ADVERTISES ANGELES AS BEING ON ITS LINE

Milwaukee Says Line Will Be Built to Angeles as Soon as Everett Branch is Completed.

In its advertising booklet on the State of Washington, a handsomely illustrated pamphlet setting forth the resources and advantages of each of the counties thru which it passes, the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound Ry announces the building of its contemplated branch to Port Angeles, via Everett and Port Ludlow.

Work on the Everett branch has been vigorously prosecuted this summer and that line is nearly completed; a difficult portion of the survey between Ludlow and Chimacum was straightened out this fall and a new and better grade obtained, and it is believed that road will be ready to go ahead with the work on this side next spring.

The Milwaukee booklet repeatedly mentions the vast amount of timber on the Olympic Peninsula, stating that that road owns 80,000 acres of timber land in this county, and tells of the great development that will take place when cutting begins. Its article on Clallam county, which is illustrated with a picture of the Manhattan cannery, follows:

"In that great stretch of land lying between Puget Sound and the Pacific Ocean lies this county. And within it there are millions of acres of the finest timber, farming and mineral lands within the borders of the state, all practically untouched by the hand of man. Unprovided with transportation facilities, this wonderful region has never been tapped except along its shore line, where a number of towns have sprung up, sawmills and various industries come in existence, and fertile farming land placed under cultivation.

"Unusual attention is being directed to Clallam county because a new line thru the county to Port Angeles and a new line into Everett, to be built during 1910, appear to be a certainty. It is proposed to ferry from Everett to Ludlow, which is situated at the foot of Hood Canal, a distance of twenty-one miles. The distance from Port Ludlow to Port Angeles along the route surveyed is approximately sixty miles. Port Angeles is the first safe and commodious harbor reached by ships after entering the Straits of Fuca, which leads from the Pacific into Puget Sound.

"The primary object of the railroad development of Clallam county and the first source of wealth in the peninsula, is the great untouched timber area, where there are over sixty billion feet of standing timber. With the building of a railroad will follow a great exodus of homeseekers. Already there are seventy thousand acres of farm land for the settler, which is held at reasonable prices. Lumber and shinges are naturally leading products of the county, while stone quarries, and fish and clam canneries employ many people. Dairying is extensively engaged in, over 700,000 pounds of butter being produced last year. Oats produce an average of 100 bushels to the acre, and wheat seventy bushels.

"Port Angeles, the future great city of the Olympic Peninsula, has a population of 4,000, and is one hundred miles nearer the Pacific than the principal seaports of Puget Sound. With transportation facilities this city will become an important shipping port. It is a delightful city from a resident's viewpoint; practically everyone owns his own home, while water, light, sidewalks, and all the details of municipal government are the best. The average temperature is thirty-seven degrees in winter and sixty-two degrees in summer. The average annual rainfall is but thirty inches.

"Lake Crescent and Solduck Hot Springs are mountain resorts that are already famous. The springs are at the edge of the new Mount Olympus National Park, and are reached by automobile road thirty miles from Port Angeles. A number of small towns thruout the county invite settlers and investors.

NOT A QUESTION OF PARTY POLITICS

Hon. D. S. Troy Will Make a Senator to Whom Every Man Can Point with Honest Pride.

The question that arises in the state senatorial contest in this district, and the one that looms above all others, is which one of the candidates before the people can accomplish the most as a legislator—which has the most favorable acquaintance throughout the state that gives him prestige at Oympia. Politics should have no bearing in the contest and will not have with thinking men. D. S. Troy is before the people as a Democrat—and his Democracy, in the belief of the Megaphone, is Theodore Roosevelt Democracy. Wm. Bishop is running as a Republican. Up to four years ago he trained with that party, but being defeated for nomination to the state senate he not only left the party, but came out independent and tried to defeat the regular nominee. Therefore Mr. Bishop's Republicanism cuts no more figure in the campaign than does Mr. Troy's Democracy.

Wherefore, as the Megaphone has stated above, the contest is entirely one of fitness. If the voters of Jefferson, Clallam and San Juan counties are looking for a state senate representative that can do the most good, Hon. D. S. Troy is far and away the most competent to represent them. His previous legislative record proves this. While in the legislature four years ago no man in that body of law makers stood in higher esteem, and even at a time when partyism had greater bearing than now, no member asked after Troy's party affiliations when he was seeking legislation. In the members' appreciation of Mr. Troy's ability as a legislator his party was forgotten. They recognized that Mr. Troy was in the legislature to represent everybody in the state, irrespective of party; that he was a business man going after legislation in a business way; that he represented no special "interests", and was a man unpledged when he was elected—just as he will be unpledged when he goes to the state senate next winter—and he is going.

Mr. Troy did not seek a nomination to the senate. He accepted the nomination at the hands of friends who were so persistent that he could not very well forego their pleadings. The Megaphone is proud to plead guilty to being one of the most persistent forces that brought about Mr. Troy's candidacy, and we are just as anxious to see him get an overwhelming majority in the district as we were to bring about his candidacy. Hundreds of republicans are now outspoken in their support of Mr. Troy, and of course the democrats to a man will vote for him. Troy can be trusted by all parties to do justice to all alike. All interests will find in him simply a sturdy, sensible, and able business man, with a friendship behind him throughout the state that will at once place him in the front-ranks of the law-makers.

Every resident of the three counties he will represent will be proud to point Mr. Troy out in the legislature as his representative.—Quilcene Megaphone.

ALBION ON THE RUN

The steamship Albion is again on the Angeles-Seattle run, and the management solicits patronage from the traveling public. The Albion has been completely re-built and overhauled with large state rooms and other first-class conveniences for the accommodation of passenger traffic. Three trips a week will be made, leaving Angeles at 9 p. m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. See ad in another part of this paper.

Hon. Miles Poindexter, Republican party choice for United States senator, and Hon. Stanton Warburton, Republican nominee for Congress from this district, will address the people of Port Angeles and vicinity in the opera house on next Monday evening, the 17th at 8 o'clock.

Everybody cordially invited to be present to hear the political issues of the day discussed in a business-like way by two able speakers.

ALDWELL CANYON A BUSY PLACE

Engineer Pollock, of Chicago, Has Taken Charge of Construction and is Rushing Work.

Mr. J. D. Pollock, of Chicago, is now in charge of the construction camp of the Olympic Power Co. on the Elwha river. He is the resident engineer, representing L. L. Sommers & Co. of Chicago, consulting and constructing engineers for the company. Mr. Pollock was in charge of the Land Dockage at Texas City, a project involving several million dollars, and was taken from that work to have charge here.

The camp has been thoroughly organized and work is now going forward and will be pushed as fast as good construction practice and the weather will permit, until the river is harnessed and power being supplied the various towns on the Peninsula.

Some of the construction machinery has arrived and is being taken out to the plant, which now presents a very busy and animated appearance. The road and bridge leading to it are being put in good shape to take care of the vast amount of lumber, cement and freight which is necessary to complete the plant. Many of the old residents are going out to the site to view the improvements as they are progressing.

OPPORTUNITY TO SECURE SERVICES OF AN EXPERT

Mr. Thos. Richardson of Portland, who for many years was secretary of the Portland Chamber of Commerce and who also organized the clubs and commercial organizations in the various towns of Oregon, may come to Port Angeles to take up the work of city building here.

Mr. Geo. A. Glines, of the Olympic Power Co., had Mr Richardson go to Winnipeg to organize the World's Fair there and speaks very highly of him. Mr. Brewer of the Water Works Co. is also enthusiastic about his coming here, as is also Mr. Olsen, a heavy stockholder in the Angeles Brewery Co.

Mr. Thos. T. Aldwell has interested himself in securing the necessary funds and reports that the people are responding generously, as they appreciate the benefit Mr. Richardson, who is considered the best man in America to assist in the building of a city, can be to us in getting the necessary work started right and securing the industries which are required to make a payroll.

A NEGLECTED POINT

The growth of the city depends so directly upon the growth and development of its surrounding country that chambers of commerce and commercial clubs which a few years ago cried "come to our city," are now making their appeal, "settle in our county." The sale of town lots never made a city. The development of great valleys and farming belts has made many. There are two great primary objects toward which the efforts of a commercial organization can best be directed, the settlement of lands and the establishment of manufactures. Hoquiam's Commercial Club is a sample of an organization which has concluded that it is as important to offer cheap land as to offer cheap factory sites, and to that end has canvassed its county and located several thousand acres of land which can be had at reasonable prices. The honest land dealer is the friend of his city and county because he, like the commercial organization, is reaching out to the newcomer. — Pacific Nw. Commerce.

Minor Happenings of the Week

The bricklayers' strike which has involved union men throughout the country has been settled.

Irrigation work at Alberta, east of Calgary, at an estimated cost of $8,500,000, has been approved by the Canadian Pacific directors.

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt left New York Thursday afternoon on his southern trip, which is to extend over nine days and cover 3,294 miles.

Princeton University's library has just been augmented by an addition of 1,000 books left by Francis Lathrop, a relative of the Hawthorne family.

Two hundred men were distributed along the route of the Mount Hood Railway the past week, ready to begin work as soon as camps have been established.

Southern California walnut growers are assured of a prosperous year. While the crop will be about 100 cars smaller than last year's output this will be more than counterbalanced by the extremely high prices which the growers will receive for their crop.

F. O. Watts of Nashville, Tenn., was chosen president, and William Livingstone of Detroit, Mich., vice-president of the American Bankers' Association for the ensuing year at the final session of the convention of that association in Los Angeles. The bankers endorsed the Panama Exposition idea but refused to endorse any city.

Announcement is made by Morris & Co., meat packers, of Chicago, that the firm has purchased in Mexico 1,250,000 acres of land for a cattle ranch near El Paso. Announcement is also made that a packing plant to cost $1,000,000 will be established in El Paso to convert the products of the ranch into food staples.

The annual report of the president of the Canadian Pacific to the directors shows that in round figures the gross revenue of the lines, exclusive of the ocean steamship lines, show an increase compared with the previous year of $18,600,000, the working expenses an increase of $7,700,000 and the net earnings an increase of $10,900,000.

CANVASSING BOARD COMPLETES RETURNS.

Olympia, Oct. 8.—The state canvassing board has completed transcribing primary election returns as shown by the county canvassing boards, covering preference for United States senator and congressman. Wide variance was found between totals for first and second choice, showing that the election officers had ignored the law that provided that ballots should be thrown out unless the voter indicated both first and second choice. Because of this the state board will have to recheck all the returns by precincts to force correct balances, and it may be several days before the official returns are given out. Yakima and Jefferson counties failed to send in returns on joint senator, so the canvass is being delayed awaiting such figures, which have been telegraphed for.

Poindexter 67,714, Burke 26,840.

These county totals show that Poindexter received an aggregate of 67,714 votes for senator, as against 26,840 for Burke and 14,580 for Ashton. Cotterill won the democratic nomination, with an aggregate of 4,552 as against 2,633 for Byrne. Humphrey, republican, is renominated in the First district, with 17,835 first choice votes out of a total of 40,477, or 1,645 more than the necessary 40 per cent. The second choice vote for the district was 477 less than the first choice, and on combined first and second choice Humphrey had 23,393, Revelle 23,273, and Black, the lone democratic nominee, had 1,435. In the Second district there was no choice. Warburton, insurgent, won with 12,744, McCredie had 11,125 and Claypool 6,122. Langhore, democrat, had 1,220. In the Third district there were 27,001 first choice votes and but 25,566 second choice. La Follette won, with 11,699 first choice, and required but 10,801 to get the necessary 40 per cent. Merritt, the democratic nominee, received 2,711 votes.

CHARTER GRANTED TOKYO-YOKOHAMA CANAL.

Victoria, Oct. 8.—The Tacoma Maru, fourteen days from Yokohama, brought news of the formation of a company capitalized at $7,500,000 to construct a ship canal 120 feet wide and 30 feet deep between Yokohama and Tokyo to accommodate vessels up to 10,000 tons. A 99-year charter is granted by the Japanese government to the company, which will charge 5 cents per ton on steamers. The canal is to become the property of the government at the end of the charter.

New Swedish Minister.

Stockholm, Oct. 8.—Count Ehrensvard, Swedish minister to Belgium, has been appointed minister at Washington, in succession to M. Lagercrantz, resigned.

Washington State News Items

Postmaster George R. Russell of Seattle has applied for the establishment of a postal savings bank in that office.

Mrs. Margaret B. Platt of Seattle was elected president of the W. C. T. U. of Western Washington at the Olympia convention.

The active campaign for the recall of Mayor H. C. Gill of Seattle has been started by the Public Welfare League, which is fathering the movement.

A superintendent of construction is required for the federal penitentiary at McNeils island. An examination will be held in Seattle November 9.

Dr. Julius Christian Zeller, who for the past year has been the active head of the University of Puget Sound, has been formally installed in that high office.

Notice has been received at the headquarters of the Tacoma division of the Washington naval militia that an inspection of the division will be held at the Armory Thursday.

A Seattle city warrant has been drawn for $50,000 to pay for about 1,200 acres of land on Taylor creek, which empties into the Cedar river. This is part of the city's project of getting control of all the property in the Cedar river watershed.

HELP ALONG POPULARITY OF OUR WESTERN APPLES.

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 8.—Arrangements have been completed by the management of the National Apple show to add to the popularity of apples grown in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana by spreading their fame for quality, color and uniform size to all parts of the continent during the third annual exposition in Spokane, November 14 to 19, when every district will be represented.

The trustees will buy large quantities of the best apples obtainable in the four states. These will be carefully graded and inspected and packed in neat wooden boxes, each containing six to 12 apples, marked with the name of the district in which they were grown and sold at cost to those who desire to send holiday packages to acquaintances in the East and elsewhere.

The management has arranged for a booth in the main exposition hall, where an express agent will be located to take charge of the packages and forward them, thereby sparing the sender the usual inconveniences. Every box of apples sold in the booth will be guaranteed by the management to be free from blemishes of any kind.

"The cost of the apples and express charges will not be more than is required to cover the actual expense," said Ben H. Rice, secretary and manager of the show. "It is not the desire of the apple show organization to make a profit from this concession, but rather to afford visitors an opportunity to remember their friends with a real souvenir of the exposition, at the same time boosting the orchard industry and assisting in popularizing the fruit grown in the Northwestern states.

"The management received many requests for apples at last year's show, but only a few wanted to send full boxes, as the express charges are high to Eastern points, but this year we shall overcome that obstacle by providing small boxes at a reasonable cost."

SUBMARINE SIGNALS TESTED ON PRESIDENT.

Even the beating of the screw and the rush of the bow water from the steamer Indianapolis, three miles distant, were distinctly echoed in the transmitter of the new submarine signal telephone system, tried on the steamer President for the first time last week, according to Superintendent E. Francke and other officials aboard.

The bell was attached to the tug Tyee, in five fathoms of water, and its automatic beats by electrical energy operated by a clock, were transmitted through the water and picked up at once by the receivers on the President and echoed through the telephone in the pilot house. The receivers are placed below the water line, one each on the port and starboard side of the vessel, and are connected with wires enclosed in tubes leading to the telephone in the pilot house. Receivers are provided for the telephone on both the port and starboard sides, and the pilot is thus enabled to detect quickly the direction in which the danger lies. Whether in fog, wind or heavy weather the signal works perfectly, Mr. Francke declares, and the President is the first passenger vessel to utilize the invention.

"The government should establish this apparatus all along the coast, particularly in Alaskan waters," said Mr. Francke, "and one of the greatest dangers to navigation will be removed. With this machine, traveling through fog, a vessel can determine at once its near approach to rocks and frequently to other vessels. Even with shore stations far remote, a steamer may not get out of the radius of sound of one bell before it is in the zone of another."

RAILROADS GET LESS FOR CARRYING MAIL.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 8.—By an order issued by the postoffice department land railroads hereafter will receive only $15.39 for each 2,000 pounds of mail carried in excess of 48,000 pounds. The old rate was $17.10.

NEW GOVERNMENT WELCOMED

FETES IN HONOR OF PORTUGUESE REPUBLIC GENERAL IN PROVINCES.

Normal Appearance Being Resumed With Renewal of Business—expulsion of Religious Orders Due to Continued Resistance to New Government.

Lisbon, Oct. 11.—The demonstrations at the capital are being paralleled in the porvinces and the remote country districts. From everywhere come reports of fetes in honor of the new republic. Tranquility prevails throughout the country. The normal life of the nation proceeds. Lisbon is resuming the ordinary appearance. Business routine has been renewed.

No boats are allowed to approach the three Portuguese cruisers anchored in the river Tagus.

A monument to the victims of the revolution will be erected.

Dr. Costa, the minister of justice, has ordered the release of Cardinal Joseph Sebastian Netto, former patriarch of Lisbon, who had been seized and ordered xpelled from the country. Costa explained that the real purpose of the arrest was to protect the cardinal from possible outrage.

Convents Arsenals.

The minister declared that several monasteries and convents belonging to Portuguese or foreign orders were veritable arsenals, and that the activity of the clericals, who persisted in obstinate resistance to the republic, hastened the order of expulsion.

Antonio Almeida, the minister of the interior of the provisional government, is quoted in an interview as saying the fighting with the monks was provoked by them, they having fired upon the soldiers and people from the windows of the monastery without a shot having been fired at them. He added that not more than sixty persons were killed in the recent revolution.

To Change Agents.

The government will make a complete change in its representatives abroad. This will mean the retirement of Viscount de Alte, minister at Washington since May 1, 1902.

Many of the nuns who are being expelled have announced their intention of going to America. Official decrees expelling the Jesuits and declaring their property confiscated, and expelling foreign monks belonging to other orders, were formally promulgated yesterday.

Some May Stay.

The decrees, which appear in the official journal, specify that Portuguese members of religious orders other than Jesuits, who accept secularization, may remain in Portugal and return to their families, but those refusing to become secular must leave TWO—PATENTS—Oct 11 wht the country. The provisional cabinet is conducting exhaustive inquiries with the object of fixing the nationality of persons belonging to religious bodies.

King Bound for England.

Madrid, Oct. 11.—The Spanish government has received confirmation of the report that King Manuel will soon proceed to England, where he will take up his permanent residence.

STATEMENT IS ISSUED BY PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT

"The people, army and navy have succeeded in proclaiming a republic. The Braganza dynasty, mischievous and disturbing to social peace, has been forever exiled from Portugal.

"This rare event, representing the pride of an untamable race and the salvation of a country whose bravery is proverbial, fills with enthusiastic joy the hearts of patriots and finally ends our country's bondage.

Aspiration Revealed.

"Our aspiration for a regime of liberty stands revealed brightly in its virgin essence.

"Citizens, this moment must be the commencement of a period of austere morality and immaculate justice, in order that the glorious communion of principles shall make of our sacrifices for our country the base of our political program and our generosity toward the vanquished and the base of our moral program.

Believes in People.

"Citizens: Let interest for our beloved country animate you, and a single desire—that to be great—unite you. The republic has confidence in the people for the maintenance of social order, respect for justice and devotion to the common cause of liberty. Consolidate with your love and sacrifice the work which springs from the Portuguese republic."

Provisional President Braga has issued a manifesto addressed to the army and navy. It says:

Troops Saluted.

"The government of the republic salutes the troops of land and sea, who with the people have established a republic for the happiness of the country.

"The government has confidence in the patriotism of all, because the republic is made for all. It hopes that the officers of the army and navy who have not shared in the revolutionary movement will present themselves at headquarters and swear absolute loyalty to the new regime. Meantime the revolutionary forces must guard all positions for the defense and consideration of the republic."

PORTUGAL, ITS SIZE, WEALTH, PEOPLE, FLEET AND CITIES.

Portugal, an independent kingdom of Europe, occupied during the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries a prominent position among European nations in science, learning, wealth and practical enterprise. In 1578 its strength was broken by the Moors, and it passed under the control of Spain. It regained its independence in 1640, but in 1807 became involved in wars with Napoleon, and the royal family fled to Brazil. The dynasty was re-established by the English a year later, and a liberal constitution was drawn in 1821, that has been three times modified, in 1826, 1852 and 1885.

Vineyards cover the greater portion of the country, and fishing is another of its principal industries. It owns the Azores and Madeira.

Its wealth is estimated at $2,500,000,000, its annual revenue at $62,064,000, with $10,165,000 more from its colonies. Its annual expenditures amount to $63,096,000, with $10,242,000 added expenses for the maintenance of its colonies. Its debt is represented to be $847,701,627, with interest and other annual charges of $21,369,000, and its civil list provides for the payment of $567,000 yearly.

Portugal maintains an army and navy. It has an armed strength of 30,000, exclusive of its colonies, with 90,000 reserves, or a total war strength of 120,000.

Its navy consists of one armed cruiser, five first-class cruisers, nineteen gunboats, one school ship, two torpedo boat destroyers, four torpedo boats, and the personnel of the navy, officers and men numbers 6,000.

Lisbon, the capital, is an important commercial center, and its harbor is counted as one of the most beautiful in the world. It is large enough to accommodate all the fleets of Europe and the largest ship may anchor at any of its docks.

The population of Portugal is 5,423,132, but of Portugal and its colonies it is 14,582,084. Lisbon has a population approaching 300,000 inhabitants.

Portugal numbers 35,490 square miles, but with its colonies its area is 838,442 square miles.

REFORMERS DRIVING MONKS FROM PORTUGAL

Lisbon, Oct. 10.—The expulsion of the monks from Portugal has begun. No time will be lost in driving them across the frontier. Several hundred nuns have been assembled and will be deported out of the country.

The affair at Quelhas monastery was not very serious, but the interior of the church was wrecked and desecrated and the organ was destroyed in the mad search by soldiers and civilians who invaded the buildings in search of underground passages by which they imagined priests and municipal guards, erroneously suspected of hiding there, made their escape.

No secret passages were discovered, but the searchers tore down walls and benches and even the altar in their vain endeavor.

Last evening there was great excitement in various parts of the city. Cavalry patrolled the streets and from time to time rifle shots were heard. It was impossible to ascertain from what direction the shots came. Sailors guarding the Merces chapel entered the edifice, but found nothing. It is believed, however, that underground passages connect the convents and that those who were responsible for the shooting made their escape through these.

CHARGES OF WASTE AGAINST BOWLBY.

Olympia, Wash., Oct. 8.—The next ten days will determine whether State Highway Commissioner Bowlby will be permitted to retain his office or not. Ever since Bowlby took office, criticism has been growing, the charges being solely of extravagance and incompetence.

The department handles about $1,000,000 of taxpayers' money each year and complaints are general that the bulk of the money is being wasted. For instance Bellingham papers report that $25,000 has been spent on a state road in that county of which less than one-half mile has been completed.

Today H. P. Gillette, the New York expert engineer, and E. E. Baird of Vancouver, arrived here at the request of the governor and started upon a detailed investigation of the highway department. Mr. Gillette has made a life study and is considered authority on questions of proper cost of engineering and construction work. On his expert knowledge, Governor Hay relies to discover whether or not the charges against Bowlby are true.

Mr. Bowlby was recommended for the position by Samuel Hill and shortly after he took office he changed the route of a state road established by his predecessor in Klickitat County, so that it would run through Mr. Hill's large realty holdings at Maryhill, that county.

Chicago Block Sells for $6,500,000.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—The largest single real estate deal in the history of Chicago's central business district, a project which will represent an investment of $6,500,000 and will be marked by the erection of a 20-story office building, has been concluded. Promoters of the project, it was announced, have closed options for the purchase of the entire block bounded by Jackson boulevard, Fifth avenue, Sherman and Van Buren streets. The skyscraper will have a frontage of 200 feet on the four streets.

DRY FARMERS END CONGRESS

NEXT YEAR'S SESSION WILL BE HELD AT COLORADO SPRINGS.

Worst, of North Dakota Agricultural College, Elected President—Congress Refuses to Endorse Any City for Panama Canal Exposition Honors—Numerous Papers Read.

Spokane, Oct. 8.—After adopting a report of the executive committee naming Colorado Springs as the place for the next convention, the Dry Farming congress adjourned without day.

One of the closing features of the congress was the introduction of a resolution indorsing San Francisco's claim for the Panama canal exposition in 1915. Objection was immediately raised and a stormy discussion ensued, terminating in the refusal of the convention to entertain the resolution on the ground that it was a matter outside of the scope and jurisdiction of the Dry Farming congress. The vote was practically unanimous. At the end there was very litle fight made on the place for the next congress. Lethbridge, Alberta, merely maintained its plea in order to strengthen itself for a more vigorous effort to obtain the congress in 1912.

Andrew L. Mordt of Guyman, Okla., deprecated the mixing of politics and agriculture, and spoke bitterly of the results in his state.

"This country is the best dry farming district in the world," said Prof. W. H. Jardine of Kansas, in speaking on the subject, "Selecting Dry Farm Land." He added:

"I have seen many settling on land with too small information and under false impressions. There are other factors besides soil and rainfall to be considered."

Prof. H. L. Bolley of the North Dakota Agricultural college delivered an interesting and instructive address on "Conservation and Purity of the Soil."

Carleton R. Bell of the bureau of plant industry in the United States department of agriculture spoke on "Grain Sorghums for the Dry Land."

Numerous Speeches Heard.

Others who addressed the congress were:

Prof. Henry D. Scudder, on "Dry Farming in Oregon."

W. H. Philbrick, American Falls, Ida., on "Practical Dry Farming Talks."

Byron Hunter, field agent, office of farm management, bureau of plant industry, Walla Walla, on "Dry Farming on the Columbia Basin."

Jacob Eastgate, Larimore, N. D., on "How to Keep Soil From Drifting."

Prof. H. M. Baines, agricultural expert, Amarilla, Texas, on "The Development of Dry Farm Machinery."

Prof. J. D. Tinsley, Albuquerque, N. M., on "The Community Plan for Demonstration Farms."

A. Kol, assistant agricultural commissioner of Russia, on "Dry Farming Experiments in Russia."

Resolutions Adopted.

Resolutions were adopted by the congress as follows:

Urging the distribution of dry farming congress memberships among worthy farmers by commercial bodies in dry farming districts; encouraging the planting of trees by dry farmers and asking the co-operation of state and federal governemnt bureaus and experiment stations.

Urging the members to encourage the interest of boys and girls of farmers in agricultural problems, advising the formation of competitive children's farming and gardening crops.

Forming a permanent committee on agricultural education to consult with a committee of the National Educational association on agricultural education in the schools of the land, the committee to be formed of one member from each state or province.

Asking larger appropriations by both state and federal governments for agricultural experiment stations, dry farming experiment stations and the extension of federal appropriations to the state sub-stations.

Demanding that congress at once provide for the survey of unsurveyed lands in the Northwest so as to make them available for settlement.

Asking that the bulletins of the experiment stations and of the department of agriculture be placed in the hands of dry farming congress memoers and asking further co-operation between state and federal experiment stations.

WORST FOR PRESIDENT OF DRY FARMING CONGRESS.

Spokane, Wednesday, Oct. 8.—Dr. J. H. Worst, president of the North Dakota Agricultural College, is to lead the International Dry Farming Congress for the coming year. At this morning's session the nominating committee announced its selection of Dr. Worst for president of the Congress, and it is expected the choice will be ratified without any contest. Nine members of the committee are reported to have voted for Dr. Worst. Eight were for Gov. J. H. Brady, of Idaho. The outcome is considered a victory for the so-called "agricultural college elements," which favors emphasizing agricultural rather than political problems at the sessions of the congress.

At the morning session Gen. Freeman Thorpe, of Minnesota, spoke on "Holding Water on Dry Uplands." He said:

"Dry farming will help flooded lands as well as dry ones if embankments are placed to hold water on the hills. This will prevent floods and soil erosions."

Professor Lewis A. Marshall, of Salt Lake City, president of the Utah Dry Farming Congress, also spoke. He said:

"Utah is the pioneer in this movement. We started dry farming in 1865. Last year, only seven and one-half inches of rain fell, and we were able to demonstrate the soundness of the most advanced dry farming theories. Our motto is 'prepare for drouth by fallowing every year.'"

The $250 cup for the best collective exhibit by any state outside of Washington has been awarded to Alberta Province, Canada. A. M. Axelson, of Paxton, Col., has won the sweepstakes premiums as the winner of the largest number of prizes in class 1 and class 2.

STATE LAND OFFICE BUSINESS

Olympia, Oct. 8.—In the two years ending September 30, 1910, the total cash collections of the State Land Office aggregated $3,932,640, as compared with $2,742,953 for the previous two years, and considerably more than double the $1,689,764 collected the two years ending September 30, 1906.

Of these collections approximately a million and a half was available for immediate use by the state and state departments and the fact that it was on hand in cash for such use saved the taxpayers being called upon to raise that much money to meet the expenses f the state government.

Nearly a million dollars of this money was clean "velvet" for it represented a profit without touching the principal.

Under laws which can never be changed, because such change would require action by the Congress of the United States and amendment to the state constitution, the principal derived from the sale of state lands must remain permanent and can never be pent. The permanent funds, however, can be and are invested by the state in interest-bearing securities and the interest thus received can be used for current state expenses.

Investments Are Lucrative.

These investments are now bringing in several hundred thousand dollars a year, and of course that revenue reduces direct tax just that amount.

The two years' financial report just completed by the State Land Office shows that from the common school grant lands and timber were sold on which the state received about $2,170,000 in cash, which went into the permanent school fund for investment. From rentals of state school lands and from interest payments on contracts of sale nearly $68,000 was collected in cash and turned into the treasury to be disbursed immediately among the several counties for support of the common schools.

Other collections representing rentals and lease money in the line of "velvet" included about $20,000 from the grant for charitable, educational, penal and reformatory institutions, $32,500 from the scientific school grant, $13,000 from the agricultural college grant, $28,000 from the normal school grant, $5,500 for the capitol building fund and $1,575 from escheated lands.

Tide Land Fund Available.

From lease and interest money collected on tide lands and harbor area about $70,000 was derived and from fees and forfeitures the office collected $23,500, all of which was immediately available for use by the general fund of the state, as was also the $233,500 paid on account of sales of tide lands on the principal. The tide land monies, like the capitol grant monies, are not permanent, but are available for immediate use.

These cash collections of nearly four million dollars by the office in the two years do not represent by any means the entire business of the office, for the reason that the principal sum included in the permanent fund collections in most instances represents only the first payment on contract of one-tenth of the purchase price, as the bulk of state lands are sold under 10-year contracts, where one-tenth of the principal is paid in cash and the balance in annual instalments.

SPOKANE AUDITOR PILES UP PROFITS FOR COUNTY

Olympia, Oct. 10.—Spokane county auditor's office makes the largest profit of any county in the state, according to figures compiled by the state bureau of inspection and supervision of public offices, showing the earnings of the offices of the several county auditors, exclusive of hunting licenses.

For the year 1909 the Spokane county auditor turned $12,465 profits into the treasury, the expenses of the office aggregating but 76½ per cent of the receipts.

King county's profit was less than $2,000, it costing 97.4 per cent of receipts for operation, and Pierce county showed a loss of $52,34, being one-tenth per cent more than the total receipts. Chehalis spent nearly 119 per cent of receipts, being a net loss of about $1,170, and Whatcom county figures show a slight loss.

ROADS NOW SAFER SAYS PERLEY

WASHINGTON STATE RAILROAD INSPECTOR TELLS ABOUT HIS OFFICE.

Looks After Safety of Railroad Employes and Traveling Public by Seeing That Lines are Equipped With Proper Safeguards—Railroad Employes of Great Assistance.

Portland, Or., Oct. 8.—"Conservation of Human Life and Limb," is the duty to which A. W. Perley, who was in Portland yesterday, is devoting his time and talents. Mr. Perley is the inspector of tracks and safety appliances for the State Railroad Commission of Washington, and his work is to safeguard the lives of the thousands of railroad employes and passengers who travel on the railroads of that state.

Mr. Perley was for more than 20 years a locomotive engineer in the employ of the O. R. & N. in Eastern Washington, and about four years ago, when the office of inspector of tracks and safety appliances was created by the Washington Legislature, he was given the position. He is a commanding figure, standing six feet and four inches, and bears a striking facial resemblance to President Taft.

Safety Laws Enforced.

The law gives Mr. Perley ample authority to enforce safety appliance regulations, including track repairs, as well as the use of all proper safety appliances on engines and cars. His visit to Portland was in connection with a grade crossing near Vancouver, complaint having been made by local residents that the railroad crossing is not properly safeguarded.

"As a result of public supervision and inspection, conditions have been vastly improved during the past few years regarding railroad employes and the traveling public," said Mr. Perley. "But there is still room for improvement. During the year 1909 one railroad trainman was killed in this country every two hours and 14 minutes, and one injured every seven minutes during the year. Nearly all accidents were traceable to defective tracks or equipment.

Trainman Are Assistants.

"Nearly every trainman in the state of Washington is a self-appointed assistant to the expert. By reporting bad conditions of tracks or equipment speedy improvement is assured, whereas under the old system economy of operation was generally considered of first importance. Expenditures for the improvement of tracks or purchase of safety appliances too often followed accidents, instead of being made in time to prevent them.

"Before state inspection began, one railroad in the State of Washington was expending $800 per mile per annum for track repairs and was having frequent accidents. Under the present system that same corporation has been spending $2,400 per annum per mile for repairs, and has not had an accident on account of defective track in the past two years. Four years ago the percentage of defective railroad equipment in the State of Washington was 31 per cent. Last year it was only 7.8 per cent.

"One of the Interstate Commerce inspectors recently told me that four years ago the railroads of the State of Washington were in as bad physical condition as any in the country, and that today they are the best of those in any of the 32 states he visits officially. There is not today a safety appliance in use on any railroad in the United States except what the railroads were forced by law to put on. Last year the railroads paid the United States government $80,300 in fines for using defective equipment. Repairs that would have avoided these fines would have cost the railroads less than $100."

Union Organizations Favored.

Inspector Perley is a member of the locomotive engineers' organization and is a strong advocate of labor union organizations. But he does not believe in the "closed shop" idea. He thinks labor unions should be so conducted as to impress their value on all laboring men, and that no laborer should be forced or coerced into joining a union. In the state of Washington Mr. Perley is frequently invited to deliver addresses before improvement clubs, civic organizations, chambers of commerce and the like, on the subject of safety appliance regulations. He is also talked of for governor of Washington, but declares he is not a candidate.

The railroad organizations of the state of Oregon will present to the next legislature a bill providing for the creation of an office similar to that held by Inspector Perley in the state of Washington.

Bugge for Supreme Court.

Seattle, Oct. 8.—Hans Bugge of Bellingham has been chosen to fill the vacancy of the non-partisan judiciary league ticket caused by the refusal of Judge W. A. Grimshaw of Wenatchee to accept the nomination for the supreme bench. Mr. Bugge is a republican, and his selection to fill the vacancy caused by Judge Grimshaw's withdrawal maintains the ratio of three democrats and two republicans decided upon by the non-partisan league at its Tacoma convention.

EPOCHAL SESSION OF SUPREME COURT

NEXT TERM OF HIGHEST TRIBUNAL WILL BE MOST IMPORTANT.

Vacancies on Supreme Tribunal Add to Interest in Weighty Issues Pending—Governor Hughes Likely to Be Chief Justice—Liability Act and Two-Cent-Fare Laws Coming Up.

Washington, Oct. 8.—The Supreme court of the United States will convene next Monday at noon for one of the most important sessions in its history.

In the coming eight months it will have to pass upon cases profoundly involving the industrial and business life of the nation, and this fact adds importance to the pending changes in the personnel of the great court occasioned by the death of Chief Justice Fuller and Associate Justice Brewer and the retirement of Associate Justice Moody. Governor Hughes, of New York, has been confirmed in the place of Justice Brewer and there appears excellent reason to expect that he will be named in place of the Chief Justice, although Associate Justice Harlan, the senior surviving member of the court, has been much spoken of for promotion to the Chief Justiceship. In any event, including Justice Hughes, there will be three new men on the bench during the coming session.

Two Vacancies Continue.

President Taft has said that he will make no recess appointments to the court; this means that the Chief Justiceship and the place of Justice Moody probably will remain vacant until the regular session of Congress begins in December.

It also means undoubtedly that the three great corporations cases upon which the expectancy of the business world is centered will not come up for re-argument at least until after the Christmas recess of the court. Of these cases, two, the Standard Oil case and the so-called Tobacco Trust case, were set for re-argument on November 14. The corporation-tax cases were merely restored to the calendar for re-argument. In ordinary circumstances this would throw them over for a year or more. The general expectation is that none of the three cases will be taken up until all the vacancies in the court have been filled, and that then the corporation tax cases will be advanced and with the other two cases mentioned will be set for dates relatively early in 1911.

Forty Cases Assigned.

Aside from these celebrated causes, a tremendous amount of work awaits the court at the beginning of the session. Upward of forty cases, many of large import, have been assigned for argument next Tuesday, or as soon thereafter as possible. Ordinarily, each justice delivers about thirty opinions during a year, hence if one member were to undertake to cover all of next Tuesday's docket he would not be through with it until far into 1912.

Largely on account of there not being a full bench last term, many important cases were set for argument out of their turn for Tuesday. The continuing vacancies may cause the further postponement of several of them. The death of Solicitor General Bowers may also result in the postponement of several government cases.

The first big case set for argument is the dispute between West Virginia and Virginia as to the amount of money the former state owes the latter state by reason of the formation of separate governments. Charles E. Littlefield, special master of the court, last spring reported that the amount varied from about $3,000,000 to about 9,000,000, according to the basis that might be accepted for a settlement. Some of the most prominent lawyers in the country will appear before the court to argue on exceptions to the report which will be preparatory to final judgment in the case.

Immediately following the Virginia case, the court will hear the famous peonage cases from Florida. Only the favorable action of the supreme court, it is said, can now save several men from going to the federal penitentiary for alleged violation of the laws against compulsory service.

Liability Act Coming Up.

Scarcely of less interest in the labor world will be the cases involving the constitutionality of the employers' liability law of 1908. This law was passed by congress to take the place of the act nullified by the supreme court because it applied to intrastate commerce as well as to interstate. The present law has been attacked along the same lines.

Of even greater interest is the case involving the contempt proceedings against the officials of the American Federation of Labor for alleged contempt of the supreme court of the District of Columbia.

The Missouri 2-cent passenger rate law and the maximum freight rate law of that state have been set for argument after the contempt cases. Owing to the veto of Governor Hughes of the New York 2-cnt fare bill, his attitude as a member of the court toward the Missouri cases will be watched with interest.

The court was to have given a second hearing at the beginning of the term to the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern railroad cases, involving the question as to what should be the unit for the assessment of penalties for violations of the 28-hour law governing the shipment of live stock. The court last year stood four in favor of holding the trainload to be the unit and four in favor of making the unit the separate shipments. In view of the tie vote, it is believed the case will await the filling of the vacancies.

A case involving the constitutionality of the California law of 1906, providing for the quieting of title to real estate in case of the loss or destruction of public records, as by earthquake, will be heard, according to present arrangements, early in the term.

GENERAL INVESTIGATION OF DISTRIBUTING RATES

Olympia, Oct. 11.—A general investigation by the state railroad commission of all distributing rates from jobbing points within the state will probably be the result of an answer it has sent to Walla Walla's complaint that the interstate commerce commission's Spokane rate order respecting east-bound rates from the coast would result in injustice to Walla Walla unless its present distributing rates were changed.

The commission directed the Walla Walla complainants to intervene in the case the commission has already instituted against the railroads on the complaint of Seattle and Tacoma shippers.

"It would be useless," said Commissioner Lowrence, "for us to attempt to re-establish jobbing rates for different centers piecemeal. The only feasible plan is to take up all such points in the state in one blanket case, and then establish such rates as will be fair to all interested."

FOREST FIRES CAUSE GREAT LOSS

Rainy River, Ont., Oct. 10.—While a wind is sweeping a sea of fire eastward on the south side of the Rainy river, at a velocity of fifty miles an hour, the great body of flames has passed this section, revealing a calamity that already reaches the proportions of an international disaster. Sixty corpses have been found in the path of the flames and a vast area is yet to be searched for dead, while the towns of Spooner, Beaudette and Pitt have been totally destroyed, with great property loss.

With the exception of the destruction of the mills and stock of the Rat Portage Lumber Company, at Rainy River, the principal loss is confined to the south side of the river and chiefly sustained along the American border.

Railroad Cut Off.

Railroad and wire connections from the west were cut off by a burned district extending forty miles from Warroad, Minn., on the Canadian Northern railroad. Through this district the last trains passed Saturday night. The road is open to the south and east, however, and relief is being afforded from Fort William.

The fires have been smouldering in that district for months and were started anew by the terrific wind that began two days ago. The wind increased in velocity until it bore a wave of flame 100 feet high and a half-mile wide. Many settlers took to the railroad track, but most of them were burned to a crisp as the fire leaped this barrier of some 300 yards along the clearing.

Canadian Northern Relieves.

The Canadian Northern railroad has been running relief trains in every direction, stopping at every point where frantic people were to be found along the tracks. Several trains have been run through bridges, regardless of danger to the crews. Among the most dramatic incidents was the escape of 2,000 persons in a long train of box cars. The throng of men, women and children awaited the train while their homes burned.

The first trainload streamed across to Rainy River, with men hanging to the sides and to the trucks. Women were given first place. Many of those left started running down the tracks and perished. Others stood their ground and were rescued by the second train.

DEMOCRATS CONTROL ARIZONA CONVENTION

Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 11.—With the thermometer hovering uncomfortably close to the century mark, the fifty-two delegates to the constitutional convention began building the covenant under which the last of the territories shall ask congress for entry into the Union. The progressive element of the Democrats—the wing which stands for a constitution guaranteeing unrestricted rights of exercising the initiative, referendum and recall—is in complete control of the assembly. This was evidenced by the defeat in caucus of Alfred Conklin, the conservative candidate for the presidency of the convention and the subsequent election of George W. P. Hunt, of Globe, a progressive leader. Judge W. E. Wells, the choice of the minority, received the unanimous support of the Republican eleven votes.

Hughes Takes Oath as Justice.

Washington, Oct. 11—The 1910-1911 session of the supreme court of the United States opened with the administration of the oath of office as associate justice to Charles E. Hughes, of New York. The court then adjourned until tomorrow, with respect to the memory of the late Chief Justice Melville W. Fuller. The court was in session only eight minutes.

NAVAL SECRETARY IN SEATTLE

SPENDS DAY AT PUGET SOUND YARDS, STUDYING THE SITUATION.

Will Inspect Naval Property of Government All Along This Coast and Then on Gulf of Mexico—Request of Coast Cities for Fleet to Be Taken Up Soon.

Seattle, Oct. 10.—Secretary of the Navy George von L. Meyer, who is swinging around the coast line of the United States, inspecting naval stations, arrived in Seattle Saturday night.

Regarding the recommendations he may make in reference to the navy yard, Puget sound, the secretary declined to make any statement until he has had an opportunity to make a thorough inspection of the yard.

Silent on Pacific Fleet.

The secretary said that he had read in the newspapers reports of the memorial which the mayors of Coast cities are going to present to him asking that a permanent battleship fleet be stationed on the Pacific coast. He said that while in California he intended to see Gov. Gillett and go over the matter with him. He declined to commit himself as to what policy would be recommended.

Secretary Meyer put himself on record as favoring the purchase of Pacific coast coal for naval needs on this coast, provided a coal can be found that will stand the naval test.

Coast Coal Would be Cheap.

Asked if he did not consider Representative W. E. Humphrey's claim, that the naval test was unfair, Secretary Meyer replied: "If it is, then it must be remedied. It would save the department half the cost of coal if it could be bought on the Pacific coast instead of being brought around from the Atlantic."

Representative Humphrey has been fighting for some time trying to force the navy to purchase coal for its needs on the Pacific coast, and he said that he would again take the matter up with Secretary Meyer. At the last session of congress a bill introduced by Representative Humphrey compelling the purchase of coal on the Pacific coast for the Pacific coast naval needs failed of passage by but one vote.

Received by Senator Piles.

Secretary Meyer was met at the depot by Senator Samuel H. Piles and President J. D. Lowman, of the Chamber of Commerce, and escorted to the Washington hotel. There the secretary was met by Capt. V. L. Cottman, in command of the navy yard at Bremerton, and Representative Humphrey.

The secretary announced that he would spend the entire day Sunday inspecting the navy yard. In the evening he was entertained at dinner by the Chamber of Commerce.

Goes South From Here.

From Seattle Secretary Meyer will go to San Francisco and will inspect the Mare Island navy yard. He will then inspect property of the department at Los Angeles and San Diego. From California he announced he would proceed direct to the Gulf of Mexico and inspect all departmental property along that coast.

Regarding the proposal that the coast defenses of the United States army and the naval forces should cooperate more closely on coast defenses, the secretary said, "that is a matter for the joint army and navy board to consider."

ESTABLISH PACIFIC FLEET AS SOON AS POSSIBLE

Seattle, Oct. 11.—That the government and naval department are well disposed toward the Pacific coast was the assertion made last evening by Secretary of the Navy George von L. Meyer.

"That explains my visit among you," he said. "I have come here to look into conditions and make preparations for a proper defense of the Pacific coast.

Water Depth Here Praised.

"Before that can be done, however, care must be taken that this coast can maintain a fleet. It cannot do so now. For while you have a fine depth of water in Puget Sound, your present dock would not accommodate more than half of the smaller ships of the navy. We cannot, therefore, divide our Atlantic fleet at this time. Your new dock will not be completed until 1912, but even then we could not very well send a fleet here.

"At San Francisco we have a different condition. There we have an engineering problem because of the shallow water and the large deposits of silt. Not one of our large ships could dock there.

New Bookkeeping.

"Now with reference to the proposed test of your coal on our battleships I want to say, as I told those present at tonight's dinner of the Chamber of Commerce, that $2,500 or even a larger sum will not be allowed by me to stand in the way of having a fair test of your coal. The grates required for a fair test will be installed."

Secretary Meyer said that another object of his visit was to establish a uniform system of bookkeeping in the Pacific yards, similar to that he has had adopted on the Atlantic coast.

"LOST" NOT FOR HIM

PICKING UP THINGS GETS STANDISH INTO TROUBLE.

Had Hard Time Making People Believe in His Honesty—Wife Lays Down Few Rules for His Conduct.

Twice Standish came near getting into trouble because he picked up lost property in the street. The articles really were lost and Standish honestly found them, but he had hard work to make anybody believe it. After his second experience his wife laid down a few rules for his guidance:

"If you should find a million dollars piled up on the sidewalk," she said, "you must just walk right past and never offer to return one of them to the owner."

"How about keeping a few plunks for myself?" said Standish.

Mrs. Standish did not smile. "If that is the way you talked to other people when they accused you of theft," she said, "I don't wonder everybody thought you were guilty."

"Never mind," returned Standish; "it's all over now. I never expect to find anything again."

And he did not find anything for six months. At last, however, he saw an enameled cigar case lying in a bypath forth and back which they were walking in Central park. He stopped to pick it up. His wife pulled him back.

"Don't!" she cried. "Remember what happened to you twice before."

Standish rubbed his cheek ruefully. "I hate like the mischief to let it lie there," he said. "If I don't pick it up somebody else will."

"Very well, let them. If other people choose to go to jail that is their lookout."

"It is a fine cigar case all the same," Standish grumbled as they walked on. "It looks a good deal like mine."

"That is all the more reason why you should not meddle. You have no earthly use for two cigar cases exactly alike."

Standish walked along in stubborn silence. When they neared home he was seized with a sudden craving for a smoke. He felt in one pocket, then in another, for his cigar case.

"Where in the name of heaven—" he began. Then his feet lagged heavily. "Good Lord!" he said. "That cigar case—"

"Dear me," said Mrs. Standish, "haven't you got over that yet? What about it now?"

"It was mine!" Standish groaned.

"Grangers" in New York.

City folk who think that "the Grange" and "the Grangers" are obsolete expressions ought to have attended the thirty-seventh annual convention of the New York State Grange recently held in Watertown.

Organized in 1873 with 21 subordinate granges and a small membership, the State Grange has in this brief period increased to 723 granges, with nearly 90,000 members. The granges are now established in 54 of the 61 counties of the state, including practically every agricultural county.

During the last year over 8,000 new names were added to the roll. At the Watertown convention nearly 1,500 out-of-town delegates were present for at least some sessions.

"The grange is uniquely democratic in its organization," says the Survey. "Practically any farmer or farmer's wife, whether owning a farm or working on a farm, is eligible to membership. About one-third of the delegates at the state meeting were women, and not infrequently they brought their husbands as associate delegates, the women voting and the husbands merely participating in the discussions. Sometimes this was reversed.

Among other activities the grange is pre-eminently interested in the improvement of agricultural education and urges the enlargement of the State Agricultural College and a liberal appropriation therefor, as well as for the maintenance of the agricultural schools already established. The grange has established six scholarships at $50 each at Cornell University.—New York Sun.

The Waiter With Two Cars.

A Cleveland party recently sojourning in a Toronto hotel decided to take an automobile ride about the city.

They approached the extremely self-conscious clerk and asked him where they could secure a car.

"Our head waiter has two, don't y' know," he replied.

It took some little time to recover from this shock, but presently one of the part ventured to ask the price.

"Three an hour," was the answer.

That was voted satisfactory and at luncheon one of the Clevelanders turned to the nearest waiter.

"Who is the chap that owns two automobiles?" he asked.

"I am the chap," the waiter replied, and he threw such a freezing emphasis into the word "chap" that it was fairly frost cracked.

They finished their luncheon before they had enough courage to ask the price.

"Four dollars an hour," the waiter replied, with haughty indifference.

Then they went upstairs and hired a very good car for $3 an hour.

A Walking Gentleman.

"Talking about home life in the profession there is an actor who has trodden most of the ties of his life under foot."

"The wretch!"

"Nay, not so. They were mostly railroad ties."

DEVELOPING LOVE OF ART

Have Children During Their Schooldays Acquire the Habit of Visiting Picture Galleries.

A small lassie was conducted by her mother on a tour of the Layton gallery and the established etiquette for art galleries in general was being included as a part of her instruction for the day. Standing before a particularly prosaic-looking canvas, she found it convenient to divert her mind by utilizing the brass railing as a trapeze—thereby developing the muscles of her back and arms.

"What are you doing?" the fond mother inquired. "Do you think this is a gymnasium? You don't come to an art gallery to swing on a railing. You come to look at the pictures. Stand up there, if you want to come again." The implied threat as a finality was effective so far that there was no question in the onlooker's mind as to the treat the little lady evidently regarded a visit to the gallery. That is the great point—to have children during their schooldays acquire the habit of visiting picture galeries. Then it will be but a matter of time for the development of discriminative appreciation. That and real affection for the truly beautiful will follow logically.

AS TOLD IN PLAIN ENGLISH

Real Truth About Young Man With "Excelsior" Banner, and That Lamb of Mary's.

"Excelsior" is a poem about a young man who walked one winter evening through a village in the Alps. The hotel keeper stood in his door and told him the rooms were all taken, but anyhow the young man knew he didn't have enough money for tips. So he went on. He carried a banner reading "Excelsior." One theory is that he was a drummer for an upholstery house and the other is that he was a demented breakfast food inventor. He was found next morning near the top of the mountain and his relatives were notified.

Mary had a lamb that she spoiled by overfeeding and cuddling. She took it to school with her one day and the lamb bothered the spelling class, so the teacher kicked it out of the front door. Not having any sense of direction, it blatted around the schoolyard until finally the teacher sent Mary home with it and told her if she ever brought it again there would be trouble. Next spring Mary's father sold the lamb on the rising market.

Too Quick With Scorn.

That marvelous story of the British expedition to New Guinea, with its discovery of a new pygmy race, reminds a writer that in the past stay-at-home people have sometimes erred in treating travelers' tales with scorn. There was, for instance, the description by James Bruce in 1770 of the barbarous Abyssinian custom of eating raw meat cut from the living animal which was ridiculed by everybody. Yet Bruce has even recently been proved right. When Paul Du Chaillu explored equatorial Africa in 1861 and described the wonderful gorillas and also the nation of dwarfs there he was discredited none too politely by the British Royal Geographical society. Yet subsequent explorers amply vindicated his veracity.

Love of Nature.

Too many, however, still feel only in nature that which we share "with the weed and the worm;" they love birds as boys do—that is, they love throwing stones at them; or wonder if they are good to eat, as the Eskimo asked of the watch; or treat them as certain devout Afreedee villagers are said to have treated a descendant of the prophet—killed him in order to worship at his tomb, but gradually we may hope that the love of science—the notes "we sound upon the strings of nature"—will become to more and more, as already it is to many, a "faithful and sacred element of human feeling."—Sir John Lubbock.

Naples and Its Lottery.

All the hopes and dreams, almost the life itself, of the masses in Naples center in the national lottery system, with its weekly drawing of prizes. In Naples everyone plays the "lotto," and each week sees the upbuilding of the hopes and dreams of thousands, only to culminate at the Saturday drawing in a vast, widespread disappointment. But with the return of Monday the Neapolitan has taken heart again, his visions of fortune again take form, to be realized—surely this time—at the next Saturday drawing.—Harper's.

Quick Justice.

A Yorkshireman was standing next to a representative of the Red Rose on the second day of the Blackpool flying meeting, when he remarked: "I understand that justice is meted out very quickly in these parts." "Quickly!" exclaimed the Lancastrian, "I should think it is. Why, mate, only yesterday an airman fell out of his aeroplane, and he was tried and sentenced to six months in jail before he hit the ground." "You don't say so! What was the charge?" "Vagrancy; he had no visible means of support."

OFFICIAL PAPER

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1910

The detailed vote in the late primaries throughout the state shows that Miles Poindexter was the preference for United States senator over all competitors, Democrats as well as Republicans, by a majority of 12,331 votes.

At a meeting of the Council Tuesday evening the city engineer was instructed to submit a preliminary report on the expense of running a pipe line to the Boulder hot springs. It is thought by some that the expense will not greatly exceed fifty thousand, while others give a guess at twice that. It is believed the war department would arrange for quarters here for the treatment of the soldiers and the militia.

Railroads see no way to meet the high cost of living except by raising freight rates. Done. The merchant tacks the increase onto the price of his wares. He must. The consumer pays the increase. In railroad parlance that "absorbs the differential." But where does the consumer get off? Commissioner Lane says rate increase is no remedy. Could he have said anything truer? The railroad method is a lively little whirligig with Jones always paying the freight. —Aberdeen World.

Right Rev. Fred W. Keator, bishop of Olympia, in attendance upon the meeting of the Laymen's Missionary Society of the Protestant Episcopal church, held in Cincinnatti last week, went on record as favoring the plan, advocated by President Camp of Seabury Society, of New York City, that men who belong to the church should be forced to attend services. Bishop Scalding, of Portland, also thought the plan a splendid one, and said that it would mean much to the Episcopal church of the Northwest.

POPULARITY OF D. S. TROY.

From every part of the district come cheering accounts of the popularity of D. S. Troy's candidacy for the senatorship. There are some excellent reasons for this state of affairs. Mr. Troy is well known throughout the district as an honorable, square dealing man who employs no vain tricks in his business methods and whose word is absolutely to be depended upon. A man who is the same today as he was yesterday and will be the same tomorrow that he is today. A man whose moral character is not regulated by the distance he happens to be from his home community. This is why his neighbors hold him in so high esteem. This is why his home paper is led to say that he will receive practically every vote in his home precinct.

Born on his father's farm in Clallam county, he has lived all his life in this and our neighboring county, and since arriving at man's estate, he has been constantly in business either in Jefferson or Clallam During all this time Mr. Troy's name has never been connected with any scandal, graft or job and he has never been accused of a dishonorable action. His life-long residence and his intimate connection with various business interests of the two counties, notably the creamery business, must assuredly go a long ways toward making him a fit person to represent the district in the upper house of the state legislature. Add to this a well balanced mind which is evidenced by his uniform success in business, an unusual fund of general information and the ability to meet men of affairs and education on equal terms make him an ideal candidate for the position of state senator. Mr. Troy is not an office seeker or a professional politician, neither is he seeking this office for private gain or aggrandisement. Being largely engaged in the creamery business in the two counties, his best efforts will always be to foster and encourage that industry but whatever he may gain for this industry will be shared by hundreds of his fellow citizens and, directly or indirectly, by every citizen of his district.

As said before, Mr. Troy was in no wise a candidate for this nomination, and only accepted after the strongest kind of pressure was brot upon him by his friends. Although a life-long Democrat. Mr. Troy, in his long and somewhat public career has never been known to admit politics into his conduct of business affairs or treatment of the public, whose servant he considers every public official should be.

OUR WOMEN ARE ON TRIAL.

"I ask you, men and women o Colorado, to go back to your homes with the resolute purpose to fight for honesty in both business and politics, not only for our own sakes, and for the sakes of our children, who ought to inherit the land, but for the sakes of the people of the world who stand and watch the experiment which we are making in the republic of the west, so that their hopes shall not be dimmed." Words taken from the address given by Col. Roosevelt at Denver, Colo., August 29, on his recent trip through the middle west.

Mark the words, "I ask you men and women." He was speaking in a state where the women are on the same political equality as the men, in a state where the men and the women could go back to their homes with the resolute purpose to fight for honesty in both business and politics.

I wonder if the Colorado women realize what an enviable position they occupy. How I would loved to have been with them; what a satisfaction it would have been to have sat in that audience and heard the great hero of the American people say: "I ask you men and women to fight for honesty in both business and politics."

I love the state of Washington and I want to live here, but oh, how I do chafe under the degradation of disfranchisement. I came to Washington from Colorado. In Colorado I enjoyed the full rights of citizenship but I was no better or more valuable a citizen in the state of Colorado than I would like to be in the state of Washington. But by living in the state of Washington I am denied that most sacred right of citizenship, self-representation. I am not allowed to live up to the full value of citizenship. I am not allowed to use to the full the intelligence that God has endowed me with to make this a better state for being a citizen of it.

Are the women of Colorado truer better, more trustworthy than the women of Washington? Or is it the men who are different? Are they less capable of seeing the right of things or the justice or the truth, that they have cared to trust their women with the power to help make legislation?

On the 8th of November, 1910, the eyes of the whole civilized world will be turned toward the great Pacific ocean, toward the very borderland of the west. The women of Washington will be on trial. By their vote the men of Washihgton will proclaim to the world that their women can be trusted wfth that most valuable right of citizenship—the ballot, or else they will say to the world, we class our women with the irresponsibles, they are not fit to help legislate, they must be legislated for.

Men of Washington, it is in your hands. Rumor has it that Theodore Roosevelt is coming to Washington next year. I wonder when the men and women come out to hear him if he can say "I ask you men and women of Washington to go back to your homes with the resolute purpose to fight for honesty in both business and politics." I wonder. Again I say it—it is in your hands.

ANNA E. GOODWIN.

The report of the state bureau of inspection and supervision of public offices, just made public, charges Skagit county officials with irregularities, errors and a shortage in accounts, which the county may lose because of the slack way in which bonds were given.

The county commissioners are charged with failure to comply with the law in that purchases were made by individual members, bridge construction is not let by contract and large expenditures of county funds were made without advertising. The manner of paying for road work and supplies by issuing warrants to the supervisors instead of to the individuals for labor and supplies is condemned, as is also the manner of disbursing indigent poor funds thru the superintendent of the poor farm.

Irondale had a record week in steel making the first of this month, turning out eleven hundred tons of ingot steel from the two furnaces, besides keeping the rolling mills running to their full capacity. President Moore has announced that two million dollars is now available and four big rolling mills are to be built at once.

If we look only for crooked trees in the forest, we will find plenty of them; but we will pass by many straight, beautiful trees and never notice them. So, too, if we look only for blemishes in the character of others, we will find them; but we may not notice the many good qualities that they may possess.

The world would be happier if the people were a little more generous with their praise. There is too much flattery, but a word of just appreciation would cheer the heart and strengthen the hands of many a discouraged worker in the home, in the school, in the church and in the world.

Women vote for President and all other officers in Wyoming, Utah, Idaho and Colorado—why not in Washington?

SEVEN CONTESTS ON FOR CITY OFFICES

There is evidently to be quite a scrap on at the city primaries November 8th. A number of filings for city offices were made since our report of last week. Most of the additional filings were made last Saturday afternoon, just in the nick of time, before the time for filings closed.

N. K. Mead filed on the citizen's ticket for mayor. Thus we are to have a three-cornered fight for this office, Lewis Levy and N. K. Mead on the citizen's ticket, and Emil Dermul, socialist.

Also three will try for city treasurer, Harry O. Mason, J. M. Davis and C. E. Nailor.

James Stewart and G. V. Smith are the candidates for city attorney.

C. E. Shields is to have it his own way for clerk.

For councilman-at-large Geo. S. Myers, Conrad Luppen and E. B. Fleming have filed.

Conrad Luppen withdrew his name as a candidate for councilman in the first ward, so there are to be but three candidates, Dustman, Campbell and Layman.

The third ward is also to have three candidates for councilman, in the persons of Charles S. Morey, C. W. Fields and Edward Bjornson.

Chas. D. Harding will contest with David O'Brien for councilman of the sixth ward.

TO THE VOTERS OF THE CITY OF PORT ANGELES

At the solicitation of numerous tax payers and friends, I have consented to become a candidate for mayor, subject to the primary election to be held on November 8, 1910.

I am in favor of a sane and progressive policy of street improvements

I am heartily in favor of bridging Tumwater and Valley creek gulches.

I am in favor of urging upon the next congress to pass a bill for the disposition of the government blocks, so that the property may become taxable, and to enable the city to go ahead with much needed street improvements.

I am in favor of urging upon the next congress for an appropriation for a public building, to which Port Angeles is entitled.

I am is favor of establishing the grades of the city so that property owners may know under what conditions to build.

I am in favor of making a start on a sewerage system.

I am most heartily in favor of bringing the water of the Olympic hot springs on Boulder creek into the city of Port Angeles, making this the mecca of health and pleasure seekers, the same as Los Angeles, Calif., which hundreds of thousands of people visit every year for health and pleasure, expending in that city millions of dollars for such.

The cost of bringing the water from the springs into the city may be obtained by a bond issue, making the indebtedness a charge upon the enterprise itself, without adding any tax upon the people.

If you honor me with the office of mayor, I promise a faithful performance of the same.

Very truly yours,
LEWIS LEVY.

THE CITY COUNCIL

The city council transacted little but routine business Tuesday evening.

New sidewalks were ordered placed on 5th street, between Race and Jones, and on west side of Cherry from 2nd to 12th. Improvements were ordered on Chambers street, between 5th and 6th. Lincoln street tunnel was ordered repaired at a cost not to exceed $50, and the fire hydrant on Carolina was ordered removed to intersection of Carolina and Eunice streets.

The tax levy ordinance was passed.

Light committee instructed to extend light line to the Frank Dustman residence.

Clerk instructed to secure city account and warrant register books.

One hundred dollars was appropriated toward expenses of engineer for the purpose of ascertaining probable cost of conveying mineral waters from Olympic hot springs to the city.

The following bills were allowed:

R. M. Toler, salary and supplies	$54.20
Tribune-Times, printing,	19.15
Willson Hdw. Co., supplies,	14.75
C. E. Shields, stamps,	2.60
Jas. Brandt, breast straps, F.D.,	2.00
H. I. Small and men, repair work and salary,	57.53

J. HENRY SMITH, Register,

The personal efforts of Mrs. Frederick C. Schoff, the "kid's jedge" of Philadelphia, to assist the cause of juvenile reforms have never relaxed for a day. She visits the Juvenile Court so often that she has come to know nearly all the young offenders, and through them, she has made acquaintance with the parents. "I am ready to affirm," she declared once, "that much of a child's wrong doing is due to the ignorance and neglect of parents." Satisfied on this point, she turned her energies toward bettering the conditions in that quarter.

The mothers were to be taught a few facts about their own children. To this end, Mrs. Schoff began the organization of the Parent-Teachers' Association which has exerted large influence on the manner of living in homes all over the Union. Child study is the chief theme with which the association concerns itself, and in Washington a Parents' Educational Bureau is in process of building, which will supply outlines of study and reading and offer a form of education for parent, largely unobtainable elsewhere.—Nautilus.

The Board adjourned to meet Tuesday, the 4th day of Oct., at 8 a. m.

Tuesday, the 4th day of Oct., 1910, at 8 a. m.

The Board met pursuant to adjournment all members being present.

The Board adopted the following resolution, to wit:—

Whereas, the Olympic Power Company, a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of Washington, with its principal place of business at Port Angeles, is now engaged in the construction of a plant for the generation of electric energy or power, on the Elwha River, in Clallam county, Washington, and

Whereeas, the said Company is desirous of acquiring certain rights, privileges and franchises, upon, over, long and across certain County Roads and Highways, and have applied for and petitioned the Board of County Commissioners of Clallam County for such rights, privileges and franchises, and whereas, this Board deems it to be for the Public interest to grant such franchises:

IT IS THEREFORE, by the BOARD OF COUNTY COMISSIONERS OF CLALLAM COUNTY, WASHINGTON, ordered:

THAT, the OLYMPIC POWER COMPANY, a corporation, be and hereby is, granted the right, privilege, license and authority to construct, maintain and operate, transmission lines for the transmission of electric energy for electric power, heat and light, together with poles, wires and other appurtenances upon, over, along and across the streets, roads and highways of said County, hereinafter set forth and described:

Commencing at Aldwell's Canyon on the Elwha River, in Section Fifteen (15), Township Thirty (30) North, Range Seven (7), West of Willamette Meridian, thence along the County Road in a general Northerly and Easterly direction to the corporate limits of the city of Port Angeles, and commencing at the Easterly boundary of the City of Port Angeles, thence in a general Easterly direction along the main County Road between Port Angeles and the Eastern limits of Clallam County, said road being known and described as Road No.—, and commonly known as the "Burlingame" Road; also upon, over, along, and across all branches of said main County Road No.—, leading to and from the Village of Dungeness, and all branches of said main County Road leading to and from the Village of Sequim; also upon, over, along, and across all streets and alleys in said Village of Dungeness, and said Village of Sequim; also upon over, along and across all branches of said county road leading to and from Port Williams. Provided, that in all places where said roads are forty, 40, feet in width that the poles and equipment for such transmission lines shall be maintained at least sixteen 16 feet from the center of said road, and in all cases where said roads are sixty, 60, feet in width, said poles and equipment for said transmission lines shall be maintained at least twenty six, 26, feet from the center thereof. Whenever any of said roads shall be changed by order of the board of County commisioners, said grantee agrees upon sixty, 60, days' notice in writing of such change, to change its transmission lines to conform to said changes in said roads, at it own expense. Said grantee agrees to place a protector under their wires wherever said wires cross over any their main line of telephone or telegraph companies.

Said grantee agrees to hold the said county of Clallam harmless and free of all cost and expenses by reason of accidents experienced or caused by the construction or operation of said transmission lines.

And said grantee agrees to hold the said county of Clallam harmless and free of all cost and expenses or damages for any kind whatsoever experienced or caused by reason of the exercise by grantee of any of the rights herein granted.

That the rights, privileges, authority and franchises herein set forth are granted for a period of fifty, 50, years upon the terms and conditions prescribed and set forth herein.

Said Grantee, its successors and assigns, shall comply in the construction operation and maintenance of the right herein granted with all the provisions of the laws of the state of Washington in relation thereto, and shall so construct, operate and maintain its poles wires and other appurtenances, in such a manner as shall not interfere with the rightful and reasonable use of such streets, alleys, roads and highways, by the public, and shall not block or impede traffic thereon, and where it may be necessary to excavate or otherwise obstruct such highways or any of them, temporarily, to safely guard all such excavations or obstructions, and to remove same as soon as possible, and to restore such roads or highways to their former condition, as soon as can be reasonably done. A failure on the part of the grantee, its successors or assigns, to comply with the terms and conditions of the grants here in made and contained shall work a forfeiture thereof. Provided, however the grantee may exercise the right to place its line along any or all of said roads whereon this franchise is granted.

Provided further said grantee agrees to commence at once with the construction of a hydro electric plant of the Elwha river and to prosecute said work to completion, and if said plant is not in operation within the year of the date hereof it shall work a forfeiture of this grant.

"If you are tired of paying exorbitant prices for every bit of food you eat, every drop of water you drink, and every ray of warmth and comfort your body requires to sustain life, then I will tell you what to do:

"Get a piece of good land and leave the city. The size of the piece of land should not be less than twenty acres, ten of which should be ready for the plow, or under cultivation. If it be new land, then the first thing to do is to build a big fireplace; then construct a neat little house around it, and pipe the water into the house from the spring. Set out your fruit trees, build your cow stable and chicken houses and go to work to win your living from the land. Strengthen your muscles and enrich your soul by winning wages from the soil, as God intended you should, else He would not have made the seasons and given you a pair of hands."—C. F. Whaley, in Pacific Northwest Commerce.

Peaches a L'Angele.

Freeze soft one quart of vanilla cream, then beat in one pint of fresh peach pulp and the juice of two oranges; let stand two hours. Line parfait glasses with thin slices of peaches and fill with the cream, then pour over all a thick, smooth, cooked strawberry sauce.

Another charming way of serving plain ice cream is to fill a mold with the frozen cream and bury it in ice and salt for three hours. Make a cold chocolate icing, rather thin, and as soon as the cream is removed from the mold coat it thickly over the top and sides with the icing, and ornament with chocolate-coated almonds. —Harper's Bazar.

Sweet Apple Pickle.

Twelve pounds of sweet apples, pared and quartered, four pounds of sugar, one ounce of cinnamon bark, one-half ounce of cloves, one pint of vinegar. Put spices in a cloth, tie up, then boil vinegar, sugar and spices well; add apples and boil 20 minutes. Put apples in a jar, boil syrup until thick and pour over them. Simply delicious. Pears are also good prepared this way. Use winter sweet apples, also winter pears.

AT THE LODGE GATE

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

(Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.)

Barbara Toray had not the slightest intention of renting the lodge which marked the entrance to her Long Island estate. Yet, when Robert McWade stood before her, indifferently seeking to rent it as a studio she found herself relenting. He told her that he desired to sketch some of the surrounding landscape and the small unoccupied lodge, nestling so privately among the trees, had caught his eye. Barbara, knowing that the artistic temperament craves a beautiful setting, had not the heart to suggest that he content himself with one of the tenement cottages to be found in the village. The shed-like proportions of those dwellings would certainly irritate a sensitive nature.

So it happened that McWade and all his painting paraphernalia were installed in the lodge at Toray manor.

As Barbara became slightly acquainted with her tenant, she realized that the possibilities of the small edifice he was occupying had been sadly overlooked and she took it upon herself to make amends. She had a high bank of shrubbery placed so as to screen the veranda and make the English garden even more private. A wonderful old wistaria vine was taken from its ancient rooting just outside her own window, and made to shade an unvined summer-house in the lodge garden. Barbara felt that the fragrant pendulous blooms would delight the artist's eyes.

McWade asked permission to fresco the walls of the living-room which he used as a studio; and Barbara not only granted his request but had the sand-plaster walls tinted to harmonize. In the course of her visits to the lodge she learned that the artist lived quite alone and prepared all his own meals in the miniature kitchen. Despite all this and his seeming poverty he was apparently contented with life.

Not so with Barbara. She had become restless and bored with the constant whirl of social dinners, dances and the small talk attendant upon those affairs. She wished now that she had gone over to London with her father and mother. The Royal academy would soon open its doors—those wonderful old gates on Piccadilly would be swung open and all London and its guests would roll under the portals to see what new artists had been beckoned to take their places in the world of fame.

Even Peggy Arnott, Barabara's very dearest chum, was over there. Altogether, Barabara felt very discontented. Added to this, she had come home late the night before with one of her numerous admirers and as they passed the lodge gate she had heard a woman's voice singing.

McWade had been having one of his Bohemian suppers and a well modulated sense of enjoyment had issued from the lodge-studio. Barbara had dismissed her escort with a petulent good night and cried herself to sleep.

The next day she felt strangely apart from the things she wanted. She wondered vaguely who the girl was who had been singing for Robert McWade, and whether or not she was pretty, and whether or not he loved her.

She gazed out over the sloping lawn and down to the lodge. McWade was starting out for some sketching. She watched his big, slow-moving body swing across the field, his dog barking for sheer joy of living, at his side. Barbara surmised that the artist was whistling, though she could not hear him. She wondered again why he had never asked to paint her. She knew she was beautiful; society, artists and the newspapers had told her so. Even an unflattering mirror revealed to her a mass of lovely auburn hair and deep, shaded gray eyes. But—in spite of this and the fact that she had no less than three proposals the previous week, she felt very much unloved.

She recognized keenly her utter lack of really congenial companions; she knew that, with all her money, her servants and her hundreds of acquaintances she had never tasted the exquisite joy of living which, for instance, Robert McWade knew. The man who cooked his own meals on a primitive gas stove and whose frugal fare accepted that fare with a deep-rooted enjoyment, was happier than she. Before Barbara knew the artist she had been conscious of a pity for the strugglers who seemed to be living on nothing at all; now, she realized that they were compensated. They had everything worth while—she had nothing but money.

While she fretted over her philosophies her portly, much-liveried butler brought her the morning mail—letters from her own. Barbara's eyes lit up. It was for her. A chatty scrawl from her mother and one from Peggy Arnott were among them.

As she read her chum's letter Barbara sat up suddenly, various emotions struggling in her animated face. She went back over a passage in Peggy's letter: "Barbara, darling, could you think of anything more startling than to be walking about the Royal academy and there, on the most prominent wall to see a portrait of Mr. and Mrs. Toray, your own father and mother? It is so splendid a piece of work that they almost speak to you. The artist is a Robert McWade, and it looks as if he occupied a high place among the A. R. A.'s."

Barbara did not wait to read further. She flew down through the lodge gate and over across the fields to where an artist and a dog were enjoying the morning sunlight.

"Why didn't you tell me that you had painted a portrait of my mother and father?" demanded Barbara, without preface.

McWade jumped to his feet. "I thought perhaps you knew," he said, fastening his eyes upon her flushed face.

"Well I didn't!" There was a hint of tears behind Barbara's indignant eyes. "I had a letter even today from mamma and she never so much as mentioned it. I think it is an unfair way to treat a girl!" She flashed a lightning glance at the artist and turned on her heel.

McWade did not follow her. Instead, he looked out over the hills at the brilliant color of the early sun and it seemed to foretell the harmony of a wonderful day. Presently McWade turned slowly back toward the lodge.

"Come Bob," he cried to the dog, which seemed to feel a new note of gladness in his master's voice; "the sooner we get our duties for the day done the sooner we can go to her."

That night as the early moon rose over a crest of fir trees the artist and his dog strolled up the path from the lodge toward Toray Manor. Barbara was a trifle pale as she stood in the doorway and met McWade's eyes. She tried vainly to cover the hurt of the afternoon with a cloak of dignity which sat strangely upon her child-like shoulders.

"Do you mind if we go outside?" she asked, suddenly feeling incapable of meeting his eyes.

"I was about to suggest this," he said, when they found themselves entering the summer house. McWade seated himself beside Barbara on the rustic bench and vagrant moonbeams wandered in upon them.

"Barbara," he said, with a suddenness that revealed a long concealed love, "many months ago in London I looked upon a medallion of a very beautiful girl. I loved the picture girl the moment I looked into her gray eyes and kept on loving her until I had to tell her father about it. It was he who had the picture of her. After that I sailed for America in search of the original whom I found to be a thousand times more wonderful than my dream of her." He paused. "And—I have taken my own way of wooing her."

In some way Barbara had discovered that a masculine shoulder was better to lean upon than a rustic post. "But papa and mamma may not consent," she was saying, as the arm of the man swept about her.

"I have their consent—in writing," said McWade.

And the dog pounded his tail on the floor of the summer house in joyful appreciation.

End of a Famous Church.

Belgrave chapel, adjoining Belgrave square, which is almost the last of the proprietary churches in London, is to be demolished, the duke of Westminster refusing to renew the lease which has now expired. Its correct title is St. George's church, and at one time it enjoyed a crowded and fashionable congregation, among whom were numbered the late duchess of Tek, mother of the queen and Princess Louise, duchess of Argyll. At the height of its popularity the congregation was so large that even the steps of the pulpit were occupied.

True Consideration.

Her husband was out walking with her for the first time since she had got her new hat satisfactorily trimmed, says a writer in Scraps. "Isn't it a perfect dream of a hat?" she remarked.

"I said," she repeated, after some moments of silence, "isn't this a dream of a hat?"

Still silence from the man. Then she ventured, reproachfully:

"Why don't you say something?"

"My dear," he answered, "you seemed to enjoy your dream so that I was afraid of waking you."

pick the fruit too green, while it will likely carry well, it will lack size, color and flavor; and experienced apple dealers will want from 50 cents to $1 discount per barrel according to the market.

Just when to pick fruit so that it will not be too ripe and so it will not be too green, is sometimes a hard problem.

Where a man has a large orchard and only a small force to do his work, he will have to commence earlier, and possibly the first fruit he picks will be too green, and the last fruit he picks will be too ripe.

He must so plan his work that the bulk of his fruit will be picked about the proper time.

The heaviest shrinkage I ever sustained in cold storage, except on windfalls and apples picked off of the ground, was on fruit that seemed to be perfect when it came in, beautiful and highly colored, large and smooth; yet inside of a month or two I noticed that these barrels were slack.

Inside of 3½ months the shrinkage was such that they had to be repacked. In four or five months the shrinkage was very great.

It could not have been the fault of the storage, for there were others right beside it, in the same room, the same temperature, the same humidity, and the same care, and practically no shrinkage at all.

What was the cause of this fruit not keeping? Nothing more or less than because the apples had been allowed to fully mature on the trees.

The best and surest way to handle fruit fully matured is to put it on the market at once.

Most any man with a medium-sized orchard can pick and pack the greater portion of his fruit without it being fully ripe; but in case he cannot, he would better have it a little green than too ripe.

Green fruit will gradually mellow in cold storage, and such varieties as Huntsman and Grimes Golden will gradually change from green in color to a yellowish tinge very much like the natural color of the fruit when ripe. Ben Davis and Winesap and some other sorts, however, will not change much, if any.

It therefore is very desirable that the red apples be allowed to mature as much as possible without getting too ripe in order to get the proper color.

Good nice apples always sell for much greater prices later in the season and therefore it is profitable to have them placed in cold storage in the proper condition so as to keep well.

LABOR SAVED BY SEPARATOR

Fewer Utensils Are Necessary and Skim Milk May Be Fed to Farm Animals at Once.

Because it saves all waste of butter fat. What is the use of feeding cows good corn, hay and other stuff that costs money and then allowing the product to go to waste?

Less work is necessary to handle milk with the separator than without because there are fewer utensils to be used and the skim milk may be fed to the pigs and calves and chickens at once and does not have to be handled again.

Forty or fifty dollars will buy a good separator, big enough for a herd of four or five cows and it will save its cost the first year. If properly cared for a separator is good for ten years.

The cream from a separator will bring more money because it is uniform in richness and is sweeter because as it is separated while the milk is warm and fresh it does not absorb odors as it would if left standing around.

The separator saves hauling milk to the creamery and then hauling the skim milk back to the farm. The skim milk hauled any considerable distance becomes cold and sometimes dirty and tainted and not fit to feed.

If a farmer has ten or more cows he will require a larger separator—one that will handle say 150 pounds of milk in about 15 minutes and he then should have a small gasoline engine to do the work. It is quicker and cheaper than hand power.

POULTRY NOTES.

Buckwheat makes good feed, especially as a mixture for fattening fowls.

Without doubt corn is more commonly fed to poultry in this country than any other grain.

Green sprouted oats have been very widely exploited in recent years as a green food for poultry.

The Bronze turkey is the most popular with farmers in America. They are quite hardy and lay a large number of eggs.

The Toulouse geese are one of the very best breeds for the farm. They grow to a great size and as a rule are splendid layers.

There are three important factors to be considered when the object is the production of eggs; the stock, the feed and the housing.

Just Like Cricket.

According to the new football rules there will be three intermissions during the game.

That's so much like dear old cricket, don't you know.

The whistle blows, the game stops, the players fleck the dust from their cuffs.

"Come, boys," says the trainer—always so gentlemanly and thoughtful—"come and take some tea."

So they trot across to the tiring room and sit around on the cushions, quite comfortably, and sip the fragrant Bohea, or the aromatic Lipton—clear, and with lumps, and when the whistle blows the recall they put their spoons in their saucers and amble back to the field prepared to renew the brutal nudging and wrist slapping.

It was just a lovely idea to make the once vicious sport, a between-the-tea-cups game, don't you think?

Gingerbread Without Eggs.

Two cupfuls of molasses; one cupful of sour cream, two teaspoonfuls each of soda and ginger; four and one-half cupfuls of flour; bake slowly. It may fall slightly, but will still be light, and we like it better than to add flour enough to make it dry

Mothers will find Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup the best remedy to use for their children during the teething period.

Smothered Cucumbers.

Pare three cucumbers and cut into quarters and lengthwise. Trim off the portion containing the seeds, and cut the firm flesh into half-inch pieces. In a thick-bottomed saucepan put one tablespoonful of butter, one scant half of a teaspoonful of salt, one quarter of a teaspoonful of paprika and the cut cucumber. Cover closely, and set over the hot fire for five minutes, then draw back where they will cook slowly. They should be very tender in from 12 to 13 minutes.

RECORD FOR EXTRAVAGANCE HELD UNDER STATE ROAD LAW

As an instance of the deplorable condition of affairs in the handling of state road matters, the Irondale News cites the case of State Road No. 14, which, as surveyed, will be 22.7 miles in length, connecting the present main road, which extends from Lake Crescent, west of Port Angeles, to Duckabush on Hood Canal, with the Mason county highway at Hoodsport. The News says: "An appropriation of $35,000 was secured from the last legislature to make a start on this road, which will give the northern portion of the Olympic peninsula an outlet to the communities of the state. A survey was completed at a cost of $6,000. Construction work was begun last spring, and to date $24,000 has been spent on the highway, with a total of just two miles completed. The balance on hand will result in another mile being added to the work before the appropriation is exhausted. Three miles of road for $35,000 is a pretty good record for extravagance. It is sufficient to build and equip a modern electric railway of the same length. At the same rate of progress it will take just fourteen years to complete the highway. The estimate of the state highway commissioner for the complete road, including bridges, is $20,000." Had the work been done by contractors under the supervision of the county officials, as are the state aid roads, it is very probable that the entire 22 miles could have been built for the $35,000. The state road law is wrong in principle and should be amended at the next session of the legislature, so that some returns can be had for money invested. As the News says:

State Road No. 14 is a matter of the utmost importance to the people of the entire Olympic peninsula. Its completion will open the section to a most desirable set of sight-seers. It is predicted by those who give thought to the summer tourist business that when a route is opened from the other communities of the state through the Olympic peninsula, the result will be seen in an endless string of automobiles, filled with sight-seers, anxious only to inspect the various points of interest, without regard to the expense involved. The Olympic peninsula becomes every year better known to the traveling public, and within the next few years it will have the general reputation of being the greatest outing ground in all America. Connection with the main traveled highways, which will permit of the circling of the peninsula without the present necessity for transporting valuable motor cars on steamers where very little attention is given to the rights of the owners, will mean the coming every year of thousands of visitors whose attention is now directed elsewhere.

TO THE VOTERS OF CLALLAM COUNTY

I have been informed by my friends that my opponent is circulating the report that I am away looking for a location east of the Cascades. This report is entirely false. I have my home in Clallam county, have seen nothing better anywhere else, and I expect to live there the rest of my life.

It is true that I am at present east of the mountains, but am here in the interests of an eastern fruit brokerage firm, that for the last fifteen years has employed me to buy their stock of apples in this state. They, again this year, relied on me to do their buying, and as much as I would like to have taken a trip around the county electioneering with the rest of the candidates, I hope that the people will not, at this time, lay my absence up against me.

I want to thank you for your votes at the primary, and hope that you will all support me at the election next month. If elected, I will endeavor to fill the office with credit to myself and the county, and it shall be my highest ambition to give everybody a fair and square deal.

Order to Show Cause Why Order of Sale of Real Estate Should Not be Made.

In the Superior Court of the State of Washington, for Clallam County.
In the matter of the estate of John P. Hawks, deceased.

It appearing to this Court, by the petition this day presented and filed by J. E. Beam, the administrator of the estate of John P. Hawks, deceased, that it is necessary to sell the whole or some portion of the real estate of said decedent to pay the debts of decedent and the expenses and charges of administration.

It is therefore ordered by this Court that all persons interested in the estate of said deceased appear before the said Superior Court on Saturday the 29th day of October, 1910, at the hour of ten o'clock, A. M., of said day at the court room of said court, at the court house in the City of Port Angeles, County of Clallam, State of Washington, to show cause why an order should not be granted to said administrator to sell so much of the said real estate as shall be necessary, and that a copy of this order be published four successive weeks, in the Olympic Leader, a newspaper printed, published and of general circulation in said county.

Dated this the 28th day of September, 1910. GEO. VENABLE SMITH.
(SEAL.) Court Commissioner of Clallam County, Washington.

Notice of Sheriff's Sale of Real Estate.

Cause No. 2480.
In the Superior Court of the State of Washington for Clallam County.
Marion J. Bell, plaintiff, vs.
Ole Engvolsen, and Lena Engvolsen, his wife, et al., defendants.

Under and by virtue of Order of Sale issued out and under the seal of the Superior Court of the State of Washington, holding terms at Port Angeles, in and for said county, on the 22nd day of September, A. D. 1910, upon a judgment rendered in said court on the 13th day of April, A. D. 1910, in favor of Marion J. Bell and against Ole Engvolsen, and Lena Engvolsen, his wife, et. al., for the sum of Three Thousand, Eight Hundred and Eighty-three Dollars together with attorney's fees, interest, costs and increased costs, and to me directed and delivered, commanding me to sell the following described property to satisfy said judgment to-wit:

Lots 1, 2, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9, in Block 289 and Lots 10 to 18, inclusive, in Block 270, all in the townsite of Port Angeles, in Clallam County, State of Washington.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that on Saturday, the 22nd day of October, A. D. 1910, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, I will sell the above described property, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy said judgments, together with attorneys fees, interest, costs and increased costs, in all amounting to the sum of Forty One Hundred and 43-100 ($4100.43) Dollars.

Said sale will take place at the front door of the court house at Port Angeles in said county and state, and will be at public auction for cash in hand to the highest and best bidder.

Dated at Port Angeles, Wash., this 22nd day of September, A. D. 1910.

A. J. COSSER, Sheriff.
