SALOON PROBLEM A MODERN ONE

Anti-Saloon Movement is Sweeping the Country, where Prohibition Made Little Progress.

The question of how best to limit and control the use of intoxicating drinks is as old as the race.

Drunkenness is not a modern invention. It has clothed men with rags and shame in all ages.

The saloon problem, on the contrary, is a comparatively modern one, and recent events seem to indicate that it will prove less difficult of solution. The effort to prohibit the manufacture and sale of intoxicating drinks has made little progress during the fifty or more years that it has been an issue in American politics, while the anti-saloon movement, which sprang up only a few years ago, is sweeping the country like a cyclone. The liquor interests are fighting desperately, and in their own dishonorable way to prolong the life of this accursed institution, which has wrecked more lives than any other evil of the age. But they have seen the handwriting on the wall and know that the saloon is doomed.

The revolt against liquor traffic is not confined to our country alone. It seems to be world wide. Iceland and Greenland have adopted national prohibition, and there is a rapid spread of the anti-saloon movement and sentiment in Russia and other European countries. The drink bill of England has shrunk over $31,000,000 in the last year. During that time the saloon has been voted entirely out of a half dozen states of our nation. It is already on the run in as many more. Indeed, it may be said that it is fighting for its life in nearly every state of the union. Over 11,000 were put out of business in the last year, and nearly as many the year before.

Whatever may be the fate of the liquor traffic, it would seem that the saloon, as a power in American politics and a destroyer of American manhood is doomed. For years it has been a brazen violator of the law, corrupting legislatures and city councils, and defying the expressed will of the people. The tables are now turned, and this all powerful institution finds itself confronted by an aroused public sentiment, that threatens it with total annihilation.

A great army of 200,000 saloon keepers and their helpers and patrons, backed by the powerful monied interests of the brewers are fighting desperately in this devil's cause, but the conscience and the self interest of the nation are against them and unless they can appease the wrath of a long suffering and now fully awakened people, it is likely that within a generation the saloon, as an American institution, will have passed into history.—A. H. Raymond.

LOCAL OPTION NOT A TEMPERANCE QUESTION

A Port Angeles business man, one who has every opportunity for knowing whereof he speaks as his business calls him among all classes of citizens, among those who are known as tipplers, as well as the teetotlars, says that there is much discussion and more impression extant regarding the simple, but decidedly American proposition of local option. A well known tippler said to him the other day, that while he was a drinking man, he would not go across the street to vote against local option, if the issue were on tomorrow. And this is the growing sentiment in almost every rural community in Washington today. But what is local option? Local option says one, embraces a principle for which your forefathers fought. It includes a principle, the denial of which has caused kingdoms to fall and kings to die. It plays up in newer words the great perogative of American liberty—the Jeffersonian principle of the rule of the majority. And when a man tells you that he is a good Democrat, or a good Republican, or an honest man, don't believe him unless he is willing to leave government to the people.

Local option is literally and decidedly not a mere temperance question and the church people make a mistake and lose prestige if they say it is. Saloon men make the identical error and lose followers to their cause. Many a man may vote in favor of saloons who never takes a drink, and many a man may vote against the saloons who has no inclination or desire to entirely stop the use of alcohol, but he has other reasons for casting such a ballot.

Local option is simply a matter of voting for what you want or against that which is offensive. If a majority of the people of Port Angeles object to the selling of intoxicating liquors, and so vote, the traffic will cease. If the church people who favor local option wish to organize their forces and work at the polls, that is certainly their right. If the saloon men wish to organize their friends and oppose the measure, that is their privilege. But it is no man's privilege to hamper the people in their work and if the saloon interests of the city prevent or attempt to prevent the people from making a trial of the majority's desire possible, then it is patent that there is something wrong with the business.

GLORIA MUNDI APPLES

Stanley McLaughlin has also grown some fine apples this season. The three magnificent specimens of Gloria Mundi left at this office weigh exactly three pounds, the largest measuring fourteen inches in circumference, four and a half inches through; the three standing in a row measuring twelve inches. The fruit is perfect in shape and color. Mr. McLaughlin picked six boxes of apples from one tree, the trunk of which is but four inches in diameter, the tree bearing only half a crop, the fruit buds having been blighted on one side of the tree by early Northwest winds. Unlike the Wolf River, the Gloria Mundi is a splendid cooking apple.

FALL STRAWBERRIES

The Port Townsend Call last week told a marvelous tale about a second crop of strawberries, grown by a gardener in that vicinity, who with good weather, would have as large a yield as earlier in the season. There is a Bartlett pear tree growing in a lot on Fifth street, Port Angeles, that is ripening its second crop of pears. The first crop was a large one and the second is not much smaller. The tree has not been out of bloom a month during the summer. Yes, a marvelous country, this Puget Sound reion.

ROAD CONTRACT LET

The county commissioners let the contract for the new Port Crescent-Piedmont road this week to Messrs. Govan & Woodcock, the contract price being about $17,000; of this the county is to pay $10,000 and Mr. Earles and associates the balance.

The Ladies of the W. R. C. will hold a Fair in the G. A. R. Hall, Lincoln and 5th streets, Nov. 30, Dec. 1st and 2nd. Eastern Oysters will be served each evening from 5 to 8 at 35 cents. A hot 15c lunch will be served at the noon hour each day. Everybody welcome.

Minor Happenings of the Week

Dr. Charles W. Eliot has been elected president of the Alumni Association of Harvard University.

According to a dispatch received at Santiago, Chile, from Lima, Peru, the United States has offered to buy a Pacific port from Peru for a coaling station.

The North British Locomotive Company has just completed and tested the first steam turbine locomotive. The new engine is pronounced a success.

A cabled announcement from London says the Earl of Crewe, a member of the Asquith cabinet, is deemed the probable successor of Earl Grey as governor general of Canada.

Arrangements are now being made for the installation of a regular wireless station at Eiffel tower, Paris, and a station to be erected in the French territory of Senegal in northwest Africa.

Four men who attacked Harry T. Tietlebaum, a non-union bakery wagon driver at Chicago, during a strike last spring, were convicted recently and sentenced to twenty-five years each in prison.

The New York Air Brake Company has secured a contract from the New York Central to equip 325 locomotives, 197 passenger cars and 17,850 freight cars to be built in 1910, at a total cost of $25,000,000, of which $1,000,000 is for brakes.

Pursuant to a plan to station 50,000 well-drilled soldiers between the Great Lakes and the Rocky Mountains, the Canadian government has ordered another squadron of regulars to locate at Winnipeg, doubling the strength of Strathcona Horse and the Canadian regiment at Fort Osborne.

Arrivals from Sombeyo river, fifty miles from Victoria, on the west coast of Vancouver Island, report that the placers there are turning out very rich, with some nuggets washed out as large as wheat. The ground hydraulicked pays from 7 to 40 cents a yard.

New York is to have another "$100,000,000 bank," to be known as the Mechanics and Metals National. The institution is a consolidation of the Mechanics' National bank and the National Copper bank. The merger will represent combined assets of about $100,000,000. Gates W. McGarrah will be president.

Lieut. Gen. Adna R. Chaffee was selected as chairman of the new Los Angeles harbor commission. Engineers have been at work for several weeks preparing plans for improvements, and $100,000 obtained from the sale of bonds is immediately available. Los Angeles is pledged to raise $10,000,000 within the next ten years for development.

COLLIERY EMPLOYE DOES NOT ASSUME ALL RISK

Olympia, Nov. 6. — An important ruling on the liability of mine owners for injuries to miners and other employes was established by a decision of the state supreme court in the case of Arthur McKenzie against the North Coast Colliery Company. He secured a judgment for $30,000 in the King county courts for personal injuries. The court holds that while coal mining has its dangers, all occupations have more or less danger, and that it does not necessarily follow that a mine employe assumes the risk and cannot recover if he is hurt.

In this particular case coal caved in upon plaintiff. He could not see his danger, nor could he have known of it without making a personal examination of a different part of the mine from that in which he worked, and the court holds that it was not his business to make that inspection, but was the duty of the owner to keep the mine safe.

He was 24 years old, and then earning $7 a day. The court finds that he is probably a hopeless cripple, but that $22,000 is sufficient, as that amount at interest is sufficient to compensate for his loss of earning power, pain and suffering. If he agrees to accept this amount, judgment is affirmed, otherwise a new trial is ordered.

France Decorates Wrights.

New York, Nov. 8.—Orville and Wilbur Wright, the aviators, have been presented with the cross of the Legion of Honor by the Republic of France through its consul general here, M. Etienne Lanel.

Washington State News

Farm labor is reported scarce in the Inland Empire country.

The cornerstone for the new high school at Aberdeen was laid with brief ceremonies last week.

It is now stated that the Seattle-Everett Interurban line will be ready for operation in March.

The Spokane News, a new paper to enter the morning field at Spokane, has been incorporated at Olympia for $100,000.

Judges of the King County Superior Court have decided to call a grand jury. No date has been set, but January is probable.

Mayor John F. Miller, of Seattle, has announced his determination not to be a candidate for re-election. He will resume the practice of law.

In an opinion to the prosecuting attorney of Island county, the attorney general has ruled that the hunting of deer in Island county is unlawful during the month of November.

Skagit County is to hold a local option election on December 31. Several incorporated towns in that county will also hold elections to decide whether or not liquor licenses shall be granted.

The state railroad commission held a hearing Friday on the complaint of the Spokane Harvester Company and Union Iron Works, of that city, for a reduction in the present rate of $3 per ton on pig iron from the coast to Spokane. The rate from Alabama to Seattle is $10.40, and from Alabama to Spokane is $13. The railroads claim the westbound rate is too low and that the local to Spokane is about right.

HALLEY'S COMET DUE TO CROSS SUN MAY 18

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 6.—Halley's comet will pass across the sun's face on May 18 next, if calculations made by Father G. M. Searle, C. S. P., the New York astronomer, received at the Harvard college observatory prove correct. Father Searle based his intricate calculations from observations made at Mount Hamilton, Cal., on September 12, 13 and 14, and at Williams Bay on September 26 and October 19.

Concluding the table of deductions, Father Searle states:

"These elements give a geometric conjunction in the longitude of the comet with the sun on May 18, 6:18 Greenwich mean time, the comet's geometric altitude being then plus 4 degrees 15 minutes. Although the result cannot, of course, be accepted as final, it seems quite probable that there may be a transit."

HUMANE SOCIETIES TO FORM STATE ASSOCIATION

Tacoma, Nov. 8.—Delegates from all the humane societies of Washington will meet here Thursday to organize a state humane society. The movement for a state organization has been under way for two months and was started by Humane Officer Van Voris, of Tacoma. The Commercial Club has taken interest in the forthcoming session and offered its quarters as the home and headquarters of the delegates. The delegates will hold their sessions in the audience room of the club. At the morning session a form of incorporation will be decided upon and by-laws adopted. The Commercial Club members will tender the delegation a luncheon at the close of the session. Officers of the society will be elected at the afternoon session, after which a program will be given.

BALLINGER THREATENS TO SUE COLLIER'S

Washington, Nov. 10.—Secretary Ballinger last evening placed in the hands of a New Yorfl firm of lawyers the Glavis article appearing in today's advance sheets of Collier's Weekly, with instructions to proceed against the publishers if in their estimation a charge of libel can be sustained.

Secretary Ballinger does not hesitate to brand the Glavis statements as unfounded and "a tissue of falsehoods," and he hopes to be able to bring the Collier house before the courts for what he believes to be their reckless publication of this sensational article.

The secretary admits that he is considerably embarrassed just at this time, so far as concerns his ability to issue any adequate reply to the Glavis article, because of the fact that he desires very particularly not in any way to affect the Cunningham hearings, which will soon be held in Seattle.

However, as soon as the cabinet is able to meet with the president, which probably will not be until next week, the matter will be taken up, and it is possible that Mr. Taft may recommend that a reply be made immediately.

That a reply will ultimately be made, and one which will not be framed in such forzearing phrases as have been used by Mr. Ballinger heretofore, is definitely asserted by the secretary today.

The secretary yesterday had completed his first annual report, and as soon as the president his reviewed it, it will be published. This report, Mr. Ballinger says, will convince the conservation element of the country that they have nothing whatever to fear from the future policies of the present secretary of the interior in regard to preservation of natural resources.

The charges made by Louis R. Glavis, former chief of the field division of the land office of the interior department, in a long statement to be published in Collier's Weekly of November 13, coincide in their essentials with the charges he made to the president several months ago:

Nine hundred claims, covering the greater part of this area, filed on fraudulently prior to President Roosevelt's order of November 12, 1906, withdrawing Alaska coal lands from entry.

Mr. Ballinger, as land commissioner, favored admission of 5,000 acres of coal lands, containing 9,000,000 tons of coal, to patent without adequate investigation of title.

Ex-Gov. Miles C. Moore, of Washington, one of the Cunningham claimants, stated that but for Glavis' protest Mr. Ballinger would have patented the Cunningham claims.

Mr. Ballinger spoke before the house committee on public lands in favor of the Cole bill, pending in congress, to permit of the consolidation of the Cunningham and other claims filed on, as Glavis claims, in violation of the prior law preventing the consolidation of claims filed on by individuals.

Mr. Ballinger, a short time afterward, and following his resignation as land commissioner, became attorney for the Cunningham group of claims.

Land Commissioner Dennett, serving under Secretary Ballinger, directed Glavis, March 10, 1909, to submit at once complete reports upon the status of his Alaska coal investigation.

April 21, 1909, Glavis received a telegram from the general land office, ordering him to complete his investigation in sixty days.

The necessary field examination of the affected claims could be made only in summer. Glavis therefore protested against the order.

Held conference with Mr. Ballinger at Washington in May, 1909. Glavis contended that statute of 1908, allowing consolidation of sixteen claims (2,560 acres), where the original entries were made in good faith, could not validate previous "fraudulent entries."

Assistant Secretary Pierce, of the interior department, informs Glavis (May 18, 1909), that Mr. Ballinger wanted nothing more to do with the Cunningham claim matter on account of having been attorney for Cunningham.

In place of referring the matter to the attorney general the dispute over Cunningham entries is handled by the interior department.

Assistant Secretary Pierce holds, in written opinion, for liberal construction of the 1908 statute, permitting consolidation of such claims as the Cunningham group.

Glavis goes to attorney general direct and secures opinion overruling the Pierce decision.

Glavis telegraphs for more time in completing field reports on Cunningham cases, and department refuses it.

July 17 Glavis is superseded in charge of the Alaska land cases by Mr. Sheridan, who after four days, concurred in Glavis' request for more time.

In a letter to the chief of the field service, Land Commissioner Dennett complained that Glavis had the coal cases on the brain, and cannot see anything but just one line.

Mr. Glavis then, August 1 last, reported to the president, who upheld Secretary Ballinger and sanctioned Glavis' dismissal from the service.

"The president," Mr. Glavis concludes, "has chosen to treat my report as a charge of criminality. I made no such charge, nor do I make it now. The president's letter is a defense of Mr. Ballinger and Mr. Dennett from charges not made in my report to him. I was not investigating either Mr. Ballinger or Mr. Dennett, but the Alaska coal cases. Because I knew that these cases were to come before Mr. Dennett, and that there was no appeal from his decision save to Secretary Ballinger, because Secretary Ballinger had stated he would not act in these cases and because the next ranking officer of the department was Assistant Secretary Pierce, who had signed the decision which Mr. Wickersham had overruled, I believed the Alaska coal cases were in danger. The president has seen in this nothing but over-zeal and insubordination on my part, and an opportunity to praise the secretary of the interior. I have not been informed what answer the department of the interior has made to my statement, but the public will judge whether I am right in thinking the Alaska coal claims are still in danger."

NORTH DAKOTA IS FASTEST DREADNOUGHT

Rockland, Me., Nov. 6.—The North Dakota is the fastest battleship of the Dreadnought type afloat, as well as one of the most powerful ships in the world. Her screw standardization tests over the Rockland measured mile course developed a maximum speed of 22.25 knots, an average of 21.833. Both marks are in excess of the best performances of either her sister ship, the Delaware, or the Bellerophon, the leading Dreadnought of the British navy.

In attaining this surprising speed the turbine engines of the North Dakota were forced to the development of more horsepower than has been reached by any battleship afloat.

A maximum of 35,150 horsepower was recorded, while 33,875 horsepower was the mean amount. The maximum number of revolutions of her nickel composition propellers was 286 a minute. It was found that 263 revolutions in this time were sufficient to maintain the contract speed of twenty-one knots. The North Dakota by her performance takes precedence as a general first-class battleship. The figures recorded for the North Dakota surpass those of any other Dreadnought.

There is but one such battleship afloat the attainments of which may exceed those of the North Dakota. This is the Neptune, just launched for the British navy. The Neptune, however, will have to attain figures much in excess of specifications to accomplish this. The Bellerophon, of the British navy, has made but 22.1 knots.

Fruit Growers Taught Lesson.

North Yakima, Nov. 8.—Fruit Inspector Clarence Starcher says that the light crop this year has been a blessing in disguise to the fruit growers of the valley. It has taught them one most needed lesson, and that is that there must be thorough spraying, whether the crop is light or heavy.

FARMERS' UNION GOES ON RECORD FOR LOCAL OPTION

Spokane, Nov. 8.—A new move was made in the Whitman county local option Saturday, when the Palouse local of the Farmers' Educational and Cooperative Union unanimously adopted a resolution condemning the liquor traffic, putting the union on record officially favoring local option, and advising its members to trade in towns and with persons who openly stand for local option.

While the grange has gone on record at different places on the local option question, this is the first official action on the part of the Farmers' Union. L. C. Crow, state president, was present. Petitions asking that Palouse be voted dry at the election November 30 are being circulated.

OUTSIDE CORPORATIONS LOSE STATUS IN CALIFORNIA

Los Angeles, Nov. 6.—Judge Bordwell, in the superior court recently held to be unconstitutional the California statute providing that a corporation organized outside of the state and having no articles of incorporation on file with the secretary of state of California could maintain or defend actions in court. Judge Bordwell declares the provision invades natural, fundamental and constitutional rights, and deprives corporations of property without compensation. The case in point was that of L. P. Green against the Pacific Coal Company, an Arizona corporation.

Forbes for Manila Governor.

Washington, Nov. 6.—W. Cameron Forbes, vice governor general of the Philippines, has been named by President Taft as governor general to succeed the present governor general, James Smith, who resignation has been accepted, to take effect November 11, at the expiration of his leave of absence. Mr. Forbes has been acting for several months as governor general in the absence of Mr. Smith.

LEGISLATIVE ERROR

VOTERS NEED NOT DECLARE PARTY POLITICS AT PRIMARIES

One Section of Primary Law Held by Supreme Court to Be Invalid—Amendment Should Have Been to Registration Instead of to Election Law.

Olympia, Nov. 6.—The state supreme court has affirmed the decision of Judge Mitchell, of the Thurston county superior court, holding invalid the provision of the new primary election law requiring voters to designate their party affiliation. The decision was written by Judge Chadwick. It declares that "in a most laudable endeavor to correct an existing abuse the last legislature altered section 12 of the primary law," and "in its attempt to meet a condition the legislature has stopped short of its purpose, and its endeavor must be held to be ineffectual until a proper amendment is made to the registration law making compliance with the later law possible."

The decision points out that the new law in its title fails to refer to section 12, although it attempts to amend it in the body of the act, and further that this new law is an election law, and cannot under any rules of interpretation be held to amend the general registration law, as it had intended to do.

This particular section held ineffectual was intended to prevent Democrats from taking part in Republican primaries, and vice versa, and provided that at primaries "the elector shall have the right to receive the ballot only of the party for which he registered." The legislature neglected to provide any amendment to the registration law to meet this party declaration, hence the act fails.

There had been general calls upon the attorney general for a determination of this section of the primary law, and some weeks ago Assistant Attorney General Tanner, with County Attorney Wilson and City Attorney Bigelow, of Olympia, all Republicans, framed a test case and submitted it to Superior Judge Mitchell, of Thurston and Mason counties. These attorneys all contended the section was invalid, and Judge Mitchell rendered a decision to that effect. By agreement the attorneys took an appeal to the supreme court, and because of the importance of the question, and the fact that primary elections are to be held in many places in this state November 9, the case was considered ahead of other pending appeals.

Incidentally investigation of the new primary law shows other void features. The title purports to amend sections 1, 2, 3, 5, 10, 13, 29, 30, 33 and 38 of the 1907 law. Actually, the body of the act attempts to amend sections 2, 5, 10, 12, 13, 28, 29, 30, 33 and 38. Section 28 relates to personal expenses and advertising by candidates, and under this decision, because this section was not referred to in the title, the amendment is void.

WAR WILL CONTINUE, SAYS F. J. HENEY

San Francisco, Nov. 6.—Francis J. Heney, admitting defeat at the hands of Charles M. Fickert in the race for district attorney, announced his intention of continuing the war against graft, declaring:

"The first battle for equality before the law has been fought and lost, but the war against graft will continue to be waged by all true soldiers who have been fighting with me in the great cause of common honesty, common decency and civic righteousness.

"The fight between the forces of evil and the forces of good is and must be a perpetual one. The first battle of Bull's Run cast a gloom over the entire earth, but the disaster only inspired the immortal Lincoln and his followers with stern resolution and fresh courage.

"San Francisco has received a sad blow and the cause of equality before the law a great setback, but be of good cheer and take fresh courage, you many thousands of good men and women who have joined in this fight for the maintenance of the purity and protection of our homes and the uplifting of the moral standards of our city.

"We have been defeated in this election, but the sober moral sense of the community will again reassert itself and San Francisco will vindicate herself before the world.

"I retract nothing that I have said during the recent campaign. On the contrary, I reassert the truth of all that I have stated from the public platforms. I have no regrets except that for poor San Francisco and the many thousands of people who fought shoulder to shoulder with me in the good fight.

"Let us all firmly resolve that we will continue the battle for equality before the law with unabated vigor until success has crowned our efforts."

NEW YORK BANK CLEARINGS REACH UNPARALELLED SUM

New York, Nov. 6.—Exchanges of the clearing house banks Wednesday aggregated the unparalleled sum of $736,461,549, or $50,000,000 in excess of the previous record, $636,884,990, made on January 4, 1906. Wednesday's figures reflect the heavy interest and dividend disbursements of November 1, as well as the accumulated business of election day.

TO IMPROVE COLUMBIA

MEMBERS OF WATERWAYS COMMISSION WILL TRAVEL UP GREAT RIVER

Examination to Be Made for Purpose of Ascertaining What Is Needed—Subcommittee Has Recently Returned From Tour of European Rivers.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 8.—A subcommittee of five members of the National Inland Waterways commission will investigate the Columbia river probably late this fall for the purpose of reporting to the whole commission physical conditions that prevail on the river, in its ports and among vessels which ply it.

The subcommittee will probably be headed by Representative Frederick C. Stevens of St. Paul, and will board a government boat at Portland, make a trip to the mouth of the river, thence returning and proceeding to the head of steam navigation on both the Columbia and the Snake.

Compare With Europe's Rivers.

The commission considers the Columbia the most important object of its attention west of the Mississippi river, on the descent of which the whole commission left this morning.

The commission has just returned from a six months' tour on the important waterways of Germany, Austria, Hungary, Holland, Belgium, France, Great Britain and other European countries. While there they visited the mouths of the Thames, the Rhine and other streams issuing into the ocean where some trouble with bar formation is met. The subcommittee will compare the conditions prevailing at the mouth of the Columbia with their observations in Europe. Their trip from Portland up the river will be attended with much the same investigation as is being pursued now on their trip down the Mississippi river.

Starts Down Mississippi.

The commission assembled in St. Paul Friday and boarded the government snagboat David Tipton Saturday morning at 8 o'clock to descend the Father of Waters. The commission is due to arrive in New Orleans November 19. The commission will ascend a short distance both the Illinois and Missouri rivers. The Ohio will be left to a subcommittee later in the year. The commission was joined at St. Paul by Major A. S. Riche, of the government arsenal at Rock Island, Ill., who has charge of the government dredge, snag and light boats on the Mississippi river. Colonel Bixby, chairman of the Mississippi River commission, also joined them, and they will be joined at St. Louis by other members of the river commission, who will accompany them to New Orleans. The David Tipton will also be prepared to take aboard delegations from St. Paul, Dubuque, Keokuk and other river ports.

AGREEMENT MADE AS TO GRANGEVILLE-RIPARIA ROAD

Portland, Or., Nov. 6.—For the purpose of jointly operating the Hill and Harriman lines between Riparia, Wash., and Grangeville, Idaho, the Comas Prairie Railroad company was incorporated here last Thursday. Joint operation of two roads which have a total of about 150 miles, has been under consideration for some time, and Thursday the final details were completed.

The Harriman portion of the railroad is known as the Oregon, Washington & Idaho, and extends from Riparia to Lewiston. From Lewiston the Northern Pacific has extended a branch to Grangeville.

The incorporators are J. P. O'Brien, general manager of the Harriman lines in Oregon; W. W. Cotton, chief counsel of the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company; J. B. Kerr, counsel in Portland for the Hill roads, and J. H. Fogarty, assistant general freight agent of the Northern Pacific railway.

BOUILLION PREDICTS COMMISSION FOR SEATTLE

Seattle, Nov. 6.—A. V. Bouillon fired the first gun of his mayoralty campaign in a speech before the members of the Men's Club of the Temple Baptist church, at Third avenue and Cedar street. Following the speech he offered to and did answer many questions put to him on municipal affairs.

He prophesied that Seattle would adopt the commission form of government within two years; spoke on the merits of such a system; criticised the present and past administrations for the "indiscriminate granting of privileges to private interests," and traced the high taxes of the city to the lack of a feeling of responsibility for the proper government of the city on the part of citizens and to civic improvements which he termed unnecessary. The platform on which he would run, he declared, was the highest possible efficiency in the administration of municipal affairs.

Rain Helps at Wenatchee.

Wenatchee, Nov. 6.—The Wenatchee valley is having a rainy season and more rain has fallen than at any time within the past three years. It is welcomed by the fruit growers and wheat growers alike, as the moisture will be of great benefit throughout the winter. It insures a good growth of the wheat planted this fall and is putting everything in good condition. The apple crop is practically all picked and marketed.

PERPETUAL PEACE

SECRETARY KNOX MAKES IMPORTANT SUGGESTION TO JAPANESE VISITORS

Would Have Voluntary International Compacts Which Would Compel Peaceful Settlement of All Differences Which May Hereafter Arise.

Washington, Nev. 6. — Secretary Knox has invited Japan to enter into a compact making practically compulsory peacful settlement of all difficulties with the United States.

The secretary's invitation was not in the form of a state document. It was a suggestion to the Japanese commercial commissioners in an address by Mr. Knox at a banquet given in honor of the visitors from the Mikado's land. After proposing a toast to the emperor of Japan, Mr. Knox said:

"This is an opportunity of which I gladly avail myself to speak of ties which have contributed to unite our two nations in amity and essential harmony ever since the days when, to American representatives, first of all, you opened your doors for the reciprocal exchange of good will and civilization and trade. We have learned from you as you from us. We admire you for all of your national gifts and virtues, and not the least for those qualities in which you differ from us. For the eminent qualities drawn from a long and glorious past, through which you must teach and we must learn. It is your word 'bushido' that expresses the source and inspiration of much of the strength and nobility of the Japanese temperament. Then let western chivalry, which also looks back to lofty origins, learn what eastern 'bushido' has to teach.

Tribute to Prince Ito.

"Because of these ties between us, we sometimes share a common grief and mourning. This country mourns with you the untimely, cruel death of the great Prince Ito, which, to those among us, like the president, who knew him as a personal friend, was a deep personal loss. He was justly a hero of Japan, a great man, a noble, self-sacrificing patriot, a statesman of masterly constructive ability. His career is the history of New Japan, of the Japan which is now one of the great modern powers of the world.

"Commerce, exchange, markets, trade extensions—these are the fields in which the friendly commercial rivalry now proceed between the American and Japanese peoples find expression. Each, indeed, furnishes a wide market for the other, and beyond their respective boundaries they engage in this friendly trade competition for the various markets of the world, and will continue so to engage.

"But the great modern movements of accord and good understanding between nations are after all the lofty achievements and crown of all international relations.

"The controlling principles of these movements is peaceful and beneficial international intercourse and the peaceful settlement by arbitration of differences and controversies—extending that principle, by friendly diplomacy, as rapidly as possible to embrace an increasing number and variety of disputes, and ultimately by voluntary international compacts making peaceful settlements of all differences compulsory, or practically so.

"Thus the long and unbroken friendship of the United States and Japan, of which your visit and this occasion are such happy symbols, and the laudable common purpose of Japan and the United States to respect each other's rights and with frankness, patience and good temper to adjust such differences as inevitably arise even between nations of sympathetic and common purposes, will be exemplars which will bear fruit and aid in the gradual realization of the noblest ideals for the unity, concord and prosperity of the world."

The banquet was given by the staff of the Japanese embassy. Stirring addresses were made on the ties which unite Japan and the American nation, the wonderful progress of the former country and the importance of bringing about a perfect commercial understanding between the two.

Secretary Ballinger declared that men were born to be useful to one another, and nations likewise, and so he declared in that matter of international relations Japan could be useful to America and America to Japan.

Shibusawa Favors More Trade.

Baron Shibusawa was especially appreciative of the treatment accorded his countrymen. "Japan," he said, "wants to do the best she can within her power to pay the heavy debt she owes to America, and one of the most effective ways to do this, I believe, is in promoting the trade relations between the two countries. That trade already is extensive. Japan's intention is to take part in America's trade to the utmost of her ability and her opportunity."

Methodist Foreign Mission Fund.

Pittsburg, Nov. 6. — Announcement was made at the annual convention of the general executive committee of the Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal church that $686,476 was available for foreign mission work during the coming year. Appropriations were made to branch organizations as follows: Northwestern, $155,000; Topeka, $48,500; Pacific, $56,500; Columbia river, $15,500.

REFORM BILL PASSED

MEMORABLE CONTEST IN COMMONS ENDS IN GOVERNMENT VICTORY

Bill Proposes to So Tax Swollen Incomes that the Rich May Bear a Just Proportion of Taxation—Also Provides for Heavy Taxation of Unimproved Lands—Attitude of Lords Indefinite.

London, Nov. 6.—The house of commons has passed the third reading of the finance bill by a vote of 379 to 149.

The scene in the house was memorable. Seldom has there been a larger attendance and the galleries were crowded to their capacity. Chancelor Lloyd-George, Premier Asquith and Mr. Balfour, leader of the apposition, all spoke and tense excitement prevailed.

Mr. Asquith, in a brief speech closing the debate, said it was incumbent upon those who objected to the government's taxes to provide some alternative scheme to meet the nation's necessities. Where was this scheme? he asked. Sooner or later Mr. Balfour must show his hand and it would have to be a hand that would suit the game of the tariff reformers.

The government, continued the premier, might be well content to rest in patience. There are only two issues before the house—taxes proposed by the budget or tariff reform.

Division was taken and the announcement of the vote, showing the government's majority to be larger than had been expected, was greeted with prolonged ministerial cheers.

The conservatives had counted upon a score of Liberal abstentions, but apparently only two Liberals joined the Nationalists in abstaining from voting.

The bill was sent to the house of lords and formally passed on its first reading, the debate on the second reading, which will determine its fate, beginning November 22.

Liberal Papers Pleased.

The Liberal papers are pleased that the budget has left the house of commons backed by a solid majority, representing the whole strength of the party, including the labor members. The only matter of discontent is the refusal of the Nationalists to support the budget.

In explaining his party's decision to abstain, John Redmond, in a speech in the house later, emphatically declared that if it was to be a question of the lords' power to block the country's legislation permanently, he would not be on the side of the lords, but on the side of the commons and he would not allow himself to be cajoled from this attitude by reason of his opposition to increased taxation in Ireland. In connection with the idea that the lords had decided to reject the budget, a mystrious paragraph appears in the Daily Telegraph, a strong Unionist organ, declaring that nothing has yet occurred that can be taken as defining the lords' attitude. On the contrary, says the statement, the peers will approach the consideration of the bill unpledged and untrammeled. This paragraph possibly foreshadows the intention of the house of lords to attempt to amend instead of totally rejecting the budget.

Reforms Budget Provides.

Roughly speaking, what Lloyd-George's budget, passed by the house, provides is this:

To place so heavy a tax upon swollen incomes as to compel the rich to bear a just proportion of the taxes they have hitherto dodged.

To tax unimproved land so heavily that it will be too expensive for the holders to leave it longer unimproved.

To tax the reversion of leases so heavily that it will no longer be posan excessive profit by withholding it from sale.

To tax increases in realty values sufficiently to give the public its share in increase which, by its enterprise and improvements, it has at least helped to cause.

To break up great fortunes by the imposition of death duties sufficient to scatter them in the course of a few generations.

Angell Receives Decoration.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 6.—Dr. James B. Angell, president emeritus of the University of Michigan, was notified that he has been decorated by the emperor of Japan with the first class of the Imperial Order of the Sacred Treasure. The letter said: "The emperor has been pleased to confer upon you this honor in token of his high esteem for you as one of the foremost educators of the age, especially in the education of a number of our countrymen who have proved themselves extremely useful in Japan."

Date of Next Dry Farming Congress.

Spokane, Nov. 6.—October 3 to October 8, 1910, is the time recommended for the next national dry farming congress which will meet in Spokane. These dates were chosen at a meeting of business men, it being proposed to hold the interstate fair on the same date. The board of governors will meet here November 2 to shape the plans for the congress.

Ellison Succeeds Craig.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 6.—S. J. Ellison was promoted from assistant general passenger agent to general passenger agent of the Great Northern railway. Mr. Ellison succeeds A. L. Craig, now general passenger agent of the Great Northern railway.

LABOR MEN LOSE

APPEAL OF GOMPERS, MITCHELL AND MORRISON IS DENIED.

District of Columbia Supreme Court Thinks Orders Should Be Obeyed Under All Circumstances—Appeal to Be Taken to Federal Supreme Court.

Washington, Nov. 3.—The district court of appeals yesterday affirmed the decree of the supreme court of the District of Columbia, adjudging President Samuel Gompers, Secretary Frank Morrison and Vice President John Mitchell, of the American Federation of Labor, guilty of contempt of court in the Buck Stove and Range case.

The court held that the fundamental issue was whether the executive agencies of government should be obeyed or defied. The mere fact that the defendants were the officers of organized labor in America, said the court, lent importance to the cause and added to the gravity of the situation, but it should not be permitted to influence the result.

"If an organization of citizens, however large," the court held, "may disobey the mandates of the court, the same reasoning would render them subject to individual defiance. Both are subject to the law and neither is above it. If a citizen, though he may honestly believe his rights have been invaded, may elect when and to what extent he will obey the mandates of the court, instead of pursuing the orderly course of appeal, not only the courts but government itself would become powerless and society would be reduced to a state of anarchy."

The action of the supreme court of the District of Columbia in sentencing Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison to twelve, nine and six months' imprisonment in jail, respectively, was the reresult of failure of these three defendants to obey the order of the court directing them to desist from placing the Buck Stove and Range Company, of St. Louis, on their "unfair list" in the prosecution of their boycott against the corporation.

While the name of the corporation was removed from the unfair list of the federation, Messrs. Gompers and Mitchell continued to keep alive the boycott by frequent reference to it in the Federationist, official organ of the federation.

In announcing the decision Justice Wright had declared that the defendants had "intimidated, browbeaten and coerced" the patrons of the stove and range company until it had suffered a severe loss.

Pending an appeal, the three defendants were allowed to give bail for their reappearance.

Last March the court of appeals modified the decree granted by the supreme court of the District of Columbia by adding to the injunction the words, "in furtherance of said boycott."

The modification was looked upon by attorneys for the defendants as materially affecting the proceedings for contempt. They claimed that had those words appeared in the original injunction the contempt proceedings never could have been decided against them.

When the decision was rendered neither the labor leaders nor their counsel was present. As forecasted by Mr. Gompers in a recent issue of the Federationist, an attempt will be made to appeal the case to the United States supreme court. The right of appeal, however, is a matter of controversy. Some attorneys hold that as this decision finds the contempt to have been a criminal offense, the court of appeals would have the last say in the matter, as it has of all criminal cases in the district. Others, however, contend that as the constitutional right of free spech and liberty of the press is involved, the labor leaders may prosecute an appeal. No action will be taken toward the arrest of the men until the matter of the appeal has been determined.

Chief Justice Sheppard in his dissenting opinion, held to the view that the decree should be reversed, because he was convinced the lower court was without authority to make the only order which the defendants could be said to have disobeyed. The chief justice says:

"I have heretofore expressed the opinion that much of the injunction order was null and void because opposed to the constitutional provision concerning freedom of speech and of the press. Subsequent reflection has confirmed this view."

Frank Morrison, the only one of the defendants now in Washington, while disappointed over the adverse decision of the court, declared he found much consolation in the dissenting opinion of the chief justice. President Gompers is in New York.

New York, Nov. 3.—President Gompers issued the following statement in regard to the decision yesetrday on the Buck Stove and Range Company case:

"With all due respect to the majority of the court, I can not surrender constitutionally guaranteed rights because a judge will issue an injunction invading and denying these rights.

"Chief Justice Sheppard's dissenting opinion is in defense of the constitutional and inherent rights. Minority opinions of courts in the past when human rights were invaded have ultimately prevailed, because the law of the land and the generally accepted rule of life, and I have an abiding faith that the rule in this case will prove no exception.

"If Imust go to jail, I shall have the consciousness of the fact that other men have in the past been compelled to suffer in defense of justice and right in the cause of humanity and for the maintenance of human liberty."

STIR IS PREDICTED ON TAFT'S RETURN TO CAPITAL

Portland, Ore., Nov. 8.—The Oregonian's Washington correspondent says: The return of President Taft to Washington next Wednesday is expected to put an end to the policy of delay which has dominated the Taft administration since the passage of the tariff bill last August. Since the departure of the president and almost his entire cabinet from Washington many matters of great importance have been postponed for settlement pending their return.

At present nobody in Washington pretends to know what the Taft adminisration expects to ask for passage at the coming congress. The meeting of that body is only a month off and yet the paramount issue of the administration is not yet apparent.

The state department presents the most chaotic condition of any of the executive departments, as a result of the policy of delay. Changes in the diplomatic corps at London, Paris and Pekin are on the table and the new Far Eastern and Latin American bureaus are yet to be put on a working basis.

In the absence of Secretary Nagel the department of commerce and labor is administered by Solicitor Earl, who is acting secretary since Ormsby McHarg, the assistant secretary, resigned. The customs division of the treasury department, which administers the new tariff law, is being supervised by Charles D. Hilles, assistant secretary of the treasury, in addition to his regular duties, which are in themselves onerous.

It is understood here that this hiatus of public authority on the part of higher officials of the administration has not been without result. Practically all of them, from the president down, have been giving close study during summer months to departmental affairs with a view to outlining a definite administration policy to each.

SEATTLE MILKMAN SERVING TERM FOR CONSPIRACY

Seattle, Nov. 8.—A. L. Erickson, president of the so-called milk trust, otherwise known as the Seattle Retail Milk Dealers' Association, was taken to the county jail Saturday to serve a term of ten days' imprisonment for conspiring to increase the price of milk. Erickson was tried and convicted two years ago and sentenced to the jail term and a fine of $500 imposed.

The case was fought through the superior court, Erickson maintaining that he was absolutely innocent of an intent to raise prices. The higher court has returned a remittitur upholding Erickson's conviction. A deputy sheriff arrested him and he began his term in jail.

"My arrest is an outrage," declared Erickson. "I cannot avoid serving a term in jail, but I will tell the public how an innocent man has been made the victim of circumstances, and the mark at which all the odium about the so-called milk trust has been aimed. I am a plain business man, doing business in a legitimate way, and it is a shame that I should be disgraced in this manner."

Steel Rails Unloaded.

Attalia, Wash., Nov. 8.—Tracklaying in the North Coast yards has been begun here. Nine cars of steel have been unloaded and ten more are on the way. In addition, several cars of lumber and other material have arrived.

This point has been selected as a supply station for construction work each and west. The equipment has been increased by an Atlantic steamshovel, weighing 88,000 pounds and having a capacity of 2 1-2 yards a minute.

Milk and Milking.

Many people believe that milk is ready-made and stored in the udder of the cow simply awaiting the milker. This impression is corrected by the statement of the well-known scientist, John Burroughs, who says: "Most persons think that giving down or holding up the milk by the cow is a voluntary act. In fact, they fancy that the udder is a vessel filled with milk, and that the cow releases or withholds it just as she chooses. But the udder is a manufactory; it is filled with blood from which the milk is manufactured while you milk. This process is controlled by the cow's nervous system; when she is excited or in any way disturbed, as by a stranger, or by taking away her calf, or any other cause, the process is arrested and the milk will not flow. The nervous energy goes elsewhere. The whole process is as involuntary as is digestion in man and is disturbed or arrested in about the same way.—Indiana Farmer.

We observe, with a feeling akin to satisfaction, that the old story of "Moreover, the dog," has got around at last to the London Titbits. Elderly persons will remember that it was current when they were children.

Census-taking is a difficult business in Mexico, where the masses are in fear that the enumeration means compulsory military service or more taxes. Consequently, the coming census in that country will be taken by high officials, priests and men of the greatest local prominence, in order that it may be more accurate than in the past. In the City of Mexico President Diaz himself, as well as his cabinet members and the archbishop, will personally assist in the work.

There were contentions over primacy of discovery before Cook and Peary. Hardly any great discoverer of history, from Columbus down, established his fame without debate that has left plain marks upon carefully written and authentic history. Henry Hudson, the tercentenary of whose discovery of the river named for him was recently celebrated, is no exception. Historians decided long ago that he was not the first white man to enter New York harbor. New York City is honoring him as discoverer of the river instead of the bay and the city's site. But the debate incident to the celebration throws doubt about even his primacy in that respect, though it is certain that he explored it farther up than any predecessor. The real discoverer of the mouth of the Hudson was undoubtedly Giovanni da Verrazano, an interesting Italian adventurer, half explorer, half pirate, who was employed by Francis I. to harry the Spaniards in the new world as the gallant servants and lovers of Queen Elizabeth harried them afterwards. Verrazano coasted the whole North America continent from Carolina to Nova Scotia, making doubtful discoveries in Chesapeake Bay and and other places, but certainly entering New York harbor in 1524, 65 years before Hudson came in the Half Moon. The authenticity of this event is recognized by American historians like Fiske and Winsor and the Hudson river and adjacent lands appear on a copper globe preserved in New York made in 1547, labeled "Verrazano or New Gallia." The only question is how far up the Hudson the Italian sailed and whether he recognized it fully as a river and not a tidal inlet. This is not important enough to prevent the Italians of New York from setting up a monument to his memory in Battery Park with the permission of the city authorities. Here is encouragement to Dr. Cook that posterity at least will do him justice.

Extremists in action often have an important work to accomplish in social evolution. They never can accomplish the particular things they aim to accomplish, but they jar society loose from some of its ingrained habits which with the course of time have become harmful and bad. It is the same with extremists in belief or creed. They are all wrong in their absolute proclamations of what is the truth, and they are often very offensive in their bigotry, but they nevertheless are real contributors to progress. Not the extremists themselves, however, but the moderates who follow them mark the real entrance of progress. And the appearance of the moderate views, which embody the good in the rival creeds while discarding only the elements of rash assertiveness, is always welcome. It is in this way that the views of a speaker at the conference of the American Hospital Association in Washington are to be welcomed. He gave statistics showing the decreased use of drugs in American hospitals, a really remarkable showing, and went on to discuss the methods of hygiene, sanitation and mental healing which were now accomplishing much of what drugs were formerly asked to accomplish. The extremists in the use of drugs were as bad in their way as any extreme denouncers of drugs are today. Because some drugs have marked specific beneficial effects, it does not follow that drugs should be used indiscriminately, any more than it follows that because there has been a great abuse of drugs all drugs should be abandoned forever. Without the extremists in the use of drugs the many extremists in faith and mental healing would probably never have appeared. To-day we are seeing a movement of reconciliation from both sides. It is apparent in the recognition which the family practitioner gets, the man who helps the health of a family as much from his good qualities as a man as from his ability as a physician. It is apparent in the organizations to combine faith healing with medical attention, each where it is most fitting. It is apparent in such testimony from doctors as that which has just been quoted. America has had a whirlwind of extreme creeds and fads in food and health matters during the last decade or two. The world has wondered at them. Perhaps the result will be an all the quicker appearance of sanity and wisdom in the care of health which the world will unqualifiedly admire.

Quite Absurd!

We are so accustomed to having things "out of season," and especially to the cutting and storing of ice for use in the summer, that it is hard to put ourselves in the place of the simple old farmer told of by a writer in the Toledo Blade.

In the summer of 1900 a party of surveyors was working through the State of Aranksas, surveying and locating the Midland Valley road. One day the surveying corps stopped at a farm house and shouted for the farmer.

The Arkansan came out, and the surveyors asked him if they could get a drink.

"Certainly, boys," he said. "I'll give you the best I've got, and the best I've got is buttermilk."

"That will be fine," the surveyors said, and the old farmer gave each of the gang a glass of buttermilk.

"It's mighty good," said one of the surveyors to McLoud.

"Yes, indeed," McLoud replied, "but it would be better if we had some ice to put in it."

Turning to the farmer, McLoud said, "Have you any ice?"

"Ice!" shouted the farmer, tugging at his whiskers. "Ice! Who ever heard of ice in July?"

Dickens Family Lost Big Fortune.

Dickens was one of the most successful financially of all authors. His was no case of genius starving in a garret. "Pickwick" placed him above want at 25, and for a period of 30 years following its publication in 1836-7 he received a princely income from his writings. His American tour brought him $50,000. His estate at his death in 1870 was estimated at $400,000. That his grandchildren should now be in need of the trifling pension bestowed on them is a painful illustration of the vicissitudes of family fortune.

OFFICIAL PAPER

FRIDAY, Nov. 12, 1909

The Angeles correspondent to the P.-I., under the caption "Wets Show Strength in Angeles Primaries," puts up a dirty slur on the church going people when he says the main fight between the wets and drys centered on Councilman Grubb, who maintains a bar, and William Graham, a prominent church member, thus trying to convey the impression that the church and law and order people, as a class, were arrayed against the saloon element of the second ward, and took an active part in the contest. The idea obtained from this statement, as well as the further one that the "drys" indorsed the councilmen who were victorious in the third and fourth wards, would be utterly false. This attempt, clearly made in behalf of the saloons, to slap the church people of Angeles in the face was a dirty, contemptible trick. Mr. Graham made a gallant fight in his ward — which contains all the saloons, a mere handful of residences, and is the home of a very small percentage of the business men —against great odds and comes out of it with his head erect, his hands clean, and a bigger vote than anyone would have thought possible.

Prominent church member! If that had anything to do with the case, kindly tell us which is the more prominent church member, Mr. Graham or Mr. Grubb!

The bar-keepers and their friends have been taking great satisfaction the past few days in claiming credit for the defeat of C. W. Fields for city clerk, and they are welcome to all the pleasure that is to be derived from it, for there's no tears to be shed and no aching void to be filled around this dump.

No man with a family of six, having the least regard for their present comfort and future welfare, can afford to accept employment in this country at forty dollars a month. Only by employing an assistant to keep the office open for registration and other minor matters, can the clerkship be considered at all.

It is true, the council, in its estimate of expenses for the coming year, upon which the tax levy is partly based, provided for an increase in the salary, and Mr. Fields filed his declaration of candidacy in the belief that it would hereafter be worth while for one to give the work his personal attention during office hours. But the ordinance raising the salary was held up in committee, in company with the street assessment district and a host of others, for political purposes. When it became apparent that the price for passage of the ordinance was support of the saloon interests, there was nothing doing so far as Bill was concerned and his "candidacy" was dropped on the spot.

Mr. Shields and his friends made an extensive canvass for his election on the one ground of personal service in the office, and the Olympic-Leader sincerely trusts the council will make good, so that it may be worth his while to do the same by his pledge to the voters.

As a sixty dollar job, so far as Mr. Fields was concerned, the office envolved his principles and his integrity. As a forty dollar job, requiring one's personal attention—why, bless your soul, it wouldn't even buy the drinks.

We understand G. M. Lauridsen is crowing over what he terms the defeat of the Olympic-Leader. Let Mr. Lauridsen run for office again and he will find it a mighty lively corpse.

GLORIOUS "SALOON VICTORY"

Lewis, Myers, Grubb, Elliott, Fitzgerald and Rouse Elected.

Great has been the rejoicing in the camp of the saloons, and among their sympathizers and hangers-on, over the sweeping saloon victory of Tuesday last.

After the Olympic-Leader's unqualified success in electing its "independent county tickets" at the last two general elections; after carrying the county for Senator Ankeny; after securing a solid delegation for Ashton to the recent congressional convention; and after several minor but even more important victories, such as its fight for the advancement of our public schools, it has gone down to defeat at the hands of the bar-tenders of the Second Ward.

Lewis, Myers, Grubb, Elliott, Fitzgerald and Rouse, almost an entire council-membership, were elected by decisive and even by handsome majorities.

To be sure, Hallahan has been wiped off the map, but why should the loss of the "Boss of the Council" be allowed to dim the glory of the victory!

To be sure, Lewis, Myers, Elliott, Fitzgerald and Rouse are not saloon men, but why should a mere trifle like five out of six be permitted to cast a shadow upon the joyful festivities!

In Doctor Lewis, nominated without opposition, the people recognize a man who is subservient to no interests, who in his professional work is continually brought face to face with the results of the liquor business; a man who has ever worked for what he believed to be the benefit of the city as a whole, a straightforward business man with decisive opinions of his own, who, in his previous term as mayor, gave the city the best administration it has had.

In the election of Myers for councilman-at-large the saloon question was not even considered, as his vote in the second ward plainly shows; a man who cannot be browbeaten nor coerced and a man who, while not a prohibitionist, will be found a counterfeit if "picked up" as a supporter of the saloons.

In the election of Elliott the anti-saloon people, aided by those of the fourth ward who believed that a change would be for the best interests of the city, achieved a victory as surprising as it was gratifying. And in the defeat of Hallahan the strength, the very backbone, of the saloon interests, so far as the city council is concerned, has been broken. For whatever else may be said of Hallahan, it must always be remembered that whatever he proposed should be done was done and whatever he was ferninst died a bornin'. To Hallahan is due a fair share of that respect the world feels for the successful man, whether that success is for or against the best interests of the people. By voting with the saloon interests he effectually made the city council a saloon council — his defeat was the most signal victory the anti-saloon forces could possibly have accomplished.

In the second ward, the stronghold of the saloon—which contains the largest proportion of voters who have no families, own no property, have no interest in the welfare of the town and whose entire earnings pass over the bar—it was recognized from the beginning that while there was a chance to fight, there wasn't even a fighting chance. Just enough was said, just enough work was done, to get out the entire vote and ascertain the actual majority that would have to be overcome by the vote in other wards when the special local option election is held. It is safe to say that Mr. Graham received every vote that any candidate against the saloon councilman could have brought out. And the showing made — that the saloon stronghold will have only forty-one majority when it goes up against the other five wards of the town—was well worth the effort.

Well may the saloons rejoice! With but one saloon man elected to the council, and the control of that body lost; with a strength of but forty-one in the saloon ward, and with a local option election about to be held, they should rejoice now, before it is everlastingly too late!

The Base Ball Boys, in order to raise necessary funds to clean up some little indebtedness incurred this year, as well as start a fund for '10, will give a masquerade ball New Years' Eve. It is the intention to make this the first of several entertainments to be given this winter, so that it will not be necessary to solicit funds at the beginning of next season.

E. E. Fisher is making extensive alterations in his drug store, preparatory to opening up the new line of holiday goods. Additional windows have been put in the rear, giving light for a large prescription room, and the space formerly occupied by that department will be used for holiday goods. Fresh paper and paint will add to the attractiveness.

I take this method of publicly thanking all my friends who stood by me unsolicited during the city primary. Your friendship and good will I shall always court.

C. W. FIELDS.

ANGELES SCHOOL NOTES

Faculty's Challenge for Basket Ball Game Accepted.

The foot ball game at Townsend last Saturday resulted in a score of 11 to 0 in favor of the other side. The score was made in the first half. In the second half our boys took a brace and kept their opponents from scoring but were themselves unable to get the ball over their opponent's goal line. The Angeles team was weak on interference and seemingly could not make a gain except on line smashes which is a somewhat cumbersome way of getting over the ground for a touchdown. The Townsend team averaged heavier than our team and have of course had more experience in the game, add to that many of our boys were in the game against a strong team for the first time and the score shows up quite satisfactory and promises well for the future of foot ball. A little enthusiasm for the efforts that the boys are making would help out a great deal. The star players for Angeles were the ends and Clyde Sewell on the line. The following was our line up:

The return game will be played in Angeles next Saturday. The Athletic Association is a little behind financially on the games this year, and would appreciate a good attendance on Saturday. The game will be called at 2 p. m. Tickets for sale at 25 cents.

The contest to be held for the purpose of selecting winners for the State debating league has been postponed until Friday, Nov. 19. This postponement was made in order to give the candidates more time for preparation, as owing to the pressure of school work it is difficult to find sufficient time to prepare adequately for the contest. The following are the contestents: Harry Stiles, Grace Babcock, Lorena Fulmer, Floyd Hayne, Leola Foster, and Jennie McLeod. The judges will be Prof. Peterson, Miss Chambers and Rev. Rogers. An admission fee of ten cents will be charged to cover the expenses of the hall, etc.

The following is an extract from the City Superintendent's report for the month ending Friday, Oct. 29, '09:

Total enrollment, (year) -	502
Total enrollment, (month)	495
No. enrolled last day, - - -	471
Average daily attendance,	468.7
Per cent of attendance, - -	95 7-9
No. of pupils doing High School work in Manual Training, -	13
No. enrolled in M. T. department from the grades, - -	62
No. of High School students enrolled in music department,	13
No. of High School students enrolled in art department, -	12

When, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for, and incumbent upon such personages as the honorable members of the Port Angeles High School Football and Basketball teams to make reply to a vain and boasting challenge, such as was lately made by the members of the High School faculty, we, the parties of the first part, gladly and joyfully, in fact are overjoyed and with the greatest pleasure do hereby make known our decision with regard to accepting or rejecting so momentous and weighty a challenge. We, the above mentioned parties of the first part, realizing and appreciating and having due respect and regard for the ability and capacity, as well as the experience of the aforesaid parties of the second part but wishing to maintain the lofty position and honor in which our reported boast has placed us, not denying or contradicting the same, but freely and willingly confessing it, do hereby accept the above mentioned challenge with conditions as to time, place, etc., as stated therein and do agree and promise to meet the aforesaid parties of the second part who so vauntingly have thrown down to us the gauntlet, and will demonstrate to said parties what we are capable of doing on the battlefield of basket ball. At the same time we desire to convey to our worthy opponents that, tho it does require a considerable nerve to accept this challenge, we have the necessary amount of it.

ST. ANDREWS HAS VESTED CHOIR

Last Sunday the vested choir was inaugurated at St. Andrew's church. The first verse of the first hymn was sung in the vestibule and then as the second verse began, the choir in surplices and caps marched slowly up the aisle to their places. The morning choir consists of twelve little girls and six young ladies. It is the first time in several years that the worship of the Church has been enriched by this very beautiful feature, and it most certainly is an aid to the devotions of the congregation to hear the sweet clear voices of the white robed children leading in the music. While the solemn reverent procession adds greatly to the dignity of the service, the very reverent conduct and the quietness of the children during the entire service is a matter for favorable comment.

There is also a vested choir on Sunday evenings, but at that service the music is furnished by the ladies of the morning choir, assisted by the young ladies of St. Margaret's Guild.

The united chorus will soon begin rehearsing for a musical service for the Sunday after Christmas, when probably for the first time in Port Angeles many of the very old English Christmas carols will be sung.

MRS. L. A. STROBEL

Mrs. L. A. Strobel died at her home in this city at 1:15 Saturday morning, Nov. 6th. The cause of her death was paralysis, her illness being but a few days. She was stricken early Monday morning, Oct. 25, and did not regain complete consciousness thereafter, although able to say a few words at a time.

The deceased was born in Indiana in 1852, moving with her parents first to Wisconsin and to Whatcom county, Washington, in 1871. She was united to Mr. L. A. Strobel at Tacoma in 1893. One child came to bless this union, Florence Strobel, who with her husband and father are left to mourn the loss of an indulgent and loving mother and wife. Funeral services were held at the home on Sunday morning, Nov. 7th, conducted by Rev. Stephen Smith. The remains were laid at rest in Ocean View.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to express our sincere thanks to all or our neighbors and friends who assisted us during the sickness of our beloved wife and mother. Especially do we feel gratified to Mr. and Mrs. James Sanford for what they have done for us; also to all the neighbors of the W. O. W. who attended the funeral.

Schweitzer, wife and three children, and Mrs. Hadank, Mrs. Schweitzer's mother, arrived in Angeles Monday from Peoria, Ill., Mr. S. has rented the McIvor house on Sixth street, until recently occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Sam Owens, where the family will set up housekeeping. Mr. Schweitzer has large property interests here.

Rev. Stephen Smith preached a most excellent sermon last Sunday morning at the Congregational church from Luke 9, 28:38. The lessons given were inspiring and tending to draw one up out of the every day perplexities of life, as well as assisting his hearers to see more clearly the grandeur of the transfiguration scene upon lofty Mount Herman more than nineteen hundred years ago

A special feature of the service was the singing by the choir. The duet by Mr. Bonnett and Miss Ball was especially good. That there is an increasing interest among our people in all that pertains to spiritual uplift and civic rightousness is shown by the constantly increasing attendance at the churches of the city.

The High School Juniors gave a very enjoyable reception at Parish Hall last evening to the Freshmen, and several of the teachers were especially invited. In early evening, the Sophomores, in search of cake, fruit salad and punch, said to have been provided for refreshments, effected entrance to the hall, overpowered the guards and made way with the fixings for a little private lunch, whipped cream on nabiscos. It is said they also decorated the members of the guard with liquid shoe polish and water colors.

Mount Vernon, Sedro-Woolley, and Burlington, all thriving cities in Skagit county, will hold local option elections on December 31.

The petition for Sedro-Woolley was signed by 150 voters, the law requiring but thirty per cent of the registration. Vancouver, on the other hand, on the 2nd, voted to remain in the "wet" column, while in Clarke county, voting on that day, all the other places went dry. Donald McMaster, president of the Clarke county local option league, served notice on election night that he had already begun to organize to call another election at Vancouver, one year from date. That's what the law and order people of Port Angeles propose doing. Keep everlastingly at it until they win.

George Davis of Dungeness was taken before Justice T. C. Alexander at that place on Saturday, upon complaint of Mrs. Davis, charged with assault and battery, and upon a hearing before that tribunal was assessed $50 and placed under $500 bonds for one year to keep the peace. Mrs. Davis alleges that on the 24th of October, her husband came home intoxicated and after some words attacked her, tearing her clothes and pulling her hair, causing her to flee from the house in scant attire and seek the protection of the authorities. Mr. Davis denied ever having struck her or pulling her hair. On this occasion he confessed coming home and having trouble with his wife, but alleged that she flew at him in a rage and that he simply took hold of her in self protection and held her, that in attempting to release herself she tore her dress and in this condition she left the house without any provocation.

PORT ANGELES, WASH.

The Sioux, a fast twin screw passenger vessel for daylight runs on Puget Sound, has been designed by naval architects for the Puget Sound Navigation company and plans are being drawn for her construction at some future date. The vessel will probably not be ready for use until 1911, unless passenger traffic on the Sound should make it necessary to rush her to completion. She will be the best vessel of her type on this coast and will supplement the Chippewa, Iroquois and Indianapolis. She will have a speed of twenty knots an hour, thus enabling her to make the round trip to Vancouver in one day, leaving Seattle at 8:30 in the morning, discharging passengers and baggage at Vancouver, and returning after a half hour's stay, reaching this port before midnight. She will accommodate 1,500 passengers, will be 215 feet long, of 36 feet beam, and possessing a cabin 175 by 28 feet in dimensions. She will have an indicated horse power of 3,500.—Times.

The question as to whether teachers are entitled to pay for the time occupied in attending teacher's institutes has been settled by State Superintendent Dewey in the following opinion:

"First—Districts are required to pay teachers for attendance at institutes held prior to opening of the school, whether engaged prior to the time of the institute or subsequent to the date of holding the institute, provided, of course, that the teachers attend the institute in the county where they are engaged.

"Second—A district is not under obligations to pay a substitute teacher, as such teacher is not under contract with the district for the year, for attendance at institute held prior to opening of school."

"Port Angeles is just a little the best proposition west of the Rocky Mountains," when we are asked as to the future of our city or any worthy business proposition of its citizens. This is the sort of spirit that we would like to see take possession of our people. If it did, we need not wait for a railroad to go ahead with leaps and bounds. It's the pull together that counts.

Texas has only twenty-four totally wet counties. In 1887 there were only five totally dry counties. County prohibition is in force in large parts of the 64 remaining counties. In the northwestern section of the Lone Star state, there are 80 dry counties in one solid block, covering an area of nearly 75,000 square miles.

Prune Charlotte.

Stew 1½ pounds of prunes, pit them and sweeten with a cupful of sugar. Line a well-buttered pudding dish with strips of bread and butter or buttered toast. Pour in the prunes and flavor with a teaspoonful of vanilla. Cover with bread and butter strips and bake in a moderate oven until lightly browned. When done turn out, sift sugar over it and serve with cream.

A long-suffering Paris husband went to a physician for something to cure his wife's shrewdish temper. The physician could discover no cause for the woman's irritability till he saw her dining room. It was papered in bright red. He ordered the room papered in blue, a soothing color. The husband filled the prescription and, according to the reports, his wife soon after became as amiable as at the beginning of the honeymoon. Wives with ill-tempered husbands might remember that what is sauce for the goose might do equally well for the gander.

Grape Juice.

Stem twelve quarts of grapes and put them into a large preserving kettle. Add two quarts of water, bring slowly to the boil and strain, pressing out all the juice. Return the juice to the fire, bring to a hard boil and pour, scalding hot, into bottles set in hot water. Seal immediately.

The Exceptional Equipment

of the California Fig Syrup Co. and the scientific attainments of its chemists have rendered possible the production of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, in all of its excellence, by obtaining the pure medicinal principles of plants known to act most beneficially and combining them most skillfully, in the right proportions, with its wholesome and refreshing Syrup of California Figs.

As there is only one genuine Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna and as the genuine is manufactured by an original method known to the California Fig Syrup Co. only, it is always necessary to buy the genuine to get its beneficial effects.

A knowledge of the above facts enables one to decline imitations or to return them if, upon viewing the package, the full name of the California Fig Syrup Co. is not found printed on the front thereof

Many crimes diminish. Defalcations, in spite of the popular impression to the contrary, are far less in amount than they were. Wealth has grown and fiduciary responsibilities swell, but the total amount of defalcations annually are below those of a few years ago. Skilled bank burglaries are less numerous. The safe, electric light and electric alarms have got the better of the bank burglar. Counterfeiting notes does not compare with the amount, number and risk, under the old bank note system half a century ago, or in the first twenty years of the national note system, bank or treasury, from 1863 to 1883. Every bank had to watch once for counterfeits, as it does not now. To-day counterfeiting is on a petty scale. Postoffice thefts by officials have almost disappeared. Instead of hunting for them, as its members once did, the postal secret service or force of inspectors is principally dealing with the use of mails for swindles.

Chicago had a day late in August, set apart by proclamation of the mayor, for a general cleaning up throughout the city. Such days have been common in recent years in Western cities, but usually they have been selected in the early spring, and chiefly for the sake of a neater and more attractive city. The midsummer cleaning up of Chicago's back yards, alleys and vacant lots was a recognition of the fact that unclean conditions at that season are most dangerous to the public health.

Pickled Onions.

After peeling the onions throw them at once into boiling vinegar, of which a quart is to be allowed to a quart of onions. In this vinegar there should previously have been boiled two teaspoonfuls of salt and an ounce of pepper in the kernel. Boil the onions about five minutes, put into glass jars, and when cold cover or seal till wanted for use.

No-Egg Gingerbread.

One cup molasses, two tablespoons sugar, two good tablespoons lard or butter, one teaspoon soda. Beat well a little ginger, cinnamon, salt and tablespoon vinegar, one cup cold water. Flour to thicken.

DYSPEPSIA

"Having taken your wonderful 'Cascarets' for three months and being entirely cured of stomach catarrh and dyspepsia, I think a word of praise is due to 'Cascarets' for their wonderful composition. I have taken numerous other so-called remedies but without avail, and I find that Cascarets relieve more in a day than all the others I have taken would in a year." James McGune,

THE NEWS FROM THE COUNTY

SEQUIM

The Yeoman held a reception last Saturday evening in honor of the six beneficiary and one social member that were initiated into the mysteries of Yeomanry. Mrs. Geo. Pears, Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Howell, Wm. H. Carson, and Chas. McDougal were among the number. After the initiation and congratulations, games were enjoyed, followed by a fine supper.

Chester Hamilton rode the Woodman goat last Saturday night.

Virney Grant is having his house plastered.

Mrs J. M. Grant received a letter saying Mr. Grant was sick in a hospital at Aberdeen, but was getting better and she is looking for him to come home.

Arthur Howell, who was sent to his parents in Colorado last July, has returned, much improved. There is no place like Sequim for him.

A farewell party was given the young folks of the Wm. Long family at the Independent school house last Saturday evening. A large crowd was present and all enjoyed a delightful evening. At midnight a fine lunch of cake, coffee and sandwiches was served.

There will be a basket party at the Independent school house on the 20th, in an effort to raise funds with which to purchase school furniture. All ladies are invited to come and bring a basket

Most everyone has dug their potatoes, and they have turned out fine, large smooth ones and lots of them.

Frank Duncan is putting an addition to his house. It will give them needed room.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy G. Wilber spent Wednesday and Thursday in Port Angeles visiting, and on business.

Willis and Dr. Cook were guests, last Saturday, of Superintendent Miss Annette Trumbull, Port Angeles.

Robert Brenton has bought ten acres of land of Ernest Ware. It is a corner lot and fine location. Robert has commenced clearing, getting ready to build a home on it.

S A. Wilbur and family moved back to their home near Sequim this week. Their friends did a fine thing for them by cleaning, painting and papering their house, and in helping them to get settled. It was an agreeable surprise for Mrs. Wilbur.

Archie Rudd has bought Mrs. Dawson's fine acreage.

Henry Wright, who has been east of the mountains all summer, came back to Sequim last Saturday.

School opened again Monday. It is to be hoped there will be no more sickness this year. The upper room has been partitioned making two rooms, and 24 new seats added.

Raymond Long is much better; he was down town Saturday.

Sam Kilby and son of Blyn were at Sequim on business Monday.

William Long has sold his fine large home to Ovel Dunn of Seattle, formerly of Blyn.

Dr. Cook's hospital is full of patients. She sent for a trained nurse to assist her.

Mr. Rice, the insurance man, met with a bad accident, falling and breaking three ribs.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Duncan, a son. Mother and babe doing fine

A good many are sick with grippe.

John Jones and F. T. Balch were in Port Angeles on business for the school last week.

Willis Cook was in Seattle this week.

DUNGENESS

Richard McAvoy will have an auction sale Friday, Nov. 12th, at ten a. m. Mr. McAvoy and family will spend the winter in Seattle.

J. C. Meyers, the new teacher of the upper grades, opened school Monday. Mr. Allen, the former teacher, resigned a month ago and has returned to Berkeley, California.

Miss DesVoigne went to Seattle Friday, returning Monday.

The Ladies Aid Society will meet every two weeks beginning Wednesday, Nov. 17th.

Mr. Seal is enlarging his store, which will give him a larger shoe department and enable him to lay in a stock of furniture and stoves.

The United States lighthouse tender Manzanita called at the lighthouse bringing oil and supplies. Capt. Ellicott, U. S. Navy inspector for the 13th lighthouse district, made an inspection and found everything in good order. No one as yet has been assigned to this station to take the place of D. H. Somerville. Mr. E. A. Brooks and McBride are expecting some one soon.

Mr. J. W. Pettett is away for a few days on business.

Duck hunters are very much in evidence and judging from their luck ducks are very plentiful also.

We are pleased to report that Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Duncan are rejoicing over the arrival of a bouncing baby boy. The stork arrived last Friday. We all believe he was pleased with our village and hope he will come again.

C. H. Babcock, salesman for the New England Granite and Marble Co., was in town placing a family monument in the lot of A. and Lewis Cays. It is of Rose Sweede imported granite; they are also putting an iron coping and fence about Mr. Henderson's lot and a family monument for the McLaughlin's lot.

Mr. Ed. Pettitt and wife will remain in Dungeness and in the spring go on to Tom Evans' place, which he has bought.

We sympathize with Mr. Seal; its pretty dark at ten o'clock these days.

Rev. Owen Jones, Sunday school organizer for the Presbyterian Church, was in Dungeness and Sequim Sunday, the 24th, and preached Sunday evening in the church. He found our Methodist school alive and in good condition.

Mrs. Wooten gave a birthday party for her son Henry Tuesday evening. The little folks had a good time.

F. Cydell was one of our visitors during the week bringing several friends with him from Seattle including Messrs. Tyler and Young. They had a good time with old friends. Mr. Cydell reports business as good. They returned Monday evening with a good string of ducks.

QUILLAYUTE.

Married—In Seattle on Oct. 21st by Rev. R. W. Fletcher, former pastor at Quillayute, Miss Alice Gee of Stroud, N. Dak., and O. W. Smith of Quillayute. On Saturday evening, Nov. 6, a large and representative company gathered at the church to welcome the newly married couple to Quillayute. It was feared for a time that the bridal party would fare as happened to certain maidens in the long ago and receive the greeting, "Too late!" But the delay was due to nothing more serious than a fractious team. All was going merry as a marriage bell when the bride and groom arrived and were presented. Song, story, recitation, conversation and the melodious strains of a harmonica, as only Mr. Danielson can render the old familiar airs, made a delightful program. Formal words of welcome and congratulation were given by Pastor Oakey, to which the bride responded in an exceedingly gracious and happy manner. Not only Ollie, but Quillayute as well, is to be heartily congratulated over the addition to its social and everyday life of a woman "not too bright or good for human nature's daily food"—but bright and good enough. Light refreshments were served by Mrs. Harvey Smith and Misses Lula Callonway and Beth Smith, after which, anigh the twal, the company separated, congratulating themselves over the enjoyment of an evening long to be remembered.

Mr. Robt. Polhamus of Port Angeles came in on the stage Saturday evening and will have charge of the district school during the coming term.

Grandma Smith is home again after six month's absence in Seattle, and is much improved in health.

FORKS.

A petition to the postmaster general, largely signed here, protesting against the proposed change in the delivery of the mail on this route, was sent to Washington last week. The change would bring the mail here Sunday and otherwise unsettle arrangements in vogue all along the line for years past.

Mrs. Maybury was quite seriously ill several days last week.

Speaking of cougars, Ollie Ford killed one near Dan Wilson's home the middle of the week. Harvey Smith of Quillayute found the carcass of a large buck freshly killed by one of the "varments," Saturday, on the school section

Martin Raun was on the sick list a couple of days last week—and this in spite of the fact that Mrs. Raun makes the trip to Clallam with him regularly.

BLUE MOUNTAIN

Mr. and Mrs. James Elves returned from Port Crescent. Mr. Elves will remain and improve his ranch.

On returning home from a business trip to Dungeness the other day, Mr. Cameron was surprised to find that his eleven year old son had shot a panther. The animal was eight and a half feet in length. Harry's parents are quite proud of their little hunter.

Miss Eva Hyde was called home Friday on account of illness.

Mr. Fred Niwenschwander gave a very pleasant birthday party. Cards and other games were played. Everybody had a good time. A novelty of the entertainment was the exhibition of a large turnip, by Mr. N., the largest one ever grown in the Blue Mountain district.

C. Lewis has invested in a valuable horse. The animal looks as if it could haul a big load up the hills.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis were happily surprised on Hallowe'en eve by a number of friends taking possession of their home. Everyone enjoyed himself
