CLALLAM COUNTY TEACHERS HOLDING ANNUAL INSTITUTE

VISITING TEACHERS GIVEN RECEPTION

Ladies' Clubs Pleasantly Entertain City's Guests on Monday Evening.

The reception given by the Ladies' Saturday Club and the Ladies' Parliamentary Club, in honor of the teachers of Callam county on Monday night was largely attended and was an unqualified success. The reception committee, which was composed of Mrs. R. D. Willson, Mrs. W. F. Delabarre, Mrs. Herbert Baker, Mrs. J. C. Hansen and Mrs. E. E. Hopkins dispensed the hospitalities of the evening in a most gracious and charming manner. The program, which was enthusiastically received by the guests, was well rendered and consisted of the following numbers:

Piano solo, Miss Robertson.
Violin solo, Miss Florence Elliot.
Vocal solo, Mrs. John Troy.
Piano solo, Miss Pearl Stakemiller.
Vocal solo, Miss Powell.
Trombone solo, Ed. Farmer.
Voacl solo, Mrs. C. J. Farmer.
Recitation, Mrs. Sam. Stakemiller.

At the close of the program, a novel and interesting contest was introduced—a play upon names. The winner of the first prize was the group represented by Mrs. Madge Nailor, who produced the following quartrain:

"There never came upon the earth
A greater man than our Wordsworth,
His fame has spread o'er all the seas,
From Egypt to Port Angeles."

Punch and nabisco wafers were served during the evening by the Misses Margaret Delabarre and Kathryn Owens. The evening's entertainment finished with an hour's dancing to music furnished by Miss Verna Wolverton. Much credit is due to the ladies' clubs and eecially to the committee for so successfully and generously extending the hospitality of the city to our Clallam county teacher's institute.

FARWELL RECEPTION.

A very pleasant surprise occurred April 12 at the home of Mrs. Pringle on Valley street when about twenty-five of her friends called for a last visit before her departure to her new home in California. To say she was surprised is putting it mildly, but she was equal to the occasion and gave us a very cordial greeting as, is her custom. After the greetings were over substantial gifts were presented her as mementos of the loving thoughts that dwell in our hearts for her. Her actions assisted the words of thankfulness so hard to utter at such times. The time was then spent by some playing cards, some in merry conversation, while still others were arranging the good things to eat that always come with these gatherings. When they were ready the crowd gathered around well filled tables and did ample justice to the culinary skill of the cooks. Last came the hardest part. the saying "good-bye" to our friend. Many were the good wishes expressed for her happiness and prosperity in her future home. Com.

Their Fiftieth Anniversary.

Saturday, April 9th, 1910, was the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of J. B. Fleming and wife, who reside on Lincoln Heights. As the majority of their children live in eastern states and could not be present they did not celebrate, as the custom is. But they were pleasant ly surprised in the evening by their sons, O. B. and E. B. Fleming with their families, J. A. McKee and wife, the latter a sister of Mrs. Fleming, and their friends, the Oklahoma people coming in with well filled baskets, congratulations and gifts. A merry time followed and at a late hour the guests departed with earnest wishes for many more anniversaries. Gifts were also received from absent children and friends of former days.

PROF. DAGGY'S LECTURE

Prof. Daggy, an old time favorite of Port Angeles, appeared again before our people Tuesday evening in his lecture on the "Vocabulary of Success." Prof. Daggy, a live example of his own teaching, with easy grace, spoke on what, summarized, might be given as follows:

Success, what is it? Is it fame, wealth, achievement or education? With the wealth of a millionaire or the wisdom of a sire, one might be named a failure. Success, what is it? It is undefinable, yet it is that which every man talks about, dreams about and aspires to. A man may be rich and yet a failure, be poor, and be a success. As the mighty oak, the monarch of the forest, springs from the kernel of a nut, so success springs from the development of the individual as a unit of social organism. As the oak, after years upon years of growth, leaves a heritage to the human race, so he who succeeds leaves behind him as a heritage something coming from the depths of his soul.

Man is the architect of his own destiny. He who takes that with which he has been endowed by the Almighty and makes the most of it, it he who succeeds. He must develop his individuality not for his own good alone, but for the good of social organism. as a whole.

One must have a definite purpose in life. Find out what you can do and then do it. Be sure that you are called to and inspired by your wok; that which appeals to you, be it high or lowly, do that.

After purpose, one must have preparation. It is the efficient man who is sought after to hold positions of responsibility, honor or trust; the man who with grim determination perseveres until he has gained his goal will be an efficient man. It is he who has applied the adage, "Stick there if you would get there."

And last, to be a succes, as well as purpose and preparation, one must have poise. We all know the well poised man, the man who has gained control of self, the man one can trust at a critical moment, the man who is not officious, who does not seek to impress upon you by pompous manner or elegant dress his own greatness.

In short, success comes to the one who finds out the power that is within and then uses it.

THE SENIOR BALL

The Senior ball, which is now looked upon as quite the most important of social events, was no disappointment to the large crowd which filled the Athletic hall on Wednesday evening. The hall presented a very attractive and inviting appearance with its bright lights and gay decorations of red and white, and the cosy rest room which was very artistically arranged. The Senior girls were all looking their sweetest in dainty evening costumes and many beautiful gowns were worn by the fair ladies in attendance. The patronesses were Mrs. Thos. Geisness, Mrs. D. E. McGillivray, Mrs. W. F. Delabarre and Mrs. J. I. Kirschberg. The great punch bowl was daintily presided over by Misses Margaret Delabarre and Kathryn Owen.

The campaign at New Westminster, B. C., for $35,000 for a Y. M. C. A. closed late Saturday night, the amount aimed at being oversubscribed by $10,000. Only a few of the subscriptions were for less than $25.

The differences between the Southern Railway and its telegraphers will be submitted to Chairman Knapp of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and Labor Commissioner Neill, the mediators under the Erdman act.

More than 1,000,000 pieces of mail matter went to the Dead Letter office during March because they did not bear return directions. That number was nearly 80,000 more than in the corresponding month of 1909.

The interstate commerce commission has ordered a reduction in Pullman sleeping car rates. According to the decision rates from the Pacific coast to Chicago should be $10 for lower berth and $8.50 for uppers.

Cognizance has been taken by the Federal department of justice of the alleged methods of the so-called butter combine in fixing the prices of that commodity, as charged in the hearings before the Senate committee investigating the high cost of living.

The United States ship Prairie has sailed from Pihladelphia for Colon to bring home 650 marines who have been on the isthmus for nearly a year and a half. Another batch of 250 marines will be taken aboard the Buffalo at Panama in a short time and be returned to this country.

The House of Representatives has passed the Mondell bill granting the right to make a second homestead entry to entrymen who forfeited their rights prior to the approval of this measure. An amendment offered by Mr. Martin of Colorado was adopted extending the same right to desert land.

An entirely new steamship service between New Orleans and South American countries, including Argentina, Uruguay, Chili and Peru, is promised as a result of pending negotiations between the New Orleans Progressive Union and a large transportation company, the name of which is temporarily withheld from publication.

The Imperial Window Glass Company, incorporated in West Virginia, and 16 officials and directors, were indicted by a special Federal grand jury at Pittsburg on three counts—conspiracy in the restraint of the hand-blown window glass trade in the United States; engagement in illegal competition, and an attempt to monopolize interstate trade.

RAILROAD TO FEEL TEST OF STATE LIQUOR LAW.

Olympia, April 9.—The first complaint so far made in the State for violation of the provisions of the local option law in shipping liquors into dry territory resulted in a warrant being issued against the Northern Pacific. The complain was made at Rainier, this county, because of the shipment to that place of a barrel of beer.

C. G. Morris, justice of the peace of that town, who was one of the local option members of the recent Legislature, issued the warrant and came here to see who should be arrested. Prosecuting Attorney Wilson has not decided just which Northern Pacific official or employe shall be the victim.

State D. A. R. Officers.

Olympia, April 9.—At the State assembly of the Daughters of the American Revolution the following officers were elected: Second vce-president, Mrs. H. H. The next assembly will be held in Seattle.

GREAT CENSUS COUNT BEGINS FRIDAY, APRIL 15

Washington, April 11.—With the break of day Friday, a host of 70,000 interrogators, men and women, white and colored, will be turned loose in pusuit of the people of the United States. On that day Uncle Sam will begin the numbering of his children in preparation for the thirteenth census.

He estimates that he has a family of about 90,000,000 men, women and children, and he already has employed and will put to work a body of enumerators considerably greater than the standing army.

The enumerators will cover all of the forty-five states and two territories of the Union proper, and also Hawaii and Porto Rico. Alaska, the Philippine islands and Guam will not be included, as special arrangements are made for numbering the people of these dependencies.

Time Limit Is Set.

Under the statutes governing the work, the entire enumeration must be completed within a month, and in the cities the work is limited to fifteen days. It is expected that some of the returns of the cities will be received as early as the first week in June, but the exact population of the entire country will not be determined before September.

The inquiry will comprise three principal branches: Population, agricultural and mining and manufacturing. The questions will cover the acreage, the value and the product of farms, including an especial enumeration of animals, as it will the capital invested, the value of products and the number of employes of mining and manufacturing plants.

Work Will Cost Millions.

The mere getting of the information will cost the government the pretty sum of $5,500,000. Of this amount, $4,500,000 will be paid to enumerators, and the remaining million to supervisors. With a few exceptions, the enumerators will be paid on the basis of the work done. In the country the remuneration will be from 20 to 30 cents for each farm reported, while the pay for names will range from 2 to 4 cents.

The districts will average 1,300 names, 1,000 in the country and 1,600 in the city.

Moose Plentiful in North.

Seward, April 9.—Hunters and guides report that the moose on Kenai peninsula were never before so plentiful as this season. Cup for Best Apple.

Spokane, April 11.—Announcement was made at a meeting of the Washington board of control that the Spokane Chamber of Commerce will present a massive silver trophy cup to be awarded for the best apple displayed at the International Dry Farming Exposition in connection with the fifth congress in Spokane, Oct. 3 to 9.

PROBE COMMITTEE'S REPORT IS FILED

State Has Lost Much Money Through Neglect or Collusion---Chairman Allen's Charges.

Olympia, April 9.—The report of the legislative investigating committee, made public last night, shows that for years the state has been systematically pillaged through the "laxity, incompetency and inefficiency" of employes in the state land department. Thousands of acres of the best timber land in the state have been cruised by inspectors from the land department and sold for a mere pittance, while in reality the timber alone was frequently worth fivefold what the state received.

The committee has reported several of the most flagrant instances of fraud, and recommends that the legislature make provision for an honest cruise of every acre of timber land which has been sold in the state. It recommends criminal and civil proceedings to recover to the state the value of the timber fraudulently taken by the timber barons.

The committee has reported the results of its investigation of the operations of the Silver Lake Railway & Lumber Company, in Cowlitz county. One tract of land containing 565 acres was cruised by James McD. Israel and C. A. Billings, for the state land commissioner, in 1901. The state cruisers reported finding 4,286,000 feet of timber. The committee employed F. E. Springer to cruise the timber on that tract. Instead of 4,286,000 feet, Springer found 24,743,000 feet.

Another tract of 355 acres, in Cowlitz county, was cruised by E. E. Huntington in 1901 and 800,000 feet was reported. F. E. Springer, acting for the committee, found 3,064,000 feet.

One hundred and sixty acres in Cowlitz county was sold to Joseph O'Neill in 1901 as having 1,323,000 feet of timber. It was cruised by James McD. Israel and C. A. Billings. W. M. Clinton, acting for the committee, found 15,215,000 feet of timber.

Another tract of 160 acres, sold to G. W. Taylor in 1902, was estimated by the state cruiser to have 1,258,000 feet of timer. The committee's cruiser found 13,918,000 feet.

A section of land in Pierce county, sold to Charles H. Williams, of Tacoma, in 1901 for $2,287, was estimated to have 3,050,000 feet of timber. The county cruise shows 34,326,500 feet, and it is estimated to be worth $100,000. Other smaller deals in timber lands in 1905, 1906 and 1908 are reported by the committee.

The committee made a thorough inspection of all the state institutions. It found that the Western Hospital for the Insane was well managed and recommends the plan to purchase a farm in Skagit county for convalescent patients.

The committee deprecates the rivalry between the state college and the university, and recommends that a committee be appointed to settle questions relating to government, maintenance and curricula of the state's five institutions of higher learning.

The committee commends the work of the Cheney Normal school, and says no necessity is apparent for three schools. It recommends that the normal schools be rearranged by the legislature.

It recommends a separate school for the boys and the girls at the state training school at Chehalis.

It criticizes the state dental board for not keeping its records open to the public, for demanding a $25 fee for an examination not given, and for charging for expenses in excess of the legal allowance.

The committee reported that the charges filed against F. A. Clark, state oil inspector, were not sustained by the evidence, and recommends changes in the inspection law.

The committe found that the secretaries of the state fair at North Yakima had been grossly negligent and apparently incapable.

SENATOR ALLEN MAKES GRAVE ACCUSATIONS

Seattle, Wash., April 9.—That the school fund of the State has been filched of at least $11,000,000 through the State Land department and that the pillaging of the timber tracts has been in progress ever since Washington was admitted to the Union, was the startling statement of State Senator Pliny L Allen, chairman of the legislative investigating committee, Saturday last.

"The magnitude of the loss to the school children of the State does not appear in our report to the Governor," said Senator Allen. "The committee, lacking time, had no opportunity to go into records of sales of agricultural and tide lands, but I have no doubt that the same conditions prevail there as we found in the State's timber land business.

"From the information in the hands of the committee it is possible only to give an estimate of what the State has lost. The best way to get at the question is to estimate what the State might have had if there had been no fraud and no collusion between employes of the land department and purchasers of timber lands.

"There is now in the permanent school fund about $9,000,000. This fund is irreducible and only the interest is used for the maintenance of the schools. At the rate of 3¾ per cent., the State gets annually from that fund about $337,500.

Fund Robbed of $11,000,000.

"Whatever is available from that source reduces taxes just that much. If men in charge of the sales of public lands had been careful and efficient, and had employed honest, competent cruisers and appraisers, that fund would now have been $20,000,000. It is apparent that the school children of this State have been robbed of at least $11,000,000.

"Had this fund received all that was due it, the schools of the State would now be receiving interest on $20,000,000 at the rate of 3¾ per cent., or $750,000 a year instead of $337,500.

"That heritage of the school children which has been pilfered has gone irrevocably, unless the State, through legal process, can set aside some of the sales. In making our report to Gov. Hay, the committee recommended that in every instance where there was evidence of fraud, suit should be brought to set aside the sale and to recover the land for the school fund of the State.

"The information in the hands of the committee shows conclusively that there was collusion between the State's cruisers and the purchasers. We have looked into approximately 200 cases where cruisers returned erroneous reports of the timber on State lands. Whether this proof is sufficient to secure conviction in case criminal proceedings are brought is a question up to the attorney general.

Land Commissioners to Blame.

"The present land commissioner, E. W. Ross, will undoubtedly say that if the cruisers were dishonest he knew nothing about it and is not to blame. The investigation shows, however, that the land commissioners for years have at least been lax and negligent in disposing of State lands. The cruisers were their agents and their representatives and the land commissioners are not entitled to hide behind the statement that they could not be expected to ascertain if their cruisers were honest.

"The committee has recommended that the next Legislature provide for an honest cruise of every acre of timber land in the State. The State's land department was never on a business basis."

GOVERNOR HAY APPROVES WORK OF COMMITTEE.

Spokane, April 9.—"I most heartily indorse the recommendation of the committee that all timber lands of the State be cruised at the earliest possible moment.

"When I became governor it was reported to me that the capitol grant lands were worth about $1,000,000 or $1,500,000; their value will aggregate more than $4,000,000.

"As at present constituted the office of land commissioner gives too much power into the hands of one man. There should be a commisison of three men with equal authority."

Strongly indorsing the work of the legislative committee, Governor Hay, when seen at the Hotel Spokane, expressed himself as well astisfied with the work, voicing his regret that the committee was not able to finish.

The liquor and other elements which last year made a bitter fight in the State legislature and as effectually blocked legislation for some time, is believed to have received its death-blow in the report of the legislative investigating committee. The governor said in part:

"I am much pleased with the work of the committee; it has been careful, industrious and conscientious, but owing to the limit placed on it by the resolution, it was just getting nicely started when it must go out of existence. The resolution passed provided that a report should be placed in the hands of the governor not later than April 1, though the committee up to the 6th expended only about one-half the money allowed it for expenses.

"There is not a private corporation in the State owning any amount of land but what has had its timbered lands thoroughly cruised and all lands appraised, but Washington, the largest owner in the State, has never had even a rough estimate made."

To Create Naval Reserves.

Washington, D. C., April 9.—Senator Perkins has introduced a bill authorizing the Secretary of the Navy to create a naval reserve by enrolling citizens who are not more than 40 years of age. The reserves would serve in the navy at the call of the President, being enrolled for five years, but with the privilege of resigning at any time except during time of war. During war the reserves would not be compelled to serve more than two years.

ALL WELCOME, SAYS TAFT

PRESIDENT REFUSES TO READ ANY ONE OUT OF REPUBLICAN RANKS.

Arms Open to All Who Assist in Redeeming Republican Pledges—Wickersham Speaks at Chicago, Declaring Time to Choose Has Arrived.

Washington, April 9.—President W. H. Taft sounded a recall to wandering Republicans tonight in a speech delivered to the League of Republican Clubs for the District of Columbia at its sixth annual banquet. He told the insurgent congressmen their standing in the party would depend on themselves and the votes on Republican legislation during the next two months. At the present time he recognizes both regulars and insurgents as Republicans.

Incidentally and by inference he informed Speaker Joseph G. Cannon and Representatives John Dalzell and Sereno E. Payne they could read no Republicans out of the party. He contended that was beyond any individual or set of individuals and rested with the Republican himself. "By their fruits ye shall know them," he exclaimed amid cheers.

"I am glad," began the President, "to have my senses testify to me that the Republican party is still alive. I am glad to testify by coming here my sense of the importance of the League of Republican Clubs as an instrument by aid of which the regular organizations of the States are put to their trumps to see to it that they do their duty and that the league is not the whole thing.

Time for Doing, Says Taft.

"Your president has announced that the President may make a keynote speech. I don't like to say he had no authority so to speak. Before I am through you will be convinced he was misinformed. With reference to the distinguished members of the Senate and House here tonight, I think it is not exactly the time for speaking except in the two houses of the legislature. This is the time for doing, for voting, for passing the measures to which the Republican party is pledged.

"Tonight we are reading nobody out of the Republican party. We want them all within the ranks. They have the opportunity to establish their claim as Republicans by what they do as legislators to enact the legislation the party demands. By their fruits ye shall know them.

"Those men who in good faith stand to the legislation and seek to redeem party pledges have the right to stand in the party as Republicans. If they don't want to help with this legislation we shall not quarrel with them. It is their privilege to vote and speak as they will. We desire them as Republicans and I don't want to say anything to separate them from us or to assert that they are not as sincere in their Republicanism as I am myself.

No One Can Read Out Another.

"No man has the right to read another man out of the Republican party. He reads himself out if disloyal. If not disloyal he can by his words and acts show his loyalty.

"I am in no defiant spirit tonight. I want all in the ranks; want the help of all. Whether in the past they have slipped away a little, I want them back to help that grand old party upon which the real progress of the country depends. It is not that the Democrats are not patriotic or good citizens. It is that the Democratic party does not mean a compact, cohesive body of men who can make progress in this country. The Democrats have not had the discipline; they have not had the experience. When the opportunity was thrust upon them they divided up and left us where the Republican party had to come in and show its adaptability to govern and legislate.

"I look forward with considerable philosophy to the threatened invasion of the halls of Congress by the Democrats. This is threatened by my friends Champ Clark and Henry Watterson. I hope and believe it is not coming, but if it is I am confident that when once it comes and has been here for two or four years, it will mean another long lease of power for the Republican party.

Arms Open to All.

"We are not here to create schism. We are here to hold out our arms to all Republicans to assist in redeeming our pledges. After that there will be time to go before the people and argue out our party differences and ask the suffrage of the people as in the past on our record."

Representative Nicholas Longworth, of Ohio, son-in-law of former President Roosevelt, made a severe attack on Senator Beveridge and the insurgent band in Congress. This address was in marked contrast to the conciliatory tone of the President's speech.

WICKERSHAM SAYS TIME TO CHOOSE HAS ARRIVED.

Chicago, April 9.—Declaring that the time has come for every Republican to choose whether or not he is for the President and the Republican party, Attorney General George W. Wickersham before the Hamilton Club of this city delivered a stirring address tonight in defense of the administration of President W. H. Taft, and in effect told the "insurgents" that their proper place was outside the party breastworks.

"They have insisted," he said, "upon giving aid and comfort to the enemy. If any one wishes to join the Democratic party, let him do so. But let him not claim to be a Republican and in and out of season work to defeat Republican measures and to subvert the influence of the Republican President."

"I am firmly persuaded," he said, "in another part of his speech, "that despite the efforts of individuals to magnify their own particular importance at the expense of party loyalty and party honor, the Republican majority in Congress will make good its party pledges and give the country the benefit of that legislation which the party has promised and which the President has outlined."

Danger More Insidious.

"The danger from armed resistance to constituted authority," he said, "is open and manifest, and is met by simple, obvious methods. The dangers to free institutions arising from the concentration of great wealth and vast power in few hands, is far more insidious than that arising from open revolt against government, and methods by which those dangers may be met and averted are less obvious and more subject to misunderstanding than the work of resisting force by force.

"The work of framing and enacting laws adequate to the need, but not injurious to the legitimate interests of national enterprise and industry; the daily work of administering these laws and of endeavoring to carry on the great, increasingly complex business of government, without perpetual turmoil and commotion, but none the less efficiently and adequately, is far less attractive to spectacular imagination, and can be done only by men who are content to endure misrepresentation of their acts, and to look to the future rather than to the present for a vindication of their motives and a justification of their deeds."

Tariff Bill Approved.

The speaker referred to the tariff bill as "a distinct step toward a lower scale of import duties," and said that it opened the door to a free exchange of commerce with the Philippines. He poke approvingly of the maximum and minimum provisions of the law. He gave credit to the President for having recommended the adoption of the corporation tax.

Referring to the work of the department of justice, he said that the cases brought against the American Tobacco Company and the Standard Oil Company involved the most comprehensive attempt ever adopted by the government to deal with the question of monopoly.

Without attempting to forecast the decision of the Supreme Court, the attorney general said that he was firmly persuaded that the control of a holding company, thus monpolizing the trade and commerce of the United States in any one or more lines, must be declared to be a violation of the Sherman act. It is not essential, he said, to American progress and American prosperity that one group of men shall control the entire business of the country in oil, tobacco, or sugar, or iron, or any other commodity; and no sound principle of economic law is offended by striking down all such artificial combinations.

After Soft Coal Men.

He spoke of the suit brought by the department to break up the anthracite coal combination and said that a similar proceeding against the bituminous coal combination is now under preparation. The recovery of $3,500,000 of duties from the Sugar Refining Company, the indictment of more than 100 persons in the southern district of New York alone, the conviction of forty-eight of these offenders up to the present time with but a single acquittal by a jury, all these, he said, represent the determined policy to attack all special privileges.

Earlier in the day Wickersham gave out a long statement in defense of President Taft's administration. He pleaded for a longer wait before the Taft administration is judged, declaring that one year was too short a time to allow the President to enact into law all the reforms he contemplated.

"Whatever has been done and whatever is being done and whatever will be done by President Taft and his administration is an orderly, business-like, judicious manner, without bombast or self-glory," he said.

ATTEMPT HADE TO STOP LAKE WASHINGTON CANAL.

Seattle, April 9. — Attorneys acting for property owners having shore lands on Lake Washington have applied to the superior court of Thurston county for an injunction restraining C. J. Erickson from continuing work on his contract to dig a ship canal between Lake Washington and Lake Union.

The complaints allege that Major Kutz, of the United States engineer corps, was not authorized to enter into a contract on behalf of the state and that the completion of the canal will lower the lake seven or eight feet, thereby damaging the shore land owners nearly $5,000,000. The case will come up for hearing before Judge John R. Mitchell, at Olympia, about April 18.

Farmers to Build Mill.

Walla Walla, April 11.—Farmers of the local union have decided to build a $200,000 mill and develop water power for more than that sum. A committee was appointed to take the matter up and decided definitely. The company will be limited to farmers.

BATTLESHIP BILL PASSED HOUSE

CONSTRUCTION OF TWO EACH YEAR AUTHORIZED BY DECISIVE VOTE.

Division Not Along Party Lines—Washington Representative Proposes to Stop Discrimination by Navy Department Against Use of Western Coal for Battleships.

Washington, April 9.—Representative Humphrey started a fight on the floor which, while he did not win the point immediately at issue, promises to break up the practice of shipping Atlantic coal for use in naval vessels in the Pacific.

Mr. Humphrey proposes, he says, to get the Navy Department to use Pacific coal. Failing in this, he will see to it that the department next year gets no appropriation to permit them to discriminate against our coal and at the same time, by using foreign bottoms as colliers, commit an outrage on the merchant marine of the country.

"The merchant navy and the revenue cutter service use our coal and find it satisfactory," he said. "Why not the navy?"

Point Lost by One Vote.

During the debate on the navy appropriation bill Mr. Humphrey offered an amendment prohibiting the navy taking Atlantic coal to the Pacific for naval use there. The naval committee resisted the amendment and a long debate ensued. The amendment finally was rejected by one vote, the vote standing 73 to 74.

Kahn's amendment to increase the appropriation for coal to permit the department to pay a large differential to American bottoms for Atlantic to the Pacific coal carrying also was defeated.

Two Battleships Authorized.

By the decisive vote of 162 to 110, fourteen being present and not voting, the house late today authorized the construction of two battleships to cost $6,000,000 each. Thirty-three Democrats voted for two battleships and twenty-four Republicans against the proposition.

This action was taken just prior to the passage of the naval appropriation bill, carrying $128,037,602. This amount is about $3,000,000 less than was recommended by the Navy Department. In addition to the battleships, the bill also provides for the construction of two fleet colliers and four submarine boats.

"No Battleships" Lost

Mr. Gronna, of North Dakota, moved to strike out the authorization for the construction of any battleships, but a viva voce vote showed there were not a handful of advocates of a "no battleship policy."

Mr. Thomas, of Ohio, proposed an amendment for four battleships, but the house voted it down almost unanimously.

Mr. Tawney's amendment for one battleship was lost by a vote of 104 to 138. At least thirty Democrats voted with the Republicans against Mr. Tawney's plan.

Eight-Hour Law Wins.

A point of order was sustained eliminating from the bill authority for the consideration of a million-dollar fleet-collier to be built on the Pacific Coast by private contract. Under existing law it will be constructed in a government navy yard on the Pacific Coast.

The appropriation of $1,000,000 for one repair ship was also stricken out on a point of order.

Mr. Fitzgerald, of New York, offered an amendment which was adopted by a vote of 131 to 15, under which the two battleships and two fleet colliers must be built by firms working under the eight-hour law.

Thirty-three Democrats voted with the Republicans for two battleships, while twenty-four Republicans joined the Democrats on one battleship.

OREGON TRUNK CALLS FOR BIDS ON 111 MILES.

Portland, Or., April 9.—Announcement is made that bids have been called for by the Oregon Trunk Line Railroad for the construction of 111 miles of railroad between Madras and the north line of the Klamath Indian reservation. The bids are to be opened April 18, work to be commenced May 1 and completed by January 1, 1911. The Oregon Trunk Line is owned by the Hill interests.

Price on Bootleggers.

Dayton, April 9.—Dayton's council threatens to take drastic measures to prevent bootlegging, which they are confident is being carried on. At a meeting the proposition of offering a reward of $50 for evidence leading to the arrest and conviction of bootleggers was agitated, resulting in referring the matter to a committee with authority to engage the city attorney. If action is taken Dayton will be the first town in the Northwest, it is said, to offer rewards for the conviction of bootleggers.

To Investigate Quartz on Kenai.

Seward, April 9.—Capt. L. B. Anderson, one of the largest operators in the Fairbanks district and founder of the Fairbanks Times, is in Seward and will spend the season investigating the quartz possibilities of the Kenai peninsula.

GOMPERS REPLIES TO PRESIDENT'S SPEECH.

Washington, April 9. — When the speech of President Taft to the business men of South Bethlehem, declaring he was not in favor of boycotts, was called to the attention of President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, he said:

"The President's utterance is confirmatory, as well as disappointing—disappointing that he would carry his former attitude toward labor to the logical conclusion, confirmatory of his utterances and actions in every material issue in which the real interests of labor was involved.

"According to the President's position it is not the government's concern how brutally and inhumanly the workers of a concern are treated; it matters not whether American workers are displaced by the lowest elements of foreign labor—coolie, Japanese or Slav—it is simply a question of product. So long as the product is acceptable, the producers may do as they please.

"The President stands pat on the tariff on products from foreign countries and stands equally pat on the free trade in labor from all climes and under any conditions."

FIRST VETO MEASURE ADOPTED BY COMMONS.

London, April 9. — The house of commons in committee adopted Premier Asquith's first veto resolution by a vote of 339 to 237. This resolution declares it expedient that the house of lords be disabled by law from rejecting or amending a money bill, but that any such limitation shall not be taken to diminish or qualify the existing rights of the house of commons.

Lord Roseberry, continuing his efforts in the direction of the reform of the house of lords, gave a large dinner party to the leading peers tonight, the object being to informally discuss proposals which Lord Rosebery intends to introduce for the reconstruction of the lords.

NO GOVERNMENT AID FOR ALASKA RAILROADS.

Washington, D. C., April 9.—The backers of the project to have the government guarantee the interest on a bond issue for the construction of a trunk line railroad in Alaska from Valdez through the interior, met with discouragement by the committee on territories. Chairman Hamilton frankly told the promoters he believed the government would decline to lend its aid to any project unless a large public benefit was concerned.

Oliver P. Hubbard informed the committee $50,000,000 had been invested along the route of the proposed line and his company believed the government should lend aid in the project. It is proposed to issue bonds of $40,000 per mile for a distance not exceeding 550 miles.

WEYERHAEUSERS SELL BRITISH COLUMBIA TIMBER.

Vancouver, B. C., April 9.— Announcement is made of the sale of a large tract of timber land on Vancouver Island by the Chemainus Mills Co. to the Fraser River Lumber Co. of New Westminster.

The Chemainus Company, which is the British Columbia branch of the Weyerhaeusers, will receive $4,000,000 for the timber, which consists of 75,000 acres lying north of Comox on Vancouver Island.

There is estimated to be 5,000,000,000 feet of timber on the property. The deal is the largest ever made in British Columbia. The entire holdings of the Fraser River Mills on Vancouver Island now approximate $8,000,000.

BONDS OF EVERETT-TACOMA INTERURBAN LINE SOLD.

Everett, April 11.—A $5,000,000-mortgage has been filed with the Snohomish county auditor by the Everett-Tacoma Railway Company, in favor of the Chicago Title & Trust Company. The move appears to be a step toward actual beginning of the trolley road planned to connect Everett and Tacoma via Snohomish, Monroe, Tolt, Renton, Kent, Auburn, Puyallup and Sumner. The plan has been under consideration for many months. The big deed was signed by O. E. Crossman president, and Charles H. Barron, for the trolley company.

N. P. Starts Seattle Loop.

Seattle, April 9. — Vice-President Thomas Cooper of the Northern Pacific railroad has ordered removal of all buildings and obstructions from the railroad land that will be occupied by the company's belt line around Lake Union. Construction of the four track loop will be begun at once. When the belt is completed most of the railroad's freight will be landed at Terry avenue and Denny way, in the heart of the city, revolutionizing deliveries.

To Aid Nautical Schools.

Washington, April 9.—Representative Humphrey has introduced a bill in aid of State nautical schools, with especial reference to Washington. It provides for appropriations by Congress in aid of nautical schools equal to those made by States or municipalities, and also permits a State, on request of its governor, to secure for the State or municipality maintaining such a school, a vessel of the navy and the detail of retired officers for instruction purposes.

YOUNG FOLKS

Chinese Fans.

When Nell and Namie tire of dolls,
And all their romps and toys,
They sit down, oh, so silently,
Without the slightest noise.

They borrow both my biggest fans,
And, when I look, I see
Two little Chinese ladies fine
Who sip their cups of tea.

They've really changed entirely,
For neither little maid
Was ever so demure before,
So modest and so staid.

They bow and smile so pleasantly
In this strange game of play,
With all the quiet gravity
Known only in Cathay.

That, as I sit there watching them,
I wonder why can't we
Import the Chinese customs, too,
When we import their tea.

Word-Guessing.

"Haven't you something new for us, Aunt Ruth?" asked Bertha.

"I'm afraid I am thought out," Aunt Ruth said, laughing. "Though I believe something did pop into my head the other night.

"It isn't much of a game," she said, presently, "but it may help out some of these rainy hours."

The four drew their chairs nearer, alert to hear what Aunt Ruth had to tell.

"We will begin with the first five letters of the alphabet. Alice, Bertha and Carl may as well use their initials, and Norton and I will take D and E. Alice, you may give us the definition of a word whose first or last letter is A. Then we will try to guess it."

"Well," said Alice, "my letter ends something I like in puddings and cakes."

"Sugar!" shouted Norton, and then joined in the laugh at his blunder.

"Vanilla," guessed Carl, which was right.

"Mine begins something we cannot live without," said Bertha.

"Bread?" ventured Alice.

"No. Besides, we can live without that."

"Breakfast?" asked Norton.

"No, indeed! Plenty of people don eat breakfast."

"Breath," guessed Aunt Ruth, and then it was her turn.

"It ends a precious stone," said Aunt Ruth.

"Sapphire!" cried Norton.

"Right. Now give us a D word."

"Something I like to eat," said Norton.

"Dates," guessed Carl.

"Dumplings," asked Aunt Ruth.

"No," laughed Norton.

"What can it be?" wondered Alice.

The tinkle of a bell in the hallway told them it was dinner time.

"Let's go out and get it!" shouted Nortion.

"Oh—dinner!" they cried. "Why didn't we think of that before?"—Youth's Companion.

"Hidden Telegrams."

In this game you are to imagine you have a distant friend with whom you have an understanding about an expected message. It might be that there are two or three contestants for a certain prize or honor. The name of one might be Jenkins, that of another Harrison, and that of the third Sheldon. Suppose Jenkins is the successful contestant, and that you wish to telegraph to your friend simply the name of Jenkins. However, you wish to conceal the message as much as possible, so the understanding is that the first letters of the words you telegraph will spell the name.

With this explanation each player sets to work to write a clever sentence in which the first letters will spell Jenkins. The various players may get sentences like these:

Judge Engles never knew I noticed Sally.

Julia's elbow next knocked Irish Nora silly.

Jack expects no kiss in Nova Scotia.

Jam eating nearly killed Ikey Natham Saturday.

It is impossible that there will be any two alike, and the game is to see who can write the cleverest.

The telegrams are read aloud and the players vote to see whose is best.—Chicago Daily News.

WHAT CAME OF A NICKNAME

Incongruous nicknames may lead those who bear them into strange mishaps. In "Family Names and Their Story," the Rev. S. Baring-Gould tells what befell a girl whose intimate friends and family called her "Jack Spratt." One winter, when living in a German town with her father, Colonel Smith, the man she was engaged to sent her a letter which he thoughtlessly addressed to "Miss Jack Spratt." Two days later a messenger arrived at Colonel Smith's door with a summons to attend at the postoffice the next morning between eight o'clock and noon.

He obeyed, and found that the summons concerned the letter.

Who was Jack Spratt? How long had he been an inmate of the colonel's house? No intimation of such a person had been sent to the police, and according to law, no stranger could reside for over three days in the town without legitimation by the police.

The colonel, in broken German, explained that his daughter was familiarly known as Jack Spratt.

He was requested to take a seat while the police were communicated with. Half an hour later the head of the police arrived, and the matter was discussed between him and the postmaster.

The chief of police then, turning to the colonel, stated that he had the paper of legitimation of Miss Isabel Smith, but not of Jack Spratt.

In vain did Colonel Smith reiterate his statement that this was a joke. German officials do not comprehend jokes, and it was finally concluded that the latter must be opened to ascertain to whom it actually was addressed.

The letter was opened. It began: "My dear Jack. You are a regular ripper——"

When this was read the face of the Oberpolizei became grave.

"Der wahrhaftige Aufschneider!" he exclaimed. "We have at last obtained a clue to the discovery of the criminal who a few years ago committed such atrocious acts in London, and who has been the author of similar cases recently in Berlin."

The colonel explained that "ripper" was a term of admiration and endearment much affected by lovers and young ladies.

The police assumed a still sterner expression. "Herr Oberst," said he, "this passes everything—that a person calling himself a gentleman should address to a lady delicately brought up a disgusting and horrible epithet derived from the acts of Jack the Ripper as a term of endearment and commendation. Herr Oberst, you must understand that, under the circumstances, your house must be subjected to a domicilliary visit!"

Doubtless no one had ever dreamed that a little girl who was nicknamed Jack Spratt because she could eat no fat would ever, on account of the nickname, be the cause of so grave a disturbance in German officialdom.

Winter Moving Pictures.

Twenty-five people, representing manufacturers of moving-picture films with branch headquarters in Los Angeles, arrived in Chicago the other day in their private car, loaded down with frontier costumes and paraphernalia, including eight huskies or Malmute dogs, half wolf, in charge of a man who formerly used them to carry the United States mail in Alaska, says a Truckee dispatch to the San Francisco Chronicle.

Recently they took an Alaskas scene. One of the woman members of the company, dressed in Alaskan costume on snowshoes, was pursued through the woods by a pack of dogs representing wolves. When she was almost exhausted, with the dogs close on her heels, several men with guns rushed on the scene just in time to save her life.

The heaviest scene will be a series of moving pictures depicting Robert E. Peary and a number of Eskimos making a dash for the north pole through the ice behind his loaded sleigh and dogs. Part of this scene will be on Doner Lake, which is completely frozen over now, and will certainly be realistic.

What "Mercerized" Means.

Mercerized cotton was first introduced as a substitute for silk some ten or twelve years ago, although the process of making it was invented about 1840 by a celebrated English dyer, John Mercer. He discovered that when cotton, either in cloth or yarn, was subjected for a short time to the action of strong caustic alkali, and then thoroughly washed, the resulting material was much stronger than before, had shrunk very considerably and had a much greater affinity for dyestuffs. Mercer patented his discovery and made some use of it in calico printing, but the process was nearly forgotten until, in 1889, it was discovered that by proper treatment cotton could by this means be made so lustrous as to compare not unfavorably with silk.

To make cotton lustrous, the goods, after dipping into the strong alkali, are kept firmly stretched, and their strong tendency to shrink resisted, until the alkali has been thoroughly rinsed off and the last traces neutralized with a little acid. If this is done carefully, when finaly dried the cotton fibres will be found drawn out smooth and lustrous, while still retaining their new qualities of strength and increased dyeing power. To get good results in this process the materials treated, whether in yarn or cloth, must be made of the very best and longest stapled cotton, preferably Egyptian, and when well done the results are extremely satisfactory. The lustre is not as good as the very best silk, but it is quite well marked and for replacing the cheap grades of heavily weighted silks, as, for instance, for underwear, linings, etc., the mercerized goods are of very great value, owing to their strength and durability, as well as their cheapness.—Craftsman.

MODOCS' EXILE ENDED.

They Return to Oregon After Forty Years' Imprisonment.

The Modoc Indians in Oklahoma are going home—not to the lava beds in California, whence they were taken to the Quapaw Indian reservation nearly forty years ago, but to the Klamath reservation of the Modocs in Oregon, where they will get land in exchange for their allotments in Oklahoma, the Kansas City Times says.

The Modocs have been homesick ever since they went to Oklahoma, and their return to the Northwest is the result of their constant appeal to the authorities at Washington.

The removal of the Modocs to Oklahoma followed their defeat after their bloody campaign against government troops in the lava beds, where they were commanded by Capt. Jack. They assassinated and butchered all except two of the peace commission sent to them by the Secretary of War.

When the Modocs reached Oklahoma there were thirty-nine men, fifty-four women and sixty children, many of whom were sorely wounded. Among them were such notable leaders as Scarfaced Charley, Steamboat Frank and Shacknasty Jim. Age and disease have cut down the Modocs until only sixty remain. Nearly all their old leaders have died.

In going to the Klamath country, from which they fled when they entered the lava beds in California, these Modocs will be among the Klamath Modocs, whom they thoroughly hate and despise because of the arrogance of the Klamath band.

The Oklahoma Modocs were moved from California to Oregon, only to have their Oregon kinsmen say to them:

"You can stay here, but it is our country. Your horses can eat the grass, but it is our grass. You can catch fish, but they are our fish."

This was more than Capt. Jack and his people could bear, and they stole away and returned to their old haunts in California. When the Federal government tried to make them go back to Oregon the Modocs began fighting and sought refuge in the inaccessible lava beds.

A commission was sent to treat with them. The commission established its camp about two miles from the retreat of the Modocs, in the lava beds, and midway was pitched a tent at which the council should be held.

No sooner had the commissioners assembled in the tent than they found that death was at hand. Capt. Jack suddenly shot Gen. Canby, adviser of the commissioners. Rev. Ebenezer Thomas, a commissioner, also was slain and his body robbed and mutilated. Two of the commissioners escaped.

The United States government then put a large body of troops in the field, and the Modocs were pursued night and day until they surrendered, Oct. 2, 1873. Capt. Jack, Black Jim, Boston Charley and Schronchin Jim were hanged at Fort Klamath, Ore., for the murder of Canby and Thomas. Soon afterward the California Modocs were taken to Indian Territory.

MEN ALSO HAVE RIGHTS.

Man's Breach of Promise Suit Foreshadows Penalties for Women.

If women are to have the rights that men enjoy, with those rights, it may be, will go certain penalties, the New York Telegraph says. It may even be perilous for a woman to change her mind about the important question of matrimony. Leicester M. Pond, an architect of Spokane, Wash., has brought suit against Miss Bessie Kelley, described as a "prominent society bud" of Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Mr. Pond used to live in Poughkeepsie, and he and Miss Kelley belonged to the same tennis club, and, according to his sworn statement, became engaged on June 2, 1908. Then Mr. Pond moved to Spokane and established himself as an architect. The date for the wedding was fixed for June 22, 1909, and on April 26 preceding the date their engagement was announced.

Mr. Pond left Spokane on June 10, 1909, for Poughkeepsie and arrived there a week later. Miss Kelley asked to have the wedding postponed, and, Pond consenting, it was put off until October of last year. He went back to Spokane and in July received a letter from Miss Kelley telling him the engagement was broken and there would be no wedding.

After thinking the matter over for some time Mr. Pond brought suit against Miss Kelley for $25,000.

(N. B.—Miss Kelley has no money, but her father has millions.)

In his complaint Mr. Pond declares that he spent $2,500 in preparing for the wedding and that he wishes the balance because of mental grief, mortification, humiliation, ridicule and contempt of business associates.

If a woman is entitled to damages for these things, is not a man also? Are they not both on the same level? The outcome of the suit may make a precedent.

In a Belfast breach of promise case the man, a farmer, won. He agreed to marry a spinster if she could raise $500. She was able to get together only $300, so the farmer called it off, despite the fact that he had ordered the clergyman to be on hand to marry them. The judge said that the promise to marry was conditional, and the condition had not been fulfilled.

There is an old superstition that if a spider settles on one's clothes it is a sign that he will shortly receive money. "When a spider is found upon our clothes," says an old writer, "we used to say, some money is coming toward us. The moral is this: Such who imitate the industry of that contemptible creature may, by God's blessing, weave themselves into wealth and procure a plentiful estate."

To get rock for the Morena dam in southern California, one of the biggest blasting operations on record has just been successfully carried out. Describing the feat, the Engineering Record says that a tunnel 125 feet long was first driven into the face of the granite. In this chamber was placed 38,950 pounds of powder and dynamite. This was exploded by electric fuses and dislodged 120,000 cubic yards of rock.

Blue books have a reputation for typographical accuracy almost equal to that of the famous Clarendon Press, which is said to offer a guinea reward for the detection of a single printer's error in the editions of the Holy Scriptures. A "cancel" note just received from the king's printers shows the remarkable anxiety to insure correctness. It informs us that in a chart attached to the "Army Medical Report of 1908" there is a misplaced dot. Can this example of minute corrigenda be beaten?—London Chronicle.

In Belgium a prisoner has turned the old trick and escaped through the prison window hospital. The prince of rogues weighed 300 pounds and found himself too large to pass through his cell window. so he played sick and "soldiered" around until they put him into the prison hospital. He ate nothing to speak of for fifty days, and became so thin that he easily squeezed through a window of the "chronic" ward, having at odd times sawn through the bars. Once through the window friends below helped him to the ground and took him in an auto.

The cutting blowpipe, of which so many surprising things have been reported, has recently been improved in France in a way to render it more generally useful. Two inflammable gases must be employed. One is required to keep the metal at a high temperature. The other is oxygen to concentrate action by oxidation along the line of the cut. For heating, either coal gas, acetylene or hydrogen is employed, but as there is sometimes difficulty in procuring a supply of those gases the new blowpipe is arranged to use instead the ordinary gasoline employed by motorists.

The charge that bees are destructive to the fruit on the tree is not borne out by the facts. Their tongues are formed exclusively for the extraction of sweet juices, and their mandibles are unable to pierce the skin of a fruit. Grapes have been taken intact from the interior of a hive in which they had been allowed to remain four days. A grape which had been smeared with honey was licked clean, but was not injured. The bees inserted their tongues in pinholes made in the skin of a grape, and extracted some of the juice, but they were unable to enlarge the holes.

Writing about the family of King Albert of Belgium, a Berlin correspondent says: "Little Prince Leopold is making rapid progress as a violinist. He displays no phenomenal talent. The music teacher has a painstaking and intelligent assistant in Queen Elizabeth, who is an accomplished violinist. A picture which was recently taken shows the queen in a plain black skirt and a white shirtwaist, with not the smallest ornament visible, standing in a plainly furnished room, violin in hand, teaching the little prince. It is the kind of picture which wil go far toward winning the respect and estem of the people.

FRIDAY, APRIL 15, 1910

A convention of the Skagit county local option forces was held last Saturday at Mount Vernon. The convention was called for the purpose of organizing and outlining a plan of campaign to win a county unit local option law rom the next legislature —and that means sending only avowed and outspoken temperance men to Olympia next winter.

The legislative investigating committee has made a report to Governor Hay charging that for years the state has been systematically pillaged through the "laxity, incompetency and inefficiency" of employes in the state land department. Vast areas of choice timber land in the state have been cruised by inspectors from the land department and sold for a mere pittance, while in reality the timber alone was frequently worth many times more than the State received. This sounds more like a clear case of whitewashing to protect those "higher up." "Put the rascals out."

Again we hear that a systematic effort at bulldozing and browbeating is being inaugurated by the saloons and their allies against those who signed the petitions, upon the theory, we suppose, that no man has a right to assert his manhood without first consulting the saloon. We hope that the report is true. A proposition of that nature will cut much the same as a two-edged sword—both ways. Human nature is much the same the world over. The average citizen will quietly resent any interferance with his rights. The man who signed the petition has the same rights as the saloonist or his pal and he is going to assert those rights—at the polls.

The Olympic-Leader publishes, this week, another communication from residents of the West End concerning road and bridge work in that section. It is charged that county road funds have been used contrary to the laws of the state, and contrary to the laws of common decency and justice between man and man; that after 20 years of tax collection from a large and very valuable area of timber land, the ranchers between Clallam and Ozette are still dependent upon a pony trail. Whether the present commissioners and supervisor are responsible, in whole or in part, or whether they have taken up the burden laid down by their predecessors and have done the best that could be done under the circumstances, the Olympic-Leader cannot venture an opinion at this time. It is evident, however, that the demand for information as to what has been done with "their share" of the road funds during the past three years, and as to what work if any is to be accomplished on their road this year, ought not to be longer ignored.

PARTY WHIP THE LOST POWER.

When insurgent republican members of the house of representatives united with democrats to overthrow the autocratic power of Cannon, they played the same principal in national politics that individual members of both parties have followed in dozens of instances in various states and cities of the country in the last few years. The term "mugwump" has lost its earlier power to frighten and compel, and the ballot has become a weapon of control instead of a mechanical device for the building up of majorities.

Evidence of this independence in politics is found on every hand. One of the principal reasons for the adoption of the commission form of government in so many cities is that it removes the city government from politics. Independent voters in scores of other cities repeatedly disregard party lines and elect mayors and councilmen because of their ability and not their party faith.

This independence has extended to the state elections to a surprising degree. No fewer than eight states which gave Mr. Taft a republican majority in 1908 elected democratic governors and several chose democratic legislatures Folk, Marshall, Harmon, Hughes, Lindsay and a score of others have been elected to office by independent voters. The primary elections now being held in nearly every state, aid in the education of the individual as to the proper use of the ballot. The crack of the party whip has lost its power and the rebuke of the party boss has little effect on the average voter. This independence of the individual voter may mean less party solidarity, but it means better government. It means less of the machine and more of the individual, less blind adherence to party creed and more intelligent consideration of party policies, less party politics and more patriotism.—Spokane Spokesman Review (rep)

The elections in the Central West last week indicate that the drys have gaied—that advantage remained with the opponents to the saloon. In Illinois, of 210 towns voting, 112 went dry; the gains of the saloons were made in the larger cities. In Wisconsin, however, ten of the larger cities remained dry, four became dry, and six went wet.

It is evident that the banishment or strict regulation of the saloon is becoming more desired throughout the country as the days and years go by. The people are voting against the saloon and will continue to vote against it. That noble organization of loyal, Christian, temperance women, the W.C.T.U., stole a march on the saloon when, through their efforts, compulsory education on the baleful influence of the saloon upon the rising generation was engrafted into the school laws of every state in the Union. The boys of these Christian mothers are growing up, and they are growing up right. That is what the public schools are for. The saloon is doomed.

When in want of anything in the fresh or salt meat line, just drop into James Fitzgerald's shop, the Bell building, on Front street. Our motto is. the best of meats and courteous attention to the wants of our customers.

"Between the Devil and the Deep Sea"

The numerous local option elections that have been held throughout this state—especially the western part—have resulted generally in big victories for the "drys" over the "wets." This situation has put a great many politicians on the anxious seat and the political situation in every county west of the mountains is mixed to a greater extent than it has ever been since the memorable free silver days. This is especially true concerning legislative candidates, and he has got to a mighty crafty, discriminating, and diplomatic gentleman, who will be able to steer his craft safely between the rocks and shoals that the present stituation has developed. The optionists, encouraged by their recent victories, have determined to compel every candidate to come out in the open and make a plain declaration as to where he stands, and there are breakers ahead for the candidates who refuse to do this, and there are breakers as well for those who do not.

The local optionists claim that as the strength of the saloon supporters has always been in the villages and centers of population, where they lost heavily in many of the recent elections, together with the anti-saloon vote in the country to be relied upon, the liquor question will be the main issue in the state as well as the congressional elections, and they propose to force the issue.

Here again the republicans and democrats are at sea. The party leaders are divided as to which course to pursue. Some want to take no stand on the question at all and others believe that the party to come out flatly and take a stand for the anti-saloon movement will be playing the trump card.

The local optionists declare that no attention will be paid by them to party lines where the liquor question is at stake.—Sedro-Woolley Courier.

The baleful boycotting scourge inaugurated by the saloons and their sympathizers and allies against certain grocerymen and other dealers in Angeles who favor the closing of the saloons, is spreading. We are credibly informed that a bunch of five misguided or ill-advised citizens marched into Lutz & Co.'s establishment and informed Mr. Stakemiller that they were through trading with him for the reason that he had seen fit to vote with the majority of the councilmen in favor of passing the Aldwell light and power franchise over the mayor's veto. Also, we hear that a certain Front street merchant was told that he must v cate the building he was occupying because its owner was a local-optionist! Shame on such narrow-minded citizenship.

The gasoline launch Coleen, owned by A. H. Anderson of Port Williams, was a caller at the Morse dock Wednesday to pick up a life boat that had gone adrift and picked up by the tug Louise and left here. This is a magnificient craft, costing with all its equipments, about $50,000. It is lighted, heated, and cooking done by electricity, and elegantly furnished throughout. Several of our influential citizens, including Custom Inspector Frank Fisher, were guests. Mr. Fisher said that it was his first meal cooked by electricity. The boat carried to this port as a guest County Commissioner Bugge, who vainly tried to get everyone to come look through his "private yacht," but did not tell us whether he used it only for pleasure trips or for chasing clams above low tide.

The inspection of the craft was not completed until done in style by our representative, Hon. E. E. Fisher. He came down a little late for dinner but was intensely interested in the culinary department and also the sleeping department which, he said, "looked good enough for anybody to sleep in." After admiring the craft in all its details he became quite enthusiastic, stating that he would introduce a bill at the next legislature for the state to furnish to representatives such a boat.

The Board granted the petition of Harry Coventon et als for a road commencing at a point on Indian Valley Road about 350 feet west of section line dividing sections 28 and 29, township 30, range 7, thence south to north line of section 32 thence east to northeast corner section 32, thence south on section line dividing sections 32 and 33 o a point where said line intersects County Road, known as the Lutz Road.

Beasley to re-imburse him for the taxes over paid on said land. It appearing that the Milwaukee Land Co. had been assessed a personal tax for the year 1909, for the timber on lot 2, section 7, nw se section 18-29-13, se nw, lot 2, and east 15 feet of lot 4, section 36 30 13 and it also appearing that said timber had also been assessed with the land, therefore making double assessment, therefore, the Board ordered the County Treasurer to cancel said personal tax.

Germany is the true home of domesticity; there is no doubt about that. Where else would the sovereign receive a distinguished foreigner as the Kaiser received the president of the university of California? The picture drawn in the despatches is idyllic; the Empress cozily embroidering by the center table, his majesty passing sandwiches—were they made by the Princess Victoria, perhaps? It has been a good many years since that sort of cheerful and simple hospitality was seen in our own White House.

Sometimes when a girl marries a farmer in order that she may pick roses wet with dew, she learns that he has a hog aviary near the house. This we glean from the perennial fireside philosopher of Atchison, Kan.

A banker's son who gallantly caught a fainting woman lost $28.000 thereby. There are faints and feints.

A DISRESPECTFUL ANIMAL.

Miss Caroline and Miss Matilda Bargle lived in an old-fashioned house with a lean-to shed, the roof of which ran nearly to the ground. Returning from church one day, they noticed on approaching their dwelling that the churchgoers ahead of them paused in passing, and gazed upward with interest and mirth. A moment later they saw why. Their neighbor's billy-goat had escaped, mounted the lean-to to the ridge-pole of the kitchen roof, and with one end of a flaring circus poster streaming banner-like from his jaws, stood outlined boldly against the sky, a chamois on a mountain peak, calmly contemplating the Sabbath procession.

Miss Matilda laughed. Miss Caroline did not.

"The abominable beast!" she gasped deeply scandalized. "I never saw anything so—so disrespectful!"

The goat is indeed a disrespectful animal. He is no respecter either of property or person, as many an individual held in honor by mankind has ruefully discovered. Admiral Evans has related with pride, as a worthy achievement, his triumph in his earlier days over a refractory goat on shipboard, which refused to yield the milk required for a sick man.

After it had baffled everybody whose proper task it was to secure the milk, the captain sent for Evans, and directed him to go and get it.

Evans respectfully intimated that he had not supposed "milking goats to be part of the duty of a navigating officer;" but the captain thereupon asked it as a favor, and he undertook the task.

With a little warm water, much persuasion, some firmness, and a recollection of the ways of certain "darkies" with misbehaving cows, he succeeded, and was unmercifully chaffed by his comrades on his success. Indeed, he was far from happy in it until he had taught his method to a marine,and was assured that he would not have to keep on milking for the rest of the voyage.

He was more fortunate than another distinguished man, Horace Greeley, who was a conspicuous failure as a milker of goats, although he was bred to the farm and Evans to the sea. When, in accordance with Mrs. Greeley's theories of diet, goat's milk was desired for their little son, they attempted to keep a goat in their New York premises, and Mr. Greeley undertook to milk it. His ignominious tussles with the creature became a source of delighted mirth to his neighbors.

One saw from his rear windows the complete overthrow of the great editor in his back yard, while the goat remained victoriously chewing the latest edition of the Tribune, which had fallen from Mr. Greeley's pocket in the contest. He relates that he called down to him, gleefully:

"Well, Mr. Greeley, nanny, there, hasn't much respect for editors!"

Sitting on his hat, and with one foot in an overturned barrel, Mr. Greeley, in his high, squeaky voice, called back:

"No matter, no matter! The man is nothing and the opinions everything. You see she appreciates the Tribune!"

MEXICO'S RICHEST MAN.

His Cattle Literally Upon a Thousand Hills.

General Luis Terrazas is Mexico's wealthiest man. General Terrazas is 79 years old, the same age as President Diaz. The lives of both men have been full of stirring adventure. It was in reward for daring military service that General Terrazas obtained from the government large gifts of land which placed him upon the road to the great fortune which he now possesses.

It is conservatively estimated that General Terrazas is worth not less than $200,000,000. His property holdings are chiefly in the state of Chihuahua, but he also has large investments in other parts of the republic.

General Terrazas is the greatest land and live stock baron in the world, it is said. He owns fifteen ranches in the state of Chihuahua. The ranches embrace an aggregate area of more than five million acres. For many years special attention has been given to raising horses upon these ranches. More than five million head of horses are grazing upon the Terrazas land.

The mule supply for most of Mexico comes from the Terrazas ranches. These animals now number more than one million head and are scattered over the different properties. General Terrazas' cattle holdings number more than one million head. Several hundren thousand head of goats and sheep graze upon this land. It is said that the choicest grass lands in northern Mexico are embraced in the Terrazas estate. Streams of running water pass through them, and the grass grows luxuriantly the greater part of the year.

Some idea of the vastness of these landed possessions may be had when it is known that more than ten thousand men are kept constantly looking after the live stock. The services of one thousand men are required to "ride the fences." It is the duty of these fence riders to see that the wires are kept intact, so that the live stock cannot escape from the pastures. Many thousand miles of wire were used in constructing the boundary fences. More than a score of towns, some of them of considerable size, are upon the ranches.—Kansas City Star.

Parisian Potatoes.

Peel the potatoes and, with a vegetable cutter, cut into small balls. Boil in salted water for ten minutes, drain out and pat dry between the folds of a clean dish towel. Melt in a saucepan several great spoonfuls of butter, put the potato balls in this, shake until coated with the butter and set at the side of the range, where they will keep hot for fifteen minutes, shaking often. Sprinkle with salt and white pepper and stir in a heaping tablespoonful of minced parsley.

While the United States postoffice authorities are floundering in the deficit and striving as usual to place the blame on second-class matter, it might be well to take a glance at the report of the postmaster-general of Canada, just at hand, and from which we gather some very illuminating facts. Canada is a country of small population and great distances. For the fiscal year ending March 31, 1909, the mail carrying mileage of the Dominion increased 1,312,073 miles. The first-class matter grew in volume 4 per cent. The expenditure, owing to expansion of service, increased $586,456.66, as compared with the previous year. In August, 1908, the drop letter rate for cities having a carrier service was reduced from 2 cents per ounce to 1 cent. The second-class rate of ½ cent per pound for regular weekly and monthly publications which required to be transmitted more than 300 miles was abolished, together with the zone restriction, and they are now dispatched to any part of Canada for ¼ of a cent a pound, or one-fourth the United States rate, while the free area for publications has been extended from a radius of twenty miles to forty. It is surely as far from Montreal to Victoria or the Klondike as it is from New York to San Francisco or Seattle. The Canadian postoffice surplus for the year was $809,237.53.

For Tender Steak.

A round steak may be made tender by soaking it over night in buttermilk. If there is no time to do this pound the steak thoroughly and as it fries add a little water and cover it well to create steam. This makes the toughest meat tender. Although it is better to broil steak than to fry it, if the latter process is used butter gives a better flavor than lard. A round steak is nice stuffed with bread dressing and baked. It must be cooked slowly and basted often with the liquor.

The Important Problem

confronting anyone in need of a laxative is not a question of a single action only, but of permanently beneficial effects, which will follow proper efforts to live in a healthful way, with the assistance of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, whenever it is required, as it cleanses the system gently yet promptly, without irritation and will therefore always have the preference of all who wish the best of family laxatives.

The combination has the approval of physicians because it is known to be truly beneficial, and because it has given satisfaction to the millions of well-informed families who have used it for many years past.

To get its beneficial effects, always buy the genuine manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

In a country where it is so difficult to secure satisfactory domestic help as it is in the United States, anything which seems helpful of a solution of the problem is always interesting. Of this nature is the experience of a young woman narrated over her own signature in an Eastern paper. She says that she and her sister were born in this country and that for twelve years she has been in service, and that during most of the time her sister was in a shop. Deducting what the sister paid for food, lodging, carfare, clothes, etc., the one in domestic service had the better net income. In addition to this she had a clean, pretty, comfortable and well-lighted room, and much better food than her sister could average. The working hours of the shop girl were from 8 to 6, and those of the house girl from 7:30 to 8, but the latter could sit down when she wanted to and indulge in a restful change of work; while the shop girl stood from 8 to 6, and the long siege of standing broke down her health. Then she gave up the shop and tried a maid's position, in which she grew plump and regained her color. Perhaps it is useless to preach the superior comfort and net emolument of a house servant's position to the average working American girl, who chooses the shop or the factory because of the supposed greater independence it affords. But there is this to be borne in mind, that no neat and trim girl who understands housework will ever have any difficulty in securing remunerative employment. And if she is a skillful cook, while at the same time faithful and anxious to please, she might be able to save more out of her earnings than many a bank clerk or bookkeeper or salesman.

A meeting was called and held last Saturday night at Zaccardo's to consider the consolidation of districts 32 and 11, the latter wanting to put up a high school at the head of the bay. Mr. Hooper of district 11 argued in favor of the movement and Mr. J. F. Delaney of district 32 argued against it, claiming that the time was not yet at hand for carrying out the project. District 32 having a good school house well furnished with everything could not afford at the present time to join district 11, so the subject was dropped for the time being.

A meeting is to be held at the hall on the evening of April 23rd in regard to the establishment of a co-operative creamery at the head of the bay There has already been $800 pledged for it, and it is the opinion of those having the matter in hand, that there will be no trouble in raising the required amount to establish the plant.

M. H. Gardner, the owner of the Major Blyn estate, is going to build a team road through the center of his holdings Jefferson county will build it from a certain point above Mr. Craige's ranch through to his camp, a distance of about two miles. From there it will continue on through his large timber claims, past the fresh water lake and to Mr. Delaney's ranch, on his road again and enter the county road at the school house of district 32. Mr. Gardner has already slashed the road as far as Eagle creek. He having sold a good many partials of land to people contemplating building and farming the same, but having no way to get in or out of their holdings, has been keeping them out. Mr. Gardner has a large force of men working the year around in his timber. As fast as a twenty have been logged off, they turn right back with the same setting of machinery and pull out the stumps, also pile and burn all the refuse, making the ground ready for the plow. He is disposing of his land in this way fasteer than he can clear it. If we had a few more such men you would hear from this end of the county in the near future.

We would like to see some of these expert hunters come out to this part of the county and try their hand at killing cougars, which are in at the fresh water lake killing calves and scattering the cattle far and wide. It would pay to get them as the bounty on a cougar now is $30 and a taxidermist is offering $20 for cougar skins. $50 would not be a bad day's work.

ROADS, PROMISES AND RESULTS

An Interesting and Vigorous Letter On the Condition of the Roads in the West End.

Editor Olympic-Leader:—In your issue of March 18, we notice an article regarding the condition of the roads. With your consent, we would like space in your paper for an expression of opinion in regard to the matter. We take pride in the single handed pluck of A. Stange, and extend our thanks to you for publishing his letter. Talk about trunk lines! We have one. We take pride in showing ours to anyone who wants to see it. You will be surprised when you hear that it has been in use for the last twenty years, and has been maintained in fair condition. It has been improved beyond recognition. At the most dangerous places it is from 14 to 18 inches in width, and from 10 to 20 inches deep. Mr. Stange says he can't haul anything on his road. We sympathize with him; but we can't even pack on horse back on ours without risk of losing our horses or getting killed ourselves by falling off the bluffs or through the rotten bridges. The bluffs have been dug with picks and grub hoes until we now have the pleasure of walking underneath the roots of fir and other trees that still cling to the bank, with the roots left on the upper side.

Now let us see about the taxable property in the various townships that is or would be benefitted by this road; how much we have, where it is, how it accommodates the people, and the hit and miss policy in regard thereto. There are about six townships with a timbered area of about 108,000 acres. There is in three of these townships a stand of timber something like 3,028,000,000 feet of taxable timber alone, which is practically all taxable. Just figure for yourself what the taxes would be on 108,000 acres at the rate of even $40 per quarter section. What have we been receiving out of these taxes? We have two-and-a-half miles of road out of Clallam. The last contract on this piece of road was let in 1907. Since then not a continental has been spent on this road where it would accommodate the most people. Six teen-and-a-half miles are then jumped over, and how this was done is a conundrum to the present day. Then we have another piece of grand trunk line of about two miles, built without a single contract let for any of it, while thousands upon thousands of dollars have been buried in it, and it does not accommodate the people. In this missing link of sixteen-and-a-half miles, we have some of the largest ranches that it has been possible for hardy pioneers to carve out of the forests, and all depending on this road, or lack of a road. It works about like this—you ask for a suit of clothes, cut to fit, and get wrapped up in the whole mill piece! There may have been times when the pioneer was praised in poetry, written about in fiction, pictured in colored pages, but this usually occurred after he got a tombstone on the sod, provided he had saved enough to get one, as an indicator of where he went in last!

What we need is roads. Has a man got to beg for that which he has coming to him? Our commissioner, K. O. Erickson, went around before election loaded with promises. By some accident one of them fell into this ditch of ours. It read as follows: "Elect me and I shall do everything possible to see a road from Clallam to Ozette." Where is this road? If it had been worked up to where the promise fell out, the worst part of the road would have been overcome. When anything is said about it now, the answer is that the road has not been surveyed. Why? The county surveyor has gone over it twice. Why is it that work can be done at the rear end of this unsurveyed road and at no other place?

Is it for personal gain or just for favoritism? Why is it that right of way must now be cut around to the north end of Ozette lake, adding four more miles to the ditch we already have?

Whom was the bridge across Ozette river built for? Why, and for whom was the Ozette river cleaned out? Who benefitted therefrom? Is it all for one and the same object?

Why is it that our supervisor is under bonds and two so-called ones are not under bonds? Why is it that work is done from the rear end of this road when it should be done at the other end? Even the ignorant, from natural instinct, would know better! Bridges are built and stuck away in a corner here and there that may sometime accommodate one man, perhaps none, while those in sight, where there is travel every day, and which most of the people within the adjacent territory must use, ready to fall into decay, are left standing? Why is it that some get everything that is coming to them and others get nothing? Are we not all paying our dues for the privilege of holding property in Clallam county? Are we not all contributing our little mite to develop our homes, and county as well? If Clallam county must depend entirely upon the revenue she receives from the few prairies Mother Nature has placed within her borders, she may as well go out of business at once. We do not believe there is a community in the county that would knife another just in order to obtain anything for itself. Clallam county needs all the communities she has and more. The logic of this is so simple that one with the intellect of a drab-colored jackass must understand.

It is useless to write long stories about the resources and productiveness of the soil to induce others to come among us Give those that are here a chance. Give us roads; promises we don't care for; results are what we want. Then we will have something to invite others to come and enjoy with us.

The public used to be informed of the approximate amounts their roads would get. Now this is all changed. Can anyone say he knows how much the Pysht road gets, how much the Clallam-Ozette road is to get, and others west of that? No. We hear, quite to the contrary, (a common rumor) that District No. 3 has a large debt. If so, how was this brought about, and where has the money gone to? It is high time for this county to have a grand jury.

For the benefit of those who do not know, this may serve. All of Dickey lake and surroundings Ozette lake and surroundings, and the land through which the trail runs, all depend on getting out of Clallam. It is the cheapest and most practical way. The bulk of the provisions come over this trail, with only two or three exceptions. The county some years ago had a two mile sled road made from Ozette lake to Sandy Point, on the ocean beach. This road was in use years ago, but is not in use much at present. Supplies were taken by an Indian from Neah Bay to Sandy Point when conditions of weather allowed it. Sometimes one would receive these supplies within a week; at other times it would take six weeks or more. Why was a preliminary survey ordered made from Clallam to Ozette Indian Reservation, just four miles north of Sandy Point, a place but very little better than the former? The surveyors did not reach the Reservation, but got the line across Ozette river. Why was a bridge immediately put across this river? Who benefitted by it? How many use it. (One.) Not satisfied with that the Ozette river had to be cleaned out; this river empties into the ocean just one mile north of the Indian Reservation, where the breakers extend out for a mile and a half. Whose work is all this; who is to blame and what next?

We cordially invite the East End commissioners to come and look for themselves. We thank Mr. Stange for taking the step he did, and for his fearless expression of opinion.

We, and others, are yours respectfully. Signed:
