JUDGE McCREDIE AS A CANDIDATE

Being a Few Opinions Hot Off the Bat by the Republican Papers of the State.

Judge McCredie, republican nominee for congress from the second congressional district, was born at Mont. Rose, Pa., April 27, 1864—at 10 o'clock Sunday morning—just in time for church, as the Judge himself puts it.

"My father was a Scotchman who came here early in life and enlisted in the 141st Pennsylvania infantry. He was killed in Prickett's charge. My mother took us to Manchester, Ia., where I went to school. I afterwards was graduated from Cornell college at Mount Vernon, Ia., in the class of 1885. I was superintendent of schools at Parkersburg, Ia., for a few years. In 1890 I graduated from the law school of Iowa state university. That fall I came to Vancouver and began the practice of law. I was prosecuting attorney from 1894 to 1896 and have since then been twice elected superior judge of the district, composed of Clarke, Cowlitz, Skamanai and Klickitat counties.

"No one was more surprised than I am at the nomination. I came to the convention only as a delegate and did not expect to be called to the bat," said Judge McCredie.

The Tacoma News is an ardent supporter of Judge McCredie. It says that the Judge "strengthens himself considerably by the statement that he doesn't own a dollar's worth of property in Portland, and by the further assertion that he was a cordial supporter of Foster in both of his campaigns.

"McCredie is a citizen of the state of Washington. He is politically unfortunate, in the eyes of a few, in having his residence in the city of Vancouver. Not that this casts reflections on Vancouver or upon him but that his home city is situated on the Columbia river, at Portland's door. Geography makes Vancouver tributary to Portland.

"But Oregon's friendliness to Vancouver, which has always been marked, is really a good thing for the state of Washington. If the election of McCredie, which is assured, will bring these states closer together, we should all be happier. If there are two states in the Union that should hang together through thick and thin, those states are Washington and Oregon. Their interests are identical. What one needs the other needs. If the congressmen and senators of these two states can form a working coalition, both will be benefited in all directions."

The Aberdeen World reads the riot act to the counties that stood by Pierce in the recent republican district convention. If these counties do not stand up and be good at the present time, they need not in the future apply for favors, says the World.

The Tacoma Tribune in a strong editorial on the political situation, says, in part, as follows:

Judge McCredie practically lives in Portland. He resides in Vancouver—a Portland suburb, reached by street car from the Oregon city—because he has to in order to sit on the superior bench of Washington. But the judge spends his spare hours at the Portland club, has all his moneyed interests in that city—owns the two base ball clubs of Portland—the Northwest league and the Coast league teams—and his natural interest and loyalty is due to the city of his choice—Portland, Oregon. Had this patent fact been made known at Olympia, it is likely that the ambition of Judge McCredie would have died a-bornin'. In the excitement of the contest the delegates forgot all but to defeat Pierce.

Had the nominee of the Olympia convention been Harmon or Finch, or any of the many men mentioned save McCredie of Portland, Tacoma and Pierce county could have and would have loyally supported the choice of the convention. But neither Tacoma nor Pierce county—nor any other county in the district—can reconcile itself to sending to congress a man whose interests are all in another state, where he is a member of the clubs and business organizations of that neighboring state, and where he would naturally throw the weight of his influence in congress.

An exchange pertinently suggests that "Oregon succeeded in getting all of the Columbia river away from Washington and now she wants to take in Washington's second congressional district.

The defeat of James M. Ashton at the late republican convention at Olympia for the nomination for representative in congress from the Second district to succeed the late Francis Cushman, puts Ashton in the running for senator to succeed United States Senator S. H. Piles, of Seattle, beyond all doubt, says a special from Tacoma.

At the same time probability of Mr. Ashton's entrance into the senatorial contest is going to hold Tacoma and Pierce county in line for McCredie. Neither county or city will bolt the nominee. This is apparent from a long article in the Tacoma Ledger this morning in which prominent republicans of the city and county declare in interviews that Pierce will line up solidly for the Clarke county candidate.

ERNEST LISTER OF TACOMA

The Democratic Candidate for Congress Well Known Thruout the State.

Ernest Lister of Tacoma was nominated by acclamation as the democratic candidate for Congress from the second district at the democratic mass convention at Olympia last Saturday. The nomination followed a caucus of Pierce county in which the vote stood 16 for Hugh C. Wallace and 17 for Lister. The nomination was left entirely to Pierce, all other counties subordinating their wishes to that of Pierce. Ernest Lister has served the people in several important capacities. He was appointed state commissoner of public institutions and a member of the state board of audit and control in 1897. He was the only salaried member of that board and organized the present system of book-keeping and vouchers used in the state institutions. He held this position from 1897 to 1901, when the law was changed to provide for three salaried members of a board of control, when he was appointed a member of that body and was its first chairman, serving until 1903, when his term expired. Since then he has been engaged in general contracting as the Lister Construction Company.

The convention adopted a platform regretting Cushman's death, demanding the use of state produced material in all federal buildings, and in the selection of a United States congressman.

It is possible that legal steps will be taken to put an effectual damper on the nomination of McCredie by applying for an injunction restraining the secretary of state from certifying the nomination, on the ground that he is ineligible for congress because he is a judge of the superior court. Section 15, Article 41 of the state constitution says:

"The judges of the superior court shall be ineligible to any other office or public employment than judicial office or employment during the term for which they have been elected."

It is claimed, however, that Judge McCredie will find his hardest work in overcoming the assertion that he is the "gentleman from Oregon" which lies in the circumstance that he is the owner of two base ball franchises in Portland.

E. Dermul was an Exposition visitor the first of the week, his third visit at the Fair. Mr. Dermul's exhibit of home grown celery at the Clallam booth has attracted the attention of all epicureans.

BOTH BOYS SAVED

Louis Boon, a leading merchant of Norway, Mich., writes: "Three bottles of Foley's Honey and Tar absolutely cured my boy of a severe cough, and a neighbor's boy, who was so ill with a cold that the doctors gave him up, was cured by taking Foley's Honey and Tar." Nothing else is as safe and certain in results. W. J. Mathewson's Drug Store.

Minor Happenings of the Week

Brazil now has 11,000 miles of railway.

It is announced at San Bernardino, Cal., that on Nov. 1 the transcontinental rate on lemons will be raised from $1 to $1.15 per 100 pounds.

Governor Fort, of New Jersey, in an address at Newark, aligned himself squarely with Governor Hughes of New York on the subject of direct primaries.

Advices to the London Daily Mail from Saragossa, dated Sept. 19, say the situation throughout Spain is disquieting. Not a day passes in Barcelona without a bomb exploding in the streets.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Ethel Herrick, daughter of Mrs. Frederick Herrick, formerly of Boston, but now of New York, to Walbridge S. Taft, Yale '07, a nephew of the President.

There was an aggregate increase of $1,190,137 in internal revenue receipts for last month as compared with the corresponding period of 1908. The August, 1909, receipts aggregated $20,284,735.

A new commercial enterprise known as the South American Fruit & Steamship Company, has been launched at Baltimore, to run steamships along both coasts of Ecuador, trading in bananas, oranges and cocoanuts.

The members of the American waterways commission arrived at Paris last week and will spend five of the nine days they will remain in France in examining the River Seine and other typical French waterways from the viewpoint of navigation.

F. Augustus Heinze pleaded not guilty in the criminal branch of the United States circuit court at New York to the solitary count left in the indictment, filed May 16 last, charging wilful misappropriation of the funds of the Mercantile National Bank.

Rumors that control of the Wabash Railroad Company is to be changed have again been revived, and it is now reported that five companies will jointly take over the Wabash, the Wabash Pittsburg Terminal Railway, and the Wheeling & Lake Erie. The purchasing companies, it is said, include the Lackawanna, the Lake Shore, the Erie, the Rock Island and one other.

PROTESTING AGAINST METHODS OF INSPECTION

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 2.—Horticulturists of Vancouver and vicinity are so thoroughly indignant at the way they have been treated by provincial government officials that they are getting up a signed protest to the department at Ottawa to protest against what they allege is wanton destruction of nursery stock consigned to them from outside points.

All ornamental nursery and greenhouse stock entering this province has to be inspected and fumigated to guard against pests which may infect the plants. The complainants allege that after this fumigation has taken place the plants are passed to the provincial department, which detains them for some time, often so long that hundreds of dollars' worth of stock rots, is spoiled or condemned.

REPORT SAYS HAY WILL ENTER SENATORIAL RACE

Portland, Oct. 2.—A special to the Oregonian from Spokane says:

Is Governor Hay planning to take up his permanent residence west of the mountains with a view to becoming a candidate for United States Senator to succeed Senator Piles, whose term expires in 1911?

The sale of the governor's home in this city is interpreted by many as being a confirmation of the report which was circulated some time ago on the coast, that Governor Hay would move to Seattle and enter the race. The property, which has been sold to Judge Twohy, of the firm of Twohy Bros., was purchased by Mr. Hay about a year ago, from W. T. Clark, of Wenatchee, for $28,000. It is understood the price paid by Judge Twohy is in the neighborhood of $40,000.

DEMOCRATS NAME LISTER CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS

Olympia, Oct. 4.—A mass convention of Democrats of the Second District met here Saturday and unanimously nominated Ernest Lister, of Tacoma, as their party candidate for Congress to succeed Francis W. Cushman. Just as soon as the nomination was made, a special committee was directed to prepare the necessary certificate to be filed with the Secretary of State, as that was the last day that nominations could be filed with that officer.

The certificate was filed about 4:30 p. m., and it was then learned that the certificate of Judge McCredie, the Republican candidate, had not been filed.

Whitman county is to vote on local option Nov. 30.

Mount Vernon is to have a sewerage system to cost $20,000.

The Great Northern is planning to build a new station at Anacortes.

The Entiat Water Power Company has its machinery on the ground and has begun its installment. The company expects to be able to furnish Wenatchee with light and power by Jan. 1, 1910.

State Oil Inspector F. A. Clark, of Everett, has deposited $1,748.66 with the State treasurer, being collections of his department for September. This is about double the collections for the same month last year.

The supreme court, in the case of the Northern Pacific against Pierce county, ordered that the railroad pay $28,208 taxes on its Tacoma property. The company claimed that it had been doubly assessed and wanted to pay but $5,641.

The new townsite of Malott, located eight miles south of Okanogan, will be placed on the market Oct. 9. The new town, owing to the proposed railroad, will witness a quick growth. Nearly every line of business will be represented from the start. Ten thousand acres of land, includingTarheel Flats, is tributary.

The secretary of the interior, according to a notice received at the Yakima land office, has withdrawn from public entry lands in townships 7, 8 and 9, range 12; township 9, range 13, near the head of the Klickitat river, because of proposed legislation affecting water power sites on the public domain.

The national forest service has started the work of reseeding about 60 acres of land in the Kaniksu national forest reserve, near Newport, Wash. The land to be reseeded was logged off last winter under government supervision and the brush cleared off and burned this spring. Expert foresters have charge of the work and white pine is being seeded.

PLAN FOR FUND FOR "UNIVERSITY PARK'.

At the last meeting of the New York State Society of Washington the question of conservation of the A.-Y.-P. grounds was strongly urged. It is the idea of the society to maintain the exposition site in the form of a permanent park in connection with the university campus.

A resolution was adopted by the society requesting the authorities to give a "University Park Day," and that the net proceeds of this day be given to the regents to help maintain the grounds in their present excellent condition. The money derived in this way can be used until legislative appropriation can be made to maintain the grounds permanently.

Boundary Survey Work Rests

Dawson, Oct. 2.—Bob Wiley and 12 men, who arrived today from the head of White river, report the international boundary survey work completed for the year. The production of the advance line was made to the glaciers of the Coast range. Probably it was not possible to go farther. Some monumenting will be completed next year in the vicinity of the White river. Hereafter most of the work will be north of the Yukon river to the Arctic coast.

Large Vineyard for Inland Empire

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 2.—The Inland Empire Vineyard Company of this city is in the field to establish the most extensive vineyards in the country. The vineyards will be near Lewiston, Idaho, and Clarkston, Wash. It is said that many parts of the Inland Empire are better adapted to grape culture than some of the famous European districts. About 2,000 acres will be planted in grapes by the company during the coming year.

BEWARE OF TRUST

PINCHOT GIVES OUT UNEQUIVOCAL STATEMENT OF POSITION.

Will Continue Fight to Conserve Water Power and Forests—Asserts that Congress Should Give Immediate Attention to Preventing Monopoly.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Unequivocally asserting that a monopoly is being formed with the object of obtaining possession of water power sites of the country, Gifford Pinchot, chief of the bureau of forestry, who has returned from an extended inspection of the West, declared remedial legislation must be enacted at the coming session of congress if this great natural resource is to be preserved to the people.

The problem of how best to prevent the nation's water sites from being gobbled up by such combinations, Mr. Pinchot predicted, will be one of the biggest issues before congress. The supposed trust is now in the formative state, Mr. Pinchot declared, and prompt action by congress is necessary to throttle it. Another big problem confronting congress will be the disposition of vast areas of coal lands in the West, principally in Alaska. It is important that congress should take prompt action on this important matter, Mr. Pinchot said, for the protection of the country's fuel supply, and also to prevent a monopoly in that product.

Emphatically Stands Pat.

Any doubt as to whether Mr. Pinchot would continue to advocate the policies for which he has fought so hard was set at rest by him today. As a result of his Western tour he is as fully determined as ever to continue his policies regarding the conservation of the country's natural resources and the great natural forest reserves. He declared President Taft is thoroughly imbued with the conservation movement, and that the people are more aroused than ever. President Taft, Mr. Pinchot said, has expressed himself in favor of a conservation commission and added that he (Pinchot) was always in favor of that suggestion.

One subject only did Mr. Pinchot decline to discuss. That related to the so-called Ballinger-Pinchot controversy over the conservation question. That he has no intention of relinquishing his position as chief forester as the result of that incident, was reiterated, when he declared emphatically, "I am not going to resign."

After declaring that "there is a water power trust certainly in the process of formation," Mr. Pinchot added:

Power Sites May Form Trust.

"In my judgment the tendency to consolidate, which is now running through all industrial enterprises, will necessarily lead to the consolidation of the water power interests exactly as it has consolidation of steel and oil interests. There has got to be legislation on this water power business. President Taft has indicated his intention of asking congress for legislation for governing, as I understand it, the disposal of water power sites on the public domain, so that the whole water power question naturally will be taken up before congress. Are we going to give these power sites in perpetuity? is a question with which congress will have to deal."

"Is it possible to head off this trust?" Mr. Pinchot was asked.

"The government probably cannot prevent formation of such a monopoly," he replied, "but it can control it. I regard this matter as one of the most important questions with which congress will have to deal."

Mr. Pinchot said he had never seen the forests in a more satisfactory condition. "The personnel of the service is of a high standard and the district plan of organization in operation since December last is in admirable condition."

Says Conservation Is Popular.

Mr. Pinchot said the recent trip of Secretary Wilson through the West had an admirable effect in fostering conservation sentiment. "It developed the fact," said he, "that the people in places where the most complaints came from are strongly in favor of conditions in the forests. Public sentiment is rapidly becoming unanimous in favor of the forest service work. Our receptions from the sale of lumber and some grazing are increasing. There has been fewer fires this year than ever, and we have them under better control."

"Have you anything to say on the question of conservation?" Mr. Pinchot was asked.

"Yes, I have," he replied. "I wish to announce that I have come back to continue my work in conservation of forestry without change in either policy."

Mr. Pinchot will remain here a few days, when he will go to St. Louis to meet President Taft and accompany him on his river trip to New Orleans.

Olympia, Oct. 5.—The state railroad commission will visit Seattle Wednesday and Thursday to make a social call upon the members of the interstate commerce commission, who will be there this week.

THE AMERICAN PATENT OFFICE'S VERY BEST YEAR

Washington, Oct. 2.—That the last fiscal year was the banner year in the history of the patent office will be shown by the forthcoming annual report of the commissioner of patents. During the twelve months there were issued 34,332 patents, or 229 more than the previous year, and far in excess of the business ever done by that branch of the public service within a single year.

The business of the patent office has increased with great regularity since 1836, when the first patent was granted. Panics have had but small effect upon the number of patents issued. Since the financial depression of 1907 there has been an increase of business in the patent office far beyond anything previously experienced, so that, although fortunes and employment may have been interfered with, there has been no decrease in the inventive activity of the people.

HARRIMAN LINES ARE BUYING MANY CARS

Chicago, Oct. 2.—Orders for equipment and power have just been placed by Harriman lines which will bring the total expenditure for this purpose during the last six months up to fully $17,000,000.

The latest order is for 1,500 steel under frame refrigerator cars, which are being constructed by the Pullman Company, and an order for 500 all-steel ballast cars. Orders have also been given which bring the Harriman lines' all-steel passenger equipment up to nearly 600 cars. Orders which are now being delivered are for 480 all-steel passenger cars, the largest order, with one possible exception, that of the Pennsylvania road, ever given.

In this connection it is stated that the Harriman lines were pioneers in the use of all-steel passenger cars in the West, and that they will hereafter use nothing in their passenger service which is not all-steel and practically indestructible.

Harriman lines are also beginning to receive the first of 5,400 freight cars and 105 locomotives ordered less than six months ago. The order for locomotives calls for 33 of the heavy Mallet compound type. These locomotives, it is claimed, will haul fully 10 per cent. more than any two of the ordinary locomotives in use.

RECORD PRICES FOR OREGON AND WASHINGTON FRUIT

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 2.—Contracts have been closed by Joseph H. Steinhardt of the firm of Steinhardt & Kelly, New York, for more than $600,000 worth of Washington and Oregon apples for Eastern and European trade, and he expects to reach the $1,000,000 mark before returning home, after looking over the orchards in central Idaho and western Montana.

Mr. Steinhardt said the prices received by the growers in the Hood river district were the highest ever paid for their fruit. His purchases aggregated more than $200,000, and he paid as high as $2.50 a box, or 5 cents a pound. He said:

"My contract with the Dumas orchard people specifies that one car of Yellow Newtowns shall be exhibited at the second national apple show in Spokane, Nov. 15 to 20, for the $1,500 prize, as the property of the Dumas orchard. It will be shipped direct to New York afterward."

COMMITTEE ENTHUSED BY RECLAMATION PROJECTS

Washington, Oct. 2. — Thoroughly pleased with the reclamation projects, members of the senate committee on irrigation, who have been on a tour of inspection in the Northwestern States, today expressed themselves as impressed with the extent of the works. After examining some of them, they said they were much in favor of a loan for reclamation purposes, recommended in President Taft's speeches.

JUDGE M'CREEDIE IS NOMINATED FOR CONGRESS

Olympia, Oct. 2.—Standing by the caucus pledge of Tuesday night, 113 of the 226 delegates, exclusive of the unseated Pacific county delegation, yesterday forenoon organized the congressional convention, elected their own chairman and committees and later yesterday afternoon nominated W. W. McCredie of Vancouver, Wash., by a vote of 123 to 103, beating Gen. James M. Ashton, of Pierce county.

DREADNOUGHTS TO HAVE TURBINE ENGINES

Washington, Oct. 5.—Both the new American Dreadnaughts, 26,000 tons displacement, for which contracts were recently awarded, will be equipped with Parsons turbine engines. This decision was reached at a conference yesterday between Secretary Meyer and Admiral Cone, chief of the bureau of yards and docks, who has just returned to the United States from an extensive tour of European shipyards.

For Universal Peace

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 5.—At the National German-American Alliance, in biennial convention yesterday, the peace committee, in setting forth the principles of the alliance with reference to the universal peace movement of the world, declared in favor of a federation of all nations, based on a mutual guarantee of their independence and possessions and against attacks of the members.

THREE MEN TO RULE

LOVETT, KRUTTSCHMIDTT AND STUBBS RUN HARRIMAN LINES.

Will Rule Together to Continue Harriman Policies—To Build About 2000 Miles of New Road in Northwest and Middle West, Also Branches in Washington.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 4.—A New York special to the Oregonian says:

Since the death of Edward H. Harriman, several conferences have been held in this city with a view to determining the future course to be pursued by the lines which constitute the Harriman system. The conferences have been attended by the heads of the two great departments into which the Harriman system is divided, namely, operation and maintenance (combined) and traffic.

Although Robert S. Lovett stands in Harriman's shoes, it is evident that the two great forces on the lines, so far as doing things are concerned, are now Julius Kruttschnitt, director of maintenance and operation, and J. C. Stubbs, director of traffic. These two men are of greater authority than presidents of railroads, and together with Mr. Lovett will form a triumvirate that will be invincible, even against the directorates of the companies which will be guided by them.

Triumvirate Pulls Together.

It can be stated upon official authority that Messrs. Lovett, Stubbs and Kruttschnitt are in the fullest harmony and sympathy and have a mutual confidence in one another's ability and a genuine friendship for one another, which will make them a team that is bound to pull together. It is such a feeling that cements and co-ordinates a working force into a homogeneous whole and keeps it doing the bidding of a master with consistent faithfulness.

The New York conferences have developed the fact that the Harriman policies are to be carried out to the letter if it lies within the triumvirate to carry them out. Even now Mr. Kruttschnitt is making a tour of the Western lines with a view to quieting any fears that may be entertained of a "shakeup" or a revolution. Rumors of radical changes, or new presidents, of going back to the individual form of operation, have been rife, as a matter of course. Mr. Kruttschnitt is assuring men in his department that so far as he can make them, affairs are to move along in the same old way, without change of policy or of methods.

E. O. McCormick, assistant traffic director, is also making a complete tour of the Western lines and is giving the same assurance officially to the men who are in the traffic department. Such trips are necessary to restore the full confidence of the staff and to allay all fears and all unrest.

Carry Out Improvement Plans.

That the Harriman policy with all its aggressiveness is to be continued is evidenced by the fact that official announcement has been made of the fact that all the vast improvement plans which Harriman had planned at the time of his death are to be carried out to the letter. These improvements in their aggregate, call for an expenditure of fully $100,000,000, and are to be undertaken with the view of entrenching more securely the Harriman lines in their present strongholds and with a view to reaching out for new territory.

There is to be no cessation of effort to acquire new fields for future tonnage. The extensions of the Union and Southern Pacific systems which have been determined upon will necessitate the construction of fully 2,000 miles of railroads. Of this mileage approximately 600 is in the territory of the Union Pacific, including 53 miles in Kansas on the Menoken line, with 60 miles in Colorado north of Denver. More than 100 miles of double tracks are now being laid through Nebraska, between Kearney and North Platte. On the Oregon Short Line 198 miles of extensions are nearing completion. In the territory of the Oregon Railroad & Navigation Company, 191 miles of new line are being graded.

Oregon and Gray's Harbor Lines.

From Centralia, Wash., between Portland and Tacoma, on the Northern Pacific, the section now being double-tracked for accommodation of traffic of the Harriman lines, a branch is being run to Gray's Harbor, a distance of 58 miles. This will ultimately run northward 100 miles to Puget Sound through one of the finest sections of forest in the world.

Lower Rates Ordered

Salem, Or., Oct. 2. — The railroad commission today issued an order declaring a reduction in the rates on grain shipments on the main and branch lines of the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company, ranging from three-quarters of a cent to 3 cents per 100 pounds, including rye, oats, barley, flaxseed, buckwheat, grain screenings, corn (common or kaffir), dried, but not including popcorn, salt, flour and mill feed, or an average reduction of about 12½ per cent.

CENTRAL OREGON EXPECTS TO DOUBLE COAST WHEAT CROP

Central Oregon will, in a few years, double the crop of the Pacific Northwest, is the belief of Theodore B. Wilcox, of the Portland Flouring Mills, says the Portland, Or., Telegram. In other words, Central Oregon will produce alone a crop equal to that now raised in Oregon and Washington. Mr. Wilcox is probably the best authority on the subject of wheat in this section of the country, owing to his business and the necessity of studying the future of exporting.

"There are about 2,500,000 acres in the Northwest devoted to wheat raising," explained Mr. Wilcox, "and with an average of 20 bushels to the acre, the crop this year would be about 50,000,000 bushels. But this season the crop does not average anywhere near 20 bushels to the acre, and I believe that the yield will be under 50,000,000.

"This can be demonstrated by the threshers. Every man, of course, says that he has a full crop, but that the others have not, but we make inquiries from 250 points in the country, and can gain a pretty good idea of the situation.

"In Central Oregon there are millions and millions of acres of land which, unless I am greatly mistaken in the nature of the soil, will be excellent for grain growing without irrigation. Out of this vast territory in Central Oregon there must be at least 2,500,000 acres available for wheat.

"This is as large a grain acreage as is now used in Oregon and Washington, and, considered 20 bushels to the acre, it is easy to see that the yield of the Northwest will be doubled by Central Oregon.

"All that Central Oregon has needed to open up the new wheat belt is a railroad, and with two lines now entering that section it will be a matter of only a short time before the country will develop. Increasing the wheat yield will not reduce prices. James J. Hill says that within six years the United States will be importing wheat.

"If Mr. Hill is correct in his prediction, wheat and flour, instead of being shipped from the Pacific Coast to the Orient, will be sent to the East, and we will be raising wheat for home consumption exclusively. With such a condition of affairs there is not much danger of prices falling through the exploitation of wheat fields in Central Oregon."

THOUSANDS OF TACOMANS GIVE WELCOME TO TAFT

Tacoma, Oct. 2.—Tens of thousands of people waited for hours this afternoon and evening along down town streets which it was known the presidential party would traverse, to see President Taft. The yacht El Primero, bearing him and his party, which was due at the wharf at 6 p. m., was an hour late, but the delay had the effect of increasing rather than diminishing the crowds. It was dark when the yacht finally hauled alongside the wharf and the presidential party came ashore. Escorted by Troop B and followed by about fifty automobiles bearing his party and a large reception committee, the president was driven to the Union Club, where he and his party dined with about forty business men of this city. The crowds thronging the streets cheered lustily as the party passed. Rope had been stretched from the wharf to the club, and policemen were stationed every few feet to keep the crowds back.

Makes Short Speech.

It required nearly an hour and a half for dinner at the club, and before starting for the armory building, where Mr. Taft spoke, he made a short speech renewing acquaintances made when he was here as secretary of war two years ago. The president and party did not reach the armory until 9:45 o'clock. The building, which holds about 12,000 people, was jammed and thousands blocked the streets in the vicinity. The members of the artillery corps, Troop B and nearly all the policemen in the city, assisted in handling the crowds.

Robert L. McCormick, Republican national committeeman, made a short address, and was followed by Mayor John W. Linck, who, in a laudatory speech, introduced the president. Mr. Taft spoke over an hour on the ship subsidy measures he has advocated in several other recent speeches. He also paid a tribute to Alaska and the greatness of its resources, and the expansion of trade relations with Oriental countries was touched on. What was especially pleasing to Tacomans was the high tribute he paid to the late Congressman Cushman. At the outset his speech bristled with humorous thrusts at which sallies the president laughed as heartily as any of his auditors.

At the close of his speech the president immediately left the hall and was driven to the depot, where his special train was awaiting him. The train pulled out for Portland at 11 p. m. The presidential party was in the city four hours.

Yakima to Set Million Trees

North Yakima, Wash., Oct. 4.—More than 1,000,000 fruit trees will be planted in Yakima Valley for the next season. Some of these trees will be planted this Fall, but the great majority will go in next Spring. The estimate is made by J. M. Brown, F. E. Thompson and N. J. Damon, who are considered the best experts in the valley. There were upwards of 1,000,000 trees planted this season, and these men believe a greater number will go in next year.

COMMISSION PLAN

PRESIDENT FAVORS PHILIPPINE METHOD FOR MONTH.

In Seattle Speech He Urges Subsidy for Ships, Declares American Vessels Handicapped by Lack of Federal Help—Would Give $8,000,000 as Starter.

Seattle, Oct. 2.—Speaking before the largest audience he has faced since his trip began—a crowd which overflowed the natural amphitheatre of the A.-Y.-P. Exposition with its seating capacity of nearly 20,000—President Taft announced that he would urge in his coming message to oongress the enactment of a ship subsidy law.

Mr. Taft declared that the country was ready to try such an experiment, and that something must be done to build up an American merchant marine.

His utterances on this subject were received with great acclaim.

When the president turned to Alaska, however, and declared that he was opposed to granting a territorial form of government to that far-off possession, the statement was received in silence.

Alaska Ideas Cheered.

As the president proceeded, however, and outlined his policy for the upbuilding of Alaska, of recommending government aid in the construction of railroads, of the plan for establishing a local government by a commission of five or more members appointed by the president and co-operating with the governor, and when he told of the great possibilities that lie in Alaska, he instantly caught the favor of his hearers and was loudly cheered.

Later in the day, when he was admitted to membership in the Arctic Brotherhood, an international organization made up of Canadians and Americans interested in the development of Alaska, the president announced that he intended to visit Alaska next summer and to go as far into the interior as time would permit, in order that he might come into contact with the people and see for himself what might best be done for their welfare.

Country Not Ready.

The president frankly told the members of the Brotherhood that he did not believe Alaska at this time is ready for self-government.

"I am as much in favor of popular government as anybody," declared the president, "but I am in favor of popular government only when the conditions exist under which popular government may be a success and work for the benefit of the people and the government-at-large. When there are limitations, growing out of various circumstances, we must take other means until popular government becomes possible, and then, of course, it is the best government in the world."

Urges Subsidy of $8,000,000.

In announcing his position with regard to a ship subsidy, President Taft declared that with the $6,000,000 to $8,000,000 earned by the government on foreign mail service each year a satisfactory system of subsidy could be inaugurated. As to the argument that a ship subsidy would be an appropriation of public moneys to private companies, the president said that a subsidy was, in principle and effect, much the same as the protective tariff system, much the same as government assistance in the development and improvement of rivers and harbors, and the reclamation of arid lands through government irrigation projects.

Not Ready for War.

If war should come at this time, President Taft declared, the United States would not have any vessels to carry coal to its fleets. And it would be doubtful, under the neutrality laws, he added, if the United States would be able to buy any foreign vessels in the emergency.

The president had an interesting and busy day, which ended with a banquet in the Washington building at the Exposition grounds. Early in the morning he motored out to the exposition grounds and his first function of the day was to review a parade of nations, in which Americans, Japanese, Filipinos, Chinese, Igorrotes and Eskimos took part. Then he spent two hours or more in going through the various buildings and exhibits. This was followed by a luncheon in the New York State building.

Initiated by Arctic Brotherhood.

The address in the amphitheater was made at 3 p. m., and immediately after the ceremonies there the President went to the Arctic Brotherhood building for the initiation ceremonies. He returned to the city for a period of rest and to dress for dinner. Returning to the fair grounds tonight, Mr. Taft viewed for the first time the wonderful illuminations, which are said to eclipse those of any previous exposition held in the country.

At the amphitheater the president witnessed a flag drill by 400 public school children, who themselves formed a living flag. He also listened to the rendition by a glee club of a new patriotic song, or anthem, "In God We Trust," written and composed by Joseph B. Gilder, of New York.

Lost in Robe of Office.

At the Arctic Brotherhood the president was elected honorary past grand arctic chief and was presented with a costly robe of office, made of purple velvet and trimmed with furs. The Brotherhood did not presume to ask the president to don the robes, but he insisted with the laughing remark: "I am not afraid to put on the robes of office; I never have been."

The only opening in the robe was at the neck, and after it had been put over the president's head things seemed to get into a tangle and the president was lost to view for two or three minutes.

PLANS FOR JUDGING AT SPOKANE APPLE SHOW

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 2. — Ren H. Rice, secretary-manager of the National Apple Show, Inc., announces that the single judge system will be carried out in making awards at the second exposition here, Nov. 15 to 20, when prizes and premiums of a total value of $25,000 will be distributed in 20 classes, free and open to the world, ranging from a full carload to a single plate. The chief prize is $1,500 in gold in the sweepstakes for carloads of commercial winter apples, which carries with it the championship of the world and the title of quality apple king of America.

It is also officially announced that in awarding prizes on all commercial exhibits, unless otherwise provided, the judges will be governed by the rules and scoring points adopted by the American Pomological Society. No protest will be allowed.

Prof. H. E. Van Deman, of Ferriday, La., secured as chief judge, advocates recognizing the commercial points of fruit, and in this he considers that the chief points should have the same relative values, as follows: Quality 20, color 20, condition 20, pack 20, uniformity 10, size 10, total 100.

The society's rules, giving quality ratings, were adopted in 1908, and there has been no revision, despite the fact that improvement has been made in certain apples, also that new varieties have come into vogue. While it is more than likely that the society will revise the quality rating at its next meeting, at present the only guide the judges have is as follows:

Apple—	Quality
Arkansas	7— 8
Askansas Black	5— 6
Bailey Sweet	7— 8
Baldwin	5— 6
Belmont (Waxen)	10
Ben Davis	4— 5
Blue Pearmain	6
Canada Baldwin	5— 6
Canada Reinette	7— 8
Carolina Beauty	7
Cox Orange Pippin	8— 9
Delicious	9—10
Fall Pippin	9
Garden Royal	10
Golden Russet (N. Y.)	5— 6
Gravenstein	8— 9
Green Newtown	8— 9
Grimes Golden	9—10
Jersey Sweet	8
Jonathan	8— 9
McIntosh	5— 6
Louise Princess	5— 6
Maiden Blush	5— 6
Maryland Maiden Blush	7— 8
Monmouth (Red-Cheek Pippin)	6— 8
Northern Spy	8— 9
Red Canada	8— 9
Rhode Island Greening	7— 8
Romanite South	6— 7
Rome Beauty	6— 7
Scott Winter	5— 7
Sierra Beauty	7— 8
Spitzenberg	10
Stayman Winesap	8— 9
Sterling (American Beauty)	7— 8
Swazy Pomme Gris	8— 9
Sweet Winesap	6— 7
Tompkins King	8— 9
Wagener	7— 8
White Pearmain	8— 9
Wealthy	6— 7
Willow Twig	5— 6
Winter Banana	8— 9
Winesap	7— 8
Wolf River	5— 6
Yellow Bell Flower	8— 9
Yellow Newtown	9—10
York Imperial	6— 7

"Prof. Van Deman will have a meeting with the associate judges before they begin their work," said Mr. Rice, "and he will propose the foregoing scorecard on commercial exhibits. With reference to values of varieties, in which the rules and scoring points of the American Pomological Society also apply, it may be stated that a number of varieties, which have been brought to a high state of perfection, are scored low, but this probably will be overcome by a liberal construction of the regulations by the judges."

POINDEXTER TO BE LEADER SAYS WISCONSIN SOLON

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 2.—"Joe Cannon will never again be speaker of the House of Representatives. Congressman Miles Poindexter is destined to be one of the foremost leaders in the lower house of congress within the next three or four years. Inside of four years the insurgents will be in control in the house and the autocracy of Joe Cannon will be at an end."

Thus did Congressman Irvine L. Lenroot, of Wisconsin, express his own personal views and voice the sentiment of the so-called "insurgent party." Lenroot arrived in Spokane last night and was the guest of honor at a luncheon.

"With respect to the new tariff schedule, I feel strongly that it is not in compliance with the pledges of the Republican party platform," he said.

Everett Postal Receipts Set Record

Everett, Oct. 2.—With the quarter closing Sept. 30, Everett postoffice receipts set a record. The largest gain in the history of the office has been made during the quarter. Last year the quarter ending with Sept. 30 gave an earning of $12,540.32, while this quarter the business amounted to $14,486.02, a gain of $1,945.70. The year's receipts for 1908 ending with the close of September were $48,090.07. Earnings for the same period this year were $57,310.23.

BONDED DEBT OF A.-Y.-P. EXPOSITION WIPED OUT

Seattle, Oct. 5.—The last payment on the exposition's $350,000 bond issue was made yesterday, when President J. E. Chilberg signed a check for $22,500 in favor of the Washington Trust Company. The principal of the bonded debt of the exposition was paid some time since and the draft given yesterday represented the interest and wiped out the debt.

Until the exposition's accounts have been balanced at midnight, October 16, the amount which will be paid to stockholders cannot be determined. President Chilberg said yesterday that the fair was in good financial condition and that a substantial payment would be made.

"The splendid crowds of Saturday and Sunday indicate to me that many persons are beginning to realize that the show will soon be over," said Mr. Chilberg. "They are taking advantage of the good weather to see the things that they had overlooked. The live stock show has proved a strong attraction and it may be a long time before the people of the Northwest will see another like it."

WILBUR WRIGHT MAKES LONG FLIGHT AT NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 5.—An aeroplane flashed past the white dome of Grant's tomb yesterday, then turning gracefully in midair, over the waters of the Hudson, shot like a falcon back to Governor's Island, ten miles away. Wilbur Wright, of Dayton, O., thus made one of the most spectacular flights in aerostatic history. Over the masses of warships Wright flew for twenty miles—ten miles up and ten miles back—remaining in the air for 33 minutes and 33 seconds and alighting at the aerodrome without mishap.

During the flight business was practically at a standstill in all that part of Manhattan from which a view of his remarkable performance was available. Harbor craft shrieked their applause, cheer after cheer swept up from the banks of the Hudson and the lower bay, for the aviator had "made good," crowning the aviation programme of the Hudson-Fulton celebration with a record.

McCreedie Not Resigning

Kalama, Oct. 5.—At the regular term of the superior court for Cowlitz county held here yesterday, Judge W. W. McCredie announced he would not hold the next term of the superior court until after the special election, and that it was not his intention to resign until after his election.

Oregon Sophomores Expelled

University of Oregon, Eugene, Oct. 5.—Four sophomores expelled from college and thirty-one suspended for two weeks is the result of some hazing which occurred over a week ago at the University of Oregon. The Oregon faculty is taking a determined stand in its endeavor to stop hazing.

Registering for South Dakota Lands

Aberdeen, S. D., Oct. 5.—Registration at all points in the opening of the Cheyenne and Standing Rock Indian reservations for the first sixteen hours indicated that this will be one of the greatest events of its kind. More than 5,000 names were recorded from midnight Sunday until 4 p. m. Monday. If this average continues more than 114,000 will have registered.

To Try Gov. Haskell Oct. 13

Ardmore, Okla., Oct. 5.—On motion of the defendants in the federal court here, the hearing of Gov. C. N. Haskell and other prominent Oklahomans, under indictment charged with fraud in the Muskogee town lot frauds, which was set for yesterday, was postponed until October 13.

Hill Denies Car Shortage

Chicago, Oct. 5.—James J. Hill, chairman of the Great Northern board, has denied that there would be a car shortage this fall for the crop movement. Mr. Hill announced plans for the construction of the Oregon trunk line to be built up the Deschutes river. How far the road would be extended he said had not been determined.

"American homes and American society are responsible for the influences that make the teacher's life a burden," said one of the speakers at the meeting of the National Educational Association in Denver. He referred especially to manners—the lack of reverence and obedience. It would probably be nearer the truth to say that both the school and the home are responsible. Neither parents nor teacher can succeed alone. There should be sympathy, understanding and co-operation.

Red and White Pickle.

Select one large or two small heads of cauliflower, break into bits. To this add one-half pint of small onions, two red peppers. Dissolve one-quarter pint of salt in sufficient water to cover vegetables. Let stand over night. Drain in morning. Heat one quart of vinegar with two tablespoonfuls of mustard until it boils, put in vegetables, boil fifteen minutes, bottle and seal.

Back of the enforced restoration to federal ownership of the lands that Western corporations are now surrendering lies the deeper issue of whether there has been penitence for the deceits practiced and the greed shown, or is it simply a case of might at last getting on the side of the right, and compelling a surrender of the "goods," without any recognition by the officials who have been caught that they have been guilty of anything save the eleventh commandment, which is, "Thou Shalt Not Be Found Out."

Don Carlos, the pretender to the throne of Spain, is dead. His claim was based on the old Salic law, which forbade the royal succession through female lines—a law which King Ferdinand VII caused to be abrogated when he failed of male issue. Except for that abrogation the grandfather of the late pretender would have acceded to the throne on King Ferdinand's death in 1833. More than one attempt has been made to overthrow the existing regime by force of arms; and if Don Carlos himself had not proudly refused to consent to a constitutional form of monarchy, he might have had the crown forty years ago. His reactionary course at that time made his cause hopeless. He leaves a son, Don Jaime, who becomes in his turn the Spanish pretender.

When the world is so wide and there is so much of rertile and unoccupied territory, why does the population insist in huddling in crowded communities and into places of misery, shame, starvation and death? Three hundred thousand Londoners live in one-room tenements with three or more occupants. The death rate of the London districts where a million of people are housed not so well as horses, is four times higher than normal. In Scotland 23 per cent of the families live in one room and in Glasgow one-third of the population are families that have no more than one room to huddle in. Conditions are no better in the smaller cities. Thirty-five per cent of the families of Kilmarnock, having only 28,000 population dwell in single room tenements. One-eighth of the total population of Scotland does not know the beauty of a two roomed home. There seems to be a strange idea that number of population dignify cities. A growing town is a great boast, though as a matter of fact the larger it grows the more sin and misery it contains and the more quality deteriorates. It is quality that counts. The most beneficial world movement that could be inaugurated would be the scattering of the populations of great cities.

The policy of barring gypsies, which the new immigration commissioner at Ellis Island is enforcing, is likely to meet with general public approval. There is no conceivable respect in which they can be a benefit to our society. While not likely to be a charge on our communities in the ordinary sense, they are suspected of being so in another. They are hardly desirable neighbors even for a short time, and it has become the custom in most communities to refuse them a place to fix their camps. Picturesque, no doubt they are, and reminders of certain phases of the days of romance and chivalry, but we measure our human accretions these days by the standard of utility, and according to that they are invariably found wanting.

Sometimes it helps and sometimes it hurts a man in public life to acquire a reputation as one who can make others laugh. It depends largely upon what manner of man he is and the way in which he starts the laugh. If his associates and the public laugh at him rather than with him, his usefulness in high station is at an end, and his prospects of advancement are blighted. But the public man with a real senes of humor, along with a proper appreciation of the proportion of things, can often accomplish more in Congress or elsewhere by a quick retort or a bright story than a colleague can by an hour of sound and solemn argument. Proctor Knott of Kentucky, "Sunset" Cox of New York, Adam Bede of Minnesota, "Private" Allen of Mississippi and Mr. Cushman of Washington, who died no long ago, are recent instances of humorists in Congress whose wit increased, rather than crippled, their influence in that body. There is much virtue in the laugh which breaks the tension of heated debate and clears the atmosphere when men, in the earnestness of their feeling, are in danger of losing their tempers. Lincoln saved many a trying situation by an apt story. The late Speaker Reed's keen wit pierced many a fallacy in the argument of an opponent, although it is to be admitted that its caustic nature occasionally left a sting behind which made its victim his enemy. The smile of President Taft, which newspaper pictures have made familiar to everybody in the country, is so infectious and so indicative of boyish spirit and the wholesome joy of living, that it has added immeasurably to his popularity. Although the public likes to laugh and likes to see the laughter-loving side developed in men of eminence, it has small use for the buffoon and the clown. The man who is a comedian and nothing more may be a success on the stump, but he will fail in public life. Unless the man who can make others laugh can also make them take him seriously, the only sphere of public life in which he can do well is that which includes the circus and the vaudeville stage.

DOLLY MADISON—ANNE ROYAL.

Lady of the White House Was Kindness Itself.

Old, queer, sharp-tongued Anne Royall, traveler, editress and interviewer, was for many years a familiar figure in the streets of Washington, trottering indomitably about her business, very poor, very persistent, often troublesome, often rebuffed, but with qualities of honesty and courage to be respected.

There is given, in the recent story of her life by Sarah Harvey Porter, a delightful glimpse of her visit to ex-President Madison and his wife. The contrast between the gracious mature beauty of charming Dolly Madison, elegant in her rustling black silk, and the funny little limping, shabby figure in antiquated skirts and ridiculous wadded bonnet, could scarcely have been enhanced.

As usual, old Anne Royal had tramped to save carriage hire; as usual her errand, probably none too welcome to her hosts, was to secure an interview and use a descriptive background. But Dolly Madison saw in the absurd, inquisitive, bespattered person before her neither the reporter nor the guy; only an aged and weary woman, who was her guest. She hurried to bring her a glass of water; then, quite simply, stooped and re-tied her loosened shoelaces and wiped the Virginia mud from the tired old feet.

It is small wonder that Mrs. Royall's clothes were queer. She was scarcely of a bent of mind frivolously to pursue the fashions, had she had the time and money; but she had neither. Her paper, The Huntress, of which she was owner, editor and chief reporter, once published conspicuously on the editorial page a notice which is perhaps unique in journalism:

"No paper will be issued from this office this week. We really must take one week once in ten years to fix up our wardrobe, which is getting shabby. Our next issue will welcome Congress."—Youth's Companion.

GIRLS OF AUSTRALIAN BUSH.

"Lady Help" Can Scrub, Wash and Iron and Play Piano.

Girls of the Australian bush—that vast virgin forest of gum trees that covers the island continent almost from end to end—are wonderfully deft and domesticated, says an exchange. There is nothing they can't do. They can scrub, iron, wash, cook, harness a horse, milk a cow or kill a fowl.

They play the piano with a wonderful touch that a Slav might envy, a velvet, passionate touch. Then can "do up" shirts and will wash and iron a frilly muslin frock in no time, then wear it with a charming grace. They passionately love books, love to steal away in solitude and lie on the grass with a novel or a book of poems. It may be quite safely said that no people in the world love poetry so much as the people in the Australian bush.

Life is simple in the bush. People arrive in a buggy or on horseback whom no one has ever seen before. They are welcomed and made at home instantly. They may after a bit mention the name of some one they know who knows these people they have just come to, but, on the other hand, they may not. Simple-mannered, kind-hearted, marvelously generous are the people in the bush.

The great trouble in the bush is the servant question. Hard as it is to get servants in Australian cities, it is far more difficult to find them in the bush. Bush girls themselves stay and work at home, where there is always much to do. High wages are paid. But thousands of bush homes are run without any other domestic servants than the cook and the lady help. The latter is an institution. She is treated exactly like one of the family. So is the governess. As for a hospital nurse, she has a social position all her own in Australia. It's quite pretty the way they tell you in the bush: "My cousin's a nurse!" just as they say in London, "My cousin's a duchess!"

FRIDAY, OCT. 8, 1909

Advocates of equal suffrage in all parts of the country are watching the contest about to be waged in this state by women for the ballot. A constitutional amendment granting suffrage to women will be submitted to the voters of the Evergreen State at the general election in 1910. To be ready for this expression, suffragists in all parts of the state are beginning to build their fences. The organization is to be extended down to the individual voting precinct, each one in charge of a chairman. The selections are now under way. Ample funds will be on hand to prosecute a through canvass and campaign. The differences which cropped out at the last state meeting have been smoothed over, so that now the suffragists are working as a harmonious whole, with great hopes for success.

We devote considerable space this week to the congressional political situation as voiced by the district press. Perhaps Gov. Hay was right when he said that the interest of the district and the state demanded a solid republican delegation in congress from Washington. Matters of great concern to the people of this state will likely come up at the coming session of congress and it is important that Washington should have a delegation in accord with the majority and the president. In no other way, than by the election of Judge McCredie, can the desired result be attained. Everyone, irrespective of party affiliations, must admit that much. The second district is overwhelmingly republican and while McCredie may lose votes in the northern part of the district because of his lack of acquaintance, and the sectional feeling, he will roll up a heavy vote in the southwest. In the last congressional election Cushman received 29,850 votes. His democratic opponent received 12,006.

IS THERE ANYTHING IN IT ?

The value of the evaporator in the development of the fruit industry is well exemplified by the press reports of the prune pack at Vancouver this year, it being estimated that 300 cars of prunes will be packed in Clarke county. The drying houses, which started up on the first of the month, are not simply private affairs conducted as a necessary adjunct to big orchards, on the plan of the separator and power churn of the small dairy, but are of a public nature the same as the big creameries, and, like them, assist materially in the development of the country. The big packing plants, which have themselves grown to keep pace with the industry they made possible, will dry from fifty to one hundred cars each, employing from fifty to seventy-five men, women and girls, the business as a whole furnishing employment for several hundred people from now till the holidays.

The prune is another fruit that does well in Clallam county, as many owners of fine trees can testify. It has been planted in nearly every garden and orchard in town and country, but usually only a tree or two of a kind in a place. There is a limit to the number of prunes, whether fresh, canned, or dried, that a family can consume, and a single tree, bearing so abundantly and unfailingly, more than supplies the demand. Besides, there is such a wide difference in color, size, texture and taste, and time of ripening, that to plant more than one tree of a kind is simply to cumber the ground. Hence it is that there is no crying need for a dryer. It is doubtful if a carload of prunes could be obtained in the whole county. And equally certain that there never will be commercial prune orchards till there is an assured market for the fruit — or rather, not a market for the fruit, for in Clarke county buyers are now contracting for the pack before the fruit has been picked, but a means of preparing the fruit for market.

There are people who will tell you the prune cannot be grown successfully here; the leaves curl up, they say, and the fruit falls off when half grown. The same people will tell you we can't raise commercial apples for the fruit is undersized and wormy. And that strawberries don't pay because they can't hold their own with the weeds. But absurd tho their statements are, they are just as logical as the man who says there is no object in building a dryer because there is no fruit, and there is no object in raising fruit because there is no dryer.

Why has not Clallam county kept pace with the other counties of Puget Sound in the matter of fruit raising? The reason is not hard to find. She has been cursed with town lot speculation. The men, the active, capable men who in most communities bend their energies to the development of the latent resources of the tributary country, have in this case devoted their entire time to the promotion of the real estate industry. Not that that industry has proven unprofitable, for it has yielded many bumper crops, but it has been too all absorbing. It has taken not only the entire energy of a number of the active men of the town, but it has, in its periodical promotion, taken all the available funds. There has been neither effort nor cash for other lines of work. In but one or two instances, notably that of the brewery, has the energy and money expended resulted in more than fleeting benefit to either town or country.

Were the proper effort made to develop the fruit industry, hundreds of acres would be planted to trees and small fruits. This is not a visionary statement, but a fact that has been proven all over the state, a fact that is again being proven at Sequim on the eastern border of the county. Would it pay? Did it pay to take up diversified farming and fine stock raising on the prairies of the Middle West when the wheat played out? Would it pay to provide a market for fruit so that the small rancher would have an additional income to assist in tiding him over with the merchant when the hay crop is short and feed high? Would it pay to create conditions that would enable the home owner in town to utilize that extra lot? Do the wages paid out to the young people by the salmon cannery help the town? Will the employment of three hundred people from now till Christmas—not to forget the other fruits that have been packed — help Vancouver? Would it pay to provide a way for the settler to get immediate returns from his first three to five acres of clearing? Would it pay to have the town an orchard of fruit trees?

There are already too many little abandoned clearings and homes near town, mute evidence to the fact that a man, unless possessed of a superb physique, cannot clear out and stock a dairy ranch and make a living elsewhere at the same time. Just so long as the town is dependent upon the shingle and dairy industries, with the uncertainties in market value of both shingles and feed; just so long as the periodical off years in the sucker harvest make close times, just that long may we expect to continue to be simply a clearing in the backwoods. The cannery and the dryer would pave the way for a large and prosperous community; upon our own efforts will our future depend.

BRYAN OCTOBER 12TH

With President Taft here and gone, the populace is waiting for the coming of whom many prefer to call "The Second Man of the Nation," William Jennings Bryan, who will speak at the Exposition October 12.

The Democratic Central Committee has the arrangements in hand and are planning to equal if not rival the reception accorded the leader of Grand Old Party's forces. Mr. Bryan was obtained with no little difficulty, and will not speak at any other place in the Northwest outside of British Columbia.

He will speak at the natural amphitheater at 2:30 in the afternoon, after being introduced by Governor Hay and Mayor Miller. In the evening there will be an old-time democratic rally, replete with red fire, drum corps, flambeau clubs and brass bands. The marchers will wear the long linen dusters and high white hats first brought out in the Hayes-Tilden campaign. After the demonstration on the grounds, a public reception will be held in the Washington State Building.

RAH RAH DAY THE LAST

For more than four months there has appeared in the list of special days the insignificant item "RahRah Day" under October 16th, the last day of the big A.-Y.-P. Exposition. Just what the officials meant was unknown. Now that the closing day of the fair is close at hand the authorities announce that "Rah Rah Day" will be one of general thanksgiving for the most successful fair ever held in any country. On that day everything in the fair grounds will be wide open and the wildest scenes of carnival will reign supreme. New Orleans has its Mardi Gras; St. Louis its Veiled Prophets; New York its New Year's Eve celebration, and the AYP Rah Rah Day will include all the best of these and more. Grotesque costumes, carloads of confetti, millions of tin horns and cow bells, steam whistles and skyrockets, will be the order of the day and night. Everybody will know everybody else and the bands will not play Wagner but "There'll be a Hot Time" and "We Won't Go Home Till Morning."

Pacific Northwest Commerce for October, gives a detailed account of the investigations made by the Japanese Commercial Experts in the Northwest during the first part of last month. Their visi s in Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, Spokane and other cities, is discussed and pictures illustrate the story in a telling way. These commissioners are now the center of attraction in the middle west and later they will reach the Atlantic coast. Everywhere, newspapers are devoting a great deal of space to them. The Chamber of Commerce magazine also prints the first of a series of articles on what American Shipping needs to rehabilitate it. This subject is of vital importance to the whole Pacific Coast and the Northwest. Canadian participation at the Exposition is discussed by Commissioner Hutchinson.

The introduction of Alaska, at the Exposition, shorn of its robes of perpetual snow and glacial ice, presents a new empire to the commercial world, and one whose strength and richness is already being felt.

The Exposition will long be remembered for its beauties of architecture, its magnificent floral features and its hundreds of other pleasing and educational features, but the benefit to the great district of Alaska from the holding of the 1909 Fair will be lasting.

Thousands of visitors came to the Exposition believing that Alaska was nothing more than a barren waste with a few gold and copper mines scattered here and there. In the Alaska building they found the exhibits of the mineral wealth of the district, the fisheries, the forests and the agricultural products. It is this same exhibit that President Taft inspected and pronounced a most comprehensive display from the North. Each year in Alaska opens to the farmer larger fields of grain and the opportunities for the future for every one are as great right now as anywhere else in the world.

We have mentioned the matter before, but in order that there may be no misunderstanding and that no man may be able to say he wasn't sufficiently advised, we repeat that a continuance of saloon domination in city affairs can have but one result and that the obliteration of the saloon. The Olympic-Leader insists on the election of councilmen who are by no possibility to be classed as saloon men. Otherwise it proposes to adopt the only alternative, and eliminate saloon domination by closing the saloons. It can be done, and we are going to see that it is done.

C. R. Kinger, the Jeweler, 1060 Virginia Ave., Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I was so weak from kidney trouble that I could hardly walk a hundred feet. Four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy cleared my complexion, cured my backache and the irregularities disappeared, and I can now attend to business every day and recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy to all sufferers, as it cured me after the doctors and other remedies had failed." Mr. and Mrs. Martin Raun were passengers on Monday's boat, returning from their honeymoon trip to their new home at Forks. Mr. Raun, who is one of western Clallam's most popular young men, was united in marriage to Mise Roneata J. Loche, late school ma'am at Beavre Prairie, last week at Vancouver, B. C. May much joy be theirs.

Mrs. E. B. Webster returned home Monday, after spending a delightful week as the guest of Dr. Cook at Sequim. The beauty of the farms and homes in the Sequim and Dungeness country is certainly a revelation to one who has never before driven through that part of the county. It is hard to realize one is really "out in the country" when coming upon some of the large modern houses that have been recently built. The well kept lawns, beautiful flowers and fine orchards all come as such a pleasant surprise, and give one a foretaste of the beautiful scene that will one day be presented along the straits, when, with irrigation ditches tapping the numerous streams, the fruit industry shall have come into its own, and the twenty mile stretch of logged-off land will be a city of beautiful homes.

Mr. Weeks is a well known abstractor of national reputation, he having equipped over twenty counties in different states and being the patentee of the Weeks Card Abstract system. Mr. Weeks is so captivated with Port Angeles that he has purchased a home here and located his family.

The Misses Albers, Miss Rhinehart, and Mr. Rice of Sequim, Mr. and Mrs. Ramalia, Dungeness, and Mrs. E. B. Webster and daughter of Port Angeles were most delightfully entertained by Mrs. Dr. Cook with a fine "roast goose dinner" on Sunday last. After full justice had been done the delicious dinner, the guests spent the remainder of the afternoon enjoying the beautiful garden and grounds surrounding the Cook home. It is certainly an ideal spot for a home and Mr. Cook knows just how to keep it so. The lawn is soft and smooth as velvet and the small groves which have been preserved in various places around the grounds add greatly to the attractiveness, while the irrigated soil produces the choicest of vegetables and fruit; the sweet corn raised by Mr. Cook is particularly fine for this country.

BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS

The Board of Commissioners at its session this week made the following levies for the state and county funds and road districts:

State general, 2.68 mills; school 2.23; military, .18; highway .9; total 5.99 mills.

County indebtedness 5. mills; current expense 5.36; funding bond interest .75; general road 1.6; bridge 1.5; school 2.36; library .01.; river improvement .4; G. A. R. .03; total 23 mills.

Road and Bridge Dist. Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 4, each 10 mills.

Inspectors and judges were appointed for the special congressional election, the official list of which will be published next week.

Bids were submitted by Louis Hahn and Woodcock & Govan on the Port Crescent road, but as there are certain claims for damages for right-of-way to be settled, as well as for other reasons, the matter was laid over.

By resolution, the Board guaranceed the state against any loss that might be incurred in securing right-of-way for the State Aid Road up Morse creek hill.

Weighed down with beautiful Rainbow and Dolly Varden trout, Lester Thompson, John Wagner and Fred Wagner, members of the Washington Athletic Club, returned Thursday night from a three weeks' hunting and fishing trip in the Olympic mountains. The party camped twenty-five miles up the Elwha river. Rainbow and Dolly Varden trout were caught in large numbers and were unusually big ones. Lester Thompson landed the prize beauty when he got a Rainbow that measured 33 and 1-2 inches and weighed close to 10 pounds. Only two of the trout caught by the youthful nimrods measured less than twelve inches, most of them being in the neighborhood of twenty-three and twenty-five inches and several going around the 30 inch mark. —P.-I.

Seattle and the Northwest will have a three day mail service from New York. The Great Northern has secured the contract, which calls for forty-seven and one-half hour service from St. Paul. The contract is for four years. The sum involved is $2,000,000, and not only will the coast be served by the first mail, but all the cities between St. Paul and Chicago will be benefitted by it. The schedule between St. Paul and Seattle will have to be kept up summer and winter, every day in the year. There is a heavy penalty attached to any tardiness in reaching the coast. The mail leaves New York on Monday night at 9 p. m. and will reach Seattle at 6 p. m. the following Friday, really making the trip from coast to coast in a little over three days.

Whatcom county claims an average yield of oats for the entire county of 118 bushels to the acre, and the Sedro-Woolley Courier says the average of Skagit county will fall little, if any, short of Whatcom, and then draws conclusions as follows: "We doubt if there is a county in any of the eastern agricultural states that can show an average yield even in the best years of more than half that amount. The land in these eastern cereal growing prairie states is worth all the way from $50 to $250 an acre. Thus with land half the price that can produce crops twice as large, the advantages of farming in this section ought not be difficult to figure out.

During one's life there are many amusing incidents which leave impressions of association with friends and neighbors. The idea of making out a check in payment of a bill and sending it through the mail without cover and with a one cent stamp attached to the face side of it could originate with but one of our citizens, who is always looking for some way of doing things out of the ordinary. Mr. R. A. Muckett sent to E. W. Merrill & Co. on Wednesday a check made out in the usual way and placed a one cent stamp on it and mailed it and Mr. Merrill received it the same as a letter.

Ten million dollars worth of bonds for completing the irrigation projects of the Northwest now under way, is what President Taft has promised to recommend to Congress. While in this part of the country last week, the President showed plainly that he had an intimate knowledge of local needs. He made it clear that he is as good a conservationist as ever lived. His praises of Secretary Ballinger of the Interior Department were convincing, for the President said that the Seattle man is one of the most valuable agents of the Federal government.

We could make clothes expressly for you here at home, but a local tailor shop today is impractical and unprofitable.

It has no labor market from which to secure desirable cutters and tailors—

It cannot afford to install a modern plant designed to reduce cost of production—

It doesn't do sufficient business to enable it to buy woolens direct from the mills—

It cannot keep abreast of metropolitan styles and workmanship.

Therefore, we send our orders for fine made-to-measure clothes to Ed. V. Price & Co., of Chicago.

We can take your measure the same way we would if running shops here, and furnish you your clothes, made as you want them, at 50% less than we could make them locally. Won't you call today?

PLAGUE RATS IN LONDON.

Precautions Taken to Prevent Epidemic in British Metropolis.

The story of how the rat is watched for the prevention or suppression of plague is told by Dr. Herbert Williams, the medical officer of health for the port of London, in his report of 1908, the London Express says.

During the year 1908, 61,521 rats were killed in the docks, and a total of 555,944 in the years 1901-1908.

Last August decomposing bodies of rats were found in the basement in the north quay of the West India docks by the inspector in charge. Dr. Williams visited the spot, selected the least decomposed rodent and sent it to Prof. Klein, of St. Bartholomew's Hospital.

With the lung juice of this rat Prof. Klein inoculated a guinea pig and a mouse. The guinea pig developed symptoms of plague and was killed. The mouse was reported to be "distinctly ill." The verdict was that the rat had died of plague.

Then the medical officer stated the facts to the managers of the London and India Docks Company. A search party hunted twice a day through every basement and warehouse on the north quay. Any dead rats were taken up with tongs and placed in a bucket of disinfecting solution, and finally burned in a furnace.

The search was through an area 900 yards long, practically in the basements, the floors of which were honeycombed with rat holes. The bodies of the dead rats were examined before being burned, and several showed signs of plague.

The mortality from plague ended about Sept. 26. The court of common council sanctioned the purchase of an apparatus for the fumigation of ships, with a view to the destruction of rats. This will be carried on a barge and towed where required.

Only one of the persons in contact with the infected rats showed any symptoms of plague. The medical officer adds that the above plague was due from among rats in the the port of London to his knowledge.

WOMAN CHOPS OFF THUMB.

Having a disdain for high heels, Mrs. Abbie Harrison, near Newark, N. J., grew incensed when she wore a pair of shoes and found the supporting leathers almost an inch higher than heels which, she believes, all women who care for their health should wear. In chopping off the heels with an ax she severed her thumb. Feeling decidedly uncomfortable in the shoes the woman decided to remove them or have them made lower. There is no cobbler near her home, and Mrs. Harrison decided to lower the heels herself. She first tried a chisel. After making little headway she thought of the chopping block and ax. At the first blow she chopped away the heel of the right foot shoe. Then the left one was placed on the block to have its fashion mark destroyed. Missing the mark at the first attempt the woman tried again. It was then that she cut off the digit.

Honest as the Day Is Long.

A somewhat elastic term that is used in speaking of our fellow men. In June, when the days are sixteen hours or thereabouts in length, it may properly be regarded as comparatively high praise. But in December, when the days have shrunk to nine hours and some minutes, it is naturally considerably less flattering. In speaking of some men, it is safest to wait until about the 21st of December to use the honest-as-the-day-is-long expression.—Judge.

Table Talk.

A story in which Webster is said to have figured: The statesman was once asked by a woman at a dinner given in his honor, how he varied in his eating and what he generally ate. "Madam," the answer ran, "I vary in eating in this respect; sometimes I eat more, but never less."

Silver Linings to Black Clouds.

"Of course I notice things," said the girl in the stocking department, "and one of the things I have noticed is that the stockings with the brightest red, blue and green spots are bought by people dressed in the deepest mourning. Yes, that's right. Funny, ain't it?"

Dispossessed?

"Pa, is ice full of germs?"

"So some say."

"Well, what becomes of the germs when the ice melts?"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Preserved Citron.

Peel the citron, remove the insides and cut the fruit into cubes. Cover with water and cook until the fruit is translucent, then skim it out, add enough sugar to the water in which it is cooked to make a rich syrup, cook for a few minutes, add the citron to it again and cook until the syrup is thick. Stir in the juice of a lemon and eat while hot.

FAMILY COUGH SYRUP

Cures Any Cough in Five Hours.
NEW PRESCRIPTION HERE.

Here is given the most effective cough prescription known to the medical world. It is a mild laxative, too, and this is what a body needs when suffering with cough and cold on the lungs. A cough or cold indicates poisons in the system, causing inflammation and congestion. Nearly all cough syrups relieve, but make the trouble worse by their constipating effects. This prescription not only relieves quickly, but it cures any cough that is curable. Get one-half ounce fluid wild cherry bark, one ounce compound essence cardiol and three ounces syrup white pine compound. Mix in a bottle. Take for acute cough or bronchitis twenty drops every half hour for four hours. Then one-half to one teaspoonful three or four times daily. Give children less according to age. A few hours' treatment will cure and heal the throat and lungs of all but consumptives. Cut this out and give it to some friend who may need it to be saved from an early death by consumption.

Mountain-climbing, always a strenuous, and frequently a dangerous, sport, offers many rich rewards on this continent to the increasing number of those who are devoted to it. A writer in the National Geographical Magazine points out that in Alaska and Canada there are several lofty peaks, rivaling those of Switzerland in magnificence, the summits of which have never been reached by civilized man. Fairweather (15,500 feet) and Crillon (15,900 feet) are reasonably accessible to tourists in Alaska, and yet it is said that no one has ever attempted to climb them. The loftiest of the Canadian Rockies, Mount Robson (13,700 feet), still awaits a conqueror, and the same is true of the highest summits of the Selkirks. The difficulties of mountain-climbing, it is true, are not always in proportion to the height attained. In the Cascade Range, for example, Mount Baker (10,827 feet) was not scaled until the tops of several of its loftier neighbors had been reached, including Mount Rainier (14,394 feet).

Frozen Peaches.

Two quarts of peaches, one quart of water and three cups of sugar. Pare, stone and mash the peaches. Add six broken peach kernels to the sugar and water and boil five minutes. Strain, and when cool add to the peaches and freeze.

That St. Louis priest who wants to give to each married woman a vote for every daughter she has and to every married man a vote for each of his sons is not likely to arouse much enthusiasm in the more fashionable districts of our great cities.

PETER WAS MOVING.

Peter, thirty-two years old, was the white horse of all work which had belonged to the Bentons ever since, thirty years ago, they had moved into the country to farm and "rest." Peter had done most of the resting, however, and his perfect health seemed to promise that he was destined to keep on resting almost indefinitely. In spite of his quiet nature, Mrs. Benton, who had grown up in town and was not accustomed to horses, regarded Peter as a fearsome animal.

When not otherwise employed, Peter moved delinerately about the yard at the end of a rope, "mowing the lawn" with his hungry mouth. It would have been safe, so far as Peter was concerned, to let him roam free, but Mrs. Benton insisted that such a course would be disastrous, and sternly forbade it.

Bob, the 6-year-old son, of whom Peter appeared to be very fond, was allowed a special privilege. Whenever the grass in the middle of the lawn was too short for even Peter to crop, Bob would lead him to the borders of the garden, and still holding him by the rope, the thirty-two-year-old horse would eat the longer and greener food.

One day, when this process was going on, Bob became interested in a butterfly, dropped the rope, and went pell-mell after it. Peter naturally kept on eating. As long as a rope was tied to his halter, he considered himself tied, just as an elephant is said to believe himself bound if only a straw is round his leg.

But Mrs. Benton, ever watchful, saw from the dining room window what had taken place. To her to have Peter loose spelled danger. It took but a second to throw up the window and cry, "Bobby! Bobby! Peter's got away from you, and he's moving!"

Uncle Allen.

"I suppose a man never begins to feel really old," said Uncle Allen Sparks, "until he happens to catch his boy in the act of shaving himself."

A Hunch.

"Tell me how I can make a hit with your father. I would die for you!"

"Well, go ahead; that would make a hit with him.—Houston Post.

A woman comes pretty near being an ideal wife if her dry goods bills are never as large as the bills for eating.

When the great city of Chicago selects a woman as the head of its public school system the world receives an impressive reminder of the splendid opportunities which have opened for women in the educational field in recent years. Moreover, as that particular woman has been teaching since 1862, it is evident that there is no "dead-line of fifty" for women any more than there is for men of the right kind.

King Edward is reported to have cleaned up about $1,000,000 in Steel common. Does Edward like lamb? He does.

It appears that the rich have not succeeded in getting possession of many of the Lincoln pennies, on which there is likely to be a stiff premium. This is one of the few times on record when being poor has been advantageous.

Was it Dolly Madison who first made ice cream? The claim has been made in her behalf, and it raises a question which ought to be settled. The world has not had so many benefactors that it can afford to forget any of them.

Restorative Treatment for Nervous Men

Coming from a source of unquestioned authority on the ailments of men it is presumed to be infallible, while the profession generally endorse the ingredients and prescribe them in many different forms of various diseases. The following formula is highly efficient in quickly restoring in nervous exhaustion, melancholia, anxiety, timidity in venturing, dizziness, heart palpitation, trembling limbs, insomnia, thinness, cold extremities, tired-all-in feeling and general inability to do those natural and rational acts upon which depends a man's success and happiness in social and every-day life.

The instructions for mixing at home secretly so that no embarrassment may be felt, are as follows: First get three ounces of syrup sarsaparilla compound and one ounce compound fluid balm-wort; mix and let stand two hours. Then add one ounce compound essence cardiol and one ounce tincture cadomene compound (not cardamom), and mix all together. The directions are to take one teaspoonful after each meal and one when retiring, until bounding health and full strength are restored. Even a few weeks will witness most wonderful results.

Astonishing nervous force and equilibrium follow the treatment, no matter how serious the case.

This contains no opiates whatever and may also be used by women who suffer with their nerves with absolute certainty of prompt and lasting benefits.

SOUR STOMACH

WILL ESTABLISH A FRUIT CANNERY

Time and again the Olympic-Leader has insisted, as it does editorially this week, that the one great need of Port Angeles, speaking only of those things which might easily be brought about by our people themselves, is the establishment of a fruit and vegetable cannery. During the past few days three or four of our local people have gone quietly to work upon the preliminaries of such an undertaking and have made sufficient progress so that they feel justified in making an announcement and soliciting the financial support of the people. We are indebted to one of the promoters of the enterprise for the following outline of their plans:

"The time is ripe and rotten ripe for the putting in of a first class cannery in Port Angeles for canning all kinds of fruits and vegetables. The land is here, the climate is here, the men are here, the money is here, all waiting to be organized. This was an off year for fruits; next year in all probality will be a bumper year. Nowhere in the world do logan, evergreen and other bush fruits yield better than they do here. Nowhere in the world will asparagus, spinach, rhubarb and green peas do better than here and these are very profitable for canning, as well as a lot of other things too numerous to mention. Of course everyone knows that our apples, pears, plums, prunes, and especially cherries do immeusely here. There are hundreds of lots in town, and any quantity of acres in the county suitable for fruit raising.

"T. H. Carter, with some others, have decided not to wait for some capitalist, but to organize a stock company with a capital stock of $10,000 and by putting the shares at a par value of $5, inducing as many as possible to take an interest in the concern. Already some have subscribed for twenty shares, some for five shares and so on. There does not appear that there will be any difficulty in raising the necessary capital this way, judging by the favorable view that our people take of the matter.

"The Puyallup, the Monroe, the Snohomish and other fruit canneries have been paying well for years. The Port Angeles and Clallam County Fruit Cannery and Fruit Growers Association will be formed up with all proper legal safeguards for all concerned and will be incorporated under the laws of the state. After the incorporation papers are received the stock books will be open and subscriptions for shares invited. No money, however, will need to be paid in until about the first of next April, as active operations will not be started until about the first of June, so the management will have plenty of time to get the plant in good shape by that time. People can now get busy properly caring for the trees and bushes they already have and setting out new ones and thus be prepared to receive in the near future, their share of the harvest that is bound to come from an institution of this kind."

THE CITY COUNCIL

The usual routine of business was taken up at council meeting last Thursday evening. The mayor declared office of city health officer vacant on grounds of T. J. Appleton, Jr., being absent from city for so long and being so near election time again and appointed Dr. D. E. McGillivray to fill the position during the balance of the term.

Council took up ordinance on tax levy for 1910 fixing levy as follows:

Current expense, districts 1 and 2, 10 mills.

Municipal bond interest, district 1, 7 mills.

Indebtedness fund, district 1, 4 mills; district 2, 2 mills.

Electric light bond indebtedness, districts 1 and 2, 3 mills.

Total levies, district 1, 24 mills; district 2, 15 mills.

The ordinance on street improvement assessment district was taken for first reading and referred to ordinance committee.

The ordinance controlling salaries of city officers for 1910, which was taken up and referred to ordinance committee, places salary of city clerk at $780, city treasurer at $300, city attorney at $250, city marshal at $720, city engineer at $5 per day while actually employed, and city superintendent of streets at $2.50 each day actually employed.

The following bills were allowed: Angeles Water Co., $4.00; P. Madsen, 2.90; G. M. Rouse, 5.25; Angeles Water Co., 25.00; Webster Pub. Co., 66.25; Pacific Fire Supply Co., 135.00; Filion Mill & Lbr. Co, 126.95.

The matter of councilmen being absent three consecutive meetings was taken up and Councilman Rouse of third ward was found to have been absent May 25, June 1 and 8, and the council declared the office vacant; they then proceeded to elect Mr. Rouse as councilman of third ward to finish out the year.

The sidewalk on Valley, between 2nd and 6th, and on south side of First, between Peabody and Lincoln was referred to street superintendent to report on repairing same.

The liquor license of House & Stuckey was ordered transferred to McDonald & Son.

The electric light committee was authorized to purchase 25 meters.

FROM THE WEST END

FORKS.

Mr. A. B. Reagan, deputy Indian agent at LaPush, and wife passed through Forks on Monday going to their new home at Net Lake, Minnesota. Mr. Reagan during his four years at the beach has had the entire approval of his superiors in the Indian service. His new appointment is a promotion, giving him the position of Indian agent. All here who have known him and his estimable wife, while regretting their departure, congratulate them on their well merited success.

POLITICAL SITUATION

Saturday being the last day in which to file declarations of candidacy for the several city offices, there are many little skirmishes taking place that would remind one of the old time political broils. There seems to be a threatening crusade between the wets and anti-wets, if certain individuals do not take to the woods and keep their fingers out of the public pie. One can hear almost any kind of rumors, and buttonholing and street conflabs are becoming frequent. A most notable meeting was held Tuesday afternoon when it was attempted to frame up a line that water could not even soak through, much less permitting any political game to get away, and as a result of this session there seems to be already many little affairs that are taking the tinge of fighting for supremacy, or to get control of the situation. If the voter will put his ear to the political rail, he can hear things that would do his heart good to get mixed up in, if only to show where the voter should stand when it comes to thinking and taking care of his own.

On the 25th day of May and 1st and 8th days of June, Mr. Rouse, the councilman of the third ward, was absent, which according to law, vacates that office, or rather the council has decreed that it "shall declare the office vacant" at the next regular meeting and elect a person to fill out the time until the next regular election, but this was not done at that time. When Mr. Rouse appeared on the 15th of June he was told that he had no seat but he made light of it, not knowing that such was the rule, and he was told that they would let it go this time. Last Tuesday evening the argument was brought up that as this councilman was absent as stated, and his friends wished to have his vote legal, the council proceeded to declare his office vacant, and immediately elected him to fill out the time until next election, thereby causing an election in the third ward this fall. "Vass iss?"

It behooves every voter in the city to get busy and register so as to be able to exercise his franchise in the round up that is to take place. Now Mr. Voter, let it not be said after it is all over that you are disgruntled, because it did not go the way you thought it ought to, but get into the fight and see what can be done to keep things going quiet. It is not right for the city to be run with turmoil or internal strife or by any one faction. Let the power be where it is for the most good to the largest number of people.

PORT ANGELES DAY

The Seattle P.-I. in speaking of Port Angeles Day at the Fair, said that Clallam county sent a representation of close to 400 residents to Seattle to celebrate her special day at the Exposition. The steamers Bellingham and Whatcom transported the throng. They were prominent about the grounds, each wearing a white badge and declaring "Your Uncle Sam Liked It," which cry arises from the fact that President Lincoln in 1862 ordered Port Angeles set aside as a government townsite.

No formal program was carried out. The joint booth of Clallam and Jefferson counties was the headquarters and here T. Corsan, the commissioner of the two counties, received them. The showing of Clallam county products are a revelation to many fair visitors. This is especially true of the vegetables and other soil products, which grow to great size.

Foley's Honey and Tar clears the air passages, stops the irritation of the throat, soothes the inflamed membranes, and the most obstinate cough disappears. Sore and inflamed lungs are healed and strengthened, and the cold is expelled from the system. Refuse any but the genuine in the yellow package. W. J. Mathewson's Drug Store.

Notice to Voters.

In pursuance to call of the Governor for a special election to elect a congressman to fill the office made vacant by the recent death of the late Congessman F. W. Cushman the registration books will be closed on the 22nd day of October in accordance with the statutes governing special elections.

Made to Measure Suits

$13.50 and Up

We can supply you man-tailored suits, made to your individual measure, for $13.50 to $45. Man-tailored skirts from $5.50 to $15, and coats from $7.50 to $25.

These prices are for man-tailored garments, with all the man-tailored effects. Each garment is made to your individual measure. An experienced fitter takes all the measurements right in our store.

The garments are made by the American Ladies Tailoring Co., Chicago, whom we represent. They are made by journeymen tailors, under the personal direction of Monsieur Kayser, one of the best known experts in this line.

180 Kinds of Cloth

We have in our store the handsome Fashion Portfolio issued by the American Ladies Tailoring Co. It shows 24 suit styles, 18 skirt styles and 12 styles of coats.

Every style is shown in large plates and in actual colors. Together they show the very cream of the fashions for fall and winter wear.

We also show 180 samples of cloth, including all the latest weaves. Any garment you select will be made to your measure in anyone of these 180 cloths. Think what an enormous variety.

Our Guarantee

We guarantee you satisfaction in fit, style, workmanship and materials. The makers are obliged to take back any garment which is not up to the mark.

These are not such garments as some get by mail, from measurements they take themselves. The garments we offer have every man-tailored effect. They are made from complete and accurate measurements. You could not get better service if you went to the tailoring shops.

Half Usual Prices

Such garments, made by a small tailor, would cost from two to three times our prices. In fact, these made-to-measure garments cost little more than ready-mades.

The reason lies in the enormous facilities of the American Ladies Tailoring Co. They make a thousand garments to the small tailor's one. Their materials are bought in quantities direct from the mills.

Please come and see this portfolio, see the cloths, and see the prices we quote on the utmost in women's clothes.
