WILL BUILD ROAD UP ELWHA ABOVE MC DONALD

T. B. Waller, of Seattle, who recently purchased the C. C. Bowman ranch on the Elwha with the intention of establishing a dairy ranch, was in town this week making arrangements for the preliminary work. He will invest five thousand in improvements this year, and expects to put in ten thousand ultimately. By making use of the grazing lands on Hurricane Hill and the parks of Mt. Angeles, a permit for a thousand acres of which will be obtained of the reserve officials, he can engage in the dairying and stock-raising business on a large scale.

Mr. Waller petitioned the Board Wednesday for a two mile road, running from McDonald bridge up the east side of the Elwha to his ranch. The Board denied the petition so far as actual construction of the road by the county is concerned, but agreed to have the survey made and to secure permission from the government for its building, as it will be within the forest reserve. Commissioner Hansen stated that the county had no money for private or semi-private roads; that in his district he proposed to concentrate work on the construction and improvement of the main thoroughfares, so that when a rancher got down to the main road he could bowl rapidly along to town. Mr. Waller was satisfied with the arrangement, saying that the main road needed the work bad enough, for the first seven miles out of town on what is known as the automobile road to the lakes was so bad a team could hardly get over it with an empty wagon. He will put in the new road, costing two thousand, at his own expense.

There is a strip of land several miles in length along the Elwha above McDonald; in early days several ranches were started and fair sized clearings made. Tho in the reserve, the land is strictly agricultural and would all be occupied if it were possible to get in or out without virtually climbing over the end of the mountain, which, just above the bridge, cascades in bare rock walls down to the water's edge. The new road will practically be a present of two thousand dollars, or whatever the cost may be, to the district, for it will open up this country; it will also be of great advantage to the summer campers and hunters.

CHANGES IN ROAD DISTRICTS STAND

Surveys Ordered for Burnt Mountain, Ennis and Sieberts Creeks, and Lake Crescent.

The new boundary lines between the various road and bridge districts will stand as fixed at the January session, was the decision of the Board of Commissioners at its meeting this week. Messrs. Iverson, Sult and Smith, the committee representing the West End, were present and addressed the Board, as also did Fairservice, Klahn, Kidd and others. The principal address, however, was made by Attorney R. C. Wilson, who spoke for the gentlemen from the third and fourth district, and presumably also for the timber interests.

Mr. Wilson is a splendid speaker and his address to the Board covered a multitude of points of a minor nature and hence was particularly interesting But he failed to give any satisfactory reason for a continuation of past conditions, so unjust to the great majority of the people of the county, or to show that the people of districts three and four would be seriously injured by the change.

As a matter of fact, it appears very doubtful if the people of the West End—aside from those who are for business reasons opposed to an Angeles-Sapho road, or those who on account of the low taxation on timber possible in a large district—would have protested against the change in the district lines had they not been misled into believing, as stated in their communication to the county papers last week, that "a part of the Clallam Bay-Quillayute road" had been included in the second district and that they "would have to wait for the supervisor of district No. 2, who would likely be a Port Angeles man, to come to Beaver to clear out trees after each storm and do the necessary work each summer." Even after they arrived at the court house, some of the gentlemen were still of the opinion that over six miles out of the center of their road was included in the Angeles district, and when they found out none of the road was so included they said they had no particular objection to the change.

A survey was ordered for a half mile of road to connect the end of the State Road with the wharf at East Beach, Lake Crescent. The State Road will not go down to water level at this point, but will continue further on around the lake on account of the rock headlands there. Hence we have an automobile road from the other side of Dry Creek, some six miles from town, to within a half mile of the lake. Commissioner Hansen said he didn't believe in building roads for the benefit of owners of automobiles, but for farmers, and while they needed that money for the road between town and Dry Creek, where at present a horse must plant three feet firmly in order to pull the fourth out of the clay, still it would be best to finish up the other end under the circumstances, and it was so ordered.

The Board ordered survey and estimates made for the remaining one and a half miles necessary to complete the Burnt Mountain Cut-off. Engineer FitzHenry said he would get at it just as soon as the snow melted and expected to have it done so that bids could be called for to be opened at the April meeting.

Surveys were also ordered for the improvement of the Dungeness road at Ennis and Siebert's creeks, either by new grades or by bridges, as may be found advisable.

The Board ordered the purchase of a grader and team for use of the second district.

SURE THING

W. B. Ritchie is in receipt of the following telegram from E. B. Cox, the railroad promoter, who is in Washington, D. C.

If the council grants franchise, go at once to Townsend and make similar application. Am assured of franchise from that city. Everything satisfactory here. Railroad will surely be built.

MORSE CREEK HILL ROAD A DANDY

Teams Can Trot Up Grade at Any Point and Can Take Heavy Load Down With Ease.

The new Morse Creek Hill road is a grade of which the county engineer may well feel proud, was the concensus of opinion of the Board of Commissioners, who visited it yesterday. And it may as well be admitted right here that he does take pride in it, especially when he happens to think of the old road. For be it known that the old road, the road the farmers have had to contend with while we have been building automobile roads to the lakes, has a 23 per cent grade, and not only that, but a portion of it is covered with corduroy, presumably because its so steep the bed cannot be kept covered with rock or gravel; a wagon goes down over the poles bump, bump, bump, like a trunk jerked down a pair of stairs.

However, that's of the past, even if of the recent past. The steepest portion of the new grade is only 5½ per cent. A team can easily trot down with a load the entire distance, and, moreover, without a load they are willing to break into a trot at any time on the upgrade. While we have been having long continued rains of late, the surface is just barely damp; one couldn't wet the soles of his shoes in walking the entire half mile of the hill.

The entire road will be over eight thousand feet long, from its connection with the old road at the top of the hill to the foot of the bridge, which in itself is six or seven hundred feet long. The bridge appears to be particularly solid; there are two spans, one across the stream and the other over an overflow channel. The piling was driven seventeen feet below the surface which should preclude any possibility of weaving in time of flood.

The lower portion of the road, something like half way up the hill, was built under the state aid law, the Board of Commissioners taking the contract. No better illustration need be had of the fallacy of doing contract work by day labor under the direction of supervisors, as has been the custom here for the past few years. It is for the most part so narrow that teams are either unable to pass or can do so with difficulty. The upper portion of the road, built under contract by Govan and Critchfield, cost less money; the cut is deeper, the road bed much wider, and the price paid for the work under contract also included cutting down the upper end of the lower portion some eight feet and the graveling to the foot of the hill.

The contractors still have considerable work to do but the new road is in use as far as completed, the hill being reached by means of a convenient ranch road.

ROAD SUPERVISOR'S METHODS ORDERED INVESTIGATED

County Attorney Ritchie was ordered to investigate the methods of accounting and other matters in connection with the work of Road Supervisor Marshall of the West End. Certain charges were made to the Board by Messrs. Klahn, Hahn and Kidd, of monies received by the supervisor of which they had never seen an accounting in the records, and of which Auditor McLaughlin stated to the Board there was no record. While they did not accuse the supervisor of stealing from the county, they objected to the loose system employed. They also brought up a number of other affairs, citing instances in point, tending to show mismanagement in connection with the roads. It is said these gentlemen, and others, have personal grievances against Supervisor Marshall, which may account for charges without foundation of fact, and again, which may be taken as indicating the reason why they are no longer willing to endure conditions as they are. The findings, whether in condemnation or praise of the work of Mr. Marshall, will be awaited with no little interest.

WESTPHAL HOME WILL BE MADE SELF-SUPPORTING

After several years of innocuous desuetude, during which it has cost the county something like $1800 per year to run the Westphal Home it would seem that institution is to be at last placed on a business basis and made a self supporting if not a profitable investment. While the buildings are ample, the residence being altogether too large for the needs of the county for many years to come, the cleared acreage amounts to but little more than a pasture and an orchard. It is believed that an expenditure of three to four thousand dollars will place the farm where, with ordinary management such as the average farm in the county receives, it will pay expenses including the salary of a superintendent and care of the inmates. This idea has been urged upon the Board by the present superintendent, Mr. Haynes, for the past four years, and he brought the matter up again at this last session.

Commissioner Hansen said he believed the Home should be improved and then conducted as a sort of experimental farm; he would also have the county own the stock, purchasing only registered animals; the sale of young stock thruout the county would be a great benefit. Commissioner Lotzgesell believed that a committee of three practical farmers should be selected to take the matter in hand and make proper recommendations. Superintendent Haynes said he believed the State Agriculturist would be glad to make it an experimental farm attached to the State Agricultural College at Pullman, just as they are doing with a few private farms in other sections; in fact, Mr. Sparks had said as much. The State College would only take up the agricultural part of the farming, making an examination of the soils, determining what had best be planted, the variety to be selected, and overseeing the work to the extent of having their cultural instructions carried out. In this manner, Mr. Haynes said, they had demonstrated on a test farm at Chehalis that certain varieties of corn could be profitably grown here for ensilage, a fact of great importance to the dairyman. The Superintendent is to submit written recommendations for consideration at the next meeting when steps will be taken to get matters under way.

MOVEMENT STARTED FOR NEW CEMETERY

There is a most laudable movement on foot for a new cemetery for Port Angeles, one that shall be located nearer the eastern limits of the city where our people can have more easy access to it; located so near that on a pleasant afternoon one can walk out and strew flowers upon the graves and visit the last resting place of their dear departed.

Therefore we are pleased to know that quite a number of our citizens are interested in the matter and are desirous of organizing an association for a new cemetery, one that shall be well cleared and properly drained, with good streets and walks and small parks. In fact, made an attractive place that everyone will want to visit, and where they will want to have the remains of their friends laid at rest.

Local people together with others in the East who own the e hf of the sw qr, ne qr, Sec. 14:30-6, located about six blocks south of the government townsite, on White creek, are planning to have this

SPOKANE MAY HAVE WOMAN COMMISSIONER

Spokane, Feb. 4.—Spokane may have the unique spectacle of a woman sitting in solemn conclave with four business men and passing upon the laws needful for the government of the city under the new form of commission government which was recently adopted. The woman is Mrs. May Arkwright Hutton, one of the most prominent woman's suffragists in the Northwest. Her husband is a millionaire.

The reason her candidacy has not been publicly announced as yet is that the women were not certain whether or not she will consent to run for office.

Some of the business men are credited with saying that Mrs. Hutton has more business ability than many of the men who have announced their candidacy thus far, but there seems to be considerable doubt as to whether these men would support her in office or not.

It is said that supporters of Mrs. Hutton are only waiting to learn for a certainty whether or not she will become a candidate before launching a vigorous campaign in her behalf.

Mrs. Hutton was one of the foremost in the campaign for equal suffrage in Washington. She is a member of the Woman's Non-Partisan League and the Woman's Club, and it is believed that one of these will vigorously back Mrs. Hutton, but it has not been ascertained which one.

MISSOURI STATE CAPITOL DESTROYED BY FIRE

Jefferson City, Mo., Feb. 6.—The Missouri capitol building was entirely destroyed by fire last night. The total loss, including the building and many records and state papers, is estimated at $1,000,000, with no insurance.

Lightning, which struck the dome shortly after 7 o'clock, spread the flames to the roof and in less than half an hour it was apparent that the building was doomed.

Gov. Hadley personally directed the fight against the flames which, because of the building's age, rapidly gained great headway. The penitentiary fire department was called to the scene, and the convicts worked heroically, scaling walls and taking dangerous chances.

The legislature will determine today whether to continue its sessions here or elsewhere in the state. Some members favor continuing the session here, where smaller buildings have been offered by the business men, while others are for the removal of the legislature. The loss of the house records practically necessitated the work of the present session being done over.

Gov. Hadley said he would grant pardons to several convicts who risked their lives to save state papers.

SHIP SUBISDY BILL IS PASSED BY SENATE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—When Vice President Sherman cast the deciding vote in a tie of 39 to 39 in the senate the first step toward ship subsidy legislation became a fact. The Gallinger substitute which was voted on extends bounties to American built vessels plying to the Philippine Islands, Japan, China and Australia, as well as to those plying to ports of the south half of South America, which were only mentioned in the original Gallinger bill.

As passed the bill authorizes the payment by the postoffice department for the carrying of mails of $4 a mile on the outward voyage to second class American-built vessels plying between American ports and ports in the Philippine Islands, Japan, China and Australasia, and between American ports and ports in South America south of the equator, and the payment of $2 a mile to third class American ships similarly engaged.

Stops at American ports in the South Atlantic are provided for. It is explicitly declared that no contract shall be awarded to any person or corporation engaged in any competitive transportation by railway, or who is employed in exporting or importing merchandise in his own behalf.

There also is provision limting the expenditures in any one year to $4,000,000, or to the surplus earnings of the ocean mail carrying business.

OKLAHOMA IS CONSIDERING CONSTRUCTION OF RAILWAY

Oklahoma City, Feb. 4.—The state of Oklahoma is preparing to build a railroad. That will be her answer to Wall street.

The Wall street owned lines crossing Oklahoma objected to Oklahoma's progressive constitution. Consequently they have persistently and consistently given the citizens of Oklahoma the worst of it ever since the constitution went into effect. They have refused to build a mile of new track in the state until the constitution is amended. They have discriminated against Oklahoma shippers in the matter of freight rates. Thus they have hoped to worry the people into amending the constitution.

Twice the people have voted down amendments proposed by the railroads. And now they propose to build a railroad of their own.

It seems likely that the present legislature will initiate a bill calling for the floating of $10,000,000 in bonds for the building of a railroad 550 miles long through the heart of the state. Committees of both houses are now considering the matter thoroughly.

CHANGES IN BANK LAWS ASKED

MORE POWER TO REGULATE INSTITUTIONS REQUESTED BY MOHUNDRO.

Annual Report Specifies Twenty-eight Respects in Which He Thinks Changes Would Be Beneficial—Would Also Regulate Building and Loan Associations.

Twenty-eight recommendations for new legislation intended to add strength and prestige to the banking position in the state of Washington have been made by State Bank Examiner J. L. Mohundro in his annual report just handed to Gov. M. E. Hay. Mr. Mohundro desires legislation which will enlarge the powers and the efficiency of the state banking department and which will tend to further safeguard the depositors and stockholders of the state banks. Mr. Mohundro made his recommendations after investigation, not only in this, but in other states. He expects that a large number of the suggestions, if not all, will be acted upon at the present session of the legislature. His recommendations follow:

Regulate Building Associations.

In banks that carry both commercial and savings accounts, entire segregation of the deposits, the law defining in which class of securities the savings deposits may be invested and requiring that these securities be held for the special use and benefit of savings depositors; defining the amount of reserve that must oe kept by the savings department and defining what constitutes a savings deposit.

Building and loan associations and savings and loan associations to be put under the supervision of the banking department, with adequate fees provided for examination and supervision.

Fixing the limit of the amount of money that may be expended in bank building and bank fixtures, according to the capital stock and surplus of a bank.

Providing that no individual or individuals shall engage in the banking business in a private capacity, but that all persons engaging in the banking business shall form a corporation for that purpose.

An amendment to the present act enabling the examiner to enforce the law which provides that all real estate acquired by a bank, except its office building, must be disposed of within five years. The penalty or manner of procedure against the bank should be provided.

To Limit Loans.

Only citizens of the United States should be permitted to incorporate a bank and the majority of the board of dierctors should be citizens of the state.

The examiner should be required to designate reserve cities and reserve agents for banks.

Limiting the amount to be loaned to one individual or firm.

Prohibiting a bank from investing its capital or money of its depositors in shares of corporations, and providing when such shares are taken in the collection of debts, a time for the disposal of the same.

Enabling the state examiner to authorize banking corporations and collect annual corporation tax against the same, instead of the secretary of state performing the duty, as at present.

Two Examinations Per Year.

Requiring at least two examinations per annum of all banks, building and loan and savings and loan societies, and where in the opinion of the state examiner it is necessary, quarterly examinations, such banks and societies paying the regular fees for examinations.

Providing that the state examiner settle the affairs of failed banks and providing for a special deputy to be paid out of the banks' assets while in charge of the failed institution.

Defining fully what are the powers and duties of the examiner in charge of a bank temporarily, i. e., before it is finally declared insolvent.

Requiring banks to keep a stock book properly posted, showing the name, address and number of shares held by each stockholder, and requiring that the stock be issued in the name of the party to whom it actually belongs.

Requiring the publication of unclaimed bank deposits after the same have been inactive for ten years, showing the name, amount and last known postoffice address of the depositor.

Requiring the state examiner or the board of directors of a bank against which an assessment has been made, to sell the stock on which the assessment has not been paid.

To Protect Stock.

An amendment to section 41, chapter 225 of the laws of 1907, which provides that when the capital stock of a bank is impaired, that the impairment must be made good or the capital stock of the bank reduced to a point where there would be no impairment; said amendment providing that the capital stock may not be reduced to an amount less than the amount required by law in a city or town of the size of the one in which the bank is located.

More clearly defining the use of the words "bank," "banker" and "trust," as used in section 30, chapter 225 of the laws of 1907.

Requiring that before a stockholder may be a director in a bank or a trust company he must own at least ten shares of stock and that the same be held and owned by him in his own right and unpledged as collateral security or in any way hypothecated.

$25,000 Minimum Capital.

Providing that $25,000 capital, fully paid in cash, shall be the minimum capitalization of a bank.

Amending section 33 of chapter 225 of the laws of 1907, requiring all banks to maintain a 15 per cent reserve against all deposits and liabilities, including money borrowed on demand, providing a penalty; and providing that banks doing a savings business exclusively, the reserve may be 10 per cent; providing further that all banks in reserve cities shall maintain 25 per cent reserve on all deposits.

Increasing salaries of the state examiner and deputies.

Regulating the fees made against banks for examinations, making the department self-sustaining.

Directors should be required to make a list and special report for the state examiner on each asset in the bank, with valuation, twice each year, June and December.

Limit Loans to Officers.

Loans to officers and directors, or to institutions in which they are interested, without first having authority by resolution by the board of directors at a meeting for that purpose, be held personally against the officer or officers making the loan.

The law should be so amended as to permit the state examiner to disclose information to national bank examiners in adjusting bank affairs for purposes of reconciling accounts.

The amount of bond of examiner and deputies should be reduced to $10,000 each.

The law should provide the manner for voluntary liquidation of banks and trust companies.

POLITICAL GOSSIPS TALK OF AN EXTRA SESSION

Washington, Feb. 4.—President Taft's announcement that the Southern tour which he had planned to take early next month would be canceled with the exception of the visit to Atlanta, March 10, started political tongues to wagging with rumors that his purpose was to prepare for a possible extra session of congress in case the present session fails to enact the reciprocity agreement between the United States and Canada.

Pressure of business and too many invitations to visit places in the South while making the tour are the reasons assigned for the cancellation of the trip.

Fears have been expressed that the senate would "talk the reciprocity measure to death," or kill it in some other way, although it was believed the house probably, with the aid of the Democrats, would pass it.

If this should be the case, the president would feel, it was said, that he could depend on a Democratic house, such as would exist after March 4, to support him in his effort to pass this legislation. An extra session would force action on the question, with the chances apparently in favor of the president getting his reciprocity legislation.

MORE PUBLICITY WORK BY STATE IS URGED

Olympia, Feb. 4.—L. W. Hill, president, and F. C. Brown, general Western counsel of the Great Northern, called on Gov. Hay to discuss matters in general relating to what the state should do in the publicity work being done to exploit Washington.

Mr. Hill suggested to the governor that some scheme whereby the seal of the state should be appended to general advertising matter regarding the state's resources would add dignity and verity to the advertisements throughout the Eastern states.

Mr. Hill pointed out to the governor that other states are spending large sums in exploiting the resources within their borders, and predicted that Washington would be the loser did it not adopt some such plan.

The secretary of state has asked for an appropriation of $30,000 to carry on certain state publicity work for this year and next.

TO BEGIN WORK ON WASHINGTON CANAL LOCKS

Washington, Feb. 4.—Secretary of War Dickinson has forwarded to the army engineer's office at Seattle instructions to commence as soon as possible the drawing of plans for locks which the government will construct in the Lake Washington canal, so that the contract for their construction may be let without further delay.

An appropriation for locks was made last year, but the fund was not to become available until proof was given that the local backers of the project were ready and capable of carrying out their part of the contract, which includes the construction of the canal proper. It was only recently that such proof could be given, and through the efforts of Representative Humphrey the matter has been brought to the present point.

Bill Against Lucky Coupons.

Olympia, Feb. 4.—There will be no lucky holders of coupons in theaters, business houses or anywhere else, entitling such lucky person to automobiles, boxes of candy or anything else, if a bill introduced by Representative Minard becomes law. He doesn't exempt charity affairs, either, from holding lotteries of any kind.

TO ENFORCE HONEST WEIGHTS

FEDERAL INSPECTOR'S REPORT BASIS FOR BILL IN LEGISLATURE.

Jackson of King County Introduces Measure Providing for State Inspector of Weights and Measures and Deputies—Bill Adopts National Standard.

Olympia, Feb. 4.—Following the federal inspector's report on short weight scales in Tacoma, Seattle and Spokane a bill has been introduced in the state senate by Senator Jackson of King county, adopting the United States standard and providing a new and stricter system of inspection for Washington.

"After Federal Inspector F. S. Holbrook conducted his investigation in the three largest cities of the state, I had a long conversation with him," said Senator Jackson. "He told me of the evasions and violations in my own city and the other places. I determined then that legislative action should be taken for the protection of consumers. I came with Inspector Holbrok to Olympia and he had a talk with Gov. Hay. As a result I have introduced a bill providing for the appointment of a state superintendent of weights and measures, and outlining his duties."

Bill Provides Standard.

The bill provides that all weights and measures used in the state shall conform to the standards approved by the national bureau of standards. A state superintendent would be appointed by the governor at a salary of $2,400 a year. He would have the appointment of one state deputy and two state inspectors, the salaries to be fixed by the legislature.

Under the proposed measure the state superintendent or one of his assistants would at least once in two years visit the various cities and counties of the state to inspect the work of the local sealers.

It is provided that in cities of the first class the mayor "shall apopint a city sealer of weights and measures from a list to be furnished by the civil service board, where such board exists, otherwise he shall be appointed by the mayor by and with the advice and consent of the common council." In cities other than of the first class the county auditor shall serve, the bill making the auditor the county sealer.

May Combine on Work.

However, it is provided that a county and first class city situated within its boundaries may combine under one sealer "as may be agreed upon, subject to the written approval of the state superintendent."

The county auditor, serving as sealer, shall have one deputy whose salary shall be fixed by the county commissioners at not less than $900 a year.

All officials in the service would be made special policemen, and any person found having in his possession a device, weight or measure to falsify the standard would be fined not less than $20 nor more than $200, or three months in jail, or both, for the first offense. The penalty for a second offense is fixed at $50 to $500 fine, or six months in jail, or both.

PROPOSED LAW STRIKES AT FOREIGN SHIPPING POOLS

Washington, Feb. 4.—The Humphrey bill, giving the government power to exclude from Aemrican ports any foreign ships that enter into pools or agreements to control freight or passenger rates, or to shut out competition, was favorably reported to the house by the committee on merchant marine.

"It is a matter of common knowledge," said Representative Humphrey, in making the report of the committee, "that more than 90 per cent of the transoceanic commerce of the country is carried on foreign ships that belong to pools, conferences and combines. Freight and passenger rates are fixed by agreement. The rates charged are unjust and exorbitant."

Standard Apple Box Wanted.

North Yakima, Feb. 6.—E. F. Benson, chairman of the legislative committee of the Washington State Horticultural Association, sent the presiding officers of the legislatures of Montana, Idaho, Utah, Colorado and Oregon a circular letter asking for a law making the standard apple and pear boxes the same as Washington, and protesting the effort of Eastern growers to establish a different standard. The same letter and copies of the law were sent to members in congress.

President Commutes Editor's Sentence.

Wasnington, Feb. 4.—President Taft has commuted the sentence of Fred D. Warren, the Kansas Socialist editor, who was recently sentenced to six months' imprisonment and $1,500 fine by striking out the imprisonment and reducing the fine to $100, to be collected by civil process only.

Air Record Broken.

Paris, Feb. 4.—All biplane records for speed were broken here yesterday when M. Fay did 40 miles in 32 minutes. Fay was flying in competition for the Aerial League prize.

PLANS UNDER WAY FOR NEXT IRRIGATION CONGRESS

Chicago, Feb. 6.—Plans are being formulated by the Chicago board of control to make the nineteenth annual convention of the National Irrigation Congress, which will meet here December 5 to 9, of world-wide interest. President Taft has promised to speak at one of the sessions on the closing day, and, in addition, there will be representatives from practically every irrigated district on this continent, government experts, railroad officials, capitalists and delegates from foreign countries.

Former Judge Charles F. Fishback, a member of the board of governors, has interested thirty prominent business and professional men of Chicago in the work of the local board of control, of which he is chairman, and the co-operation of the people of Chicago and the millions tributary to this great central market is bound to be a tremendous aid to the movement, which has for its chief purposes the saving of forests, storing of flood waters, reclamation of deserts and making homes on the land.

"The National Irrigation Congress will have the support of our public-spirited men," said Judge Fishback, "and with the assistance of our friends in other parts of the country there is every reason to believe that the coming convention will be the most important in the history of the organization."

LOUISIANA TO EXHIBIT AT SAN FRANCISCO FAIR

New Orleans, La., Feb. 6.—If the plans of the Louisiana Development League are carried out, the state of Louisiana will have one of the most attractive and beneficial exhibits at the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco.

Plans are now under way, according to C. H. Willard, one of the directors of the organization, to this end. Mr. Willard said:

"Louisiana cannot afford not to have an exhibit at San Francisco. We have been put to the test, and we must do our best in order that this state have an adequate representation of its products and resources. We want to make the Louisiana exhibit the most attractive in the big show.

"It will be a center of observation on account of the magnificent efforts made by our people to win the prize. We have come out of the contets with honor and with clean hands. We have won the respect and admiration of the world for pluck and energy, and every one who attends will want to see what Louisiana has done.

"I believe the commercial organizations and the people generally will come forward and assure a handsome state building and other displays."

INSURGENTS URGE ACTION FOR POPULAR VOTE

Washington, Feb. 6.—The recently organized National Progressive Republican League, through Senator Bourne of Oregon, its president, sent telegrams to the governors and legislatures of various states yesterday asking them to bring influence to bear upon their respective senators in favor of the joint resolution for the popular election of senators. The telegram says that "it is not certain that the resolution will receive the necessary two-thirds vote. It is certain that 90 per cent of the people are in favor of it."

FOREIGN POWERS COULD HARDLY USE CANAL IN WAR

Victoria, Feb. 4.—Admiral Viscount Ijuin, of the Japanese navy department, when interviewed regarding the remarks stated to have been made by Admiral Yashiro regarding the fortification of the Panama canal, said it would be impossible for any foreign power to use the canal in war time, as to do so it would be necessary to land sufficient forces to occupy both sides of the cana lthroughout its length, and the canal could be easily blockaded by the sinking of a single vessel, whether warship or merchant craft. Viscount Ijuin closed by saying the closing of the canal would be so inconvenient that only a very great power like America could contemplate anything of the kind.

ANOTHER SLIDE BEGINS IN FAMOUS CULEBRA CUT

Washington, Feb. 4.—Another great earth slide, a mile long, has started to move in the Culebra cut, in the Panama canal, and already has covered the sixty-five-foot bank of the canal over the tow path with 250,000 cubic yards of material. The slide began, according to the Canal Record, January 18, on the west bank, opposite the Culebra hotel. Up to January 25 the earth had not encroached on the railroad tracks, in the tower part of the cut, to any extent, and operations there were not interfered with. Some hasty shifting of heavy frame houses became necessary to save them.

California May Help Chinese.

Sacramento, Cal., Feb. 4.—Congress and legislatures of all states are called upon to give financial relief to plague and famine-stricken Chinese, by the terms of a resolution introduced in the senate by Senator J. B. Sanford. A bill has been introduced to appropriate $5,000 for relief work.

Mount Vesuvius Active.

Naples, Feb. 4.—Mount Vesuvius has been showing increased activity in the last day or two. From the crater and surrounding fissures columns of smoke are rising. There have been many detonations but the people are not much alarmed.

RULE WILL BE ALL OR NONE

RECIPROCITY MUST STAND AS WHOLE OR BE REJECTED AS WHOLE.

So Says House Ways and Means Committee—Hearings of Protests Will Be Few and Brief—Lumbermen to Be Given Chance to Present Their Case.

Washington, Feb. 6.—That the Canadian reciprocity agreement must stand or fall as a whole in the house committee on ways and means was made clear Saturday by Chairman Payne at hearings that occupied the entire day.

A proposal of Fordney for an amendment of the lumber schedule and another in reference to a possible amendment of the item making barley free were met with the unequivocal statement that the committee would sanction no change of any item.

Notwithstanding this, the pressure brought to bear on the committee has resulted in the granting of hearings to all persons who appear in Washington prior to 5 o'clock next Thursday afternoon. This date was fixed to permit Pacific Coast lumbermen to reach Washington and make statements.

Farmers, lumbermen, barley raisers and manufacturers of barley malt were given hearings. The spirit of the committee was such, however, that the witnesses had difficulty in making a serious impression in presenting their arguments.

Barley Growers Protest.

The barley malt interests of Wisconsin, Minnesota, Illinois, Nebraska and Iowa were represented by a large delegation. Bruno E. Fink, of Milwaukee, presented their protest against the abolition of the 30-cent duty on barley and said it would mean the wiping out of the Northwestern malting and barley raising industry.

Mr. Fink explained that climatic conditions were peculiarily necessary in the barley industry and that Eastern Ontario would at once capture the barley market. This appealed to Payne, who had made a vain fight, when the tariff bill was up two years ago, to secure free barley to aid the malting interests of New York.

Clark expressed the opinion that Missouri could raise as good barley as Ontario, but Mr. Fink assured him that he did not know anything about the technical phases of the malting and beer-making business.

Malby of New York attacked the reciprocity agreement because of its agricultural items and its lowering of duties on lumber and wood pulp and paper. He said the board had spent months accumulating all facts bearing on the paper-making business, but that paper was put on the free list by the treaty without any reference to what the tariff board had found out.

If Lumber Free, Logs Should Be.

A hearing for Pacific Coast lumber manufacturers was asked by Edward Hines of Chicago, president of the National Association of Lumber Manufacturers. Mr. Hines practically admitted that he personally would not oppose the agreement if American lumber interests could be allowed free logs from Canada. He said the treaty proposed to make lumber, but not logs, free.

"Lumbermen want the same privilege that is given the wood-pulp manufacturers," said Mr. Hines. "Pulp logs are made free by the treaty."

North of Minnesota, he said, there is the largest body of white pine left in North America, but under present conditions it must be manufactured on the Canadian side.

Champ Clark asked Mr. Hines whether lumber had not actually gone up after the reduction made in the last tariff bill. Mr. Hines answered that lumber, from the manufacturers' standpoint, had been going steadily down.

WASHINGTON AT THE COLUMBUS CORN SHOW

Seattle, Feb. 6.—"What Washington can produce has been the subject of eager inquiry at the National Corn Show, in session at Columbus, O., all last week, and the store building, on one of the principal streets, leased for the show by the Great Northern to display Washington agricultural and fruit products, has daily been thronged with crowds. Nothing like our exhibit," said Fred W. Graham, Western industrial commissioner, "has ever been seen in Columbus, and the room has been packed day and night. Our exhibit of apples and grain was pronounced wonderful by Eastern people, our representatives being besieged for information about fruit and grain lands and business opportunities here. Taking the West to the people of the East is having good results."

R. L. McCormick Passes On.

Tacoma, Feb. 6.—Robert Laird McCormick, secretary of the Weyerhaeuser Timber Company and president of a number of banks and prominent business companies in Tacoma and Western Washington, died in Sacramento Sunday morning, following two days of suffering from an acute attack of Bright's disease. He had gone to California for his health when fatally stricken.

CANNOT GIVE AWAY THE STREETS

STATE SUPREME COURT HANDS DOWN AN IMPORTANT DECISION.

Franchises May Be Granted, But They Must Not Confer Exclusive Privileges—Court Reviews at Length Laws Relating to Eminent Domain.

Olympia, Feb. 6.—Under the eminent domain laws of Washington "a railway company cannot acquire or occupy any portion of a public street in a city of first class either with or without the consent of the executive authority of such city," says the supreme court in a decision handed down Saturday.

But under other laws councils may grant franchises for such occupancy, but those franchises are void if they attempt to give to the railroad exclusive privilege over any portion of any street. At the same time in charter cities the court says there is no question the people have the right by charter provision to absolutely prohibit the council granting any franchise to any corporation for use of any part of the streets or alleys.

This decision came up in a case from Spokane county. The Spokane council granted a franchise to the Milwaukee road to use a portion of Front avenue, this part of the street to be excavated to a depth of 11 to 22 feet for a width of about 32 feet and the sides to be protected by walls and a fence. The franchise contained a provision it should not take effect until the railroad company had settled with owners of property abutting the avenue for any damage which might result from the taking of a portion of the street. Suit was brought by the railroad to fix the damages to be paid and one property owner, the B. Schade Brewing Company, applied to the supreme court to review the decision of the Spokane judge who held the condemnation proper.

Lengthy Review of Laws.

The court in its decision reviews at length the laws with relation to eminent domain and the occupancy of highways by the transportation companies as well as the rights and powers of councils.

It says in part: ' 'The fact that only half of this avenue is here sought to be devoted to a purpose which prevents the use of that portion as a street is of no consequence in this inquiry, for this is a question of power and the power which can thus take such portion can take all.

"We believe the application of principles of law shown to exist by the authorities we have reviewed and illustrated are sufficient to demonstrate that the power is not given to the city council to grant the exclusive use of a portion of Front avenue as contemplated.

No Respecter of Railways.

"We have been cited no authority to show power in a council that any part of the surface of a street could be entirely taken from public use as a highway.

"Railways cannot without plain legislative authority get greater right to occupy permanently a portion of a street to obstruct public travel than any other person or traveler can acquire."

The court then concludes that as the ordinance is void it follows the railway cannot prosecute the condemnation suit, and the action of the lower court is reversed and set aside.

CAPITOL COMMITTEE'S REPORT TO LEGISLATURE

Olympia, Feb. 4.—The report of the state capitol committee to the legislature sets forth the value of timber and lands as appraised and estimated by the state land board at $5,382,118, of which $4,750,882 represents timber, the balance being for all other lands.

The report also shows that the lands offered for sale brought more than the appraised value, although all of them were not sold, as 2,358 acres appraised at $42,413 brought $44,169.52, while 1,035 acres appraised at $15,373.10 sold for $15,638. The committee had an appropriation of $28,000 and has about $3,000 still on hand. The capitol building fund debt, though, is $827,030.63.

The committee advises against the sale of the capitol lands at this time, recommending a bond issue if a new capitol is wanted at once, and then asking that the law be changed so as to permit the abandoning of the old foundation.

Since the committee was organized the 118,827 acres of timber and other lands owned by the state in the capitol land grant were cruised for $24,040.63. The cruise per acre made by H. D. McCool, selected to have charge of the work, cost $23,694.08, or .2908 per acre, the cruisers obtained from counties cost .076 per acre, or a total of $243.85, while the cruise made by C. R. Benson of the agricultural lands in Eastern Washington, 5,520 acres, cost $101.50, or .018 per acre.

Few Autoists Comply With Law.

North Yakima, Feb. 6.—The sheriff has received from the secretary of state a list of automobile licenses with the view of prosecuting delinquents and others operating without licenses. Only 200 licenses are issued here. It is estimated there are 400 machines. The list of delinquents contains twenty prominent business men.

HARRIMAN LINE OVER RANGE CONTEMPLATED

Portland, Ore., Feb. 4.—In addition to double-tracking the Union Pacific and O.-W. R. & N. in the Pacific Northwest, the Harriman system will begin work on the proposed extensions in Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Northern California, according to advices reaching here from New York. Although it was not made public at the time, it is stated that the executive committee approved the plans last Tuesday, the asme day that an expenditure of $75,000,000 was authorized to double track the lines in the West. It is expected the expenditures for additional construction work is to extend over a period of six years.

The work in Washington, it is reported, will consist in completing the North Coast road through to the Sound, thus giving the Harriman system a transverse line across the state of Washington. Sections of the North Coast are now completed between Spokane and North Yakima and work connecting these links is under way. The extension of the North Coast from North Yakima to Puget Sound has been surveyed, the line running up the Naches canyon, past the headworks of the Tieton irrigation project, and over a pass and thence down the Cowlitz valley to a point near Toledo, where the line bends north to Tacoma.

Aside from this extension, it is reported that the campaign of construction also includes a line across Oregon, from the Idaho line to the present line being built to the eastward of Klamath lake, and extensions north and south from this line, tapping the unopened and unsettled sections of Eastern Oregon.

The completion of the North Coast line across Washington is regarded as the most important of the new construction projects, however. It would open up the only remaining portion of Central Washington that is not thickly settled and would give a new and short line to the Sound from the great agricultural regions east of the Cascades.

HOUSE COMMITTEE IN FAVOR OF COAL LEASES

Washington, Feb. 4.—The judgment of the house committee on agriculture is that it has no function to perform in relation to the report of the Ballinger-Pinchot investigating committee, referred to the former committee before the holiday recess of congress. The committee on agriculture made its report to the house, respectfully returning the result of the investigation with the recommendation that the agricultural committee be discharged from its further consideration.

The report says the committee does not conceive it to be its duty within its province to review the evidence already taken, "as if it were a court of appeals, and pass judgment upon the findings of the joint committee."

"The committee," says the report, "does believe that it might properly assume jurisdiction and present to the house bills designed to carry into effect the legislative recommendations of the joint committee. These recommendations are:

"The enactment of a law for the transfer of the so-called Cunningham claims and any other cases involving claims of the Alaska coal lands to an appropriate United States court for a hearing and decision, and a law to provide that the government, while retaining ownership in Alaska coal lands, should grant leases at fair royalty for a period, limited, but long enough, and covering areas large enough to justify the necessary investments which would be required to secure the opening and operation of the mines.

"The records of congress, however, disclose the fact that bills are now pending precisely in line with these recommendations."

After citing these measures and the fact that they are under consideration in other committees, the report declares that it is unnecessary for the agricultural committee to enter upon the same field.

HENEY COMMENTS ON FEDERAL CONSTITUTION

Sacramento, Cal., Feb. 4.—Declaring that the framers of the constitution of the United States had "put up a job" on 3,000,000 hungry and weary people, Francis J. Heney, the noted graft prosecutor, spoke strongly in favor of a recall measure before a joint committee of the state legislature, last night.

"We have had a very mockery of self-government," he said. "The fathers worked out this constitution in secret session. They were not elected to draw one up at all, but only amend the articles of federation.

"The constitution was drawn up for the benefit of property owners. It had taken eight years for 3,000,000 people to drive out a handful of British soldiers, and then, when their stomachs were empty and the spirit of independence was low, they accepted this constitution. And we've been figthing the money power ever since."

FAVOR JOINT FISHWAY AT DALLES OF COLUMBIA

Portland, Ore., Feb. 7.—After rejecting the recommendation of the fishing interests of the lower Columbia river in favor of a longer fishing season for salmon and recommending that a fishway be constructed past The Dalles, on the Columbia at Celilo, at a cost of $100,000, to be shared jointly by the states of Oregon and Washington, the joint committee of the Oregon and Washington legislatures adjourned yesterday to carry the results of their conference to tneir respective assemblies.

DEMOCRATS FAVOR RECIPROCITY

HOUSE CAUCUS FAVORS ADOPTION OF AGREEMENT WITH CANADA.

Resolution Endorsing Agreement Carried in Caucus by a Vote of 90 to 22—Action Assures Favorable Vote on Treaty in House.

Washington, Feb. 7.—Favorable action of the houes on the Canadian reciprocity agreement was assured last night when the caucus of Democratic representatives formally pledged the party to vote for the agreement.

The resolution indorsing the Canadian agreement was carried, 90 to 22. On motion of Mr. Clark of Missouri, the action of the caucus was made unanimous.

Against Resolution.

The twenty-two voting against the resolution, it was explained later, were those who had voted for the free lumber, etc., and their action in caucus was to make their position consistent. It was said they would vote with the party. The resolution as adopted follows:

Text of Resolution.

"Whereas, The Canadian reciprocity agreement negotiated, while not formulated in accordance with the Democratic platform plans, is a reduction of some of the prohibitive scales in the Payne-Aldrich tariff law, will tend to expand the trade of the United States and Canada; therefore be it

"Resolved, That this caucus indorse the Canadian reciprocity agreement and bind ourselves to vote for a bill carrying it into effect."

For the Farmers.

The caucus unanimously adopted a resolution by Mr. Cantrell of Kentucky declaring that the caucus believes that every American farmer should have at his disposal "the information of the production and stocks on hand of agricultural stocks and pledge ourselves to attempt to bring about that end by legislation."

The anti-reciprocity Democrats were given free rein at last night's caucus of the house Democrats.

Amendments Invalidate.

Most of those opposed to the Canadian agreement submitted by Mr. Taft expressed their views and several dwelt upon the fact that the bill incorporating the agreement should not pass without amendment. Amenudments, of course, would invalidate the entire agreement.

Conspicuously hung in the lobby back of the house last night was a placard bearing a quotation from a speech by Minority Leader Clark on June 7 last, having been placed there by a Republican to call attention to Mr. Clark's opposition to any reciprocity bill. The placard reads:

Fights to Amend.

"I do not know how long we shall be here, but as long as I am here, I intend to fight for the right to amend every section of every great bill which comes into this house, and I do not care a straw whether the Democrats control the house or the Republicans."

Mr. Clark and Mr. Underwood of Alabama led the movement to indorse the reciprocity agreement, both of them declaring for it unequivocally.

Some Opposition.

Messrs. Hammond of Minnesota, Brantley of Georgia, Webb of North Carolina, Legare of South Carolina, and others spoke in opposition.

Mr. Brantley urged postponing all such legislation until the next congress rather than put on the statute books measures that will be used by the Republicans as campaign material.

Mr. Brantley also objected on the ground of the disadvantage such legislation would impose on the raw materials of the importer. He suggested that reciprocity would let American automobiles into Canada cheaper, but would act disadvantageously on the American farmer.

Wheat Is Hurt.

Mr. Hammond pointed out that wheat today is selling at Minneapolis 7 and 8 cents higher than at Winnipeg and that nearly everything produced in his district was injuriously affected by the provisions of the agreement.

Mr. Webb, in an analytical speech, announced he could not vote for a blow at raw materials.

Those Democrats who invoked the caucus rule which exempts a man from the binding effects of caucus action when he has made a pledge to the contrary to his constituents were Webb of North Carolina, Pujo and Broussard of Louisiana and Hammond of Minnesota.

Princeton Wants Wheeler.

San Francisco, Feb. 4.—President Benjamin Ide Wheeler, of the University of California, is talked of as a successor to Woodrow Wilson, at Princeton, according to private advices received here. Mr. Wheeler makes a perfunctory denial of the report, but it is believed he is considering the offer.

Root Speaks Against Lorimer.

Washington, Feb. 4.—That Senator William Lorimer, of Illinois, holds his seat as a result of bribery and on that account would not be permitted to continue in the senate, is the conclusion reached by Senator Elihu Root and announced by him in an argument on the floor of the senate yesterday.

LAST of the MONTAUKS

THE Montauk tribe of Indians is officially and legally dead. It is so writ in the records, and the waves beating against the Long Island shore moan it as a requiem. Before Columbus or Cabot set sail for the hemisphere somewhere far away to the unknown west the ancient Montauks, Indians alike of land and sea, were wont to greet the sun as it rose with smiling face from out the deep or toss their weather-tanned heads when the waves welled in stormy tumult. Now, from the deck of the passing liner one may picture the bent figure that once typified the grandeur of a race that was.

Long Island, in the days before the coming of the Dutch, was called Island of Shells. It was the aboriginal treasure house, the home of that which spelled wealth. Wampum grew thereon as the gold nestles in the rocks. Wampum was Indian money, it was made from the stock or stem of periwinkle. Paque was a medium of exchange of lesser value. It was cut from the purple heart of the hard clam shell. Some bronze-face financier gave the fiat that the sandbanks were to be the tribal depositories, and from that time on, for generation after generation, Montauk was at once the bourse and the Wall street of Indian operations. The fame of the tribal opulence was wafted on the winds to the lands of the Mohicans, the Iroquois and the Narragansetts, whereat there was much wonder. When a soft-eyed maiden gave her heart to a bean-shanked buck the old folks would empty into their honeymoon canoe several feet of select wampum and send them on their happy way full of the Rockefeller spirit.

Wealth carried with it responsibilities in those good old days as it does today. Sachem Wyandance was the great auditor of his tribe. His O. K. was necessary on all transactions from a dicker for a canoe-load of bluefish to an installment purchase of a bungalow site on a shoal inlet. He was called in the Montauk dialect a to-to-mua, which in modern phrase is a tightwad.

One day, when Long Island sound lay warm and placid, two-score or more of Pequots, who lived on the Connecticut shore, bundled into their canoes and paddled over to the headlands of Montauk. They sent word to the island sachem to come out with some of his strong-arm boys and take a walloping. On receipt of this challenge there was some poo-poohing. The Montauks sent the millionaire (wampum) company to meet hated and poverty stricken Pequots. It was a sad affair. The Montauks were trimmed. That night when the Pequots pointed their barks for Connecticut they carried with them a portion of their neighbor's bankroll.

It didn't take long for the news to get around that the Montauks had all of the sunny side of Easy street in the way of ready cash. A considerable tribe of ambitious and hopeful Indians, known as the Narragansetts, occupied among other places what is now fashionable Newport. They bathed, at such times as it seemed absolutely necessary, on what is now called Bailey's beach. It is said, too, that they had a club house somewhere near the present site of the Casino. Well, the Narragansetts having heard that it was like taking a lemon stick from a child at a kindergarten door to make the Montauks part with their money, sent part of the naval reserve of the time to make a demonstration on the island.

This time the Montauks weren't so easy. They met the Narragansetts on the beach and fought them until dark. Just how many fell on that occasion will never be known, for the tide carried the bodies of the slain out to sea and they never came back to be counted. Some time thereafter, or about 1641, an understanding was arrived at by which the Montauks and the Narragansetts got along without further fighting.

The citadel of Montauk authority stood at what is known as Fort hill. It was set with stone towers at each of its four corners and was a fortress which never once was taken by an enemy. Sachem Wyandance himself lived in regal semi-savagery in a wigwam half as large as a side-show tent at a circus, a short distance from the citadel. Wyandance was one of our earlier Beau Brummels. He enjoyed meeting people. The Dutch had much to dicker with the Indians at this time, and the sachem never missed an opportunity to get down to New Amsterdam to talk things over with the governor and council. He wore on those occasions a deerskin tunic, leggings and moccasins of buckskin and a head dress decorated with feathers from sea birds. Also he entwined himself with belts which he invariably kept filled with wampum. Not infrequently he carried as much as $10,000 with him in his kind of money. On the Dutch scales it was worth about 30 cents.

On one of these visits to New Amsterdam the chief of the Montauks met with Tamaraud, or Tammany, then Sachem of the Algonquins. Tammany stuck around the Montauk chief all the time he was in town. The story of the Montauk's treasure chest appealed to Tammany. Indeed, it may have been something more than gossip that Tammany wanted to marry into the Montauk tribe.

When the Indians began to dispose of their lands on Long Island they at first got real Dutch money, or its equal in usable barter. But it wasn't always so. Take the gallant old Chief Smackatagh, for example. He held a considerable stretch of wave-washed land on the ocean side of the island. One Sally Higbee, a buxom young maiden, was anxious to acquire a tract upon which she and her intended husband might make their home. Smackatagh—suggestive name, in view of the incident—offered to sell the required acres.

"How much?" asked Sally, leaning against the door and rolling her hands up in her apron.

The big chief's solemn face broke into a grin as he replied that he would sell it for a kiss. Why, she sat down with her father, who knew a thing or two about such laws of contracts as obtained at the time, and drew up a contract which the chief signed. Then she turned her plump cheek to the Indian, who kissed it and went away satisfied. The contract, which is still in existence, reads:

"Sally Higbee did receive a notable tracke of land from Chief Smackatagh, by reason of a kiss which he did begge of her, and which she bestowed in consideration of having the said lande given her by the salvage."

In 1659, when all the Montauks of fighting age were summoned to council, their number exceeded 600. Warfare and sickness made such great inroads during the next three generations, that, instead of increasing in number, they had become less than 200 in 1759. In 1829 a tribal roll call was answered by only 30, and 40 years thereafter there were only 20.

The last real council of the tribe was convened in the early seventies. Chief David Pharaoh went to the council arrayed in all the ancient plumery of the Montauks, and called his followers to their places in a semi-circle around him. He passed the pipe from one to another in silence, and then addressed them as the father of the tribe. Could it be, he asked, that the tribe, which had lived for centuries in happiness on Long Island, was doomed to extinction? What had the tribesmen to say? Nothing. It was late afternoon. The chief bowed his head and with the others sat in silence. By and by the sun went down. Then the chief arose, folded his cloak about him, made a sign that the council was done its work, and passed with measured stride into the shadows. The others followed.

For half a century more or less the Montauk Indian lands have been in litigation. Deeds bearing date of 1660 were shown in court during the several hearings. What the tribe might have succeeded in accomplishing, had it been able to count its people on the fingers of two hands and prove that they still lived together under tribal conditions, need not lead to speculation here. A living tribe held many broad and valuable acres by ancient deeds. The tribe had ceased to exist, and the property was lost to them.

America's Big Sixteen-Inch Gun.

No battleship yet built could stand up for half an hour against the fire of the latest United States garrison artillery sixteen-inch gun, let alone their fourteen-inch. The sixteen-inch gun, though slow in firing, can hurl a projectile weighing twenty-four hundred pounds a distance of twenty miles or more. The latest naval gun—thirteen and a half inch, which has not yet been placed aboard any ship in commission, can only throw a projectile weighing twelve hundred and fifty pounds, and the twelve-inch guns with which the Dreadnoughts are armed, a projectile weighing eight hundred and fifty pounds.—Alexander G. FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1911

The result of the recall election on Tuesday shows conclusively that the people, the law abiding people, the fathers and mothers of Seattle, are for a clean city government. The result is also a tribute to the newly enfranchised women of that city. Our wives, daughters, mothers, and sisters everywhere can be depended upon to vote and work for the home and for civic righteousness, and against corruption in every form, in governmental affairs, city, state and nation. They stand for decency, are not easily deceived, and they do not want an "open town." Moreover, as the Aberdeen World says: "They are hard-headed, and the mawkish, maudlin, sentimental attempt of Gill's backers to inject Gill's wife and children as issues into the campaign, failed dismally. It was so obviously disgusting becuase it rated the intelligence of the women so low. The election is a notice to public officials to walk the path of decency and fidelity to the interests of the people."

There were several protests made to the Board this week over the greatly increased taxation of the past year, the amount being in one instance at least over a hundred per cent greater, and this following a fair raise the previous year. The present Board stated in each case that they are unable to do anything; the time for protest had passed with the adjournment of the Board of Equalization last fall, and now, under the law, the Commissioners cannot afford any relief. The trouble seems to have arisen over the fact that the old Board, or rather its chairman, advocated and had made an increased assessment on city property, believing that it would thereby be possible to make a lower levy, which would accomplish the same thing so far as revenue is concerned, and at the same time look better to prospective citizens and investors. Theoretically it was all right, but the county officials failed to take into consideration the peculiarities of the City Council, which promptly raised the levy on top of the increased assessment.

The recall contagion has struck Tacoma. A mass meeting of the citizens of that city held the other day resulted in a resolve to recall the entire city commission, and recall petitions are now being circulated. It was contended that no member of the commission had done his full duty, and that there was no alternative other than to recall the five men elected to serve on the first commission named by the voters of Tacoma. As an immediate result of this agitation, the Police Chief of the city has announced his intention of having a closed city. He says that he will play no favorites. Gambling must go, bawdy houses must go, and clubs and other places, including the Eagles and Elks clubs, which now dispense liquors to the members, must come through with a license of $1000 per year if they want to run, says the chief.

The first jury of women to try a case in Pierce county since the women of the state of Washington were declared enfranchised tried an 18-year old milk dealer for the alleged misdemeanor of having assaulted another man with an empty revolver. A unanimous verdict of "not guilty" was returned in fifteen minutes. The women were highly complimented by the Judge after they returned their verdict and the attorneys thanked them for their close attention to the points of the case.

FOREST SERVICE TO PUT UP MILE POSTS

One of the greatest conveniences to the traveling public is the location of mile posts and sign boards along the roads and trails of the country. This common ordinary evidence of civilization has here been neglected, save in some few instances, such as the privately built Solduck Hot Springs road where every mile save the thirteenth is marked by a post, and many a man, probably every man who has ever gone out in the timber, has had ample reason to curse the Board of Commissioners for their parsimonious neglect in this respect.

Chris Morganroth, supervisor of reserve district No. 1, stated to the Board of Commissioners Wednesday that he believed he could get an order from the forest service for the work of measuring off the distance and putting up the sign boards providing the county would pay for the boards, a sufficient number of which, 0x16 in size, would cost $30. He would locate the boards on the roads to Morse creek, Mount Pleasant, Lake Crescent, and on other roads and trails including those to Sapho, the Boulder Hot Springs and up the Elwha.

The mile posts would be of great service to the rangers, incidentally to the owners of timber, for people reporting a fire could give the exact location and the service, knowing the the topography of the country and other condition, could the more readily cope with it. Besides, said Mr. Morganroth, some six thousand people visited the lakes and other resorts last year and they would greatly appreciate the convenience. The Board will act with him in the matter.

acreage laid out by a competent landscape gardener and make of it all any one can wish as a cemetary. This will mean the expenditure of several thousand dollars, and in order to learn whether the people of Port Angeles want such an enterprise, rough plats may be seen at each of the banks, where conditional applications may be made, and if a sufficient number of lots are thus contracted for at $20 each on the installment plan to justify, the management will proceed with the enterprise at once.

CLALLAM BAY

Arrived to late for last week.

On account of the deep snow on the mountain, the Mora mail carrier has had to abandon his wagon and go on horse back.

Ray Maxfield passed through Clallam Thursday enroute home from a term as grand juryman in Seattle.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Rudisile entertained a few of our good people at a seven course dinner last Monday evening. Covers were laid for ten.

Mrs. Rasmassen has been confined to her home the past few days with a severe cold.

The Clallam Bay Hotel still continues to improve. The latest addition being a new arch light in front and new wall paper in the new addition.

We might mention to the good people of Angeles that if they have more railroads than they can accomodate we would be glad to relieve them of one.

We are sorry to report the illness of "Billie" Iverson, who is now in Angeles Hospital.

It is rumored that one of our popular young men is about to be come a Benedict. Oh! you rreigher.

Mrs. Fairservice has been real sick with the mumps. We extend to her our best wishes for a speedy recovery.

Two sled loads of our jolly people happily surprised Mr. and Mrs. Welkner and family, on Monday evening the 30th of January. Lots of fun on the way, but more when we arrived, and were invited to the kitchen for an old fashioned taffy pulling. With plenty of pop corn and various games, the evening passed along quite merrily.

The Ladies Club met with Mrs. Welkner, on Saturday last. A dainty lunch was served, and all present enjoyed a pleasant afternoon. The boys of Clallam have been spending their evenings, boxing and making good use of "Pa O'Briens" new punching bag.

Did we enjoy the hop Monday evening given by Miss Mandau and Miss Murray? Oh yes! the music wasn't slow, and the floor good, a nice supper and a pleasant crowd to dance.

Roswell Heins has returned to Angeles, from there he expects to make a trip to Seattle, thence back to Angeles to be ready to resume his studies at the Central school.

The rather wintry weather for this section for the past week was mild indeed compared with that of the middle west. At Chicago a snow blizzard demoralized traffic and caused a loss of a million dollars to traction, telegraph and telephone companies and the city, and while Chicago is carting away the snow croenses and primroses are coming into bloom in the moss sheltered gardens of Angeles. No sooner does the does winter overtake us than evidences of spring are to be seen in our favored climate.

Fred Andrews, until this week employed as blacksmith by the Olympic Power Co., was arrested Wednesday by Sheriff Gallagher for instituting a sort of rough house at the camp while under the influence of liquor. He was fined $31.30, which included costs. The bill for damages itemized destroyed property to the extent of $26.10, including 43 phonograph records and a horn, 3 window panes, 3 joints stove pipe, lamp and chimney, and a badly damaged stove

SEATTLE CAPITAL IS BEHIND PROJECTS, SAYS P.-I.

Seattle capital is behind projects to build a railway to connect Port Angeles with a transcontinental railway and develop the Olympic peninsula. The city council of Port Angeles will next week finally pass upon the application of William B. Ritchie, representing E. B. Cox, manager of the Pacific Trust Company, and G. W. Morrow, who asks a franchise for a similar route.

The Cox franchise is backed by the Pacific Trust Company, of which H. W. Treat is president and E. W. Andrews vice president. Mr. Ritchie is prosecuting attorney of Clallam county.

The line proposed by the Pacific Trust Company will extend a distance of about sixtyfive miles by former surveys, connecting with the overland lines of the Northwestern Pacific at Gate. In addition a ferry service to the Great Northern at Everett, out of Port Ludlow, may be installed by the road.

The new lines will open a rich timber and shingle country. It will make a good dairying and farming district profitable by affording an easily accessible market.

Mr. Morrow asks for an exclusive franchise. The Cox applicants offer a common-user clause. In addiiton they promise to be in active construction within ninety days after the granting of the franchise and to spend $100,000 in the first year of the line's construction.

Similar application will be made to the county by both parties when Port Angeles settles the city franchise. Both bills have received one reading and will be given a second and decisive reading next week.

F. O. Ecksedt, of Pearson, deputy state horticulturist from the counties of Kitsap, Clallam and Jefferson, was here Wednesday inspecting the local nurseries. Mr. Ecksedt is an optomist and believes that great possibilities await this section in the lime of fruit raising. He says that we have the soil and the climate and all that is required is a little energy and enterprise on the part of the people. This, he says, is amply proved in a small way by conditions on Sequim prairie, where fruit raising is becoming quite an industry. Mr. Ecksedt also says, that in his opinion, there is more money in berries and cherries, which thrive to perfection in all three of the counties named, but that Clallam county apples are ahead of those grown either in Kitsap or Jefferson.

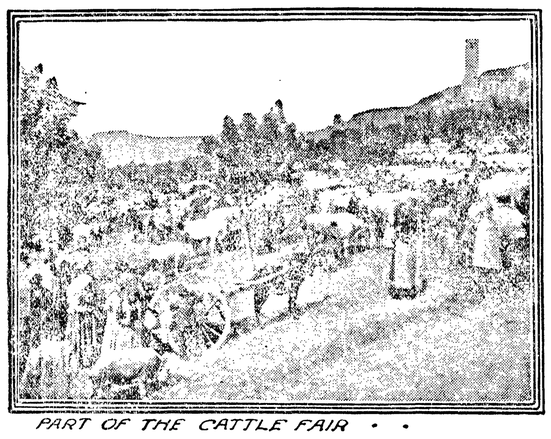
FAIR OF ST. FRANCIS AT ASSISI



PART OF THE CATTLE FAIR

THE ancient city of Assisi, on its peaceful hillside, midway between the fertile Umbrian plain and the barren heights of Monte Subasio, has an indescribable charm for all who bend their steps thither to visit the famous Shrine of St. Francis. The white towers and domes rise out of a sea of dusky olives, it is encircled with massive old walls crowned with a ruined castle, and entered only through its battlemented mediaeval gateways. It is guarded on the side that drops abruptly towards the plain by the fortified monastery, whose mighty buttresses and long lines of arcades form so picturesque a feature in the landscape.

The beautiful churches, convents and palaces of Assisi are all built of a fine creamy stone, quarried hard by; a stone that is veined with rose and gold, and seems to hold the sunlight. The dwelling houses in the main street, with their solid masonry, pointed arches and narrow windows, date mostly from a time when Assisi was liable to attacks from her warlike neighbors, Perugia and Foligno, and when fire and sword ravaged her fair beauty. St. Francis must have trodden this street seven centuries ago; but it is in the olive woods round the Convent of San Damiano and on the stony track leading to the Hermitage of the Carceri that his memory is all-abiding.

At the beginning of October each year Assisi wakes into unwonted activity for the Feast of St. Francis. The religious festival of the Saint is held on the 4th, when the townsfolk and clerics from the neighborhood and visitors from Perugia throng the services in the frescoed Lower Church of St. Francis. But it is on the 5th that the country people pour into the city to attend the great annual Cattle Fair. Many of them come from afar and start overnight, snatching an hour of rest and sleep by the roadside. Nearly all the houses at Assisi have balconies overlooking the plain, and it is thrilling to stand at an open window long before dawn and to listen for the distant murmur that tells of an approaching multitude, as yet invisible in the morning mists. By degrees, as the light strengthens, one can make out the long white ribbon-like roads that cross the level plain and mount the hill from various directions. Strings of figures are moving along these roads, all with one objective—the field outside the walls, where from time immemorial the fair has been held. The men and women are mostly on foot or on mule-back; but there are also carts with creaking wheels drawn by oxen, which contain whole families of fifteen or twenty souls. Smaller carts are harnessed to donkeys and little hand-carts are filled with every variety of live stock for sale. The carts enter by one of the great gates and traverse the town, and pass out of another gate close to the market-field, but the pedestrians and the long string of white cattle take short cuts through the olive yards.

There is a hum of voices on the air, the shuffling tramp of the oxen, the tinkling of bells, the soft padding of bare feet; but when the sun has sent one shaft of light over the hillside all other sounds are lost in the wild clang of bells that heralds the approach of day. The whole hillside awakens into life, and in the freshening breeze the tips of the olive branches are silvery white, the vines and poplars are golden. Under the dark archways and up the steep paved streets climb the carts with their heavy loads, and there is much shouting and shuffling as the oxen and mules struggle and slip in their efforts to gain a firm foothold. They must hurry on, for the fair opens at six, and already the peddlers have set up their booths in the open spaces in front of the churches and in the Piazza.

Passing out of the road by the Spello Gate, the animated scene on the field below comes into view, and, looking over the seething mass of people and animals, one is strongly struck by the bright effect of color prevalent everywhere. The shimmering mass of hundreds of milk white oxen waiting patiently to be sold, their heads gay with scarlet fillets and tassels, the women in blue skirts, white linen shirts and gay handkerchiefs, the children in crimson or scarlet petticoats with white sleeves and headgear and large green and red umbrellas, all help to make a veritable feast of color.

Besides the huge horned oxen so prized for farm work, there are milk white cows, and calves with large, pathetic eyes, whole flocks of mountain sheep, under the care of an old, gray-bearded herdsman in goat-skin coat and buskins, leaning patriarchally on a long staff. There are black and white goats tethered to stakes and incessantly butting one another, while shy little girls try in vain to keep refractory pigs in order. Hard bargains are driven on "scudi," an outsider usually acting as go-between. When the price is agreed upon, he seizes a hand of each of the contracting parties and, clasping them together, shakes them violently up and down.

At the City Gate.

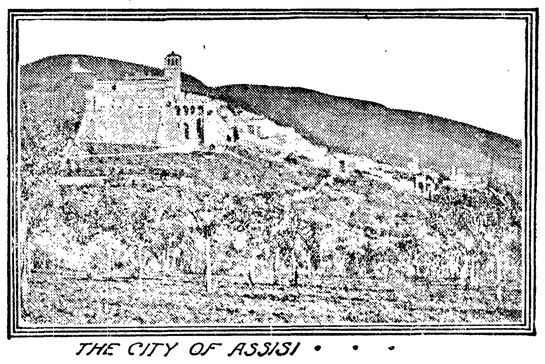
By midday the fair is over and the peasants start homewards, driving the cattle before them. The sheep and pigs have mostly been sold to butchers from the neighboring towns, and are treated with little consideration, being expedited on their way with many cruel blows and kicks. A pig that is thoroughly refractory is seized by the tail and one ear, stuffed into a sack and slung over a man's back, head downwards, as giving less trouble in that position. Turkeys and ducks, panting for water, are packed into hampers so small that one wonders how many of them will survive the journey.

On the way through the town a good deal of the money taken at the fair is laid out at the booths.

Carts that have come filled with calves and pigs return laden with terra-cotta pots for oil and wicker-covered bottles for wine. It is the chief holiday and merrymaking of the year to many of these simple-minded, hard-working peasants; but so unwilling are they to lose an unnecessary hour that the moment the business is done they turn their backs upon the delights of the city.

F. F. MAXWELL-LYTE.



THE CITY OF ASSISI

Two Attractive Costumes

Smart Russian Coat.—This would look well in material to match the skirt, or might be made in tweed or serge to wear with any dress; it fastens down left side of front, where braid and buttons form a trimming; the turn-down collar and sleeves are trimmed to match. A black patent leather waist-band encircles the waist. Hat of black satin trimmed with masses of white wings completes the costume.

Materials required: Four yards 48 inches wide; 6½ yards silk for lining, nine buttons, one dozen yards braid.

Dinner Dress.—Apricot Korean crepe makes an exceptionally pretty dress carried out to this simple design. Both the over and underskirts are trimmed with wide and narrow insertion to match. The bodice has the sleeves cut in with it, and is trimmed with a strip of insertion over the shoulders, also at edge of sleeves; the under sleeves are of fine lace to match yoke.

Materials required: Ten yards crepe 22 inches wide, one yard lace, 7½ yards silk and five yards narrow insertion.

RAFFIA HAT FOR WINTER

Sounds Rather Unseasonable for Frigid Weather, but Is All Right at That.

The raffia hat will do very good service for evening wear even now. But what it is chiefly designed for is evening make—in other words, a very pleasant and profitable way to spend the idle hours that come, more or less frequently, to all of us.

The hat is of braided raffia, natural colored or dyed, and made by hand from beginning to end. First, it is plaited in long strips, just as tightly and as evenly as possible. When you have about two dozen of your thin "pigtails," start sewing them together, round and round, forming the crown first. A paper pattern, cut out from any broad picture hat you may have, will serve as a model.

By thus braiding and sewing at the same time you can get an idea of how much raffia you will need. When you get to the brim, plait more loosely, as the "floppy" effect is picturesque and desirable. Lined with silk, the raffia hat makes a charming frame for a young face.

The older women may desire something more in the line of a turban. This is obtained by braiding loosely and winding the raffia round and round upon itself. Of course, if you wish, you may work over a wire or canvas foundation, but where stiffening really seems necessary it is best to give it by means of milliner's wire, which can be sewed just where needed. The fashionable turbans nowadays, which fasten way down over the ears, and are so soft and close-fitting that they need no pins to hold them, seem to cry aloud for raffia as their material.

There are great possibilities here for the clever woman.

SOME SEWING MACHINE HINTS

Little Annoyances That May Be Avoided If These Tips Are Followed.

When much machine work has to be done, filling the shuttle is a constant annoyance. This can be partly obviated by threading the shuttle with finer cotton than that used on the needle. The sewing will be quite as strong and the shuttle will not need refilling half so often as it would if threaded with the same number of cotton as the needle, because the bobbin will hold a great deal more of the finer cotton.

If you want your sewing machine to do satisfactory work, remember that it needs to be kept clean. After every ten hours' work it needs oil; but all surplus oil must be carefully wiped off afterward. Always work it steadily and never start or stop with a jerk.

The best way to finish off a machine seam is to turn the material round and stitch back for about an inch. This saves tying the ends of cotton, which is annoying work and takes up a good deal of time if there are many seams.

Use for Tennis Racket.

An old tennis racket, threaded with stout cord, makes the best kind of flower rack for trailing plants that need a frame. Cut off half the handle, sharpen the end and drive it into the flower pot band is cut in with front panels and is carried round waist to back panel. The large collar is braided.

NOVELTY IN CUT OF SKIRTS

Long Coat.

Felt hat trimmed with a large silk bow.

Material required: Four and one-half yards 48 inches wide, one dozen yards braid, four and one-half yards silk or satin for lining to waist, eight buttons, one and one-half yard cord.

Girl and Her Complexion.

A clear complexion and a fine skin are the gifts of nature, but they may be marred to a great extent by injudicious foods, just as an ordinary complexion and skin may be considerably improved in appearance by carefully chosen diet. Strong tea and coffee, taken frequently, rob the skin of its whiteness and the complexion of its freshness and clearness, while milk and water are in every way beneficial to health and beauty. The girl who drinks milk instead of the darker beverages will keep her complexion pure and fair, and if she does not wish to sacrifice her good looks to her palate she will eat charily of rich, fat foods, cheese, cakes, pastries, sugar and so on and take freely of fruits and green vegetables.

DRINKING LEMON AND WATER

Morning Beverage Good for the Complexion—How to Keep the Cut Fruit Fresh.

Lemon and water taken early each morning has become a common drink among women who value their complexions. Nothing keeps the digestion in better condition.

Since sugar is not used, there is no danger of acid even for gouty and rheumatic subjects.

Do not use too much lemon. The juice of a third or half the fruit is enough. To keep the cut lemon fresh for several days is something of a problem.

Cut off only the section to be used and squeeze the juice from the cut portion. The rest can be turned, cut side down, in a cup or it can be put in the same position on waxed paper. This should be big enough to fold over the lemon and keep out the air.

Treated in either of these ways, a lemon will keep several days even in hot weather. Do not stand in a warm closet nor where the fruit will freeze.

THINGS IT'S WELL TO KNOW

Dried Coffee Grounds Good to Fill Pincushions—Vinegar Removes the Odor of Paraffin.

Dried coffee grounds answer well for filling a pincushion; they do not attract moths like wool nor mice as bran does.

Tinned fruits should be turned out of the tins two hours before using; the flavor of it is greatly improved by this treatment.

Vinegar will remove the disagreeable odor of paraffin from earthen and tin ware; dip a rag into the vinegar and scour the vessel with it.

Gas stoves require a good deal more cleaning than they often get. A dirty stove is the cause of a disagreeable smell in the house.

Use old curtains or newspapers to rub them over after cooking, then polish with grate polish; finish off with an old piece of velvet or flannel.

Brown Betty.

This is an economical dessert of which the children are particularly fond. Chop fine some sour apples, and for each cupful use a half-cupful of fine bread crumbs, one tablespoonful of sugar, half a cupful of chopped raisins, a little cinnamon, grated lemon rind or nutmeg and a tablespoonful of butter. Butter a pudding dish; put in a layer of apples and raisins; sprinkle over this sugar and spice; then put on a layer of bread crumbs and a few dots of butter and so continue with the various layers until all the ingredients are used. The top layer should be of the crumbs and bits of butter. Cover closely and bake about twenty minutes; uncover and brown. It can be served plain with sauce, with butter and sugar or with cream as preferred.

Mother's Indian Pudding.

Put two quarts of milk in a kettle and just bring to a boil. Pour into a large pan and add one even tablespoon salt. Sift in slowly with the hand, stirring all the time, a pint dish half full (just as she did) of bolted Indian meal—not granulated—two-thirds cup of molasses, or enough to make quite sweet, no eggs, no spice. Pour into a large brown earthen pudding pot, must not be more than two-thirds full. Put in oven and pour over top one-half pint milk. Don't stir. Bake in a moderate oven three hours. If it scorches, cover with thin tin plate. This makes its own sauce.

Carrot Salve.

Grate enough mature clean carrots to fill a pint measure. Do not remove the skins. Add three-fourths of a pound of pure hog's lard. Put in a spider to cook, and keep stirring until it gets as brown as a chestnut. Strain through cheesecloth while hot and add about an ounce of yellow beeswax. Apply on a cloth. Before applying to a sore it is well to rub on a little flaxseed jelly made by covering a little flaxseed with boiling water and leaving it until it forms a jelly.

Egg Toast.

Scoop out the centers of stale biscuits, then brown them in the oven. Pour boiling water over them and drain at once. Fill with hard cooked eggs, cut in halves, arranged on a platter and pour a well-seasoned cream sauce (hot) over the whole. This is a pleasing change from the regular milk toast.

Skins Add Flavor.

Some of the best part of the apple is wasted when the fruit is pared for apple sauce. Core the fruit and then cut into quarters. Cook until tender and press through a collander. The skin will give to the sauce a bit of color and add to its flavor.

Anchovy Sippets.

Toast white bread, in thin narrow pieces, until it is hard and brown. Cover each thinly with Russian anchovy paste and put a squeeze of lemon on top. Such delectable morsels go well before other eating; they whet the appetite for more.

Prunes on Toast.

Toast slices of stale bread lightly and butter each slice. Lay on a platter and pour over them stewed prunes sweetened to taste. Heap whipped cream on each slice, and serve at once.

MADE WITH MOLASSES

VARIOUS GOOD FOOD ARTICLES IN WHICH IT IS USED.

Directions for the Making of Gingerbread, Pudding, Pie, Muffins and Parliament Cake With This Wholesome Cane Product.

Molasses and golden syrup are such easily obtained and cheap commodities that the housewife, ignorant of their enormous value in the good world, is often given to looking slightingly upon them. No better food exists than this pure product of the sugar cane.

From a chemical point of view honey is a very wholesome and valuable food. But syrup is as valuable. It is in nature really a kind of honey.

Honey is composed of three different kinds of sugar, a mixture of cane sugar, which crystallizes; a fruit sugar, which does not candy at all, and of invert sugar, a compound of the two.

Cookery supplies many ways of using it. As gingerbread, in taffy, plain in a pretty molasses pitcher, to be used in bread like honey, or eaten abundantly as an accompaniment of milk puddings of all kinds, it may be used.

Boiled molasses puddings are liked, so are batter puddings eaten with syrup. With boiled rice it goes well and also with blanc mange. If oatmeal is the dish molasses accompanies it as a sweetening agent splendidly, and, in this case, corrects the slightly binding action of a most excellent food.

The richness of mincemeat and plum puddings is due to molasses greatly, and molasses pies are very good.

Gingerbread.—Sift three-quarters of a pound of flour into a basin, add half a teaspoonful of salt, half a teaspoonful of carbonate of soda, one teaspoonful of ground ginger, one teaspoonful of allspice, a little grated nutmeg and half a teaspoonful of ground cinnamon. Melt together in a saucepan, one cupful of molasses, a quarter of a pound of sugar, a quarter of a pound of butter and half a cupful of milk. Cool and add to dry ingredients with two well beaten eggs. Mix well, then pour into a buttered and floured cake tin. Bake slowly for three-quarters of an hour.

Molasses Pudding.—Beat together four ounces of butter and three ounces of sugar till quite creamy. Add one well beaten egg, three-quarters of a teacup of molasses and gently fold in half a pound of sifted flour. Add as much slightly warmed milk as will be necessary to form the mixtures into a soft consistency, then add one teaspoonful of ground ginger, and one heaping teaspoonful of baking powder. Beat all very well together, pour into a greased basin, or mold, cover with greased paper, and steam for three hours. Turn out on a hot platter and serve immediately.

Molasses Pie.—Beat the yolks of four eggs with one cupful of brown sugar, add one cupful of molasses and two teaspoonfuls of grated nutmeg, then add two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, two heaping teaspoonfuls of cornstarch, mixed with three tablespoonfuls of cream, and the whites of the eggs stiffly beaten. Pour the mixture into two pie tins lined with pastry. Bake for 40 minutes. Beat up three whites of eggs stiffly, add one heaping tablespoonful of sugar and beat again, then spread over the top of pies, set in oven and brown.

Molasses Muffins.—Quarter cupful of molasses, three heaping teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-quarter teaspoonful of salt, three eggs, one-half a cupful of milk, one cupful of flour and three-fourths cupful of rye meal. Mix and sift dry ingredients; add remaining ingredients; beat well. Drop from a spoon into smoking hot fat and fry to a golden color. Drain and serve.

Parliament Molasses Cakes.—Two ounces of butter, one pound of molasses, one pound of flour, one tablespoonful ground ginger, pearlash size of a nut, small piece of alum. Melt the butter, add molasses, pour among flour, ginger, add pearlash and alum. Beat mixture till very smooth. Leave it to get cold, roll out thin, cut into long pieces and bake in a moderate oven for 25 minutes.

Two Cleansers.

Boiled potatoes are an excellent substitute for soap when the hands have become soiled by contact with blackened pots and pans. Potato water should, besides, be kept for renovating silk.

Although vinegar may be used to clean the outside of copper cooking utensils, care should be taken to avoid letting any fall on the tin lining of the pan. To clean the pan inside and out, by far the best method is to scrub it with soda, hot water and soap. The outside may then be polished with a rag dipped in vinegar.

Kidney Stew.

One beef kidney put on in cold water and let come to a boil. Then take it off and throw away the water, wash the kidney and put it on again. Do this four times, then all the blood will be out of it. Cut it up and take out all the veins and put it in some more fresh water and cook till tender—about four hours—and let the water cook down to a cupful, then season with salt and pepper, and if you like put in some curry powder or some vegeables and it will make a nice, cheap dish for a change

Orange and Grape Conserve Will Not Go Neglected on Table—Metheglin a Strengthening Drink for the Aged—Bisque Tortoni.

Orange and Grape Conserve.—To six pounds of grapes allow two pounds raisins, four oranges and four pounds of sugar. Cut off the thin yellow rind of the oranges and cook together with the seeded raisins until tender. Pulp the grapes and cook until soft enough to rub through a collander. Add to the skins, cook 15 minutes, put in raisins, orange peel, juice and sugar and simmer gently until jellied.

Metheglin.—Pour over twelve and one-half pounds honey, eight gallons of boiling water. Let it stand for two days, stirring occasionally, then add one-quarter of a compressed yeast cake, softened in a few spoonfuls of water, and spread on a slice of dry toast. Cover closely and let stand for two or three weeks, then rack off and bottle.

This is considered a strengthening drink for the aged, as it is the honey mead of the ancient Germans, who, according to Tacitus, attributed health and great age to its use.

Bisque Tortoni.—Make a custard, using a cream or rich milk, the yolks of six eggs and a cup of sugar. Heat the cream to the scalding point, add a pinch of soda. Beat the yolks thick and smooth, add the sugar to the beaten yolks and beat again five minutes, then stir little by little into the scalding cream.

The moment it chickens set off the fire. When cold stir into the custard a gill of maraschino. Put into the freezer, turn the crank until the cream is stiff, when the freezer should be opened and a pint of whipped cream stirred into the contents of the freezer. Fill a mold with the mixture, repack in ice and salt and let it stand for three or four hours before serving.

Now one of the first-class restaurants has "American canned corn" on its daily menu.

KNEW LITTLE OF COMFORT

Old English Houses Designed Simply for Protection Against Inclement Weather.

The habitations of English common people for centuries consisted of a wooden hut of one room, with the fire built in the center. To this hut, if a man increased in family and wealth, a leanto was added and later another and another. The roofs were of thatch, the beds of loose straw, or straw beds with bolsters of the same, laid on the floor, or perhaps eventually shut in by a shelf and ledge like the berths of a ship or by a small closet.

The Saxon thane or "knight" built a more pretentious "hall," a large open room like the Roman atrium with a lofty roof thatched or covered with slates or wooden shingles. In the center of the hard clay floor burned great fires of dry wood whose thin acrid smoke escaped from openings in the roof, above the hearth or by the doors, windows and openings under the eaves of the thatch.

By day the "hearts-men" and visitors, when not working or fighting, sat on long benches on either side of the fire, and, as John Hay puts it, "calmly drinked and jawed;" or gathering at long "boards" placed on trestles regaled themselves on some sort of porridge with "fish and milk," or "meat and ale."

At night, straw or rushes spread on the floor formed beds for the entire company in the earlier and ruder days, when the "baser sort" were glad to share their straw with the cows.—Charles Winslow Hall, in National Magazine.

RETAINING YOUTH OF MIND

Passing of the Years Need by No Means Mean the Giving Up of All Pleasure.

The day of old men was hurried to its close by the unnatural breaking of the day of young men, and now that the day of young men cruelly forced is ended, now that most of our "young Napoleons of finance" have been shipped to their St. Helena, and most of our "young captains of industry" are once more working for a living, there has dawned the day of the middle-aged. We shall protest against it. The census will show some of us declaring that we are no older than we were a decade ago; but we all know in our hearts that these last 10 years have aged our bodies a full score.

Is this fatality of middle age inevitable? I, for one, agree with the morning star of patent medicine advertising: "There is hope." The bones may harden and the muscles soften; the hair may whiten sooner; but the conditions that affect these mere habiliments need in no wise harm the spirit that those habiliments enfold. Better than in any time preceding, in this time of the railway and the telegraph, of newspapers and magazines a legion, of libraries of Andrew Carnegie, may we keep the mind young. Emerson, declaring that "the surest poison is time," was a slave to the tradition that the worthwhile pleasures of youth passed away when youth passed. In his better moments no man saw more clearly that what was worth while might be retained. But what may be retained is of the mind only. Few things are more grotesque or pitiable than the man who clings too desperately to the youth of his body.

It is, then, the youth of the mind that we can retain with dignity and may temper with experience. Apollo is never old, and all men have in them enough of Apollo to be worth saving. It is in the art of that salvage that there lies the secret of remaining young.—Reginald Wright Kauffman in Smart Set.

Mothers will find Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup the best remedy to use for their children during the teething period.

Evils of Modern Fiction.

The fiction hero of the day is said to be weak and unheroic, and the charge is made that the women are the cause. "There is no doubt," said a literary agent recently, "that heroes of a wide class of writers are decadent and unheroic. They do nothing worth doing. They are weak and almost effeminate, and lack strength of character. This is not the author's fault. It seems to be the natural sequence of the conception of the up-to-date heroine, for it is impossible to imagine any decent, old-time hero putting up with the modern heroine. The authors, too, seem to think that they get strength into their stories by dealing with what is repellant. There is no doubt that there is much that is morbid in the predominating type of fiction heroes."

SEVEN YEARS OF MISERY

All Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Sikeston, Mo. — "For seven years I suffered everything. I was in bed for four or five days at a time every month, and so weak I could hardly walk. I cramped and had backache and headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded to see anyone or have anyone move in the room. The doctors gave me medicine to ease me at those times, and said that I ought to have an operation. I would not listen to that, and when a friend of my husband told him about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for his wife, I was willing to take it. Now I look the picture of health and feel like it, too. I can do my own housework, hoe my garden, and milk a cow. I can entertain company and enjoy them. I can visit when I choose, and walk as far as any ordinary woman, any day in the month. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl." —Mrs. DEMA BETHUNE, Sikeston, Mo.

The most successful remedy in this country for the cure of all forms of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

It is more widely and successfully used than any other remedy. It has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means had failed. Why don't you try it?

"Lone Tree."

In the early days of Merrick county, during the '50s, there stood on the north bank of the Platte river south of what is now Central City a giant cottonwood tree. This tree was close to the old Oregon trail, and for miles up and down the river there was not another tree to be found. Under its spreading branches emigrant trains halted for rest to escape the heat of the day under its beneficent shade. It came to be known to the early travelers of the plain as the Lone Tree.

Finally its branches withered and its trunk rotted and the old tree fell down, and the spot where it stood was almost forgotten. A short time ago a move was set on foot by the old settlers to set up some suitable mark on the spot where the Lone Tree stood, and the matter has been taken before the county board of supervisors. A marble shaft will be set up. On the shaft will be the simple words, "Here stood the old Lone Tree on the Oregon trail."—Omaha World-Herald.

When You Think

Of the pain which many women experience with every month it makes the gentleness and kindness always associated with womanhood seem to be almost a miracle. While in general no woman rebels against what she regards as a natural necessity there is no woman who would not gladly be free from this recurring period of pain.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well, and gives them freedom from pain. It establishes regularity, subdues inflammation, heals ulceration and cures female weakness.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence strictly private and sacredly confidential. Write without fear and without fee to World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y.

If you want a book that tells all about woman's diseases, and how to cure them at home, send 21 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce to pay cost of mailing only, and he will send you a free copy of his great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser—revised, up-to-date edition, in paper covers. In handsome cloth-binding, 31 stamps.

Remington

.22 REPEATING RIFLE

The popular idea of the .22 calibre rifle is that it is a sparrow gun—a plaything for the little boy.

Not so the REMINGTON .22 Repeater. Hammerless, Solid Breech, built to exactly the same high standard of quality as the big game REMINGTON Repeaters, this rifle is a man's rifle, and for the boy who has the making of a man. No rifle to compare with it for target shooting, for crows, hawks, squirrels and other small game of the keener sort.

Whether you are shooting in the field or at the target, never forget that UMC .22 cartridges are essential to the surest results. Straight shooting, hard hitting, sure fire. UMC .22 short, .22 long and .22 long rifle cartridges can be depended upon to be as perfect as any ammunition of any calibre made.

BLUE MOUNTAIN

DO THE BEST YOU CAN.

The good resolutions you made the first of the year are young, but it would be strange if many who made them a short month ago, have not met great hardship in keeping their resolution inviolate.

And what of your future course--you have yielded to the tempter and fallen in your weakness before his cunning strength? Shall you give up this early in the struggle and surrender unconditionally; give up hope and trample, with the tempter, upon the mantle of your good resolution; or will you rise, unbeaten, in all the vigor of human strength, resolve anew, and, going forth again with courage strengthened by your desire to win, be steadfast, unyielding and determined, thus meriting success tho failure threaten; doing your best under the circumstances and finally winning against the wiles of every enemy.

Remember that it is no disgrace to fall if it can be shown that you did the best you could to stand. The most successful only reaches to half his desires: he simply did the best he could; and the least of us who does the best he can is as deserving of credit tho he never win a single victory.

The snow has driven the men from work on the land just when it is in fine condition for stumping. The ground is so saturated with water that there is comparatively little resistance. But the wood piles are growing

Nat Broughton has returned to Elwha after a week with the folks at home.

Taxes next month. The man who thinks his taxes are too large may trade places with the man that has no taxes.

Father and mother Lewis are well and cosy. They were surprised and delighted last week by the unexpected return of Charlie from east of the mountains.

Q. "What is leather? A. Skin.

Q. "Not from all skins. Shoes are not made from banana skins.

A. Well, slippers are. But it was a snow slipper that pitched Henry Emery from the wagon upon his back. So severe was the fall that he was confined to the house for several days.

Last Friday, all the ladies of the neighborhood excepting Mrs. Forrest, who had been somewhat indisposed the day before, attended a rag bee at Mrs. Kale's. The men folks, true to their nature, joined us in disposing of the bountiful supper provided by our gracious hostess. The evening passed joyously with music and games. This was a cut-up party.

Next week there will be a wool-pulling party at Mrs. Emery's.

And still it keeps on snowing.
