SEVERAL CHANGES IN THE PRIMARY LAW

Primary Election Day Last Tuesday in June. New Advertising Regulations Made.

One of the measures amended by the legislature was the primary law. The bill provides that candidates for justice of the supreme court shall be nominated by party convention instead of direct primary. In the nomination of superior court judges no change was made in the method of naming, provision being made for the nomination of two candidates for each such judicial positions, providing also for separate judicial ballots and permitting members of minority parties to participate in the selection of judicial candidates.

Primary election day will be the last Tuesday in June instead of the second Tuesday in September, as provided for in the present law.

The provisions of the direct primary relating to advertisements in newspapers was modified. The bill provides that persons other than candidates may cause to be printed, at advertising rates, any article advocating the election or the defeat of any candidate. It is provided, however, that it shall be plainly stated that the article is a paid advertisement, and that it shall state who pays for it. In the event that an article derogatory to any candidate is printed, the candidate may use the same amount of space to reply, and may pay the regular rates for so doing. The provision of the present law relating to second choice voting stands. It was proposed to make second choice voting optional with the elector, but this provision was later stricken from the bill.

HOMESEEKERS COMING WEST

The rush from the East and Middle West to the Northwest is on. The colonist rates over the transcontinental roads went into effect on the first day of the month and will continue until the 1st of April. The Port Townsend Call has gathered statistics to date from railroad quarters in the East, and finds that up to the 6th of March, over 30,000 colonists purchased tickets and started for the Pacific Northwest.

Eight hundred stopped at Spokane and are seeking land on which to locate. Seven hundred arrived in Portland on one train and about twice that number reached Tacoma and Seattle last Friday. From these two cities they will scatter over Puget Sound country and visit every section to which their attention has been called. What is being done, if anything, here in Port Angeles to induce some of this vast army of home seekers to come to this city and county? Concerted effort on the part of our citizens would undoubtedly have the effect of causing many of the homeseekers to head this way.

SILVER MEDAL CONTEST

The W. C. T. U. will have a silver medal contest at the First M. E. Church Tuesday eve, March 16th; special music. Mrs. Clapp, state president and Mrs. Munns, state corresponding secretary of the W. C. T. U., will be present. Free admission, but a collection will be taken to help pay expenses.

We have received a new and up-to-date line of Hats, in crash and straw, for men, boys and children, in such new styles as the Naval Reserves, Assorted Manchurian and Pueblos. An elegant line of felts such as the Locust, Russett, Tuxedo, Bombay, Verdi, Holland and stiff dress hats and the Blue Pearl. A full line of all kinds of caps. The best assortment of Panamas to select from. These are all the newest and latest styles on the market. See our window.

S. L. Apple, ex-Probate Judge, Ottawa county, Kansas, writes: "This is to say that I have used Ballard's Horehound Syrup for years, and that I do not hesitate to recommend it as the best cough syrup I have ever used." 25c, 50c, $1.00. Sold at Mathewson's Drug Store.

$3,000 IMPROVEMENT FOR MORSE CREEK HILL

Second Section of Indian Creek Road on Way to Lakes Will Cost Twenty-two Hundred.

The Board of Commissioners awarded to Harry Coventon the contract for construction of the second section of the Indian Creek Lake Sutherland road, his bid of $2200 being the lowest.

Commissioner Erickson accepted the appointment on the A.-Y.-P. committee, vice Geo. W. O'Brien, resigned.

J. J. Hubbard's plat of Englewood Addition to Port Angeles was approved.

The Board decided to expend the $3,000 made available by the State road law—Clallam's portion of the State Aid fund being $1,500 this year—on Morse creek hill. Engineer FitzHenry was instructed to secure as advantageous a grade as possible.

NEW CRIMINAL CODE PASSES BOTH HOUSES

Prohibits Pretty Much Everything in its 450 Sections Except Sunday Recreation.

This state will have a new criminal code after June 11th, providing Acting-Governor Hay affixes his signature to the measure that passed both houses of the legislature. The provisions of the new code are comprehensive, and every citizen will want to provide himself with a copy and carry it with him for frequent consultation. There are a number of provisions among the 450 sections that will keep some of the sinners guessing.

A ban has been placed upon curtains, screens, stained glass, etc., that obstruct the view within the saloon, and there is an age limit for liquors and beer, and the age requirement must be made good in "wooden casks." Bottled goods are not included in the aging class.

Gambling in any form, public or private, is prohibited. Under the provisions of the bill it will be against the law to hold private card parties where prizes are given.

Sunday may be made more a day of recreation than rest, under the code. Theatres and billiard halls may be operated, but minors are barred every day in the week from the latter. Base ball and other amusements which by common consent are considered innocent on week days may be indulged in on Sunday, provided church services are not disturbed.

OLYMPIC CLUB HELD MEET

The Olympic Club held its second meeting Thursday evening, when Rev Rogers was given a reception, some one hundred and eighty members and invited guests being present. Music was furnished by the Club orchestra; several wrestling and boxing matches were had as well as potato races, Indian club swinging and other incidental features.

An orchestra has been formed at the Olympic Club and will be known as The Olympic Club Orchestra, of which the following are members: Lou. E. Cole, first violin; Walter Pattison, cornet; F. B. Carlisle, clarionet; Frank Tyrrell, alto sascaphone; D. Law, tenor sascaphone; W. Mathewson, bass violin; Arthur Tyrrell, musical director and piano.

The orchestra will practise every Monday evening at eight o'clock in the music room of the Parish Hall, the home of the club.

School election Saturday was a quite affair, there being no contest, the present members of the board, Messrs. Hansen and Stakemiller receiving all of the 183 votes cast. A just tribute to the efficiency of the two men.

COURT CONDEMNS RIGHT-OF-WAY

Jury Will Fix Compensation at June Term, Unless Settlement is Made Previously.

Condemnation was allowed in a number of cases brought by the Grays Harbor and Puget Sound Railway Company for rights of way in the Ozette country by the superior court Wednesday, and unless the cases are settled by agreement before that date, as they are expected to be, a jury will be called for June 16th, to fix the amount of compensation to be granted the parties whose land has been condemned. It is quite evident that the railroad means immediate action in this territory, and from the nature of the lands taken it is evident that there are some great things in store for the Ozette country in the early future, and consequent development all along the line of the proposed railroad.

THE DUNBAR OOMPANY

The Dunbar Company, Male Quartette and Bell Ringers, the fourth and last number of the Entertainment Course, will appear in the opera house, Monday, April 5th.

The Dunbars have appeared in every part of the Union and the continent with uniform success. Their singing is declared to be perfect, blending beautifully in comedy and sacred song. Also a program of exceptional musical bell ringing, 'cello, flute and vocal solos, and character sketches. Without doubt the coming attraction will be the best presented during the course.

MRS. PHELPS' MILLINERY OPENING

The spring opening of millinery on Wednesday was the most successful ever experienced by Mrs. Phelps. The display of pattern and stock hats and other millinery goods has seldom been equalled in a town of this size, her selections eliciting unstinted praise. The new stock of dry goods and ladies' furnishings for spring and summer wear was also most complete and will, as usual, prove satisfactory to her many patrons. The customers were well cared for as Mrs. Phelps was ably assisted by the Misses Schenk and Pringle.

The county commissioners of Jefferson have granted to C. D. Chapman of Seattle the right to transfer power from the Docewallip river in Hood Canal to Bremerton and Port Townsend. Chapman is said to have a contract to supply the navy yard with power, and to be working on the promotion of an electric line from that place to Port Townsend.

The Road to Mt. Angeles.

While we have had but one snow storm the past winter in Port Angeles, on the mountains six miles from town the snow has fallen with its accustomed regularity until even fair-sized trees have been buried many feet deep and Mt. Angeles, save for its black pinnacles and sheer precipices, presents one glistening field of white. Even on the foothills snow storms have been frequent, and the road around to the base of the mountain, bordered on either side with a dense wall of hemlock and yew, has presented many a beautiful picture.

MAY RETURN TO ANGELES

Rev. Rogers was greeted with a full house at St. Andrew's church Sunday. Rev. Rogers was quite popular among his parishioners as well as with our people generally, when rector of St. Andrew's and his friends were anxious to see and hear him again. He has resigned from his work in Seattle and a concerted effort is being made to induce the Bishop to again assign him to this charge. Rev. Rogers says there is no place like Angeles, so the desire to have him returned here is mutual between priest and people.

Music for Sunday, March 7th, at the Congregational church. Morning: anthem, "I Will Keep Him in Perfect Peace," Miss Marsh and Choir; contralto solo, "Not Ashamed of Christ," Mrs. Dumont. Evening: Quartette, "Abide With Me," Mrs. C. J. Farmer, Miss Bernice Allen, Fred Farmer, J. Merton Davis; contralto solo, "Rock of Ages," Mrs. Dumont.

WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT

Inaugurated President of the United States Thursday, March 4, Succeeding Theodore Roosevelt

BLIZZARD MARS INAUGURAL PLAN

Washington March 4.—The first chief executive to take the oath of office in the chamber of the senate in 76 years, William Howard Taft, became president of the United States today.

Accompanied to the capitol through a swirl of blinding snow by President Roosevelt and a guard of honor, Mr. Taft returned to the White House just as the sun began to force its way through the clouds. A sudden blizzard sweeping in from the Northwest set aside the weather bureau's optimistic promise of "fair and somewhat cooler," caused an abandonment of the outdoor ceremonies on the famous east front of the capitol, much to Mr. Taft's chagrin, and threatened for a time to stop the brilliant pageant of the afternoon.

However, a passageway was cleared along the center of Pennsylvania avenue and for nearly three hours President Taft and Vice President Sherman reviewed a passing column, which was replete with martial splendor and picturesque with civic display.

Affectionate Goodby

Following the inaugural ceremonies in the senate, Theodore Roosevelt, again a private citizen, bade an affectionate adieu to his successor, while all in the historic chamber looked on in silence, and then he hurried away through a side door to take the train for New York. As he passed out of the chamber, Mr Roosevelt was given an ovation quite the equal of that tendered to the new president. Outside the capitol the retiring chief executive was met by 800 membpers of the New York Republican committee,and under their escort was driven to the union station, a short three blocks away.

There was a wait of nearly two hours at the station, during which Mr. Roosevelt held an impromptu reception in the presidential suite. Many of his old friends among government officials and the diplomatic corps surrounded him there for a final word of farewell.

To all with whom he spoke Mr. Roosevelt declared that while he had a "bully time" as president, he was glad to lay down the duties of office. He praised his successor and especially commented upon the latter's inaugural address as a splendid effort.

PRESIDENT TAFT'S INAUGURAL ADDRESS

President Taft, in his inaugural address, said in part:

Anyone who takes the oath I have just taken must feel a heavy weight of responsibility. If not, he has no conception of the powers and duties of the office upon which he is about to enter, or he is lacking in a proper sense of the obligation which the oath imposes.

The office of an inaugural address is to give a summary outline of the main policies of the new administration, so far as they can be anticipated.

I have had the honor to be one of the advisers of my distinguished predecessor, and as such to hold up his hands in the reforms he has initiated. I should be untrue to myself, to my promises and to the declarations of the party platform upon which I was elected to office if I did not make the maintenance and enforcement of those reforms a most important feature of my administration.

They were directed to the suppression of the lawlessness and abuses of power of the great combinations of capital invested in railroads and in industrial enterprises carrying on interstate commerce. The steps which my predecessor took and the legisaltion passed on his recommendation have accomplished much, have caused a general halt in the vicious policies which created popular alarm, and have brought about in the businesses affected a much hignher regard for existing law.

To render the reforms lasting, however, and to secure at the same time freedom from alarm on the part of those pursuing proper business methods, further legislative and executive action are needed. Relief of the railroads from certain restrictions of the anti-trust law have been urged by my predecessor and will be urged by me.

Department of Justice

Then, too, a reorganization of the department of justice, of the bureau of corporations in the department of commerce and labor, and of the interstate commerce commission, looking to the effective co-operation of these agencies is needed to secure a more rapid and certain enforcement of the laws affecting interstate railroads and industrial combinations. * * *

Revision of Tariff

A matter of most pressing importance is the revision of the tariff. In accordance with the promises of the platform upon which I was elected, I shall call congress into extra session, to meet on the 15th of March, in order that consideration may at once be given to a bill revising the Dingley act. This should secure an adequate revenue and adjust the duties in such a manner as to afford to labor and to all industries in this country, whether of the farm, mine or factory, protection by tariff equal to the difference between the cost of production abroad and the cost of production here, and have a provision which shall put into force, upon executive determination of certain facts a higher or maximum tariff against those countries whose trade policy toward us equitably requires such discrimination * * *

Larger Navy Wanted

Then, too, there are expenditures of the government absolutely necessary if our country is to maintain its proper place among the nations of the world, and to exercise its proper influence in defense of its own trade interests, in the maintenance of traditional American policy against the coloniaztion of European monarchies in this hemisphere, and in the promotion of peace and international morality. I refer to the cost of maintaining a proper navy and suitable fortifications upon the mainland of the United States and dependencies. * *

The admission of Asiatic immigrants who cannot be amagalmated with our populationn has been made the subject either of prohibitory clauses in our treaties and statutes, or of strict administrative regulation secured by diplomatic negotiation I sincerely hope that we may continue to minimize the evils likely to arise from such immigration without unnecessary friction and by mutual concessions between self respecting governments. Meantime, we must take every precaution to prevent, or, failing that, to punish outbursts of race feeling among our people against foreigners of whatever nationanlity who have by our grant a treaty right to pursue lawful business here and to be protected against lawless assault or inury * *

New Banking Laws

Mr. Taft stated that one of the reforms would be the change of the monetary and banking laws so as to secure greater elasticity in the form of currency available for trade. Congress should pass a postal satvings bank bill. Foreign trade must be encouraged and steamship lines shoud be established between the United States and foreign countries guaranteed by mail subsidies.

Mr. Taft dwelt at some length on political conditions in the South, and urged better feelings.

Causes of Labor

A considerable portion of the inaugural address was devoted to labor legislation. He reviewed laws passed in the interest of labor, including employers' liability and child labor laws and urged further legiislation in this direction and also in regard to in unctions in industrial disputes Mr. Taft did not believe in taking from the courts the power to issue injunctions nor in the legalization of the secondary boycott He did believe, however, that the issuance of temporary restraining orders should be regulated by statute.

MISSOURI RAILROAD LAW DECLARED CONFISCATORY

Kansas City, March 9.—Missouri's two-cent passenger and maximum freight laws are nuullified by a decision handed down here in the United States district court by Judge Smith McPherson. As a result, it is believed, there will be a quick return in Missouri to three-cent fares. Frank Hagerman, counsel for the eighteen companies involved, declares the court's ruling sounds the death knell of the two-cent rate in every state in the Union.

Judge McPherson held that both the commodity and passenger laws were confiscatory and unconstitutional.

The state, on the other hand, declared emphatically that Missouri's fight for lower rates would continue. Attorney General Major said an appeal would be taken and that the present legislature would be asked to pass a new rate law that woudl stand the tests of the court. Gov. Hadley made a similar statement at Jefferson City.

TROUBLE IS EVERYBODY WEARS LAST YEAR'S COAT

El Paso, Texas, March 8.—"I see you are wearing a last year's coat," remarked E. H. Harriman to a newspaper man here. And then he added:

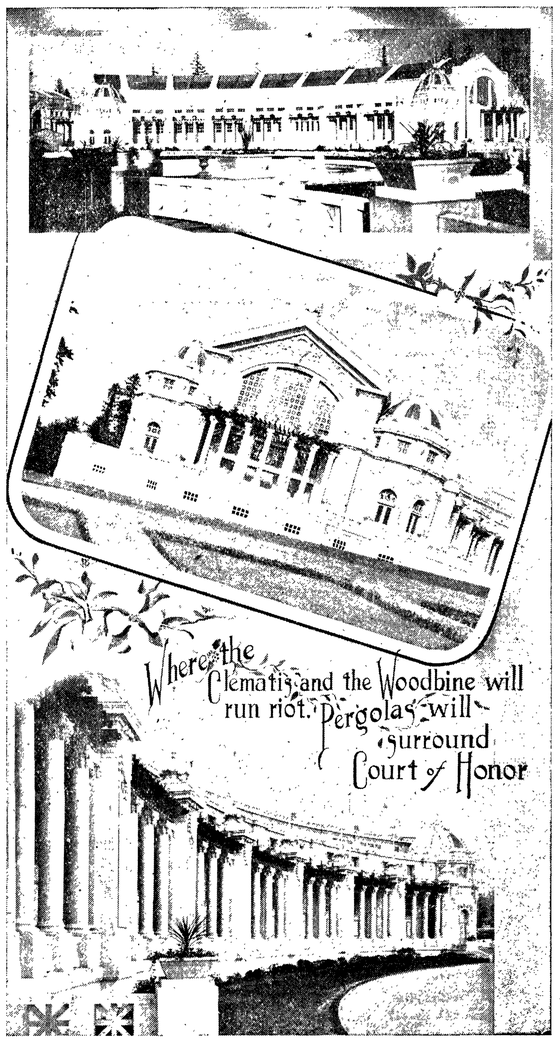
"So am I, and so, generally, are all the other people in the country.

"I think the tendency to economize in nearly every line of business as well as in individual cases is responsible for the present conditions. It's a case of everybody wearing last year's coat."

Government Gets Back Land

Washington, March 9—A settlement has been effected by the secretary of the interior of the government suit against the Union Pacific, involving coal lands in Wyoming estimated as worth a million and a half dollars. This land is said to have been acquired by the company through what are known as "dummy entries." The land involved aggregated 4,560 acres. After numerous conferences, the company decided not to defend the suit, but reconveyed the lands to the government and also paid nearly $33,000 for the coal mined therefrom.

Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition Scenes



Steamships Bring Big Cargoes for Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition

Seattle, March 6.—Two steamers recently arriving from Alaska brought little cargo save exhibits for the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition. The work of assembling the government's Alaskan display has been tremendous, practically all of that portion of it contributed by the interior camps having been brought out "over the ice" by winter stage and dog team

With the last two shipments the gold dust exhibit is practically all in hand, $5,000,000 in nuggets being banked in Seattle to await the opening of the fair on June 1.

Another large amount of dust is now on the way out from Dawson and Fairbanks, consigned to private parties, who will use it in an Alaska mining concession on the Pay Streak. It is the plan to so arrange the concession that anyone may go down into the "drift" and pan his own scrapings from the pay streak.

That portion of the United States government exhibit which is coming from the national capital will be under way in a very short time. Arrangements for its transportation have been made and 31 box cars will be required to bring it from Washington, D. C., to Seattle. This portion of the exhibit includes the postoffice department museum, mint and other paraphernalia of the treasury department, war and navy department displays, agricultural and forestry department showing, and the things brought together by the various other departments and bureaus of government.

The Philippines display is assembled at Manilla and will be brought to Seattle on the next two transports leaving the islands. The building on the fair grounds is already to receive it. In the case of Hawaii's display two large steamships will be required to get it here and will be brought on as soon as the necessary charters can be made. Another whole steamship will be uecessary to transport the exhibits which Hawaii has assembled without the aid of the government.

The huge aquarium which the government has constructed for the exhibition of live specimens of northern fishes, is completed and will shortly be stocked. The Alaska building, one of the largest of government group, is nearly complete and will be quite so with the addition of the staff ornamentation. The Hawaiian building is a close second.

A preliminary trial of the Cascades and the Geyser Basin, which make the central figure of the exposition, and the electric illumination of the central court made a week ago, showed every thing in working order and gave an excellent idea of the magnificent spectacle that will be presented by night when the epxosition is open.

CUT OF HALF ON LUMBER

LATEST DECISIONS BY WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE.

Democratic Leader Outlines Minority Policy—To Offer Amendments Favoring a Tariff for Revenue Rather than Free Trade or Protection.

Washington, March 9—A cut of one-half in the duty on lumber is understood to be one of the changes provided by the new tariff bill, which has gone to the printer preparatory to its final revision by the Republican members of the house ways and means committee.

During the hearings of the lumber schedules the testimony was such as to cause the impression that lumber would be put on the free list. It was said that the forests of the country could be conserved only by admitting foreign lumber free of duty.

Representative Fordney, of Michigan, has championed the cause of the lumbermen, and the latter have been working energetically to prevent a reduction. They contend the rates should be increased in order that the American industry may compete with the cheaper labor employed in Canada and because of the better facilities for transportation afforded by the proximity of the Canadian lumber camps to waterways.

Minority Policy Outlined

Champ Clark, the house minority leader, passed considerable time yesterday with Representtative Underwood in laying out the plan to be folloewd by the minority in its fight in the house. It is understood that the Democratic policy will be to criticize the Republican bill and offer amendments to it. They will favor a tariff for revenue rather than either a free trade or a protective policy.

The problem of providing funds with which to carry on the projects under way to maintain the plans of the Taft administration and to make the demands square with a new tariff schedule is the work which President Taft, Senator Aldrich, Speaker Cannon and Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh were engaged at a two hours conference at the White House.

The necessity for the enactment of a tariff bill at the earliest possible moment was discussed. Manufacturers and other large interests are demanding early tariff legislation, declaring business will be unsettled until the schedules are finally fixed.

The conferees agreed that every Republican in the house and senate was pledged by the party platform to let nothing interfere with an immediate revision.

Wants Genuine Revision

Mr. Taft has made a consistent fight for a genuine revision of the tariff and has let it be known that he would be satisfied with nothing less. In his inaugural address he frankly called attention to the hundred million dollar deficit confronting his administration, and suggested the possibility of the necessity of an inheritance tax.

Secretary MacVeagh has allowed himself to be quoted as to the possible necessity for a stamp tax.

That President Taft contemplates a general trip through the South and West this autumn was indicated by him yesterday when he said he would try to attend the annual encampment of the G. A. R., to be held at Salt Lake City August 9 to 14.

CHICAGO GETS SHORT END IN STREET RAILWAY DEAL

Chicago, March 8.—Chicago is facing a big municipal graft scandal, involving the expenditure of $25,000,000 for equipment for the rehabilitating of street car lines Mayor Busse has ordered a thorough investigation and further sensations are promised.

Several campaigns for municipal ownership resulted in a majority vote for that measure, but this was defeated later by a final vote A contract was then made with the traction companies by which the city receives 55 per cent of the "net" receipts. Since the "net" receipts depend upon what is left after the expenditures of the companies, the city experts have been searching for evidence of inflation of accounts submitted by the companies.

Recently the companies bought rolling stock the reported purchase price of which aggregated $24,000,000. Since the figures accepted may be the basis of a purchase price for the lines if municipal ownership is adopted in the near future and these figures are extraordinary, the mayor ordered the investigation.

His agents say the equipment was bought at greatly inflated prices, on which the companies received large rebates. The corporation counsel is examining the statutes with a view to enforcing the city's demands for a correct accounting.

Ten Cents Offered for Hops

Seattle, March 8.—Large quantities of hops are being contracted for by hop buyers in Eastern Washington and Oregon. Buyers are offering from 10 to 10½ cents for the season's crop. Last season's conditions are completely reversed. Then growers were endeavoring to sell their hops, while buyers kept out of the market. Last year dealers were on the selling side. The recent buying indicates that they are now buyers instead of sellers.

LEGISLATIVE FINISH

LAST WEEK OF SESSION EXCEEDINGLY BUSY ONE FOR SOLONS.

Local Option Measure Passed Last Week and Criminal Code Agreed Upon—Sevaral Other Big Bills in Shape for Action at Beginning of Final Week.

Olympia, March 8.—With only four days to go, the eleventh legislature will have to devote every minute of the time to hard work if it expects to get through with anything like the majority of really meritorious bills.

The past week was one of good hard licks, and the result is that much has been accomplished. Day and night the legislators have been at it, and it will be day and night until the end of the session.

Big Bills Gotten in Shape

On big things the legislature is now in fair shape. The military code, the insurance code, the horticultural code and the school codes have passed both houses, and the agreement of the conference committee on the criminal code Saturday practically put that out of the way, members of both houses for the most part being satisfied with the result of the conference.

The most important thing left is the general appropriation bill, which must be agreed on somehow before midnight next Thursday There is no chance for the smaller bils callling for money until the big measure is at least agreed upon.

LOCAL OPTION BILL FINALLY PASSED BY BOTH HOUSES

Olympia, March 6—With six of the stringent local optionists still holding out, the senate today concurred in the house amendments to the senate substitute local option bill and Governor Hay announced during the afternoon that he would sign the act.

This ends the fight over the local option measure, which has extended throughout the entire session and up until within five days of the end. To-day's action and that of the house two days ago, however, clears the atmosphere of much of the bitterness that has been engendered by the injection of the issue into nearly every other piece of legislation considered.

In the senate as in the house, both sides of the question got together in a large measure and the bill is considered by all but a few to be effective and as carrying out the pledge of the Republican platform for the enactment of a "reasonable local option bill."

While the senate's action was technically the adoption of a motion to concur in the house amendments, it was to most intents and purposes a vote on an entirely new bill. The bill approved today retains only the enacting clause of the bill that originally passed the senate.

The bill as enacted places all cities and towns in separate units with the country districts of each county in a singe unit. It permits the operation of breweries and distilleries in dry territory and the delivery of their products for private use therein, but prohibits soliciting. The vote on the question of granting liquor licenses may be taken at a special election upon petition ef 30 per ecnt of the voters, but can be taken thereafter only at general elections. Severe penalties are imposed for the violation of the law.

CONSTITUTIONAL REVISION DEFEATED BY STATE SENATE

Olypmia, March 6.—The senate has gone on record as opposed to the call ing of a convention to revise the sta e constitution.

Under the terms of the state constitution, it is necessary, when such a convention is contemplated, for the legislature to provide for the submission of the question to vote of the people. A two-thirds vote in the legislature is required. If the calling of the convention is approved by two-thirds of the people voting, the following legislature enacts the laws providing for the summoning of the convention. The work of the convention must thereafter be submitted to the people for ratification. The resolution got but 27 votes in the senate, and required 28 to pass.

BIG RESERVE IN OLYMPICS FOR SCIENTIFIC PURPOSES

Washington, March 3.—President Roosevelt, at the request of Representative Humphrey, of Washington, and with the approval of the chief forester, has set aside 450,000 acres in the Olympic mountains, Washington, for scientific purposes. In addition to being a rich field for geological studies, the area is studded by giant trees and is the home of the Roosevelt Elk. It was stated that the action was preliminary to the establishment of a national park

America Buys Foreign Oats

New York, March 6.—An unusual shipment to this great grain producing country has arrived in the shape of a cargo of oats grown in the Argentine Republic. There were 3,000 tons of the grain, the importation of which is due to the present scarcity and high price here.

REVOLUTION IN RATES

RAILROAD MEN BECOMING ALARMED BECAUSE OF SITUATION.

Recent Interstate Commerce Commission Decisions the Cause of Commotion—Panama Railroad and Steamship Connections Cut Considerable Figure.

Portland, Or., March 8.—A Chicago special to the Sunday Oregonian says:

Railroad men are becoming alarmed over the tangle in the transcontinetal rate situation. Recent developments seem to indicate that the interstate commerce commission has come to the oonclusion that the entire scheme of transcontinental freight rates must be changed by the railroads. Just how this is to be brought about by the commission is not known, but the decisions in the Missouri river and Spokane rate cases would seem to indicate that it is to be contrary to existing principles and will force the desired adjustment in the transcontinental rate fabric.

Water Competition Causes Row

The tangle is accentuated by quarrels between the rail carriers themselves and between the rail-and-water carriers. In the West the Harriman steamship interests have locked horns in a desperate fight over coast to coast rates by way of Panama shores in steamers. This water competition has always been assigned as the reason for the peculiar adjustment of transcontinental rates. Owing to the water routes the railroads in the East have insisted that they are forced to make extremely low transcontinental rates. As a consequence the rates from the Eastern seaboard to the Western coast are just the same as they are from Chicago and the Missouri river to the Pacific coast. In other words, the New York manufacturer or merchant can ship goods to the Pacific coast as cheaply as can the merchant or manufacturer from Chicago, from Kansas City or St. Louis.

Middle West Demands Reduction

Furthermore, the Western lines have been forced to accept an extremely low division of the transcontinental rates. If water competition has forced this condition, then Mr. Harriman is responsible, in a way. Mr. Harriman owns the Morgan steamship line, which connects with his rail lines at Gulf ports, making a water and rail route which is more inexpensive than the all rail route, and which gives a long haul from the Gulf to the Pacific coast.

Now that Mr. Spreckels and Mr. Harriman are fighting a battle, and water competition has in consequence become more keen, the Western roads are wondering whether the transcontinental all rail rates will have to be further cut. Some of them are becoming weary of being held up and are said to be listening to the importunities of the merchants of Chicago and the Middle West to be given the benefits of their position geographically as against the seaboard, 1,000 miles further away from Pacific coast points.

Eastern Roads Loose Traffic

The railroads are all the more willing to listen because the fight between the steamship interests is robbing them of a great deal of business. Of late, it is said, an exceedingly large proportion of the tonnage originating east of Chicago and destined for Pacific coast points has not been going all rail. The exceedingly low water rates are making it possible for the shippers as far from the seaboard as Pittsburg, and even farther west, to backhaul to the seaboard and then ship by water to the Pacific coast by way of Panama. This fact emphasizes the conditions which wll arise upon the completion of the Panama canal, obviating the necessity of transshipping twice, from boat to rail and from rail to boat.

Some of the railroads in the West are beginning to wonder if they would not make more money if they were to place the Middle West on something like a parity with the seaboard by charging a less rate from the Middle West than is charged from the seaboard.

GOVERNMENT MAY MEET DEFICIT BY STAMP TAX

Chicago, March 8.—Franklin MacVeagh left Saturday evening for Washington to assume his duties as sceretary of the treasury. Before leaving he said:

"Something must be done to meet the deficit in the treasury. I suppose many people will object to a stamp act in times of peace just as others have a rooted objection against bonds. But the government must have money and a plan must be devised for getting it. This, I should say, is a general administrative question as much as it is a question with the secretary of the treasury. By that I mean it will concern the president and all members of the cabinet as much as it will the secretary of the treasury."

President Increases Forest Reserve

Washington, March 6.—One of the latest of President Roosevelt's official acts was the signing of proclamations creating additions to the thirteen national forest reserves in Nevada, California, New Mexico and Arizona aggregating 4,980,736 acres, bringing the total national forest acreage up to 195,013,980 acres. The land will be managed in accordance with the government's forestry principles.

This is a complete and satisfying explanation of why she left the stage.

The triumphs of the scholar the public regards as individual; the prowess of the athlete is popularly held to establish the name and fame of his college. Of course this is unreasonable, for the reputation of a university as an institution of learning should depend upon the liberal education she gives to those within her gates. But it is quite true that, despite the excellent reasons why it should not do so, the public continues to pay homage to brawn rather than brain, in so far as the undergraduate is concerned.

"For God's sake, go and see my wife and babies, and do what you can for them," wrote a stranger to a high official of the Salvation Army, the other day. "I can't help them, for I'm just out of jail, but I'm going into a lumber camp to see if I can do something. But don't you think of me. I don't deserve any pity or sympathy. Only please do what you can for them." The appeal was promptly heeded; but a gift of food and clothing did not close the case, and the official's report showed how far-sighted and sympathetic is the philanthropy of the present time. "I'm trying to get at the man who wrote that letter," he said. "There's good stuff in him. He's worth saving."

The aggregate vote in all the States for electors of President and Vice President was nearly fifteen millions, and the plurality for Mr. Taft was more than one million two hundred thousand votes. His total vote was only a few thousands greater than that for Mr. Roosevelt in 1904. The vote for Mr. Bryan was one million three hundred thousand more than Judge Parker received four years ago. It was regarded as a remarkable fact in 1904 that the total vote of the country was nearly half a million less than in 1900. The decrease was, of course, due not to a decrease in the number of those who had a right to vote, but to the fact that a great many voters did not care to go to the polls. In many cases, probably, they did not like the candidate of their own party; but they would not vote for the opposing candidate, and thus spoil their record as party men, and consequently did not vote at all. In 1908, although the campaign was not a very active one, the candidates were generally acceptable to the men of all parties, and a full vote was brought out. Some light is thrown on this subject of the variation of the total vote—which has puzzled some political students of the time—by observing that the decrease in the aggregate between 1900 and 1904 is more than accounted for by the falling off in the sixteen Southern States, and that in 1908 the vote in those same States was almost the same as in 1900. Owing to the onesidedness of party division in most of those States, there is not much to call out a full vote, and an increase or decrease is largely accidental. In the contested States of the North the total vote increased slightly in 1904, and was about three-quarters of a million more in 1908 than in 1904.

The story of the ill-fated Republic, the ocean steamship now at the bottom of the Atlantic, is dramatic enough as it is. The collision in the thick fog, the wireless messages of distress the quick and eager response, the rescue, the transfers and re-transfers of the passengers, with the suspense, anxiety, dread, anguish that attended these events, and the fatalities that resulted from the disaster—what chapters in a narrative that beggars mere fiction! But no one can read these chapters without thinking of the far more appalling tragedy that modern science and invention have so happily averted in the case of the pierced and wrecked liner. One easily comprehends the gratitude of Marconi—and, in a measure, of the humble operators of the wireless instruments—in contemplating the service of the new telegraphy to humanity as thus thrillingly exemplified. Even now, to be sure, ocean travel has by no means been "robbed of its terrors," but wireless telegraphy is still in its infancy, while the art of marine engineering and construction is developing marvelously. With five-day steamers on the Atlantic, with constant and successful efforts to increase not only safety but comfort and luxury for all classes of passengers, the time is not far distant when the loss of life at sea, even under extremely adverse weather conditions, will be so utterly improbable as to amount to virtual impossibility. Science and its application to the material needs of man have never lacked appreciation, but such a victory for invention as has just been recorded is bound to stimulate further the interest of inquirers, investigators, experimenters and captains of industry and commerce in the problem of diminution or elimination of risk in travel by sea or land. While no defeat discourages the scientific workers of the world, a great victory in a crisis has a wonderfully inspiring effect. There is abundant cause for thanksgiving in the drama of the engulfed Republic, and this emotion will in turn beget a determination to persevere and insure even more complete triumphs of human skill and intelligence over the blind elements and nature in its inauspicious moods.

MRS. NEWLYWED IN REAL LIFE.

Little Angel Bugs Loses Mother's Pocketbook in the Street Car.

A baby boy with a comically serious little face, making sounds which at times bordered on human speech, pulled himself out of his mother's lap in a Taylor car Thursday afternoon, stood on the seat by the window and then seized the purse his mother held and threw it into the opening at the side of the window.

"Why, pudding angel," remonstrated the young mother, her rosy checks taking a deeper tint as the other passengers began to laugh. "Now, just 'cause her honey bugs was so naughty, muzzer'll have to call 'ducky man to get pockie book."

And she beckoned to the conductor. He looked down the window side and shook his head.

"I don't know how I'm going to reach that, ma'am," he said.

"Never mind," said a man across the aisle. "They turn these cars upside down once a year to empty that place out and you can wait and get it then."

"If I had a stove poker," suggested a woman.

The conductor went up front and from some place near the sandbox got out a screw driver. He unscrewed the end of the seat and moved it away from the wall, leaving a small hole. He could touch the purse, but could not grasp it, and no one else succeeded in doing so, or in finding any instrument which would get hold of it. The effort was almost abandoned when the car reached Laclede avenue.

"This is my corner," said young Mrs. Newlywed. "But my key is in that purse, and this is the girl's afternoon out, and my husband doesn't come home for an hour yet."

"I'll write McManus about this, sure," said a man at the rear, as the young woman, after taking the number of the car and receiving instructions as to where to call next day, shouldered the baby and left the car.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

WHO OWNS THE EARTH?

Vast Tracts of Land Given to Railroads and Other Corporations.

When "Coal Oil Johnny" bought all the champagne in New York and emptied it into a plunge bath, so that he might take a swim in the sparkling wine, he was by comparison a mean and penurious miser. The only real, genuine, open-handed and free-hearted spendthrift in the tides of time is the government of the United States. For instance:

When Jay Cooke and his colleagues were projecting the Northern Pacific Railroad they took off their hats and made a bow to Congress.

"We're thinking of building to the Pacific coast," they said. "Can't you give us a little help?"

"Why, certainly," the Congress replied enthusiastically. "Just take the State of New York and go to work."

"Oh!" said the railroad promoters in a pained voice, "is that all? Why, we really expected something substantial."

"Well," Congress answered, swelling with philanthropy and putting its hand into the public pocket, "of course if you feel that way about it you can put Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, Rhode Island and Delaware on the string, too. Now run along and get busy."

Still the Promoters stood and looked pathetically at that tender-hearted aggregation of statesmen.

"Why, certainly," sobbed Congress, finally, vainly endeavoring to conceal its emotion, "we'll have the people lend you what money you need, too. Please don't look at us in that tone of voice any longer."

In other words, the land-grant of forty-seven millions of acres made as a free gift to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company by the national Congress more than equals in extent the total area of the States of New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, Rhode Island and Delaware.

Up to twelve years ago Congress had given away the public domain to railroad and other corporations to the extent of 266,000,000 acres, a bit of territory the total area of France and Germany, two countries which support between them a population much greater than the whole population of the United States when the last census was taken. —Technical World Magazine.

A Grateful Boy.

A gift always opens the door of an Eskimo heart, declares Knud Rasmussen in "The People of the Polar North," and then tells the story of a little orphan boy whom he ran across in his travels.

I had a little pocket-knife in my pocket, and I presented it to him in order to establish our acquaintance.

It was assuredly the first time in his life that the boy had ever had such an experience as to receive a present. I assured him that I really meant it. Then, without a change of expression, he snatched the knife out of my hand and ran off. I did not think that I should see any more of him, and was just going into our tent when he came running up with a piece of walrus meat, which he pressed into my hand.

"Thou gavest, see; I give, too," said he, and his face shone with grease and pride. But from that day forth we were friends.

Kajoranguaq had no relatives at all to look after him. He was everybody's drudge, and slept in an old ruined building, where he said he was very comfortable. He could not have been more than ten years old at the outside, although there was little of the child about him; but after he came to live in our tent we noticed that he began to sing when alone, and, after a little while, he would beat time to his singing on a little tin box, so in spite of a life of neglect he got a little joy now and then.

FRIDAY, MARCH 12, 1909

The Victoria, B. C., Times, in commenting over the retirement to private life of President Roosevelt, predicts that he will "reign again over a loyal and devoted people."

The legislature adjourned yesterday. The sixty day session expired by limitation at midnight Thursday, March 11th. Some good work was accomplished, notably the good roads legislation. Good roads are a vital factor in the development of a country, and Washington has taken the lead over other states of the Northwest in this direction. Much of the work of the legislature, however, was more like a farce comedy. The juggling with the local option bill in both houses for nearly fifty-five days of the session, to the detriment of needed legislation, will not redown to the credit of our law makers. There is but little to show for the work of sixty days, but the bills the taxpayers will have to assume. Perhaps it is just as well. No laws are better than bad laws.

While the local option bill passed by the legislature is not what was hoped for by advocates on either side, the measure, as adopted, was probably the best way out of a bad situation. Separate units are made of the first, second, third and fourth class cities, the remainder of the county being one unit. A special election is provided for the first trial and thereafter the question of saloons or no saloons can be voted on only at general elections. All saloon keepers are required to be persons of good moral character and citizens of the United States. No limit is placed on the amount of liquor which druggists are permitted to keep in stock. Breweries may operate in dry territory and are allowed to deliver not to exceed one case of beer to private families in dry territory. With these exceptions the bill follows the general lines of the McMasters bill.

Why not organize an improvement club in Angeles to make the city more beautiful the coming summer? There is need of improvement in the business as well as in the residence sections of our city. Such a club has been organized in Sedro-Woolley. The good people of that thriving city realize that more strangers will visit Washington the coming summer and fall than ever before to enjoy its splendid climate, therefore a move in the direction of organizing a club to promote and encourage the raising of flowers and beautifying yards and otherwise improving the city was made last week, says the Courier.

Angeles needs such an organization. Or, what is better, a resolve on the part of everyone, individual property owners as well as renters, to exert a little care and spend a little time in cleaning up. It is surprising what a little concerted effort will do. Your neighbor will not want you to outdo him in tidying up our premises, be it residence or business property. The notion is catching and he will soon follow suit and it will not take long for improvement to become general, once a determined move in the right direction is made. Paint your house, if it needs it, fix the fence, the walks. Keep the lawn in order, and grow an abundance of flowers. Make your premises look inviting. The general appearance of a town acts on a stranger much as does the tidiness of a house. The first impression is always worth cultivating.

As the Courier says: "Sightseers are coming and they are going to wander about with their eyes wide open, many of them with the view of permanently locating in this fairest of all sections of the glorious Northwest, hence it should be a pleasure to all to 'get a move on' and use every endeavor to make the stranger within our gates feel that there is no place quite so fair, quite so desirable quite so attractive, or quite so inviting as a residence in Washington," and especially in Clallam county.

Dispatches from Washington City indicate that President Taft will settle the new federal judgeship in this state to suit himself and that he will not give much consideration to the recommendations of the senators from this state unless said recomendations meet his hearty approval. President Taft was a member of the federal bench for many years and he proposes to see that the judiciary under his administration is of the highest type. He has a half dozen lawyers in his cabinet, and he will lay all matters pertaining to federal judgeship before them. No man will be appointed to the bench unless he can pass muster, and he will have to approach a high standard in order to come off with any honors. This is in substance the news that comes from Washington. Walter Clark, correspondent of the Post Intelligencer at the national capitol, sends it, and it may therefore be regarded as reliable.

Look about you in this city and see the "unadvertised things." The vacant offices, houses or apartments, depending upon window placards which have accumulated dust; and the shop windows in which certain goods have been on display until they have eaten up their values in cost of storage room; the vacant lots on which "For Sale" signs have stood until they have become weather beaten.

All over the city you will see some evidence of the fact that not all of the people have learned that there is such a thing as newspaper advertising.

And, of course, you will see very much more evidence that a great many people have learned how to really do things through newspaper advertising. Try to imagine, if you can, what sort of a looking city we would have if it had twice as many "unadvertised things" in evidence —every one of them an exhibit of the personal unprogressiveness of the person responsible.—Victoria, B. C., Times.

The quarterly distribution of the state school funds, made March 4th, aggregating $352,237.43, apportioned to the several counties at the rate of 1.3 cents per day attendance, gives Clallam county $2,492.72.

EDEN VALLEY CLUB REPLIES

To the Editor of the Olympic Leader. Dear Sir: Replying to the letter inserted in your last week's issue from the pen of Lewis Levy I desire to state.

If the state wants to build a road down the Solduck valley, let the state build it. If Mr. Levy wants to build such a road, we have no more objections to him building it than we have to the state, and if the automobile clubs from the cities on the upper Sound want to build the road we certainly have no objections, and the people of this valley will be the first to welcome them when they reach here. (See Tribune Times February 19th, 1909.) What we want is roads that will be of the most benefit to the farmers and others interested in other industries in this county, and not roads that will benefit the rich or land grafter.

The county levies a tax for the building and maintaining of roads for the benefit of its settlers. Last year there were $15,000.00 spent on the road to the lakes, while the roads in district No. 2 were neglected; the tax levy of district No. 2 was $6,394.-75 for 1907, while the present levy is $8,683.47. Last year the warrants issued on road district No. 2 amounted to $12,553. If this is kept up for two years more when will this district be able to repair its main thoroughfares. At present the Elwha bridge is ready to tumble into the river, and the grade on the hill is dangerous to any one going over it after dark.

If a road is built from Port Angeles to Sapho, the people of the west end of the county will not come to Angeles with their produce for the reason that there is no market in Port Angeles, and as long as they have to ship their produce to Seattle, they will do their shipping from Clallam Bay. The idea of thinking that the people of the west end will come to Angeles to trade is an absurdity.

The large traffic that comes to Port Angeles from the west end comes over the Burlingame road, and if that road were extended down the straits this traffic would be incresed greatly.

In conclusion we wish to say that the Eden Valley Club will meet at the Eden Valley school house Saturdy evening, March 20th, at 8 o'clock, and we especially invite Mr. Levy or any one else interested in this matter to meet with us at this time.

Very truly yours,
Eden Valley Farmers' Club.

The Church of the Apostolic Faith on Albert and Fourth, commonly termed on the streets as the "Holy Rollers" experienced an expurging of "devils" one evening this week A few young men of our community and otherwise, after gathering unto their bosom an undue amount of "snake poison" proceeded to feel hilarious and, seeking amusement, they rounded up at the church; while the leader was in his usual "swoon" or "spell" someone called, "Come out of it," "Come out of it," and when the leader came out of it he broke loose in his fury and landed on one of the party in such a way that he took his que for getting busy. Everything seemed to be in an uproar and when the smoke cleared away and things settled down peacefully some of the windows were found broken and the devils had fled.

A Religious Author's Statement.

Rev. Joseph H. Fesperman, Sailsbury, N. C., who is the author of several books, writes: "For several years I was afflicted with kidney trouble and last winter I was suddenly stricken with a severe pain in my kidneys and was confined to bed eight days unable to get up without assistance. My urine contained a thick white sediment and I passed same frequently day and night. I commenced taking Foley's Kidne Remedy, and the pain gradually abated and finally ceased and my urine became normal. I cheerfully recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy W. J. Mathewson Drug Store.

Notice of Estray.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has at his farm one dark roan cow, aged about five years, also one red heifer, aged about two years. The said heifer has white spots on legs and hips with crescent or half moon mark on both ears.

Said cow and heifer have been taken up by the undersigned for the reason that they are continually breaking into his pasture. The owners of said animals can have the same by calling at the farm of Frank Lotzgesell, known as Pleasant Ridge Farm at Dungeness, Clallam county, Washington, and paying for this notice and the amount due for caring for the said animals. Should no claimant appear claiming said animals the same will be sold by the sheriff as by law provided.

Dated this 26th day of February, 1909. S. H. Tripp.

ELK CALVES A RARITY

Among the visitors in the city is William Stewart of the Solduck country. He says the winter has been unusually severe and the fall of snow the heaviest in years. At one time the entire Solduck country was covered with six feet of the beautiful, but when Mr. Stewart left there four days ago, had settled down to a depth of three feet. In order to get out, Mr. Stewart had to travel on snow shoes for a number of miles before he could get out of the snow belt.

Mr. Stewart says that the Solduck country is alive with cougars and panthers and that they are fast depleting the number of elk and deer in that section. A person cannot travel but a short distance in the mountains without coming on the remains of an elk or deer, which had been killed by cougars, and says that if the cougars are not exterminated or their number diminished, elk in the Olympics will soon be a thing of the past. The panthers and cougars create their greatest devastation among the elk by killing the calves. He says that in hunting in that section, while full grown elk can be seen occasionally, a calf elk is a rarity.

Mr. Stewart, a short time before he came out, killed a monster cougar. The animal measured nine and one-half feet and was fat and sleek, indicating that it had been feasting on elk and deer. He strongly favors the raising of the bounty on cougar and panther and says this is the only way in which elk and deer can be protected. If a raise is made, it will pay men to devote their attention to hunting those animals and in a short time they could all be practically exterminated.—Townsend Call.

Simple Remedy for LaGrippe.

La grippe coughs are dangerous as they frequently develop into pneumonia. Foley's Honey and Tar not only stops the cough but heals and strengthens the lungs so that no serious results need be feared. The genuine Foley's Honey and Tar contains no harmful drugs and is in a yellow package. Refuse susitutes. W. J. Mathewson Drug Store.

Order to Show Cause on Sale of Real Estate.

In the Superior Court, State of Washington, for Clallam County.

In the Matter of the Estate of Julia Jankowski, deceased.

Joseph Krajewski, the administrator of the estate of Julia Jankowski, deceased, having filed his petition in this Court duly verified praying for an order of this Court for the sale of certain described real estate of which the said deceased died seized, for the purposes therein set forth;

And it appearing to the Court from said petition, that there is no personal estate of the said deceased in the hands of said administrator to pay the claims against the said estate and the expenses of the administration thereof, and that it is necessary to sell all or a portion of the real estate of the said deceased to pay the said claims and expenses of the administration. And it appearing to the Court that said petition conforms to, and is in accordance with the requirements of law in such case made and provided. It is ordered by the Court that all persons interested in the estate of the said deceased appear before said Superior Court on Saturday, the 10th day of April, 1909, at the hour of 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day at the courtroom of the probate department of said Superior Court in the city of Port Angeles, in said Clallam county, then and there to show cause, if any they have, why an Order of this Court should not be granted to said administrator, authorizing and empowering him to sell the said real estate of said deceased, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the aforesaid claims and expenses of administration. It is further ordered that a copy of this order to show cause be published at least four successive weeks before the said 10th day of April, 1909, in a newspaper printed and published in said county of Clallam and of general circulation therein.

Done in open court this 9th day of March, 1909. L. STILL,
Judge of said Superior Coqrt.

State of Washington, County of Clallam, ss.

I, Horace White, county clerk and ex-officio clerk of the superior court of said Clallam county, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a full, true and correct copy of an original order to show cause, made by said Court on the 9th day of March, 1909, in the matter of the estate of Julia Jankowski, deceased.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Court this 9th day of March, 1909.

The Great Spring Medicine

In thousands of homes, for more than thirty years, Hood's Sarsaparilla has been taken, as a Spring Medicine, by every member of the family.

Peculiar to Itself in what it is and what it does, it combines the best blood purifiers, appetizers and tonics, and effects complete cures of Spring Ailments—all blood diseases, pimples, eruptions, eczema, scrofula, all stomach, liver and kidney complaints, loss of appetite, that tired feeling, all low or run-down conditions of the system.

Hood's Sarsaparilla effects its wonderful cures, not simply because it contains sarsaparilla, but because it combines the utmost remedial values of more than 20 different ingredients, each greatly strengthened and enriched by this peculiar combination. These ingredients are the very remedies that successful physicians prescribe for the same diseases and ailments. There is no real substitute for Hood's Sarsaparilla. If urged to buy any preparation said to be "just as good," you may be sure it is inferior, costs less to make, and yields the dealer a larger profit.

Begin taking Hood's Sarsaparilla today, in the usual liquid form or in the chocolated tablets known as Sarsatabs. 100 Doses One Dollar.

MOST TRAVELED WOMAN.

Who Has Been "On the Wing" Continuously for 27 Years.

Probably the most traveled woman in the world is Miss Celeste J. Miller, of Chicago. For twenty-seven years continuously she has been "on the wing" and here is a partial record of her most remarkable travel achievements:

Five times has she circled the globe completely, in addition to almost innumerable briefer European and Asiatic journeys that would seem long to a less traveled person.

She has visited every known country and capital in the world, with practically every group of islands, however remote, and this, whenever possible, before the ordinary "tourist route" has been worked out.

The first woman to traverse South America alone, she crossed the Andes twice on this trip, covered the entire region, and made original discoveries and explorations.

The first woman to go over the Trans-Siberian Railway, she traveled 500 miles in Manchuria in a mule palanquin, sleeping in Chinese hotels, visiting the great Chinese wall, etc.

Her first visit to Palestine and Syria was distinguished by a 500-mile ride on an Arab horse. During this journey she had no tent, passing her nights in native huts, with sheep herders and so on.

In Morocco she also traveled—500 miles—on muleback.

In Central America, Newfoundland, etc., she lived with and studied all manner of queer people such as the Cheli Indians, Nubia negroes and Eskimos, it being one of her unbreakable "travel rules" to hobnob with the different races met, and to stay in each country long enough really to learn something of its ways and inhabitants.

She has made the "Mediterranean trip" four times, "done" Egypt and the Nile twice, visited Turkey twice, and "run across" to the Eureopean continent so many times that she long since ceased to "keep track" of such comparatively insignificant jaunts.

She had been all over India, the East and West Indian Islands, Cuba, the Philippines, Corea and Hawaii long before it became usual to visit these places.

She has visited 10,000 mosques, temples and churches.

In addition to all this she knows intimately every portion of America, and even when "not traveling," according to her own understanding of the term, thinks nothing of flying off to California, Alaska, the south, anywhere that her active fancy takes her.

The further is remarkable because: She always travels alone.

With the exception of a slight smattering of French and German, she has, literally, "no tongue but her own" to help her about strange countries.

She has realized her life ambition, though it has cost her, on an average, $10 per day for 27 years to do so.

She has never been sick a day, away from home, with the exception of occasional slight attacks of seasickness, though she has been through fifteen epidemics of the bubonic plague in India and China, visited the Indian burning ghats in places from which the American minister had fled in dismay.

Miss Miller enjoys traveling as much now as when she started and at present, having remained in America for some time, she is planning "the longest trip around the world" ever taken.

Bismarck's Wooing.

The wooing of the great German statesman, Bismarck, was characteristic of the forceful nature of the man. He first met the Fraulein von Puttkammer at a wedding, and was vanquished at first sight. Hardly waiting to remove his wedding garments, he sat down and wrote to her parents, demanding her hand in marriage. As Bismarck's reputation was not above reproach, Herr von Puttkammer's surprise was naturally not altogether pleasant. However, the bold suitor was invited to pay him a visit, and within a few hours Bismarck appeared. The object of his adoration and her parents were prepared to give him a formally polite welcome; but Bismarck's intentions were far more cordial, for he ignored utterly the extended hands of the parents, threw his arms around the daughter, and kissed her heartily. Before many minutes had elapsed the impetuous lover was formally betrothed.

Where They Came From.

Scattered as is the sunflower "tawny and bronze and gold" all over the prairies of the west as well as the fields of the eastern states, yet few people know that it originally came from Peru. Incidentally here are the birthplaces of other popular plants: Celery came from Germany; chestnut from Italy; onion from Egypt; tobacco from Virginia; nettle from Europe; citron from Greece; oats from North Africa; poppy from the east; rye from Siberia; parsley from Sardinia; pear and apple from Europe; spinach from Arabia; mulberry tree from Persia; walnuts from Persia; peaches from Persia; cucumber from East Indies; quince from Crete; radish from China and Japan; peas from Egypt; horseradish from southern Europe; horse chestnut from Tibet.

Checking an Automobilist.

Some drivers of automobiles have yet to learn manners. Life infants, they do not realize that what they do is annoying to others. A writer in Maine Woods tells the story of a motor car which was contesting the rights of the road with a wagon in the Dead River region. The method employed to subjugate the impolite machine is not to be commended, but it was somewhat mitigated by the circumstances.

The wagon was leisurely wending its way over a road, wide enough in this particular section for but one ordinary vehicle, and behind the horse sat a well known guide of the region. Up puffed a big automobile, the driver nervously sounding his horn.

At the first honk! honk! the guide's horse leaped into the air and nearly upset the wagon. The automobile, trailing a few yards in the rear, emitted a series of honks which threw the horse into a fit of bronco buckings, and the guide asked the man to desist tooting, saying he would turn out when the road widened.

The tooting continued, however, much to the disgust of the guide and horse. Unable to stand it longer, the guide stopped his horse, reached under the seat, and drawing up a Winchester, said, calmly:

"I've asked you to stop that noise. A gentleman would have done so under the conditions. Now you toot that horn again and I'll fill your tires full of holes. I guess that'll widen the road enough for you."

The tooting stopped and the wagon slowly proceeded, followed by a silent motor car till the roadway became wider.

Her Tongue.

They were talking of figures of speech.

"Have you ever noticed," said one. "How fond people are of vegetable metaphors when they are dealing with a woman? Her cheeks are 'roses,' her lips are 'cherry,' her hands are always 'lily' hands, her mouth is a 'rosebud,' her complexion is 'like a peach,' and her breath is 'fragrant as honeysuckle.'"

"You've forgotten one," said the cynic.

SOLDUCK-SAPHO ROAD

To the Editor: Mr. O'Brien of the "Clallam Bay Record," in his editorial of last week starts in by saying: "The Farmers' Club of Eden valley voices the sentiment and opinion of the citizens of the west end of the county when it goes on record as being totally opposed to the state road going up the Solduck valley around Lake Crescent." Mr. O'Brien, in his argument, is like a "drowning man catching onto a straw." In the first place, the Farmers' Club of Eden valley does not voice the sentiments of the citizens of the west end of Clallam county "when it goes on record as being totally opposed to the state road going up the Solduck valley around Lake Crescent." Neither does Mr. O'Brien voice the sentiments and opinions of the citizens of the west end. Mr. O'Brien voices the sentiments of the few residing on Sawdust Avenue. He certainly does not voice the sentiment of the people residing in the vicinity of Sapho, Beaver, Forks, Quillayute, Mora, LaPush, Swan, Bucyrus, Shuwah, Tyee and Shillabah. The Farmers' Club of Eden valley does not voice the sentiments of the majority of their own section. A few of them are beginning to feel lonesome; they fear the inevitable. "Tourists usually take the road of least resistance." The automobile road will be ready for travel to the lakes by the first of June, and that is the route pleasure seekers will take—one hour and thirty minutes from Angeles to the lakes!

That bunch of kickers of Eden valley have had their fill of public road funds. For the past twenty years the county commissioners have spent large sums of money in their midst. The people of other parts of the county are in need of roads also. The taxpayers of this end of the county will do all they can to secure the road along the straits, but this short piece of road to a connection with the hot springs road must be built first. That road will enable the people of western Clallam to come direct to Angeles, and visa versa. We want that "Strait road" to Clallam just as bad as you do, Mr. O'Brien. We want to have all the roads we can secure—the more roads we have the better for the welfare of the settlers.

As to the cost of the road down the Solduck to Sapho, the distance is about fourteen miles; estimated cost about $1750 per mile; practically level. No gulches, no ravines, and most of it burnt over. Now take the proposed road along the Straits, it is full of gulches and ravines. In order to make a fairly passable road it will be necessary to make long contours around the hills, which will increase the distance considerable. It cannot be reached in much less than thirty miles. To a proper connection with the Clallam-Pysht road, the cost of bridges over gulches and ravines will be enormous. A fairly good road cannot be constructed for much less than $3,500 to $4,000 per mile. Including bridges, thirty miles at $3,500 to $4,000 per mile—$105,000 to $120,000. The county cannot expend that much money at this time without authorization by a vote of the people of the county. If you people want the road right now, get up a petition to the county commissioners asking them to call a special election for the purpose of voting on bonding the county for a road along the Straits and for the improvement of the present road from Angeles to a connection with the Clallam-Pysht road in the sum of $125,000. I believe such a proposition might carry at this time.

Again, this talk of building the road around Lake Crescent is all nonsense. There is no intention of building a road around Lake Crescent. The people of this end of the county are quite willing to have the Straits road built if it were possible to secure the funds by a bond issue. On the other hand, a few schemers on Sawdust Avenue would like to have this Straits road to the exclusion of all other roads. We are onto your game, Mr. O'Brien, there is going to be no holdup, no tribute to be paid by the people of Clallam county to a few of you on Sawdust Avenue. Yes, indeed, you would like to have the Straits road the exclusive avenue of ingress and egress for all the people of Clallam county and for visitors and tourists. That would be a picnic, indeed! Yes, compel everybody to drop a few dollars into your contribution box on his way in and out of the interior of western Clallam county, and, incidentally, of western Jefferson. What a gigantic hold-up you have planned! The Standard Oil Co. isn't in it with you. You don't care for the interest of the farmer or for anyone else's interest. If you did, you would not advocate an exclusive road into the interior of western Clallam. We are willing to have both roads if the money could be raised; but you are not. Hence it goes to prove that you are advocating a selfish, sordid interest; nothing more. It won't take the people but a few seconds to see through your little scheme. Yours truly,

LEWIS LEVY.
