BIG SHINGLE MILL AT PORT CRESCENT

Will Start With Daily Output of 200,000. Another Mill to be Built at Gettysburg.

Earles and Joyce Bros. have the material on the ground and are erecting a new shingle mill at Port Crescent. Four upright saws are to be installed now, giving an output of 200,000 or better per day; the mill is being built, however, so that two more upright machines may be installed later. This, it is understood, is but the beginning of the building up at Port Crescent of the big shingle milling business which was conducted at Bellingham for so many years, and which recently came to an end thru the destruction of the plant by fire, where Earles is said to have had the largest shingle mill in the world. The company contemplates putting in another mill at Gettysburg, a few miles farther on down the straits, at an early date.

NEW STEEL STEAMER FOR PORT ANGELES RUN

The Moran company has been awarded the contract for the construction of a steel steamship for the Puget Sound Navigation company, the cost of the new vessel to be about $175,000, says the Port Townsend Call. The vessel will be ready for service on or before June 1st next, and will be placed on the run from Seattle to points on the Strait of Fuca. Consideration of the contract has been in progress for some time.

The new vessel will be built on practically the same lines as the steamer Whatcom, now on the run, save that she will be of steel entirely up to the passenger deck. She will have a speed of 14 knots an hour, a knot faster than the Whatcom. The new steamer will have sleeping accommodations for 110 persons and all the staterooms will be two-berth rooms. A large observation room with a plate glass front, will be forward on the huricane deck, similar in design to the observation cabins on the Princess boats of the Canadian Pacific railway, and the new steamer will contain all the improvements and inventions which the modern ship builders art has brot to perfection, including wireless telegraphy.

MAJOR CROOKS HAS PASSED AWAY

As foreshadowed in last week's Olympic-Leader, the sands in the life of that kindly old veteran, Major S. M. Crooks, were nearly run and at one o'clock Thursday morning, December 23rd, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. S. Caldwell, Seattle, the tired eyes closed in the long sleep that knows no awakening till Gabriel shall summon the quick and the dead. Death came peacefully, as sleep comes to the weary, and while the earthly tenement remained to be consigned with loving hands to the bosom of Mother Earth, the immortal soul was carried on angels' hands to the realms of the blessed.

Major Crooks was a veteran of the civil war, 81 years of age, a quiet, unassuming man, highly respected and honored in this community, where he resided for several years. For many years he was a leading spirit in the Masonic lodge, where his advice was sought and heeded.

Four children survive: Phil. S. Crooks, New York City; Theodore Crooks, Reedley, Calif.; Mrs. W. S. Caldwell, Seattle, Mrs. E. A. Fitz-Henry, Port Angeles, Wash.

Funeral services, owing to the complete prostration of Mr. Caldwell who was worn out in caring for deceased, were not held until the following Monday. Mr. Caldwell accompanied the body to Clarinda, Iowa, where it was laid at rest beside that of the wife in the family plot.

Mrs. Caldwell came home with Mr. and Mrs. FitzHenry Monday, and will remain here a month or more.

Skagit county will hold a local option election on December 31st for the purpose of determining whether the sale of intoxicating liquor shall be licensed in the county unit, that is, outside incorporated towns.

H. J. Weeks will deliver a lecture in Haning Hall January 9th. Subject: Social Disharmonies, or the Leakage of the Social Kettle.

NEW DOUBLE STORE BUILDING BEGUN

Phelps Dry Goods Co. Will Have Modern Place of Business, 45 by 80, on Front Street.

Ground was broken Monday for the new double store building to be erected on Front street for Mrs. Phelps. Mr. Hugh Phelps, who has entire supervision of the building operations, came down from Seattle last week, appointing Mr. E. D. Eliott, contractor and builder, to have immediate charge of the work. It is the purpose of Mr. Phelps to put up a double store building, 45x80, on the lots immediately east of Hotel Angeles. The building operations that commenced Monday are for the east half the double building, 22½ by 80 feet. When this is completed and ready for occupancy, Mrs. Phelps will move her stock of merchandise therein, and the old building at present occupied by her will be torn away aad the west half of the new building erected.

The new building will be modern in all its appointments, with a plate glass front and up-to-date show windows. It will be electric lighted and steam heated—a furnace furnishing the heat. There will be a gallery on the east side of the store room, and an elevated cashiers' desk opposite. The trimming and fitting rooms will occupy the rear end of the store rooms. The roof will be of iron. A sky-light will furnish abundance of light. A retaining wall of concrete and heavy timbers will protect the rear end of the building.

Mrs. Phelps' constantly increasing business has rendered her present quarters entirely inadequate, and we feel sure she will appreciate a more modern and enlarged place in which to do business, and the trading public, especially the ladies, as well.

THE PIEDMONT ROAD

Govan & Woodcock are making progress with work on their Port Crescent-Lake Crescent road contract, already having two of the largest bridges completed and some work done on the road. Mr. Govan says the dirt will commence to fly in earnest shortly after the first of the month.

The city council, Tuesday evening, passed a resolution joining with the claimants on the government blocks, asking for the appraisement and sale of the lots included therein. It is said the supervising architect, at Washington, condemns as unfit for building purposes the corner at present occupied by the city hall, and says further that the department will never again make the mistake of locating the customs office on the hill, as at Townsend and Seattle. The architect is in favor of purchasing a quarter block west of the government block, on First street. It is thought the sale of the government blocks will provide sufficient funds to purchase the site.

The Anacortes Citizen is quite optimistic. That paper predicts that 1910 will witness the establishment of more new manufacturing enterprises in the Northwest, than ever before. That all cities and towns realize that they need payrolls to increase their well-being. Many of them are planning active campaigns to get new factories. In the middle west and eastern states, there are many enterprises ready to come to the Northwest, if the matter is properly presented to them.

Ferndale Record: Never have the banks of our rivers held so much water as this year, and never have our banks of deposit held so much gold But the inhabitant of old still dwells in the fold, and on the crest of the flood our country continues to vote dry. Strange things are happening in 1909, and strange it seems that in the face of adversity we should be blest with so much prosperity.

Moses was the first journalist, because he wrote on the tablets of stone—but Noah went him one better and advertised. Noah built the ark and announced the day for sailing. He whooped 'er up lively and made a great display. The non-believers scoffed at him and died in the wet water. You can't keep a good man down, especially if he advertises.

Parents who allow their boys to use 22-cal. and air rifles should look after them to keep them out of the clutches of the law. There is too much permiscuous shooting going on about town, and some deliberate destruction.

ACCEPTABLE SHIP SUBSIDY BILL SEEMS PROBABLE

Washington, Dec. 27.—A ship subsidy bil lthat can pass congress and meet the approval of the president seems to be in sight. Congressman Humphrey, of Washington, and members of the merchant marine committee of the house visited President Taft Friday and laid before him a bill introduced at the last session with amendments that have since been made. The amended bill met the approval of the president, it is said.

Mr. Humphrey and John Hays Hammond, a member of the committee that had the matter in charge, agreed that the bill would not be made public until it is introduced in congress on January 4.

Further than to say that the amended bill is neither a straight ship subsidy measure proposing to subsidize by tonnage and voyage, nor a mail subsidy bill, no members of the committee would tell of its provisions.

It is known, however, that the amendments were worked out with the aid of the Merchant Marine League, which has its headquarters at Cleveland, O., and the bill will have the support of the organization.

Coe paid $4,500 for his own machine. The cars were all high grade, several being in the $4,000 to $5,000 class. Bumper wheat crops in the Northwest were the cause of so much prosperity.

RAILROADS MADE BIG PROFITS

INCREASE IN EARNINGS PAST YEAR NEARLY A HUNDRED MILLIONS.

Interstate Commission Makes Recommendations in Annual Report—Binding Physical Valuation of Interstate Roads—Also Would Prevent Increases in Rates Pending Hearings.

Recommendations for changes in the present law regulating transportation companies are contained in the twenty-third annual report of the interstate commerce commission to congress. The report, however, is notable rather for recommendations it does not contain.

Five of the suggestions made by the special committee selected by President Taft to draft changes in the existing interstate commerce act are offered in the report. The commission expresses its conviction that certain amendments to present laws are necessary to enable it fully to accomplish the purposes of congress. Briefly summarized the proposed amendments are as follows:

That a binding physical valuation be made of the interstate railroads of the country.

That the commission be given power to prevent advances in rates or changes in regulations, or practices to the disadvantage of the shipper pending investigation of the proposed change.

The commission's authority to establish a joint rate and through route is limited to cases where no steamship route exists, and the commission recommends that this limitation be stricken out of the law, so that it may establish a through route wherever it is found desirable.

Earnings Were Enormous.

A further recommendation is that in certain instances the shipper be permitted to direct the intermediate routing of his traffic; that the law be so amended as to give the commission authority to enter a corrective order upon its own motion. The commission again calls to the attention of congress the increasing importance of federal control over railway capitalization. The annual report of the commission from the carriers show that for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1908, the gross operating revenues of all railroads in the United States were $2,461,521,346, and the operating income (derived by subtracting operating expenses and taxes) was $656,418,321.

For 1909 the operation revenue was $2,494,115,589 and the operating income $742,987,191, indicating an increase for 1909 of $32,594,244 in gross earnings and $86,568,870 in net earnings. The average number of miles operated in 1908 was 228,164 and in 1909 233,002. The large increase in net, as compared with gross earnings, is accounted for by a reduction of operation expenses in 1909 below that of 1908 of $59,224,983.

Since December 1, 1908, 35 indictments for criminal violations of the interstate commerce law have been returned and 42 prosecutions have been concluded. The fines collected under indictments aggregated $304,233.84.

The opinion is expressed that violations of the law, such as rebating, are decreasing. The number of men killed coupling and uncoupling cars for each 1,000 employes was three in 1893 and one in 1908, while the number of injuries for each 1,000 men employed in this service was 77 in 1893 and 16 in 1908.

GOVERNOR HAY FAVORS DAYLIGHT SALOON LAW

Governor M. E. Hay does not advocate state-wide prohibition, according to an interview at Spokane. The governor said:

"In explaining my position on the liquor question (at Davenport) I said that the Republican party had gone far enough on the liquor question at the present time; that I was not in favor of a state-wide prohibition law. In fact, if I had the making of the law, and if it was absolutely in my hands, I would not pass a state-wide prohibition law, as I feel that the people of the state are not yet ready for that law.

"I endorsed in strong terms the present local option law, stating that it is one of the best ever passed, and until I ascertained the will of the people through these various elections over the state, I was not in favor of the party's taking any further steps on this question.

"I stated that I would not make any recommendation to the next legislature as to changing this law, unless it is discovered that some minor matters might need correction, but that I was going to ask the legislature to pass a law known as the daylight saloon law; that is, to permit the sale of liquor only between sunrise and sunset, no liquor to be sold after sundown and before sunrise. A law of this chartcer has been passed by the Nebraska legislature and has been sustained by the supreme court."

Money for Winnipeg World's Fair.

Winnipeg, Dec. 25.—Railways in Western Canada made joint arrangements last night for a gift of $2,000,000 for a world's fair in Winnipeg, provided it is postponed until 1914.

RECLAMATION IN WASHINGTON

OKANOGAN PROJECT REPORTED TO BE 97 PER CENT. COMPLETED.

Work on Other Projects Progressing Satisfactorily—Tieton Project Two-thirds Completed and Yakima Project More Than One-third—Condition of Other Projects.

Washington, Dec. 25.—The reclamation service reports the Okanogan project in Washington 97 per cent. completed. Sluicing operations at Conconully dam, says the report for December, were continued until November 12 with one shift, and were then discontinued for the winter on account of a troublesome amount of snow and ice in the water supply flume and pipes. About 6,000 cubic yards of material were sluiced from the barrow pits into the embankment, and about 600 cubic yards were hauled by scrapers and deposited in the puddled core.

In preparation for the resumption of sluicing operations next season, the pressure pipes in the barrow pits have been relaid, chutes have been built from the lateral trestles in the dam and the diaphragms for the puddled core have been raised. On the 21st of the month the laborers at the storage works were laid off for the winter and the works placed in charge of a watchman. The embankment now contains about 237,000 cubic yards of material and is 86 per cent. completed. The channel above the outlet to Salmon lake has been deepened by the removal of 225 cubic yards of material. In the fore part of the month a small force was employed in puddling the measuring weirs installed during the summer at lateral turnouts. This work has now been suspended for the winter. Farm unit plats have been prepared, estimates of cost made and other data collected for the second unit of the project.

Yakima Project.

Yakima project (Sunnyside unit, 37.5 per cent. completed; Tieton unit, 68 per cent. completed).

Kittitas unit: Weather conditions have been unsatisfactory throughout the month, delaying the work considerably. Thirty-five miles of preliminary canal lines have been located and classified and a reconnoissance has been made at Manastash creek to investigate storage possibilities.

Storage unit: Work at Bumping lake dam has been discontinued for the season. Unusually high water has occurred during the month in Yakima river, with a maximum discharge of 32,000 second feet on the 24th. No appreciable damage was done.

Sunnyside unit: The enlargement of the lower end of the main canal with a Lidgerwood excavator has been continued with satisfactory progress. Excavation with the Bucyrus dredge was begun on the 17th, but owing to necessary adjustments of the machinery the amount excavated has been small. The contract work on the lower end of Sulphur creek wasteway has been continued, with satisfactory progress in excavation and slow progress in the construction of drops. Drop 21 has been completed. Force account work on the cunette has progressed satisfactorily, one shift being able to keep up with the excavation by the contractor.

Work on Sulphur Creek.

On the upper or lined section of Sulphur creek wasteway excavation has progressed satisfactorily, about 60 per cent. of this schedule having been completed by the contractor. A small force of men and teams has been employed in excavating for the change of roadway required by the enlargement of the main canal. Material has been assembled for the installation of Drops 2, 3 and 4, and preparations have been made for further work in enlarging the main canal.

Tieton unit: Work on the canyon division has been practically completed, and a small amount of water is being delivered through the main canal for puddling structures on the laterals. Force account work has been continued on structures and sublaterals for the Naches branch of the distributing system, but progress has been impeded on account of weather conditions. The contractor on the main laterals has increased his force and is making satisfactory progress. A flood in the Tieton river on November 23 damaged a few construction bridges, but caused no damage to the completed canal work.

ALL RESERVATIONS IN GOVERNMENT'S CHARGE

Washington, Dec. 25.—That the federal government does not surrender jurisdiction over an Indian reservation simply because it is situated in a state and not in a territory was held by the supreme court this week in deciding the case of the United States vs. Harvey Sutton and Robert Miller.

These men were indicted in the United States court for the eastern district of Washington on a charge of having introduced liquor upon the Yakima reservation, but the indictments were quashed because the liquor was taken upon ground which had been allotted. This, it was contended, had the effect of bringing the transaction within state jurisdiction. The government appealed the case and in an opinion by Justice Brewer the decision of the lower court was reversed.

GOVERNMENT FOR ALASKA

PRESIDENT'S IDEAS EMBODIED IN BILL SOON TO BE INTRODUCED.

System to Resemble That of the Philippines Under Taft, Government Being in the Hands of a Governor and Council—Acts of Council Subject to Review.

Washington, Dec. 27.—President Taft's ideas regarding the government of Alaska have been embodied in a bill which will be introduced by Senator Beveridge soon after congress reassembles in January.

The bill will have the backing of the administration. The measure places governmental control of the territory in the hands of a governor and council, to consist of an attorney general, a commissioner of the interior, a commissioner of mines and a commissioner of education and health, all appointed by the president.

The governor's salary is $10,000 a year; that of each of the four commissioners, $7,500.

Each of the four judicial districts in the territory will elect a councillor to sit with the council sixty days each year to enact laws, the governor to preside and cast the deciding vote in the event of a tie. Elective councillors receive $25 a day. The governor has the right of veto. All acts of the governor and council are subject to review and approval or disapproval by the president.

The powers of the governor are much increased over those under the present system.

The whole plan is somewhat similar to the government administered in the Philippines under the Taft commission.

ZELAYA ESCAPES WITHOUT INTERFERENCE BY U. S.

Managua, Dec. 27.—Jose Santos Zelaya, former president of Nicaragua, has taken himself out of the country and is now aboard the Mexican gunboat Gen. Guerrera, bound for Salina Cruz. Under cover of darkness Thursday morning Zelaya, accompanied by a heavily armed guard, proceeded to Corinto, in which port the Mexican warship had been lying for several days close to the United States cruiser Albany. Other American warships swung at anchor in the harbor with marines aboard, awaiting instructions.

Zelaya's coming was unheralded, but a guard from the Guerrera received him and soon he was safe under the protection of the Mexican flag. At 5 o'clock in the afternoon the warship weighed anchor and pointed out to sea. A salute of thirteen guns was fired fro mthe shore and hundreds of soldiers and citizens waved the former dictator a farewell good-bye. Zelaya stood alone and waved back in answer. He uncovered when abreast of the Albany, but the American cruiser made no response. Then he turned again toward the shore, gazing until out of sight.

Princeton Does Not Interfere.

Shortly before the arrival of Zelaya at Corinto the United States gunboat Princeton got up steam and proceeded for San Juan Del Sur. Rumors prevailed that the Princeton intended to watch the movements of the Mexican gunboat, but she proceeded directly down the coast and her arrival at her destination was later reported, greatly relieving anxiety of Zelayan adherents.

The people were relieved when they learned that Zelaya had gone and President Madriz had begun his work of reform.

Minnesota's Rich Cargo.

Seattle, Dec. 25.—When the steamship Minnesota cleared this port this week she carried one of the largest and most valuable cargoes that has left this port for the Orient in several months. The list included 170,000 sacks of flour, 2,693 bales of cotton, more than 1,000,000 feet of rough lumber, 4,400 boxes of salt herring, 2,000 cases of canned salmon, 200 boxes of bacon and 850 crates of fresh vegetables, including cabbage, cauliflower and celery consigned to Manila.

The Minnesota also carried a large miscellaneous cargo, the total value of which was more than $400,000.

Drys Win Eighteen Counties.

Winnipeg, Manitoba, Dec. 25.—As a result of a local option vote in Manitoba this week, eighteen counties were added to the seventy which previously voted in favor of the no-saloon. There are fifty counties which still remain "wet." Twenty-one voted for license.

Supreme Court Adjourns.

Olympia, Dec. 25.—The state supreme court Thursday closed its October term and adjourned. The next term begins Monday, January 10. In the interim, by working night and day, the judges may be able to write opinions in the hundred or more cases now under advisement.

Grand Trunk Completed in 1912.

Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 25.—E. J. Chamberlain, general manager of the Grand Trunk Pacific, announces that the line will be completed and in operation from the Atlantic to the Pacific in 1912.

SWITCHMEN END NEGOTIATIONS

RAILROAD PEACE CONFERENCE TERMINATES SUDDENLY

Railroads Reject Demand For Complete Reinstatement of the Strikers—Leaders Predict that Strike of Other Railroad Brotherhoods Will Soon Be Called.

St. Paul, Dec. 28.—Contrary to expectations, developments during the day in the controversy between the railroads of the Northwest and the striking switchmen, instead of resulting in an amicable settlement of the strike, resulted in a wider breach than has existed heretofore. Not only have the switchmen declared off all negotiations with the railroads, but labor leaders say there is a strong possibility of a general strike by all allied orders belonging to the railroad branch of the American Federation of Labor.

H. B. Perham, acting as president of the executive council in session here, has left for Washintgon to seek advice.

"There may be a more general strike," said Mr. Perham.

President Hawley, of the scitchmen's union, asserted:

"Several other members of the railroad council besides Mr. Perham left for their headquartes last night to make preparations for a strike of their respective orders."

Mr. Perham, speaking of yesterday's developments, said:

Railroads Are Blamed by Men

"Friday we were on the verge of a settelment, and we thought the matter would be fixed up yesterday. But the railroads then presented a mysterious change of front and assumed such an arrogant attitude that we decided at once to have nothing more to do with them.

"I am leaving tonight for Washington. I have business in Chicago and Cincinnati first, but will arrive at the capital on Thursday. As the intervention of state authorities has failed, I shall seek aid of the United States in putting an end to a controversy that is causing bankruptcy and suffering to innocent people who have no voice in the matter."

Mr. Perham would not state as to which department at Washington he would appeal. He said he might seek to interest the interstate commerce commission and he might take the matter direcly to President Taft.

Would Re-employ Men Gradually

In the conference between the roads and labor leaders yesterday, the railroad officals refused to take back all the swtchmen at once, but agreed to re-employ all those for whom they had places. They gave the switchmen until 12 o'clock Wednesday to accept this offer. The offer was immediately rejected by the labor leaders

Later in the afternoon, President Hawley and Mr. Perham called on Gov. Eberhart and asked him to invite the interstate commerce commission to intercede. The governor replied that he did not care to act on this request until he had consulted the attorney general, who was out of the city, but who would return today. Asked as to how long it would take to call a general strike if such a conclusion were reached, Mr. Perham said:

"Some of the orders can be called out immediately. There would be some delay in calling out others because of a difference in the method of procedure in such cases."

View of General Managers

Chicago, Dec. 28.—O. L. Dickerson, speaking for the General Managers' Association, gave out the following statement:

"The conference between the railroads and President Hawley, of the Switchmen's Union, ended in Gov. Eberhart's office yesterday morning. President Hawley demanded that all the striking switchmen be reinstated at once, pending settlement. The railroads offered to take the men back as fast as possible without displacing men now at work. Mr. Hawley would not agree to anything but complete reinstatement of all men. Consequently further negotiations were at an end. The only important point of difference was complete reinstatement of all strikers at once.

"The railroads have officially notified Gov. Eberhart that they will hold open their proposition to Mr. Hawley until Wednesday."

SEATTLE MEN TO LAUNCH LARGE DAIRY AT DAYTON

Dayton, Dec. 25.—Columbia county is assured of one of the largest dairies in the Inland Empire if the project of A. Granger and other Seattle capitalists carries through. Initial steps were taken Thursday, when a deal was closed for the purchase of 380 acres of meadow land a mile north of Starbuck from W. S. Wooten at $18,000.

Representatives of the Seattle capitalists are now buying high-bred cattle to stock the dairy.

Peary Plans South Pole Trip.

Washington, Dec. 25.—Commander Robert E. Peary has informed the United Press that he intends to seek the south pole. He intimated that he will organize an expedition as soon as he has completed the magazine work on which he is now engaged.

Answers to Farmers

From Experimental Station, Pullman, Washington

Bellingham: "I intend to get Red Astrachan trees one year old, cut back to fifteen inches, and topwork the right varieties on the limbs the second year or third year after cutting back, unless they could be worked onto the slip when it is cut back. I expect to spray for scab and oyster shell bark louse, plow under the sod which is in the orchard now and sow muriate of potash and superphosphate at the rate of 600 pounds each per acre, besides putting in a few loads of stable manure. The soil is red silt loam with hard soil of a white color underneath. The loam averages twenty-one inches in depth with a small amount of gravel all through it. The white soil is underlaid with gravel so that the orchard is extremely well drained. What kind of culture would you recommend for this orchard? That trees are about 15 years old. D. S. J."

"We would not plant Red Astrachan for topworking upon, but would rather plant the Northern Spy, as it is more nearly free from insect pests. You will do well to thoroughly spray your orchard for oyster shell and San Jose scale. We believe that you are using too much fertilizer to start with. I would not use more than 200 pounds each, instead of 600, the first year, in addition to the manure that you apply. A little lime will greatly improve the soil. Good, thorough tillage will conserve moisture enough for big crops without irrigation in your section. We would plow in the fall and work early in the spring to maintain perfect tillage throughout the year."

To Treat Raw Pine Land.

Seattle: "I am putting some raw pine land into orchard and field crops. This land lies on the bank of the Columbia river, about twenty miles south of Kettle Falls. The soil is sand with a mixture of small gravel to a depth of over fifty feet. I desire suggestions as to the best method of treating such soils, especially with reference to getting an income as soon as possible. Last fall I sowed this tract with rye, which is to be plowed under next spring and followed with clover or peas. The question now is, how shall I treat the soil in the season of 1910? "G. L. T."

"After plowing under the crop of green rye that you have already seeded upon your land, we believe that you will be fairly successful with early potatoes upon the soil. Of course, the soil lacks humus and possibly nitrogen, and probably has considerable pine foilage, or twigs in it, especially if it is from densely grown forests. We know of no crop that can take the place of potatoes so far as the trees are concerned. This is not always a highly-paying crop, but is usually very good. Cabbage may be grown if you have sufficient moisture, but it is much more difficult to market. A small fruit crop will do well in a small way, particularly dewberries and strawberries. All these considerations will have to be governed by your local conditions relative to moisture and shipment of crops."

About Cabbages.

North Yakima: "It has been suggested to me that in this region cabbage is a profitable crop to plant after early potatoes. From some people who live here I have learned that cabbage fails to head for them, though a German near me last fall had the finest cabbage I have ever seen.

"I am in doubt as to the merits of the winter banana apple. By some authorities I am told that it is hardy, thriving well in any climate, and by others that it is not hardy enough for this climate. What are the facts in the case?

"Which is the better market apple, Winesap or the Stamen Winesap?

"I have some timothy sod and could plow it in December, when the ground is not frozen, or in the spring. Which would be better? E. C. C."

"The difficulty with cabbage which you cite is one of the common things we find in horticultural work. I believe personally it is due to thorough cultivation on one part and to lack of cultivation on the other part. It may be that the German used some barn yard manure, or similar fertilizer, which would help quite materially. We are now by experimentation endeavoring to learn why certain soils will not grow vegetables the first year after being reclaimed.

"We have always found the Winter Banana a very hardy apple and one that bears very satisfactorily wherever we have seen it growing. We do not consider it very satisfactory for altitudes less than one thousand or fifteen hundred feet.

"By all means, the common Winesap is a much better commercial apple than the Stamen Winesap. The Stamen runs large, colors poorly and has no better quality.

"Our only reason for preferring early spring plowing of timothy sod is that you would get more green growth to work into the soil than in fall or winter plowing. In case green growth is not necessary, then I would prefer the fall plowing."

When to Prune Trees.

Lewiston, Idaho: "Do you think it is safe to prune apple trees during the winter season, at times when the weather is not too cold, the wood then being dormant? Also, do you think fall planting is safe? E. H. T."

"For apple trees we prefer to prune, especially the young trees, late in the season or early in the spring, after all danger of winter injury has passed. Where we prune early in the season the ends of the terminal buds often die, which gives much annoyance.

"I believe fall planting is safe only where you have moist, not wet, soil, naturally hardened nursery stock, and you are sure that the winters will not be too cold. In other words, we favor early spring planting where it is possible. We are satisfied that we can make a better growth with fall planting than spring planting, but also know that we lose more trees by fall planting than spring planting. Under your conditions, however, if you have a lot of trees to plant, if you bank them from six inches to a foot high, and bind them with paper, possibly, it is likely that they will be carried through nicely if planted in the fall."

POLAR ROW GROWS EXTREMELY WARM

Washington, Dec. 25.—"No we won't," says the National Geographical Society in answer in the demand of Rear Admiral Schley that they send the proofs Peary submitted them to the University of Copenhagen, to meet the same examination given Cook's papers.

The National Geographical Society is terribly indignant that it should be called upon to "demean" itself in any such manner. "Our findings need no verification," say the men who gave Peary a clean bill of health.

Professor Gahnett, chairman of the committee that passed on Peary's proofs, acknowledges that every member of the body was personally acquainted with the explorer, but adds: 'I need not say that the investigations were carried out along scientific lines, without regard to personality or the standing of either claimant."

And as a result the polar controversy heat is hotter than ever before. The repudiation of Cook, instead of calming troubled waters, has lashed them into a fury.

People who know nothing of the merits of either case flock to Cook's banner because he is the "under dog," and because Peary's dictatorial actions all the way through have angered them.

STATE SUPREME COURT CONDEMNS "THIRD DEGREE"

Olympia, Dec. 25.—The supreme court has granted a new trial to E. P. Montgomery convicted in Spokane county. The decision handed down by Chief Justice Rudkin and concurred in by a majority of the judges severely scores methods sometimes employed by prosecuting attorneys and by jail officials in using coercion in getting a witness to testify as they wish.

All third degree methods are severely scored by the court and the conclusion is that the defendant in the case in point should not have been convicted on testimony procured through coercion, but that if Montgomery is really guilty of the crime charged he should be punished. The court sends the case back for a new trial.

SCHLEY SAYS PEARY SHOULD ALSO MAKE PROOF

Washington, Dec. 25.—Reaffirming his complete confidence in Dr. Cook, Rear Admiral W. S. Schley (retired) called upon Commander Peary to submit his proofs, that he had reached the north pole, to some scientific body other than the National Geographic Society.

This, the admiral declared, should be done at once in the interests of justice and to establish beyond question the claims of Peary.

The admiral believes that the same body which threw out and repudiated Cook's data should be permitted to pass upon the data submitted by Peary to the Geographic Society.

'The Danes are the best posted body of men in the world on Arctic matters," he said. 'The consistory of the University of Copenhagen should be given the opportunity to examine the Peary proofs, for in that way they would be submitted to the same test that was applied to those of Cook.

"The consistory which was regarded by the civilized world as more than friendly to Dr. Cook, showed by its action in turning down the explorer that it holds the scales of justice as it sees them, evenly and honestly."

Moreover, Admiral Schley believes that the submission of the proofs to Copenhagen should be insisted upon by Peary, whatever the attitude of the National Geographic Society may be. It was suggested to the officer that the society some time ago officially had declared its intention to let scientific bodies of reputable standing examine and test the Peary proofs when they had been passed upon by the society.

"But the organization has not done it," he retorted quickly. "So far there has been shown no disposition to carry out its avowed intentions, has there?"

Admiral Schley declined to say on what grounds he took exceptions to the findings of the scientists of the University of Copenhagen in regard to Cook's claims. He merely reaffirmed his belief in the explorer, adding that he believed also that Peary, too, had gained the top of the earth.

The importance of the admiral's demand is increased by the fact that he has had wide experience in the Far North. In 1884 he was in command of the Thetis expedition, which resulted in the rescue of Lieut. Greely and his six men, who had been cast away at Cape Sabine, and whom the civilized world had practically given up for lost. For this rescue, Admiral Schley, then a captain in the service, was awarded a gold watch and a vote of thanks by the Maryland legislature and a medal of honor by the Massachusetts Humane Society.

BIG HEADLIGHT FLASHES FROM AIRSHIP IN SKY

Flying at a speed of from 30 to 40 miles an hour, a mysterious airship one night last week appeared over Worcester, Mass., hovered over the city a few minutes, disappeared for about two hours and then returned to cut four circles above the city, using a searchlight of tremendous power. Thousands of persons thronged the streets to watch the mysterious visitor.

The airship remained over the city for fifteen minutes, all the time at a height that most observers set at about 2,000 feet, too great to enable even its precise shape to be seen. The glaring rays of its great searchlight, however, were sharply defined. The dark mass of the ship could be dimly seen.

At the time of the airship's visit, Wallace E. Tillinghast, a Worcester man, who recently claimed to have invented a marvelous aeroplane, in which he said he had journeyed to New York and return by way of Boston, was absent from his home and could not be found.

The visitor from the clouds was first sighted over Marlborough at 5:20 o'clock. The sixteen miles between this city and Marlborough were covered in 30 minutes.

Coming up from the southeast, the sky voyager veered to the west, remained in sight a few seconds and then disappeared to the northwest. In five minutes the searchlight was again seen, glowing in the darkness like a monster star, and the ship came up, hovered over the city a short time and disappeared to the southeast.

Two hours later an eager shout from the waiting crowds announced its return. Slowly, its light sweeping the heavens, it circles four times above the city and then disappeared, finally heading first to the south and then to the east.

The airship was also seen at Marlboro, Mass.

McCormick Buys Coal Mines.

Tacoma, Dec. 25.—A syndicate consisting of Robert L. McCormick, the timber millionaire; John L. McMurray and Newton H. Peer have purchased a controlling interest in the Commonwealth coal mine, located at Wilkeson, paying a price said to be $750,000. The mine, which is one of the best coal properties in the county, belonged to I. B. Winsor, and after a shutdown of two weeks opened Wednesday. It has an output of 250 tons daily, which the new management will double within two months. McCormick is president, McMurray vice-president and Peer secretary-treasurer of the reorganized company.

Work on the proposed new Union Pacific depot at Aberdeen has begun.

MUST WAIT FOR STATEHOOD

ARIZONA AND NEW MEXICO MAY HOLD STATEHOOD CONVENTIONS.

Unlikely However, that Enabling Acts Will Pass Present Session of Congress—President's Recommeedations, It Is Said, Will Furnish Excuse for Delay.

Washington, Dec. 27.—Statehood legislation at the present session of congress will not go beyond giving authority to the people of New Mexico and Arizona to hold constitutional conventions and provide means for such conventions, if the wishes of leading members of congress dictate the policy. This program is in harmony with the messages of President Taft.

In the last session of the Sixtieth congress the house passed a bill to admit New Mexico and Arizona as separate states. It was predicted the measure would go through the senate quickly. Such was not the case. Some members of the senate committee did not like the looks of certain land grants to individuals, which had not been received under territorial administration. Some claims for large holdings under Spanish grants were also viewed with suspicion. Furthermore, estimates coming from the territories as to population, both as to numbers and class, were not accepted, and it was thought best to delay action until after the 1910 census could be completed.

Place Responsiqlity on President

Mr. Taft's recommendations, it is said, will furnish the excuse for delay. The president urges that care be exercised "in the preparation of legislation affecting each territory, to secure deliberation in the selection of persons as members of the convention to draft a constitution for the incoming state," and that "such legislation, afetr adoption by the convention, shall be submitted to the people for their approval at an election in which the sole issue shall be the merits of the constitution."

In the case of the adoption of the constitution for Oklahoma, the election was complicated with the selection of state officers, and Mr. Taft is determined that this situation shall not recur in New Mexico and Arizona In the event of there being no issue before the people of each of the territories, except the adoption or rejection of the constitution, it is believed the best judgment of the people will prevail.

Executive Can Refect Teem

Should the conventions draft constitutions which do not adequately protect public interests in the matter of safeguarding public lands and resources, and should those constitutions be adopted by votes of the people of the territories, the president could reject them if he desired, and congress again could open the way for the adoption of satisfactory constitutions.

This course was well nigh impossible in the case of Oklahoma, as the people had expresesd their choice, and elected their state officers, and injustice would have been done them.

Indications are that a bill will be passed at this session providing for the meanss of holding constitutional conventions and for elections to pass upon the question of adopting or rejecting constitutions. It is believed that the effect will be to secure good state constitutions and make it certain that no new stars will be added to the flag within a year of the adjournment of the present congress.

MUCH CASH POR CROPS OF WASHINGTON FARMERS

Seattle, Dec. 28.—From eight of the staple agricultural crops farmers of the state of Washington, during the year received a total of $57,513,000, according to the Washington correspondent of the Post-Intelligencer. This does not take account of horticultural products at all.

To produce this amounnt 2,364,000 acres were farmed. Each acre, therefore, yielded an average of $24. The eight staple crops were corn, winter wheat, spring wheat, oats, barley, rye, potatoes and hay.

Wheat and hay, naturally, are the great crops of the lot, the wheat crop being for the year 35,780,000 bushels, with an avervage price of 93 cents at the farm, yielding $33,275,000, and the hay crop 780,000 tons, at an average farm price of $14, yielding $11,172,000

That corn is a good sized crop in the state of Washington will be a surprise to many, yet 15,000 acres were sown to corn and the result broght nearly $400,000 to the farmers.

Two huundred and two thousand acres of oats broght $4,751,000 for 9,299,000 bushels; 182,000 acres of barley yileded 7,189,000 bushels, valued at $4,601,000; 4,000 acres of rye yielded 84,000 bushels, valued at $79,000, while 41,000 acres of potatoes yielded 6,570,000 bushels, valued at $3,276,000.

To Purchase Embassies.

Washington, Dec. 25.—Provision for the purchase of the buildings occupied by the Berlin and Paris embassies of the United States at a cost not exceeding $350,000 each will be proposed in a bill which Chairman Perkins, of the house committee on foreign affairs, will introduce shortly after congress reconvenes in January.

BUSY AT OVERAMMERGAU.

Already Preparing for the Presentation of the Passion Play.

Oberammergau is already busy with preparations for the performance of the passion play, which will take place next year, a London letter to the New York Sun says. Thirty dates have been fixed between May 16 and Sept. 25, of which nineteen are Sundays. Extra performances are sometimes given on Mondays, when there are more people in the village on the preceding Sundays than can find places in the theater.

The great problem of the passion play committee is to prevent the performances from degenerating into commercialism. The play commemorates the departure of the plague from the village in 1633 and the devoutness of the actors is no less now than it has ever been; but already this autumn agents have canvassed the entire village to buy up sleeping accommodations for next summer and prices have been offered for single rooms which have almost turned the heads of the peasants.

No one can witness the passion play who has not spent the previous night in the village itself. Every house is registered as possessing a certain amount of sleeping accommodations, and the total number of beds in the village is approximately the number of seats in the theater—4,200. One-third of the beds in each house must be placed at the disposal of the local oficial lodging bureau. The householders may make their own terms for the other beds, with a maximum charge rigidly fixed by the committee.

Three great tourist offices of London, Berlin and Munich have secured a certain number of beds for the night betore each performance. Many of the villagers are reserving accommodations for visitors of 1900 to whom they are pledged and whom they regard as friends.

The burgomaster, Herr Bauer, has promised all his available beds to an English woman, who has taken a villa at Garmisch, twelve miles away, and will convey her guests to the village in a motor car. She has already received 200 applications for the accommodation.

The large firms of tourist agents have already about 3,000 applications and the local bureau is receiving scores daily. Offers of $6 and $7 a night for convertible sitting rooms, which the villagers would gladly let in ordinary seasons for 25 cents a day, are being made by agents, but such speculative offers have no chance of acceptance.

Anton Lang, who will be the Christus, as in 1900, is now 35. Since the last performance he has married a pretty young woman and they have three children. He is still a working potter, and his little shop is constantly invaded by visitors. He played Christus in 1905 in a special play on the history of David, and his wife complains that he often spent five hours a day signing photographs.

All profits from the sale of seats will be administered by the committee for the benefit of the village as usual. The actors are only nominally compensated. For them it is a labor of love and devotion.

It is expected that about 200,000 persons will go to the play next year, including fully 40,000 English and Americans.

Why Are the Old Poor?

"Is it not the old man's fault that he is poor?" you ask. Often it is. The aged man and women who drag out their weary lives in a hopeless effort to hold on are often the victims of their own sins, says Walter Weyl, in Success Magazine. A man may drink to excess for forty years, and wonder that at 60 he is not an established and respected citizen. The old man who waits at midnight in the bread line for crust and coffee, may be a wretched record of an ill-spent life.

And yet he may not be. He may be more sinned against than sinning; he may be turned out into the storm, as was King Lear, by his ungrateful children, or by the ungrateful children of his neighbors. The tottering, decrepit, dissolute old man may be the senile child of the boy who worked at 8, of the young fellow who was cast into jail for a trivial offense.

It is not true to-day that the righteous in their old age never beg bread. The chances of life are many, and a man may work and save, and yet in the last hour be penniless and friendless. The honored bank may break, the trusted friend defraud; even the insurance company may fail to insure. And there are men, honest and intelligent men, and great men and gentuses, too, who cannot keep their heads above water, and who are driven by their very humanity into a penniless old age.

Power with Safety.

"I think," said the ambitious man, "that I would like to be a king of finance."

"Don't think of it," said the great European money lender. "Think of the dangers that beset a throne. What you should say is that you would like to be a financier of kingdoms."—Washington Star.

HUSBAND DESERTION.

Some Interesting Facts About Divorces from Statistics.

The militant suffragette glared—then she smiled grimly. The M. S. had just learned, from glancing over the Census Bureau's statistics, that 10.5 per cent of the divorces granted to men were for the cruelty of their wives.

"False," was the comment that accompanied the glare.

"Serves 'em right," went with the grim smile.

Whether the last was a note of sympathy for the men who achieved membership in the ex-husbands' club or for the women whose cruel treatment led to the legal change of condition, the suffragette did not say. As for the Census Bureau, that department of state is a soulless affair, dealing only with facts and figures as it finds them, and it is no use abusing the bureau for showing up American men and women in such a poor marital light before the world.

It really is a sad story, though. Fancy the Census Bureau finding out that the pathetic story of the deserted wife whose husband has gone to parts unknown, leaving her to slave for the home alone, is losing a great deal of its force by reason of the fact that more wives are deserting husbands than husbands are deserting wives. The figures, cold and convincing, compiled by reliable statisticians, cannot be argued with; they record the fact that of divorces obtained by the American man for the desertion of his wife the percentage is 49.4, while the figures for the desertion of the wife by the husband are only 33.6. Well may the militant suffragette smile grimly. It looks as though the American wife were becoming a more independent creature than the American husband.

For this last development there is a reason that is obvious to any one. The girl of the present day is as well able to earn her living as her husband. If marriage proves a failure in her case she has only to tell her unsatisfactory husband that she has resolved to support herself and live apart from him, and he knows well that he can no longer hold over her head the club of poverty because of the loss of his earnings. She can support herself these days.

But about that cruelty charge. It sounds almost incredible, but here are again the Census Bureau's indisputable figures to show that reviewing the causes for divorces during the past forty years it has been discovered that the legal separation of husband and wife in consequence of the cruel treatment of the husband by the wife has increased 1609.8 per cent. No less than 10.5 of the divorces granted to men during the period reviewed by the bureau were for cruelty on the part of the wife.

As to the form that this cruelty to the poor husband takes, the Census Bureau is silent. It is not the business of the statistical department to delve as deep as that into causes. But it surely must have been a sufficiently cruel type of cruelty to induce an American judge to grant a divorce to the injured husband. Now that our girls are being systematically trained in the gymnastic class room at the school house and the anaemic woman is becoming a rarity, it behooves the American husband to practice diplomacy in the home or take lessons in the art of dodging rolling pins and broom handles.

But with her increased ability to chastise her husband, as shown by the Census Bureau's figures, there has also come, it is really too bad to have to record, an increase in a vice that has been considered one peculiarly belonging to men—that of drinking to excess. The figures show that the increase of drunkenness among women, as shown by the divorces granted for this cause, is 554.5 per cent. In fact, this reason for divorce comes second in the list, according to the census statistics.

The men have still a little the best of it in the race for divorce on the alcohol line, for, while the increase among women has been recorded as 554.5 per cent, the drunkenness of husbands has increased 699.9 per cent.

It is appalling to note that in the United States 73 divorces are annually granted to every 100,000 of population. To the same number of persons Ireland annually grants less than 1, England 2, Italy 3, Austria 1, Scotland 4, Germany 15, France 23, Switzerland 32 and Japan 215. Switzerland, with a ratio of 32, comes next to the United States, but this country wins by a huge majority in the general run.

An Intelligent Cow.

E. L. Evans gives us a story this week that is rich in the extreme. A few nights ago he went home and found a cow in his yard. He drove her out. He then went into the house and later heard the animal in the yard again. He drove her out the second and third time. Ted Evans, his son, came home later and found the animal in the yard and drove her out. Mr. Evans then made an investigation and found the cow got in by wading around the fence on the river side. He hung up a lantern to deceive the cow as she came in, and the next morning, so he says, he found the cow in the yard with the lantern hung on her horns, using the same to hunt out the best grapefruit in his grove. Say what you please, but that was an intelligent cow. And the story is true—of course it is.—Fort Myer Press.

The stories in a kin quarrel are as far apart as the stories of Dr. Cook and Commander Peary.

To date, the local option forces in this state have won in 35 special elections. Next fall they expect to win in at least fifty per cent of the 19 they have lost, nearly always by very narrow margins.

Eighteen cars of rolling mill machinery for Irondale have arrived or are now arriving at Seattle and nine more cars are on the way, the first shipment for the big plant. The freight charges are $850 per car.

Like the dutchman who cut off his dog's tail an inch at a time so it wouldn't hurt so much, the saloon keepers propose, in anticipation of the coming daylight law, to start in easy with a one till four closing ordinance.

Every county in the state is to send its Commissioners to the meeting of the good roads movement to be held in Aberdeen, January 20th to 21st. From 300 to 500 delegates are expected to be present to discuss the expenditure of the $1,500,000 appropriation and to formulate general plans for the permanent development of trunk lines.

Conservation will once more become the important topic for consideration when the joint Congressional committee investigates the charges that have been made against Secretary of the Interior Ballinger. This examination is at the request of the secretary, who persuaded President Taft that it was time to call a show down on the calumnies that have been heaped on him by the adherents of Chief Forester Pinchot. Concerning the radical view of conservation, Judge C. H. Hanford of the Federal Court recently said in public, "It is restriction of use, which is equivalent to waste. True conservation is the making of the best use of what we have, rather than leaving our resources untouched."

Governor Hay's appointment of Mrs. Emma Smith DeVoe, President of the Washington Equal Suffrage Assn., as a delegate to the National Divorce Congress, called by President Taft to meet at Washington January 14th to 17th, to formulate legislation on the question, is a graceful tribute to the part voting women have played in remedying the divorce evil. Since women were granted the ballot in New Zealand divorces have been reduced 77 per cent, while Wyoming, which has had equal suffrage longer than any other state, has the smallest percentage of divorces of any state in the Union.

An ordinance was introduced at the council Tuesday evening, by the saloon element, requiring that the saloons close at 1:00 a. m. and remain closed until 4:00. Evidently the saloon men are anticipating that the ordinance, already introduced and on file, requiring the closing of saloons at midnight, might be revived; but why they propose to remain closed all of 3 hours when 1 hour will answer the purpose fully as well is a mystery to us. It will be passed just as read, next Tuesday evening.

Att'y W. B. Ritchie was called to San Francisco last week on legal business. Angelites can depend upon it that Mr. Ritchie will always have a good word for our little city while absent. Mrs. Carrie Weldon, wife of T. J. Weldon who left for parts unknown some ten years ago, was taken before the superior court on Wednesday upon the charge of insanity and ordered committed. The case is a sad one as the examining board were wholly unable to get a rational answer from the woman. She had been noticed to be acting somewhat queer for some days previous and when before the Court was a raving maniac, though a seemingly harmless one. She would carry on a conversation with herself for hours at a time, asking questions and answering them, at other times laughing loudly and waiving her arms freely.

Potted eggs will be found very acceptable, and they may also be used in tartlets or as a filling for sandwiches. In either case a little cress is a great improvement, besides giving a dainty finish. ROOSEVELT, THE NIMROD

"I'm Poor Shot," He Said, but Here Is a Denial.

The caravan headed for Sir Alfred Pease's farm on the Athi River, says Warrington Dawson, correspondent with the Roosevelt party in Hampton's. This farm contains more game, and a greater variety, than any other piece of earth owned by one man in the world. Roosevelt and his party were to be the guests of Sir Alfred as long as they cared to stay.

All over the country could be seen the various spoors of the different game. Kermit got the first shot. About 200 yards ahead of him a fine buck darted into view and, like a flash, Kermit fired and the handsome beast fell dead. Col. Roosevelt smiled, examined the bolt of his Springfield rifle, and shoved the safety over in a way that indicated his intentions toward the next inhabitant of the jungle that showed up. He had not long to wait to try his luck. A small herd of wildebeeste, with shaggy manes and vicious horns, galloped across the track. Col. Roosevelt spurred his horse into a favorable position out of range of the caravan. As of one accord every man, white and black, stood still and watched. Roosevelt's Springfield went to his shoulder, and crack! crack! and down went two of the bounding wildebeeste.

The night before the party started on safari, when all were around the camp fire, the ex-president had declared that he was a very poor shot. When Cunninghame saw the two wildebeestes drop in their tracks he cried with a smile on his bewhiskered face: "Pretty bad shooting, that, eh, colonel? You pulled our legs beautifully last night." The colonel smiled, too, and without comment rode over to watch the shikarees skin the game.

A little later in the day a beautiful Thompson's gazelle stood out on the open, presenting a fine target, although at very long range. Col. Roosevelt got off his horse and took a kneeling shot, with the result that the gazelle is now being stuffed for the Smithsonian collection.

JEWELS OF GREAT PRICE.

Necklace Worth Half a Million Owned by Duchess of Hamilton.

Mary, duchess of Hamilton, is now 54 years old, but still a beautiful and robust matron, and she still shines brightly among the galaxy of Anglo-Saxon belles at the court of St. James.

As everybody knows, she is the mother of Lady Graham, the richest woman in the united kingdom, but it is not generally known that the duchess has in her own right almost as large a fortune as was left to her daughter, so she can well afford to assuage her thirst for fine jewels. Henri Chevalier says in the Cincinnati Enquirer. She is the possessor of and wears on state occasions a pearl necklace worth $500,000. It is made up of black pearls, not of gray, but of green luster, the latter being by far the most valuable.

Wonderful jewels of this sort are in the possession of royalty and the nobility. Some of the pearls on the duchess of Marlborough's much-talked-of rope are worth $5,000 apiece. Lady Denman has a rope of 400 pearls, each of which is said to have cost $750.

Some few years ago a necklace composed of 412 pearls, in eight rows, was sold for $39,100. The late Lady Henry Lennox's pearl necklace fetched, I believe, over $100,000, and the late Empress Frederick of Germany possessed a one-row necklace of thirty-two pearls worth at least $200,000. This is really made up of three necklaces, each of historic interest. One belonging to the ex-queen of Naples, sister of the late empress of Austria; the second was once the property of a Spanish grandee, and the third was formerly owned by the ex-Empress Eugene.

Pearls are possessed in plenty by some of the Indian princes. The Maharajah Gaekwar of Baroda owns a necklace of immense pearls and emeralds, splendidly set, and of priceless value.

Behind the Scenes.

A negro preacher in a Georgia town was edified on one occasion by the recital of a dream had by a member of his church.

"I was a-dreamin' all dis time," said the narrator, "dat I was in Ole Satan's dominions. I tell you, pahson, dat was shore a bad dream!"

"Was dere any white men dere?" asked the dusky divine.

"Shore dere was—plenty of 'em," the other hastened to assure his minister.

"What was dey a-doin'?"

"Ebery one of 'em," was the answer, "was a-holdin' a cullud pusson between him an' de fire!"—Harper's Weekly.

In reply to the allegation that an interest in athletics is prejudicial to scholarship, may be cited the case of the University of Maine football team, which continued faithfully to attend all college exercises, while the other students absented themselves on account of a disagreement with the faculty over the matter of hazing. To be sure, the football men knew they could not play out their schedule if they got themselves suspended, but whatever their motive, they got some instruction which the rest of the college missed.

The new marriage law now under consideration in Victoria, Australia, has as its object the prevention of clandestine marriages. One of the latest ideas for killing rats is a trap into which the animal walks, attracted by an electric light and a display of food. Once in he cannot get out and an electric current kills him in fifty or sixty seconds. The apparatus can be so arranged that the electrocuted animal itself signals its fate to any desired place, advising the watchman by an electric bell or the lighting of an electric lamp that there is a dead rat to be removed.

Music batons were first used in England about 1820. It was not until ten or twelve years later, however, that the baton came into general use. A German conductor who wielded one produced such wonderful results with his orchestra that it was thought there must be some magic power in the baton, and it consequently became popular with conductors all over the country. Before the advent of the baton time was kept by the first violinist or by the pianist.

What is regarded as the most ancient coin in the world is one that was discovered a few years ago by a German archæologist during his explorations in north Syria. It is a coin of pure silver, bearing a perfect Aramean description of Panammu Bar Rerub, king of Schamol, who reigned 800 years B. C. Up to the time this coin was found the Lydians had always been regarded as the inventors of money, but this new find showed that the Semitic Arameans, who lived two centuries before the Lydians, are the oldest known coiners of money.

THE NEWS FROM THE COUNTY

FORKS.

The Christmas exercises of the Sunday school at Odd Fellows Hall on Friday evening drew a good attendance from Forks and vicinage. There was a beautiful tree tastily decorated. The children and young people acquitted themselves well in rendering the program. Everybody was remembered by Santa Claus, and there was a bountiful supply of oranges, candy, nuts and pop-corn balls for all. The committee on decorations, consisting of Mrs. Eli Collings and Miss Winnie Peterson, assisted by Miss Emma Stephens and Oscar Peterson are entitled to much credit. A light rain interfered somewhat with the attendance.

Ollie Ford had a tree all by himself Friday afternoon; 'twas a little hemlock, some thirty feet high, in Mr. Barth's clearing north of Forks, on which reposed a cougar about six feet in length. Ollie's rifle speedily brought it to the ground. Not for five or six years have these animals come so near the prairie as this season.

The public school took its Christmas vacation last week.

Peter Van Bosche and Mrs. John Van Bosche and son Leo of Quillayute attended the Christmas exercises last Friday evening.

Mr. Rogers, a prospector from Seattle, was looking for coal and oil-bearing rock in this neighborhood last week. He found indications, but not sufficient to warrant development.

The new bridge over Lake Creek has been completed.

There were many pleasant family gatherings as usual at the Christmas dinners on the prairie, and altho the day was cloudy, the sun shone at times, adding to the good cheer.

W. J. Maybury took his machine to Tyee to do some threshing the first of the week.

Roy Whitcomb is building a new residence on the high ground near the road at his place, and will sleep peacefully after this, when "the rains descend and the floods come."

SEQUIM

Wishing everybody a very prosperous and happy New Year.

J. T. Shotwell of Ellensburg, formerly of Port Angeles, came to Sequim to visit his daughter, Mrs. LeRoy G. Wilber. He left and went to Port Angeles, where he had some business to attend to before returning home.

The Primary room had a Christmas tree for the little folks, while the children in the higher grades were all remembered by their teachers.

The M. E. Church had a large tree for the Sunday School children. The singing and speaking was fine and the children, and some who were older, were very much pleased to see Mrs. Santa Claus for the first time and all hope Mr. Santa Claus will always bring her along with every year after this.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy G. Wilber was in Seattle on business two days last week.

The dance at the opera house was not as well attended as usual but there were enough present to have a good time. The dances at Blyn and Dungeness took many, while Mr. and Mrs. George Pares had a goodly number of friends at their home, who came to help them celebrate and make merry on Christmas night.

The people of the Independent school had a basket party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Cays on the 18th, as the seats were in the school house. There was a good crowd; they cleared $27 and all went home saying they had had a jolly good time.

She was born in Norton, Kansas, December 30th, 1898 and died at Sequim December 18th, 1909, age ten years, eleven months and eighteen days. She will be sorely missed by her father, mother, her only sister and two little brothers whom she loved to care for. She was a great favorite with everyone, especially with her little schoolmates. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher have the sympathy of the entire community in their great loss, but Jesus said, "Suffer little Children to come unto me and forbid them not, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

Eddie Pettit and Ernest Evans are spending the holidays at home. They are much pleased with the University of Puget Sound in Tacoma. Parents wishing to send their children to a good school of high grade which offers high school, college and commercial courses, with the best of moral training, would do well to investigate this Methodist institution. The authorities and the association help to find employment for those wishing it.

MOUNT PLEASANT

Mr. Frank Bryant, the school teacher of District No. 43, had his upper lip severely cut while playing chinney at school last Friday and had to be taken to Angeles for medical attention. Mr. Bryant has the sympathy of us all, and the scholars say there will be no more chinney.

We received an invitation up to Mr. Burns' place to a Christmas party last Saturday night and on arriving there found almost the entire neighborhood there to the tune of half a hundred. Dancing was the order of the evening; the house was prepared for the event and mine host and hostess were loyal to the last degree. The music was furnished by two grand old violins manipulated by their owners, T. S. Harrington and Lincoln Burns, and let me say, that music brought back the memory of former happy times at the same place. The party broke up late in the night and was pronounced the Greatest Social Event ever held in the neighborhood by everybody there.

Just learned that poor old Cuckle-Burr was shot Friday morning before Christmas. Cindy,

COMMON SENSE

Leads most intelligent people to use only medicines of known composition. Therefore it is that Dr. Pierce's medicines, the makers of which print every ingredient entering into them upon the bottle wrappers and attest its correctness under oath, are daily growing in favor. The composition of Dr. Pierce's medicines is open to everybody. Dr. Pierce being desirous of having the search light of investigation turned fully upon his formulæ, being confident that the better the composition of these medicines is known the more will their great curative merits be recognized. Being wholly made of the active medicinal principles extracted from native forest roots, by exact processes original with Dr. Pierce, and without the use of a drop of alcohol, triple-refined and chemically pure glycerine being used instead in extracting and preserving the curative virtues residing in the roots employed, these medicines are entirely free from the objection of doing harm by creating an appetite for either alcoholic beverages or habit-forming drugs. Examine the formula on their bottle wrappers—the same as sworn to by Dr. Pierce, and you will find that his "Golden Medical Discovery," the great, blood-purifier, stomach tonic and bowel regulator—the medicine which, while not recommended to cure consumption in its advanced stage (no medicine will do that) yet does cure all those catarrhal conditions of head and throat, weak stomach, torpid liver and bronchial troubles, weak lungs and hang-on-coughs, which, if neglected or badly treated lead up to and finally terminate in consumption.

Take the "Golden Medical Discovery" in time and it is not likely to disappoint you if only you give it a thorough and fair trial. Don't expect miracles. It won't do supernatural things. You must exercise your patience and persevere in its use for a reasonable length of time to get its full benefits. The ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed have the unqualified endorsement of scores of medical leaders—better than any amount of lay, or non-professional, testimonials. They are not given away to be experimented with but are sold by all dealers in medicines at reasonable prices.
