BIG CHUNK OF CLALLAM COUNTY COAL

Largest Lump of Coal Ever Brought to Seattle, Says the Post-Intelligencer.

"The largest lump of coal ever brought to Seattle," says the Seattle Post-Intelligencer of Monday, "has arrived here from the mines of the Clallam Coal company, in Clallam county, on the Straits of Juan de Fuca. This coal is for the Clallam county exhibit at the Exposition, and weighs one and one half tons. It came to Seattle by steamer from the mine, which is located near Clallam Bay. It is the only coal mine in the Olympics. Clallam county expects to be the biggest coal producing county in the state.

REBEKAHS HOLD DISTRICT MEETING

New Members Initiated and Officers Elected for Mountain View Lodge Banquet Followed

Wednesday, May 12th, being the occasion of the District meeting of the Rebekah Degree, the visiting members, consisting of seven from Townsend, two from Coupeville, and V. P. of the Assembly from Bellingham, were met at the boat and conducted to the Commercial Hotel. A very interesting and instructive meeting was held in the afternoon at which Mrs. Burgeman delivered the address of welcome, which was responded to by Mrs. Coates of Coupeville. In the evening the regular lodge meeting of Mountain View Rebekah Lodge of Port Angeles was held and six candidates initiated, namely: Frank Allen, Ernest Merrill, Frank Waite, Laurena Ester, Lottie Nichols and Mrs. C. Green, proving that Mountain View is not only alive, but working. The following officers were elected: N. G., Mae Ramsey; V. G., Tina Garvin; R. S., Ruth Burgeman; F. S., Sadie Goldwater; Treas., Margaret Graham.

Many congratulations were tendered the officers and Degree Staff upon their excellent work. Business being concluded a tempting banquet was spread in which about seventy members played prominent parts.

SILVER MEDAL CONTEST

MEMORIAL DAY, MONDAY, THE 31ST

Post Requests All Affiliated Organizations and Citizens Generally to Join in Observance.

In 1863, Gen. John A. Logan, at that time Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, promulgated an order to the Grand Army of the Republic, calling upon all comrades to observe the 30th day of May as Decoration Day, to seek out every comrade's grave and to decorate it with the choicest spring flowers. This year the 30th of May occurs on Sunday, and the 31st day of May will be observed as Memorial Day.

For forty successive years the Grand Army of the Republic has observed this day by visiting the silent camps where sleep our comrades, the Nation's dead, and honoring their memory by garlanding their passionateless mounds with flags and flowers and teaching the lessons of patriotism to all who may unite with them and to the generation growing up around them.

Let us this year do our duty to those who died that the nation might live, and with tender and loving hands honor their memory.

The Woman's Relief Corps, the ladies of the G. A. R., the Daughters of Veterans, The Sons of Veterans, and their auxiliary, Veterans of the Spanish American war and the Society of the Army of the Philippines, the schools and all citizens are invited by the Post to join and participate in Memorial Day exercises with the Grand Army.

COURT IN SESSION

Several Attorneys Present from Up-Sound to Argue Cases

One of the cases of interest that has been occupying the attention of the superior court this week is the efforts of Coleman and Fogarty of Everett to have reopened the case of Smith vs. Silva in which judgment in tax foreclosure was entered last October by default and non-appearance of defendants. Plaintiffs desire the case reopened for the purpose of allowing them to come in and make a defense, or rather to redeem on the ground that they were not advised of the action, service being had by publication. Argument was had at length Wednesday and the court takes the matter under advisement, counsel being asked to cite material authorities as to whether the treasurer has the right to issue a subsequent certificate of delinquency at the time subsequent taxes become delinquent. The case is full of interest on one or two points on which the supreme court seems not to have passed.

Justice of the Peace Frank Balch was here Tuesday in relation to the case of Erickson and Ferandez versus the Justice, directing him through Certiorari proceedings to submit the papers in a certain case wherein the plaintiffs were defendants in garnishee proceedings for review of the superior court upon the ground that he had exceeded his authority in passing judgment against defendants after overruling their motion to quash. The court has not yet given its decision in the matter.

In the case of Pacific Mercantile Co. vs. E. C. Payne on account heard before the superior court Thursday, judgment was entered for plaintiff for amount prayed less account of house furnishings, personal matters between Mr. Knight and Mr. Payne, the court leaving this matter to be settled by a separate action.

J. F. Ford was granted a decree of divorce Tuesday against Zelphia Ford.

J. A. Wilson, formerly of this city, and Deputy Treasurer W. E. Burnside were in the accident at the new Armory at Seattle last week, when the railing of the gallery gave way and some 60 persons were more or less injured. Mr. Burnside was removed to the hospital Monday, suffering from two severely sprained ankles. When the rail gave way he jumped, a distance of 12 feet. Treasurer Pringle went up to Seattle Monday to visit the injured deputy.

To this single amount, which is to provide a suitable building, will be added a fund of $500,000, to be contributed by fifty Chicagoans. The donor of the $1,000,000 is said to be J. Ogden Armour.

FARMERS ARE ADVISED NOT TO MIX WHEAT

Topeka, Kan., May 10.—The Kansas experiment station at the state agricultural college at Manhattan is sending out to the farmers in the wheat belt information as to the best plan for keeping pure the wheat recently furnished for seeding purposes. The farmers who are growing this wheat are urged to use great care in keeping the wheat pure in order to continue the distribution of the improved seed to their neighbors and at the same time maintain the yield and high quality of the wheat grown on their own farms.

It is pointed out by Prof. Teneyck of the state experiment station that several factors cause a deterioration of wheat, and one of the principal of these is the mixture or crossing of the wheat of different strains of varieties. The improved wheat which has been distributed from the experiment station is not absolutely pure in variety of type, but these varieties are much purer than the average wheat.

SEATTLE'S TWO GREAT EXPOSITIONS READY

Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition Finished to the Sweeping of the Floors, While the Great Natural Beauty Show Is Always Ready--What Visitors May See.

Seattle, May 10.—Seattle's two expositions are just about ready for the bell tap. The Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition is ninety-nine per cent complete, which means that everything is done but sweeping the floors, and the other exposition, which consists of the most magnicfient scenery and the longest list of interesting tours boasted by any American city, is always ready.

Railroad experts the country over declare that the success of the A. Y. P. is already assured, but for this fact they do not give the whole credit to either the management or the publicity campaign. On the contrary, they declare that the imminent influx into the Northwest is due more largely to Northwestern resources and home possibilities and to Northwestern and Alaska scenery and romance than to any other power of attraction.

The only work that now remains to be done on the exposition grounds is upon the motor boat pavilion, which is not to be brought into use until August, and on the stock show sheds, which are for use in the early months of fall and which are entirely cut off from the main exposition picture. These, however, will be complete by the opening day.

Nightly now the exposition grounds are lighted for the enjoyment of the pre-exposition crowds which daily go to the grounds. For weeks the attendance has averaged close upon 5,000. If special free days were counted, it would be a larger figure than this. A cold spring somewhat delayed the first flush of the floral effects, which are on a huge scale, but warm May days have brought out the blooms and an excellent foretaste is to be had of the beauty that will be when the gates are finally flung open.

Practically all of the exhibits are installed in the Manufactures building and in the Oriental and European buildings. The installation in the Palace of Agriculture is somewhat slower but will not be behindhand at the right moment. The government exhibits are well along, with the exception of the Hawaiian and Philippine exhibits, which arrived late. However, they will be complete to the last detail by June 1st.

The Japanese exhibit is being spread rapidly in Japan's splendid building and in the Japanese tea garden on the Pay Streak. China's village on the Pay Streak is also rapidly filling up, as is the Turkish village, with its streets of bazaars and cafes.

The Canadian exhibit is installed and makes one of the most attractive and interesting features of the exposition.

And while work is being pushed rapidly ahead on the exposition proper, arrangements are going forward just as fast that the visitor may take advantage of the "second exposition." New steamships are arriving daily for the famous excursion trip along the inside passage and the Alaska coast to Sitka. This is called variously the "Totem Pole Trip," the "Glacier Route," the "Cannery Excursion" and other names of the like, for there are so many distinct features to be enjoyed that it is difficult to pick any one of them correctly to nickname the tour

The "mosquito fleet" on Puget sound has grown to tremendous proportions. In nearly every nook and cranny of the Sound there is a point of surpassing beauty or interest, to which these small craft ply. There are the navy yards at Bremerton, the Siwash villages around Port Orchard, the Neah Bay reservation, with its marvelous canoemen, who go out into the fiercest seas with their frail little craft, Forts Casey and Worden, commanding the entrance to the Sound, and historic old Port Townsend, close by. Port Townsend is also near the entrance to Hoods Canal, a natural rift which has upon its shores more scenic beauty than any other one body of water in the world.

Victoria and Vancouver, the bustling British Columbia ports, are only a few hours pleasant sailing and the round trip may be made in craft of much eleagnce, at a fare of not more than one dollar.

The numerous resorts in the Cascade mountains are close at hand by either the Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Burlington or Milwaukee railroads and the Canadian Pacific takes one quickly to Banff, the wonder spot of the Canadian Rockies.

Every stream that plunges down from Washington's mountains is, first of all, a trout stream. "Cut throats," Dolly Vardens, Rainbows, Steelheads and Beardsleys abound in the torrents and lakes, and in Lake Washington, the gem-like body of water on the banks of which the exposition is builded, is as good black bass and trout fishing as one might cross the continent to find.

The railroads have so arranged matters that about every wonder spot on the American continent may be seen either while going to or returning from the exposition. By granting liberal stopover privileges and by interchange of tickets for the return trip, one may see Banff, the Yellowstone, the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, the mines of Butte and Anaconda's smelters, all of Oregon and California, the Yosemite valley and dozens of summer and winter resorts which California has to offer, such as Santa Cruz, Santa Catalina island, Santa Barbara and the country round about Los Angeles.

The round trip from Missouri river points has been fixed at $50; from St. Paul and Minneapolis it is $50 and from Chicago $62. The dates of sale are from May 20 to Sept. 29, inclusive, and the return limit is fixed at October 31.

Tickets will be sold over any direct route, good for return over any other direct route.

HOWELL IS NAMED

TACOMA MAN TO SUCCEED NICHOLS AS SECRETARY OF STATE.

Appointee Was Defeated by Nichols in Primary Campaign--Books of State Treasurer's Office to Be Experted Upon Request of Treasurer Lewis.

Olympia, May 11.—Just before leavving for Tacoma last evening Gov. Hay signed the commission of I. M. Howell, of Tacoma, as secretary of state to succeed Sam H. Nichols, resigned. Howell was formerly auditor of Pierce county, and was defeated by Nichols for the nomination in the primary campaign.

Gov. Hay stated that he had received the highest recommendations in regard to Mr. Howell, and that he beliees him eminently fitted for the post. Mr. Nichols tendered his resignation some days ago with the understanding that it was to take effect as soon as his successor should be appointed and had qualified.

TREASURER LEWIS ASKS EXPERTING OF HIS BOOKS

Seattle, May 11.—Gov. Hay yesterday forwaded to Chairman P. L. Allen, of the legislative investigating committee, the letter written by State Treasure J. G. Lewis, in which the request is made for a complete investigation of the treasurer's office. Mr. Lewis says he has no reason to believe that any suspicion is entertained by the committee in regard to his office, yet for the sake of setting the public at rest concerning the condition of the state funds in his department, he desires a full investigation.

"This request, coming voluntarily from the state treasurer, opens the way to look into all state offices," said Chairman Allen. I shall favor not only checking up the cash and securities in the hands of the state treasurer, but to go down the line with the other offices so far as the time at our disposal will permit. When the work has been done it will do much to restore confidence among the people of the state in the state offices."

MILITIA OFFICER IS ACCUSED OF EMBEZZLEMENT

Seattle, May 6—The Post-Intelligencer this morning contains a three page story in which an account is given of alleged embezzlement of state military funds by former Adjutant General Ortis Hamilton. The paper states that Hamilton is to be taken into custody today It is stated that the amount of Hamilton's peculations will probably reach $50,000. The money is said to have been spent in riotoous living.

Olympia, May 6.—Former Adjutant General Ortis Hamilton was arrested here yesterday on charge of larceny by embezzlement from the state. He is reported to have confessed to two forgeries of voucher signatures.

During the afternoon Hamilton was taken before Police Magistrate Giles, who fixed bail at $10,000.

The forged vouchers, it is said, now foot up $33,000.

Not Guilty, Pleads Hamilton

Olympia, May 10.—Before Police Justice Milton Giles, Ortis Hamilton Saturday afternoon pleaded not guilty to the charge of embezzling $1188 state military funds. He waived examination and was held for trial at the superior court, bonds being fixed at $10,000, which he has so far been unable to secure.

The French government has awarded a first-class lifesaver's medal to John R. Binns, wireless operator on the White Star line steamer Republic.

Hello, Paris; This Is New York

Wireless Phone Science's Greatest Gift to the World

"HELLO, Pairs; this is New York."

To start a conversation like this across the universe seems an achievement beyond the dream of a Jules Verne or the imaginative picture of an Edward Bellamy, yet in the busiest city in the world, New York, such an experiment will take place shortly, with every assruance of success.

On this occasion, when science announces its triumph to the world, society of the nations will offer its congratulations in a unique and unrivaled manner, and will feature on its social calendar a luncheon at which Frederick Townsend Martin will preside, that for interest and charm will make all past society events soon commonplace, when the first wireless luncheon will take place in the salon of the Hotel Plaza.

While this luncheon is being served a voice will speak uniting two of the greatest nattions of history. It will be the voice of America's most prominent society man reading a message of President Taft to President Fallieres of France. It will be transmitted to Mrs. Nora Blatch De Forest in the Metropolitan Tower, the talented pioneer of her sex in this field, and foremost woman civil engineer of the world, who will receive this message from the Plaza and send it over a radio wireless telephone at the rate of 150,000 miles a second, to a fair daughter of France in the Eiffel tower.

The salon will be decorated to resemble a forest. Trees will be in full bloom and birds singing from their branches. Presiding at this table will be Mr. Frederick Townsed Martin, who will be the guest of the American Wireless Association, of which Dr. De Forest is president. The guests will be leading society people and scientific men of note. Mons. Etienne Lanel, consul general of France, representing the French government, and one of the guests of honor, has said that if wireless telephony is brought to a state of perfection it will become a political and diplomatic time saver.

The table will represent the Atlantic ocean. At one end will be the Metropolitan tower, architecturally raised in candy; at the other end will be the Eiffel tower. On this miniature ocean will be small ships of various nations. The shore landings of both France and America will be appropriately represented.

The menus will be small telephone directories, and the dishes will be listed as telephone numbers. The place cards will be wireless messages sent from the Fitz Carleton in France to the guests assembled at the Plaza in America. These messages will be received through radio wireless table phones, permitting the guests at both tables to converse with each other, although separated by half a world.

The waiters will be summoned by wireless telephone, and at the end carriages will be called by this means. The favors will be small radio sparkless wireless telephone outfits of very light weight and will be utilized by the guests in the ceremonies attending the luncheon and carried away to commemorate the latest gigantic feat of modern science.

It will take just one-fortieth of a second for the message to travel across the Atlantic and about one-seventh of a second to go around the world. Following this, mutual toasts will be given by the guests of this wireless luncheon who will be separated by an ocean, yet able toc onverse as if face to face.

The value of this marvelous scientific and mechanical feat can hardly be estimated, and will stand among the first half dozen scientific wonders of all time. Its effect upon the transmission of commercl business will be revolutionary and will mean that we can communicate with Europe at the cost now prevailing for a domestic telergam.

The greatest station in the Metropolitan tower is being rushed to completion. This will be absoultey the finest wireless station in the world. Its cost is not comparable to that of other equipments, as the station comprises all sorts of experimenting aparatus.

It is thought that $300,000 would not cover the outlay if a structure as high as the Metropolitan tower had to be erected especially for the work. As long as the tower has already been constructed, the cost, outside of the aparatus will be negligible.

The workings of the radio wireless phone are wonderfully simple when the complex problems involved and overcome in its creation are considered.

In telephoning, the operator talks into the mouth piece exactly as with the wire telephone and listens for a reply through a head phone instead of a receiver. In order to get into communication with a wireless telephone station, it becomes necessary to get the instrument to the known tune of the other station and then press the buzzer key which calls the person to the phone at the other end. The conversation is then carried on as if the two operators were face to face.

The mechanical principles upon which the radio wireless telephone depend are simple enough, although there is great difference of opinion upon the actual explanation of the phenomenon of wireless telephony. Speech is the forming of very rapid and ever-varying series of vibrations in the air, and their measurement by the nerves of the ear. Owing to the resistance of the atmosphere, these vibrations grow weaker and at last disappear as we get further from the source of disturbance. Telephony is the art of translating these vibrations into vibrations of ether whose lesser resistance enables them to be carried to greater distances for the translation into air vibrations again, as only the air vibrations can be measured by the ear. In the wireless telephone the air waves are translated into vibrations of an electrical discharge which oscillates the ether.

The ether waves, sent out by the transmitting station, having been modified by the human voice are changed back at the receiving station into such a form as to effect the receiver and cause the exact air vibrations which were made to modulate the transmitting current, and therefore, the words of the speaker are heard exactly as spoken

Dr. De Forest bases his claims for success on his past experiments with the wireless telephone at the suggestion of Admiral Evans, who conducted the experiments on board his flagship, the Connecticut, and another vessel.

Every battleship, cruiser and torpedo boat of the great Pacific fleet was equipped with radio wireless telephones before setting out on the memorable cruise. These instruments were given a thorough trial in inter-ship communication and in communication with several wireless stations on the Pacific coast.

In the meantime the young inventor has not been content to rest on the laurels obtained from his succeful work in the navy and has carried on many experiments, both at home and abroad.

In May, 1908, from the Eiffel tower, wireless messages were sent by the radio telephones to every wireless station in France. A warship off Marseilles, nearly 600 miles away, heard the transmitted messages just as distinctly as did the stations near Paris. While doing this Dr. De Forest had equipped several of the vessels of the Italian navy and the instruments met with such decided success that an arrangement has been practically concluded for the equipment of the entire navy.

Mrs. De Forest is quite as interesting as her inventor husband. She graduated from Cornell university in the difficult science of civil engineering. She was the first and only woman to graduate from an Eastern college in this profession. After her graduation honors were heaped upon her until she stood before the world as its foremost woman hydraulic engineer, and a most remarkable example of woman's intellectual equality with man.

She was the first woman ever elected to membesrhip in the American Society of Civil Engineers. She helped to build the greatest waterworks system in the world's history, being on the engineering staff charged with the building of the $161,000,000 Catskill systems. In June, 1907, she was elected Fellow of Cornell university, an honor rarely conferred upon women.

While at Cornell she proved herself to be the peer of any of the male athletes. She is a leader of the equal rights movement and the various movements designed to improve the social condition of all women. And now she further distinguishes herself by being the first woman to engage in wireless telephony.

SPOKANE VOTERS RATIFY RECALL AND DIRECT PRIMARY

Spokane, May 10.—By a safe majority the citiens of Spokane have adopted a charter amendment providing for the recall of elective officials on petition of 25 per cent of the voters. They also voted to adopt the direct non-partisan primary, the initiative and referendum on petition of 10 per cent of the voters, the election of all councilmen at large, to borrow $500,000 for new bridges and $500,000 for water system improvements and voted not to borrow $1,000,000 for parks.

Nelson S. Pratt, Democrat, indorsed by the non-partisan clubs, was elected mayor.

Nine Republicans and one Democrat, were elected to the council.

Socialist Publisher Convicted

Fort Scott, Kansas, May 10 .—Fred D. Warren, business manager of Appeal to Reason, a Socialist publication, chared by the government with sending scurrilous and defamatory matter through the mails, has been found guilty by a jury in the federal court here. An appeal will be taken.

GIVEN PRACTICALLY LIFE SENTENCE FOR KIDNAPING

Mercer, Pa., May 11.—James H. Boyle was sentenced yesterday to life imprisonment in the Western Pennsylvania penitentiary at Pittsburg for the kidnaping of "Billy" Whitla. Mrs. Boyle received a sentence of 25 years, with a fine of $5,000 and costs of the prosecution.

Mercer, Pa., May 10.—James Boyle and his wife, charged with having kidnaped "Billy" Whitla, have been convicted on separate trials. In the case of Boyle no defense was made.

Donworih Accepts Federal Judgeship

Seattle, May 10.—George Donworh has accepted by telegraph an offer by President Taft of the position of United States district judge for the Western district of Washington, recently created by congress, and his name has been sent to the senate for confirmation. He will resign his position on the school board and close up his business affairs and enter upon his duties immediately after the appointment has been approved by the senate

WARNS THE SENATE

SENATOR CUMMINS OF IOWA MAKES SENSATIONAL SPEECH.

Present Bill, He Says, Will Not be Accepted by Those Favoring Revision as a Fullfillment of Republican Party's Platform Pledges.

Washington, May 10.—Warning the Senate that if the tariff bill in its present form becomes a law conditions will not be remedied and the agitation for revision will not be stilled, Senator Cummins, of Iowa, made a sensational address in the upper house.

"This bill of the Senate finance committee will not be accepted by those favoring tariff revision as either a fulfillment of the Republican party's pledge or a settlement of the controversy," declared Cummins. "If the bill or anything like it becomes a law I predict that the campaign for lower duties will continue with increasing zeal until the judgment entered in the court of public conscience is also entered in the journals of Congress."

Demand of Consumer

Declaring the demand for revision comes from the consumer, he referred to the Republican platform and said:

"The senator who imagines he can satisfy these people by saying revision with higher or substantially the same duties is in compliance with the platform of the party little understands the relation between the people and that platform."

He said that he understood the voices of those desiring to increase the customs now were more plainly heard in the committee room, and dramatically added:

"The time will come when the clamor of the millions who want revision will sound like the roar of a thousand Niagaras.

Breeding Millionaires

"The people are familiar with conditions," he continued, "and are aware that industries breed millionaires. The conclusions of the people are only less infallible than the conclusions of the Almighty himself.

"I have not abandoned my faith in the doctrine of protection, but I am little able to discern its true spirit in this policy."

Dealing with conservation of the forests, Cummins declared that it made little difference whether or not there was a tariff on lumber. He said the cost of production in a great part of the United States gave Americans an advantage over Canadian lumbermen. He said that duty was only necessary to equalize the difference in the rates of transportation. He also denied that steel needed protection.

TWELVE ARTICLES PAY BULK OF TARIFF DUTIES

Washington, D. C., May 10.—Twelve classes of articles pay three-fourths of the $300,000,000 per annum collected as tariff duties by the government of the United States, according to a statement published by the United States bureau of statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor. The report says "the duties collected under the existing tariff law have averaged $300,000,000 per annum during the past three years, the largest sum being in the fiscal year 1907, when the total collections amounted to $329,000,000. In that year, 1907, sugar paid $60,000,000 duty, cotton manufactures $39,000,000, leaf tobacco $22,000,000, manufactures of fibers $22,000,000, manufactures of silk $20,000,000, manufactures of wool $20,000,000, raw wool $16,500,000, spirits, wines and malt liquors $16,000,000, manufactures of iron and steel $12,000,000, earthen and china ware $8,000,000, chemicals, drugs and dyes $7,500,000, and fruits and nuts $7,000,000—the total for these twelve articles or groups of articles being $250,000,000, or just three-fourths of the $329,000,000 of tariff duties collected in that year."

The statement shows the amount of duty collected in each year since 1820. Its chief facts may be summed up in a few words. The amount of customs or tariff duty collected in 1821 was $19,000,000, in 1830 $28,000,000, in 1850 $40,000,000, in 1860 $53,000,000, in 1870 $192,000,000, in 1880 $133,000,000, in 1890 $221,000,000, in 1900 $229,000,000, in 1907—the largest sum ever collected from tariff—$329,000,000, and in 1908 $283,000,000. The duties collected amounted in 1821 to 35 per cent of the value of the total merchandise imported, in 1830 to 45 per cent, in 1850 to 23 per cent, in 1860 to 16 per cent, in 1870 to 42 per cent, in 1880 to 29 per cent, in 1890 to 29 per cent, in 1900 to 28 per cent and in 1907 to 23 per cent of the total value of the merchandise brought into the country.

The share of the imported merchandise which paid a duty on entering the country has varied greatly. From 1820 down to 1833 less than 10 per cent of the merchandise entering the country came in free of duty. From 1833 to 1844 the share admitted free of duty ranged from 25 to 50 per cent of the total.

Beginning with 1873 the share of merchandise imported free of duty steadily increased, commencing with 27 per cent in that year and reaching 56 per cent of the total in 1892, 59 per cent in 1894, 48½ per cent in 1896, 49½ per cent in 1898, 47½ per cent in 1905, and 44½ per cent in 1908.

The share which the customs duties have borne in producing the revenues of the country has also varied. From 1791 on down to 1848 small sums were collected as internal revenue, seldom, however, reaching as much as $1,000,000. In 1863, however, the present system of internal revenue was established, the receipts therefrom in that year being in round terms $38,000,000, while the customs receipts were $64,000,000. With the close of the civil war period internal taxes were modified, and the annual average of internal revenue receipts during the period from 1869 to 1897 was $133,000,000 per year, and the customs receipts $181,000,000 per year. During the Spanish-American war period, from 1898 to 1902, the receipts from internal revenue averaged $264,000,000 per year, and the customs receipts $212,000,000 per year. With the modification of the internal revenue taxes following the close of the Spanish-American war, the receipts therefrom again fell below those of the customs, and the annual average of the internal revenue receipts in the period between 1903 and 1908 was $245,000,000, while those from customs was $284,000,000.

PRESIDENT ASKS CHANGES IN PORTO RICAN CHARTER

Washington, May 11.—For want of a quorum the house yesterday took no action on the president's message recommending radical legislation for the island of Porto Rico.

The president, in his message, directs the attention of congress to affairs on the island, laying particular stress on what he terms a situation "of unusual gravity," developed through the failure of the legislative assembly of Porto Rico to pass the usual appropriation bills, leaving the island without support after June 30 next.

Porto Ricans have forgotten the generosity of the United States, the president says, in the desire of certain of the island political leaders for power, and, he adds, the present situation indicates that the United States has gone too fast in the extension of political power to the Porto Ricans. He concludes that the absolute power of appropriation should be taken away from "those who have shown themseles too irresponsible to enjoy it."

The president suggests to congress the wisdom of submitting to the appropriation committee the question of qualifying some of the provisions of the fundamental act as to the respective jurisdiction of the executive council and the legislative assembly. But no action of this kind, the president says, should be begun until the Foraker act is amended so that when the legislative assembly shall adjourn without making the legislative appropriations necessary to carry on the government, sums equal to the appropriations made in the previous year for the respective purposes shall be available from the current revenues and shall be drawn by the warrant of the auditor to the treasurer and countersigned by the governor. Such a provision applies to the legislatures of the Philippines and Hawaii, and "it has prevented in those two countries any misuses of the power of appropriation."

The president points out that if the Porto Ricans desire a change in the Foraker act, this is a matter of congressional consideration, dependent on the effect of such a change on the real political progress on the island. Such a change, he says, should be sought in an orderly way and not brought to the attention of congress by "paralyizng the arm of the existing government."

SAID SCHIVELY WILL RESIGN OFFICE SOON

Seattle, May 10.—The Olympia correspondent of the Post-Intelligencer says:

John H. Schively will resign his office of insurance commissioner of the state.

He has alreay announced that he would resign were it not for the fear that his bondsmen, if he resigned, would surrender him into custody at Spokane, and that he would go to jail. It is quite as much because of the effect on the public mind, were he jailed, as the fear of actual imprisonment that has deterred him so far from taking the step that would retire him to private life. But he certainly will resign, and, having so determined, is flouting the legislative investigators.

Schively during the past week as been making desperate efforts to secure other bondsmen to join with his friends of the Royal Arch, the liquor men's organiation, on the new bond.

Says Canada Is Great Country

London, May 10.—In a recently issued report, the Scottish agricultural commission, which visited Canada in 1908, says that the country suffers from "honest exaggeration," as well as from superabundance of land agents and speculators, but on the other hand it is a country of boundless agricultural possibilities. They recommend that no one should farm in Canada until he knows the country, its climatic conditions, and has learned experience as a hired hand or otherwise.

Howard Cosgrove to Be Regent

Seattle, May 10.—The Times says: Howard G. Cosgrove, son of the late Gov. Samuel G. Cosgroe, has been apponted a member of the board of regents of the Universty of Washington. Cosgrovve's appointment was made ten days ago by Gov. Hay, but for reasons best known to the executive has not yet been officially announced. The new member succeeds John P. Hartman, whose term expired March 1.

PROMISE OF BIG CROPS

CONDITIONS IN CENTRAL WASHINGTON ARE FAVORABLE.

Warm Showers Have Moistened the Soil, and But Little More Moisture Is Needed to Insure a Big Yield—Government Advises Farmers Not to Mix Wheat.

Spokane, May 10.—With rain in the next two weeks, it is assured that Central Washington will this year harvest a wheat crop exceeding the records of bumper seasons. Warm showers in the last three weeks have moistened the soil, which was cracking because of incessant winds. Since then whirlwinds in some sections of the prairies have whipped the earth away and exposed the spring sown seed, but the larger areas present promising appearances. At Edwall the lack of rain is felt perhaps more than elsewhere. Farmers are preparing to sow a large acreage to winter wheat after the fall harvest.

At Coulee City only the fruit crop has been damaged by the elements. The cool weather following several rain storms has been favorable to green growing grain.

At Davenport the soil is beginning to dry in higher exposed spots, but weather has been cloudy and rains are threatened.

At Ritzville, two years ago the greatest wheat shipping point in the world, wheat has a sturdy dark green color, and the yield is promising.

BOY INVENTS MOST POWERFUL EXPLOSIVE

New York, May 10.—A dispatch to the Sun from Evansville, Ind., says:

By pressing the key of a wireless electric apparatus in his home in this city, Charles Williams, aged 18, caused an explosion to take place three miles away. The blast was of such strength that it shook the buildings in the city.

Young Williams is the inventor of both the wireless apparatus by which the explosion was caused and of the explosive, which is a new kind of powder, the making of which is secret. He says the new explosive is forty times as strong as dynamite, and that with his apparatus he can cause an explosion as far away as Chicago. The blast that shook the city took only three ounces of the explosive. Williams says he has entered into negotiations with government officials at Washington with a view to selling his inventions. The explosive was put in the top of an old tree above the city, and the inventor then went back to his home and worked the wireless apparatus to cause the explosion.

VCITIMS OF ARMORY ACCIDENT RECOVERING

Seattle, May 10.—Although no fatalities have resulted from the accident in the new state armory Thursday night, when the railing of the east balcony broke while the crowd was leaning over it in their eagerness to see the finish of the in door race that was being run, precipitating the spectators to the floor below, one or two are still in serious condition. Only a few still remain in the hospitals, the larger number having been removed to their homes. John Murray, who was one of the most seriously injured of the victims, underwent a surgical operation Saturday. The physicans who are attending the patient, while admitting that his condition is serious, express hope of his ultimate recovery. The other victims of the accident who remain in the hospitals are reported to be improving as rapidly as could be expected.

EXPLAINS HOW OUTSIDE TEACHERS MAY QUALIFY

Olympia, May 10.—Interpreting the new school law in an opinion to State Superintendent Dewey, the attorney general has ruled that teachers from other states who may secure certicfiates in Washington by passing an examination solely in school law are these:

"One who comes to this state subsequent to the time that the law goes into effect; one who is teaching in another state and has not been in this state long enough to obtain a voting resilence herein: one who is still teaching on a first temporary certificate, providing he is not a citizen of this state; a person who has taught in this state and several years ago removed to another state and then returns to this state, provided that he was a teacher in actual practice in the other state during the time of his sojourn there. It does not apply to any person who was a teacher in other states but were citizens of this state at the time of the passage of this act."

Missouri May Vote on Prohibition

Jefferson City, Mo., May 10.—Missouri will probably have a chance to vote on state-wide prohibition. The senate has passed the prohibition constitutional amendment, which has already passed the house. The committee amendment striking out the house provision that prohibition, if adopted by the voters shall become effective in 1913, was approved. This action makes the amendment effective upon approval by the electorate.

CRIMINAL LAW REFORMS FAVORED BY PRESIDENT

Chicago, May 10.—One of the most striking features of the fiftieth anniversary of the Northwestern university in June will be a national conference on criminal law under the University School of Law.

President Taft has been asked to attend, and in reply to the invitation he wrote: "I do not know anything in which greater reform is necessary than in the administration of the criminal law of the country. If the Chicago conference in June intends to recommend reforms it ought to receive every encouragement."

About eighty questions already have been submitted to the conference for discussion. Among the most striking, perhaps, to the layman, are the following:

"Attorneys countenancing the commission of perjury in behalf of defendants charged with criminal offenses.

The creation of a specific offense of being a professional criminal."

Wrongful arrests; proportion and remedy.

Support of dependents of criminals.

Abolition of the fine system in that it puts a price on crime.

Treatment while in custody of the police of persons accused.

Legal and judicial rehabilitation.

Whether it should be possible in certain cases to efface the record of the conviction after a certain amount of time has elapsed.

Expert testimony. Whether medico-legal and other expert witnesses should be called to testify by the judge or by some other impartial means and not by opposing sides.

Public defenders. Whether defense as well as prosecutions should be made public in criminal trials.

Indemnification for victims of mistaken prosecution. Whether those who are acquitted of crime should in certain cases receive indemnification

How the ex-conict makes good.

How far should the state make payment to their families for work performed by prisoners.

Whether the judge should be allowed to state to the jury his opinion of the weight of the evidence.

BRYAN MAKES PLEA FOR AID TO PROHIBITION

Lincoln, Neb., May 10.—William Jennings Bryan in last week's Commoner calls on the Democratic members of Congress to amend the internal revenue portion of the Payne bill so as to prohibit the issue of federal revenue tax receipts in states, counties or communities where the sale of liquor is locally prohibited. He says:

The Republican party has long boasted of being the party of good morality. It has had the support of a large majority of the ministers and religious papers, and it has constantly charged the Democratic party with being an ally of the saloon and in league with lawlessness.

The time has come to put it to the test. It matters not whether a person favors prohibition or opposes it; he ought to be in favor of the enforcement of law, whether that law suits him or not.

Popular government rests upon respect for law, and nothing is more calthan this action of the federal government in not only ignoring the wishes of the people in various localities, but in actually reaping a profit from the culated to cultivate disrespect for law issue of licenses which stimulate lawbreaking. Can the federal government afford to continue a partner with the lawbreakers? Can any party afford to longer legalize this partnership?

MUCH DAMAGE DONE BY CANADIAN FOREST FIRES

Kamloops, B. C., May 10.—Hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of porperty destroyed and scores of ranchers forced to flee for their lives are the results of a disastrous bush fire that swept the country from Notch Hill as far east as Three Valley and south from Sicamous as far as Vernon.

Among the losses are two sawmills, both of whsih were totally consumed. The big Carlin mill, located between Tappens siding and Notch Hill, was wiped out with a loss of $75,000, as was also the Carrigan mill, on Salmon river, valued at $35,000.

Barns and houses fell before the fire and many cattle were lost, while many settlers had to leave everything to save their lives. The total losses in the vicinity of Salmon Arm will reach nearly half a million dollars. In the Mara district the loss will be heaviest, as scores of ranch properties were completely devastated.

PEACE DELEGATES TALK OF FUTURE PROSPECTS

Chicago, May 10.—Having discussed the present aspect of the peace movement from various viewpoints, including those of the politician, the business man and the educator, delegates to the second peace congress considered plans for the futue.r.

Dr. David Starr Jordan presided over the meeting, the general topic of which was "Next Steps to Peacemaking." Edwin D. Mead, of Boston, discussed "The Arrest of Competitive Arming in Fidelity to The Hague Movement," and Congressman Richard Bartholdt, of Missouri, referred with sarcasm to the inconsistency of a race that insisted that the individual should settle his differences in the courts, while nations settled theirs by arbitrament of war.

There is something uncanny in the experience of that South Chicago man who had a "funny feeling" that his house was on fire and hurried home in time to save it. Hamlin Garland would be glad to meet him. There is material enough in that man for a good magazine article.

One hundred orphans who lost their parents in the Sicilian earthquake will be cared for in a home which is to be built with two hundred and fifty thousand dollars given by the American Red Cross Society. This is one of ten orphanages which the international committee has decided to found.

Strict speed laws are becoming common and their enforcement is rigidly demanded by public opinion. It is all because of a few harebrained scorchers who were divinely designed to run wheelbarrows instead of automobiles! The governor-valve of the intellect of automobile scorchers was never designed to be attached to machinery. Against the fool in an auto the war ought to be one of extermination. It would be cheaper and pleasanter for the public to exterminate the auto fool than to permit him to continue exterminating the public.

It is a common delusion that in overcoats weight and warmth go together. The London Lancet points out the fact that not only is this not so, but within certain limits the opposite is true. The material and the weave which produce the greatest weight are also those which make good conductors of heat, and therefore poor preservers of it. The looser, lighter weaves are not only warmer than the heavy, stiff cloths, like the old-fashioned meltons and kerseys, but they permit more freedom of motion, which, in turn, produces heat. The Lancet also declares that we make a mistake in using dark cloths for our winter overcoats; that light-colored ones would at once be warmer and more cheerful in a gloomy season.

To enter into the detail of the causes that contribute to a high death rate among infants is to indict about every city in the land and all of the States for complicity in a murderous conspiracy. When a municipal legislature declines to pass any law honestly and scientifically designed to increase the purity of the milk supply, it becomes a party to this murderous conspiracy. If it fails to enact suitable building laws, it is guilty of a crime of omission. It is similarly derelict when it fails to provide for the medical inspection of school children or to compel the taking of any and all the precautions which science has devised and experience has proved to be beneficial. We may hold opinion with certain men of science, commonly designated as cranks, that disease is a crime, but we may not hope to see the people attain to universal heights of right living. But because individuals habitually and often intentionally abuse or neglect their bodies, the State is not absolved from exercising to the limit of tolerance its duty of safeguarding life and health. As it is now, the State sins as the individuals do and, presumably, because they do.

The main obstacle to an effective social control of the sale and use of firearms lies in the bourbonism of police officials, who think revolvers so much a part of the normal life of mankind that the very idea of suppressing them is set down at once for foolish idealism. Nevertheless, the more highly perfected the various kinds of life destroyers become the more important will it be for society to bring them under rigorous control. The invention of the Maxim silencer will unquestionably give impetus to the movement. The Scientific American says of the silencer, as now perfected for use on rifles, that a man could now be shot "on a crowded thoroughfare and in broad daylight without there being any evidence of smoke or report to show whence the bullet came." Doubtless in the course of time a silencer for use on pistols will be perfected, and then the possibility which now exists of untraceable assassination from a window opening or other place of concealment will be greatly extended. Already there is a bill under consideration in the New York Legislature to prohibit the manufacture or sale of the instrument except for the use of military or civic organizations, duly licensed by the State, and to punish similarly anyone who may carry it concealed on his person. Simultaneously there is an ordiance pending before the New York City board of aldermen for a detailed registration of all sales of weapons, with full information about the purchasers. This latter ordinance, however, even though adopted in an effective form, will doubtless be nullified by police neglect in administration. The time will certainly come when firearms will be chased out of civilized communities with the same diligence with which snakes are now hunted down.

THE MEASLES CANNIBAL.

Method of Vancouver Island Tribe to Drive Away Disease.

A few years ago an epidemic of measles broke out among the Indian tribes living on Vancouver Island, in British Columbia, not far from Fort Rupert, and the shamans or medicine men came to the conclusion that a cannibal sorcerer, whom they termed the "hamatsu" (measles cannibal), was slaying their childrento eat them and that he would continue to do so until he was killed.

As they could not slay a ghost in his own person they arranged a ceremony in which one of their number posed as the cannibal and was treated as they would have liked to treat the real foe. This fact of a substitute was, of course, not made public, only the medicine men knowing the truth of the matter.

Against a wall of rock was painted an imitation opening, in the center of which the "cannibal' was fastened. At the proper time, after going through various incantations, a covering was jerked away, exposing the cannibal apparently springing through the solid rock. He was promptly grasped by two of the priests, who dragged him out and rushed him through a fire which was burning in front of the place and which was surrounded by all the members of the tribe beating drums and singing at the top of their voices. By some jugglery the cannibal was got rid of, and the people were told that he had flown away through the air and would not come back.

After this ceremony had been repeated several times to put an end to other epidemics, which were only too prevalent among the Indians, it grew into a sort of annual affair, managed by the members of a secret society whose members know that the supposed "hamatsu' was only a man.—Scientific American.

Lost in a Moving Bog.

A peculiar catastrophe in the shape of a moving bog recently occurred in Galway.

No one who has not visited the scene can have any idea of its horror and misery. The district is at all times subject to floods, but when these floods are accompanied by tons upon tons of moving bog traveling at the rate of about five miles an hour the consequences cannot fail to be terrible and disastrous beyond all conception.

Unlike most of the former bog slides, there were in the present instance absolutely no premonitory signs of the dreadful upheaval, the recent heavy rains being generally regarded as the cause of the calamity. No one seems to have seen the actual bursting of the bounds within which the peat had been confined, the first intimation of what was happening being the strange and alarming sounds which roused the farmer Martin from sleep, only to find his cottage partially surrounded by the oncoming torrent of water and peat.

He succeeded in warning most of his neighbors, with the exception of one poor old widow, whose cottage was almost instantly swallowed up. Mercifully no other lives have been lost, but many families have been left homeless and destitute.—Queen.

There is nothing more uncertain than a sure thing.

HATS

THIS is the way a printer pictures a hat when he has nothing but plain rule to work with. We could show real pictures of real hats but the hats themselves look so much better that you ought to come in and see them first hand.

It's a strong line you'll find here. Hats of every shape and color. They are all good hats—we've not been able to find any better—and the prices marked on them won't scare you.

The Olympic-Leader is not in sympathy with the proposition of allowing dishonest office holders to resign and quietly drop from public scrutiny. If Mr. Nichols or Mr. Schively are innocent, exhonorate them; if guilty, they should be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. These men claimed that they are being persecuted by their enemies. So far the investigation has not tallied with their statements. Much of the testimony has been unfavorable to them. Senator Polson and others were right in demanding an investigation of the insurance department of the state. From recent developments it seems that the probe might be extended with beneficial results toward other branches of the state government. The people of the state are shocked and horrified at recent developments and demand a thorough and impartial investigation of every department of the state government against which the breath of suspicion has fallen, no matter what the cost. Turn the rascals out and put them in the pen if they deserve it.

At a meeting of the hotel and restaurant keepers of Seattle last week, a resolution was passed pledging the maintenance of present prices during the Exposition. This means that visitors to Seattle this summer will be able to to eat at the restaurants and live at the hotels at normal prices. The pledge of the gathering was secured after Director Nadeau had made an earnest speech to the assemblage, urging the need of a prompt denial of rumors that prices would be raised. The hotel and restaurant men did not seek to conceal the fact that they had seriously considered raising prices. They felt that the expense they have gone to in helping the exposition would justify them in making all they could out of it. The appeal of Mr. Nadeau and others to the public spirit and loyalty to their city finally prevailed. Seattle will establish a new record for Exposition cities, and gain much prestige. There will also be a direct gain in patronage from the northwestern states, when the fact that living is not sky high in Seattle becomes known.

Probably no more complete, artistic and finished bit of newspaper work was ever accomplished in this state than the unearthing of the peculations from the State Military Fund by former Adjutant General Hamillton, which was accomplished by the Post-Intelligencer. The P.-I. had Mr. E. D. Cowen, a man of national and world wide reputation in newspaper work, on the case for weeks, and when the story was ready for the public it was complete in every detail. At the same time the P.-I. rendered the state a distinct service and earned the prestige and influence which the great "scoop" has given it. The other large dailies in the state felt decidedly stung, for the rumor of Hamilton's fast life, and a shortage in the military fund had reached every big newspaper office, but none had followed the story to its source.

The Sedro-Wooley Courier truthfully says:

There is many a prosperous farmer, many an enterprising business man, who has been induced to locate in different counties of western Washington from the knowledge he has gained of their resources by having read the local newspaper sent him to his former home in the east. The local newspaper is the most accurate thermometer of local business conditions. The easterner looking for a location takes with a grain of salt the information conveyed to him through the medium of boom literature issued by real estate firms or commercial bodies. But he realizes that the local newspaper has its fingers constantly on the pulse of local conditions and the information it conveys is therefore more accurate and reliable than that obtained from any other source aside from personal inspection. The most effective boosting you can do, gentle reader, is to send your copy of this paper each week after you have read it to some eastern friend.

There are people in all portions of this republic who appear to see in the wonderful progress of the state of Washington something mysterious, as though the stupendous development was being accomplished by some sort of legerdemain. They declare that by no natural means could a section of country make such rapid advances in population and material wealth as has Washington during the past few years. There is absolutely no phenomena about the proposition. It is simply one of those cases of the survival of the fittest. The state of Washington is one of the richest in natural resources, having the most productive soil, the greatest forests, minerals of all kinds, such as coal, granite, and limestone, water ways, water power and climate. Being richest in all these material and natural resources, it is but natural that here should be the richest and rarest opportunities for energetic men. No, there is no mystery about the tremendous progress of this state. It is the natural, logical sequence.—Georgetown Gazette.

"Burn slashings now" is the word which is being sent to every land owner in Western Washington, and the crusade for burning off slashings during the month of May is gaining practical results. The object of the "Burn Now" campaign is to keep the sky clear of smoke during the Exposition. The state college has aided the movement by a circular which sets forth the saving of the valuable nitrates in the soil by burning over slashings while the ground is moist. Ground that is burned over in the dry season loses these fertile properties to a depth of several inches. Timbermen are aiding the movement, because it will eliminate much of the danger of bad fires later in the season. State Fire Warden Welty has issued a letter endorsing the "Burn Now" movement, and emphasizing the fact that slashings may be burned before June 1st without the formality of obtaining a permit.

Late developments at Olympia show that Governor Hay did not dispense with the services of former Adjutant General Otis M. Hamilton any too soon. Hamilton faces charges in which he is said to have falsified the records of his office and is accused of perjury and forgeries amounting to $40,000. It is the old story. He deviated from the paths of rectitude, was faithless to his trust, faithless to his family and must stand before the bar of outraged justice, charged with embezzlement and forgery.

The keeping quality of Washington apples was again demonstrated one day this week, if any such demonstration were needed, when the writer in cutting the grass on his lawn struck an apple that had fallen from the tree and lain there all winter. The apple was of the greening variety, sound and nearly perfect in every way--none the worse for having wintered out of doors.

As showing the possibilities as well as the growing demand for sea foods when the industry shall have become fully developed on the Sound, Anacortes fishermen shipped to the Seattle market during the past three months, 40 tons of crabs, 46 tons of shrimps, and 23 tons of smelt.

No thinking man, whether in favor or opposed to the movement, can afford at this time to ignore the fight now being waged all over the state by the Washington Equal Suffrage Association to bring out an intelligent and representative vote at the next general election on the proposed charter amendment giving women the right of franchise. All that the women are asking is an honest expression of opinion at the polls. They are entitled to such an expression, but such an expression can not be secured unless the electors study out for themselves the problem of woman suffrage as they would any other great problem of government. For the agitation is not local. It is world-wide and behind it are the brains of some of the best balanced men and women in this country and Europe.

Mere man is apt to become frivolous as a general rule when woman suffrage is mentioned, but after all is it such a frivolous subject? Women have, in many instances, proven themselves the intellectual superiors of men. Any decent man acknowledges that a woman is his moral superior, yet women are today much in the same position as those sterling patriots of '76, who so ably managed the Boston Tea Party to the slogan of no taxation without representation.

Mrs. Emma Smith DeVoe, state president of the Equal Suffrage Association, and generally conceded to be one of the brainiest women in Washington, says "All we ask is that when the men go to the polls to vote on our amendment, they cast a ballot against it only after they have consdered both sides of the question."

Certainly the women of the state are entitled to this much consideration as a matter of simple fair play.

Frank Hanford, president of the Tubal Cain Mining company, was an arrival today from Seattle, accompanied by Victor Tull, says the Townsend Call. President Hanford's visit is to superintend the taking of supplies and additional machinery over the trail to the mines. There has been much snow in the mountains this year and it is not known whether the trail leading to the property is in a passable condition for pack animals.

The Tubal Cain company has expended considerable money in developing its property and will continue acitve operations during the coming summer. A tunnel over 600 feet in length has been driven and it is the intention to drive this 1200 feet further, when it is hoped the main ore body will be tapped. After Mr. Hanford returns from his tour of inspection, he will be in a position to better announce the future plans of operation of his company.

In changing from Dramatic Stock to Moving Pictures and Vaudeville the Star Theatre has struck the fancy of the people if the increased attendance is anything to go by. Mr. Lord is now producing the latest and best moving pictures and illustrated songs that are on the market and has made arrangements with the Sullivan & Considine Circuit of Seattle for a number of their best people, who will be seen here from week to week during the summer. The management of the Star are giving coupons with every ticket and the holders of the greatest number of these coupons on July 3rd will be presented with a tailor made suit or dress. Continuous performance each night from 8 to 10 o'clock.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED AT TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

We, the Teachers of Clallam County, in this Twentieth Annual Session of Teachers' Institute assembled, hereby endorse the following resolutions:

Resolved: That we thank our superintendent, Miss Trumbull, for her efforts in securing the services of Prof. Chas. Timblin, Dr. E. O. Sisson, Dr. E. T. Mathes, Supt. J. M. Laphne, Thos. Geisness and A. N. Taylor and for the able manner in which she conducted this Institute.

That we thank the instructors who have by their splendid work and wholesome influence inspired enthusiasm and high ideals of education.

Thrt we extend our thanks to the Music and Civic Clubs of Port Angeles for the hearty reception accorded teachers and instructors.

That we thank the ministers of Port Angeles for their services and their sympathy with us in our efforts to promote the interests of education.

That we extend our thanks to the local teachers who have given instruction in the Institute and we express our appreciation of the contribution to the program by Mr. S. E. Stakemiller, Miss Florence Elliott, Miss Bernice Allen, Mrs. E. E. Day, Mrs. Troy, Mr. Geo. Parks, Miss Morse and Miss Alice Ball.

That we appreciate the efforts of Miss Reeves and the primary department of the Sequim schools for the extra efforts to be present for a music program on Thursday.

That we extend our thanks to Miss Russell, Miss Teague, Miss Powell, Miss Watson, Miss Roberts and Miss Babcock whose excellent practical work has proved both interesting and instructive.

That the interests of education have sustained a severe loss in the death of Mrs. Wm. Willson, ex-teacher of Clallam County and friend of education, that we extend our heartfelt symdathy to the afflicted family and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to her bereaved husband.

Mrs. Hazel O'Brien,
Irene Marsh,

This Hotel Is Peculiar.

"In a little town in the backwoods of Mississippi," remarked a traveling man, according to the Birmingham Herald, "there is a peculiar hotel. It is just like an other hotel, except in the way the rooms are named. They are not numbered, as is generally done, but each room is named for a State of the United States.

"When I stopped at the place I was assigned to a room called 'Delaware.' It was correctly named, too, for it was one of the smallest rooms in the house. A man who was occupying 'New Hampshire' made complaint to the landlord that the man in 'Maine' was drunk and boisterous and was thus keeping him awake. This seemed strange, when we recall that Maine is a prohibition State. Two men in 'Montana' were keeping up the reputation of the wild west by engaging in a noisy poker game. A big capitalist had 'New York,' which was the best room in the house. The room named for 'Alabama' is too ordinary for anything, and a farmer was occupying it the night I was there.

"It was funny to stand in the office and hear a bellboy tell the clerk that towels were wanted in 'Iowa' and that the fellow in 'North Dakota' was kicking like a steer because he had no fire! 'Be sure to call the man in "Florida" at 5 o'clock in the morning,' said one of the employes. And thus it went. This hotel is a curiosity to the traveling public. It is conducted by an eccentric old fellow, but where he conceived the idea of naming rooms after States I do not know."

Concrete Structure at Portland, Me., Which Is Well Spoken Of.

Cement Age describes a concrete bungalow at Portland, Me., in which the exterior of the house is of concrete panels. The concrete panels are but one inch in thickness, and besides being remarkably light, are strong enough to bear an immense weight. The panels are re-enforced with strips of steel wire, and in the tests applied to them they withstood the strain of three heavy men jumping up and down upon them and showed no sign of injury. They are ornamented on the outside with raised figures, scroll work, etc., from steel ceiling designs. The panels were modeled in wooden frames on a base consisting of a strip of steel ceiling, by means of which the decorative design was transferred to the cement, giving the panels an attractive appearance. The wooden frames were made of three-inch stuff and the exterior of the concrete panel comes flush with the wood, while the recess in the side which forms the interior affords two inches of air space over the entire length and width of the panel, the cement concrete being one inch thick. This is accomplished by filling the forms partially with sawdust or other material before the cement concrete is poured in, then turning the form over so that the concrete can be pressed against the steel ceiling design of the mold. After sufficient water has been poured upon the composition to insure compactness and perfect settling in the mold, the sawdust filling is removed, the interior smoothed off nicely and the completed panel is left to dry and harden.

ESKIMO SUPERIORITY.

Vilhjalmar Stefansson, in writing of his thirteen months' stay among the Eskimos, tells, in Harper's Magazine, of this great kindness to a guest who could not pay for his keep, a stranger whose purpose among them they did not know.

In an Eskimo home I have never heard an unpleasant word between a man and his wife, never seen a child punished nor an old person treated inconsiderately. The household affairs are carried on in an orderly way, and the good behavior of the children is remarked by practically every traveler.

In many things we are the superiors of the Eskimo; in a few we are his inferiors. The moral value of some of his superiority is small. He can make better garments against cold than our tailors and furriers; he can thrive in barren wastes where a New Englander would starve. But of some of his superiority the moral value is great. He has developed individual equality farther than we, he is less selfish, more helpful to his fellows, kinder to his wife, gentler to his child, more reticent about the faults of his neighbor than any but the rarest and best of our race.

When I tried to express thanks for their kindness in my fragmentary Eskimo, they were more surprised than pleased.

"Do, then, in the white man's land, some starve and shiver while others eat much and are warmly clad?"

To that question I said, "No," although I knew I was lying. I was afraid the competitive system could not be explained to them satisfactorily; neither was I, being the poorest among them, very anxious to try justifying it.

The Roosevelt Idea.

A writer in the London Times says that Theodore Roosevelt is the hero of every schoolboy in the United Kingdom. No other American except Lincoln has ever been looked up to by so many youths and young men as an inspiration and as a civic model as Mr. Roosevelt. He has a genius for inspiring people to higher ideals, to cleaner methods. His life story is one of the greatest sermons that has been preached on the American continent since Lincoln was assassinated. Mr. Roosevelt started out with the stern resolve that, let come what would, whether he succeeded or failed, whether he made friends or enemies, he would keep his record clean; he would not take chances with his good name, he would part with everything else first; he would never gamble with his reputation. He has had numerous opportunities to make a great deal of money during his public career, through graft and all sorts of dishonorable schemes, by allying himself with crooked, unscrupulous politicians, but even his worst enemies can never say of him that he took from Albany or the White House a dishonest dollar. He has always refused to be a party to any political jobbery, any underhand business. He has always fought in the open, has kept the door of his heart wide open; he has kept no secrets from the American people. He has always preferred to lose any position he was seeking, if he must get smirched in getting it. He would not touch an office or preferment unles it came to him clean, with no trace of jobbery on it.—Success Magazine.

Assuming the Responsibility.

Mrs. Malone's patience was much tried by a servant who had a habit of standing around with her mouth open. One day, as the maid waited upon the table, her mouth was open, as usual, and her mistress, giving her a severe look, said:

"Mary, your mouth is open."

"Yessum," replied Mary, "I opened it."—Success Magazine.

ARNOLD'S INDIAN REMEDIES—

Dear Sir: I have been a sufferer from Asthma, Hay Fever and also had a goitre for years. I commenced using your remedies October 28, 1908, and since then I have had no asthma attacks and not a sign of goitre. Have been able to do all my own work through the winter and, to one who has suffered agony with asthma and severe coughing every winter for many years, it is worth more than words can express.

Your remedies have proven to be all they claim to be, and I wish to express my deepest gratitude to you for the return of my health.

Food Supply of the World May Run Short About the Year 3000.

Dr. Mero, a German scientist and statistician, has ascertained by careful and ingenious calculations that for 1,000 more years the earth will produce sufficient food to feed the steadily increasing population. Not until the year 3000 will the food question become one of serious importance, according to his opinion. In the meantime, says the Brooklyn Eagle, the average man may go on hunting the almighty dollar or amusing himself according to his individual tastes, without worrying about the future.

From time to time some statistician has tried to scare his contemporaries by informing them that the earth's supply of lumber, coal, iron or gold would be exhausted in so and so many years, but it is safe to say that, excepting in local instances, during a famine in some foreign country, the question of providing sufficient food for the inhabitants of the earth has never worried the masses. Yet the question is logical and its consideration by men of science quite proper.

Dr. Mero argues that to determine when the population of the earth would reach the maximum that could be sustained by the most perfect and complete utilization of every resource of food production it would be necessary first to determine how many people the earth is able to sustain under the present agricultural conditions. Upon the basis of the figures obtained, it may easily be calculated when the fatal mark will be reached.

Ravenstein, in 1891 submitted an estimate of the productivity of the earth to the British Georgraphical Association. He estimated that, excluding the polar regions, the entire territory of the earth comprised 73,000,000 square kilometers of fertile land, 36,000,000 of prairie and 11,000,000 of desert. He assumed that one square kilometer of fertile land could sustain about 80 persons, one square kilometer of prairie land about 2 and one of desert about ½ person.

According to those figures and assuming that the population of the earth would continue to increase at the present rate of 8 per cent in every ten years the limit of population would be reached about the year 2072.

Von Fircks estimated that one square kilometer of fertile land could sustain about 100 persons, of prairie, 20, and of desert, 5, and, calculating upon the basis of an annual increase of population of but ½ of 1 per cent, he reached the conclusion that not more than 10,000,000,000 people could live on this earth.

Ravenstein based his figures upon the assumption that the countries which import foodstuffs, particularly grain, have already reached a population larger than their soil can sustain.

Dr. Mero takes issue with Ravenstein on that point. He points to the fact that, according to that theory, Germany and France, which import large quantities of grain, would have to be among the countries that do not produce enough foodstuffs to sustain their population, while Russia, which exports grain, would have to be classed among the countries producing more than they needed to supply their home demands. He denies the correctness of that theory, and contends that France and Germany import grain because their people are wealthy and can afford to eat more and a better quality of food than the Russians, who do not export grain because they have more of it than they need, but because they cannot afford to keep it, as they need money.

Wit of the Youngsters

Mother (writing)—Bobby, how many times have I told you to keep quiet? Bobby (reflectively)—Seven.

Teacher—Can any one in the class tell me what a lawsuit is? Small Boy—Yes, ma'am, I can. It's a suit worn by a policeman.

Tommy—Say, Johnny, did you ever think you would like to be a pirate when you became a man? Johnny (contemptuously)—I should say not. Pirates are played out. I want to be president of a big trust, or something of that sort.

"You know, Elsie, that 'ferment' means 'to work,'" said the teacher. "Now you may write a sentence on the blackboard containing the word 'ferment.'" After a moment's thought, Elsie wrote as follows: "In summer I love to ferment among the flowers in our garden."

A Declining Japanese Industry.

The forging of scimiter blades in Japan was once a flourishing industry, and the workers formed a close and powerful corporation. But the industry has declined for years, and now only two makers are left, Messrs. Sonkyama and Myamoto. No young Japanese has come forward to offer himself as an apprentice and the question was referred to the mikado with a view of perpetuating the industry.

The mikado has come to the rescue and has founded two scholarships of £100 to induce two lads to offer themselves for initiation into the art and mystery of making scimiter blades.—London Globe.

FILION MILL IN HOLIDAY ATTIRE

Boys Put Up Suitable Decorations in Buff and Black for Teachers' Picnic.

Last Saturday, the Filion mill would hardly have been recognized by those most familiar with the place. The teachers of Port Angeles together with a few of their friends were shown about the mill by Mr. Beam and Mr. Filion. On entering the shingle mill, they found it decorated in buff and black, combined in various ways. About twenty works of art adorned the walls of the building. The visitors felt honored that such elaborate preparations had been made for their reception. After finishing a tour of the mill, they boarded the logging train and were taken to the end of the road where they picniced until about 1:30 when the logging train again made its appearance. This time it was beautifully decorated in white. On returning to the mill, the picnicers beheld this sign "Hope." One of the teachers must have mistaken it for "Opportunity" for she seized it. The members of the party reached their homes in various ways, some walking, some riding in wood wagons and some in carriages. Everyone had a splendid time.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Beam, Mr and Mrs. Geisness, Mrs. Filion, Mrs. Hansen, Mrs. Luppen, the Misses Howard, Babcock, Chambers, Watson, McKay, Bliss, Roberts, Welton, Luppen, Myres, Stakemiller, Bayton, and Vaupell; Alice Beam, Charles and Leland Beam.

The United States government is trying to lease one of its farms in this state. The land for which it is asking bids is located at Washington Harbor, near Dungeness, in Clallam county. It is a military reservation and contains 425 acres. A considerable portion of the farm is cleared and already under cultivation. Major C. W. Kutz of the United States engineer's office is asking bids from persons who care to lease the reservation. No lease other than one for five years will be made and the reservation will not be split up. The person who leases the property will be unable to cut any of the timber, and he must state to what purpose the place will be put. Any buildings erected on the land during the term of the lease will revert to the government.—Port Townsend Call.
