BEST FRUIT GROWING LAND ON THE SOUND

Unlimited Market at High Prices for Washington Canned Red Raspberries

"Over in Sumner," said Donald McInnes at the Friday afternoon session, "the net proceeds of land planted to raspberries is $325 an acre, the fruit being sold to canneries. Their land is not nearly as good as the land in this county; we have thousands of acres of red raspberry land that will beat anything in the state; once planted the raspberry never ceases to bear and the lazy man need do nothing with them but thin out the canes and pick the fruit. On Vashon island, where they have the very poorest of land, the net income from an acre of strawberries is $225 a year. Berries of all kinds can be raised just as advantageously here as near the cities; I have been assured by officials at the head of the steamboat company that they will make just as low rates on fruit shipped from Angeles as from any of the islands, in order to assist in the development of the country.

"But there is no use telling people that we have such land," continued Mr. McInnes, "for they won't believe it It is up to us to demonstrate what the Olympic Empire is capable of producing. Over in the Yakima country where the people have demonstrated that fruit can be raised, high prices are paid for lands and they simply cannot be put on the market fast enough. Their claim of superior quality and color is a mistake. Where trees are taken care of just as fine fruit is raised in this county as in any part of the state; the handsomest colored red apples and the ones that carried off the sweepstakes at the Western Washington State Fair last fall were grown by J. A. Adams of Sequim. Down in Oregon, the Coast counties, at a fair I attended a year ago, won all the prizes and beat Hood River apples out of sight. I was there representing an agricultural paper and so talked with many of the

The entertainment of Convention visitors with automobile trips to Aldwell Canyon and Lake Crescent was a happy thought. Some 250 availed themselves of the opportunity to see something of Clallam county's big electric plant in the making, and all were enthusiastic in their praise of the trip.

THEY CAME, THEY SAW, AND WERE CONVINCED

The crowning success of an ascending scale of successes, is the way everybody refers to the "Publicity Supper," given by the Ladies' Auxiliary on Saturday evening, when over three hundred and fifty people, guests and townspeople, sat down together at elaborately decorated tables trimmed in a color scheme of white and yellow with intermingled trails of green.

Thirty-one guests sat at the speakers' table, with Mr. H. M. Fisher as master of ceremonies. On his right sat Governor Hay and President Kane, of the U. of W.; on his left Secretary of State Howell and Supt. of Public Instruction Dewey. Other speakers in order fronting the banquet hall were: on the right of toastmaster, Mrs. John Trumbull, C. C. Chapman, J. E. Barnes, F. C. Brewer, T. T. Aldwell, N. K. Mead; on the left, Mrs. Edyth Tozier Weathered, I. A. Nadeau, H. C. Nutt, A. E. D. Stewart, Abraham E. Smith. Others at the speakers' table were: Rev. Stephen Smith, Rev. M. B. Phillips, Frank Townley Watson, G. M. Lauridsen, Wallace R Struble, Dr. A. C. Ghent, M. J. Carrigan, Rufus R. Wilson, T. S. Gorman, E. E. Seevers, R. L. Blanchard, Donald McInnes, Geo. W. O'Brien, W. D. Noble, M. M. Mattison.

The master of ceremonies struck his bell promptly at 8 o'clock, and the strains of the Marine Band Orchestra ushered in the "sound of revelry," following the invocation by Rev. Dr. Smith.

Then good cheer was the order of business. Space forbids a recital in detail; but just here it is emphatically in order to refer to the modest, effective and charming service of the young ladies who acted as the Ganymedes of the feast. Every guest and banqueter, from Gov. Hay to the humblest citizen, complimented them and meant it. And the Women's Auxiliary was cheered to the echo for their part in the preparation and distribution of the viands. Nor do we forget Prof. Geisness' boys who ushered so adequately, Wm. Buell, whose practical hand was everywhere in evidence in the management and service.

The team work of the boosters, Chapman, Barnes, Carrigan, Watson, Brewer, Aldwell and others was a "whole show" in itself, and made the minutes fly with merriment. Here are some samples of their "stunts:"

"Siss, boom, weow, bang! Hay, Governor Hay!"

"C. C. C. See what? C. C. Chapman."

"B-a r-n-e-s—does not spell Stables. What does it spell? Southwest Washington's greatest booster."

Again from Chapman's bunch: "Oh, oh, oh! Oh, what? Sour Dough? No! Nadeau!

"Well, well, well! Who's well? Aldwell."

"Kane, Kane, Kane! What about Kane? Kane is able." Etc., etc. And the music and the cheering and the speaking went on and on.

After the last course, which consisted of ice cream, angel cake, lady fingers and coffee, the toastmaster, H. M. Fisher, called upon Hon. N. K. Mead, who responded in a pleasing manner to the toast "Are We All Here?"

Hon. M. E. Hay, Governor, was next in order, giving a very entertaining discourse on "The State," dwelling to considerable extent on the necessity of good roads.

"The University's Relation to the State's Development" as handled by Dr. Thos. Kane, President of the U. of W., Seattle, was probably the most instructive discourse of the evening and commanded the close attention of everyone from start to finish.

NEXT MEETING AT TOWNSEND IN JUNE

Development League Affiliated with Southwest Washington and Oregon.

The Olympic Peninsula Development League was organized Friday afternoon with Col. F. C. Harper of Port Townsend as president; C. P. Kimball of Bremerton as first vice-president; Jas. Dick, Dungeness, second vice-president; A. J. Cosser, Port Angeles, secretary; J. P. Christensen, Port Angeles, treasurer, and Wm. Doelle, Irondale, chairman executive committee.

J. E. Barnes of Centralia, secretary of the Southwest Washington League, and C. C. Chapman of Portland, representing the Oregon Development League, were present and outlined the plan of organization of their leagues, and a committee of five was appointed to confer with them, the committee's report, which was adopted, being as follows:

"The name of this organization shall be, The Olympic Peninsula Development League. The object of this organization shall be the promotion of the interests of the Olympic Peninsula, Washington. Its officers shall be a president, first vice-president, second vice-president, a secretary and treasurer. Each club included in the organization shall be entitled to a membership of five in the Development League. The president, secretary and three other members of the club at large to constitute said membership; from these members to be chosen a chairman of the Executive Committee, a chairman of the Publicity Committee and a chairman of the Good Roads Committee of the League; first president of the League to be chosen from Port Townsend, first vice-president from Bremerton, second vice-president from Dungeness, the secretary and the treasurer from Port Angeles, chairman of the Executive Committee from Irondale, chairman of the Good Roads Committee from Sequim, and the chairman of the Publicity Committee from Port Angeles.

Resolved, that we form an alliance with the S. W. D. Ass'n on all matters pertaining to the general welfare of the Olympic Peninsula and southwestern Washington."

The various delegations then presented their nominations and the officers were elected as above noted. The chairman of the Publicity and Good Roads committees will be selected later by Port Angeles and Sequim.

Upon suggestion of Mr. Barnes, the basis of financial contributions for the expenses of the League were fixed at the rate of $50 per 1,000 of population of each town and community represented, making Port Angeles' share $100, Port Townsend's $200, Bremerton $150, Irondale $50, and Sequim, Dungeness, Port Crescent, Clallam Bay, Quilcene and Chimacum $25, each, giving a total of $650.

Date of annual meeting was fixed as first Saturday in April, officers taking office May 1st following election.

The following committee resolution was unanimously adopted:

"Resolved that Port Townsend be fixed as the next place of meeting of the League on or about the 15th day of June, 1911. Resolved, further, that the City of Port Angeles be extended the thanks of this League for the generous hospitality and good fellowship shown the visiting members of the League."

A telegram was read from N. B. Coffman of Chehalis, chairman of executive committee, extending con-

EARLES WILL SELL 6,000 ACRES

Logged-off Lands in Cedar Belt to Be Sold in Acreage Tracts by League.

M. J. Carrigan, in what was easily the most important in the way of announcements made, the most replete with facts concerning the Empire, and in some respects the most interesting of any address given during the convention, told his audience at the Saturday afternoon session that one of the great difficulties in the way of development had been solved by Mr. Earles' agreeing to place on the market 3,000 acres of logged-off lands.

Realizing the desirability of having a large logged-off area which could be divided into acreage tracts of suitable size, to the end that settlers might secure lands for homes where they would have the advantages of community as well as rural life, Mr. Carrigan had appealed to Mr. Earles and had by him been authorized to state that he would turn over the League 3,000 acres just beyond the Elwha river, or from seven to eight miles west of Angeles, to be sold at low prices and on reasonable terms, the League to charge no commission and there to be no speculation on the part of Mr. Earles.

This being satisfactorily sold, he will place another tract of equal size in the hands of the League. There are already some of the best farms in the county between the Elwha and Port Crescent, and much of the land included in the tract is exceptionally

Live Wire Barnes of Centralia, who opened the convention Friday afternoon with an address on Development Organization, during the course of which he told of the work done by the Southwest Washington Development Association, stated that he had been commissioned to say that his association would stand hand in hand with the peninsula in the work to be done. "Cast your lot with us and we will stick by you to the last ditch," he said. He was surprised to find the great interest taken in the convention, "Why, you have about four times as many people here as they had at their first meeting in Centralia; it is a bigger meeting of citizens than any we have held, and we have gone into towns with 300 delegates. It beats the famous meeting at Salem. If you can only keep one-tenth of your enthusiasm for five years the League will have proven an unqualified success."

"It is unifying of our forces, each man doing his part, that will bring the great success.

"Your great problem is getting the men on the land, especially inducing them to clear logged-off lands; to get your large land owners to subdivide their tracts.

"You people of the Olympic Peninsula have done a great thing in raising $11,000 for publicity, but it

The United States Supreme Court will soon decide whether it is unconstitutional to make it a crime to publish for advertising purposes the name or photograph of any person without obtaining permission first. The constitutionality of a New York criminal law on the subject is being tested.

DEMOCRATS MAY ARBITRATE REPUBLICAN DIFFERENCES

Washington, April 24.—Democrats of the senate may be called upon to arbitrate the differences between the Republican "regulars" and "progressives" over the question of committee assignments.

This unprecedented situation was predicted following the adjournment Saturday night of a meeting of the Republican committee on committees at which the demands of the progressives for the right to dictate one-fourth of the Republican members on all committees was again denied.

Vote Is Split.

The progressives did not ask for a formal recognition, but this made no difference in the vote of 7 to 4, by which their original demands were defeated.

It was said the progressives would appeal to the senate from the assignments of the committee on committees, and in this way the Democrats will be called in to settle the difficulty.

Neither of the Republican factions is disposed to shirk the responsibility of the situation. If the dispute gets into the hands of Democratic senators, it is predicted the result may be far more consequential.

Hard to Foretell.

The snarl would be such that no one could forecast the legislative results of the session.

Just what action the Democrats would take as arbitrators is speculative.

At this meeting a resolution adopted previously which provided for the organization of the committees in alphabetical order was reconsidered, and Senator Gallinger, as chairman of the committee, was instructed to bring in a tentative list of assignments. But this action was not taken without opposition from the progressives, who insisted on their right to designate their representatives on committees.

TRAINLOAD OF SEED OYSTERS FOR SOUND

Providence, R. I., April 24.—Within the past month there have been sent from this State to the State of Washington twenty-eight carloads of seed oysters to be transplanted in the waters of Puget Sound. Orders have been taken here for further shipments, and it is announced by the local dealers that the Washington oystermen intend to restock Puget Sound with the Atlantic delicacy.

Ten refrigerator cars filled with young oysters were recently shipped to the Crescent Oyster Company of Crescent, B. C. The seeds were purchased of W. L. Lambert, secretary and manager of the company, and R. W. Huntoon of the Drayton Harbor Oyster Company, South Bellingham, Wash.

The oysters in this shipment were bought from Claude Bradley, who has also shipped one car to the Occidental Oyster Company, South Bend, Wash. The Toke Point Oyster Company at South Bend, Wash., has also purchased seed oysters here within the month, making the total shipments to date twenty-eight carloads.

The culture of oysters in Narragansett bay is under control of an expert commission, which leases the oyster grounds at from $5 to $10 an acre, according to desirability. Last year the commissioners received $112,000.

PRESIDENT TAFT MUCH PLEASED BY THE NEWS

Washington, April 24.—President Taft received the news of the arrangement for an armistice with undisguised satisfaction. He was quick to inform members of his cabinet and summoned Secretary of War Dickinson especially for a short conference. The secretary was visibly pleased when he left the White House. The president's first information came from Associated Press dispatches.

It is believed that the armistice will relieve both the Mexican and United States governments of an embarrassing tangle over the Douglas, Ariz., incidents.

The president, though somewhat disturbed by occurrences in Mexico, has never abandoned hope that the warring factions would be pacified. He has been confident that Senor De La Barra would be instrumental in restoring Mexico to tranquility, and the fact that the former ambassador has participated in the negotiations for bringing about an armistice has pleased the president very much.

Day Gets Equitable Job.

New York, April 22.—Against the advice of Supt. Hotchkiss of the State department of insurance and its trustees, the Equitable Life Assurance Society, by vote of its board of directors elected William A. Day, J. Pierpont Morgan's candidate, to succeed the late Paul Morton as president of the society, at a salary of $50,000 a year, as against the $80,000 a year paid to Mr. Morton. No vice-president was chosen to succeed Mr. Day.

Kern Boom Launched.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 25.—Leading Democrats of the state met here last night and launched a presidential boom for United States Senator John W. Kern, of Indiana. A Kern Presidential Club was organized, and it is said similar clubs will be organized throughout the country.

PROMINENT UNION MEN CHARGED WITH LOS ANGELES TIMES EXPLOSION

Indianapolis, Ind., April 24.—The alleged leader in the gang that dynamited the Los Angeles Times, with the loss of a score of lives, was arrested here Saturday night.

John J. McNamara, secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Structural Iron Workers was the man arrested and branded as the leader in the Times affair. McNamara was railroaded through the court here and now is on his way to Los Angeles, where he will stand trial for the crime. He was arraigned here on a technical charge of murder and was committed to jail without bond.

Spirited Away by Detectives.

Instead of going to jail, he was delivered to the custody of detectives, who spirited him away in an automobile. Governor Marshall of Indiana previously had prepared for deportation by signing requisition papers previous to the arrest.

The national board of the International Association was in session in the American Central Life Building in the heart of the city when the raid was made and McNamara arrested. The following officials of the union and members of the board were taken into temporary custody by the police: F. M. Ryan, Chicago, national president; H. W. Leglenter, Pittsburg; P. C. Cooley, New Orleans; E. A. Clancey, San Francisco; M. J. Young, Boston; J. L. Butler, Buffalo, and H. S. Hookin of Detroit.

Before disappearing mysteriously with McNamara, W. J. Burns made a statement to the United Press in which he declared:

"Indianapolis has been the headquarters of a band of dynamiters that has terrorized the entire country for a year. McNamara is their leader They have dynamited four buildings here. They blew up the big bridge at Springfield, Ill. They destroyed the Llewellyn Iron Works on the Pacific Coast. On March 23, 1911, they simultaneously blew up the courthouse at Omaha and the office of Caldwell & Drake at Columbus, Ind., contractors for that building. They blew up the Los Angeles Times and killed a score of men."

Los Angeles, April 24.—Upon separate trains and hidden away in locked Pullman compartments under surveillance of armed guards, John J. McNamara, international secretary of the International Structural Iron Workers' Association, and his two alleged confederates, James McNamara and Ortie McManigal, are being rushed to this city to answer to the charge of having dynamited the Los Angeles Times, October 1, 1910, causing the death of twenty-one men. By what routes they are being brought here is a secret. When they will arrive is also unknown.

Take No Chances.

The police here, and William J Burns, the detective, who says he has laid bare a widespread conspiracy of destruction, are taking no chances. Elaborate precautions were made to prevent an attempt at rescuing the accused trio.

Secrecy also is regarded as necessary to avoid legal complications. At the Labor Temple, the Los Angeles union labor headquarters, there were bitter denunciations of the way in which the McNamara brothers and McManigal had been taken into custody, but these came only from the rank and file of union members. None of the labor leaders could be found, and it was said that several of them were in conference with James E. Timmons, general organizer of the Iron Workers' Association, to devise plans to obtain for the prisoners here the rights and constitutional privileges which it is declared were denied them when the Burns men swooped down upon them in Detroit and Indianapolis and held them incommunicado.

Compared With Idaho.

Comparison with the case of Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone, the union men who were spirited away from Colorado to answer to the charge of having caused the death of Gov. Steunenberg in Idaho several years ago, were frequent. Every man at the Labor Temple agreed that the arrest of the ironworkers' official and his two alleged accomplices had brought to a climax the long battle waged between the unions and their opponents in Los Angeles, and though preparations admittedly were being made for the defense of the prisoners, it was maintained that no technicalities would be interposed to prevent an early trial.

Expected Accusations.

"It has been the purpose from the first to make union labor responsible for the destruction of the Times," said A. R. Phills, a labor paper editor, "and this was expected, though none knew who would be accused. This will line up the unions in battle array, and we will fight to a finish."

Timmons, the structural iron workers' organizer, was one of the principal witnesses before the grand jury which spent more than two months investigating the Times explosion and found twenty-three indictments against the alleged perpetrators of the outrage. But it is almost certain that at that time—last December—the McNamaras and McManigal were not known in connection with the crime.

GOMPERS SAYS ACT OF DETECTIVES WAS KIDNAPING

Washington, April 24.—President Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, said the arrest of International Secretary John J. McNamara, of the Bridge and Structural Ironworkers of America, at Indianapolis Saturday night, was an outrageous kidnaping and attributed it to enemies of organized labor and to a plot of money interests to destroy labor unions.

Mr. Gompers said he could not say what might be done in the way of defense of the men arrested at Indianapolis or whether the federation will give its aid, but in the meantime he had the utmost confidence in their innocence.

INDIANAPOLIS GRAND JURY TAKES BOOKS SEIZED BY DETECTIVES

Indianapolis, Ind., April 25.—By an order of Judge Joseph T. Markey, of the Marion county criminal court, yesterday, only the county prosecutor, members of the grand jury and officials of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers will be permitted to examine books and papers taken from the offices of the association.

Detectives Barred.

This action, taken on appeals of attorneys of the association, and with the approval of the county prosecutor, bars private detectives and unofficial investigators from inspecting the books, correspondence and documents.

The matter was locked up in the grand jury room and will be submitted to the grand jury today in the course of the investigation into the identity of the persons who deposited dynamite in the Iron Workers' Association's storage compartment in the basement of the building in which are its offices.

Seized by Burns.

A part of the books and papers were seized by the police Saturday in a raid led by William J. Burns, a private detective in the employ of the National Erectors' Association, investigating dynamite explosions that have damaged bridges and buildings in course of construction in many parts of the country and destroyed the Los Angeles Times building, with great loss of life.

The raid followed the arrest of J. J. McNamara, secretary-treasurer of the Iron Workers, indicted in Los Angeles for alleged complicity in an explosion at the Llewellyn Iron Works.

Fight Over Books.

Contest over the possession of the books of the Iron Workers' association began early, when counsel for the association obtained, in a justice of the peace court, a write of replevin directed against Superintendent Hyland and Prosecutor Baker. The writ was served as Hyland was in the grand jury room.

He and the prosecutor refused to give up the books.

It was after this that the grand jury determined to take possession, as evidence, of the accounts and papers in the association's storage compartment. A subpoena was issued directing President Ryan to bring them into court.

Counsel Hired.

The Iron Workers' Association engaged several additional attorneys and friends of Secretary-Treasurer McNamara employed counsel for him personally. Henry Seyfried, McNamara's attorney, in an interview, denounced the extradition of McNamara as an "outrageous illegality," and said he believed the detectives were guilty of kidnapping under the laws of Indiana.

It was reported that affidavits were being prepared to be filed in a justice court, charging private detectives with kidnapping McNamara.

Charge Kidnapping.

Labor leaders in public statements said McNamara had been "railroaded" without opportunity of consulting counsel and without a hearing.

On the other hand, Police Judge Collins, who turned McNamara over to a police sergeant from Los Angeles, said under the law he had no alternative, as the Los Angeles policeman had a state warrant from Gov. Marshall, who honored the requisition of the governor of California and as McNamara admitted his identity as the man named in the warrant.

THREE ARRESTS FOR KIDNAPPING UNION MEN

Indianapolis, Ind., April 25,—Walter Drew, counsel for the Erectors' Association; W. J. Ford, assistant district attorney of Los Angeles, and Frank Fox, chauffeur, were arrested last night on affidavits charging them with having kidnaped J. J. McNamara, secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers.

The men were arrested on warrants issued in the court of Justice of the Peace Manning after affidavits against them had been made by an attorney for McNamara. Drew and Ford were released upon bond of $5,000 each and Fox under bond of $3,000.

All the bonds were given by William A. Ketcham, president of an iron foundry company and an officer of the Indianapolis Employers' Association. It is charged that although McNamara was not turned over to a detective sergeant from Los Angeles until Governor Marshall had honored requisition papers from the governor of California, he had not been permitted to consult with counsel or to make a plea of resistance of extradition before Police Judge Collins, when he was identified as the man named in the warrant for his arrest.

DARROW MAY DEFEND MEN ACCUSED OF CRIME

Chicago, April 25.—Clarence Darrow, the Chicago attorney who successfully defended Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone, is likely to defend the McNamaras and McManigal.

"I have been approached," Darrow said. "There was a time when I would have welcomed the request, but I have been through so many bitter fights which were so long, so exhausting and so enervating that I am beginning to feel the weight of years, and I hardly feel that I have the strength to undertake it. I have asked the union leaders to find a younger and stronger man. If they fail to find such a one, I will then consider the matter."

Governor Was Hasty.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 25.—Uneasy through protestations by labor leaders here as to the way in which John J. McNamara was spirited out of Indianapolis, Gov. Marshall yesterday gave assurances that if any more requisitions are presented in connection with the Los Angeles explosion he will see that the accused men are given a court hearing here.

POTLACH PREPARATIONS TAKING DEFINITE FORM

Seattle, April 24.—Every resident of Seattle will be "at home" during the week of July 17-22, for the purpose of helping to entertain the swarm of visitors which is expected here at that time to take part in the Golden Potlatch.

Preparations for this week of merry-making and entertainment are now rapidly taking on definite shape although the program is still far from complete. New details are being decided upon almost every day and it can already be seen that the entertainment planned for the visitors and the citizens as well will be of an even more elaborate character than was first intended.

Naturally the officers of the Seattle Carnival Association are now directing their principal efforts to the primal necessity of funds and money is already beginning to flow into the treasury in a most satisfactory manner. The method of raising the $100,000 which will be spent by the association upon the Potlatch is decidedly different from that usually adopted by the promoters of such affairs.

There are no assessments of business houses, hotels and restaurants. The railroads have been asked to give nothing more than reduced rates. There are no subscription lists through which public-spirited citizens may contribute according to their means or inclinations. The highest, lowest and universal contribution is one dollar.

For the dollar the contributor receives a souvenir button in the form of a gold nugget as a certificate of his membership in the carnival association and as a badge of his patriotism. These buttons are numbered consecutively from 1 to 100,000, and are being sold almost as rapidly as they are received from the manufacturers.

The program committee is busily engaged in arranging the scope of the entertainment and although this is still in a rather tentative form enough has been accomplished to show that the week will afford more in the way of variety of entertainment than any similar week ever offered the public free of charge.

The entertainment will swing all the way across the realm of possibility from flying machines soaring above the harbor to Indian war canoes racing upon the water below. It will range from historical pageants in the streets to a grand illumination of the whole city in exemplification of Seattle's wealth of electric power. It will include a formal ball and all sorts of informal public dances; music by some of the best bands of the country; sports and games of all sorts and probably a day which will be turned over to the Japanese and Chinese for their own unique forms of entertainment.

It is not so much a question of what to have as what not to have that is puzzling the program committee. Almost everything under the sun has been offered in way of suggestion or urged by promoters and it is the work of selecting the best and most attractive that is delaying the definite announcement of the program. Certainly the committee is promising enough to tire the eye and soften the bed of every visitor.

HUNDRED MILLION CAPITAL FOR NEW NATIONAL BANK

New York, April 25.—The United States National Bank of America, to be established in the District of Columbia, with $100,000,000 capital, is provided for in a bill introduced by Representative Fornes, of New York. Three-fifths of the stock shall be purchased by the United States with the proceeds of $60,000,000 worth of government bonds and two-fifths shall be taken by the national banks of the country.

Bankers Meeting Goes to Wenatchee.

Tacoma, April 24.—The executive committee of the Washington State Bankers' Association, at a meeting held here, decided to hold the next annual convention in Wenatchee at some date in September yet to be fixed.

ARMISTICE SIGNED BY MEXICANS

CESSATION OF HOSTILITIES FOR FIVE DAYS IS AGREED UPON.

Believed During That Time Peace Terms Satisfactory to Both Sides May Be Agreed Upon—Diaz Government Said to Be Anxious to Put Reforms Into Effect.

El Paso, Tex., April 24.—An armistice of five days, beginning at noon yesterday, affecting the district between Juarez and Chihuahua, and west of the latter, was made effective in an exchange of identical letters signed by Gen. Francisco I. Madero, jr., for the rebels, and Gen. Juan Navarro for the government.

The truce provides there shall be no movement of troops of either side during five days and that provisions and medicines may be brought to either camp from the United States without payment of duty.

One Place Exempt.

It is noted that Ojinaga, where a small federal force is besieged, is not covered in the armistice, the insurrecto activity in that district being largely independent.

It is expected that in the event of the settlement of the rebellion in Chihuahua the situation at Ojinaga and other scattered places throughout the republic will receive attention.

The moral effect of the cessation of hostilities in Chihuahua is regarded as certain to make settlements in other parts of the country simple.

Truce Agreeable.

It was known that a truce was agreeable to Madero, and a telegram from Mexico City informed Gen. Madero that Gen. Navarro had been instructed by President Diaz to enter into the agreement.

The concessions which the government is willing to make have been known to Gen. Madero for two weeks, ever since Frederico Moye, a business man of Chihuahua, visited Gen. Madero at Rancho Bustillos. They were discussed in the meeting by the leaders and members of the peace mission. Those present were:

Agents Busy.

Francisco Madero, sr., father of the rebel; the latter's brothers, Alfonso, Gustavo and Raoul Madero; Pascual Orozco, the original field leader of the revolution; Pancho Villa, former bandit and present staunch supporter of Madero; Giuseppe Garibaldi and Gen. and Senora Madero.

The last is accounted a warm supporter of the plan for taking Juarez, and then talking peace. She feels her husband would be in better position to talk peace from Juarez than from the hills around it. A representative of the Associated Press was present by invitation, having been with the insurrecto forces much of the time since the revolt started.

Secret Parleying.

Much of the discussion was of a nature, publication of which is not desired at this time. It may be said, however, that Gen. Madero has the most authentic assurances of a liberal attitude on the part of the government. In fact, it may be said President Diaz is anxious to adopt every measure that will insure the return of the revolutionary soldiers to their farms and shops with the feeling that the government in Mexico City is their government and that every aid the government can give them to repair the ravages of neglect is theirs for the asking.

To Avoid Rancor.

The government wants no rancor to remain on either side. The liberality of the president on every point immediately affecting the daily life of the people, as shown in the assurances given Gen. Madero, exceeds the dreams of the revolutionists themselves.

All telegrams which have been exchanged and all documents in the case were handed from one to another and carefully read by all, including Senora Madero. The leaders under Madero assured him, as they have done before, that any terms arranged by him will be faithfully kept by them.

LA FOLLETTE ASKS FOR KNOWLEDGE OF ALASKA

Washington, April 22.—A resolution by Senator La Follette, passed by the Senate today, calls upon the Secretary of the Interior for information regarding coal lands in Alaska, and is said to be designed to discover if favoritism has been shown to the Guggenheim interests in the territory.

Hearing on Hoquiam Project.

Washington, April 22.—The rivers and harbors board has agreed to give Senators Jones and Poindexter and Representative Warburton a hearing with regard to the proposed improvement of the Hoquiam river in the vicinity of Hoquiam and Aberdeen. This project has been adversely reported upon by local engineers, but it is hoped that a reversal may be secured after thorough discussion.

GOVERNMENT WINS OREGON LAND SUIT

FEDERAL JUDGE WOLVERTON HANDS DOWN SWEEPING DECISION IN BIG CASE.

If Sustained by Highest Court, Government Will Recover Land Valued at From Forty to Seventy-five Millions—Squatters Also Denied to Have Gained Any Title.

Portland, Ore., April 25.—Federal Judge Charles Wolverton has decided in favor of the government every contention made by it in its answer to the demurrer of the Southern Pacific Company in the so-called "O. and C." land grant case. The effect of this decision will be that if it is sustained by the supreme court of the United States, land in this state valued at from $40,000,000 to $75,000,000 will revert to the government and probably will be opened to settlers.

While deciding in favor of the federal government, Judge Wolverton decided against several thousand intervenors in the case. He holds that they have acquired no right whatever by either settling on the land or tendering the maximum sum per claim specified by law. The effect of this portion of the decision is that the grant lands affected cannot be obtained by any individual, until the president or congress again opens it to entry or sale.

Entrymen Lose Title.

The sixty-seven entrymen who had gone upon the land as settlers before the suits of the government were commenced also lose their claim and are held to have gained no advantage whatever by their period of settlement. Something more than 5,000 intervenors have filed applications to get a portion of the land, but their supposed rights are brushed aside, leaving the entire tract open to disposition by congress, as if it never had been offered to the railway interests as a grant.

The question, in brief, raised by the Southern Pacific Company was whether the federal congress by a subsequent act, has the power to make said act precedent the rights conferred in an original grant.

Suit Started in 1908.

The present suit was instituted in 1908 by Attorney General Bonaparte, following a memorial by the Oregon legislature to the federal congress that the Southern Pacific Company, successor to the Oregon & California Railway Company, had forfeited its rights to a grant of land in Oregon and Washington, that provided that such grant should be sold to bona fide settlers in tracts not to exceed 160 acres each and at a price not to exceed $2.50 per acre.

The company was said to have violated the provisions of the grant by refusing to sell the land as provided in the grant. The case dragged along through the past three years, though the demurrer that yesterday was decided was filed shortly after the suit by the government was instituted.

Grant Made in 1866.

In 1866 congress granted to the Oregon Central Railway Company a tract through the heart of Oregon, comprising what is now some of the richest agricultural and most valuable timber land in the state. The consideration for the grant was an agreement to construct a railroad north and south over what is now the Southern Pacific's Oregon division of the Shasta route.

The grant of 1866 contained no requirement that the lands included in it should be sold in any specific quantity nor at any specified price per acre.

In 1869, however, the company appeared before congress, petitioning an extension of time in which to construct the road, also asking that it be granted some 20,000 additional acres of land.

Congress Puts in Condition.

Congress extended the time as petitioned, and granted the additional land, but apparently realizing its omission as to manner of sale, it attempted to embody, as a part of the entire grant, the condition that the land be sold in 160-acre tracts to bona fide settlers at a consideration not to exceed $2.50 per acre.

Another extension of time was granted the road two years later under what is known as the grant of 1870. Time was the only essence of the 1870 act.

During the 70's the Oregon Central was succeeded by the Oregon & California Railroad Company and the road was built. Until late in the 80's or until the Southern Pacific absorbed the Oregon & California, the terms of the 1868 grant was adhered to.

Refuses to Sell Land.

After that date, however, the Southern Pacific appears to have elected to abandon the additional rights obtained under the act of 1868, and to trace its title to the act of 1866, in conjunction with the extension obtained under the action of 1870. In other words, it declined to sell the granted lands in tracts of 160 acres and at the rate of $250 per acre.

The land at present held by the company amounts to over 2,000,000 acres and the value is estimated at somewhere between $50,000,000 and $75,000,000.

WILL RUSH WORK ON TARIFF BILL

FIRST ATTACK ON PAYNE-ALDRICH BILL MADE ON MONDAY IN HOUSE.

That a Bill Placing Many Articles on Free List or Greatly Reducing Duty on Them Will Pass the House Is Freely Predicted—Discussion Will Be Extended.

Washington, April 24.—The first attack of the Democratic house of representatives upon the schedules of the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill will begin today. With the Canadian reciprocity bill disposed of, as far as the house is concerned, the lines of battle are being drawn over the bill. Chairman Underwood, of the ways and means committee, whose work is approved by the Democratic caucus, seeks to place on the free list many manufactured articles.

Will Pass House.

That the bill will pass the house is unquestioned, but there will be a turbulent and prolonged debate and the division on the final vote will be far different from the vote on the reciprocity bill.

Republican leaders say at least three-fourths of the sixty-seven Republicans who voted with the Democratic majority for the reciprocity bil' will be found standing by the Republican protective policy.

The Democratic leaders themselves admit that on the free list bill the alignment will be closely partisan and they expect the discussion will continue possibly two weeks.

Wool Delayed.

The committee's real work on the revision of the wool and cotton schedules will not be undertaken until the farmers' free list bill has been passed.

After these schedules are prepared there will be a caucus of the democratic majority and the bills will be reported to the house as the caucus directs.

That action probably cannot come for three weeks.

"This extra session," said Democratic Leader Underwood, "is to be essentially a tariff revision session. We have passed the reciprocity bill and next week will take up the free list bill, calling it up Monday as soon as set matters are disposed of.

Much Work Planned.

"As we handled the reciprocity bill, so will we this one. There has been a heavy demand from both sides of the house for time to speak. There will be no disposition to shut off the debate. The outlook is that the free list bill will take up more of the time of the house than did the reciprocity bill."

The reapportionment bill is almost certain to be called up next Wednesday, but opposition may delay final vote.

The new Mexico-Arizona statehood bill also is on the calendar. Besides these, the program includes little of importance except the tariff. The Democrats will resume the free list discussion Thursday.

SEATTLE ESCAPES OBNOXIOUS VACCINATION REGULATIONS

Washington, April 25.—Surgeon General Walter Wyman, of the marine hospital service, in response to the representations of Senator Jones and Representative Humphrey in behalf of the Seattle and Tacoma chambers of commerce and steamship lines in the Puget Sound and Alaskan trade, has wired Past Assistant Surgeon B. J Lloyd his interpretation of the vaccination regulations which have become so obnoxious to Alaskan travelers.

The telegram says vaccination is required only where there is no mark of recent vaccination and only where the passenger has been exposed to smallpox within two previous weeks.

The health bureau recommends that this procedure be followed by Seattle officers regarding Alaskan trade.

ARMISTICE TO BE AS LONG AS NECESSARY

El Paso, Texas, April 25.—Belief that the Mexican insurrection is over was made practically certain yesterday when announcement was made that if the five days' armistice should prove insufficient the peace time will be indefinitely prolonged.

Madero has telegraphed Dr. Vasquez Gomez, head of the Washington junta, to come here and assist in the pour parleys.

Americans among the rebels have disgustedly come to the conclusion that there will be no more fighting. They are drifting into El Paso with many rebel Americans.

Would Reclaim 3,000 Acres.

Chehalis, April 22.—Citizens residing in the vicinity of Morton, forty miles east of Chehalis, have united in a petition to the Lewis county commissioners to put through a plan to drain Davis lake into the Tilton river. By carrying out the project, which will be undertaken under the terms of a new law passed by the recent Legislature, 3,000 acres of very fertile lands will be reclaimed, which will make a value for it of at least $200 per acre.

DECISIVE VOTE WILL HELP MEASURE AT OTTAWA

Ottawa, Ont., April 22.—News of the heavy majority given reciprocity at Washington was received with much satisfaction by the government and liberal members, who are supoprting the measure here. The Canadian opponents of the agreement are now placing their faith in the hope that the United States Senate will long delay the bill or kill it.

"The vote at Washington will be a great aid to the Canadian friends of reciprocity," said a member of the Dominion Government. "I expect to see the opposition at Ottawa collapse in the course of a few days, and I believe the measure will be passed by Parliament as soon as it is finally dealt with at Washington. If there was a limitation on the length of speech-making here we would have passed the measure long ago."

The Conservatives are saying little as to their intentions, but are keeping up extended speech-making. Mr. Wright of Ontario occupied six hours telling the House his reasons for opposing the agreement, and it is understood other Conservatives will make similar speeches most of next week.

EIGHT-HOUR LAW NOT BROAD IN APPLICATION

Olympia, Wash., April 24.—Only those who perform manual labor come under the provisions of the eight-hour law in so far as it applies to the State of Washington and all its legal subtaxing districts, holds Assistant Attorney-General Lyle, in reply to a query propounded by State Labor Commissioner Hubbard some time ago.

It does not apply to clerks, stenographers or office help or to guards, watchmen, nurses, attendants or foremen at the state institutions, but is for those whose occupations demand physical rather than mental exertion. It is also held to apply to work done by contract day labor, rather than to persons paid regularly at stated intervals.

NEW REAPPORTIONMENT BILL IS REPORTED

Washington, April 22.—A bill reapportioning the membership of the House of Representatives and almost identical with the Crumpacker bill, which passed the House last session, but died in the Senate, has been reported by the committee on census. It provides for a membership of 433. No State loses any members in the House by the reapportionment and the following gain:

One member each—Alabama, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Louisiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Utah and West Virginia.

California 3, Illinois 2, Massachusetts 2, New Jersey 2, New York 6, Oklahoma 3, Pennsylvania 4, Texas 2, Washington 2.

ALASKA GOVERNOR TO HEAR EVIDENCE

Washington, April 22.—Gov. Clark of Alaska has been authorized by the Interior Department to hear complaints from shippers in Alaska, who allege that freight rates over the Alaska railroads are excessive. Under the recent decision of the Supreme Court the regulation of railroads in Alaska rests with the Secretary of the Interior, and all complaints and evidence submitted to the Governor will be transmitted by him to the Secretary for decision.

MRS. SCOTT RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT OF D. A. R.

Washington, April 22.—Mrs. Matthew T. Scott, of Illinois, was declared re-elected president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution for the next two years. Of the 1,086 votes cast Mrs. Scott received 614, her opponent, Mrs. William C. Storey, of New York, 446, and six of the ballots were blank as to choice for president general. The tellers spent almost twenty-four hours counting the vote.

New Point Is Raised.

Olympia, April 22.—J. E. Frost of the state tax commission has received a report from Secretary Koons of the commission, who is now in St. Paul going over the accounts of the express companies, stating that all the companies had made full returns but one, which had not made returns on its money order business. This company raises a new point, by claiming that this comes under the head of banking, rather than express business, and is not subject to tax.

Wilson Gains Several Points.

Trenton, N. J., April 24.—The public utilities bill, the last of four measures for which Gov. Wilson has been contending, has passed both houses of the Legislature. The other measures which Gov. Wilson advocated and which are now laws are the employers' liability act, the election reform bill and the corrupt practices act.

Browne and Roberts Reappointed.

Olympia, April 22.—J. J. Browne of Spokane will be reappointed regent of the State College at Pullman, according to an announcement at the Governor's office today. John W. Roberts has accepted the appointment as State Highway Commissioner and will take office next Tuesday.

RECIPROCITY BILL IS THROUGH HOUSE

TEN DEMOCRATS, 78 REPUBLICANS AND ONE INDEPENDENT VOTE AGAINST MEASURE.

Passage of Bill Marked Close of Word War Waged in House for Six Days —Attempts to Amend Measure Are Voted Down—Majority of Republican Votes in Opposition.

Washington, D. C., April 22.—President Taft's Canadian reciprocity agreement, supported by all but a handful of Democrats and opposed by a majority of the Republicans, has passed the House of Representatives by a vote of 265 to 89.

With nearly 200 Democrats in control, and their action indorsed by many Republicans, the bill was adopted with no amendments, and in almost identically the form in which it passed the House last session.

The bill seeks to put into effect the formal agreement reached between President Taft and members of the Canadian Cabinet for a reduction of tariff rates on many articles and free trade in many others across the Canadian border. Added to it by the Democratic leaders is a section which "authorizes and requests" President Taft to make further efforts to secure still freer trade relations with Canada in the form of additional reciprocal relations.

Opponents Given Full Hearing.

The passage of the bill marked the close of a fight that had raged in the House for six days. In that time the safety of the measure was at no time threatened, but the Democratic and Republican leaders, working for its passage, conceded all the opportunity desired by its opponents for debate and protest.

Following the same policy, amendments were admitted in the House for almost every section of the bill, and in each case they were rejected by an overwhelming vote given by the friends of the measure. Ten Democrats voted against the bill on its passage, while 197 Democrats voted for it.

As when the bill passed at the preceding session, a majority of the Republicans were found against it, the party vote being 67 for and 78 opposed.

Representative Berger of Wisconsin, the Socialist member, voted for it, and Representative Akin of New York, who ranks as an independent, voted against it.

Amendments Voted Down.

The attempt to amend the agreement began with the final reading of the bill at 3 o'clock. The threats of Republicans opposed to the measure to make the Democrats vote against amendments for free meat, free lumber and free agricultural machinery, were carried out, but as their party leaders declared that any amendment would defeat the whole trade agreement they cheerfully voted the amendments down.

The Republicans, who taunted them with opposing free admission of these important products, were met with the assertions that the Democrats would lay the new "farmers' free list bill" before the House next week, and that an opportunity would then be given to vote for free meat, machinery, lumber and other things. This defense was met by Republican standpatters with the charge that the Democrats knew the free list bill could not pass the Senate nor secure the President's approval.

Attempts to put fresh and canned meats on the free list section were made by Martin of South Dakota, Foster of Vermont, Lenroot of Wisconsin and Norris of Nebraska. Representative Lenroot finally proposed the whole Democratic free list bill as an amendment, and although Representative Sherley of Kentucky, who was presiding, ruled that it was out of order, the Democrats voted against it.

Free Pulp and Paper Attacked.

The section of the bill relating to free admission of pulp and paper provoked the sharpest discussion, drawing from Representative Mann of Illinois, the Republican leader, the statement that it was exactly the terms agreed upon by the two countries. Former Speaker Cannon bitterly attacked this section.

Representative Longworth of Ohio pointed out that any reduction of duties as proposed in the free list amendments would violate the relations between the United States and all other countries, as it would give Canadian goods a special preference in the American markets.

"I challenge the statement that we are going to pass the free list bill later with the expectation that it will not become law," said Democratic Leader Underwood in reply to statements from Republican opponents of the reciprocity bill.

"The free list bill will become law, or the Republican Senate that kills it or the Republican President that vetoes it will never be heard from again."

King County Leads.

Olympia, April 22.—King county today broke all records by paying into the State treasury the sum of $296,000 as the State's share for the March taxes in that county. Whatcom county today paid in $41,000.

PREPARING FOR THE CORONATION

THE KING AND QUEEN IN THEIR STATE ROBES

ONE of the most spectacular events open to tourists in London during the coronation season will be the "Festival of Empire" at the Crystal palace. King George and Queen Mary will attend the festival on May 12 to hear the great empire concert, in which Mme. Clara Butt will take a prominent part, and in which there will be 5,000 voices in the chorus, under the conductorship of Dr. Charles Harris of Canada. The famous Queen's hall orchestra, conducted by Sir Henry Wood, will also take part.

Arrangements are completed for a series of grand empire carnivals. The city of London corporation has voted $1,000 for the construction of a car symbolical of the life of the capital of the empire, while a number of other cities in Great Britain are sending cars. There will also be emblematic cars for each of the over-sea dominions and others to represent great industries. In all there will be fifty huge cars. The festivities will be held periodically on the grand terrace of the Crystal palace.

Frank Lascelles, the master of the festival, explained that on this occasion "a great at-home will be given by the people of London, the mother city of the empire, to her sons and daughters and grandsons and granddaughters.

"A sum of more than $1,250,000 is being spent," Mr. Lascelles continued, "in order that the palace and grounds may be made worthy of the occasion. In the 230 acres of ground will be seen exact replicas, two-thirds of the actual size, of the parliament buildings of Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Newfoundland and India. Inside these buildings in each instance will be shown the progress and development of the country to which they belong—their scenery, their resources, their interests and their industries. The government of Canada alone is spending more than $350,000 in a representation of the parliament buildings at Ottawa.

"There will also be camps for boy scouts from all parts of the empire; empire sports, under the presidency of Lord Desborough; a play, 'Hiawatha,' by Iroquois Indians from Canada; battles of flowers and carnivals; and, lastly, a series of scenes in the great amphitheater, which Sir Aston Webb has designed, of the history of London. Under the presidency of Princess Louise, the performers already enrolled throughout London to take part in the representations of the city's history number 12,000."

America is supplying most of the ermine which the lords and ladies of the English realm will wear at the crowning of their sovereign. It is a paradox that, although the United States will equip the ermine-lined robes of King George's peers, America, properly speaking, produces no ermine. The real animal named the ermine is found only in Siberia, Norway and Sweden. The American white weasel belongs to the same species, but is smaller. The ermine fur of Europe goes mostly to Leipsic and is there manufactured for the wealthy in Germany and France.

The little animals, the size of a big rat, from which the ermine skins were stripped, are the same in species as the marauding brown weasels which farmers' boys in Missouri and Arkansas catch in traps in their hen houses. But in Canada and such northern states as Minnesota and Vermont, nature, to protect the weasel, turns its coat white in winter to match the snow. When brown the pelts are worth about two cents each and are considered fit only to cover toy animals for children. But on becoming white, the fur is metamorphosed into ermine, to which for centuries the adjectives "royal" and "precious" have been applied.

As it has been nine years since the coronation of the late King Edward VII, most of the 500 peers and their wives and daughters will require new ermine robes. For each robe from 500 to 1,000 pelts will be needed. What the king's coronation robe will require may be judged from that of Czar Nicholas of Russia, which was made of 250,000 skins.

The value of an ermine pelt depends largely on the size of the black tip of the tail. The black fur is sewed at regular intervals upon the white, and it is the beautiful contrast of black upon the white field which makes ermine the royal fur, although sable is much more expensive.

In making the robes of the king and queen of England, the tail tips are not used, the black paws of the astrakhan lamb being substituted and attached one to each square inch. This distinguishes the royal garments from those of the nobles.

The peeresses, at the coronation, wear capes of ermine with rows of spots, made of the tails, arranged in accordance with the rank of the wearer. The scarlet robes of the peers are bordered with white ermine without spots.

Attendance at the coronation being compulsory upon the peers, as is also the wearing of ermine, they will have no escape from the expense of clothing themselves and their wives in new coats of the costly fur, unless they have saved their old ermine coats from the coronation of King Edward in 1902. An impecunious lord might use white cat fur, dealers say, and evade detection in the throng.

HIGH CLASS ADVERTISING.

Port Angeles received an immense amount of free advertising because of taking the initiative in the organization of the Olympic Peninsula Development League, which organization was consummated in this city last Friday. Seattle's great dailies, as well as many other papers of the state, have given front page top of column space containing exhaustive write-ups of the project, signal success of the undertaking, descriptive and statistical reports of some of the resources and future possibilities of the peninsula that would cost thousands of dollars to buy, and which no doubt will result in great benefit and lasting advantage to this section of the state from an advertising standpoint. Port Angeles people fully appreciate the courtesies extended by the management of Seattle's great daily newspapers.

MR. WALLACE STRUBLE.

Mr. Wallace Struble, of Portland, who has been with us the past month assisting in the work of the convention and the organizing of the Olympic Peninsula Development League, expects to leave on the Chippewa Sunday and after a few days in Seattle, spent in the interest of Port Angeles, he will return to Portland.

Mr. Struble has made many warm friends during his brief stay in Angeles, who will be loath to see him depart. He has done his work with great efficiency and kindness, putting his whole soul into the success of the convention, and it is a great credit to him that it is pronounced one of the greatest and most successful gatherings of its kind ever held.

The ladies of the Auxiliary have all expressed their feeling of gratitude toward Mr. Struble for his kindly interest in the part they took in the convention. He was always ready with a timely suggestion and words of praise and encouragement when needed.

SPOKANE FOLLOWS SUIT.

Spokane has adopted the Port Angeles method of cleaning its streets, by the new system of flushing. The plan is one outlined and advocated by The Inland Herald of that city, and similar to the one put into successful operation here last winter by Mr. J. C. Hansen and other property owners on Front street. In Angeles it was the mud that was sought to be got ridden of. In Spokane, the dust. A clever cartoonist in the Herald of Saturday pictures passengers alighting from the cars, with great clouds of dust everywhere. One man exclaims, "Great Scott, and this Spokane? The worst street I ever saw." Another, "I am going to take the next train back." When Spokane's Commissioner of Public Works gets through with his system of flushing, that particular cartoonist will be out a job. Alle samee as the Port Angeles artist.

Port Angeles sets the pace, others follow.

GOVERNOR HAY WAS PLEASED.

The contemptible, sluring report in Monday's Seattle Times of the closing scenes of Port Angeles publicity meeting last Friday and Saturday was unjust, uncalled for and untrue. Not a single statement made by the silly nincompoop who penned the screed was correct, and the writer's brain must have become dazed over the brilliancy and success of the occasion, or overburdened with booze. Every citizen of Port Angeles will resent the slur and condemn the publisher of it.

Governor Hay was more than pleased with his reception in Port Angeles. On his arrival home he wrote Mayor Mead, at whose home he was entertained while in the city, congratulating the mayor over the complete success of the convention and supper and thanking the people of Port Angeles for the very cordial manner in which they entertained strangers.

A DISTRICT FAIR.

The next public enterprise that our people should plan to work for, and one that would mean much for this section, is a county or district fair for Clallam county, to be held in a central location—at Sequim or Port Angeles—sometime during the coming fall. There is nothing that would cause the people of the county as a whole to "get together" as a county fair, where the men could compare notes and exhibit the products of the soil, their best stock, and, possibly, enjoy a bit of sport on the side; the mothers and daughters their needlework and culinary skill, competing in a friendly way for premiums, and, in the meantime, enjoy a visit with old friends and neighbors. Think the matter over, talk about it with your friends, and prepare at once to make a better display than your neighbor.

Secretary Cosser has proven himself, as secretary of the Commercial Club, to be the right man in the right place, and his work has been highly spoken of by everyone. Thru long residence, he has as wide an acquaintance as any man in the county; being universally respected and esteemed, he is and will be able to inspire confidence in the new movement and constantly add to its strength. The Olympic-Leader predicts a working membership, ere the close of the year, that will be as great a surprise to visitors as was the exceptional enthusiasm displayed during the convention.

Initial steps were taken at a meeting held at Bellingham this week to unite within a Western Washington Development League all the towns west of the Cascades not already included in the Olympic Empire and Southwestern Leagues. A meeting will be held in Seattle on May 16th to complete the work.

"EVERYBODY IS IT."

Dear Mr. Editor:—

Will you permit me through your columns to express just a measure of the gratitude I feel towards the good people of Port Angeles for their splendid co-operation in the work incidental to the Olympic Peninsula Development Convention, just closed?

I think everybody acted just magnificently. The Commercial Club, officers and members, are all bricks. May their shadows never grow less.

The Women of the Auxiliary and the young ladies who assisted them are entitled to the everlasting gratitude of Port Angeles. If my wife was here I'd ask her to hug every one of them for me and tell them how I appreciate their goodness.

And those fine young men, who, under the direction of Prof. Geisness, did such good work in the cloak rooms and as ushers—they're the right sort of boosters.

The carpenters and the gentlemen who helped in the decorations and the general real hard work did nobly. We couldn't have got along without one of them.

I think your Marine Band is great. They were a fine attraction. And we all know the orchestra was a riot at the banquet.

I shall always remember Wm. Buell for his wonderful generalship as a caterer.

The people who loaned flags and decorations and musical instruments, and those who decorated and those who gave us our fine musical numbers, were all factors in the final success.

Shall I omit our editors? By the Gods of Olympus, No. They're the salt of the earth. Without them the whole thing would have been a fluke.

It is simply a splendid case of "Get Together" carried to its logical conclusion. Everybody is IT.

Watch the Olympic Peninsula develop.

Most sincerely yours,
WALLACE R. STRUBLE.

TALKS ON ADVERTISING, NO. 5

The greatest amount of high class, i.e., effective, advertising the Olympic Empire has ever received, if we except the present League Convention, was obtained as a result of the Mountaineers taking their first annual outing to Mount Olympus in 1907.

At the time of the preliminary trip, in May, the lower slopes of the main divide were snow-covered and Mr. Curtis was able to get some of the finest mountain pictures ever taken. Page after page of these were published in the Coast newspapers and magazines.

Then came the outing itself in July, when eighty-five people tramped fifty to sixty miles, enjoying the scenery, the fishing, the evening camp fires along the Elwha, and the week among the high peaks, the glaciers, waterfalls, lakes, mountain meadows and flowers.

With the arrival of the second party, we were to make the climb of Olympus—but unfortunately the gods were not pleased with this, the first invasion of their mountain home, and they turned loose the floodgates of heaven; for three days and nights it rained. The climb was undertaken in the fog, which turned to rain, followed by a blizzard, and the party had to give up and return to camp. Subsequently the members of the second party made three ascents.

The details of this outing were published in newspapers and magazines all over the country; even today one occasionally sees illustrations made from pictures taken on that trip.

Mr. Curtis has shown the Olympus outing pictures many times and his talks on the mountains have always been good advertising.

Everyone who made the trip was delighted with it. They enjoyed their outing to the full. Outing travel into this section, as a direct result of the advertising received, increased very noticably.

Yet the expedition was a failure. An unqualified success as an outing; a failure in that the party as a whole failed to reach Olympus' summit. The Mountaineers have since climbed Baker, Rainier, Glacier Peak, large parties going in over new routes. This year they climb Adams; next year St. Helens, or possibly they will visit the new national "Glacier Park" over in Montana. Or possibly, if the proper effort were put forth, they might be induced to come down here again. A number of the old members would like to make the trip again and climb Olympus, and not only the new members but many others who have seen the pictures and heard of the marvelous land that lies beyond the coast Olympics as they see them from Seattle, are anxious to come too.

Let the Commercial Club send them an invitation to visit us in 1912, promising that we'll make needed repairs on the trail, and help out in any other way we can, and its more than likely they will accept. In 1907 it was no small undertaking to take so large a party so far from the base of supplies. It took nerve to undertake it and the outing committee had the blues more than once. But now, tho Mr. Curtis has done his share by handling three annual outings and Mr. Nelson has gone into the Forest Service, the Club has the benefit of their records and experience and with Grant Humes at the head of the committee will have no difficulty.

The annual outing for 1912 will be decided upon in a few weeks and no time should be lost in getting in our bid for this big bunch of advertising.

Donald McInnis' excellent address before the Convention is unavoidably crowded out this week. It will keep.

Best Fruit Land on the Sound

Secretary Barnes of the Southwest Washington Development Association, spoke of the unlimited demand for Western fruit, saying that the president of one of the wholesale grocery companies at Aberdeen had just told him if any person or community would contract to plant twenty-five acres to red raspberries, they would put in a cannery. They had been shipping canned berries to Boston, in competition with the lower priced Eastern berries, and had to refuse orders for forty carloads this past year. Puyallup, also, cannot supply a twentieth part of the demand.

Saturday morning was Sequim Day, the two principal addresses being made by McInnes and O'Brien. Mr. O'Brien said that having just located in Sequim he knew nothing about irrigation himself and so could only secure the facts from others, in accordance with the custom of newspaper men, and pass them on. He then told of the early history of the prairie, of the building of the first ditch when land was worth three or four dollars an acre instead of $250 to $300 at the present time. He knew that ranchers on Sequim owning but 20 acres were making a good living and putting money in the bank. He said there are over 40,000 acres of land in that part of the county, all equally good or better, that could be divided into small holdings and settled up with the best peopleon earth, people who believed in good schools and churches, who believed in libraries, and who beliveed in shutting out liquor. He spoke of the recent sale of ten acres practically without buildings, to a North Yakima man for $300 per acre and said he looked for still higher prices. Land at Yakima selling for $600 to $800 is no better and will produce no more, and here the resident has the added advantages of an equable climate, pure cold water, fine scenery, cheaper transportation to the city markets, and the salt water and mountains with their endless opportunities for recreation.

Mr. McInnis followed with a splendid address on the productivity of Olympic Empire farms which contained so many interesting facts that we give it in full in another column.

Judge Wingate of Irondale suggested the advisibility of making displays of our products at the fairs in the Middle West, pointing out the fact that such advertising would be comparatively inexpensive and at the same time exceptionally convincing.

Mr. Doelle of Irondale, Chairman of the League's Executive Committee, and presiding officer of the meeting, closed the morning's program with an appeal to residents of the Empire to buy only Empire cheese, Empire apples, Empire strawberries, and home produced goods of all kinds, even if they cost more than the inferior products shipped in by some merchants.

fertile. The League should also secure an option on 5,000 acres scattered along between Angeles and Dungeness and in the Mt. Pleasant and Little River districts to be sold in the same manner, to the end that the incoming settler may have ample opportunity for a choice.

Mr. Carrigan also told of the interest the Seattle commercial organizations are taking in the League movement, the Commercial Club having held three sessions the past month and the Chamber of Commerce having had an Olympic Empire session lasting from six o'clock till midnight, both organizations having concluded that to secure an improvement in the steamer service would be the most practical work they could do at the present time. The Seattle people believe we should have a daylight service with two good steamers on the run to Angeles, and that there should be a cheaper transportation rate to encourage homeseekers and tourists.

He again advocated the use of the term Olympic Empire instead of Peninsula, saying that the popular conception of a peninsula was a narrow tract of land almost surrounded by water and practically cut off from the mainland. A region larger than Rhode Island, Delaware and Connecticut combined is an empire, and the Olympic Peninsula has the resources of an empire as well as the area.

Among others who spoke at the afternoon session were Mr. Blanchard, of whose practical experience in dairying and poult y raising the Olympic-Leader will tell in detail in its forthcoming "back to the farm" issue; Mr. Gorman, who pointed out the fact that with the further development of the steel plant at Irondale would come the establishment of a big tin mill in the Empire to the end that the $2,000,000 annually spent for sheet tin and the $750,000 spent for soldering tin by the salmon canneries may be kept on Puget Sound; in addition to the 1,250 cars of tin on which freight is paid at the rate of $275 each, the canneries use $200,000 worth of nails, weighing ten million pounds.

Mr. Brewer, of Port Angeles and Tacoma, put up a splendid appeal for united effort on the part of every man, woman and child, beginning by boosting at home and by doing something definite and specific. He closed by saying, "Let's give Port Angeles a better public spirit; let's quit waiting and move; quit sitting and stand; quit whispering and yell; don't say what's the use, try it; do some little thing; several thousand little things done for the Empire will get more returns than a few big things; roll up a great, big, powerful sentiment behind these organizations and you will be putting steam into the engine.

Live Wire Barnes Lined Us All Up

is the worst thing you ever did unless you are willing to put $10 worth of energy behind every dollar you have subscribed. You may plant seed, but you must tend the plant and put forth some effort to have the crop if you expect results. You cannot sow tonight and reap a crop in the morning. A man cannot start for a country until he has at least heard of it. You cannot do a piece of work until you start and keep at it. It will take the man you want from one to five years to arrange his business at home so that he can come among you."

"When we began work our territory was unknown. There were people who used to be ashamed to acknowledge their home towns when they went to Portland and they would register from Seattle. Nowdays a man signs Oakville and sticks out his chest; tells everybody he meets about his home town. If you are ashamed of your town it is ashamed of you and you had better get out. You can't get capital to come into a town unless every man is working for that town and believes in it. Putting money into town publicity is a business proposition and not a donation; if there is any one who has put money in as a donation let him come and get it back; you will find those who are backing up the organization doubling their contributions next year, and doing it voluntarily."

At the evening meeting C. C. Chapman, secretary of the Oregon Development League, talked on Publicity and Development. He said that before there was an association of the commercial clubs of Southwestern Washington there was no Southwest Washington as a region of identity, but now that it had discovered itself, enthused and advertised all over the United States as a region of opportunity for the homeseekers, it was getting eighty-five per cent of the homeseekers coming to the state. They had adopted Old Abe's philosophy, "Do you want it? Get it." And they are getting it.

Mr. Chapman said he had come up here to Angeles because Mr. Richardson had insisted that he should, "and when Tom wants you to do anything you have got to do it if you expect to live in the same town with him. He told me there were three things that impressed him most, the matchless scenery, the beauty of complexion of women and children, and the band with that drum major at the head of it, and," Mr. Chapman added, "since seeing Mr. Day in action I quite agree with Tom; he is sure some drum major."

Mr. Chapman had never attended a meeting where there was so deep and abiding an interest and enthusiasm. "Why, he said, "when Col. Harper made a slip and said you raised thirty tons of hay to the acre, without a smile from anyone in the audience, I wondered what kind of a country I had gone up against where big yields were so common as to cause no comment. The resources of the Olympic Peninsula are far more developed than those of Oregon; Central Oregon is a howling waste compared with this country."

Col. F. C. Harper in making his speech of acceptance of the presidency of the League, said he "wished to congratulate the people of Port Angeles on their enterprise and vim in inaugurating such a campaign and infusing their enthusism throughout the peninsula. They have leavened the lump and the baking fortells a feast." He said there was a great deal of skepticism in and criticism of any movement for the development of a community, but for his part he preferred to go ahead without much evidence as to what the result will be and get results. "If we didn't differ in politics and religion and other things in this life," said the Colonel, "we wouldn't be men, but when it comes to boosting our country we must get together as a unit."

Governor M. E. Hay, the principal speaker of the evening, told of the early settlement and progress of the peninsula and reviewed its chief resources in an able manner, saying that the Olympic Peninsula has far more to offer in natural resources than many other sections of the state that are farther advanced. He spoke of his trip to the Elwha canyon and Lake Crescent, saying it was the most enjoyable he had ever had and he hoped the next legislature would make provision for further work on the State road belting the Peninsula, as well as the Pacific Highway from Vancouver to Blaine.

Donald McInnes had on exhibition at the meetings the silver cup won by Clallam county for the best forage display at the Western Washington State Fair last fall; Clallam county exhibitors won a score of first and a few second prizes on fruits, grains and vegetables at the Fair.

Spring-Cleaning

The Human System Needs It.

Mrs. M. Morgan, 411 4th Ave., E., Brainerd, Minn., writes "I take from one to two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla in the spring to purify the blood just as regularly as I do my house-cleaning, and go around light-footed and light-hearted. I believe it is the best blood purifier known."

Hood's Sarsaparilla so combines the curative principles of roots, barks and herbs as to raise them to their highest efficiency; hence its unequaled cures.

POINDEXTER WILL NOT OPPOSE COLLECTOR HARPER

Washington, April 22.—Senator Poindexter has announced that he will not oppose the confirmation of Frederick Harper as collector of customs for Puget Sound. It is probable the confirmation will occur within the next few days.

R. F. Archer has been recommended by Senator Jones and Representative Warburton for the position of allotting agent on the Hoh Quillayute Indian reservation at Ozette, where lands will soon be turned over to the Indians.

Mr. Archer has filled a similar position during other allotments.

SPAIN SAID TO BE ON EDGE OF REBELLION

Madrid, Via Hendaye, April 22.—Alarm concerning Spain's political future today reached a point where, after transferring as much as possible of their investments abroad, the wealthier classes are getting their own persons and their families from the country as fast as they can.

The radical groups are organizing for an open attack on King Alfonso's throne. Though the commissioned army officers are reactionaries, the rank and file are against Alfonso, and the Republicans believe that when the revolution comes the troops will throw down their arms and join the masses in establishing a republic.

MEMORIES OF MUTINY

SCENES THAT RECALL HORRORS OF INDIAN OUTBREAK.

Massacres by the Treacherous Nana Sahib—Black Hole of Calcutta and Other Places of That Historic Nightmare.

At Cawnpur was a large native garrison, and when they mutinied, Nana Sahib put himself at their head. The Europeans, including more women and children than fighting men, were beseiged for two weeks, and then, trusting to a safe-conduct from Nana Sahib, they surrendered. They embarked on boats on the Ganges, the boats were set afire and shot at by the natives from both banks, and only four escaped. The women and children were massacred a few days later, some of them being pitchforked living upon the bayonets of their murderers.

Delhi was beseiged for months from the surrounding ridge, over which I have walked and driven, but it was only in September that the Kashmir Gate was blown in, and Nicholson fell at the head of the storming party.

The chief commisioner of Oudh was a Lawrence, and not a Lawrence for nothing. He prepared for a siege in the residency at Lucknow, and was mortally wounded there, but his intelligent provision saved his companions till at last Lucknow was relieved.

It is one of the ghastly nightmares of history to see that Black Hole of Calcutta, that well at Cawnpur, that cellar in the residency at Lucknow, that grave-dotted ridge at Delhi. Women and children outraged, suffocated, pitchforked on bayonets, burnt, stabbed, starved and strangled; it is a horrible tale. Say what one will of all that, it is British business, British vengeance, not ours, but it is a disgrace to the whole white race that British callousness, and lack of taste and reverence, should permit these graves to be overgrown with weeds, should suffer that miserable little graveyard on the ride above Delhi, should allow the lettering on the Kashmir Gate to become defaced. The only monument in all India that is not a travesty is the statue of John Nicholson, and more than one of the statues of the white empress and the white emperor of India are black!—From "Mughal to Briton," by Price Collier, in Scribner's.

Life Saving Contests for Miners.

Mining men from all parts of the country attended the second annual inter-company meet of first aid teams held recently at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., under the auspices of the National Red Cross society. United States army officers acted as judges in the contests in which various teams demonstrated their skill in rescuing miners under most difficult conditions.

An air-tight mine chamber was built in an open field for the contests and charged with various kinds of fumes, such as are met with in coal mines, and it was in this that the first aid teams did their rescue work, completing their task of restoring the rescued men out in the open air.

Teams from the Lehigh Valley Coal company, Pennsylvania, Hillside, Temple and Delaware, Lackawanna and Western competed in the events, which were in charge of Maj. Charles Lynch of the United States army.

For the first time in the history of the movement there was a display of first aid work by engineers from the government experiment station at Pittsburg.

How the Spirits Spell.

"Judging by spiritistic communications I have received lately simple spelling must be more popular in the world beyond than it is in this," said a man who patronizes mediums. "Half the messages received from the spirit land nowadays are spelled in a way to bring joy to the hearts of the simple spellers. Not one medium, but many, transmit them thus. Mediums who know the old-fashioned spelling book well enough to spell down a whole room full of folks have gone over to the revised edition.

"Whatever force it is that guides their hands when transmitting messages must be impressed with the utility of the new system. At the last seance I attended I received a communication from a man who fought new-fangled spelling with his dying breath, but since he passed over he must have learned something to make him change his mind, for he now writes like a disciple of Artemus Ward."—New York Times.

Modes and Madness.

A considerable stir is being caused in scientific circles by a lecture delivered before the Psychological Society of Berlin by Prof. Rudolph Foerster, in which the lecturer declared that insanity can be judged by dress. Especially is this so in the case of women.

Insane women, said Dr. Foerster, nearly always love bright colors, and wear them in disorder. Nearly all women who are extravagant in dress are mentally abnormal, and hover on the verge of mental breakdown.

Whereas, a man's insanity usually begins by excessive anxiety about his professional interests, that of a woman indicates itself by too much attention to personal appearance.

Dr. Foerster added that insanity itself follows fashions. Types of insanity which make thier victims violent are decreasing. Nowadays the insane tend to be quiet and harmless.

HOW THE JAPS FIGHT FIRE

Review of the Tokio Department, as a Demonstration of Practical Efficiency, Was Farcical.

As a display of low comedy talent of acrobatic skill and of lung capacity, the review of the Tokio fire brigades at Hibiya park may have had a certain degree of interest, but as a demonstration of practical efficiency in dealing with what the Japanese translator loves to designate "conflagrations" it was unutterably farcical. After witnessing such a lamentable display of ineptitude one could only marvel that the capital has hitherto escaped total destruction or that the ravages to which Osaka was subjected last year were restricted to some 20,000 houses.

It is true that the metropolitan fire companies represent a great advance upon what they were during the pre-Meiji days, when the greatest solicitude of the members of the "hi-keshi-gumi" was [illegible] not to the task of extingu[illegible]ames but rather to that [illegible]ng from incineration the hu[illegible] effigy of a god or patron saint which every company unfailingly carried with it on these expeditions for good luck.

Old residents bear witness to the vociferous energy and enthusiasm with which the firemen fulfilled this self-appointed task, while the fire in its turn merrily discharged its mission of gutting everything inflammable within an accessible area. If, however, in the end the firemen escaped in withdrawing with their little wooden god still intact they were immensely pleased with themselves and were satisfied that society at large could have no ground for demanding anything more than this.

Cool and capable in war, the Japanese, despite centuries of familiarity, appear to lose their heads when fire starts. Confusion reigns supreme. Connected with each fire station are large numbers of what may be termed auxiliaries, who have really nothing to do with the actual task of extinguishing the flames, but whose duties consist in appearing on the scene at the earliest possible moment armed with lanterns and in thereafter helping to remove goods and chattels from the buildings within the danger zone.—New York Herald.

Both Strangers.

A convivial person from somewhere up-state was manoeuvring home from a banquet in this city, where the sons of a certain county had made merry. He lost his bearings—all streets looking alike to him—and paused under a lamp post. He wasn't sure whether it was a cafe signal, an arc light, a comet or the moon. He was inclined somehow to the belief that it was the moon—the moon in the middle of many.

Presently, as the convivial gentleman was swaying on his heels, another well-reefed person came along, and, after the manner of ships in distress, hove to alongside and regarded the light of the lamp post with the first man.

"Wash trouble, ol' fel'?" asked the newcomer.

"She' 'ere," said the first convivial one, "whar I wan' t'know 's thish; Ish tha' light a lamposh or ish it th' moon—hi?"

The convivial newcomer swayed on his heels and studied the light for a long time. Finally he said with profound gravity:

"Don' know, ol' fel'. Am a stranger here m'self!"—New York Times.

Approval.

"I want you to read my last poem."

"And I want to. I am glad you have written it."

Not a drop of Alcohol

Doctors prescribe very little, if any, alcohol these days. They prefer strong tonics and alteratives. This is all in keeping with modern medical science. It explains why Ayer's Sarsaparilla is now made entirely free from alcohol. Ask your doctor. Follow his advice.

MONETARY BOARD TARGET OF HOUSE

Washington, April 22.—The monetary commission became the target of the Democratic House leaders when Representative Fitzgerald, chairman of the appropriations committee, submitted a resolution directing that the Secretary of the Treasury transmit to Congress details of the monetary commission expenses.

The resolution calls for a statement of all disbursements by the commission and the purposes of the payments. It was referred to the committee on expenditures in the Treasury Department and is in line with the general investigation program of the House leaders.

Voliva Loses in Election.

Chicago, April 22.—William Glenn Voliva, overseer of Zion City, the community founded by the late John Alexander Dowie, was shorn of his political power by the election board, when in a recount of the ballots it was held that W. H. Clendenin, candidate for Mayor, was the only Voliva supporter elected. The decision leaves the Council composed of eight independents and two Voliva men. The eight can, by voting solidly, pass measures over the Mayor's veto.

St. Paul, April 24.—Governor Eberhart signed the Keefe bill Saturday, providing for the nomination of United States senators by the direct vote of the people. The measure provides that each candidate to the legislature shall take a pledge to support the senatorial candidate receiving the popular indorsement, or sign another pledge declaring his unwillingness to do so. As a further consequence of disregarding the law, Diefenbacher was directed to put up a bond for $1,000 to guarantee that he will keep the Union saloon closed.

Bear Romance Is Ended.

Old Ben, the big black bear who has lived at the Bronx zoo almost ever since the zoo started, is dead. Old Ben was about twenty-two years old and Dr. W. Reed Blair believes that old age had a great deal to do with his death. But the attendants, who were fond of the good natured old fellow, insist that it was the shattering of a bear romance that killed Ben.

Ben was for many years a favorite with Clefty, a brown female bear who shared his den. Recently Clefty, who is much younger than Ben, began to show that she was bored by his attentions, and she was shifted to an adjoining den. Next door to her new quarters lives a young and handsome Abyssinian bear, and it wasn't long before Clefty was rubbing noses with him.

Ben, watching this courtship from his enforced bachelor quarters, began to refuse food and medicines couldn't restore his interest in life. And when he died Clefty didn't stop rubbing noses with the Abyssinian for even a moment's warning.—New York Sun.

Gone Is Age of Sentiment.

Among the out of date warships to be sold at Toulon by the order of the French government are the armorclads Magenta and Admiral Baudin, the cruisers Milan and Pascal and three submarines, Lutin, Gymnote and Gustave Zede.

The Lutin was the little submarine which sank off Bizerta roadstead in 1906, drowning two officers and fourteen men. She was raised and brought to Toulon, but left in the arsenal unrepaired. The Gustave Zede and the Gymnote are the two earliest submarines of the French fleet, dating from 1888 to 1889. Both were in active service for over twenty years.

It seems a pity that they should be broken up for old iron instead of being preserved as historic relics, particularly the Gymnote, the first boat to navigate under water and the first to torpedo an armorclad—in 1901, in the roadstead of Ajaccio.

Wolves Trap Dakota Trapper.

H. L. Mantsell, a Mouse River trapper, had a narrow escape from a band of wolves. There were about 20 in the pack and when he began shooting at them his team ran away, leaving him with only a few cartridges in his rifle. With these he killed seven of the wolves, but was compelled to climb to the top of a hay loading machine which fortunately happened to be near at hand, says the Kramer correspondent of the St. Paul Pioneer Press.

He was kept there three hours before the howls of the wolves and the cries of the trapped trapper brought assistance

What She Was.

Mrs. Ellenbert—Is Mrs. Smith her husband's second wife?

Ellenbert—No; why did you think she was?

Mrs. Ellenbert—Why, I have heard several people say he had been married before.

Ellenbert—He has been married before, but that doesn't make the present Mrs. Smith his second wife; he has been married twice before.

The Idea.

"What has become of Jinx?"

"I shook him."

"Why?"

"Too old-fashioned. Insisted that while I was engaged to him I should not be engaged to any other man."

A Narrow Escape.

"Junks used to say that he aspired to literary recognition."

"Yes."

"Did his dream ever come true?"

"No. Luck was with him and he went to writing ads."

STATE AID IN CLEARING.

Otto Case, of Seattle, believes that it would be well for Northwest states having logged-off lands, to follow Minnesota's example in extending state aid to settlers in clearing them for cultivation. Wherever the stumps are removed, these lands are always richly productive, but it costs a lot to clear them. Under the Minnesota plan, the state raises the necessary money by means of bonds, and settlers repay the clearing cost in fifteen annual installments. He expects to take up this matter with the Washington Legislature in 1913.
