WILL CULTIVATE TEA NEAR PORT ANGELES

Japanese Made Thorough Examination and Found Clallam County Soil and Climate the Best in the Northwest.

Some weeks ago the Olympic-Leader told of preliminary arrangements for the establishment of a Japanese colony at Port Crescent. The Seattle P.-I. of last Sunday says that arrangements have been concluded within the last few days for founding an extensive Japanese colony immediately back of Port Cresent. The colony is to be founded on 760 acres of logged-off land obtained by the Japanese from the Puget Sound Mills and Timber Company.

The Japanese are to have the use of the land for fifteen years, paying no rental the first seven years. During this period they agree, however, to clear the entire acreage free from all stumps and roots two feet below the ground.

For the remaining eight years of the term of the contract the Japanese are to pay the timber company an annual rental of $10 an acre on 520 acres, and to have the remaining 240 acres free of rental.

The Japanese purpose to cultivate the entire acreage; a gang of a dozen men has already been started slashing the timber. This force is soon to be increased to a colony of a hundred men or more.

Just what are to be the crops grown has not been disclosed. Tea is to be one of them, but the men at work state that other crops will also be cultivated. "We grow many new things. Land all the same as Manchuria. We grow tea and we grow perfume tree. One tree worth one thousand dollars," say the Japs.

The Japanese founding the colony are unknown here. The transaction was conducted through an interperter, on account of inability of the Orientals to use English. The enterprise is evidently being conducted from Japan, being directed by some large commercial interests.

The first negotiation for the land was made early in 1907, when several Japanese appeared at Port Crescent and asked leave to obtain samples of the soil. They stated that they wished to take the samples back to Japan, where the composition of the ground would be analyzed. They went over the vicinity carefully, taking samples of the ground at frequent intervals and systematically marking the location of each on a prepared plot.

The records of the government weather bureau at Port Crescent, long established, were taken from the beginning.

With dirt and weather records the Japanese sailed away. Nothing more was heard from them when they suddenly appeared with the statement that the land had been found satisfactory.

The tract is one of the largest sections of logged-off land to be taken up for cultivation in the Northwest, and the development of the enterprise will therefore be watched with interest.

The contract provides that fiifty acres shall be cleared the first year, and thereafter 150 acres each year, until the entire plot is cleared.

Parties having improved farms from 40 to 160 acres in the vicinity of Port Angeles to trade for Seattle improved real estate from $1500 to $10,000, notify us at once as we have some good propositions.

CONTRACTS WILL CALL FOR ABOUT $1,700

Street Committee Will Consider Bids. City Council Still Wrestling with Ancient Railroad Franchise Matters.

The city council met in regular session Tuesday evening, transacting a lot of routine business of more or less importance.

An ordinance was passed "Declaring the abandonment and forfeiture of the rights, privileges, and franchises contained in certain ordinances of the city relating to granting of railway and wharf rights, privileges and franchises, and repealing same."

Bids were received for the construction of the trestle work on Tumwater street, between 2nd and 3rd streets, as follows:

A. H. Thompson and B. G. Wilcox's bid: Driving piles, capping, constructing a shearwater and a bulkhead, furnishing material and labor, $700.

Also, from same parties: Furnishing material, planking, stringers, guard-rail and labor, $1000.

A. W. Grierson and W. Sturdevant's bid: Planking, stringers, guard-rails and labor, $977.

The council ordered the trail from Pine Hill to Filion Mill repaired.

A resolution was adopted to the effect that Jno. Trumbull be notified that he must prove his "succession of interest" to gain possession of the timbers removed from the P. A. & E. trestle work between Laurel and Lincoln Sts. He to be given fifteen days from date of service to show ownership and pay cost of removing. The cost of placing timbers on beach was $141.75.

FIRST TRIAL OF "BIG LAND CASE"

Judge Held Plaintiff Not Entitled to Recover: Motion for New Trial to Be Argued at an Early Date.

One of the most interesting cases, held before the present judge, involving a considerable amount, terminated Wednesday in judgment for the defendants, with costs against the plaintiff, after a hard fought trial of three days. The case was that of the Clallam Land & Investment Company vs. S. C. Jackson, and the Pacific Logging & Timber Company, and involved some $130,000 and title to 8,000 acres of logged-off lands, known as the Myles, Maclay lands in the vicinity of McDonnell creek, in township 30 ranges 4 & 5.

It seems that one year ago when the latter company was planning for operations in the timber belt along McDonnell creek, timber on certain lands of the plaintiff corporation near the mouth of the creek was purchased; and subsequently a contract was drawn up appointing the Clallam Land Company sole purchasing agents for the Logging Company in a given area, which, it is alleged, did not include the territory of Maclay lands. According to the terms of this agreement the Logging Company contracted to pay $2.00 per thousand stumpage for all timber purchased for it, subject to approval, with its area named. Under this contract lumber was negotiated and turned over to the Logging Co. without serious incident.

Later, however the Myles-Maclay lands were put upon the market and were brought to the attention of the Logging Company. The Clallam Land Co., comprising Messrs. Rouse and W. H. Peter, who claimed they had tbe right to purchase these lands for the Logging Co., under their contract, and alleged that it was conceded at the time. However, the deal was made direct. between the Maclay-Estate Co., of Portland, and the Pacific Logging & T. Co., thru Mr. Jackson, the entire 8,310 acres being purchased at $8.12 per acre, or for some $67,000. Under their contract and cruise the plaintiff's claim they were entitled to the lands when logged off, and the $2, per M. for the timber on the land—some ninety or one hundred million feet—in other words, that under their contract, they were entitled to as their commission, some $130,000 and the logged-off-lands.

The judgment of the court was that parties coming into a court of equity must come in with clean hands, and because of the introduction in the evidence of a writing which showed a proposition of collusion, the court held that the plaintiff did not come into court in the right manner, and therefore was not entitled to recovery of anything. The case was therefore dismissed with costs against the plaintiff.

Plaintiff immediately moved for a new trial upon the grounds of irregularity of proceedings, of insufficiency of evidence to justify the findings of the court, and for error in certain rulings.

This motion will be heard as soon as possible, and it is probable the case will go to the supreme court in any event.

COULD EASILY BE DONE HERE

The people of Island county have decided not to submit to the extortion of transportation companies and propose to handle the business themselves. A company is being organized by Captains Green and Barrington to purchase two steamers, the Whidby and the Fairhaven, says the Townsend Call. The stockholders in the concern will be composed exclusively of residents in Island county. A larger portion of the stock has already been taken and it is expected that no difficulty will be experienced in selling the balance.

VALE CERTIFICATES

The banks at Seattle resumed cash payments last Monday morning. The only evidence that anything unusual had taken place was that several deposits were made by persons who said that they were bringing back the money because of the decision of the banks. No more certificates will be paid out of the banks. As rapidly as they come in they will be cancelled and the clink of silver will take their place.

The return of the Seattle banks to a cash basis has enabled the local banks to do likewise, the return to normal conditions being made this morning.

SAY ADAMS WAS VICTIM OF PLOT

Messrs. H. Wischmeyer, Ole Klaboe and Henry Belden of Ozette arrived in the city Sunday morning for the purpose of bailing out Alvin Adams who was held here on the charge of assault with a deadly weapon, and bound over to the Superior Court after a hearing before Justice Leake of Ozette. The gentlemen claim the boy is absolutely innocent of any crime and was a victim of a railroading plot. Adams returned to Ozette with the party Tuesday.

Rev. A. L. Loder received word by wire a few minutes before service Sunday night announcing the death in the East of his brother. The shock was a complete surprise to Mr. Loder as it was the first intimation he had had that his brother, who was of a robust nature, was even sick.

TO STOP EMIGRATION

OFFICIAL STATEMENT BY JAPANESE MINISTER OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

Realize That Emigration of Laborers in Guise of Students Might Be Embarrassing to America, So Strict Supervision Will Be Resorted To by Mikado's Ministers.

Tokio, Jan. 22.—Viscount Hayashi, Japanese minister of foreign affairs, in an interview made a statement concerning the emigration question which may be considered as an official declaration of the attitude of the government, it having been prepared for publication in Japan, anticipating a similar statement in the diet. Minister Hayashi said:

"The government of Japan is determined to investigate the personal standing of those that go to America as students, requiring two sureties for each before they leave. We realize that the emigration of laborers pretending to be students is liable to be embarrassing to America, and therefore we are determined to prevent the emigration of laborers.

"While the proposed restrictions may be embarrassing to real students, all legal restrictions will be made alike because one dishonest person may embarrass many who are honest.

"Although the negotiations with America have not yet been concluded, I may make the definite statement, as minister of foreign affairs, that the rumors which have been circulated to the effect that any important question is pending between America and Japan is a fabrication, originating in a certain section of the United States.

"Should emigration to Hawaii not be prevented entirely, the minister of foreign affairs will not hesitate to entirely prohibit Japanese emigration to those islands.

"The foreign office intends to prohibit emigration to Mexico. Those who desire to send emigrants to Mexico will be regarded as assisting emigrants to enter the United States through the frontier, and therefore they will be treated as lawbreakers.

"Resolutions condemning the government's attitude are unfair, because we have adopted a definite policy, and any agitation on our part will intensify suspicion in the United States and result to our disadvantage. The consideration of our commercial interests alone would justify our policy in regard to foreign relations. Its misconception by politicians is disadvantageous to our state. Our present policy is fully justified from the standpoint of the fundamental principles of international relations."

GUGGENHEIM COMPETITOR BEGINS RAILWAY WORK

Valdez, Jan. 22.—The Alaska Pacific Railway & Terminal Company, the competitor of the Morgan-Guggenheim Company at Catalla, is to resume actual construction work on its railroad early in the spring, according to advices received from Catalla. For some time very little work has been done by this company beyond keeping its breakwater in repair. According to the latest advices it is the intention of the company to complete its railroad to the Bering river coal fields next year.

A breakwater between the mainland and Fox island has already been constructed, as well as a wharf at the outer extremity of the island. This furnishes a fair harbor in good weather. In order to facilitate the transportation of material the company will put on a line of steamers of its own, thus removing one of the heaviest handicaps under which it has been working for the past year.

MONSTER CARIBOU HERD MOVING IN FAR NORTH

Dawson, Jan. 22.—The greatest herd of caribou ever reported in the Yukon is now moving southward across the head of Sixty-Mile river, 100 miles west of Dawson. The herd has been crossing there for nearly 100 days. It is estimated that 100,000 caribou have crossed already. No end to the mammoth procession is in sight. There may be 250,000, or several times that number, in the great moving herd.

Government explorers in the Hudson bay barren lands, including Joseph B. Tyrrell, geologist, reported from 1,000,000 to 2,000,000 seen there during a space of ten days only a few years ago.

The present herd is coming from the head of the Tanana valley.

Order Pleases Goldfield.

Goldfield, Nev., Jan. 18.—Following the announcement that President Roosevelt will permit the troops to remain in Goldfield until the legislature has provided for the organization of a state constabulary or other force for the maintenance of peace, there is general rejoicing among the conservative citizens of the camp. It is admitted that with the presence of the troops the possibility of serious trouble growing out of the labor situation is very remote.

Young Candidate for Governor.

St. Paul, Jan. 21.—Attorney General E. T. Young has announced his candidacy for governor on the republican ticket.

CANADIANS TO OPEN BANKS.

String of Six Financial Institutions in Eastern Washington.

Spokane, Jan. 21.—The British-American Bank has been formed to operate six banks in Eastern Washington, headquarters to be at Spokane. H. C. Flummerfeld of Vancouver, president of the International Coal Company, is president. He has accumulated a fortune in the coal mines of Canada. H. N. Galer of Spokane, a wealthy coal mine operator, is vice-president, and D. M. Rogers, a Canadian coal man, is also heavily interested. The capital will be $1,000,000. The cities where the banks will be established have not been made public. The banks will be started in April and will use the Canadian system of banking.

LAWSON ABANDONS FIGHT FOR THE PEOPLE

New York, Jan. 21.—Thomas Lawson of Boston, whose frenzied fight against the "system" for the benefit of the "people" has ecome historic, in a letter to E. J. Ridgway of Everybody's Magazine, explaining why he abandoned the fight, gives voice, in somewhat different words, to the familiar old Vanderbilt motto, "the public be d——!" Lawson announced that he expected to be made president of the Amalgamated and would let the public do its own reforming hereafter. Ridgway wrote him that he hoped there was some mistake.

Following are a number of quotations from Lawson's reply:

"You talk of what I owe the people. What do I owe to the gelatine-spined shrimps? What have the saffron-blooded apes done that I should halt any decision to match their lightning change, chameleon-hued loyalty?

People a Joke, Says Lawson.

"The people, forgive me, my dear Ridgway, but the people, particularly the American people, are a joke—a system joke.

When in all history have the people done aught but rail, or stand shivering by, while their enemies crucified those who battled for their benefit?"

Lawson tells of his fight and declares the people would give him no help, although he was fighting for them. They simply stood by and grinned. He continues:

"Then came the overturn of all my insurance work by the best lieutenant the system has ever had, honest Hughes, and the turning back for all time into the system's maw of the great insurance companies. What did the people do them? They hurrahed for—Hughes—and grinned."

Telling of what the fight had cost him, Lawson says:

"I cut off my friends and the friends of those dearest to me.

"I directed upon myself and those dearest to me the cursed machinations of the most vicious of human wolves.

"I spent an enormous fortune, so that today the remnant makes the cavity appear an abyss.

"I replaced a big, broad love for and faith in the people with contempt so great as to make me wonder how both could be bred in the same human soul.

"And even this awful price I would have willingly paid if I could have gained the end I started for. Yes, even now I would continue paying the same price on and on to the end if—and there's the rub—if it had done good. But it has done no good."

GREA SHOOT OF GALENA IN BUNKER HILL MINE

Wardner, Idaho, Jan. 21.—The Bunker Hill and Sullivan mine, discovered in 1885 by two prospectors of Spokane while lost in the Coeur d'Alene hills and which has since proved itself to be the greatest lead-silver producer in the world, has uncovered the longest shoot of solid galena ever found underground. The strike was made on the Sullivan side January 15, on what is known as the Mormon stope. The new ore body has a known length of at least 250 feet and is of unknown width. It will add from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 to the property, which is valued at $70,000,000, and means that it will require hundreds of men and years of time to mine the ore contained in the mammoth reserve.

This is the second important discovery made on the property in the last twelve months. The value of the first of these, found on the tenth level, was placed at $15,000,000 by R. N. Bell, state inspector of mines in Idaho, who added in his annual report that if the body were developed to depth the value would be trebled. This prediction has been more than verified, the workings indicated producing millions of dollars' worth of high grade ore.

Directed to Answer Questions.

New York, Jan. 18.—Federal Circuit Judge Hough has directed Otto Kuhn of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. to answer all questions asked by the interstate commerce commission relative to the acquisition of the Alton railroad by Harriman. E. H. Harriman is also directed to answer all questions except those relating to the purchase of Union and Southern Pacific stocks.

Council Must Be Shown.

Tacoma, Jan. 21.—The vacations committee of the council at a special meeting went on the warpath and decided to recommend that the council notify the Northern Pacific Railway Company that no further consideration of the proposed depot vacations would be made until the Northern Pacific is ready to divulge its complete plan for the Point Defiance line and regrade.

PLOTTERS ARRESTED

FIVE ITALIANS, TWO GERMANS AND A CANADIAN ARE JAILED AT RIO.

Alleged to Have Entered Into a Conspiracy to Damage or Destroy American Warships En Route to Pacific—Plot Said to Have Been Hatched in Paris Some Time Since.

Rio de Janeiro, Jan. 21.—Several arrests have been made in connection with an alleged plot to destroy part of the American fleet now in this harbor.

The band which is supposed to have organized the plot is presumably composed of five Italians, one Canadian and two Germans.

The members of the band counted on the assistance of a Spaniard named Rochero, who has lived in this city for a long time. A year ago, however, this man went insane and since then he has been shut up in a sanitarium at Montevideo.

In an afficial note, which the chief of police sent to the correspondent of the Associated Press, he says:

"Some time before the arrival of the American fleet at Rio Janeiro, the Brazilian government received word from Washington and Paris that anarchists of different nationalities intended to damage one or several of the ships of the American fleet. The names and addresses of the conspirators were indicated by information which the police here had received previously from France and Germany. I am sure every precaution will be exercised and the most rigorous vigilance observed, both on land and at sea, to prevent any injury."

The chief of police, after having made this official statement, said that he did not feel he should go into any further details with regard to the conspiracy, but he authorized the statement that the plot was organized by Jean Fedher, an Italian who has resided for some time in Brazil.

PLOT SAID TO HAVE BEEN HATCHED IN PARIS

Paris, Jan. 21.—The report of an anarchistic plot in conjunction with the American fleet appears to be another chapter of a weird story which has obtained much circulation here. A few people have treated this story seriously, however, others regarding it as fantastic, while many have dismissed the whole affair as a myth. However, as a matter of abundant precaution, the essential points of the story were made known through official channels to the authorities at Washington and Rio Janeiro, and out of this doubtless the action of the Rio Janeiro police has grown.

NEWS NO SURPRISE TO THE GOVERNMENT

Washington, Jan. 21.—That the American government was cognizant of the existence of ulterior designs against Admiral Evans' battleships in the harbor of Rio Janeiro was admitted in administration circles. The news first reached here by way of Paris, where somebody communicated it to the American embassy. There the officials were quick to send the news along to the state department at Washington, which in turn sent it forward to the American embassy at Rio, and also forwarded it to the navy department. The intimations contained were vague and indefinite as to details, yet, in view of the great importance of the matter and the possibilities which might develop were the officials on the scene not informed, no time was lost in transmitting it to Rio Janeiro.

While admitting that some damage might be done under the most favorable circumstances by persons having evil designs against a battleship, many of the officers who discussed the matter pointed out how difficult this would be in the absence of the most approved apparatus in mine laying operated by skilled persons.

Only Dental Graduates Eligible.

Olympia, Jan. 18.—In an opinion handed down in the appeal of E. G. Thompson, a Seattle dentist, the supreme court passed directly upon the question of the validity of the section of the state law regulating the practice of dentistry, which provides that all applicants for examination and admission must be graduates of dental colleges. The court passed squarely upon the question, following former opinions which left some doubt in the matter. The opinion sustains the dental board in refusing to issue him a license.

CAN RENEW LEASE BUT ONCE.

Attorney General Gives Opinion Regarding Washington State Lands.

Olympia, Jan. 21.—After a five-year lease of state lands has been once renewed for a similar period, no more renewals are permissible under the law, according to an opinion rendered to the state land commissioner by the attorney general. The land ofifce has uniformly held this way, but until recently the attorney general has verbally held renewals could be made, but now finds the authorities against that contention.

Lumber Camps to Reopen.

Aberdeen, Jan. 21.—The statement is made that Clemmons Bros.' large lumber camps on the Wishkah river are to be started again in two weeks.

HARVESTER TRUST IS FINED.

Convicted of Violating Kansas Laws Against Monopoly.

Topeka, Kan., Jan. 20.—Judge Dana, in the Shawnee county district court, assessed a fine of $12,600 against the International Harvester Company, which the court found guilty on forty-three counts of violating the Kansas anti-trust law.

The maximum fine is $1,000 a count and the minimum $100.

The criminal suit was filed a year ago by Attorney General Coleman, who contended that the harvester company was being operated in Kansas in violation of the anti-trust laws. The specific charge was made by the state that implement dealers in Topeka were compelled to sign a contract to handle no other harvesting machinery save that made by the International Harvester Company, and that the schedule of prices was not to be violated.

The conviction was secured almost entirely upon the admission in evidence of a statement made by Cyrus McCormick, president of the harvester company, at a meeting of implement dealers in Kansas City, when he told of the formation of the company and its purposes.

The case was heard before Judge Dana December 2. The company was given a stay of execution for sixty days to prepare a case for the supreme court.

RESERVE POLICY INDORSED.

President's Course in Grazing Lands Is Sanctioned by Stock Growers.

Denver, Jan. 21.—President Roosevelt's policy of government control of grazing lands in and out of forest reserves was unanimously indorsed by the forest reserves and grazing land committee of the American National Live Stock Association. The committee is representative of all parts of the country, and its recommendations are certain of acceptance. The president's policy on this question was also approved in resolutions adopted by the convention of the Colorado Cattle and Horse Growers' Association.

The Western stock show was formally thrown open to the public yesterday morning. It is the largest display of the kind ever seen outside of the international live stock show in Chicago.

Preliminary to the meeting of the national association the Colorado Cattle and Horse Growers' Association met. President John W. Springer made an address, which was the sensation of the convention. He said that the United States senate was an aggregation of millionaires put there by the trusts. He criticized the strict protectionists of Massachusetts, who demanded a reduction of the tariff on wool and hides, but poo-poohed the Westerners' cry for a reduction on shoes and clothes.

FORAKER ADMITS DEFEAT IN CONTEST TO CONTROL OHIO

Cincinnati, Jan. 21.—United States Senator J. B. Foraker has admitted a practical surrender to the faction supporting Secretary Taft's candidacy for nomination as presidential candidate. Senator Foraker arrived here from Washington yesterday and announced that his plan was to fight for the national convention delegates from Ohio's twenty-one congressional districts and to allow Secretary Taft to have the four delegates-at-large without a contest.

Senator Foraker said:

"So far as the state convention is concerned I have not changed my opinion since I was here, that the call is illegal and unjustly burdensome. On that account, as I have heretofore announced, I shall not make any effort to comply with its terms and conditions, neither will my friends make such effort, except only as their local conditions may prompt them.

"Of course, the delegates selected to the state convention will all be for Taft, for there will be no opposition. This does not apply, however, to the congressional districts. They are not under the control of the state central committee and are not bound by anything the state convention may do. Each district will elect its own delegates in its own way. What the districts may do remains to be seen."

NEW YORK CORPORATIONS SUBJECT OF LEGAL INQUIRY

New York, Jan. 22.—The grand jury, in its presentment to Judge Dowling today, declared that a widespread belief existed that many persons now or lately connected with financial institutions in this city have been guilty of serious crimes and that the guilty persons should be discovered and punished if the law was adequate for such purposes.

Should the law be found inadequate properly to protect the community, the grand jury says that the legislature now in session should amend the law. If there has only been a laxness in the conduct of business and not a criminal disregard of duty, it is to the interest of the public that the fact be made clear, the presentment states.

The grand jury declares that the district attorney has informed them that he has an adequate force of assistants to handle all matters brought before them, and that the board of estimate and apportionment has provided ample funds for the investigation. All persons having information concerning the commission of the crimes of a character indicated are requested to appear before the committee which the grand jury has appointed to make the investigation.

The co-operation of the newspapers is asked for by the grand jury as a means of obtaining information.

PARTY MUST UNITE

OTHERWISE, IT IS SAID, BRYAN WILL NOT ACCEPT DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION.

Surprised at Strength of Rivals as Revealed by Recent Canvass in House of Representatives—Several of the Other Candidates, He says, He Could Heartily Support.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Information has reached democratic leaders here that William J. Bryan will not permit his name to go before the national democratic convention at Denver unless he is assured that he is substantially the unanimous choice of his party. The information reached them, it is stated, through a democrat known to enjoy intimate political relations with Mr. Bryan.

Prominent democrats in congress have been given to understand that Mr. Bryan expressed surprise over a recent canvass of house democrats, which disclosed that there are other democrats in the field who have a respectable following, innumerably speaking.

Mr. Bryan is reported anxiously to await a reply as to the accuracy of the poll and to have declared that, if real, respectable democrats oppose his nomination, he will not be a candidate. In referring to the comment upon the poll, to the effect that. should the states vote at the convention as their delegates in congress voted, he would not have the necessary two-thirds required to nominate, Mr. Bryan is quoted as saying:

"It will not require the votes of a third of the delegates at the convention to prevent my nomination. I do not want nay more Parker campaigns. A candidate should be selected who can command the earnest support of an undivided party. I do not want the nomination it will split our party. I would much rather see someone else nominated.

"There are several spoken of as candidates—Governor Smith of Georgia, Governor Johnson of Minnesota and Senator Culberson of Texas—any one of whom I could heartily indorse for the presidency and actively support."

JAPAN SAID TO BE ON THE VERGE OF BANKRUPTCY

London, Jan. 18.—England is daily giving evidences of her fear for the future of Japan. Statesmen say the combined political and financial problem confronting the mikado's country has suddenly loomed up as a menacing force and that few persons who have not seen Japan's balance sheet appreciate the imminent danger.

Events of the last few days have shown the world how threatening the situation really is. One thing seems certain—there will be no war talk on the part of Japan—that is, for a long time to come.

Even by most careful figuring and best management, British statesmen cannot understand how Japan can wipe out her war debts by wringing from $62 to $63 yearly from each of her subjects.

If the mikado fails to carry this tax system to a successful end, the country may have to resort to bankruptcy proceedings, but England would hardly stand by and see her ally adopt such a measure, as England has vast interests in Japan.

England would regard the merest possibility of Japan's suspension with the keenest alarm. The recent resignations in the mikado's cabinet are attributed wholly to financial difficulties. There is grave doubt that the vacancies can be filled without a national election, and in the event that such a course should be adopted, popular feeling would be further increased.

CHICAGO PACKERS SELL GALL STONES TO JAPANESE

Chicago, Jan. 18.—The Record-Herald says:

Chicago packers are selling gall stones at high prices to the Japanese. What the subjects of the mikado do with the queer product of Packingtown is a mystery, but they use great quantities and are willing to pay any price demanded for them.

The report of the business, which had been kept a trade secret as far as this city is concerned, comes from the Canadian trade commissioner at Yokohama. He says one big Chicago firm sold its output to a Japanese for $14.94 a pound, and that the importer retailed his product for $99.60 a pound. In order to discover the value of its product the firm increased its price steadily, but the Japanese continued to buy all the gall stones they could procure.

Indian Claims Not Warranted.

Washington, Jan. 18.—The secretary of the interior has submitted to congress a letter saying that after thorough investigation he does not find the claims of the Chinook, Wahkiakum, Chehalis and Wheelappa Indian tribes of Washington, for payment for lands, are warranted, and recommends that they be not paid.

Spokane Blue Laws Stand.

Spokane, Jan. 22.—Last night the city council by a tie vote refused to repeal any of the ancient blue laws, particularly those relating to Sunday closing of saloons.

PRESS RUEF CASES

LANGDON SAYS NEGOTIATIONS FOR IMMUNITY ARE AT AN END.

Refusal to Testify in Ford Case Given as Cause for Annulment of Agreement—Application Made to Judge Lawler to Set Cases for Immediate Trial.

San Francisco, Jan. 20.—The situation in the bribery graft prosecution brought about by the recent decision of the circuit court of appeals setting aside the indictment for extortion against ex-Mayor Eugene E. Schmitz, on which he was tried and convicted, reached a climax late Saturday night when Prosecuting Attorney Langdon announced that all questions of immunity for Abraham Ruef is at an end and that he would at once ask Superior Judge Lawler to set for trial one of the charges of bribery against Ruef now pending in Lawler's court.

It was also announced that every charge against Ruef will now be pressed to a conclusion.

It is also intimated that the prosecution will appeal to the supreme court from the decision of the court of appeals in the Schmitz case. In making the announcement that Ruef would be placed on trial the prosecuting attorney made public a detailed formal contract between Ruef and the prosecution made last May.

Immunity Provided.

In this contract it was provided that the prosecution would grant Ruef almost complete immunity from prosecution in consideration of his going on the witness stand and testifying to the whole truth against each and every defendant brought to trial in the graft cases.

An exception was made in the Ruef extortion case which was then on trial, and in which it was agreed that Ruef was to plead guilty, which he did in a dramatic manner a few days after the ontract was signed.

The prosecution claims that Ruef did not live up to his agreement when Tirey L. Ford, general counsel of the United Railroads, was tried and acquitted of one of the charges of bribery against him.

When the court of appeals rendered the decision in the Schmitz case on the same indictment to which Ruef had pleaded guilty, Ruef, the prosecution charges, thought he saw his way clear to defy the confidences between himself and the district attorney over the question as to whether Ruef had kept his agreement and was entitled to further consideration.

Begs for Postponement.

The prosecution threatened to nullify the agreement and Ruef begged that the end be postponed. Finally Ruef was told that his pleading was in vain.

In declaring the immunity contract void the prosecution asserts that it was moved by Ruef's post failure to keep his agreement and by the absolute refusal of Judges Dunne and Lawler to countenance any immunity.

The case which will be begun against Ruef before Judge Lawler is the one in which indictments were brought against him for the alleged bribery of supervisors in connection with a franchise of an overhead trolley system for the United Railways.

Ruef refused to make any statement regarding the change in the attitude of the prosecution toward him and their decision not to give him immunity.

CHICAGO BANKER IS CONVICTED OF FRAUD

Chicago, Jan. 20.—John R. Walsh, ex-resident of the Chicago National bank, which closed its doors in December, 1905, was found guilty on fifty-four counts of the indictments charging misapplication of the bank's funds. The verdict was returned by a jury in the federal district court here. Walsh was permitted to remain at liberty under the bond furnished by him after the indictment had been returned one year ago to a day, pending the hearing of arguments on January 28 on a motion by his counsel for a new trial.

The penalty fixed by the statutes for the offense of which the aged financier was convicted is imprisonment for not less than five years nor more than ten for each count upon which his guilt was established.

INDICTMENTS AGAINST LUMBERMEN QUASHED

Minneapolis, Jan. 21.—Demurrers to indictments against nineteen prominent lumbermen, charging conspiracy to defraud, were upheld in the federal district court here by Judge William Lochren. The indictments were based upon the issuance and operation of the plan in the so-called "black book." It was designed to badger catalogue house competitors and to pile upon them useless and costly correspondence. Judge Lochren heard counsel for but one of the indicted lumbermen and upheld the demurrers, which ends the prosecution.

Heinze Has Made Good.

Butte, Jan. 18.—State Bank Examiner T. E. Collins, in charge of the State Savings Bank, reported to Judge Bourquin that F. Augustus Heinze, who owned 50 per cent of the stock of that institution when it suspended a few months ago, has turned over to him securities to secure the debt he owes the bank.

NO POSTPONEMENT

ALASKA-YUKON-PACIFIC EXPOSITION TO BE HELD IN 1909, AS AT FIRST PROPOSED.

Decision of Executive Committee to This Effect Was Unanimous—Contract Let for Construction of Agricultural Building—Vice-President McGraw Wires Congress Will Favorably Consider Appropriation.

The Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition will be held at the time and place planned. Any doubt in the public mind that the 1909 fair would be opened at the appointed time was dispelled when the executive committee met recently. After unanimously passing a resolution that there would be no postponement, the committee proceeded with letting a contract for the erection of the agricultural building, to cost $81,250. The resolution was introduced by E. C. Hughes.

Those present at the committee meeting were: J. E. Chilberg, president; I. A. Nadeau, director general; C. J. Smith, E. C. Hughes, George Boole, J. W. Clise, Will H. Parry, A. S. Kerry and J. S. Goldsmith. The resolution follows:

"It is the unanimous sense of the members of the executive committee that the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition be held at the place and time hitherto planned—Seattle, U. S. A., from June 1 to October 15, 1909."

The committee announced after the meeting that there was plenty of money on hand and that money for tock was coming in all the time. There is absolutely no reason, they say, why the fair should not be held as planned from the beginning.

Work Progressing.

Work on the grounds and buildings is going forward rapidly. H. Chase & Co., of Seattle, who secured the contract for the erection of the agricultural building, will begin work at once. Good progress has been made on the manufactures building. The contractors, Strenlow, Freeze & Peterson, have more than 100 men employed. The uprights for the frame are nearly all in place and the flooring has been laid. Work has begun on the emergency hospital and the basin for Cascade court is fast getting into shape.

Vice-President J. H. McGraw, who is in Washington, D. C., wired that congress is looking with favor upon the exposition and that the appropriation bill will soon come up for consideration, with assurance that it will be favorably reported.

Henry E. Reed, director of exploitation, who is also in Washington working in the interest of the exposition, wired Director General Nadeau to reserve all of the ground already allotted to Uncle Sam by the management and considerable more space. This means, according to exposition officials, that the treasury department is preparing its plans for the buildings it will have to erect under the conditions of the bill which has been introduced in congress.

Exposition in World Almanac.

The twenty-fifth anniversary number of the New York World Almanac and Encyclopedia, just issued, contains, among the thousand and one things of value as information, a full page devoted to the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition. The one page given to a brief history of the exposition as planned contains all facts worthy of notice or record connected with the enterprise from its inception.

TACOMA WOOD DEALER IS BROUGHT TO ACCOUNT

Tacoma, Jan. 20.—As a result of a crusade begun by County Auditor Howell against short weights and measures on the part of merchants, M. A. Eldridge, a wood dealer, has been brought to book and fined $25. Ex-State Senator W. P. Sargeant ordered a cord of wood from Eldridge and upon measuring found Eldridge had delivered but half a cord. Numerous complaints have been made of wood and coal dealers short-weighting and short-measuring, and officers say evidence is easily obtainable and hereafter vigorous prosecutions will be made. Retail grocerymen complain that wholesale men are short-weighting them on certain brands of goods, and the county auditor will investigate the case. An inspection of all the scales used in stores and shops of the city has been ordered.

New Victoria Hotel Opens.

Victoria, Jan. 21.—The Empress hotel, last and best of the seventeen hotels of the Canadian Pacific railway system from the Atlantic to the Pacific, was opened yesterday with an informal luncheon to newspaper men from Seattle, Tacoma, Spokane, Walla Walla, Portland and other places, and a dinner was given last night, attended by Premier McBride and the elite of the province. The Empress hotel was recently completed at a cost of $750,000.

Charles Emory Smith.

Philadelphia, Jan. 20.—Charles Emory Smith, editor of the Press, former United States minister to Russia and former postmaster general, died suddenly at his home here yesterday, aged 65 years. For some time Mr. Smith had been in poor health.

FOR AND ABOUT WOMEN

The Woman of the Future.

It is somewhat reassuring to learn that the woman of the future "will in all probability speak less than the woman of to-day, but her silence and her smile will be more eloquent."

That is good.

But we are not told that she will possess that most essential quality—humor. Without this gift she would be, despite her possession of all other virtues, something less than a joy forever.

According to the "Maxims of Methuselah," as translated by Gelett Burgess, "a woman without humor is an annoyance; she is as the touch of wet velvet or a mouse nibbling in the night. She is as a cigar whose wrapper is torn and the air leaketh therein; nothing can mend her." "And like the alarm clock that goeth off at 7 a. m., so is she who saith: 'I told you so.'"

As to Women.

There will always be something new to say about women as long as one is left among us.

Man would not always walk straight ahead if he did not meet a woman at each step. She is a charming traveling companion, but one who does not know her way, and she prevents us from seeing ours.

Since the creation of the world fashions change constantly, but woman never changes.

To ascertain the age of a woman it is necessary to ask her and to ask her best friend. She will say 30, the friend will say 40, and then you take the average.

Women who excite in our minds merely exclamations of admiration are like Racine's tragedies—too perfect. One prefers those who excite interrogation points, says Life.

The heart of a woman is at once her friend and her enemy.—Philadelphia Record.

Gown of Messaline.

The new shade of smoky gray, in lustrous messaline, was used for the model costume pictured. The skirt was long and sweeping and was trimmed only by a deep hem, piped with a cord of the material. The bodice was trimmed with cut-out square sections of the satin, corded on the edge and stitched over white Cluny lace. The long shirred sleeves were of very sheer white tulle lace, as was the yoke. The Japanese sleeves were of the heavy lace, edged with folds of satin, and tassel drop ornaments to match were used on the bodice.

Shampoo Recipe.

A good shampoo mixture is made by scraping an ordinary cake of castile soap and putting with it a pint of boiling water. Place in an agate saucepan and let simmer slowly for ten minutes after the soap is dissolved. Pour into a wide-mouth jar and cover. When cold it will be jelly.

To use take two tablespoonfuls and beat into a raw egg, adding half a cup of warm water. Massage the scalp thoroughly with this and wash in clear warm water.

An ailing scalp is often best treated by wetting with olive oil a couple of hours before shampooing, when the castile soap and egg mixture given may be used with good results.

Shoppers' Headache.

Shoppers' headache is generally supposed to be due to the fact that one has not eaten enough. There is no work more nerve trying than shopping, and a good, substantial luncheon will help much. Take an hour for rest and eat, thinking as little as possible of the tasks yet to be accomplished, and there will not be such a splitting headache to take home on the train in the evening. Women who live in the city have little excuse for shopping all day.

Velvet Coats.

Velvets of various weaves and finishes and in all colorings are unusually prominent wherever fashionable women congregate. Black velvet coats are worn quite as much for evening as for dress wear during the day. These are brightened in various ways by the employment of handsome buttons, and also by the introduction of color in their trimmings. A smart coat is of black velours in Princess coat, and quite plain except for a few jeweled buttons and for the facing of the long shawl revers and flaring cuffs. These are of black satin, brocaded in velvet roses in natural color and shades of pink and crimson.

Some say that the draped skirts are intended to counteract the influence of flounced effects, which some designers feel have enjoyed fashionable favor long enough. It cannot be denied that they are adapted to a greater variety of becoming arrangements than flounces, which at their scantiest are looked upon with distrust by women no longer slender, though gracefully dignified.

Some of the smartest draped effects are raised at the front, appearing as if the panel has simply been terminated at the knees and left unstitched to fall over a deep hem or fold of a decorative fabric or bit of lace. Again the drapery appears at the side and still again one sees it falling in a point at the front, perilously close in its resemblance to the old-fashioned overskirt.

Those who are perforce compelled to consider the practicability of a mode before anything else will find the stitched draperies both smart and effective. They form self trimmings, or may be of velvet, moire or even simply a simulated drapery achieved with braid in a slightly darker shade than the material of the gown. Skirts of cloth falling over petticoats of taffeta finished with deep folds of moire or panne are used to embody some very clever ideas by the leading dressmakers of Paris, and if the coat is of dark color, as many of the latest tailored models are, the facing of the mounting corresponds with the shade of the coat.

Health and Beauty Hints.

Warm lime water used on the teeth at night will tend to counteract over-acidity.

For chilblains rub on witch-hazel. This is also excellent for pain in the joints, poor circulation or stiffness.

A baby's eyelashes may be clipped to induce the growth, but after earliest childhood that method is inadvisable, as the lashes may not grow a second time.

Do not drink hot coffee immediately after eating ice cream if you value that enamel, also do not acquire the thread-biting habit or try to rival the squirrel in nut cracking.

Ragged eyebrows may be readily reformed by simply painting them nightly with a small camel's-hair brush dipped in vaseline and smoothing them gently with a soft brush like that used on an infant's head.

A cold may often be prevented if when the first creepy feeling is noticed one gets down with the back close in front of a hot register or radiator and stays there until so warm as to be uncomfortable. It is, of course, important not to chill after this toasting.

Good Face Cream.

A delightful face cream, which works veritable wonders if employed as soon as it is made, and never after it has been mixed more than a week or so: Blanch for the purpose four ounces of sweet almonds and pound them till they are smooth, add the yolks of three eggs, and mix with fresh cream; boil as you would a custard, stirring all the time, and remove as soon as it thickens; then add the perfume you prefer. Seal while hot.

Extremely smart gowns consist of woolen skirts made of tartan, worn with plain cloth or plain velvet jackets.

The shoulder seam in all dresses is disguised by draperies or embroideries, and the shoulder line is always drooping.

The square jacket and the plaited skirt in some heavy stuffs, plaids or plain brown-reds or very dark blues, are much worn. With them are seen shirt blouses and jabots that grow fuller and wider.

The foremost couturiers are making princess dresses of dark-tinted velvets, sapphire blue or peacock, myrtle green or the very fashionable shade called "ecaille blonde," made with sleeves of Italian point.

A blue cloth costume was trimmed with a pale yellow vest and white lace empiecements on the jacket portion only. The three pale tints were nicely blended and the jaunty little jacket was well matched in the neatly plaited skirt, also cut in the latest godet pattern.

A high round girdle laid in soft folds of plain satin was given a novel touch by two broad streamers of brocaded ribbon, ten or more inches wide, that came from the top of the girdle in the back, where the ends were caught through an oval rhinestone buckle.

As many lace waists in the burnt-ivory tone as those made of white or cream are to be worn. Tiny gold buttons in clusters trim prettily in many cases, relieving the depth of color by a touch of brightness. A cerise cravatte is also one of the best color contrasts to be worn with one of the waists.

A nightgown that seems to be growing in favor is the Josephine or empire model. This is particularly liked by stout women, who find extremely comfortable the band of beading just below the shoulders that is run with ribbons. The opening at the neck is generally the short, full strip of the regulation empire models, but occasionally it is arranged in a V.

Caring for the Hands.

Remember that scissors and the cuticle of the finger nails are deadly enemies. Scissors should never be used unless it is absolutely necessary.

Remember to shape the nails after every particle of superfluous skin has been removed from them.

Remember that the nicest shape for the nails is oval or slightly pointed, and the almond shaped nail is indicative of good birth.

Remember after filing the nails to the proper shape to use a tiny emery board to smooth the rough edges.

Remember to prevent the skin at base of nail from growing too rapidly by putting a few drops of acid on it and pressing skin back with the fingers.

When the baby is 6 months old it is usually put in short clothes. If it is born during the early spring the time for short-coating is sometimes advanced so that the tot may be used to abbreviated garments by the time frost comes, while if its first birthday is in the autumn the long clothes are retained until the first mild days of spring. —The Designer.

For children with rickets diet is most important. Give raw or slightly cooked meat juice, or very underdone finely chopped meat, lightly cooked bacon, gravy and meat broths, cream, potatoes and milk puddings. A diet of this kind given to weakly children who have a tendency to rickets will help them to outgrow it.

Novel Medicine Chest.

When sickness occurs in the country it means, unless medicines are in the house, that a doctor must be sent for, and in many cases it will be hours before he can arrive. Every woman should have a small medicine chest, provided with at least 10 to 25 cents' worth of each of the following medicines, which often will relieve and cure what might otherwise necessitate a doctor's visit: Sirup of ipecac, castor oil, sweet spirits of niter, arnica, witchhazel, sweet oil, bicarbonate of soda, licorice compound, camphor, vaseline, paregoric, mustard, small roll of antiseptic cotton.

Separate Blouses.

Separate blouses to wear with the new close-fitting skirts are made of materials that contrast with them or are trimmed with a vivid color. Blues, dull green and Chinese pink surmount skirts of brown or black cloth. Dainty silk muslin blouses in pale tints in various tones, such as grayish blue, faded pink, etc., are incrusted with Venetian lace or with motives of embroidered cloth.

Marriage.

The Englishman—It's rather the proper thing to do.

The Irishman—A foretaste of heaven.

The Scotchman—It's aricht, if she's got the siller.

The Dutchman—Who vill cook der dinner if you no have got der vraw?

The Italian—Marriage gives a man another angel to pray for him and saves him the trouble of doing it himself.

The American—Haven't got the time.

W. W. Washburn, mayor of Neah Bay, spent a few days in the city this week, returning home Thursday.

A new shingle mill is to be operated at Port Crescent. The machinery went down on the Rosalie today, being shipped from Port Williams.

Louis Roberson and A. B. Cameron, of Dungeness, were here this week as witnesses in the suit against the Pacific Logging Company of Dungeness.

Messrs. S. C. Jackson, A. B. Ross, and A. S Lane, officers of the Pacfic Logging Company of Dungeness, were here on important business this week.

The Filion Lumber Co., it is expected, will resume operations during the coming week; many of the mills of the Sound and Grays Harbor have also started up again.

An entertainment will be given in the Lincoln Memorial Hall on Fifth and Lincoln, Friday evening, 31st. A patriotic program will be rendered at 8 o'clock. Ten cents admission; everybody invited.

We just received a nice line of floor coverings—new patterns in art squares, rugs, linoleums, and oil cloths at prices away down.

A novelty in the way of hen fruit, in the shape of a double egg, was brought in to the Olympic office by Thos. Luke today. The inner egg, about as large as a pullet's, is incased in a perfectly formed hard shell.

Paul D. Cook, representing the Navigation company, was here this week on a preliminary trip, the first of a series of regular visits. Mr. Cook said he had no proposition to make at this time, merely wishing to get the opinion of the business men on the character of our boat service.

The closing out sale of the Times Clothing Mart, which is to commence on Wednesday, the 29th, comes as a decided surprise to the people of Angeles. Mr. Muskett had bought heavily from Eastern houses in anticipation of a big trade during the winter season, but the closing down of the mills, coupled with the long continued warm weather has made the present step necessary. Mr. Hays of Chicago, who has charge of the sale, tells us prices have been cut down below cost in nearly every instance and are such that no one can afford to overlook them.

The ladies of the Book Club entertained Saturday night at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Withrow in honor of a former member, Mrs. W. J. Ware, and Mr. Ware who are spending a week in the city. Cards were the order of the evening, Mrs. A. J. Cosser carrying off the ladies highest score and Mr. E. A. FitzHenry that for the gentlemen, Then followed a pie contest—in which the gentlemen only were asked to give the recipe of the pie eaten. The result was a most humorous collection of conglomerate ingredients that were warranted to kill, the prize going to Mr. A. A. Smith in a draw with Mr. W. F. Delabarre. Mr. T. T. Aldwell and Mrs. N. K. Mead were given a small pie between them as a consolation!

A large shipment of plows, spike and spring tooth harrows have just arrived and will be sold at prices that will sell them. H. Gutenberg Hdw. & Fur. Co.

Roy Mason, of Port Angeles and Miss Winnie McMullen, of Seattle, were married at the home of the bride, January 16th. Present, members of her family and a few chosen friends, among which were Mr. and Mrs. O. Mason, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Babcock and Harry Mason, all of this city.

Roy grew to manhood here among us, and was known as an exemplary young man of sterling ability and well deserving of his merited success. After a sumptuous banquet they left for their future home in North Bend, where Mr. Mason is engaged in the drug business, and well appreciated by his fellow-townsmen, judging by the number of telegrams received from there containing congratulations and wishes of a pleasant journey on the sea of matrimony, all of which is hvartily endorsed by Roy's many friends in Clallam county and Port Angeles.

Baker, the Second Hand Man, was busy whistling the old familiar tune, "Comin' Thru the Rye," the other day, when the suggestion was offered that times had changed; that the later version was "Comin' with the rye." Mr. MacGill said that he had "cut out" this old tune since seeing Baker's new "pome," which is quite appropriate:

"If a body trust a body
And fail to get prompt pay,
May a body ask a body
Please remit today?"

When trading with "Bake" this tune is where every one may sing.

One of the prettiest parties given for young people in the city was held this afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. G Wilcox in honor of the eleventh birthday anniversary of their daughter, Miss Susie, the guests being members of the Jennie Wren Club and other young friends. The home was beautifully decorated for the occasion and the tables where the little ladies sat down to a bountious dinner of good things, was inviting indeed. Games of various kinds were played, and a general afternoon of frolic enjoyed by all. The young hostess, who received several beautiful presents, did the honors of the afternoon in a way that would have done credit to many an older person.

The pile driving outfit of the dis-incorporated Gate City Contracting Co. has been purchased by A. H. Thompson and B. G. Wilcox. The new firm will be known as The Port Angeles Pile Driving Co. Mr. Wilcox was president of the old company, and concluded to withdraw from the business, but was prevailed upon to resume control of mechanical part; he having served so long in this capacity, it was like breaking home ties to leave it, so has decided to remain with Mr. Thompson. It will make a first class company.

Your First.

When your mind begins to canter to the days of long ago,
And you get to ruminating on the joys you used to know,
There's a boyish recollection that you never can forget,
And you have to stop and chuckle when you think about it yet,
'Tis the time you blushed, as people passing by you, looked askance
As your gawky-like appearance in those
First
Long
Pants!

You remember what a picture of absurdity you made
When your uncouth, clumsy figure in the mirror you surveyed;
For the garments were not "tailored," and they lacked in style and fit,
And the "hang of coat and trousers troubled you a little bit,
Everybody, you remember, turned to take a second glance
When you came before the public in your
First
Long
Pants!

And your playmates dubbed you "Dudie," and by gesture and by word
They declared your cringing figure looked ungainly and absurd.
But the girls they pointed at you as you shambled down the street
And defended you as "manly" and the boys as "indiscreet."
While your relatives—your uncles and your cousins and your aunts,
How they "joshed" you when they saw you in your
First
Long
Pants!

You had many bitter trials when you reached the awkward stage;
Many boyish tribulations at this very tender age,
You were tortured and tormented in a thousand different ways—
Ah, how tantalizing everybody acted in these days!
But your other youthful troubles were a trifling circumstance
To the ridicule you suffered in those
First
Long
Paats!

Fifteen Matches Lifted with One.

Lay across a lucifer match, which we will call A, fourteen others, B, placing them with their phosphorized ends upward, the opposite ends resting on the table, as shown at the foot of our illustration. These ends must lie alternately to the right and left of A. If I now ask you to lift the while by simply taking hold of one end of A, it is clear that the matches B will fall by their own weight.

There is, however, a little expedient which will enable you to perform the operation with success. Upon the fourteen matches B, along the depression formed by their alternate position across A, lay another match which we will call C. You may then lift A; the matches B will drop obliquely, clipping C between their upper ends as between a pair of jaws, and may thus be held aloft as long as you please, looking like a miniature reproduction of a folding campstool. The old-fashioned large-sized lucifers are preferable for this experiment, though the Swedish safety matches may, at a pinch, be made to serve the purpose.—Magical Experiments.

Learning to Write.

Ethel, according to her own schoolgirl phrasing, "hated" to write compositions, and her dislike was about evenly divided between the burden of selecting her own subject and the embarrassment of having one chosen for her. In the first case, she never knew what to take, and in the last, the teacher, according to her prejudiced fancy, seemed bound to select the very topic about which she knew nothing, and in which she had no interest. Finally, on a miserable Saturday when her composition was, after much tribulation, finished, she freed her mind to Aunt Laura.

"Nothing to write about?" said auntie. "Dear me, what a pity in this big world full of interesting things! I suppose you have such a dull time that nothing worth telling ever happens to you."

"Oh, no, it isn't that," said Ethel. "Lots of things happen, but nothing important enough to write about. Why, our compositions have to be read before the whole school, and how the girls would laugh if I should get up and give an account of some of our larks!"

"Now, I'll tell you what I'd do," said Aunt Laura; "I'd keep a notebook."

"Like Hawthorne's?"

"Well, I daresay it would be rather different from his, and so it ought to be. You must write in it the interesting things that happen to you, and put them down in your own way. Make up your mind not to show the book, and then you won't be tempted into affectation. Don't moralize, and don't indulge in reflections, if you can help it."

"Why, I shouldn't even know how to begin!"

"I'll show you. A dozen times a day you tell me things that interest me greatly. Think of that country walk you were so happy over last week. When you got home, you described the blue sky with its little tufts of woolly clouds, the bank where you found hepaticas; you told me exactly how you scraped away the dead leaves, and what a ridiculous time you had in trying to beg a string at the farmhouse.

"Then you repeated the story of the poor little girl you met on the way home, and said she remarked, as she took some of your luncheon, that she liked fruit cake better than sandwiches."

"But I couldn't put that in a composition!"

"Perhaps not, but the habit of writing will not only help you to gain fluency in the use of the pen, but it will teach you to observe.

"Besides, you will have in your notebook a stock of material to which you can turn when you have nothing to say.

"Remember, above all things, to put down only the exact truth—for nothing that has not the ring of reality is worth preserving—and not to indulge in general reflections that had become common-places before you were born."

The book was bought, and Ethel, with a few relapses, kept it zealously. At the end of six months she declared that the plan was a "splendid" one. Perhaps other young folks, forced to become writers against their will, might think so, too.—Chicago Daily News.

R. S. V. P.

Although Johnnie's and Willie's mothers are warm friends, those boys are always fighting each other, we learn from Harper's Weekly.

After a recent battle the victorious Johnnie was urged by his mother to go and make friends with his fallen foe. She even offered to give him a party if he would go over and invite Willie to come to that festivity.

After much urging Johnnie promised to do as his mother wished. So the party came off at the appointed time, and was violently enjoyed by all present. But Willie did not come.

"Now, Johnnie, you did invite him?" asked Johnnie's mother.

"Yes I did. Yes, ma'am, I invited him!" answered Johnnie. "I invited him," he added reflectively, "and I dared him to come."

A Curious Word.

A curious word—and quite an unusual one—is "hypogeum." If you tell some credulous friend that you have one at home, he will not know whether you mean a musical instrument, or an animal like a hippopotamus, and perhaps he may gladly accept your invitation to go with you and see it. When you reach your house, take him down and show him the cellar, for that is the hypogeum. Ask any architect you know, and he will tell you that a hypogeum in architecture is that part of a building that is below the level of the ground, including cellars, vaults and so forth.

Thoughtful Tommy.

"Here's a present for you, mamma,"
Said Tom on one Christmas morn;
Mamma dropped her work and soon she
Had the bundle open torn.
"This surprise," she laughed out lightly,
"Tommy, almost strikes me dumb;
What do you suppose your mamma
Wants with this little drum?"

"You will think," said little Tommy,
"That I am a thoughtful boy;
You were wishing you could spare the
Cash to buy for me that toy.
So I saved—that is your present,
And"—and Tom's face beamed with glee—
"You may now present me with it;
Isn't that thoughtful, now, of me?"

His Sympathy.

In the criminal court in Baltimore a darky was on trial for stealing a watch, which he had pawned. He was identified by the owner as the person who grabbed the watch out of his pocket, yet the darky claimed to be innocent. When asked how he came in possession of the watch he said:

"I was standing on the corner when a man comes up to me and says he is hard up and hasn't a cent to buy food with, and he wants to sell me this watch for $3. I knew I could get $4 on it in pawn, and I felt sorry for him and bought the watch for $3 and pawned it for $4. That's how I got the watch."

The prosecutor then asked, if he had bought the watch for $3, knowing he could pawn it for $4, simply to help the man along because he felt sorry for him, why he did not advise him to pawn it himself, and then he would have had $4 instead of $3.

"Well, you see," said the prisoner, "I didn't have the presence of mind to do dat."—Judge's Library.

A Fairy Tale.

Once upon a time there was a little boy and a stone and a bird and a fairy.

The little boy was about to throw the stone at the bird, which was a very pretty one.

"You bad boy," said the fairy; "it's wrong to throw stones at birds."

"Aw, g'wan," answered the bad boy.

"If you do, you'll miss something nice," said the fairy. But the boy threw the stone.

"Now, what'll I miss?" asked the boy.

"You have already missed it," answered the fairy.

"What?" said the boy.

"Why, the bird, y' chump," replied the fairy, who at once changed the boy into a saw. He then saw the point.—Toledo Blade.

CONSCRIPTION IN ARMY OR MORE PAY TO MEN.

Enforced Service Faces American People, Declares Adjutant General Ainsworth.

Unless radical measures are enacted to induce men to enlist in the United States army, conscription must be resorted to, declares Major General F. C. Ainsworth, adjutant general, in his annual report.

"Notwithstanding the most strenuous efforts on the part of the War Department and the recruiting officers," says General Ainsworth, "it has been found impossible wholly to make good the losses, to say nothing of increasing the enlisted strength to the authorized limit. If present conditions continue there will be nothing for the government to do but meet this competition by materially increasing the soldiers' pay or to evade competition altogether by a resort to conscription."

Never before has such a suggestion come from an officer clothed with the authority to make recommendations. The idea of compulsory enrollment of individuals for the military service has been held abhorrent to republican principles and the absence of such a law is one of the most forceful arguments used in attracting desirable immigration from Europe.

Officials of the War Department anticipate that the possible necessity for such action outlined by General Ainsworth will prove efficacious in securing consideration by Congress of the increase of pay bill. It is with the greatest reluctance that army officers entertain the thought of conscription, but generally they agree with General Ainsworth that it either must come to that extremity or more money must be provided for the soldier if the standing of the army is to be maintained.

TASTE OF HER OWN MEDICINE

Europe in Sad Straits with Horde of Returning Immigrants.

It is a curious commentary on the economic conditions of the old world that the turn in the tide of American immigration is causing serious trouble in Italy, Austria, Germany, Sweden and Norway. If the industrial conditions of the United States of America threaten to be bad, they are infinitely worse in the countries named. Italy complains the loudest because the situation there is the most serious. Her returning hordes do not bring sufficient money to support them more than a few weeks at most, while many land practically penniless. The authorities there confess themselves unable to deal with the problem.

The Germans, however, are much better provided with money on an average than the Italians. Business conditions in Sweden and Norway are so bad this unexpected influx is truly appalling and much distress is inevitable in the severe northern winter.

ASK RELEASE OF GIRL SLAYER.

Jessie Morrison, Who Killed Her Rival, Said to Be Dying in Prison.

Interest in the tragic life story of Jessie Morrison, of Eldorado, Kan., is revived through the efforts of influential friends to secure her release from the Kansas State penitentiary for the murder of her school girl friend, Mrs. Olin G. Castle. The young woman, once known throughout the State as a beauty, is said to be dying as a result of her confinement in the woman's prison, with sixteen years of a twenty-year sentence yet to serve.

The crime for which Miss Morrison is paying the penalty was committed when she and a successful rival in love engaged in a razor duel. Her opponent was Mrs. Olin G. Castle, who, as Clara Wiley, was married to young Olin Castle, clerk in an Eldorado store. Both girls had in turn been wooed by him.

July 22, 1900, nine days after the wedding of Clara Wiley and Castle, Miss Morrison visited the young wife and the fotal battle ensued. "I was called to the Castle home by Mrs. Castle, who commenced a furious tirade against me," she says in telling the story. "She attacked me with a razor. I snatched the weapon from her and slashed her." Mrs. Castle died a week later.

Miss Morrison had three trials, in each of which she was found guilty. The first time she was sentenced to three years in prison, the second to ten, and the third time to twenty.

The prominence of the principals of the case made it one of the greatest interest throughout the country. The convicted woman's father was at one time a member of the Kansas Supreme Court.

Recent reports from South Africa were to the effect that the Cape Government was arming in the expectation of another uprising of the native Zulus, whose leader, Dinizulu, was defying arrest in Natal for certain murders in connection with the rising last year. Now it appears that Dinizulu has surrendered to the authorities and has demanded a trial.

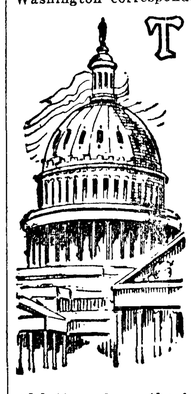
BILL IN CONGRESS TO CURB GAMBLING

Measures Introduced by Texas Members Would Prevent Options in Cotton and Grain.

MAY COVER DEALS IN STOCK.

Idea Threatens to Place an Embargo on Market Speculation of All Kinds.

Washington correspondence:



THERE has been a sudden awakening throughout the country to the fact that something is going on in Washington which threatens gambling in cotton and grain, and possibly, too, which aims to place an embargo on speculation in stocks. Indications of this awakening appear in a regular flood of letters from the interests threatened to the members of Congress, who are identified with the proposed restrictive legislation.

The reason which calls forth these letters lies in two bills introduced by Senator Culberson, of Texas, and Representative Burleson, of the same State, designed to wipe out speculation in cotton futures. The bills are identical and while they apply only to cotton, as originally drawn, there is likelihood that if either of them is reported out of the committee to which they have been referred the provisions will be extended to apply to wheat and other grains.

The central idea in the Burleson bill is the application of the power to regulate interstate commerce so as to restrain telegraph and telephone companies from transmitting messages relating to a contract for the future delivery of cotton. The use of the mails also is prohibited to publications containing notices or records of the transactions of any produce exchange wherein the contracts aimed at in the measure are made. Heavy penalties provide the means of restraining the telegraph and telephone companies. It is the contention of Representative Burleson that if information of the kind prescribed can be kept away from the people living outside New York and New Orleans it will put the New York Cotton Exchange out of business. Frankly, it is admitted, that such is the object of the bill.

C. A. CULBERSON.

The Boards of Trade in several cities are aroused. Probably what they chiefly fear is that public sentiment against speculation in both stocks and bonds, which has been accentuated by the recent financial condition, may hasten a demand for the passage of the bill.

W. L. HEPBURN.

In addition to the Burleson meosure, Representative Hepburn, of Iowa, has in hand a plan to regulate dealing in stocks.

Both France and Germany have adopted radical restrictive measures relating to dealings in stocks, grain, cotton and other things on margins, and their example is being pointed to by American legislators who are earnest in their intention of doing something along the same line. The laws of France prohibit gambling in several securities and provide heavy fines and imprisonment for infractions thereof. The French penal code also prohibits "corners" or attempts to control the supply or affect the prices of grain, flour, bread and other food products.

UNREADABLE WRITING.

Fashionable Folks Responsible for Much Postoffice Trouble.

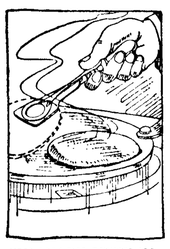
The postoffice employe whose duty it was to read almost unreadable addresses was staring at a daintily perfumed tinted envelope which bore a crest, says the New York Tribune. The writing looked as if it had been done with a fork dipped in molasses. "It's the society folk who write the most wretchedly," he said. "There's no excuse for them because they're educated, so I s'pose they do bum penwork because it's the fashion or they think it gives them distinction. In my experience I should put handwriting under three classes—that of the uneducated, the extremely busy and the fashionable.

"Bad writing with the busy class is mostly from men who are truly in too much of a hurry to form their letters well and the typewriter is now relieving them to such an extent that the number of badly written busy letters is fast growing small. The uneducated do the best they can, so I have some patience with them. But the fashionables—they slant the letters from left to right, upward, in such an exaggerated way that an envelope looks like a rainstorm. Sometimes every letter is one-half an inch or more in length and the letters M, U, N, V, R and W are all formed alike. A and O are hardly distinguishable and only the dot differentiates the I from the E and often the dot is omitted. Often, as on this envelope, there will be a word that is just a wiggle and a scrabble and is almost undecipherable.

"Although the fashionable folks write for the greater part in what I call the 'tall hand,' some write a low, small hand, the letters running together, and sometimes letters are left out altogether. I can generally make out a word if the letters are all there, but when some are dropped out or the word is finished by a trailing off of the pen instead of forming the letters, I'm pretty well baffled."

For Turning Waffles, Etc.

Among recent inventions is an improved culinary utensil to assist the cook in handling foods of a soft nature, such as are difficult to handle with an ordinary knife. Hot waffles are often spoiled in the cooking simply because the cook does not possess the knack of turning them without breaking. The latter operation becomes an easy matter with the assistance of this culinary utensil. It is constructed of two parts—a blade and a holding lever, the holding lever being pivoted to the blade. The surface of the blade is of a size to assure a good grip on a waffle of the ordinary dimensions, while the hollow holder serves the same purpose when the utensil is inverted to turn the waffle over. A spring on the lever normally holds it against the blade, and is raised to admit the waffle by means of the thumb piece.



CULINARY UTENSIL.

Unique Soap Holder.

A peculiar contrivance, termed a soap-holding device, is the recent invention of a Chicago man. Its extremely simple construction is shown in the accompanying illustration. It comprises a supporting arm, to which is suspended a chain and clamp, carrying a cake of soap. Obviously the supporting arm is attached to the wash basin so that the suspended cake of soap will be directly over the water. The supporting arm is not stationary, but is pivoted, in order that the soap can be dipped down into the water when necessary. The sanitary advantages of this soap-holder will be apparent at once. It does away with the ordinary slimy receptacle employed for holding the soap. The soap hangs in a position of best advantage to the user.

By some curious trait in human nature history has become associated far more closely with military achievements and political changes than with the progress of agriculture, manufactures, transportation and trade. This is almost an exact reversal of the natural order, for history is but the story of peoples, times and places; and the real story, the fundamental history, of any time is far more the record of its effort to make a living, and its success or failure in that effort, than it is the story of the wars and laws to which the effort has given birth. The United States Crop Reporter prints some figures concerning the export of certain articles of food and clothing. The figures cover a period of twenty-three years, and deal with wheat, corn, wheat flour and cotton. In 1884 more than half the cotton and wheat exported from the United States, more than three-quarters of the wheat flour and just about three-quarters of the corn, was shipped from Atlantic coast ports. Last year the same ports shipped only a third of the cotton and wheat, a little more than half the wheat flour, and five-eighths of the corn. What these ports lost, the Gulf and Pacific coast ports gained. But there has been no regular progression on one side or retrogression on the other. The table of figures, on the other hand, shows constant fluctuations, due to conditions and events which are often hard to determine, but which are the real heart and romance of history. The war in South Africa and the more recent war between Russia and Japan; the failure of a cotton crop in Egypt; an unusually good wheat year in Argentina; the opening of new territory to cultivation in British America; the extension of railroads and the establishment of new steamship lines; the invention of improved agricultural machinery—all these causes may have contributed to effect these changes, the record of which is always suggestive to the imaginative mind.

BAD BLOOD
THE SOURCE OF ALL DISEASE

Every part of the body is dependent on the blood for nourishment and strength. When this life stream is flowing through the system in a state of purity and richness we are assured of perfect and uninterrupted health; because pure blood is nature's safe-guard against disease. When, however, the body is fed on weak, impure or polluted blood, the system is deprived of its strength, disease germs collect, and the trouble is manifested in various ways. Pustular eruptions, pimples, rashes and the different skin affections show that the blood is in a feverish and diseased condition as a result of too much acid or the presence of some irritating humor. Sores and Ulcers are the result of morbid, unhealthy matter in the blood, and Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Contagious Blood Poison, etc., are all deep-seated blood disorders that will continue to grow worse as long as the poison remains. These impurities and poisons find their way into the blood in various ways. Often a sluggish, inactive condition of the system, and torpid state of the avenues of bodily waste, leaves the refuse and waste matters to sour and form uric and other acids, which are taken up by the blood and distributed throughout the circulation. Coming in contact with contagious diseases is another cause for the poisoning of the blood; we also breathe the germs and microbes of Malaria into our lungs, and when these get into the blood in sufficient quantity it becomes a carrier of disease instead of health. Some are so unfortunate as to inherit bad blood, perhaps the dregs of some old constitutional disease of ancestors is handed down to them and they are constantly annoyed and troubled with it. Bad blood is the source of all disease, and until this vital fluid is cleansed and purified the body is sure to suffer in some way. For blood troubles of any character S. S. S. is the best remedy ever discovered. It goes down into the circulation and removes any and all poisons, supplies the healthful properties it needs, and completely and permanently cures blood diseases of every kind. The action of S. S. S. is so thorough that hereditary taints are removed and weak, diseased blood made strong and healthy so that disease cannot remain. It cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Sores and Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Contagious Blood Poison, etc., and does not leave the slightest trace of the trouble for future outbreaks. The whole volume of blood is renewed and cleansed after a course of S. S. S. It is also nature's greatest tonic, made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, and is absolutely harmless to any part of the system. S. S. S. is for sale at all first class drug stores. Book on the blood and any medical advice free to all who write.

Man gives up with reluctance the table manners of the jungle. For centuries he has been instructed with line upon line, precept upon precept; but the average boy and girl still prefer fingers to forks and tongues to napkins. It may, however, be encouraging to the weary mother to observe that a little progress has been made by the human race in four centuries, even though her individual specimen of boyhood may lag far behind perfection. Erasmus, writing for the young gentlemen of his time, laid down a code of table manners remarkable for what they do not take for granted; and although we must make some allowance for the irony of the learned critic, we still have a picture of the dinner-table of his time calculated to give us hope of our own. He assures his reader that it is very rude to wipe his nose on the table-cloth or his fingers on his neighbor's coat. One may not praise the achievements of one's own cook, or criticise unfavorably one's host's dinner, no matter how badly it is cooked. A courteous guest will not give his bones to the dogs to crack under the table, nor will he feed the cat, or encourage either cat or dog to jump on the table. "But, above all," says the frank and vigorous Erasmus, "do not lick your plate! It is an act that ill becomes a cat, let alone a gentleman!"

FAMOUS LONDON HOUSES.

Homes of the Great Lights of the Literary World.

How many readers of Thackeray have passed down Young street to the Kensington postoffice and have been aware that in No. 11 those immortal works, Vanity Fair, Esmond and Pendennis first saw the light?

Gower street, again, is a somewhat monotonous street of prosperous-looking middle class houses. Few people know that in No. 110 Charles Darwin wrote certainly not his Origin of Species, but his famous work on Coral Reefs. Again, in 56 Great Queen street, Boswell wrote a considerable portion of his famous Life of Johnson. At 6 Frith street, Soho, William Hazlitt during the last six months of his life wrote some of his most notable essays.

As for Charles Dickens, London teems with memories of that great novelist. At 48 Doughty street he began Barnaby Rudge, finished Pickwick and Oliver Twist, and wrote Nicholas Nickleby. At 1 Devonshire terrace he finished Barnaby Rudge and Dombey and Son, and wrote The Old Curiosity Shop, Martin Chuzzlewit, The Cricket on the Hearth and The Haunted Man. At Tavistock House he wrote Bleak House, Little Dorrit and The Tale of Two Cities.

Henry Fielding wrote Tom Jones in a house on the site of the present Bow street police station, and Smollett wrote Humphrey Clinker and probably Peregrine Pickle at Monmouth House, Upper Cheyne row. Richardson's Pamela, Clarissa and Grandison were written at The Grange, North End, Tammersmith, occupied for some time by Sir Edward Burne-Jones.

At 24 Cheyne row the Sage of Chelsea, Thomas Carlyle, wrote The French Revolution, The Life of Frederick the Great, Past and Present, Oliver Cromwell's Letters and Speeches and The Life of John Stirling.

Parsnip Balls.

One-quarter pound of cooked parsnips, one ounce of grated cheese, one-half egg, one-half ounce of butter, pepper and salt, a little flour, egg and bread crumbs, and boiling fat to fry in. Rub the cooked parsnips through a wire sieve and mix with them the cheese, pepper and salt. Melt the butter in a small pan, add the parsnips and seasonings to it and bind with some beaten egg. Turn this mixture out on to a plate, and when cold form into balls, using a little flour, to prevent them sticking to the hands. Then egg and bread crumb them and fry in boiling fat until a medium brown color. Drain on kitchen paper, and serve piled high on hot dish with a doily under them.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher, and has been made under his personal supervision for over 30 years. Allow no one to deceive you in this. Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments, and endanger the health of Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.
In Use For Over 30 Years.
