DOINGS OF THE CITY COUNCIL

$2400 ALREADY EXPENDED ON EIGHTH STREET BRIDGES $1920 ORDERED PAID

City Will Retain Lincoln Street for Municipal Wharf. Proposed to Tax Realty Dealers $50.

Another most interesting session of the City Council was held Tuesday night and considerable business was transacted.

The ordinance regulating building within certain fire limits and which practically says that no building shall be erected hereafter within said district with any woodwork along sides or roof was found too drastic for some, and it was referred back to the committee for further report.

Lincoln Street for a Municipal Dock.

Applications of H. C. Peet and Dr. Crouter and others for wharf privileges at the foot of Lincoln street were taken up and upon ordinances being placed on final passage, same were denied and deposit of petitioners ordered returned. It seems to be the desire of the council to keep this street for a municipal dock if found advisable.

Vacation of Railroad Avenue Along Earles Mill Site Adjusted.

The council then took up the matter of vacating Railroad avenue in front of tracts D, E, and F, and alley in fractional blocks 133 and 134, and H and I streets north of Railroad avenue. Attorney Trumbull and Michael Earles appeared before council and during a short recess agreed that the deed to the strip south of tracts D, E and F and across K street would be signed at once by Mr. Earles. Mr. Earles also stated that he presumed that in the condemnation of a street and the improvement of the same he would be required to pay a substantial sum. The ordinance vacating the streets named was then called up and upon motion of, Mr. Dustman was placed upon its final passage, the mayor not to sign said ordinance until the deed to the strip named be signed and delivered.

Request of Wm. Buell for privilege of erecting a lunch counter at sw corner of Front and Oak was rejected.

Upon petition of property owners, T. T. Aldwell & Co., Peter Grubb was ordered notified to have band stand at Oak and Front removed.

$1920 Allowed on Bridge Contracts.

City Engineer's estimate of materials on grounds for building of Eighth street bridge at Tumwater, $2400, claim was allowed at 80 per cent or $1920.00. Contract requires an estimate and payment every 30 days.

Ordinance fixing street grades on First and Front streets as per report of Engineer Barkhoff were read and referred to committees.

Sidewalk to I.O.O.F. Hall.

Petitionof I.O.O.F. for walk on First street taken up. It was shown that petition contained names of 16 of 20 owners. Moved by Fisher that notice be sent to owners in said district.

City engineer directed to get out necessary data to enable Mr. Barkhoff to establish grades south of Second, and that upon call of engineer clerk send for Mr. Barkhoff.

Resignation of E. T. Schroeder to take effect March 1st was accepted.

Resolution for Eighth street assessment district for building of bridges was read and clerk directed to give notice as provided by law. Hearing March 4th.

Seawall Resolution Referred Back to Committee.

Resolution of intention to create an assessment district for Railroad avenue seawall upon plans and specifications to be prepared by engineer along lines drafted last week, was read. Mr. Elliott thought the ratio should be changed, stating that in committee it was agreed that 50 per cent of cost would be assessed against tide or water lands, but report comes in 40 per cent. He thot a more equal distribution could be had. Myers did not know about agreement but thought 50 per cent should go against the first district, and that third zone should be pushed back to about 10th street. The whole matter was referred back to the committee.

Dr. Lewis' memorial to President Taft to have action on reserve lands held in abeyance was laid on table.

Proposed to License Realty Dealers.

Myers gave notice that he was going to spring something new and brought a laugh. He moved that the city attorney be directed to bring an ordinance licensing realty dealers at $50 per year for each office. At first the attorney said the action would be legal but on second thought he remembered that the supreme court had decided such to be discrimination. Wilcox wanted to know how they could do it in other cities if not here? Motion was lost on a tie vote, Fisher, Stiles and Elliott voting no.

Obstructions in Saloon Windows Ordered Taken Out.

Then came another set-to on the saloon question. Applications were read from all dealers, and that of Nate McNate taken up first. Everything went lovely until it came time for Mr. Elliott to vote, one having failed to vote and one having voted against, one absent. Mr. Elliott then arose and stated that it seemed to be up to him to put the hole in the doughnut, and he would do it if he got what he wanted. He then sought to suspend the rules to have certain things decided before this vote was taken, and the mayor thot possibly the action was privileged. Mr. Stiles objected, however, and the objection was finally sustained and Mr. Elliott voted no, and Nate's application lost out because it took four votes to get a license. Then Stiles repented, and was willing to do anything. Mr. Elliott repeated his motion and it carried unanimously. He then stated he did not like the heighth of curtains as placed by keepers and moved that no curtains be allowed in any window above three feet from the sidewalk. Carried after some talk. He then called attention to "fenced" up windows and moved that the marshal be directed to notify all keepers that their windows will have to be cleared and other obstructions removed down to 3½ feet. Carried. Mirth then prevailed where war seemed imminent and the licenses took a short cut to granting, and all is settled, let us hope, for some time, on the part of all parties, by the ordinance being strictly lived up to. It is not severe.

FOOT CAUGHT IN HAY PRESS

While feeding a hay press at the ranch of B. J. Sittzer in the Elwha valley Thursday, Willard Johnson of this city had the misfortune of getting his foot caught in the machine and having it severely injured. He was immediately brought to town for medical attendance.

OIL WELL AT FORKS, CLALLAM COUNTY

SIX MACHINES DRILLING FOR OIL

STANDARD AND DUTCH OIL CO. HAVE ACQUIRED ALL LANDS AVAILABLE ON COAST.

Excessive Pressure of Gas Has Caus- Several Drills to Be Suspended. Lands Being Taken Up.

Six drilling machines are boring for oil in the Olympic Peninsula says F. A. Leonard, publisher of the Snohomish Tribune, who has returned from a business trip thru Clallam and Jefferson counties. Leonard makes the statement that the Standard Oil Company, the Indian, or Dutch, Oil Company and various smaller associations have, during the past three years, acquired all lands on the western slope of the Olympics procurable by homestead, purchase or script.

Exorbitant Prices Paid.

Leonard further asserts that in some cases oil-bearing acreage has been purchased at exorbitant prices when the land chanced to be held by settlers. That the Department of the Interior has frustrated the attempt of a big oil company to secure control of the Quinault Indian reservation—known to operators as the center of the western oil belt—is another bit of information

Cloak of Secrecy.

"Efforts of the big companies have been successful," says Leonard, "in keeping the knowledge of the oil boring from the public. Smaller organizations exhibited a similar desire for secrecy. The object in keeping information from the public is explained by the promoters' desire to procure as much land as possible before the rush starts, as it is thot the rush will start when people know such concerns as the Standard are investing money on the peninsula.

Gas Stopped Operations.

"In several wells drillers have been forced to suspend operations because an excessive pressure of gas had been encountered at a depth of 200 feet. In order to overcome this difficulty, heavier machinery is being taken on the peninsula, capable of drilling 2,000 feet. I saw at one point seepage amounting to five gallons per day, petroleum of high grade with asphalt base. I ascertained that a representative of the Standard Oil Company has for three years been quietly prospecting the Olympic peninsula. Until one year ago acreage could be purchased for a song, tho now not an acre is for sale."

The Dutch company mentioned by Editor Leonard has a storage station near Seattle. It is a strong rival of the Standard in the Northwest.

TITLE ABSTRACT COMPANY NEARLY READY

The Title Abstract Co., Messrs. Zent & Crouter, have just completed their work of taking down the records of the auditor's and clerk's offices, finishing up in the clerk's office Monday. The gentlemen have been at work with about a dozen assistants since last November. They will still have considerable office work to get in shape, but have the data well in hand and expect to be ready for abstract work in a few days.

ASKING ADVICE OF STATE EXPERT

ELWHA BRIDGE PLANS TO BE SUBMITTED TO STATE HIGHWAY COMMISSION

Auto Truck, Gas Engine, Dirt Conveyor, Screen and Drags for West End Roads.

By agreement of all parties, road bonds sold to Harris Trust & Savings Bank of Chicago were by assignment of sale transferred to Weil, Roth & Co.

The Board considered plans and specifications of engineer for bridge across the Elwha, and before approving same agreed to submit to State Highway Commission. Commissioner Clark was delegated to proceed to Olympia for the purpose.

Attorney Ritchie was granted $50 for assistance in defending county against claim of Irwin-Hodson Co., of Portland.

Commissioners heard agent of Beall & Co., implement dealers of Portland, and authorized Commissioner Clark to purchase an auto truck, gas engine, dirt elevator, screen and road drags.

Commissioners adjourned to meet next Tuesday when it is expected plans will be ready for approval, and the calling of bids for the proposed Elwha bridge.

$8,000 PAID FOR 25-FT. FRONTAGE

TOP NOTCH TOUCHED IN SALE OF FRONT STREET PROPERTY

A $30,000 Concrete Building, Three Stories, Will Be Built in the Near Future.

The biggest realty sale reported this week was the deal made Thursday by which Al Goldwater becomes sole owner of the 75 feet next to the David Morse corner where the concrete block is going up. He already owned fifty feet and purchased the other twenty-five feet for $8,000 cash. He contemplates putting up a $30,000 concrete building in the near future.

$5,000 was the price paid for the First street lot on which stands the Fulmer photo shop, just across the street from the Aldwell Block, the transfer between T. T. Aldwell & Co. and the Angeles Title Co. being made Tuesday last. While this is a high price, one of the highest yet obtained for business property off Front street, yet with the development of the town, and the near development at that, the location will be right in the center of the business district. We understand it is the intention of the Title Co. to put up a substantial building thereon for use as a permanent home for their own business.

SUNRISE HILL PROGRESSIVE

IMPROVEMENTS BEING MADE IN ALMOST EVERY BLOCK. MANY SUBSTANTIAL BUILDINGS.

Section Merely Typical of City as a Whole, Giving Promise of Real Building Boom to Come.

The standpat spirit is as harmful in the upbuilding of a town as in politics. It means staying at the old home, complacent satisfaction with things as they are, a scorn for anything that is new, a respect for anything that is old, stagnation, "hasbeenery," financial and social decline.

The people of Sunrise, or Cherry, Hill are not standpatters. They believe in improving the city, in improving their homes, and are not waiting for something to turn up, but are going ahead with improvements that spell progressiveness.

A stroll over the "hill" and a little inside information which our good friend Al Swain volunteered, after inquiry, put our reporter onto some of the improvements contemplated in the near future in this corner of our beautiful city, as well as those already under course of construction.

The Robert A. Gilmore fine new bungalow on Third street near Oak, is about ready for the plasterers. This will be one of the most modern in style of architecture of the many new houses in our city; Ben Woods is the contractor and builder.

Ray Haynes and family are moving this week into their large and fine new home corner Laurel and Fourth streets. F. C. Fuhrer was the architect and builder, and that means something correct in the way of a modern house.

A. L. Swain has his bungalow on Tenth street near Oak enclosed. The building is 28x32 on the ground, will have a basement, the sides will be shingled, and it will be an ornament to that sightly part of the city.

Work on the P. J. Woods mansion, corner Oak and Ninth streets, is progressing. Mr. Woods has been a little slow in completing his building, but will have a grand and most convenient home when completed. Sometimes it is best not to rush that which you want exactly to your liking, and Mr. and Mrs. Woods propose to have their new home that way.

Mr. Abell has his new garage completed and his new Ford housed therein.

Charley Miller is putting the finishing touches on his modern bungalow on 11th street, west of Cherry.

John Hitch is contemplating the building of an addition to his home in the near future.

A small cottage is in course of construction on Tenth street, near Lincoln, but we did not learn the owner's name.

Dr. Butler has the new addition to his residence on Oak street enclosed.

Frank LaSalle is building a neat residence on 11th, near Cherry street.

Chris Morganroth is contemplating building on his double lot northeast corner Oak and Eleventh streets. He has a warehouse already up on the rear end of the lots.

The John Duane bungalow corner Ninth and Cherry streets is enclosed and will be a modern structure.

Dr. Hyde is planning for a home on his lots corner Chase and Twelfth streets. Mr. Russell, the Seattle architect, has prepared the plans.

Ira Hall is preparing to build on his lots on Fourteenth street, near Cherry.

E. M. Isbell has his large eight room house enclosed and is now engaged on the inside finishing work. This modern new home is on Chase street, one block south of the Boulevard.

A family by the name of Smith is nicely quartered high and dry in a tent house corner Cherry and Boulevard. A sightly location for a home.

Will Martin has quartered his lots corner Oak and Sixth streets and contemplates the erection at no distant date of three additional houses on the same. This is one of the most desirable locations of the city, with ample room for the four homes.

There are no finer or more desirable building spots in the city than on Sunrise Hill, and its people are sociable and progressive and believe in improvements. But this is only one small section of the city. There is Nob Hill, the East Side, the Baby Ward, Lincoln Heights, Pine Hill, Valley Street and the Mud Flats. Building improvements are going forward in all parts of the city.

NOT YET, BUT VERY SOON

SEVERAL RUMORS CURRENT BUT REAL CONSTRUCTION WORK NOT YET STARTED

Attorneys and Engineers Working Nights Crowding Preliminaries to An Early Finish.

There have been several rumors current this week touching the railroadsituation which seem to be somewhat reliable, but which have not been fully authenticated. One is that thirty men from up sound put off at Port Williams Monday to take up the work of construction in the east end of the county. Another states that the camps, two, have been selected between here and Sequim and that the next few days will see them in operation. Still another that work all along the line will not be begun before the ides of March arrive. Local railroad men will not confirm or deny the rumors, except to say that everything is being crowded along with all the haste possible and that there is absolutely no doubt but that the road will be built within the time specified and commenced very shortly.

This much is known, that the company has its engineers and attorney busy, even to working nights; that all condemnation suits, some 45 in number, have been filed and action begun for right of way, the preliminary cost going into hundreds of dollars. Preparations are now under way for the taking up of all right of way deeds and paying for same at an early date. Sub-contractors J. H. Wilson, Swan Peterson, A. R. Swanson, E. H. Rawle, C. Johnson, and G. Carlson have been over the proposed right of way and have complete data thereon. R. Swanson, said to be a friend of Mr. Erickson's, has leased and taken possession of the Hotel Sinclair at Sequim.

These facts together with the further fact that Engineer Donovan and crew again takes the field next week in the east end of the county for the purpose, it is said, of setting grade stakes for construction work, tends to confirm the rumors of early construction work.

STORE BUILDING FOR PINE HILL

Two Floors Fifty Feet in Width, to Be Located at Approach to 8th Street Bridge.

J. A. Nicholson has let the contract for a double store building on his lots on Eighth street, Pine Hill, adjoining the new Eighth street bridge. The building will be two stories, 50 x 60. The second floors will be finished off for living purposes. Ora Epperson & Sons have the contract for the work. Mr. Nicholson has great faith in the future of Port Angeles, believing it will be but a short time before the Eighth street section will be fully improved.

L. M. CAMPBELL CO. THE NEW FIRM NAME

Howard A. Campbell, who has been taking a course in arts and sciences at the Washington State University, returned to Angeles Wednesday to enter the real estate business with his father L. M. Campbell. Howard is a fine manly young fellow and will be a valuable addition to the realty firm, now to be known as the L. M. Campbell Co., with offices on Front street at the top of the hill.

$100,000 for Exploitation

Large delegations of members of the various commercial organizations of the state last week appeared before the state legislature at Olympia to urge the passage of Victor Zednick's bill providing for the expenditure of $100,000 for the exploitation of the resources of this state, the object being to secure the immigration of desirable citizens to develop the agricultural lands of Washington and help in the movement to settle up the rural districts. Along with this they worked for the bill to open up the logged-off lands to cultivation.

Missed His Calling

The most important movement, politically speaking, ever undertaken in Chehalis county was launched Tuesday when the democratic party of Chehalis county was organized, says the Aberdeen Herald. The plan contemplates the gathering in to the democratic fold of all progressives in the county who favors the old democratic slogan, "Equal rights for all, and special privileges for none," and who will pay membership dues of $2.00 a year, which includes a paid subscription to official organ, Aberdeen Herald. That's a new wrinkle. Who wouldn't publish a democratic paper under such conditions?

Pussy Willow Day

Monday, February 3rd, was Pussy Willow Day for Bremerton, made so by the Bremerton schools and Commercial Club. These first fluffy little barbingers of spring were gathered and used as mute boosters for the Puget sound country by enclosing them with letters telling of the roses that bloom all the winter long in this favored climate of ours. Metaphorically speaking, there are no flies on Bremerton.

J. A. Nicholson returned first of the week from a business visit to Ellensburg. Mr. Nicholson says that the trees in that section of the state hang white with frost nearly every morning. That often sprays of frost an inch long are on the trees.

F. O. Eckstedt of Pearson, deputy horticultural inspector for this district, paid Port Angeles an official visit this week. Mr. Eckstedt is very enthusiastic over the prospects of an abundant fruit crop for Western Washington the coming season.

The first cargo of Washington lumber for the Panama Pacific exposition left Grays Harbor for San Francisco Wednesday of last week. The cargo consisted of 800,000 feet of lumber.

The Department Made No Mistake

The plant introduction gardens of the Department of Agriculture comprise the garden at Miami, Florida, for plants which thrive only below the frost line; the garden near Brooksville, Florida, for the bamboo and other Oriental plants in particular and for plants which will withstand some frost; the garden at Chico, California, for the propagation, on a large scale, of a wide range of material from all over the world; and the upper Mississippi Valley garden at Ames, Iowa, for specially cold-resistant plants.

Florida for hot house gardens, and Iowa for the propagation of specially cold-resistant plants!

Perhaps this explains why so many Iowans are coming to the Pacific coast. And they are coming in ever increasing numbers. Look about you. How many Iowans are living in Port Angeles, think you? They came to escape the rigors of Iowa winters, where specially cold-resistant plants thrive, to seek a more equable climate—not too cold in winter, nor yet too warm in summer—where mercury in the thermometer seldom falls below fifteen above in winter, or rises above eighty-five in summer.

The wonder of it all is that there are left in Iowa willing hands to continue the propagation of the specially cold-resistant plants of the upper Mississippi Valley.

Investigations conducted at the Washington state college show that the immense quantities of clams and other bivalve shells on the bars and bays of Puget sound contain millions of tons of carbonate of lime, to be obtained by crushing these shells. The discovery has resulted in the introduction of a bill in the legislature providing for the establishment of a plant to be owned by the state to mine this lime and deliver it at cost to farmers for a fertilizer.

The season for hunting waterfowl closed February 1st. Dungeness has become noted as a feeding place for ducks, and hunters from all over the Northwest visit that place during the hunting season. It is estimated that fully 20,000 ducks have been bagged at Dungeness since the season opened, October 1st.

ANGELES REALTY CO.

Will Soon Commence a Vigorous Campaign of Publicity.

M. D. Bacon, secretary, and D. J. McCarthy, treasurer, of the Angeles Realty Company, recent purchasers of 362 lots on Lincoln Heights and the tide flats, with Mr. E. Stephens, who invested in some Angeles realty through Harry Peet, were here from Victoria this week. These gentlemen have an abiding faith in the future material prosperity of Port Angeles and were here for the purpose of maturing vigorous plans for a campaign of publicity. They propose to assist in making things hum in a business way and in reaping some of the benefits to be derived therefrom.

Mr. McCarthy is the gentleman who purchased the Garfield Davis home, and expects to bring his family here next week and take up his residence in Port Angeles.

THE STATE LEGISLATURE

If anything like reasonable treatment is given Corkery and Rowland of Pierce their mothers' pension bill will soon have the attention of the house. The bill has been reported out of the judiciary committee unanimously in its favor with slight amendments, recommending that it do pass and it is now before the rules committee.

The bill provides for the payment of not more than $15 per month to mothers for the first child under 15 years of age, and $5 a month for every other child.

Only mothers whose husbands are dead, or inmates of state penal institutions, or in the insane asylum, or who have been abandoned for one year or more, or whose husbands are totally disabled for work, are eligible under act for pensions.

The first real fight in the house of the present session occurred on Monday when the proposition was up for or against the recall of judges to be submitted to the voters at the general election in 1914. In the final vote the measure was defeated 53 to 40, although earlier in the day the vote stood 60 for to 32 against, the Republican organization having been able to whip six members in line against the bill, others dodging by absenting themselves. It required 65 votes to pass the bill, a two-thirds vote. All the Progressives and all the Democrats save one voted yea, as did many liberal Republicans. The session ran overtime, much time being occupied by members explaining why they voted as they did. J. E. Beam, the Clallam county member, voted with the standpatters.

The house got down to good working order again Tuesday morning, passing a dozen bills within an hour.

One of the new bills introduced in the house prohibits the use of conveyances to take electors to the polls at any election.

The bill for Road No. 14 has been reported out of the house committee by a unanimous vote. Senator Collins of Seattle is said to be the only man in the legislature in the way of the bill passing both houses.

Senator Cummins of Iowa proposes to have new congresses convene on the January following the election. This looks very reasonable. It always did seem queer to elect a congressman and then wait nearly a year before they could take their seats.

If our state legislators would work together to make a record for the whole legislature instead of an individual record there would be much more good accomplished.

SUPERIOR COURT CALENDAR

The Superior Court convenes Monday next. The calendar so far made up is as follows:

Travers vs. Lonsberry, for restitution, motion for default on part of defendant.

Seaside Lumber Co. vs. Menz Lumber Co. Confirmation of sale.

Bauman v. Schmitt, foreclosure.

Rodgers v. Dechman, et al, lien for material; hearing petition of Cascade Gas Co. to intervene.

Geo. W. Moore v. E. M. Pound, motion to vacate judgment on deficiency of notice.

A. Kummer v. John Smith, foreclosure on behalf of Kummer minors.

Preliminary hearing on 16 condemnation suits brought some time since will be heard Tuesday, Feb. 11th.

It is also probable that a jury will be called during this month to sit during the second week in March.

MILLINERY ANNOUNCEMENT

The Leader Department Store is pleased to announce to it's customers that hereafter, as soon as the Spring season opens, a complete Millinery Department will be added.

No business is good unless it has good, honest and keen competition. With this view in mind, we are this Spring going to enter the field and be in a position to supply our many customers with some mighty fine looking hats with prices late years not heard of. We have the room, we have the location and last but not least we have the trimmer.

The Leader Department Store will soon celebrate its fourth birthday. Up to this time there have been two or three hat shops every year; for that reason we have kept out of the Millinery business. This year there is only one. This is the opportune time for this store to expand and have a first class up-to-date Millinery Department.

We are satisfied that our customers will welcome and appreciate this announcement. We assure all, that Millinery Goods will be sold as reasonable as all other merchandise that we have heretofore supplied them with.

Mrs. McNeil, who is now in the trimming department of a large wholesale house, will be employed by this store as trimmer and sales lady. Mrs. McNeil having resided here for the past three years, needs no introduction to the millinery trade. She will be better equipped than ever before, as she has the best opportunity this year to see and learn the very latest style in the Millinery Art. Opportunity of advantage is all in her favor.

Ladies' Spring Suits and Coats

Are now on the way from the East. Both will be sold at factory prices as our arrangements are only to receive a traveling man's commission, and the factory carries the stock in our store. This new venture will mean quite a saving to our customers.

Spring Bolt Goods Are Now Arriving

Our selection this year will surpass any preceeding year. Prices on many articles are lower, and as soon as President Wilson hits the tariff bill a good lick, prices will be still lower. Watered stock will be the only individual to get hurt.

HIS RISE TO POWER

By HENRY RUSSELL MILLER,

Author of

"The Man Higher Up"

Copyright, 1911, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

SYNOPSIS

Senator Murchell, leader of the state machine, and Sheehan, local boss of New Chelsea, offer the nomination for district attorney to John Dunmeade. Dunmeade is independent in his political ideas.

Dunmeade will accept the nomination. His father, a partisan judge, congratulates him. His Aunt Roberta urges John to call on Katherine Hampden, daughter of a capitalist.

Katherine Hampden is a worshiper of success. She and John are friends. Jeremy Applegate, a political dependent, campaigns for John and the state ticket.

In New Chelsea lives Warren Blake, a model young bank cashier, connected with Hampden in "high finance." They try without success for John's aid.

The rottenness of politics in his state and party as revealed in his campaign disgusts John. He calls upon Katherine.

CHAPTER VI.

The Call.

THE Consolidated Coal company was a fact, a splendid, epoch making fact.

The last stubborn holdout, surrendering to Hampden's skillful negotiations, to necessity and pressure of public opinion, had been led triumphantly into camp—and on Hampden's terms. Among the hills west of town things began to happen under his forceful direction. A spur from the railroad was being constructed. A village of rough shanties was hastily thrown together to house the colony of miners that was to be brought later. An atmosphere of businesslike haste pervaded New Chelsea. The price of real estate promptly advanced. Visions of expansion, of prosperity, filled the eye.

Cranshawe one day explained to John why he and his Deer township neighbors had capitulated.

"We got to take what we can git. It takes a lot o' money to develop coal lands. Hampden has it—an' we hain't. We found he'd got all the right o' ways. If we could find any one to buy our coal, he couldn't 'a' shipped, 'ceptin' over Hampden's right o' way. I don't like to be held up, but it's my only chance to leave anything fer my children."

"I hope it will all turn out for the best," said John, fearing—he hardly knew why—that it might not so turn out.

"Seems like," said Cranshawe, "the feller with money has the whip hand over the feller with something to sell or develop. Trouble is, even when we know it's wrong, we don't want to change it, hopin' that some day it'll give us a chanct to make money the same way."

"Oh, no!" John protested. "I'd hate to believe that. I can't believe it. Men aren't all of the dog-eat-dog species."

"Well," said 'Ri, a little ashamed, "I don't know as I believe it myself. Guess I'm a little peevish over bein' outbargained by Steve Hampden. I wish," he added thoughtfully, "you could be lawyer fer the company. It looks like us farmers won't have much say in the business. I'd like to have some one on the inside who could tell us what's goin' on."

"No chance of that, 'Ri. Hampden doesn't think much of me." He did not tell Cranshawe why he had lost the capitalist's favor.

The net result of his quixotism, he thought with some bitterness, was to win Hampden's hostility and to put himself out of the way of protecting his farmer friends.

And late in October occurred his party's rally.

It was necessary to marshal the badly shaken party hosts. For into Benton county had marched a young man who, in a single opposition speech, broke through the defenses so painstakingly reared by Jeremy Applegate and his fellow soldiers. None other than Jerry Brent. A big, rawboned, homely fellow, uncouth in manner and sometimes in grammar, but with a crude, passionate eloquence that always carried his audience with him. He had been a coal miner, a labor organizer, and had, after a struggle so common that description stales, been admitted to the practice of law. In all the thirty-five years of his life the charge of material dishonesty had never been raised against him; he was still poor. And he was counted a rising man in the opposition party, not with the connivance of his party bosses, however. They considered him a radical, unsafe and—cardinal crime in an honest and unmanageable young man—ambitious. Respectable people sneered at his "antics." It was said that his eyes were fixed on the next nomination for governor. Even with this suspicion rankling in their minds the bosses dared not—so popular was he among labor men—refuse him opportunity to speak during the campaign.

John, an inconspicuous listener, heard Brent's Benton county speech. It troubled him. It seemed to him unanswerable. Brent, it was true, dealt in terms of suspicion, not of facts, but it was a suspicion that found a swift echo in the hearts of his audience. He frankly said as much.

"We don't govern this state," said Brent. "One man, Murchell, picks out our officers and tells 'em what to do while in office. You people don't govern Benton county. One man, Jim Sheehan, Murchell's tool, chooses your commissioners, your treasurers, your sheriffs, your district attorneys." John winced. "And it's wrong, my God! It's wrong!" the orator cried passionately. "It would be wrong, even if these men were honest. And I blame you for it. You haven't the right to shove your responsibility on other men's shoulders, and they haven't the right to take the power."

The man's hot, rough eloquence found a lodgment where least expected in John's heart, already sensitized by his own discoveries and questionings. Jerry Brent was right.

The oldest inhabitant could not remember when the old party had been so vigorously attacked. To stem the tide of revolt—John felt it strongly in his canvass—an old time rally was to be held in the square. Sheehan instructed John as to the part which the latter was to play.

"You're to speak. Hit 'er up hard. Tell 'em all about us bein' the friend of the farmer. It's your chance. Parrott and Sherrod'll be there. Parrott's no slouch of a speaker, but you can beat him. Farmers like a good speech."

"I don't know that I care to make the speech."

"Don't you want to be elected?" Sheehan demanded.

"I guess so. Yes," with sudden vigor and a short laugh that Sheehan did not understand. "I do."

"Well, then, play up your independence. Tell 'em there's no strings tied to you."

"I can tell them that—with truth."

Sheehan looked long and hard at him. Then he chuckled. "Of course. And don't forget the state ticket when you're talkin'."

When he was alone John fairly writhed in his self contempt and hatred of the boss.

He prepared a fine speech, and then came the night of the rally—the pomp and panoply of war.

We stand with John under the big elm at the northwest corner of the square, where Main and North streets meet. Before us is the rough board speakers' stand, hastily knocked together and liberally bedecked with flags and lithographs of Lincoln and of Beck, the candidate for treasurer. In front are many rows of pine benches. Over all falls the white splendor of the full October moon, to be dimmed when the four kerosene torches guarding the speakers' stand are set flaring and smoking, and by many other lights.

Debouching into Main street from other roads comes a steady stream of steeds, gaunt and strong and slow moving as the human freight they draw, shying awkwardly at the lights flashed in their eyes by reckless, mischievous boys. The steeds are safely hitched in various churchyards, and the drivers gather in the square in shifting, serious groups. Gradually the square fills. A hoarse hum of voices rises. The air becomes charged with an unnatural excitement—the sense of an occasion—bred of the strange lights and bustle and the presence of many men. John between handshakes has time to feel it. His lagging soul, jaded by much questioning, leaps forth suddenly responsive. These men are—the people. The power of it—the power and the glory! He thrills under a sense of oneness with them. Murchell and his machine, Sheehan and his control, seem far away, unreal, impossible.

The candidates, properly acclaimed, and their party of distinguished citizens are on the platform. The benches are filled. Around them stands a fringe of men, mostly farmers, who in the rush for seats have been too slow. John, sandwiched in between Sheehan and Congressman Jenkins, looks out over the audience, a strange question in his eyes. He is seeking a "reason," as though it were to be found written on the faces of the men before him.

The speaking begins. After a short preliminary speech the chairman introduces Beck, candidate for treasurer, as inconsiderable now as he will be when in office. Then comes Parrott, a famous corporation lawyer, whose features somehow suggest that he is well named. He is adept in the use of those phrases which elicit enthusiasm, but do not convince. After him Mark Sherrod, state senator, a tall, suave man with a magnetic something about him. One of his eyes has a slight cast and gives his face a sinister expression which not all his undoubted attraction can remove. He is a coming man. Already a power in the big eastern city, it is whispered that he is planning to succeed Beck in the treasurership. And after him the Hon. G. Washington Jenkins, congressman from the district, Lincolnian in figure, shrill and nasal of voice, but with the old campaigner's fund of stories and a rough and ready eloquence that catches the crowd in spite of his time worn arguments.

The front seats roar their approval. From the fringe of farmers, Jim Sheehan observes, comes only grim silence. There is an uneasy sense that Jerry Brent's suspicions have not been answered.

Through it all John sat, hardly moving. But within him was tumult. He was contrasting the grandiloquent, virtuous phrases with the machine as he had seen it. And he knew that in the devious devices of which he could not help hearing hints in his campaigning he had caught but a glimpse of the thing—the machine. He did not believe that good employs evil to its ends; by its agencies a cause was to be judged. He sighted along the line of those who profited by it—Sheehan, Beck, Parrott, Sherrod, Murchell. The line was lost in the mist of his incomplete knowledge. This knowledge, his rankling suspicions, Brent's questionings, rose up to confront him, demanding a "reason." He could not find it. And the people—the sturdy, patient, hard headed men out there—were they such dolts as to be fooled by the hollow mockery being enacted before them? He could not believe it. And yet he—he who doubted—was expected to play a part in the mockery, to give the lie to his inner consciousness, to befog the issue in the minds of the listeners, to take his place in the ranks of the machine. The speech in his pocket burned to the skin.

The tumult was still raging when the Hon Wash Jenkins concluded his florid peroration and the applause died down. Vaguely, as from a distance, John heard the chairman introduce "New Chelsea's candidate" and the sudden cheers that rose. He did not realize, although Parrott and Sherrod did, that in the cheers was a quality not felt in the other greetings that night. He rose mechanically. He hardly knew when Sheehan, grasping his arm, shouted into his ear: "Don't forget the state ticket. Play it up hard!"

He stood silent before them. The well conned speech, with its smooth periods, the dramatic climaxes, to which his clear, flexible voice lent itself so beautifully, refused to be uttered. He could not speak the lie he had prepared; a "reason" he had not.

At last words came, in a dry, suppressed voice. He did not mean to be facetious, and no one laughed at his grave, protesting irony.

"We have heard tonight of the past glories of our party, and of glories that are of the nation. I shall not repeat, lest repetition dull their point. I have been asked not to forget the state ticket, in fact, to play it up hard. I need hardly speak for the gentlemen who have so eloquently spoken for themselves. I presume they do not wish to be saddled with responsibility for any of my shortcomings, nor do I wish to be judged by theirs. I am a candidate for office. If you think me the sort of man to administer that office honestly and well, without fear or favor, and as my own man, I shall be happy. If you don't think that, you can't believe that any party's history will make me an honest official. And—that's all I can say."

He turned and walked toward the rear of the platform. The silence continued. Slack jaws fell slacker. The fringe of farmers stood motionless, bewildered, slow to grasp the significance of the short speech. Through the silence the voice of Jim Sheehan, first to recover presence of mind, carried over the crowd to Main street.

"For God's sake start a tune or something!" This to the band.

Some one laughed. The band began to play "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," of all tunes! People began to rise from their seats. It was not necessary for the chairman to announce the end of the meeting.

On the stage John faced a wrathful tableau—Parrott, Sherrod and Sheehan. "What the h—l"—began Sheehan, but the suave Sherrod, minus his suavity, interrupted. "What do you mean? If you can't support the ticket you had no right to speak at all. You abuse courtesy, young man."

"Don't forget the state ticket. Play it up hard!"

"Not yours, at any rate," John answered, and walked from the stage.

He made his way quickly behind it and out around the crowd. He was dazed at his own act. A heavy sense of treachery was upon him, yet he could not have done otherwise. He had not eyes for the curious glances, many of them more friendly than he could then have believed, cast toward him. Walking swiftly with eyes cast down, he would have passed without noticing the fashionable trap in front of his home had not a voice from it called to him.

"John, John!"

Quick Decision.

Farmer (to one of his laborers, who had come home after his first training in the militia)—Which would you rather be, a soldier or a farm hand, Paddy? Pat—A soldier, of course. Farmer—And why so, Paddy? Pat—Well, you see, you'd be a long time working for a farmer before he'd tell you to stand at ease.—London Tit-Bits.

PEOPLE ABOUT TOWN

Mrs. S. A. Johnson made a short visit to Angeles last week, returning up sound Saturday accompanied by Sam, to pack up their belongings. They returned Tuesday and will keep house for the present in the flat at the top of Front street hill. Mr. Johnson has bought an interest in the Angeles Hotel, and as he is a hustler will probably have things humming. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson have many warm friends in Angeles who will be glad to welcome them back to their old home.

A number of the young friends of Miss Cecil Smith gave her a complete surprise Saturday night at the home of her parents on 11th street. Games, dancing and a big feed were the features of the evening and so thoroughly enjoyed that the youngsters stayed quite late—from reports.

The Snohomish returned from Bremerton and Port Townsend Wednesday, proceeding on her way to Neah Bay Thursday. She had a new system of wireless installed and other repairs made and then stopped at Townsend for inspection by Captain Dunwoodie.

Mrs. Murphy of the Georgiana Hotel, Seattle, wife of B. C. Murphy, formerly of the Merchants Hotel, returned to Seattle Saturday after a few days visit in Angeles with old friends.

It is very pleasing and encouraging to see the way in which the churches are filling up. Where formerly half or more of the pews were vacant, now almost every seat is taken.

We are glad to report Miss Mae Clegg, who has been seriously ill with rheumatism, as somewhat improved, and her sister, Mrs. Frank Dilling, is now able to sit up a few hours each day.

The Fernwood Poultry Fram, breeders of White Leghorns, located near Dungeness, solicits a share of the public patronage. This model chicken farm is under the supervision of F. A. MacDonald, an expert at the business. See their ad.

WRESTLING AND BOXING

Athletic Entertainment at Opera House Wednesday Evening, Feb. 26th.

The athletic fans of the city will have a chance in the near future to see some clever boxing and wrestling contests. Lonnie Austin, the well known instructor, was a visitor here this week looking around for a suitable place to open a branch school.

The first entertainment will be held at the opera house Wednesday evening, February 26th, when a fine card of wrestling and boxing bouts will be staged.

Lonnie has talked with several of the local boys, among them Clyde McDonald and Herbert Woods who will be the headliner of the wrestling bouts and he is trying to get a match between Getchell and Anderson if possible.

Chet Cross, one of Anderson's pupils, lives here now and he wants to meet some good boy. Fred Gallagher and Ben Wilcox have also asked for a chance to show their prowess.

Austin & Salt have given the athletic fans in the northwest some of the best conducted entertainments that have ever been witnessed and they should make a grand success of their venture here.

"On the face of the returns" in last week's Olympic-Leader it would appear that everybody in the lower Elwha valley has the famous Jorgenson potatoes for sale. It seems that the ranchers were gathered at a sort of men's quilting bee — baling hay, we believe they call it— when one of the number put up the suggestion that inasmuch as they all had had seed potatoes from Jorgenson, they might as well advertise their regular crop as such—in other words, put up a neighborhood josh on Goodwin, who bought the Jorgenson ranch, spuds and all. B. J. Sittser and John Dougherty said this week, when we asked them as to the latest quotations on Jorgenson potatoes, that they really had none for sale.

HOLLY HEIGHTS — MT. ANGELES WAY.

A man whose name is Beaumont
Says: What do you think I want?
Why! Neighbors galore—
At least half a score—
And the street cars to run past my door.
We live out Mt. Angeles way,
The railroad is coming some day,
We'll be right in town
Where pleasures abound
And people will come there to stay.

That reminds me: Mr. Madison says he has bought the "Owen McGlynn" place and will come there to live permanently after awhile.

The Filion & Wright Co. will leave us, perhaps, before long. They have been good neighbors—none better—and we are sorry to have them go away from this locality. We remember the happy times we have spent together and memory will ever cherish them with gratitude.

Mr. Davidson's people are on the McGlynn place.

Mr. Pringle has got a fine home and near to town, yet he talks of Oregon sometimes. I hope he will not go there.

Jack Winn says that he will sell all but five acres of his land and that he can make a good living on that. I think so, if one would specialize. There is asparagus, water cress, I have heard that it grows wild here in wet places.There is pie plant and strawberries—some everbearing blackberries along the fence now. Artichokes, two kinds, I think the tubers would make fine sweet pickles and would be saleable; they are healthy when cooked like potatoes and are also good feed for pigs. Then there are bees. If people would eat more honey in this climate they would not have "La Grippe." They need some shelter on account of the dampness.

Ben Chambers people seem to be busy. They supply the cityites with milk and also raise some fine pigs. With them at one end and Beaumonts at the other, with the "County Home" in between as a permanent institution, we can hold things level until the gaps are filled up.

Furniture Repaired. All work guaranteed. Leland & Leith. Phone No. 7.

CHEAP-PRICED FLOUR THESE DAYS
Means
FLOUR MADE OF CHEAP WHEAT

Wheat has materially advanced in price—No manufacturer of Flour can give you Cheap-Priced Flour unless he makes it of Cheap-Priced Wheat—Poor Flour is NOT a Food Product.

FISHER'S BLEND FLOUR

Has No Superior in America. It Always Has Been, Is Now and Always Will Be a Blend of Best Eastern Hard Wheat and Best Western Soft Wheat

Fisher's Blend Flour costs more today than it did recently, solely because of the advance in wheat prices, but it's only ten cents per sack higher today than the lowest price ever quoted for this flour, and ten cents per sack less than the price which prevailed only a few months ago. It's the same Grand Flour our thousands of customers have been educated to eat.

IT ALWAYS WILL BE THE SAME REGARDLESS OF WHEAT PRICES.

NAL HEARING WILL BE HAD APRIL 7TH

n the condemnation proceedings ore the superior court this week the cases first noted, 16 in all, of which has already been set- d out of court, it was decided that evidence given in support of intiff's claim to the land should ply in all cases.

C. J. Erickson being sworn testi- d that he is president of the cor- ration, that in minute book pro- ced is recorded resolution adopted ar. 12, 1912, and recorded therein ntains line of definite location of ilroad from west line of city lim- of Port Angeles to the vicinity of Chimacum, and that capital stock of $5,000,000 is fully subscribed. Articles of incorporation, minute book, and stock subscription offered in evidence.

Mr. Donovan testified that he has charge of the railroad engineer work, that he is instructed to run the definite location lines for the right-of-way where it would do the least damage to property consistent with good grades, that he had done this and has the profiles of said line of definite on. Profiles produced and tes- y taken touching each descrip- ought to be condemned.

as agreed that the jury to be March 8th for the purpose of w ling damages in the several ases at bar will be drawn from the egular panel and that the final earing on all cases be set for April th. In asking that an earlier date e fixed if possible, Mr. Shank stat- d that certain railway improvements should be started at once, and if delayed in final hearing his company might be enjoined, and they did not want to get tied up in anymanner. The date was left as unadvisable to change. It was also ordered that all cases not heard be set for preliminary hearing March 11th.

When one gets into court there are many flimsy excuses made for delays and subterfuges of various kinds, but it remains for a local man to come in and swear to an affidavit asking for a change of venue and failing in this for a change in judges in condemnation proceedings, alleging that he cannot get justice in either Clallam or Jefferson counties in their railroad right of way contests, and that the court is prejudiced. Unfortunately for the poor fellow the law states that any condemnation suit must be prosecuted in the county in which the property sought is situated.

One of the promising milestones in railroad affairs was passed this week when the right-of-way over the farm of Herman Sindars was secured and one of the most important links in the right-of-way between this city and the eastern terminus of the road signed for. Word was received Wednesday to this effect and it is very probable that an important step in the commencement of work will now shortly be taken, for it is in this vicinity that the company desires to begin the first construction work and the first camp to be established will be at this point.

CELEBRATED LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY WEDNESDAY

The G.A.R. and W.R.C. celebrated Lincoln's birthday Wednesday evening with a very entertaining program at Lincoln Memorial Hall, G.A.R. Flags, red, white and blue bunting, prettily draped, formed the decorations, and the hall was filled with an attentive and appreciative audience. Mrs. Lillie Winters presided over the meeting and at its close gave an original poem, paying a high tribute to the members of the G.A.R.. After the program all were invited to stay and partake of refreshments which were served down in the dining room, and consisted of hot beans, potato salad, sandwiches, cake and coffee, all of which was very appetising.

SOCIALIST LECTURE SUNDAY

Mr. Wilfrid Gribble, formerly national organizer of the Socialist party of Canada, will deliver a lecture at the opera house Sunday evening, Feb. 16th, at eight. His subject will be the "War of the Classes." Mr. Gribble will tell how classes came into existence; what divides the human race into classes. He will speak of the class revolts of the present day, and tell you the reasons for these revolts, and how the solidarity of the International Workers will terminate the class war. Don't forget the time and place. Admission 10 cents.

Charley Russell was here briefly this week in attendance at the superior court whither he was summoned to defend a condemnation suit. Mr. Russell states that he sold the place in question just before getting notice of it being wanted in part for railroad purposes and he desires to see the new owner through. Mr. Clapp, the purchaser, accompanied him, both returning to Everett on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Ernest Graham and little daughter leave today for San Francisco, and may return in the summer when they have time to prepare for a prolonged absence from home. Mr. Graham is in the building contracting business and has several houses on his hands at present.

The Brotherhood of American Yeomen gave a most enjoyable whist party at I. O. O. F. hall Thursday night which was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. A delicious luncheon was served at the close. The next sitting of the contest will be Thursday, Feb. 20. Everybody invited.

The monthly Auxiliary meeting was held in the Commercial club room Tuesday afternoon with a very good attendance of new members, five names being added to the membership roll.

The dance committee reported about thirty dollars cleared above all expenses. A vote of thanks was extended to the following gentlemen who so kindly assisted, viz: Dr. Hyde, Mr. Luppen, Mr. Kirschberg, Mr. Maurice Fisher and Mr. Hopkins.

The subject of the annual flower show was discussed at some length but no action taken; definite arrangements being posponed until the next meeting in March. Mrs. LaFlower brought up the subject of a Humane Society for the protection of our dumb animals, which is to be further discussed at the next meeting also.

Mrs. McGillivray asked that the Auxiliary take some action to influence our senators to work for the appropriation bill to raise money to assist on the work of the anti-tuberculosis crusade in this state. It is understood the bill has passed the house but is in danger of being killed in the senate. After some discussion a motion was made and carried giving the sanction of the Auxiliary to a letter to Senator Troy asking him to use his influence to secure the passage of this bill.

Mrs. Webster then gave a little talk on our schools and the need of a greater interest being taken by parents in the condition and welfare of the schools. As there are a number of rooms in the new building still unfurnished, Mrs. Webster made a motion that the auxiliary purchase a comfortable, sanitary couch for use in the hospital room, the same to be presented at the school dedication next Friday evening. Motion carried and president requested to appoint committee to attend to same. It was decided to hold a whist tournament early March.

A large audience was in attendance at the Congregational church last Sunday morning. In the evening a Lincoln Memorial was held. The exercises were very interesting and consisted of a paper upon Lincoln by the pastor; a very fine address upon Emancipation by Prof. Faylor, one of the teachers in the high school, and one impressive reading, which was admirably given by Mrs. Luppen. The service was concluded by patriotic hymns and music.

In the matter of the sale of all of the property of the Angeles Brewing and Malting Co., including some twenty thousand dollars bills receivable, the steamer Albion, the brewery property and four hundred lots in Fogarty's addition, for which bids were submitted today to the Superior court, it was ordered that the receiver present a statment of the property in his hands up to March 1, and that upon the showing then made a new order will possibly issue directing the sale of the property at a later date in a segregated form. What Are YOU Worth From the NECK UP?

It is estimated that the average man is worth $2 a day from the neck down—what is he worth from the neck up?

That depends entirely upon training. If you are trained so that you plan and direct work you are worth ten times as much as the man who can work only under orders.

The International Correspondence Schools go to the man who is struggling along on small pay and say to him, "We will train you for promotion right where you are, or we will qualify you to take up a more congenial line of work at a much higher salary."

Every month several hundred students voluntarily report advancement as the direct result of I. C. S. training.

You need not leave your present work, or your own home. Mark this coupon at once and mail it.

In a Quandary.

An old darky, with an old gray mule hitched to a ramshackle wagon, stood on the incline of Capitol hill, in Washington, during one of the worst sleet storms in January.

The old man huddled in his rabbit skin cap, shivering. The mule was trembling with the cold. Two congressmen waiting for a belated car were attracted by the strange outfit and wondered as time went on and the darky made no effort to depart what ailed the old fellow.

One of the congressmen walked over and said, "Why don't you move on, uncle?"

The old darky pointed a trembling finger at his "team" and replied, "'Cause dis yere mule won't go 'les' I whistle at him, and it's so cold I cyarn't whistle!"—Everybody's.

Distributing the Honors.

During the Spanish-American war the navy department by way of a graceful compliment to the great universities renamed two converted cruisers Havard and Yale. Not long after Commodore Dewey was asked what new names should be conferred upon two little Spanish gunboats that had been captured in Philippine waters. "Oh," said the commodore, "we'll just call one The Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the other The Pennsylvania College For Physicians and Surgeons."

"YE OLDEN TIME PARTY"

Port Angeles Reading Club Held a Social Session at the Home of Their President.

In honor of Mrs. J. G. McClinton and Mrs. C. W. Brewster, two of the oldest members of the Port Angeles Reading Club, a social session in the nature of "ye olden time party" was held at the home of the club president, Mrs. R. D. Willson, last Friday afternoon. Guests of the club were Mrs. Craig, Mrs. Luppen, Mrs. Belle Miller, Mrs. C. P. Brown, Mrs. W. M. Clark, all having been previous members of the club. Most of the members came in old fashioned costumes which caused a great deal of merriment. Several different periods of history were represented by the various gowns and hair dressings. A most amusing musical and literary program was given, consisting of old time songs and recitations in which most of the members and guests took part. The program was opened by a short address of welcome by Mrs. Willson, in which she gave a little of the history of the club and told of the pleasure and inspiration it had been to her personally and the many pleasant associations formed by companionship with its members. She paid a high tribute to the two older members in whose honor the meeting was held, comparing the club as a whole to a conveyance which had conveyed us for many years through ways of pleasantness and paths of knowledge, Mrs. McClinton, representing the last axle on which the wheels revolved and Mrs. Brewster the kingbolt which had held us together.

The club was the first ladies literary club organized in Clallam county. In August, 1893, a meeting o the following ladies was called and the club organized: Mrs.L. D. Stewart, Mrs. J. M. Worthley, Mrs. M. J. Carrigan, Mrs. H. S. Ballou, Mrs. A. N. Johnson, Miss Mary Love, (now Mrs. W. J. Ware) and Mrs. J. G. McClinton. It was then called the Ladies Society of Literary Explorers, and tho the name, membership and time of meeting has all been changed, it is still recognized as the mother club. As it was the first ladies club organized, it was also the first to become federated in the county.

After the program the ladies were invited to the dining room, where covers were laid for twenty-two and a dainty luncheon served. Conundrums, toasts, reminiscences and funny stories made the time pass all too quickly. The president in behalf of the club presented the two honored guests each with a book, as a memento of the happy occasion and as an expression of the warm affection felt for them in the club. Rising from the table all clasped hands and sang "For Auld Lang Syne." Long live the Port Angeles Reading Club and its loyal members.

Reminiscences, by Mrs. McClinton

Reminiscenses are defined as personal recollections of facts and incidents, but when I begin to make my remarks by saying that Port Angeles Bay was discovered by white men in the year 1592, please don't conclude that I was personally present when the discovery was made! I am not yet 321 years old. Juan de Fuca was the discoverer. He bore the reputation of being a notorious liar, but he made no lie when he named our fine harbor "Puerta de Los Angeles"—that is, "Port of the Angels."

One of the earliest, if not the very first white man to make a settlement here was Alexander Sampson, who was still living at the head of the bay in 1891. He had been the keeper of the light house at the end of the spit for many years. The next white settler was Nicholas Meagher, and probably the next was Eben Gay Morse, father of Samuel G. Morse.

When the Civil War was in progress President Lincoln appointed Victor Smith, father of Norman R. Smith, as U. S. Customs collector for the whole Puget Sound country, and Mr. Smith established the custom house at Port Angeles in the gulch now called Valley street. The first great rain, that fell brought a flood down the Valley and washed the customs house into the bay. The office was then moved to Port Townsend and afterwards moved back to Port Angeles, and again taken to Port Townsend.

When I came here in the spring of 1891 there were very few wheeled vehicles of any kind in the town, and the only road leading up the hill towards the Boulevard was on the steep hill near the site of the old electric power house at Second and Cherry streets. The "uptown" streets were all standing trees and the single winding road was so overhung with trees that it seemed like travelling thru a tunnel.

In the spring of 1891 the Superior Court was held in the Commercial Hotel building, but was soon moved to the Greenleaf Hotel building, in Second street near Valley. The Greenleaf was destroyed by fire in 1892, and court was then held in the Opera House for some time, and then in the present court house, which was originally built for a Catholic church.

The first ladies' literary club ever organized in Clallam county was formed in August, 1893, by seven persons, to-wit: Mrs. L. D. Stewart, Mrs. J. M. Worthly, Mrs. M. J. Carrigan, Mrs. H. S. Ballou, Mrs. A. M. Johnson, Miss Mary Love (now Mrs. W. J. Ware) and Mrs. J. G. McClinton. It was called the "Ladies' Society of Literary Explorers," and it was, through many changes of name and officers and membership, the parent of the present Reading Club.

FAMOUS QUARTPTTE WIDE TRAVELERS

Strollers Quartet, a Favorite in Angeles, Has Visited Many Famous Places in Four Years.

The Strollers Male Quartette, the best musical organization ever in Angeles, has traveled over nearly all parts of the American continent during the past four years. In 1912 during the winter months, when the East was suffering from terrific snow storms, the Strollers were enjoying the season on the Pacific Coast going as far as National City on the extreme southern coast of California. While there they were entertained affter one of their evening performances by friends of the first October the Strollers rode for two days on the same train with Nordica's special car. They also made a trip out to Manitou thru the Garden of the Gods and Glen Eyrie, while at Colorado Springs, and visited the famous Balance Rock.

Three of the company climbed up to Point Sublime in the North Cheyenne Canon, where they ate their breakfast about 8:30. They also went into the South Chyenne Canon to the top of Seven Falls, and then a half mile up to Helen Hunt Jackson's grave.

Be sure to keep in mind the date of the next entertainment course, February 25th, and come and hear The Strollers sing, play and read. You will never regret it. Tickets 75c.
