imagined it would be all right, but it's dollars to doughnuts that he couldn't have employed his reasoning faculties. Would you ask him yourself?"

"Of course I wouldn't," replied the man with the white lawn bow tie.

"Well, take old Semp Baxter. Go up to him some time and say, 'See here, Baxter, you've been telling those same old yarns ever since I can remember, and they don't improve with age. I've heard 500 times about you and Gen. Grant getting in a dispute at Shiloh and, to begin with, I think it's a lie. If it's true it isn't particularly interesting, but it's probably false, because you have a reputation of being a liar.' Would you?"

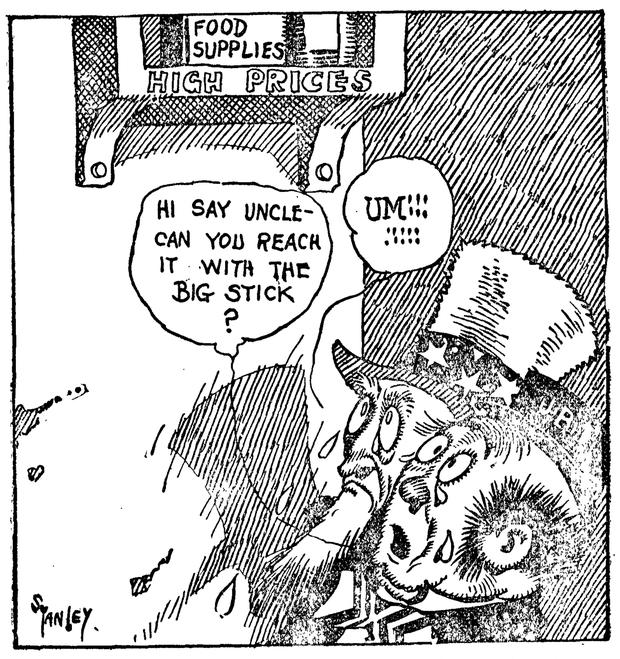
"It isn't likely I would," said the man with the white lawn bow tie.

"Think he'd feel insulted?"

"It isn't a parallel case. And, another thing, you want to take into consideration I'm pretty well acquainted with Nitzer."

"Then, of course, you've got a right to insult him," said the man with the tennis shoes. "If I'd known you a few years longer I might tell you what—I'll keep it to myself, though. Perhaps you wouldn't think it was a parallel case."—Chicago Daily News.

JOHN BULL AS WELL AS UNCLE SAM FEELS THE HIGH PRICES.



The cost of living has advanced in Great Britain 20 per cent within the past ten years, according to a London correspondent. The rise in prices has affected everything from houses to candles. There is no limit in sight to the upward bound of prices.

The imposition of heavy new taxes is held to be largely responsible for the increased cost of living, everybody who is able to do so having raised prices to recover the tax money.

The average Englishman is becoming poorer all the time, and the British government is trying to arrange a scheme to grant pensions to the aged poor, in order to ward off an economic revolution.

The following table shows how prices have gone up:

CHEESE CLOTH IS USEFUL.

Housekeepers Find It Extremely Valuable in Many Ways.

Cheese cloth should be used more commonly for household purposes than it is, says the Washington Post. The material has the special merit of being firm, yet so losely woven that grease comes out readily in washing; thus it is more easily kept clean than linen or crash, for which it may many times be substituted. An unbleached quality that costs not more than 5 cents a yard is quite as good for general use as more expensive fabrics.

The best kind of dishcloths are made of it. The material should be doubled, raw edges turned in and stitched on the machine. This will wear, and because it cleans so easily is most sanitary for warm weather, in that it will not become saturated and smell of grease. Rinsing in soap and water will be all that is necessary for cleansing.

For nice furniture it is the best kind of cloth for cleaning, and all cabinetmakers keep three sets for work. The first is used for applying the oil, the second to rub it off and the third is the polisher. Similar treatment for dining-room tables will keep them in the pink of condition.

Chese cloth will save the daily use of an egg in boiled coffee merely by having small bags of the cotton kept in the kitchen. Put the grounds into one and twist the top around tight with thread, a spool of which should be handy for the purpose. The same bag may be used many times. There is nothing in the cleaning line for which is is not good.

Windows and mirrors will never have a speck of lint on their shining surface if cheese cloth is used, and for all kinds of work it will be found invaluable. A bag made of it should always be kept in the kitchen for straining soups.

Tissue paper is another valuable household asset that all housekeepers do not appreciate. All of it that comes into the house should be saved. Moistened with alcohol, it polishes to perfection, and even dry will make them shine. Silver, also brass if not badly tarnished, will respond immediately to treatment with tissue paper, and for packing of all kinds it is most useful. Lace, silk and all ribbon should always be ironed between two layers of it, for the materials will not then be shiny.

Society will "do up" a woman quicker than housework.

Too Many Cooks.

"It's all a notion of Mary's that this skirt's too long," sighed Mary's mother a little wearily to herself, as she prepared to rip the hem and turn it up "just a seam," as her daughter had requested.

"I don't believe I hold with this fashion of dancing length skirts. In my day we wore trains and managed them gracefully, too. However, it is a saving, I suppose, not to have them touch, especially with anything so flimsy as this organdie," and she threaded her needle and set to work.

A couple of hours later, Mary's oldest sister peeped into her room. "Goodness me!" she exclaimed, catching sight of the organdie, neatly pressed and waiting on the bed for its owner. "There's that skirt Mary asked me to shorten for her to wear to the dance to-night. Let's see, one inch, I believe, she said, would make it just right. I'll do it, before I go down town." And off she flew for her sewing materials.

Quite late in the afternoon, Mary's aunt, for whom she was named, knocked at her door and followed the rap.

"Mary, have you seen——" she began, and then finding the room tenanted solely by its owner's frock, she swooped down upon it. "The poor, dear child," she cried. "She'll come presently from Grandmother's and find that I'd all but forgotten her little appeal to shorten her frock. I wonder if I have time to get it done before she comes in?" With one eye on the clock and the other on her needle, she consumed time and thread proportionately till her task was done.

Then she rushed to the laundry and carefully pressed out the hem, brought the skirt back and laid it on the bed, just as she heard her niece's voice on the stairs.

Her sisters were waiting impatiently in the sitting-room when Mary, very dainty and sweet in her organdie, ran lightly down the stairs. "Awfully sorry to be late!" she called out, energetically. "Come on, girls, father is waiting for us. Why, whatever is the matter?" she exclaimed, glancing from one face to the other. Then she looked down at her frock. The petticoat fell at least three inches below the hem.

"'Lawk o' mercy on me, this is none o' I,' sang her small brother.

Mary's lip began to quiver.

"I only turned it up a seam, dear," explained her mother, hastily.

"You?" cried her oldest sister. "Why, she asked me to shorten it an inch, and I——"

"Why didn't you two tell me you were going to do it?" cried her aunt, in consternation. "I made it at least half an inch shorter. You said half an inch, Mary," turning to her tearful niece.

"That's Mary all over," chimed in the small brother, with the nagging persistence of a Greek chorus. "She's never satisfied that a thing's going to be done unless she gets half a dozen people to promise to do it."

"Never mind, dear," soothed her mother. "We'll know better next time. Run and get my scissors, Johnny, and just thread a couple of needles there, Belle, and we'll have the hem let down in a jiffy."

"I'll never tell my troubles to but one confidante after this," promised Mary, unhooking her skirt and lifting its ballet lengths over her head.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Forming Syllables.

Nearly everybody is puzzled, now and then, over the proper division of some word or other into syllables, particularly when the word breaks at the end of a line. Printers know how to do it, for it is a necessary part of their education, and other people may soon learn by remembering certain general rules, and keeping their eyes open. For example, consonants should usually be joined to the vowels or diphthongs that they modify, as in the word ap-os-tol-ic-al. Two vowels coming together, if they do not make a dipththong, should be separated, as in a-e-ri-al. Derivative and grammatical terminations should be separated from the radical words to which they belong, as harmless. Prefixes are generally made separate syllables, unless the primitive meaning be disregarded, as in re-cre-ation and ree-re-a-tion. This subject is well worth studying by those who wish to write correctly, even though they may never write anything more ambitious than a letter.

The Monroe Doctrine.

The so-called Monroe Doctrine is frequently mentioned in the newspapers and by public speakers, and all should understand exactly what it is. The "doctrine" was enunciated by President Monroe in 1823. The people of the United States desired to foster republican institutions in the Western Hemisphere, and were convinced that the less European powers had to do with the control of the governments of America, the safer would those republican institutions be. Following is the language in which President Monroe stated the doctrine, which has since come to be known by his name: "That we consider any attempt on the part of European powers to extend their system to any portion of this hemisphere as dangerous to our peace and safety; that we could not view any interposition for the purpose of oppressing or controlling American governments or provinces in any other light than as a manifestation by European powers of an unfriendly disposition towards the United States." This doctrine had an important effect on the course of foreign powers, and it has been generally adopted by the leading statesmen of our country.

A Pig-Book.

If you would like to have a perfect treasure-house of amusement to show to your friends, get up a "pig-book." But what in the world is a pig-book? Get a book made up of forty or fifty pages of blank paper, and then ask forty or fifty different persons each to draw, with his or her eyes shut, a picture of a pig on one of the pages. The amateur artist will probably succeed pretty well until he comes to putting on the pig's tail; that appendage is sometimes drawn in the most impossible place, and the result is very amusing. You have no conception of the fun you may have out of a "pig-book" until you get one. Try it.

How Far Will He Walk?

Suppose there is a train of cars one mile in length and that the train is ten miles from a certain place. Suppose, also, that there is a man at the rear of the train and that he starts to walk forwards on top of the cars at the same time that the train begins its journey. If he regulates his pace so as to reach the front of the train just as it stops at its destination, how far will he have walked and how far will he have ridden?

STRANGE STORY OF DREAMS.

Distinct Misfortunes of Man in Africa Revealed to Relatives.

A correspondent sends the following anecdote, or, as he calls it, "case of thought transference," which was told him by an eminent engineer, whose name is withheld:

This well-known engineer had been to Bulawayo on the occasion of the opening of the railway to that place. A friend who accompanied him on the occasion contracted enteric fever and died on the homeward voyage. Half an hour before he died his hair turned perfectly white.

On arriving in England the engineer went to break the news to the young man's sister. He found that not only did the lady know of the death of her brother but she knew the time and the circumstance of the hair turning white. The engineer was requested to break the news to the father and mother as gently as possible, but to say nothing of the hair turning white.

After a journey of 100 miles he found that both father and mother, whom he saw separately, not only knew of the death of their son but knew of his hair turning white at the time of his death.

Each had had a dream, a vivid dream, at the moment of the death taking place and each had kept his and her own counsel and they had not spoken to each other of the dream.—London Mail.

The Law of Compensation.

Bridget had been going out a great deal, and her husband Mike was displeased. "Bridget, where do ye spend yer tolme nights? Ye're out iv'ry avenin' fur two weeks," he said.

"Shut up, Mike! I'm gettin' an edication," she answered.

"An' phwat are ye learnin'?" said her indignant husband.

"Why, to-night we learned about the laws of compensation."

"Compensation," said Michael. "What's that?"

"Why, I can't explain; but fur instance, if the sense of smell is poor, the sense of thaste is all the sharper, and if yez are blind, ye can hear all the better."

"Ah, yes," said Mike, thoughtfully. "I see it's loike this. Fur instance, if a man is born wid wan leg shorter than the other, the other is longer."

THE LUDLOW ROUTE.

An agitation has begun in up-Sound railway circles for the revival of the project for building a railway line from Port Angeles to Port Ludlow, crossing the Sound by ferry from Port Ludlow to Everett and thence east by rail. It is proposed to load the lumber, shingles and other county products into the huge boats that formerly plied with cars between Port Blakeley and Seattle. This idea was broached here some twelve months ago, but failed for want of certain connections which can now be easily made. The car ferry boats are now lying idle at Pt. Blakeley and the owners are anxious to secure employment for them. The appearance of these boats in the trade would afford a great stimulus to the lumber and shingle interests of the Peninsula and with the construction of a short line of railway from Port Angeles to Port Ludlow would secure the long desired connection with a transcontinental line. It is said that the project has been laid before Mr. Hill of the Great Northern and that he thinks well of it and is likely to build the piece of railway required and secure the desired connection.

A DIRECT BOAT.

Is relief in sight? Is the back of an odious, oppressive, unacommodating steamboat monopoly about to be broken? Is the city of Angeles about to come to its own? And is the British Columbia capital about to be brought within handshaking distance of the metropolis of Clallam county? It is announced that the Port Angeles brewery will put a special steamboat on the Sound run to carry their own product from port to port, and that the steamboat will call at Victoria to deliver their unparalled beverage to thirsty Britons who, having once tasted of the delicious brew, are clamoring for a constant supply. Any one who should visit the Morse dock will see there huge piles of casks, barrels and kegs awaiting shipment to up-Sound ports, and the Whatcom frequently sails with her hold well nigh filled with them. These casks, barrels and kegs contain Port Angeles beer which is winning its way everywhere. "Ask for Angeles beer, and take no other," is almost the universal cry, for there is nothing nearly so good. The company find themselves handicapped by having to land their packages at Seattle and from that center distribute the product to Everett, Bellingham, Olympia, Anacortes and Victoria. They plan to fill the steamboat at Port Angeles, touch at the ports named to land the packages for the consignees in each place. Under the present arrangement the distribution is too slow and expensive and presents difficulties which a direct boat will remove. As Victoria is to be included in the itineracy of the beer craft, why should not passengers be carried between the two ports at least twice a week? The knotty problem of direct communication might be solved by the brewery company who would greatly add to their popularity here and at Victoria and furnish the best advertisement that the Port Angeles brew could get on both sides of the line. Is not this idea worthy the consideration of the Brewery Company and their friends?

THE PANIC IN NEW YORK.

The issuance, by New York banks, of Clearance House Certificates, was directly due to the efforts of all banks of that city to accumulate money in anticipation of possible runs by depositors. A stringency was developing which threatened to paralyze business. The banks of other large cities followed the example in making settlement with each other, until, in the course of a few days, the certificate plan had spread thruout the country. Meanwhile arrangements were made for the sale of wheat, cotton and stocks; both Paris and London opened their vaults in order to accommodate the American demand for gold. With the $36,600,000 now on the way to New York added to the reserve strength of the banks of that city, the situation should promptly brighten and the shadow which has threatened the country will be blown away as suddenly as it appeared.

Clearing House Certificates, which are in themselves formal recognition of panic, have been issued but four times since the Civil War—in 1873, 1884, 1890 and 1893. In the present instance, the smash was due, says Collier's, to an attempt of the Montana plunger, F. A. Heinze, to corner United Copper stock. His failure caused stock brokerage houses in which he was interested to suspend payments and a bank of which he was president had to ask the Clearing House for aid. This gave the conservative bankers an opportunity to force Heinze and his board of directors to resign and also to force others, who had gained control of a chain of banks by pledging stocks in one in order to secure control of another, to get entirely out of the banking business. The United Copper episode, with its suggestion of weakness, had frightened Wall street, and stocks had tumbled all thru the week. Then came the rumor that there was something wrong with the great trust companies, in result of which a run commenced on the Knickerbocker, one of the country's financial giants, with resources of seventy millions, causing it to close its doors in two hours and a half, after paying out eight million dollars. With a little timely relief the Knickerbocker, and also the financial situation, would have been saved. It was now too late for half measures—Morgan and Rockefeller pledged their fortunes in support, and the Government put $25,000,000 at the disposal of the banks. It would have been supposed that the knowledge that these financial men, the Clearing House and the Treasury were back of the situation, would have averted further difficulty. But depositors displayed an unheard-of persistence. Not only were several small banks compelled to close their doors, but the Trust Company of America, with resources of seventy-seven millions paid out nearly twelve millions, the cash on hand, the first day; in three days they paid $22,000,000, and made known the fact that they were prepared to pay off every dollar of deposits subject to check.

PYSHT AND ENNIS CREEKS.

The name Pysht, where the coal mines are located in this county, is Indian for "crooked." Pysht is a very sinuous stream. It has more turns than a rattlesnake has coils and in places the loops or crooks are so acute and numerous that but for the trend of the current one would often be in doubt whether he was going up or down stream. The Indians pronounce the word "fish" as "pish," and many people have naturally gotten the idea that the stream took its name from that pronounciation. The idea is quite erroneous. How many centuries have elapsed since the creek was named by the ancestors of the present tribe must be left to the imagination of the reader.

Ennis creek, which flows into the straits at the eastern end of the townsite and upon which extensive deposits of gold-bearing quartz have been discovered, was named by Indians. Ages ago, the legend says, a party of Vancouver Island Indians, who had done something that called for their expatriation, settled at the mouth of the creek, which they called Ennis, signifying a "favored spot." They establ shed a village there and were joined by outcasts from other tribes. In course of time the outcasts intermarried with the Angeles Indians and the disorganized elements were finally welded into one tribe which the early white voyagers found on arrival here.

ALWAYS WAS SICK.

When a man says he always was sick—troubled with a cough that lasted all winter—what would you think if he shod say—he never was sick since using Ballard's Horehound Syrup. Such a man exists. Mr. J. C. Clark, Denver, Col., writes: "For years I was troubled with a severe cough that would last all winter. This cough left me in a miserable condition, I tried Ballard's Horehound Syrup and have not had a sick day since. That's what it did for me."

MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION

Port Angeles, Wash., Nov. 7th, 1907.

To the Citizens of Port Angeles.

Greeting:

Now that it is known beyond any doubt that bubonic plague exists in the City of Seattle, and that several deaths have occurred from said disease, and as we are in daily contact with said infected city by reason of our steamer connections, and as this dread disease is known to be carried from place to place by rats, mice and other such vermin, it is imperative at this that every Citizen of this City take every precaution possible to prevent said disease from finding a lodgement in this city by keeping their barns, outhouses, stables and other buildings in as clean and sanitary condition as possible.

And I would especially urge all those living and doing business along the waterfront in front of the City to see that all outhouses, barns, stables and such other buildings as rats and mice are likely to infest are kept in a clean and sanitary condition, and that all rats holes found in or around said buildings be at once filled up with cement or other material, and that all offal from any butcher store or slaughter house, or where any other person may kill or butcher animals either for their own use or for the purpose of selling same in the open market, be properly cleaned up and at once destroyed, and that lime or chlorideof lime be freely used in and around all outhouses and other places where dead matter on which rats can and do exist, in order that their food supply may be cut off, and all of such vermin eradicated if possible, as by so doing I feel certain that we will be able to keep this dreaded disease away from our shores, and that our beautiful city will remain as it now is, one of the healthiest places on the entire Pacific coast.

I have already ordered that the officers of the Steamers arriving at the wharves in our City use the rat guards recommended by the United States health department, and adopted by the State board of health, which said order I am glad to say the said officers of the steamships plying between this port and the City of Seattle are fully complying with, this will greatly mitigate the chances of the disease being carried to our shores by rats or mice.

Respectfully submitted,

WILLIAM RITCHIE, Mayor

DOCTORS MISTAKES

Are said often to be buried six feet under ground. But many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous prostration, another with pain here and there, and in this way they present alike to themselves and their easy-going or overbusy doctor, separate diseases, for which he, assuming them to be such, prescribes his pills and potions. In reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some uterine disease. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, keeps up his treatment until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better by reason of the wrong treatment, but probably worse. A proper medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause would have entirely removed the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery. It has been well said, that "a disease known is half cured."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. One to three a dose. Easy to take as candy.

The Companion as a Christmas Gift.

Nobody is too young, nobody too old, to enjoy reading The Youth's Companion For that reason it makes one of the most appropriate Christmas gifts—one of the few whose actual worth far outweighs the cost. Welcome as the paper may be to the casual reader on the train, at the office, in the public library, it is, after all, the paper of the home The regularity and frequency of its visits, the cordial sincerity of its tone, make for it soon the place of a familiar friend in the house. Like a good friend, too, it stands a ways for those traits and qualities which are typified in the ideal home, and are the sources of a nation's health and true prosperity. Is there another Christmas present costing so little that equals it?

On receipt of $1 75, the yearly subscription price, the publishers send to the new subscriber all the remainigg issues of The Companion for 1907 and the Four-leaf Hanging Calendar for 1908 in full color.

Full illustrated Announcement of the new volume for 1908 will be sent with sample copies of the paper to any address.

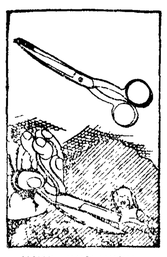
Training Girls to Manage a Home.

A novel experiment in training girls to manage a home is to be made in London if the Education Committee of the London County Council adopted a scheme which has been submitted to them. The aim is to make the girls proficient in the domestic duties they would have to perform as the wives of artisans earning from 28s to £3 a week. In addition to washing, cooking and cleaning and the general management of the home on a systematic basis, they would be taught how "to shop" in the most economical way. At the beginning of each week a certain sum would be set aside for rent, rates, clothing, insurance, traveling expenses and for providing a fund for "a rainy day." The remainder would be available for food and any little luxuries that might be possible.

In order that the training may be as practicable as possible it is necessary that the time occupied in attending to baby in most homes should not be overlooked in the program of the experimental home. It is proposed each week, therefore, to undertake the care of a child belonging to a working class family in the neighborhood, and in this way the girls would gain further valuable experience. Every piece of furniture and every utensil would have the price paid for it marked on it, so that the girls might have an idea of how much each article can be bought for.

To Aid Needle Workers.

One of the difficulties encountered by the lover of art needlework in finishing up a piece of lace insertion is to cut away the cloth over which the lace is sewed without injuring the lace at the same time. Of course, it is impossible without inverting the article to see the point of the scissors, which is below the cloth. In this way a piece of the lace is easily cut away in mistake. This can be avoided by the use of the scissors, patented by a New Jersey man. The upper blade is pointed as usual. The lower blade is longer and is provided with a guard in the form of a projection, which is located beyond the line of contact of the blades. The projection is not sharpened, but is rounded on top, and extends beyond the end of the other blade. To cut away the cloth the blunt end of the scissors is inserted beneath the cloth. The cloth can be cut away without danger of injuring the lace, the projection not interfering with the cutting qualities of the scissors.



NEW SCISSORS.

The Clothes Tree.

An article of furniture too seldom used is the clothes "tree," resembling the posts of our grandmother's four-post bedstead. It stands on three feet and has half a dozen prongs or hooks. As it takes up so little floor space and holds so many garments it is an invaluable article. In a small hall or vestibule it takes the place of the hatrack, and in a larger hall it complements the table on which men's hats are laid. For the necessary airing of one's clothes over night it is preferable to chairs, as it can so easily be set out of the sleeping room. In the bathroom it is especially convenient.

Hard Water Bad for Skin.

When removing tan the quality of water one uses for bathing has much to do with the skin, and hard water is decidedly injurious. If there is the slightest tendency to that keep on the washstand a box filled with equal quantities of powdered orris root and bicarbonate of soda. Put enough of this in the water to give a slight perfume and you will have a delightful tonic. This may be used as often as desired.

Design for Gown of Silk.

The illustration shows the bodice of a silk gown of original design. The trimming consists of loops of soft ribbon threaded through buttonholed eyelets, as explained by the sketch, and an applied band of heavy lace outlining the "V"-shaped guimpe. The guimpe and undersleeves were of very thin cream-colored lace over a lining of white chiffon. The model was in soft, satin-finished silk, in a delicate mauve shade, the guimpe being of ecru Chantilly lace with a wide lace band on the bodice of heavy Cluny.

A CHICAGO HORSE SHOW COSTUME.

Mrs. Jackson is one of the leaders of the Chicago horse show. She is wearing a black lace gown made over white silk, an elaborate lace coat and a big black hat, trimmed in black plumes. She carries an ermine muff and wears a collar of ermine.

Women and Work.

For the year ending June 30, 1905, 301,585 women, nearly one-half of the number of men, came to this country. The great majority of these came here for work. Nineteen out of every 100 native American women are engaged in gainful occupations, but thirty-two out of every 100 foreign-born women are so engaged, and the percentage is increasing. In an investigation of several thousand unmarried immigrant women, and married immigrant women without children, who had arrived within three years, fully 90 per cent were found at work or looking for work.

A Remarkable Girl.

Miss Gurid Laate, a Norwegian girl who is working her way through the University of Minnesota, can make her own clothes in their entirety, from the spinning of the thread to the cutting and putting together of the materials. She learned spinning and weaving in her native country and dressmaking in the United States.

Calico Will Be Ten Cents.

Calico will be higher than since 1865, the manufacturers informs us, 10 cents being the limit. The same calico sold a year ago for 4 or 5 cents. The cost of cotton and the increased cost of manufacture are said to be responsible for the high price, which will be a serious item in the living expenses of the poor.

Hanging Pictures.

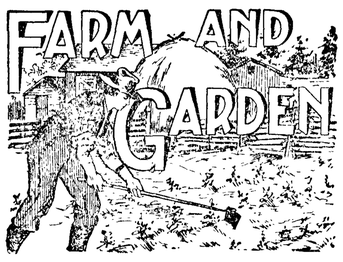
The right way to hang pictures is to pierce the wall with a darning needle to find the crevice between the bricks before driving the nail. Nails driven in anywhere only ruin the wall, as they invariably bend when driven against the bricks.

The merely flower-adorned hat is becoming hackneyed, but the idea is still being carried out by the milliners, as it has met with so much favor. The simple field blossoms and grasses look quite exquisite in conjunction with new felt hats, of rich butter color. White hats are still seen with trimming of pure white roosters' feathers. Velvet ribbon is making its appearance as a hat trimming, and it is very successful when mingled with illusion net. Brims are lined with colored or black silk, or else a little bias covers the edge.

A large white chip hat, in the fashionable mushroom shape, is shown in the accompanying cut. The trimming of this youthful and attractive model consisted of field flowers, such as poppies, black and white daisies, wild roses, etc. Grayish green grasses of feathery texture formed the body of the wreath, and were arranged to fall around the hat over the brim. Black velvet ribbon was tied about the crown and fell in loops and ends over the deep brim at the back.

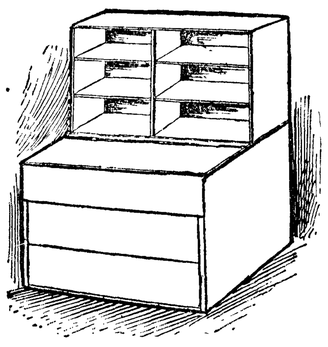
Trouble doesn't come singly when you are held up by two highwaymen.

FARM AND GARDEN



A Barn Cabinet.

There is little excuse for any farmer not having a sufficiency of home-made devices which are handy to store various things and save labor. Especially is this so when they can be constructed out of dry goods or grocery boxes, and that is what may be said of the cabinet shown in the cut. It can be made any size desired, and if put together right will be practically mouse and rat-proof. The drawers are convenient in which to put robes, blankets and the like, and the shelves or compartments in the upper arrangement for holding brushes, nails, hammers, wrenches and other small tools. It is a handy place to store small seeds, condition powders, liniments and medicines for farm animals. Indeed, there are many services that such an affair can be made use of, all of which will readily suggest themselves when it has been built and set in place.—Fred O. Sibley, in Farm and Home.



GOOD BARN CABINET.

Recreation in Farm Life.

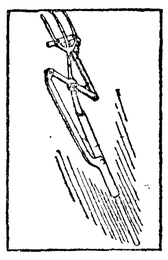
Some of our farmers wonder why their sons have a desire to quit the farm, preferring town or city life. The cause is with the farmer himself. With the boy on the arm it is perpetual toil in good weather, all through the busy season, and perpetual loneliness in bad weather and most of the winter season. The time when the farmer has leisure is at the very time when they can not get away from home on account of their isolation and bad roads. The boy hungers for company and his heart revolts against this unendurable loneliness, and, to free himself from it, walks miles through the mud to spend an hour at the country store. We are glad to note that in some sections of our country the young people of both sexes have broken through these barriers and established farmers' clubs and little societies of one sort or another.—Jackson Herald.

Feeding Skim Milk.

Our best dairymen have long ago realized the true feeding value of skim milk. At the Kansas station the results of an experiment with thirteen groups of ten calves each showed that when calves are worth $30 per 100, skim milk is worth nearly 20 cents per 100; with calves at $4 per 100 it is worth 30 cents, and at $5 per 100 worth 40 cents. The above experiment was conducted in a practical way, and the results show that the average value of skim milk for calf feeding, provided this product is sweet, fresh skim milk, fed right. Skim milk fed to calves from a centrifugal separator, such as is now within the reach of every farmer, fed sweet and fresh within an hour after it is separated, is worth at least twice as much as ordinary skim milk derived from deep setting, open setting or the skim milk from a creamery.

Pitchfork Attachments

In gathering up freshly cut grass or hay, etc., with a pitchfork a small quantity adheres to the prongs of the fork each time a pile is lifted. In a short while the fork becomes clogged and useless, it being necessary to remove each particle by hand. In order that this cleaning may be done almost automatically a Wisconsin man has designed the attachment for pitchforks shown here. A transverse clearer bar is arranged below the tines of the fork, guides on each end of the bar partly encircling the end prongs, permitting the bar to slide freely on the prongs. Pivoted on the handle of the fork is a bar which connects with other bars extending to the cleaning bar, and to a sleeve which slides on the handle. By moving the sleeve on the handle the cleaning bar slides over the prongs of the fork, removing anything adhering to them.



CLEANS OFF HAY.

Feeding Steers.

Prof. Vernon of the New Mexico experiment station reports the relative value of feeding range steers on winter rations of alfalfa hay alone, and supplemented by a light grain ration of bran and cracked wheat 1.3 was tested with two uniform lots of five 2-year-old range steers each. On alfalfa and grain the net profit was calculated to be $7.42 per ton; on the hay, and on the hay alone, $8.40.

RHEUMATISM

CAN NOT BE RUBBED AWAY

It is perfectly natural to rub the spot that hurts, and when the muscles, nerves, joints and bones are throbbing and twitching with the pains of Rheumatism the sufferer is apt to turn to the liniment bottle, or some other external application, in an effort to get relief from the disease, by producing counter-irritation on the flesh. Such treatment will quiet the pain temporarily, but can have no direct curative effect on the real disease because it does not reach the blood, where the cause is located. Rheumatism is more than skin deep—it is rooted and grounded in the blood and can only be reached by constitutional treatment—IT CANNOT BE RUBBED AWAY. Rheumatism is due to an excess of uric acid in the blood, brought about by the accumulation in the system of refuse matter which the natural avenues of bodily waste, the Bowels and Kidneys, have failed to carry off. This refuse matter, coming in contact with the different acids of the body, forms uric acid which is absorbed into the blood and distributed to all parts of the body, and Rheumatism gets possession of the system. The aches and pains are only symptoms, and though they may be scattered or relieved for a time by surface treatment, they will reappear at the first exposure to cold or dampness, or after an attack of indigestion or other irregularity. Rheumatism can never be permanently cured while the circulation remains saturated with irritating, pain-producing uric acid poison. The disease will shift from muscle to muscle or joint to joint, settling on the nerves, causing inflammation and swelling and such terrible pains that the nervous system is often shattered, the health undermined, and perhaps the patient becomes deformed and crippled for life. S. S. S. thoroughly cleanses the blood and renovates the circulation by neutralizing the acids and expelling all foreign matter from the system. It warms and invigorates the blood so that instead of a weak, sour stream, constantly depositing acrid and corrosive matter in the muscles, nerves, joints and bones, the body is fed and nourished by rich, health-sustaining blood which completely and permanently cures Rheumatism. S. S. S. is composed of both purifying and tonic properties—just what is needed in every case of Rheumatism. It contains no potash, alkali or other mineral ingredient, but is made entirely of purifying, healing extracts and juices of roots, herbs and barks. If you are suffering from Rheumatism do not waste valuable time trying to rub a blood disease away, but begin the use of S. S. S. and write us about your case and our physicians will give you any information or advice desired free of charge and will send our special treatise on Rheumatism.

In Time of Trouble.

That the folds of "Old Glory" afford good shelter in any land is the obvious point of this New York Times story:

During one of the frequent revolutions in Haiti a party of Americans made a riding tour of the mountains. One morning a member of the party suddenly drew rein with an ejaculation, and pointed to a lone ridge where an old tattered Stars and Stripes fluttered on a bamboo pole.

"We must pay our respects," some one said.

After some search they found a path that zigzagged up to the wild place. They followed it, and at last discovered an aged negro sitting before his wattled hut smoking his pipe, while he kept an eye on the flag.

"What's the flag for?" some one asked.

"Pertection," said the old man, quietly. "I heah dey done begin anudder resolution, so I put hit up. Yah, suh, I come heah twenty-two yeahs ago, an' hab dat wiv meh. I'm Georgy, as cook on a steamer out o' Savannah.

"Lak de place? Yas, suh. Plant yam an' coffee an' cassava. Resolutions doan' trubbel dis niggah. Ebery time dey resolute down yander up goes de flag, an' dat's all dere is to hit!"

Couldn't Flatter Gov. Oglesby.

Senator Shelby M. Cullom, of Illinois, tells this story of the late Gov. Oglesby:

"One day a man, who had a huge favor to ask, went to see Oglesby, and started in to flatter him. He recounted the different high positions Oglesby had held and tried to make the old man feel proud of what he had been and what he was.

Oglesby listened impatiently for a few minutes to the fulsome flattery, and then arose abruptly and, eyeing his man sharply, blurted out:

"I'm nothing but a doggoned fraud," and the interview was at an end, the visitor not even having a chance to state his errand.

"Don't go to any trouble," people say, when they accept an invitation to dine; but they expect you to.

The American people ought to be interested in all that pertains to the survivors of the Civil War, that most sanguinary conflict of modern times, if not of all times. The war ended forty-two years ago, and the men who endured the burden and heat of the bitter days from 1861 to 1865 are getting fewer in number every year. Another quarter of a century and they will be but a memory. It is an article of belief among the Buddhists that one of the steps of salvation consists in right memory. It is certain that a nation is saved in no other way. The nation that forgets its heroes dies. "Such were your ancestors, O Athenians," cried Demosthenes, after an enumeration of their virtues in the famous oration that stirred his people to fight Philip of Macedon. The remaining veterans of the Civil War teach us what our own people were forty and more years ago. Bravely and self-sacrificingly they went to the front, resolved that the government of the people, for the people and by the people should continue to be a power on the earth. Let them be held in everlasting remembrance!

THE TELEGRAPH-POLES.

Lack of understanding rather than maliciousness lies at the bottom of many international difficulties. Especially true is this in the dealings of a civilized with an uncivilized people. So apart are the ranges of experience that a mutual ground of comprehension is hard to find. One no longer wonders at the reluctance of the Asiatic tribe to allow the telegraph to pass through its country when he reads of the true reason of the native's refusal. The story is told in Mr. Bush's "Reindeer, Dogs and Snow-Shoes."

The company, surveying the ground for the telegraph, wished to bargain with the Lamuts for deer to be used in the construction of the line. The chiefs received the agents with great dignity, and gravely listened to their proposals. Then they announced that they had plenty of reindeer, and were perfectly willing to sell them for any other purpose, but not for the building of the telegraph.

Thinking they did not understand the nature of the line and its object, the agents carefully explained, telling the chiefs it consisted simply in a series of poles, extending through the country, with a small wire stretched along the tops. They enlarged on what advantage the natives would gain from the forts and stations established along the way, from which they could obtain supplies and clothes.

But nothing seemed to satisfy the chiefs. At last one asked in what direction the line would go. On being told, they became gloomy and even more reluctant.

The agents were puzzled, not being able to imagine why they were so opposed, when one Lamut, as if struck by a new idea, asked how far apart the poles would be placed. When this point was made clear, all faces brightened, and they assured the agents that they would sell all the reindeer needed.

The reason of their former objection was explained. They knew that the line of telegraph would cross their usual routes of travel, and they had supposed that the poles would be so close together that they could not pass between them with their deer. This difficulty disposed of, they immediately promised to furnish 200 deer.

HOME MADE MIXTURE

SAID TO BE INEXPENSIVE AND EASILY PREPARED BY ANYONE.

Is Said to Promptly Relieve Backache and Overcome Kidney Trouble and Bladder Weakness Though Harmless and Pleasant to Take.

What will appear very interesting to many people here is the article taken from a New York daily paper, giving a simple prescription, as formulated by a noted authority, who claims that he has found a positive remedy to cure almost any case of backache or kidney or bladder derangement, in the following simple prescription, if taken before the stage of Bright's disease:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

A well known authority, when asked regarding this prescription, stated that the ingredients can be obtained at a small cost from any good prescription pharmacy, or the mixture would be put up if asked to do so.

He further stated that while this prescription is often prescribed in rheumatic afflictions with splendid results, he could see no reason why it would not be a splendid remedy for kidney and urinary troubles and backache, as it has a peculiar action upon the kidney structure, cleansing these most important organs and helping them to sift and filter from the blood the foul acids and waste matter which cause sickness and suffering. Those who suffer can make no mistake in giving it a trial.

Drainer for Wash Boilers.

A simple device that greatly adds to the usefulness of the washboiler is a recent patent of an Oregon man. As shown in the illustration, it consists of a drainer that is attached to the top of the washboiler. The drainer is formed of a series of parallel rods, which rest on the top of the washboiler. Each rod terminates into a hook designed to engage the beaded rim of the boiler. Around the edges of the rod is a projecting ledge, to prevent the water dripping on the floor. After wringing out the clothes they are conveniently placed on the drainer, the water dripping back into the boiler. The device is readily removed when desired.

Apple Sauce.

Wash but do not peel tart apples. Slice them from the core, add just enough water to keep them from burning and set at the side of the range to simmer slowly. Stir until the sugar is dissolved, then take from the fire and set aside to cool.

The General Demand

of the Well-Informed of the World has always been for a simple, pleasant and efficient liquid laxative remedy of known value; a laxative which physicians could sanction for family use because its component parts are known to them to be wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, acceptable to the system and gentle, yet prompt, in action.

In supplying that demand with its excellent combination of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, the California Fig Syrup Co. proceeds along ethical lines and relies on the merits of the laxative for its remarkable success.

That is one of many reasons why Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is given the preference by the Well-Informed. To get its beneficial effects always buy the genuine—manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., only, and for sale by all leading druggists. Price fifty cents per bottle.

Contagion a Question of Prevention

Sinpks, drains, eating and cooking utensils, sick room linen and clothing frequently carry dreaded disease germs unnoticed by the household.

Thorough and hygienic cleansing is the best safeguard against infection, and such a safeguard is found in the universal household necessity—Borax.

This simple preventive carries in itself disinfecting qualities which enter the fabric or act upon the atticle to be cleansed in a hygienic manner, eliminating every unwholesome property, rendering it contagion proof, while at the same time Borax is of itself as harmless as salt.

Unlike most disinfectants who depend upon their strength of odor or harmful-to-the-system qualities to arrest or prevent contagion, Borax is Nature's remedy, being easy to obtain and easy to apply, a simple solution in hot water being all the application necessary and requiring no prescription, it can be obtained from any grocer or druggist in convenient, economical household packages.

In addition to its disinfecting qualities, Borax is especially a household necessity, as it can be used for softening water, cleansing and whitening clothes, clearing the skin, whitening hands, makes an excellent dandruff remover and can be used on the finest laces and most delicate fabrics without injury, while as an adjunct to the bath it removes all odor of perspiration and leaves the skin soft and velvety.

A RARE VISITOR.

Claims Holy Spirit Has Been Driven Away by Fashionable Rites.

Rev. Martha Bortle, of Washington, D. C., speaking before the Chautauqua Women's Club the other day, said:

"I should like to build elegant churches in the slums. Into these churches I should put the finest organs, the best singers and the most attractive preachers. And I would put up a large bulletin board in front with the following notice:

"'No person wearing diamonds shall enter this church; no automobile shall stop at this church.

"'No one who rides in a carriage shall enter this church. Only those who walk or ride in a street car are entitled to a seat in this house.'

"Systematic and conventional theology has almost made the Holy Spirit a rare visitor in our churches. The work of the churches really resembles a wash day. The churches are working in better harmony than we think. The Methodist church picks people up, the Baptists wash them, the Presbyterians blue them, the Episcopal church starches them and the Universalists iron them.

"I should like to endow a newspaper. I should publish all the real news, but keep the sheet free from illiteracy. The reporters would all be educated, so that they would not make the grammatical errors they do now. And then I should put all the accounts of murders, trials, suicides, divorces and such things on a page by themselves—the last page—so that parents could remove it to keep their children from reading these things.

"The study of geology, music, art, theology, all add to the intellect, but they do not generate politeness. Some of the best educated people I know have the worst manners."

Strawberry Ambrosia.

To make strawberry ambrosia, select fine, rich-flavored berries and arrange them in a deep glass dish with alternate layers of coarsely chopped pineapple, sprinkling between each layer a generous dusting of powdered sugar and fresh grated cocoanut. Pour over the top a cupful of orange juice and set in a cold place until thoroughly chilled, then serve.

Esperanto, the new composite language, the inventors of which hope to make it the tongue of international intercourse, is creating more of a stir among students than was produced by Volapuk, its predecessor. After the recent congress of its friends in Cambridge, England, many of the delegates went to London and attended a service in St. Clement Danes Church in the Strand, conducted entirely in Esperanto. This is interesting, not only as showing the extent to which the language is being used, but also from the fact that it adds to the number of "nations, and kindreds and people, and tongues" by which God is worshiped.

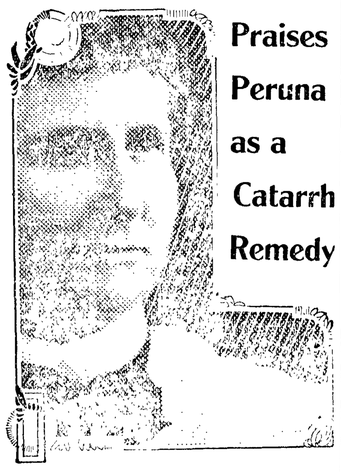
Certain natives of British India having applied for naturalization in California, it became necessary for the attorney general to decide whether they are "white" in the meaning of the law. After consideration, he has concluded that they are not white enough to be eligible for citizenship. This, of course, does not apply to the color of their skin, but to the racial stock from which they are sprung, and is based on the general purpose of the law to deny rights of citizenship to all save free white persons and those of African birth or descent.

A Talented Writer Praises Peruna as a Catarrh Remedy



MRS. E. M. TINNEY

Mrs. E. M. Tinney, story writer, 325 E. Nueva St., San Antonio, Tex., writes:

"During 1901 I suffered from nasal catarrh, which various other remedies failed to relieve.

"Six bottles of Peruna, which I took, entirely cured me, the catarrh disappearing and never returning.

"I therefore cheerfully recommend Peruna to all similarly afflicted."

Mrs. Ellen Nagle, 414 4th street, Green Bay, Wis., writes:

"I have often heard Peruna praised and it is more widely known here than any other medicine, but I never knew what a splendid medicine it really was until a few weeks ago when I caught a bad cold which settled all over me.

"The doctor wanted to prescribe, but I told him I was going to try Peruna and sent for a bottle and tried it.

"I felt much better the next mornins and within five days I had not a trace of any lameness or any cough.

"I consider it the finest cough remedy."

Grape Jelly.

Wash the grapes and put them over the fire, without water, in a large double boiler. Cover closely and cook until the fruit is well broken and soft. Rub the grapes through a colander, then squeeze through a flannel jelly bag. Measure the juice and to each pint of it allow a pound of sugar. Put the sugar in pans in the oven to heat, taking care that it does not burn. Return the juice to the oven in a porcelain-lined kettle, bring to the boil and cook for twenty minutes. Pour in the heated sugar, boil up just once and pour into glasses.

Physicians Recommend Castoria

CASTORIA has met with pronounced favor on the part of physicians, pharmaceutical societies and medical authorities. It is used by physicians with results most gratifying. The extended use of Castoria is unquestionably the result of three facts: First—The indisputable evidence that it is harmless: Second—That it not only allays stomach pains and quiets the nerves, but assimilates the food: Third—It is an agreeable and perfect substitute for Castor Oil. It is absolutely safe. It does not contain any Opium, Morphine, or other narcotic and does not stupefy. It is unlike Soothing Syrups, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, etc. This is a good deal for a Medical Journal to say. Our duty, however, is to expose danger and record the means of advancing health. The day for poisoning innocent children through greed or ignorance ought to end. To our knowledge, Castoria is a remedy which produces composure and health, by regulating the system—not by stupefying it—and our readers are entitled to the information.—Hall's Journal of Health.

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. B. Halstead Scott, of Chicago, Ills., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria often for infants during my practice, and find it very satisfactory."

Dr. William Belmont, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "Your Castoria stands first in its class. In my thirty years of practice I can say I never have found anything that so filled the place."

Dr. J. H. Taft, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria and found it an excellent remedy in my household and private practice for many years. The formula is excellent."

Dr. R. J. Hamlen, of Detroit, Mich., says: "I prescribe your Castoria extensively, as I have never found anything to equal it for children's troubles. I am aware that there are imitations in the field, but I always see that my patients get Fletcher's."

Dr. Wm. J. McCrann, of Omaha, Neb., says: "As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine, and aside from my own family experience I have in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."

Dr. J. R. Clausen, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "The name that your Castoria has made for itself in the tens of thousands of homes blessed by the presence of children, scarcely needs to be supplemented by the endorsement of the medical profession, but I, for one, most heartily endorse it and believe it an excellent remedy."

Dr. R. M. Ward, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Physicians generally do not prescribe proprietary preparations, but in the case of Castoria my experience, like that of many other physicians, has taught me to make an exception. I prescribe your Castoria in my practice because I have found it to be a thoroughly reliable remedy for children's complaints. Any physician who has raised a family, as I have, will join me in heartiest recommendation of Castoria."

Rare Opportunity for a Summer Home

We offer forty lots facing on Lake Crescent, distant 25 miles from Port Angeles, at prices ranging from $50 to $250 each.

This property is desirably situated on the lake front and presents ideal sites for summer cottages.

Lake Crescent abounds in Beardslee trout that range in weight from 2 to 25 pounds and are caught by the fly.

The lake lies within a few miles of the Soleduck Hot Springs, the curative properties of which are widely known. These springs have lately passed into the hands of Eastern capitalists who will erect there a large and handsome tourist hotel.

We wish to draw particular attention to these desirable properties, the prices of which, when situation and surroundings are considered, is ridiculously low. For further particulars address,

THE MAKING of clothes to measure involves many intricate operations, each of these operations must be performed by an expert, otherwise the suit is irretrievably ruined and not fit to wear.

Our Chicago Clothes Makers, Ed. V. Price & Co., select their operatives with care and every man in their employ represents the best in the professions represented. This means more money expended, for high grade tailors command the best wages, but it also means better made, better fitting clothes for you at less price than the small tailor can or will give you.

They have facilities for absolutely fitting each suit over the lines and curves of the body—suits that carry distinctiveness and style and are their own insurance on durability.
