WILL ASK STATE TO EXTEND AID

LOGGED-OFF LAND ASSOCIATION

Corporation Will Be Formed for Purpose of Actively Engaging in the Work of Land Clearing.

Definite steps for solution of the logged-off land problem will be taken by two committees of the Washington Logged-Off Lands Association, says an Everett dispatch. At a meeting of the association, held here Saturday, President Joel Shomaker was authorized to appoint one committee to form a corporation for the purpose of beginning active work in the clearing of desirable agricultural lands. A second committee will wait on the legislature this winter with recommendations for the passage of a bill permitting the state to lend aid in clearing these lands.

The powder question was discussed at considerable length, and the general opinion prevailed that the solution of the problem rests in the formation of an organization which shall make possible the purchase of explosives in large quantities and the maintenance of an efficient land-clearing force, provided with all needed supplies and machinery.

Commercial oxygen may prove a factor in solving the clearing problem, according to H. K. Benson, associate professor of chemistry at the state university. Prof. Benson stated that he was working on an old French process for the extraction of oxygen from the atmosphere, which, if successfully developed, would probably reduce the cost of clearing and burning the wood to $30 an acre.

The next meeting of the association will be held at Seattle the second Saturday in October.

The principal address was delivered by President Shomaker, who, among other things, said:

"There has been a noticeable increase in the number of farmers in the past few years. Since 1890 the number of farm workers has increased 40 per cent; the value of products has increased 200 per cent, and the farm holdings have grown in value more than 90 per cent.

"Western Washington has progressed wonderfully during the time of general agricultural development. The dairy industry has come to the front as a cash producer; the fruit orchards and vineyards have added wealth to the country in the erection and maintaining of canneries and the opening of markets for fruits in every condition; the hay meadows have added materially to the sources of income and the truck farms have returned good dividends on the investment. The work has been limited to the area of cleared lands. Wherever a field is in shape for cultivation there are scores of applicants for purchasing, at, what a few years ago, would have been considered exorbitant figures.

"There is a reason for the change in agricultural conditions. It is given in the one statement of two words — farming pays. It pays in the Puget Sound country because crops can be planted and harvested every month in the year. It pays because there is never a time when the grass ceases to grow or nature loses her carpet of green. It pays because there is an unlimited field for marketing everything produced on the farm. The home demand is greater than the supply and the calls from the isles of the Orient and the cities of Alaska are increasing with the enlarging of transportation facilities.

"The owners of logged-off lands must organize for the purpose of placing their properties on the market and to assist in colonizing the cleared lands with successful farmers. The Logged-Off Land Association should take the necessary steps to form a corporation, under the laws of the state, for the purpose of beginning active work in clearing desirable agricultural lands.

"A company having the powers well defined could enter upon the duties of the work of clearing logged-off lands immediately on the perfection

RHODODENDRON WRECKED

Capt. Hall Rescued, but Sailor was Drowned in Surf.

The sloop Rhododendron was wrecked off the mouth of the Elwha Sunday and a sailor drowned. Capt. Hull was bound down the strait on a trading trip, when the steering gear gave way. The sailor, Mittge, who accompanied the captain, put out for shore in a small boat, which overturned in the surf, and he was washed out in the straits. Capt. Hall was rescued by men from one of the ranches. The sloop is a total loss.

The sailor's body washed ashore and was found on the beach between the mouth of the Elwha and Dry Creek, by some Indians, but before the coroner could reach the spot it had again disappeared.

Minor Happenings of the Week

Sven Anders Hedin, the explorer, who started in 1906 from Chinese Turkestan on a journey throughout Thibet, and concerning whose whereabouts there was great anxiety, has arrived at Simla.

More than 46,000 acres of land formerly included in Indian reservations in the vicinity of Leech lake, Minnesota, have been opened to settlement in accordance with orders from the general land office.

In the South Carolina dispensary cases, heard in the United States court of appeals at Richmond, Va., the lower court was affirmed. The general grounds for affirmation seem to be that a state cannot enter private business.

The department has announced that Dr. Henry Love, a special agent of the land office, assigned to duty in Oregon, has been appointed United States marstal for the third division of Alaska in place of George C. Perry.

The Minnesota state fair proved its right to be called the biggest fair in the Union by reaching the large attendance of 330,000 for six days. The directors have decided to expend $450,000 on a concrete ampitheater and main building the coming summer.

Passengers who have arrived at Antwerp from the Congo report serious troubles in the French Congo, where natives revolted and in sections surrounded a number of whites. A relief force was sent to the aid of the whites and several engagements were fought.

JONES WINS IN PRIMARY

Seattle, Sept. 10—Not 70 per cent of the vote in Tuesday's primary has been reported up to this morning. In many precincts in the state the count is still in progress. Enough of the count is at hand, however, to assure the selection of Wesley L. Jones as United States senator. This is conceded by the friends of Senator Ankeny.

Jones made a good run all over the state, except in King county.

Something has been heard from every county except Wahkiakum and Skamania, but from none of them have come full returns.

For governor no candidate has yet secured what is estimated to be 40 per cent of the first choice ballots. It seems inevitable that the second choice provision be invoked. In that event, if the proportion maintained in the count so far in hand be kept up, it is evident that S. G. Cosgrove will be nominated by a substantial plurality.

Mead carried Pierce county, and also his own county of Whatcom, together with some of the smaller counties.

McBride carried King, Spokane and sevearl of the smaller counties. The incomplete count from Skagit county, McBride's former home, shows Cosgrove in the lead there, with Mead second and McBride third.

The efficiency of battleships of this class is expected to be established by this vessel. The spectators cheered and countless flags were waved as the St. Vincent met the waves. The Countess Beauchamp performed the christening ceremonies.

Standard Oil Files Answer

Chicago, Sept. 12.—The government's contention thac ignorance of a published rate is not a valid excuse for a shipper to violate it is contested by the Standard Oil Company in its answer to the petition of the government for a rehearing in the $29,000,000 fine case, filed Thursday by the Rockefeller counsel in the federal court of appeals. The answer denies that the supreme court has ruled that it was the duty of the shipper to ascertain the published rate, but declares that the supreme court has ruled that the shipper must adhere to the rates published. The answer denies that the case should be reopened to establish the number of alleged offenses.

PRIMARY ELECTION

RETURNS HAVE BEEN VERY SLOW AND ARE STILL INCOMPLETE.

Jones Wins in Senatorial Contest by Large Majority Over Ankeny. Cosgrove Gets Gubernatorial Nomination on Second Choice Clause.

Republican and Democratic State Tickets.

(Based on Unofficial Returns.)

United States Senator—W. L. Jones, Republican; G. F. Cotterill, Democrat.

Governor—S. G. Cosgrove, Republican; John Pattison, Democrat.

Lieutenant Governor—M. E. Hay, Republican; A. C. Edwards, Democrat

Secretary of State—S. H. Nichols, Republican; Otis Johnson, Democrat.

State Auditor—C. W. Clausen, Republican.

State Treasurer—E. K. Erwin, Republican.

Attorney General—W. P. Bell, Republican.

Land Commissioner—E. W. Ross, Republican; Albert Schooley, Democrat.

State Superintendent—H. B. Dewey, Republican; Eldridge Wheeler, Democrat.

Insurance Commissioner—J. H. Schively, Republican; E. F. Masterson, Democrat.

Congress, First District—W. E. Humphrey, Republican; C. H. Miller, Democrat.

Congress, Second District—F. W. Cushman, Republican; B. D. Brown, Democrat.

Congress, Third District—Miles Poindexter, Republican; William Goodyear, Democrat.

Seattle, Sept. 12.—Returns from the republican state primary are still incomplete, but all the counties except one have been heard from.

Levi Ankeny, incumbent, is defeated for United States senator by a decisive vote, as follows: W. L. Jones of North Yakima, 32,129; Levi Ankeny, Walla Walla, 17,058; W. H. Snell, Tacoma, 5,820.

The present governor, Albert E. Mead, and Henry McBride, the two leading candidates next to Cosgrove, both concede the latter's nomination for governor.

The feature of the contest is the fact that the second choice vote nominated Cosgrove. Nichols, Clausen, Ross, Dewey and Schiveley are renominated. Miles C. Poindexter, nominated for congress from the Third district, is to succeed Jones, who is nominated to the United States senate over Ankeny.

The republican fight has been so hot and there were so many names on the primary ticket that the result of the democratic primary has been lost sight of altogether, and it may be another day before the returns are totaled.

There was no contest except for the gubernatorial and senatorial nominations, and meager returns indicate the probable nomination of George F. Cotterill of Seattle for the United States senate and John Pattison of Spokane for governor.

The non-partisan judicial ticket for judges of the state supreme court resulted in the nomination of John E. Humphries and Milo A. Root, republicans, of Seattle, and Stephen J. Chadwick, of Colfax, democrat. Root is now on the supreme bench.

On the republican governorship and United States senatorship the great battle was fought all over the state. All other issues, save the question of local option, were subservient to these contests. That the question of local option is settled to a great extent is apparent from the returns at hand. It is true that the republican platform is committed to the local option idea, but the fact that McBride was backed by the liquor interests and received such a heavy vote as to place him second in the race on second choice votes and first in the race on first choice votes leaves the liquor men sanguine that only a "reasonable" local option law will be passed in the next legislature.

Governor Mead's closest friends admit that the issue of local option and racetrack gambling is to blame for his defeat. Even in his own county he barely scratched through and the vote against him in many counties where campaign managers believed him strong fell off so surprisingly that no other conclusion can be drawn.

King county was first and foremost the battleground of the campaign. In that county both Henry McBride and Ankeny won by a heavy vote. That the King county agreement to support the wishes of Senator Piles carried the day cannot be disputed in the face of the returns. That an insurgent movement to "get the scalp" of Senator Piles will be made is freely predicted by many politicians here.

Record Lumber Order Placed

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 12.—Both the logging and lumber industries on the British Columbia coast are exhibiting signs of a healthy improvement, the result of increased demand from the Canadian Northwest. Within the past ten days one Northwestern yard has placed a record order for 200 cars of fir lumber from Coast mills, half of which will be sawed at New Westminster and half at the Chemainus mill, on Vancouver island.

TERMINALS AT VICTORIA

Grand Trunk Pacific Secures Extensive Water Front Property.

Victoria, B. C., Sept. 12 —Announcement is made that the Grand Trunk Pacific has purchased a valuable piece of water front in the Victoria harbor at a cost of $150,000. The property adjoins the wharf of the Alaska Steamship company and Dominion government wharf, and is 400 feet in length, and is one of the most easily accessible points on the harbor.

The purchase will give the Grand Trunk Pacicfi nearly as extensive facilities on the water front as the Canadian Pacific railroad now has. Significance is lent to this by a statement made by Hon. W. Templeman, a member of the Dominion government in a speech, when, in alluding to the subsidy granted to the Vancouver Island Eastern railway at the last ssesion, he said it would give an opportunity for a connection to be made at Fort St. George with the Grand Trunk Pacific, which would make Victoria practically the terminus of the transcontinental line.

The only other construction put upon the purchase by the Grand Trunk Pacific is that the company intends to enter the coasting serivce as a rival of the Canadian Pacific railroad, making Victoira its Southern terminus, with connections at Prince Rupert in the North.

CUMMINS YIELDS TO STANDPATTERS

Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 12.—Beaten by the "revoters" who deadlocked the legislature, Governor Cummins in a voice that was "funereal and crepe-clad" asked his friends to cease pressing him as a candidate for the short term for United States senator and accept the terms which the standpatters offered. The progressives were forced to submit. The extra session of the legislature therefore adjourned to reconvene November 24 after the general election. It will then elect the person to the senate receiving the largest vote at the primary in November.

The joint convention met at noon Thursday and roll call disclosed the fact that the standpatters were as firm as ever, Mr. Cummins still lacking a dozen votes of a majority. After the convention dissolved a caucus of the supporters of the governor was called and the governor asked to be present. Mr. Cummins read a statement to the caucus, in which he said that the party success should stand above his personal ambition, and that he believed it best for party harmony that the legislature adjourn until after election.

The governor's counsels were finally accepted and the peace agreement indorsed by all but Senators Allen and Turner and Representatives Marston, Van Houten and Weeks.

Leaders of the standpatters are feeling jubilant. They say they do not want to be understood to oppose the election of a United States senator for the short term, but that they wanted the people to declare themselves on the matter of the candidates first.

As soon as it was certain the extra session would adjourn without electing a senator for the short term, the anti-Cummins leaders began looking around for an available candidate to pit against Mr. Cummins for the primary contest in November. G. N. Haugen of the Fourth district; Walter I. Smith of the Ninth and ex-Governor Jackson of Des Moines are being considered.

ALASKA LOSES COPPER

Valuable Beds in White River Eistrict Are Canadian Territory.

Dawson, Sept. 14.—Fred Reynolds and other miners arriving in small boats from the head of the White river, report that the international American-Canadian boundary survey, running along the 141st meridian, crossed the White river a few days ago. The establishment of the permanent line brought out the fact that the White river copper deposits lie on the Canadian side. This means the capturing of a rich prize by the Canadians. The claims that are so far known quantities are well within Candian territory.

The line, according to Reynolds, crosses three miles above the lower end of the second canyon.

The location of this line has been a matter of great dispute, and there has been much overlapping recording in both countries.

The properties affected are estimated to be worth millions. The Guggenheims, Bratnober and others representing large American concerns, have had agents there several seasons. Some of the properties are bonded.

The survey parties expect to leave the front for the Coast via Dawson or Whitehorse, September 20.

Wireless for British Columbia Coast

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 12.—Frou new wireless stations are to be established immediately by the Dominion government on the British Columbia coast. Two will be situated on the Queen Charlotte islands, one at Prince Rupert and one at some convenient piont between this city and Prince Rupert. A station erected at Point Grey, a few miles west of Vancouver, is already in operation.

Scottish Commission Touring Dominion

New Westminster, B. C., Sept. 10.—The commission of Scottish agriculturists, who are now touring the Dominion in the interests of farmers' institutes in Scotland, will reach this city on Thursday of next week. The commission will spend several days in the dsitrict. There are twenty persons in the commission.

OREGON-WASHINGTON FISHERIES DISPUTE AMICABLY SETTLED.

Conference of Governors Decides that Matters In Controversy Be Submitted to the Federal Courts for Decision---Suit to Restrain Oregon Authorities.

Portland, Or., Sept. 14.—The conference between Gov. Albert E. Mead, of Washington, and Gov. George E. Chamberlain, of Oregon, concerning the disputed rights of the two states in the fisheries of the Columbia river, took place at 10 a. m., at the Oregon hotel. There were present also Assistant Attorney General I. B. Knickerbocker, Fish Commissioner John L. Riseland and Deputy Fish Commissioner Link Burton, of Washington; and Master Fish Warden H.C. McAllister and the attorney general of Oregon.

At the conference, the Oregon fishing laws were considered in connection with the articles by which the state was admitted into the Union. These artitcles confer on the state of Oregon concurrent jurisdiction over the Columbia river from shore to shore, as also do the articles by which Washington became a state. The Washington delegation agreed with Gov. Chamberlain that the Oregon authorities had only one course to follow, and that is to enforce the written statutes.

The conference, however, led to an understanding between the representatives of the two states that a test case should be brought in the federal court and their respective rights be determined by litigation.

"I came down here to avoid a fight and posssible bloodshed," said Gov. Mead after the conference, "and I think I have accomplished this result. I have instructed Assistant Attorney General Knickerbocker to bring suit in the federal court to determine the rights of the states in the matter. A restraining order against the Oregon authorities will be asked for, and if this is granted, the Wsahington fishermen can continue their fishing without molestation until the case has been fought out in court.

"This was the understanding we reached after a thorough discussion of the matter at the conference. Any compromise was impossible, for there is a direct conflict of the laws in the two states, ours permitting fishing after September 10, while the Oregon laws declare a closed season during the same time. Neither of us could change the law or agree to disregard our plain duty in the matter. The only solution wsa to throw the matter into the federal coruts. The Oregon authorities did not 'agree' to this plan, for it was out of their province to agree, but they also wish to avoid an open breach between the states and will treat the matter liberally.

"We expect to start the suit quickly, so that there need be no further conflict between the Washington fishermen and the Oregon authorities. A number of rrests have been made in Washingtonawaters, and if this continues there will certainly be serious trouble. For that reason we hope to secure a restraining order at once. Thus far the Oreogn officials have not been radical in their actions. Although a number of arrests have been made, the fishermen have not been taken into Oregon, but have been simply released on their owu recognizance."

Strange Fish in Aberdeen Waters

Aberdeen, Sept. 12.—A fish unknown in the waters of Grays harbor was caught in the lower bay in a salmon net. The fish is eighteen inches long, sixteen inches wide and four or five inches through. It has two fins, one on the back and one on the belly, each projecting about eight inches. The fins are set between the center and the tail, the tail being six inches long. It has ears close to a small fin, the ears being covered with a small finlike protection. The mouth is oval like an egg and no longer. There are two teeth in the jaws, a lower and upper one. Its skin and scales are a black brown color.

Paradise Road Nearly Ready

Tacoma, Sept. 15.—Some time this week automobiles will be able to go over the new government road into Paradise valley as far as Narada falls. Eugene Ricksecker, government engineer in charge, has announced that work on the remaining six miles of the road leading up Paradise creek to Sluiskin falls, and doubling back to the Camp of the Clouds, would be rushed as fast as climatic conditions and appropriations by congress would allow.

To Appeal Commodity Eecision

Washington, Sept. 15—United States Attorney General Bonaparte has ordered that an appeal be taken to the supreme court of the United States from the recent decision of the court of appeals at Philadelphia declaring unconstitutional the commodity clause of the Hepburn act. The appeal will be presented early in October.

Racing Ends at Meadows

Seattle, Sept. 14.—The seventh annual race meeting at the Meadows closed Saturday with a card of seven races, of which the feature, the Alaska handicap, went to Green Seal, who covered the mile and a sixteenth in 1:44 2-5, a new world's record, or the third time such an announcement was made at the local course this meeting.

LOOTED BY BEACHCOMBERS

Nearly Everything Movable Taken From Wrecked Steamship Saratoga

Seattle, Sept. 12.—Looted of everything that could be carried away by Siwashes and beachcombers, the steamship Saratoga is a shadow of her former self as she rests on the rocks near Valdez, according to advices received by Capt. E. C. Genereaux of the San Francisco board of underwriters, from Alaska. The Saratoga was wrecked last spring in a snowstorm on the reef at teh north end of Busby island, in Prince William sound. She went high on the rocks at full speed and after she was abandoned by the underwriters was left for two months without a watchman. Then the lootesr got in their work and unseen hands remoevd from the once popular vessel all the gear, boats, tackle and other movable things valued to the amount of almost $10,000

After practically all hope had been abandoned of ever doing anthying with the wreck, two local divers, backed by local capital, agreed to float the Saratoga and bring her to Seattle for a percentage of her value after arrival here These men report to Capt. Genereaux that they are making good progress and do not anticipate any trouble when it comes to floating her. They are removing the ore and coal from her holds before making any attempt to get her off the rocks.

STATE AND NATION IN DIRECT CLASH

Chicago, Sept. 12.—Open war between the government legal forces and secret service officials and the state's attorney's office in Chicago was declared this week, when George W. Fitzgerald was arraigned before Judge Chetlain, charged on a warrant sworn to by Private Detective Herbert F. Young with robbing the government of $173,000, stolen from the sub-treasury in the great mystery over a year ago.

The United States government has made it known in the strongest possible way that it will not assist the state authorities in the prosecution of Fitzgerald. Orders were received from the acting secretary of the treasury directing officers and employes of the treasury department to give no evidence or documents gathered by the United States secret service men to the state unless specifically instructed to do so by United States District Attorney Edwin W. Sims.

The effect may be a clash in authority between the state and the government, if any federal employe should be committed by the state court for contempt. Even Assistant Treasurer William Boldenweck, who had Fitzgerald arrested without the knowledge of the government, may not testify, except under the limitations specified.

The fact became known that the government' secret service officials deeply resent the action of the state's attorney's office in having arrested Fitzgerald on the initiative of Mr. Young, the department having had men constantly at work on the case since the robbery and being in possession of far more important evidence than that obtained by Mr. Young. Nothing daunted by the padlock put on the lips of the government employes, Assistant State's Attorney Barbour has issued subpenas for fifteen witnesses from the sub-treasury to appear in court. He will endeavor to compel them to testify.

American Federation Officers Deny Having Taken Sides in Politics.

Washington, Sept. 14.—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor has unanimously adopted the report of the labor representation committee.

"We shall in the future," says the report, "as we have in the past, shape our course upon a non-partisan basis."

The attitude of the council toward President Gompers' psoition in the campaign is epxressed in the report as follows:

"We desire to refute here the aspersions cast upon the exectuive council, particularly upon one fo its members, President Gompers, that it is our purpose, or his, to dictate to the working people of our country how they should cast their votes in the coming election, nor has anyone promised the vote of the workingmen to any particular party. We have strongly, clearly and emphatically, as it was our duty, presented the situation in which the working men of the country find themselves, the demands which labor has made upon both political parties as to necessary action which they should take, the treatment they have received, and have appealed to the judgment and patriotism of the working people and the friends of labor throughout the country, since both political parties have spoken, to make their choice as conscience may dictate. We have so conducted and propose so to conduct our course that the labor movement shall remain as free and independent from political partisan domination as it has ever been n its history."

AT THE STORE

"I would like to have a dozen picture hooks—plain," said the red-bearded suburbanite to the hardware dealer. "How much do you charge for the plain ones?"

"They're 10 cents a dozen. Do you want a dozen?" asked the dealer.

"Ten cents!" said his customer, reflectively. "That's 2 cents more than I can get them for in town. I'm not sure but the plain ones are 7 cents a dozen. I'm not kicking, understand," he added, as the hardware man looked at him grimly. "I know you have to charge a little more for what you sell than a big institution that buy in large quantities. It's all right that you should. Every man has to make his living and my motto is 'Live and let live.' Ten cents, eh?"

"Ten cents," repeated the hardware dealer. "Did you say you wanted a dozen of them?"

The red-bearded suburbanite considered. "Lemme see," he said. "I don't know but half a dozen would be enough. That would be 5 cents, wouldn't it?"

"Five cents," said the hardware dealer. "Do you want half a dozen?"

"I might run short on half a dozen," said the customer. "But then if I did I could get half a dozen more any time at the same price. Maybe I'd better do that than have a lot of extra ones lyong around. I don't mind the price. It isn't everything."

"Isn't it?" returned the dealer, shortly.

"Not the way I look at it," said the customer, with a smile. "I figure that it's worth a little something extra for convenience. Here you are in business—one of us. you've invested your capital in a pretty fair stock and it's a convenience to us all to have you here. I happen to want something in a hurry, perhaps, and it's a good deal easier for me to buy of you than to fiddle around wasting time in a big store in town. Your place isn't so crowded that I have to wait for ten minutes to get somebody to wait on me and another ten minutes for my change."

"No, it ain't," said the dealer. "I wish it was."

"Then you can take the trouble to show me what I want. You are a neighbor, I may say. I'm P. J. Biddick to you, I'm not just one of a few thousand people that you don't care a hang about, except to get their money and get rid of 'em. I know you and you know me. Isn't that right?"

"Hm-m," grunted the dealer.

"Certainly. And if there's anything wrong with what I buy I know I can come to you and you'll make it right. You'll remember the transaction. You won't ask me for my ticket and send me from pillar to post hunting the claim department."

The hardware man grunted again. "Do you want half a dozen of them hooks?"

"Yes, I believe I'll take half a dozen," answered the red-bearded man. "Wait a moment, though. Perhaps you'd better make it a dozen. I guess I can use 'em, and if I can't 10 cents won't make me nor break me. No, sir, I believe in patronizing home institutions, even if it costs a little to do it. The big city store doesn't do this suburb any good. It doesn't enhance the value of real estate a particle; it doesn't pay any taxes here. You're a home institution, you're a taxpayer and a citizen. If we pay you a little more for your goods than we do the big store, why, it's worth it to us. That's what I always say when they talk big store to me. 'Pay a little extra,' I say."

"Why didn't you come to me for your new lawn mower, then?" asked the dealer.

The red-bearded suburbanite looked disconcerted for an instant. "Well, that's different," he said. "If you had been a little more reasonable in your prices I might have done so; but my lawn mower cost me a dollar and a quarter less in town than you wanted to charge me. I've got to look out for myself, you know. Business is business when you get right down to tacks."

"That's all right," said the dealer, "but why do you mix it with guff?"—Chicago Daily News.

"That is right, dear."

"Yes, mamma. I hurried around the little circle in which is the fountain, an' Willie Jones hurried after me. But you see I can hurry twice as fast as him, and pretty soon I catched up to Willie an' grabbed him by the hair an' slapped him good an' plenty. Wasn't that right, mamma—'cause I did just what you told me to do?"

And what could mamma say?—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

GOVERNMENT TO BUILD MILITARY ROAD

FROM PORT CRESCENT TO COAST

Townsend Call Believes Army Engineers Are Engaged in Surveying Route for Road.

Indications are favorable to the building of a highway to the sea from this place, says the Townsend, Call. It has been surmised for some time that the military authorities were aware of the dangers resulting from the landing of an armed force in case of war with a foreign nation, at some point along the coast, and that such armed force could reach the forts by land. This has been discussed in the newspapers and by the authorities and it is believed that the department is of the opinion that such are among the future possibilities. To guard against such a move, it is said that to lessen the success of such an undertaking the government has decided to construct a military road to the sea, so that an armed force could on short notice reach the coast and prevent the successful landing of troops. That steps are being taken to construct such a road is evidenced by the fact that a detachment of the engineering corps of the United States army has been ordered to proceed to Port Crescent from the military headquarters at Fort Vancouver and that this detachment will be taken down the straits tomorrow on the steamer Bellingham. The detachment consists of sixteen men, two army wagons and a number of mules, together with a complete outfit. While the mission of this expedition is not positively known, yet it is believed that it is to survey a route for a military road to some point along the coast. It is further believed that as soon as the survey is made that construction work will be commenced.

It has been stated that a similar survey has been made from Port Discovery bay, and that the two surveys will meet, making a route to the sea from Discovery bay.

Aside from a military point of view, such a road will be of incalculable benefit to the entire country, as it will open for settlement a large area in both Clallam and Jefferson counties that would perhaps remain a wilderness for many years to come, as the state or county are not very industrious in road building, from lack of finances. Such a road will bring eastern and western Jefferson into closer relationship, as well as causing a large settlement on the fertile lands in the western end of this county, which are now lying idle, owing to its isolation from available markets.

Will Gravel Burnt Mountain Road.

The Board of Commissioners has issued a call, which will be found in another column, for bids for the gravelling of the first section of the Burnt Mountain road.

STEAMER RUNS ON SPIT

Captain Thought He Was Off Race Rock, Across the Strait.

The new siren fog signal at Ediz Hook lighthouse, across the bay from Port Angeles, being unknown to Capt. G. H. Ewart of the Winnebago, who was coming up the straits Saturday morning, he mistook the six second toot with intervals of sixty seconds, for the fog horn on Race Rocks, across the straits, which blows eight seconds at seventy-two second intervals, and veered to the south, running aground on the sand spit, about a mile from the lighthouse. When the schooner struck, the shock was scarcely perceptible and she was easily floated. Capt. Ewart distinctly heard the whistles in Port Angeles, but thought they came from steamers on the Victoria side and that he was near the British Columbia coast.

MRS. MARY DERICKSON.

Born February 8, 1845, in McHenry county, Illinois. Died at her home in this city September 16, 1908.

August 28, 1861, she was married to Orin L. Babcock, settling in Aurora, Ill. Mr. Babcock died July 9, 1884.

Seven children were born of this marriage: Mrs. Nellie Finch, deceased; Mrs. Orintha Kelly, Mrs. Cleora Raymond, Clifford L., Orin H., Herbert A., and Frank D.

October 13, 1887, she was married to E. S. Derickson; moving to Port Angeles in 1888, living here continuously since.

Mrs. Derickson was an active member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Eastern Star, and the Womens' Relief Corps, a charter member of the latter. Six brothers and sisters besides the husband and children are left to mourn her loss. Two of the brothers being Peter B. Chambers of this city and Will Chambers of Seattle.

"God's noblest work is man," 'tis said, but such women as Mrs. Derickson make us doubt the truth of this old saying. Noble, womanly, and kind, she met people only to make them her friends, and leaves that behind her which will always remain a green spot in life's oasis—a life well and nobly spent. Yesterday was a beautiful day, giving friends who lived some distance an opportunity of attending the funeral. Services were held at the church, conducted by her pastor, Rev. G. H. Simons. Burial was in Ocean View cemetery, Rev. Simons being assisted at the grave by the Eastern Star.

The Luppen Piano Recital.

Ever since the announcement of the musicale to be given by Miss Luppen, Sept. 12, music lovers had been looking forward with the greatest expectation, as all felt sure that a grand treat was in store for them. That their expectations were more than fully realized was apparent by the wrapt attention and the enthussiatic applause called forth by each and every selection. Miss Luppen left not a doubt in the mind of her audience as to her wonderful ability as a pianist, and the entire program, which consisted of the choicest classical music, was given without a written note. She has a most charming personality and stage appearance which adds not a little to the success of her entertainments.

When Trifles Become Troubles

If any person suspects that their kidneys are deranged they should take Foley's Kidney Remedy at once and not risk having Bright's disease or diabetes. Delay gives the disease a stronger foothold and you should not delay taking Foley's Kidney Remedy. W. J. Mathewson Drug Store.

Two very interesting seemingly freaks of nature were visible here Sunday and Monday last. On Sunday night the Northern lights presented a very striking picture in the northern sky, and on Monday morning Victoria seemed to have moved her position to the center of the strait and the large buildings over there were plainly visible with the naked eye. With good glasses one could pick out the various locations. It was a mirage effect and something quite unusual in this locality.

Passed Examination Successfully

James Donahue, New Britain, Conn., writes: "I tried several kidney remedies, and was treated by our best physicians for diabetes, but did not improve until I took Foley's Kidney Remedy. After the second bottle I showed improvement, and five bottles cured me completely. I have since passed a rigid examination for life insurance." Foley's Kidney Remedy cures backache and all forms of kidney and bladder trouble. W. J. Mathewson Drug Store.

HEALTH CONDITIONS IN WASHINGTON

The low death rates of the cities of this part of the United States, together with the generally good health of the people, have been repeatedly commented upon, only to elicit a reply that the climatic conditions can have nothing to do with the matter.

The recent report of the surgeon general of the army contains some remarkable statistics, which go far to support the contention that it is the equable climate which is responsible for these health conditions in which the people of the Northwest coast take such pardonable pride.

The soldiers of the regular army in every part of the country are placed under identical conditions as to everything except the climatic factors. Their food, clothing, housing, daily work and habits are as nearly alike everywhere as regulations can make them, and the men themselves are all of the same type. It is reasonable, then, that if there are any differences as to sickness in different localities, they must be due to climatic conditions.

The surgeon general reports the startling fact that the greatest sickness is in the Department of the Colorado, which also includes Arizona, New Mexico and Utah—regions which popular opinion considers the best. On the other hand, the least proportionate number of sick soldiers is found in the Department of the Columbia, which includes Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Alaska. California is in the middle of the list. Even Texas, Dakota and the East have better rates than California, while the Southern states, the Lake region and the plains have worse.

In the proportionate number of deaths the Northwest has but 74 per 100,000 while Colorado has over eleven times more and is at the head of the mortality table. The deaths on the plains are about four times as numerous as on the Coast, while around the Great Lakes and in the Middle states they are five times, and in the South three times as many.

Such statistics as these are very impressive, for they show that not only for soldiers, but for people in all walks of life this is the healthiest spot in the country.

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

The kidneys filter and purify the blood—that is their work.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases, and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

England's "Immortals?"

Whether Browning is to be remembered and Burns forgotten and Carlyle given a niche in a temple of fame where Johnson is ignored are questions which agitate the Britains and recall the discussions in this country over the admissions to the American Hall of Fame. Perhaps it was chance and possibly design which left nineteen empty spaces at the base of the dome of the reading room at the British museum in London, which has just been "done over" in modern style. The committee in charge decided to fill the spaces with the names which are "greatest and most representative in English literature," and it is possible they cast lots to fix upon the nineteen most worthy. The names set up are Chaucer, Caxton, Tyndale, Spenser, Shakespeare, Bacon, Milton, Locke, Addison, Swift, Pope, Gibbon, Wordsworth, Scott, Byron, Carlyle, Macaulay, Tennyson and Browning.

It is generally admitted by those who are grieved at finding who are left and who are chosen for a scroll of British worthies that there are so many eligibles the naming of just nineteen is a knotty problem. Some Irish critics contend that Goldsmith would better be in it than Swift, who was an Irishman by accident of birth only. Others say that Goldsmith should stand ahead of Addison. The Scotch wonder that Browning should be lifted up where Burns has no showing at all. The English themselves are very much divided, and names mentioned as more worthy than some of those chosen are Bunyan, Fielding, Blake, Shelley, Dickens, Butler, Thackeray, Gray and Richardson, these being in addition to Burns and Goldsmith, whose claims none but the committee seems to dispute.

Germany's Labor War.

From Saxony comes the information that each succeeding year shows an increase of strikes and lockouts in that district. Consul Iffit, writing from Annaberg, says that the chief cause of strikes last year was the wage question. Next in importance was recognition of labor unions by employers, and the demand for shorter hours played but an insignificant part. One item of the consul's information is of interest to American labor:

> While the German workers have profited by the experiences of their fellow workers in other lands, the employers have not failed to profit by the same experiences and have formed employers' protective associations, which now cover the whole country, and mutual associations of manufacturers for insurance against losses from strikes and lockouts. It is claimed that these latter associations are really a benefit to the cause of labor, for it is essential to membership therein that factory conditions be such as would not invite strikes, and it is also to their interest to prevent strikes if possible, and when strikes occur to make them as short as possible. The convention of Saxon manufacturers, held in July, 1907, claimed that the association had in a large number of instances prevented or settled strikes to the satisfaction of employees and employers.

Nevertheless we are told that there is small promise of industrial peace in Germany. A constantly increasing friction is growing up between employers and workmen. The wage earners persist in their struggles for betterment of conditions in the face of industrial depression. Unfortunately for themselves perhaps, the German workingmen are divided into two camps, and their progress is hampered by lack of harmony and thorough organization.

The Newness of the Congress.

It would be difficult for the average citizen who follows the work of congress to name offhand 10 per cent of the men who now have seats. Over 100 members of the house are there for the first time. In the senate, where veterans are popularly supposed to have a long tenure, only twenty-seven out of ninety have served more than ten years. The veterans of the war era have passed away and have left no successors of their own type.

Only half a dozen of the members now in the house of representatives can be called veterans of that body. Twenty years of consecutive service is a long record. Very few of the older senators or congressmen are noted speakers, and remarks during the sessions are usually confined to explaining bills. As the work of congress is largely done in committees, there is less chance than formerly for personal distinction and the development of giants in debate and oratory. Nevertheless in spite of the changes the position of United States senator is popularly considered one of honor and usefulness which has certainly no superior in our public life.

If night riders should attempt to burn some of the "domestic" tobacco fields the great probability is that a smell of cabbage would ascend to the clouds.

A San Francisco man lost his phonograph and 500 records in a fire recently. One can easily imagine how the neighbors sympathized with him.

Notwithstanding the length of that message, congress will undoubtedly hear a few things that were left unsaid before the session is over.

Santa Claus should be warned against hoarding all that money when it gets around to him.

A Virile American Family.

In connection with the death of General Alexander Hamilton, who passed away recently at the age of ninety-two, it is interesting to note the remarkable virility of the family of the Revolutionary soldier and statesman who was cut down in his prime by the bullet of Aaron Burr. The Hamilton who died at Tarrytown, N. Y., Dec. 10 was the second generation from Burr's victim. The first Alexander Hamilton has been in his grave 103 years. His great-great-grandchildren are at school, and yet the Alexander of the third generation was only a short time ago enjoying a fair measure of health, able to read the newspapers and discuss the affairs of the day.

The father of the third Alexander Hamilton lived to be ninety, and three uncles reached the ages of eighty-two, eighty-nine and ninety respectively. The youngest son of that generation died twenty-three years ago and was two years old when his father was shot to death by Burr. A son of this Hamilton is an eminent specialist in New York city today and one of the busiest.

The late General Alexander Hamilton served in the civil war and was at one time close to President Lincoln. His brother, General Schuyler Hamilton, was a West Point graduate and also served close to the president in 1861, being military secretary to General Winfield Scott while he was in command of the army. Schuyler was given a major general's commission for services in connection with Island No. 10. The father of these two generals served as an aid to General William Henry Harrison in the war of 1812. Alexander was born at the close of that war. Had his grandfather, the first Alexander, lived the allotted years of man the Hamilton who has just passed away on the banks of the Hudson might have been a companion of his declining days, for he would have been about twelve years old.

New Ships on Our Pacific Coast.

To the great bulk of this nation our Atlantic connections are the important thing in foreign commerce. It takes an earthquake or a war scare in the Pacific to make the average man take notice of what is going on on "the other side of the globe." The "other side" of the United States, to give that well worn figure of speech a definite significance, does not need a sensation to lend it interest if we care to know what is doing to make American greatness. We have neighbors on both sides of our Pacific coast line that are busy, while the Japs beyond the water are rubbing their shins and making faces.

Our consul at Victoria reports a new steamship line established by a British company to operate between Alaska and Mexico. The vessels sail under the Norwegian flag and are manned by Norwegians. They call at several Mexican ports. The same authority says that two other new Norwegian steamers have been chartered to engage in the British Columbia and Alaskan coast trade and that next spring will see the opening of a new passenger and freight steamer service between Victoria and north China and Siberia. It is expected that these new lines—four in all—will result in competition and cut rates, and if there is anything in low rates favorable to business development a trade boom on the east coast of the Pacific is in sight and not far away.

Ousting a Misfit.

Governor Hughes has set a good example for government by removing the president of Manhattan borough for incompetence in office. He bases the act upon "gross breach of official obligation," and it is just this sort of conduct in an official which the voters condemn at the polls when they refuse to re-elect a man who has once been found wanting. In the case before Governor Hughes the people had chosen the delinquent a second time.

In a community where the "recall" is in force probably Borough President Ahearn would have been forced from his seat by an upheaval of public indignation, for the case against him was clear. He seems to have coveted office out of pure vanity and once seated allowed underlings, who were not responsible and certainly not efficient, to run affairs. An official who can't or won't make good is a misfit, and the power of removing him should be lodged somewhere. It should also be used without fear or favor.

A French actress declares it is utterly impossible to dress elegantly on less than $30,000 a year. Fortunately there are several million wives in this country who do not consider it absolutely necessary to dress "elegantly."

Few women lack vanity, and no men are without it.—Gautier. The millions of dollars spent yearly for human vanity would curb and cure the famine of the globe.

A highway from sea to sea is planned by motorists, and nobody is planning to put bars up at the sea ends.

Making Country Life Attractive.

By a modest line in the president's message the "betterment" of farm life gets a good word. With agriculture ranking foremost among our varied industries on the score of profit, it is not probable that the tilling of the land will be neglected for some years to come. Yet there are lean years as well as fat years, and the development of the opening farming country will not rest upon a sound basis until farm life itself becomes attractive. It is a big problem, and improvement in the methods of agriculture, which the government is earnestly seeking to encourage, is a most important feature of it. If men seek merely to get a living from the soil the better the method of work the better the living.

The maintenance of good roads which the governments of the nation and of the states are fostering is perhaps the most important step that can be taken at the top. Next to good water and plenty of it the dweller on a farm wants easy access to neighbors and to the market town. With fairly good roads comes fraternization, and schools and churches spring up as a matter of course. But for a large area of the farming country which is sparsely settled the development halts with churches and schools. There is no attraction for agriculturists from other sections to seek new homes in a region with so little to recommend it even if the soil is fertile. We live in an age of wide awake thought and of aspiration. Mankind seeks for something more in life than board and clothes. Our literature itself, while primarily capable of chasing away loneliness, nevertheless awakens social appetite. Social movements in the form of clubs, societies, leagues and unions, taking in all ranks, the ten acre man as well as the opulent farmer, would focus the thought and activities of the community, give the young and restless folks something practical to do and cause every individual to feel that mere existence is not the sum total of ambition on an American farm.

Testing Our Toughest Wood.

Industries which are concerned in the use of hickory will follow with interest a series of tests of this valuable wood inaugurated at the forest service timber testing laboratory at Purdue university. The importance of the tests lies in the fact that they will furnish accurate data on the relative strength of the different kinds of hickory, which is a wood for which no satisfactory substitute has been found. The timber of no other tree possesses the peculiar properties which make hickory necessary in the manufacture of parts of vehicle and farm implements.

A pinch in the hickory supply has been felt for several years, and it is already seen that the growing of hickory must be encouraged either by natural growth or artificial planting if the permanence of a number of industries is to be insured. The importance in this first series of tests by the United States forest service lies in the fact that they will determine just what species of hickory are strongest and will give much valuable information to owners of farm wood lots and others who plant trees for profit. Not until it is accurately determined just what species produce the strongest timber will it be possible to know just what trees to plant. When the report on tests is completed information on the work will be gladly given to all who write to the forest service at Washington.

The existence of macadam roads depends upon the retention of the rock dust formed by the wearing of the surface. The action of heavy rubber tired automobiles soon strips a macadam road of all fine material, and the road disintegrates. This presents a serious problem, which should engage the attention of the national government. During the past year the agricultural department has investigated the systems in use in Europe to prevent such disintegration and has conducted experiments with several materials designed to preserve macadam road surfaces.

West African Betrothals.

In some parts of west Africa the girls have long engagements. On the day of their birth they are betrothed to a baby boy a trifle older than themselves, and at the age of twenty they are married. The girls know of no other way of getting a husband, and so they are quite happy and satisfied. As wives they are patterns of obedience, and the marriages usually turn out successes.

Wasted Irony.

"How much money did you have in the purse you lost?" inquired a callow barrister of the prosecutrix in a larceny case reported in the London Telegraph.

"Four shillings, two sixpences and a sovereign in gold."

"Did you ever see a sovereign in anything but gold?"

"Yes. I once saw King Edward in a carriage."

Boring Holes in Glass.

Here is the plan pursued by an optician when he wishes to bore holes in glass. A drill borer heated to a white heat is dipped into quicksilver, whereby it is excellently hardened and sharpened by grinding on a whetstone. If the drill thus prepared is moistened with a saturated solution of camphor and oil of turpentine and the bore hole is kept rather moist, glass may be drilled like wood.—Exchange.

Getting Back.

"No, Mr. Winterbottom," said Maude Daryl coldly. "I can never bring myself to marry a man who carries a horseshoe for luck."

"And yet," George Winterbottom muttered, "who can doubt the iron's efficacy after this?"

Chuckling convulsively, the young man passed out into the cold, sad autumn night.—Exchange.

Resemblance.

At the close of their usual dinner time argument Mr. Johnson looked at his wife admiringly. "My dear," he said, "your mind resembles very much the wireless telegraph apparatus which they use in the navy."

"Yes?" she asked, flattered. "You mean because it catches subtle flashes from the surrounding ether?"

"No, my dear. Because it is often completely at sea."—Exchange.

His Illustrious Ancestor.

Mrs. Parvenu (patronizingly)—Were any of your ancestors men of note? Mr. Flippant—Yes, madam, I should say so! One of them was the most famous admiral of his day and commanded the allied forces of the world. Mrs. Parvenu (with altered tone of deep respect)—Is it possible, Mr. Flippant? And what was his name? Mr. Flippant—Noah, madam.

Timing the Chauffeurs.

"You will never break up automobile speeding by timing the automobiles," bantered the stranger in the goggles.

"Maybe not, neighbor," drawled the rural constable with the huge star, "but we have broken up a lot of speeding by timing the chauffeurs."

"Timing the chauffeurs?"

"Yes, giving them sixty days' time in the county jail."—Kansas City Independent.

A Tough Game.

Jack—Say, Bill, we've been in hard luck lately, ain't we?

Bill—We have, old man.

Jack—I'll tell you what we'll do. You insure your life in my favor for $10,000, and I'll do the same for you.

Bill—Well, what good'll that do us?

Jack—Why, we'll just load up our guns and step off thirty paces somewhere and see who gets the money.—Life.

Working His Passage.

It was when there were packet boats on the Erie canal. An Irishman offered to work his passage to Buffalo, and they set him leading the horses that towed the boat. He worked faithfully for two days, doing a great deal of thinking. On the third day he thought it out. "By the powers," he said, "I might as well walk as work my passage." And walk he did, without even thanking his employers.

Assembly of Wise Men.

The witenagemot, or assembly of wise men, out of which the British parliament grew, was brought over to England by the Anglo-Saxons from their old home in Germany. Such council was originally held in each of the kingdoms of the heptarchy, but after the union of the kingdoms in a single nation under Edgar about 960 the witenagemot became the deliberative and legislative body of the nation.

Ways of William Penn.

Simeon Ford recently said at a banquet in the course of a eulogy on William Penn:

"Penn was a man of peace and always got the biggest one. He believed in doing right by the Indians, and when he did them he did them right.

"The Puritans extinguished the Indian title by the simple expedient of extinguishing the Indian, but the pious Penn, instead of shooting them, got them half shot and accomplished the same result; hence the saying, 'Penn is mightier than the sword.'"—New York Press.

A Costly Hat.

Women's hats are both common and costly, as a rule, but a woman in Brunswick who made no great pretentions to fashion holds the record for the highest price paid for an article of millinery. She bought a hat with a lottery ticket which the merchant accepted in place of the money. A few weeks later the ticket drew the great prize of £15,000, and, though the woman's husband tried to induce the merchant to share the results, he only received £25. That hat cost £14,975.—London Standard.

Jack (encountering an old friend)—Hello, Jim! Fancy you volunteering!

"So your husband has given up betting on horses?"

"Yes."

Miss Scraper (amateur violinist)—Did you notice that old man crying while I was playing my sonata?

Friend—Yes. He said your playing reminded him of old happy days.

Miss Scraper—What, was he a violinist?

Friend—No; he was a piano tuner.

Fishermen and Geometry.

Do you know anything about Euclid? Here is a proposition that seems entirely to have slipped the great man's memory: To prove that a fisherman is a liar.

First.—An angle is a deviation from a straight line. Axiom 5.

Second.—A lie is a deviation from a straight line. Axiom 15.

Therefore a fisherman—that is to say, one who angles—deviates from a straight line. Now, things which are equal to the same thing are equal to one another. Therefore a fisherman is a liar. Q. E. D.—London Mail.

Slower Sorrow.

They had about ended their honeymoon and settled the preliminary arrangements for housekeeping when the young husband discovered that he must leave town for a whole week on business.

"Must you go, Richard?" came in reproachful tones from the bride.

"There is no way out of it," answered Richard gloomily; "but, dear, that the separation may seem less abrupt I propose to go on an accommodation train instead of the express."—Harper's Weekly.

The Earliest Known Trousers.

The head of the ancient Babylonian was carefully protected from the sun by various wrappings. It was sufficient for the rest of the body to wear a thin woolen or linen garment bound at the hips with a girdle or shawl, over which sometimes another garment was picturesquely draped. In Babylonia and Assyria also head and foot coverings were subject to fashion, but the long, close fitting garment fortunately never went out of style. Trousers, the unaesthetical invention of the Medes, are first found on the Parthian style of about the first century B. C., which was excavated in Assyria.—Professor Friedrich Delitzsch in Harper's Magazine.

A Rattling Race.

There was an Englishman who imported a famous wolfhound from Europe some years ago to get rich catching wolves for the scalp money offered by the state of Texas—$10 each. Some genuine Texas sports were invited to witness the first chase. They followed many miles through the prairie grass, but without getting sight of either wolf or hound. Finally they came to a wooded spot where a stuttering native was chopping.

"Did you see a wolf and a hound pass just now?" cried the Englishman.

"Y-e-e-e-s, sir; they j-j-jus' passed."

"How was the race?"

"P-u-u-rty hot; nip an' t-t-t-tuck. T-t-t-the dog wa-wa-was a leetle ahead."—Rochester Herald.

The Sudden Sawlog.

The so called North Carolina poplar, a tree believed by some to be a distinct form of poplar and by others to be merely a staminate cottonwood, has the reputation of being the fastest growing tree in America. It is common to find trees that have attained heights of fifty feet in fifteen years. But even this marvelously rapid growth is both literally and figuratively put in the shade by the black or Norway poplar (Populus nigra) of Europe. According to Forestry and Irrigation, a tree of this species has been known to grow to a height of twenty feet, with a diameter of four inches at the base, in three years. The tree has been called the "sudden sawlog" and comes pretty near deserving the name.

Grand Jury Work.

"There is one sure way to get a man interested in the proceedings of the criminal courts," said the gray haired man, "and that is to put him on a grand jury. Just let a man once serve the public in that capacity and thenceforward he becomes an indefatigable student of the criminal records. That result of his experience is, in a way, inevitable. Naturally any man with a spark of curiosity about him is anxious to know the outcome of the trials of the persons he has found indictments against. In following these cases through the various courts he acquires an interest in judicial proceedings that really never dies."—New York Sun.

Dreams.

Little Virginia, three years old, brought her mother to her nursery a few nights ago with heartbroken wails.

"What is the matter, dearie? Why are you screaming so?"

"Mamma, am I all here?"

"Certainly you are all here, right in your bed."

"But, mamma, feel of me; see if I'm all here. Are my feet here and the top of my head both?"

"Certainly, Virginia, every bit of you is here, tucked in your little trundle bed. Why do you think you are not?"

"I dreamed," this with another great sob, "I dreamed I was a chocolate stick and I had eated myself."—Exchange.

The Power of the Rothschilds.

It has been calculated that at the present rate of accumulation the Rothschilds will own by the middle of the present century some £2,000,000,000, or nearly enough to pay off the national debt three times over. The imagination is staggered and fails to realize the power which is represented by such figures. It could finance or it could stop a war; it could delay the industrial development of a country for a generation, or it could, on the other hand, enable a country which it favored to beat all its industrial rivals. A power like this must have its fingers on all the arteries through which flows the lifeblood of commerce, the ebb and flow of which it can regulate or control.—Grand Magazine.

Improvement in Bread.

Judged by its appearance, digestibility, flavor and food value, modern bread is much superior to that which was in common use fifty or sixty years ago. Fifty years ago the very best was very good, the average was poor, the bad very bad. Improved wheat cleaning—wheat "conditioning," whereby the wheat is put in the best condition for the separation of the husk from the kernel, diminution in the amount and intensity of the friction used in grinding and improvements in the methods of separating the products of grinding—has in the aggregate wrought a revolution in the art of milling, so that the flour of today is an article very superior to old fashioned flour.—Science Progress.

Ever Notice It?

The tall, sandy haired man looked a good deal like his collie.

"Ever notice it?" said an observer. "People nearly always resemble their dogs. That is why you, for instance—short, bull necked and stubborn as you are—that is why you go in for bulldogs.

"Silly men, with curly hair and eyes staring and stupid and sentimental, go in for Blenheim spaniels.

"Lean chaps—runners and jumpers—they're always melancholy, by the way—like greyhounds.

"Your little, quarrelsome, alert man boosts the fox terrier trade.

"I, a stately and august person, own a St. Bernard."—Brooklyn Citizen.

Deaf Clients Not Popular.

A man in the Tombs for theft consulted three different lawyers, each of whom seemed unwilling to undertake his defense. The fourth man interviewed was also on the point of declining the case.

"Look here!" the accused broke out angrily. "What's the matter with you fellows, anyhow? This isn't a difficult case. You ought to be able to get me off easily, and I'm willing to pay."

"The trouble is this," said the fourth man frankly. "You are very deaf. No lawyer likes to defend a deaf man unless he is hard pushed for clients or is going to receive a tremendously big fee. A deaf man is so very likely to queer his own case. If he would only trust implicitly to the lawyer he would be all right, but that is something he seldom does. He cannot hear what is going on about him, so he flies into a panic and fancies his lawyer is neglecting his interests, and the first thing anybody knows he blurts out something that ruins the case. I really can't blame those other men for turning you down. I shall do the same thing unless you will promise upon your honor not to speak only when I tell you to."—New York Press.

WEBER-HOPKINS WEDDING

Popular Young Lady Marries Bellingham Business Man, a Former Resident of Angeles.

Mr. William Weber, of Bellingham, and Miss Helen Hopkins, a well known and popular young lady of this city, were united in marriage Wednesday at 10 o'clock a. m. The ceremony took place at the brides' home and was performed by Rev. Simons of the M.E. Church. Beside the immediate members of the bride's family those present were: Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Willson, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Willson, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Barnett and Miss Laura Babcock.

A dainty luncheon was served in the dining room at 11 o'clock. The bride was the recipient of a number of valuable and useful presents. After luncheon, Mr. and Mrs. Weber, accompanied by Mrs. Weber's mother and sister Hazel and Mr. James Gibson, left for Port Williams where they took the boat for Seattle, going on to Bellingham Thursday.

Miss Hopkins has been connected with the city schools, as a teacher, for several years past and is highly respected by a large circle of friends in this city. She was a useful member of the First M. E. church, being president of the Epworth League and a teacher in the Sunday School. Mr. Weber is also well known here. He is one of Bellingham's rising young business men. The best wishes of a host of friends go with these young people.

When Adolph Glas of Munich, Germany, chose the Pacific Northwest for his home he knew what he was doing, for he had traveled the world over as a courier in connection with Cook's, the great Tourist Bureau. As he expresses it: "I considered that Canada would be too cold in winter, and California more to the taste of a Frenchman or Italian, than to a German from the high Alps, accustomed to see grand forests at the slopes of high mountains, as well as lovely fruit trees and wild berries in the valleys. I had seen the most beautiful orange orchards in the southern countries of Europe as well as Asia Minor, and I did not care for them more than I do for a sweet cake when I am thirsty. Settled in this wonderful section of the United States, I feel like a man who had a beautiful dream and waking up finds to his satisfaction that all he was dreaming comes true."

A great forest fire was started by a bolt of lightning at Lake Crescent during the terriffic thunder storm that visited that section Wednesday night of last week. The heavy timber surrounding both Lakes Crescent and Sutherland was set on fire in several places during the storm, which was one of the most spectacular sights ever witnessed in the Olympic monntoins. Mr. H. L. Mitchell was in Angeles Sunday from the Crescent Hotel, reporting that, with others, he was standing on the front porch of the hotel when the heavens were illuminated with a thunder-bolt that struck the point of the promontory opposite Chris. Storm's Hotel at East Beach, and that simultaneously with a flash of lightning a great fire sprang up, destroying much valuable timber.. Four other fires were started in like manner on the mountains surrounding Lake Sutherland. Mr. Mitchell reports the storm as something terriffic.

August 23rd being the twentieth anniversary of their wedding day, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McLaughlin of Mount Pleasant were given a happy surprise by about fifty of their neighbors and friends, who came with wagons and carriages loaded with good things to eat. After taking possession of the home the merry crowd went to the large wagon shed and built tables upon which were placed in abundance the rich viands which always make happy the hungry man. After dinner the worthy pair were presented with some very nice dishes and a purse of the yellow lucre that always makes glad the heart of man. A poem was read by Clifford Babcock which was written at the time of the marriage of Mac and his wife, twenty years ago. Music was furnished by the William Vale family, which all enjoyed. At 5 p. m. the merry party departed for their homes, wishing the happy couple many returns of their wedding day.

One who was there.

Two gentlemen at Anacortes have been investigating the stump burning process mentioned in a recent number of the Olympic-Leader, and are now building a machine for clearing land. They will be ready to begin operations shortly and will take contracts to clear land at a price ever heard of before.

BLUE MOUNTAIN

We have been having such a good time out here that we had almost forgotten that our friends outside would like to hear from us.

The mountains and the beach have made irresistible calls and many have responded. Now that we can use pack horses the women folks have been making trips to the mountain tops. A party of nine, Mr. Broughton in charge, spent a week up there. The little misses had the time of the trip sliding on the snow banks. Last week seven others, with Mrs. Campbell as chaperone, enjoyed the pleasures and discomforts of the heights.

Mr. Seal and daughters of Dungeness made the ascent, as did also a party from Seattle. A party of fifteen or twenty camped for three weeks on McDonnell creek, near Dr. Butler's.

Last Saturday Ed Walker moved his family back to the ranch.

Mrs. Jas. Elves spent two weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Henry Mackenheimer of Crescent and reports them well and prospering.

Mrs. Campbell is entertaining this week Miss Flora MacGill and Miss Welling, her friend from Dakota, Miss Alice Johnson of Bellingham and her nephew, Homer Huyler of Seattle.

Mary Stilwell spent two days of last week with her mother, Mrs. Kale, returning to Port Townsend Thursday, accompanied by Bertie, who has gone for a short stay with the Wiliston family.

Mr. Fred Sutter and G. E. Forrest went to Port Crescent to see their friend and neighbor, Fred Newenschwander, who was hurt at the logging camp some time ago. The Doctor removed his leg from the sling but found that would not do, and now Fred has to remain until the first of October.

The boundary of our voting precinct has been changed, and, is being a more central location the polling place has also been changed—from the VanKuren school house to the Blue Mountain school building, District 41.

District 52 needs an organ in their new school house and to raise money for same will have a dance there Saturday, Sept. 5th. Lend a helping hand.

C.C. Bowman shipped about thirty head of cattle to Seattle on the Albion Monday night. The stock was purchased from various people about town. One cow was claimed by Mr. Wold, and he was advised that it was stolen property. Bowman, however, contended that he had paid good money for the cow and he was going to keep it till he got his money back, and proceeded to load it on the steamer, whereupon a warrant was sworn out for Bowman and the cow. The cow is now in the sheriff's care, and Bowman is out on his own recognizance to appear October 3rd.

The Pacific States Realty Co. has chartered the Whatcom for an excursion on Labor Day; Mr. Owens, the Angeles representative, is working up a street fair as an attraction for that occasion, the details of which will be given next week.

Jefferson county was visited with a welcome rain last Monday, the first to speak in several weeks. The storm was general throughout the county. Saturday's storm did great damage at Kingston, near Port Gamble. The rain fell in torrents, washing out roads for miles around. The Townsend Call says that George Miller, of Ballard, was camping at Kingston with his family. The lightnin struck a tree six feet from the tent and shattered it into shreds. A little baby had its shoe torn off and several others in the tent were stunned and more or less burned. None of the injuries were fatal.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect it.

Prevalency of Kidney Disease.

Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalency of kidney disease.

While kidney disorders are the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patient and physicians, who content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the original disease undermines the system.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y.

Cures Woman's Weaknesses.

We refer to that boon to weak, nervous, suffering women known as Dr Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Dr. John Fyfe one of the Editorial Staff of The Eclectic Medical Review says of Unicorn root (Helonias Dioica) which is one of the chief ingredients of the "Favorite Prescription":

"A remedy which invariably acts as a uterine invigorator * * * makes for normal activity of the entire reproductive system." He continues "in Helonias we have a medicament which more fully answers the above purposes than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is seldom that a case is seen which does not present some indication for this remedial agent." Dr. Fyfe further says: "The following are among the leading indications for Helonias (Unicorn root). Pain or aching in the back, with leucorrhœa; atonic (weak) conditions of the reproductive organs of women, mental depression and irritability, associated with chronic diseases of the reproductive organs of women; constant sensation of heat in the region of the kidneys; menorrhagia (flooding), due to a weakened condition of the reproductive system; amenorrhœa (suppressed or absent monthly period) arising from or accompanying an abnormal condition of the digestive organs and anæmic (thin blood) habit; dragging sensations in the extreme lower part of the abdomen."

If more or less of the above symptoms are present, no invalid woman can do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, one of the leading ingredients of which is Unicorn root, or Helonias, and the medical properties of which it most faithfully represents.

Of Golden Seal root, another prominent ingredient of "Favorite Prescription," Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says:

"It is an important remedy in disorders of the womb. In all catarrhal conditions * * and general enfeeblement, it is useful."

Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati, says of Golden Seal root:

"In relation to its general effects on the system, there is no medicine in use about which there is such general unanimity of opinion. It is universally regarded as the tonic useful in all debilitated states."

Prof. R. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Medical College, says of Golden Seal:

"Valuable in uterine hemorrhage, menorrhœa (flooding) and congestive dysmenorrhœa (painful menstruation)."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription faithfully represents all the above named ingredients and cures the diseases for which they are recommended.

MAIL FOR LAKE VESSELS.

How It Is Delivered by the Postoffice Department.

Thousands of vessels pass Detroit every year; more, in truth, than enter any one of the great ports of New York, London or Liverpool. For these hundreds of boats there is always mail, as well as mail aboard them for delivery ashore, and it is to insure delivery and collection of this important mail matter that the Florence B. makes her continuous and ofttimes perilous trips.

The mail delivered by the marine letter carriers must be taken out to passing vessels, rain or shine, hail or snow, during the entire season of navigation; no matter what the speed of the passing boats, the mail must be delivered to them and received from them without the vessel slackening pace for a moment, and it often happens that the boats are running at the rate of fifteen miles an hour.

The postoffice employes on the yacht are thoroughly familiar with all the vast fleets of lake vessels which pass through the Detroit river many times a year, and they know exactly when each boat or fleet is due. Boats do not always achieve schedule time, however, and thus the only way to make sure of a passing freighter is to watch for it. Early and late, every day and all through the night until the ice closes navigation, the entire force is on the watch.

As soon as a vessel appears the Florence B. quickly tows the rowboat containing a marine letter carrier with the mail to be delivered, directly in front of the vessel and then stands off from it.

The immense steam freighter plunges through the water at its highest speed, and its swell causes such commotion that it is necessary for the man in the small boat to exercise the greatest care to prevent the swamping of his little craft.

Just before the big steamer reaches the tossing craft, the man in the rowboat, by a dexterous stroke of the oars, sends his tiny shell under the side of the bow. Then, in an instant, a line is thrown from the boat to the deck of the vessel and made fast by the waiting sailor; the huge coil of ninety feet of line is then paid out, and as it comes taut the rowboat fairly leaps into the air; then is towed steadily a distance on the swell until the boatman's task is done.—The Pilgrim.

Is Pe-ru-na Useful for Catarrh?

Should a list of the ingredients of Peruna be submitted to any medical expert, of whatever school or nationality, he would be obliged to admit without reserve that the medicinal herbs composing Peruna are of two kinds. First, standard and well-tried catarrh remedies. Second, well-known and generally acknowledged tonic remedies. That in one or the other of these uses they have stood the test of many years' experience by physicians of different schools. There can be no dispute about this, whatever. Peruna is composed of some of the most efficacious and universally used herbal remedies for catarrhal diseases, and for such conditions of the human system as require a tonic. Each one of the principal ingredients of Peruna has a reputation of its own in the cure of some phase of catarrh or as a tonic medicine.

The fact is, chronic catarrh is a disease which is very prevalent. Many thousand people know they have chronic catarrh. They have visited doctors over and over again, and been told that their case is one of chronic catarrh. It may be of the nose, throat, lungs, stomach or some other internal organ. There is no doubt as to the nature of the disease. The only trouble is the remedy. This doctor has tried to cure them. That doctor has tried to prescribe for them.

No other household remedy so universally advertised carries upon the label the principal active constituents, showing that Peruna invites the full inspection of the critics.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. Get Up and Bar the Door.

It fell about the Martinmass time,
And a gay time it was then, O!
When our gudewife had puddins to mak',
And she boiled them in the pan, O!

The wind blew cauld from north to south,
And blew into the floor, O!
Quoth oor gudeman to oor gudewife,
"Get up and bar the door, O!"

"My hand is in my housewifeskep,
Gudeman, as ye may see, O!
And it should na be barr'd this hunner years,
It'll be no barr'd by me, O!"

They made a paction 'tween them two,
They made it firm and sure, O!
Whaever should spak the foremost word,
Should rise and bar the door, O!

Then by there cam' two gentlemen,
At twelve o'clock at night, O!
And they could see neither house nor ha',
Nor coal nor candle light, O!

And, oh, but they were cauld and weet,
An' it was an aufu' nicht, O!
And when they saw the open door,
Their hearts lap at the sicht, O!

"Now, whether is this a rich man's house,

But ne'er a word wad ane o' them speak,

STUCK IN THE ASPHALT.

Secretary Taft's Experience on a Newly Paved Street.

Certain anxious engineers of the District of Columbia are seeking to ascertain to whom they shall charge $269.87 worth of asphalt in which Secretary Taft floundered and from which he was rescued with difficulty.

One evening recently the Secretary and Arthur I. Vorys, of Ohio, his campaign manager, dined at the New Willard with Senator Warner. At 9:30 the department carriage called for the pair, and they started for the War Department. Pat McQuade, driver of Secretaries of War for more than forty years, was on the box.

The fast-trotting bays whirled the carriage around the White House ellipse and into 17th street on the west side of the State, War and Navy building. Then their pace was almost instantly checked and McQuade came near to being flung from his seat. At the same moment a squat man, with a Hibernian accent and an inspiring flow of profanity, rushed out of the darkness, waving his arm.

"Git out av it! Git out av it!" he shrilled. "Don't yez know it's wet asphalt yer drivin' in?"

"Gwan; sure I've got the Sicretary of War wid me," retorted McQuade, scornfully.

"Oi don't care if ye've got the Pristdent of the United States; git out av it," insisted the watchman.

"Let's get out of here, Vorys," said Taft, after he had listened for a moment to the argument between the watchman and the coachman. He walked forward a pace and stuck. Vorys, profiting by the experience of his chief, perched for a moment on the edge of the carriage, like a bird poised for flight, and then jumped wide. He nearly went down in the sticky stuff, but righted himself quickly and made for the sidewalk. Being much lighter than Taft, he finaly made solid footing.

The street at this point is wide, and although the Secretary of War was making a valiant fight, he was getting bogged worse and worse in the morass. Vorys at last found a board, which he dragged to the curb and thrust into the quagmire.

Then he walked upon it and lent the Secretary a helping hand. It required some work to get the Taft feet loose, and at one time they discussed the advisability of cutting the Secretary's shoelace and leaving the shoes, but eventually the rescue was effected.

From $40 to $100 is being paid monthly, by Seattle business men, to every graduate of The Hyatt-Fowells School as a reward for the skill in bookkeeping and shorthand which they acquired in this thorough business training school. The same reward awaits every student who completes its course of instruction.

The average student of The Hyatt-Fowells School earns back the entire cost of his instruction in bookkeeping or shorthand the first two months he is employed. What other line of work will double your money for you six times in one year with but about eight months' preparation?
