GREATEST STATE IN THE UNION

Booster Oration on Washington Given by Miss Alice Coleman at High School Graduation.

One of the questions of most vital interest to the public today is that of development of the Northwest. It seems almost impossible to realize that fifty years ago, the site of practically every city, town and village now in the state of Washington was a part of a vast wild, unexplored, and unsettled wilderness untenanted by any man other than the Indian.

It has developed rapidly along intellectual, moral, agricultural, and commercial lines, yet many of its resources are undeveloped and a great amount of time and money must be expended before the full development of our great natural resources can be realized. A plentiful supply of water is one of the natural resources of the Northwest and various water power plants are now under construction or have been recently completed in Washington. Before long the West will have its own manufacturing plants and the country will be more improved thru this than by any other means. Some of the largest and most prosperous cities in the United States are in the New England states, which is a great manufacturing center. When the West reaches such a point that its resources are developed by its own manufacturing plants, then will the greatest wealth of the nation be centered about the Pacific Coast and the great Northwest.

Onward and onward is the spirit of the great Northwest. Statistics prove that within the past twenty years no portion of the United States of equal area has developed so rapidly, and this development is largely due to the united efforts of the various states.

The ten states of Idaho, Washington, Utah, Nevada, Colorado, Wyoming, Nebraska, Montana, Oregon and California have banded themselves into a united league, known as the Western Development League. This league in itself is composed of all the state, sectional, county and commercial leagues. It's purpose is to bring the true conditions of the West before all people. As a means to this end each state is planning to send its products to all parts of the United States in an exhibit car. For us to know of our own resources is important, but to make the greatest progress we must make others know them and become dependent on them.

Washington is at this time the objective point of thousands of Eastern people who are tired of the excessive cold of winter and the exhausting heat of summer. Today the wave of colonization toward Washington is greater than any in the past, and this is found largely in the fact that those who have come West within the past few years have prospered greatly.

The secret of the desirability of Washington lies in the undisputed fact that nowhere else in the world does a place of similar area offer such vast and varied opportunities. Washington's wealth is in her four billion feet of timber, her vast wheat growing areas, her general farming, horticulture. dairying, stock raising, her minerals, fisheries, her manufacturing and her shipping. She has ocean commerce that reaches to all ports of the world and Alaska, annually pouring enormous sums of golden treasure into her lap. There is no place fitted to be her rival, for here we find wealth, health, beauty and happiness.

Washington, and especially the Olympic peninsula, has the most magnificent scenery in the United States. We give little thought to this side of the question and seldom speak of our Switzerland of America. Indeed, we are but slightly acquainted with the beauty of our own immediate surroundings, which, in natural grandeur rivals all of Europe. The time must come when a splendid system of highways will open up to the world the magnificent scenery of the mountains and the beautifully located summer resorts will attract the traveler from far and near.

Various leagues and development organizations, working with this object in view, have been formed throughout the

THE CELEBRATION TO BE A HUMMER

City Will Be a Blaze of Light and Color and There Will Be Many Attractions.

Plans for the big celebration of the Fourth of July are rapidly nearing completion. Much interest is being taken in the extensive preparations and splendid program prepared for the proper celebration of the day, and our citizens are all giving their enthusiastic support to the various committees in charge. First and Washington streets are being put in first class shape for the races, which promise to be a leading feature of the day's sports.

The Decoration committee has prepared a scheme of decoration whereby the business section will be a blaze of light and color. There will be a fine illumination at night, while flags and bunting will be in evidence both night and day. Many pennants are to be displayed in the scheme of decoration.

A ball game between Victoria and Port Angeles will be pulled off at the ball grounds at 3:30 p. m.

The real fun of the day will commence at five in the afternoon on Front street with the small sports. Good purses have been hung up. Indians, as usual, will compete for some of them These sports always attract attention in Port Angeles, and nothing will be left undone to make this feature more attactive than ever.

The United States life saving cutter Snohomish will fire salutes at sunrise, at noon, and at sunset. The Port Angeles Marine Band will furnish the music for the balance of the day.

Excursions will be run to Victoria and it is expected that our English cousins will be conspicuous by their presence; several hundred of them were here last year.

A grand ball at the opera house in the evening will close the day in a blaze of glory

Everybody who has the interest of Port Angeles at heart and who is a true and worthy patriot is invited to turn in and help the committees.

Complete program on page 3, this issue.

CHILDREN'S DAY SUNDAY

Children's Day will be observed at the First M. E. Church Sunday. At the morning service, 11:00 a.m., Rev. Phillips will preach on "The Value of a Child." Evening service will begin at 7:00 p. m., the program being as follows:

Song, The Children's Anthem.

Address, What Children's Day is For, by the Pastor.

Rec., A Welcome, Alice Bernice Hayne.

Rec., Children's Day, Helen Linn.

Song, The Brightest Summer Day, Miss Cook's Class.

Rec., A Short Sermon, Margaret Marsh.

Collection Drill and Song, Nineteen Girls.

Song, Word of the Lord, Three Classes of Girls.

NEW FOREST SERVICE LINE

Humes Brothers have the wire for the new telephone line scattered, in coils, along the trail to their place, ten miles above McDonald Bridge, and this past week finished brushing out, ready to string the wire. A phone will be put in at Humes' and doubtless another at the game warden's half-way cabin. An extension of the line up the Boulder to the Olympic Hot Springs should be the next step.

HALF MILLIOM IN RESERVE

T. T. Aldwell Had No Trouble in Selling Bonds at Par to Eastern Buyers.

T. T. Aldwell, president of the Olympic Power Company, returned from Chicago Tuesday, having sold common and preferred stock to an amount sufficient to complete the present plant and transmission lines, and leave a fund of $500,000 in the treasury for contemplated future development.

The Seattle Times, in reporting an interview with Mr. Aldwell, says the financing of the Olympic Power Company has been a financial enigma to Western bond houses. When Aldwell went East on his first mission, he showed the Chicago houses the most complete plans and details of cost and sales prices that had ever been presented, and as an outcome of a determined campaign he upset all precedent by selling his bonds at par and avoiding all semblance of stock bonus. On the heels of that financial triumph he has sold common and preferred stock to the bond buyers and brought back the money for Olympic Peninsula investment.

"We are now able to complete our initial plant, which will give us 8,000 horsepower, and to build all the transmission lines necessary to reach the towns of the Olympic Peninsula beside having $500,000 in our treasury for future development," said Aldwell at the Arctic Club this morning. "The financing of the company will permit of an increase in the power development as rapidly as demand for power increases and will permit us to extend transmission lines anywhere they are required.

"High water has interfered with the work at the power plant during the past few weeks, but the transmission lines are being completed and we will make good on our pledge to begin supplying power early next year.

"I have been told by foreign investors in our company that one of the most general uses of our power will be for irrigation purposes. In Europe, our Scotch representatives declare, electric power is used extensively for pumping water from wells to irrigate small farms and the cheapness of the Olympic Peninsula power ought to encourage the development of all our logged off lands where irrigation can be undertaken.

"I have not been informed regarding the progress of the proposed electric line on the peninsula, but I am certain that we have formed an alliance that will permit us eventually to place our securities."

WHARF FOR NEAH BAY

Neah Bay is to have a wharf for the accommodation of the increasing business of that place. A contract has been let to the Port Townsend Pile Driving Company for the construction of a pier 600 feet in length, and construction work will commence at once, says a dispatch from Port Townsend to the P.-I.

This will be the first wharf to be constructed at Neah Bay. At present mail, freight and passengers are landed from steamers in small boats, which causes considerable delay.

Neah Bay is the most direct outlet for a large portion of Western Clallam county and as that section is rapidly increasing in population and business, dock facilities are necessary.

Washburn & Son, merchants at Neah Bay, and several Seattle business men are financing the building of the dock.

A NEW "MOUNTAIN INN"

D. C. Sisson commenced work Monday on a greatly enlarged building for the accommodation of guests. It is his intention, not only to double the ground floor space, but to make Mountain Inn two stories high. The entire premises will be electric lighted, the power being obtained from a water system to be installed. requires no prophetic vision to realize that Mountain Inn will, ere many years, become a valuable property. At the beginning of the Elwha and Boulder trails, on the auto road to the lakes, the head of Olympic Lake, and not far from the proposed Geyser Valley Lake, the situation is unequaled.

Don't forget the dates of the Char-pit process stump burning: Sequim July 17 and 18; Seibert's creek July 19; Port Angeles July 20, 21 and 22.

FIRST STEPS FOR A COUNTY FAIR

Public Meeting Will Be Held July 12th to Complete the Organization.

"J. M. Grant, E. F. Gierin, Lewis Cays, Jim Dick, G. M. Rouse and Oscar Morse were selected to get a county fair association organized. G. M. Lauridsen was chairman and J. L. Keeler secretary of the meeting held at Sequim Thursday afternoon, to discuss the county fair." says the Sequim Press of last Saturday. "An offer of forty acres of land for $1200, for race track and grounds, adjoining the J. A. Reeves place, half way between Sequim and Port Angeles, has been made by Mr. Lauridsen. The organization committee will hold a public meeting July 12th."

The Press further well says:

"The county fair association is an agency in each county to give people information and to combine instruction with recreation. It is an agency to which agricultural colleges and experimental stations can supply exhibits and through it can give the country the results of their own investigations and experiments in good farming methods. The people in a county lose the benefit of all the good work of the stations and colleges by not having a county fair agency through which they can work and give to the public the full benefit of their labors.

"A well managed county fair would be a useful, profitable and most desirable institution in this county. It would be full of interest to all of us, providing good and useful instruction and information and also recreation and entertainment."

All this is along lines advocated by this paper from time to time. Clallam county should have an annual fair, and Sequim prairie, the Lauridsen acreage, or some other point in that vicinity, is the place for it.

LECTURE ON INDIA

At Opera House this Evening, Benefit Ladies' Auxiliary Fund.

Dr. John C. Sundberg will lecture on "India, the Land of Mystery and Magic," at the opera house Friday evening, June 30th. The lecture will be illustrated by over 100 magnificent stereopticon views, and will be under the auspices of the Auxiliary and for the benefit of the Civic Improvement Fund. Tickets at Mathewson's; reserved seats, 35c, general 25c, gallery 15c.

VENISON NOT IN SEASON

Game Warden J. W. Pike arrested E. D. Prim and Charley Fitzgerald of Sequim last Thursday for shooting deer out of season. They were fined $25 and costs each by Judge Alexander of Dungeness. There is more pleasure in stalking deer with a camera and getting one good picture than in killing a dozen, and besides, it is less expensive.

PAVILION AT HOTEL CRESCENT

A dancing pavilion is the latest improvement proposed for the entertainment of guests at Lake Crescent, Messrs. Mitchell & Christopher having the plans ready for a building 24 x 50, which will be erected near the boat landing at Hotel Crescent. They have just completed a two story addition containing four rooms, including a large bath room; it is provided with porch and makes a very decided improvement.

Minor Happenings of the Week

Rev. M. E. Boulton of The Dalles, Or., was re-elected president of the Pacific synod of the Evangelical Lutheran church at the eleventh annual convention.

Chas. S. Millington, new assistant treasurer of the United States in New York, is busy with eleven clerks in counting the $144,000,000 in cash in the local sub-treasury.

Unless the forty claimants of the Stracey coal land group in Alaska show cause for other action within thirty days, the Juneau land office will recommend cancellation.

A 14-carat blue diamond, the largest ever found on this continent, was found in the Mauney diamond fields in Pike county, Ark., and has been sent to New York to be valued.

A number of typical machines left by the French government at the Panama canal site will be sent to San Francisco to be exhibited at the Panama Pacific exposition, according to dispatches received from Col. Gothals, engineer in charge at Panama.

Congress will be asked for $10,000 for the proper entertainment by the United States of Admiral Togo, the famous Japanese naval officer, who will visit this country immediately after the coronation festivities at London.

The board of managers at the session of the Pacific synod of the Evangelical Lutheran church recommended the acceptance of a tract of land offered by the Portland Commercial Club on which a new seminary is to be erected.

Young Walter Brookins, the daring Wright aviator, has quit the flying game. Brookins announced his retirement after finishing an exhibition at Quincy, Ill. He will devote his time in the future to growing oranges and looking after his mining interests he has acquired in the West.

The United States Circuit Court for the district of Delaware has handed down a decision declaring that the alleged powder trust, which is dominated by the E. L. Dupont De Nemours Company, is a combination in restraint of interstate commerce and decreeing that the combination shall be dissolved.

Beginning next fall, a new passenger and mail service will be inaugurated between Sound ports and Australia over the Union Steamship Co.'s line, of New Zealand, saving about seven days on the present mail schedule. The run will be made to Sidney in about twenty-eight days. A new 11,000-ton vessel will be constructed at once.

ALBERTA FARMERS EAGER FOR RECIPROCITY TO PASS

Winnipeg, Man., June 26.—On Saturday R. L. Borden, leader of the Conservative party in Canada, moved on, with his lieutenants, to Southern Alberta, to continue the campaign against reciprocity with the United States. Here, as in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, he found farmers a unit for ratification of the agreement.

His first stopping place was MacLeod, where he received a memorial from the United Farmers of Alberta in that district, representing the unanimous feeling of forty-six branches. They desired the obstruction to the agreement on the part of Borden's supporters in the Canadian parliament to cease. They favored reciprocity as a step toward the free trade in agricultural implements and machinery with the United States, which is the goal of their desires.

The memorial deprecated so much flag waving on political platforms, and asked the speakers to discuss practical issues.

At Weiburn, Sask., Friday, one speaker for the farmers, whose opinion was cheered said:

"The farmers are prepared to take the West out of the confederation of provinces if reciprocity is denied us."

Borden has retired his lieutenant, Hon. J. J. Bergeron, who, at Moose Jaw, used the illustration of Samson and Delilah in connection with President Taft and Mr. Fielding during the course of his argument.

"Hub to Hub" Excursion.

Seattle, June 24.—Alumni of the Seattle high schools who are attending various colleges in New England will charter a special car, which will leave Boston within a week and come through to Seattle. The party will be called the "Hub to Hub Student Excursion," and a large banner on the side of the car will signify to all along the way that the students are going home to celebrate the Golden Potlatch.

Wheat Harvest Is Near

Wilson Creek, June 24.—The cutting of winter wheat will begin within two weeks. Some fields are very well advanced. The general estimate is from fifteen to twenty bushels per acre.

Washington State News Items

Pacific county's new courthouse, built at South Bend at a cost of $132,000, has been opened.

The school census of Centralia, just completed, gives a return of 2,202. This shows an increase of 15 per cent over 1910, when the number was given as 1,920.

October 20 has been designated as Washington state day at the Western Land Product Exhibition at Omaha. The exhibition will continue from October 16 to 28.

An order has been entered by the public service commission directing the Great Northern Railway to install electric lights, running water and sanitary toilets in its station at Cashmere.

Corwin S. Shank of Seattle has been reappointed to succeed himself as a member of the board of managers of the State Reformatory. His present term expires July 8, 1911, and his new commission is for five years more.

The voters of Shelton validated a bond issue of $15,000 at a special election last week. The money will be used in the installation of a new sewer system, the work on which will be done this summer. The vote stood 183 to 17.

It is announced by the public service commission that the hearing to determine the value of the plant of the Independent Telephone Company of Seattle will be held in Olympia on June 27 instead of in Seattle, as originally planned.

Kennewick's recently created board of health, composed of women, has started in to clean the city from celler to garret. The council is giving the women free rein by granting all their requests in matters affecting the public health.

GREAT NORTHERN TO SAW THREE-CORNERED TIES

Everett, June 24.—The Great Northern Railroad will build a tie mill here, says John T. McChesney, president of the Everett Improvement Company, who has returned from a business trip to New York. The announcement is attributed by Mr. McChesney to James J. Hill.

As an annex to the tie manufacturing plant the railroad will create a second building to be used in preserving the product, either by creosote or some other process. The location for the buildings has not been named.

Only at one other location has the Great Northern a tie mill, and that is at Kalispel, Mont. Here, as there, the three-cornered ties are to be manufactured, a tie designed by Mr. Hill himself, and having as its chief advantages a saving of timber, a broader surface and simplicity in tamping, or setting, over the ordinary square tie.

In a conversation Mr. Hill informed Mr. McChesney that the outlook for a good lumber demand this fall appears brighter to him than it ever did before.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION MEETS

Olympia, June 24.—The State Board of Education, consisting of H. B. Dewey, state superintendent of public instruction, chairman; F. F. Nalder, deputy superintendent, secretary; Thomas F. Kane, president of the State University of Seattle; E. T. Mathes, principal of the Bellingham normal school; Frank B. Cooper, superintendent of the city schools of Seattle; H. M. Hart, principal of the Lewis and Clark high school of Spokane, and Mrs Josephine Preston, county superinetndent of Walla Walla, has closed its annual session here.

This is the first time a woman has sat at one of these sessions.

The board took up for consideration the teachers' examination questions and the eighth grade examination questions for the coming year; also the teachers' reading circle books and outline regulations with regard to temporary certificates.

Libel Cases Fall Flat.

Seattle, June 26.—Judge Wilson R. Gay, in the criminal department of the superior court, announced that he would instruct the prosecuting attorney to dismiss the criminal libel prosecutions begun against the Seattle Post-Intelligencer at the instance of the Times, and against the Times at the instance of the Post-Intelligencer.

The judge said he would not sanction waste of the county's money for the purpose of avenging private grievances.

Stockmen to Meet at Portland.

Sioux City, Iowa, June 26.—The National Live Stock Exchange unanimously elected F. H. Ingwersen, of Chicago, president at the session Friday. Portland, Or., secured the next convention.

Chelan Gets Daily Steamer Service.

Chelan, June 26.—An every-day steamer service between Chelan and the head of Lake Chelan will go into effect July 1 for the accommodation of tourists visiting the lake.

New President for Spokane Inland.

Spokane, June 26.—Carl R. Gray, president of the Spokane, Portland & Seattle and other Hill roads in the Northwest, was elected president of the Spokane & Inland at a special meeting of the board of directors.

ROOT RECIPROCITY AMENDMENT IS DEFEATED BY OVERWHELMING VOTE

Washington, June 27.—The Canadian reciprocity bill emerged from its first ordeal in the senate last night unscathed. The Root amendment, proposing a modification of the wood pulp and paper section of the agreement, was defeated after seven hours of debate by an overwhelming vote. The friends of the amendment were so satisfied of its defeat that a roll call was not demanded.

This leaves the reciprocity measure open to the general fight that is to follow for amendment of important provisions of the Payne tariff law.

La Follette Talks.

Senator La Follette announced that he would give the senate a chance to pass on general tariff amendments for free paper, free lumber and lumber products, and for reductions in other schedules. Senator Clapp also announced his intention of offering a free paper amendment later and other senators gave evidence of their purpose to force consideration of tariff revision on the widest plane.

Measure Is Attacked.

Attack on the Root amendment was interspersed with attacks on the whole reciprocity measure in the debate which resulted in the defeat of Senator Root's proposal to change the house bill by requiring that all Canadian provinces should remove their export restrictions on pulp wood and its products before the reciprocal features of the wood pulp and print paper section of the agreement went into effect.

La Follette Hostile.

"I am opposed to this so-called reciprocity agreement as a whole because I believe it is wrong, harmful and unjustifiable," said Senator La Follette. "If it must pass, I want to see it made as nearly perfect as possible. I shall vote against the Root amendment because I believe it will defeat the very purpose of the wood pulp and print paper paragraph of the agreement."

Figures Analyzed.

Senator La Follette declared there was no justification for any duty on print paper. He analyzed the figures of the tariff board to show that the best mills in the United States could actually produce paper cheaper than the best paper mills of Canada. To continue a high tariff on paper, he said, was to put a premium on "inefficiency and cloth," and to make the protective tariff "deaden all constructive forces" for the development of efficient management.

He criticised the newspapers for having urged the reciprocity measure as a means of getting relief from the oppressive charges of the print paper manufacturers.

Newspapers Criticised.

He said they had joined with the "packers, the railroads, the flour millers," and others who would secure advantages through the passage of the reciprocity bill.

He declared that in the testimony taken by the finance committee it would be shown that the newspapers had suppressed the news of the reciprocity proceedings, but on this point Senator Stone, who also is a member of the finance committee, said the Wisconsin senator was mistaken.

Black Page in History.

"That is the blackest page in the newspaper history of the United States," said Senator La Follette. "I regret that the fact must become part of the history of this legislation. But it is a stubborn fact. There is no one who followed the hearings before the finance committee but knows that those who favored the Canadian agreement were given great space; but when the agricultural interests came before the committee the news filled but meager space in the great newspapers of the country."

Stone Interrupts.

"I want to interrupt the senator," said Senator Stone, "not to defend the newspapers, but because I think his statement is not quite justified by the facts. It was charged that the Associated Press, for example, had given great space to the pro-reciprocity litterature and to the pro-reciprocity contentions, which the newspapers had greedily accepted and widely exploited.

"These facts as developed show, as I understand them, that far more space was given the anti-reciprocity arguments by the Associated Press and by the newspapers of the country than was given by either the one or the other in favor of reciprocity."

Senator La Follette expressed the belief that other members of the finance committee would side with him in the controversy.

Senator Clapp Talks.

Senator Clapp, of Minnesota, opposed the reciprocity bill as a "deception, a delusion and a snare," and said the Root amendment would make it worse. Senator Simmons, Democrat, declared the bill was not a Democratic measure.

Senator Townsend of Michigan said the paper and pulp clause of the reciprocity bill would undoubtedly be open to different interpretations if the Root amendment were not adopted and that the courts would finally have to pass on the matter.

ADVERSE DECISION ON THE CUNNINGHAM CLAIMS

CUNNINGHAM CLAIMS HISTORY SUMMARIZED

1903—Originally located by Clarence Cunningham as agent.
1904—New land law passed.
1904-5—Claims relocated by Cunningham for original group and several new entrymen.
1905-6—Claims investigated by H. K. Love, who reported favorably.
1907—Claimants furnish proof of entry before department of interior.
1907—Proofs allowed and final receipts issued for payments on land.
1908—Claims investigated by L. R. Glavis and H. T. Jones for the land department. An adverse report was made.
1909—Hearing ordered in Seattle, which was followed by hearings in Spokane, Cleveland, New York Washington, D. C., Paris and Rome.
1909—Hearings are closed in April.
1909—L. H. Glavis, Gifford Pinchot and others discharged from the public service.
1911—Secretary of Interior R. A. Ballinger resigns and Walter L. Fisher is appointed to succeed him.
1911—Secretary Fisher approves decision of Commissioner Fred Dennet disallowing the claims and canceling the entries.

Washington, June 27.—The famous Cunningham Alaskan coal land claims, through which it has been alleged that the Morgan-Guggenheim syndicate had planned to extend their vast interests in Alaska and to control one of the most valuable coal fields in the world, have been formally disallowed by the department of the interior.

Coal Laws Bad.

In announcing the decision of the department, Secretary Fisher, who succeeded Mr. Ballinger, declared that new coal land laws are needed in Alaska if that territory is to be developed properly. In a statement the secretary says:

"This is the final decision of the Cunningham claims so far as the department of the interior is concerned. Any further proceedings will be merely formal, for the purpose of perfecting the record in case the claimants think there are questions of law which they desire to present to the courts. It is my understanding that it is conceded that the findings upon the facts by the department are conclusive.

To Work Fast.

"It is the intention of the department to proceed to a final determination of the remaining Alaskan coal claims so far as this properly can be done, denying those that should be denied and granting those that should be granted, as rapidly as possible.

Commissioner Dennett, in his decision, holding the claims for cancellation on the ground of frauds, declares that each of the thirty-three entries was improperly allowed because of fatal defects apparent on their face.

Believes Evidence Strong.

He asserts that the government conclusively established the charges brought against the claimants and that there is no doubt that an agreement existed among them in violation of law.

The thirty-three claims involved amounted to an aggregate area of 5,250 acres. The value of the land has been estimated high in the millions. The coal embraced in the claims is said to be among the finest in the world.

After reviewing all the facts brought out at the various trials and hearings in the cases extending over a period of several years and including the final hearing recently attended by Secretary Fisher himself, Commissioner Dennett reached the conclusion that the claims had no legal standing and ordered them cancelled. Secretary Fisher promptly approved this finding, although to complete the record, he must do so formally upon appeal to him.

Prominent Men In.

Among the Cunningham claimants are a number of the prominent men of the Northwest. Commissioner Dennett refers to them as having sufficient means to have carried forward extensive coal operations in Alaska. The various claimants were interested in the Alaskan coal situation in 1902 by Clarence Cunningham, who made the various filings and conducted most of the negotiations. The claims once were clear-listed for patent, but final motion was held up at the request of Glavis.

"There seems to be no doubt," said Mr. Dennett in his decision, "that in the beginning the participants were subscribers for joint interests and not owners of separate claims, and that the substantial character of the transaction never changed. In 1905 they were still 'co-owners' of a single property, although in order to acquire it each particular claim had been allotted to a particular individual and had been entered by him in his name."

The original agreement with the Guggenheims contemplated the formation of a corporation as soon as the titles were obtained. This plan gave the Guggenheims the right to mine the coal on a royalty basis. The Guggenheims also were to build a railroad from the mines to the coast. As finally entered into, the agreement with the Guggenheims for a sale aroused serious objections from several claimants.

"The fact," says Commissioner Dennett, "that it was reported to the Guggenheims that there were thirty-three independent claimants to be reckoned with in no wise strengthens the defense. It is not to be supposed that any man representing these entrymen as a committee, would suggest to a prospective purchaser of the property that the claims were illegal and the several entries subject to forfeiture."

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA REVOLUTION IS ENDED

Tia Juana, Cal., June 24.—Gen. Mosby and a force of more than 100 Americans, comprising the pick of the rebel army in Lower California, surrendered unconditionally to Capt. Frank A. Wilcox of the Thirteenth Infantry, U. S. A., at the American boundary line, near the United States custom house at Tiajuana, thus bringing to an end the revolution in Lower California and allowing a force of about 700 Mexican soldiers, led by Gov. Celso Vega, to march vigorously into Tiajuana, Lower California. Three rebels were killed.

The loss of the Mexican force was not known, but it is believed to be heavy. This troop of the rebels at one time was within fifty yards of the federal firing line and it is believed many Mexican soldiers were killed at that time.

The battle lasted a little more than two hours and was witnessed at a distance by a great throng of spectators from San Diego and intermediate points.

WAR DEPARNMENT IS COMMITTED TO CANAL

Washington, June 24.—A long dispatch has been received by the war department from the King county commissioners declaring that they stand ready, not only to guarantee the government against claims for damages arising out of the proposed construction of the Lake Washington canal, but assuring the department, as well, that they are prepared to use every means at their command to undertake and complete their part of the construction work, and in the opinion of Representative Humphrey and others this double guarantee absolutely assures an early call for bids for construction of the government locks.

Opposition Swept Away.

"In making it plain to the department that there are three alternatives for raising funds for the construction of the canal—through the formation of an assessment district, through direct taxation or through a bond issue—I believe the King county commissioners have swept away every bit of doubt that may have rested with federal officials as to the county's ability to live up to its part of the contract," said Mr. Humphrey this afternoon. "It is plain that not all of these alternatives can prove unavailing, and I believe there is nothing left for the opponents of the canal to stand upon."

Judge Advocate to Decide.

Mr. Humphrey today prepared a brief in reply to that filed with the department by Attorney Powell at yesterday's hearing, and has submitted it to the secretary of war. Mr. Stimson is away from Washington for a few days, but it is understood the case rests principally with Judge Advocate General Crowder of the war department. Mr. Humphrey expects to have the department's decision late this week.

TAFT TO VETO RECIPROCITY BILL IF IT IS AMENDED

Washington, June 26.—It became known at the capitol Saturday that President Taft, talking over the long distance telephone from Providence, repeated to several senators his determination to veto the Canadian reciprocity bill in case any amendment is added to it.

Senators accept the president's ultimatum as applicable to modifications which might be made at the instance of Republicans as well as Democrats. Many senators have received telegrams and letters announcing a purpose on the part of the farmers to test the constitutionality of the proposed reciprocity law if it receives less than a two-thirds majority in the senate.

This position is taken on the ground that as the bill carries into effect the provisions of a treaty, it should receive the vote in the senate necessary to render a treaty effective. The friends of the measure do not concede the point, but they are claiming the two-thirds.

50,000-Ton Hay Crop.

Ellensburg, June 26.—The Kittitas valley hay crop will be 15 per cent greater than the record crop of last year, says Andrew Olson, a veteran hay buyer of the valley. Mr. Olson believes that the recent heavy rains will so materially assist the hay crop that 50,000 tons will be cut this fall.

To Amend Drug Act.

Washington, June 24.—Senator McCumber has introduced a bill amending the pure food and drug act to conform with the recommendations made to Congress by President Taft.

LUMBER DEALERS INDICTED

SECRETARIES OF FOURTEEN RETAIL ASSOCIATIONS HELD BY FEDERAL GRAND JURY.

Blacklist to Prevent Manufacturers From Selling Direct to Consumers Is Basis of Accusations—Power Wielded Through a Bureau of Information.

Chicago, June 24.—Fourteen secretaries of as many retail lumber dealers' associations, indicted by a special federal grand jury here for alleged violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, constituted a new kind of "trust," says the United States attorney who conducted the investigation. The retail lumber dealers, it was admitted, had no incorporation, no capital stock and did not try to control prices and prevent competition among themselves.

"Trust of Power."

Instead they had what attorneys called a "trust of power," and sought to provide that all lumber should be sold to consumers only through retail dealers and not by wholesalers or manufacturers.

The men, as secretaries of the retail associations, constitute the lumber secretaries' bureau of information, incorporated in Illinois in 1905, and represent thousands of retailers.

Spokane Man Indicted.

Among the indicted men is A. L. Porter of Spokane, Wash., secretary of the Western Retail Lumbermen's Association.

The others are: Arthur L. Holmes, Detroit; George P. Sweet, Michigan; Williard G. Hollis, Minneapolis; Harry A. Corsuch, Kansas City; Bert Critchfield, Lincoln, Neb.; E. E. Hall, Nebraska; Harry S. Scearce, Mooresville, Ind.; H. H. Hemenway, Denver; Louis I. Helman, Wyoming; H. S. Adams, Chillicothe, O.; B. N. Hayward, Columbus, O.; R. P. Bransford, Union City, Tenn.; A. C. Righter, Pittsburg, Pa.

The power of the retailers' organization was wielded through the bureau of information, according to the indictments, and by a scheme resembling an alleged blacklist published in The Scout, a trade paper published by Arthur L. Holmes.

The Scout was named in the list of overt acts as the means by which the secretaries published to the trade the names of manufacturers and wholesalers who sold to consumers.

The names of more than 100 concerns, including the big mail order houses and wholesale dealers from Pennsylvania to the Pacific Coast, were shown by documentary evidence given to the grand jury to have appeared in the publication as having violated the instructions of the retailers who, it is said, retaliated by refusing to purchase goods from those who had offended.

Espionage Is Charged.

The members of the board of information also were charged with having established a system of espionage over the business of wholesalers and manufacturers and having published letters and bulletins showing "unethical" conduct on the part of the wholesalers and consumers in selling goods direct to consumers.

Scores of letters, written by members of the individual associations to the editor of The Scout and calling attention to the alleged unethical actions of wholesalers were read by the grand jury and were contained in the indictments.

WICKERSHAM FATHERS HOME RULE MEASURE

Washington, June 24.—Delegate Wickersham, of Alaska, has introduced a resolution authorizing the House committee on territories to visit Alaska this summer to investigate the extension of home rule to the territory. A similar measure has passed the Senate. Mr. Wickersham has been assured by the House committee that his home government bill will be reported favorably at an early date, although no action may be taken, of course, until next session.

Congressional Appropriations.

Washington, June 24.—Appropriations made by Congress in the third session of the Sixty-first Congress amounted to $1,026,682,882, as shown by a joint statement by the House and Senate appropriations committee today. This was $1,218,747 less than the appropriations of the previous session. In addition, however, contracts were authorized to be entered into for certain public works calling for future appropriations of $43,454,145.

Roads Must Report Accidents.

Washington, June 26.—Every railway will be required after July 1, 1911, to report to the interstate commerce commission by telegraph "any collision, derailment or other accident" resulting in the death of one or more persons. By the terms of an order issued today by the committee the report "must be sent immediately after the occurrence of the accident" by a responsible officer of the carrier.

Cure Your Dandruff

Why? Because it is annoying, untidy. And mostly, because it almost invariably leads to baldness. Cure it, and save your hair. Get more, too, at the same time. All easily done with Ayer's Hair Vigor, new improved formula. Stop this formation of dandruff!

Does not change the color of the hair

Formula with each bottle
Show it to your doctor
Ask him about it, then do as he says

Ayer's

The new Ayer's Hair Vigor will certainly do this work, because, first of all, it destroys the germs which are the original cause of dandruff. Having given this aid, nature completes the cure. The scalp is restored to a perfectly healthy condition.

DOCTORS ADVISED OPERATION—DECIDED TO TRY GREAT KIDNEY REMEDY.

I want to tell you in a few words what your Swamp-Root did for me, believing that my testimony may do some other suffering person a great deal of good.

About six years ago, I was dangerously ill, consulted three doctors, all of whom said I had kidney trouble. One of the doctors analyzed my urine and reported that I had gravel, and further said that in order to regain my health and life, an operation would be necessary. I did not want to be operated on as I was afraid that I would not recover. Someone told me of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root and said it was a reliable medicine for kidney trouble, so I decided to try it, and I went to Mr. Rose, the druggist, at 303 Central Ave., Minneapolis, and bought a bottle, took it, noticed results and continued taking it until I was entirely cured.

Having been free from any kidney trouble for over six years, I consider that I am absolutely cured and know that Swamp-Root has the credit.

I never fail to tell my friends about your remedy, as I believe it is the best of its kind. Your U & O Ointment is also very good. We are never without a jar in our house.

Yours very truly,
MRS. MARGARET E. ANDERSON,
Minneapolis, Minn.

State of Minnesota } ss.
County of Hennepin }

Personally appeared before me this 23d day of Sept., 1909, Mrs. Margaret E. Anderson, of the City of Minneapolis of the State of Minnesota, who subscribed the above, and on oath says that the same is true in substance and in fact.

M. M. KERRIDGE,
Notary Public.
Commission expires March 26, 1914.

Letter to
Dr. Kilmer & Co.
Binghamton, N. Y.

Prove What Swamp-Root Will Do For You

Send to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. It will convince anyone. You will also receive a booklet of valuable information, telling all about the kidneys and bladder. When writing, be sure and mention this paper. For sale at all drug stores. Price fifty-cents and one-dollar.

Stone Bathtubs Used.

On the great private estates in Mexico baths are in use today which were hewn out of the solid rocks centuries ago by slave labor. They are located, for the most part, in the vicinity of running water, and are fed by bamboo pipes, but in many cases they have to be filled by the old-fashioned method of carrying a bucket to and from the spring.

In the cities the so-called stone baths are made of cement. The residences of all well-to-do people are provided with them, and they are a feature of the native hotels. They are usually about ten feet long by four feet deep—baby swimming tanks, in fact.

The tropical custom is to fill the baths late at night. By the following morning the water will have acquired a limpid coolness that acts like a tonic upon the body. When one remembers that near the equator it is almost as warm in the morning as it is at noon, and that water taken direct from the city mains is always tepid, the advantage of the stone or cement bath is evident.

WAS NOT FOR STARS ALONE

Amateur Astronomer's New Telescope Enables His Wife to Make Some Important Discoveries.

"I became interested in astronomy not so very long ago," relates a man who has money enough to indulge his hobbies, "and I purchased a pretty good sized telescope, which I mounted in the cupola of my house. For several weeks I interested myself in making observations of the star-sprinkled heavens. After a while, however, I got tired of the pastime, and one evening my wife announced that she was going up to make a few observations on her own account.

"She had been on the roof rather more than an hour, I reckon, when she came back downstairs with a satisfied look on her face.

"'Did you make any observations, my dear?' I asked her.

"'Well, I should rather guess I did,' she gurgles, her face alight with enthusiasm.

"'Some important discoveries, I presume?' I pursued, with all the sarcasm I could put into my voice.

"'Important is a mild term,' she answered. 'Jimmy DeCourcy is out walking with that horrid woman who had all that divorce court notoriety last month. Please don't ever invite him here again for dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Smythe are having an awful family row in their dining room and their curtains are up. Daisy Oliver must be engaged to Dick Sturtevant, for they are sitting on her back porch and he has his arm around her.' (Parenthetically—they live about a mile from our house. It's a remarkable fine telescope.) 'Old Dr. Bultitude is mowing his lawn to save 25 cents, and he's doing it after dark so that nobody will see him. Josie Summerville went down to the drug store and met Shannon Ellis there and went for a walk with him, although her father has forbidden her ever to speak to him again. Mrs. White's washing is still on the line and it's going to rain before morning. And what do you think—the Porters are over at the Browns playing bridge, though Mrs. Porter told me yesterday that she would never speak to Mrs. Brown again. And—'

"But what's the use? She made more discoveries in this little town in one hour than I could record in the solar system in two months."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Blank Shame.

"What is the matter?" inquired Her Dearest Friend, as she was ushered into the boudoir of her newly married chum and found, instead of the vision of happiness she had expected, a disheveled heroine largely dissolved in tears. "What is the matter?"

"Algernon has gone away for a week—"

"But, my child, you don't mean to say that you are such turtle doves that you can't spare him for a week without making a scene like this?"

"Oh, no, it isn't that at all! Of course, it is hard to live alone, but he has at last shown me what a monster he is."

"Why, this is shocking! What can he have done? You haven't found he was already married or——"

"No, no, no! It's only that he is a heartless, miserly creature. Only think! I asked him to leave me a check to pay for things while he was away."

"Well, surely he didn't refuse?"

"No; worse than that—far worse! He just wanted to wound and humiliate me! He left me a check, all dated and signed, complete, except that he didn't put any amount in! Wasn't that very cruel?"—Judge.

The End at Last.

Miss Sparhawk believed in "having clothes appropriate to occasions," and she graded her wearing apparel with great care. She boasted, and with reason, that she could "get more wear out of a dress that any one else in Canby.

When the garment was past its first, second and third stages of usefulness for public wear, it was relegated to certain seasons of domestic stress, from which it passed eventually to the rag bag. One gingham, long dead to Miss Sparhawk's heart, had reached this last stage, and she acknowledged it one day to the village seamstress.

"Don't see as if I'd had half the good I expected out of it," she said, wistfully. "'Tisn't but eight years since I had it made up. Two years I wore it Sundays, the next two, sewing circle afternoons, next two when I went errands to the village, and these last two round the house, common. But now—" and she regarded the bundle sorrowfully before stuffing it into the yawning piece-bag—"now 'tisn't even fit to hang out washing in Mondays."—Youth's Companion.

Matches by the Billion.

New York is the greatest matchmaking and match-destroying city in the world. These matches don't last long. They flare into a flame and burn out to the extent of about four hundred million a day. So if each individual New Yorker doesn't burn a hundred matches every 24 hours he is not doing his share of the work.

The greatest match making industry of the city is over in Queens borough, where nearly 100,000 cubic feet of lumber is split by machines each year, making 15,500 million matches. Besides what the city uses of this supply it imports 200,000 million each year, which is one-fifteenth of the output of the United States.

If the matches that Father Knickerbocker uses in a year were placed end to end they would make six lines across the continent.

INFLAMMATION AND PAIN

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Creston, Iowa.—"I was troubled for a long time with inflammation, pains in my side, sick headaches and nervousness. I had taken so many medicines that I was discouraged and thought I would never get well. A friend told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it restored me to health. I have no more pain, my nerves are stronger and I can do my own work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me after everything else had failed, and I recommend it to other suffering women."—MRS. WM. SEALS, 605 W. Howard St., Creston, Iowa.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

Use for Cold Coffee.

If you have a cup of strong coffee left, from breakfast, prepare it with sugar and milk to taste. Put into a bowl one cup white flour, one cup whole wheat flour, one-half teaspoon salt and three level teaspoons baking powder. Beat one egg lightly, add to the coffee and stir into dry mixture. If it should be too stiff add a little more milk or water. It should be more like a stiff drop batter than dough and not thin enough to pour. Bake in hot buttered muffin pans 20 minutes.

I AM taking the above text for the reason that I want to instill into the people self-reliance, self-nobility, self-sovereignty. I want every person to feel that they are above deception, hatred, selfishness, jealousy, envy or revenge.

I want the person who is pinched by poverty, who has suffered great reverses, who is weighted down with some great sorrow to become acquainted with the redeeming power of Hope. I want them to take Hope as a companion, as a counsellor, as a light, as a medicine, for Hope is an ambassador from God. It is a teacher that shows us the beautiful. It fills our souls with songs and our tongues with praise.

To be hopeful one must be well, and to be well one must be hopeful.

WHERE HE EXPECTED TO GO

Cheerful Grocer's Clerk Makes Witty Reply to Housewife Who Wanted Only Fresh Goods.

"Have you any country butter?" the young housewife asked.

"No'm," the grocer's clerk responded, "but we have some near-butter."

"Well, have you any fresh leaf lard?"

"Sorry, ma'am; but I can give you some of our finest near-lard and you can't tell the difference.

"Well, of all the stores! Could I get a glass of honey for the children?"

"Er—I'm afraid not, ma'am; but we have some excellent near-honey."

The housewife sighed.

"Dear me!" she said reproachfully. "You should be ashamed to sell so many adulterated foods! Where do you expect to go when you die, young man?"

"Near-heaven, ma'am," calmly responded the clerk, as he chased a fly away from the prunes.—Judge.

Grammer in the Supreme Court.

Not so much purists as grammarians would be distressed by hearing justices of the Supreme court speak from the bench either in handing down oral decisions or in addressing members of the bar. The members of the court frequently break the rules of syntax. Of course this is never apparent in the written decisions, where great care is taken in editing the matter written, but it would appear the justices are not so exacting in speaking, seemingly giving vent to the first words that come to their mouths, even words they were told were incorrect in their boyhood, the lapsus linguae may be consequently thought atavistic.

One who listens in the court may hear from the bench such expressions as "he don't" and "they ain't." Other violations of the grammatical proprieties might be cited. Even the chief justice is a boy again, unless one's ears very much deceive.

Hume and the Saints.

David Hume's residence in the New Town of Edinburgh was the first building in a new street and a witty young lady chalked up on the walls "St. David street," alluding to the owner. Hume's servant girl resented such a reference to her master and hurried into the house to inform how he had been made game of. "Never mind, lassie," said Hume, "many a waur man has been made a saint before."

The authorities adopted the young lady's suggestion, for the thoroughfare is so named to this day. There is another version of the philosopher's reply to his housekeeper as we have heard it: "Never mind, many a better man has been made a saint before me."

Banana Split.

First have your bananas thoroughly chilled in refrigerator for several hours if possible. Remove the skin from a banana, leaving the skin whole, fill it with ice cream, pour some kind of fruit sirup or maple sugar sauce over the ice cream, lay two or three maraschino cherries on top of this if it is fruit sirup, or sprinkle nuts if it is maple sirup. Lay the peeled banana on same plate beside the ice cream if it is served in oblong plate, or slice and place the fruit around if served on a round plate. This serves one person.

No Man is Stronger Than His Stomach

A strong man is strong all over. No man can be strong who is suffering from weak stomach with its consequent indigestion, or from some other disease of the stomach and its associated organs, which impairs digestion and nutrition. For when the stomach is weak or diseased there is a loss of the nutrition contained in food, which is the source of all physical strength. When a man "doesn't feel just right," when he doesn't sleep well, has an uncomfortable feeling in the stomach after eating, is languid, nervous, irritable and despondent, he is losing the nutrition needed to make strength.

Such a man should use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enriches the blood, invigorates the liver, strengthens the kidneys, nourishes the nerves, and so GIVES HEALTH AND STRENGTH TO THE WHOLE BODY.

Mrs. Ethel Waldon of Tacoma is visiting with her aunts, Mrs. Fisher and Mrs. Mathews, and uncle, Fred Waldon.

True B. Balch, of Potlatch, came home Sunday to spend a few days. He thinks Sequim is the place for him.

Mrs. LeRoy G. Wilber and baby Ester returned home Monday from Ellensburg. Her sister, Miss Eva Shotwell, came home with her. Master Robert Shotwell, who is in Port Angeles, came up and spent the 4th on Sequim, visiting with his sisters.

The Port Angeles Commercial Club will meet with Sequim people at the Sequim opera house July 15th for the purpose of discussing the advantages of organizing a Sequim Club. Everybody should take an interest in this meeting and be present.

Two sisters of H. J. and Jens Bugge are here visiting them.

Henry Knapman has his four acre lot on the east side of Athletic park, and R. W. Schumacher his lot on the west side, slashed and are getting ready to burn the same. This will be quite an improvement for the park.

There are a good many strangers on Sequim, some for pleasure and others looking for homes.

Mrs. Geo. Hannum, Mrs. Alfred Cozens, and Miss Lizzie Fleming attended the annual meeting of the G. A. R. and W. R. C. at Wenatchee last week.

J. Robertson is making improvements at his home by putting in the windows and petitioning off the second story.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Balch are home from a week's visit in Potlatch where they witnessed operations at one of the big logging camps. The largest days' haul of logs while they were there was 647. The work was very interesting to Mr. Balch as he had worked at logging on Hoods Canal 40 years ago, and had cruised nearly over that entire section. Hoods Canal is a beautiful sheet of water and the scenery of that section is well worth seeing.

BLUE MOUNTAIN

Between 90 and 100 people spent a very pleasant Fourth at the school house.

Fred Elves, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Machenheimer were home for the Fourth.

Elda Lewis and family and Ruth Borst made a short visit with Grandma and Grandpa Lewis.

Mr. and Mrs. Lovejoy spent the Fourth at Blue Mountain.

Received too late for last week.

Bessie Cameron very pleasantly entertained a few of her girl friends last week. Mrs. Fred Brauer, Jr., served a picnic luncheon to their many friends on Sunday last, all gathering there after Sunday school to celebrate the ninth birthday of little Margariette.

Mrs. Nellie Machenheimer was taken sick suddenly last Thursday and had it not been for the assistance of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Emma Straup, recently, returned fr m Montana, it might have resulted fatally. Dr. McGillivray attended her.

May 23rd a baby girl was a welcome arrival at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Critchfield, a fairy princess for her three brothers.

Earline Campbell of Elwha, is spending a week with her Broughton cousins.

A letter to grandma Lewis tells of the safe arrival, at their destination, of the Myers family and that they are all in the best of health.

Alvin Cary returned home Sunday, after a week with his sister, Mrs. Dan Jackson.

Sam Emery has gone to Sequim to assist Mr. Nelson in the blacksmith shop.

Frank and Nat Broughton are glad to be home again after three months work at Elwha.

Kelly Epson has another horse, having purchased "Flint" from Geo. Albertson, who is soon to return to Kansas.

Fred Elvers surprised his parents Wednesday when he returned from Crescent.

Miss Louise Machenheimer is with her brother Fred of Lost Mountain Valley

FLOUR

The city has been invaded recently by two sets of flour agents who have explained the merits of their flour, the "Occident" and "Fisher's Blend". While we are prepared to fill any and all orders for these brands of flour, we believe that our old stand by, the Ideal, will still remain the people's favorite. The Washington Grain and Milling Co., at Reardon, has every means for manufacturing the best flour that can be made. They use BLUE STEM WHEAT, the best wheat produced in the state. However the proof of the pudding is eating it. Take your choice and we will be glad at any time to fill your orders for any kind of flour or anything else in our line.

Have you seen the bargains at Nailor's Drug Store?

For the best flour in the market go to the Gate City Grocery.

Judge Cochran returned Monday from his up-sound trip.

Take advantage of the forced sale at the Nailor Drug Store.

Go to Morey's for your blacksmithing; they do it right.

Mrs. McDougall is a guest at the McGillivray home, having arrived Sunday.

Mr. T. F. Trumbull and family are enjoying a visit from her mother, Mrs. Brown.

For Rent—A small cottage on Fourteenth street; two good lots with fruit trees. Phone 92.

Miss Joliette Glen came home from Seattle Monday for a rest from her duties as a nurse.

F. E. Warner, the Optician, will be in Port Angeles July 15th, 1911, for one month. tf.

Mrs. Scholl is visiting in Angeles a few days, having postponed her visit East till cooler weather.

For canned goods, there is nothing better than the Amocat Brand, for sale at the Gate City Grocery.

Can you use a piece of fine glassware? Buy it at wholesale cost at Nailor's Drug Store. Sale now on.

Mesdames H. Fisher and A. Richardson returned, Sunday, from Olympia, where they attended the Federation of Clubs.

We have many bargains in every department of our large stock, if you are not particular as to style we can save you money.
S. J. Lutz & Co.

Bernice Allen went up to Seattle Friday to meet her sister Marie, who is returning home after spending a year with relatives in the East. They came home Sunday.

For making cod fish balls, creamed fish salad and other dainty dishes B. & B. "Fish Flakes" are a revelation. Packed in New England, 10 and 15c cans. City Fish Market.

Helen Trumbull arrived on Sunday's boat to join the Makeagoal Girls in the annual outing party at Lake Crescent. They will camp at the Piedmont Hotel.

We can dress your boy from head to foot, no matter what his age, for less money than you can send to the big catalogue houses, quality considered, S.J. Lutz & Co.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Farmer and children and Miss VanOrnum came down from Seattle Sunday to spend the Fourth with the C. J. Farmer family at Lake Sutherland.

Let your eastern friends know about our beautiful scenery, wonderful lakes, and mountains and ideal climate by mailing them a copy of the Lake Crescent number of the Olympic-Leader, which costs you only ten cents.

Fred Machenheimer and two of the boys were in town Wednesday on business, the family having held a quiet reunion at Blue Mountain on the Fourth. Charlie and Henry took advantage of the vacation for a bear hunt, bringing in two, weighing 150 pounds dressed.

Chas. George is the latest Angeleite to join the nabob class, having purchased a big white auto, and he is now acquiring a more or less expensive experience learning to run the blamed thing; at the end of his first trip it was shy a wheel and some ten feet of the street level.

J. Sloan Smith, rancher at Sequim, was an Angeles visitor Friday. Mr. Smith was a newspaper man in the East, but like so many of the city dwellers decided the country is the only place to live, and being free to follow his inclinations, came to Clallam county, the best country on earth.

E. E. Day came in town Saturday, wearing an old sweater, dilapidated leather cap, half-inch beard, and other equally disreputable attire, bent on seeing the sights and appropriately celebrating the Fourth. Day says he has been having the time of his life working around his summer cottage and never felt better, having lost twenty-two pounds.

Game Warden Pike has had printed a folder containing a synopsis of the 1911 game laws and has placed them in the stores for distribution. There are a number of points which anglers, as well as hunters, should make note of; for instance, you must not catch more than twenty pounds of trout in one day. It is stated in the folder — a typographical error— that the close season on quail and pheasant runs to 1915 instead of 1912. - The next legislature will be asked to extend the close season, however, as, particularly in this section, the imported birds are only just getting a foothold.

Go to C. L. Baker for dishes; they are cheap but good.

Bert Godfrey was down from Sequim Wednesday.

Barn—For Sale, Cheap. Inquire of Mrs. Lizzie Williams, Front St.

Automobile for hire, for all occasions. Call at the Angeles Hotel.

For the best in Coffees, Teas and Spices, call at the Gate City Grocery.

Mrs. O. Mulholland of Ozette is visiting her daughter and other friends in Angeles.

Two saddle horses, broke to drive, for sale or will trade for cows. Phone white 100.

Expert Horse Shoer at Morey's Blacksmith Shop. First and Oak Streets opposite City Hall.

Small house for rent, partly furnished, two full lots with fruit. Phone 123. M. T. Fuller.

We sell "Fish Flakes" advertised in all leading magazines. Try them 10 and 15c cans. City Fish Market.

Regular meeting of Ladies' Auxiliary, postponed on account of the Fourth, will be held next Tuesday.

A few of the bargains at Nailor Drug Store are shown in the windows. The whole stock is marked down the same way.

The girls of the Makeagoal Club gave a dance at Parish Hall Tuesday prior to their annual camping out trip to Lake Crescent.

Ralph Lutz's many Angeles friends will be glad to know he has secured the position of instructor in history at the State University.

Ira Hall and son Roy are here from Seattle to put up a bungalow for Miss Anna Trumbull, on her lot on Fifth, east of Laurel.

J. M. Greiger, a nephew of Marion Bell's, who is a graduate electrician from the navy, was here the past week, looking up a location.

Every Thursday at three o'clock we give a set of dishes to the customer making the largest single cash purchase during the week. S. J. Lutz & Co.

Mrs. C. J. Farmer went to Seattle Friday to meet her friend Mrs. Wood of Spring Valley, Minn. Her daughter, Miss Florence Wood, will be the guest of Beatrice Allen.

Workmen's Clothes, Shoes, Gloves and Socks of every description; give us a try out next time you need Shoes or Clothing. S. J. Lutz & Co., where you get a square deal.

The Inland Navigation Co., operating the Whatcom, is sending out a thousand copies of the Olympic-Leader's Lake Crescent number to inquirers concerning the lakes. This endorsement from Mr. Miller, the general passenger agent, is the best we have thus far received.

R. H. Callarman, a young gentleman of pleasing address and apparently a hustler, came down from Seattle this week to remain as the resident representative of the Inland Navigation Co. Mr. Callarman starts out under considerable of a handicap, owing to the fact that the Angeles business men had somehow acquired the impression that the Whatcom, beginning right after the Fourth, was to make two trips a week to Victoria.

The Port Angeles baseball team won the last three games, defeating Ballard in a 3 to 0 game Sunday, and a 2 to 1 eleven inning game Monday. The overflowing crowd that visited the ball park on the Fourth was greatly pleased and showed its enthusiasm by applauding many of the star plays pulled off during the afternoon. It was an interesting game from start to finish, the home team winning out in the eighth when two men crossed the plate, score 4 to 2. The big game of the season is expected Sunday, when the Knights of Columbus, backed by 300 rooters, come down from Seattle.

The Olympic-Leader's Lake Crescent number is on sale at several of the Angeles stores at ten cents a copy. Of the edition of three thousand, less than two hundred are left at this office; if you wish a few copies to send to friends, better attend to it at once.

The first dance of the season on Lake Crescent, was held at the Crescent Hotel where more than sixty people attended, and enjoyed a happy as well as a glorious Fourth.

THEIR FIRST ANNIVERSARY

By LAWRENCE ALFRED MAY

(Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.)

When Miss Kitty Seaforth became Mrs. Robert Anderson things had all been figured cut. He was an insurance clerk at $25 per week. Some day he might have an increase of salary, but for the present they must get along on this income. He had enough in bank to buy the furniture, and he had an eye on a cottage in the suburbs, and they would not have to do any pinching to make a fairly good show.

They had been married a year, and love and happiness had reigned, when one morning at the breakfast table the wife looked up with shining eyes and said:

"Bob, do you know—know——"

There she stopped. She had an innocent little plot and was near giving it away.

He didn't ask her to finish. In his turn he said:

"Kitty, do you know—know——"

And there he paused and said he would take another cup of coffee. He also had been conspiring with himself. It was their first anniversary. Both knew it and were going to speak of it, but held their tongues.

They had had to do with a pretty old rug in the parlor. It was dingy and worn, and both hated the sight of it, but they had been waiting. Bob had been laying aside dimes and quarters and halves for a year, sometimes stealing them from his lunch money, and Kitty had been saving the same way by hunting for bargains and retrimming her own hats.

"Today that old rug goes into the dining room and a rug that is a rug takes its place," said Bob, as he started for the car.

"When Bob comes home tonight I'll surprise him!" chuckled Kitty, as she saw him depart.

At three o'clock in the afternoon a second-hand man drove up, looked the old rug over, made a cash offer and drove away with it. At four a new rug came from a carpet store.

At noon Bob had cut his lunch hour short to visit a carpet store and purchase a rug. He didn't ask that it should be delivered at his house. On the contrary, he called for it at five o'clock. He had to hire a boy to help him carry it to the car. The conductor was peevish about it and muttered that some folks didn't know the difference between a trolley car and a moving van. Another boy was hired to help carry the rug from the car to the house.

Dinner was all ready, but Mrs. Anderson sat on the floor, in the center of the rug she had bought. It was there she would receive Bob and hear his exclamations of surprise. It was there she would call his attention to the colors—the harmony—the weave, and tell him she had saved $29, bit by bit. He would lift her up and kiss her and call her his saving little girl.

There was a dull thud in the little front hall. There was a dragging sound. There was a grumbling sound. Then the parlor door was pushed open and something that weighed a ton was up-ended into the room.

"Why, Bob, Bob!"

When he had got his breath he looked at the new rug on the floor.

The wife got up and examined the bundle he had brought in. Then, in chorus:

"You've gone and bought a rug!"

It was a time for laughing, but neither laughed. Only one rug was needed, and good money had been paid for two. There was also the disappointment of not having surprised each other. The young wife shed tears, and Bob muttered. By and by she wailed out:

"You ought to have known better!"

"And so had you!"

"A man can't pick out a rug, anyhow!"

"He can do better than a woman. If you had paid as much as five dollars for that rug then you've had the eye-teeth cheated out of your head. Look at this one, will you? Here's a rug that is a rug."

"It's only a tapestry!" she almost shouted as he worked away and unfolded it. "It's only a tapestry, while mine is a five-frame body brussels. Why, Bob, it won't wear—and the colors will fade—and it don't match the clock—and all the girls who come to see me will know at once—and—and——!"

They didn't speak once during dinner. After dinner Bob went out and took a long walk. It was late when he returned, and Kitty sat on her rug crying, but he didn't seem to see her. He saw the cat, however, and he took her up on his knee and smoothed her down and warned her that marriage was a failure and that she must never try it. A husband might slave and economize and half-starve and lug rugs around, and at the end he would find an ungrateful wife. He had hoped that his case might be different, but had been bitterly disappointed, and of course separation or divorce must follow.

Next morning he went off to the office for the first time without the usual kiss and pat. He was a martyr. He knew he was, and his fellow clerks said he looked just like one. One of them went so far as to say that if he was a martyr he would commit suicide.

This gave the husband an idea. At night when he went home there was no wife to greet him—no table set—no aroma of coffee and fried chicken. At the rear end of the yard there were two shade trees. Looking out of the dining room window he saw a noosed rope dangling from the limb of one of them, and on the ground under it sat his wife. She was also a martyr. She was also getting ready to go hence.

Mr. Anderson placed the bottle of carbolic in the middle of the unset table, tipped over a chair with a crash and then went off to a restaurant to get something to eat. He had been gone ten minutes when the wife came slyly in and found the bottle. He must have looked out and seen the hangman's rope and her sitting beneath it. He must have realized that she intended to hang herself as soon as dusk came, so that the neighbors shouldn't see her kicking, but he hadn't come out to say a word! No! He had sneaked off to give her full swing. He was glad that she was to choke herself to death. Now she must surely go through with it. She went back and sat down and shed more tears and bade the world adieu, and the evening came down. She was wondering how bad it would hurt when a voice sounded near and a voice hoarsely said:

"Yes, I must die! This carbolic acid will do the business. Of what use to live when my wife says I don't know a tapestry rug from a five-frame body brussels?"

"I die by the rope!" announced Kitty, with a sob in her throat. "I had saved and saved and saved, and wanted to surprise Bob with a new parlor rug, but—he—he—went and bought one himself and then jawed me! He will find my dead body swinging here, and—and——"

"She shouldn't have called it an old tapestry rug!" broke in the other voice.

"He should have known a tapestry from a five-frame."

"They say that carbolic acid gives one excruciating pains, and that it is hours before the end comes, but——"

"It must hurt any one's neck awfully to hang, but as I am an unloved wife——"

And then the Billy goat who was prowling through the alley found the hole in the fence and entered the yard. He saw two human forms under the trees. Human beings had stoned and clubbed and scorned him They had written jokes on him for the newspapers; they had thrown old cans out for him to feed on; they had set dogs on him. He boiled over at the recollection, and down went his head and he charged.

"Oh, Bob, what is it?" asked Kitty as she got through rolling over and over.

"It's that blamed goat, dear!"

And then they laughed and kissed and pulled the rope down and threw the bottle away, and though it was a late dinner, it was a joyous one, and they even sold the tapestry rug to a neighbor next day for all it cost.

Sweet Odors From Animals.

Civet is an aromatic substance of the consistence of honey, and is obtained from a pouch on the civet cat, an animal from two to three feet high. The best known animal odor is musk, which is obtained from the musk deer. China furnishes the best quality. Twenty-five pods or sacks are packed in oblong boxes, composed of plates of lead, inclosed in a caddy made of pasteboard. Musk is obtained from Assam, Siberia, the Altai mountains, and other parts of northern Asia. Ambergris is another animal odor. It is secreted in the intestines of the spermaceti whale. A very curious fact is that ambergris is only accumulated by disease—that is, it is only secreted in a sick whale. It is very hard, of a light gray color, and is found in quantities varying from 20 to 50 pounds. It is worth $30 an ounce. Spermaceti whales are found near the islands of Sumatra, Malacca, Madagascar, and in the China seas.

NIAGARA AGAIN IN REAL PERIL

VIEW OF NIAGARA

THE FALLS IN WINTER

A SITUATION which is both curious and unfortunate has arisen regarding the taking of water from Niagara falls. Under the existing arrangement authorized by the Canadian waterway treaty a maximum limit of diversion from Niagara of 56,000 cubic feet per second is permitted "for purposes of power production."

As the average flow in cubic feet per second is 222,400, this amount is 25 per cent. of the whole. But as the ordinary low water flow is 180,000 cubic feet per second, what this allowance really comes to is 30 per cent. of the water passing over the falls. Visitors to Niagara who have observed little if any change in the appearance of the falls do not always realize that the power companies have not yet taken as much water as the law apparently allows. The treaty, as has been intimated, has provided a limit for power purposes, but it has provided absolutely no limit whatever for the taking of water from Niagara "for sanitary and domestic purposes."

The American Civic federation, under the directorship of J. Horace McFarland, has taken upon itself the task of arousing its extensive membership, as well as the country at large, to the dangers of the present situation.

"Saving Niagara" has become a tiresome job during the last few years, for it seems to a weary public as if Niagara was always being saved by the skin of her teeth from something or other. The first outcry arose some time ago when the proposition to use water from the Great falls was first presented to the authorities. As will be remembered, strenuous opposition was put forth by those who feared that the wonderful scenic attractions of Niagara would be injured if not utterly destroyed. The campaign against the power companies was not successful in preserving Niagara intact, but it did result in rousing the country to the possibility of having no Niagara at all. Time passed, the great turbines were installed, and Niagara still flowed on. But the danger, though latent, still existed, and it needed only a little ingenuity on the part of the financial interests involved to find a way to further deplete the water flow.

What Might Happen.

Fortunately the gaugings, tests and measurements made by the United States army engineers, under the direction of the lake survey, have furnished facts which show beyond the shadow of a doubt what will happen if Niagara is to any greater extent forced to contribute more water for any purpose whatsoever. In the report of the chief of engineers, published a little over two years ago, this final statement is made, referring to the total power diversions on both sides of the river:

"The combined lowering tends to uncover shallow portions of the crest line of the American falls. It is further accompanied by greater and consequently more harmful effects, both in the American rapids and at the easterly, or Terrapin point, end of the Horseshoe fall. . . . It is on the Canadian side of the boundary that the impairment of the falls is most serious. . . . As a whole, the falls have unquestionably been seriously injured by the diversions already made. Additional diversions now under way will add to the damage."

These words were written before the full diversion authorized by the Burton bill had been effected. Today conditions are worse than they were at the time of this report, and if the bold attempt to increase the skinning of the falls by 28 per cent. on the American side, and to double it on the Canadian side, should be allowed to slip through without check, it is the opinion of experts that a considerable portion of the Horseshoe fall just beyond Terrapin point, and well within the American boundary line, would be dried up altogether.

Rocks Barely Covered.

Even today with the possible maximum limit not yet being abstracted, keen observers have noticed that hundreds of feet of rock here and there along the break of Horseshoe fall are barely covered with water. The Bridal Veil is considerably lessened in volume, and those who have visited the fall most recently have not been able to avoid commenting on this fact. Portions of the rapids have also been affected and have lost a good deal of their former impressiveness.

Those who have calculated that a diversion of 25 per cent. would not materially change the form of the cataract to the eyes have been basing their figures on the erroneous theory, so it is asserted, that the falls of Niagara are like a canal, with an even depth and a smooth bottom and sides. Nothing could be further from the truth. The "wild glory" of the falls results, not entirely from the erroneous amount of water plunging over the great natural dam, but from the uneven character of the bed of the river, set with boulders, and also from the jagged edge of the cliff over which the surplus from four great lakes tumbles a hundred and sixty feet into the rugged cauldron below. Fortunately, for the power companies, the amount of water so far diverted for manufacturing purposes has not been noticeable, but the fact remains that every further diversion, no matter how slight, will increase the risk of ruining the falls forever.

In connection with their study of the Niagara situation, the government engineers discovered that the water in the great lakes is not a constant quantity, but that it apparently increases and diminishes in recurring cycles of high and low. Between 1864 and 1874, for example, the water of the great lakes was materially lower than it is today. Between 1874 and 1886 it reached the highest recorded points. From 1886 on during the next decade there was a drop, reaching its minimum in 1896, and since then there has been a gradual rise to a summit point in 1908. It looks, therefore, as if another recession of the waters had just started, and as this cycle of low water develops it is well within the bounds of possibility that parts of the American rapids will lose much of their beauty, and that parts of the Horseshoe fall may be likewise seriously damaged. The fact that the large power developments have taken place during the period of the upward tendency of the water has made the results of the drains upon the falls less disastrous, for the simple reason that there was more water passing over the falls than the average mean.

It is with a full realization of the situation outlined above that the American Civic association has undertaken a campaign which, if successful, should result in the lasting preservation of the falls to the "real owners," the American people.

REMARKABLE CAREER OF PORFIRIO DIAZ

PORFIRIO DIAZ

MRS. PORFIRIO DIAZ

IT was 34 years ago, way back in 1877, that Gen. Porfirio Diaz was first elected constitutional president of Mexico. His last and eighth election was in July, 1910. His career since his early youth, much of which was spent in poverty, has been adventurous and picturesque. He was born in September, 1830, his father being Capt. Jose Faustino Diaz, a lineal descendant of Bernal Diaz del Castillo, the companion and historiographer of Hernando Cortez.

As a boy General Diaz was educated for the priesthood, but the death of his father forced him to some lucrative employment and he became a drug clerk. While working at this humble occupation by day, he studied law and taught school at night. Juarez, governor of Oaxaca, met the young man at this point in his career and became greatly interested in him.

The invasion of Mexico by Gen. Winfield Scott in 1847 gave General Diaz his first great chance. Young as he was, he joined the army and fought vigorously against the Americans. On the conclusion of peace he resumed his law studies under the tutelage of Juarez, but political uprisings invariably found him in arms, and he finally attained to a colonelcy in the army, giving distinguished service at Oaxaca and Jalapa.

Head of Highest Court.

His great services soon won him notable recognition. He was raised to the presidency of the supreme court, which in Mexico gives the same rights of succession that a vice-president has in the United States. The election of Juarez to the presidency found General Diaz in full accord with him, but politics soon wearied him, and he resumed his military career, serving brilliantly as a brigadier general against the conservative insurrectionists.

On his return from a two months' campaign in the mountains, where he had many narrow escapes, he found himself a popular hero in Mexico. Juarez, a dictator, had managed so to embroil himself with foreign governments that fleets of foreign warships were sent to Mexico. Then followed the French invasion in 1862. Diaz was the great hero of the defense. While Juarez was raising troops in the interior, General Diaz pitted his raw men against the trained veterans of France and won a great victory. He was finally overthrown, however, and taken captive.

He refused a parole and made his escape, so that in 1863, when the French after capturing the City of Mexico, proclaimed as emperor the Archduke Maximilian of Austria, General Diaz was able to take the field and reorganize the army of Mexico, of which he soon became commander-in-chief.

He was captured in 1865 by Marshal Bazaine while in a conference held under a flag of truce. Bazaine urged Maximilian to shoot General Diaz, saying that he was the most dangerous enemy the imperial cause had, but the emperor tried bribery instead. General Diaz could not be won by either threats or bribes, and finally made his escape. For months afterward he kept up a constant guerilla warfare against the French.

After the capture and shooting of Maximilian, in 1867, General Diaz was nominated for the presidency by the progressive liberals against Juarez. He was defeated, and his partisans raised the cry of fraud. General Diaz was himself convinced that he had been cheated, and from that time on there was the bitterest enmity between him and his old friend Juarez. In 1871 Juarez again defeated Diaz for the presidency, but soon afterward died, his office falling to Lesdo, his statutory successor.

General Diaz was an uncompromising opponent of Lesdo and in 1875 he raised the standard of rebellion. He was captured, kept prisoner aboard a warship, but managed to escape by jumping overboard. Later he was again captured, but again made his escape and went to Oaxaca, where he raised an army of 4,000 men. With this small force he advanced against the capital. On the way he was rapidly reinforced and the city capitulated to him on November 23, 1876. Five days later he assumed the provisional presidency, the people enthusiastically supporting him, and in April of the following year was elected constitutional president.

Ruled With a Strong Hand.

He has ruled with a strong hand since, accumulating a vast fortune and power that was never seriously questioned until the Madero rising.

On the whole General Diaz commended himself to his countrymen as an able and useful executive. He established peace after a century of chaos. He re-established his country financially and was behind every progressive movement. In five years he doubled the national revenues, without working hardships on individuals or interests. He reorganized the army and wiped out brigandage.

President Diaz made many enemies as he went along. The gradual crystalizing of the sentiment against him, was obvious to others but not to him. At first he laughed at the Madero rising, and those who know him do not believe that anything less than the most tremendous pressure could have brought him to make the slightest concession to his enemies.

He was twice married. His first wife, the mother of his three children, died during the Maximilian empire. He married his second wife in 1883. She was Senorita Carmen Romero Rubio, the daughter of one of his old antagonists.

Although the political campaign brought to light much dissatisfaction with his continued rule, the disturbances which culminated in the recent insurrection did not arise until after his opponents found themselves beaten at the polls. Francisco I. Madero, member of one of Mexico's wealthiest families, was candidate for the presidency against President Diaz, the principal plank of his platform being anti-re-election.

In November, 1910, General Madero was convicted of inciting the people to rebellion and put in jail. He escaped into Texas and called upon his followers to join in a general revolt on November 20. Already there had been scattered disturbances throughout the republic, but the insurrection took its first definite form on this date. The Maderists issued a manifesto in which they declared that the recent election had been enforced at the point of the bayonet, charged President Diaz with responsibility for the uprising and declared his election null and void.

The principle of non-re-election was said to be the supreme law of the republic, and President Diaz was declared a usurper. This manifesto was dated October 5 and was circulated privately for more than a month before it became public. On November 23 General Madero proclaimed himself provisional president of Mexico, and he was formally inaugurated on his own estate at Coahuila on December 1, the same day that President Diaz began his eighth term.

The recent resignation and final passing of President Diaz was one of the most dramatic events in the late history of Mexico.

CONSTRUCTION OF LOCKS ORDERED

SECRETARY OF WAR DIRECTS OFFICE TO CALL FOR BIDS QUICKLY.

Action Brings to Successful Termination Struggle of Twenty Years for Canal Between Puget Sound and Lake Washington at Seattle.

Washington, July 1.—Secretary of War Stimson has directed the engineering department of his office to call for bids for the construction of the Lake Washington canal locks, to cost $2,275,000, at the earliest possible date.

This action of the secretary of war brings to a successful conclusion the fight which has been carried on for more than twenty years to assure construction of a canal system between Puget Sound and Lake Washington, at Seattle, and which at all times has been quite as bitterly opposed as it was championed.

All Conditions Met.

The statement given out at the war department is as follows:

"In the matter of the Lake Washington and Puget Sound canal the secretary of war has decided that King county has complied with al lthe conditions imposed by the act of appropriations and has therefore directed that the federal appropiration be released and that the engineering department enter at once upon the work, making the necessary contracts incident thereto."

His report is a lengthy one, dealing with all objections made against the prosecution of this work, and announcing his conclusions separately upon each of the objections. He considers that congress has set its definite seal of approval upon the work and treats the matter as requiring only his decision as to whether the conditions imposed by the act of appropriations have been complied with.

Decision Long Pending.

The decision disposes of a matter which has been pending in one form or another since the initial legislation relating to the project of a ship canal connecting the waters of Puget Sound with Lake Washington by the act of September 19, 1890. It is believed it will not take more than three months to get the plans and specifications into condition and sufficiently advanced to call for bids for actual lock construction. There is nearly $200,000 on hand with which to push the preliminary work, and it is believed that no trouble will be experienced in getting an allotment of at least $1,000,000 from the next congress.

EXPLANATION IS ASKED OF STEAMBOAT CHARGES

Olympia, July 1.—On July 7 fifty-six steamboat owners and thirty-four warehouse companies will be represented in Olympia to explain to the public service commission why they should be allowed to have in their tariff schedules a provision which enables them to accept shipments and fix rates either by weight or by measurement.

The commission issued a complaint challenging the reasonableness of such a provision and has cited the owners and chairmen to appear and explain it.

On that day also a dozen or more small steamboat owners who have no fixed routes or schedule of prices will be on hand for a hearing on their petition that they be excused from filing schedules.

RUMORED CANADIAN PACIFIC WILL ABSORB ERIE LINE

Winnipeg, Man., July 1.—A long conference was held at the Canadian Pacific Railway headquarters between Sir William Whyte, vice president in charge of western lines of the Canadian Pacific, and J. C. Stuart, vice president and general manager of the Erie Railroad.

The trip of the general manager of the Erie over the line of the Canadian Pacific, and his conference with Sir William Whyte in this city, has strengthened rumors that the American road will be obsorbed by the transcontinental system of Canada.

The control of the Erie would give the Canadian Pacific an immediate connection with New York city.

Seattle, July 1.—The state railway commission at Olympia having announced its intention of raising the rates charged by the Independent Telephone Company of Seattle, Corporation Counsel Scott Calhoun stated his intention of appealing from the order, when it is issued, to the supreme court. The commission, if it adopts the ideas of its rate expert, Charles W. Reynolds, as it has indicated it will do, will make a substantial increase in the local telephone rates.

New Japan Naval Base.

Victoria, B. C., July 1.—The steamer Panama Maru brought news that Japan will create a new naval base at the Bonin islands, far out in the Pacific.

STATE COLLEGE RECOMMENDS SPRAY TO KILL DANDELIONS

State College, Pullman, July 1.—Amopg weeds the common dandelion, which is the ruination of so many bluegrass lawns, is receiving bounteous attention at the present time in the correspondence of the staff of the Washington state experiment station at Pullman.

Taking up the problem, so serious to persons who are ambitious to have a well-kept lawn, Prof. Beattie says:

Plant Is Very Hardy.

"This is a very difficult plant to eradicate. It perpetuates itself by a large, fleshy root, which is difficult to kill, and this must be removed before one can get rid of the plants. A very common method is to dig out as much of the root as possible with a long, heavy knife, or with a tool called a 'spud,' and then put a few drops of coal oil on the cut surface of the roots. In many cases the coal oil kills that part of the root which remains. It is, however, not perfectly successful.

"Some persons have tried sulphuric acid on the roots. This is a difficult thing to handle, for it is very injurious to the hands. It usually kills the dandelion roots, but in some cases they escape.

Spraying Effective in End.

"More recently a good many have tried spraying for dandelions. The method used is to make a solution of iron sulphate, two pounds to one gallon of water. Apply this to the lawn with a spray pump so that it will make a fine mist. Some put half an ounce of sulphuric acid in each gallon of the spray.

"In any event, all that the spray can do is to kill the tops. If, however, one should begin in the spring and kill the tops with the spray, and then repeat the process as often as new ones appear, one ought in time to get rid of the roots by starving them out.

"This spray does little or no injury to lawn grass and clover. It sometimes blackens the edges of the leaves a little, but the damage is never serious. From the standpoint of cheapness and ease of application at least, this is probably the best method of fighting the dandelion."

WOMEN'S CLUB FEDERATION FINISHES WORK AT OLYMPIA

Olympia, July 1.—Before adjourning, the fifteenth annual convention of the Washington Federation of Women's Clubs in Olympia yesterday voted to allow the clubs of Alaska full membership in the Washington organization. This was done after a speech delivered by Isabel Ambler Gilman, LL. B., of Petersburg, Alaska, who is a member of the bar of Washington and Alaska. She organized the Pioneer Department Club of the North, which works along educational lines, for household economics and for the study of current events. She received a most enthusiastic reception.

Tacoma Gets Convention.

The convention named Tacoma as the place for the next annual gathering and adopted resolutions which call for the establishment by the federation of a standing legislative committee of women to look after measures pending before the legislature; the enactment of a low providing for the payment of a small sum to prisoners in the state institutions, which money is to be used for the support of the families of the married inmates or given to the single inmates upon their release; urging the passage of a law creating a state board of visitors for the various institutions upon which are to be two women who will devote particular attention to the places where females are detained, and a resolution demanding that the legislature segregate the sexes at the state training school at Chehalis.

The convention was voted to be the most successful ever held in the history of women's clubs. More than 200 delegates were present, which was the largest number ever assembled and they represented 144 clubs with a membership of more than 4,000.

MEDICAL MEN ELECT DR. JACOBI PRESIDENT

Los Angeles, July 1.—Dr. Abraham Jacobi of New York was elected president of the American Medical Association. Dr. Jarvis Barlow of Los Angeles was chosen first vice president. The two others are Dr. F. M. McRae of Atlanta, Ga., and Dr. W. R. Tipton of Las Vegas, N. M.

Dr. Alexander Craig of Chicago was elected secretary, and Drs. Philip M. Jones, San Francisco; W. E. Sarles, Sparta, Wis., and Philip Marvel, Atlantic City, trustees.

Atlantic City was chosen for the 1912 session of the association.

Dr. Jacobi is 85 years old. He has not been in attendance at the convention of the association and in electing him the organization paid him an unprecedented honor, as it never before has chosen an absentee for office.

The new president, who will succeed Dr. John B. Murphy at the installation exercises of the 1912 convention, is known throughout the medical world as an eminent specialist in children's diseases. He took part in the German revolution of 1848, and with the late Carl Schurz came to the United States an exile.

Archbishop Denounces Socialism.

Chicago, July 1.—Socialism was condemned as a heresy and an evil and all Catholics were warned against it by Archbishop Messmer of Milwaukee, who was one of the central figures in the proceedings of the Catholic Educational Congress in session here.

Raise Mink in Captivity

William C. Gates Claims Success in Undertaking Hitherto Declared Not to Be Possible

Successfully raising mink in captivity, a feat that so far has baffled the foremost experts in the employ of the federal government and scores of others attracted to the industry by the enormous profits or for scientific reasons, has been accomplished by William C. Gates, formerly a carpenter, who abandoned that calling in January, 1910, to devote his entire attention to a fur farm in the forest wilds on the north fork of the Coeur d'Alene river in northern Idaho, about 100 miles east of Spokane.

Gates' fur farm consists of a small tract of timbered land on a hill, where he has cages of sheet iron and wire netting. The iron is used to prevent burrowing. Eventually, when he raises enough capital, Gates hopes to take a claim on the river and increase the capacity of his ranch. With this incerased space he estimates he can raise from 4,000 to 5,000 animals a year.

"So-called authorities will tell you that mink cannot be raised under the protection of captivity," Gates said, as he exhibited nineteen healthy, full-grown mink and four litters of domesticated mink kittens; "but because some college-bred men failed to raise them in a university park is no reason for saying the thing is impossible. After passing eighteen months in the forests it is no more difficult for me to raise mink than it is for a Spokane county orchardist to grow first-class commercial apples or a farmer to raise prize pigs."

Mink fur is expensive, the material for milady's full coat costing a small fortune. There has been a steady increase yearly in the price of pelts, until today they are worth, made up, from $25 to $50 each, while at the fur house the skins bring from $3 to $10 each, according to size, color and primeness. Dark fur is in demand.

Gates is not the first to be attracted by these profits. Scores have tried the same experiment, but always unsucessfully. Brought into captivity, the mink, naturally one of the wildest of animals, invariably commits suicide. They jump at the walls of their cage until they fall dead. This was Gates' early experience. The first thirty-eight mink he attempted to keep lived only a few days. Profiting by the study of a year spent in the forests among animals, he discovered a means of overcoming inherent animal wildness. Now his domesticated mink run around their cages like squirrels and care for their young as tenderly as a cat raises her kittens.

During the spring of 1910 and the following summer he camped along the stream, baiting mink to a central feeding ground and studying their habits. By feeding fresh fish regularly he was able after weeks of quiet watching to get close to the wild little creatures and to closely observe their natural instincts.

In the early fall he set the first traps, but failed to keep the mink he caught. Thereupon he resumed his study until November, when he caught twenty mink in the traps. He carried them to his farm and until one escaped recently he had the entire number as a reward for his patience.

"Knowledge as to mink raising is not a commercial commodity," Gates resumed, after saying that he now is planning for the time when the output of his farm will be from 4,000 to 5,000 mink a year. "If you want to know the secrets of mink raising," he added, "you must live with the mink. Right here I might say, too, that I would rather have the advice of an old trapper than the fine-spun theories of a university professor.

"I have faith in the business, because our natural fur-bearers are fast becoming extinct. A few years ago a mink hide brought less than $1. They were plentiful then. Now the only way to procure these pelts in numbers is to raise the mink as a farmer grows live stock. The books will tell you this can't be done, but I know better and I have the proof.

"The problem of profits now is simply a question of the cost of production and the price paid for the skins. I estimate that it costs one cent a day to raise a mink on a meat diet. These wild-born mink will have no other, but I believe I can train the young ones to drink milk. A late spring or early summer kitten has a good hide the next March. That means a cost of from $2.50 to $3, and the hide will bring from $3 to $10.

"By raising mink in numbers one can cull out the light stock and breed the dark, getting the best colors. Under home feeding you can beat the wild animal for size, and when you have the mink right under your hand you can take the hide when it is absolutely prime. The pelt from a 10-months old mink, reasonably dark and prime, is worth $8 or $9 at the fur house.

"A fur farmer, operating on a large scale, could eliminate much of the long string of profits between the trapper and the wearer. When I am raising hides for market and can select sizes and shades to match, I can then tan and make them up and get the retail profit. People are willing to pay more for fur they know is mink than they will for a doubtful article, which frequently proves to be an imitation.

"Even with my present expensive method I can make a profit. On a larger scale I could cut the present cost down fully 50 per cent. A milk and meat diet would be cheaper and better than all meat. I can teach the kittens to drink milk, and they will grow sleek and fat. I intend to stay in the business. As I get capital I shall enlarge the plant and make a fortune."

BITTER CONTEST SCHEDULED FOR TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION

Chicago, July 3.—One of the most bitter contests in the history of the National Educational Association, and which, if successful, will revolutionize the big teachers' organization, is scheduled for the San Francisco convention, which opens Saturday.

It will be a fight against the "old order," led by the combined forces of the teachers of Illinois and New York. It will be a test of strength between the "old guard" and the "insurgents," which has been quietly planned for a year.

The gage of battle was thrown down yesterday, when the plans of the teachers of Chicago and Illinois for attending the convention were announced. The vanguard of the Illinois delegation will leave for San Francisco next Sunday night on a special train. As a part of the train two special coaches bearing the first delegation of the New York teachers, allies in the proposed fight, will make the trip.

The main issue and the one which is expected to bring up the most strenuous opposition is the proposal to abolish the national council. It is vested with the power of recommending appropriations and fixing the expenditure of funds.

Under the present by-laws the body elects its own members, the majority choosing the successors of the minority which retires every year. The so-called insurgents charge that the counci lhas fought against progressive methods in the association.

Vote to Move Seattle Civic Center.

Seattle, July 3.—The municipal plans commission has adopted the plan advocated by Virgil Bogue to locate the permanent civic center at Fourth avenue and Blanchard street. The amendment proposed by President Max Wardall of the city council and County Commissioner A. L. Rutherford to place the center at Yesler way on the property owned by the county was rejected by the commission.

Postmasters Get Week Off.

Snohomish, July 1.—Postmaster Blackman has been notified that second and third class postmasters of Washington have been granted a seven days' vacation, to attend the convention of the Northwestern Postmasters' Association in Wenatchee, September 18 and 19.

WRONG PRACTICE BY COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

Colfax, July 1.—Reports from the attorney general's office in Olympia are to the effect that the Whitman county commissioners are in bad for returning and canceling taxes.

The attorney general states that commissioners who cancel and refund taxes and county treasurers who paid out money on these illegal orders will find themselves liable for the amounts refunded.

The largest refund noted in the Whitman county commissioners' report is one of $2,644 to B. F. Bowerman of Rosalia, for taxes paid in 1909 on lots in an addition to Rosalia. The commissioners discovered that the property was outside the city limits and refunded the taxes under the usual custom.

The attorney general states that the only legal way is to have the overcharged taxpayer bring suit against the county and have a decree entered in the superior court.

Regarding the board's custom, Commissioner Sam Ellis said:

"We shall be glad to comply with the ruling and have the taxpayers bring suit, saving us the adjustment of such overcharges. We supposed we were adjusting them under the law. Many other counties have fallen for the same error."

Several refunds have been made during the last month.

HYDROGRAPHIC OFFICE ISSUES COMPLETE MAP

Washington, July 1.—Probably the most complete and comprehensive map of steamship routes ever made has just been completed by the hydrographic office of the navy department. Showing practically every known track for full-powered steam vessels, the map is a veritable encyclopedia of information for the navigator. A similar, though less comprehensive map, was issued in 1907. There will hardly be another until the time comes for revising ocean routes upon the opening of the Panama canal.

Orozco to Be Candidate.

Juarez, Mexico, July 1.—Dispatches received from Chihuahua state that Gen. Pascual Orozco will become a candidate for governor of that state against Provisional Governor Abram Gonzales.

ORIENTAL DEMAND FOR APPLES YET LIMITED

The first reports of trade conditions and possibilities in the Far East to be made by Lovett M. Wood, of Seattle, United States commercial agent, now traveling in the Orient, have just commenced to apepar in the Daily tomobile situation in Formosa and the Consular and Trade Reports, a government publication. A recent issue contained a brief summary of the auapple situation in Hongkong. In discussing the merits of Washington and Oregon apples Mr. Wood in his report said:

"The excellence of the Oregon and Washington apples is well known in Hongkong and other parts of Southern China. This is to a considerable extent due to the holiday gifts started by James J. Hill, Moritz Thomsen and others who have important commercial connections here.

Demand Liimted.

"Apple growers must not, however, get a wrong impression. Much as the fine fruit is appreciated here, the price, at such a distance from the shipper, places the apple beyond the purse of the Chinese people, and 100 boxes of Spitzenbergs would glut the Hongkong market and the appetites of the Europeans here able to pay the price that good, fresh, well-kept fruit commands. Australia sends some apples here, but those I have tasted are lacking in the fruit bouquet found in the apples grown in the United States."

Automobiles in Formosa.

Mr. Wood made the following report of the automobile trade:

"I am told that the government officials of Formosa, located at Taipeh, may soon consider the purchase of one or more automobiles to replace the coach and horses, which are quite a novelty in that city, where there are only six carriage and saddle horses besides the fifty used by the military. The streets are well made and can accommodate automobiles in most cases, and are being improved each year.

"Manufacturers of automobiles can afford to watch for opportunities to sell in all Far Eastern ports and cities where there are European colonies, as such communities, so far as I have learned, have sufficiently wide, well-macadamized or paved streets of reasonable extent to justify the upkeep of automobiles, by those at least who desire them for pleasure and can afford them."

SENATE AGREES TO HOUSE REAPPORTIONMENT BILL

Washington, July 1.—The senate committee on census has agreed to report the congressional reapportionment bill without amendment, providing for 433 representatives, notwithstanding all the committee members had expressed themselves as opposed to the increased representation.

The bill provides for forty-two representatives over the present number, and was framed so as to prevent a decrease of the membership from any state. Three of the ten members present—Senators La Follette, Dupont and McLean—voted in the negative, but while expressing disapproval of the increase the other seven decided to allow the house to have its way in a matter so particularly pertaining to its own affairs.

The report will be withheld for a week to give Mr. La Follette time to prepare a minority report, which will be presented by Senator Bailey.

Strathcona Soon to Resign.

London, July 1.—Two important announcements were made at the Dominion Day dinner, which was attended by 600 Canadians. The first was by the Duke of Connaught, who said that the Prince of Wales probably soon would visit Canada, and the other by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Canadian premier, who said Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, high commissioner for Canada, was about to resign his high office. The high commissioner is 91 years old.

Washington, July 1.—As the result of an inquiry made on its own initiative, the interstate commerce commission, in a formal opinion, held that only carriers subject to the commerce act can arrange for interstate shipments of freight. The opinion relates to what are known as "trans-shipment tariffs" between rail and water carriers, which long have been a source of trouble.

Postal Bank Postponed.

Snohomish, July 1.—Postmaster A. M. Blackman has received notice that, pursuant to his request, the starting of the postal savings department of the Snohomish postoffice has been postponed until September 18, by which time the new postoffice will be far enough along to enable him to move in.

Taft Releases Lands.

Washington, July 3.—Approximately 600,000 acres of land have been opened to settlers under the registration plan through a proclamation signed by Persident Taft, 150,000 acres being within the Fort Berthold Indian reservation of North Dakota, and 450,000 in the Pine Ridge and Rosebud Indian reservations in South Dakota.

Advance in Grain Rates.

Chicago, July 1.—Effective July 15, grain rates and rates on grain products from stations in the Dakotas will be advanced, the rise ranging from half a cent to 2 cents per 100 pounds. These rates are the ones proposed by all lines a year ago, but suspended by the interstate commerce commission.

TO MAKE GOOD CAKE

SOME RULES THAT SIMPLY MUST BE OBSERVED.

Proper Temperature of Oven One of the Most Important Points—Different Confections Require Varying Degrees of Heat.

First attention should be given to the oven, making sure that the fire is not too hot, and will remain even until the baking is done. Unless you have control of your fire do not attempt to bake cake.

Loaf cake requires less heat than thin cakes. If the oven is too hot at first or is suddenly cooled while the cake is baking the cake will be heavy. Loaf cake should bake as long again as thin cake. Divide the time of baking into quarters. The first quarter should show a rising, with the edges higher than the center; the second a continued even rising, with a slight brown tint; the third a deeper brown, and the last a shrinking and settling. If your cake rises and cracks in the center you are using too much flour; when it browns before rising, the oven is too hot.

How to Put Butter Cake Mixture Together—Cream the butter with hand or a large spoon, add sugar and cream again until very light. When the proportion of butter is small it may be put in with the eggs and sugar. Beat the yolks until light yellow, add to butter and sugar and beat again. Add flavoring and then a little milk, then a little flour, a little milk again, and so on until the milk and flour are all used, and beat vigorously until your mixture is smooth. Add lastly the beaten whites. Fruit should be added last, and fruit cake mixtures should be a little stiffer with flour.

Sponge Cake Mixtures—Beat the yolks until they are a light yellow and creamy and slowly beat in the sugar. Add flavoring and liquid and beat again. Beat the whites until stiff and fold it without beating. Add flour lastly with as little stirring as possible, as it makes the cake tough. Always follow these directions and cake failures will never be known.

Turpentine will remove tar from any kind of fabric.

To remove iron rust from white goods moisten spot, cover with cream of tartar, put in a basin of water, simmer gently for an hour. Rinse and dry.

To clean linoleum, place some fresh skim milk in a basin, and with a clean cloth dipped in the milk wipe over the floor, and the linoleum will look as good as new.

To effectually clean a dirty bottle, half fill the bottle with slack coal, add just enough water to cover, and shake vigorously. Then empty out, and rinse in several waters.

Sweep your carpets thoroughly to remove all dust and dirt. After an hour slightly dampen a broom, and again sweep over the whole surface. In this way an old carpet will look clean and fresh, however faded it may be.

Glass is an ideal shelfing for a kitchen closet, as it can be kept clean so easily. If this is too costly paint the shelves white and give a coat of enamel. This is easily scrubbed, and does away with the necessity of papers.

The walls of a kitchen quickly look dingy and for this reason should be painted or have a washable paper. When gray with soot dust with a soft brush covered with cheesecloth, then wipe with a cloth wet in cold water. Hot water has a yellowish effect.

Strawberry Puffs.

Cream puffs and eclairs, filled with crushed and sweetened strawberries instead of the usual cream, are delicious. Into a granite saucepan put one cup of water or milk, one-half cup butter (scant measure) and boil. Then add one cup flour, stirring continually, and cook two minutes By this time it should be smooth and velvety. Remove from fire and, when cool, beat in four eggs, one at a time. Beat ten to twenty minutes, then drop by spoonfuls upon buttered tins and bake in a hot oven for 20 minutes. While still warm coat with strawberry icing made by adding strawwberry juice to a cup of powdered or confectioner's sugar to make a fine icing. When cold cut open and fill with crushed and sweetened strawberries.

An Expert in Pepper.

Fashion is fickle in table service as well as in other things. The dinner table of today is not what it was a few years ago.

Odd little novelties for the table have crept in recently. One of the newest is small cruet frames for each guest, and of different kinds. Cayenne, Nepaul, Aji (from Peru), Hungarian, paprika and Chile powder are used so that each guest may flavor his food to his taste. The really up-to-date person nowadays pretends to be an expert in pepper.

Molasses Cookies.

Two and one-half cups sugar; two cups molasses, one tablespoon ginger, one tablespoon cloves, one tablespoon cinnamon. Let this come to a boil. When cool stir in four eggs and one tablespoon soda, and flour enough to roll out next day. Moderate oven.

Dr. Howard, of Lauceston, Tasmania, a partner of Dr. Ray McClinton, spent the early week in the city the guest of Judge and Mrs. Jas. G. McClinton. The doctor is to spend the Tasmanian winter in San Francisco with his people. He reports Dr. McClinton prosperous and in good health, and Mrs. McClinton, who was Miss Edith Cook, also formerly of this city, as enjoying immensely her sojourn in the far away British land.

The Mackie mill at Gettysburg has been in operation for about ten days and cutting a hundred thousand shingles a day. About a million shingles are now in the dry kiln and will be towed up sound for shipment east over the Milwaukee. Mr. Mackie may decide to take his shingles to Victoria for shipment. The distance is 24 miles across the straits; the price for shingles is higher at Victoria at present than the price at Seattle; there is no duty to be paid on shingles and the freight rates are no higher from Victoria than from the other terminal points on the sound. The Mackie mill employs about thirty men in the mill and woods and the industry is a substantial and permanent addition to the mill business of Clallam county.—Sequim Press.

D. K. CRITCHFIELD

D. K. Critchfield passed away June 27, 1911, after a lingering illness, aged nearly 71 years.

Mr. Critchfield was born in Knox county, Ohio, Sept. 15, 1840, and was married to Liddie D. Brown June 3, 1862, at Defiance, Ohio, whom he survived by twenty years.

At the breaking out of the War of the Rebellion he enlisted in the cause of his country and served faithfully during the war as a member of the 21st Ohio Regiment. His later years were spent with a son in Wisconsin and with his sons Al. and Grant of this place.

Four sons and one daughter survive him: William, of Hawkins, Wis.; John, of Rockbridge, N. Y.; G. W. and H. A., of Port Angeles, and Mrs. Mary Poole, of Rockbridge.

Funeral services were held on Thursday, June 29, conducted by Rev. Stephen Smith of the First Congregational church, who spoke from the text: "For me to live in Christ, to die is gain." He died in the Christian faith, a devout Methodist, and the theme of the speaker was rest—home—reunion.

A large concourse of neighbors and friends attended the last sad rites, attesting to the esteem in which the deceased was held. The flowers were both beautiful and abundant.

THE FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS

Mrs. Blanche Mason of Tacoma, state inspector of industrial conditions in Washington, gave a most excellent address along these lines, which made a great impression upon all who heard her, and it is hoped she will visit Angeles in the near future.

The subject of picture shows was fully discussed and an effort is being made to have censors appointed to pass upon all pictures before they are given to the public. In many cities the women are also waging war against the coarse, vulgar post cards which are so demoralizing to the youth of our land.

The President's address was given Wednesday afternoon and was one of the most enjoyable features of the convention. It was filled with interesting information and excellent ideas. After reviewing the history of the Federation and the individual clubs, telling how they were organized for the purpose primarily of self-culture, and how they saw the existence of many wrong conditions and have interested themselves in many reforms, Miss Moore named the following as some of the reforms instituted by the clubs:

"Food sanitation, cleaner and more beautiful towns, libraries for the benefit of the public, correct weights and measures, the planting of trees and flowers, public playgrounds, juvenile courts, eight hours of labor for women, better school houses, police matrons, child labor, the care of the unfortunate inmates of the state institutions, the preservation of all landmarks, the popular use of natural resources, the elevating influence of good music and fine pictures, the scholarship loan fund, domestic science and manual training in the public school, public health, and still the circle widens. Each year sees the need of work in a new direction, and the club women respond, giving freely of time and strength.

"Today the leading problems that confront us seem to be home economics and interests, civics, and the child question in its many forms."

The history of the gavel and the box in which it and the Federation seal are kept was very interesting as told by Miss Moore. The box was made and carved by Miss Axtell of Bellingham for Mrs. Ella Higginson, who presented it to the Federation. The gavel is designed to represent an apple on a branch and was made from an apple tree planted by Marcus Whitman. It was presented to the Federation by the pioneer club of Spokane, "The Sorosis." This club was represented at Olympia by Mrs. Harris Baldwin, who is also the club's press correspondent and a very interesting woman.

Especially beautiful musical numbers were furnished at each session, representing the best musical talent of the state, including the St. Cecelia Club of Tacoma. We were also favored with a lecture by Charles Bethune on "Reminiscenses of a Musician's Life." It was a rare treat to hear so polished "a gentleman of the old school," who has been intimately associated with many of the world's greatest musicians.

The most brilliant social event of the convention was the reception at the governor's mansion, on Tuesday evening, tendered by the Governor and Mrs. Marion E. Hay, to the women of the Federation, their hosts and hostesses. It was a most delightful evening, the memory of which will linger long with all who attended. The mansion is a magnificent structure, and its host and hostess most hospitable and kindly; they have endeared themselves to everyone in Olympia.

Wednesday evening we were given a splendid program at the church. Rev. G. H. Groom of Tacoma gave a most interesting address on "State Institutions." He is a young man of ability and great force of character. A stereoptican lecture on "American Painting," by Miss Harriet Shaw of Seattle, chairman of the Art Committee, was listened to with pleasure and profit.

A picnic supper at the Club House on Thursday evening, given by the Commercial Club and business men of Olympia, was one of those informal jolly affairs which one can never forget. The Club House was artistically decorated and the dining tables presented a most attractive and inviting appearance. The bill-of-fare included everything good and was served by the gentlemen themselves, including the Governor and Mayor, who were the jolliest waiters imaginable. A great deal of merriment was caused when the Chief of Police entered and arrested the Governor for accepting tips. The Prosecuting Attorney appeared upon the scene and the Governor was tried for this serious offense. Music and dancing in the spacious ball room afforded further amusement and a vote of thanks was given the gentlemen for the splendid entertainment.

At the closing session of the Federation, each guest, upon leaving the church, was presented with a bouquet of beautiful roses, and as the boat pulled out from the dock we were also given a rose shower, reminding us of those pretty lines sung at the Federation,

"It is not raining rain to me,
But raining roses down."

The next annual Federation will be held in Tacoma and the newly elected officers are:

President, Mrs. R. C. McCredie, Sunnyside.

Corresponding Secretary, Miss Bessie Windsor, Seattle.

Treasurer, Mrs. Jones, Walla Walla.

MRS. JESSIE WEBSTER,
Delegate from Saturday Reading Club.

In the Superior Court of the State of Washington, for the County of Clallam.
In the Matter of the Estate of Malinda Davis, deceased.

Notice is hereby given to the creditors of Malinda Davis, deceased, and of the community composed of said Malinda Davis and J. B. Davis, her husband, both now deceased, and to all persons having claims against said Malinda Davis, deceased, or against said community, that said creditors and all persons having such claims are required to present their claims, with the necessary vouchers, within one year after the date of this notice (the date of this notice being the date of the first publication hereof) to the undersigned, administrator with the will annexed of the estate of said Malinda Davis, deceased, at the residence of the undersigned in the City of Port Angeles, in said Clallam County, Washington.
