210 SCHOOL CHILDREN ON THE STAGE

Specially Costumed Cantata of the Seasons Tomorrow Night. Second Number of Course.

The second number in the school entertainment course will be given next Saturday, Feb. 26, at 8 p. m., in the opera house. This number will consist of a Cantata of the Seasons given by the children of the schools elaborately costumed. This is the last number to be given this year in which the pupils take part and Miss Marsh, assisted by the teachers, is making every exertion to give the best entertainment ever produced by the schools. We hope that everybody interested in the children and the schools will make an effort to be present and make this entertainment a success. The price of admission will be 35c for reserved seats and 25c general admission; gallery 15c. The last number in the entertainment course will be given by the faculty.

This Friday morning our High School debating team, consisting of Lorena Fulmer and Jennie McLeod, goes to Seattle to meet the team representing Lincoln High School of that city. The result of this debate will be awaited with a great deal of interest as it practically decides the championship of this district in debate. We feel confident that our team will make a good showing and stand a chance of winning against their formidable opponents. The High School and the town may well feel proud of the showing that the team has already made in the State debates. The high school teachers and a number of high school students will accompany the team. Here is hoping that they will win!

At the last meeting of the Philomathea Society ten students were given the monogram A.H.S. awarded by the Board of Athletic Control. The emblem was presented by Supt. Geisness, President of Board. The following were the recipients: James Lotzgesell, Duane Allen, Floyd Hayne, Paul Farmer, Ben. Wilcox, Clyde Sewell, Ross McKechnie, Robert Gould, Howard Farmer and Walter Tuttle.

The basket ball teams that went to Townsend last Friday report defeat but a good time.

BISHOP OUT FOR SENATOR

A dispatch from Port Townsend to the P.-I. says that William Bishop, representative for Jefferson county, has unofficially announced his candidacy for the upper house of the state legislature for this district, comprising Jefferson, Clallam and San Juan counties, to succeed Hon. John L. Blair of San Juan. Mr. Bishop, altho the primaries are six months distant, will in a short time make a tour of the district so as to be in a position to make a vigorous fight when the primary election is held.

E. A. Sims, representative from Jefferson, has also unofficially announced his candidacy for re-election. Mr. Sims aspires to the speakership of the house and will soon launch his campaign in that direction.

NEW MILL AT GETTYSBURG

Ex-Mayor A. W. Macie of Ballard, and his associates in the Green Lake Shingle Company have purchased the holdings of Geo. W. O'Brien at Gettysburg, formerly known as the Hall & Bishop lumber camp, Clallam county, says the P.-I. The mill at Bitter Lake will be moved to the Gettysburg location and the new organization will be known as the Green Lake Mill Co. The company has secured a large tract of land containing much cedar, near the new mill site, which will keep the mill running for several years.

HAVE LET THE CONTRACT

Joshua Green has let a contract to the Moran Company for the construction of a Sound steamer to run between Seattle and Port Angeles, to be completed by August 1. She will be 175 feet long and will have a speed of 14 knots. The boat is not to replace any now in operation, but will be in addition to those already in service to handle the increased traffic.

Encourage the teacher and children Feb. 26, they have worked hard and deserve success. Opera house.

WENATCHEE PROSPERS WITHOUT SALOONS

Eastern People Prefer Dry Towns in which to Live and Raise Boys and Girls.

While the anti-saloon league has not been making much noise the fact seems to be that it is making progress in this state in its fight against the saloon. One of the most prosperous towns in King county is that of Kent, situated in the White River valley. It has a pay roll of more than one million dollars annually. Kent has five saloons. The Anti-Saloon League started out to put the saloons of the town out of business and has succeeded. Tuesday of last week the voters declared in favor of a dry town which means that in ninety days there will be no more liquor sold at Kent. A few days before the election the mayor of Wenatchee made the trip to Kent just to to tell the people how well his town got along without saloons. There was a time, the Wenatchee mayor told the people of Kent, when his city spent lots of money to maintain a jail in which to house its prisoners; now there are no prisoners. The business blocks formerly occupied by saloons are now housing substantial business firms. The people of Kent evidently concluded that what was good enough for a big, prosperous town like Wenatchee was good enough for Kent and they voted to wipe out the saloons.

ELKS' ANNUAL BALL

The Society Event of the season was the Annual Ball given by the Elks on last Friday evening in the opera house. The attendance was large as usual and the whole affair a brilliant success from start to finish. The Grand March was led by Exalted Ruler James Gallagher, and wife, followed closely by fifty to seventy-five of the Elks and their ladies. Many beautiful gowns were in evidence, adding much to the attractiveness of the scene. Punch was served all during the evening and after eleven o'clock ice cream, cake and most excellent hot coffee was served on the stage. The music furnished by the orchestra was unusually good and all enjoyed dancing to the utmost. A very enjoyable part of the evening's entertainment were the moving pictures shown by Mr. Neidemeyer.

WOMEN OF WOODCRAFT

Estelle C. Mann, of Puyallup, special organizer for the Women of Woodcraft, is in the city, a guest at Hotel Angeles. Mrs. Mann's mission is to organize a circle of this fraternity here. In this endeavor she is being rendered every assistance and encouragement by Angeles Camp No. 697, Woodmen of the World, of which order the Women of Woodcraft is an auxiliary. The local camp, which is already in a flourishing condition, will be very greatly strengthened and benefitted by the establishment of a Circle. It is to be hoped that Mrs. Mann will be successful in her undertaking. If there are, in the city, any members of this order, who desire to assist in the institution of the Circle, or to be identified with it in any way, they should call upon Mrs. Mann, who will be glad of their co-operation.

The Port Townsend team, Woodmen of the World, consisting of eighteen members, is expected to come down Saturday and put up a fancy article of initiation for the benefit of the two dozen new members of the local lodge. The Woodmen of the World and Women of Woodcraft have long been the most active orders in Port Townsend.

TOO MUCH PUBLICITY

Wm. Jacobson, living on the Elwha, paid ten dollars and costs to Justice Fields Tuesday for the privilege of shooting a bald eagle. Game Warden Garfield Davis, who made the arrest, says he hated to do it, especially as Mr. Jacobson was in entire ignorance of the law, but the violation of the law had been reported to the T.-T. as a matter of news and he had no choice in the matter — as soon as Mr. Davis read the item he went out after the offender.

COAST HOPS BEST IN WORLD

LEAD EVEN BOHEMIAN IN QUALITY, THOUGH LESS WELL KNOWN.

English Company Urges Growers on Pacific Slope to Bring the High Quality of Their Product to the Attention of World's Largest Buyers by Publicity Program.

Seattle, Feb. 19.—Pointing out that Pacific coast hops are equal to or even superior in many respects to the best Bohemian hops, but that the coast product does not command the prices they should, E. C. Horst Company, of London, hop growers and buyers, have sent letters to hop growers on the Coast urging them to take united action to bring the high quality of Coast hops to the attention of buyers in all parts of the world. This firm states that some action of the kind recommended is necessary in view of the fact that England may soon put a duty on hops, making it harder for the Americans to market the surplus unless they can show their hops have some advantage over the hops from other countries. The letter follows:

"The Coast hops of the crops of 1905, 1906, 1907 and 1908 brought on an average 3 cents higher prices on the English market than did the English hops, but for the 1909 crop conditions are reversed, and Coast hops sell on an average 5 cents per pound less than the English. This makes a difference of 8 cents per pound as against the Coast grower, which differences could, in a large measure, have been avoided if the Coast growers co-operated in a campaign of advertising the actual merits of the Coast hops.

"If hop prices were to stay for future seasons where they are now, the Coast hop growers would not need to care further about prices, but the high prices make the low ones, and we have to prepare now to hold our own when low prices return. In the recent siege of low prices the German and Austrian hop growers increased the production fully 50 per cent. during the same period that the Coast growers decreased their production over one-third, and, while Coast growers were plowing up their yards our importations heavily increased, and the importations were made at prices that would have kept the Coast growers in the business, and at a profit. The hop average of Germany and Austria is today much higher than it ever was, and the growers get 40 to 60 cents per pound for their hops. The foreign hops owe their high prices to co-operation among the growers in causing their product to be well written up and well advertised.

"The reason Coast hops do not at all times sell in the markets of the world at higher prices than other hops is that the growers take no interest in the matter themselves, and they leave the making or breaking of the reputation of Coast hops to the dealers, who, after all, care only for their own profit, regardless of the grower, and if the dealers can make more profit in selling other hops, they naturally do not boom the Pacifics. In fact, most Coast hops that are bought by brewers in America are sold by dealers who sell foreign hops, which they work on 5 cents and sometimes 8 cents per pound profit, and while they cannot make over 2 cents on the Coast hops, naturally they do all they can to sell the foreign hops in our home market.

"Of course, hop prices vary with the extent of the crops grown in the respective countries, but as the brewing value of hops does not depend upon how many are grown in the various countries, the Coast growers ought to work together to put before the brewers of the world at first hand the merit of the Coast hops, and when Coast hops sell on their merits, they will always sell at an average higher than any other hops.

"The principal brewing value of hops, as claimed by the brewers themselves, is the soft resin of the hop, and in these the Pacific coast hops hold the world's record, some of the Coast hops being richer therein than even the world-famed Bohemian hops. But the Bohemian hop growers, by direct and judicious advertising among the brewers, have established a reputation that can be shaken by the Coast growers, but only by the Coast growers persistently putting before the brewers the facts pertaining to the excellent brewing value of the best Coast hops.

"Such a campaign by Coast growers will need the co-operation of the growers. It will involve only a trifling expense for obtaining analyses from high-class brewers' chemists of best Coast hops, in comparison with best Bohemian, Bavarian, English and New York state hops, and the publication of the results in pamphlet form and distributing the same periodically to the 2,000 important brewers of the world. The co-operation of the growers is necessary in order that the pamphlets carry weight, which would not be carried were the work carried on in the names of individual growers.

"Only today we received a pamphlet published by the Bohemian hop growers under the name of Bohemian agricultural department, entitled 'Bohemian Hops the Best Hops in the World.' Every brewer in the world gets this publication. It professes to tell why Bohemian hops are the best, but the very claims they make can be used to prove the Coast hops are better. Coast hop growers have done nothing to cause their hops to get the valuation to which their merits entitle them.

"England will surely put a duty on hops in a year or two, and then America will have a hard time to market its surplus, especially as the surplus which Germany and Austria have been shipping to England will also be shut out by English duty, and Germany and Austria will do all in their power to increase their already heavy shipments into America."

CHINA CALLED TO TASK BY POWERS

Peking, Feb. 19.—Great Britain, France and Germany, in an identical note presented to the foreign board asked the Chinese government the meaning of the imperial rescript of January 30, in which the throne ordered the imperial board of communications to consider the appeal of the provinces concerned to build the railroads involved in the disputed Hankow-Szechuen line. The note holds China to her obligations contracted in the negotiations of last summer.

The above powers made an effort to arrange a protest against the rescript, but the United States did not join with them in the matter. Neither did the United States participate in the identical note; but Mr. Fletcher, the American charge d'affaires, made representations to the foreign board to the effect that the United States would expect full participation in any loan for the railways involved.

Baron Ejuin, the Japanese minister, called at the American legation and explained to Mr. Fletcher Japan's position in the matter of the Chin Chaw-Augun railway.

Japan's official representations to China for participation in the financing of this road do not contain new conditions not made in the informal representations, only as Japan makes clear her expectations of extending the Japanese lines to the rich Tonanfu region, preferably from Tiehling.

Washington, Feb. 19.—The United States government did not see fit to join with Great Britain, France and Germany in asking China for an explanation of the rescript because the state department relies on the promises of the imperial government to allow this country to participate in the loan from which the roads are to be constructed.

The other three powers felt their interests in the loan were not based on assurances that they would deem conclusive.

The state department believes the roads will be constructed, not by a loan subscribed by the provinces through which they are to run, but with a loan subscribed by the leading powers, in which the United States will share fully.

YAKIMA MAN EXPOUNDS IRRIGATION TO EGYPTIANS

North Yakima, Feb. 21.—A. W. Coffin, of Coffin Bros., this city, who is visiting Egypt, has the Egyptians very much interested in methods of irrigation followed in the Yakima valley. He gave an interview to an Egyptian paper at Cairo, and has since been besieged by land owners wanting more information.

He gave the paper a table showing the returns of some of the ranchers in this valley from fruit, and the Egyptians look upon the report as fabulous. The chief product of the Nile valley in that section is cotton, corn and beans, and the Yakima man demonstrated to them that much greater returns would be received from fruit. Mr. Coffin writes that it is a long way off to be boosting Yakima and the state of Washington, but he never found people more interested.

BITULITHIC PAVEMENT FOR MT. VERNON STREETS.

Mt. Vernon, Feb. 19.—This city is to begin extensive paving operations at once. he joint committee of the council and commercial club which visited Seattle and Portland recently, have agreed to recommend bitulithic pavement, which is asphaltum with the soluble salt taken from it to prevent rotting, and which is mixed with crushed rock instead of sand, as in the ordinary asphalt.

It was originally agreed to spend $90,000, which would cover the entire business section of this city, but owing to the objections of some property holders, it is likely that only $30,000 will be spent on the main street, unless two-thirds of the owners on the other streets sign a petition asking for the original expenditure. The work will begin as soon as the weather permits.

Radium in Klondike.

Dawson, Feb. 19.—A sample of pitchblende from Colorado displayed here caused five prospectors to announce they have similar material in veins up to six inches wide near Dawson, which they believe is the same article. If this be so it means the Klondike is rich in radium. There is much excitement among prospectors and they are preparing to forward samples for test.

PACKERS TO BE INDICTED

NEW JERSEY GRAND JURY SATISFIED WITH EVIDENCE PRESENTED.

Prosecutor Instructed to Draw up Form of Indictment Against National Packing Company — Directors Took Action to Hold Surplus Supplies in Cold Storage Until Prices Went Up.

New York, Feb. 19.—Prosecutor Garvan said last night that, acting upon his recommendation, the Hudson county grand jury of New Jersey had instructed him to draw up the form of an indictment against the National Packing Company and its directors.

The grand jury, he said, had positive evidence that food products in some instances have been kept in cold storage for seven years.

It was stated tonight that the National Packing Company had already been indicted. Garvan's statement, although technically a denial, forecasts such action soon. It is understood that the indictment, when finally presented, probably will be for conspiracy in restraint of trade, as the court instructed the jury it might find, in his charge.

In Mr. Garvan's belief, the best proof of a conspiracy to restrain trade lay in the minutes of the National Packing Company, which had been read to the grand jury. In the directorate of the National Packing Company appeared the names of many recognized holders of great packing interests. Apparently, said Mr. Garvan, these companies were working independently, but he believed he had evidence that directors of the National Packing Company had taken formal action to hold surplus supplies in storage until the market prices should meet their own figures.

The directors are J. Ogden Armour, Edwin Morris, E. F. Swift, E. M. Morris, Arthur Meeker, Edward Tilden, T. J. Conners, L. A. Carton, T. E. Wilson, C. H. Swift, L. H. Heyman, Samuel L. McRoberts, F. A. Fowler, A. W. Armour, L. F. Swift and Kenneth K. MacLaren.

It is understood that each will be named specifically with the exception of Mr. MacLaren, who is a resident of New Jersey, and who has no known active share in the management of the company.

The testimony of chemists and biologists has been heard by the grand jury, and evidence has been laid before the State board of health. Consultations also have been held with Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief chemist of the federal government.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—Warfare upon Packingtown has assumed nation-wide proportions.

Indictments were voted Saturday against directors of the National Packing Company by a New Jersey grand jury.

The federal grand jury in Chicago, delving into the records of the packing industry for evidence of anti-trust law violations, has about completed its big task, and a report within two weeks is expected.

Investigation of the packers in Missouri under the state trust law, is well under way. More recently Kansas has inaugurated similar proceedings.

High Prices Quicken Action.

This combined attack, broad as it is, may be augmented further. Many states, it was declared today, have enacted anti-trust laws under which they may proceed individually against the big firms of Packingtown. A number, it was ascertained, contemplate doing so. This inquisitorial activity is attributed in some quarters to the high price of meat.

Action in New Jersey is based upon an ancient law which forbids the storage or destruction of produce with the intent of influencing the market. Originally it was an old English statue, and few states have adopted it. Nevertheless, the New Jersey act, though long unused, is believed by the authorities of the comomnwealth to furnish grounds for prosecution.

Packers Not Worried.

A somewhat modified view obtained in Chicago. Many held that the suddenness of the New Jersey jurors' decision tended to cast doubt upon the seriousness of the attack. There is a wide distinction between indictment and conviction, it was pointed out. J. Ogden Armour, Louis F. Swift, Edward Morris and other packers named in the new charges were unwilling to be interviewed, but their attorneys appeared confident that the New Jersey attack would fail.

The suit in Missouri is in the civil courts and the punishment which that state seeks to inflict upon the big packing houses is eviction. The Chicago grand jury, on the other hand, is conducting its inquiry under the Sherman anti-trust law, and whatever action it may take will be the result of mature consideration.

Chicago Inquisitors Busy.

What would develop if the beef investigations in New Jersey, Illinois, Missouri and Kansas should utilize similar evidence and still more complicated questions regarding possible convictions at different points were cleared up by lawyers Saturday.

The constitutional provision that a man cannot be punished twice for the same offense was held to offer no obstruction to proceedings conducted simultaneously in several states, for when an act held to be illegal is committed in many states it is regarded as a distinct offense in each.

Although District Attorney Sims had little to say of the developments in the warfare upon the packers, it was learned that the course of the local investigation is nearing its end. The body may be ready to report to Judge Landis in two weeks' time.

JUVENILE COURT IDEA BECOMES WORLD-WIDE

New York, Feb. 21.—As a result of work done by children's courts in America, especially in Denver, the movement is spreading over the civilized world.

Recently a children's court was established in London and movements for similar tribunals are either under way or will soon be in Germany, France and Hungary.

Count Szecenyi, who married Miss Gladys Vanderbilt, has spent several weeks in this city, and while here inspected the work of juvenile courts. He is going home to urge a similar institution in Hungary.

The fame of the unique court of Denver has spread far and near. Recently Judge Lindsey, of Denver, received a personal letter from the private secretary of Mr. Gladstone, in England, in which Judge Lindsey was told that the principles of the Denver institution had been used in founding better tribunals for children.

Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, of New York, has taken up the work of uplifting children, and in addition to visiting courts in this city she is making a study of the reports and pamphlets of Judge Lindsey.

At the present time the Italian government is investigating the Denver court, and when a similar institution is founded in Rome it will be upon the general plan of Colorado.

GUGGENHEIMS SAY THEY ARE NOT GUILTY.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—Stung by charges concerning the character and extent of their operations in Alaska, the powers behind the Morgan-Guggenheim syndicate have made public their side of the case.

John M. Steele, general counsel, and Stephen Birch, managing director of the syndicate, gave what they termed a "frank statement" to a senate committee concerning their operations in the Northwest.

In substance their statement was as follows: All the money which has been spent in the enormous projects for the development of Alaskan resources has been furnished by the syndicate. Not a single bond or share of stock has been issued to the public.

The syndicate has proceeded under the law. All its property except the right of way have been purchased from owners.

The syndicate never had any interest in Alaskan coal lands except that under the option given by the Cunningham claimants in July, 1907.

At that time they had received from the government final receivers' certificates, and had the right to sell their claims.

Nothing more has been done with the option because, under their terms, no money was to be paid until the patents had been issued.

PAPER PLANT PLANNED AT VANCOUVER, WASH.

Vancouver, Wash., Feb. 19.—A $500,000 paper mill, giving employment to 300 men, will be built in Vancouver if present plans of local and outside capitalists are carried out. The location for the plant had already been secured on the river. An expert papermaker is available, and those who have the project in hand say that a market can be had for all the paper which is manufactured by the plant. Only the highest grades of paper will be turned out, such as bond and paper for envelopes. The promoters agreed to install the plant if $75,000 is raised among local people. A committee has the matter in hand, and it has been put up to the four banks to handle. Vancouver's cry for years past has been "More factories," and this cry seems about to be answered.

Rich Strike in Idaho.

Spokane, Feb. 19.—A strike, which it is believed may net millions, has been made near Newsome, a short dstance from Elk City, Idaho. The report was brought into Lewiston by Joe Brown, one of the old reliable mining men of the district. He showed ore glistening with free gold. He said that there was a general stampede on at Elk City for the new field, men crossing the deep snow to stake out claims near by.

South Carolina Ratifies Amendment.

Columbia, S. C., Feb. 21.—The South Carolina senate Saturday night completed the legislative ratification of the constitutional amendment permitting congress to levy an income tax without apportionment among the several states. The resolution already has passed the house.

Prizes for School Farms.

Vancouver, Wash., Feb. 19.—To create a greater interest in agriculture among the school children of the country, Superintendent Oscar McBride is sending out circulars to all schools. A prize will be offered to the boy who raises the best crop of potatoes and one to the girl who can show the best bed of flowers.

SECURED QUICK ACTION

PRESIDENT REPORTED DISPLEASED OVER DELAYS IN SENATE COMMITTEES.

Has Heart to Heart Talk With Party Leaders and Report Is That Administration Measures Are to Be Taken Up at Once and Alaskan Government Bill Side-Tracked.

Washington, Feb. 19.—In effect President Taft said to some of the senate leaders whom he called to the White House during the week:

"Why don't you push measures to redeem party pledges while the house is dealing with appropriation bills? You are moving too slowly." It is said he exhibited extreme impatience with the degree of progress thus far made toward the enactment of administration bills.

By way of result, the senators were able to announce the following:

The almost hopeless tangle in which the Root and Smoot amendments have ensnarled the postal savings bank bill, will receive attention at a conference to be held in the rooms of the finance committee of which Senator Aldrich is chairman. When whipped into shape, the postal savings bank bill is to displace the Alaskan legislative council bill, as the unfinished business, and the latter is to be laid aside as involving problems that cannot be solved at the present session.

Railroad Bill to Be Forced.

The administration railroad bill is to be reported from the committee on interstate commerce next week and force put behind it to pass it without material amendment.

The several conservation bills are to be perfected by a special committee of Western senators appointed by Chairman Nelson from the committee on public lands, and these measures are to be reported to the senate as rapidly as completed.

The anti-injunction bill is to be considered by the judiciary committee next Monday.

Statehood legislation, which already has been reported from the committee on territories, is not to be permitted to lag, and probably will receive attention as soon as the postal savings bank bill is out of the way.

This program includes neither the federal incorporation bill nor ship subsidy legislation, although the latter is likely to pass the senate without much debate. It will meet difficult hurdles in the house.

No Uncertain Temper.

Senators Carter, Borah and Beveridge carried from the capitol President Taft's views of the delays encountered by bills contained in his program. They reported that there could be no mistaking the president's temper.

The postal savings bank bill gave him the most concern, it is said, because the opposition that had developed to such legislation did not appear to him based on sound principles.

When the senate adjourned the postal savings bank bill was in such a tangle that no one was willing to prophesy its outcome. In truth, the adjournment was brought about chiefly because the senate was not ready to face the situation in reference to this bill, and there was nothing else that could be considered, as the Alaskan bill was in a snarl even more intricate.

Confer on Postal Savings.

All afternoon senators entered Senator Aldrich's room. As a result of these visits, it was arranged to have a conference of wider scope the next day. At that time all senators will gather, who have introduced conflicting amendments to the postal bank bill, and Republican leaders have announced their determination to "see the president through" on his program.

Senator Aldrich predicted that an agreement would be reached that would bring to the support of the bill enough Republicans to pass it.

Senator Aldrich does not disguise that he considers the problem exceedingly difficult.

Must Reconcile Differences.

On the one hand Senator Root and his followers are contending for a provision like that contained in the Root amendment, which would constitutionally justify the creation of the postal banks by placing them under the borrowing clause of the constitution.

On the other hand, many Western senators take the position that such a clause would inevitably have the effect of concentrating at Washington the vast fund that it is expected the postal depositories will bring out of hiding.

The two positions are ultra-antagonistic and friends of the bill fear that, unless one side or the other gives way, the bill must fall.

TAFT PROGRAMME SUSTAINED IN PART

Washington, Feb. 21.—Four administration measures are sure of passage at this session of congress.

After conferences with Senators and Representatives, President Taft told callers Saturday that he felt certain the amendments to the interstate commerce law, the postal savings bank bill, the anti-injunction proposal and the statehood bill would go through.

The situation now seems to portend that the Alaska legislative council bill, the federal incorporation bill and several other measures desired by the President will either fall by the wayside or be laid upon the shelf for another session.

Platform Pledge Kept.

Some Senators fear they will be taking in four Democratic Senators and some Democratic Representatives in passing the statehood bill. The President, however, wishes to stand by the Republican national platform of two years ago.

Postmaster General Hitchcock has taken a stand with the President in this matter. Of the four administration measures mentioned, the statehood bill alone seems to show signs of weakness. As to the postal savings bank bill, the President has had some difficulty in smoothing out the wrinkles.

Smoot and Root Pacified.

He has had to meet the opposition of Senator Smoot and also has been compelled to ask Senator Root not to press his amendment to the investment of funds in government bonds.

The anti-injunction bill introduced by Representative Moon of Pennsylvania is satisfactory to the President, as it does not differ materially from the administration bill. There never has been any doubt of the success of the Interstate Commerce amendments at the White House.

GRANGE PROTESTS AGAINST RAISE IN POSTAL RATES.

White Salmon, Feb. 19.—Mountain View Grange No. 98, of this place, at its last regular meeting, adopted the following resolutions:

"Be it resolved, That we are opposed to any increase on the rate of second-class mail matter, as we believe it will be a direct burden upon the people; we protest against the proposed, or any other, tax on periodicals; we favor the continuance of rural free delivery and extensions of it; we favor the establishment of local parcels posts and postal savings banks; we favor putting all postmasters on the civil service basis; the improving of the postal service and bringing it up to date, and the installing and owning of the latest improved steel mail cars, and cutting down the excessive payments to railroads for carrying mail cars.

"We further disapprove loaning the deposits of postal banks, as is now proposed; we favor loaning to individuals on gilt-edge or approved securities."

A copy of these resolutions was sent to Senator W. L. Jones, to be transmitted to the proper committee.

COURT INJUNCTION BILL BEFORE CONGRESS.

Washington, Feb. 19.—What is generally recognized as the administration bill on the regulation of court injunction has been introduced by Representative Moon (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, chairman of the committee on revision of laws. The phraseology of this particular bill is expected to be given careful scrutiny.

The Moon bill is brief, covering a single typewritten sheet. In effect, it provides that no injunction, whether interlocutory or permanent, shall be issued by any federal court without previous notice and an opportunity to be heard on behalf of the parties enjoined.

But, it says further, if there appears a probability that "immediate and irreparable injury" is likely to ensue, the court may issue a temporary restraining order without notice. It is required that every such order shall define the injury, state why irreparable and why granted without notice, and shall not extend more than seven days from the time the notice is served.

COAL LAND TEMPORARILY WITHDRAWN FROM ENTRY.

Washington, Feb. 19.—Secretary Ballinger, of the interior department, has temporarily withdrawn from coal entry 2,068,492 acres of public land. He also temorarily withdrew from all forms of disposition 127,122 acres. Forty-six thousand four hundred and thirty-one acres were restored to settlement.

Data recently collected by the geological survey indicated that the public lands in Wyoming and Montana contained valuable deposits of coal, and, to determine the question, the secretary of the interior withdrew from coal entry 1,208,206 acres in the former state and 860,286 in the latter. This withdrawal is pending a detailed field examination.

SENATE CONSIDERING BOND ISSUE FOR IRRIGATION.

Washington, Feb. 19.—For more than two hours today the senate listened to a discussion of the bill authorizing the issuance of $30,000,000 worth of certificates of indebtedness for the completion of irrigation projects already begun.

The measure was championed by a number of senators, especially by Messrs. Carter and Borah. Mr. Carter said that in a number of cases reservoirs had been completed, while the ditches had not been constructed, while the effect was to withhold the water from settlers. It was stated that the money would all be repaid by settlers, and that, in reality, the treasury would not in any way be affected.

Varieties of Fruit for Washington

W. S. Thornber, Horticulturist. State College, Pullman, Wash.

The purpose of the following list is to be a suggestive guide for the prospective orchard planter. While the varieties are named in considerable number under several classes, it is intended that the planter should select two or three rather than plant all named in the list. In the survey of the state with reference to the orchard industries, which the college has recently revised and brought up to date, it has been found expedient to divide the state into three divisions, namely, Western Washington, Inland Valleys and Inland Uplands, in each one of which there is a considerable variation in the varieties it is wise to make use of. By consulting this classification of fruits in Washington the orchardist can determine very accurately for himself what varieties he should use.

The following varieties are recommended for Western Washington:

Apples—Northern Spy, Olympias, Rhode Island Greening, Yellow Newtown, Blue Permain and Yellow Bellflower, all late; Gravenstein, medium; King, medium; Yellow Transparent and Williams, early.

Pears—Winter Nellis and Clairgeau, late; Anjou, Comice, White Doyenne, Seckle and Flemish, medium; Bartlett, early.

Sweet Cherries—Hoskins, Lambert and Black Republican, all late; Bing, medium; Royal Ann, early.

Sour Cherries—Northwest, late; Olivet and Montmorency, medium; Early Richmond, early; May Duke, Late Duke and Reine Hortense.

Peaches—Alexander, Triumph, Early Crawford and Charlotte, all early. Apricots—Gibb and Moorpark, early. Plums—Abundance, Peach, Bradshaw and Wickson. Prunes—Italian, Silver and Hungarian.

Grapes—Concord, Niagara, Worden, Campbell's Early, Moore's Diamond and Moore's Early. Red Raspberries—Cuthbert, Marlboro, Superlative and Ruby, all medium; Antwerp, early. Black Raspberries—Cumberland, Burkhart and Gregg.

Blackberries—Snyder and Mammoth Black, early; Kittatinny, medium; Himalaya Giant and Evergreen, late; Lucretia Dewberry.

Gooseberries — Downing, Industry, Portage, Smith and Oregon.

Currants—Victoria, Wilder, Perfection, Cherry, Red Dutch and White Grape.

Strawberries—Hood River, Magoon, Marshall and Crescent, medium; Warfield and Bederwood, early; Gandy, late.

English Walnuts—Franquette and Mayette.

Other Nuts—Black walnut, ash filbert, butternut and Jap chestnut.

For Inland Valleys.

For the Inland Valleys we have found it advisable to recommend the following varieties:

Apples—Spitzenberg, Yellow Newtown, Rome Beauty, Winesap, Jonathan W. W. Permain and Delicious, all late; Gravenstein, Duchess, King and Winter Banana, medium; Williams, early; Grimes Golden, late.

Pears—Winter Nellis, Clairgeau, late; Anjou, Comice, White Doyenne, Seckle and Flemish, medium; Bartlett and Clapp, early.

Sweet Cherries—Northwest, late; Olivet and Montmorency, medium; Early Richmond, early; May Duke, Late Duke and Reine Mortense.

Peaches—Salway, late; Elberta, Foster, Hills Chili and Wheatland, medium; Hale, early. Apricots—Royal and Hemiskirke, medium; Early Golden and Moorpark, early.

Plums—Abundance, Peach, Bradshaw and Wickson. Prunes—Italian, Silver and Hungarian.

Grapes—Campbell's Early, Moore's Early, Moore's Diamond, Concord, Worden, Delaware, Sweetwater, Thompson's Seedless, Tokay (Flame), Hamburg and Alexander.

Red Raspberries—Cuthbert, Marlboro and Ruby, medium; Antwerp, early; Superlative. Black Raspberries—Cumberland, Burkhart and Gregg.

Blackberries—Himalaya Giant and Evergreen, late; Kittatinny, medium; Snyder and M. Black, early; Lucretia Dewberry.

Gooseberries — Downing, Industry, Portage, Smith and Oregon.

Currants—Victoria, Wilder, Perfection, Cherry, Red Dutch and White Grape.

Strawberries—Gandy, late; Magoon, Marshall and Crescent, medium; Warfield and Bederwood, early.

Nuts—Franquette and Mayette English walnuts, black walnuts, cob filbert, butternut and Jap Chestnut.

Recommended for Uplands

As suitable for inland upland regions we recommend:

Apples—Rome Beauty, Wagener, Jonathan, Gano, W. W. Permain, York Imperial and Delicious, late; King, Gravenstein and Duchess, medium; Yellow Transparent and Williams, early.

Pears—Winter Nellis and Clairgeau, late; Anjou, Comice, White Doyenne, Seckle and Flemish, medium; Bartlett and Tyson, early.

Sweet Cherries—Hoskins and Lambert, late; Bing and Centennial, medium; Vilne Sweet.

Sour Cherries—Northwest, late; Olivet and Montmorency, medium; Early Richmond, May Duke, Late Duke and Reine Hortense.

Peaches—Foster, medium; Alexander, Triumph, Champion and Hale, early; Wonderful, medium; Early Crawford. Apricots—Gibb and Moorpark, early. Plums—Abundance, Peach, Bradshaw and Wickson. Prunes—Italian, Silver and Hungarian.

Grapes—Campbell's Early, Moore's Early and Moore's Diamond.

Red Raspberries—Cuthbert, Marlboro and Ruby, medium. Black Raspberries—Cumberland, Burkhart and Gregg.

Blackberries — Evergreen, late; Early Harvest, Rathbun and Kittatinny, medium; Early Harvest, early.

Gooseberries — Downing, Industry, Portage, Smith and Oregon.

Currants—Victoria, Wilder, Perfection, Cherry, Red Dutch and White Grape.

Strawberries—Gandy, late; Marshall, Glen Mary, Crescent and Hood River, medium; Warfield, early.

Nuts—Franquette and Mayette for English walnuts; cob filberts; black walnut, butternut and Jap Chestnut.

Good Profits in Good Potatoes

A. G. Craig, Assistant Agricultrist Washington State College.

The Eastern demand for Washington grown potatoes is good, and has rarely allowed the price to fall below $10 per ton in car lots. There is also a rapidly increasing market for Washington potatoes in Alaska. We do not have in this state the Colorado beetle (potato bug), which is so destructive a pest in other potato-growing districts, and the peculiar climatic and soil conditions of Washington are especially favorable for the production of potatoes. In regions of the state where the atmosphere is dry during the summer months the growth of fungus diseases on the foliage is discouraged.

Erroneous ideas that potatoes as a crop do not need much attention is largely responsible for the great variation in yields per acre in this state. Many farmers give time and care to the potato crop only when there is nothing else to do, so the potato is neglected. The potato crop is responsive to good treatment, and the grower who exercises proper care with his potatoes is always repaid in the yield and quality of his crop.

A deep, friable, mellow loam, rich in humus, is the ideal soil for potatoes. Heavier soils may give good results if well manured, or by plowing under a clover or alfalfa sod. If the soil has any tendency to pack, the tubers are restricted in their growth and are often misshapen. Supplying humus to such soils not only remedies this difficulty by making them more friable, but increases their water-holding capacity, thus insuring larger yields per acre. The soil should always be put in good physical condition, as potatoes respond very profitably to good soil conditions. Light soils can be worked earlier in the spring than clay soils, and also favor early maturity of the crop. They are, therefore, better for early potatoes. Potatoes should not be grown repeatedly on the same soil, as most of the potato diseases live over in the soil.

Working Fields to Produce Results.

Potato land, assuming that it has been plowed or disked in the fall and allowed to lie rough through the winter so as to catch the winter moisture, should be well harrowed early in the spring. If not immediately planted, it should be frequently harrowed in order to conserve moisture and kill the weeds which start after the first harrowing. Spring-plowed land should be harrowed immediately after the plow, to prevent loss of moisture. In the drier sections, some form of subsurface packer should follow the plow, and this should be immediately followed by the harrow to work up a surface mulch. If the soil plow up cloddy, a plank clod-masher may profitably be used.

The potato plant needs ample moisture when the tubers are setting, hence the grower should endeavor to have the plants reach that stage of development at the time when the moisture supply is likely to be favorable. For early new potatoes, the seed should be planted as early in the spring as the soil will permit, on light, warm soil. For late potatoes, they may be planted as late as the middle of June, provided the moisture supply is ample and continuous, but where summer rains cannot be depended upon, the earlier the potatoes are planted the better, if the danger from frost is guarded against.

Whitman's Compass Goes to College.

Walla Walla, Feb. 19.—A small pocket compass carried by Marcus Whitman up to the time of his tragic death has been presented to Whitman College by Walter Eells, grandson of the founder of the college, at the meeting of the alumni and former students.

Governor Writes About Quarry.

Walla Walla, Feb. 21.—Gov. Hay has written giving the reason why the Walla Walla county rock quarry at Dixie has not been opened. He says the state geologist refuses to approve the site purchased, claiming that it is not what he recommended.

Science AND Invention

A writer in the Revue Scientifique discusses the effects of ivy growing on walls of various kinds, and arrives at the following conclusions: It is not advisable to allow the plant to grow on walls formed of newly cut stone, since it soon destroys the smooth surface, although the damage does not extend to any noticeable depth; it is bad for ancient walls of cut stone, the joints of which have been opened by the various effects of time and the weather; it is not injurious on brick walls, if the inhabitants are not subject to rheumatism; and it is useful on ancient walls of rubble, since its interlaced branches tend to prevent the fall of loose stones.

According to some of the farmers of East Africa, the lion should be protected as a useful animal, notwithstanding the fact that once in a while he kills a man. The lion, they maintain, is a great destroyer of noxious herbivorous animals, such as zebras and antelopes, which are a scourge to the fields. In one district they say no less than 346 lions have recently been killed by hunters, and they estimate that this represents the saving of 35,000 to 40,000 zebras and antelopes, which would otherwise have fallen a prey to the lions that have been destroyed. Of course the hunters shoot zebras and antelopes also, but this fact, they think, does not counterbalance the destruction of those animals that would have been effected by the slain lions.

The experience of the corps of telegraphers employed to operate the wireless apparatus used by the French in the recent campaign in Morocco suggests that the Hertzian waves develop various affections of the eyes. A slight conjunctivitis, resembling that occurring among those who work with arc lamps, was commonly observed, together with a few cases of a more serious nature. Two cases of eczema were apparently due to the same cause, and one man suffered from palpitation of the heart after working for any great length of time at the sending instruments. Doctor Belille is inclined to think that many cases of neurasthenia and nervousness, now becoming common in the navy, may be due to the influence of the waves used in wireless telegraphy.

The immense cavern (the Giant Grotto) is situated near Trieste, Austria, and is said to be the largest known to exist. It consists of one vast chamber, 787 feet long, 433 feet broad and 452 feet high. There are three entrances, two in the roof, and one at the edge of the roof, which has recently been provided with ladders and steps, so that visitors can safely descend into the grotto. Once on the bottom, progress is easy. The cavern contains remarkable groups of stalactites, some of them of gigantic size and others of bizarre shapes. The tallest stalactite has a length of a little more than 39 feet. No side or underlying caverns have yet been discovered. The bottom of the grotto is 525 feet below the surface of the ground forming the top of the roof, which in turn is about 1,580 feet above sea level.

A "Leetle Diff'rence."

"Yes, sir, gentlemen; thar's a leetle diff'rence between farmin' out west an' back here in old Varmont," said Uncle Si Eggmann to the cronies around the stove at the cross-roads store, on his return from a visit to his brother in Dakota. "Now, out thar in the west they don't think they've reelly got a farm unless it totals about 3,000 or 4,000 acres; an' if they air raisin' stock they speak o' 5,000 head as bein' a 'leetle bunch o' cattle' An' takes 'em 'bout half a day to hoe one row o' corn, the rows air so long, an' they harvest corn an' wheat enough on one farm to fill our town hall. Now, that's a leetle diff'rent from what it is here in New England, where we call 20 acres o' ground, a couple o' dozen hens, an' a rooster, six or eight keows, an' a rozberry patch, a farm. Yes, sir, gentlemen, thar's a turrible diff'rence between farmin' east an' farmin' west—a most turrible diff'rence!" —Puck.

A Bright Idea.

"Hogan's cow bruk into the strawberry patch this mornin', sorr, an' it's hivvy damages we sh'uld git from him."

"It's no use, Patrick. He'll be sure to swear it was somebody else's cow."

"The divil a bit, sorr. He can't. Oi shut the baste in there fur ividence."—Judge.

A Slight Mistake.

HOPE TO FREE MORSE

Friends Working to Secure Release of Convicted Napoleon of Finence.

Efforts to secure a pardon for Charles W. Morse, the fallen Napoleon of finance, who has begun to serve a sentence of fifteen years in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., for violation of the federal banking laws, have begun. His counsel, Martin W. Littleton, and his wife, who has clung to her husband with great fidelity and who disposed of her jewelry and most of her personal effects a few months ago to aid in the fight to secure his freedom, will lead in the movement. Every influence, political and other, will be brought to bear to procure a Presidential pardon, for that is now the sole avenue of escape before the dethroned ice king.

In the great federal penitentiary Morse has been assigned to work as a tailor, and in this occupation he will be obliged to put in eight hours a day. Early to bed and early to rise is the rule of the prison and Sunday, with the few holidays which are interspersed throughout the year, will be the only day of rest. The food, while wholesome, will be of the plainest and will be a remarkable change for a man who has for many years been accustomed to the delicacies of the most luxuriant restaurants in New York.

Convicts in the prison are divided into three classes. As long as Morse remains tractable he will be in Class 1 and will be allowed to draw books from the library, receive visitors and write letters. If he becomes bad, in the prison meaning of the term, he will sink to Class 2 or Class 3, and those in the latter grade are deprived of all privileges.

The rise and fall of Charles W. Morse forms an interesting chapter in the recent history of New York's financial methods. As a young college man in Maine he engaged in the ice business and prospered, and with a good working capital came to New York, where he formed the Ice Trust, with a capitalization of $40,000,000. Then he branched into the banking business and soon owned or controlled twenty different financial institutions, using one bank security for securing control of another. Not content with these triumphs, which netted him many millions, he organized the Consolidated Steamship Company, with a capitalization of $120,000,000. Had not the panic of 1907 occurred, Morse would have been able to swing his great enterprises, but he fell one of the victims of that disastrous financial crash and in a night the title of Ice King, Banking King and Steamship King passed away from him forever. In an endeavor to save himself he misappropriated funds of the National Bank of North America, and it is for this offense he is now a prisoner in the Atlanta penitentiary.

Appreciation for a Poet.

On the day it was announced that the body of poor John Davidson had been found, I read a brief paragraph showing how such a calamity might easily have been avoided. The inhabitants of Tourcoing, in the north of France, are very proud of their local dialectic poet, M. Jules Watteun. Instead of waiting to erect a statue to him after death they have made sure that he shall be put beyond the reach of financial worry, that bane of so many poets great and small, during his lifetime. There was a demonstration in honor of M. Watteun last year and a public subscription was opened. The sum collected has now been utilized to build the poet a house, which shall be his during his lifetime and then revert to the commune, and in addition to secure him an annuity; while if his death precedes that of his wife an annuity of half the value will be paid to her so long as she lives.

Perfect Coating for Hams.

Mraslin" is the name of a substance that is used in Bohemia to coat hams. It is pliable as rubber, tasteless and harmless, and keeps the hams —also meats, eggs, etc., perfectly fresh almost indefinitely. The mraslin can be peeled from the hame almost as easily as the skin from a banana.

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN CLALLAM COUNTY.

OFFICIAL PAPER

Published Every Friday at Port Angeles by The Webster Publishing Co.

FRIDAY, FEB. 26, 1910

Officials of the census bureau believe the approaching thirteenth census will disclose a population in the United States proper of approximately 88 million people. This means, should the present ratio for Congressional representation be maintained, that the House will have a membership of 457, exclusive of territorial delegates, an increase of 66.

The city council at Bremerton has just passed an ordinance raising the annual license of saloons in that city from $1,000 to $2,000. In Angeles the annual saloon license is $300, while in other parts of the county it is $600. Why? There can be but one answer. And that is because a saloon dominated council fixed and maintained the price in one and the county commissioners in the other.

"Dry" Wenatchee is experiencing the back-sets which follow the driving out of the saloon. That bustling city is to have imposed upon it a new box manufacturing plant to cost $30,000. The Northern Manufacturing and Mill Company has purchased three and a half acres of water front property for the location of this new plant. Buildings are already under way and within the next two months a full fledged factory will be in operation. Alas, alas, poor Wenatchee!

What nearly every town needs is a more pronounced public spirit. Civic stagnation is the result of indifference and that indifference has its root in a selfishness that considers nothing but private gain. Take any community whose citizens are intent only on their private affairs and you find a community destitute of progress and public spirit. It is a short sighted policy based upon the wrong idea that it does not pay individually to spare even a fraction of time to devote to the general good. In truth it does not pay not to do it for in these pushing days the town destitute of that wholesome, wideawake spirit which makes for the public welfare falls behind. Other towns pass it by, draw away its trade, and leave it hopelessly in the rear as a fossilized specimen of antiquity petrified through clinging to a dead selfishness and obsolete methods.

The annual school election for the selection of a member of the school board of District No. 7, Port Angeles, occurs Saturday, March 5. Mr. S. E Stakemiller is the retiring member of the board, and will, without doubt, succeed himself. So far as we know he will have no opposition, and he should have none. Every parent or patron of the schools is interested in retaining a man who is known to be qualified for this important position, and Mr. Stakemiller has been tried and found not wanting. Our schools and teachers are a credit to the city, and every parent wants to see his child rapidly advanced in educational work. Then "hold fast that which is good" and re-elect a man you have confidence in.

A VOICE FROM THE DESERT

Fireless Cookers, Screens and Sweet Peas in the Winter, and in the Summer, What Then?

We have been permitted to read a private letter from Rev. E. M. Rogers, dated at Imperial, Cal. After giving an interesting account of their delightful trip south, Mr. Rogers says: "At Imperial Junction we took a little branch road for this place, 18 miles away, then we got the true air—I cannot describe it, very soft and mild, yet a bit bracing. Here we are, 62 feet below sea level. Everything is flat and desert looking, and very few trees, but the fields are green, and people are very, very prosperous.

"This town is growing so that it's hard to get a house. The Woman's Guild rented the only available one in town and borrowed furniture and dishes for us until ours arrives. So we slept in our own home last night. How you would laugh to see it; no lawn, only bare ground all around it; three rooms down stairs and one up stairs. But, please remember, we have cement sidewalks and the gas pipes are being laid now. The new water system will be used next month. The hotels cannot take care of the people. It would have cost us $50 a week to have lived there and that was a special rate. There are about three times as many stores as at Port Angeles. The town, or this end of the valley, I don't know which, boasts of 30 automobiles. The houses are almost all veranda, and most of the people sleep on the verandas, so that in the house proper they have but living room, dining room and kitchen. We had a chance tonight to get a very cozy little house with indoor toilet and bath room, a pleasant lawn, oleander trees, rose bushes, etc., for $20, and I rushed to see some of my men to see about taking it, but the man whom I have sized up as a pretty good one to have for a friend, says, no, do not take it, because he thinks we can have a rectory in two months time. They are going to get a permit to build from the city tomorrow. How is that for hustling? * * *

"Every one here uses fireless cookers. None of them, we are told, heat water for the bath by means of a boiler. There are screens at the doors and windows, and today we have waged war on flies; we have a big bunch of sweet peas on the table.

"The land is very fertile, but looks like white and dark red sand It is a very, very dusty place and the fine sand blows in the house in a most surprising way. The people are so cordial; they have come in from two to three miles to see us and brought eggs, milk, figs, etc. It is a very, very new and queer country, but we are going to like it. Mary is much pleased with the ladies. They tell us that the people who live in some very unpretentious places are worth 20 to 40 thousand dollars. You can not imagine how bright the stars are and how clear the air is."

Running a saloon at Vancouver and keeping out of the clutches of the law at the same time, does not seem to be the easiest thing to do. A strict observance of law is not the creed of many men engaged in the business. John Padden and George Moore, proprietors of two of Vancouver's saloons, were fined, last week, $75 and $95.35 and costs, respectively, for keeping open after closing hours. Vancouver and Walla Walla voted wet, but in spite of this, business and other progressive men in both cities want the license increased and the number of saloons decreased. At Vancouver three saloons have already gone out of business. Two were forced out by the license committee and the other because of inability to pay the license. Walla Walla wants the license raised until the number of saloons there is not more than one for each thousand population.

Sedro Wooley Courier: "Cities of the third class may establish a $2,000 annual saloon license, according to an opinion rendered the prosecuting attorney of Kitsap county by the attorney general. Attorney Bell says that the section of the state code limiting city licenses to not less than $300 nor more than $1,000 has been repealed by the law prescribing powers of city councils and therefore city councils may establish any maximum."

We should not be small in such matters. Next to no license we favor at least $2,000, with fewer saloons and a more strict regulation for Port Angeles.

Notwithstanding some may offer objections, it pays to expose crookedness in public officials. The last legislature put Schively over the rack and the state is now getting its dues out of the office of the state insurance commission. The receipts of the office last week were about $25,000.

The snow, and slush that followed, was a bit disagreeable while it lasted, to be sure, but the weather here was mild as a spring zephyr in comparison with what the entire country east of the mountains had dished up to it at the same time.

Many mixtures are offered as substitutes for Royal. None of them is the same in composition or effectiveness, so wholesome and economical, nor will make such fine food.

PEARL HAD NARROW ESCAPE

The gasoline schooner Pearl went on the beach at the mouth of the Seikou, a mile north of Hoko, Sunday night during a thick snowstorm, and was pulled off on Tuesday by the Snohomish, which had been summoned from Angeles. The Pearl, owned by Capt. Johnson, who built her here in Angeles, is a staunch boat, used for general freighting between Seattle and points west of Angeles. She was at Neah Bay in charge of Cleve Croft, who, in order to fish for a time on his way to Clallam where he intended to take on a cargo of coal, hoisted the sail and drifted along. After a time he started the engine, and had been running but half an hour when he sighted, as he supposed in the snowstorm, the high bluff at West Clallam, and ran in to shore. Being inside the outer line of breakers, the Pearl was in no immediate danger; the life saving crew visited her Monday morning, and the Snohomish, which left port at nine o'clock Monday morning, reached the river at one that afternoon, but waited till the next morning, when the tide was favorable, before pulling her off. The Pearl sustained very little damage, but had the accident occurred before the building of the Snohomish, she would doubtless have been lost.

A WORD TO SPORTSMEN

I wish to call the attention of hunters to the proviso in the game law which allows the killing of snipe, plover, rail, shore-birds, geese and brant along the ocean beach and five miles inland during the months of March, April and May. Some are of the impression that this proviso will extend to the Straits of Juan de Fuca, but this, I believe, is an error, owing to the fact that the bill strictly provides Pacific Ocean. Had it been the intention of the Legislature to permit the killing of these birds on the Juan de Fuca Strait, it would have been mentioned in the bill.

The idea is also prevalent that brant, geese and snipe may be killed during the month of February. This is also incorrect. For the main body of the law provides the closed season to begin February 1, and later on in the same act, provides that these birds may be killed during the months of March, April and May, as above stated, on the Pacific ocean and five miles from its shores.

GARFIELD DAVIS.

PACIFIC W. R. C.

The birthdays of Washington and Lincoln were celebrated Saturday 19th inst., by Pacific W.R.C. and G.A.R. An appropriate program was rendered which was pronounced good. A fair attendance of Corps ladies were present, but only five of the 48 members of the Post were there. Some few of the faithful ones were sick and not able to be out. One visiting comrade swelled the number of veterans to six. We cannot understand why this is so. The Corps has always tried to make these social gatherings as pleasant as possible and our efforts are appreciated by some of the old veterans who are always present. A delicious lunch was served and as one of the boys remarked, "if there was any one that did not have a pleasant time it was the fellow that was not there."

THE CHAS. H. LILLY CO.
SEATTLE PORTLAND

SCHOOL DISTRICT SUIT DISMISSED

Court Proposes to Have Probate Matters Settled Promptly Hereafter. Granted Divorce from Davis.

In the case of Lotzgesell v. Brady for ouster on breach of contract the court on Friday last refused to oust the defendant, but ordered that plantiff be allowed to brand 28 head of cows. The plantiff is to pay two-thirds the costs of the suit and the defendant one-third.

In Bolton vs. Dungeness Investment Company, the court denied defendant's motion to dismiss on the ground that the defendants were not residents of this county, but ordered that plantiff put up a bond for costs, plantiff not being a resident of Clallam.

Mrs Annie Davis was granted a decree of divorce against George H. Davis upon the grounds of habitual drunkenness and cruelty. She was also awarded the children and all the property. It is understood that the case was practically settled out of court, she assuming all debts and paying George something over $2,000. Mr. Davis did not contest the case, and put in no counter testimony.

The case against Mrs. Lesure and Mrs. Weldrick by the present directors of school district 21 was dismissed. The State Superintendent has refused to allow the directors to use school funds to prosecute the case.

In the McGlyn estate matter, the court heard further testimony and decided that he could not go into the claims allowed by Judge Hatch, much as he would like to do so, "as the whole case seemingly was very unholy." The administrator was directed to file an amended account, and was charged with rent for the farm and rent from the various mills during all of the time the property was under his care, also interest on deferred payments. The court also stated that he would look into the matter of refusing the administrator his fees prescribed by statute; this attorneys state cannot be done. The court took occasion to remark at the close of this case that he would direct the clerk of the court to keep him advised of probate matters that were not settled promptly, and that he would see that good cause is given why such matters are not settled.

Making Good.

There is no way of making lasting friends like "Making Good;" and Doctor Pierce's medicines well exemplify this, and their friends, after more than two decades of popularity, are numbered by the hundreds of thousands. They have "made good" and they have not made drunkards.

A good, honest, square-deal medicine of known composition is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It still enjoys an immense sale, while most of the preparations that have come into prominence in the earlier period of its popularity have "gone by the board" and are never more heard of. There must be some reason for this long-time popularity and that is to be found in its superior merits. When once given a fair trial for weak stomach, or for liver and blood affections, its superior curative qualities are soon manifest, hence it has survived and grown in popular favor, while scores of less meritorious articles have suddenly flashed into favor for a brief period and then been as soon forgotten.

For a torpid liver with its attendant indigestion, dyspepsia, headache, perhaps dizziness, foul breath, nasty coated tongue, with bitter taste, loss of appetite, with distress after eating, nervousness and debility, nothing is so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It's an honest, square-deal medicine with all its ingredients printed on bottle-wrapper—no secret, no hocus-pocus humbug, therefore don't accept a substitute that the dealer may possibly make a little bigger profit. Insist on your right to have what you call for.

Don't buy Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription expecting it to prove a "cure-all." It is only advised for woman's special ailments. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Less advertised than some preparations sold for like purposes, its sterling curative virtues still maintain its position in the front ranks, where it stood over two decades ago. As an invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine it is unequaled. It won't satisfy those who want "booze," for there is not a drop of alcohol in it.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the original Little Liver Pills, although the first pill of their kind in the market, still lead, and when once tried are ever afterwards in favor. Easy to take as candy—one to three a dose. Much imitated but never equaled.

Application No. 7138.

Notice of Sale of State Lands.

Notice is hereby given, That on Saturday, the 2nd day of April, 1910, between the hours of ten o'clock in the forenoon and four o'clock in the afternoon, commencing at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, in front of the main entrance door to the county court house in the city of Port Angeles, county of Clallam, State of Washington, either by the County Auditor of said county or by a member of the Board of State Land Commissioners of the State of Washington, the following described State lands, together with the improvements situated thereon, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder therefor, to-wit:

Lot 2 of section 36, township 31 north, range 7 west W. M., containing 43.95 acres, more or less, according to the government survey thereof, appraised at $626.29.

Said lands will be sold for not less than the appraised value above stated and upon the terms and conditions following:

Terms and conditions of sale.—Not less than one-tenth of the purchase price must be paid at the time of sale to the officer making the sale. The purchaser, if he be not the owner of the improvements, must forthwith pay to the officer making the sale the full amount of the appraised value of the improvements, as above stated. One-tenth of the purchase price must be paid annually thereafter on the first day of March of each year, with interest on all deferred payments at the rate of six per centum per annum, together with accrued interest on any balance, at the same rate: Provided, That any purchaser may make full payment of principal, interest and statutory fees at any time and obtain deed or state patent. The purchaser of land containing timber or other valuable materials is prohibited by law from cutting or removing any such timber or materials without first obtaining consent of the Commissioner of Public Lands or the Board, until the full amount of the purchase price has been paid and deed issued.

All sales of State lands are made subject to the reservations of oils, gases, coal, ores, minerals and fossils of every name, kind and description, and to the additional terms and conditions prescribed in the Act of the Legislature approved March 20, 1907, being Sec. 3 of Chap. 256 of the Laws of 1907.

The above described lands are offered for sale in pursuance of an order of the Board of State Land Commissioners, and an order of sale duly issued and certified by the Commissioner of Public Lands of the State of Washington now on file in the office of the County Auditor of said county.

E. W. ROSS,
Commissioner of Public Lands.

THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

By A. H. Sawyer.

When one is hurt, he, instinctively and like a child, holds responsible for his injury that person or thing nearest to him. If it happens to be a thing, he will probably kick it, or, if it happens to be a person, he will, at least, feel like kicking him. A couple of winters ago the price of fuel in Walla Walla went soaring skyward The people were "hurt" and though the ruel dealers were no more responsible for the high price of fuel than were the grocery men, yet they were promptly "kicked" by the childish public, whom Oscar Wild has so aptly termed "a broken hearted clown", for standing next." And so it is always up to the fellow "standing next" to this "broken hearted clown" to shove the "kick" up to the next fellow in line by proving himself innocent.

It is this natural disinclination of the people to seek below the surface of things for causes wherein lies the capital of the demagogue. What would the demagogue do were it not for the "fellow standing next"? The "fellow", however, still "stands next" for we hear the demagogue rattling a few brains in an all but empty skull and "making a noise" like "Trusts are responsible for the high cost of living". Evidently the retailers have proved themselves "innocent" and so the "kick" has been shoved up the line to the trusts.

It is all but an axiom of economics that values are purely relative, being a network of relations, that as some things rise in value, other things fall in value and to the same extent, and that, therefore, there can be no general rise or fall in values, though there may be in prices Price is but the expression of value in terms of the unit of price, the dollar. It is axiomatic that, so long as this unit of price remains of the same purchasing power, the general price level remains the same; that when this unit is enlarged, the general price level is lowered, and, that when this unit is made smaller, the general price level is raised. Now the purchasing power of this unit of price is tied to the purchasing power of a definite quantity of gold and must vary and only varies therewith. So, when the value of gold falls, it drags down with it the unit of price, the dollar, thereby raising the general price level and the cost of living; and this is just what has happened. There is no room whatever for argument as to whether gold has gone down or not in value. The gold coin speaks for itself and says it has gone down and keeps on saying it every time one buys anything with it.

Normally, general wages remain at par with general prices. When, however, the general price level rises or falls, the wage level, due to its inertia, generally lags behind and, then, of course, the dickens is to pay until a re-adjustment takes place. When the price level raises, the consumer hasn't the purchasing power (wage) to which he is entited— i. e. enough to buy what is produced. The balance between wages and prices must be restored. So high prices and low wages stimulate production, the demand for labor increases, and wages go up to their proper level with prices. As wages rise, things, by comparison with what they were before, look bright. The cost of living evidently had been too high and times too bad to last. When the price level falls, the consumer has more purchasing power (wage) than that to which he is entitled—more than enough to buy what is produced. Again, the balance must be restored. So low prices and high wages retard production, the demand for labor lessens, and wages come down to their proper level with prices. During the fall in wages, things by comparison with what they were before, look dark. The cost of living had evidently been too low and times too good to last. Now, it requires but very little to restore the natural balance between wages and prices. Whenever the balance is disturbed, wages are held up or down, as the case may be, by a mere thread, as it were, by their inertia. So it requires but the additional strain of a small increase or decrease in the demand for labor to break the thread, set the wage rate in motion and restore the balance.

Again, why is wheat from 40 per cent to 50 per cent higher in price than it was with the capita supply about the same? Trusts? What has sent up the price of butter from 65c to 75c, its usual winter price, to 90c a roll? Trusts? In short, what has raised the prices of all non-trust products far above their usual prices? Trusts? As to meat, its price is undoubtedly higher than it should be; but then it has been higher for several years than it should have been. The meat trust, however, is no way responsible for the recent rise in the price of meat. That has simply gone up with the prices of everything else and for the same reason. If it hadn't gone up, the profits of the meat trust would have been about wiped out. The meat trust has simply been holding onto the profit it has been making all along. Insofar as the price of meat has only gone up with that of other things, the meat trust hasn't made anything. How could it?

KANSAS UNDER PROHIBITION

Governor Stubbs, of the Sunflower State, on prohibition: "The fact that Kansas is now, and for a number of years has been, the most prosperous state in the Union; that her banks, barns and bins are full to overflowing; that in some of her counties no criminal prosecutions for any crime have been had for more than ten years; that fifty per cent. of her jails are empty; that seventy-five per cent. of her poorhouses are empty and in many counties have been sold and disposed of as no longer needful; that almost one-third of her entire population is enrolled in public schools and private colleges; that Kansas is a land of plenty and that nowhere on the globe exists a more sober, happy and prosperous people—all these, and a multitude of other facts as pregnant and patent as these, compel students of government the world over to search deeply for the causes of our abounding prosperity; and most of these students have corectly divined that the prohibitory law, and, more particularly, its enforcement, has had much to do with the present felicitous conditions in the Sunflower state.

"It is right but true that money spent for intoxicating liquors cannot be used by spenders to buy farms, to build homes, to erect business houses, churches, high schools and colleges, nor to buy pianos, automobiles, horses and carriages; yet these material evidences of prosperity are now as common in Kansas as the sunshine itself."

The agitation about the increased cost of living only emphasizes a condition or a fact that most of us must have noticed many times. It is that the price of everything we eat, especially, is constantly tending upward. It has been so for years, in fact ever since we left the home shack and began to pony up for ourselves. The plate of corn beef and cabbage that comes sailing gaily over the greasy restaurant counter, which used to cost 20 cents in the middle west with spuds, bread and butter and coffee thrown in, now sets us back to the tune of 35 cents or more, according to the amount of silverware on the table and the texture of the table linen on which it reposes. We used to buy a classy sandwich for 5 cents or 10 cents if we wanted to get real sporty (we bought the 10 cent kind along about 2 o'clock in the morning), but now we can't get the old fashioned ham to look us in the face for less than 15 cents and ordinarily we have to come through stronger than that. Twenty cents used to be the common price for an oyster stew in the middle west, where they are thousands of miles from the beds and can only eat the bivalves in the "R" month, but on the coast here, with oysters in our front door yard, and even the kind indigenous to the coast waters, and where we can eat them at any time during the year that we are flush enough, we can't look at a little measly stew for less than 35 cents. Why this continual raise? Almost every day we read where the restaurant men had met and agreed to boost prices still a little higher. Who ever heard of a meeting called for the purpose of reducing tariffs on "ham an'" or "a stack of 'bucks" or "a steak well." No, it's always the other way. The question is—where is it going to stop? What's the row, anyway? Are the people increasing in the world more rapidly than the supply of the stuff to eat? I give it up. But honestly, wouldn't a meeting of this or that class of dealers, called for the purpose of reducing prices, sound funny? If anybody ever calls a meeting of that kind the insanity experts will get busy at once. However, in the strenuous days of rising prices and inflated values, your Uncle Samuel continues to retail postage stamps at two cents per. It's the one green oasis in the sandy desert of high prices.—Loafer, Aberdeen World.

Every man who has had his eyes open in this great big West can see for himself the encouraging things. Pretty nearly every farmer in all this wide intermountain West has had the troubles of very little cash to start with and a thousand obstacles to overcome, and a bigger percentage of them have won out and made themselves independent and comfortable homes and won real success in life than any other class of men in part of the world, truthfully says the Gem State Rural. No class of men on earth have any greater encouragement ahead of them than the men who come here short of money and long on pluck and energy. The whole conquest of the West and the mighty story of its wonderful development is a song of optimism for every newcomer. The man who can't win in the West couldn't win anywhere.

LOMBROSO ABSENT-MINDED

Criminologist Took No Thought of Money—Amusing Adventures.

One side of the late Prof. Lombroso's character little known to outsiders made him adored by his children, especially his two daughters, who looked after him as though he were a child.

His two greatest domestic characteristics were disregard of appearances and absent-mindedness, says a London letter to the New York Sun. When he was invited out in the evening it was the work of two or three days to get him keyed up to putting on his dress clothes, and even then he was capable of weakening at the last moment and going out just as he happened to find himself.

Once when going to Rome he lost his overcoat, but was not in the least discouraged, as he entered the first shop of ready-made clothing and bought the top-most warm thing which came to hand without even looking at it. It proved to be a long, bright, bottle-green cloak, which came down to his heels and in which he looked, with his broad-brimmed felt hat, like a figure attired for the carnival.

His absent-mindedness was so great that when under the care of the home circle he never attempted to look after the money and would even leave the house to go shopping without ever looking to see if he had his purse with him. Naturally when he traveled the consequences for his pocket were disastrous. He invariably arrived home without a penny, no matter how much he had taken with him, having either lost it or had it stolen.

In Vienna once he lost his purse, which frightened him so that when he recovered it he resorted to the expedient of dividing his funds into various small sums, which he concealed about his person in all kinds of unlikely places, so that at least he would not lose it all at one time. There was a note in the lining of his hat, another in his boot, several pinned to his shirt, and so on, but, notwithstanding this, he arrived home in his usual penniless condition.

Book News and Reviews.

A "Lorna Doone" pageant is to be held next summer in the famous Valley of Rocks at Lynton, in England.

In "The Mississippi River," a book to be published, Julius Chambers has set down the history, most picturesque and romantic, of the great waterway.

"Trans-Himalaya," Sven Hedin's chronicle in the bleak wilderness of Tibet, which has been described as the "roof of the world," is to be brought out in German, Dutch, French, Finnish, Hungarian, Bohemian and Italian as well as in English and Swedish.

A Welsh writer, Joan Dane, has drawn, she declares, from old Mss. in the abbeys of Strata, Florida and Conway the materials for a book which she calls "Prince Madog—The Welshman Who Discovered America, A. D. 1170." Her chief object in the preparation of the work, she notes, is to arouse interest in and do justice to a great Welshman whose name has long been hidden in oblivion.

It is evident that Mrs. Humphrey Ward does not see in woman suffrage a solution of the divorce problem, which she has made the theme of her recent novel, "Marriage a la Mode." The eminent writer has just been elected a member of the New York State Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage in company with two other well known English women. Mrs. Ward has long led the "antis" in England, while her sister, Miss Arnold, is actively engaged on the other side.

One of the many ways in which the growth of the suffrage movement has grown both in the United States and in England is demonstrated by the increased demand for fiction on the subject as well as for serious work. "The Convert," Elizabeth Robin's novel published some two years ago, is now selling as though it were just issued. It is a novel of English life at the time when suffragette violence was just beginning to attract the attention of the world and had not yet become a factor in the movement.

Booker Washington says in the preface of his new book, "The Story of the Negro," that "In writing this volume it has been my object to show what the negro himself has accomplished in constructive directions. I have not undertaken to discuss the many problems which have arisen through the contact of the negro with other races but to tell a simple, straight story of what the negro himself has accomplished in the way of attaining to a higher civilization." In writing of the effect made upon himself by the study of the origin and development of his people he says that "there grew up within me a determination to spend my life in helping and strengthening the people of my race in order to prove to the world that whatever had been its feelings for them in the past, it should learn to respect them in the future, both for what they were and what they should be able to do."

Does Not Color Hair

Ayer's Hair Vigor, as now made from our new improved formula, does not stain or color the hair even to the slightest degree. Gray hair, white hair, blonde hair is not made a shade darker. But it certainly does stop falling hair. No question about that.

Does not change the color of the hair.

Ayer's Formula with each bottle. Show it to your doctor. Ask him about it, then do as he says

Indeed, we believe it will stop every case of falling hair unless there is some very unusual complication, something greatly affecting the general health. Then you should consult your physician. Also ask him about the new Ayer's Hair Vigor.

Six hundred dollars a year for the rest of his life is offered by the Canadian government to every citizen who will pay to it $60 a year from the age of 20 to the age of 60; that is, an investment of $2,400 will yield 5 per cent interest on $12,000 from the time a man reaches 60 till he dies. This offer, as well as many others of smaller amounts, is made in accordance with the new government annuity law passed last year. The plan has been in force only a few months, but the superintendent of annuities is quoted as well pleased with the prospect for business. This is a form of government insurance which appeals more to the self-respecting workman than the old-age pension plan which the mother country has adopted.

Casserole of Beef.

Line a casserole or baking dish with boiled rice about one-half inch thick. Fill this cup with well-seasoned boiled beef or any left-over meat ground. Place a rice covering over all and heat them in the oven. Serve with sauce of one cupful strained tomatoes, eight teaspoonfuls of flour and butter, salt, pepper and sugar to taste, place one onion in mixture, removing when done.

Chocolate Sauce.

One pine of sugar, one pint of milk, one egg well beaten, one tablespoonful of butter, two squares of chocolate. Cook these ingredients in a double boiler until of the consistency of cream, then remove from the stove and add a teaspoonful of vanilla. Serve hot Hazing.

Hazing is an indefinite and inexplicable something. When we are called before the faculty we deny the existence of the word. We call it gentle horseplay.

Nevertheless hazing, whatever it is, fills its place in man's life. The wonderful state of sophomorehood would be lost if not for it. What would become of our great Military academy at West Point if it were not for hazing?

There are three great periods of hazing in man's life—first the green apple period, then the college period and finally the married period, which, we are told, is one continuous round of hazing on both sides.

Hazing is an educational and desirable experience for those wishing to become slaveholders, superintendents of gangs, divorce seekers and fathers of large families.

What is the greatest press agent of this age? Hazing. Look at the free advertising different colleges receive every year.

Hazing is also very helpful to those wishing to test the strength of baseball clubs, fence pickets and bricks.—Rutgers Targum.

Spinal anesthesia, that is, insensibility to pain produced by the injection of a drug into the spinal tract, has been receiving considerable attention lately from the activity of Doctor Jonnesco, a Roumanian surgeon, in using stovaine and strychnia for that purpose. These drugs, in connection, produce local insensibility to pain without destroying consciousness. The Roumanian surgeon has been using them in London and in New York, to exhibit their effects for the benefit of the medical profession. The medical papers do not agree on the safety or success of the anesthetic in all cases, but hope that further study may remove the present objections. Spinal anesthesia, however, is supposed to have been used first by Dr. J. L. Corning, an American surgeon, in 1885. Doctor Corning experimented on rabbits and dogs with injections of cocaine in the spinal tract. Later he

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY OBSERVED BY SCHOOL

Address by W. B. Ritchie an Eulogy of "Father of Our Country." Other Dungeness News.

The entertainment given by the school children, celebrating George Washington's birthday, was enjoyed by a large and appreciative audience. Mt. Meyers and Miss Des Voigne are to be congratulated on their success ful effort. The hall was tastefully decorated with flags and bunting.

Following is the program:

Song by school, Washington's Birthday.
Recitation, A Rule for Life, Glen Cays.
Rec., Like Washington, Melvine Holston.
Song, Flag Song, Primary School.
Rec., Washington's Hatchet, John Wilder.
Rec., Robert's Resolution, Stuart Clark.
Song, Mount Vernon Bells, School.
Reading, Washington's Will, Gladys Cays.
Rec., Sword of Bunker Hill, Tressa Evans.
Violin Solo, Ruth Smith, c. Irene Brooks.
Instrumental Duet, piano, Ruth Clark, Beth Seal.
Essay, A Vision, Ruth Clark.
Song, Campus Song, School.
Recitation, Wooden Legs, Lucian Wingo.

W. B. Ritchie, prosecuting attorney, in a very fine address at the close of the program, among other remarks, said in his eulogy of George Washington:

"From every and any standpoint George Washington was the greatest man that has ever lived. The blow s ruck by the colonies was of the greatest benefit to the English people struggling under the despotic iron rule of royalty and of greatest value to every race striving for political rights and privileges. From boyhood Washington was a born leader so it was natural when the French endeavored to force absolute monarchy upon the colonies that Washington took up arms against them and showed his consistency and love for righteousness when England followed in the steps of France by taking up arms against those with whom he fought against the French George Washington showed no great flights of brilliancy; he simply knew he was in the right and never lost faith in his countrymen and God. No move was made but which was for his country's good. Because of this the people flocked to his standard. He had perfect control of his passions and was not easily led into the discrediting of others, but gave them the benefit of every doubt, perhaps to a fault. He was no great favorite of high officials. He represented the masses. That is the reason he is loved and called 'Father of Our Country.'"

A social hour followed the program, the children and young people playing games.

J. W. Pettit has rented his ranch to his two boys, James and Eddie. They will take the ranch the fir t of March.

Poseoffice Inspector Mr. Butler was here this week examining the books and checking up the accounts.

Mr. Mead is building a porch and otherwise improving Mr. E. Pettit's house.

Mrs. Louis Roberson has rented the ranch to G. W. Laird who is on Lewis Cays place.

Mr. Bowman, veterinary of Seattle, was here this week.

Mr. R. R. Canfield was in town.

SEQUIM HIGH LINE DITCH

Will Be Built this Summer. Borst Building Cottage on His Place Near Sequim.

Mrs. J. P. Shotwell arrived at Sequim from Ellensburg Friday to visit her daughter, Mrs. LeRoy G. Wilber.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Lewis are very happy over the arrival of a baby girl at their home Feb. 17th. Mother and baby are doing fine.

N. L. Borst is building a very nice rustic house on his place near Sequim. Guy Combs is doing the carpenter work.

Miss Dela Fritz of Leland is helping Dr. Cook to care for her patients.

Mr. Willis and Dr. Cook were in Port Angeles on business last Friday.

Otto Sindars' little girl Marion is staying with her grandma, Mrs. Herman Sindars Sr., and Mrs Charlie Atwood has the little baby boy.

A letter from Denver, Colo., dated Feb. 17th, from Mrs. A. Fairservice, says Mr Fairservice's health is much improved and he has gained five pounds the short time he has been in Denver, which will be good news for his old friends. They have seen some very cold weather; they have traveled through several states but they could find no place that suits them like old Clallam county; they expect to be home the first of March.

Sam Irwin's smiling face was seen on our streets the first of the week.

They are setting the fences back getting ready for the road crew to build the road on the east side of southeast quarter of section 13, township 30-4; it will straighten up what is now a very crooked and rough road

Mrs. Freeland of Omaha, Neb., is the happy mother of a ten pound boy. She was formerly of Lost Mountain and was with Dr. Cook last fall for a time; her health, although not the best, is improving. The saddest part of it is her husband, Mr. Freeland, who is in Steilacoom and steadily getting worse; he is not able to realize that he is the father of a fine baby boy.

E. A. FitzHenry, county surveyor, has run the lines for the high line ditch; they think they will have water in it this summer.

They are working on the Sequim Avenue ditch cleaning and repairing it, getting ready for summer.

Dr. W. W. McGeorge qualified as secretary for the Independent Ditch Co. last week.

W. B. Potter has rented the restaurant from Mrs. N. Pilcher.

Joe Doran has sold his house and lot in Sequim.

H. A. Anderson sent a large new donkey engine to his ranch last week.

Mrs. Joe Kirner, who has been very sick at Dr. Cook's hospital, is getting along all right now.

Mrs. Robert Long is staying with her mother, Mrs. Lidia Bracket; her health is not good and she is taking treatment from Dr. Cook.

Wilmot Eck sold his big team to Sam Irwin; he will take them to Center, Jefferson county.

BLUE MOUNTAIN

The Box Social at Blue Mountain was a great success in every way. The proceeds, which amounted to $35.60, was used for the benefit of the cemetery.

Mrs. Butler went to Angeles last Sunday to spend a few days.

Mrs. J. E. Campbell spent a week with Mrs. Fries, and together they visited all the surrounding friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Fries and Miss Nellie Elves went to Angeles to attend a dance at the opera house on the 22nd of February.

Mr. Lawrence and Miss Bessie Cameron had quite an accident the other night on McDonald creek, while returning from a dance. The horse got scared and backed over the bank, but, luckily, Bessie, or Lawrence were neither one hurt. The buggy, which belonged to Mr. Kelly Epson, was broken to pieces, but the horse was uninjured, except to be stiff for a few days.

Mrs. Sutter and Miss More went to Angeles Saturday to see Mrs. Schenk, Mrs. Sutter's mother, who is quite sick.

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Lewis have been to Sequim to visit their son, Mr. L D. Lewis, and their daughter. Mrs. Myers.

Mrs. Kale had quite a fall the other day; she was upon a ladder and it slipped, letting her fall about six feet. She sprained her ankle and wrist badly, but is all right again now.

The Machenheimer family expect to bring their father and mother home from Angeles soon. They are spending a few days with their son Henry at Port Crescent at present.

BLYN.

Mrs. Paul Violet and Miss Milly Hudson have been to Port Townsend having some dental work done.

Sarah Romo has been very sick. The doctor called there twice this this week and pronounced only a bad cold, and everybody is glad to know she is now recovering.

Mr. Keen has a timber cruiser here buying up more timber for the logging camp.

The locomotive engineer has rented the old DeBarro, now owned by Mr. Zaccardo, and is now moving his family here.

Ruth Napp, who went to work for Mrs. Keeler at the hotel, is now home and her sister Esther has gone to take her place.

Everybody thot spring had come and started their spring work, but it began to snow again and now snows often. Guess it didn't pay to rush the season.

QUILLAYUTE.

W. G. Young, a highly esteemed citizen, who has been renting a farm on the Quillayute for some years, will hold an auction sale Feb. 28th of his stock and other property, preparatory to taking up his trade of carpentering in a new location. His son-in-law, Frank Legear, will leave his present home on the Dickey at the same time, although not yet having decided on a new location or disposed of his claim.

Rev. James Oakey will preach in the church on Sunday afternoon, March 20th, instead of March 13th, as previously announced.

Ollie Smith went to Seattle on Tuesday.

Max Klahn and family went down with Will on Tuesday to visit the old folks.

FORKS.

Iver Iverson has returned from Seattle very much improved in health.

Will Iverson is now assisting in the mill.

Jim Henrie has put in a substantial crossing between his store and the hotel.

Rev. James Oakey left for Seattle on the Tuesday stage. He will spend a few days with Port Angeles friends on the way, and then attend a Conference of the Congregational ministers of Western Washington at Seattle.

A regularly appointed business meeting of the church will be held on Wednesday afternoon, March 9th. A full attendance is desired.

Dan Wilson has been putting in a flume at his new mill site and will push the work on his new mill. A. W. Chapin is assisting him.

Charley Culp took Mr. and Mrs. Frick over to Clallam on Tuesday.

Ollie Ford still continues confined to the house, although improving.

The Palmer brothers, en route to Angelica, N. Y., received a telegram announcing the sad news of the death of their father at that place. The funeral will be delayed until their arrival.

MOUNT PLEASANT

That ground-hog was not such a leatherhead after all, but it was a mean trick in him just the same. In the last week we have had about 7 inches of snow and a foot of rain and we have nothing left but bad weather.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Boyd, a 10 pound boy; mother and son are doing fine. Henry says the weather just suits him for he has nothing to do but stay in the house and play with the baby and that the world grows brighter every day. And Burns says it beats the —— that everybody can have luck but him.

Mr. J. A. House has been here from Iowa visiting the Boyds who are relatives. Mr. House says he likes the place and will be back soon to stay.
