Fernie's Herd Gets Him Top Dairyman Honor

Leonard Fernie, of Palo Alto, with a herd of 35 Jersey milking cows, produced an average of 504.3 pounds of butterfat per cow, and Thursday was proclaimed Clallam county's 1945-46 champion dairyman by the Clallam County Dairy Herd Improvement Association at the conclusion of the annual tour.

Vernon Mantle's three-year-old Jersey cow "Sleepy" with a production of 734 pounds of butterfat in 358 days, was crowned queen of the association's herds.

The average production of 397.3 pounds of butterfat in the 1945-46 period is the highest in the history of the association and exceeds the 1944-45 average of 377.1 by 20 pounds and two ounces.

NEW DIRECTORS CHOSEN

At the annual meeting of the association held after lunch at the Sequim Methodist Church, presided over by President C. A. Robinson, Verne Mantle and Ernest Olmstead were elected on the board of directors who later will elect the new officers. The 1945-46 officers were C. A. Robinson, president; James Laurenson, secretary-treasurer; Douglas Lewis, Leonard Fernie, S. P. Hague and Melvin Michel. The newly elected directors take the place of Robinson and Lewis.

The annual report as prepared by W. A. Davis, tester, and Robert Davis, assistant tester, discloses the following figures:

There were 3,426 cows tested as compared to 2,810 in the year 1944-45.

This year there were 134 herds in the association as compared to 101 in 1944-45.

The average number of pounds of milk produced by each cow was 7,764 pounds as compared to 7,515 in 1944-45.

The average value of the product of each cow was $350.95 compared to $334.50 in 1944-45.

The average return per cow over feed cost was $225.80 compared to $208.90 in 1944-45.

The average price paid per pound for butterfat was 88.3 cents as compared to 88.7 cents in 1944-45.

The average feed cost per pound of butterfat was 31.4 cents compared to 34.5 cents in 1944-45.

The report disclosed there were 25 cows in the association with an average of over 600 pounds of butterfat during the year. There were 24 herds that had average butterfat production in excess of the association average of 397.3 pounds of butterfat.

SEVERAL SPEAKERS

There were a number of speakers on the meeting program. Included were W. A. Davis, tester; James Laurenson, secretary-treasurer; William Mosier of the KJR farm forum; George Angell, of the Washington Farmer; Melvin Michel, county agent; Lawrence Powers, president of the Jefferson county association and C. A. Svinth, of the administration department of Washington State college. Several other guests were introduced.

Main speakers of the day were M. B. Nichols, extension dairyman and E. Kreizinger, extension agronomist, of Washington State college. Nichols devoted his talk to dairy methods and presented certificates of merit to Preston Dey, Jackson Brothers and H. Cameron for each having several cows with life time production of more than 3,000 pounds butterfat.

Kreizinger, a specialist in feed, spoke of the various types of grasses and clovers suitable for soil and climatic conditions.

Injured Port Angeles People May Be Flown To Seattle Hospital

SEATTLE—(AP)—Pilot Don Burkhard will make a mercy flight today to Roseburg, Oregon, to bring back to Seattle Mr. and Mrs. Edward K. Browne of Port Angeles, who were critically injured Sunday in an automobile accident.

Three persons died in the accident, Mr. and Mrs. Halley Palmer of Myrtle Creek, riding with the Brownes, also were injured and may be brought here for treatment later.

Dr. Ralph Edgar Allen said Browne is being brought here for bone surgery. His wife, Mildred, suffered leg fractures and other hurts. The plane, making two trips, will carry one of the injured persons at a time, along with a nurse and a co-pilot.

Two navy admirals described as "unbelievable" and "fantastic," the feats performed by the USM 458, which was equipped with the new cycloidal propeller for a test run in Washington Narrows. In making a turn the ship literally spun with her bow as a pivot. Note the wake, which indicates the arc made by the 900-ton vessel. The propeller consists of twin rotors, each equipped with six vertical blades revolving on their own axis as the rotors revolve.

Dairymen See Interesting Sights On Twentieth Annual Tour of Association

By Jack Henson

There was a typical warm, eastend sun beating down when "Mike" Michel, county agent, wheeled into Palo Alto valley, southeast of Sequim on the twentieth annual tour of the Clallam County Dairy Herd Improvement Association. There were about 50 on the tour.

The purpose of the visit was to see Leonard Fernie's champion herd of Jersey cows that averaged a production of 504.3 pounds of butterfat in the year just ended, to lead all the herds of the association.

We saw the 33 milking cows, 30 of them purebreds, lined up in a modern, concrete floored dairy barn. Fernie has 320 acres of non-irrigated land in the valley with 121 acres in production. The Fernie place was homesteaded by Mr. and Mrs. Sam Fernie more than half a century ago and Leonard is now farming the old home place that his parents, with his assistance, hewed out of the wilderness.

'LILAC' HEAD COW

The Fernie herd is headed by a purebred Jersey bull, Lilac Sonja Raymond, whose daughters have some remarkable records. The seven-year old bull was angry at something when we looked at him and was pawing up clods of earth and throwing them at the spectators.

The next stop on the tour was the Coulter-Scott farm on Sequim bay where John Scott showed 100 acres of subterranean clover and alta fescue grass on the 310 acre farm.

The subterranean clover, an annual, does well as an early grazing crop and reseeds itself. The alta fescue grass, planted with the clover, is deep rooted and makes good pasture. Scott also showed visitors a stand of volunteer vetch that was very high and thick.

There is a huge irrigation project being carried on at the Coulter-Scott farm and a big pit silo has been built. These improvements have been delayed because of the war. The farm will make silage out of present crops. Water, that will come from the Dungeness river, will be in use this year. The plan, as outlined by Scott, is to raise beef cattle starting this year and eventually the farm will be stocked with Aberdeen Angus beef cattle.

GRAYMARSH FARM

Next stop was William Reed's Graymarsh farm in the Sequim bay area. At that large farm Ernest Olmstead, manager, showed the visitors examples of planting of rye grass and several types of clover in a pasture. The sleek herd of cattle had made little impression on the knee-high pasture fodder.

At Graymarsh visitors took a look at an ancient wonder cow, 18-year old "Smokey" who produced 618.7 pounds of butterfat the past year and has been doing as well for a dozen years. The cow is a grade Guernsey and Shorthorn.

Seen, with the other 25 milking Guernseys at Graymarsh farm was Brenda, the herd's top producer, a registered nine-year old Guernsey cow that produced 645.5 pounds of butterfat the past year.

LIQUID FERTILIZER

Jess Taylor, who milks 24 cows now, said he will be able to provide pasture and fodder on his Jamestown farm for may more by the use of liquid fertilizer. Jess has built a tank on wheels into which the barn manure is washed under water pressure. The tank finally contains 50 per cent manure and 50 per cent water. Every week, the wheeled-tank is taken to the fields and the contents spread over them through a valve and spreader over which the liquid fertilizer flows.

One field, on which liquid fertilizer has been spread, showed the startling difference between non-fertilization and the use of it in a liquid form. The pasture land can be used a day after the liquid is spread, Taylor said. He is enthusiastic over the system.

Also shown at the Taylor farm by Elmer Adams, who constructed it, was a spreader for commercial fertilizer. The truck made on plans sent by the Illinois State College, automatically spreads the lime or other commercial fertilizer as the truck is hauled over the fields.

HIGH TEST COW

As the caravan rolled back toward Sequim there was a short stop at the Rex Mantle farm where Rex showed his three year old Jersey cow "Sleepy' that was the high producing cow of the association in the past year. Sleepy in 358 milking days produced 734 pounds of butterfat and 11,822 pounds of milk.

LOTS OF PEOPLE DON'T THINK SO

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The White House listed the "Hon." John L. Lewis and "Mr." Charles O'Neill as participants in today's coal strike conference with President Truman.

"Mr." O'Neill is head of the Northern Appalachian group of mine operators and acts as official spokesman for the mine owners' negotiating committee.

The 'Hon." Mr. Lewis is, of course, head of the United Mine Workers.

Their names were so posted on the press room bulletin board.

Later the notice was withdrawn and replaced by one designating both men "Mr."

Hankow Signing May Allow Termination Of Manchurian Hostilities

NANKING—(AP)— Communist and government forces have reached a cease-fire agreement in central China that official sources said opens the way for resumption of discussion of the Manchurian problem.

The truce was announced today by a Sino-American team upon its return from Hankow, scene of the signing. Members of the team are Brig. Gen. Henry A. Byroade, communist Gen. Chou En-Lai, and nationalist Gen. Hsu Yung-Chang.

Attempts of General Marshall's committee to settle the Manchurian civil war have been stalled pending an investigation of communist charges that 300,000 government troops had begun a campaign of annihilation against 60,000 communist soldiers in central China.

Chou said that skirmishing and troop movements had been discovered, but it was not indicated there had been any large scale fighting

The truce provided for an end to skirmishing, troop movements and building of blockhouses; for exchange of liaison officers, exchange of war and political prisoners, evacuation of 1,000 sick communists and 100 communist families, and protection for the demobilized communists while they are leaving the area.

British Loan Measure Sent to House; Senate Debates Labor Control

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The senate passed and sent to the house today legislation authorizing a $3,750,000,000 loan to Great Britain.

By a vote of 46 to 34 the senate approved a measure that supporters said would open the way to lifting of currency and other restrictions on world trade.

With the loan measure cleared, the senate voted to take up labor control legislation immediately.

Congressional Candidates Marked for Purge Defy CIO's Political Action Committee

By Jack Bell

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Members of congress marked for a purge by the CIO's political action committee generally challenged the labor-political organization today to do its worst against them in forthcoming primaries.

The group's action in picking 10 senators and 23 house members against whom it will work occasioned little surprise, the designated legislators said.

RANKIN ON LIST

While seven of the 10 senators are democrats, only five of the representatives are members of that party. Among these Rep. Pace (D-Ga), author of an administration-opposed farm parity price proposal; Rep. Rankin (D-Miss), strong opponent of pet CIO proposals, and Rep. Slaughter (D-Mo), from President Truman's home district, stood out.

The names were made public at Atlantic City by Thomas Burns of Akron, Ohio, assistant CIO-PAC chairman, at the CIO Amalgamated Clothing Workers convention.

Almost simultaneously in Washington, it was announced that the CIO-PAC, the National Citizens Political Action Committee and the Independent Citizens Committee of the Arts, Sciences and Professions will meet here tomorrow to coordinate their campaigns to elect "progressive" candidates.

ICKES HEADS ONE GROUP

Sidney Hillman heads both the clothing workers and the CIO-PAC, Dr. Frank Kingdon leads the NC-PAC and former Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes is chairman of the third group, which announced plans for tomorrow's session here. Heretofore the three organizations have pursued separate courses of action.

Most of the 10 senators named at Atlantic City said they had not expected CIO-PAC support. And several added that they had met similar opposition in previous races and were ready to do so again.

As named by Burns, the ten are Senators Bilbo D-Miss), Byrd (D-Va), Wheeler (D-Mont), Carville (D-Nev), McKellar (D-Tenn), Radcliffe (D-Md), Gerry, (D-RI), Shipstead (R-Minn), Smith (R-NJ) and Langer (R-ND).

Wheeler told a reporter he feels that the action of the CIO-PAC group in coming out against him probably would be matched by support from others who would be more inclined to back him now. He and others obviously believe that American Federation of Labor backing would offset the CIO-PAC opposition.

Umberto Will Be King For Month, Then Face Vote

ROME —(AP)— The Italian cabinet approved today the assumption of the throne by Crown Prince Umberto, but specified his powers would extend only until June 2. On that day the Italian people will decide whether to continue the monarchy.

The ministers decided Umberto could sign decrees "Umberto II, king of Italy" but not use the phrase traditionally following the signature, "by grace of God and will of the people." Umberto's father, Vittorio Emanuele III, abdicated last night after a 45-year reign and sailed for Egypt.

'KING OF THE MAY'

Communists oppose Umberto, and the socialist press today called him the "King of May" and declared in its headlines "Fascist Prince succeeds fascist king for 23 days."

The socialist newspapers said the abdication was a "useless political maneuver" intended to influence the outcome of the June plebiscite.

Greece also prepared to settle speedily the fate of her king, George II. Premier Tsaldaris announced that Greeks would vote on the question as soon as electoral lists are revised. Previously the Greek government had not planned to hold a plebiscite until 1948, but the populist party, largely monarchist, came into power in recent elections. Recent announcements from Athens said the British and United States governments had agreed to the holding of an earlier plebiscite.

CHARGE BAD FAITH

Rome's communist party organ L'Unita charged that the abdication had "broken the truce on monarchy." When the Allies captured Rome two years ago the Italian government and crown agreed to a truce on the question of the monarchy pending a voters' decision, but a British foreign office spokesman in London said recently the decision to hold the election June 2 was interpreted as ending the period of the truce.

Congress Irate At Jakie Devers' Alleged Remarks About Them

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Chairman May (D-Ky.) announced today the house military committee will "investigate immediately" a report, since denied, that General Jacob L. Devers referred to congress as a group of "cowards."

In a statement last night, Devers said "I did not use the word coward."

May told the house that Devers, army ground force commander, will be called before the committee next Tuesday to explain the statement attributed to him. He added that the war department also will be asked for an explanation.

May's announcement came after several members assailed Devers. They said they based their criticism on a news story (not carried by the Associated Press) in which Devers was quoted as referring to congress as a group of "cowards, afraid to tackle the controversial draft bill."

Polish Credits Held Up Pending US Check

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The state department held up $90,000,000 in credits for the Polish government today while reviewing whether the Poles had failed to meet U. S. conditions.

The department would say officially only that the credits had not been cancelled.

However, diplomatic officials disclosed the question has been raised whether Warsaw had met these commitments:

1. To guarantee free elections.

2. To inform the Polish people of the loan agreements.

3. To exchange with the U. S. full information on treaties and agreements each nation makes with other governments.

The officials said Washington has been advised the Polish government has not yet told its people anything about the loan or the commitments, nor inormed the U. S. of its other outside agreements—specifically, it was presumed with Russia.

Under the loan agreements the Poles were to obtain $40,000,000 cash from the Export-Import bank and $50,000,000 of credit to buy surplus war goods from the foreign liquidation commission. So far no part of the cash or goods has been delivered.

British Morals Are Debated in Commons

LONDON—(AP)—The house of commons hotly disputed today whether "40 per cent of the girls under 20 in England are pregnant on their wedding day."

Laborite T. C. Skeffington-Lodge said they were. He cited figures from the Marriage Guidance Council, a private social agency.

Attorney General Sir Hartley Shawcross replied: "I won't for a moment accept these figures. (But) I am afraid that the state of morals in the country is not what it should be."

Beverly Baxter, a conservative and novelist, asked Sir Hartley to denounce the figures "more strongly," asserting: "If this is published without considerable repudiation, it will shock the people of the dominions and of the United States."

Prodded thusly, Sir Hartley added, "frankly, I don't believe the figures."

Leif Erickson, above, former justice of the Montana Supreme Court, has filed as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator. He will oppose Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, now serving his fourth term.

Police Fire At Rioting Moslems In Cairo Protest

CAIRO —(AP)— Police fired buckshot among a crowd of more than 200 stone-throwing Moslems who had assembled on the roof of Azhar Mosque today in a demonstration against the British-American commission report on Palestine.

The police also dispersed a crowd of thousands in the square who had gathered on the Moslem Sabbath.

The battle was an outgrowth of a general one-day strike called by Moslems and Arabs in support of their Palestine colleague which tied up many of the larger cities of the middle east.

SHOTGUN AFFAIR

While police continued to fire shotguns at persons on the roof, the crowd was dispersed from the square. It took refuge on side streets out of range.

At least one policeman was injured.

Attempting to block demonstrations when the crowd of worshippers came from their noon-day prayers, armed police on foot and horseback held several thousand inside the Mosque in the heart of the Cairo bazaar district. Three times the police in front of the massive stone Mosque, one of the oldest in the world, were forced to retreat under a hail of stones and other missiles.

Reinforcements arrived and the police entered the Mosque and arrested more than 200. Approximately 40 of them were injured, mostly by police clubs.

NOW IT'S GREEN SHIRTS

Three persons, including the policeman, were taken to hospitals. Ambulance crews gave first aid to others.

Police then began clearing the area in front of the Mosque of spectators. The square was left littered with thousands of stones.

A police officer expressed the belief that the stoning was started by members of the Misr el Fatah youth organization, which also is known as the green shirts.

Ernest Bevin Attacks Soviet Use of Veto Of Free Expression

PARIS—(AP)—The Russian delegation to the foreign ministers conference today gave in on two disputed points of the Italian treaty, heralding a possible break in the week-long deadlock between Russia and the western powers, American sources said.

The sources said the Russians relinquished their stands on the questions of Italian colonies and the war criminals commission.

PARIS —(AP)— Russian insistence on full agreement among the Big Four before calling of a European peace conference was described in today's session of the foreign ministers as a "veto on permitting the nations which took part in the war to express their views" on the treaties, a British source said.

This source quoted British foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin as attacking the Soviet stand during the morning's two-hour council session.

BYRNES PLAN AGAIN

A second meeting was scheduled for this afternoon in an effort to work out an agreement on the proposal of Secretary of State Byrnes' to convoke a 21-nation peace conference for June 15.

An American informant said Byrnes also opposed the soviet stand and said the four governments had a responsibility before the world to see that the treaties were written and to safeguard the rights of the nations which participated in the war to have a say in the treaties.

Byrnes suggested that the ministers set a definite date for the conference now and then continue working in Paris in small, informal sessions to try to narrow down the measure of disagreement between them, prior to the conference.

TO BREAK UP

Although the conferees were expected to make a last ditch effort today to compromise the divergent views of Russia and the United States on the convening of a general peace parley, most observers predicted that no such agreement would be effected and that the ministers would return to their homes early next week.

Delegates themselves admitted privately that there was only a flicker of hope for bridging the gap between Russia and the west on several fundamental issues.

Lewis Sanctions Coal Production For Two Weeks

WASHINGTON —(AP)—John L. Lewis today called for a 12-day truce in the soft coal strike, beginning Monday.

Lewis wired every local union president urging him to arrange for the 400,000 striking United Mine Workers to get back on the job as soon as the local mine management agreed to make retroactive during the truce any pay increase later negotiated.

This action is the contribution of the United Mine Workers of America to our nation's economy," Lewis telegraphed the locals, "which is being imperiled by the stupidity and selfish greed of the coal operators and associated financial interests and by demagogues who have tried to lash the public mind into a state of hysteria rather than grant justice and fair treatment to the men who mine the nation's coal."

AFTER SUMMONS

Lewis acted less than an hour after President Truman invited the mine leader and a representative of the operators to a White House conference at 1 p.m. (PST).

The UMW chieftain told the union locals: "The coal to be mined during this two week (truce) period can be utilized for consumption by essential facilities and the nation's health and security thus safeguarded while efforts to negotiate a contract continue.

Although the 40 day old strike of 400,000 soft coal miners held principal attention on the labor front, there were other developments affecting thousands of workers.

OLDEST DISPUTE ENDS

As the number of idle because of labor disputes continued to rise totaling more than 1,100,000, the country's oldest major strike in recent months was settled, indicating 76,000 would be removed from the strike lines.

The 115-day old walkout of 76,000 Westinghouse Electric Corp. production workers was settled on the basis of an 18 cent hourly wage increase. Twenty-three CIO United Electrical Workers locals in 12 states were asked to meet "not later than Sunday" to ratify a contract that would formally end the strike.

The union originally sought a $2 a day wage hike, then lowered its demand to 18½ cents hourly. An additional 124,000 CIO electrical workers had walked out last Jan. 15 against General Electric and General Motors but agreements were signed several weeks ago.

CONVAIR STRIKE ENDS

Another long strike was reported settled at San Diego, Calif., where about 1,500 aircraft machinists had been on strike for 96 days at the Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corp. Plant. A federal conciliator said the agreement will be recommended by the independent union's negotiating committee to a special membership tomorrow. The terms were not disclosed, but previously the union and company had agreed to 15 per cent wage increases.

In Chicago, David L. Behncke, president of the AFL Air Line Pilots Association said that a scheduled strike against Transcontinental and Western Airlines (Trans World Airline) had been "indefinitely suspended" pending a hearing before an emergency board appointed last Tuesday by President Truman.

Behncke said President Truman was advised of the decision to suspend the strike involving 1,000 pilots and that the association would appear before the emergency board which is to study the wage dispute. The strike had been called for midnight Tuesday but was delayed upon Mr. Truman's action in naming the panel, as provided under the railway labor act which governs airlines disputes.

HARD COAL TOO?

While top federal officials in Washington attempted to end the crippling soft coal dispute, leaders of the AFL United Mine Workers and the mine operators were in New York to begin labor contract negotiations.

The union, representing 75,000 hard coal miners in Pennsylvania, served a strike notice on May 1. Its contract expires on May 31 and in the past anthracite workers have refused to work without a contract. A general contract demands, approved by a union scale convention upon suggestion of President John L. Lewis included higher pay and shorter hours, establishment of a health and welfare fund and other benefits.

A new strike was reported in Los Angeles, with 2,000 CIO production workers quitting their jobs at the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company plant. Pickets said the walkout was "the last attempt to get reasonable collective bargaining" from the company.

Portland High School Kids Back to Books After Demonstrations

PORTLAND, Ore.—(AP)—Portland's high school students apparently settled back to books today after two days' of spasmodic demonstrations and strikes in protest of an anticipated school budget cut.

Principals reported classes seemed to have normal attendance this morning. They counted at least 2,145 AWOL youngsters yesterday from among the Portland high school's 14,100 enrollment.

The uproar, occasioned chiefly by students' fear they would lose sports activities, broke out Wednesday and erupted yesterday in downtown parades, a march through the city, and a rally in a downtown park last night.

The first engagement rings, used in the time of the Romans, were made of iron.

FIANCE KILLED HE ENDS LIFE

AUBURN, Wash. —(AP)— Deputy Coroner Dell Price said John Schertinig, 44, railroad employe, shot himself to death today, a few hours after his fiance, Mrs. Dorothy Nobbs, 43, burned to death in a fire which destroyed her three-room home here. Her daughter, Rose, 13, also died in the fire, but a son, Alfred, 15, escaped. Mrs. Nobbs was a divorcee.

Scherting was found dead in a garage at the home of his brother, Peter, a mile from the Nobbs home. He was shot through the head. Price said a rifle and a note lay nearby. The note read in part:

"I am very much in love with Dorothy. There is nothing in life for me now that Dorothy is gone."

COLLIE SAVES BLEEDING GIRL

NEW CASTLE, N. H. —(AP)— Nellis Earl's year old collie, Brucie, kept tugging at his trousers today until Earl followed the dog to a goldfish pond.

There he found three-year old Barbara Anne James, unconscious and bleeding from a cut head. He applied artificial respiration and revived her.

Earl said the dog apparently saw the little girl tumble into the pool, striking her head as she fell. Brucie pulled her to safety and then ran for his master, a landscape gardener.

WINDOW SHADES RAISED (BY OPA)

WASHINGTON—(AP)—OPA today raised retail price ceilings for window shades by from two to 12 cents.

Manufacturers' ceilings are being increased 15 to 20 per cent, effective immediately, to offset higher wage and material costs.

Dealers may not charge the higher retail prices until notified by manufacturers of the increase, OPA said.

WHO WON THE WAR? BROOKLYN OF COURSE

BERLIN—(AP)—Who won the war? BROOKLYN. Because her sons gave the army the belly laughs you have to have at times when you either must laugh or go crazy.

You couldn't throw a horseshoe in the airforces without hitting someone from Texas, and what Texas was in the air, Brooklyn was on the ground.

If you picked any five guys at random from the infantry, one of them was sure to be from Broklyn.

ALWAYS IN INFANTRY

It was always one of the mysteries of the war how so many subway riders managed to end up among the "walking soldiers." And the bunions they brought home will keep borough foot doctors in Bay Ridge clover for another 50 years.

It was a hard adjustment they made—from pavements to foxholes, from crowded street corners to bare Tunisia deserts, from steam heat to bunks in Belgian snowdrifts. And they complained there was too much ventilation in the war, and that the next one should be fought indoors.

"Bum management," they said, and wanted to know why, if the army could bring over jeeps, it couldn't bring over taxis instead so everybody would be more comfortable.

MORALE BUILDERS

They groused and hollered more than a calf caught in a beartrap, but their griping always had a laugh in it. One Brooklyn boy was a better morale builder than any three USO camp shows. His wry humor and endless wisecracks as he labored up a cliff carrying a mortar plate would keep a line of weary doughboys grinning all the way.

Brooklyn produced more than her share of heroes and medal winners. Her boys had guts as well as mouths. They learned their strange new trade well.

Many now lie from Casablanca to Pilsen, side by side under the Christain cross and the star of David. Mike and Tony and Sammy, linked in death by the same democracy they learned in Flatbush, where you pour Irish, Italians, Swedes and Jews together and get—Americans.

Churchill's Pan-European Plan Not New

By DeWitt Mackenzie
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Winston Churchill's dramatic proposal of a "United States of Europe, both of the east and west," again sets in motion idealistic gears which almost meshed in 1929 after generations of study.

Britain's famous war-time prime minister offers this startling plan at a moment of grave crisis in the relations between Russia and the western Allies. It's only a couple of days ago that he made another appeal for a faithful understanding with the Soviet union through the United Nations—for "only in this way can catasthophe be avoided."

WINNIE UNION-MINDED

It is noteworthy that this isn't the first time Churchill has turned to such unity for strength. On that black seventeenth of June, 1940, when France in her agony appealed to Germany for peace, his government offered to conclude a "solemn act of union" with France. This projected the actual merging of the British and French empires so that they should "no longer be two but one Franco-British union."

One wishes that Mr. Churchill might give us the benefit of a further analysis of the present project, especially of that expression "both of the east and west"

The Soviet union, by bringing virtually all of eastern Europe and the Balkans within its sphere of influence, already has created an eastern United States. It remains but to build a western coalition and then try to coordinate the two. The idea of a European political federation—a United States of Europe (a pan-Europa)—was under discussion numerous times during the nineteenth century. The exponents of the project were largely inspired by the success of the United States of America in maintaining its union of forty-eight states. The European proposal was fascinating to some but just the raving of long-haired idealists to others, and when it failed of official recognition anywhere it temporarily passed out of the public eye.

BRIAND FOR THE IDEA

However, the idea was too powerful to die such a death. Shortly after World War one the project of creating a pan-Europa was revived. Great leaders of thought like the French statesman Aristide Briand—numerous times premier of his country—rallied to the cause, and your columnist (then living in Europe) was privileged to watch Briand and others in action.

Many exponents of pan-Europa envisioned a world divided into five groups: The British empire, pan-America, China and Japan, pan-Europa, and the Russian states which were considered Asiatic. It is significant that the school of pan-Europeans figured that the Soviet form of rule was incompatible with the democracy of the rest of Europe and therefore that Russia didn't fit into the picture.

Many Veterans Getting On-the-Job Training

The Washington regional office of the veterans administration said today that 1,790 veterans in the state of Washington have entered into on-the-job training during the past three months.

The monthly number of applications for on-the-job training completely processed by the Seattle office tripled during the quarter, the VA announced, rising from 281 in February to 952 in April. March trainees totaled 557.

As of May 1 there was a grand total of 2,477 veterans in the state taking job training under the veterans program and receiving subsistence checks, the VA said.

The VA also revealed that because of the heavy increase in applications for job training there are over 400 veterans in the state who have not yet received their subsistence checks from the government, the delay in a majority of cases being due to factors not under its jurisdiction.

MAY REINSTATE INSURANCE

As an inducement to veterans to reinstate National Service Life Insurance that they may have allowed to lapse, the Veterans Administration has recently announced a liberalized reinstatement plan. Veterans now have the privilege of applying for reinstatement of lapsed policies without physical examination, regardless of length of lapse, if in as good health as they were at time of lapse. This provision will be in effect until January 1, 1947. Term insurance may be reinstated by the payment of only two monthly premiums.

Admiral Marc A. Mitscher, USN, Commander of the new Eighth Fleet, announces extensive maneuvers in the Western Atlantic and Caribbean areas, April 19, to May 27, at a news conference at the Navy Department in Washington, D. C. A total of 29 ships, including the USS Missouri and the new super-carriers, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Midway, will take part in the maneuvers, described as the most extensive to be held in the Atlantic since 1939. As stories of local men taking part in these maneuvers are received from the Fleet by the Fleet Home Town News Center in Chicago, they will be edited and distributed to home town newspapers.

Familiar Scenes Of Orient Not Easily Forgotten

By Sergeant Michael D. Brown
(Marine Corps Correspondent)

SASEBO, Japan (Delayed) — When the last Pacific occupationer has returned to America and has exchanged his war togs for civilian garb, the land of Japan will be far from his daily thoughts.

However, average John Q. Citizen-Soldier will long remember the "little things" his five senses recorded while here. Here are a few of them:

The click-clack of the Japanese geta or wooden shoes on cobble-stoned streets.

The beauty and nostalgia of untouched Kyoto in central Honshu.

The thousand and one smells of atom-bombed Nagasaki and the knee-deep rubble that once was Hiroshima.

HARD-WORKING COUNTRY

The ever-working Jap woman, the beast of burden of the Mikado's country.

The thorough cultivation of every piece of available ground. The numerous paddies and marshy sweet potato plots.

The Shino and Buddha temples and the constant flow of worshippers.

The defeated armies, returned from China, Manchuria and the bypassed islands.

PICTURESQUE CUSTOMS

The time-honored custom of removing the shoes before entering the "sacred" home.

The comic-looking Jap policeman with his gleaming knife-size saber.

Drinking out of the same cup as a gesture of good fellowship.

Street-walkers wearing white gauze cloth over the mouth and nose to ward off dust and disease.

Driving on the left-hand side of the road.

The saki, kimonos, geishas, rickshas and sanpans which are synonymous with the orient.

There are many more, but let the ex-serviceman from here tell them. Each has his own tale.

Craig McGee And Tom Vasilatos Meet in Korea

A letter written by T/Sgt. Craig McGee from Seoul, Korea, to his mother, Mrs. Herbert McGee, Port Angeles, tells of having seen Tom Vasilatos, another local boy who is also with the occupational forces in Korea. In his letter he states, "Thursday just about quittin' time, who should walk in but Tom Vasilatos. I had thought that he might possibly get up here but not quite this soon. He played on the twentieth infantry basketball team which won the divisional championship and was given a trip to the big town (Seoul). Makes you feel that you have a fair deal when someone comes in from an outpost like that. Tom was staying at a GI hotel downtown—he left this morning by plane, I hope. It's about 200 miles to Kwangju where he is stationed and a rough trip by rail. He's a very nice kid and we spent Thursday evening talking over the home town, the army, school, etc. But for Tom's visit the week has been the same old routine. It's much warmer now—Tuesday night I was color bearer in the retreat parade and I worked up my first sweat since arriving last fall . . . I should leave here in June and will know inside of a month what the story will be. . ."

Craig is with a headquarters company of the thirty-first infantry and is stationed at Seoul, the capital of Korea, situated in the central part of the peninsula, while Tom is at Kwangju, a small place in the southern part of the country. Both were graduated from Roosevelt high school, Craig in '44, Tom with the class of '45. Both boys expect to continue in school when released from the armed forces.

Military Committee In House Approves Extension of Draft

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The house military committee today approved a senate-passed resolution extending the draft law until July 1.

Chairman May (D-Ky) told reporters the committee's action was not unanimous, indicating that the measure would face opposition on the house floor.

He said he would seek unanimous consent of the house for its immediate consideration. A single objection, however, could block house action today.

The measure, an obvious expedient designed to give congress more legislative elbow room, leaves the ultimate fate of selective service still beset with uncertainties.

It was passed quickly and without opposition yesterday by the senate's hurried effort to prevent the draft from expiring at midnight next Wednesday.

PATRIOTIC DAY

OLYMPIA —(AP)—Sunday, May 19, was proclaimed "I Am An American" day by Governor Wallgren yesterday.

He urged Citizens to set the day aside "to pay special tribute to the war veterans and to those brave Americans who gave their lives that we might remain free."

Generals Ike, Doug Meet in Tokyo; First Time in Seven Years

TOKYO — (AP) — The top commanders of victorious Allied armies in Europe and the Pacific met today for the first time since hostilities began.

"We never thought we'd be getting together again out here," exclaimed General Eisenhower, whose leadership brought victory in the European theater, to General MacArthur, supreme commander in the Pacific.

They had not met since 1939, when Eisenhower as a lieutenant colonel left the staff of MacArthur, then commander in the Philippines.

"Well, Mac, how are you?" were the chief of staff's first words as he grasped MacArthur's hands.

"It's good to see you again," exclaimed MacArthur as he slapped Eisenhower on the shoulder.

After a quick word with Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, eighth army commander who accompanied MacArthur to Atsugi airport, the two top commanders departed for lunch at the American embassy.

Eisenhower's plane landed with the aid of radar because of a 500 foot ceiling and a drizzling rain.

Admiral Says Navy Had Gambling Hall At Hawaiian Base

WASHINGTON —(AP)— An account of a navy-supervised gambling hall at Pearl Harbor specializing in no-limit craps, blackjack and poker was laid before the senate war investigating committee today by Rear Admiral Austin K. Doyle, deputy inspector general.

Doyle said a chief bos'ns mate was stationed in the hall "to keep order, regulate the gambling and see that only the proper persons were admitted."

The skys-the-limit games were played in the recreation hall of civilian housing area No. 3, adjacent to the navy yard, during 1943 and 1944, Doyle said.

He testified the organized gambling was permitted as the lesser of two evils. He described the civilian employes of the yard as "a rough element," few of whom had their families with them, and added that the atmosphere of the housing area was "kind of like that of an old fashioned lumber camp."

His 15-year-old bride, Patsy Ann, whom he married in Denver, told newsmen last night they were anxious for his release because she believed she was going to have a baby.

Good Trees and Good Taverns

About the finest stand of timber in our county is on Asa Fullmore's farm. Asa says it's due to "regulation"—checking on trees that don't come up to standard, and trimming them off to give the other trees a chance for healthy livelihood.

He was explaining it to us in Andy Botkin's Garden Tavern, and Andy nodded approvingly.

"The same goes for any industry," says Andy. "Like the brewers who give us tavern keepers beer to sell. If they find the place isn't up to standard—clean and courteous and wholesome—they start giving warning. Then, if the warning isn't heeded, they start trimming!"

From where I sit, self-regulation within the brewing industry has done as much to give us pleasant, wholesome places to enjoy a moderate glass of beer, as Asa Fullmore's forestry has done to keep his white pines tall and healthy. It's nature's own protection—and the best there is!

RADIO STATIONS CAN TAKE IT EASY

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Acting to conserve power, the federal communications commission today suspended temporarily its rules requiring radio stations to operate a minimum number of hours.

Stations operating on unlimited time have been required to broadcast at least 16 hours daily.

As a result of its action, the commission said, two or more stations in the same area may be able to provide continuous service during the coal shortage by broadcasting alternately.

Nightclubs were first known as musical restaurants.

Barbers practised surgery in Europe until the early 18th century.

BUSH BEANS BEST

Since everyone is doing his best to have some vegetables, fresh from the garden as much as possible, the bush beans are very handy. They may be planted in short rows in any spare or vacant spot where they get full sun. Whenever any other vegetable crop is removed consider whether you cannot profitably set in a "catch" or "in-between" crop of bush beans.

When planted in rich, moist soil during the warm weather, beans literally "pop" out of the ground and will produce a pickable crop in eight to ten weeks for the first plantings and six to eight weeks for the later ones.

The best method is to figure out just how many beans are desired and plant a row of the required length at two-week intervals. In the bush beans there are both green and yellow (or wax) podded sorts. Most gardeners plant one row of each at each planting.

Don't waste seed. Crowded plants in a row don't produce as good a crop as those that have plenty of space to grow and breathe. The best way to set the seed is to drop each one singly about three to four inches apart. Bean seeds all grow, so that there is no use to provide for "misses."

After the seed has been placed in the rows, cover it with a rake, being careful to use only fine soil. All lumps and stones should be removed. After covering, the soil should be firmly trodden down and then the surface should be lightly raked.

Soils that are heavy or clayey are likely to pack or form a crust on top; so be sure to rake the surface half inch after firming down the soil.

Seed should be set in rows that are 24 inches distant from the next row of beans or any other short vegetables. If you have a couple of rows of early carrots, beets, spinach, radish or lettuce, set the beans between these rows to conserve space. The initial crops will be gone before the beans need much space.

About two or three days before planting the seed, hoe out a row and leave the soil exposed to the sun and air for that period. The depth of the row depends on the kind of soil. If it is light and sandy the furrow should be three inches deep, but if it is clayey or heavy, two inches is enough.

It is not recommended to soak bean seeds before planting. Nature is quite capable of starting them into quick growth without any unnatural assistance which might cause the seed to rot. It is wise, however, to dust the seeds with Rootone, which provides the hormones which will initiate a better and stronger young growth.

"POLE" BEANS

These take up much more room than the bush sorts, but since each plant produces a much heavier crop, the results for the same area are about the same. Pole beans are recommended where there is plenty of room, and since they bear the beans well up the vines, many gardeners plant other crops at their feet. Cucumbers are especially suitable to grow around pole beans.

The poles should be placed or set before the seeds are planted. These should be set six feet apart each way for best results. Generally the beans are trained up the stout poles and then string is stretched from pole to pole to provide further vining space. Beans will grow and grow until they reach the tops of poles of any height, but since the trouble of picking off tall poles must be considered, the best method is to have nine-foot poles buried about 24 to 30 inches deep, leaving six to seven feet of each pole above ground, and to stretch the strings when convenient but before the bean vines reach the top.

FERTILIZING

Since beans are grown to produce pods, and not a crop of plant, do not use any animal manures before planting. This would produce a rank plant or vine at the expense of the usable crop.

Beans thrive where plenty of a good commercial plant food has been added to the soil in advance of planting the seed. They also respond even better if a dressing of garden lime or gypsum has been added to the soil. This calcium dressing will help your favorite NULIFE plant food to "go to work" and assist it to give you the greatest value in results.

CULTIVATION

The soil around beans should be kept stirred continuously during the whole of the plant's growing season. Cultivation greatly helps the beans to grow rapidly and produce a heavier crop of "meaty beans."

WARNING. Never cultivate, weed, pick beans or even walk between the rows while the plants are wet with dew or rain, or while the soil is moist right after irrigating. Never sprinkle or wet the plants or vines of beans. If moisture is lacking in the soil, cultivate or irrigate as early as possible in the morning.

Summer Camp Plans Made For Camp Fire

Plans for the Camp Fire period at Camp David Junior on Lake Crescent were discussed at the guardians meeting Tuesday at the home of Mrs. L. O. Madison.

The camping period for Camp Fire girls will be August 12-24, and provision is being made to care for 60 girls. If the quota cannot be filled with Camp Fire girls, Bluebirds will be included in the period, according to Mrs. Claude Phifer, president of the guardians association. She asked that guardians make tentative lists of girls that may be expected to attend Camp Wolochee, as it is called by Camp Fire girls.

Mrs. Lucian Lamoureux and Mrs. Madison will be in charge of a council fire May 24 at the Camp Fire clubhouse at 7:30 in the evening, for girls who wish to take ranks.

Mrs. Phifer reported the Girl Scouts and Camp Fire girls collected $250 April 27 for the cancer drive.

It was announced a camping period for guardians will be held from June 19-22 at Camp Sealth on Vashon Island. A number of guardians expressed their desire to attend.

Pictures taken at the recent Bluebird father-daughter dinner were distributed and guardians were instructed where more may be obtained.

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. Madison.

Hawaiian Statehood Would Change Flag

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NEA)—The newest proposal for arranging the 49 stars in Old Glory if Hawaii is admitted to statehood is to change the blue field to a square with seven rows of seven stars each. Robert Garland, president of the Historical Society of Western Pennsylvania, points to the significance of this arrangement. Protestants will be reminded of the Biblical seven days of the creation, Catholics of the seven hills of Rome, and Jews of their golden number and the seven lights in their Holy of Holies.

The Department of Agriculture says farm real estate prices are now as much above prewar values as the post-World War I prices were above pre-World War I values. In other words, there is now just as much inflation in farm real estate as there was after the last war. The only redeeming feature in today's situation is that over half of the farms now changing hands are bought and sold for cash. The 1920 crash in farm values ruined so many farmers because most of them bought on time at inflated values, mortgaging themselves heavily into debt.

AUTO, bus, and truck men are expressing elation over the railroads' application for a 25 per cent increase in freight rates, and they hope the ICC and OPA will approve the raise. The theory is that higher rail rates will drive more and more business to the automotive carriers.

Commercial airlines, as well as the buslines, are providing more and more competition to railroad passenger train operation. Many plane fares are now lower than rail plus Pullman, and meals on the airlines are free. But, in the face of the airlines' increasing prosperity, a movement is going forward in Congress to consider making the commercial airlines pay more for government weather, navigation, inspection, and licensing services, and to increase landing charges at airports.

PAINT and soap makers may feel the pinch of world food shortages next. It will come as a result of the world shortage of fats and oils. During the war paint and soap makers developed and used many substitutes, but when restrictions were removed on fat and oil allocations, these industries went back to using linseed oil, palm oil, cottonseed oil, and other fats and oils which are considered edible and are used for cooking in other parts of the world.

The Civil Aeronautics Board is soon due to hand down a number of decisions awarding certificates to operate "feeder" airlines between small cities and to carry traffic to major scheduled stops on main commercial airlines. The first certificates have already been granted to two feeder lines in the Rocky Mountains and one in Florida.

ARMY'S MERGER PLAN COULD UPSET GOVERNMENT

Under the guise of merging the armed forces, the army has sneaked into the senate with a bill which, if enacted, could be used to destroy the executive arm of the government as it is now constituted.

A more honest title for this new secret weapon of the army would be "a bill to abolish all other departments and agencies of the government summarily and secretly."

What the army's proposed bill does, in addition to merging the war and navy departments into a single department of common defense, is to establish a national security resources board, another one of those "new and independent" agencies for which the United States is notorious. The chairman of this board, the secretary of common defense, and the secretary of state would, under the bill, comprise a triumvirate known as the council of common defense. Both this council and the resources board are given powers so broad as to be revolutionary.

WOULD SET POLICY

For all practical purposes, the foreign policy of this nation would be determined by the president and the triumvirate and not by the president and the secretary of state as it is now.

The bill authorizes the new agency, the national security resources board, "to prepare and maintain an inventory of the natural resources of the nation. . . to formulate policies and programs for the purpose of maintaining adequate reserves of strategic minerals and conserving our natural resources . . . to formulate policies and programs for the maximum use of the nation's resources."

Since the nation's resources include not only minerals and oil, but forests and soil, fish and animals, the bill would do away with the necessity for a department of the interior with its bureau of mines, geological survey, general land office, fish and wildlife service, grazing service and bureau of reclamation. Nor would there be any place for a Department of Agriculture with is soil husbandry programs or its Forest Service.

Another section of the bill provides that the board would prepare and maintain adequate information on the manpower, resources, and productive facilities of the nation. This would, to say the least, duplicate the work of the labor department and its United States employment service, and of the commerce department.

CONTAINS BRIGHT GEM

Despite these broad specific powers, just in case there might be a disposition to retain certain of the existing departments, the bill contains this bright gem: "With respect to decisions of the board which affect agencies beyond the control of the council or not represented by members of the council, appropriate action (always in the common defense, of course!) shall be recommended to the heads thereof and if action satisfactory to the council is not taken by such departments and agencies the council will recommend appropriate action to the president."

This means that these three men could, and probably would, recommend the firing of any cabinet officer, if he didn't jump through the hoop when called upon to do so.

ARMY MUST KNOW

It would be absurd to believe that the army did not know of the bill's potentialities. Extraordinary measures were taken to keep the advent of the little stranger from the public. Ordinarily bills prepared by a deparment are circulated among other department for comment before being sent to the congress for introduction. They are also presented to the bureau of the budget for close scrutiny. In this instance, Kenneth Royall, under secretary of war, seems to have slipped into the president's office where he apparently gave Mr. Truman a bit of fast talk and secured one of those hair-trigger decisions whose recoil on past occasions should have made the president gun-shy by this time. He then marched this bill to the senate where he prevailed upon Senator Elbert Thomas, chairman of the senate military affairs committee, to introduce it without hearings.

Incidentally, the pressing reason for the proposed merger of our armed forces was the shocking lack of coordination among army, navy and air force field commanders brought to light at Pearl Harbor and thereafter. Nobody ever charged that there was ever any lack of coordination between the civilian heads of the war and navy departments. Yet, this bill would not so much merge the armed forces as it would submerge the civilian agencies of the government.

President Truman is not, I think, in favor of turning this government over to the brass hats. But if he is, the change ought to be made openly so that people may have a chance to have their say.

Truce 'Temporary Reprieve From Death,' According to Senators

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senatorial critics declared today that John L. Lewis' coal strike truce is "only temporary" and demanded that the senate go ahead with strike control legislation.

Senator Eastland (D-Miss.) told reporters he will insist on speedy action on a revised version of the house-approved Case bill, which the senate was expected to take up this afternoon immediately after disposing of the $3,750,000,000 British loan bill.

TEMPORARY REPRIEVE

"Lewis' offer gives the American people a temporary reprieve from death," Eastland declared. "The fight must go on to curb him and his kind. Congress shouldn't leave the power in the hands of any one man to destroy the nation."

Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.) told reporters that the Case bill will be called up on schedule.

He said that Lewis' action justifies the hope that during the truce period agreement can be reached between the mine operators and the union so the strike need not be resumed.

Senator Brooks (R-Ill.) observed that the same result might have been obtained much sooner if President Truman had invited the operators and union representatives to the White House several days ago instead of waiting until today.

Eastland said he expects the "real fight" in the senate to come over efforts to write into the Case bill a provision outlawing the closed shop.

Northwest Airlines' Spokane Employes Get On Bandwagon

SPOKANE—(AP)—Maintenance and service workers of Northwest Airlines yesterday voted to give notice to strike, joining employes at Portland, Seattle and St. Paul.

C. F. West, Seattle, international representative of the AFL International Association of Machinists, said last night the workers favored strike notices by votes of 20 to 1 in Spokane, 12 to 0 in Portland, 56 to 1 in Seattle and 275 to 4 in St. Paul.

He said the union is asking a 22 per cent wage increase, plus wage differentials of 10 and 15 cents respectively, for afternoon and night work.

Airlines employes are governed by the railway mediation act, West said, and are unable to strike until 30 days after notice is given.

The Scotch parliament banned golf in 1457 because it interfered with archery.

CAN'T USE STATE DOUGH

OLYMPIA —(AP)— Governor Wallgren today warned city and county officials to "stop running to the state for funds."

"If county assessors refuse to raise valuations of property, the state is not going to furnish counties with money they should obtain through local channels," he said.

HUSKIES ABOUT OUT OF RACE

SEATTLE—(AP)—The Webfoots from Oregon racked up their tenth victory in Northern Division play yesterday—against only two losses, by defeating the University of Washington 9 to 6.

The win was Oregon's second straight over the hapless Huskies.

The Beavers from Oregon State checked off a second straight win too, knocking over the Vandals of Idaho, on their own lot, 13 to 9. The Beaver victory gives the O. S. C. nine a firmer grip on second place in league standings, they having nudged Washington out of the runner-up location yesterday.

The scores: R. H. E.
Oregon .....009 003 006—9 9 6
Wash. .....001 120 020—6 11 7

Sports Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

LEXINGTON, Ky.—(AP)—If the Red Sox win the American League pennant—and they're sure heading that way now—a lot of the credit should go to Bill McKechnie, though Bill won't claim it . . . It was Bill who touted Cronin onto Boo Ferris and when Joe was worried about third base, McKechnie asked: "Why don't you use that boy who looked so good against us?" It was Leon Culberson, whose homer won Boston's twelfth straight game the other day . . . Visitors here from the deep south are arguing whether Georgia's Charley Trippi or Alabama's Harry Gilmer will receive the biggest football buildup next fall . . . Whirlaway, always a friend of the sports writers, did something many of them probably have wanted to do when he bit a publicity man's finger Wednesday.

NATURALLY

Tom B. Underwood, Lexington Herald editor and secretary of the National Association of State Racing Commissioners, likes to tell about the time he dreamed he had gone to heaven . . . As he approached the gates, he was surprised to find they were exactly like the entrance to the Keeneland track . . . That looked pretty good to a guy from the Blue Grass, and to make it perfect, just as he entered, St. Peter remarked: "Hi, Tom. Got anything good in the fifth?"

COWS DISCONSOLATE DAYLIGHT TIME IN

CLEARFIELD, Pa. —(AP)— The threat of a dairymen's strike in Clearfield county is over and the cows hereabouts will just have to get used to being milked on daylight saving time.

The 40 or 50 farmers who supply this community's two dairies have voted against striking—but they want the daylight time issue submitted to a popular vote in the fall election.

On April 28, the farmers threatened to strike when townspeople changed to daylight time. They contended farming operations were not suited to the advanced time and that their cows gave less milk.

High Schools Here Saturday For Track Meet

Saturday, on the green expanse of the Port Angeles Civic Field, a host of county records will be tottering in Clallam county's historic annual track meet.

In the hundred yard dash, the nine year old record of Eddie Brophy is challenged by Christian, chunky, barrel-chested Fork's speedster and grid ace, who last week tied Brophy's record of 10:3. Christian also threatens Brophy's record of 23:4 with a mark of 23:6 set in the Quillayute relays.

In the 440, Sequim's captain, Bill Tulin's best time is 55:2 which is shaking Richard Dryke's record of 54:4 set back in 1942.

In the pole vault, Leonard Caughron, the Wolves' most consistent point getter, is aiming at the 11 foot 6½ inch record by Oliver Nelson in 1942.

One of the oldest records still on the books is the 4:54.0 mile set by Oram Medsker of Sequim back in 1935. Ernie Kettel veteran Sequim miler, and co-captain of the Sequim team, will be shooting at this mark. In last year's district competition Ernie cracked the record by 2 seconds. In his attempt Kettel will be aided by the sophomore sensation Stanley Cameron, Kettel's running partner.

The Sequim relay team, beaten this year only by the powerful Lakeside Lions, will try for the 1:35.1 record set in 1939 by the Port Angeles team of Butler, Caulkins, Frame and Brophy.

Railsplitters In Softball Victory

Superb pitching by Joey Clark enabled Lincoln's softball team to beat Jefferson 8-6 Tuesday at Pine hill.

Hilt, Scott and Kidd gave Clark good support in helping pull him out of the tight spots. It was a tough game for Johnson, Jeff pitcher, to lose, as he had the game fairly well in hand until the seventh.

Lincoln's lineup was: Houk, c; Clark, p; Scott, 1b; Hilt, ss; Evans, 2b; Lowery, ss; Kidd, 3b; Bailey, Fleener, Kobel, Crossman and Florence in the outfield.

For Jefferson: Johnson, p; Cruze, 2b; Remo, 1b; Venables, c; Gagen, ss; Kent, 3b; Angevine, ss; Sandas, Basom and King, outfield.

Red Sox After Consecutive Mark

(By The Associated Press)

Off past records, the Boston Red Sox stand a seven-to-three chance of winning the American League pennant.

In defeating the Chicago White Sox, 7-5, yesterday to stretch their winning streak to 14 straight games, the Red Hose joined 10 other junior circuit clubs which have won 14 or more consecutive games since the loop was organized in 1901. Seven of these went on to capture the flag.

ONE MORE NEEDED

The Red Sox need only a victory over the Yankees in their series opener at New York today to record the longest winning streak in the American League since the A's swept through 17 consecutive wins in 1931. Should Boston sweep the weekend three-game set, the Sox will rank second only to Chicago's hitless wonders of 1906. The National league record is 26 by the New York Giants in 1916.

Nelson Potter, an old Yankee jinx who hasn't been beaten by the New Yorkers in two years, gained his fifth straight triumph over the MacCarthymen when he pitched the St. Louis Browns to a 6-1 victory.

MIZE HITS HARD

Homers played an important role in the New York Giants' 6-1 triumph over the Pittsburgh Pirates. Johnny Mize banged his fifth round tripper and Rookie Jack Graham his first to help Bill Voiselle gain his second win. The Giants moved into a fourth place National league tie with the Chicago Cubs.

The Cubs were beaten, 5-2, in 12 innings by Billy Southworth's rejuvenated Boston Braves. Tied at 2-all in the 12th, the Tribe tallied on a double steal by Johnny Hopp and Tommy Holmes with Hopp racing across, and added two more on Stu Hofferth's timely single. The victory advanced the Braves to third place.

Brooklyn missed an opportunity to move into a first place tie with the idle St. Louis Cardinals when the Dodgers came out on the short end of an 8-7 score against the Cincinnati Reds.

Continuing to rebound from their seven-game losing skein, the Detroit Tigers made it five wins in succession when they edged out Washington's Senators, 9-8, in another 12-inning affair.

Russ Derry, recently acquired from the New York Yankees, laced out three doubles to lead the Philadelphia Athletics to a 7-6 win over the Cleveland Indians.

Another Spring Salmon Taken Off Ediz Hook

Mrs. Mel Ray, wife of the manager of the Ediz hook salmon clubhouse, caught a small spring salmon off the point of Ediz hook this morning while "mooching" with herring bait. That spring is the only one caught today and as far as known there were no other boats out.

At least four springs were caught here Thursday and its is predicted there will be a number of fishermen out over the week-end trying to get rungs on the summer ladder of the Port Angeles Salmon Club.

Spring salmon hit at Dungeness harbor last Saturday and some have been caught each day since and many local and Dungeness fishermen will be trying their luck there, fishermen say.

Lowland lakes in and outside the Olympic National Park and streams inside park boundaries open to fishing, will have as guests many trout fisherman. It is probable that lakes and stream's fed by melting snow waters will be cloudy and high but other spots should produce good great fishing this week end. The dog wood trees are in bloom and that is a sign, old timers say, that trout are biting in the lakes.

Washington Sure Winner in Softball

Coach Keeling's mighty mites have virtually captured the grade school softball championship by trouncing Queen of Angels Thursday, 17-3. The game was not exactly a wild one, but these Washingtonians just kept scoring one, two and three runs per inning until they finally accounted for seventeen tallies.

Little Arlin McDonald almost had a perfect day at the plate, getting three hits for four tries. McDonald plays well in the outfield for Keeling's champs. MacFadden, also of Washington, connected for a four-bagger for the mightiest hit of the day. The big sticker for Father Arnold's Angels was Jarvis who garnered two for three.

Each school has two more games yet to play with the season ending in two weeks. Washington can not do worse than tie for top spot even if they lose both games. However, it is not likely they can be dumped.

The nearest teams to the leaders are Lincoln and Jeffersen, both having two wins and two losses. Yet to get in the win column is the Angels with a nothing to four percentage. Even though Arnold's boys can not seem to get those runs, his boys really display a lot of fight and never stop trying.

Seals Beaten By Solons In Pitching Duel

By William Weathersby
Associated Press Sports Writer

The fast-fading San Francisco Seals know too well there's some of the old-time sorcery left in the pitching arm of Al Smith, the top chucker in the Pacific Coast baseball league.

The 38-year-old Sacramento southpaw, whose talents once helped to win pennants for the New York Giants, last night put the drooping Seals behind his special eight ball for the third time in a row. He failed, however, to repeat his previous shutouts and had to be satisfied with a 2-1 decision

It was Smith's fifth victory against no losses this season, but his string of scoreless innings was snapped at 31 when Ferri Fain, slugging Seal rapped out a single to send Willie Enos home from second in the seventh inning.

The league record of consecutive scoreless innings is 48.

ANGELES CLIMBING

The floundering of the Seals left the gate open for the Los Angeles Angels, who climbed within half a game of the all-season pace-makers on a 3-1 defeat of the Portland Beavers. Third place Oakland tripped the Seattle Rainiers, 5 to 3, and the Hollywood Stars slugged out a 10-3 drubbing of the San Diego Padres.

Dick Conger turned in three-hit hurling for Angeles' third straight win over the Beavers and his fifth victory against two losses this year. The Angel batsmen set him up with five hits out of six turns at the plate for three runs in the first inning.

The Oakland Acorns annexed their second game out of the three in their current series with Seattle on Second Baseman Tony Sabol's triple and an error in the eighth inning. The blow brought in Mickey Burnett, who had singled, and Sabol romped home on an error in the relay through Shortstop Tony York.

Hollywood moved into fourth place, dropping San Diego into second division, on Ed Frautt's seven-hit pitching and a 15-hit assault on six Padre pitchers. Tom Seats was the losing pitcher.

The scores:
Seattle ..... 300 000 000—3 6 2
Oakland ..... 000 200 12x—5 9 1

Softball League To Organize Mon.

By R. Gallacci

Port Angeles will have its first softball league since the war. Four teams have already been fielded and there were enough softball players at the Pine hill playfield last night to form two more teams. This will establish a fast six team league.

Al "Butch" Brodhun will manage one team. Al has his players all signed up and with a little practice will be ready to go. Mike Priebe, a former local softball player, has a team signed to go. Frank Hambly has picked up some good boys and will be ready after a few workouts. The Discoverer is the fourth team set to go. The Discoverer played a game last night against two or three teams of players to give the managers an opportunity to scout potential players.

Al Lamoureux urges all managers and players to attend the meeting next Monday at 8:00 p.m. in the Elks club. The softball league will be formed at this time with managers announced and schedules discussed. It is important that all you softballers be at this meeting in order that the managers can sign you to one of these teams.

Nelson Accepts Challenge For World's Title

HOUSTON, Texas —(AP)— Byron Nelson, national P.G.A. champion, said today he had accepted Dick Burton's challenge to a 36-hole match for the unofficial world's golf championship.

Burton, British champ, had wanted to meet the kingpin of pro golf in the U. S. for the past two years, in a match in England, but the American was unable to make the trip and Burton agreed to play on this side of the Atlantic. Burton cabled that he was leaving for America on May 16, giving a full week of practice in this country.

The first 18 holes of the struggle will be played on May 29 at a course yet to be selected and the second match during the first round of the Goodall round-robin at Winged Foot, N. Y., on May 30.

Nelson wired his acceptance to Elmer Ward, sponsor of the Goodall tournament, and suggested a neutral course for the first 18 holes. "I think Winged Foot is a real championship layout but I do think that we should play two courses," Nelson said.

Nelson also commented that he thought this should be an annual affair between the P.G.A. champion of the U. S. and the winner of the British open.

Nelson said it was perfectly all right with him for Burton to use the regulation British ball which is 1.62 as compared to the larger U. S. ball of 1.68.

Ben Hogan and Sam Snead, who along with Nelson are competing in the Houston $10,000 open, said they also would like to meet Burton in the event he won over Nelson.

Wenatchee Stops Winning Streak

(By The Associated Press)

Thirteen wins in a row was too much for the Salem Senators. They fell before the Wenatchee Chiefs last night, 8 to 2, to end their record shattering winning streak. But the Senators are hanging tight to a dandy .929 showing in league standings.

At Tacoma, the Bremerton Bluejackets finally got out from under the consistent walloping they had been taking from the Tigers, and the Tars took the game 4-1.

The Vancouver Capilanos move into Tacoma tonight, to tackle the Tigers in a weekend series, which Canadian fans must hope turns into a more favorable showing for the Canuck teams than they've already done.

Yesterday, at Spokane and Yakima, the Capilanos and the Athletics continued their trend of steady losing by hanging onto the short end of the scores in games with the Indians and the Stars.

The Spokane Indians made it hurt twice in a row for the Caps, taking both ends of a double header, 7-3 and 3-0. And the Stars cased out Victoria with a 3-1 victory.

Born March 11, 1874, she was married to James Patterson Larrick, who passed away this January. Mrs. Larrick was a member of the Eastern Star at Renton for over 40 years, and also belonged to the Washington Pioneers Association.

Cancer Control Drive Extended

"The drive for funds for cancer control has nearly reached its quota in this district," George King, Active Club member on the campaign committee said today, "but the drive has been extended to May 15 so that the $1,250 quota can be reached."

The Active Club, sponsoring the drive here at the request of the national cancer association, hopes to see the quota met and is gratified at the interest shown both through response to the plea for funds and the general awareness of the purpose of the fund.

Contributions may be left at either bank or may be mailed, addressed simply, "Cancer, Port Angeles." Coin boxes in many stores have served to gather small change toward the fund and a cancer tag day yielded several hundred dollars, said King.

Georgia Legislative Council Asks Query Into Klan Society

ATLANTA—(AP)—The Georgia legislative council today demanded an investigation by the treasury department and the federal bureau of investigation into the activities of the resurgent "Association of Georgia Klans."

The council, which includes Representatives of the AFL, CIO, and various independent unions, charged that KKK, Inc., had announced suspension of activities in 1944 because of unpaid federal taxes amounting to more than half a million dollars, but had continued to use its original application and reinstatement blanks.

A spokesman for the council, who preferred to remain anonymous, said officers of the klan were known to travel from state to state on klan business.

The investigation was demanded following a cross burning ceremony on nearby Stone mountain last night.

During the ceremony two United Press men, Bernard Brenner and Robert Holloway, were searched and their film confiscated by half a dozen men. Oscar Goodman, Paramount News Reel cameraman, had his camera seized, but it later was returned. Life Magazine had been given permission by the klan to make "exclusive" photographs of the ceremony.

Vice Admiral William Ward Smith of New Jersey was nominated a member of the federal maritime commission for an unexpired term of six years which began April 16.

Davidson is chief counsel of Bonneville power administration's legal division here.

A native of Lafayette, La., he assumed the Bonneville post in 1942, after serving on the Bonneville legal staff since 1940.

Representatives From West May Unite To Restore Interior Funds

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A bloc of western representatives was alerted today for a drive to restore millions of dollars to the pared down interior department appropriations bill.

The non-partisan group from the reclamation and public lands states may make an alliance with the house leadership, also at odds with the appropriations committee over the proposed $3,298,000,000 grant for the southwestern power administration.

Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) already has served notice on the committee that he will attempt to restore most of the $20,000,000 cut in the power administration's budget for the next fiscal year.

A test of the committee's ability to hold the line on its economy program failed to materialize yesterday when other legislation delayed reading of the bill in the house was delayed by other legislation.

Cuts made by the committee in the interior department's budget for the year beginning July 1 were almost without precedent.

Siamese Twin Sisters Not Expected To Live

PORTLAND, Ore.—(AP)—The weak little Siamese twin who was sinking yesterday regained some strength this morning, but the attending physician held scant hope that she and her sister could survive.

The feebler of the Siamese twins born Tuesday to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hurse, Deep River, Wash., was drinking from a bottle this morning, as her sister has been doing since birth.

She was able to keep her milk down for the first time last night, and hospital attendants substituted a regular baby bottle for the eyedropper to which they had resorted.

"She's a little better now," reported Dr. Joseph V. Springer, who delivered the infants—Carol and Susan. "The babies may be able to survive another day."

He doubted, however, that they could live to grow up. Joined at the base of the spine, with a common blood vessel and continuous abdomen, the girls could not be surgically separated even should one die, Dr. Springer said.

He said it was possible one might succumb a day before the other—but the latter could then not be expected to live.

Administration Says House Reversal Due To Public Pressure

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Administration hopes for the OPA soared today after the house reversed itself to vote $400,000,000 in subsidies for President Truman's emergency home building program.

The tally was 187 to 158. Last month the chamber turned down the premium payments, 161 to 92

Democratic leaders attributed the change to the 10-day Easter recess, which gave many members their first chance in months to find out at home how their constituents are thinking.

Speaking privately for the most part, these leaders voiced confidente the house also would about-face on price control extension which the house last month hammered down to a point where OPA Administrator Paul Porter said the agency would be without power after June 30.

Analyzing yesterday's vote, Rep. Sparkman of Alabama, the democratic whip, said:

"Congress speaks for the people, and the people made their wishes known in this matter of housing. I think the housing vote indicates what we may expect with reference to OPA when it comes back to the house. I think the same thing can be said about selective service.

"The house mutilated three seccessive bills. Since it did this many members have heard from their people."

Across the capital. meanwhile, the senate banking committee hoped to wind up hearings on its own OPA measure today after hearing Porter plead anew for a strong price control law. After the senate acts on the OPA issue, the house will have a chance to express itself again.

The thumping administration victory on the housing bill broke a month long deadlock over the legislation which Mr. Truman hopes will permit private enterprise to build an unprecedented 2,700,000 homes—costing about $16,000,000,000—in two years.

Housing Expediter Wilson W. Wyatt said of the vote: "This throws the veterans housing program into high gear."
