PREPARING TO INVADE OLYMPICS

All Northern Pacific Corporations Have Been Reinstated at Olympia and Lines will Be Built.

That the Northern Pacific is entering the fight for control of the traffic of the Olympic peninsula, is shown by developments of the past week. Ever since the plan of the Milwaukee to get into the peninsula first was announced, people interested in the development of the peninsula have been curious about the intentions of the N. P., says the Seattle P.-I.

The intentions of that road were indicated by the filing at Olympia last week of the names of the officers of three Northern Pacific companies, the Port Angeles & Olympia, the Port Angeles Peninsular Railway Company and the Olympic Peninsular Railway Company. The officers named are all identified with the Northern Pacific railroad. Surveys already made by the N. P. indicate that its plan of development is practically identical with that of the Milwaukee, except that the N. P. lines will be all rail, while the Milwaukee contemplates a car ferry between Everett and Port Ludlow.

The Port Angeles & Olympia railroad was surveyed two years ago follows a water grade from Olympia to Port Angeles, skirting Hood canal from Olympia to Quilcene; thence to Port Williams, Dungeness and Port Angeles. The Port Angeles & Peninsular railway has also been surveyed from Port Angeles, thru the valley of the Soleduck river to the vicinity of the Pacific coast, thence south to join the present N. P. terminal at Moclips. Right-of-way for this line is being bought up by the Northern Pacific, $10,000 having been paid by that company to the Quiniault Indians last week for right-of-way thru their reservation.

There was filed at Olympia also a new list of officers for the Port Angeles Terminal railroad, a Milwaukee corporation, formed two years ago. For several weeks a crew of Milwaukee surveyors has been busy resurveying the line from Port Ludlow to Port Angeles.

Both roads have large timber holdings clear around the peninsula.

ASSESSORS' CONVENTION

County Assesor David Govan returned last week from Spokane, where he attended the convention of county assessors of the state. Mr. Govan reports a very interesting convention, with a large attendance. The convention favored sweeping improvements in tax methods, chief among them being: Constitutional amendments doing away with the general property law; early survey of unsurveyed railroad lands to permit of their taxation; increased power of assessors in the matter of timber cruises; more recognition to assessors from the county commissioners of the state, and an increase in salaries of both assessors and deputies.

The assessors unanimously voted in favor of the 60 per cent. assessment rule. This will mean a material increase in assessment values in many counties over those of last year, when the average throughout the state was appromimately 44 per cent.

Judge Webster in an address to the assessors stated that it was coming to be realized that the assessorship was the most important of all county offices. Until the last year or so the nomination for assessorship has been used as a sort of consolation prize in the conventions. While the importance of securing the most capable men for the position is now conceded, the salary has not been raised to correspond. In this county, for instance, we have an example of an assessor drawing $4 per day as salary, and employing a man at $5 to take his place in overseeing his private business affairs. The assessor, who now receives about $600 a year, should be employed by the year at a salary to correspond with the ability the position requires.

The assessors west of the Cascades will meet again, in Seattle, on February 3rd, to set timber valuations and to decide how much timber a quarter section should carry when classed as timber land.

Members of State Board will be down to Port Angeles next month to take testimony on the value of farming lands, timber and other assessible property.

Mr. Govan proposes to make as fair and impartial an assessment the present year as can possibly be made, to the end that the matter may be placed on as good a basis as possible for the future. And Mr. Govan has a way of doing things just as he says.

ANGELES HIGH WON STATE DEBATE

Speeches Were Full of Merit and All Contestants Received Hearty Applause.

The second of the series of debates between the High School teams of the State on the subject, Resolved that all Cities of the Northwest of over 50,000 population should adopt the DesMoines plan of Commission Government, took place at the opera house Friday night before a large and appreciative audience. Messrs. Johnson and Anderson of the LaConner schools appeared for the affirmative and Miss Lorena Fulmer and Miss Jennie McLeod of the winning team of the last debate here on the subject, represented the negative. Only two speakers on a side being had for convenience sake.

Mr. Johnson opened for the affirmative, giving a concise and clear presentation of what commission government is and what the Des Moines plan might accomplish, leaving it to his colleague to sum up what had been accomplished under the plan. The speaker was in good voice and presented his case in a pleasing and creditable manner. Miss Fulmer led out on the negative and in her usual strong assertive and emphatic manner brought out many good points for her side. Then followed Mr. Anderson of the LaConners, following his colleague in the wonderful reforms instituted by the adoption of the commission idea in many cities. Miss McLeod followed with a strong, set speech full of merit against the proposed plan. Each was roundly applauded and each was given three cheers with the accompainment of the school yell by a host of High School scholars seated back of the hall. Mr. Johnson, in rebuttal, sought to combat the statements of the negative, but was considerably worsted by the impromptu argument set forth by Miss Fulmer, who appeared to about as good advantage in the real summing as in the prepared.

The judges were the Professor of the LaConner schools, U. D. Gnaghy, Prosecutor, Port Townsend, and Prosecutor W. B. Ritchie, this city. the latter taking the place of T. C. Alexander, Dungeness, who was originally selected but who could not serve. The decision was two to one for the negative, which brought forth thunderous applause.

After the debate the visitors were entertained with a banquet at the annex at the Central School building.

BOYD P. DOTY IS COMING

Next Sunday night at eight o'clock Boyd P. Doty, the greatest antagonist of the saloon, and Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League in this state, will speak at the opera house to a mass meeting of the citizens of Port Angeles The Methodist and Congregational churches will not hold evening services, so that all members may attend. Every citizen of this town should come and hear the temperance side of the question. Every man, woman, boy and girl should come to the opera house and hear this matchless champion of good citizenship.

Clallam County's educational exhibit at the A.-Y.-P. Exposition was among the most varied and attractive exhibits of the handiwork of the school children of the state in the Educational building. The exhibit was not only complete, but nicely arranged, and out-classed other county exhibits of the class of Clallam. County Superintendent Annette Trumbull, to whom much credit is due for her untiring efforts and interest taken in the matter, and arranging the exhibit, may well feel proud over the fact that her work was appreciated, which is made evident by the receipt this week of a diploma from officers of the association. The exhibit was also awarded a bronze medal.

One of the greatest pleasures of life is to build a house for one's self. There is a peculiar satisfaction even in planting a tree from which you hope to repose. But how much greater the pleasure in planting the roof-tree, the tree that bears the golden apples of home and hospitality, and under the protection of which you hope to pass the remainder of your days.—John Burrough.

Edward Elliott, third and last number of the Citizen's Lecture Course, will be at the opera house Monday, February 7th. Further announcement next week.

Minor Happenings of the Week

Gov. Gillette has positively denied a story in circulation to the effect that he had declined to be a candidate to succeed himself as governor of California.

The Iowa supreme court in a recent decision held that the Masonic lodge is a charitable organization and is not required to pay the state collateral inheritance tax.

The senate has passed Senator Piles' bill appropritainga quaterr of a million dollars for a revenue cutter for Alaska, also his bill providing $80,000 for aids to navigation in Alaska.

The government's brief in its suit to break up the alleged "anthracite coal trust" has been filed in the United States circuit court at Philadelphia. The suit was brought in April, 1907, and the years that have intervened were taken up with the examination of witnesses for both sides.

The official recount of the votes cast at the recent Briitish Columbia election, shows that British Colubmia will reamin "wet." Although approximately 3,000 more votes were cast in favor of local option, the "drys" failed to get the necessary one more than 50 per cent of the total vote.

The Argentine naval commission has advised that government to authorize the construction of two dreadnaught battleships of 28,000 tons. The proposed vessels are to have a speed of 22 knots an hour and will carry twelve 12-inch guns. The vessels probably will be built at Quincy, Mass.

Suit has been filed in the United States circuit court at Chicago charging that the federal incorporation tax law recently passed by congress is unconstitutional and seeking an injunction to restrain the directors of the Northern Trust Company of Chicago from paying the tax. The bill was filed by a stockholder.

UNION PACIFIC MERGER SUITS TO BE CONTINUED

Washington, Jan. 24.—It is stated authoritatively that the government suit for the dissolution of the merger of the Unioon Pacific and Southern Pacific railways would not be dropped. Attorney General Wickersham has found nothing so far in his investigation to warrant such action. A conference has been held between the attorney general and Frank B. Kellogg on the one side and Judge Lovett, president of the Union Pacific, and counsel representing the allied Harriman lines on the other, for the formal presentation of reasons why the suit to dissolve the merger of the railways should not be pressed.

The railroad interests have made it clear that they feel confident the suit cannot be pushed to a scucessful conclusion and are willing that it should be compromised.

Mr. Wickersham and Mr. Kellogg will prepare a memorandum for the president on which the future action of the administration will depend.

TACOMA COUNCIL PLANS FOR CITY RAILWAY SYSTEM

Tacoma, Jan. 22.—The city council has inaugurated a municipal street railway campaign by voting in committee of the whole to recommend the passage of an ordinance submitting to vote of the people at the coming spring election the proposition of a special bond and warrant issue of $1,000,000 to build and equip city traction lines. The ordinance will provide for the expenditure of $750,000 for the building of a net work of cable and electric lines, with an additional $250,000 for equipment. Power will be furnished by the city's new power station now being constructed.

Germany Prepares for Tariff War

Berlin, Jan. 22.—The government has decided, in the event that an agreement on reciprocity tariffs between the United States and Germany is not reached by February 7, when the running agreement expires Germany's general tariff rate must, under the law, be applied to imports from America at present comnig in under the conventional tariff. One hundred and twenty-five articles will be affected. It was, however, semi-officially declared that the tariff negotiations with the United States had not been broken off, and it was added that time remained for a settlement of the differences between the two countries.

RAILROADS MUST PAY ON MINERAL CLAIMS

Tacoma, Jan. 22.—Mineral claims which have been reserved by railroads and other corporations will be put on the assessment rolls of the several counties for the coming year, as a result of a joint conference between the twelfth annual convention of county assessors and the state tax commissioners. Formal notice ordering these assessments to be made have been sent to the assessors by the tax commission.

Washington State News Items

The Ellensburg Carnegie library has been formally opened.

The Presbyterian church at Clarkston, recently enlarged, has been dedicated.

The treasury department has authorized the sale of the life saving station and the Philippine building at the Seattle exposition to the University of Washington for $400.

Senator Jones has introduced Secretary Ballinger's bills providing a quarter of a million dollars for draining the Yakima Indian lands and providing for additional townsites and allotments on the Yakima reservation.

Commissioners David and Brittain, of Okanogan county, have resigned, to take effecat with the appointment of their successors. Mr. Davis has removed to Pullman and Mr. Brittain will move to Stevens county.

The comptroller of the currency has approved the application to convert the bank of Dexter Horton & Co,. of Seattle, into the Dexter Horton National Bank of Seattle, with a capital of $1,000,000.

The Bellingham Labor Temple Association has determined upon the purchase of a lot on lower Elk street upon which a laabor temple will be erected some time in the future. The stock is being purchased by the varcious labor unions of the city.

Bids were received last week by the superintendent of the Puyallup Indian schools for the construction of the new buildings which the Indian department will add to the institution the coming summer. The contracts will be let by the department at Washington, to which the bids have been forwarded.

Under an opinion from the attorney general's office to the secretary of the state health board, an osteopath is a physician and is eligible to hold office as county, city or town physician. This is the first time a ruling has been made on this point, as it has usually been accepted that an osteopath was not eligible, and few have made any attempt to hold such office.

WILL GIVE VALUABLE LAND TO UNEMPLOYED

St. Louis, Jan. 22—George M. Jackson, of Piggott, Arkansas, has announced that he will give 4,000 acres of rich bottom land near Piggott, valued by him at $100 an acre, to the unemployed of the United States. The announcement was made at a meeting of the Brotherhood Welfare Association, of which James Eads How is president. Jackson, who is 75 years of age, is working for a redsitribution of all lands along socialistic lines, and stated that he intends to seek additional gifts of land for disposal among unemployed.

WICKERSHAM OPPOSES BEVERIDGE MEASURE

Washington, Jan. 22.—Delegate Wickersham is bitterly opposed to the Beveridge Alaska government bill. "It will do more damage to Alaska interets than any measure that could be devised," he said. Senator Beveridge is confident that it will become a law.

The Beveridge bill proposes a commission form of government similar to that of the Philippine islands under the Taft administration.

NELSON MAY CHANGE THE BEVERIDGE BILL

Washington, Jan. 22.—Two days the past week Delegate Wickersham appeared before the senate committee on territories to be heard on the Alaska government bill. Senator Nelson and other members of the committee are not in accord with all the features of the bill, and it may be amended before being reported, although Senator Beveridge still asserts his belief that it will pass as introduced.

BEEF TRUST TO BE PROSECUTED

GOVERNMENT WILL PROBE SOARING OF FRESH MEAT PRICES.

Boycott Used in Many Cities For Purpose of Bringing Prices Within Reach—Bids Fair to Spread—Stockmen to Voice Alarm.

Washington, Jan. 22.—The "beef trust," so-called, is to be prosecuted by the national government. The department of justice evidently believes its existence is a leading factor in maintaining the present high prices of fresh meats.

The contemplated action of the department follows an investigation that has been conducted by special agents for some months. Initial proceedings will begin before the grand jury at Chicago, and may include both civil and criminal actions.

The firms mentioned in connection with this matter include Swift & Co., Morris & Co., and Armour & Co., all of which, it is said, are interested in the National Packing Company. These three firms are reported to control the National corporation.

The aim of the department has been to ascertain the relations between the several firms, individually and with the National Packing Company, to determine whether they have controlled the price of fresh meats. One possible method of action may be a suit to dissolve the company, under the Sherman anti-trust law, as a concern operating in restraint of interstate trade.

Near Rebating Fouud

Proceedings against individuals also may result.

The investigations conducted by the department had their inception in an inquiry into the practices of eastern railroad in making shipments to Morris & Co. These practices, it was charged, amounted to rebating.

It was decided that, though the practices were improper, they did not amounnt to rebating. They were discontinued.

Upon hearing of the intended action of the department of justice, Alfred B. Urion, head of the legal department of Armour & Co., hurriedly left for Chicago.

Mr. Urion had been in Washington more than a week watching the developments in the proposed action, and it is understood he had some conferences with the attorney general.

MEAT PRICES TUMBLE WHEN BOYCOTT BEGINS

Chicago, Jan. 22.—The movement to combat the high prices of meat has spread rapidly and is assuming a national character Coincident with the growth of the movement here come announcements from Milwaukee and Cleveland that the price of meat has dropped.

In Milwaukee two retail butchers quoted porterhouse steaks at 10 cents a pound, sirloin at the same price and other meats in proportion. The wholesale price of beef fell off 15 cents a hundred pounds in Cleveland.

From Denver came the report that Sam Dutton, president of the Western Hotel Men's Protective Association, announced that the proposition of cutting down the consumption of meat would be brought before his organization at a meeting to be held January 31.

Dispatches from Milwaukee, St. Paul, Kansas City, Omaha, Memphis, Pittsburg, San Francisco and other cities told of the rapid growth of the movement. Cleveland, credited with being the place of origin of the scheme, now has 30,000 names enrolled in the crusade, while Kansas City reports that it may soon have 80,000.

MEAT COMING DOWN; BUTCHERS FRIGHTENED

Milwaukee, Jan. 22.—Porterhouse steaks, 10 cents a pound; sirloin steak 10 cents a pound; pork steak, 14 cents a pound; veal steak, 7 cents a pound. These are some of the prices quoted in advertisements in a Milwaukee newspaper by two retail butchers who responded to the agitation of a meat strike in Milwaukee. The prices are far below those quoted for months.

A mass meeting has been called by the Associated Trades Council for February 15 to take action against high prices of food products.

STOCKMEN FEAR BOYCOTT WILL FALL UPON GROWERS

Denver, Jan. 22.—The growing movement to boycott meat has aroused stockmen of the West to protest that the effect of the boycott will be against the stockmen rather than against the packers.

The directors of the Western Stock Show Association, composed of 500 Western stockmen and business men interested in livestock production, adopted a resolution declaring "The boycott is based on ignorance as to the actual conditions governing the meat supply of this country; that the Western Stock Show Association condemns this movement as calculated to discourage an increased production of meat animals."

GREAT HARRIMAN DOCK SOON UNDER WAY AT SEATTLE

That the Harriman system will immediately prepare to establish ocean connections with its rail line in Seattle has been confirmed by officials of the system in Seattle. Within the coming month the holdings of the company on the water front, known as the Stetson-Post mill property, will be dismantled of its present mill structures and the erection of the mammoth pier buildings will begin.

Chief Engineer Holman, of the Oregon & Washington, has in his possession completed plans of these ocean terminals, which embrace two modern pier buildings of two stories each, to be constructed of concrete and sheet steel, with full facilities for passenger and freight traffic. The cost of buildings alone is stated to be in excess of $600,000, and with the harbor improvements and approaches the work will entail an outlay of more than $750,000.

In connection with the improvement of the water terminals of the system it is authoritatively stated that part of the Harriman line Pacific Mail steamers will be diverted from San Francisco and brought from Honolulu to Seattle direct.

The Stetson-Post Mill Company, on February 1 will occupy new and extensive mill quarters near Spokane avenue, on the East waterway. The holdings of the mill company at the new location embrace nearly eight acres.

PLANS FOR DIGGING OLYMPIC CANAL

Tacoma, Jan. 24.—A. P. Gillies has filed articles of incorporation of the Olympic Canal Company, the capital stock of the corporation being certified at $200,000. The object of this company is to build a deep water canal connecting Puget sound with Grays harbor, the intention being to do away with the roundabout run of the Strait of Fuca by steamers plying between Southern ports and the Sound. As at present planned, the canal will run from Olympia to the Chehalis river at Elma, and the river be straightened and dredged where necessary. Gillies' plan is to make the canal a water level one, and the deepest cut is through a hill ninety feet above the Sound level. The trustees and incorporators are: A. P. Gillies, Tacoma; H. C. Davis, Chehalis, and H. P. Scheel, of Tenino. The F. M. Andrews Company, of New York City, which will attempt to finance the canal, will name the officers of the incorporation Gillies declares the canal means more in the development of the Puget sound reigon than two or three transcontinental roads running extensions here.

SHERIFFS HAVE PLAN TO TRACE CRIMINALS

North Yakima, Jan. 24.—The sheriffs of the state of Washington, who met in annual convention in North Yakima last week, decided to enter into an agreemnt by which they hope to make the tracing and capture of criminals more systematic and effective. Their agreement is to maintain a mailing list of all the peace officers of the state. Each sheriff will then send his circulars, which will be numbered consecutively, to each name on the mailing list, and each on receiving a circular or other notice shall acknowledge it. Whenever a criminal described in any circular is captured, each sheriff shall be notified, so that the sheriffs need not give their time and attention to looking for a captured man. The sheriffs were unanimously of the opinion that this method would result in permitting very few fugitives to escape. It was also believed that if the system could be put into successful operation in this state, that adjoining states will come in, and thus place the entire northwest under an effective system.

ROOSEVELT FOR SPEAKER IS NEW RUMOR IN WASHINGTON

Washington, Jan. 24.—Roosevelt for speaker of the house of representatives. This is the latest decision as to what shall be done with our ex-president, according to a report that has spread among members of congress. It is even reported that ex-President Roosevelt has agreed to run for congress in the First district of New York state, in which Oyster Bay is located.

The understanding that he would be elected to the speakership if he runs, it is declared, is insisted on by Mr. Roosevelt.

MISSOURI SUES TO FINE OR OUST SIXTEEN ROADS

Jefferson City, Mo., Jan 25.—Arguments have been made in the supreme court suit filed by the attorney general to fine or oust sixteen railroads for alleged violations of the anti-trust laws in the fixing of freight and passenger rates. The roads have filed a demurrer to the petition.

Liquor Licenses Total $68,500

Olympia, Jan. 25.—Since June, 1909, when the tax commission took charge of collection of the state liquor license of $25 each, that board has collected an aggregate of $65,500, according to statements made by the secretary.

Tariff Proclamations Issued

Washington, Jan. 25.—The president has issued a proclamation in which it is declared that, under the new tariff law, Italy, Great Britain, Russia, pain, Turkey and Switzerland are entitled to the minimum rate imposed by that act.

CONFERENCE OF GOVERNORS

STATE EXECUTIVES HOLD SESSION AT WHITE HOUSE.

Welcomed by President, Who Indulges in Speculation About English System—State Rights Discussed — Uniform Legislation Urged by Civic Federation.

Washington, Jan. 22.—In welcoming the conference of governors at the White House President Taft indulged in a little good-natured speculation as to how the English system of executive authority might work in this country, especially with respect to giving the executive the right to argue matters out with the legislative branch and go before the people if necessary. He said he would like to have a heart-to-heart talk with some of the governors as to their method of obtaining legislation.

"I would especially like to ask Gov. Harmon how he manages with a Republican legislature out in Ohio" said the president. "I can assure him that there are struggles even when you have a congress which is nominally of your own party.

"There is no use mourning over our lack of the English system of government in this country, for we can never have it; but you governors ,as well as I, have felt at times the injustice of criticism which comes to the executive because of lack of the English system.

Gov. Hughes of New York and former Mayor Seth Low of New York City, spoke at the opening session. Gov. Hughes discussed "Governors' Conferences—Their Scope and Purpose, Gov. Harmon, of Ohio, presiding officer, introducing the New York governor as one who "has shown qualities we all want to see in public life."

Mr. Low presented a report of the Civic Federation on the drafting of uniform laws, urging uniformity as to negotiable instruments, warehouse receipts, bills of sale, bills of lading and divorce. It also called for speedy cooperative action against the white slave traffic.

The report recommended that pure foods and drugs legislation be modeled after the national law, stamped the warehouse receipts act as the law of the Anglo-Saxon world enacted by seventeen states, said thirty-eight states had enacted a uniform neogtiable instrument law, and declared that the uniform divorce legislation is designed to put an end to migratory divorce.

In the evening the governors attended a dinner at the White House.

State Rights Discussed

"States' rights" was the burden of most of the addresses delivered at the second session of the conference of governors, with particular reference to the conservation of resources and the regulation of public service corporations.

Gov. Eberhart, of Minnesota, introduced resolutions defining the jurisdiction of the state and federal courts in matters involving interstate commerce. These were referred to a committee of five, consisting of Governors Fort, of New Jersey; Harmon, of Ohio; Burke, of North Dakota; Prouty, of Vermont, and Ansel, of South Carolina.

Gov. Wilson, of Kentucky, declared the state had the right of control over water power and that the federal government did not have a scintilla of right to it.

Gov. Hughes, of New York, considered the forests among the states' most precious possessions and said each state, so far as it could, should own and preserve them. He advocated state control of water power.

Gov. Brooks, of Wyoming, said of water power that the control of industrial energy should rest in the state.

Gov. Shaforth, of Colorado, contended that the owneship of land by the federral government in a state was a proprietary right and not political or governmental; that the United States holds lands as an individual and the government of that land rests in the state.

Gov. Hadley, of Missouri, spoke on railroad rate legislation, declaring that charges for the transportation of persons and property should be left to owners of the lines, but that control should be exercised by the government.

UNIFORMITY OF LAWS URGED BY NATIONAL CIVIC FEDERATION

Washington, Jan. 22.—Agreeing that there should be uniformity of state laws affecting not only commercial matters, but likewise those that pertain to the wellbeing of the individual, the National Civic Federation, at its final session here, adopted a number of resolutions.

Among them were those recommending uniform laws for the protection of children employed in industries; favoring a uniform insurance code for adoption by the several states; uniform legislation on the subject of gathering and preservation of vital statistics; indorsing the conservation of American orests and referring the same to the committee on uniform state laws; recommending workingmen's compensation acts, fair to the epmloyer and employe and just to the state, be uniformly substituted for the present system of employers' liability; consideration of the development of water powers and their regulation on the non-navigable streams with a view to uniform state legislation and co-operation between sates and the federal government.

JAPAN AND RUSSIA DECLINE AMERICAN PLAN

Tokyo, Jan. 24.—The reply of the Japanese government to the proposal by the United States for the neutrality of the Manchurian railways has been handed to the American ambassador. It is a polite declination.

While the contents of the memorandum are unknown the best information obtainable indicates that the communication is brief and that declination to accept the neutraliaztion proposition is based on several grounds, the chief of which are:

The American plan would be of no advantage whatever to Japan.

It would afford no advantage to China.

It would not change the commercial situation in Mancuhria, where Japan is adhering strictly to the pledges of an open door and equal oportunity.

It is understood the reply is couched in terms of friendly appreciation of the American purpose, but it is not of an argumentative character and its conclusions are not qualified.

Russia Rejects American Plan

St. Petersburg, Jan. 24.—Russia's reply to Secretary Knox's note proposing the neutralization of the Manchurian railways has been made to Ambassador Rockhill. It has been understood generally that Japan and Russia would take identical action on the American proposal. The Russian communication rejects the proposal for the neutralization of existing railroads. It states also that the Russian government considers the alternative proposition for its participation in an international syndicate for the construction of the Chinchow-Aigun line acceptable in principle, but because of the political and strategic phase of the enterprise and its bearing on the East China railroad Russia will defer a final answer on this subject pending the receipt of information as to the principles of the American project.

GRADING CREW BEGINS WORK ON INTERURBAN

Everett, Jan. 25.—A grading crew of forty men has commenced work at the Everett end of the Everett-Seattle interurban road, the fourth camp between this city and Hall's lake having just been established at Colby and Forty-second street. The end of the track is now within six miles of this city, with cars operating on regular schedule between Ballard and Hall's lake.

Representatives of the Stone & Webster Company have expressed the belief that the promise to have cars running to Everett from Seattle by March 1 can be easily kept within the time limit. Nine 50-foot cars are to be used on this line. Three are already in service and six are under construction. Power plants for this system are to be located at Ballard, Hall's lake and Everett.

TRUSTS MUST PLAY FAIR UNDER CANADA'S NEW LAW

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 22.—Legislation marking a new epoch in trust regulation and giving Canadian consumers machinery for vigorous control of retail prices and methods of trade has been presented to parliament by the governor. The measure seeks to prevent monopolies from making prohibitive prices and restricting competition.

Hamburg-London Airship Line

Cologne, Jan. 22.—Count Zeppelin, whose aerial flights in dirigible balloons have attracted world-wide atention, is planning a monster airship, capable of carrying 300 persons, and which it is proposed to use in a passenger service to be establsihed between Hamburg and London, it is stated here. A service is also to be maintained from Hamburg to Cologne and Batden Baden. The craft will be 980 feet in length and about 85 feet in diametre. It will be driven by eight motors.

Morgan Backs Subway

New York, Jan. 25.—J P. Morgan is back of the Interborough-Metropolitan Traction Company in its plans for subway and elevated extension, and will finance the company in any improvement that the public service commission will allow it to undertake, according to President T. P. Shonts, of the company, at the annual meeting of the stockholders.

Elberton Hearing Postponed

Olympia, Jan. 25.—The hearing set for January 29, before the state railway commission, on the complaint of a patron of the O. R. & N. that that road be compelled to provide better station facilities at Elberon, Whitman county, has been postponed to February 2.

Gov. Hughes to Quit Politics

New York, Jan. 19.—The New York Tribune announces positively that Gov. Hughes will not under any circumstances be a candidate for re-election, having determined to return to his law practice. Gov. Hughes declined to discuss the report.

New Dayton Line Opened

Walla Walla, Jan. 25.—The O. R. & N. yesterday opened its Dayton line, leaving only the road to Spokane, except by way of Wallula, closed. They plan to have this open by the first of the week.

FOREST FIRES OF PAST YEAR

TOTAL OF 1312 BLAZES IN WASHINGTON TIMBER.

Public and Corporations Incur Expense of $50,013 For Protection—Conservation Association Recommends that Owners Be Made to Remove Slashings.

Forest Fires in the state of Washington, including the national forests, amounted to 1,312 in number for the year 1909. Snnohomish county leading the list with 213, King counnty being third, with 154. Not a single life was lost throughout the year from this cause.

The cost of fighting fire to individuals and lumber companies, including the cost of three months patrol by the Washington Forest Fire Association, was $50,013. It was impossible to separate the time the association's rangers spent in actual fire fighting from that spent in patrol, nad both are included.

The expenditure by the forest servcie, in addition, amounted to $11,-710.80.

The Washington State Conservation Association, in a report on the subject, says further legislation is needed to promote forestry on private lands, both by encouragement and regulation. The fire risk and excessive taxation, it says, are great hindanrces to forestry operations, and among the propositions is one that the state may require private owners to dispose of their slashings after lumbering or in other ways to put their forests in good condition for protection.

"In the earlier days," the association says, 'there existed a general belief that the individual could do as he pleased with his own forests, even if his neighbor's property was thereby endangered. Recently there has been a growing sense of the individual's responsbiility to the public, and especially the state's responsibility to the individual—particularly in the matter of forest fires.

"Forest fire being one of the greatest enemies of the state—and akin to riot or an invasion by a public enemy—the executive power of the state should be employed to the utmost limit in their prevention and suppression.

The scenery of Washington, from the Cascades west is, when visible, of great value to the state. It is a source of pride and pleasure to all citizens. It is also a great source of revenue for all who gain by the presence of the tourist, visitors attracted to the state by descriptions of its wonderful scenery

"The summer and early autumn days belong to the tourist—those days being usually clear—but in Washington, after the first two or three early summer weeks, the scenery is hidden by the smoke of forest fires.

"The proper attitude of the private owner is that the state should assist in the protection of his property, which it taxes, and that the system of taxation should be based on sound principles, which latter is not the case at the present time anywhere in this state. The payment of a proper tax should entitle the owner to adequate assistance from the state in the protection of his forests from fire."

SWITCHMEN AND ROADS AGREE TO ARBITRATION

Washington, Jan. 24.—Arbitration is to be the solution of the controversy between the Chicago railways and their switchment. This decision was reached by the mediators who have been trying to settle the differences late last week, and the first meeting of the arbitrators will be held in Chicago today.

The conclusion was reached after a week of conferences between Chairman Knapp of the interstate commerce commission, and Dr. Neill, commissioner of labor, with representatives of the railroads and switchmen's union.

It was determined that the matters in dispute should be referred to arbitrators, and an agreement was signed naming S. E. Heberling, first vice president of the Switchmen's Union of North America, as arbitrator for the switchmen, and C. B Gray, vice president of the St. Louis & San Francisco railroad for the railroads.

These two arbitrators are meeting in Chicago today to endeavor to agree upon a third arbitrator. If they should be unable to agree, the selection will be referred to the mediators, Chairman Knapp and Dr. Neill

Within ten days after the third arbitrator is named the board of arbitration must meet, and by provision of the Erdman law must return its findings within thirty days.

Woodrow Wilson Mentioned

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 22. —Woodrow Wilson, of Princeton university, will be put forward by New Jersey for the Democratic nomination for president in 1912. This announcement was given out here by James Nugent, chairmann of the Democratic state committiee.

Modistes Fined $10,000

New York, Jan. 22.—Eight dressmakers indicted for complicity in the "sleeper" trunk smuggling of milinery, through their counsel entered pleas of guilty before Judge Hough in the United States circuit court. The judge imposed fines aggregating $10,-000.

PEACE IS AGAIN DECLARED

HILL AND HARRIMAN INTERESTS ONCE MORE IN AGREEMENT.

Terms Arranged by Which Five Months' Contest in Deschutes Valley Between Oregon Trunk and Deschutes Valley Road Closes Satisfactorily to Both.

Portland, Jan. 24.—According to the Sunday Oregonian, the Hill and Harriman interests have reached an agreement regarding the right of way from the Columbia river into the rich Central Oregon region, via the Deschutes valley. Under this agreement the Deschutes Company, a Harriman road, will occupy the east side of the Deschutes river, and the Oregon Trunk, a Hill road, the west side for about seventy miles south of the Columbia river. The Deschutes Company will, through the Oregon Railroad and Navigation Company, grant the Oregon Trunk a crossing over the Oregon Railroad and Navigation line at Ceillo, and will also make other concessions to the Hill road. Each road will have the right, under the agreement, to use the right of way of the other over certain portions of the route.

The agreement is subject to but one condition—the prompt approval by the interior department of location maps for the Harriman road for twelve miles along the west side of the Deschutes river canyon. This is one of the portions of the route where the Deschutes Company will have the use of the Oregon Trunk.

With the conclusion of this agreement construction work by both roads into the vast undeveloped CentralOregon region will be rushed to completion.

The occupation of the Deschutes canyon by the two roads led to several more or less sanguinary conflicts and resulted in several battles in court, the Oregon Trunk (Hill) people invariably coming off victorious in the decisions of the judges sitting in the cases.

EDUCATIONAL AND CO-OPERATIVE UNION

Establishment of an adequate system of agricultural credit, better roads and a protest against gambling in grain by milling and elevator interests were some of the subjects considered by the meeting of the tristate convention of the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union at Walla Walla last week.

Orris Dorman, of Spokane, was the principal speaker at the opening session. Pointing out the benefits to be realized by organization among agricultural interests, he assreted that the farmers of the country were practically unrepresented in matters of congressional legislation, and because of this, agricultural progress in the United States was being retarded.

Resolutions Adopted.

Asserting that under existing conditions revision of the tariff upward necessarily involves a revision of the standard of living downward, farmers of Washington, Oregon and Idaho, attending the convention of the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union, at the close of its three days session at Walla Walla, took action demanding that tariff duties on the necessities of life be lowered.

The delegates to the tristate convention also went on record as favoring amendments to the national constitution providing for a graduated income tax and the election of United States senators by popular vote. Establishment of the parcels post system, better roads and conservation of natural resources are demanded. Ship subsidies are opposed.

That the present local option liquor law in Washingtcn be amended, making the county the unit, was made the subject of a resolution which passed unanimously, and it was further urged that the question of state-wide prohibition be submitted to the people of Washington, Oregon and Idaho.

Canada Has Official Trust Watcher

Ottawa Ont Jan. 22.—Canada soon will be well launched in the trust watching business with W. B. Mackenzie King, the minister of labor, as chief watcher. He is a grandson of William Lyon Mackenzie, the Canadian premier. Also he is a Harvard man and a warm personal friend of Theodore Roosevelt. The law under which he will serve provides for the investigation of trusts, combines and monopolies which oppress the consumer.

Roosevelt Back in June

New York, Jan. 22.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt will sail for Naples February 15, on the liner Hamburg, on her way to Upeer Egypt. According to news received from East Africa recently, ex-President Roosevelt will arrive at Khartoum March 15. Atfer remaining two or three days in Khartoum he will meet Mrs. Roosevelt. He expects to be back in the United States June 1.

Lone Liberal in B. C. House

Victoria, Jan. 25.—The Liberal party in the British Columbia legislature has been reduced to one, John Jardine, elected Liberal for Esquimalt, having joined the Socialists, leaving H. F. Brewster alone in the Liberal ranks.

UNIONISTS MAKE GAINS, BUT LIBERALS HOPE

London, Jan. 25.—Unionists gained another seat in the Southport division of Lancashire yesterday and one in Middlesex. The newly elected members of parliament now stand:

Unionists, 221; Liberals, 202; Laborites, 34; Nationalists, 69.

Liberal leaders are exhibiting a more hopeful spirit. Winston Spencer Churchill, at Pool, last night claimed that the liberals would return to power with a majority practically as great as Salisbury ever enjoyed.

The unionists continue to derive satisfaction from the enormous decreasing Liberal majorities.

The Liberals are showing thankfulness for small mercies and welcome a day without a series of Unionist gains as an eminently hopeful sign.

Premier Asquith and Chancellor Lloyd-George, in their speeches last night said they were convinced that the government would have an ample majority to carry through the Liberal program. Realizing the difficulty of carrying out its complete program while dependent upon the support of the Nationalist vote, it is reported that the government will suggest that the reform of the house of lords be undertaken by a conference of the two parties, and will further promise a modification in the spirit duties and the license duties in the budget of 1910-11 if the rejected budget is accepted as the financial scheme for the present year.

CANNON IN LINE FOR WORK OF RECLAMATION

Washington, Jan. 25.—Speaker Cannon has given Senator Jones assurance of his support for the certificate of indebtedness plan of financing the reclamation service for the $30,000,-000 needed to hurry the work along.

The speaker's only provisos are that the bill provide for a salable ceritficate and that due provision be made for taking them up. The senate committee on irrigation introduced the bill.

Bill Reported Out

Washington, Jan. 25.—As finally reported by the senate committee on irrigation, the administration bill providing for a reclamation fund authorizes the issuance of $30,000,000 worth of certificates of indebtedness tc carry on existing irrigation projects. The certificates are to run for five years, when half the proceeds received from the sale of reclaimed lands are to be set aside for their redemption.

WALLA WALLA FARMERS BUY TWO MILLION BAGS

Walla Walla, Jan. 25.—Two million sacks to be used in harvesting this year's wheat crop of Walla Walla county were purchased yesterday by the Walla Walla Farmers' Union from a Tacoma firm at a contract price of $5.48 per hundred. This is said to be the largest single contract ever let for the purchase of grain sacks in the Inland Empire.

Milwaukee Files Intention

Olympia, Jan. 25.—The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul has filed notice with the secretary of state that at a meeting in Chicago the directors ordeed the construction of a branch from Warden, on the present main line, in Grant county, northely and easterly to Griffith, Adams county, forty--five miles.

Copper River Road Handling Freight

Cordova, Jan. 24.—The first big shipment of interior freight to be handled by the Copper River & Northwestern railroad has left for the front, consigned to the Kennicott mines. The shipment consists of supplies and stock. Many smaller shippers follow the trail of Kennicott mine freighters, which means the abandonment of the expensive and dangerous trail over Thompson's pass.

Convicts for State Roads

Olympia, Jan. 25.—Orders have been wired to Superintendent C. S. Reed at the state penitentiary to equip and ship under guard fifty convicts to work on the state road near Blanchard, Whatcom county, twenty for the state road near Lyle and twenty more for the rock quarry camp at Fidalgo.

No Money to Burn.

"The meanest man we ever had in our town was Jake Bond." said Mr. Wilson, with an air of finality. "Yes, sir, he was the meanest. Ever hear what he used to do with the fire his last days, when he was so riddled with rheumatics he couldn't get out?".

"No," said the new carpenter, "I haven't heard that yet."

"Time you did," said Mr. Wilson, "an' I'll tell ye. He was so full o' rheumatics that the doctor allowed the only way he could get rid of any of his pain was to sit right in front o' the fire, close to, and see if the heat wouldn't try some o' the pain out o' his bones.

"Well, sir, he couldn't move round, so the woman that took care o' him would put his chair close to the fire, and there he'd sit. An' by his side he kep' a mop an' pail o' water. An' when he saw the fire getting a mite beyond the p'int where he felt 'twas needed, an' saw a real lively flame busting up, he'd out with that mop from the pail, and souse it right on to the stick o' wood that was too forthputting.

"I've sat there side o' him and seen him do it.

"Yes, sir, here in Cedarville we considered him the cap-sheaf for nighness; we cert'nly did."

At 6:30 p. m., recently, the corner of the rue Damremont and the rue de Tourlaque, Paris, sank into the ground. Pedestrians saw a man and woman disappear. The man, twenty feet down, buried to the hips in falling dirt, heard the woman crying: "Monsieur, I am the mother of a family, save me!"

The hole enlarged. Tons of debris poured in. Two policemen, let down with ropes, disengaged the man. But the woman had disappeared.

The hole was fifteen feet long, twelve feet wide and thirty feet deep. Police and troops made a cordon; firemen evacuated the adjoining houses. At a depth of 108 feet they found the body of Mme. Chevalier—on the floor of a gallery of the ancient catacombs!

They blame the recent heavy rains, undermining the surface; because, the next day, a spot ten feet square in the quadrangle of the old Louvre Palace, sank knee-deep with a crowd of tourists.

Next, two days later, a part of the Place of the Palais Royal went down three feet in the midst of pedestrian traffic. In neither case had the Metropilitan Underground Railway anything to do with the cave-ins.

At this hour, the Paris under-realm shelters incredible enterprises; storehouses of criminal bands; vast mushroom plantations of honest underground farmers; stored bones of generations of Parisians, and luxurious secret refuges of rich families.

It is the whole story of old Paris. The Paris of the middle ages was quarried underground for the stone built above ground. In the days of Joan of Arc there was already a subterranean labyrinth under half Paris, already a mystery, where Satanailost Hardy de Passavant and the Duke of Burgundy met the heads of the trades unions. Fantastic streets, their smooth stone ceilings forty feet beneath the surface, emptied into vast dark halls, turned, intersected, without plan, according to the quality of the stone. Galleries dating from Gallo-Roman times had become forgotten in Gothic times—as tourists know who have stayed at a certain pension near the Pantheon.

The known extent of this underground world is astonishing. Up to the twelfth century the palaces, churches, public and larger private buildings were constructed from catacombs quarried under 1,500 acres of the present surface in the three well-known groups—under the Gobelins; under the Latin quarter, and, on the other side, the whole Trocadero quarter.

How is it that this underworld does not cave in oftener? The weaker surfaces have already caved in. In particular, around the year 1774, the cave-ins, following prolonged rains and much new building, became so numerous as to alarm the population. At the moment when a commission was examining a house in the Rue de'Enfer went down—entire—twenty-eight yards below the surface—into an abyss.

Drayloads of boxed goods enter certain Monmartre courtyards in plain daylight—and disappear. No search could find them. They gave gone down concealed elevators to a primitive little railway that runs through some old quarry gallery, five blocks, ten blocks, to another part of Paris. Some honest commission merchant hoists them up and mingles them with other goods, all ready for shipment.

There is even a persistent Paris rumor of "R. C."—"the King of the Catacombs." In the version used by Gaston Leroux he is chief of a disciplined army of foreigners, counterfeiters, burglars and abductors for ransom, attacking only the very rich and operating without scandal. In the quarter of the Pantheon where superposed galleries exist below the level of the Metro, the King of the Catacombs has a secret chamber. Surrounding it, in a circle, are the headquarters of each of his sections, watched and overheard by "R. C.," when he pleases, through a circle of peep-holes.

This vast conspiracy, which utilizes equally young men of good society as indicators, clerks of public services as spies, physicians to give false certificates and bands of Apaches to muddle clews of expert burglary, has experts to work its counterfeiting presses, execute its forgeries and frauds on insurance companies.

The work is done in leisurely impunity 100 feet beneath Paris. Electric lighting, steam heat, scientific ventilating, vast underground kitchens, heavy carpets and hangings, luxurious furniture in sleeping-rooms and clubrooms makes this realm of "R. C." seem like pipe dream romance. But the police know its existence and are powerless. The catacombs are a maze, a labyrinth, tangled with masonry and cave-ins!

Subterranean Paris! It is a wonderful place, concealing mysteries, honest and dishonest, equally enticing to the imagination. It has been long known, long forgotten. It has enjoyed long impunity. But now that the Metropolitan Underground Railway is throwing its branches, literally, under the entire capital, the supporting surfaces that were just strong enough are being weakened. A few streets have caved in. There will be more. You will hear lots more of Subterranean Paris!

BUENOS AYRES.

A City with All the Finish of a Paris or a Berlin.

Buenos Aires, the capital of the Argentine Republic, is in some respects the most cosmopolitan city in the world. No important European nation but has contributed its capital and its people to the upbuilding of this great metropolis. It also has the distinction of being the second city of Latin population in the world, being larger than the largest cities in Italy and Spain.

There is perhaps no city which exhibits a greater variety of pleasing contemporary styles of domestic architecture. The city council tries to encourage beautiful building by annually offering a gold medal to the architect who is found to have planned the most attractive facade and by freeing from the building tax the building thus favored.

The outward aspect of Buenos Aires is rather that of a European than of an American capital. It has all the finish of a Paris or a Berlin. The absence of the irregular sky line, caused in North American cities by the extreme height of some business buildings as well as the fact that the ground of the city is quite uniformly built upon, even in the more outlying regions, keeps the city from presenting that unfinished appearance which even our largest cities have.—World To-day.

SWISS TRAMPS FEW.

A Poor Place for the Man Who Doesn't Want to Work.

Switzerland is not a place for tramps, because the man out of employment and who makes no effort to find work is not tolerated for a moment in that country. The district authorities will secure him a job at hard labor and little pay, and such an offer can be refused only under the penalty of going to a penal workhouse. These institutions are under military discipline, the work severe, the wages a penny or threepence per day, and release is granted only upon the advice of those in charge. No difficulty is experienced in determining between beggars and unemployed, because all legitimate laborers have papers given them by the district in which they live containing information concerning the position they have held.

In every part of Switzerland are established "relief in kind" stations for the exclusive use of respectable unemployed. Only those are admitted who have had regular work during the previous three months and have been out of employment for at least five days. These men must be on the lookout for work and accept any situation that is offered, because the chronic loafer is soon detected by the police and his papers are marked so that he can never again seek refuge in a "station." —Exchange.

STURDY BABY IS FUTURE DUTCH RULER.

QUEEN WILHELMINA AND PRINCESS JULIANA.

The Dutch royal baby is one of the most interesting little royalties in the world. Her mother was so long giving the nation an heir that it looked as though there would be no direct successor to the throne, and the Dutch people feared that Germany then would try to gain control of their country. Their interest in little Juliana's health and general welfare, therefore, is more than usually great. Fortunately for the hopes of the nation, Juliana seems unusually sturdy.

WILD HORSE IN NEW YORK.

Roaming the Woods East of City Hall and Frightening Residents.

Driven wild by cold and hunger, a black bobtailed ownerless horse has been running in Burden's woods in the Ravenswood part of Long Island City and residents have asked the police to capture it.

No one knows where the animal came from and its presence was unknown until about two weeks ago, the New York Sun says. Those who know something about horseflesh say the animal is a thoroughbred and when out on a foray it clears a fence with the ease of a born and trained cross-country hunter.

Telling about the horse, one woman informed the police that it chased her around the yard and tore her waist from her back with its teeth. Another woman says it vaulted the fence into her yard, ripped her wash from the line and kicked over the outbuildings. On another occasion it bolted into the stall of a hard-working horse and, kicking the rightful occupant out of the place, proceeded to eat everything in sight. It is further related that it attacked a feed wagon on Vernon avenue and got away with two bags of oats.

Equipped with a wash line Policeman George Morrison, of the Hunter's Point station house, who has punched cows in the West, accompanied by John Kelly, of the Bergh Society, spent all Wednesday trying to lassoo the animal. The woods where the animal roves are about a mile in length and half a mile wide. Morrison and Kelly got back on Wednesday night empty-handed.

It is proposed to get a detail of cow cops together and have a round-up to capture the animal.

Spartan Self-Denial.

When Mr. D., known to be miserly, but not believed to be a miser, was approached delicately for a contribution to the organ fund, he shook his head courteously, but with an air of finality.

"Charity," he said, "is a pleasure one must do without."

His Bald Spot.

Little Margie's father had a bald spot. While kissing him at bedtime one evening she said:

"Stoop down, papa. I want to kiss you on the head where the lining shows."

OFFICIAL PAPER

Published Every Friday at Port Angeles by The Webster Publishing Co.

FRIDAY, JAN. 28, 1910

The John L. Wilson Senatorial Club has announced the opening of offices, on the 21st inst., in the Pioneer Building, Seattle, and 'states after that date an active, business-like campaign will be carried on in the interest of its candidate, whom it believes to be the only popular candidate in King county as well as the best and most popular men for the position.

Senator Wilson, who has been making a tour of the Eastern States, very aptly expressed the western idea in an interview in New York last Saturday, saying: "Yes, we have a little timber left, something like 400,000,000,000 feet, though the federal government has grabbed for forest and other reserves 27 per cent. of the land of the state.

"The people of Washington favor reasonable conservation and we were practicing that twenty years ago in various lines. But we do feel that conservation is not a necessary matter as it is with some of the older states, which are taking no steps looking to conservation in their own localities, but get hysterical over what they call the waste of natural resources with us."

The Sedro-Woolley Courier cites an instance where others than the trusts —the farmers of Washington—are being benefitted by the high prices of produce. That paper says: "The grain and feed markets of this locality are soring upwards, and last week the local dealers were giving $34.50 per ton for home-grown oats. This price is the biggest ever paid for grain at this time of the year. Farmers are holding the most of their grain, anticipating an early rise, only small quantities, enough to supply the local demand, being sold."

Dispatches say that over in the Palouse country farmers were offered $8.35 for their porkers and were holding them for $9.00 on foot. These high prices of feed and meat, of great benefit to the producer, represent the other side of the story, and have somewhat to do with the price of necessaries of life to the non-producing consumer.

The new electric light committee is deserving of praise for the business-like manner in which it is entering upon the management of the plant. The old belt which gives so much trouble is to be replaced, an expense that would not have been necessary had the former committee bought a heavy belt, as was recommended by the engineer. The twenty-foot steam pipe will be covered with asbestos, thus furnishing dry instead of wet steam and increasing the efficiency of the engine and consequently of the dynamo, and the exhaust steam will be used to warm the water before it goes into the boiler, both of which badly needed improvements were recommended by the mayor five years ago, and were also long since recommended to the light committee by the engineer; improvements which would have saved the city hundreds of dollars in fuel during the past few years, as well as have made possible greater revenues by the sale of more light. The increase in number of meters is also a step in the right direction, which should be continued until there are no consumers on flat rates.

The Pacific Northwest Clipping Bureau, Wood & Reber, Inc., 848 Central Bldg, Seattle, send us a large bunch of clippings, cut from newspapers from all sections of the state, wherein favorable comment is made of the proposed new hotel at the Solduc Hot Springs. These newspaper clippings invariably mention the Olympic Leader as their source of information, and say that the building of this modern hotel at this noted summer resort is part of a movement to attract tourist travel to the Northwest The article referred to appeared in this paper Nov. 26, 1909. The anti-meat crusade is assuming gigantic proportions. Nearly every large city in the nation, as well as many smaller communities, have joined the beef boycott. Labor organizations everywhere are adopting a thirty-day boycott of meat, during which time the members will not buy any meat. At Pittsburg 600,000 have joined the crusade against the butchers. In Seattle prominent club women favor retaliation to bring down prices of meat.

The butchers are becoming frightened and the prices of meat are coming down. At Milwaukee butchers are advertising porterhouse and sirloin steak at 10c a pound; pork steak 14c and veal steak 7c a pound.

The "beef-trust," so-called, is to be prosecuted by the national government. Already proceedings are being instituted by the department of justice against the beef trust, with headquarters at Chicago.

"Meat prices in this country would be sufficiently high without manipulation, says the P.-I. "The trend of meat prices would have been upward in any event. But meat prices are abnormally high, and the government should search out and punish the men who are responsible for the sudden and unnecessary increase in the price of meats.

"It is a serious thing to manipulate the price of meat. It is a matter which involves every home in the country. It is a dinner table problem of intimate concern to every man in the nation. The knife should be put to the core of this issue, and if the investigation shows that prices have been manipulated through an agreement between packers or retailers, the men involved should be punished to the full extent of the law."

The principal matters of business before the city council Tuesday night were the improvement of the electric light plant, and the straightening out of the mess the council has gotten itself into regarding city officials.

Street lights were ordered on 4th and Albert, on Race at 4th, 6th and 8th and at the east end of 8th street bridge. Application for lights on Pine Hill was referred to light committee. Committee was ordered to purchase additional meters and other supplies, and a new belt.

An ordinance providing for ap pointive officers was read first time.

A resolution drawn up by the city attorney to expunge the recent salary ordinance was laid over for a week, doubtless to give the council time to digest one of the most remarkable documents ever presented to that body. A brief perusal of the resolution leaves one with the impression that the ordinance was never published, signed, attested, recorded, passed, considered or introduced, and was illegal anyway (in all of which we heartily concur.)

The city attorney also advised the council that nearly half the ordinances passed in recent years were not legal because the form which the city clerks have been following in certifying, in the city's records, failed to include the statement that the ordinance has been published according to law, making them fatally defective. His suggestion that the former clerks insert the missing clause was laid over.

Congressmen Poindexter of the Third congressional district of this state is doing what he can to kill himself politically. As the Tacoma News well says: "He has out-surged all the rest of the insurgents and has gone over to the minority party that is doing everything that sharp wits and unscrupuluous methods can do to weaken President Taft. Mr. Poindexter is a republican candidate for the United States senate, but he is in danger of losing the brand by which his political adherants have heretofore recognized him. Cavorting around with the unwashed is not going to propel his candidacy very far. If it is complete freedom of ac-

The woman suffrage forces of Washington are jubilant in having enlisted organized labor in support of their cause. The State Federation adopted strong resolutions commending votes for women. Those in charge of the campaign declare they are gaining strength every day. Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt has enriched the exchequer with a $500 contribution and extensive officee are being fitted up in Seattle, as headquarters.

The high school basketball players of Seattle will play no more games before mixed audiences, and boys who smoke and keep late hours cannot participate in the student athletics, according to the ruling of Supt. F. B. Cooper, on the recommendation of the advisory board of the schools.

Ex-Manager of the Light Plant Plant Hallahan, in a letter in last week's Tribune-Times takes Mayor Lewis to task for misrepresentations and juggled figures concerning the light plant. The Mayor stated ours is a 45 ampere dynamo, now delivering nearly 50 amperes and guaranteed to carry 67½ at peak load, and he further said that at 45 amperes the current produced should be worth about $1,000 a month. Ex-Manager Hallahan says the dynamo is a 15 ampere machine and never did and never will deliver 50 amperes. And then he proceeds to tell that in reality it is a combination of three 15 ampere machines (or 45 taken together), "guaranteed to carry a 50 per cent over load", which gives us the Mayor's 67 amperes. In other words the Mayor would call a wagon a four-wheeler, while Ex-Manager of the Light Plant Hallahan would say the Mayor was juggling he truth, because it was a wagon box with a wheel on each corner. And the reason for the remarkable description doubtless is to be found in Hallahan's own statement that the receipts are only $467 a month.

Ex-Manager Hallahan says the ameters on the switch board only indicate for an instant the amount of electricity flowing, which is recorded once an hour; on the same theory it is to be presumed that because the steam gauge on the boiler is continually fluctuating, one cannot obtain a fair idea of the steam pressure when the boiler is doing its best.

Ex-Manager Hallahan figures that if the Mayor's statement that 45 amperes should give $1,000 in receipts be correct, then by deducting 45 from 50 the remaining 5 amperes should be worth $1,000 and 50 amperes $100,000. And these remarkable statements, we are told by the editor of the Tribune-Times, are "plain facts" which "show the fallacy of the misleading statements being made." If they show anything, it is that the people of this city are to be congratulated that the light plant has passed out of Hallahan's control. As to his tabulated statement of receipts and disbursements it is, in view of the above, sufficient to say that they don't agree with the records of the city treasurer, not by several hundred dollars—exclusive of the light furnished the city, which he has figured at about twice what the city is charging private consumers.

All previyus fishery records were broken by Washington last year. This industry alone produced in excess of $13,000,000, according to the reports of the State fish commissioner. In 1890 Washington fish products amounted to $525,000, showing the rapid growth. Latest reports from the Atlantic Coast are to the effect that the fishing industry is declining there, so that Washington now stands at the head of the list among the states, in fisheries as well as lumbering.

The Mount Vernon Herald says that "No publisher ever resorted to this subterfuge (raising the question of circulation) to injure his competitor unless he was in a defenseless position and getting the worst of it. It is the yelp of the under dog in the fight."

Some of the residents along Race street who were refused light because the dynamo was overloaded and there was no light to be had, will be surprised to find there is juice sufficient for street lights up their way.

A teachers' meeting, to be held at Sequim, and to include the teachers of all schools east of the Willis Chambers' district, will be called by the County Superintendent for Saturday of next week, when a variety of subjects will be discussed, it being the Superintendent's intention to take up various matters in which some of the teachers are deficient, such as ventilation, discipline, art work, etc. This will be the first teachers' meeting ever held in the county, and will doubtless prove to be very helpful to the teachers, and a benefit to the schools. Meetings will also be held in other parts of the county at an early date.

City Marshal Wm. Smith, was the recipient of a pleasant surprise last Saturday night, the occasion being his birthday anniversary of which he had forgotten all about. The neighbors from far and wide had assembled at his home on Peabody St., and then "Scotty" was caught over the 'phone down town and given a "hurry-up" call, to which he quickly responded with fear and trembling, to have all his fears wiped away upon reaching home and finding so much company. The evening proved very enjoyable.

D. O. Stepp died in Port Angeles Monday evening, January 24th, from tuberculosis, aged about 25 yrs. Mr. and Mrs. Stepp came here some six weeks a o from Greenbriar, Mo., hoping the change might prove beneficial to his declining health; but this was not to be, and he passed away as above stated. His brothers, Mr. West Stepp and Harrison Stepp, arrived Saturday and were with deceased when death came. The remains were taken, Wednesday, to Greenbrier for burial.

The heart-broken wife and sorrowing brothers desire thus publically to extend their most sincere thanks to the kind friends and sympathizing strangers on Lincoln Heights who so lovingly assisted them during the last days of a beloved husband and brother. Your reward will come hereafter.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM OUR READERS

The publishers of the Olympic-Leader, in giving space to its correspondents for the discussion of matters in which they may be interested, wish it to be understood that the paper does not necessarily endorse the views expressed.

WHO IS TAXING THE PEOPLE'S FOOD SUPPLY ?

Editor Olympic Leader:—

Since coming to this section of the country, I have been a subscriber to your admirable paper, which handles public questions so well And among all public questions to which your paper has directed attention recently, not one is so timely and so vital and so pressing as that of the food supply of this country and its cost to the common people.

And in this connection, we find ourselves wondering whether government is performing its proper funtion of protecting all of us against some of us, or whether, on the contrary, it is not treasonably reinforcing with its powers and machinery the sinister purposes of a few of us against all of us? For every corporation using its corporate powers oppressively today, is a creature of state or national government. And nearly all, if not quite all the tariff taxes imposed to prevent the people from buying where they can buy the cheapest, are imposed to help out these corporations, who are the chief, if not the only beneficiaries of the tariff.

Mr. Cannon made much the other day, in his speech against the "insurgents", of the great increase of the ordinary revenues of the Federal Government in recent years. He said,

"The Dingley law brought the total net ordinary revenues of the Federal Government from $348,000,000 in the last year of the Democratic administration to $405,000,000 in the first year of the Republican administration, and the total net ordinary revenues under the Dingley law in 1907 mounted up to $663,000,000, or the greatest revenues ever brought into the Federal treasury."

Sure. But at whose expense? Who in the last analysis paid this great increase in the Federal revenue? It was not the foreign producer nor was it the home trusts and corporations. No, it was just the plain American consumer. And by that same token, the people would not grieve very much if the Federal revenues were not quite so swollen. For there are murmurs of great waste and extravagance in the Federal Government. Tariff produces no revenues that the American consumer does not pay. Protection is no protection when it prevents the people from trading where they want to. And to the great majority of the American consumers today it is of vital importance that they should trade in the cheapest market.

In that same speech Cannon paid his respects to the insurgents. There are many false issues raised in good faith, and on the other hand much credit is given to men who pose as the "peoples champions" because they advocate hopeless issues which they know cannot win, but which serves the purpose of keeping them in the public eye as "martyrs". Such as these are merely "playing to the gallery", and of this type are, some, at least, of the so-called "insurgents". Here is what Cannon said of them, and said it with point and pertinence.

"He said they were protectionist for their own people, but were opposed to protection for other people. Senator LaFollette did not vote to increase the duties on lead and zinc, but he defended the Finance Committee's schedules on those products in speeches, saying they were not high enough, explaining, however, that he could not vote on the question because he said he had a personal pecuniary interest in the outcome." It is just what those who know LaFollette well, the crafty self-seeking politician, would expect him to say, with that Peck-sniffian hypocracy, which has to "holler" out its scruples and virtues to call attention to them. I do not like the Cannon type, but at any rate he makes no pretenses. Cannon at least is an honest villian. Proceeding, Cannon said:

"Senators LaFollette and Bristow and the other insurgents voted to increase the duties on barley and barley malt, for the reason that their constituents produce barley. In other words, these gentlemen who call themselves insurgents voted with the Republicans on schedules that protected the products of their constituents and with the Democrats on schedules that protected the products of other sections of the country."

And there you have it. There are always to be found those who like to "run with the hare and hunt with the hounds." Now I am not carried away by the popular admiration for insurgents as such. The evils we suffer from cannot be materially decreased by their stage antics. But they are rightly called insurgents, though, for political revenue only. For does not the insurgent owe his place to party? Could any of these so-called insurgents have been elected but for the party? Therefor, is not the position of those of the party who remain orthodox and who would fight the insurgents logical, and, from a party point of view, just?

I only enlarge on this phase of political action to clear away false issues and their advocaes. The place for the insurgent is outside "party." If he cannot agree with party he should decline to eat the bread of the party.

But as little use as I have for the insurgent, I have still less for "party" government. I think it is at the root of all our social ills. Party government is a rank failure. It is an organization for the furtherance of the political ambitions and lust of power of its leaders. Men of inferior moral and intellectual fiber with little or no understanding of true economic issues and caring for nothing but the "integrity of the party" are in control of both the old parties. They fail to detect — still less to direct—the forces and tendencies that are making for a new social order They cannot subdue the trust, even if they wished to, which, of course, they do not. They do not recognize the trusts and the combines as the instruments and pioneers of a national trust that shall take over its organization and systems for social production and distribution. They can speak only and think only in the terms of the party. The party is a personal asset with which they get into place. The tariff, on the admission of Mr. Cannon himself, is but a means of making a dicker and barter, whereby one constituency is favored at hte expense of another and whereby the constituents who have some special interest or industry to further at the expense of all the rest of the people, are bribed to keep some half-breed or stalwart politician at the public teat.

And in the meantime, while these selfish politicians are absorbed in the noble occupation of rooting and hogging in the mire of their own personal private interests and concerns, a silent revolution is going on all over the world, which has escaped the ken of these party statesmen.

Outside party government and not touched, except adversely, by its activities, a great economic force has been generating in the womb of private greed, that is unconsciously to solve the trust question without the aid of party government and indeed in spite of it.

Corporate greed has shown to the world that competition is false and fatal factor in social progress It has found that better service and larger profits result from the handling and distribution of products in bulk, where large capital is available for buying in the best mode and market and for transportation and preparing the product for shipment under modern methods and with the most approved machinery. It has found that these conditions—the masing of human capital or the absorbtion of the industrial activities of the nation—present opportunities for the exploitation of human needs and social necessities unparalelled in the history of the world, and is proceeding to appropriate to personal enrichment the rich prizes which these opportunities present.

But other eyes than those of corporate greed have been watching the process of industrial concentration, eyes sharpened by hunger and need. The exploited, the farmed farmers, the mined miners, and the worked workers have watched the process whereby the producer is always working and never owning and the non-producing schemer is gradually owning all.

These have watched the methods and the results. They have seen competition in the wholesale food business abolished by a "gentleman's agreement" and by the same means they have seen retail competition killed. They go to the butcher, the baker, the grocer and the dry goods merchant in their towns or cities, and they find that foodstuffs and clothing are sold at rates that are as fixed as railroad fares. Uniform and invariable are these prices as the profits of those who fix them. They find that the trusts, the protected trusts, fix all the prices of all the consumer must have to sustain life, at a minimun of profit under which the retailer will consent to do business. In fact they find that the retailer today is but the distributing agent of the rich combines.

Butter 90c per roll. Bacon 30c per pound. Flour $6.70 per barrel. And so on all down the line of the necessaries of life which the people must have, though they know and feel that the price they have to pay is many times in excess of the cost value of production and a fair exchange value of distribution. Not because production has reached its limit nor because nature is niggardly in the things we must have to support life. But because production has been appropriated by a plunder-bund of rich capitalists, who use it as a means of taxing all the consumers through their food supply.

And truly no king or autocrat ever granted patent of monopoly more subsersive of human liberty and more fatal to human well-being than the powers and machinery of the modern trusts. Not, mind you, because the men exercising these powers are wicked above their fellows, but because these men have discovered the economic truth of the great value of co-operation in social production in producing profits beyond the dreams of avarice and are appropriating to private uses these vast social values. The trusts have shown us that co-operation in production was inevitable, is here, and is here to stay. Method, economy, system and discipline in production, manufacture and distribution, whereby the maximum of value is developed from each individual worker working in harmony with every other worker where all waste is eliminated, are the distinguishing marks of trust production.

And who shall condemn them? They have shown what industry, properly organized, can accomplish in perfecting the tools and multiplying the productive capacity of the worker. They have demonstrated beyond all controversy, that social production properly organized can produce beyond the power of consumption. And they have demonstrated to the consumer, through their perfect and absolute control of his food supply, that social production, in private hands, is but another name for the taxing power in private corporation and for private enrichment.

And finally the trusts have demonstrated by this very fact, that social production involving as it does, the power of taxing the necessaries of life cannot safely remain in private hands, but must pass to the people as a whole, that in fact society must own its own sources of supply and must operate them co-operatively for all. Thus only shall be restored the old equitable basis of human relations "service for service." Under the trusts, the farmer gets one dollar in flour for three dollars in wheat. The worker gets three dollars in shoes for nine dollars in labor. The stockraiser gets one dollar in pork for five dollars in pig. One pound of beef for ten pounds of steer. One pound of mutton for ten pounds of sheep. Ten dollars in shoddy clothes for twenty dollars in good wool. And this process accounts for the billionaires of modern society and the general impecuniosity of the worker and producer.

But it would be such slavery to convert the private trust into a national trust where industrial co-operation would secure to the producer his full product. And it is much better to have a prosperity that has to be demonstrated in fervid political speeches and has to be accepted against the evidence of an empty stomach and an empty cupboard, than a prosperity so obvious in fact as to change its present political meaning, which is, that the professional politician is prosperous.

USE GLASS WALLS IN ORCHARD.

Fruit Trees on Both Sides Have Warmth of Sun's Rays.

When vines and trees are trained in espaliers on the south side of a wall the north face of the wall is usually wasted, although it can be used for the cultivation of varieties of apples, pears and cherries which are hardy and not subject to rot. If a transparent wall could be used plants growing on both sides of it would receive the benefit of the sun's rays. Some experiments have been made with glass walls. Count de Croiseul recently published the results of such an experiment, with photographs showing heavily fruited pear trees on both sides of the transparent wall. The wall, which is about sixty feet long and six and a half feet high, was erected in 1901. Each side of it was planted with fifteen pear trees of the variety Doyenne d'hiver (Winter Doyen), giving a wall area of 232 square feet to each tree. In 1907 the trees on the south side bore 134 pears weighing 91 pounds and the trees on the north side bore 109 years weighing 77 pounds. All the pears were of very fine appearance and without blemish, and the pears from the north side were smoother than the others.

In the nursery of Croux et Fils is a glass wall which is surmounted by horizontal glass sashes and planted with the same varieties of peaches, apples and pears on each side. These espaliers also began bearing in 1907, and both sides have produced equally fine fruit. The difference in temperature between the sides of the wall is not very great, as the southern face reflects less heat and is therefore cooler than that of a masonry wall, while the northern side is warmed by the rays which pass through the glass. A masonry wall possesses, theoretically, one advantage over a glass wall, as it absorbs during the day a greater quantity of heat and consequently exerts a greater heating effect at night. Longer experience will be required to determine which material is better on the whole. The cost of construction is practically the same for both.

CLAWS OF BIRDS.

The Toes of Those That Perch and of Those That Run.

Let us note that the art of standing began wth birds. Frogs sit, and, as far as I know, every reptile, be it lizard, crocodile, alligator or tortoise, lays its body on the ground when not actually carrying it. And these have each four fat legs. Contrast the flamingo, which, having only two, and those like willow wands, tucks up one of them and sleeps poised high on the other, like a tulip on its stem.

Note also that one toe has been altogether discarded by birds as superfluous. The germ or bud must be there, for the Dorking fowl has produced a fifth toe under some influence of the poultry yard, but no natural bird has more than four.

Except in swifts, which never perch, but cling to rocks and walls, one is turned backward, and by a cunning contrivance the act of bending the leg draws them all automatically together. So a hen closes its toes at every step it takes, as if it grasped something, and, of course, when it settles down on its roost they grasp that tight and hold it fast till morning.

But to birds that do not perch this mechanism is only an incumbrance, so many of them, like the plovers, abolish the hind toe entirely, and the prince of all two legged runners, the ostrich, has got rid of one of the front toes also, retaining only two.—London Strand Magazine.

THE WORD "VERMONT." on a Can of Maple Syrup

has always raised that brand about one hundred per cent in the estimation of the buyer. A few years ago, however, a method was discovered of imparting this same delicious flavor to preparations without the use of real maple syrup. This new flavoring extract is called Mapleine.

If a dish of syrup made with Mapleine and the real Green Mountain kind is placed before a Vermonter, he would not be able to tell the difference between the two. This is largely due to the absolute purity of the inrgedients and the great care used in the manufacture.

Mapleine is purely vegetable and makes a syrup that is equal to any and superior to most brands of maple syrup that are placed on the market.

To make delicious flavorings for cakes, ice cream and sauces, nothing is required but a little granulated sugar and water with a few drops of Mapleine dissolved therein. Housewives find it a great convenience in preparing puddings of left-overs.

A litle booklet, with he title of "Mapleine Dainties," is published by the Crescent Manufacturing Company, who are the sole makers of Mapleine. The booklet will be sent free to any one who asks for it. Nearly every grocer carries Mapleine.

Try some today and you will say the same that thousands of others have said, that here is a flavor with the real maple taste. This is a little suggestion for a sauce for puddings: Whites of two eggs, one and a half cups of granulated sugar, one cup of milk, one teaspoonful of Mapleine. Mapleine is to be used anywhere that another flavoring could be used.

THE NEWS FROM THE COUNTY

SEQUIM

Professor Knox gave an entertainment in the opera house last Saturday evening in behalf of mission work; there was a good crowd out to enjoy it.

Mrs. Mary E. Brown, the state lecturer for the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, gave the ladies of Sequim a good talk at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Jones; she also talked to the school children and in the evening she spoke at the M. E. church.

Mrs. Oley Burg presented her husband a fine baby boy last Sunday, January 23rd, of which both are justly proud. Mother and child are doing well.

Mrs. Ida Preston was a visitor in Seattle on business last week.

Deputy Sheriff Wm. Gould was on the Prairie on business Saturday and Sunday.

Paul Cook has been clearng his apple orchard of dead and worthless trees and improving his place.

George Hamilton has been making great improvements on his place by cutting down the evergreen trees in front of his beautiful home to let the sun shine in. We can't get too much sunshine in this country in the winter time; it is health giving and we all need it.

James Williams, who has been in the hospital in Port Angeles, came home last week and left for Seattle Monday on business.

W. B. Ritchie was a business visitor at Sequim Monday.

Mrs. Dave McCombs was at the county seat last Saturday on business.

Frank Doran has sold Joe Kirner five acres in Sequim for $1250.

R. C. Button and Mr. Reeves are in Seattle on business this week.

Mr. Fairchild says the excitement in this country has not begun yet; he thinks there will be a big rush here this next summer of people who have plenty of money to build for themselves good homes; they are so tired of so much cold weather and want to get out here in God's own country.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert VanAntwerp are rejoicing over the arrival of a lovely baby girl that came to make her home with them January 24th. Mother and daughter doing fine.

Mr. and Mrs Grantie Ward have the sympathy of their friends in the loss of their little boy, born January 23rd; Budded on earth to blossom in heaven.

FORKS.

Harvey Lesure gathered up quite a bunch of cattle from our ranchers last week for the city markets.

It is reported that Schuyler Gray, a very estimable Indian living near LaPush, was drowned on Monday, the 17th, near the mouth of the Quillayute. He leaves a wife and three small children.

Miss Huff, who has been teaching our school the past four months, has resigned her position and returned to Seattle on Tuesday. Miss Huff is a very competent teacher, and much esteemed by all who have made her acquaintance. Her successor, a gentleman, enters upon his duties at once. As physical strength seems to be an essential to holding the position, it is probable that he has all necessary qualifications for the place.

BLUE MOUNTAIN

On Saturday, February 5th, at Blue Mountain school house will be given a "Ground Hog Day" dance and box supper. Ladies bring boxes of lunch which will be sold for the benefit of cemetery fund.

Mr. Fritz Brauer has commenced to build his new barn, which will be quite large; he is hoping the hay season will be good to us all.

Mr. G. Forest has finished his house, all papered and painted.

Mrs. E. Fries and daughter spent a few days in Angeles visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. McMillan and daughter came out from Angeles Saturday to visit her parents.

Mrs Butler, who has been in Angeles several weeks, has returned to her ranch; the Blue Mountain road looked very good to her and she was glad to get back.

Mr. Chas. Machenheimer went to Angeles this week to visit his father; he is getting along very nicely.

Mr. Myers bought a fine horse at Sequim; he knows a good thing when he sees it.

This was a good winter for the Blue Mountain hunters; several panthers were shot and many wild cats.

R. W. Sisson drove out on a business trip last week.

GETTYSBURG

Green Lake Shingle Company have secured a lease on much of the private acreage near Gettysburg and intend to move down a two-blocker shingle-mill at once and begin cutting shingles. It is thought that they will try to make boxes out of the old fir and spruce logs. This would be a good help to the settlers—getting rid of the old logs.

The December freshet cleaned out Lyre River of all foot logs and bridges, and as the postoffice is on the opposite side of the river, and also five children from that side attend school on this side, and as we are not in the automobile swim, we fail to get either roads or bridges, so some of the men have been doing some hard thinking. And while they were thinking, our postmistress acted. She went to work and built a foot-bridge, with the assistance of the boy that is helping her care for her farm. She superintended, and did most of the work herself.

The bridge is made of two steel cables, each 150 feet long, stretched five feet apart, and covered with split boards The river is 82 feet wide at this point. The cables are made fast at each end with anchor-logs imbedded in the ground and rest on posts above high water mark. The bridge, hanging as it does among the alders on either bank, reminds one of the hanging bridges built by natives in the tropics, that we read about. It took the lady and her boy nearly a month to do the work. Now both she and her neighbors' children can go to school and are not compelled to walk six miles to make one, to the school house or grocery store. Now, I suppose if she was a man with a little influence she would get some compensation from the county for this work, but a woman of course could not expect that. And the men are still thinking hard when walking over the bridge to the postoffice.

MOUNT PLEASANT

We had not intended to say any thing more about the Mt. Pleasant hall, but after reading the representations or rather misrepresentations of Pioneer in last week's issue of this paper, we think possibly it will be well to enlighten the people a little more on the subject.

This Pioneer story no doubt emenates from the same bunch that caused the trouble over the location of the hall when it was built and caused the trouble about laying the floor in the hall, and it was this same bunch that, assisted by a couple of stool pigeons, that managed or mismanaged the hall the first year and when the president called a meeting to elect new officers; it was this same bunch that was dissatisfied because they were losing their prestige. However the new officers were elected and put on a dance for Christmas night, and it was this same bunch that for no other conceivable purpose than spite put on a dance for the night before. Then reports were circulated to the effect that they would have a big time Friday night and Saturday night they would leave their women at home and the men would go to the hall and there would be things doing. The new management, rather than go into a disgraceful fight, called off the Saturday night dance that was put on by a majority of the stock interested in the hall and stayed away. The bunch had their shindig and from reports of the number of ladies attending that dance and the look of empty whiskey bottles around the hall the next day, the whiskey bottles were largely in the majority.

Now it was reported that someone had been so unkind as to put water on the floor; if this was true, it was a mean trick.

Then reports were circulated purporting to come from the same bunch to the effect they would not recognize the new officers and would run the hall to suit themselves, and put on another spree and billed Port Angeles for it and had their time.

Now it was reported that sometime prior to this last dance the floor was scrubbed with pitch and then to put it in shape for dancing it was scrubbed with coal oil, which certainly would put it in fine fettle for a fire.

It is also reported that no less than five gallons of whiskey was brought out to the dance that night, and according to reports a regular bow-do-you-do was held. Some say they left there at three o'clock in the morning and there was no fire; some say they left at four in the morning and there was a good fire when they left; for our part we don't believe they know when or how they left. At all events the hall burned that next morning and the next day one of the bunch said he made the run of his life to save three quarts of whiskey that was hid in the hall and he cared more for the whiskey that he did for the hall; evidently they had more than they could drink.

Pioneer says the usual precautions were taken in regard to fire. Now this whole neighborhood knows that the usual precautions were to fire as hard as you could to keep the old shack warm and when you had got enough of it to pike for home and let the fires take care of themselves.

Pioneer further recites that common sense tells us that if the fire had caught from the stoves one end of the building would have burned out first, and he might have added that horse sense would tell us that with a good coat of pitch over the floor and washed in with coal oil it would do it mighty fast.

Now there are enough straight honorable men in this neighborhood to establish a fact in the mind of any fair minded man or body of men, who will swear that under the existing circumstances the hall was a public nuisance and a menace to the morals of this community, and while we do not believe it was maliciously burned, we do believe it was thru the carelessness of that same bunch and is one of God's blessings to this community.

THAT MORSE WHARF FRANCHISE CASE

Showing That the City Has No Right to Grant Such Rights - Arraigning City Officials

To the Editor: Will you allow me space in your paper to give a little in side history of the suit brought against me by the city, and recently decided by the supreme court in my favor, by affirming the lower court.

There was so much malice in the whole business that I believe the public should know, and who were responsible.

In May, 1907, I applied for a franchise at the foot of Laurel street, I being the owner of the tide land on the east side of Laurel, and J. O. Morse being the lessee of the west side. The franchise was granted June 11, 1907, but only after the insertion of certain very remarkable clauses. In the first place I had to pay $100.00 for the franchise, which is not qualified by any law on the statute books. However, I paid it, in order to avoid any trouble.

In the next place the council inserted a clause demanding that I pay $10.00 per month rent. I knew at the time the council had no legal right to collect any such rent, but told them that if the city would keep up the approach to the wharf on Laurel street that I would pay the rent. This they refused to do.

Notwithstanding the fact that the learned city attorney had said that the city could not grant the franchise from the north side of Front street, but that the franchise must begin at the foot of Laurel street, which he claimed was about 300 feet north of Front street, I have kept the approach in repair at the expense of several hundred dollars, to the point at which the wharf proper begins. The city has no more right in law to ask or try to compel me to keep the approach up than to compel any other man in Port Angeles. However, the dominating influence in the council, namely Hallahan and Grubb, stubbornly refused to do anything. I then gave notice that if they would not keep up the approach that I would not pay the $10.00; that the court would have to decide the question. Right here it might be well to call the attention of the public to the fact that just recently a franchise for a wharf on Oak street has been granted to Grubb and his associates for a term of ten years at the munificent rental of $1.00 per year for five years! You see it makes quite a difference who it is that applies for a franchise.

Believing that I was absolutely right in the position I had taken, I refused to pay the $10.00 per month. February, 1909, a few days after the Gate City Grocery opened for business, the dominating influence on the council, through their willing tool, City Attorney George Venable Smith, brought suit against me, and served me on March 5th, 1909, with quo warranto proceedings. The extreme nature of this suit was evident in the form it was brought. It was not brought to determine whether the city had a right to collect the $10.00 per month rental, but was an evident and brutal attempt to deprive me of the right to maintain a wharf at the foot of Laurel street. These men made use of their official position and willfully and recklessly spent much of the city's money merely to gratify their venomous spite and hatred of me.

The case was tried on April 16, 1909, before Judge Still of the Superior Court, who promptly decided the case in my favor. Had the City Attorney George Venable Smith known the law governing the case, he would not have appealed it. The ring leaders were not satisfied and granted the stupid city attorney extra money to appeal the case to the Supreme Court. This tribunal has recently affirmed the trial court, holding that the city has no authority whatever to control the building of wharves over tide lands or harbor area; that this authority is vested entirely in the state. In fact, sustaining every position taken by my attorney.

Thus ends in complete failure the attack on me that was born in low cunning malice, which was displayed at every step the venimous hatred of the bum ward politicians and the incredible stupidity of the city attorney.

Just so long as this city will elect men of this kind to govern our affairs, we can expect a waste of the people's money.

I expect, God willing, to be here when this element shall have been put in the back ground, where all such people should be.

In conclusion, will say that I never have let men of this class run me, and don't propose to.

Respectfully,
D. W. Morse.
