LADIES DESERVE GREAT CREDIT

The work taken up by the Woman's Auxiliary in helping to make the convention a success is progressing finely. The Commercial Club room has taken on a most attractive and inviting appearance and the ladies of that committee surely deserve great credit for their work. The opera house presents quite a task, but th ladies are working hard and it will certainly be a credit to them when finished.

The banquet Saturday evening promises to be one of the swellest affairs ever attempted in the city and will no doubt be largely patronized. The table decorations are to be yellow and white; souvenir menu cards will be at each plate. Twenty-five of Angeles' fairest young ladies, all attired in white, will wait upon the guests, while Chef Buell will reign supreme in the kitchen and see that everything is just right.

The president has appointed a reception committee to meet the boats to welcome the visiting ladies and extend to them any courtesy within their power.

SAILED OUT FROM THE WHARF

The bark Archer, here with a cargo of Californian hay, made a pretty sight Tuesday morning as she hoisted all her sails at the dock, slipped her cables, and stood out past the end of Ediz Hook, on her way to Roach Harbor for a return cargo of lime. The Archer, well known here because of the many deck loads of shingles she has taken from this port, is soon to have gasoline engines of 400 h. p. installed, making the largest auxiliary schooner on the Coast. She is already equipped with wireless.

SPECIAL TRIP SUNDAY

The steamer Albion will make a special trip Sunday, leaving Angeles at 5:30 p. m. for Seattle, returning next day. The trip will be made to accommodate the base ball club. Anyone desiring to go to Seattle should see the Purser, or E. W. Merrill, manager of ball club.

We exhibit with great satisfaction and pride our new line of fishing tackle to our many friends who have grown into the habit of looking to us for everything new and practical in the tackle line.

FRIENDLY RELATIONS EMPHASIZED

Clallam County Delegation Given Hearty Reception at Townsend and Irondale.

The members of the Clallam county delegation who visited Port Townsend and Irondale on Monday and Tuesday were most agreeably surprised at the elaborate preparations made for their entertainment by the commercial organizations of both our sister towns. Some fifty representative citizens of Port Angeles, Dungeness and Sequim partook of the banquet at Townsend Monday, when the Commercial Club entertained not only the Clallam county people, but a number of guests from Irondale, Quilcene, Chimacum, and other points in Jefferson county.

Those of the Clallam people going by auto were met upon arrival at Townsend and escorted over the city to Fort Worden, where they inspected the fortifications. Other members of the delegations went up on the Whatcom.

Covers were laid for 140 at the Majestic in the evening, when C. E. Coon, former lieutenant-governor of Washington and president of the Port Townsend Commercial Club, presided as toastmaster. Colonel Whistler, commandant in charge of the forts, was the principal speaker, giving a talk on the importance of the fortifications and the future of the Olympic peninsula. A number of short speeches were made, the following being some of the toasts: Getting Together, Harnessing Nature's Energy, Our Steel Manufacturers, Getting the Cream, Opening the Oyster, and Our Neighbors.

Quite a number of the delegation remained over to visit Irondale, the Chamber of Commerce entertaining them with a luncheon at noon, and crowding every minute of the remaining time in an effort to have every visitor get a comprehensive idea of the steel plant, its present product and its possibilities.

The first trip of the Clallam county people was an undoubted success; the friendly relations already existing were emphasized and a number of new men were interested in the work to be done. The upbuilding of the two counties can only be accomplished by the united efforts of every citizen within their borders. The first great step will have been accomplished when we, ourselves, are made familiar with the various enterprises and industries already established. We need information to the end that we may inform others and every man who has participated in any way in the recent exchange of visits has been surprised to find that there was so much to know.

THREE CHEERS FOR TROY!

Three cheers for Hon. D. S. Troy and the Glendale Creamery Co.! So say the members of the Port Angeles Woman's Auxiliary, for the fifteen gallons of ice cream, which they have kindly donated for the Publicity supper. This donation is greatly appreciated by the ladies and Mr. Troy's kindness and generosity will not soon be forgotten.

INSTITUTE MAY 1ST

The Teachers' Institute for Clallam county will convene at Angeles Monday, May 1st. A splendid program is being prepared and will be published next week.

ELECTRICITY USED FOR INCUBATION

Spokane, Wash., April 17.—Sixty-nine healthy chicks from a setting of 73 eggs have just been hatched by electrcity on J. Don Alexander's ranch at Reitmeier's Station, Wash., near Spokane. The initial test was so successful that 1,300 eggs will be placed in the incubators as soon as the apparatus can be installed. The equipment, which is not patented, can be attached to an ordinary oil-burning incubator at an expense of less than a dollar.

Construction of the electrically operated incubator is simple. Mr. Alexander took the lamps from the oil-burning machines and wound German silver wire around the frames above the egg trays, connecting the coils with an incandescent light circuit. This is made through a contact device, consisting of a piece of iron fixed on the regulator arm to dip into a small cup filled with mercury.

When the temperature in the incubator rises to 103 degrees, the natural hatching point, the iron arm is lifted automatically, shutting off the current until there is a fall of one-fourth degree. As a precaution against overheating in the event of the failure of the controlling device, a piece of underwriter's fuse is placed in the circuit at the hottest part of the machine, thus shutting off the current at 155 degrees Fahrenheit.

"The chicks we hatched in testing the machine the first time are of normal size and unusually lively," Mr. Alexander said, adding, "Of course, I did not strike it the first time. I experimented several months with small settings before reaching what is said by poultry experts to be perfect incubating heat by electricity. The reason I did not protect the invention by patents is because I want every farmer interested in chicken culture to profit by my work without any expense on his part. I have nothing to sell."

COAL LAND PROSECUTOR TO HASTEN DECISION

Portland, Ore., April 17.—For the purpose of expediting a final decision in the Alaskan coal land cases, in which he has been retained as special assistant to the attorney general, B. D. Townsend left today for Washington.

Mr. Townsend said that if he succeeded in having these cases advanced on the supreme court calendar for trial in May, which he will attempt, he will remain in Washington until the cases are argued finally and submitted before that tribunal.

The cases with which Mr. Townsend is associated as special counsel for the government include the alleged illegal filing on coal land claims in Alaska of the estimated value of $10,000,000. In the original hearing of the cases in the federal circuit court, Judge Hanford sustained the demurrer of the defendants to the complaint.

The finishing touches on the structure are now being made, but the company will not open the station until the re-enforced concrete approaches are completed and the grounds cleared of debris.

RUDKIN RULING IS DIRECTLY OPPOSITE THAT OF HANFORD

Spokane, April 17.—Raymond Brown and William L. Dunn, of Spokane; Charles H. Doughten, of Seattle; ex-Mayor Harry White, of Seattle; Charles A. McKenzie, of Seattle, and Donald A. McKenzie, of Washington, D. C., indicted by a federal grand jury on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the United States government out of Alaska coal lands valued at $200,000,000, will have to stand trial in the federal court at Spokane in September.

Demurrer Overruled.

The demurrer to the indictment was overruled by Federal Judge Frank H. Rudkin, in a written opinion which sustains every contention of the government and which is conspicuous for the reason that the ruling is diametrically opposed to that of Federal Judge C. H. Hanford, of Seattle, made recently in the Stracey group cases, in which the same conditions were involved.

Diametrically Opposed.

In direct opposition to Judge Hanford's ruling that any citizen of the United States may make any number of entries for Alaska coal lands, is the opinion of Judge Rudkin, which declares emphatically that one person is entitled to only a single entry and that assignments are contrary to law.

The two judges differ radically on the purposes and policy of the act of 1904. Judge Hanford has held that the act of 1904 was a new enactment for the express purpose of relieving persons of the restrictions contained in prior laws. Judge Rudkin contends that the law was enacted simply and solely to enable locators to obtain title to unsurveyed lands.

BARON DE CONSTANT CALLS PEACE A DUTY.

Salt Lake City, Utah, April 15.—The movement in behalf of universal peace, its importance to all civilized nations and the necessity for arbitration in the settlement of international disputes formed the chief topics in the discourse of Baron D'Estournelles De Constant, member of the French senate and representative of The Hague, who lectured before the students of the University of Utah.

Arbitration, Baron De Constant contended, was no longer a theory, but a possibility.

"We got liberty from our ancestors," said he, "and we must found peace for our children."

Fire Protection at Capitol.

Washington, April 17.—Since its completion, the national capitol of the United States has been without adequate fire alarm facilities. The discovery, made inadvertently within the week, was followed by feverish activity on the part of electricians and engineers, and the big legislative building is now equipped with modern signal alarm connceting with the fire departments of the District of Columbia.

Soon Know Speed of Molecules.

Chicago, April 17.—Following his important discovery of a way to measure the speed of molecules, which compose all material substances, R. A. Millaken, of the University of Chicago, said today that he expected soon to be able to announce the speed of molecules in practically all common substances, such as iron, wood and glass.

BULLETS FLY ACROSS BORDER AND KILL AMERICANS--TAFT GIVES WARNING

Agua Prieta, Mexico, April 14.—(Via Douglas, Arizona)—During a battle which lasted all afternoon and which resulted in the capture of this city by rebels, led by "Red" Lopez, American troops crossed the border and succeeded in persuading the combatants to cease fighting. The action was taken after one man had been killed and several wounded in Douglas, and while continued firing was endangering the lives of Americans on United States territory. Douglas was under constant fire for three hours.

Agua Prieta is the terminal of the Nacozari railroad into Sonora and is the most important point on the border between El Paso and the Pacific Ocean.

Robert Harrington, a switchman employed in the yards of Douglas, was on his train at Fourth street. A bullet struck him in the head and he tumbled from the car. He was picked up and taken in a wagon to the Copper Queen hospital, where he died within an hour, never regaining consciousness.

E. E. Crow, another switchman, was on the same train and the same volley that killed Harrington swept him from the car also. He is shot through the body from side to side and will probably die. Crow's family reside in Colorado.

A. R. Dickson, half owner of the Washington mine in the Arizpe district, is shot through the thigh. The bone is broken and the wound may prove fatal. Dickson is single and lives in Douglas.

Forest Rutherford, assistant superintendent of the Copper Queen smelter, when the battle opened, went to his home, which is located near the smelter. One of the many bullets which entered his home struck him in the foot. The injury is slight.

Struck by Two Bullets.

Charles Lennon, a baker from Bisbee, was among the sightseers when a bullet partially spent, struck him in the leg, passing through the flesh. He turned and started toward Douglas when another struck him in the back. His wounds will not prove fatal.

J. C. Edwards, a young man of about 25 years, was fighting with the insurrectos and was killed. His home is in Virginia.

Genevieve Cole, 16 years old, daughter of A. W. Cole, formerly alderman in the Douglas city council, and prominent as clerk of the Arizona constitutional convention, was sitting in her father's home when a federal bullet passed through her arm.

W. Singleton, chemist at the Copper Queen smelter, was shot in the arm, making a flesh wound that is not serious.

Capt. J. E. Gaujot, of Troop K, First Cavalry, U. S. A., received notice of the battle's opening at 3:35. A long line of dust heralded the coming of the American cavalry, as it dashed down the international line from the city ball park headquarters.

American Troops in Fire Zone.

With the troop of forty were the captain and Lieut. Lawson Moore. Between the customs house and the first monument the federal bullets and those from the rebel rifles farthest south pecked and dusted the desert. Into this rode the United States cavalry, deploying along the line.

Douglas Suffering, Too.

The bullets whistled through the line and one trooper was grazed on the arm. It had become a fight in which Douglas, the American city, was suffering almost as much as Agua Prieta. As the federal fire continued to pour into the city, bullets struck as far north as Fifteenth street. One plowed through the Calisher store, and another struck the Western Union Telegraph office building. At the Douglas freight depot for a time there was a hail of steel missiles. Foreman Curley of the yards, was struck on the arm. Another bullet entered the home of George B. Lee, superintendent of the Copper Queen smelter, while others passed through the home of Alex Adams, also of the Copper Company.

A hail of steel struck the Copper Queen power house, passing into the machinery. Four shots punctured the machine shop.

Federals Fire Volley at Town.

It is claimed by many that just before the federals blew up the Cuartel they elevated their guns and swept Douglas with a volley. This volley accounts for the striking of Crow and Harrington on their trains.

Surrender to Americans.

"We will surrender if our captain returns and so orders," said the federal force. Finally Capt. Gaujot suggested that the federal garrison, many of whom were fighting, despite their wounds, surrender themselves to the American troops, their guns and ammunition to be given up to the rebels, and the prisoners to be conducted across the line under escort of American cavalry. Lopez arrived a few minutes before this suggestion. The forces were not a hundred feet apart and still shooting occasionally. Lopez agreed to this measure. Lieut. Moore escorted the federals, who had feared slaughter if they surrendered, to the American line. Their guns, numbering twenty-three, with bayonets and forty belts of cartridges, were turned over to Lopez.

Federal Troops Are Held.

The federal troops were conducted under guard to the American cavalry headquarters, where they are held awaiting instructions. The rebels hoisted their flag of victory and Lopez immediately took command of the town, closing the saloons. Order prevails tonight.

Fourteen Americans fought with the insurrectos.

TAFT SENDS WARNING TO ALL COMBATTANTS

Washington, April 15.—President Taft is determined that battles between Mexican federals and insurrectos shall not be fought on American soil. He is equally determined that the lives of American noncombatants shall not be endangered by the forces of President Diaz and those of Gen. Madero.

Future combats between the rebels and the forces of the Mexican government must not be fought out so close to the American line as to put in jeopardy the lives and property of Americans.

Notices Sent Out.

Through the state department the president tonight notified the Mexican government that it must see to it that hereafter no such unfortunae incident as that at Agua Prieta, when two Americans were killed and eleven wounded, be allowed to occur. Through the war department and through the department of justice, the president sent similar warnings to the leader of the insurrectos at Agua Prieta.

The view was expressed at the White House tonight that these warnings will be observed to the letter and that no more battles will be fought near the border. Neither the president nor any of his advisers whom he called into consultation tonight was inclined to regard the incident at Agua Prieta as a forerunner of anything more serious, but they concluded that it must not be repeated.

The president knows that battle grounds are not chosen like places for the holding of athletic contests, but at the same time he takes the position that preparations for battle must be made by the hostile forces with due consideration of the effect upon non-combatant Americans.

The president knows that some of the American spectators at yesterday's affair near Douglas were eager to see the fight and might have got too close to the engaged forces, but he has been informed also that warning was given to the insurrectos, at least, not to get too close to the United States.

Hereafter the government expects both the insurrectos and the federal troops to erect trenches or make their lines of battle far enough away from American soil to make it certain that Americans engaged in the occupations of peace will not be interrupted.

Troop Order Justified.

President Taft feels that his order sending the troops to Texas has been entirely justified by the development of the last few days. He is more certain than ever that conditions in the Southern republic are alarming. He is hoping that there will be no need for any further movement to the south, but if there should be, he knows that 20,000 American troops are near the Rio Grande, and that on the river and the Mexican border itself is already a force that is not insignificant.

SECOND ENGAGEMENT AT AGUA PRIETA MOST SEVERE OF ANY YET

Agua Prieta, Mexico, April 18 (via Douglas, Ariz.)—Following a night of desultory fighting, and which ceased shortly before midnight, great excitement prevails on both sides of the border in the expectancy of a clash between the federal and rebel forces at daylight. The opposing forces are within a few hundred yards of each other, and it is expected that the resumption of the fighting will be carried almost to the streets of this city and that not only will it prove more vicious than yesterday, but that the danger to the citizens of Douglas will be greater. Six hundred insurrectos form the garrison now in Agua Prieta, while just outside the city are fifteen hundred federals, and it is claimed by the rebels that Juan Cabral and Antonio Garcia's forces, numbering 1,200, are nearby.

Unusual precautions have been taken by the authorities in Douglas as a result of the correspondence that passed between President Taft and Gov. Sloan yesterday.

According to this correspondence, the United States troops will only be employed in safeguarding the Americans, and in all probability the so-called danger zone will be greatly extended from the border and citizens urged to remain in places of safety while the firing is on. From the nature of things, it is believed that the expected battle will be of a far more decisive character than that of yesterday.

FIGHTING RAGES ALL DAY; FEDERAL GUNS DISABLED

Agua Prieta, Mexico, April 17.—(Via Douglas, Ariz.)—(From the Associated Press Correspondent in the Field.)—The most important battle of the Mexican revolution was fought here today between 1,600 federals, under command of Lieut. Col. Diaz, and 1,000 rebels, under Belasario Garcia, and resulted in the repulse of the former. The battle, however, was not finally decisive. It lasted from 6:30 a. m. until sundown. At nightfall two federal machine guns were in possession of the enemy and they had suffered a loss estimated by the rebels as at least 200 killed and wounded. The rebels gave their own loss at twenty.

PRESIDENT HESITATES ABOUT INTERFERENCE

Washington, D. C., April 17.—The wounding of American noncombatants in Douglas in today's fighting across the border resulted in a message from Gov. Sloan to President Taft, saying "radical measures are needed to protect our innocent people, and if anything can be done to sto pthe fighting at Agua Prieta the situation calls for such action." He adds, "Can anything be done to relieve the situation, which is now acute?"

The president, in his telegram to the governor, said the situation might justify him in ordering troops to cross the border and attempt to stop the fighting or to fire upon both contestants from the American side. He hesitated to take such a step because of the possibility of resistance and greater bloodshed, and the danger of having his motives misconstrued and arousing Mexicans against Americans now in Mexico.

In view of the conditions there, the president felt he could not order the troops at Douglas to cross the border, but he again emphasized the advisability of the people of Douglas avoiding exposing themselves to flying bullets.

The Governor's Message.

The message to the president was dated Douglas, 10:21 o'clock tonight. It read:

"The President, Washington, D. C.:

"In my judgment, radical measures are needed to protect our innocent people, and if anything can be done to stop the fighting at Agua Prieta the situation calls for such action. It is impossible to safeguard the people of Douglas unless the town can be vacated. Can anything be done to relieve the situation, which is now acute?

(Signed) "RICHARD E. SLOAN, Governor."

The President's Reply.

The reply of the president, transmitted briefly, read:

"To Gov. Sloan, Douglas, Ariz.:

"Your dispatch received. Have made urgent demands upon the Mexican government to issue instructions to prevent firing across the border by Mexican federal troops and am waiting reply. Meantime, I have sent direct warning to the Mexican and insurgent forces near Douglas.

"I infer from your dispatch that both parties attempt to heed the warning, but that in the strained situation and exigencies of the conetst wild bullets still find their way into Douglas. The situation might justify me in ordering our troops to cross the border and attempt to stop the fighting or to fire upon both combatants from the American side.

"But if I take this step I must face the possibility of resistance and greater bloodshed, and also the danger of having our motives misconstrued and misrepresented, and of thus inflaming Mexican popular indignation against many thousands of Americans now in Mexico and jeopardizing their lives and property.

Must Exercise Restraint.

"The pressure for general intervention under such conditions it might not be practicable to resist. It is impossible to foresee or reckon the consequences of such a course, and we must use the greatest self-restraint to avoid.

"Pending my urgent representations to the Mexican government, I cannot, therefore, order the troops at Douglas to cross the border, but I must ask you and the local authorities, in case the same danger seems to threaten, to direct the people of Douglas to place themselves where bullets cannot reach them and thus avoid casualties. I am loath to endanger Americans in Mexico where they are necessarily exposed, by taking a radical step to prevent injury to Americans on our side of the border, who can avoid it by a temporary inconvenience.

(Signed) "WILLIAM H. TAFT."

The president found the Mexican situation demanding his attention until a late hour. He had spent the evening at the theater. Returning to the White House, he plunged anew into consideration of the problems confronting him.

NO MORE MONEY FOR MOVEMENT OF TROOPS

Vancouver Barracks, Wash., April 15.—An order suspending the movement of all troops for the next six months has been received from the war department. The order is presumed by officers to mean that owing to the extensive maneuvers along the Mexican border, the appropriation for transportation has been exhausted and that the army will be compelled to await another appropriation by congress before troops can be moved from post to post.

Secretary Fisher Coming West.

Washington, April 17.—Secretary of the Interior Walter L. Fisher will make a trip to the West during the summer, in case Congress adjourns in time. He has promised Governor Clark of Alaska to visit the North if his time should not be too limited.

85,000 COLONISTS IN THIRTY DAYS

ALL RECORDS FOR WESTERN TRAVEL BROKEN IN SPRING RUSH.

Pacific Slope Secures More New Citizens in One Month Than in Forty-five Days During Same Period in 1910—Greater Portion Went to California.

Chicago, April 17.—Revised statistics compiled by officials of the Harriman lines and reports furnished by representatives of other railroads which handled colonist passenger business to the Pacific Coast during the 30-day period ending April 10 disclose that all records for that class of travel during the annual Spring period were smashed this year.

Tables that have been compiled show that 85,000 persons traveled from hundreds of points in the East, North and South to cities on the western edge of the continent while the special rates offered by the various lines were in force. This figure, it is declared, exceeds by fully 15,000 the total of last spring, when colonist rates were offered throughout a period of 45 days.

The travel this year was distributed as follows:

Southern Pacific, via Ogden, 15,320; via El Paso, 9,929; via Los Angeles, 868; via Portland, 3,761.

Oregon-Washington Railroad & Navigation Company, 11,600.

Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, 20,000.

Northwest route, via Hill lines (estimated), 15,000.

Via other lines (estimated), 10,000.

It is estimated that fully 50,000 of all those who traveled on colonist tickets this spring went to California and extreme Western states other than those classified in the Pacific Northwest group. The Santa Fe carried practically all of its colonist travelers to California, and the bulk of this class of business over the Harriman lines went in the same direction.

Data compiled by representatives of the Harriman roads for the spring period of 1910 shows that 29,170 colonist passengers were transported over the Southern Pacific line during that time and that 10,490 others traveled over the Oregon-Washington & Navigation Company's route.

The total for the Santa Fe road this year, it is declared, shows an increase of fully 15 per cent over the business done last spring.

A table prepared by passenger traffic officials of the Harriman lines in regard to colonist travel to California from the spring of 1901 to the fall of 1910 shows the following figures:

Via Ogden	385,750
Via El Paso	179,678
Via Portland	45,794
Via Los Angeles	14,106
Total	625,328

The Santa Fe road is offering a special rate of one fare for the round trip to points in California on account of the Electrical Supply Jobbers' Association convention.

BOTHELL LOSES SIXTEEN BUILDINGS IN FIRE

Fire that started in a bakeshop destroyed sixteen buildings in Bothell Sunday morning, caused a loss of $75,000 and for three hours threatened to wipe out the town. The insurance is about $25,000. The fire was discovered at 3:45 o'clock in the living rooms of Carl Winter in the rear of Odd Fellows' hall, where it had roared up from the bakeshop in the basement.

STUBBS SAYS HE WILL QUIT RAILROADING SOON

Chicago, April 17.—J. C. Stubbs, traffic director of the Harriman lines, confirms a report that he will leave the railroad field in about one year and devote his attention to private affairs.

"It is my intention to quit railroad service when I am 65 years of age," he said. "In April, 1912, I will have passed the fiftieth milestone in my experience as a worker, and it seems to me that when my sixty-fifth birthday is reached, or soon after, it will be time for me to knock off.

"After I have been relieved of my duties I intend to go to Ashland, O., where I was born and where I have purchased a home."

Postal Savings Deposits Grow.

Washington, April 17.—Steadily increasing interest in the postal savings banks system is indicated by a statement made public by Postmaster General Hitchcock. It shows that $201,961 was on deposit at the forty-eight postal savings banks at the close of business on March 31, an increase of $68,092 in two months. The number of open accounts increased from 3,664 to 4,307, and the average balance of depositors from $36.54 to $46.89.

Diaz Family Leaving Mexico.

New York, April 17.—A dispatch to the Sun from Vera Cruz, Mex., says that advices received from Paris state that several members of President Diaz's family are on board the steamship Espegne, bound for France. The dispatch also says that Diaz himself is anxious to go to Paris, but that he fears capture by the Maderists.

POPULAR VOTE BILL PUT THROUGH

HOUSE MAKES RECORD TIME ON SENATORIAL ELECTION MEASURE.

Passed After Six Hours' Debate by a Vote of 296 to 16—Republicans Voted for It in Final Form, Though Contending Strenuously for Some Amendments.

Washington, April 15.—The house of representatives by a vote of 296 to 16, late Thursday passed the Rucker resolution, proposing a constitutional amendment for the direct election of United States senators. This is the first of the Democratic program measures passed by the house. It went through without modification and with a speed that brought protests from the Republicans.

The resolution, as the house approved it, is in the form of the Borah resolution, reported out of the senate judiciary committee in the closing days of the last congress.

Basis of Opposition.

Republican opposition to the Rucker resolution in the house was based on the fact that it did not contain the changes afterwards made in the fight in the senate, which assured to congress continued control over elections in the several states.

After six hours of debate, in which many demands were made for this change in the resolution, all but fifteen Republicans voted for the resolution. The majority of them had stated during the debate that they would support the resolution because convinced the public wanted such a constitutional amendment submitted to the country as quickly as possible.

Those Who Opposed.

Those who opposed the resolution on the final vote were:

Republicans—Cannon, Mann, Illinois; Danforth, Malby, New York; Dodds, Fordney, McMorran, Michigan; Harris, Lawrence, McCall, Wilder, Massachusetts; Hinds, Maine; Sulloway, New Hampshire; Utter, Rhode Island.

Former Speaker Cannon, Republican leader Mann and others of the Republicans who voted against the measure declared that its form was such as to threaten the federal government with the loss of control over senatorial elections in the states, given to safeguard the integrity of these elections.

Fear Danger to Supervision.

They insisted, as did other Republicans who ultimately voted for the resolution, that the direct election amendment should be offered without any language that would be dangerous to the future congressional supervision of senatorial elections.

Democratic leaders declared that the Rucker resolution was open to no such construction.

Reciprocity Bill Before House.

The Canadian reciprocity bill was formally laid before the house just before adjournment Friday, and, after debate, which probably will continue three days, it will be passed.

That action will be taken is no longer a matter for speculation, as the Democratic majority has indicated beyond all doubt its ability to put through its legislative program.

Chairman Underwood, of the ways and means committee, called up the Canadian bill at 5 o'clock. While no time was fixed for general debate, a motion was adopted dividing whatever time is consumed between Mr. Underwood, who reported the bill, and Representative Dalzell, of Pennsylvania, the Republican member of the ways and means committee, who will lead the opposition to the measure.

WIRELESS ON ALL PASSENGER VESSELS AFTER JULY 15

Washington, April 17.—In May and June the Department of Commerce and Labor will prepare for enforcing the law which requires passenger-carrying vessels of the United States to be equipped with wireless on and after July 15.

All vessels which are already equipped will be required to register themselves by wireless when 100 miles at sea with a Navy wireless station on shore. The Navy Department will instruct its operators to take such incoming messages daily between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m.

In this way, the Department of Commerce and Labor and the customs collectors at ports will know what ships are equipped.

Dr. David Jayne Hill Resigns.

Washington, D. C., April 17.—The resignation of Dr. David Jayne Hill, ambassador from the United States to Germany, has been announced at the White House. When President Taft was elected, Hill expressed his readiness to retire, but Taft asked him to remain. In a recent communication Hill said that as half of President Taft's term had now expired he wished to be relieved and asked that his resignation be accepted, to become effective July 1.

Lee Offered Place on Commission.

Olympia, April 18.—George A. Lee, assistant attorney general, has been tendered a place on the workman's compensation commission by Gov. Hay, and he will say within a week whether he will accept.

CENSUS BUREAU PUBLISHES NORTH DAKOTA FARM FIGURES.

Washington, D. C., April 18.—Census Director Durand has issued the first official statement from the Census Bureau relative to the agricultural statistics of the state of North Dakota collected at the Thirteenth Decennial United States Census, April 15 last.

The statement shows in detail that the number of farms reported in 1910 was 74,165, as compared with 45,332 in 1900, an increase of 28,833, or 64 per cent.

Farm Values.

The total value of farm land and buildings was given in 1910 as $822,035,000, as against $198,780,000 in 1900, an increase of $623,255,000, or 314 per cent.

The total value of all farm lands alone was reported in 1910 as $729,896,000, as compared with $173,352,000 in 1900, a gain of $556,544,000, or 321 per cent.

The total value of farm buildings alone was given in 1910 as $92,139,000, as against $25,428,000 in 1900, an increase of $66,711,000, or 262 per cent.

In 1910 the value of the farm land alone constituted 89 per cent of the total value of land and buildings, as compared with 87 per cent in 1900.

The reported value of farm implements and machinery was $43,887,000 in 1910, as against $14,056,000 in 1900, a gain of $29,831,000, or 212 per cent.

The total acreage reported in 1910 was 28,392,000 acres, as compared with 15,543,000 in 1900, an increase of 12,849,000 acres, or 83 per cent.

The improved acreage was returned in 1910 as amounting to 20,439,000 acres, as against 9,645,000 in 1910, an increase of 10,794,000 acres, or 112 per cent.

The improved acreage formed 72 per cent of the total acreage in 1910, and 62 per cent in 1900.

The average acres per farm reported in 1910 was 383, as against 343 in 1900, an increase of 40 acres, or 12 per cent.

The average value per acre of farm land and buildings in 1910 is stated as $28.95, as against $12.79 in 1900, a rise of $16.16, or 126 per cent.

The average value per acre of farm land alone in 1910 was reported as $25.71, while in 1900 it was $11.15, the amount of gain being $14.56, or 131 per cent.

RECORD MONTH FOR ARRIVAL OF SETTLERS

Seattle, April 17.—Two colonists' specials from the East, over the Harriman and Great Northern lines, with 200 passengers aboard, completed the bulk of travel to the North Pacific coast on the low rate of fare in effect March 10 to April 10, and finished what traffic officials believe to be a record month of the arrival of actual new settlers, few of whom have gone into the cities.

It is expected that colonists who are using their stop-over privileges in Montana and Idaho will come to Seattle in small groups for the next ten days.

Among the many inquiries received by the railroads while the low rates were in force there was not one in a hundred, passenger officials declare, that was for opportunities in the cities. All the travelers were bent on buying Washington lands and settling at once upon their newly acquired property.

A total of 12,000 colonists is the estimate placed by passenger traffic officials on the number of colonists brought into the state. There was no reduced rate on the return tickets, and it is claimed that nearly all the strangers therefore expect to buy land and settle in Washington, and will not return to the East.

GOVERNOR'S REQUESTS FOR ALASKA APPROVED.

Washington, April 15.—The Secretary of the Interior has received and approved the special recommendations of Gov. Clark, of Alaska, as to the most efficient manner of expending the $12,000 appropriation for the suppression of the liquor traffic among the Indians in the territory.

The government's plan includes the re-establishment of the Indian police system, which was discontinued because of the failure of Congress to appropriate for it. Eighteen of the Indians formerly employed in the work will be restored to duty. The original number was twenty-one.

Gov. Clark also has conferred with the attorney-general regarding the four judicial districts of Alaska, and it is announced that the salaries of many minor court employes will be increased and that none will be reduced.

CHINESE WILL RETURN BUSINESS MEN'S VISIT.

Victoria, B. C., April 17.—Advices were brought by the Kamakura Maru that the Nanking Taotai has been instructed from Peking to select thirty business men from the localities visited by the Pacific Coast commercial men who visited China last year to return the visit, leaving China in May. Half a million dollars has been provided by the government to cover the expenses of the trip.

Would Abolish Federal Commissions.

Washington, April 18.—A congressional investigation of government commissions, with a view to the abolition of some of them, is provided for in a resolution introduced in the house yesterday by Mr. Clark of Florida. Among the bodies that might be affected are the tariff board, the monetary commission, the canal commission and Canadian boundary commission.

STATE GOVERNMENT BY COMMISSION

NEW SYSTEM OF LEGISLATION ADVOCATED BY GOVERNOR HAY.

Present Plan Declared to Be Most Bunglesome and Least Effective of All Departments of State Government—Would Have Commission of Twenty-five Well Paid Men.

Spokane, April 18.—Declaring that he considered the present system of legislation the most bunglesome and least effective of all departments of state government, Marion E. Hay, governor of the state of Washington, in an address before the political club of Whitman college at Walla Walla, Wash., recently, stated he would favor, in place of the legislature, a commission of twenty-five men who would meet biennially and devote their time to the framing of laws, being paid salaries of $2,500 a term and remaining in session until the work is finished, adding:

"It takes a month for members of the legislature to get acquainted with each other, and most bills are passed with little consideration. It seems to me that the legislature goes at its work like a lot of schoolboys playing football. For the first five or six weeks hundreds of bills are brought in and, as it were, piled on the floor, and then the last week there is a rush for the pile and each man grabs one, seemingly intent on getting it through and getting his name on it. Many important measures have been lost in the scramble of the last few days, and much time wasted."

Governor Hay's statement is significant following the recent adoption in Spokane of the charter form of government and agitation for the same plan in Walla Walla and North Yakima. Tacoma has been under the commission form of government for over a year, and Seattle, the metropolis of the state, recently placed its legislative powers in the hands of nine councilmen, chosen at large, where formerly there were two councilmen from each ward. The Tacoma and Spokane commission governments are based upon charters which include the best features of the Des Moines, Galveston and other pioneer cities in the movement. Governor Hay was formerly a resident of Spokane and is an enthusiast over the commission government plan.

DEMOCRATS PLAN REVISION OF AGRICULTURAL SCHEDULE.

Washington, April 15.—Encouraged by the smooth working of their new legislative machine which today began to grind, Democratic leaders of the House planned to extend their tariff revision program.

Until now the only tariff tinkering determined upon included Canadian reciprocity, the free list to benefit farmers opposed to the reciprocity bill as it stands, and the wool and cotton schedules, but now it has been determined to revise the agricultural schedule.

Chairman Underwood, of the ways and means committee, said the house at the rate of progress would complete the business outlined now much earlier than generally anticipated and that other tariff schedules would be taken up after the wool and cotton schedules have been revised.

The agricultural schedule will be attacked by the Democrats because of the high cost of living, and an effort will be made to reduce the duties on those food products that are most necessary to the public.

CANADIAN COAL MINERS ASK GOVERNMENT TO INTERVENE.

Ottawa, Ont., April 15.—The minister of labor has received a telegram from the Alberta striking miners asking for the appointment of a board of conciliation to hold an investigation under the industrial disputes act. The miners named A. J. Carter. The minister telegraphed the operators, acquainting them with the situation. He asked them to name their representative. It is expected that within a few days the board will be organized and will proceed with their w...

COL. ROOSEVELT HOME AGAIN, SAYS NOTHING

New York, April 17.—Theodore Roosevelt returned home last night from a seven weeks' tour of the West and Middle West. As he stepped off a train from Chicago he came into contact with a crowd of outgoing Eastern visitors, many of whom greeted him with cheers. Col. Roosevelt's face was tanned by the Western suns and he said he felt "bully." He refuses to discuss the reciprocity proposition, prosperity in the West or his own plans.

Many Killed in Battles.

San Diego, April 17.—Dr. David F. Watkins, who has been doing missionary work in Mexico, and who has just returned, says that since the Mexican revolution began more than 2,000 men have been killed in battles near Mexico City.

WILD BEASTS TO ROAM JUNGLES IN LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Cal., April 17.—The municipality has begun the establishment of the most natural and novel zoological gardens in the world. It will be in the heart of 3000-acre Griffith Park, a mountainous jungle within the city limits, and there the big game animals from evry part of the globe will roam in a wild state, hemmed in by unscalable precipices and picturesque crags, with forests, caves, streams, and a virtual wilderness of vegetation to sustain them.

The beasts will be confined to Vermont Canyon, a heavily wooded tract of about 500 acres, with precipices entirely encircling it, and instead of walking up and down before cages and iron gratings spectators will look down from the hills and see elephants, elk, deer, camels, zebras, giraffes and bear grazing below. A herd of elk and several splendid specimens of nylghaus, as well as hundreds of wild cats, foxes, coyotes and a number of deer are already there. Several bear also make their homes in the caverns at the base of the cliffs.

The city has 50 animals in East Lake Park which soon will be taken to the gardens. An association of leading hunters has been formed and will raise $50,000 to bring big game from other lands. The members will also bring in all young animals taken on their hunting trips.

A winding automobile road commands a view of the entire gardens.

NATIONAL ROTARY CLUBS TO MEET AT SPOKANE.

Spokane, Wash., April 15.—Another convention has been secured for Spokane this year. It is the National Association of Rotary Clubs and it will convene in Spokane July 3, 1911. The National Association of Rotary Clubs is an organization of tremendous influence in the automobile and motor world. Its membership embraces 23 states and includes a great variety of organizations in the manufacturing, marketing, advertising, recreation and commercial lines. Paul P. Harris, of Chicago, is president. It is proposed to have the Spokane Chamber of Commerce entertain the delegates at luncheon and after a brief program the visitors will be taken on a trip through the Spokane Valley by members of the Spokane Motor Club, who are enthusiastic upon learning that the convention has been secured for this city. The association will stop at Spokane for its one day convention while en route to Portland, where a two-day meeting will conclude the business of the year. By stopping in Spokane and taking up preliminary organization here, more time will be given to arrange the necessary details of the two days' meeting in Portland.

WASHINGTON A. O. U. W. DECLARES INDEPENDENCE

Tacoma, April 15.—After making secession from the supreme lodge, Ancient Order of United Workmen, practically complete by adopting a new constitution, in which all references to that body are eliminated, the grand lodge, Washington jurisdiction, A. O. U. W., ended a three-day session in Tacoma today by adjourning to August 29.

At that time it will reassemble here, with the same delegates in attendance, to complete the work its action severing all relations with the supreme lodge will entail.

The Washington jurisdiction is now an entirely distinct fraternal order.

The grand lodge adopted a resolution yesterday creating an extension board consisting of Past Grand Master Thomas Jacka, of Hoquiam; Grand Master Workman J. H. Berge, of Davenport; Grand Foreman D. E. Moon, of Seattle; Grand Recorder J. H. Hower, of Seattle, and Trustee Secretary Daniel Frew, of Seattle, in which is vested responsibility for the desired growth.

CANADA WILL SOON PASS RECIPROCITY AGREEMENT

Ottawa, Ont., April 17.—A favorable report on the reciprocity agreement with the United States is looked for by members of the Dominion government. The rapid progress being made at Washington and the prediction that the agreement will be before the senate by next Thursday, have been noted with satisfaction. Settlement of the reciprocity issue in Canada, they believe, now depends primarily upon the action at Washington. Any assurance that congress will ratify the agreement may be coupled, they say, with the assurance that the Canadian parliament will do its part. The government, backed by a majority of over forty in the house, is pledged and anxious to put the agreement through as soon as the conservative opposition permits a vote.

Okanogan to Have Park.

Washington, April 18.—Senator Jones has introduced a bill authorizing the sale of thirty-three acres of land east of the Okanogan river, which is included in the Colville Indian reservation, to the town of Okanogan for park purposes. The price at which the land may be sold must be fixed by appraisement by the government. Representative La Follette has introduced a similar bill in the house.

Gives $500,000 to Poor.

Tokyo, April 8.—K. Okura has given $500,000 to be added to a similar amount donated some time ago by the emperor for the relief of the poor and sick of Japan.

CAREFULLY TEST SEED CORN

While Always Matter of Safety, Seldom Has It Been so Necessary as This Spring.

(By CHAS. E. THORNE, Director Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station.)

The testing of seed corn, while always a matter of safety, has seldom been so necessary as it is this spring of 1911.

When husked last fall corn carried much more than the normal amount of moisture. Twenty-seven to thirty per cent was not at all uncommon This in itself would have been cause enough for alarm if normal temperatures had prevailed. But November of 1910 had the lowest mean temperature of any November during the 23 years of the Experiment Station's records. Very early in November mercury dropped to 10 degrees below freezing and day after day it was from ten to eighteen degrees below freezing. These two factors are without a parallel in recent years and should give the corn growers no little concern.

Three weeks ago this station wrote to prominent corn growers in all parts of the state for samples of corn from 100 representative ears which had been saved for seed, or for reports of germination tests already conducted by them. The samples received in response to this call have been germinated and reveal a condition which was expected. The range of germination is from 45 to 96 per cent, much seed which had been handled with considerable care showing below 80 per cent.

Such a state of affairs will result in a very poor and uneven stand of plants in Ohio corn fields, unless every ear of corn intended for seed be carefully tested to determine whether it will grow.

In conducting the germination test it is important that the conditions which the corn will have to endure in the field be duplicated as nearly as possible. Condemn every ear of low vitality to the feed trough, where it will prove of some value, but if used for seed will cause a loss of from $1.50 to $5.00.

What can the corn grower do that will make him any more money than to weed out these worthless seed ears?

MUCH LAND YET UNOCCUPIED

Natural Vegetation as an Indicator of Capabilities of Soil for Crop Production.

Extensive tracts of land, including thousands of acres that are doubtless capable of producing crops, remain unoccupied in the United States, especially west of the ninety-eighth meridian. In places where no attempts at tillage have been made the would-be settler or investor is often at a loss to know whether the land in view is adapted to a particular crop, or even whether it has any agricultural value. In such places the character of the natural vegetation is usually studied as an index of its crop-producing possibilities, but mistakes are often made in using this indicator without sufficient consideration.

As the result of investigations carried on during the past three years in the great plains area, the U. S. Department of Agriculture has issued a bulletin (B. P. I. 201) containing definite determinations of the correlations between different types of vegetation and the physical characteristics and crop possibilities of the land occupied by each type. The chief object of the bulletin is to show how the errors resulting from hasty and inconsiderate conclusions may be avoided, and how new lands may be classified with reasonable accuracy on the basis of natural vegetation. The publication is not a report of a land survey, but rather a discussion of methods which can be utilized to advantage in making such a survey.

The work has brought out clearly that the general conditions, whether favorable or unfavorable to crop production, are indicated by the native plant cover.

Starting Cucumbers Early.

Fill four-inch pots with rich potting compost and set them closely in a frame. Plant three or four cucumber seeds in each pot and then sift fine soil over the whole and water well. Keep the glass rather close till they germinate, and as they get a rough leaf thin to two plants in a pot.

Protect the frames from sudden cold, and finally when the plants are well established and the weather settled, turn the balls out and set the plants in well manured hills. This will advance the crop very materially. The same method can be used with cantaloupes. Lima beans started in this way can be successfully transplanted to the poles, and the pots are far better than the inverted sods so often advised.

Milk Fever.

Milk fever is an inflammation of the womb, which in some cases extends to the bowels. The most common symptoms are loss of appetite, rumination ceases, wild look, staggering gait and, in some cases, the cow falls and cannot get up. If the disease is not checked at once the brain will soon be affected and the cow will soon die.

Milk From Swiss Cow.

Like the Jersey cow the Swiss cow gives a large quantity of rich milk, the butter is of the choicest flavor and of a deep orange color. The cattle are very gentle in disposition, as they are treated like family pets.

SWINE PRODUCTS OF WORLD

Other Countries Besides United States Increasing Hog Production—Bacon Neglected.

Fred Sawyer, of Swift & Co., recently returned from an extended European trip, says the Live Stock World. Mr. Sawyer was surprised at the extent to which countries abroad are increasing the production of hogs since prices in America have been too high to admit of exportation on any considerable scale. Countries that have always been dependent upon others for hog meat are finding out how easy it is for them to produce pork. The biggest hogs he saw were in Hungary. They are sold there in pairs and a very common weight for a pair is 1,100 pounds. These hogs are skinned and frequently produce 150 pounds of lard apiece. Bacon cuts almost no figure with many continental European countries and the production of fat seems to be the prime object. He had often wondered why there is no sale in France for breakfast bacon. He found the reason to be that they do not bother about breakfast, a cup of coffee and a roll being all they expect to have before noon. However, the best hotels in Paris, of course, are catering in this as in other respects to the American custom. England, however, is using heavier cuts of hog meat and even the people of Denmark, long famous for bacon production, are growing heavier hogs to meet the general continental demand. England is getting large quantities of hog products from Australia and New Zealand and Mr. Sawyer thinks that unless America gets so she can produce more hogs at less cost she will soon be shut entirely out of the markets of the world. America has started them all to raising hogs.

TAKING CARE OF ROADSIDES

Unsightly Brush Should Be Removed and All Ornamental and Shade Trees Protected.

No matter how smooth and well constructed the traveled road may be, if the roadsides are not cared for, the highway as a whole will not give a good impression. All rubbish should be removed; the excavations should be filled and embankments smoothed and planted with grass wherever it will grow. Unsightly brush should be cut and grubbed out. Sometimes, however, the brush and small trees, if suitably trimmed, add to the attractiveness of the roadside.

All trees that are ornamental or which have value as shade trees should be preserved and protected, unless they grow so close together as to make a dense shade. In hot, dry climates particularly, and, indeed, in most places, trees are a considerable factor in reducing the cost of maintenance, since they lessen the evaporation of the moisture from the macadam. In exposed places where the sweep of the wind would be otherwise unbroken they serve to prevent in a measure the blowing away of the binder from the road surface. Unfortunately in such places it is often difficult to make trees grow. Care in the selection of the kinds of trees best suited to the locality is important.

Market for Farmers.

City people would rather deal direct with the farmers when they are sure they will get pure, fresh and wholesome stuff, says a writer in an exchange. One of my neighbors has for the past four years sold all the eggs off her farm to city people. She is sending about 50 dozen a week to Chicago this winter and gets five cents above the retail cost. She has averaged 38 cents per dozen for her eggs, the consumer paying express charges, while the average price at our home town has been about 23 cents. Pays, doesn't it?

This woman never buys eggs except from two neighbors whose reliability she knows, but she takes all they sell and makes a profit of about 15 cents a dozen on them. Of course, she does not tell anybody what she gets from the city consumers. She packs the eggs in paper boxes with partitions forming a little compartment for each egg. She usually ships from four to six dozen in a box.

Green Feed for Chicks.

Have tender green feed for the early chicks. Young collards and tender lettuce will be eaten readily by them. The chicks may help themselves from the growing plants or the latter may be cut up with a sharp knife. Both these plants stand low temperatures, and will give green feed early if planted soon enough.

Care for Setting Hen.

Setting hens should come off the nest once a day, preferably at the same time each day. Feed them on whole corn and supply clean fresh water and grit. A good "dust bath" of moist, fine, sandy loam will be appreciated. It is a lot better than real dust that is "bone dry."

Getting Best Stock.

Some breeders claim to get their best stock from April or May hatched pullets which have been kept back from egg production until nearly time for setting eggs for incubation.

Lack of Exercise in Sows.

When sows kill and eat their pigs the common cause is pampering and especially the lack of exercise. The sows become fat, costive, nervous and cross

THE "CUSTOM HOUSE SITE"

Senator Jones has introduced a bill for the re-appraisement and sale of blocks 32 and 53 and the west 450 ft. of suburban lot 26 in the government townsite of Port Angeles, or any subdivision of this site. These lands are to be subject to sale at private entry at the re-appraised price. If any settler has been in actual possession of any of these lands prior to the first of January, 1910, he will be entitled to a deed for the lands occupied and to own such buildings and improvements as may be on the land upon paying of the appraised value, not taking into consideration, of course, the value of these buildings and improvements. The settler's right must be exercised within ninety days after the re-appraisement, however, and in case he does not exercise his right he will have an additional period of thirty days after the expiration of the ninety days, to remove his buildings from the premises he occupied.

A bill similar to this passed the senate last session, but did not pass the house.

THE NEXT FOUR YEARS

Speaking before the Transportation Club of Seattle, John A. Miller emphasized the importance of the Olympic peninsula, not only from the standpoint of young men who wish to enter the service of railroads, but also from the standpoint of its relation to the material wealth of the state of Washington.

Mr. Miller called attention to the fact that the Olympic peninsula, now untouched by a railroad, has an area equal to the combined areas of the states of Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island, and he added that in material wealth "it has the basis of a small nation."

Coming at a time when the communities of the peninsula section of the state are making vigorous efforts to develop its resources, Mr. Miller's statement concerning the rich and almost unlimited resources of that part of Washington between Puget sound and the Pacific ocean ought to give additional impetus to the movement. Practically all the cities and towns lying west of the sound have joined in the campaign to encourage the development of the peninsula, and the chances are that the next four years will witness wonderful changes in that region.

Railroad men fully realize that the development of the Olympic peninsula will open up one of the richest parts of the Pacific Northwest, and they know, too, that the railroads are preparing to play a big part in the work of opening this vast area of timber and mineral wealth.

For young men, as Mr. Miller said, it is a land of opportunity, and a few years will fully vindicate the statement.—P.-I.

TALKS ON ADVERTISING, NO.4

By Jos. Blethen.

Recently a number of business men from various cities on the Olympic Peninsula gathered at Port Angeles for a conference. They had heard about the splendid work being done by various cities and communities throughout the United States and Canada along publicity lines, and they felt that the resources of the Olympic Peninsula might profit by such a plan applied locally.

It is an old story now that their convention was a success; that considerable enthusiasm was aroused, that a substantial fund of money was subscribed for publicity purposes; and that a committee of thirty was appointed to forthwith visit Seattle and Tacoma, and urge upon commercial organizations the good sense of encouraging and, in practical ways, aiding the campaign.

It is also known that this committee did visit Seattle and Tacoma, and that what these delegates said at a dinner given them at the Commercial Club in Seattle—at which the Commercial Club and the Seattle Chamber of Commerce were joint hosts—opened the eyes of Seattle business men very wide to the wonderful resources of the Olympic Peninsula.

Simultaneous with this awakening, the Commercial Club of Bremerton determined on an organization, and to that end requested the Seattle Chamber of Commerce to send a committee of boosters to a mass meeting at Bremerton, to give them all the information possible.

It happened to be my good fortune to be at the dinner above mentioned, and to be one of the committee of boosters who went over to Bremerton, headed by, and under the direction of Secretary C. B. Yandell, of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce. Upon both of these occasions it became my opportunity to say something to these business men on the lines of modern publicity as used by cities. I think that some of these things which were said on these occasions are not only worth reproduction in this corner, but are worth attention of every business man in The Times' advertising family.

First, why should cities, towns, and communities enter into advertising campaigns.

Because it has become an accepted method of modern city life, and therefore the community, town or city which keeps silence suffers by its own inactivity.

Second, how may a city, town or community advertise. By forming a commercial organization which is ready to do things at home, and to publish things abroad, and both for the benefit of the community.

Now this first proposition needs no argument. Under this second may be told the entire story of civic publicity. Let me begin by saying, It does not mean the printing of a page in this or that newspaper, or a page in this or that magazine, and then stopping work.

First of all, it means setting one's house in order. There must always be a determination on the part of the citizens of the city, town or community that they have something worth having, and worth recommending heartily to newcomers. If nothing else follows upon the effort of a community to maintain an active commercial organization, for boosting purposes, than this effort of home enthusiasm, enough would have been accomplished without proceeding another step.

But just as the community suffers in keeping silence because of the competition of other communities which are actively advertising, so the community, when it starts advertising, must compete with these other communities. Therefore, its advertising methods must be sane, its statements honest, and its goods first-class. The advertising committee starts by cleaning house. It sweeps the cobwebs out of the mental corners, and gets right down to the business of inspecting goods which are to be put on sale.

Once this has been done, there is no trouble in selecting mediums to convey the message to the audience from which recruits may be expected.

Now bringing this matter right home, the city of Seattle can, with immense profit to itself, take the leadership in this sudden and welcome awakening on the part of the towns and cities of Western Washington to the necessity of civic and community publicity. This will mean a great wave of enthusiasm at home as to the wonderful possessions bestowed on us by Nature. These fall under two great heads. First, agricultural possibilities; second, attractions for tourist travel. Once we can secure 50,000 more farmers in Western Washington as permanent producers and sellers, and once we can create a volume of half a million tourists each summer to Puget Sound, we will have made a fair beginning, and will then be entitled to branch out into specialties, such as securing more factories, railroads steamship lines and skyscrapers. Keep in mind that the moving of a man and his family from Germany, from Italy, from France, from Iowa, from Canada, from Sweden, or from Louisiana, to Puget Sound—and I mean a man capable of purchasing a farm when he gets here, and of operating it when he has purchased it—requires a little time. Statistics show that it takes at least a year to move a family of this sort after the thought has taken possession of the fireside. Therefore, it follows that a publicity campaign for farmers—and the same thing will apply to tourists—cannot be a hurry up of three months, but ought to be a sober, continuous campaign of four or five years. If Seattle, and the towns which look naturally to her for leadership, can, in five years, put 50,000 more farms into operation in Western Washington, they will have accomplished more for the present and future of the State of Washington than another Klondike would accomplish. Then the new factories and skyhouses will come running.

The State of Oregon has been systematically advertising for eight years and this summer, according to such good authority as President Hill of the Great Northern, is going to get 90 per cent of the total tourists travel booked to the Northwest. Canada has been advertising, Texas has been advertising, and the Southern Commercial Congress is now turning many settlers to the South by its publicity, who would otherwise have come North and West. In other words, this advertising matter has not only become a matter of competition, but it has become a matter of necessity. Just such conferences as were held in Port Angeles and Bremerton are waking the business men of Seattle to a grand work lying at their hands.

CITY ALREADY HAS A PARK

Port Angeles, April 19th.
Editor Olympic-Leader:

I read with interest the article in your columns on the disposition of the fund gathered by the ladies of our city to bridge the gulches and unite the city. Would it be just to all concerned after their noble work in gathering that fund expressly for those bridges to apply that money to a park fund?

We have a splendid grant from the government of a park, and in order to hold that grant our council is pledged to appropriate an amount of money yearly for its improvement, though this is about the first year it has honestly done so.

I for one would say, let the bridge fund be spent on what it was expressly raised for, and the ladies will point with pride to the result that will more nearly unite our different hills into one grand city, and fill a very much needed want.

Yours respectfully,
Harold H. Butler.

One might infer from the above that the Olympic-Leader had been contending in favor of the expenditure of a considerable sum on the City Park. As a matter of fact that tract of land was never even thought of in connection with the ladies' fund. There would be very little difference, so far as having something to which they could "point with pride" is concerned, between the bridges and the City Park.

The cost of the bridges has been variously estimated from $12,000 to $20,000. The city engineer has just sized them up at $22,000. If cheap bridges are built, they will be but temporary. If substantial, the fund of $1,000 would be completely lost to view.

The City Park is a valuable asset. It might be described as a natural grassy meadow as large as a driving park, surrounded in part with some especially fine fir timber. There should be an expenditure of two hundred dollars to clear down timber and underbrush, that the fires, which burn over portions of that country nearly every year, may be kept out. This work is a matter for the city; individual or club expenditures on the park would be lost—it would still be the City Park.

As a "future asset," it has its value; but being so far from the center of town it is of very little interest at the present time.

There should be one or two "beauty spots," not far out. A strip of velvety turf, rustic shelter and benches, a few trees and flowering shrubs, the whole neatly fenced, would be appreciated by every resident and visitor. Even a half block might do. And each year such a plot would increase in beauty and value.

At Port Townsend $1,000 was invested in beautifying a strip of land on the beach, and today Chetzemoka Park is one of the prettiest places in the state—a lasting monument to the Civic Club. Seldom a visitor leaves the city without having had an opportunity to praise Chetzemoka Park, for every Townsendite takes pride in this evidence of the civic spirit of the ladies of that city.

If, with this thousand dollars as a basis, the bridge could be built even one year earlier, it might possibly be worth while to continue to work for a bridge fund. Otherwise, the Olympic-Leader believes, a public library, a park, or some other improvement, would be vastly preferable.

ESTIMATES IN ON IMPROVEMENTS

But little business of importance was transacted at the meeting of the city council Tuesday evening. City Engineer Gherke submitted a report of estimates of probable cost of proposed improvement on Lincoln and Francis streets, as well as cost of bridging Valley and Tumwater gulches, but no action was taken on either proposition by the council.

Mr. Gherke gave $90,000 as the estimated cost of the proposed work on Lincoln and $88,000 on Francis street. The estimated cost of the two bridges was placed $22,500.

City Clerk Shields reported the assessed valuation of property abutting on Lincoln street within proposed improvement zone, at $244,376; on Francis, $148,059.50.

Light committee ordered to get estimates of probable cost of extension of line to Lincoln Heights.

Council rejected bid for sale of timber on City park, and requested Morse Wharf Co. to repair approach to wharf.

ASKS FOR INFORMATION

Editor Olympic-Leader:

I came to the Puget Sound twenty-nine years ago, Seattle was then but very little larger than Port Angeles is now. But I foresaw the future, and wrote an article entitled, "The Centennial Celebration of Seattle," describing this city as it will appear in 1952. I prophesied that Lake Washington will then be in the center of the City. The object of writing this article, however, was to instruct in Sanitary and Esthetic City building.

About that time my atttention was also drawn to the Olympic peninsula. But other duties took me away for a time. I spent eleven years in California and another eleven years in making a ziz-zag tour around the world. I have been back again in Seattle nearly four years. Two weeks ago I visited Port Angeles and was so delighted that I secured offices in the Citizens' Bank Building, and expect to be back there for the Convention April 21st and 22nd.

I am preparing a series of articles on the Pacific Coast States for publication in Europe, Scandinavia, Germany and Switzerland. The object is to bring the right people to the right places.

You would not send Sicilian orange growers to the Alaskan fisheries nor a desert Arab to the Puget Sound forests. Ignorant colonization has wrought much harm.

Your Climatic and Scenic attractions are unparalleled. You have mountains, forests and fertile soil, rivers, lakes and oceans; store houses of untold wealth awaiting sturdy development. You need strong and healthy young men and women with some means, true home builders. I shall have more to say on that later. Just now I want all the information I can get about the resources of the Olympic peninsula, and I most cordially invite all who have something to tell to call on me. Respectfully,

John C. Sundberg, M. D.

LOG ROLLING MAY 27TH

The local camp Modern Woodmen of America is having new life infused into its membership and is preparing for a County Class Adoption Day, May 27th. J. G. Reeves, District Deputy has been here for a week and a number of our citizens have already made application for adoption into the Camp. The Modern Woodmen is one of the strongest fraternal insurance organizations of the country, and its rates of insurance as low or lower than any similar organization.

It is confidently expected that a class of twenty-five will present themselves for adoption as new members of the Camp on May 27th, when drill team and officers from Seattle will be present and take charge of the adoption exercises. The Camps at Sequim and Dungeness will also be present. A banquet and dance will follow the adoption exercises.

JAS. B. DAVIS

Mr. Jas. B. Davis passed away last Friday, April 14th, at the home of Thomas Luke, Mt. Pleasant. Mr. Davis was 87 years of age last December and has been a resident of Clallam county for over 22 years, he and his wife being among the very first settlers at what is now known as Gettysburg. His wife, by a second marriage, who was the mother of Mrs. E. E. Seevers, passed away only a few months ago; he was laid to rest beside her in the pretty little Blue Mountain cemetery. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Fulmer at the Blue Mountain church last Sunday. Mr. Davis leaves four children by his first marriage, namely, Mrs. Harvey, Ballard, Mrs. Lathan, Spokane, Mrs. Ramsey, Missouri and Seth Davis, Gettysburg.

MR. BOB WILL DANCE

The play entitled Mr. Bob, and dance, which will be given at the opera house Friday evening, April 28th, will have the Angeles Marine Band render selections for the entire evening. The cast will be as follows: Mr. Philips Royson, Duane Allen; Jenkins, Butler for Miss Luke, Howard A. Campbell; Mr. Robert Brown, clerk for the law firm of Bensen and Bensen, Herman G. Celian; Miss Rebecca Luke, a maiden lady, Beatrice Allen; Miss Katherin, her niece, Grace McKechnie. Patty, Miss Rebecca's maid, Margaret Ritchie: Marion Brynt, Grace Rose.

HEAVY MACHINERY

During the week some unusually heavy pieces of machinery have been received by the Western Steel Corporation, and among these the shears for use in the rolling mills reach a very great weight, says the Irondale News. The eight down for considerably more than inch billet shears pull the scales forty tons while the shears for use in the nine and fourteen inch mills carry a further weight of nineteen tons. The matter of discharging the eight inch shears from the scow on which they were brought here offered a greater lifting call than the wharf derrick could handle, and the big machine was taken to pieces in order that it might be gotten into the desired position.

Walking Safe and Sane.

Taking it for granted that your heart is sound and normal, eight or ten miles' walk a day can only do a young man good; is the safest, sanest, best of all exercises, especially if the walker uses his powers of observation and thought on the way to cheer up and freshen brain, heart, appetite and nervous system. Forced long tramps for the mere glory of the thing are N. G.; are sometimes positively injurious. Walking should always take the form of a gay excursion, and not a stunt—where possible. Such walks are unusual these days, but long ago were everyday affairs, like hunting and sparking. One thing today is different; the roads are much harder; you know, in the old days there were no asphalt streets, gravel roads or other nongiving foot and leg killers. Every man ought to take one or two long walks a week and he ought to have three or four pairs of good shoes just for that purpose, so that while he is breaking in and softening up a new pair there are a couple of easy pairs to fall back on. Walking does not hurt the heart, and if there are no baggy veins or vein bags, walking hardly ever hurts a man.

Bill to Aid Homesteaders.

Washington, April 18.—Senator Jones has introduced a bill permitting homesteaders on public lands six months' leave of absence each year. This leave, says Senator Jones, is absolutely necessary to a majority of the settlers to enable them to provide support for themselves, since most of the lands settled upon are not productive for some time after entry.

Where Lord Byron Lived.

The late Lord Glenesk's house in Piccadilly, London, England, which is up for sale, has had several notable occupants, but none more notable than Lord Byron. Most of his brief and tempestuous married life was passed there, his daughter, Lady Lovelace, was born there, he was living there when he parted from his wife forever and in the library at the back of the house overlooking the stables—Lord Glenesk also used it as his library—he wrote "The Siege of Corinth." The apartment remains pretty much the same as it was in 1816.

There are several memorials of the poet in the house. His bust stands in a recess in the overmantel of the entrance hall. There is an oil painting of him framed by the overmantel of the library and the secret stairs in the lobby at the back of the morning room are said to have been used by him as a means of gaining access unobserved through the still existing trapdoor to the room above. He used, it is said, the latter room as a bedchamber, though in Lord and Lady Glenesk's time it was a drawing room.

SEVEN YEARS OF MISERY

All Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Sikeston, Mo.—"For seven years I suffered everything. I was in bed for four or five days at a time every month, and so weak I could hardly walk. I cramped and had backache and headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded to see anyone or have anyone move in the room. The doctors gave me medicine to ease me at those times, and said that I ought to have an operation. I would not listen to that, and when a friend of my husband told him about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for his wife, I was willing to take it. Now I look the picture of health and feel like it, too. I can do my own housework, hoe my garden, and milk a cow. I can entertain company and enjoy them. I can visit when I choose, and walk as far as any ordinary woman, any day in the month. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl."—Mrs. DEMA BETHUNE, Sikeston, Mo.

The most successful remedy in this country for the cure of all forms of female complaints is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

It is more widely and successfully used than any other remedy. It has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means had failed. Why don't you try it?

OPEN FIGHT FOR OPEN SHOP PLAN

Seattle, April 15.—Declaring that the open shop plan for the Pacific coast, reaching from Vancouver to Los Angeles and incorporating several branches of the larger industries with lumber and metal trades, now is an assured fact, J. T. Heffernan headed the return of the Seattle delegation last night from Portland, where 200 delegates put through the open shop plan, and put it into concrete form for an aggressive fighting and protective organization.

With Mr. Heffernan was J. V. Paterson, president of the Moran Company; George James, of the Vulcan Iron Works; F. G. Frink, of the Washington Iron Works; Thomas Kelsall, Northwestern Iron Works; E. J. Ford, Pacific Iron Works, and J. Hill, Renton Iron Works.

Mr. James said on his return on the Shasta Limited last night that the strike in the metal trades was foreign to the subject of the new organization. He declared that the manufacturers had banded together for mutual benefit in inaugurating the open shop in all lines and that within thirty days the details of the organization would be arranged in San Francisco.

Two Hundred at Conference.

The 200 delegates present, he said, were from Vancouver, Spokane, Tacoma, Seattle, San Francisco and Los Angeles, and represented many branches of industry outside the metal trades. Nothing aggressive at this time, he said, was proposed, but it was the firm purpose of the representatives to organize the Pacific coast, and proceeding farther, to reach all employers of labor in the manufacturing industries.

Traveling Man's Tale.

"I had a strange experience with an intoxicated man in a telegraph office down state the other day," says a traveling man. "Was in a hurry to send a message myself, but this fellow was leaning against the receiver's window as if he was camped there for the night. He muttered a lot of fool stuff to the man behind the screen, but I couldn't hear what it was. Finally I got impatient and shoved my message over his shoulder. At the same time I saw the scrawl this souse was endeavoring to get on the wire. It was addressed to somebody in New Orleans.

"He fumbled in his pocket, produced 62 cents in small change, and started away. 'Hold on,' the clerk said; 'this isn't enough. It will cost you $1.40 to send this to New Orleans.'

"'A' right, o' man,' waved the inebriate airily. 'That's all I got with me right now. Just send it as far as you can f'r th' money!'"

America's Influence in Paraguay.

The expansion of American intellectual and moral interests in Paraguay is more promising than our commercial progress. Following the lead of Sarmiento in Argentina, Paraguay has organized her primary education on American lines, and, if properly encouraged, will shape the courses in her higher schools on the American plan. The government supports ten young men at American universities. Publishers supply schoolbooks and an order for school furniture was recently placed in the United States. Both public and private libraries contain the works of Wheaton, Story and other American constitutional writers, of which use is freely made, because Paraguay took the Constitution of the United States as a model when she amended her own at the close of the Seven Years' war.

REMINDED HER OF GRANDPA

Man Returning to Native Town, Saying Everybody Looked Older, Is Given Hard Jolt.

"I'm mighty glad to meet you again," he said. "Do you realize that it is nearly eight years since I left this town?"

"Oh," she replied, "is it as long as that? I suppose you wouldn't care to return here to live, would you?"

"No. I'm afraid it would seem pretty dull, after living in a big city. There hasn't been much change here. Everybody that I used to know is older looking—that's about all."

"Yes, I have no doubt that you notice it much more than we do."

"Very likely. As for myself, I don't feel an hour older than I did on the day I left."

"Really? That reminds me of my grandfather. You remember him, don't you? Up to the very day of his death, when he was nearly 90, and looked it, he kept saying he felt like a colt."

More Feminine Frankness.

Marie Hay (Baroness Hindenburg), a young Scotch woman of two great historic families, whose childhood was one of the most extraordinary and tragic with which a future writer of fiction was ever blessed, and an extensive knowledge of the world, has chosen to begin her literary career with the historical novel, or, to be more accurate, the fictional biography; but beyond accepting the form she adheres to none of the popular recipes.

With the curious attitude to life that all Americans who have lived in England have observed in men and women of her rank, she asumes that, like the rest of the privileged class, she dwells in a separate and rarefied stratum. No laws exist for her! If she has anything to say she says it, and results are not even considered. Being a consummate woman of the world, however, she exercises this prerogative and causes her diplomatic husband no embarrassment. It is all a question of taste, and probably it is only in women of the world that taste is unerring.—North American Review.

Free from Alcohol

Since May, 1906, Ayer's Sarsaparilla has been entirely free from alcohol. If you are in poor health, weak, pale, nervous, ask your doctor about taking this non-alcoholic tonic and alterative. If he has a better medicine, take his. Get the best always. This is our advice.

Ayer's — We publish our formulas. We banish alcohol from our medicines. We urge you to consult your doctor

A sluggish liver means a coated tongue, a bad breath, and constipated bowels. The question is, "What is the best thing to do under such circumstances?" Ask your doctor if this is not a good answer: "Take laxative doses of Ayer's Pills."

A Brave Regiment.

Few regiments, says the New York Evening Post, have a better record for heroism than the 24th infantry, colored. During the war in Cuba the colonel of this regiment was ordered to detail sixty men, to replace as many nurses who had contracted yellow fever in the quarantine hospital.

The colonel, recognizing the peculiar work to be performed by his men who would go to the yellow-fever camps, ordered out his regiment in line, and said to them:

"Soldiers of the 24th, I want 60 volunteers to help nurse your white comrades who are suffering with yellow fever.

He commanded, "Volunteers, three paces to the front! March!"

Every man of that line stepped to the front.

But wait! Mark well the sequel to such Christian heroism. It was only a short time before word came to the colonel that half of his men who had volunteered to nurse their white comrades had been taken down with yellow fever. A number of them had died of that terrible disease, and 30 more nurses were wanted to take their places.

Again the colonel called out his black soldiers in line. He told them what had happened, and again he commanded:

"Volunteers, three paces to the front! March!"

And again every man of that line stepped to the front.
