NEW DEAL PLANNED FOR MILWAUKEE

Believed Everett Branch Will Be Extended Along Straits to Connect With Road from the South.

By the installation of a car ferry service across Puget sound from Everett to Port Ludlow, the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound railroad is now about to enter the fight for the traffic of the Olympic peninsula, according to information received in Seattle from the East, says the Seattle P.-I. A railroad line from Snoqualmie pass to Everett; car ferries from Everett to Port Ludlow and a railroad line from Port Ludlow to Port Angeles are the three steps in the strategic move by which the Milwaukee hopes to secure the business which can be worked up in the now little developed peninsula.

Execution of the plan is already well under way. The right-of-way for the line from the pass to Everett has been secured and representatives of the Milwaukee are negotiating for the right-of-way of the proposed road from Port Ludlow to Port Angeles, which was surveyed a year ago by a Milwaukee crew.

That Port Angeles will be a northern terminal of the Milwaukee's peninsular ystem is indicated by recent heavy purchases of terminal facilities at that point. Port Angeles is the first good harbor on the strait of Juan de Fuca on the way from the Pacific to the sound. It is a port of entry and a point at which the Oriental traffic could be handled. The distance from Port Angeles to Port Ludlow at the foot of Hood canal is about sixty miles; the distance by water from Port Ludlow to Everett is twenty-one miles, which could be covered by a modern car ferry in a little over an hour. The route from Everett to the pass is a direct one on a water grade and it is hoped by this system to shorten the time from the northern portion of the Olympic peninsula to the east by many hours.

In addition to the purchases of terminal facilities at Port Angeles, the Milwaukee has spent millions in buying up timber lands in that vicinity. Its holdings begin at the limits of Port Angeles and extend back to the government forest reserves.

The Milwaukee is also planning a complete belt line around the peninsula. The Seattle-Grays Harbor extension will be further extended by a line running north near the Pacific coast to the Solduck river, whose course it will follow up stream through the mountains, skirting Lake Crescent and connecting with the northern line at Port Angeles. The right-of-way for this extension has been secured nearly to Lake Crescent and the Milwaukee plans to push construction.

The belt will give the Milwaukee a good chance to get the business of the northern peninsula and also the business of the southern section. The car ferry across the sound, together with the direct route and short running time to the east are expected by the road's officials to give the Milwaukee the advantage of a quick running time and comparatively small cost of transportation for freight to and from the Olympic peninsula.

The Everett branch will also be extended northward at least as far as Bellingham.

"For many years Port Angeles and the whole west side of the Sound have anxiously awaited the construction of a railroad which would permit of the development of the resources of the Olympic peninsula. No year has passed without some railroad project being sprung or without some move being made by the great transportation lines which would indicate their intention to extend their lines to that undeveloped portion of the state; but nothing definite has materialized.

"There seems some fair assurances now that a railroad is to be actually constructed down to the cities of the Strait, incidentally opening up a considerable section of the country between here and there. It is reported that the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul will construct a line from Port Ludlow to Port Angeles, to be connected with its lines on this side of the Sound by a car ferry between Everett and Port Ludlow. This would give a practicable route to the cities of the strait.

"Sooner or later the lines from the south must be extended through the Olympic peninsula. Surveys have been run for different and rival lines between Grays Harbor and the Strait, but when anticipation has been at its highest for early construction work the rival roads have come to an agreement by which they have drawn off their forces and postpone operations into the indefinite future.

"The Milwaukee line is in the field now and is looking for new business, as well as for its share of that which is already developed. It wants the lumber trade and it is getting a share of it by running barge lines to the mills which have heretofore cut exclusively for the cargo trade because without access to the railroad lines. It would be but following up a policy already outlined if the Milwaukee should actually build the suggested line to Port Angeles, and also if it should in conjunction with the Union Pacific, construct a line through the Olympic peninsula from the south. The Union Pacific line to Grays harbor is almost completed now."

ENTERTAINMENT COURSE

First Number of Entertainment Course Will Be Given Monday, November 8th.

The Central Grand Concert Company, comprised of four musical artists, each a star in his or her particular line, will appear in the opera house next Monday night. That Mr Maximilian Dick, violinist, is a luminary who scintilates with greater brilliance than almost any other in his class is universally acknowledged. Salvos of applause greet him wherever he appears, showing the high esteem in which he is regarded by the lovers of the king of instruments, the violin. His playing is characterized by wonderful warmth of tone, color and abandon, which combined with clean technic, beautiful bowing and virile interpretation, places him at the head of the great violinists of the day.

Miss Edith Adams, violoncellist, is now regarded as among the greatest living 'cellists. She charms with the magic of her touch. Her bowing is graceful, firm and true. The intricacies of manipulation that mark the artist are hers in a pronounced degree, and while her strongest point is undoubtedly her technic, her tone is delightfully smooth and pure.

A beautiful voice, a charming personality, an artistic temperament, combine to make Miss Margery Knowles one of the most attractive and pleasing figures on the platform. Her rarest gift is a rich contralto voice of singular purity and depth; a voice of resonant quality and magnificent range, thrilling with its trumpet like tones and dramatic power.

Adolph Knaur, pianist, gives a performance both as a soloist and accompanist that is rarely equaled. His repertory is said to cover a wider range of composition than that of almost any contemporary and his familiarity with all the great works is truly surprising.

Our people are fortunate to be privileged to hear such a quartet of eminent artists. Reserved seats 75 cents each, or $1.50 for the course of three entertainments.

ONE OF FIVE.

The Milwaukee people will advertise Washington in the East. Nearly a car load of exhibits taken from the Agricultural building at the Exposition, and comprising some of the finest specimens of grains, fruits and grasses shown from Whitman, Adams, Kittitas, Clallam and Jefferson at the fair have been sent East by the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound. These will be placed on the traveling exhibit car of the Milwaukee road and taken all through the Middle West this fall and winter to advertise the country in Washington now tapped and to be tapped by the new road.

As a result of a decision handed down by the New York court of appeals, New York city will soon be able to gather in $27,000,000 of special franchise taxes which have accumulated since the enactment of the special franchise tax law in 1901.

Lovett already has been elected president of the Union Pacific, and now has assumed direct command of the Harriman lines.

A new and interesting situation has been created by the French Episcopals' declaration of war against the public schools of France, and the open attempt initiated by Archbishop Germain, of Toulouse, to rally the Catholic voters at the general elections of 1910 in support of candidates committed to the defense of church interests.

MENAGERIE PLANNED FOR WASHINGTON SPECIES

Dayton, Nov. 1.—Planning a menagerie to contain one of every animal native to Washington, W. T. Herndon and C. C. Miller, trappers, are here outfitting for a two years' hunt in the Blue mountains. They conceived the idea of such a menagerie a year ago, and since that time have captured fifteen of the forty species they say are common in the Northwest. In charge of C. M. Crum, the menagerie, which is called the Blue mountain wild animal show, was shipped last Friday to Oklahoma with the intention of giving exhibitions in New Mexico, Texas, Arizona and other Eastern states. The exhibit is expected to attract much attention in the East, and incidentally give Washington valuable advertising. During that time Herndon and Miller will ship animals East as fast as captured. In order to make the exhibit complete Messrs. Herndon and Miller will secure permission, if possible, from the state, to capture mountain sheep, antelope, caribou, elk, etc.

JUDGE LURTON MAY SUCCEED PECKHAM.

Washington, Oct. 30.—The vacancy on the bench of the Supreme Court of the United States caused by the death of Associate Justice Rufus W. Peckham is the subject of much discussion here. Well-informed prophets regard Horace H. Lurton, of Nashville, judge of the United States circuit court, as Justice Peckham's probable successor, with Solicitor General Lloyd W. Bowers, of the department of justice, as the probability for the next vacancy.

Yakima county is to have a continuous school exhibit, as good or better than the one shown by the county at the A.-Y.-P. exposition this summer. That exhibit has been installed in the county superintendent's office and is to be added to from month to month from the best work done by the pupils.

SILVER SALMON RUN IS GREATEST YET

Hoquiam, Oct. 30.—Never in the history of Grays Harbor has there been such an enormous run of silver-side salmon as has been seen in the waters of the harbor during the past week.

Friday 8,000 fish were delivered to the Hoquiam Packing Company, and for more than a week the daily catch has not fallen below 6,000.

"I have been in the business for more than fifteen years," said W. W. Kurtz, of the Hoquiam Packing Company, "and I have never before seen the equal of the run.

"The waters seem alive with fish and the catches made are something enormous. We have been running the plant to its full capacity both night and day and yet have thousands of fish stored which we have been unable to pack.

"Indications point to a great pack on Grays Harbor. The record of last year has been broken, and we have two weeks more to fish before the season closes."

New Grain Rate Saves Money.

Dayton, Oct. 30.—Over $30,000 a year will be saved to Columbia county by the new grain rate which goes into effect in Washington and Oregon on November 1, according to the estimate of grain dealers here. Dealers say not a bushel of grain has been shipped from Dayton since the new rate was announced four weeks ago. The new rate from Dayton to Puget Sound markets will be 14½, as against a former rate of 16 cents.

BALLINGER POLICY

SECRETARY STATES DEPARTMENT POSITION ON WATER RIGHTS

Denies That There Has Been Waste During His Administration or That the Department Has Disposed of Power Sites to Private Interests—Various Matters Touched Upon.

Washington, Oct. 30.—Secretary Ballinger, who has returned to Washington after an extensive tour of inspection of the public domain and interests in the Far West under the jurisdiction of his department, gave out a statement which is regarded as a declaration of his policy as to these matters.

The statement is written in third person, and takes up the various features of the department's work, devoting particular attention to the various reclamation enterprises, and especially to water power sites on the public domain.

The secretary reiterates, "without fear of contradiction," the statement hitherto made in his behalf that since his incumbency no water power sites on the public domain theretofore withdrawn have been secured by private parties, and that he has energetically made every effort, by temporary withdrawals, to segregate existing power sites on the public domain, in order to enable the congress to legislate for their more prudent disposition.

Secretary Ballinger states that during his trip "most of the principal government reclamation projects have been visited, some of them with the senate committee on irrigation. The water users and settlers upon the reclamation projects have been conferred with, as well as the government officers in the field, respecting existing projects and questions which may involve the improvement of the service and the advancement of the interests of the settlers."

Enthused Over Reclamation.

Respecting reclamation work, the studies made by the secretary have inspired him, the statement says, "with an ambition to complete existing projects as rapidly as business prudence and moneys available will permit, and he is earnestly in favor of securing authority from congress for the issuance of bonds against the reclamation funds to give the service the means whereby all existing projects can be speedily completed and necessary extensions undertaken."

The secretary declined to discuss any phase of the controversy regarding conservation policies which has been described as existing between himself and Gifford Pinchot, the government forester. He made it plain that he will deal with conservation in his annual report, to which he soon will give attention.

He declared himself in hearty accord with President Taft as to the undertaking of irrigation work only where probable feasibility warrants the expenditure of funds, and "independent of local or political considerations, 'every measure is to be adopted on the ground that it will be useful for the whole country.'"

The secretary expresses confidence that when his attitude is known, the public, both the people and congress, will be in hearty accord with the administration policies of the interior department.

To Deal Wth Mineral Deposits.

In his report Mr. Ballinger declares he will place special emphasis upon the right use and disposition of the coal, phosphate, oil and other mineral deposits, water power sites and other important natural resources of the public domain. The activities of the department, the secretary declares, will also show "an aggresive and untiring effort to prevent the illegal and improper disposition of the public domain."

Mr. Ballinger describes himself as "keenly alive to the importance of the reclamation work in restraining flood waters and protecting the great river basins of the West from disastrous floods. He made a special study of the conditions on the Colorado and Rio Grande rivers, involving the appropriation and right use of the waters within American territory before their passage into Mexico."

As regards the Imperial valley in California, which takes its irrigable waters from the Colorado river, Mr. Ballinger believes those interested in the Imperial valley, in order to obtain a permanent water supply, ultimately will have to take their waters from the Laguna dam. He says the department stands ready to do whatever it can to facilitate the establishment of a permanent supply for the people of this valley. A great deal of misunderstanding exists regarding the department's attitude, the secretary says, adding that the government has at present no control over or connection with the private companies interested in the canals and irrigation systems supplying the Imperial valley.

The condition of some of the Indian schools inspected was described by the secretary as a "disgrace to the nation." He declared some of them were nothing but mere rat traps, foul with age and unsanitary.

He is in full accord with the commissioner of Indian affairs in his attempt to overhald the field service and secure greater efficiency and a more pronounced advancement of the Indians.

The secretary is very emphatic in his commendation of the personnel of the engineers and subordinates in the reclamation service, and for the high type of construction and durability of the work on the various projects, for which they are responsible, as well as their general efficiency and integrity.

The secretary is desirous that the work shall be prosecuted with such dispatch as to enable the government to avail itself of the appropriation and beneficial use of waters in the Western states, where large undertakings may be availed of, and which, he says, are generally not within the ability of private enterprise.

GAYNOR DEFEATS HEARST OTHER ELECTION NEWS

Municipal and state elections were held over a great part of the United States yesterday. Interest in the New York City fight centered in Tammany's effort to retain control of the municipal machinery. The Tammany candidate, Judge William J. Gaynor, was elected by 70,000 over O. T. Bannard, Republican, who in turn ran well ahead of Hearst, but that was the practical extent of the Tammany victory. The fusionists won control of the board of estimate, which will have the expenditure of a billion dollars for municipal improvements within the next two years. Thus Tamamny's hold on the New York finances has been pried loose.

In San Francisco the Heney forces met their Waterloo at the hands of the Union Labor party. P. H. McCarthy, Union Labor, was elected mayor, while Charles M. Fickert, Labor-Republican, beat Heney by a plurality greater than that of McCarthy. McCarthy has announced a "liberal" policy.

In Cleveland Tom L. Johnson went down to defeat before Herman Baehr, who will be the first Republican mayor Cleveland has had in ten years. Brand Whitlock was re-elected in Toledo. In Salt Lake the Mormons were defeated in their fight for control of the city by the American party.

Massachusetts and Rhode Island have re-elected Republican mayors, while Virginia has returned a Democrat to this office.

The Democratic victory in Virginia brings Judge Mann to the office of governor. His majority apparently will be the usual one for his state.

In Pennsylvania the chief interest centered in Philadelphia, where the reform element endeavored in vain to break the power of the local Republican organization.

New Jersey elected eight members of the state senate and a full house of sixty members of the assembly. The Republicans will control both houses.

New York state elected an assembly that will show a Republican majority of about thirty-eight.

JUDGE McCREDIE CHOSEN; VERY SMALL VOTE CAST

Tacoma, Nov. 3.—Judge W. W. McCredie, of Clarke county, was yesterday elected congressman in the Southwestern Washington district to succeed the late Congressman Cushman, by a majority of at least 3,000 votes. Of the thirteen counties of the district Ernest Lister, Democratic candidate, and the only opposition worthy of the name, carried only one, Pierce. Mason county is in doubt, being claimed by Lister's managers, who, however, give no figures. McCredie carries Chehalis, Clallam, Jefferson, Clarke, Cowlitz, Klickitat, Lewis, Pacific, Skamania, Thurston and Wahkiakum, by varying majorities. Clarke county, which is McCredie's home, gives him a decisive majority of over 2,000 votes.

MILWAUKEE ROAD TO BUILD THROUGH EVERETT

Olympia, Oct. 30.—The Milwaukee road is to build through Everett. A certificate filed here with the secretary of state says that at a meeting of the trustees of the Milwaukee & Puget Sound road, held at Chicago October 25, a resolution was adopted authorizing construction of a line from the proposed road of the company in Snohomish county beginning at that line in lot 6, section 32, township 29, range 5, and running thence northerly along the Snohomish river and through the city of Everett to a point on the river in section 8, same township, in all a distance of about five miles.

Commission Makes Announcement.

Olympia, Oct. 30.— The railroad commission announces for the benefit of grain shippers that the new grain rates, effective Nov. 1, under which the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and O. R. & N. have reduced old grain rates one-eighth, do not apply to the joint rates on oats, barley, mill feed and hay ordered by the commission several years ago.

Invents Auto Tire Protector.

Hoquiam, Oct. 30.—E. P. Curry has invented a steel protector for automobile tires, for which he has been offered $5,000 by local parties. The protector consists of a thin band of steel which is fitted on the tire before it is inflated. Inflation causes the steel band to cling to the tire, thus saving it from wear. The invention has been tried for several weeks on a local machine.

BONDS FOR RIVERS

PRESIDENT REITERATES UTTERANCES IN FAVOR OF WORK.

Declares Congress Has Shamefully Neglected Rivers — Hints Government Could Do Something Along Federal Ownership Lines—Points to European Policies.

New Orleans, Nov. 1.—With President Taft declaring himself squarely in favor of a bond issue for the development of the country's inland waterways, the governors of 21 states voicing assurances of their hearty sympathy with the movement for such improvement, the first day of the Lakes to the Gulf Deep Waterways Convention was characterized by much enthusiasm.

The president began his address by having a little fun regarding the trip down the river. He said the "danger had all been run," and that the fleet had come through without the loss of a single man. Mr. Taft thanked the congressmen and the governors for having resorted to the humiliating device of land transportation at one stage of the journey.

The president declared no progress had been made in river navigation in this country in the last 40 or 45 years. The waterways of this country, Mr. Taft declared, must be used eventually to carry the bulk of heavy merchandise.

Bonds for Deep Waterways.

The president's declaration that he favored the issuance of bonds for carrying out the Ohio river improvements as one of the approved projects of inland waterways, called out a burst of applause. The Ohio river improvement will cost $63,000,000.

Mr. Taft said he also favored bonds for all other improvements, including the Mississippi, just as soon as a feasible project can be decided upon and can be shown to be necessary and justifiable. The Ohio river gives the bulk of business to the Mississippi, the president declared, and every improvement of a tributary tended to increase the value of the great water highway to the gulf.

The president told of improvements to the Mississippi on the way down and especially in protecting the banks from a further sloughing off at the outside. The engineers say they need $2,000,000 more a year to carry on this beneficial work as it ought to be carried on, and that it was a shame congress did not give it to them.

President Taft said:

"I am delighted to be present. You see we adopt in our administration the Roosevelt policies in full. We have passed through all the dangers of the navigation of the river, and they are not confined to the shoals, sandbanks and the bends, and we are here without the loss of a single man.

"But jesting aside, our coming indicates what we hope may be an epoch in the change of the character of transportation. Do not misunderstand me. I do not think that we are going to fill the bosom of the Mississippi river with barges and ocean steamers tomorrow morning. The change will come gradually. It will come with the demand that is growing for an improvement in our transportation and the cheapening of that kind of transportation, to wit: bulky merchandise that ought to be carried more cheaply than it is today.

American Rivers Neglected.

"We have seen human ingenuity developed to the highest degree of growth of our transportation and the economy of the conduct of railroads. But the apparently hopeless tack of making our rivers useful has turned public attention from them and there is not the improvement we ought to have had in the last forty years.

"Now we have reached a point where we are bound to use these streams because the amount of freight will necessitate it. In Germany and in other foreign countries, the government exercises control and says that with respect to the rates certain of them shall be such on the river that bulky merchandise must go that way. What do we do? Why, we say to the railroads: 'If you will only arrange your rates so as to compete with the river we will permit you to make them so as to drive the river out of business."

The secretary of war yesterday suggested—although he is as far from a government ownership man as possible—that perhaps it might be well to let the government experiment a bit in risking some capital to put a few lines on the river to see whether something cannot be done with that business.

"Now, in St. Louis I said that I thought that we ought to satisfy ourselves first that improvement of the rivers will make them useful, and then we ought to invest the money quickly and issue bonds for the purpose. Now, I think that we have solved the question of the navigation of the Ohio river for the purpose if improving the trade; and if you are going to make the Mississippi a valuable stream you have got to depend on the feeders to that stream, of which the Ohio is today far and away the most important.

Speedy Work Favored.

"It will cost $63,000,000. I am in favor of going ahead with that which has been determined to be useful and issue bonds and building the improvements. I want no delay in the Mississippi river improvement until the Ohio improvement is completed, but I am in favor of finding out what you ought to do in the Mississippi river succintly and knowing what it will cost before you go in and spend all your money.

"I have been delighted to read—because I had otherwise a different idea—that the Mississippi has been improved and improved greatly toward the lower end; that the Mississippi river commission, working with Louisiana and Mississippi, has developed a system of levees that are wonderful, to save a state nearly 40,000 square miles of useful and most productive land for agriucultural purposes, and that at the same time they have gone on and have discovered means of stopping the sloughing off at the bends.

Congress Should Heed.

"We are making progress in spite of the fact that the progress is not what it ought to be. The Mississippi river commission says that in order to carry on even the work they are doing, they ought to have $2,000,000 more a year and certainly congress ought to be ashamed not to give it to them.

"I am very sure that the speaker of the house is working as hard as he can to reach a just solution. The question is: 'What can you do? How much will it cost? How long will it take and what will it result in?' Now, when you address yourselves to this body of men and treat it as a mere question of transportation on a profitable basis, I have not the slightest doubt that you will reach a solution that will appeal to those who have the responsibility of voting the money for the government and that you will get what you desire in a measurable time."

Mr. Kavanaugh's opening speech was, in his own words, "a story of inaction and of niggardly appropriations, which have been fought through the rivers and harbors committee, and through congress without rhyme or reason." The whole valley was sick with congestion of traffic which only the deep waterway could relieve and they looked to the president for the execution of that great task. He cited the success of the levees as evidence that the river could be restrained to a fixed channel, forced to scour its own bed and permit the passage of deeper ships. At the same time these levees protected from waste a great garden land worth $100 to $200 an acre. Mr. Kavanaugh said:

"The people will no longer tolerate the 'pork-barrel' method of compelling government engineers to allot funds for river improvements, according to congressional districts, nor will they allow the development of the greatest of their highways to depend upon uncertain appropriations."

The speaker said that when congress convenes this winter it will have to consider the establishment of some big central bureau, probably a department of public works, to undertake the entire control of our running water.

The speaker declared that the sentiment of the Mississippi valley is so determined on this project that a congressman who would refuse to sanction it could not be returned to Washington.

WORK IS STARTED ON LAKE WASHINGTON CANAL

Seattle, Oct. 30.—Work was begun this week on the Lake Washington ship canal, which will connect the fresh and salt water harbors of Seattle. John H. McGraw, who was elected governor of this state in 1892, when construction of the canal was the issue of the state campaign, turned the first shovelful of earth and there were speeches and ceremonies. The channel will be 2,000 feet long and 100 feet wide and will cut the neck of land that separates Lake Washington and Union. It will lower Lake Washington eight feet and will put an end to Winter overflows of farming land. The present work is paid for by a state appropriation. A United States engineer supervises the work and the deepening of the drainage channel into a ship canal will be carried out by the federal government.

Car Ferry to Olympic Peninsula.

By the installation of a car ferry service across Puget Sound from Everett to Port Ludlow, the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound railroad is now about to enter the fight for the traffic of the Olympic peninsula, according to information received in Seattle from the East. A railway line from Snoqualmie pass to Everett; car ferries from Everett to Port Ludlow and a railroad line from Port Ludlow to Port Angeles are the three steps in the strategic move by which the Milwaukee hopes to secure the business which can be worked up in the now little developed peninsula.

Solomon River Shows Up Well

Nome, Oct. 30.—Latest estimates on the season's gold output for the Solomon river district places the production at $4,120,000. This is the largest ever secured from dredging operations on the river. Owing to the unusually dry season during the last summer, sluicing was prevented in all camps on Seward peninsula.

Lucania to Scrap Heap.

Liverpool, Oct. 31.—The Cunard line steamer Lucania, which has been in the transatlantic service for seventeen years, sailed on her last voyage Saturday. Her port is Swansea, where she will be broken up. The steamer was badly damaged by a fire at Liverpool on August 14 last.

Big Loss Through Chintz Bugs.

Manhattan, Kas., Oct. 30.—Declaring that the annual loss to the farmers of Kansas on account of chintz bugs is from $5,000,000 to $25,000,000, Dr. J. T. Headle, in charge of the department of entomology at the Kansas State Agricultural college, is experimenting with different methods of destroying the pest.

QUESTION OF FOOD

PRESIDENT HILL SAYS IT IS ONE OF OUR FUTURE PROBLEMS

Empire Builder Again Points to Time When America Will Be Wheat Importer—Pleads for Less Soil Waste, Better Cultivation, Crop Rotation to Avert Poverty.

In the World's Work for November, James J. Hill, of the Great Northern railway, has the first of a series of articles on "Highways of Progress." This article deals with the wheat question—"What We Must Do to Be Fed." Mr. Hill pleads for better farming. Following are extracts from the article:

"When the United States shall have from 150,000,000 to 200,000,000 people, they must be employed; they must earn a living. How will their occupations and products stand in relation to one another? Will there be mutual relation to one another? Will there be mutual internal support, or mutual destruction and decay? Who will employ these millions?

"While we are spending great sums to transform worthless lands into orchards and gardens by the work of the reclamation service, we will retain as to other areas the land laws under which for so many years the great heritage of the people has been passing so largely into unworthy hands.

"For the sake of our national future, for the sake of the coming millions who will be helpless unless each can be furnished with a piece of tillable land as a defense against misfortune, we shall see that the speculative abuses which these laws have fostered are brought to an end. It should not be possible to obtain public land of any kind anywhere in the United States henceforth except after complying with all the terms of the homestead law.

"If I could have my way, I should build a couple of warships a year less. Perhaps one would do. I would take that $5,000,000 or $6,000,000 a year and start at least one thousand agricultural schools in the United States at $5,000 a year each, in the shape of model farms. This model farm would be simply a tract of land conforming in size, soil treatment, crop selection and rotation and methods of cultivation to modern agricultural methods. Its purpose would be to furnish to all its neighborhood a working model for common instruction.

"The experiment would cost but a fraction of the amount sometimes given freely for more questionable purposes.

"It is as well assured as any future event can be that the population of the United States will be 200,000,000 by about the middle of the present century, or in less than fifty years."

Mr. Hill then goes on to show that, without a decline of the standard of living, it will require, without exporting any, a total annual production of 1,300,000,000 bushels of wheat to feed such a multitude. Then he asks:

"Where in the whole world is there a surplus of 400,000,000 bushels? We ourselves furnished the great surplus in the past. Canada is now rapidly approaching us, and so is Argentina. But with the present rate of immigration into the Canadian Northwest, and with a rapid increase of population throughout the Dominion, it will not be long before they need 100,000,000 bushels for their own use. They may be able to sell 150,000,000 or even 200,000,000 bushels, and they are close to our markets, but all they could give would not furnish us the 400,000,000 bushels we must have. Manchuria will eventually produce much wheat, but its development will probably no more than supply, if it does not fall below, the increasing demand of China and Japan."

Home demand, he points out, has grown 80 per cent. faster than supply.

Disgraceful Farming Record.

"I have stated the national problem in terms of wheat for the sake of clearness; its solution admits of similar statement. The average wheat yield per acre in the United States in 1907 was fourteen bushels. The average for the last ten years is 13.88. That is, in 1907 it required 45,211,000 acres to produce the 634,087,000 bushels that we raised. It is a disgraceful record.

"About a century ago this was the average production per acre of Great Britain. After the appointment of a royal commission and a campaign for better methods of cultivation begun over a hundred years ago, the fields of the united kingdom today, tilled for a thousand years, in a climate whose excessive moisture is unfavorable to the wheat grower, yield over thirty-two bushels of wheat per acre. Suppose that the United States produced twenty-eight bushels, or double its present showing, it would have added 634,000,000 bushels to our product last year.

"Here we perceive an answer to the question that the future asks. Here we see how the 200,000,000 people of about the year 1950 are to be fed. Here we see where the money will come from for our national support. It must be earned by and paid to the farmers of this country. But that implies a kind of agriculture differing greatly from that which now prevails.

"Let us set these simple principles of the new method out again in order:

What Is Needed.

"First. The farmer must cultivate no more land than he can till thoroughly. With less labor he will get more results. Official statistics show that the net profit from one crop of twenty bushels of wheat to the acre is as great as that from two to sixteen, after original cost of production has been paid.

"Second. There must be rotation of crops. Ten years of single cropping will pretty nearly wear out any but the richest soil. A proper three or five-year rotation of crops actually enriches the land.

"Third. There must be soil renovation by fertilizing; and the best fertilizer is that provided by nature herself—barnyard manure."

NEW YORK CENTRAL TO SPEND MILLIONS

New York, Oct. 30.—President W. C. Brown of the New York Central & Hudson River railway, announces that the management had entered upon a campaign of extraordinary expenditures to meet extraordinary traffic demands.

The company had placed contracts in the last few days, he said, for $25,000,000 worth of new locomotives, passenger and freight cars, and intends to spend $60,000,000 more—$85,000,000 in all—in reducing grades, straightening curves and laying new rails, exclusive of $50,000,000 terminal improvements in New York.

"The traffic records for the month of September and October up to date have exceeded anything in the company's history," he said. "The previous high-water mark was for the first three-quarters of 1907, just before the panic.

"Every available car and engine on the system is in service. My latest report shows that 94 per cent. of our freight cars are in use."

GREAT NORTHERN STEALS MARCH ON MILWAUKEE.

Spokane, Oct. 30.—To prevent the Spokane & Inland Electric railway system from passing into the control of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, the Hill interests have bought 60 per cent. of the common stock. The actual buyer is the Northwest Improvement Company, the holding company of the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific railroads.

The Spokane & Inland is capitalized for $10,000,000 preferred and $10,000,000 common stock. Practically all of the common is issued, while over half of the preferred stock is still in the treasury.

About six weeks ago the company was negotiating for the sale of its entire system to the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, a deal which Hill did not look upon with favor, hence his action in acquiring control of the property for himself.

Hill already had a large interest in the system, the records at Olympia showing that the Great Northern owned $1,083,350 preferred stock and $2,157,350 common. This would mean that Hill owned 21,000 shares of the common, and his recent purchase of 39,000 more gives him control.

The Spokane & Inland has a total of 390 miles in operation, through a rich section of territory adjacent to Spokane. It is said official announcement of the new control will soon be made.

ROAD PLANNED FROM SEATTLE TO MT. RAINIER

Seattle, Oct. 30.—The route of the second highway to the National Park and Mt. Rainier has been determined. It will approach the park from the north direct from Seattle. Major C. W. Kutz, U. S. A., corps of engineers, in charge, said that this highway, when completed, would be the most elaborate in the development of the great thoroughfares into the park. After entering the park and reaching an elevation of about 5,600 feet, it will turn west and skirt all of the numerous glaciers, until it reaches the southern side of Mt. Rainier, at a point not far from the Camp of the Clouds, where it will connect with the present road from Tacoma.

"The plans for the improvement of the park," said Major Kutz, "contemplate a road all around Mt. Rainier at about snow line. The road from Seattle will enter the park along the stream flowing from North Mowich glacier. The road will be constructed as rapidly as the congressional appropriation will permit. The road from Tacoma will be completed next spring to the Camp of the Clouds, the only gaps now being at two points requiring bridges. These will be constructed before travel begins next spring. The work for the season was completed on October 15. We hope for an appropriation to widen the road at dangerous places. This is the first road to reach a glacier, the Nisqually.

"Under rules for the control of travel this is the only national park in which automobiles may enter at any time. The many unique features of this park give it, in many respects, unequaled attractions among all the national parks."

STILL ARGUING OVER AN ORDER MADE SIX YEARS AGO.

St. Louis, Oct. 30.—Lengthy arguments in the suit of fifty-nine Western and Southwestern railroads to restrain the Interstate Commerce Commission from enforcing its order prohibiting an advance in freight rates on cattle, has ended here. The case is the outgrowth of an advance of $6 a carload made in 1903.

A Winnipeg correspondent of the Minneapolis Journal says:

It has been semi-officially announced thtat the Canadian government will start work on the construction of the railway to Hudson bay this fall. The surveys are completed for the first section and field notes have been secured that are so copious that the line could be built from these for the whole distance.

The route is a comparatively easy one for construction purposes and will open up a vast district rich in agricultural lands, minerals and timber. The line is to be a government-owned affair and will be operated by the government, but all companies so desiring will be allowed running rights on application.

The Northern Pacific and the Great Northern are building with the intention of connecting with Le Pas and the Canadian Northern already has steel laid down to that point. It is more than probable that the Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk Pacific will, without delay, build to Le Pas, as they could scarcely afford to allow other lines to "scoop" the European trade from them, the bulk of which will more than likely be handled by the Hudson bay road.

The Hudson bay is open for navigation at least six months in the year. According to the reports of the Canadian geological department, by using ice-breakers it could be kept open much longer. The Hudson bay route means a saving of 10 to 25 cents a bushel on wheat shipments to Europe, according to the distance of the point of shipment from Fort Churchill.

This saving in freight would be the result of the cheapness of water freight rates as compared with railroad rates.

DR. C. W. ELIOT HEADS CONSERVATION LEAGUE.

New York, Oct. 30.—Nation-wide in its scope and backed with the enthusiastic endorsement of President Taft, a systematic movement to appeal to the people of the United States for concerted action in preserving the natural resources of the country was launched here.

The National Conservation Association, with officers here and in Washington, will carry on the proposed campaign under the leadership of Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard university.

The association is to advocate administrative measures by the state and federal governments of the conservation principles adopted by the governors of the United States at their conference with President Roosevelt in May, 1908. The association includes among its officers and men some of the most prominent men of affairs in the country. The officers are: President, Dr. Charles W. Eliot, of Cambridge, Mass.; vice-president, Walter L. Fisher, of Chicago; secretary, Thos. R. Shipp, of Indianapolis, Ind.

Among the most important measures advocated by the association in the general conservation scheme, which includes the forests, waters, lands and minerals, is that relating to water-power rights.

The association also declares that it desires to further all legislation designed to diminish sickness, prevent accidents and premature deaths, and increase the comfort and joy of American life, believing that humane efficiency, health and happiness are natural resources as important as forests, waters, lands and minerals.

AUTO'S RESPONSIBILITY FOR FRIGHT OF TEAMS.

Olympia, Oct. 30.—It is all right for drivers of teams to hold a loose rein but auto drivers in crowded streets must not run at 25 miles an hour and blow the horn just as they whizz past a wagon, declares the supreme court in the Tacoma damage suit of A. Grant against John D. Armstrong and the Bell Fuel Company. Grant was riding in a wagon when Armstrong's auto frightened the fuel company's team, which latter ran into Grant's rig, breaking Grant's right leg, knocking out four of his teeth and doing him other injury. He sued both auto and team owner, and the jury decided against him. The Pierce county court then dismissed the case as to the fuel company and granted a new trial against the auto owner. This ruling the supreme court now affirms.

PROSECUTION BARRED BY NEW MEDICINAL LAW

Olympia, Oct. 30.—Prosecution for practicing medicine in violation of the old laws is barred by the new medical license law, according to the decision rendered by the state supreme court Friday in the case of the state against William Hanover. He was tried last April and convicted of having practiced medicine at Seattle in October, 1908, without the required license.

The new law passed last season repealed the old law, says the court, and there was no saving clause, so the conviction of Hanover is set aside and he is given his liberty.

Another Subway for New York.

New York, Oct. 30.—The judicial determination of New York City's debt limit—the court of appeals having recently found that the city had more than $50,000,000 borrowing capacity—resulted Friday in action by the board of estimates, which will result in further subway extension. The board voted $15,000,000 for construction of the Fourth avenue subway.

The word "lobbyist" has generally been used, with good reason, as a term of reproach, yet it is well to remember that one may have commendable reasons for approaching legislators and trying to influence their deeds. In Washington, during the last session of Congress, a woman was spoken of as "one of the most aggressive lobbyists ever seen at the Capital." She was acting, however, merely as the representative of California clubwomen, and her mission, happily successful, was to help insure the preservation of the giant redwoods, which are one of the glories of the state.

Meat has been officially introduced as a part of the Japanese army diet, and, as a result, the Japanese board of agriculture has sent a commission abroad to investigate and take steps for introducing the breeding of cattle in Japan. One reason for the change of diet is to avert a repetition of the scourge of beri-beri which sapped the strength of the army during the Russian war, and was said to have been due to the rice diet, and another purpose is to add to the stature of the race by a general introduction of meat eating. Here in the Occident there is an increasing conviction that the meat diet has its penalties as well as its benefits.

A recent visitor to one of the largest of American cities stated that it was not the subways nor the tall buildings that impressed him so much, as the great number of prosperous, well-kept, good-looking old men. "They are," he said, "seen on the streets by the thousand, carefully dressed, leisurely in movement, yet apparently actively concerned with affairs. It is a stronger indication to me of the accumulated wealth, of the established success of the city, than anything else I have seen." These old men are splendid specimens. The game of life interests them and they have the good sense to keep actively employed in it rather than to confine themselves to their homes or to eat their hearts out in their own inactivity. Lowell said of Emerson that he "has that privilege of soul which abolishes the calendar and presents him to us always the unwasted contemporary of his own prime." Whitman foresaw for America a race "of splendid and savage old men." We are accustomed to hear "the hurry of business life" decried and American ideals of life unfavorably contrasted with European. But the results in many cases are not so bad, after all. Look at our splendid and effective old men.

Thus goes the old familiar song: "How dear to my heart are the scenes of my childhood." On second thought, however, one may interpose an exception or two. Let the memory go back to the "parlor." In the recollections of childhood it does not figure as one of the popular home institutions. There was something sacrosanct about it that did not appeal to boys at least, and the girls didn't seem to give it much appreciation until Horace and Arthur accumulated sufficient courage to inaugurate the custom of calling around on Sunday afternoons, sitting on those frail and artistic Louis XIV. chairs and assuming the joyful expression of slaves on the block while passing stereotyped compliments upon photographs in the family album, many of which pictured numerous freaks of the genealogical tree. Ed Howe, in his Atchison Globe, quoting an architectural authority, says that the American parlor, as an institution of the home, or adjacent thereto, is passing, adding: "That word 'adjacent' is used advisedly, and with a distinct recollection of some parlors all have seen. In the house they were, of course, but they were far enough from the home; perhaps adjacent is a little too close, since they remained a dungeon except on grand occasions like funerals, or weddings, or entertaining the presiding elder. So the parlor's doom will leave no aching void. It was something in the void itself, when most of an institution; devoid at least of comfort or cheer, of sunshine or fresh air. And the chairs ranged about in such excellent order, added to the somber light that filtered through shades and shutter which strove to shut it out, made of it a nice, grim death chamber, which purpose it served frequently, and better than the others, being better suited to the purpose."

"Yours is a noble task. Now, when all nature is sear and disconsolate, you are looking forward to the coming season of sunshine and flowers, and are doing what you may to beautify and gladden the earth."

The main course at the dinner was named as woodcock, and the guests remarked how small and tender they were.

It was noticed that Senator Catlin did not seem to eat much of his, and to-day the guests learned why, for, as a joke, he had them served with common sparrow instead of woodcock.—Wilkesbarre dispatch to New York American.

BIG CAVES IN LAVA BEDS.

The Modoc lava beds in California, near the Klamath County line, long a place of historic as well as scenic interest, have grown more prominent lately from reason of new discoveries, especially as to the caves, of which there are a great many in this region, all among lava beds of the ruggedest description, says the Klamath Falls correspondence of the Portland Oregonian.

As one traverses Tulu Lake, the southern margin of which rests on the lava field, about forty extinct volcanoes can be counted in the region of the lake. Many of these are weathered and ancient, covered with shrubs and trees, and others are absolutely bare and the reddish lava about their craters has a modern look.

Following the lava flows from these cinder cones are vast crevices and crinkled ridges of lava and caves of great extent and of various forms. A man who lives in this region and who has spent thirty years as a cowboy claims to have discovered a cave many miles in extent, which he calls the Mammoth cave of California, and steps are being taken to make a thorough exploration of its vast subterranean recesses.

A party of three persons from Klamath Falls has just returned from a four days' outing in the lava beds and reports a most interesting outing in that land of dead volcanoes.

Several new caves were discovered by the party, one of which is some two hundred feet in length, fifty in width and with a level ceiling forty feet above the floor. The most important discovery made by the party, however, was of a two-story cave, which is indeed one of the world's marvels. A hole was found some ten feet in width in the bottom of a large cave. A lantern was lowered on a rope until it was evident that there was another floor with a surrounding cavity some twenty-five or thirty feet below.

A small pine tree was cut, divested of its limbs and brought into the cave. This was lowered until it touched the lower floor and by it the party descended to a great corridor thirty or forty feet wide, extending apparently parallel with the corridor above in both directions from the point of descent. The corridor is not less than 500 feet in extent and is obstructed at the ends by loose material fallen from above. No thermometer was at hand to determine the temperature, but it is cool enough to contrast greatly with the degree above ground, and icicles five to six feet in length depend from the ceiling in many places.

Feeding the Soldier.

That an army travels on its stomach has come to be accepted as the last word in practical military preparation, says Leslie's Weekly. Accordingly, where hitherto the stocking of the commissariat was a question more of quantity than quality, such views no longer obtain. The dietary scales are now subjected to the most rigid experimental scrutiny. The following statement shows that the soldier on the march is fed neither too much nor too little—the fare meets his needs, no more:

The Japanese dietary scale is the most frugal. It consists of meat, 7.05 ounces; vegetables, 5.29 ounces; rice, 5.64 ounces; biscuit, 20 ounces; tea, 0.71 ounces. Great Britain's soldier gets in one day: Meat, 1¼ pounds; bread, 1¼ pounds; tea, ⅝ of a pound; sugar, 2 ounces; salt and pepper, 1.38 ounces; vegetables, ½ pound; rum, ¼ gill. The French soldier on march gets per day: Meat, 8.40 ounces; bread, 35.50 ounces; vegetables, 2.12 ounces; sugar, 0.70 ounces; coffee, 0.60 ounces; salt, 0.56 ounces.

FRIDAY, Nov. 5, 1909

So that is the reason the Tribune-Times has taken up the cause of the saloon interests in their fight to retain control of the city government —fixing itself "right" in order to regain that $9 or $10 saloon patronage! We wouldn't have believed it.

Just what the councilmen from the second and fourth wards have up their sleeves in starting to repeal the recent water franchise it would be hard to figure out. The city attorney stated, when the subject was brought up, that it couldn't be done, whereupon Hallahan moved that the attorney be instructed to bring in the repealing ordinance and Grubb seconded the motion. It was commonly known that the company had commenced work within the 30 days. The city attorney submitted the proposed ordinance at the last meeting. Also the company submitted (see proceedings of the council in another column) its notification that the city was taking steps to acquire an expensive damage suit. The franchise is bad enough — that, if nothing else, is sufficient to condemn the powers that be in the present council — but to involve the city in expensive and unending litigation would but make it worse. What's the object, stuffed club, or grand-stand play?

HOW IS IT DONE?

"Thou comest in such a questionable shape that I will speak to thee."

The Olympic-Leader's statement of the fact, known to everyone who is at all conversant with city affairs and who takes even the slightest interest in civic matters, that the city government is run by the "saloon interests" has called forth such vehement protest from the Tribune-Times, that we fain would give him a partial "bill of the particulars" he seemingly so much desires. And we beg to suggest that very little inquiry on the part of the Tribune-Times will bring to him still further enlightenment.

The Tribune-Times admits that the councilman from the second ward is a saloon man (and that's one more than there should be on the council); the councilman from the fourth ward, while not a "saloon man," works hand in hand with the councilman from the second; there is a third councilman who, tho the fact may not be generally known, is in favor of the saloons. This third councilman has advocated to the writer an open Sunday, houses of ill-fame, and a Sunday stage to the Crescent logging camp, all in the interest of "trade."

That's three out of the seven. But even two of the three are the whole thing so far as results go. It is seldom indeed that any measure gets through the council without the support of these two men, and equally seldom or never that a measure favored by them fails to pass. How can one man thus control the council? Simply by a system of browbeating. No sooner is a measure proposed than it is talked down and, —usually failing of a second—out of existance.

As an instance of this — one of many, very many—we might cite the most recent. E. E. Day applied for a renewal of his license for lots one and two. It had been so granted before. This time it was referred back to Mr. Day because he only occupies lot one and the east half of lot two. The application came in in proper form last Tuesday night, when chairman pro-tem Brumfield tried to secure action so that Mr. Day wouldn't have to run without a license. The councilmen from the third and sixth also advocated granting the renewal, as a matter of simple justice, but the councilman from the second stated he would like to have another conerence with Mr. Day, as it would be to the best interests of the liquor business of the city— and there was nothing doing. A member of the council, the gentleman from the fifth ward, stated the condition very tersely to us the other day when he said that unless these two men father a proposition before the council a continual scrap is on which is kept up until other members of the council become disgusted and tired of the unseemly broil and quietly drop out of it.

In the committee of the whole, where the most important affairs are considered, it happens that the councilman from the fourth ward is usually in the chair, and even Boss Cannon could get points from the proceedings.

Every measure of importance to the welfare of the city that is not referred to the committee of the whole goes to the finance, ordinance, light, streets, or franchise committees. The councilmen from the second and fourth wards are members of one or the other of all these committees. Meeting after meeting the mayor calls for reports, and there is nothing doing. The city waterworks proposition, upon which the people expressed themselves in no uncertain terms, was killed by being held up till the panic was in sight. Even now the mayor is weekly calling for a report that will enable the city to pass an ordinance for street improvements covering a large part of the city, and there is nothing doing. And there are others — the city's records are full of them. There is even an ordinance requiring the closing of saloons at midnight and on Sunday; it was likewise buried. For all we know there may be a proposed ordinance raising saloon licenses from $300 to $600, the amount paid the county by saloons in the smaller places. If such an ordinance hasn't been killed in committee, its because no once has had nerve enough to introduce it.

The question of whether a man "votes right" or not on matters that are introduced in the council is of minor importance if he is able to say whether or not the matter shall be voted upon at all.

The city has paid the penalty for its indifference. It is high time for a new deal. And we will have it, or we'll have no saloons.

Our down street contemporary has got a notion in its noddle that this paper is lined up with the saloon interests. Oh, well, its a good thing to have something in one's head sometimes.

M'CREDIE CARRIES COUNTY

The result of the elections Tuesday throughout the country is generally satisfactory to Republicans, a small vote having been polled everywhere. Judge McCredie is elected by 3,000 plurality. His majority in Clallam, without the vote of Elwha, Gettysburg, Ozette and Pysht, is 36. A report of the election returns appears on the second page.

It is said that E. E. Day has not been overly enthuiastic concerning the re-election of the councilman from the second ward. Wonder if that has anything to do with Day's being compelled to run without a license.

Is that the best it could do! City gone democratic and county only thirty to the good! Had no opposition, either. Looks, on the face of it, like an endorsement of the "Clallam county bunch."

A WORD TO THE VOTERS

To the Editor:

I note with pleasure your stand for civic righteousness, and heartily second your suggestion that the quicker the saloon men on the council step down and out the better for them and their business. What is the cause, I ask, of the great crusade against the liquor interests? It is wholly because of the pain and woe and misery which comes to those who indulge in the cup that robs men of their brains, their homes and their happiness? I answer emphatically, No! Everybody regrets that men get in such a condition of irresponsibility because of their drifting downward, but when they are the only sufferers, they pass it with a "too bad, he should have known better," "let him pay the penalty," "he's the one that suffers." They forget that the wife and children at home suffer far the most and they let it go at that.

But what has aroused them to action has been the fact that the saloon interests have not been content with plying their nefarious business, with corrupting the morals of our young men — and, I regret to say, our young women—not content with besmearing everyone who comes in contact with them, but they go after those who have had nothing to do with their dirty stuff, they seek to occupy the high places to the dislodgment of decent people, and by corruption, debauchery and coercion, blackguarding and blackmailing, to control the political life of the community in their efforts to get all, whether they will or not, under their control.

This is the reason that the people have arisen in their might and this is the reason that if the saloon man has any right to debauch the manhood of our country, that it must keep within those rights and not smear everything in sight. The cry of personal liberty will then bear more weight.

A saloon man, above all others, has no business upon our law making bodies.

But, says the Tribune-Times, there is only one man on the council directly interested in the saloon business; how can one man control seven?" Aye, there's the rub. There is only one, it is true, but he has a lively lieutenant, and the history of the past has been that what these two oppose don't go, and what they favor, shame upon the others, they enact. If this isn't saloon domination what is it?

CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

City Notified Contemplated Action Will Lead to Litigation.

The City Attorney brought in an ordinance repealing Ord. No. 365, "an ordinance granting to the Port Angeles Water Supply Co. the franchise to construct, operate and maintain water works in the city," which was read for first time and by motion referred to ordinance committee.

The following communication was read and ordered filed:

Port Angeles, Wash., Nov. 2, '09.
To the Hon. Mayor and Councilmen of the City of Port Angeles:

Gentlemen: Having been notified that your honorable body had instituted proceedings toward repealing the ordinance granting to the Port Angeles Water Supply Company a water franchise, on the grounds that the said company has failed to comply with the conditions of said ordinance requiring construction work to commence within thirty days after acceptance of said franchise, in answer to which we have to say that we had commenced construction work within said thirty days and intend to eontinue the same in good faith, and we only temporarily withdrew our men for a few days to put them on necessary repairs of broken pipes which shut off the regular supply to water users and we trust that the City Council will not take hasty action, or any action that might lead to litigation or financial loss to the said company.

Very respectfully submitted,
The Port Angeles Water Supply Co.,
By Elmer E. Day, Agent.

P. S. Gentlemen: As I am laid up with an injury I regret that I cannot be present with you to explain matters more at length, but I will say that I have been to Tacoma to see the officers of the Port Angeles Water Supply Company and that they not only requested me to file the above petition with you but also to fully assure you that they intend to hasten the completion of said water works as rapidly as is practicable after they have secured the right of way, which they are losing no time in securing. And that by a phone from Mr. Brewer today I am urged to press the claims of the company and to give full assurance of their good faith. Very respectfully,
Elmer E. Day.

1st. W. B. Gould, Insp., Marion Bell, Chas. Tillman, judges. N. R. Smith Bldg.

2nd. C. D. Allen, Insp., H. M. Guptill, H. W. Doty, judges. Council chambers.

3rd. J. D. Sanford, Insp., J. M. Gardner, J. A. Smith, judges. Rood's shop.

5th. Tom Olson, Insp., E. R. Gehrke, John Hitch, judges. Pringle's cabin.

6th. J. B. Fleming, Insp., B. B. Bowman, David O'Brien, judges. Old school house.

The liquor license of E. E. Day was laid over for another week with instruction to City Marshal not to interfere with him, his license having expired Nov. 1st.

Mr. Gorman appeared before council asking that City lay sidewalk in front of Geist Mill on 3rd to A and on A; refd. to street com. for action.

Extension of flume on Tumwater street, ditch on Caroline near Francis and gutter at crossing on Front and Peabody were referred to street committee with power to act.

Mr. Swanson was granted privilege of planking a portion of First street in front of his new shop.

Sunday's Seattle Times in an able editorial for the suppression of vice, cites the fact that Georgetown, claiming but five thousand inhabitants, has twenty-four saloons, or one to every two hundred of its population, and says, "The good sense of every person in the state knows that such a condition cannot exist without violating all the laws of the state."

The most ardent booster of Angeles will not claim that we have here population of to exceed three thousand souls. We have eight saloons—one to every three hundred and seventy five of the population.

"It is agreed," the Seattle Times further says, "even by breweries and men engaged in the wholesale liquor business, that one saloon to one thousand population is the very limit—provided the business is conducted strictly according to law."

As showing to what extent the people have become aroused over the question of temperance and moral reform, it is necessary only to state the fact that thirty-seven cities and towns and five counties in this state will vote before January 1st on the local option question of licensing saloons. In this connection it is worthy of note that the Seattle Ministerial Association only last week adopted the following resolution:

"That it is the sense of this meeting that the time is now ripe for the state of Washington to enter into a state wide campaign for the elimination of every saloon within its borders."

GAVE A HALLOWEEN PARTY

Quite a large gathering of young men and maidens fittingly observed Halloween last Saturday evening from 8 to 12 o'clock at the Methodist Episcopal parsonage. Rev. and Mrs. Hartsell placed their spacious home at the disposal of a committee of young ladies, who took charge of affairs and arranged for the evening, which will linger as a pleasant memory in the minds of those present. The parlors were brilliantly decorated with autumn leaves, corn husks, chrysanthemums, black cats, red apples, pumpkins and luscious grapes—suspended too high to be conveniently reached. The parsonage looked like a manse of the Middle Ages as it stood in the silence of that superstitious night, lighted with jack-o'-lanterns, with ghosts and witches receiving all who entered, while within, the old time Halloween games were being played. Bobbing for apples, guessing contests— how many seeds in a pumpkin; how many grains on an ear of corn; how many petals on a chrysanthemum; how many peanuts in a wooden bowl; and various ways of fortune telling, with merry games, songs and music, furnished the amusement of the evening. Dainty refreshments were served and a glad evening passed into history. Each one felt indebted to the committee which planned the merry making of the evening, though members of that committee were as vague and unknown as were the witches and ghosts who received at the door. Some said to thank Haze', others Jolliette and Juanita, and many felt kindly to the parson and his good wife for the home, while all merrily trudged their way homeward grateful that the goblins didn't get them. For old time sake, Will'o-the-wisp.

ANGELES SCHOOL NOTES

A CHALLENGE.

Whereas, it has come to the notice of the High School faculty, that indirectly and directly, too, the members of the High School foot ball team, individually and collectively, have made the public boast of having met and ingloriously defeated the faculty on the foot ball field, and whereas such boast was made with the apparent view of depreciating and of holding up to ridicule the athletic prowess of said faculty, and to leave the impression with the general public, that they—the members of the foot ball team—are more than a match for the faculty in any athletic contest whatever, and whereas the faculty, being sorely wounded in respect to pride and grieved, too, because of the actual defeats suffered, desires here to make the public statement that, in athletics, foot ball is not their specialty, though they—the members of the faculty—regard the game highly. It is in the game of basket ball that they decidedly excel, in which athletic contest they are prepared to meet the most formidable opponents. Now, therefore, in view of the aforesaid insolent conduct on the part of the members of the foot ball team, and in order to wipe out the disgrace of apparent inferiority and turn defeat into victory, we do hereby challenge the boys of the ball team, assisted by any or all of the High School students, to play a game of basket ball in the A. A. A. hall, Friday evening, December 3. Let us see where now is the spirit of the (boasted) undaunted brave, where the athletic prowess. We throw this gauntlet at your feet. Pick it up if you have the nerve. High School Faculty.

ACCREDITED HIGH SCHOOL DEBATES.

The Port Angeles High School is making preparations to enter the state debating contest this year. The final try-out for a place on the debating team to represent the High School in this contest will be held in the opera house Friday, Nov. 14. There are six contestants prepared to do battle for the coveted honor; Harry Stiles, Lorena Fulmer, Grace Babcock, Jennie McLeod, Leola Foster and Floyd Hayne Only accredited four year high schools are permitted to enter this contest. This is the first year that our high school has taken part in this contest, but we feel confident that though we may not win out against our opponents, we shall make such a showing as will be a credit to the town and to the school. The judges selected to decide the local contest are Prof. Peterson, Miss Chambers, and Rev. Rogers. An admission fee of ten cents will be charged to defray the necessary expenses connected with the hall. According to the latest instructions received from the state department, the first debate with an outside team will be held in Port Angeles December 15.

The Port Angeles high school foot ball team will play the Townsend high on the latter's grounds next Saturday. The games with Townsend last year resulted in a better acquaintance between the schools and terminated with the most friendly relations existing between them. The local team is therefore looking forward to the games with Townsend with considerable pleasure. The A. A. A. basket ball team has also accepted a challenge from Townsend and the two teams will go up together. An endeavor is being made to secure rates but up to the time of going to press no definite answer has been received from the company. Those desiring to see the games and to find out in regard to rates should call up Supt. Geisness. It is undersood that a return game will be played at Angeles a little later.

The following is copied from a letter from Vashon College to the manager of our foot ball team, "We will play you on the 26th of Nov. giving you $50 and an entertainment in return for our fine treatment in Port Angeles. Signed,
Clifford Moe, Man.

Examinations are in progress this week throughout the schools.

Preparations for the high school entertainment course are progressing nicely. This week, however, the school is spending its spare time in helping to make the Citizen's Entertainment Course a success. The three numbers of outside talent contracted for look good to us and ought to be well patronized.

Henry Fortman was brought down from Rena Monday on the charge of insanity and was found unbalanced and ordered committed to the hospital at Steilacoom. A guard from the institution arrived Tuesday and escorted him to the hospital. Fortman, who is but 18 years of age, is a powerful young man and he made things interesting around the county jail Monday night, or Tuesday morning from 2 to 6. The room was cleared of everything with which he might damage things, but he took his shoes and broke every window and electric globe before he was stopped, becoming quite violent when restrained and almost docile when allowed to wander about. Some 18 months ago young Henry was lost in the woods for several hours and when found was absolutely unable to remember anything. He has been a little "off" at times since, and three weeks ago the spell came on from which he never recovered, necessitating the presence of a guard. It is hoped that he will speedily improve.

For the Season of Long Evenings

There are no lonely winter evenings in the homes where The Youth's Companion is a weekly visitor, and there need be no idle hours. The variety of the paper's contents appeals to every member of the household, and before one issue is exhausted the next is waiting at the post office. During the winter season The Companion prints nearly a hundred complete stories of considerable length, besides the absorbing serials, some 25 articles by men and women of renown, and almost twice as many short character and humorous sketches as there are winter nights. Such an article as "Winter Gardening" suggests an interesting occupation which can be carried on in Alaska with snow twenty feet deep and without the cost of a dollar. It is well "worth while" to read a paper so carefully and ably edited.

Send your subscription ($1.75) at once so as to receive free all the issues of The Companion for the remaining weeks of 1909, as well as The Companion's "Venetian" Calendar for 1910, lithographed in thirteen colors and gold.

We could make clothes expressly for you here at home, but a local tailor shop today is impractical and unprofitable.

It has no labor market from which to secure desirable cutters and tailors—

It cannot afford to install a modern plant designed to reduce cost of production—

It doesn't do sufficient business to enable it to buy woolens direct from the mills—

It cannot keep abreast of metropolitan styles and workmanship.

Therefore, we send our orders for fine made-to-measure clothes to Ed. V. Price & Co., of Chicago.

We can take your measure the same way we would if running shops here, and furnish you your clothes, made as you want them, at 50% less than we could make them locally. Won't you call today?

HOW TO AVOID FIRES.

Avoid matches whose heads eadily snap off. Scores of deaths and destroyed homes are traceable to this cause.

Liquid stove polishes, of the kind sold by fakers, are nearly always dangerous. Furniture polish should be used with great care, too.

All cloths used in rubbing polished floors should be burned away from the house, neither should they be thrown carelessly around at any time, as there is danger of spontaneous combustion.

Cleaning compounds are always dangerous. Never use benzine, gasoline, or like fluids in any room where there is artificial light. These oils are extremely volatile and their fumes catch fire at a great distance, the flames traveling back to the source. Explosions and scattered fire are the result.

Never drape a mantel near a gas jet or a stove. Be careful that no portieres or curtains are so hung that they can blow against the flame. Many fires are due to such carelessness.

When you retire for the night see that all the doors in the house are closed. Open doors create a draft. Danger from a dumb waiter may be minimized by seeing that it is tightly closed at night.

Where open fireplaces are in use the bricks of the hearth should be imbedded in cement and should not rest on wood. Each hearth should have a fine wire screen shield to prevent sparks flying on rugs or carpets.

WHEN writing to advertisers please mention this paper.

The annals of all tribunals and all the happenings of recorded time may be searched in vain for the record of a crime so utterly fiendish and cruel, so black and damnable as the occasional attempts that are made, from whatever motive, to maim and kill large numbers of people by wrecking trains. It makes the mildest natures feel savage and vindictive and almost willing to join in putting the wretches guilty of such deeds to death by slow torture. What is the matter with us that trains are wrecked and held up and robbed, that banks are raided and robbed, that people are lynched, hanged and burned without trial, that men shoot each other down in the streets to settle personal differences, that men shoot women who refuse to marry them, and that girls kill lovers who desert them, that an unwritten law is sanctioned by the courts, and that such things are happening all the time here and are almost never known to happen in other countries? It is time that every American citizen considered deeply of these things, for they are a shame and a reproach to us.

TIGER WHIPS A LION.

While an audience of 1,500 people was in the hall of a Coney Island animal show a lion and tiger started fighting, and before they could be separated the hind quarters of the lion had been so mangled by his striped antagonist that he had to be shot. The act which was being shown required seven lions and two tigers, and was considered a very daring feat on account of the enmity of the great jungle beasts. At every performance they snapped and snarled at each other, but had always been held in check by the trainer; on this occasion, however, he turned his head for an instant, and in that inconceivable time the lion saw his chance and sprang upon the tiger, after which, in spite of efforts to part them, they fought until both were helpless.

YOU NEED FOOD YOU DON'T GET.

Blames Traditions in Diet for "Fractional Men and Women."

People whose food supply day after day contains only perhaps eight or ten of the sixteen chemical elements of which the body is composed and seldom any of the others, pay the penalty for not supplying in right proportion and chemical combination all the elements requisite for the growth and maintenance of their bodies; they are only fractional men and women, according to Helen Sayr Gary in the North American Review. Farmers know what to feed cows to increase the quantity of milk or to increase or decrease certain constituents of it. Orchardists ascertain that pear trees need iron, that quince trees need salt; but no thought is given to feeding the family for efficiency.

The ill effects of bad housekeeping are as conspicuous in the country as in the city. Tradition has more weight in country homes than anywhere else. The law of evolution is very slow in its operation in the home, especially in the country, because women who live on farms are so out of reach. They do not try new recipes for anything except some dish they may get when away from home. Unusual dishes would lay them open to the charge of "fancy cooking," and, like demonstrative affection, are looked upon as unseemly. Pancakes, pie, cake, doughnuts, canned fruit, fried foods, bread, tea and coffee, with potatoes three times a day, are the chief articles of diet the year round. Then, sodden with food, the members of the family resort to patent medicines to cure themselves of their self-inflicted ills in an attempt to circumvent the law of cause and effect.

A MEXICAN HERRADERO.

First Day of Cattle Round-Up a Display of Charro's Skill.

Preparations are being made in many ranches and haciendas for the annual ceremony of the herradero, or branding of the new cattle, which is a motive for a grand fete in all stock-raising ranches and haciendas of the country, according to the Mexican Herald.

The herraderos are held on big plains called de brote tierno. These plains are usually beautiful prairies, where grandstands are erected for the guests of honor, while other witnesses see the branding of the cattle and the "suertes" executed by skillful horse riders from carts prettily adorned for the occasion.

From early in the morning people begin to flock to the prairie where the herradero is to be held. There are a number of tents or shades made with petates fixed to a single pole, around which people assemble and take their breakfast, which consists of cheese, milk and atole, with some pilloncillo. There are also, under petate shades, several small orchestras. As a rule musicians who form such orchestras are men in white breeches and shirt, with a very big sombrero, but with very little knowledge of music; they call themselves musicos liricos, because they know nothing about music, but they claim to have muy buen oido (a very good ear).

These orchestras play all the time, until the amo, or owner of the hacienda, comes with his party to see the herradero.

The arrival of the amo is saluted with enthusiastic vivas. This is the signal for the charros who are going to take part in the herradero to appear, salute the amo and get ready. These charros, as a rule, are young men of means, either relatives of the amo or owners of neighboring ranches and haciendas. They are all mounted on very fine horses, wear rich clothes and sombreros embroidered with silver and gold, and have rich saddles of the kind called sillas vaquer embroidered all over with gold and silver.

Cattle are let one by one into the inclosure, which has been surrounded by a wire or cord fence. As soon as an animal appears one of the charros runs after it, catches its tail and by a rapid turning of the direction of his horse the charro throws it to the ground. When the animal regains its feet other charros lasso it and take it to the place where it is to be branded.

Some of the charros are extremely skillful with the lasso and the feats they perform cause the spectators to go wild with enthusiasm.

The herradero lasts all day long. But this is only the first day, generally a Sunday. After that day the branding of cattle is continued without much ceremony, if any.

A NEW STANDARD.

"Take a man that's been kind of easy all his life and begins to get slack ways, and best thing his women folks can do is to persuade him into buying a piece o' personal property he's got to live up to," announced William Latham to his wife on his return from a visit to his cousin Bemis. "It beats all the way Bemus has taken on neatness an' what you might call style, since last time I was over."

"What property has he acquired?" Mrs. Latham asked. "I thought he'd got all the buildings he needed, an' more, too."

"'Tisn't buildings," said Mr. Latham, "I never spoke of real estate," with an amused tolerance of her mistake. "He's bought the carryall that belonged to old Green Roberts, the sexton an' undertaker, that died last Febru'ry.

"The new young man wanted to dispose of most of old Robert's properties, and Bemus said to me that his folks told him if he'd varnish it up jest a mite 'twould be complete for their afternoon rides; being lower hung than the one they had, and Bemus having fleshed up, 'twould be easier getting in an' out.

"He's been apt to go without his vest, and some hot days he's ripped off his coat, let Emma and Liza say what they would; but first time he rode out in this carryall, five or six folks stopped him, and said it looked jest as it used to when 'twas always first in the procession, after the family's closed carriage. And Bemus said to me that folks always dressed careful at those times, and 'someway or 'nother I don't want to shame the old carryall, because 'tis old,' he told me—and that's the core an' center of his change."

Fool's Gold.

Pyrite, or sulphide of iron, occurs quite freely in the iron measures and granite gash viens in upper Michigan. It has a brassy color and is known as "fool's gold" by reason of its similarity to the yellow metal in the opinion of the inexperienced. The miners call it "mundic.' Few people appreciate the great value of this mineral. Its principal use is in making sulphuric acid, and in that form it is consumed in very large quantities, much of it entering into the refining of kerosene oil as well as being used extensively in the manufacture of artificial fertilizers.—Mining World.

Occasionally a man enjoys making a social call because he knows he will never have to repeat it.

The Mission

Of those corpuscles in your blood that have been called "Little Soldiers," is to fight for you against the disease germs that constantly endanger your health. These corpuscles are made healthy and strong by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

This medicine is a combination of more than 20 different remedial agents in proportions and by a process known only to ourselves and it has for thirty years been constantly proving its worth.

No substitute, none "just-as-good."

Short Suggestions.

Clean linoleum with warm water and polish with milk.

Ammonia used unsparingly cleanses and purifies kitchen utensils.

Clean soiled wall paper with plaster of paris tied up in a muslin bag.

No soap on window panes! Rub them with either alcohol or ammonia to make them shine.

To keep an iron sink in good condition scrub once or twice a week with sandsoap and kerosene. Every night put a little chloride of lime over the strainer and pour through it a kettleful of boiling water.

Apply the white of an egg with a camel's hair brush to fly specks on gilt frames and they will disappear.

Soft soap made from half a pound of shaved down hard soap and two quarts of water will save the soap bill at cleaning time.

Iron holders made from a piece of asbestos the desired size and covered with drilling or heavy unbleached muslin are light and keep out heat. There should be a ring or loop sewed to one corner to hang the holder.

All the cooking utensils should be washed with soda immediately after they have been used, which will remove every trace of grease.

If your corn does not pop well, it may be because it is old. Soak it in cold water for fifteen minutes, drain and try again. Better results will undoubtedly be obtained.

Worn brooms or whisks may be dipped into hot water and uneven edges trimmed with shears. This makes the straws harder, and the trimming makes the broom almost as good as new.

Bread Pudding.

Soak a pint of fine crumbs in a quart of milk for two hours. Whip into the soft crumbs two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, a half teaspoonful of powdered nutmeg and the beaten yolks of four eggs. Flavor with vanilla and, last of all, fold in quickly the stiffened whites of the four eggs. Bake in a greased pudding dish in a steady oven. Eat hot with a hard sauce.

It is a small planet, the astronomers tell us, that has been confided to the race of mortals, and from a cosmic view perhaps none of its concerns are important. Yet long may the delusion exist that man's triumphs are of vast moment—even his attempts to survey all parts of the terrestrial sphere and to leave no secret of geography unlocked. Particularly is it unpermitted to men of science to raise doubts as to whether a bit of new knowledge is worth while. It is the lure of science ever pressing forward—its motto has been that there is nothing so contemptible that exact, precise information concerning it is to be despised.

How much do men know about women's dress, and how much do they care about it? is an interesting question raised by a curious advertisement printed in London. The person who placed the advertisement announces himself as "a man of good position, with very critical, refined and exclusive knowledge," and much experience of the best firms which cater to women's wants. He is "willing to be consulted on matters of dress and millinery." The heads of a number of well-known dressmaking establishments, when asked for an opinion, all agreed that the knowledge of men about women's dress is small, and their advice in regard to it of little account. They admitted that the heads of some of the most noted dressmaking establishments had been men, but they were of the opinion that the men succeeded only by virtue of being good business managers, and that the details were worked out by women in their employ. "It is only the result that men notice," was the general agreement. Very likely there is truth in this view, but there is also truth in the opposite side of the proposition, says the Youth's Companion. Many women are so intent upon the details that they lose sight of the result. They cannot see the forest because of the trees; and it is here that the advice and judgment of a man of taste may be of service—especially the advice of the husband. He is a man of taste, else he would not have selected so charming a woman for a wife. In a general way, the preference of men is for simplicity in women's dress. It makes for good sense in material and for directness in accomplishing a desired end. Men are uncritical and undiscriminating in the matter of fabrics, but as the London dressmakers tacitly admitted, display frequently sound judgment in regard to the general effect. Above all, they are far more inclined than women to consider the individual case rather than the general style; and that is not an unmixed evil.

Flannel Cakes.

One pint of sour milk, three tea spoonfuls of melted lard, three eggs well beaten, one teaspoonful of soda, and flour to make a good batter. Mix well, beating the whites and yolks of the eggs separately, and adding the stiffened whites last of all. Fold in lightly and quickly, then bake the batter on a griddle as you would other pancakes.

Fishing Schooner Deeahlss Ashore at Dungeness Spit.

Sunday morning at 2:30 the auxiliary schooner Deeahlss, forty-two tons burden, bound for Seattle with a cargo of 2500 halibut and black cod, valued at $1700, ran aground within 200 feet of the light house and the point. No reason can be given for the accident as it was a clear night with no wind blowing, and the moon was shining brightly. Light-house Keeper E. A. Brooks at 4:30 wired to Port Angeles for the Snohomish which stood by until Tuesday morning, when, after breaking a five inch steel hawser, finally pulled the stranded vessel into deep water and towed her to Port Townsend. She was considerably damaged, the sea having washed away her boats and much of her upper works. The cargo was thrown overboard.

A write up, mention of which is made in our Sequim correspondence, of the chicken pie supper at the G.A.R. Hall, Sequim, Hallow'een eve., was received too late for this issue.

JOHN STEVENS

John Stevens of the Mt Pleasant district, one of Clallam's native sons and most respected citizens, died Sunday at 1:30 p. m. at the Port Angeles General Hospital, where he had been taken a few days before for an operation. Johnny, as he was most generally known, was hurt at Seattle during a recent visit and soon after his return complained of mysterious pain which was thought to be symptoms of appendicitis. He rallied after a severe illness and some two weeks ago insisted upon going to Seattle to take the examination for a fire warden. Upon reaching his destination, however, he was unable to leave the steamer and returned to this city, where he has been suffering intensely until death relieved him. Thursday the end was thought to be near, and although the operation was seemingly beneficial, the result was hardly of hope for his final recovery.

Deceased was a son of Mrs. Lee, one of the pioneers of the district, who still resides on the home place just across Lee's creek, adjoining the townsite, and is related to a large number of Port Angeles most respected citizens. He was a loving father and husband, a true friend, a conscientious citizen, an honest man. Hardly more could be asked. All recognize that Johnny's one aim in life was to do right. He leaves a wife and five small children, and although he worked like a slave, his farm is not clear of incumbrance. The widow is prostrated with grief, and has fainted away several times during the past few days. The funeral was held from the Congregational church Wednesday and was attended by a crowded house, the entire Mt. Pleasant population turning out en masse.

Messrs. J. F. Leghorn and F. H. Lieben of the state bureau of inspection and supervision of public offices have completed their labors here after spending six weeks in going over the books of the various county offices. While no details of the report of the state officers are available at this time, it is generally understood that nothing was found that would in any manner indicate any malfeasance on the part of any of the county officers. Some errors were discovered, as would be found in any clerical office, but of little moment, and the inspectors recommend that some further safe guards be adopted in the allowance of claims hereafter.

Acting on the theory that it would be a useless expense to go back farther than could be collected on, the records for only the past seven years have been gone over. Clallam's books have not been experted for fifteen years, hence the tax payers and officers alike hail with joy the operation of the new law providing for regular inspection of all records from this date forward. It is considered a strictly business proposition and due to both the public and the officers.

Whereas, the power of granting saloon license is vested in the mayor and city council, we, the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, believe that it is our duty to do all in our power to influence the voters to elect good men. Therefore, be it resolved that we endorse W. H. Elliott of the 4th Ward, Wm. Graham of the 2nd Ward, and G. M. Rouse of the 3rd Ward.

P. J. Woods has been appointed state inspector for this county for the Washington Shingle Grading Association, which includes a majority of the mills. He will inspect twice a week at the mills. Any mill in the county is eligible to membership, which affords protection, as the association is back of all shingles shipped East.
