WORK STARTED ON POWER PLANT

Half Million Will Be Invested and Six Thousand Horse Power Developed for Present Use.

Work was begun this week on the big electric power plant at the Aldwell canyon on the Elwha river, just west of Port Angeles. L. L. Summers of the firm of L. L. Summers & Co., one of the most prominent engineering firms in the United States, is here to complete preparations for the construction work.

Messrs. Peabody, Houghteling & Co., of Chicago, have purchased the bonds. This company, which is known as one of the most conservative banking houses in Chicago, has probably financed more propositions in the western country than any other house in the United States.

For the present 6,000 horse power will be developed, and a great many times that will go over the dam. It is estimated by government and by prominent civil engineers that 25,000 h. p. is available at this point. The Snoqualmie Falls power plan , which provides electricity for street and interurban cars, and for power and lighting purposes in Seattle, Everett and other towns, now develops 35,000 horse power, the limit of the stream; for years 9,000 h. p. was ample for all purposes. It will thus be seen that the Elwha plant will produce all the power that will be required for the different industries that will come to the Peninsula in the next few years, even tho the growth of this section be extremely rapid.

Contracts have been made with the Citizen's Electric Co. which lights Port Townsend, with the Western Steel Corporation at Irondale, and the City of Port Angeles. The Steel Corporation will use electric power to run all of its machinery. The line will probably be extended to Bremerton also, to furnish power to the naval station.

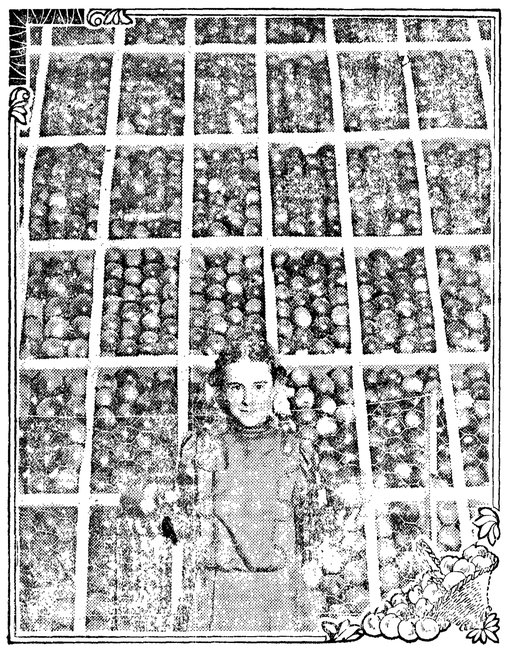
This is the culmination of a number of years of hard work on the part of Mr. Thos. T. Aldwell, who has been gradually acquiring the lands necessary for this development and having the preliminary work done so that it would be in shape to present to a financial house. About three years ago Mr. G. A. Glines, one of the wealthiest men of Winnepeg, Manitoba, became associated with Mr. Aldwell in this water power, having seen the possibilities and advantages in the development of the Olympic Peninsula, and the company is known as the Olympic Power and Development Co.

NOT YET, BUT SOON SAYS GAME WARDEN

Game Warden Garfield Davis says there's lots of the boys who are not posted on the changes made in the open seasons, and as he will strictly enforce the law, it is a matter all should become conversant with. Neither deer nor birds are good eating before the first day of October, and we infer from the talk of Mr. Davis that the possession of such will entitle the hunter to contribute from ten to twenty-five dollars to the county treasury. Deer may be shot until December 1st; bag limit two adults. Grouse five birds a day, thirty per week, up to January 1st. Ducks, geese and shore birds may be shot until February 1st, the bag limit on water fowl being twenty birds a day, 50 per week. The partridge, quail, and all kinds of furrin pheasants are protected by a closed season extending to 1912. In this connection it may be noted that the law reads "partridge, or any variety of quail". All quail are partridges, while the bird commonly known as the partridge here, the big fellow that drums on the logs, is the ruffed grouse. Trout season closes November 1st; no open season on elk or beaver.

BIG VAUDEVILLE AT STAR THEATER MONDAY

The band boys have engaged the Star Theater for next Monday night and will put on a big vaudeville performance — six big acts in addition to the pictures. The Marine Band is giving this entertainment to help pay off an indebtedness and have placed the admission fee at the low price of 25c, or 15c for children, so that everyone can turn out and enjoy the evening as well as giving the band a lift.



Exhibits like the one pictured here will be seen at the Washington State Fair at North Yakima, Sept. 26 to Oct. 1. The Washington apple is world famous. No other state grows such wonderful crops of the king of fruits. The Washington apple is a dream—a dream fulfilled. It is a blessing and a benediction. It is a beauty beyond adequate description. Its skin has the delicate tints of a blushing maiden's cheek. In form it is plump and perfect, like a naiad glowing from her bath. It is health embodied in tangible, concrete shape. It is delight made captive. It is joy ensphered. It is fragrance, purity, wholesomeness combined. The Washington apple is the edition de luxe of the world's favorite fruit, bound in rose and gold and pink and piebald skin of silk and satin. The annual edition of the Washington apple is all six of the world's best sellers bound in one volume, and its contents are fit food for men and gods.

RUMORS OF EARLY RAILROAD CONSTRUCTION

Townsend Leader Says Milwaukee May Take Over the Townsend Southern.

Rumors of early railroad construction for the West Side of the Sound have been revived by the presence of a party of surveyors near Ludlow some days ago. The engineers, as usual, had very little to say to anybody, but ran their lines without divulging any information to the curious ones. According to reports, details were completed in a number of important instances where work had been left unfinished when it was abandoned by the crew which was engaged in the section last winter. Outside the general supposition at Ludlow that the men were engaged in railroad work, no information has been received in this city, says the Townsend Leader.

A gentleman who returned from upsound a few days ago declares that while in Seattle he ran into a conversation which indicated to him that a sale is contemplated of the present line of the Port Townsend Southern railway. The C., M. & St. P. is given the credit of being the transcontinental railroad which is showing curiosity as to the railroad now doing business in this section, and it is far from impossible that this road is contemplating an early movement on this side of the Sound. Residents of the city of Everett declare that information has been received in that city that railroad construction is contemplated on the Olympic peninsula within a short time, as it is declared to be the intention of the Milwaukee to open this territory as soon as its connections into Everett are working properly.

An excursion will be run on Wednesday, the 21st, to Seattle for Clallam County Day at the Western Washington Fair. E. E. Day, who secured the boat, either the Chippewa or Iroquois, also arranged for one way fares from towns west of Port Angeles, giving everybody an opportunity to go and assist in advertising the county on that day. The Fair association has engaged the Marine Band to play on the grounds, and the boys will also play on the steamer going up. The excursion will leave Angeles at 6:30 a. m. and will call at Dungeness and Port Williams; tickets good returning until the following Saturday night.

Port Angeles Marine Band give a grand ball on Labor Day, Monday the 5th, at opera house. Tickets 50c; ladies 25c. Everybody come out and have a good time.

Registration for the primary election to be held on September 13 will close Monday night, September 12. To vote it will be necessary to have registered at some time since January 1st last. If a voter has moved from precinct or ward a transfer will be necessary.

PEOPLE DON'T REALIZE THEIR OPPORTUNITIES

Dr. Nelson, Familiar with the Entire State, Pronounces This the Best Region of All.

The four sessions of the Farmers' Institute, held at the opera house Friday and Saturday by instructors from the State Agricultural College were only fairly well attended, but those who were present were keenly alive to the advantages of special education along agricultural and horticultural lines.

Dr. S. B. Nelson, the State Veterinarian, talked on animal diseases, and Professor McDonald on the care and feeding of live stock. Dr. Nelson said we had an ideal climate here for fruit and berry raising but the people living here didn't begin to appreciate their opportunities. He had never seen a climate anywhere better adapted for the raising of commercial pears. He has made three trips to Port Angeles since last June and would like to come here to live.

Professor Nelander talked on insect pests, giving practical illustrations of the care of trees and showing the effect of various fungi on vegetable growth. It is to be hoped the gentlemen can be induced to hold another institute here sometime during the winter.

Minor Happenings of the Week

The Illinois railroad and warehouse commission has ordered express rates reduced about 50 per cent.

The population of Michigan state is 2,810,173, an increase of 389,191 or 16.1 per cent, as compared with 2,420,982 in 1900.

Mayor Gaynor was taken from St. Mary's hospital in Hoboken Sunday morning to Deep Wells, his country place, at St. James, L. I.

Herman de la Gercrantz, the Swedish minister to the United States, has, it was announced at Stockholm, been recalled. He was appointed in January, 1907.

At the St. Louis convention, just closed, San Francisco has been awarded the Eagles' convention for 1911. Louisville, which made a spirited contest for the honor, was indorsed for the convention to be held in 1912.

Copenhagen is to have municipal street cars. The city, by a majority of eight, decided to take over the electric tramways, beginning August, 1911. The system includes 25.5 miles of double track and ten miles of single track.

It is proving difficult to get railway mail clerks in Arizona, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Washington and Wyoming; hence the civil service commission is, by circular, urging qualified persons to enter the examination to be held at civil service offices on October 5 for this service.

As being chiefly valuable for agricultural purposes, President Taft, since the beginning of his administration, has eliminated from the national forests 3,059,237 acres of land and has restored, as being more favorable for forestry than for agricultural purposes, 1,324,213 acres. This represents a loss to the forests of 1,735,024 acres.

KANSAS FARMERS ARE TURNING NIGHTHAWKS

Topeka, Kas., Aug. 27.—The extension of the rural free delivery system in Kansas and the consequent increase in the amount of reading matter furnished the farmers has increased the sales of kerosene 25 per cent in four years, according to the report of the Kansas oil inspector, J. S. Longshore. During the same period the sales of gasoline have increased nearly 50 per cent.

"Until the rural routes wer established the farmers were spasmodic readers," says Mr. Longshore.

"But the coming of the rural mail man every day has changed this. The newspaper circulation reports show exceptionally large increases in country districts shortly after the rural routes are established. Just as the newspaper circulation increases, so does the sale of kerosene increase in the same communities.

"Formerly the average farmer went to bed with the chickens and now they are becoming regular nighthawks. They work all day in the fields and after the chores are finished and supper eaten they find a lot of enjoyment in spending an hour or two reading the daily papers and the magazines. They do practically all their reading at night, and this increases the consumption of coal oil. I have asked rural route carriers in many towns about the increases in newspapers and magazines on their routes and every one reports large increases, some as high as 300 per cent. In two counties every farmer that gets his mail on a rural route takes at least one daily newspaper."

COMMISSION IS AGAINST ALL GRADE CROSSINGS

Olympia, Aug. 27.—The elimination of the deadly grade crossing wherever possible will be the object of one of the recommendations which will appear in the forthcoming report of the state railroad commission, now in course of preparation. The commission will ask specific legislation authorizing it to cite railroads and county or municipal authorities to do away with any grade crossing which may appear dangerous. The commission now has jurisdiction on crossings that may be put in, and in fact hearings are held on petitions before any new grade crossings are permitted.

County Treasurers to Meet.

Olympia, Aug. 27.—The annual meeting of the county treasurers will be held in North Yakima September 24. The members of the state bureau of accounts and supervision of public offices will attend and discuss proposed new forms of accounting. The attorney general recently gave an opinion that inasmuch as the convention was being held in the futherance of county business the commissioners of the several counties would be within their legal rights in allowing the actual expenses of the treasurers, including mileage, for attending the convention.

Washington State News Items

The past week 50,000 trout were placed in Fish lake, six miles west of Kettle Falls, in the mountains of Ferry county.

Governor Hay, who will head the state delegation to the conservation congress, expects to leave Thursday for St. Paul.

After two months in the repair yards at Port Townsend the revenue cutter Snohomish is back in commission and has proceeded to Neah bay.

That the construction of a lime plant by the International Lime Company of Seattle at Kendall seems assured is taken from the fact that a $75,000 mortgage was filed with the county auditor at Bellingham.

Miss Bertha Fowler of Mountaindale, Ore., who has been teaching in the public schools at Washougal for the past two years, will leave September 1 for South Africa, where she will become a Methodist missionary.

State Fire Warden J. R. Welty has issued orders to all deputy wardens to issue no permits to burn slashings that are near or likely to endanger standing timber, and all fires must be burned under the personal supervision of the fire wardens. The order amounts to practically a prohibition except in a few cases.

The state board of control has appointed Edmund Rogers of Olympia traveling guard and parole officer for the state reformatory at Munroe. Mr. Rogers' duties will consist in taking prisoners to the institution from the several county seats and he will keep track of paroled inmates of the institution. Edmund Rogers was formerly chief of police of Olympia.

NEW MEXICANS ELECT CONVENTION DELEGATES

Albuquerque, N. M., Aug. 29.—The last of the county primaries to nominate delegates for the convention which will frame a constitution for the new state of New Mexico was held Saturday night. These late primaries were chiefly in strongly Republican counties, and since the Republicans are practically certain to have a majority in the constitutional convention, the results have been watched with interest.

Taking the territory as a whole, the "progressive" Republicans appear to have somewhat the best of it, in that a majority of the candidates have announced themselves and are running on platforms favoring the incorporation into the constitution of the initiative and referendum in some form.

It is generally conceded that the Republicans will have a working majority in the convention, and it is probable that their majority will be twenty or more of the 100 delegates. The election occurs September 6. The convention meets October 3 and may remain in session not to exceed sixty days.

There is a reside on all sides to get the constitution before the people and secure its adoption so it may be presented to congress for approval before March 4, 1911. If this can be done the territory may achieve its state government during the summer of 1911. Otherwise admission will be delayed until 1912.

The initiative and referendum will be the first and chief issue in the constitutional convention.

The Democrats will be soldily for it, while there will be enough progressive Republicans to leave the questions in doubt. Other constitutional questions now being vigorously urged include direct election of senators, constitutional limitation of taxation and indebtedness, state regulation of railroads, a flat railroad commission, a state labor commission, prohibition and woman suffrage.

TO SPEND MILLIONS ON ELECTRIC EQUIPMENT.

Walla Walla, Aug. 27.—Within twenty years $30,000,000 will be expended by the Electric Bond & Share Company in the development and extension of the system of power, gas, electric and traction plants, operating under the title of the Pacific Power & Light Company, of which Walla Walla is the center according to President S. Z. Mitchell, of the bond company, who was in the city Thursday. Mr. Mitchell said that the company will construct 200 miles of transmission lines to tie together all the power owned by the company so as to enable it to use the cheapest power and to insure against interruptions.

WESTERN FAIR THIS YEAR TO BE LARGER THAN EVER

Seattle, Aug. 29.—Plans are maturing to make of the second annual Western Washington fair, which opens in this city on September 19, for one week, the greatest event of its kind ever held in the state.

Secretary Guy MacL. Richards, 211 Globe building, says he has already received assurances of entries that will make the cattle exhibit the equal of the great exhibit during the last months of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition last year.

The poultry exhibit also will be large. Donald McInnes, of this city, will have supervision over the horticultural and agricultural departments.

There will be special prizes in all departments and every effort is being put forth to bring to Seattle the best live stock and poultry specimens in the country.

PRESIDENT OUTLINES CAMPAIGN

This Must Be Done, He Says, to Prevent Possibility of Democratic House —Present Tariff Law a Step In Right Direction—Commission Will Improve It.

New York, Aug. 29.—The local headquarters of the Republican congressional committee yesterday gave out the campaign letter from President Taft to William B. McKinley, chairman of the Republican congressional committeee. An abstract of the letter follows:

The president, in the communication, says that differences between Republicans should be forgotten in the congressional election, and that all "Republicans who believe in the party principles as declared in its national platform of 1908 should give the candidates loyal and effective support. If this is done there will be no doubt of a return of a Republican majority."

As to the tariff, the president says:

Await Pending Figures.

"It seems to me that all Republicans —conservative, progressive and radical —may well abide the situation with respect to the tariff until evidence now being accumulated shall justify changes in the rates."

Mr. Taft's plan for revision by congress of individual schedules after investigation by the tariff commission is discussed in this connection.

Reviews Legislation.

The president reviews the more important legislation enacted by congress in fulfillment of its promises, and says:

"It is of the utmost importance to make this a campaign of education as to facts and clear away the clouds of misrepresentation that have obscured the real issues."

The letter follows in part:

"Beverly, Mass., Aug. 20, 1910.—My Dear McKinley: As chairman of the national Republican congressional committee, you have asked me to give the reason which should lead voters in the coming November election to cast their ballots for Republican candidates for congress.

Lines Will Be Drawn.

"I assume that when this letter is given publicity the lines will be drawn, the party candidates will have been selected, and the question for decision will be whether we shall have in the house of representatives a Republican or Democratic majority. The question then will be not what complexion of Republicanism one prefers, but whether it is better for the country to have the Republican party control the legislation for the next two years, and further redeem its promises, or to enable a Democratic majority in the house, either to interpose a veto to Republican measures, or to formulate and pass bills to carry out Democratic principles.

Differences Emphasized.

"Prominence has been given during the preliminary canvasses just ended to the differences between Republicans but in the election such differences should be forgotten. Differences within the party were manifested in the two sessions of the present congress, and yet never in its history has the Republican party passed and become responsible for as much useful and progressive legislation.

"So, while issues will doubtless arise between members of a Republican majority as to the details of further legislation, the party as a whole will show itself in the future, as in the past, practical and patriotic in subordinating individual opinions in order to secure real progress.

Stand by Party.

"Hence it is important that after Republican congressional candidates have been duly and fairly chosen, all Republicans who believe in the principles as declared in its national platform of 1908, should give the candidates loyal and effective support. If this is done there will be no doubt of a return of a Republican majority.

"The only other alternative is a Democratic majority. We may reasonably assume, however, that a Democratic majority in the house would reject the Republican doctrine of protection as announced in 1908.

What Hope Exists?

"What, therefore, has a Republican who believes in protection but objects to some rates or schedules in the present tariff act, to hope for from a Democratic majority, which, if allowed its way, would attack the protective system and halt business by a threatened revision of the whole tariff on revenue basis, or, if prevented by the senate or the executive, would merely do nothing?"

President Taft then discusses the promises made and the legislation enacted by the present congress, discussing in detail the tariff, the number of reductions and increases made and quoting the memorandum he made when he signed the bill.

Continuing, the letter says:

Criticisms Reviewed.

"The tariff bill has been criticised for certain of its rates and schedules. Some of the criticisms are just and some are wide of the mark and most unjust.

"The truth is that under the old protective idea the only purpose was to make the tariff high enough to protect the home industry.

Excess Considered.

"The excess of the tariff over the difference of the cost of production here and abroad was not regarded as objectionable, because it was supposed that competition between those who enjoyed the high protection would keep the price for the consumer down to what was reasonable for the manufacturer.

"The evil of excessive tariff rates, however, showed itself in the temptation of manufacturers to combine and suppress competition and then to maintain the price so as to take advantage of the excess of the tariff rate over the difference between the cost of production abroad and here.

One Good Step.

"The Payne tariff bill is the first bill passed by the Republican party in which the necessity for reducing rates to avoid this evil has been recognized, and it is therefore a decided step in the right direction, and it ought to be accepted as such. On the whole, it was a downward revision, particularly on articles of necessity and on raw materials. The actual figures on the first year's operation of the law demonstrate this. It must also be remembered that the tariff rates in the new law on imported liquors, wines and silks were increased substantially over the Dingley rates, because these were luxuries, and it was intended to increase the revenue.

Not Cause of Expense.

"The charge that the present tariff is responsible for the increase in the prices of necessities is demonstrably false, because the high prices, with very few exceptions, affect articles in the tariff upon which there was no increase in rates or in respect to which there was a substantial reduction.

Tariff Commission.

"Perhaps more important than any one feature of the operative part of the tariff law is that section which enables the executive to appoint a tariff commission or board to secure the needed information for the proper amendment and perfection of the law. When the commission completes its work, either on the entire tariff or on any of the schedules in respect to which issue has arisen, and the work of the commission shows that the present tariff is wrong and should be changed, I expect to bring the matter to the attention of the congress, with a view to its amendment of the tariff in that particular.

Rule Is Needed.

"Of course, this will be impracticable unless congress itself shall adopt the parliamentary rule, as I hope it will, that a bill to amend one schedule of the tariff may not be subject to a motion to amend by adding changes in other schedules.

"It will thus be possible to take up a single schedule with respect to which it is probable that a great majority of each house will be unprejudiced to admit the evidence, and to reach a fair conclusion, and this method will tend to avoid disturbing business conditions.

Should Abide Result.

"For these reasons it seems to me that all Republicans—conservative, progressive and radical—may well abide the situation with respect to the tariff until evidence now being accumulated shall justify changes in the rates; and that it is much better for them to vote for Republicans than to help create a Democratic majority, which would be utterly at war with the protective principle, and therefore would have no use for the findings of the tariff commission, as we may certainly infer from the solid Democratic vote in the present congress against the necessary appropriation for the commission's work."

OLD STYLE U. S. MONEY ORDER TO BE REPLACED

A long green slip of paper, with the order proper, coupon and stub attached, will soon take the place of the old money order blanks which have heretofore been issued by the postoffice department. The change will take place about October 1, when the supply of old blanks is used up.

The new blanks were designed to save the expense of sending advice slips to the postmaster at the office where the order is to be paid. They also save the labor needed to make out the duplicates used in the old order. The change made is so complete that it will be hard to recognize the new blanks as a relative of the old form.

Heavy Frost on East Side.

Dayton, Aug. 27.—Heavy frost visited the Touchet valley country Thursday night, seriously damaging late vegetables and fruit. Old settlers say this is the first time in twenty years frost has been recorded here in August. In some localities the freeze was sufficient to wilt tomato plants, melon vines, cabbages and beans to the ground.

Recall Japanese Consul.

Manila, Aug. 27,—Because of "pernicious activity," Japanese Consul Iwaya has been recalled by the Tokyo government.

It is represented that this action was taken on request of Secretary of War Jacob M. Dickinson.

Millions for Big Show.

Baton Rouge, La., Aug. 27.—The state senate has passed the bill calling for the appropriation of $6,500,000 for the Panama exposition to be held in New Orleans in 1915.

Washington State Fair

Now Fixed and Profitable Exposition of State's Industrial Progress

The modern state fair has become a fixed and profitable exposition of the industrial progress of its state. It is not profitable from the standpoint of a showman, but in its educational features and for the impetus it gives to progressive people to further develop latent resources of their locality. A dozen fairs in the larger states have become so great as to maintain a strong hold on the pride of the people. In Minnesota, as an instance, over 90,000 farmers pass through the gates annually. It is, in fact, a farmers' fair, built by farmers and breeders, supported by them and boosted by the farmer and his allied interests.

Washington has over a million people and resources equalled by but few states, yet it is only within the past year or two that the importance of a big state fair—a truly representative exhibit of the state's products, resources and possibilities—has gained a place in the attention of the lawmakers. There are few state institutions so important, and none more closely allied with all the industrial life of Washington.

Fair Has Been Reorganized.

During the past year there has been an entire reorganization of the Washington State Fair. Enthusiastic men have been placed on the governing board and an experienced man has been engaged to manage it. The result is that there is an awakened interest in the institution and an enthusiasm not before shown.

The state's appropriation has been devoted largely to the improvement of the plant, owned by the state. Six new and modern live stock barns have been erected, which will give comfortable quarters for 1,000 head of show stock. Lack of proper quarters had prevented a creditable showing of Washington's splendid live stock products. This year the state fair at North Yakima will open on September 26th, with facilities equal in many respects to those of the older states.

Fruit Has Large Place.

An attempt has been made to recognize the industrial life of the state in the order of importance. To house the showing of Washington fruit—now famous all over the world—a building 200x140 was erected several years ago, and it is now found to be hardly equal to the demands. It has been found necessary to take care of the agricultural displays in another building. One can imagine a space of 30,000 square feet covered with the best fruit products of Washington, and the picture must cause some pride in the state and its preeminent resource.

Poultry Exhibit Prominent.

Probably no more profitable field than poultry is offered to average rural and urban citizens, and this industry has assumed such proportions in Washington that the state fair management felt justified in erecting the largest poultry house in the Northwest, modern in every way, thoroughly ventilated and covering 6,000 square feet of floor space, and housing 1,500 birds. Six hundred permanent coops have been installed in addition to battery room for 100 more. A poultry judge of national reputation will score the Washington birds at the State Fair this year.

The women of Washington will have a building of their own, and it is one of the most prominent on the grounds. It will be dedicated on Wednesday, September 28th, which is Woman's Day.

Railroads Reduce Rates.

The railroads are cooperating with the Washington State Fair to the extent of offering reduced rates during the week of September 25-October 1, and have also made a rate upon exhibits equivalent to one-half the regular tariff. There seem to be many elements, heretofore lacking, now at work for the boosting of the state fair as a permanent and strong state institution and an annual creditable exposition of Washington's growth and resources.

GOOD RACES PROMISED EVEN WITHOUT BETTING

Racing without betting would not be attempted in many states, where laws have been passed which practically wiped out recognized wagers on speed contests, but the entries at the Washington State Fair to be held at North Yakima, September 26-October 1, indicate that the "sport of kings" still lives without the sport of touts in connection. In the four stakes of $1,000 each for harness horses, seventy-seven entries were received, and the list comprises some of the very best blood of nine states and Canada. The theory that the breeding of light harness horses will not stop with anti-betting legislation seems to find proof in the unusual interest in the state fair harness events, and offers food for reflection. The light harness horse will continue to be produced as will also the red-blooded men who find recreation and joy in driving a good roadster.

The runners have been recognized in the Washington Derby, the thoroughbred classic of this year's racing events in the Northwest. Tuesday, September 27, will be Washington Derby day at the State Fair at North Yakima, and the breeders of thoroughbreds of seven states will contest for the $1,000 and the trophy.

The racing programme will be complete, even to races for the ponies of the Indian, which by the way are now, in very many cases a long way past the pony stage in breeding and performance.

DAIRY INDUSTRY TO BE FULLY RECOGNIZED AT FAIR

In the states of the Union Washington is now eighth in the importance of its dairy industry. All that territory west of the Cascade mountains is being recognized as one of the great dairy regions of America, and with this recognition has come the importation of some of the world's best dairy cattle. The recent purchase of Peter Pan, a famous Holstein bull of Europe, by J. W. Clise, of Seattle, is merely an illustration of the tendency to take advantage of the state's natural dairy opportunities by placing therein the highest type of milk producing cows.

Recognizing this condition the Washington State Fair, to be held at North Yakima, September 26-October 1, has enlarged the premiums in the dairy classes and provided two great barns for dairy cattle. The activity in Washington dairy circles has stirred the breeders of Oregon to bring in some of their best herds for competition and to match the cattle of the two states. So important has this feature of the state fair become that A. L. Haecker, of Lincoln, Neb., a judge of national repute, has been invited to place the ribbons. The contest this year between the dairy breeds will be a battle royal, and will incidentally bring to public view the possibilities of Washington as a dairy state.

In connection with the dairy show is the butter and cheese scoring contest and the students' stock judging contest, both features for the education of the young men who are seeking practical knowledge along dairy and live stock lines.

ORDERS FOR SALMON FAR EXCEED SUPPLY.

Seattle, Aug. 27.—The pack of the Puget Sound and Alaskan salmon canneries this year has been oversold 50 per cent, and orders still pour in from all parts of the world—a condition that has been brought about by a heavy increase in the demand for the product, combined with a smaller pack as compared with last year. The demand at present is 25 per cent greater than during the same period a year ago.

"This year's pack is short of that of last year and the demand is in excess of the supply. But if there had been a full pack in Alaska, the market would have absorbed it just the same and called for more," said T. J. Gorman, of Gorman & Co.

"Last year," he continued, "the consumption of salmon was materially greater than ever before and the present rush of orders is only a continuation of the growing demand all over the world for the canned product.

"The export demand for the cheaper goods is increasing rapidly every year. The United Kingdom never bought cheap salmon until last year when it took a considerable quanity with the result that this year there is a big demand in Great Britain for these grades.

"Since the removal last year of the duty on exports from the states to the Philippines, the consumption of cheap salmon in our island possessions practically has doubled. It now reaches 130,000 cases a year. The duty, of course, still remains on the British Columbia product, which in consequence is shut out of the Philippines.

"We are doing a heavy business with the west coast of South America. Our trade with that region is progressing by leaps and bounds, all the Southern republics taking more and more of our cheaper grades. Exports to all parts of the world continue to show big gains.

BAN ON DANCING, ETC., REMOVED BY METHODISTS.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 27.—The specific restrictions in the Methodist church discipline dealing with the moral conduct of its members (including dancing, theatregoing, etc.) have been swept away and in their place has been substituted a general admonition as to good conduct such as is consistent with a Christian life.

The change was effected by the general conference at its session Thursday afternoon. So has ended what will go down in Methodist church history as the famous foot-note controversy.

The foot note around the abrogation, substitution or retention of which a bitter discussion raged, came before the conference through a report from a commission on rules. This commission was composed of 35 men, among them the most prominent figures in Methodism in the country.

Their report suggested a substitution for the foot note, but it was not of a character to meet with favor and was defeated.

Tobacco Tax Profitable.

Washington, Aug. 27.—The increased government tax on tobacco and cigarettes will yield an extra eight million dollars in revenue to the United States treasury, according to a semi-official announcement made here.

FOREST FIRES COULD BE PREVENTED

PINCHOT BLAMES HEYBURN, CLARK AND OTHER WESTERN SENATORS.

They Opposed Appropriations for Proper Equipment of Forest Rangers for Just Such Emergencies—Lesson Is Clear and Former Forester Hopes It Will Be Heeded.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—Gifford Pinchot, of the National Conservation association and former head of the government forest service, in a statement holds that the loss of property and life in the recent and present forest fires was unnecessary. The disastrous results, he says are traceable to unpreparedness to deal with the situation. He scores members of congress who have opposed appropriations for the proper equipment of forest rangers, and in that connection names Senator Heyburn of Idaho, whose home town, Wallace, suffered serious loss; Senator Carter of Montana and Representative Mondell of Wyoming. The statement follows:

"I am proud of the splendid work the men of the forest service have been doing against the western forest fires. Many of them have given up their lives to protect the homes of settlers and the forest on which the prosperity of the western people depends. To my mind their conduct is beyond all praise

Like City Fire Fighting.

"A fire in the forest is the same kind of a thing as a fire in the city There is only one way to fight either. The fire department of every city is organized with the prime idea of getting to the fire when it is young. So with forest fires. The time to conquer them is before they grow strong. If a forest is equipped with roads, trains, telephone lines and a sufficent number of men for patrol there is more likelihood that great fires will be able to get started than there is that great conflagrations like the Chicago fire will get started in a city with a modern fire department. Under rare circumstances they may, but the chances are against it."

Fixing the Blame.

"The forest service has done wonders with its handful of men. It has put out every year many thousands of small fires, any one of which under favorable conditions might have developed into a conflagration which 10,000 men could not stop. This year, because of the great drought, there were many fires and the rangers were too few.

"The lesson from these fires is perfectly clear. When a city suffers from a great fire it does not retrench in its fire department, but strengthens it. That is what the nation must do in the national forest.

"The men in congress like Heyburn, Carter and Mondell, who have made light of the efforts of the forest service to prepare itself to prevent just such a calamity as this, have in effect been fighting on the side of the fires against the general welfare. If even a small fraction of the loss from the present fires had been expended in additional patrol and preventive equipment, some or perhaps nearly all of the loss could have been avoided.

"I believe our people will take this lesson to heart and insist that the settlers and their wives and children, the lumbermen and the millers and the $2,000,000,000 worth of property in the national forests shall be equally protected."

Spokane, Aug. 29.—Reports of rain at Coeur d'Alene City and in the Clearwater region, in Idaho, coupled with the increase in the force of fire fighters and cessation of wind, make the situation in that region of blazing timber more hopeful than at any time for a week. Only one new fire has appeared, a small one, comparatively speaking, in the St. Joe country.

Idaho militia ordered to the fire zone probably will all be withdrawn soon.

Seattle, Aug. 29.—J. B. Nelson, the Seattle agent of the Associated Press, who has been in Spokane, directing the work of the correspondents in the territory visited by the forest fires, returned to this city last night.

"When I left Spokane Saturday night it was estimated that 125 men of the forest service had lost their lives in the forest fires," said Mr. Nelson. "The district forester's office at Missoula had made up a list of sixty-six known victims, most of them killed along the creeks emptying into the St. Joe river, but had not included in the list the eighteen dead men of Ranger Lee Hollingshead's party or the eight men suffocated in the Bullion mine tunnel, Montana, or the thirteen killed on the Big fork of the Coeur d'Alene. The dead men were hardy outdoor laborers without homes or families.

More Forest Trails.

"When the forest officials say the fire could have been averted by trails through the forest, they mean not wagon roads or even pack trails, but just marks on the trees to guide men through the now pathless woods. It

PARADE OF PROTEST IN NEW YORK

WHEN JUSTICE GOFF DECLARED "CLOSED SHOP" CONSPIRACY IN RESTRAINT OF TRADE.

Bands of New York Cloakmakers Hit by the Ruling, March Through the Streets—Sweeping Decision Puts Labor Unions in Same Class With Employers Who Combine to Control Trade of Community.

New York, Aug. 29.—Parades of protest broke out all over the East Side Saturday morning on receipt of the news that Justice Goff had ruled in the state supreme court that a strike which demands the "closed shop" is a conspiracy in restraint of trade. Bands of the 60,000 cloakmakers now on strike marched through the streets, one of them to the city hall, carrying banners and American flags and shouting "closed shops" at every step. There was no violence.

Justice Goff's decision granted an injunction to a member of the Manufacturers' Protective Association in restrait of acts of violence, threats, picketing and patrolling by strikers.

"The primary purpose of this strike," reads his decision, "is not to better the condition of the workmen, but is to deprive other men of the opportunity of their right to work."

He supports his ruling with a recent decision of the state court of appeals against the Thompson-Starrett company, a large building corporation, which he cites as follows:

"The court of appeals has held that it is against the policy of the state for employers who control practically the whole trade in a community to combine for the purpose of compelling workmen to join a particular union as condition of employment.

"If the rule thus laid down be the law, and it must be accepted as such, being the latest expression of the court of appeals, it must be applicable to workmen as well as to employers. It would be repugnant to reason to hold that it applies to one and not to the other."

Gompers Is Agitated.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, was greatly stirred by the decision of Justice Goff which, in effect, declared that efforts to enforce the "closed shop" were in violation of the law and in restraint of trade.

Said Mr. Gompers:

"Justice Goff quotes an unjust decision in support of his own and that is supposed to be good law. The unions of labor will live, despite injunctions and decision that invade constitutionally guarded rights and human liberty."

ROOSEVELT MERELY SEEKS ADVERTISING, SAYS BARNES.

New York, Aug. 27.—That Theodore Roosevelt is not helping the republican party in New York but is merely getting personal advertisement which he is seeking is the answer of William J. Barnes, jr., to the speeches of the Colonel, announcing his intention to fight the "old guard" in the Saratoga convention.

"I am against making the pet theories of a demagogue politician the issues in this fight," said Barnes. "Roosevelt says he opposes crooks. So does every other honest man.

"I regret the controversy in New York as it means that it will be impossible to conciliate the factions after the convention is over. Roosevelt is not helping the party by the course he is taking, but he is getting the personal advertisement he so much desires."

Roosevelt Answers Woodruff in Speech

Carroll, Ia., Aug, 27.—Col. Roosevelt, when his attention was called to the statement of Timothy L. Woodruff of New York that the republican fight in the state hinged on the direct primary issue, made this reply:

"The progressives favor direct nomination substantially on the Hughes plan, but this is not the main issue.

"The principal issue is that we stand against bossism, big or little, and in favor of popular rule, not only at elections, but in the party organization.

"Above all, our war is ruthless against every species of corruption, against an alliance between corporate to which it has been found the boss business and corporate politics—as to which it has been found that the boss system offers peculiarly efficient and objectionable means of communication—against domination of the party and the public by special interests, whether these are political, business or a compound of both."

The statement followed an hour's conference with Senator Cummins, who boarded the train at Ames.

National Direct Primary Now.

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 27.—United States Senator Albert B. Cummins of Iowa will become the promulgator of a bill providing for the nomination of the nation's president and vice president by direct primary when the next congress convenes. He gave out this statement here. Eventually the senator from Iowa hopes to be successful with the national direct primary bill.

APPLE YIELD TO BE IMMENSE

YIELD OF NORTHWEST QUARTET OF STATES NEARLY SEVEN MILLION BOXES.

Estimates Based on Reports by Growers and Handlers—Declared, However, There Will Be No Cheap Apples Because of Shortage in Middle Section of Country—New Markets Being Established.

Spokane, Aug. 29.—Statistics compiled from reports by growers and handlers indicate that the production of commercial apples in Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana will be between 6,500,000 and 6,700,000 boxes this season, but, while the yield promises to be the largest in the history of the four states, orchardists and buyers declare there will be no cheap apples in the Northwest the coming fall and winter. The cause assigned for this is that the crop in the Middle Western states is smaller than ever before as a result of the late frosts last spring.

The yield in Washington is estimated at from 3,500,000 to 3,600,000 boxes, as against 2,414,261 boxes in 1909, when the average wholesale price was $1.40 a box. Oregon is second with more than 2,000,000 boxes, as compared with 750,000 boxes in 1909, and 1,800,000 boxes in 1908. Idaho will have about 650,000 boxes, an increase of more than 100 per cent over last year and as against 450,000 boxes in 1908, while Montana should harvest 250,000 boxes, a gain over 1909, when 180,000 boxes were marketed. Montana's best previous crop was 225,000 boxes in 1908.

Buyers for New York, Boston, Chicago and European houses have been active in various parts of the four states the last two months, and it is probable that 50 per cent of the crop has been sold, but many apples will be held in anticipation of increased prices around holiday time. No prices have been made public. The growers are keeping in touch with the markets by reports from horticultural associations, growers' unions and commercial organizations, and while no efforts are being put forth to form combinations or pools, it is generally conceded that little or no fruit will be sent to commission houses until the price to be paid is agreed upon by seller and buyer.

Several growers in north central Washington will send large consignments of select apples to England and Australia this season, while others will try the markets in the Orient, Hawaii and South America. One grower near Wenatchee has arranged to accompany a shipment of 35,000 boxes of apples to London. Orchardists in Oregon and Idaho will also ship to London, Glasgow, Berlin and Paris. Montana will send most of its commercial apples to Middle Western states, also consigning some to adjoining districts. Orchardists in Northern Washington expect to send some of their products into Canada.

A new system of packing apples for export trade has been adopted in Idaho. Each apple is carefully wrapped and placed in a pasteboard compartment with double sides. The pasteboard layers somewhat resemble the tiers used in packing eggs, except that with the apples there is absolutely no chance of a bruise. The compartments vary in size to accommodate the apples. It is hoped by this system to get Idaho apples to Europe without a bruise. Many packers believe that this medium of preserving their fruit will give them a ready market. It is likely that the plan will be followed by growers in other Northwestern states, though veterans in the industry say there is absolutely no danger of bruising if the boxes are filled with uniform fruit in square and diagonal packs. The last named is preferred by many for shipping long distances, as there are four points of contact, top and bottom, whereas the square pack places apples one on top of the other.

One of the big factors in the apple industry in the Pacific country hereafter will be the Northwest Fruit Exchange, organized by growers in Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana, for the purpose of centralizing the handling and marketing of fruit grown in the chief districts through one channel. It is purposed to eliminate costly competition, avoid over-supplying the larger markets and bring about a world-wide distribution of the product handled. Orders will be taken at prices fixed by the exchange.

Offices are to be established in practically every market center in the United States and Canada and provide a dependable outlet for the products, which are rapidly increasing in the Northwest. The organization also has completed preliminary plans for the establishment of trade connections in all European markets and will soon take up the exploitation of the markets of the Orient, including Hawaii, Russia, China, Japan, the Philippine Islands and Australia. Experienced men have charge of the various departments. R. H. Parsons of Medford, Ore., is president.

ROOSEVELT SHARPLY CRITICIZES FEDERAL SUPREME COURT

Denver, Colo., Aug. 30.—A salute of 21 guns, the special salute of a president of the United States, boomed forth as Col. Theodore Roosevelt arrived in Denver yesterday.

Roosevelt's train arrived a few minutes before 11 o'clock. As early as 8 o'clock the crowds had begun to assemble, and by 10 a. m. they had overflowed from the big union station and streamed up the street, forming a solid mass of humanity many blocks long.

As Roosevelt left his train and was escorted through the streets he was kept busy bowing his acknowledgments to shouts of "Teddy."

He was met at the station by Gov. Shafroth, Mayor Speer and committees representing the Colorado Livestock Association and the Spanish War Veterans.

Roosevelt was escorted at once to a waiting automobile and taken through the principal streets to a reviewing stand, where he reviewed the parade of the Spanish War Veterans, the Indian Fighters' Association and a number of civic bodies. At noon Roosevelt became the guest of the Denver Press Club, and was later escorted to Overland Park, where he was the guest of honor at a "chuck wagon" dinner.

At the Auditorium he was the guest of honor and principal speaker at the afternoon session of the convention of the Colorado Livestock Association.

For Constructive Conservation.

Col. Roosevelt said: "This country has shown definite signs of waking up to the absolute necessity of handling its natural resources with foresight and common sense. The conservation question has three sides. In the first place, the needless waste of our natural resources must be stopped.

"In the second place, the natural resources must be developed promptly, completely and in orderly fashion. It is not conservation to leave the natural resources undeveloped. Development is an indispensable part of the conservation plan. The forests, the mines, the water powers and the land itself must all be put to use. Those who assert that conservation proposes to tie them up, depriving this generation of their benefits in order to hand them on untouched to the next, miss the whole point of the conservation idea.

"In the third place, so far as possible, these resources must be kept for the whole people and not handed over for exploitation to single individuals. Big business, for instance, is no longer an affair of any one state.

"Take the question of the control of the water power sites. The enormous importance of water power sites to the future industrial development of this country has only been realized within a very few years.

"Unfortunately, the realization has come too late as regards many of the power sites, but many yet remain with which our hands are free to deal. We should make it our duty to see that hereafter the power sites are kept under control of the general government for the use of the people as a whole.

"The great corporations which are managed and largely owned in the older states are those which are most in evidence in developing and using the mines and water powers and forests of the new territories and the new states, from Alaska to Arizona.

"Remember also that many of the men who protest loudly against effective national action will be the first to turn round and protest against state action, if such action in its turn became effective, and would then unhesitatingly invoke the law to show that the state had no constitutional power to act."

Concluding he said:

"From the standpoint of conservation, the East has wasted much of its own superb endowments, and as an American, as a lover of the West, I hope that the West will profit by the East's bitter lesson and will not repeat the mistakes of the East."

Besides Col. Roosevelt, Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester, and James R. Garfield, former secretary of the interior, addressed the cattlemen.

Federal Supreme Court Criticised.

Acts of the federal supreme court were sharply criticised by Theodore Roosevelt in an address before the Colorado legislature. The ex-president cited two decisions by the supreme court, which, he declared, were contrary to the principles of democracy, and he said emphatically that if those decisions indicated a permanent attitude of the court, the entire American system of popular government would be upset. The principal case referred to was the so-called sugar trust case.

"I am anxious that the nation and the state shall each exercise its legitimate powers to the fullest degree. Where necessary they should work together, but above all they should not leave a neutral ground in which neither state nor nation can exercise authority and which would become a place of refuge for men who wish to act criminally, and especially for the very rich men who wish to act against the interests of the community as a whole.

Refers to Sugar Case.

"Let me illustrate what I mean by a reference to two concrete cases. The first is the Knight sugar trust case. In that, the supreme court of the United States, under cover of what a man whose interest is chiefly in sane constructive stewardship can only call a highly technical legal subtlety, handed down a decision which rendered it exceedingly difficult for the nation effectively to control the use of masses of corporate capital in interstate business, as the nation obviously was the sole power that could exercise this control (for it was quite beyond the power of any one state). This was really a decision rendering it exceedingly difficult for the people to devise any method of controlling and regulating the business use of great capital in interstate commerce.

"It was a decision nominally against national rights, but really against popular rights.

"The second case is the so-called New York bakeshop case."

NO COMPROMISE ON INTERURBAN RATES

Seattle, Aug. 29.—A largely attended meeting was held in the hall at Foster Saturday night to consider the compromise offer of the Puget Sound Electric Railway Company in the interurban rate case. The result was a decision to accept no compromise at all, but to allow the appeal from the state railway commission's order to go to court.

Between 200 and 300 residents of the Duwamish valley were at the meeting. Rev. J. L. Smith was chairman and D. A. Morrison secretary. Chairman Harry Fairchild and Commissioner Jesse S. Jones of the state railway commission were in attendance.

Upon their return from the Foster meeting the railway commissioners gave out the following statement:

"Suggestions were made to the railway commission looking to an adjustment of the rate case against the Puget Sound Electric Railway Company. The proposition submitted by the company was such that the commission felt it to be its duty to submit it to the patrons of the road and particularly those who live in the Duwamish valley. This was done at a meeting held in Foster. It was a representative meeting of between 200 and 300 residents of all the towns in the valley affected by the rate.

"The expediency of opening the case for the purpose of compromise was the only matter presented or discussed. The meeting went on record as being opposed to any compromise whatever or making any concessions to the order entered by the commission.

"This will end any further negotiations looking to a compromise adjustment. The attorney general will push the appeal in the courts to a speedy termination."

Wu to Go to The Hague.

Washington, Aug. 27.—Wu Ting Fang, former Chinese minister at Washington, is to head the Chinese delegation to The Hague permanent court of arbitration. American Minister Calhoun has cabled the state department that the delegates will be Wu Ting Fang, Hu Weito, Liu Shih Hsun and Mr. von Den Hauvle.

SNOW AND RAIN HELP FOREST FIRE SITUATION

Missoula, Mont., Aug. 30.—While Monday night's rain was not so generally distributed throughout the fire zone in Western Montana and Northern Idaho as had been hoped, it has helped the fire fighters in districts immediately surrounding Missoula, having completely extinguished several fires in the Missoula and Bitter Root forests.

Rain and Snow.

District Forester Greeley said yesterday that his reports of the rain give no precipitation at Wallace or along the Coeur d'Alene branch, none at Libby or Kalispell, but a heavy fall along the continental divide east of the Flathead, and snow in the northern portion of the Lewis and Clark reserve. It rained hard at Lolo Springs and snowed on the mountains near that place, and it is believed that the storm, coming in from the southwest, has covered a goodly portion of the interior of the Clearwater country, where it was badly needed. Mr. Greeley reports the situation vastly improved everywhere.

List of Dead Given.

After receiving a report from Associate Forester Silcox, at Wallace, the service announces the total dead and missing of forestry men as seventy-three. These are distributed as follows:

Wallace district, 24; St. Joe (Avery) district, 43; Cabinet forest, 4; Pend d'Oreille forest, 2.

Teacher Conquers Pest.

Wenatchee, Aug. 30.—The red spider, a fruit pest, which has been a source of great annoyance in fruit sections in the Northwest for the last few years, has been conquered in the Wenatchee valley by R. E. Trumble, teacher of horticulture in the Wenatchee high school. He has found a spray which entirely eliminates the pests.

Denver in 200,000 Class.

Washington, Aug. 27.—The population of Denver is 213,381, according to a bulletin given out by the census bureau. This is an increase of 59.4 per cent.

WISE LITTLE WILLIE

HAD ONLY ONE REQUEST, BUT THAT WAS IMPORTANT.

Well Aware of the Privileges of Prisoners About to Be Sentenced, Culprit Established Good Hard Sense.

"It is my duty to teach you a severe lesson," said Horatio Poppenham, when Willie Poppenham got home, after playing hookey all afternoon. "Now, I want you thoroughly to understand the situation. Don't imagine that I am punishing you because it will give any satisfaction to me personally. And I want you to realize thoroughly that I am not doing this in anger. I do it simply as a duty. It is very often necessary for judges in the courts to sentence men to undergo punishment, and the sheriffs and jailers and wardens have to inflict this punishment.

"Do you suppose the judge gets any personal satisfaction out of it when he sentences a man to be hang or to undergo imprisonment? Not at all. Very often the judge's heart is almost broken because it is his duty to impose such sentences. And so it is with the men who have to inflict the punishment. They do not administer it in anger. I suppose they would in most cases prefer to let the offender go free, if they could, just as I would much prefer to let you off now, if I had only my own feelings to consult.

"But there are duties which officers of the law owe to society, and so they are compelled, when a man does wrong, to see that he is properly punished. If people could do wrong without being compelled to suffer for it many of them would be doing wrong all the time, thus not only injuring others, but also injuring themselves. It is the same in your case. If I permitted you to go unpunished I should be doing you a wrong, and I should also be wronging the rest of the family. If you were allowed to do such things as you have done, and suffer no chastisement, you would soon go from bad to worse, breaking your mother's heart, robbing me of happiness and spoiling your own chances for the future.

"You see, the family represents society, on a small scale, and the family, like society, must have its sacred laws. When these laws are broken—the laws of the family—it is just as important that the one who breaks them shall be punished as it is important that the criminal who breaks the laws which society has made for itself shall be punished. In a small way you represent the prisoner who has been found guilty by the jury, while I, occupying the position of judge, am compelled to pronounce sentence upon you, and—"

"Say, father, in court the prisoner is always asked if he has anything to say before the judge sentences him, isn't he?"

"Yes. And I am going to extend that privilege to you. What have you to say?"

"Please let mother be the sheriff."

Miraculous Surgery.

The successful "sewing up" of human hearts is getting to be something of a commonplace nowadays. A Philadelphia doctor took five stitches in a wounded heart (cut open by a dagger) and the man is said to be on the road to recovery. It was the second heart operation of this surgeon within a month or two. His previous patient got well.

There are now on record somewhere near a hundred cases of surgical operations upon the human heart, and the death rate, considering the extreme gravity of the operation, is surprisingly low. When it is remembered that the heart is practically in constant motion, that its complete stoppage means immediate death, and that the delicate surgical manipulations necessary to repairing its wounds have to be performed upon a throbbing and more or less inaccessible piece of tissue, the manual skill and coolness demanded of the heart surgeon will be better appreciated.

Oregon Man's Insect Catcher.

In the country all sorts of homely devices are used to catch the bugs and kill them, and an Oregon man, who probably had his apple orchard overrun by some destructive species, patented a trap for the pests. A barrel has pieces cut out of the upper portion and is half filled with rotten or bruised apples or some other odoriferous fruit. On top of the barrel is placed a pan partially filled with water, oil or some poisonous liquid. From the apex of a tripod that keeps the basin from falling off the barrel hangs a lantern. In the daytime the insects will be attracted by the odor of the fruit, and in flying up to feast many of them are likely to fly into the water. At night the lantern is lighted and bugs will come from afar to flutter against it and meet their death in the liquid below.—Chicago Tribune.

Not Quite a Failure.

"When he was a boy his mother thought he would be a president some day."

"He'll never get there."

"I'm afraid not. Still, he gets a lot of satisfaction out of being a big man in his lodge."

He Explains.

"Will you love me always?" murmured the girl.

"Certainly, if you wish it," responded the young man. "But I'll only be down here two weeks."

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN CLALLAM COUNTY.

OFFICIAL PAPER

Published Every Friday at Port Angeles by The Webster Publishing Co.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 2, 1910

There is as much difference between the present Local Option law and the County Unit law as there is between a toy hatchet and a heavy axe. If the object is to knock out saloons by ballots and enforce the law, then the County Unit amendment will furnish the means. If the object is simple play on the job, the present law makes a very good toy.

Don't let the candidates fool you by telling you he is for local option. Three-fourths of the members of the legislature declared that they were in favor of a local option law — in fact, after the senate had defeated the County Unit bill, after the bill had been passed by the house by 56 to 38, the present law, which makes the municipality and the rural parts of the county separate units, was passed by the house by more than ninety out of ninety-five voters on the bill.

The important thing now is to know whether the candidate is pledged direct and specifically for the county as a voting unit, as distinguished from a general promise to vote for local option. Every voter should know how his candidate stands, and if he wishes to make his vote count for the most, cast it for the man who is right on the County Unit question and who stands the best chance to win.

A vote for a candidate who is in favor of county local option, yet who cannot possibly obtain enough votes to secure the nomination, is a vote against county local option. The contest is likely to be so close that a half dozen wasted votes will nominate the man opposed to the county unit.

The Direct Legislation League of the State of Washington is sending out a letter asking the voters to work against those candidates who have not signed the pledge to submit direct legislation to a vote of the people. The letter, which follows, is signed by C. B. Kegley, Master of Washington State Grange; Chas. R. Case, President State Federation of Labor; Walter M. Thornton of the Direct Legislation League, and Christopher W. Horr, President Direct Primary League.

Citizens of Washington:

Defeat any candidate who in last legislature repudiated the republican platform and took away from the direct primary law nomination of Supreme Court judges and placed same in conventions, then had convention packed by delegates mostly selected by a political oligarchy.

How humiliating it must be to any honorable judge of the Supreme Court to owe his nomination to a political combine. THEY HAVE ROBBED YOU OF YOUR RIGHT to nominate Supreme Court judges. Will you submit to such an outrage?

Demand of all legislative candidates that nomination of the Supreme Court judges be restored to the people and that they pledge themselves to VOTE for SUBMISSION to a VOTE of the PEOPLE a constitutional amendment for Direct Legislation, Initiative, Referendum, and Recall. If legislative candidates will not sign pledge, it is because they will go to the legislature for special interests. We must have direct legislation to keep direct primary law and protect our political rights.

The enemies of direct primaries or rule by the people are organizing to repeal the whole of the direct primary law and restore the boodle campaign in legislature for United States Senators.

Vote and work against any candidate for legislature who has not signed pledge to submit direct legislation and recall amendments to vote of the people.

A. A. Smith and D. S. Troy have signed both pledges; Wm. Bishop is pledged to party choice for U. S. senator.

The conservationists, of whom Pinchot is the prophet, claim that they are conserving for the sake of posterity. But the people of today are the posterity of yesterday; and how would our grandparents and great-grandparents view the action of the government in conserving the rights of their posterity by depriving them of those rights. Pinchotism means to the State of Washington: To tie up a third of the state; to bar it from settlement and from taxation, which would make a hardship difficult to estimate. To conserve the land for our children and our children's children is absurd. What have our grandparent's children done that they should be barred from the rights of Western citizenship?

Reforestization is the secret of the West's future, not conservation according to the Pinchot theory. Let the present forests yield their harvest to the present generation, and allow the future generations to reap the timber harvests ecured by strict reforestry of logged-off lands.—Centralia News-Examiner.

As the day of the primary election draws nigh there is one question that the people who wish for popular rule as against corporation or "interests" rule should ponder over carefully to the end that they concentrate and not scatter their forces. The "interests" are wiley old campaigners; they concentrate when it is to their interest to do so, and the people will have to learn this lesson, and learn it well, if there is to be such a thing as the people ruling. We have got to get it instilled deeply into our thoughts that "united we stand and divided we fall" is just as applicable to reform movements as it is to any other purpose. We have to sink petty differences and even party ties sometimes, if the people are to rule. And so we say, get together. Consider well the line-up, and unite.

Editor Satterlee of the Megaphone in publishing a letter from A. A. Smith, the Clallam county candidate for Joint Senator, setting forth his belief that "Brother Bishop forfeited all claim he may formerly have had on the Republicans of this district by the record he made in the matter four years ago," says: "The Megaphone will surely not throw anything in the way of the scrap between Mr. Smith and Mr. Bishop for the honor to be beaten by D. S. Troy. Mr. Smith's position that the senatorship should rotate, so far as the dominant party is concerned, is well taken, and the best way to bring the party to its senses is to get in and give Mr. Troy an overwhelming majority at the November election."

Webster, who are spending a month at the Boulder Hot Springs, to which they went this year for a change of scenery from the Solduck, write that the trail out from the Upper Elwha bridge is, "though a good one, over a very rough country, much more so than the one to the Solduck Springs. Here the trail is ever up, up, up, winding around the mountain side. The elevation here must be considerably more than at the Solduck Springs. We saw a bear and many pheasants on the way out. There are eighteen white people and six or seven Indians. The Solduck isn't in it with this place as a romantic or beauty spot. The early spring flowers are in bloom here, and everything is as green as early in the spring as Angeles."

Engineer Theo. Rixon was in town Saturday on his way home to Mora from Olympia, having just completed running the southern boundary line of the forest reserve from Quinault to Hood Canal. He lost 21 pounds in 22 days, the result of hard climbing over the rocks; 3,500 feet was the highest elevation he had to make. Speaking of forest fires, and the rapidity with which they traveled in the pine timber of Idaho, Mr. Rixon said: "The hottest fire I ever knew of in this country was that in the Solduck valley three years ago, which traveled thirteen miles in four or five hours. Lightning-like flames shot out from under the mushroomed cloud of smoke, while the noise of rocks breaking from the intense heat and crashing down hill sounded exactly like thunder. The fire was in fir timber and made a clean sweep." When he left Olympia the city was lit up by a wall of flame around the horizon, all the old burns being on fire.

The Hardy Goat.

The goat, because of its hardy nature, is less liable to tuberculosis than the cow. It utilizes food better, and gives more milk, considering its bodily weight. Goats prefer hilly ground, and do not do well on low, swampy ground. They need protection against cold rains and should be well housed.

Substitute for Ensilage.

Fodder corn is the staple roughage for the man who milks cows, and when properly cured is a good substitute for ensilage. The silo, however, saves all the feed and the cows relish the ensilage better because it is more succulent.

The DAIRY

CARE OF SEPARATOR CREAM

Much Depends on Manner and Method of Cooling—Illustration Shows Satisfactory Way.

For the last five or six years, there is nothing that has come up oftener or been discussed at greater length at our dairy meetings than the quality of our hand separator cream. Our dairy association made a separate class for butter made from this cream, not asking the butter maker to compete with the whole milk creamery. This article is not written with a view of championing the cause of the hand separato manufacture but to try and help the man who has found the separator on the farm best suited to his conditions, writes W. C. Barney, Iowa state food and dairy commissioner, in Homestead.

We have been told so frequently that we must wash our machines and keep them clean that I need not call your attention to this fact. I would like to ask if you would expect a butter maker in a whole milk creamery to produce a high class article if he did not keep his machine in a sanitary condition. It is my belief that much improvement may be made in quality by better care of the cream after it is separated. In talking with a government expert who makes Chicago his headquarters, he asked if I were aware of the fact that there were a large number of hand separator cream creameries in western Wisconsin along the river that were turning out just as good an article of butter as were the whole milk creameries in eastern Wisconsin. I asked him how he accounted for this. His answer was, that in the hilly country along the river springs were numerous and that the cream can was set into the spring and cooled down and then not mixed with the next skimming until that had been treated in the same way. Springs are not numerous enough with us in Iowa to adopt this plan, but we have found the following most satisfactory at Home farm and have used it for several years with good results. We hope we may make ourselves understood from the description and the cut.

We have a galvanized iron tank in our cream house near the well with a pipe connecting from well to this tank at the top in the cream house. In one side of the tank we make a hole for a piece of gas pipe using a couple of lock nuts one on the inside, the other on the outside to keep from leaking. On the inner end of this outlet which connects with the water tank for cattle, we use an elbow with a piece of gas pipe about 16 inches long turned down so that the circulation is good in this tank, the water going in at the top and out at the bottom. All the water for cattle must pass around the cream where the cream can is set as soon as we have finished separating. If you don't care to go to the expense of buying a galvanized iron tank only having a small amount of cream, buy a barrel and saw it in two as this will hold two or three shot gun cans of cream and will be better than nothing. In case the wind does not blow to make the windmill do the work of pumping, we use our gasoline engine which is attached to the pump. Before we put in the engine we pumped enough by hand twice or three times per day to change the temperature in the tank.

SIRE OF MUCH IMPORTANCE.

(By R. B. RUSHING.)

We have all heard the saying that the sire is half the herd. This is literally true. That is, of the qualities bequeathed to the calves the parent furnishes half, and generally more. The cow influences the character of but one calf a year; the bull passes on his personality to many calves, to all the calves of a herd of ordinary size. When he is chosen, half the character of all the calves is determined, thus, his influence is as much as that of the whole number of cows taken together in the herd.

If he is of stronger prepotency than most of the cows, that is, able to transmit his qualities more surely and strongly to the progeny, which is usually the case with a well bred sire, then the bull represents more than half the herd. In this case more than half the characteristics of the calf, or the stronger and predominating half comes from the sire, thus he is more than half.

So the sire may be much more than half the herd whether judged by the strength, quality, or accumulated effect, of the characteristic he transmits.

It is true, however, that the sire may thus within a few years, at slight expense, completely transform a dairy herd and more than double its profits. Then is he not a good investment?

RELIEVE SUFFERING OF COW.

The device shown in the illustration is intended to relieve the suffering of an animal that has become choked by a pottato, apple, or some such obstruction in the throat, says Scientific American. It comprises a pair of arms terminating in slightly concave surfaces which are pressed against the throat on opposite sides just below the obstacle and then drawn upward along the esophagus, forcing the obstacle toward the mouth.

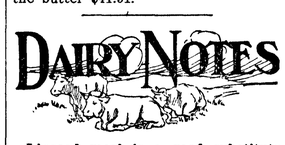
"ride" on dust particles—they cannot propel themselves through the air, but must depend on outside agencies to travel from place to place. The smaller the opening in a milk pail the better is that pail.

Tests of Cows.

In testing several breeds of cows the Virginia experiment station found that in profits on milk the Holsteins led with $4.92 per individual per month; the grades were second with $4.27. The most profitable cow was milked 21 months, gave 12,498.4 pounds of milk and 524.24 pounds of butter. The profit on the milk was $201.05, and on the butter $41.51.



Linseed meal is a good substitute for the fat in milk.

A cow will waste as much energy fighting flies as she requires to raise a calf.

Thoroughly stir the milk in the cans in warm weather. A long-handled soup ladle is handy.

When a milker can talk to his cow as he does to his best girl he is in a way to succeed in the dairy business.

With a thoroughly good cow to manufacture it we can always afford to put in feed and take out butter.

The dairyman who takes his money out of the savings bank to build a silo makes a good investment of idle capital.

The chemist cannot find that a silo adds anything to the nutritive elements in a cornstalk, but it does add palatability and that counts for a good deal.

If you have six cows and no separator, sell one of the cows and buy a separator. You will save work and make money by the deal.

A good creamery in a town means prosperity for the farmer and the business man. The cow is the cause of it all too.

Produce what the consumer wants when you are placing a product on the market. That's the secret of good prices and a brisk demand.

The temper of a bull does not improve with age; handle him always as if he was a possible source of danger.

Cows, horses and sheep suffer from the direct rays of the midsummer sun, as much as do men. If you haven't got trees, sheds should be built.

A half cupful of wheat flour and a raw egg in the milk, if given to a calf with scours is said to be very beneficial.

Do not permit calves four months old to be loose in the same pen with calves two weeks old. Separate the calves into pens according to age and size.

If the calf is a slow eater it is not molested by the greedy calf next to him. Stanchions on the dairy farm will expedite greatly and overcome many of the obstacles and disagreeable things in feeding calves

CAKE AS THE FOUNDATION

Without Special Pains Being Taken With This Charlotte Russe Will Not Be Success.

To make a really delicious charlotte russe prepare, first of all, a very delicious sponge cake after this formula:

Four eggs, beaten separately. Into the beaten yolks beat again one cup of sugar and to this add half a cup of potato flour. Into the flour must previously have been sifted three-fourths of a level teaspoonful cream of tartar and one-fourth teaspoonful of soda, the same of salt. Add, finally, two teaspoonfuls lemon extract and the white of the eggs. Bake in a charlotte russe pan. Remove the center, leaving a hollow shell. Fill this hollow with flavored, sweetened whipped cream or with ice cream, in any flavor liked, or Bavarian cream if available for the purpose.

The same cake may be baked in ordinary tins for 45 minutes, when it yields a soft and very light sponge loaf.

White Floating Soap.—Four quarts fat, any kind will do; two ten-cent cans of lye, and ten quarts of water. Put water in an old boiler, next the fat, then the lye. Let this come to a boil and boil three hours, slowly. When the soap becomes flaky and the liquid looks clear and boils over the soap, it is ready to skim. Line a wooden box with a piece of wet muslin, skim out soap, and put in the box to drain about 12 hours, and cut in bars. This will make 12 large bars of hard, white soap. It may be used for any kind of washing. Take a little of the soap and press in the hand. If it sticks to the hand and looks greasy, it needs a little more lye, if too flaky, more fat. The liquid can be used for scrubbing.

To Remove Iron Rust.—I am a laundress and I iron rusted a fine night dress of a rich bride and was almost frightened to death. I had a basket of tomatoes and I knew the material wouldn't stand anything strong, so I cut a tomato and rubbed each spot and put the gown out in the hot sun for a while and when I went out to see, to my delight the iron rust had disappeared as if by magic, and has been tried often with best results.

Ribbon Cookies.

Mix fire, after your favorite recipe, a batch of white cookies flavored with lemon. In another dish mix a batch of chocolate cookies, flavoring with vanilla. Roll out chocolate cookies quite thin, then roll out white ones, same as chocolate. Place one on top of the other and roll as jelly roll. Take a sharp knife and cut slices from the roll, turn them over and lay them in baking pan. When cooked they are a delight to the eye as well as the palate.

Make molasses cookies, cutting them in strips with sharp knife, about the length and width of lady fingers. When baked and while warm spread with good jelly and press two together, making a dainty cookie sandwich.

To Hang Skirt.

An easy way to hang a skirt when you are making one at home is to lay on the floor a book, the thickness of which is the desired distance of your skirt from the ground. Then put on the skirt, adjust it firmly at the waist, and stand beside the book, so that the material touches or lies over it, and turn slowly around. It is then an easy matter for a second person to turn up the hem or cut off as may be desired at the line indicated by the edge of the book and you will find your skirt perfectly level.

Almond Ice Cream.

One quart of cream, eight ounces of sugar, four ounces of shelled almonds, one teaspoonful of caramel, one tablespoonful of vanilla extract and four tablespoonfuls of sherry wine. Blanch and roast the almonds, then pound in a mortar to a smooth paste. Put half the cream and the sugar on to boil; stir until the sugar is dissolved, then add the remaining pint of cream and the almonds; stand away to cool; when cold add the caramel, vanilla and sherry. Freeze and pack.

Pear Sponge.

Cook some small pears, peeled, halved and cored, in a vanilla sirup till quite tender and till sirup is thick. Arrange in a glass dish some lady fingers, wet with a little sherry, lay in the pears; set away to get very cold, and when ready to serve heap whipped cream, sweetened and flavored with vanilla, on the dish.

Potato Salad.

To one quart of mashed cold potatoes, slice one cucumber, one green pepper, and two small onions, add one-half cupful of chopped celery, two small radishes chopped; mix with mayonnaise dressing and serve on lettuce leaves.

New Potato Hint.

Don't stain your fingers scraping new potatoes. Put in cold water for a few minutes, then rub with a small piece of burlap or coarse cloth, which removes every particle of skin.

CARING FOR MILK PROPERLY

Crusade Against House Fly One of Best Moves In Recent Years in Sanitary Matters.

P. M. Harwood, of the dairy bureau, United States department of agriculture, pointed out that the producer and dealer are well informed about the rules of cleanliness and are compelled by law to conform to them in the handling of milk, but the consumer has much to learn in this respect. He said that the crusade against the house fly is one of the best moves of recent years in sanitary matters because the fly is dirty and contaminates the milk unless there is proper care, and as a general rule the housekeeper is not aware of the danger from flies. Nine rules for the care of milk were suggested, as follows:

1. Take in milk and cream as soon as possible after being left at your door and place in the refrigerator.

2. Keep milk and cream cold until ready for use. The bottom of the refrigerator is colder than the ice container.

3. If ice cannot be had, wrap the bottle in a wet cloth and stand it in a dish of water by an open window, out of the sun; evaporation of the water will cool the milk.

4. Keep milk or cream covered until wanted, and in the bottle in which it is delivered; in open bowls or pitchers they will absorb odors from food and collect flies and dust.

5. Pour from the bottle only what milk or cream is needed for immediate use.

6. Milk or cream that has become warm should never be poured back into the bottle of cold milk.

7. Utensils used for milk should be cleansed with cold water and then with boiling water, thoroughly drained and allowed to become cold before being filled with milk.

8. Wash and return all milk or cream bottles daily.

9. Have a separate quart of milk for the baby; what he does not use others may have.

Mothers will find Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup the best remedy to use for their children during the teething period.

Chicken Liver and Bacon.

Cleanse and separate chicken livers into four pieces, wrap in a slice of streaky bacon, fastening on one side with a tiny skewer. Roast in a moderate oven till livers are done. Then remove skewers and serve around a mound of hot boiled rice which has been lightly salted for a few minutes in bacon fat.
