MAKES AN UNQUALIFIED DENIAL

WASHINGTON'S SENIOR SENATOR

Defies Any Man to Point to Single Act Inconsistent with Honest and Good Citizenship.

To the Spokesman-Review, which in demanding of Senator Ankeny that he no longer treat his defamers with contemptuous silence but answer the serious charge of bribery made against him, pays the following splendid tribute, the Senator has given a statement of unequivocal denial, the sincerity of which is beyond question. The Spokesman said:

"It would be hard to find in all the West a finer pioneer character than Levi Ankeny. No man has been more closely identified with the history and development of the Inland Empire. He has been a part of every phase of its industrial and commercial progress from the stiring days of placer mining, nearly fifty years ago, down thru its periods of stock-growing, pioneer farming, and town and city building.

"He has a kindly heart, a liberal mind, and a broad and democratic spirit.

"All these tributes to Senator Ankeny the Spokesman-Review pays gladly and cheerfully. It admires him for his goodness, but a sense of duty will not permit it to be blinded by his sterling qualities now that he is publically arraigned on the most damaging charges politically.

"Senator Ankeny is accused by his opponent with grossly corrupting the politics of this state, bribing members of the Legislature, and buying his way into the Senate. Those charges he must deny, and failing to deny them, the conviction must be driven into the public mind that they are true."

Senator Ankeny's reply, which should be unnecessary in view of the fact that both Wilson, owner of the P.-I., and Preston, the defeated candidates, found no fault with the result, but pledged their support to Ankeny at the time, is as follows:

"To the charge that I have grossly corrupted the politics of this state, bribed members of the Legislature, and bought wholesale my way into the Senate, I desire to say, here and now, that the allegation that I either directly or indirectly bribed or offered to bribe any member of the Legislature of the State of Washington, or that I directly or indirectly sought to corrupt any person at any time, is unqualifiedly false and without foundation, and that the entire article which recently appeared in Collier's Weekly, upon which your editorial seems to be based, was evidently inspired by my political enemies, who, by the use of such methods, are now seeking my defeat at the primary election.

"As I have heretofore stated, and now I repeat, I shall not treat my enemies with abuse, but shall let them continue to have a full monopoly of that. The greater part of my life has been spent in the State of Washington; it is an open book and I defy any man or set of men to point to a single act of mine, either public or private, inconsistent with honest and good citizenship, and the fact that Congressman Jones and his supporters and friends, who evidently inspired the article in Colliers, were silent as to my character until after the opening of this campaign, is indisputable proof of the falsity of the charges so made and the insincerity of the authors thereof.

"That I have made mistakes is doubtless true, for it is human to err, but that those mistakes have been intentional no one can truthfully say. I have earnestly and faithfully endeavored to discharge the duties of senator with absolute fairness to all of the people.

"My record is before the people for their approval or disapproval and upon their decision at the polls on the eighth of next month I shall cheerfully submit my claims.

Very respectfully,
LEVI ANKENY."

VACANCIES CANNOT BE FILLED BY PARTIES

Nominations Necessary to Complete Ticket Will Probably Be Made By Use of Stickers.

Prosecuting Attorney Cochran has an opinion from the Attorney-General asked at the request of Auditor Hawkins as to vacancies on the tickets for the primary election, to the effect that where no person has filed a declaration of candidacy it will be necessary to place the office on the ticket with the name blank and permit the electors to vote for whom they please for said office. The Attorney-General holds that where no filing has been made stickers may be used by the voters, and he is therefore of the opinion that there will be no vacancies on any of the tickets after the primaries for the reason that one vote will be a majority where only one vote is cast, and therefore one vote can place a candidate in nomination. Where there is no filing and not even one vote cast the Attorney-General holds that there is a vacancy in the ticket and the party committee or party convention, duly called, can proceed to fill such vacancy.

In view of this opinion it is about certain that nominations will be made on the Democratic ticket by the sticker route at least for most of the offices now vacant on the Primary ballot by reason of the fact that no aspirant has filed a declaration of candidacy.

NEW ADDITION TO CENTRAL SCHOOL

Wing 40 by 66, Two Stories, Giving Assembly Room on Upper Floor, to Cost About $4,000.

C.H. Van Brunt secured the contract for the two story addition to the Central School, his bid being approximately $4,000, being about a thousand dollars lower than the next lowest bidder. The lower floor of the addition, which will be 40 x 66, will tend greatly to relieve the crowded condition of the rooms, while the second story will furnish a much and long needed assembly hall. The lumber has been ordered and the preparatory work has been commenced so as to have the foundation in by the time the lumber is on the grounds. This wing is to be built on the south of the west end and constructed in such a manner as not to interfere with the future anticipations of a further needed wing south of the east end. The building is to be rushed to completion at the earliest date possible.

Three crews of surveyors of the Port Angeles Railway & Terminal Co. are camped at Morse creek and are taking levels and running lines in the vicinity. For the past week, two crews have been working about town along the beach and up Ennis creek valley, doing much slashing and line running.

A reunion of the former residents of this county now residing in Seattle will be held at Woodland Park next Wednesday. It is the intention to get up an excursion from this city to help in the celebration and about 500 are expected to participate. The affair will be in the form of a basket picnic.

The difference between the two men is largely reflected in their methods of proceedure. The first spectacular, pompous, with words of self-praise constantly on his lips. The latter a man of few words, but one who accomplishes much good for his constituents.—Bulletin.

Invitations are out for the Opening Services of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in their new church edifice, on 8th, between Laurel and Oak, on Sunday, September 6th.

RECEPTION FOR GENERAL NOBLE

"FOUNDER OF PORT ANGELES"

Will Be Held at Opera House Saturday Evening. All Are Invited to Attend.

General John W. Noble, ex-Secretary of the Interior, who was chiefly instrumental in having the Port Angeles Townsite Reserve opened for settlement, in the year 1894, has accepted an invitation, extended him thru the G. A. R., to visit Port Angeles, and will arrive Saturday, accompanied by Col. Clark E. Carr, Col. B. O. Carr, and by Major Harding, who extended the invitation for the Post in person. A reception will be held at the opera house Saturday evening at 8:00 p. m. to greet the General, in which all citizens are invited to participate. Concerning General Noble's interest in the progress of Port Angeles, the following interview in the Seattle Times is of interest:

"More than half a century ago, I made a map of this whole Puget Sound country and the Northwest coast, not knowing then that I would be even a small factor in what followed when the railroads laid their rails across the continent, modestly said Gen. John W. Noble, a grizzled and white-haired veteran of the Civil War, special United States attorney under President Grant and secretary of the Interior under President Harrison.

Gen. Noble whose home is at St. Louis, is a delegate to the American Bar Association and this morning scores of distinguished men from all over the Union congratulated him on being able to return to Seattle sixteen years after he had helped materially to build up the great commonwealth of Washington.

The city of Port Angeles owes to General Noble the fact that the town was surveyed and laid out in model fashion in the very first days of statehood, after the matter had been allowed to slumber for years by previous secretaries of the interior.

"When I accepted the portfolio of secretary of the interior under President Benjamin Harrison, one of the first problems I encountered was brought to me by a few old soldiers who traveled across the continent from Port Angeles to see me.

"They told me that President Abraham Lincoln, shortly before his assassination, had set aside the government land at Port Angeles for the members of an Indiana regiment which had rendered distinguished service in the war, and the survivors of which he desired should have the first choice of the townsite of Port Angeles.

"They told me that many of them had removed to Clallam county, in the then territory of Washington, and that while they had lived there for years, the townsite had never been surveyed and their title to their holdings was under a cloud.

"I wrote a letter to the then United States surveyor-general for Washington, saying that while I did not care to discuss the cause of the failure of the department to survey those lands during a period of twenty years I would give him ninety days to complete the job, otherwise I would send someone out here to do it for him.

"In the time allotted the work was done and a dandy job it was, too. Then in 1892 I came out here and they met me at Port Angeles with a brass band and all the residents out in force.

"Three was a big clam bake and then the citizens took me up the hill and into the forest, where they cut down a tree on a platted street and named it Noble Avenue.

"On the stump of that tree I made an address which was the only stump speech I ever made in my life.

Misses Florence Elliot and Alice Ball will give a violin and piano recital at the Sequim opera house September 5, 1908, at 8:30 p. m. They will be assisted by two splendid vocalists. 33-3t.

ABOLISHES THEATRE HATS

Paris Women Have to Doff Headgear and Wear Hair Low.

Paris, Aug. 25.—Theatergoers in Paris are to be relieved of the big hat nuisance. New police regulations concerning theaters just published, prohibit categorically the toleration by the management of any conditions that may prevent the public from seeing or hearing a performance. Even a mountainous style of dressing the hair may create trouble for a woman, as the ordinance says:

"If complaint be made by a spectator that because of the headdress of anyone before him he cannot see, the cause of complaint must be removed." In other words, the "rats" must be taken off, or the lady must leave.

Another clause in the regulations prohibits the sale of tickets outside of theaters, and makes sidewalk speculation in theater tickets a punishable offense.

KING LOSES THE CONGO

BELGIAN KING NO LONGER TO BE SUPREME RULER.

After Several Months of Bitter Struggle Chamber of Deputies Adopts the Congo Annexation Treaty---Question of Financial Responsibility Remains.

Brussels, Aug. 22.—After several months of bitter struggle, the chamber of deputies has adopted the Congo annexation treaty by 83 votes to 55, and although this action probably will insure the solution of the great Congo problem, there still remains open the important question of Belgium's financial responsibility.

The passage of the Congo treaty by the chamber of deputies means that the annexation of the state to Belgium is now practically assured, as the senate and King Leopold are ready to indorse the bill. The personal rule of King Leopold in Africa is now drawing to a close—in the future he will have nothing to do with the state, which is to be administered by Belgium. The government became greatly interested in bringing about the introduction of reforms in the Congo, and it became known last year that Great Britain and the United States had about decided to interfere in the Congo administration unless the situation there improved.

The members of the cabinet and King Leopold held a long conference, after which it was officially given out that in order to avoid the danger of a collapse of the annexation movement the government had decided in a spirit of conciliation to accept the action of the chamber with regard to Congo finances.

The situation regardig the annexation of the Congo independent state was thrown into great confusion last year by the action of King Leopold in withdrawing the control of the crown domain, the richest part of the Congo, from the regular Congo administration in order to prevent the passage of the domain to Belgium should annexation be consummated. This action was bitterly resented by the friends of annexation in parliament as a usurpation of Belgium's national heritage, and in February of this year King Leopold changed his attitude on this matter and agreed to abandon the crown domain and the crown foundation to Belgium, stipulation being that Belgium should not only assume all the Congo obligations, amounting to $21,000,000, but undertake also to continue the king's usufruct in the Congo's revenues during his lifetime. Belgium was required specifically to respect the concessions granted to two American companies in 1906, in which Thomas F. Ryan is interested. The stipulations were embodied in the final draft of the treaty.

JOHNSON RENOMINATED

Minnesota Democrats Refuse to Accept "No" for an Answer.

Minneapolis, Aug. 21.—Governor John A. Johnson was renominated for governor by the democratic state convention. Following the mention of his name by Mayor Lawler, of St. Paul, tne convention stampeded for Johnson. A wild demonstration ensued. Standards were waved and the delegates, headed by a brass band, marched through the hall. A messenger was sent to notify the governor by telephone. The return of the messenger was awaited with suspense, as the governor previously had stated emphatically that he would not run again. The convention, however, persisted in ignoring the declaration.

As an evidence of the almost unanimity of feeling for Johnson the hall was conspicuously decorated with Johnson's portraits and during the excitement these were torn down and waved by both spectators and delegates.

Decides to Accept

St. Paul, Aug. 22.—Shortly before noon Governor Johnson called the newspaper men together and announced that he would accept the nomination for governor tendered to him by the state convention. He said:

"After due consideration of the matter and before I have been formally notified I will tell you that I have made up my mind to lay aside all personal consideration and listen to the call of the party. I will accept the nomination when it is formally tendered to me.

"I desire to state also and to make it emphatic that if the committee had called on me before the nominating speech had been made I would have positively declined to be a candidate."

Judge Parker Opens Campaign

Seattle, Aug. 22.—Judge Alton B. Parker, of New York, democratic candidate for president in 1904, fired the opening gun in the democratic campaign in this city, where he addressed an audience of about 1,800 people which nearly filled the Coliseum theater. Judge Parker discussed issues of the national campaign and questioned the ability of the republican party to remedy existing evils of the government as he saw them.

PRESIDENT IS PLEASED

ROOSEVELT SAYS THAT HE IS PROUD OF PANAMA CANAL PROGRESS.

Special Commission Sent to Isthmus Makes Gratifying Report. Says United States Has Proven Model Employer of Men---Some Matters to Correct.

Oyster Bay, Aug. 26.—President Roosevelt has made public a report submitted to him on August 6 by a special commission consisting of James Bronson Reynolds, Samuel B. Donnelly annd Henry Beach Needham, regarding conditions in Panama. The commission was appointed April 25 last.

That the president is pleased with the report is shown in a letter which he sent to each member of the commission on Friday. He expresses particular pleasure over the fact that the commission upholds the administration of Colonel George E. Goethals, chairman of the Isthmian canal commission, and the president has had a copy mailed to Colonel Goethals, requesting that the recommendations made by the commission be put into effect immediately. The president will submit the report to congress with appropriate recommendations.

The commissioners report that "it inspected the entire line of excavation from La Boca, the southern or Pacific terminus, to Christobal, the Northern or Caribbean terminal, and traveled through the excavation several times, interviewing the men at work."

Indicating the scope of the inspection the commission reports that it visited the "government workshops' construction plants, warehouses, shipyards, dredges, commissary stores, living quarters —that is hotels, messes, kitchens and camps, schools, club houses—courts, police stations and the convalescent home at Taboga."

Success Is Astounding

President Roosevelt's letter to the investigators says:

"I doubt if there is any piece of work undertaken on behalf of the American people of recent years of which the American people have more reason to be proud than the work done on the Panama canal. The success has literally been astounding. Five years ago, when we undertook the task, no sane man would have dared to hope for the results which have already been achieved. The work itself has been advanced more expeditiously than we had ventured to think, and the rapidity of the rate of progress has steadily increased.

"Meanwhile the treatment of Hygienic conditions on the isthmus has been such as to make it literally the model for all work of the kind in tropicalcountries. Five years ago the Isthmus of Panama was a by-word for unhealthiness of the most deadly kind. At present the canal zone is one of the healthiest places on the globe, and the work whic his being prosecuted with such tremendous energy is being prosecuted under conditions so favorable to the health and well being of the workers that the mortality among them is abnormally small.

Has Proved Model Employer

"Finally, in addition to the extreme efficiency of the work under Colonel Goethals and his assistants and the extraordinary success achieved under Dr. Gorgas, there is the further and exceedingly gratifying fact that on the isthmus the United States government has been able to show itself a model employer. There are matters to correct, of course, as your trip showed, but on the other hand it is true that the United States is looking after the welfare, health and comfort of those working for it as no other government has ever done in work of like character."

EDITORS SELECT SEATTLE

Next National Convention To Be Held there at Exposition Time.

St. Paul, Aug. 22.—The business session of the National Editorial Association convention came to an end Thursday with the election of officers and the selection of Seattle as the place for the 1909 convention. Invitations were extended to the convention in lengthy speeches from Seattle, Toledo, Ohio, and Brownsville, Texas.

In the balloting it was between Seattle and Toledo. The last few ballots decided the matter in favor of Seattle, and Toledo withdrew to make the choice of Seattle unanimous. Many of the editors favored Seattle because of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition there next year, which they plan to attend.

New Foreign Postage Rate

Washington, Aug. 25.—An order has been issued by the postmaster general putting into effect the postage rate of 2 cents per ounce, applicable to letters mailed in this country for the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland. Letters unpaid or short of postage will be dispatched to destination, but double the deficient potsage calculated at the rate standard shall be collected upon delivery of such letters.

Coal Strike Is Ended

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 25.—The strike in the bituimnous coal field is officially ended, by the announcement that the Operators' Association had agreed to the demands of the mine workers of district 11, and 1,000 miners have gone to work.

TWELVE CROPS A YEAR

Big Growth of New Alfalfa Which the Government Is Trying Out.

Seattle, Aug. 22.—Alfalfa that will produce twelve cuttings in a season is the grass that is now being advocated for use on the Pacific coast and the arid West by Professor C. V. Piper, chief grass expert of the United States department of agriculture, who has arrived in Seattle. He is here from an experimental trip with grasses in Texas, Arizona and California, and will go from Seattle through Washington, Montana and the Dakotas on a similar mission.

"The demand for better grass comes largely from the arid regions of the West and South," said Mr. Piper, "and our work has been largely in these sections. Secretary Wilson is especially anxious to establish dry land farming on a permanent basis, and for this purpose crops must be found that are sufficiently drought-resistant to be used profitably in rotation. With this end in view the department is making a thorough exploration of the dry regions of Manchuria and China for new grasses and legumes. Already we have secured many very promising things which we are testing out thoroughly."

Mr. Piper said the greatest success had attended the efforts of the department with new varieties of alfalfa. Nearly every corner of the world had been searched during the study of the crop, with the result that several distinct varieties had been secured which will thrive where ordinary alfalfa will perish.

"We call it hardy alfalfa," said he, "and it is as certain of growth in Minnesota and the Dakotas as ordinary alfalfa in Kansas. The remarkable Arabian alfalfa found in the valley of the Euphrates is proving of enormous value in Arizona and California, where it has produced twelve cuttings in one season, three more than have been produced by the ordinary alfalfa. This result is due to its rapid growth and its ability to grow in cool weather, beginning earlier in the spring and continuing later in the fall.

"Alfalfa is becoming a very popular crop in the Eastern states. Demonstrations of the department have already proved that with proper treatment alfalfa can be grown with great success in nearly every state east of the Mississippi river, and it bids fair to bring about important changes in the agriculture of these states. It is not too much to say that alfalfa may become as largely grown in the East as in the West, which has made this plant famous."

DIRECT PRIMARY RULINGS

Attorney-General's Office Passes on Several Points.

Olympia, Aug. 22.—Assistant Attorney General I. B. Knickerbocker has made the following rulings on the new direct primary law:

That none but qualified voters may vote at primaries. A man who will become 21 between the primaries and the general election and one whose year's residence in the state will end between the dates of primary and election cannot vote at the primaries.

Conventions or party organizations cannot nominate candidates whose names shall go on the ballot for primary elections. The ballot must contain blank space for vacant offices in which names may be written in or stickers used. This ruling bars the democrats from naming primary candidates for state offices for which no declarations were filed.

If after the primaries no one has been voted for to fill vacancies on the state ticket, or if vacancies occur by death, removal or resignation, party committees may make nominations to go on the general election ballot.

Until the supreme court holds otherwise county auditors must collect the filing fees provided by the law.

The opinion as to vacancies applies only to the parties which cast more than 10 per cent vote at last election.

RICH FINDS IN ARIZONA

Many Specimens of New Insects, Mollusks and Reptiles.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 25.—Remarkable discoveries of new species of insects, reptiles and mollusks have been made by Virgil W. Owen, clerk of the United States district court here, in the deserts and mountains of Arizona. He has returned with an almost priceless collection of 7,000 specimens. Some of the moths and butterifles are valued at $50 a pair. Many of the specimens, hitherto unknown to entymologists, are destined for the Sinthsonian institution at Washington. One of the interesting reptiles secured is a snake almost new to herpetology, but one specimen having been found heretofore.

In a mountain stream 6,000 feet above sea level, the collector found a perfect alabone about the size of a pin head. Miniature clams, which will interest scientists all over the world, were found at the same high altitude.

Owen brought seven tortoises, one of which is a new specimen, and three rare horned toads. It will take months to classify the collection.

Alaska Fox Industry

Juneau, Aug. 22.—James York, one of the most successful fox farmers in Alaska, was in from his fox ranch at Sumdum this week. He has in the neighborhood of 3,000 foxes on the island. During November and December, when furs are prime, many animals will be killed and their pelts prepared for market. Good fox skins are in demand, bringing as high as $100, and average $50 apiece. The men engaged in the business spend their summer fishing for salmon to feed the foxes.

NEW STATE TAX LEVY

INCREASE WILL AMOUNT TO LARGE SUM SAYS THE COMMISSIONER.

Predicts that State's Valuation Will Reach $775,000,000, or a Total Increase of $200,000,000 ---Timber Cruise Has Done Much to Bring Total Up.

Tacoma, Aug. 20.—State Tax Commissioner J. A. Frost, who spent a day in Tacoma hearing testimony of local business men regarding Pierce county valuations, estimates that the total assessed valuation of the state of Washington will this year reach $775,000,000, a clean increase of $200,000,000 over the last one. Practiacally the entire increase, he says, has been made in the assessment of timber alnd public service corporations and large holdings.

The hearing was for the purpose of ascertaining with accuracy the actual values of property in this county. Similar testimony is being taken in all other parts of the state. Later the commission will receive from the county auditors certified copies of the assessment rolls, and the two sets of figures will be compared in order to get at the percentage of the actual valuation at which the assessment has been placed.

The legislature of 1907 passed an act requiring the commission to assess operating property of all railways, car companies and other public service corporations at the same proportion of valuation as other property. These companies have been this year assessed at 60 per cent of the actual valuations. In the case of the railroads, the valuations were largely secured by the state railroad commission; in other cases the tax commission has followed a rule of valuation that has been approved by the supreme court of the United States.

Thinks Companies May Fight.

It is said that the corporations are preparing to contest their 60 per cent assessment. A hearing is to be given them in September and they will then make known their position. Their ground will be, it is expected, that private individuals have not been assessed on the 60 per cent basis. Some of the witnesses at the hearing here say that much Pierce counnty property is not assessed at more than 25 or 35 per cent of its real worth.

Mr. Frost would not verify this statement after the hearing. "The testimony," said he, was taken by a stenorgapher and has not yet been transcribed. When I receive a copy I will be unable to form an idea as to the percentage until I also have a copy of the assessments on the same properties. I examined a large number of well informed buisness men as to the actual present value of business, residence, timber and farming property and stocks of goods. From real estate dealers I secured the figures at which actual sales had been made since the first of the year.

"The figures which are being secured in all the counties will serve to equalize not only the assessments of public service companies, but of the various counties as well. I do not anticipate that the corporations will contest their assessments, but if they make any fight it will be in an endeavor to show that other property has been assessed at a smaller proportion of the real value. They will have a hearing in September, when they may ask for a lower per cent."

Mr. Frost has already visited most of the counties of Western Washington.

Change in Timber Valuations.

Speaking of other work of the cor mission, Mr. Frost said: "The cc mission has been instrumental bringing about a cruise of timber la in almost every timbered county in state, even such counties as Spoka and Kittitas. This has shonwn tl timber lands have heretofore been u. equally assessed. In some counties we find land has been increased 600 per cent over last year, and in other places that certain tracts have been somewhat reduced. The result has been to bring about an equalization to a remarkable extent. In my opinion, based on accurate information, from $60,000,000 to $75,000,000 will be added to the timber assessments of this state. I believe thea ssessments this year, except in a few counties, are more equitable and uniform than any others ever made in the state.

"As a result the increase will amount to about $200,000,000, principally in timber lands and the property of public service corporations. This ought to mean much to the small farmer, the home owning wage earner and the little man generally, who has been bearing too great a burden."

Gets Huge Cement Contract

Washington, Aug. 25.—A Portland cement company of Northampton, Pa., has been awarded a contract for 4,500,000 barrels of cement for use on the Panama canal. It will take about three years to fill the contract, from 2,000 to 10,000 barrels to be delivered daily. The contract will amount to about $5,500,000.

Ohio Law Is Approved

Put-in-Bay, Ohio, Aug. 25.—After a stormy closing session of the National Fraternal Congress the uniform bill, which is modeled after the fraternal insurance law of Ohio, was finally passed and will be recommended to the tsate legislatures this fall.

ATTACK IS RENEWED

Petition Represents Attempt of Administration to Save Elkins Act and Interstate Commerce Law from Innocuous Desuetude. Basis for Ruling.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—The Government's petition for a rehearing by the United States court of appeals in the case against the Standard Oil Company, of Indiana, has been filed and represents the administration's attempt to save the Elkins act and the interstate commerce law from being futile.

The filing of the petition marked the appearance of Attorney General Bonaparte in the case, as well as that of Frank B. Kellogg, who is a special assistant to the attorney general. Besides these two, the petition is signed by Edwin W. Sims, United States district attorney at Chicago, and Special Assistant James H. Wilkerson, both of whom presented the government's side of the case in the original trial before Judge Landis, who administered the famous fine of $29,240,000, against the defendant.

Although it is not specifically stated in the petition, it was agreed by counsel for the government in their conference at Lenox, Mass., following the reversal by the appellate court of Judge Landis' decision, that if the interpretation of the law given by Judges Grosscup, Seaman and Baker were allowed to stand successful prosecution of the rebate cases against corporations would be impossible in the future.

The lawyers at the conference, over which the attorney general of the United States presided, were a unit in expressing the opinion that the reforms in rebate matters brought about by the Roosevelt administration would represent so much loss of time unless the higher court can be convinced of an error in the construction of the law: The petition continues:

Basis For Ruling

"The point on which the trial judge is reversed by the court of appeals relates to his ruling on evidence and his charge to the jury with reference to the ignorance on the part of the Standard Oil company of the lawful rate as a defense. The court of appeals in its opinion has not stated how the judge ruled on this subject."

Since the petition declares that whereas, the opinion of the court of appeals states that Judge Landis refused to admit evidence to the effect that the Standard Oil Company did not know what the lawful rate was, the record of the proceedings in the lower court shows that such evidence was admitted.

Although the government points out what it considers other errors in the opinion of the appellate court, the allegation that the Standard Oil company did not know it was not paying the legal rate is regarded as the vital point. If with the evidence introdcued at the trial before Judge Landis it can be held that the defendannt did not have guilty knowledge of its own acts, then successful prosecution of similar cases is regarded as impossible.

The indictment in the case was for a violation of the Elkins act of February 19, 1903, making it a crime to accept a concession whereby any property is transported in interstate commerce at less than the published and filed rate.

It was proved at the trival that the Chicago & Alton Railway company transported to East St. Louis, Ill., and St. Louis, Mo., 1,492 carloads of oil.

In all the dealings between shipper and carrier each carload was treated as a separate transaction and handled as a distinct piece of business.

The published and filed rates on this business were 18 cents per hundred pounds to East St. Louis and 19½ cents to St. Louis. These facts were admitted.

The Standard Oil company interposed the claim in defense that the Elkins act was unconstitutional; that the tariffs had not been posted in two public places at the stations, and interposed many technical defenses.

On but a single point involved in the trial up to the return of the verdict of guilty are the rulings of the trial judge criticized by the court of appeals. In all other particulars his rulings are sustained.

The point on which the trial judge is reversed by the court of appeals relates to his rulings on evidence and his charge to the jury with reference to ignorance on the part of the Standard Oil Company of the lawful rate as a defense.

Not Correctly Stated

The court of appeals in its opinion has not correctly stated how the judge ruled on this subject.

It is said in the opinion that he refused to admit evidence to the effect that the Standard Oil Company did not know what the lawful rate was. The fact is, and the record so shows, that all evidence tending to show ignorance on the part of the Standard Oil Company was admitted for the consideration of the jury.

This evidence was largely that of the Standard Oil Copmany, who swore to a conversation with Hollands, the rate clerk of the Alton, in which he said Hollands told him that the rate had been filed. The government met this testimony by a great array of circumstances which tended to disprove it, and the jury found in favor of the government.

The trial judge ruled that ignorance on the part of the shipper of what the lawful rate was could be interposed as a defense, but that it would not constitute a defense if it appeared that the ignorance was the result of neglect on the part of the shipper or of willful failure on the part of the shipper to resort to the sources of information which were available.

The government contends that this is the correct construction of the statute on this subject.

The court of appeals lays down the rule that it is necessary for the government to show beyond a reasonable doubt, as a part of its case, that the shipper actually knew what the lawful published and filed rate was.

An Impossible Rule

The government contends that this is an impossible rule; that it is contrary to the purpose of the Elkins act; that it is contrary to the general rule applicable in criminal cases; that put into effect it would make the interstate commerce commission act a "mere will-o'-the-wisp of legislation, a phantom statute, destitute of strength or substance."

The government contends in the petition that the corut of appeals has misstated not only the record as to what evidence was admitted, but has also misstated the construction which the trial judge placed upon the statute, and that for this reason there should be a thorough reargument upon the only proposition as to which the ruling of the trial judge up to the verdict of guilty, is reversed.

SAFETY APPLIANCE LAWS HELD VALID

St. Louis, Aug 25.—Two sweeping opinions, noteworthy in that the decisions of the lower courts were reversed in full in each instance, have just been handed down by the United States court of appeals here, sustaining the position of the government against the railroads in the matter of safety appliance laws. The cases decided were those of the government against the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad and of the government against the Denver & Rio Grande Railway Company.

In both of these decisions the court of appeals abrogates the common law rules of "reasonable care" that have heretofore governed, and behind which the railroads sought shelter, and upholds in full the acts of congress, which, the opinions hold, now totally supplant the common law rules. In the two cases decided different grounds of defense were tried, that the railroads might contest against the safety appliance acts from every possible point. The Denver & Rio Grande case was argued before the lower court on demurrers, while the Santa Fe case was tried by a jury. The railroads won both decisions in the lower courts.

The syllabus in the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe case lays down the new rule of law under the acts of congress as follows.:

"The safety appliance law of congress imposes upon a railway company in the situations in which it is applicable an absolute duty to maintain the prescribed coupling appliances in operative condition and is not satisfied by reasonable care to that end."

"ALASKA" WHEAT FAILURE

Professor Elliott Says in Few Years It Will Be but Memory.

Spokane, Aug. 25.—In a report to the Spokesman-Review, Prof, E. E. Elliott, head of the department of agriculture in the Washington state college, gives the result of investiagtions of the so-called "Alaska" wheat, grown by Abraham Adams, at Julia-etta, Idaho, which was heralded through the press of the country as a discovery which would revolutionize wheat growing in the United States. The publication of these articles caused great excitement among farmers, many of whom had arranged to buy seed at fabulous prices. One farmer wrote to Prof. Elliott and offered him $5 for a single head of the wheat.

Prof. Elliott says: "Fields of 'Alaska' wheat examined will not run more than 35 bushels to the acre. The highest recorded world's yield is 100 bushels for any wheat. Twenty-five per cent of that in Adams' field is not 'Alaska' wheat, it being badly mixed with other varieties. The head droops heavily, and will lodge badly. The heads are not of uniform size. Wheat is never found growing wild, even in remote Alaska. In three years 'Alaska' wheat will be but a memory."

TOO MUCH IDLE MONEY

Postal Savings Banks Urged as a Means to Increase Circulation.

San Francisco, Aug. 22.—"Fifty-eight per cent of the money in circulation in this country is unaccounted for in the banks, clearing houses and other depositaries and over $8,000,000 was invested last year in money orders of small amounts by people who had made them payable to themselves as a means of saving their money, instead of placing it in the banks," declared F. E. McMillan, chief United States postal inspector, in an address before the convention of the Presidential Postmasters' Association of California, in which he advocated the establishment of postal savings banks.

Chief Inspector McMillan asserted that this 58 per cent represented the money that is hoarded, which will quickly pour innto the postal savings banks if they are established. He pointed out that the postal banks were not inimical to the commercial and other savings banks, as the former would deposit their funds with local banks and thereby put into circulation vast sums which now are hoarded.

QUARTZ AT NOME

DISCOVERY OF LARGE BODY OF ORE IS MADE PUBLIC.

Apparently Unlimited Mass of Gold Bearing Ore, in Which Shaft Has been Sunk a Considerable Depth—Stamp Treatment Neccssary.

Seattle, Aug. 22.—A special to the Post Intelligencer from Nome says:

What at present seems the greatest discovery here in years was made puqlic by Younng and Hamberg, two prospectors, at the head of Newtonn Gulch. They struck an apparently limitless mass of decomposed quartz, in which they sunk a shaft 130 feet without reaching bottom. The mass exposed is 1,500 feet long and 60 feet wide. Its limits have not yet been defined. A stamp mill must be used in treating the ore.

QUARTZ ACTIVITY AT NOME

Ore Purchasing Office Soon to Be Opened at Northern City.

Nome, Aug. 25.—After having been known to the world for many years almost solely as a placer mining camp, Nome now has every prospect of becoming famous for nearby quartz operations. With the opening of several promising ledges, Conrad Slem is arranging to establish an ore purchasing office in this city.

Already a dozen new quartz mining camps have started, and there is reason to believe that the coming winter will witness great activity in this form of development. Several operators have ordered equipment from the outside, which is expected to reach here before the close of navigation.

It is believed that from now on more attention will be given to rock mining than working of the sands. It is not contende d that the beaches are exhausted, for many placers continue to yield large quantities of gold, but the opportunities in quartz are believed to be more inviting, despite the fact that they require larger capital to operate. It is estiamted that the summer's output of Nome and vicinity will approximate $6,000,000. Half of this amount has already been shipped out, while the remainder rests in local depositaries

UNIFORM ACCOUNTING

Proposed Measure Acts as Safeguard, Says Easterday.

Olympia, Aug. 22.—Replying to a letter from the Washington State Grange and County Auditors' Association, J. H. Easterday, state tax commissioner, has written as follows to C. B. Kegley, master Washington State Grange, Pullman, and F. P. Greene, president County Auditors' Association, Spokane:

"The benefits, both economic and moral, that will follow the adoption of a proposed bill for a uniform system of public accounting must appeal to everybody. There is as little reason for a multiplicity of systems in accounting as there would be in the government permitting each postmaster to render his accounts according to his own notion and caprice.

"That municipalities, counties and school districts should adopt a uniform yet simple method of accounting, securing an absolute check on all funds, subject to inspection by a competent supervisor, to my mind, does not appear open to argument.

"From those states that have adopted uniform accounting comes the cheerful news that the cost of office expenses has been reduced from 25 to 50 per cent. To this there can be no objection, except by the place hunter, who finds that under the new system one man can do the work of two.

"Public funds are partnership funds. They belong to the taxpayer. The proposed system reduces to a minimum the opportunity for misappropriation. Some of the counties in the state have already suffered severely from defalcations, and others are having the records experted at a heavy expense to the taxpayers.

"Publicity of public affairs begets economy. The proposed uniform accounting bill will have my active support."

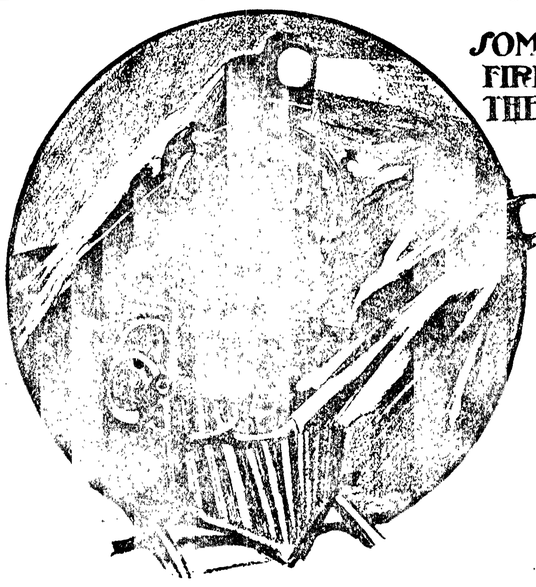
CHINA LOGICAL ALLY

Better Fitted Than Any Other Country, Says Chinese Editor.

Paris, Aug. 20.—Li Sum Ling, the Chinese editor of the China Mail, who originated the idea of an alliance between the United States and China, during an interview affirmed that China is the logical ally of the United States, and declared that Germany was not fitted for an alliance with the United States and that she would be unable to render help in the East. Further, he declared, an alliance with Germany would arouse the hostility of Japan and Great Britain, the most powerful factors in that part of the world. On the other hand, he continued, China would be able to afford commercial facilities to the United States and in the event of war, the Chinese army would be sufficient, added to the forces of the United States, to overbalance the powers of Japan. In addition, in case Great Britain's treaty obligations forced her to join with Japan, the German anti-English sentiment, Li Sum Ling declared, certainly would lead Germany to throw her sword in the balance and dictate the result of the struggle.

SUPERSTITIONS OF THE RAILROAD.

SOME OF THE BELIEFS FIRMLY ADHERED TO BY THE MOST COURAGEOUS TRAIN MEN AND TRAVELERS.



Perhaps the most superstitious class of people in the United States are the otherwise hard-headed, keen-witted railroad men. They are fatalists by circumstances of a life of constant danger. Death is a commonplace; accident and injury all in the day's work and line of duty. Contempt of death, akin to that of the fanatic Mussulman, but without the allurement of the black-eyed houri paradise, is bred by familiarity, the never-ending risk of life and limb, as told in the grim statistics of railroad fatalities. Many bloody campaigns of great wars show fewer casualties than the annual death and accident report of the Interstate Commerce Commission. This makes life cheap and its risk and sacrifice for so much per diem an incident. The railroad man lives in an atmosphere of the fatal chance and nerve-teasing uncertainty. Death may be speeding toward him and around the curve ahead; the next pounding of the massive drivers may strike a broken rail; the tower signal man makes his awful errors in an almost unvarying average; the landslide and the tampered switch are entirely beyond prevision. And it is this dominancy of chance, of the unprevised, the unexpected, the unforeseen, utterly baffling human ingenuity, that makes the average railroad man as superstitiously fatalistic as a whirling dervish or a warrior of the Mad Mullah.

This environment of the fatal chance, emphasizing human futility and powerlessness, creates a rich soil for omen, charm and fetich, and few railroad men can be found who are not inoculated with the virus of protecting superstition. Press them closely, and seven out of ten will confess it in a half shame-faced, half defiant way.

For instance, it is considered most unlucky among engineers to take an engine out for its first run Friday or on that fatal day to put the finishing touches to it in the shop.

Trainmen, particularly brakemen of the old school, believe it is bad luck if a woman is the first to enter the train at the beginning of the trip. They will resort to ruse or diplomacy to avert such an invitation of accident. They will stop a woman with slow inquiries about her ticket or destination in order that a masculine foot will be the first to ascend the steps. It is also considered bad luck for the train to permit a cripple or a hunchback to enter first. A one-armed man among passengers upon a train is also viewed with suspicion as an omen of accident.

Sometimes a careless fireman will let the engine bell toll. Such an untoward accident means that some member of the engineer's family will soon die. Old time engineers will not count the number of cars in a train as it rounds a curve. It is considered bad luck.

As would naturally be expected from the wide prevalence of the number 3 superstition, it occupies an important place among railroad men's omens. It is the firm conviction of almost all railroad men that when one man is killed or injured in railroad work two other fatalities or accidents will follow in rapid succession. It is considered unlucky, before two or three days have elapsed, for a railroad man to take the place of another who has been killed in an accident.

Engineers see an omen of death upon the trip if the headlight of their engine accidentally goes out as the engine is leaving the roundhouse.

A left-handed engineer is viewed as a hoodoo by many trainmen. It is believed his presence in the cab invites disaster, and old-time firemen and brakemen seek transfer to other trains as soon as a left-handed engineer is put on their run.

Trainmen dislike the presence of a corpse in the baggage or express cars, just as sailors object to carrying a corpse on board ship. But it is considered particularly threatening to load the coffin on a train with the feet of the dead person toward the engine. In a recent wreck in North Carolina a corpse was almost incinerated and many persons were killed. It is the firm belief of trainmen on the Southern that the body was loaded in the fate defying way.

But the railroad man is not alone in his belief in omens and charms. The passenger also has a pet lot of superstitions that defy logic and the persuasion of common sense. The belief that the wearing of a white flower or a white ribbon protects travelers from accident is fairly widespread. Some believe that burning coffee just before leaving on a journey is better than an accident policy, and in certain sections of the South some very pious people will not undertake a railroad trip without first tying a copy of the sixteenth psalm under the left armpit. Putting a wisp of straw in the bottom of the trunk is believed not only to protect the baggage from loss, but also insure the safety of the owner. Women sometimes pack their stockings in the trunk in a mystic circle, as a protection from accident. There is a superstition that it is unlucky to lock the trunk before it leaves the house, and with more apparent reason, it is particularly portentous if the trunk lid falls upon you while you are packing.

If a traveler loses his hat out of a car window there is compensation in the knowledge that it means good news from home. If a passenger happens to pass a derailed or wrecked locomotive, it is the sign that he soon is to come into possession of hidden wealth. To see a crow feeding on a carcass is another lucky omen for a traveler.

If dust blows in a person's eye while on his way to catch a train it is a sign of accident on the trip. It is considered an ominous encounter for a person hurrying to a train to meet a spectacle-wearing negro. It is also unlucky for a traveler to cut his finger nails just before starting on a journey; disgrace will overtake him, and if a traveler leaves home in a carriage for the station it is simply inviting disaster for his family or friends to watch him out of sight. To insure the safe return of a nervous traveler it is only necessary to tie an Irish knot in his handkerchief, but if he loses the knotted piece of linen he had better end his misery by immediate suicide.

Here is an incantation which Pullman conductors declare will insure slumber on a sleeping car to even chronic insomniacs, if repeated several times with the eyes focused on the tip of the nose:

"A sleeper is that on which the sleeper which carries the sleeper runs; therefore, while the sleeper sleeps in the sleeper the sleeper carries the sleeper over the sleeper into the sleeper which carries the sleeper, and jumps off the sleeper by striking the sleeper in the sleeper, and there is no sleeper in the sleeper."

MOUNTED NURSES.

They May Become a Feature of the English Army.

Army nursing may be revolutionized as the result of a course of training instituted at the North London Riding School, where the Islington Drill Brigade Girls' Yeomanry, twenty-five strong, is showing what mounted horses could do in the field.

The innovation will be brought unofficially to the notice of the British military department at the next annual show of the navy and army, and it is believed the army medical corps will give the idea more than passing consideration. The work of the girls' brigade is a revelation to every army officer who witnesses it.

They are trained to all the arts of nursing before being advanced to the brigade service. In this their work is to bind up the wounds of any soldier found helpless in the field, hoist him upon their horses and ride with him to the field hospital. All this they do in their regular drills with surprising proficiency.

Army officers are already discussing the practicability of the plan. The most reasonable objection urged is the question of being able to mount nurses where every available horse is needed for fighting and transport work. Most of the officers admit that the women would be invaluable if they could be equipped and so maintained.

Admittedly it would be out of the question to have such a mounted nurse corps in desert fighting, such as English troops are frequently required to engage in, but on European battlefields there is no reason why they could not be used to distinct advantage.

The Islington brigade has been officially invited to attend the next military tournament, and it is by no means improbable that they may ultimately be the nucleus of similar corps throughout the army.

THE RENAISSANCE OF THE KNICKERBOCKER.

COAST ABOUNDS IN FISH.

Pacific Region Will in Time Supply the Whole Country.

The extensive coast line of the territory seems everywhere abundant with halibut, which has become almost a luxury in the East. There the fishing is done at great hazard and at long distances from markets, while in Alaska the fisherman leaves his home in the morning and returns in the evening with the fruits of his labor.

A little off the coast of Alaska and in many places among the numerous islands along the shores there exists great cod banks. These are little known and while they are now fished to some extent it might be said the industry is wholly in its infancy. When we consider the enormous extent of these banks as compared with those off the New England coast and the very few fish now taken on them as compared with the large numbers taken on the Atlantic it can readily be seen to what an extent this fishery can also be expanded. Here also the element of safety is greatly in favor of the industry on the Pacific coast. At present, in a small way, both halibut and cod are shipped clear across the continent to Boston and New York. With better and cheaper facilities the markets of the United States will soon be opening up to the Pacific.

The salmon fishing is now wholly done for canning and in a small way salted. The extent to which this part of the industry has grown is more familiar to the world than any other. During the last few years the fresh fish industry has made inroads even on the cannery supply and mild cured salmon is now being shipped all the way to Germany for smoking. During the last winter buyers from German houses in Hamburg have appeared in Alaska towns and eagerly taken all the product they could secure. This is but a beginning, and development in time in the way of improved means of transportation will extend the shipping of salmon fresh from the waters of Alaska to all parts of the world.—Pacific Coast Monthly.

All in One.

"You've read his novel. Is it a love story?"

"Yes, it's intended to be. There's a young naval officer in it and a cad and an idiotic chump——"

"But what's the hero like?"

"I'm telling you. The hero is all three of them."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Between the ages of twenty and thirty, if a young man is nice looking, graceful and a good dresser, he is in the same danger of becoming a professional groomsman at a wedding as a man of forty is of becoming a professional pallbearer.

Perhaps a few more people would try to be good if they didn't bump into so many others who overdo the thing.

Many men's goodness is due to the fact that they are not found out.

Official County Paper

FRIDAY, AUGUST 28,1908

If mud could make votes, Congressman Jones would have the largest vote ever recorded in Washington. The Jones campaign from start to finish has been a dirty affair. Mr. Ankeny is making a dignified campaign and the people are with him. Pierce county will roll up 2400 majority for the senator and the state will make it 20,000.—Tacoma Press.

No explanation has so far been made of the charge that Governor Mead, now heralded as a strong local option man, neither referred to local option in his messages nor made any effort to secure the passage of two local option bills introduced since he has been governor, one of which was lost by one, and the other by five votes. His present political managers and supporters, who worked with him on other measures, either voted against the local option bills, or absented themselves.

Congressman Jones, in his self-laudatory speeches (in one of which he used the pronoun "I" 285 times) has made no mention of his having voted "aye" on the $190,000 mileage steal. Had this bill passed, Jones would have drawn $1,200 mileage, five times the amount of the railroad fare, for a trip home that he didn't make. The special session of Congress, in 1903, adjourned about ten minutes before time for convening of the regular session, hence no such trip was possible. The Senate promptly killed the bill.

Results of the primary election cannot be expected as soon after election day as general election returns. It will require much longer to count the votes, as a considerable saving is always made by the ease with which straight votes are counted. There can be no such thing as a straight ticket cast in the primary election. In the event the contest is close between any state candidates the results in their cases may not be known definitely for some time, and it may transpire that the final result will not be known until the official count is made. If some candidate for governor, for instance, finally gets a little bit over or a little bit under the required 40 per cent of first choice votes, the outcome may depend on the last few precincts that come in. It will not be much use to sit up all night after the primaries waiting returns, unless one is interested in county officers.

Collier's malicious assault on Senator Ankeny, in which the Senator is depicted as being a modern Shylock, will have scant credence here, where are living at least three families who were saved from bankruptcy and tided over the hard times by his kindly help. Such an unjust and unfounded attack, of so contemptible a character, should bring the blush of shame to those publishers thruout the state who have been assisting Wilson and Perkins in their campaign of personal abuse.

In reply to a circular letter from the Post-Intelligencer, asking if the Shingle Weaver favors Jones as candidate for the U. S. senatorship, Editor MacRae sent in the following, which very tersely presents the views generally held by the laboring men of the state: "As the publisher of a labor paper, presumably voicing the aims and aspirations of organized labor, it appears strange to us that you should even suspect that we favored the candidacy for any office of one who has in the halls of Congress, before state conventions of his party, on the stump, and in public forums, hurled the thunderbolts of his vindicative hate at the officials of the labor movement. Thank God, we do NOT favor the candidacy of W. L. Jones for senator."

For rank conceit Congressman Wesley L. Jones takes the colors. He seems to think that no one is quite so well qualified as himself for United States senator. Declaring at Ballard Tuesday night that the State will badly need a champion during next session of Congress, Jones very craftily said: "Some of our industries will be attacked, and it will need men of honesty, capability, good judgment and intelligence to look after them." All of which is true. But is Jones the only man in the state competent to look after the interests of our people in the Senate? He evidently would have the people think so.

The public official who looks after the interests of the county without thought of self or the personal affairs of others, thereby demonstrating his fitness, competency and efficiency, is entitled to and should have a second term. K. O. Erickson, the present commissioner of the third district, is such a man. He has justly earned a second term. Three of our present county officials are granted this customary courtesy by common consent and have no declared opponents. Mr. Erickson has made one of the best officials the county has ever had. Elected two years ago as a member of the Board, he has taken hold of county affairs as one always in harness, looking after the smallest details with the same painstaking care as those requiring much more thought and study. His vote has always been recorded on the side of right and justice to all men. It was entirely thru his efforts that an appropriation was made according to law that will enable the county to be properly represented at the A.-Y.-P. Exposition at Seattle next year, and for this act alone he is entitled to the support of every voter in Clallam county at the coming primaries.

MOST INFAMOUS SLANDER EVER WRITTEN

Spokane Bankers and Business Men Denounce Malicious Attack on State's Senior Senator.

The inspired attack on Senator Ankeny printed in a recent issue of Collier's Weekly has proved a complete boomerang in this part of Washington, where the senator is best known, says a Spokane dispatch to the Seattle Times. Business men and others everywhere do not hesitate to denounce as utterly false and malicious the slanderous statements

E. T. Coman, vice-president of the Spokane Exchange National Bank, who was formerly cashier of Ankeny's bank at Colfax, says: "I can speak with absolute knowledge of the facts. You can find thousands of men all over Eastern Washington and Oregon who owe their success to Senator Ankeny's assistance during the troublous times following the panic of 1893. The records of Whitman, Walla Walla and Columbia counties will refute the slanderous statement that 'the records are cluttered with foreclosures in which he or his banks were plaintiffs.' In my twelve years association with him I recall but one foreclosure in Whitman county, and that was brought to clear title. I am told the records of Walla Walla do not show a single foreclosure."

Aaron Kuhn, president of the Spokane Traders National Bank, was for years a competitor of Ankeny's at Colfax. He says he has known Ankeny 31 years and has never known of his making any foreclosures, in fact, that he was always willing to help anyone deserving if they were in need, regardless of profit to himself.

George S. Brooke, president of the Fidelity National Bank of Spokane, says that for thirty years their banks have had business dealings together. "Our bank has had many customers who formerly lived at Walla Walla and who had been customers of Ankeny's bank. I have never heard him spoken of except in the highest terms. As a pioneer banker and business man he has done much to develop the Inland Empire. It is safe to say hundreds of men owe their success and prosperity to his assistance. He is thoroughly familiar with the state and her needs. I do not believe he can be successfully attacked on personal or business grounds."

D. W. Twohy, president of the Old National Bank of Spokane says he desires to enter a protest to the article in Collier's Weekly on Senator Ankeny. He believes Mr. Ankeny has done more to develop Eastern Washington than any other man in the state. "In the old days when the population was small and struggling, when the crops failed and the banks had not sufficient deposits to take care of the people, Mr. Ankeny went to Portland, San Francisco and the East, and thru his personal influence brought in hundreds of thousands of dollars that the farmer might be able to buy seed and put in his crop. His uniform policy has been never to foreclose a mortgage if the debtor showed an evidence of good faith and during times of crop failure, when the farmer was discouraged and desired to give up his property, he braced him up to further effort and advanced him additional funds to keep him going.

"If instead of erecting a fine building and having sumptuous quarters for his bank he used the funds for putting under cultivation additional acres, it may have been of greater benefit to his community; if he be lacking in the eloquence as a public speaker to satisfy the galleries, but instead has the facts and logic to convince his colleagues in the committee room of the needs of this community; if as chairman of the irrigation committee he is able to turn a goodly portion of the revenues of the government to making our desert lands bloom, he may have better served his state.

"We have too few business men legislating for us. Mr. Ankeny is conceded to be one of the best business men in the state. His most active competitors call him a man of sound judgment and strictest integrity, and essentially a safe man.

"I miss my guess if the good people of this state will allow the false story of the muckraker and the demagogue to make them forget the loyal support and untiring effort which Levi Ankeny has given the farmer and laboring man during his busy and honorable career."

Mr. Connolly, the author of the article above referred to, is an attorney of Silver Bow county, Montana; the article is a rehash of Jones' statements on the stump and the columns of the P.-I., and the price of its publication in Colliers is said to have been $6,000

On motion, the Board appropriated the sum of $1500.00 out of the Current Expense Fund to be used for the purpose of making an exhibit at the Alaska - Yukon - Pacific Exposition, provided that Jefferson county makes an appropriation of an equal amount for said purpose, Commissioners Bugge and Erickson voting aye, Commissioner Lauridsen voting nay.

The Board instructed the Auditor to draw a warrant of $50.00 on the Current Expense fund for the incidental expense.

The Board approved the bond and granted the petition of R R Canfield et als for a county road commencing at F T Balch and Wm Preston's west line at 1-8 post between Sections 13 and 24 of the east half of said section, running thence due west and ending at the county road running to Long Prairie and Lost Mountain.

The Board allowed the following Commissioner's claims:

K O Erickson, 1 day salary and mileage	$23.40
H. J. Bugge, 1 day salary and mileage,	$9.00
G. M. Lauridsen, 1 day salary and mileage	$6.00

The Board adjourned to meet Sept. 15th, 1908, at 9:00 a. m.

THE PRIMARY ELECTION BALLOTS

Two Separate Tickets, Republican and Democrat, with Judiciary Ticket on Each.

The primary election tickets have been prepared and are now in the hands of the printer. There will be two separate tickets, one for the Republicans, and one for the Democrats. The Socialists will not be eligible to participate in the electi[illegible] Socialists because of the [illegible] party did not cast 1 [illegible] ection as [illegible] fact that the total vote at t[illegible] 0 per cent of the [illegible] at the last general election. They may, however, nominate in the usual way, by convention.

The party tickets will be about ten inches wide by about twenty long, and the names will appear in two columns. First will come the state ticket, then the legislative, then the county, in the following order: Sheriff, Auditor, Treasurer, Attorney, Assessor, School Supt., Engineer, Coroner, Commissioners, Health Officer, Game Warden, Justices, Constables, Precinct Committeemen. At the bottom of the ticket will come the non-partizan judiciary ticket, with the State Supreme Judges in the first column and the two local candidates in the right hand column. Each office will be divided by a black-faced rule, and it will be necessary to vote for one person for each office, and to make a cross after the name of the party for whom you wish to vote.

On the Republican ticket there will be four state officers in which you will be required to vote both first and second choice. These are for Governor, Lieut.-Governor, Attorney General and Insurance Commissioner, and are marked plainly, "vote for first and second choice for this office", so that anyone who can read will have no difficulty voting intelligently. On the Democratic ticket there will only be one office, that of Governor, which will require a second choice vote.

One week from next Tuesday is Primary Election day, or, as many get the word election confounded with the general election, Primary Nomination day—the day on which the people of each party assemble to choose directly the candidates of the party, instead of delegating this power to representatives at conventions. The standing of the candidates or nominees after the primaries is the same as the standing after a party convention. The polls will be open at 11 o'clock and remain open until 8 p. m. Upon appearing at the polls you will be required to ask for a Republican or a Democratic ticket. You cannot have both. Thus you will be branded Republican or Democrat. You will then repair to the booth and choose one person on the party ticket asked for for each office. You will then return the ticket to the election officer who will deposit in in the ballot box.

When the ballots thus cast are counted the candidates receiving the largest number of votes for that particular office will be the nominee of that party for the office designated, and the names thus chosen will go on the general election ballot in November as heretofore, when you will be allowed to vote for whom you please, Republican or Democrat.

SETTLEMENT IMPOSSIBLE WITHOUT ROAD

Gettysburg, Aug. 23, 1908.

Editor Olympic-Leader: — We at Gettysburg have heard about the logged-off land convention at Everett, and some of us think the Warmun idea a good one. That is, the county should purchase one or more land clearing outfits, and issue land clearing certificates to pay for outfits and men to work the same, certificates being a lien against land cleared. But I would suggest a much better way for Clallam county. Do as the loggers do, first establish a permanent right-of-way for a county road thru the logged-off land, then get a donkey engine and some powder. With such an outfit we could build roads. The shovel and mattock are eating up the county road money. The logging companies have out grown this kind of road building; why not the county.

We have already spent a hundred dollars on the roads west of Crescent this year, in district No. 2! We have, in the last five years, done road work on all the railroad, skid-road and telegraph tracks in this valley, but we have no roads to get in or out of Gettysburg, even with a sled. Thousands of people would be glad to permanently settle in the valley and clear their land if we only had roads. Of what good is Clallam county vacant, logged-off land if not settled and cleared? Next summer, during A.-Y.-P. Exposition, we can expect homeseekers to visit us. What have we to offer them? Shall we tell them about our immense forests, our millionaire timber owners, and our everlasting railroad prospects, and have only town lots—plenty of town lots—to show them; or, that automobile road we are building to the summit of the Olympics that we may have more town lots? But what about that small farm, that much talked of logged-off land, where is it?

But still the land is here, a valley five miles wide, more or less, extending from Lyre river east. We could at this moment take care of a hundred milch cows if we only had a way of getting out with the cream other than by the steamer, (and that cannot be depended upon) neither have we a road to the boat landing. Still we are hopeful, yes, very hopeful; like the cheerful idiot, we will boost the same old crowd this fall. Have they not increased the assessment on timber to nearly sixty cents per thousand! The assessed valuation of my sheep is $2.50 per head; they are for sale at $4.00 per head; $2.50 is 60 per cent of $4.00. If sixty cents is the actual value for the best timber in Clallam county then surely the Grays Harbor loggers should have guardians appointed for paying $5.00 a thousand for the same. But, of course, we are simple minded and do not understand. Then, my chickens are valued at 35c each, but actually for sale at 25c each. In 1907 my sheep were valued at $4.70; actual value $4.00.

I have thought that the best timber of the county should be worth $4.00 a thousand but if it is only worth 60 cents then that shows that I don't know. But as I said before, we are very hopeful. Our own commissioner has been down here twice and we felt that he sympathized with us, but appeciated the fact that he could do nothing. He could only try to make us keep quiet.

We have been allowed just fifteen dollars for road work inside of two miles of Gettysburg in four years. If this valley were timbered and waiting for the logger we could not expect much. But land is logged-off and waiting for the farmer, and it is for the interest of the entire county that we should have roads. Since the logging camps have been closed by the big timber owners we have no local market for our products. We need an outlet to Port Angeles for our mutton, beef, wool, honey, eggs, poultry and other farm produce. Clallam county is rich; we can well afford to build good roads, and thereby encourage the man that clears the land for future generations.

OSCAR NELSON.

The steamer Bellingham arriving this morning from down the Strait, brought a shipment of cattle from Clallam county for the local market. The farmers in Western Clallam and Jefferson counties could do a good business in cattle raising if they had an easy access to market, but under present conditions the cost of shipping takes a large portion of the profits, consequently the farmers devote little or no attention to cattle raising, only shipping the surplus. If a road was built along a feasible route, giving Western Jefferson and Clallam an outlet so that the farmers could drive their cattle to market, stock raising would be entered into on an extensive scale in that section. Both counties are admirably adapted to stock raising, and an easy route to market would result in great good to the entire section.—Port Townsend Call.
