Seventh Semi-Final Sunday; Registration Deadline Draws Near

With the starting bomb for the next-to-last qualifying semi-final due to explode at 4:41 a.m. Sunday, registration of members already qualified for the salmon derby finals is taking place.

The deadline for registration is August 28. Qualifiers for the finals must sign up at the Chamber of Commerce office, H. B. Molchior announces.

The main event will be a two-day affair, August 31 and September 1, when anglers hope to pull a new car out of the water.

Sunday will provide a golden opportunity for unqualified fisherman, since 366 open spots appear on the books, and anyone who hauls in anything with a tail and a set of fins will probably qualify.

Sunday's tides will be as follows:

First low, 2.3 feet at 12:42 a.m.; first high, 5.0 feet at 6:20 a.m.; second low, 2.5 feet at 12:08 p.m., and second high, 6.6 feet at 6:55 p.m.

James Zahrobsky and Fred Hipkins are in charge of the seventh semi-final.

Receives Deferred Sentence For Larceny

One man was sentenced and two others arraigned in superior court this morning.

The court deferred sentence for three years on Earl V. Brown, who previously pleaded guilty to a charge of grand larceny. According to the information Brown took clothing and other articles valued at more than $25 from a parked car.

Alexander Anderson pleaded guilty to a charge of indecent exposure and the case was continued to August 22 for sentencing.

The case of Arnold Clifford Holt, who pleaded guilty to a charge of petit larceny for taking an alarm clock, radio and pen valued at $24.99 from Harry Andrew, was also continued.

Four civil cases were set by the court for jury trial commencing September 25. One criminal case had been previously set.

Hearing On Sustained Yield Forest At Shelton September 18

PORTLAND, Ore.—(AP)—A hearing on a proposed quarter million acre sustained yield forest unit—the first of its kind in the United States—will be Sept. 18 at Shelton, Wash., Regional Forester H. J. Andrews said today.

The proposed unit covers 158,760 acres of timberland owned by the Simpson Logging Company of Shelton and 111,466 acres of intermingled national forest lands. It is located in Mason, Grays Harbor and Thurston counties, Washington, and would be known as the Shelton Co-operative sustained yield unit.

The purpose of sustained yield units, Andrews said, is to stabilize communities, forest industries, employment and taxable forest wealth as well as to assure a continuous and ample supply of forest products. Subsidiary purposes are to retain the benefits of forests in regulation of water supplies, to prevent soil erosion and to preserve wild life.

The national forest lands of the proposed unit contain 4,356,548,000 board feet of merchantable timber and the Simpson lands contain 973,548,000 board feet of merchantable timber and the Simpson lands contain 973,344,000 board feet. Fifty-three percent is Douglas fir.

The area is made up of 40 percent old growth timber, 10 percent sapling and pole stands over 10 years old 22 percent seeding stands under 30 years, and 26 percent poor and non-stocked, recent cut-over, hardwoods and non-forested.

The estimated annual cut, Andrews said, would be 100,000,000 board feet for 10 years, then a reduction to sustained yield capacity, probably about 90,000,000 board feet.

The contract for the unit, if approved, would run for 100 years.

TO FILM 'EGG AND I' ON OLYMPIC PENINSULA

SEATTLE — (AP) — Exterior scenes for the movie version of Betty McDonald's best-seller book, "The Egg and I," will be made in the Pacific Northwest, probably on the Olympic peninsula, word received here today said. Ten production men are expected to fly here from Hollywood Aug. 26. The picture will co-star Claudette Colbert and Fred MacMurray.

Canned Goods, Sugar Reported Sold By Navy For Hog Food

SEATTLE—(AP)—The Seattle Times said today that "hundreds of cans of vegetables, fruits, ice cream mix, vienna sausages and other items, including 100-pound sacks of pure cane sugar," were being opened at the Smith Cove naval station here and sold for hog food.

The 13th naval district headquarters public information office said the commodities had been condemned for human consumption but that the commandant had ordered an investigation. The Times said it investigated yesterday, on complaint of naval station personnel, and that workers on the hog food "assembly line," and a reporter sampled the sugar and canned food and found them palatable.

The food was mixed in huge vats and transported by tug boat to the McNeil island federal prison hog farm.

The Times' article said that into the swill vats went cling peaches in banquet-halves, corned beef, all-bran breakfast cereal, heavy-pack prepared dried prunes, canned pumpkin, blended orange-grapefruit juice, Baltimore-canned spinach, peas canned in Boseman, Mont., and Hawaiian pineapple.

The district public information office announced that the commandant has ordered a formal investigation of reports of food wasted or destroyed at the naval supply depot, where it had been removed from inactivated or decommissioned ships. Capt. C. Dallas Emergy, general inspector, heads the investigating board.

Two Drowned, Many Homeless As Rains Continue In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—Two youths were reported drowned and hundreds of persons driven from their homes by high water today as this metropolis of a million and a half inhabitants experienced its third consecutive day of rain and electrical storms of unprecedented intensity.

Rain totaling 8.98 inches fell in St. Louis from 7 p.m. yesterday until 10 a.m. today, smashing all records in the 109-year history of the local weather bureau and no immediate relief was promised.

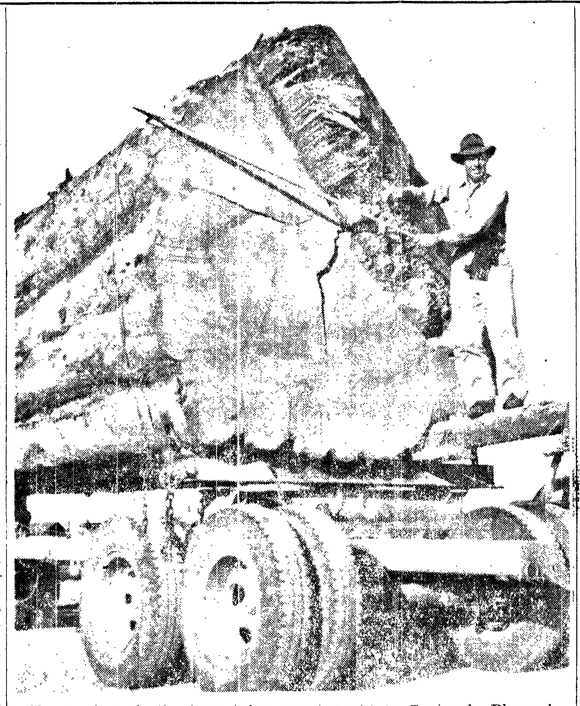
The torrential downpour came after a 4.61 rainfall in the preceding 24 hours and ran the total precipitation for August to date to more than 15 inches, a record for the period.

U. S. coast guard assault boats and private small water craft were pressed into service to remove scores of families marooned by the flash floods which isolated several communities on the Illinois side of the Mississippi river.

St. Louis city officials expected the loss from floods and lightning which unroofed several homes and buildings, and disrupted utility services would exceed $1,000,000.

CORNEA TRANSPLANT

SEATTLE—(AP)—Performed under the auspices of the National Eye Bank, a corneal transplant was performed here last week, it became known today, in an effort to restore the sight of Mrs. Archie N. Gustin of Pomeroy. Almost totally blind, she received the cornea of the injured right eye of Thomas Berry, an Enumclaw rancher, in a delicate operation by Drs. John Schiach and Purman Dorman. Attendants said it would be three weeks before the success of the three-hour operation can be judged. Berry lost the vision of his eye when a rock hit it without harming the cornea.



Shown above is the largest log ever brought to Peninsula Plywood Corporation from the Twin area. Bob Mathews, liaison man for the corporation with the forest service, illustrates the size of the huge Douglas fir. The log is 28 feet long, nine feet two inches high at the butt end and seven high at the small end. According to Harry Taylor, Pen-Ply office manager, it contains 9,500 board feet, enough plywood to build four houses. It was dropped into the company booming grounds at 5:45 p.m. August 9.

Scribe Finds Trail To Mt. Appleton In Poor Condition

By Jack Henson

The same broken guard rail dangles from its supports on a narrow log that spans Boulder creek, just above the upper falls along the trail between the Olympic and Sol Duc hot springs, that dangled there last August Should a hapless hiker grab the handrail for support down he would go into a canyon to his death.

The footlog is about two miles above the Olympic hot springs on one of main and most interesting trails into the Olympics. Reached by the trail is Appleton divide, Sol Duc hot springs, Soleduck park, High divide and all Seven lakes country.

There has not been a day gone by that I have not met hikers coming out over the trail and to my knowledge, except for cutting out windfalls, there has not been one bit of maintenance done on it, at least between the Olympic hot springs and the top of Mount Appleton about six and a half miles away.

One youngster I met on the trail, "necking" a heavy pack over from the Sol Duc hot springs, 13 miles away, summed it up briefly when I asked how the trail was, by saying "Well, you can find it."

The other day I started on a hike over the trail thinking that I might make it to the top of Appleton pass at almost 7,000 feet elevation. I did not leave camp until 1:30 in the afternoon. On the way along the trail I dropped down into Boulder creek and wasted an hour trying to coax some big trout that live in a deep hole below the fall, to bite.

I went on up the trail, over that footbridge, with its dangling hand rail and for a short distance found the trail pretty fair. It was about a mile above the footlog, down in the flats along Boulder creek, that the going was not so good. The underbrush has not been cut at the side of the trail for at least five years. The brush forms a tunnel into which you must plunge. Along the trail, hidden by heavy underbrush, are ankle-busting sharp stones that makes hiking dangerous.

Through the heavily wooded stretches the trail is well defined and would be fair going except that no diversion logs have been put in and the trail has become the dry bed of a stream that has taken away all the earth leaving nothing but slippery rocks to walk on. A log here and there across the trail on an angle would have diverted the water and saved the trail surface.

The area, including the trail, is indeed a primitive one, a monument of neglect. A few days work with brush hooks, axes and mattacks would bring the trail back to a semblance of what it was when it was built by the U. S. forest service 15 or more years ago.

As I went on along and up, gaining the first switchbacks overlooking the first of the alpine meadows, the going became even worse on the hillside as the trail, now only the bed of a dry stream, was more and more hidden by the overgrown underbrush.

Eventually I came to the last mountain meadow, at the base of Mount Appleton. Boulder creek rushes through this meadow at great speed, cutting a rather deep gorge as it hurries along to its destination.

At one time there was a foot bridge spanning the stream. Now there are two parallel saplings across the little gorge. To cross you grasp the top of a small tree, put your front foot on one of the slippery saplings and grasp the top of another small tree on the other side and humming to yourself "The man on the flying trapeze" swing across and when you land on the other side count your buttons to see if you are all there.

NO MARMOTS

This last large meadow is strewn with some of the largest boulders you'll find in the Olympics. On previous visits some years ago almost every one of the big boulders had its whistling marmot perched atop of it. Their cheery whistle echoed against the hills that almost entirely surrounded the meadow.

This year there was not a marmot and I have not seen one in all the area for several seasons. Their whistle formerly provided a pleasant note and their sentinel-like stance was picturesque.

Before reaching the last meadow I started to cross small snow patches on the trail through the woods. There was no snow however in the meadow; wild flowers were blooming in great profusion but were of the varieties that come immediately after the snow leaves the ground. The switchback trail to the top of Appleton on the east side is still covered with snow.

Low down on Boulder creek along the trail I had found ripe blueberries and salmonberries but as I went along and gained altitude, there were no more ripe blueberries. The salmonberries were green yet and in the last meadow the salmonberries were only in bloom. I did however, see some grasshoppers, hopping around in the grass.

It was five o'clock in the evening as I sat in that rock-strewn meadow. The zig-zag trail up the side on Mount Appleton loomed into the skyline. I could have made the trip up to the top but probably would have been caught in dark, perhaps in some of those leafy tunnels along the homeward trail.

So I left the meadow, swung myself across the creek, this time whistling instead of humming "The daring young man on the flying trapeze" and plunged into the trail.

A brief stop to fish resulted in catching a two-pound trout and I got to the hot springs cabin at about 8:30 o'clock in the evening, with fish in the pantry for breakfast.

Success Story In Stock Market

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—There's no secret to making $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 in cotton—just buy the market and watch the staple go up 1,200 points.

That advice comes straight, in a copyrighted interview with the New Orleans States, from Tom Jordan, whose associates in the New Orleans cotton exchange call him one of the most important individual traders in the world cotton market.

The States quoted his own story of his success, beginning in 1941:

"I went to the bank and borrowed $300 to pay my taxes. After I obtained the loan I spent the evening at Southport (a gambling section near New Orleans) and left the tables with a little over $1,400 profit.

"I drew the other $300 as an advance on my salary, giving me $2,000. I went into the market immediately and was busy that month and the next — February — buying carefully. By May I had liquidated for something over $1,000,000."

Jordan says he is confident cotton "eventually" will go to 60 cents a pound before world production catches up with the demand.

That's the conviction on which he banked, and he said he watched without surprise the 1,200 point rise in the past eight months — from about 24 to the current 36 cents.

FIRE IN TACOMA

TACOMA —(AP)— Four downtown business houses were destroyed or badly damaged this morning by fire which started in the second floor laboratory of the Douglas Fir Plywood Association.

The laboratory, a printing shop and soft drink store were destroyed, and a furniture company and hardware store were heavily damaged by smoke and water.

Fire department officials said losses probably would amount to $75,000 or more. Cause of the fire was unknown.

Truman May Ask Legislation To Let Jews In U. S.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Truman announced today he is considering asking congress for special legislation to permit entry of European refugees, including Jews, into the United States.

A White House statement said that the United States government "has not presented any plan of its own for the solution of the problem of Palestine," although the president has been exchanging views with Prime Minister Attlee of Britain on the question.

The statement said it was clear no settlement of the Palestine problem could be worked out that would be "fully satisfactory" to all parties concerned.

It added that a spirit of conciliation must be used if the problem is to be solved "in a manner which will bring peace and prosperity to Palestine."

TEXT

The text of Mr. Truman's statement:

Although the president has been exchanging views with Mr. Attlee on the subject, this government has not presented any plan of its own for the solution of the problem of Palestine.

It is the sincere hope of the president, however, that as a result of the proposed conversations between the British government and Jewish and Arab representatives a fair solution of the problem of Palestine can be found and immediate steps can be taken to alleviate the situation of the displaced Jews in Europe.

It is clear that no settlement of the Palestine problem can be achieved which will be fully satisfactory to all the parties concerned and that if this problem is to be solved in a manner which will bring peace and prosperity to Palestine, it must be approached in a spirit of conciliation.

ADMIT TO U. S.

It is also evident that the solution of the Palestine question will not in itself solve the broader problem of the hundreds of thousands of displaced persons in Europe. The president has been giving this problem his special attention and hopes that arrangements can be entered into which will make it possible for various countries, including the United States, to admit many of these persons as permanent residents.

The president on his part is contemplating seeking the approval of congress for special legislation authorizing the entry into the United States of a fixed number of these persons, including Jews.

Ordinarily a request for such legislation would be held off until after next Jan. 20, when a new congress convenes. There had been some speculation before the 79th congress adjourned that Mr. Truman might summon it back for a special session, primarily on domestic problems.

CALLING DOG CATCHER

DUNCAN, Okla. — (AP) — Calling all dog catchers—"desperate liver colored hound with one droopy ear wanted for digging up bone from petunia bed just seen going around corner Elm and Spruce in high gear—"

That's the call you may hear if you tune in on short-wave in Duncan these days

Hoping to outsmart canine culprits digging in lawns and doing other things annoying to citizens, the city fathers equipped Dog Catcher Neb Lawson's truck with a two-way radio.

Complaints are relayed through the police dispatcher.

Only man who could not walk ashore from the Army transport Waterbury Victory as the "Fighting 442nd" infantry regiment reached Honolulu, was welcomed home by pretty Hawaiian girl in hula costume The regiment, made up almost entirely of Americans of Japanese ancestry, has been called "the most decorated outfit in World War II."

Eighteen Jews Sentenced To Death For Bombing In Haifa

JERUSALEM —(AP)— Eighteen defiant and singing young Jews were sentenced to death today for bombing the Haifa railroad shops in a night attack. Four Jewish women were given life terms.

The sentences were passed soon after the outlawed Irgun Zvai Leomi had exhorted the Jews to a general revolt and the Vaad Leumi, the national council for Palestine Jews, asked the Jews in this strife-ridden land to begin a non-cooperation strike Sunday.

The country still was tense over the issue of British deportation of illegal Jewish immigrants to Cyprus. Two small ships were reported to have brought 200 to 300 illegal immigrants to the coast before dawn without being spotted. The immigrants were said to have been dispersed among Palestine settlers. Those reports could not be confirmed.

The 22 Jews were tried in absentia after they were ousted from the courtroom for singing and causing other disturbances during proceedings.

All were captured at a road block which troops established a few minutes after the raid at Haifa, several weeks ago. The defendants were accused of belonging to the outlawed Stern gang, violent Jewish underground group.

Fleeing in a truck, the defendants encountered the road block, smashed into a Bren gun and opened fire. Soldiers returned fire and several of the defendants' companions were killed. Others were wounded.

TO YUGOSLAVIA

BELGRADE, YUGOSLAVIA —(AP) —Two U. S. officials proceeded to Ljubljana today to interview Americans forced down in an army transport plane and held incommunicado for a week. The Tito government lifted the silence ban yesterday.

Theodore Hohenthan, U. S. consul at Zagreb, and Lt. Col. Chester Stratton, assistant U. S. military attache at Belgrade, went to interview the prisoners. The plane was forced down by a Yugoslav fighter plane while on what the Yugoslav government protested was an unauthorized flight.

Strike Spreads Slowly On Lakes

WASHINGTON —(AP)—The CIO United Auto Workers' executive board announced today it will reopen its wage agreement Oct. 16 at Chrysler Corporation and any other companies where contract provisions permit.

Vital industrial materials still moved across the great lakes today as the CIO National Maritime Union spread slowly.

A union spokesman said "well over 40" of the 400 American-flag cargo ships operating on the five lakes were strikebound on the second day of the walkout.

Whether iron ore, coal, grain and oil traffic would be halted still was an uncertainty as negotiations in Washington on the union's demand for shorter hours and wage adjustments collapsed.

CIO members and non-striking AFL seamen got into a fist fight on a picket line in Detroit last night, but the NMU claimed AFL support in some ports, especially Milwaukee, where AFL sailors were reported to have walked off a passenger ship.

RAILROAD STRIKE

Meanwhile, a strike threatened on the Southern Pacific Railroad system, and Press Wireless, Inc., submitted a compromise arbitration plan to federal conciliators trying to settle the company's dispute with the American Communications Association (CIO).

Press Wireless proposed that a three-man arbitration panel be set up to decide whether ACA had violated its contract in calling a strike of 300 employes. Reinstatement of 46 discharged employes would hinge on the panel's decision. After this matter was disposed of, arbitration would proceed on issues involving proposed wage reductions and downgrowing of remaining personnel which the company said were necessary for economy reasons.

Press Wireless stipulated that CIO President Philip Murray should guarantee in writing that ACA "will live up to" the proposed arbitration board's decision. ACA officials were not available immediately for comment.

CAN SHE STAY?

PORTLAND, Ore.—(AP)—The federal court decision which permitted Helene Bouiss, German-Japanese wife of a Portland veteran to enter this country will be appealed by immigration officials, Leo Levenson, her attorney, said today.

A writ of habeas corpus by Federal Judge Paul McCormick, Los Angeles, permitted Mrs. Bouiss, bride of John Bouiss, to enter the country after she was detained by immigration authorities at Seattle.

Bouiss married the daughter of German and Japanese parents while in Japan with the army.

Russ Denounced For 'Blasted Old Rot' By Delegate

PARIS — (AP) — The Russian delegation tossed the makings of a new fight between western and eastern powers into the peace conference today and the New Zealand delegate, W. J. Jordan, in an outburst of temper, denounced the Russians for "this blasted old rot."

"Let's do something,' Jordan shouted in exasperation at long speeches and delays after listening to an argument by Soviet Delegate Andrei Vishinsky "Here we sit listening to quack, quack, quack, hour after hour. We are sick of it."

Vishinssy assisted in an organizational meeting of the political and territorial commission on Romania that only nations actually at war with the former enemy states should vote on the commissions drafting recommendations for the five peace treaties. The vote of France thus would be eliminated from the commission on Romania.

In a meeting of the commission on Finland, Soviet Delegate N. V. Novikov raised the same point, which would eliminate the votes of the United States and France.

Presumably the Russians planned to raise the same questions in the commissions for Italy, Bulgaria and Hungary.

Despite Jordan's hot retort, Vishinsky insisted upon his point and the matter was left for future action.

In the commission on Finland, Novikov drew a quick reply from Hector McNeil of Britain that "my government could not accept the Soviet view on this matter." In the Finnish commission, too, the Soviet declaration was noted in the minutes without further action. Vishinsky said he would ignore "the harsh words" of the "temperamental delegate from New Zealand," but insisted "we shall never submit to angry words."

Jordan was so perturbed that his voice broke as he cried the words "this blasted old rot." after Vishinsky's speech.

"Let's get on with the blasted conference," he cried. "Let's do something. Get a president in the chair and let's get on with our work. That's what people expect us to do."

He said the commission had met at 10 a.m. "and here it is 11 o'clock and we've gotten nowhere We haven't even got a chairman."

He begged the temporary chairman to take matters into his hands and force the organization of the committee to proceed.

The American representative on the commission, Benjamin V. Cohen, said Vishinsky was out of order in bringing up the question of the composition of the commission. He said the United States saw no reason why France should not be a full member of the commission on Romania.

"We should proceed with the organization of the commission," Cohen said.

Vishinsky took the floor again to insist that the question of France's status be settled before the election of a chairman "in order not to aggravate the misunderstanding."

Gov't. Releasing Alaska Public Land Land For Private Use

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The government is releasing 18,640,000 acres of public land in Alaska for private development under federal mining and leasing laws, the interior department announced today.

The action, the department said, is being announced also in Alaska by Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug, who is making his first official visit to the territory. A statement by Krug released here said:

"I am particularly glad to announce the restoration of these areas to public use because it affords complete refutation of the charge that the federal government is seeking to prevent the development of Alaska by private enterprise. The restoration of these large areas to the public domain status, coupled with the program for the release of more than 18,000,000 acres of land along the Alaska highway for private development clearly shows the trend of government policy with respect to home rule in Alaska."

The land included 15,600,000 acres on the Alaska peninsula and 3,040,000 acres in the Katalla-Wakatago region.

These lands, together with about 48,800,000 acres in northern Alaska, were withdrawn from public use in January, 1943, as part of the government's program for the development of possible petroleum supplies for the armed forces in that territory. The land in northern Alaska is not being released at this time for public development. Krug said oil exploration work being carried out there warrants the retention of restrictions in that zone.

Puppet Pu-Yi Nervous As He Testifies Under Guard At Japan's War Crimes Trial

By Russell Brines

TOKYO—(AP)—Henry Pu-Yi today defended his acceptance of the puppet throne of Manchuria by attacking allied inaction in the face of Japanese conquest.

Pu-Yi, a nervous little man in a blue serge suit, was testifying at the trial of Japan's war leaders—some of whom gave him orders when he was the puppet emperor.

Recounting the 14-year old intrigue that led him to the false throne of his forefather's country, the last of the Manchu emperors interjected:

"At that time (1932 and 1933) the democratic nations were not trying to resist Japanese militarists. I alone as an individual would hardly be able to resist them."

Animatedly, in contrast to his earlier calm, he said he accepted the Manchurian crown through fear for his life.

He snapped upright from his habitual slump to address his remarks directly to the 11 justices. Speaking brusquely, he emphasized his statement by waving a thin ivory fan and gesturing with long, graceful fingers.

LIFE THREATENED

Then abruptly, he returned to his impassive verbal shuffling through the dead years to tell how one of the defendants, Seishiro Itagaki, then an army colonel, first offered him the clay throne in his Japanese controlled refuge in Port Arthur. He said he first refused, then accepted it in the face of threats against his life.

Pu-Yi said Itagaki presented himself as an aide to the late Field Marshal Shigeru Honjo, then commander in chief of Japan's Kwantung army. Honjo killed himself shortly after the U. S. occupation of Japan.

Itagaki sat upright in the prisoners' box and took copious notes. A sardonic smile played across thin lips beneath his mustache. At the end of the day's session Pu-Yi left the courtroom as he had arrived—in Russian custody.

As Chief Prosecutor Joseph B. Keenan conducted direct examination, Pu-Yi sketched a picture of himself and a court limited to his family and four advisers "held in the palm of Japanese hands."

Soviet Union soon will have an atom bomb of its own which it may demonstrate in a manner similar to that carried out at Bikini, Dr. Simon Alexandrov (left), Russian observer at the Bikini tests, tells Capt. John L. Callan, USN, during chat at reception for Operation Crossroads observers, San Francisco. The Russian scientist intimated that he went to Bikini because his government wished to know how the test was conducted.

Connally Sails For Paris To Join Byrnes

NEW YORK — (AP) — Declaring that Russia has "maintained an unreasonable position" at the Paris peace conference, Sen. Tom Connally (D., Tex.), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, boarded the liner Queen Mary today to sail for France to assist Secretary of State James F. Brynes at the conference.

The senator talked to reporters aboard the liner and ended his conference by saying: "We cannot settle international difficulties like a bunch of fussy schoolboys."

Fill Out Them There Cards, Buddy; Or, Life Goes To An Election Registration

By Bill Fowler

Registration for the final election November 5 have been few and far between, revealed City Clerk J. E. Law yesterday when I went down to put my penmanship to the test.

"Good gosh!" I ejaculated, as he shoved form after form after form at me to sign. "I wondered what had happened to my old first sergeant!"

"What's your address?" he asked me as I scribbled furiously, trying to beat the October 19 deadline.

Quick as a flash I replied "322 South Albert."

Law wrote the information down, told me I was in the fifth precinct, and asked me a few other questions.

"Ever commit an infamous crime?" He looked up with a cunning smile.

"No, but would a heinous crime count against me?" I countered.

"Doesn't say anything about that," he admitted.

After that it was a cinch. I answered all the questions without missing one.

CARDS APTLY NAMED

What I especially liked about the procedure was the simplicity of the nomenclature. The big cream colored form is known as the original register, the medium white one the duplicate registry, and the small one is called the third card. Not much imagination there.

Playful trying to shake some nickels out of the sample parking meter on the counter, I turned the tables on the city clerk and asked him a few questions. The answers to wit:

"No, there haven't been many registrations. Most of them will come in the last week, probably."

"Registration for the final election opened right after the primary and it will close 15 days before the final. That will probably be October 19, since the fifteenth day, October 20, is a Sunday.

"There were 5,235 city registrations for the primary election."

Law explained that all of these registrations would be valid for the final election except those for which cancellations come through, when voters who have moved away register at a new place.

NEW REGISTRATIONS

Not only the vote, but the registration thus should be heavier than for the primary. Many newcomers who couldn't meet residence requirements for registration in the primaries have now been here long enough to qualify for registration, and others have recently reached voting age.

Residence requirements are 15 days in the precinct, 75 days in the county, and 11 months and 15 days in the state.

Including city registration, there were 10,564 registered voters in the county, of which 4,665 cast their ballots in the primary election, a 44 percent vote.

Figures boring me, I pocketed my registration card and made my departure, leaving Law to shake his head sadly.

ANCHORAGE BUOYS

SEATTLE —(AP)— Yachtsmen and others navigating Budd Inlet in the upper sound were notified by district coast guard headquarters today of the establishment of two anchorage lighted buoys in those waters.

Both are black and display a green light 13 feet above water, flashing 4:10ths of a second and eclipsed 3.6 seconds. No. 1 is approximately 1800 yards, 185 degrees from Dofflemyer point light, in about 35 feet, to mark the northwest corner of the anchorage area. No. 3 is about 530 yards, 95 degrees from Olympia soal light, in 18 feet, to mark the westerly boundary for traffic passing eastward of the shoal light.

The so-called horns on a giraffe's head are really soft tufts of skin and fat.

China Faces Prospect Of Total Civil War

By Glenn Babb
AP Foreign News Analyst

The news from China leaves little doubt that that tragic country is on the verge of total civil war, with the prospect of years or decades of misery still more abysmal than that she has been enduring for two decades. The American peace makers, General George C. Marshall and Ambassador J. Leighton Stuart, have proclaimed their despair over the chances of success of their efforts; how much longer these will continue is a question.

Chiang Kai-Shek celebrated V-J day by proclaiming his readiness to end his one-party government without delay and open the national assembly November 12. He promised other concessions and reforms but none gained a favorable response from the communists, who declare they have had little reason, through years of negotiations, to put faith in Chiang's promises.

The fighting, which still is not called civil war because peace negotiations continue fitfully and a truce is supposed to be in effect, has spread over most of the country north of the Yangtze river. The communists hold nearly all Manchuria, nullifying the nationalists' hopes that when Japan was evicted that would become the industrial backbone of the nation and its main hope for economic progress. The battles extend over nearly all the northern provinces, before the war and Japan's campaign of plunder the most highly developed and richest between the great wall and the South China sea. Great sections of the 450,000,000 Chinese people face the prospect of death by starvation or war.

THREAT SPREADS

The orders to American troops and sailors in Shanghai to remain indoors during the night indicate that the threat of open hostilities is spreading even to the few islands of comparative peace and prosperity that remain.

Our entire withdrawal is not an impossibility. That would mean the collapse of all the hopes held by the Chinese and their friends during the war she endured for fourteen years—beginning with Japan's invasion of Manchuria in 1931—that its end would see China restored to a place of equality among the great powers, all restrictions on her sovereignty ended and her territorial integrity unimpaired. China's tenacious, heroic fight was made possible largely by those hopes, encouraged by the anti-axis nations, renunciation of their special privileges concerning her.

Total civil war would make China a political, economic, idealogical vacuum. Into such a vacuum forces contending for world leadership or domination would be certain to rush, some of them doubtless against their own desires. The bitter prospect facing China now is similar in many respects to that of the early nineteenth century. The clock may be turned back a century or more and China lose all she has striven for.

Guernsey Cow Sets Record

From Peterborough, New Hampshire comes news that a daughter of the registered Guernsey sire, Douglaston Lord Alexander, owned by Charles D. Lewis and son, Sequim, has completed an official advanced register record. She is Wandamere Jewell's Jewel, which produced 11,555.6 pounds of milk and 502.1 pounds of butterfat on twice daily milking for 10 months.

Douglaston Lord Alexander has 14 sons and daughters in the performance register of the American Guernsey Cattle Club.

The above record was supervised by the State College of Washington and reported to the American Guernsey Cattle Club for approval and publication.

Don't Store Before Ripe

Onion bulbs should not be stored until fully ripened, because only fully ripened onion bulbs can be expected to keep well in storage.

The ideal condition for storage is, when the tops are dead and shriveled and the outer skin is completely dry. Onions left in the field until fall rains begin may start second growth and become difficult to cure.

Ripening in the garden may be hastened by allowing the soil to become dry, bending the tops just above the bulbs, or by cutting the roots with a spade just below the bulb. After the tops have become partially dead, the bulbs should be pulled and windrowed for a few days or placed in shallow trays or crates in an airy room. When the tops have become completely dry they should be removed and the bulbs stored in a cool dry room, if possible. Special precaution should be taken to keep onions in storage from coming in contact with damp floors or walls. Trays or slatted crates should be used, if onions are to be stored in the ordinary root house or cellar when there is considerable moisture in the air.

TOKYO PEACE TOWER

TOKYO — (AP) — Japanese women diet members have proposed construction within three years of a 487-foot peace tower in Tokyo, surmounted by a great bell, a light and a figure representing the goddess of peace, and paid for by popular subscriptions.

Their leader in the project: Kiyo Takeda. She's from atom-bombed Hiroshima.

632,256 PRIORITIES FOR VETS ISSUED

WASHINGTON (AP) A total of 632,256 priorities for the building of houses and apartments were issued under the homes-for-veterans program up to July 26, Housing Expediter Wilson Wyatt reported today.

Wyatt said the uncertainty over building costs during the lapse of price control and the continued shortage of materials cut down the number of requests.

The priorities represent a builders' intention to start construction within 90 days, but are not actually starts on houses. About 331,000 starts were made in 1946.

The Pacific coast states—Oregon Washington and California—showed the largest number of priority authorizations, 122,998.

CANDLES CAUSE FIRE

SPOKANE—(AP)—Two candles, lit during prayers for their baby's life, started a fire last night which destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Kingsfather while they kept an all night vigil at the hospital bedside the oxygen tent in which their 15-month old son fought for his life against pneumonia.

Kingsfather, a 30-year-old army veteran, said he and his wife went home yesterday for a rest from the hospital and lit the candles while praying for the child's recovery. "We were called back to the hospital when the baby's condition got worse and we forgot to put out the candles," he said.

Firemen said most of the furnishings in the house were lost and early this morning a "rekindle" blaze gutted the Gingsfather garage.

The child's condition was reported slightly improved this morning.

Safety pins were devised in 1849.

States Get Money To Restore Wildlife

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The fish and wildlife service today made $2,260,000 available to the states for the restoration and development of their wildlife resources

In order to obtain the federal grants, the states must contribute 25 percent of the cost of projects. All projects must be approved by the fish and wildlife service.

The federal funds are apportioned to the states under the Pittman-Robertson act on the basis of land area and the number of hunting license holders in each state.

Funds come from an 11 percent excise tax on sporting arms and ammunition, but the money can be spent only when appropriated by congress. For the current fiscal year, congress appropriated $2,500,000 of the $15,967,463 on hand in special fund.

The fish and wildlife service will use $200,000 of this year's apportionment to administer the program. Another $40,000 will be used for wildlife restoration projects in territories and possessions.

Apportionment of the remaining $2,260,000 included:

California $103,132; Idaho $48,611; Oregon $55,290; Washington $64,941.

LESS THAN HOPED FOR, SAY WASH. GAME MEN

SEATTLE — (AP) — The $64,941 allotted Washington state by the fish and wildlife service is "less than we had hoped to receive," Norman Knott, state game department land supervisor, commented.

"Western game commissioners at a recent meeting urged congress to dip into the backlog built up during the war for this fund, but apparently we'll have to wait another year," he said.

Knott said that during the war the state used its grants for purchasing land designed for game refuges. This year's fund will be used principally to fence big game areas to keep out domestic animals; for planting of browse in big game areas and grain patches for pheasants and ducks, and for improving undeveloped pheasant areas.

Big game ranges to be developed include the Sinalhekin refuge in Okanogan county; Methow refuge in the Methow valley; Oak Creek refuge in Yakima county between the Natches and Tieton rivers; Tucannon refuge in Columbia and Garfield counties, and smaller development sin Whatcom, Skagit, Island, Kittitas and Douglas counties.

Some 30 small pheasant areas scattered about the state also will be improved. In diirect charge of crews will be Carl Crouse.

Grated horseradish added to white sauce and served with fish is excellent.

'PORKER DERBY' AT FESTIVAL TOMORROW

KIRKLAND, Wash — (AP) — Tomorrow is the day the pigs swim for it.

The "Bikini porker derby' will be a feature event of Kirkland's Lake Washington festival. It's probably the first time a batch of pigs ever shoved a batch of festival queen candidates into the background.

The stunt was promoted by Seattle's Washington Athletic Club after the Bikini-inspired controversy over whether an atom-dunked pig could swim if he had to.

A Seattle American Legion post contributed the latest entry yesterday. A commitee picked "Old Sarge" after looking over a pen full at a packinghouse-yard — from upwind. There's not much but a chance of fleeting glory for the Sarge. Winplace, show—or swim the wrong way—he's headed for the pork products department after the race.

DROWNS

NACHES, Wash.—(AP) —Roland Townsend, 17, of Tieton, was drowned yesterday while swimming in the Naches river three miles north of here. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lon Townsend of Tieton, and six brothers and sisters survive.

Gen. McNarney Says German Communists Aim To Destroy Capitalists' System

By Richard Kasischke

BERLIN —(AP)— Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, commander of U. S. occupation forces in Germany, said in his monthly report Friday that the ultimate objective of the German communist party is "to destroy the capitalist system and establish a socialist state with a classless society."

McNarney attributed the same objective to the Russian-sponsored socialist unity party, which was formed in the Soviet occupation zone by a merger of the communists and social democrats. He added that the communist program "contains a threat to resort to revolutionary means if the capitalist class forsakes the ground of democracy."

This official American assessment of what the communists—"and their satellites"—want to make of postwar Germany was contained in a report which stated that because of the long-standing four-power stalemate over wiping out zonal boundaries and treating Germany as an economic whole, the Americans and British had agreed to an economic merger of their zones in the west.

The American commander's estimate of the communists was included in the "political activity" section of his report, which also surveyed the programs of the three other principal parties in Germany. McNarney said that the social democrats (outside Soviet-occupied territory) stood for "parliamentary republican democracy of the western type" and opposed combination or close cooperation with the communist or socialist unity parties.

He said that the Christian democrats "sharply rejected Marxian socialism." He added that the liberal democrats "stress the sanctity of private property and private enterprise."

Thus was delineated the cleavage between western and eastern political philosophies in Germany.

BOARD TO STATE PRICE DECISION ON TUESDAY

By Edwin B. Haakinson

WASHINGTON — (AP) — With a curt warning against trying to guess what it will do about price controls on major foods and feeds, the decontrol board promised today to announce its verdict Tuesday.

"Any past speculation as to our decision or any speculation between now and next Tuesday is pulled out of thin air," said Chairman Roy L. Thompson in a statement for the three-member board.

During the five days remaining the new independent agency must reach decisions that congress could not agree upon for weeks as it let OPA die June 30 and then revived it in sharply modified form July 25.

Since June 30 there have been no price ceilings on milk, butter, meats, grains and a long list of foodstuffs for a trial period that ends next Tuesday, August 20.

Unless the panel steps in the old price lids will apply again Wednesday.

NAM Charges OPA With Falsifying Price Increases

NEW YORK — (AP) — The National Association of Manufacturers charged government agencies with falsifying and misrepresenting the price increases that occurred during the 25-day interlude between price controls in July.

The NAM, in a prepared statement, said the interpretations of bureau of labor price statistics by government agencies "bespoke political ends instead of impartial reporting."

"This campaign of misinterpreting is not over," the NAM declared.

"Evidence of OPA activity to reinvigorate a 'fear' of rising prices is available from many quarters."

The NAM specifically stated that price rises during the 25 days were quite generally presented to the public as if they related to prices that consumers paid, or would pay.

But, the association said, the only statistics available to government spokesmen during the 25 days were on wholesale prices.

"More recently," the statement added, "the BLS has gotten out preliminary statistics on retail price movements for the 30-day period ending July 15. These statistics demonstrate in and of themselves the false picture that was pointed by earlier use of wholesale statistics.

"But even though the retail prices shown are relatively moderate they, too, grossly overstate the actual price rises that took place when all factors are considered."

CHARGED WITH MURDER

SPOKANE—(AP)—A justice court warrant was issued yesterday for Delbert Francis Visger, 33-year-old hearing aid salesman, in connection with the murder August 6 of Dr. R. A. Hahn.

The warrant alleged Hahn was murdered with a souvenir bayonet during the course of a robbery.

More Price Boosts Announced By OPA

By Marvin L. Arrowsmith

WASHINGTON — (AP) — OPA hung a price-hike tag of "well over $150,000,000 a year" on radios, stoves, washers and many another household items yesterday—and ground out still more bad news for consumers today.

On top of price boosts ranging from 3 to 12 percent on 20 groups of mainly home essentials, the agency announced:

1. An immediate increase of one to two cents for draught and bottled beer served in bars, restaurants and hotels.

2. New price ceilings for used automobiles made this year or in 1945.

3. White sidewall tire ceilings 12.5 percent higher than maximum prices on other tires.

4. Higher prices for stationery and book paper.

In addition, OPA officials said that ceiling increases for virtually all kinds of building materials will be announced soon, as required by the new price control law.

A combine has been developed which digs, sacks and loads potatoes.

Clallam District Scout Leaders Hold First Meeting Of New Term Wednesday

Clallam district committee held its first meeting for the 1946-7 Scout year at the Elks club committee room Wednesday night, announced J. C. Marshall, district chairman. Twenty-one cubbing and scouting leaders were present to review reports of operating committees and to consider plans for the coming year's work.

Plans for the first annual Clallam Potlatch, an overnight get-together of Cub and Scout leaders and committeemen from the county, were submitted by Walter Brazel, camping and activities chairman. The Potlatch is to be held September 14-15 at Camp David Jr. and about 60 county leaders are expected to participate in crystallization of plans for promotion of cubbing and standing Seattle council leaders are being issued and they will sit in on scouting. Invitations to several outthe various committee sessions as technical advisers, Brazel said.

MORE COURTS OF HONOR

Arnold Kaas, advancement chairman, said his committee intends to provide more frequent courts of honor this next year, possibly every months. Two out of three will be held at Port Angeles, with the other being, alternately, at Sequim, Forks and Agnew, present county sponsors of scouting.

Kaas revealed that Eagle awards may be made within the district now, the council committee no longer requiring candidates for scouting's highest honor to appear in Seattle courts of honor to receive this award.

District Commissioner Henry Charnell reported on efforts of his stiff to assist in reorganization of troop and pack committees and to train unit leaders as to methods and procedures available. Charnell reported that a new scoutmaster had been secured by the Kiwanis troop committee and that this unit has been meeting during the summer under Bill Heckman, provisional scoutmaster. Charnell added that he expects the three vacancies on the commissioner staff to be filled by the time of the Potlatch.

DERBY INTEREST HIGH

There is considerable interest among Cubs in the Cub-bug derby to be held on Lincoln street the morning of Labor day, reported Dan Pierson and Fred Beale, Cub pack committee chairman.

Scrap plywood is available for use of competitors in building their bugs and may be obtained at Craver's carpenter shop on West Front, Pierson revealed.

Maurice Powers, Seattle area field executive, told of plans for the activation of a new Sea Scout ship in Port Angeles for high school boys, two new Cub packs here and one in Sequim, and a new scout troop in the county.

Powers challenged the district committee to double the present membership in scouting and cubbing through the provision of a better activities and advancement program and through training of volunteer leaders as to their responsibilities and the potentialities of the scouting program.

At Wednesday's meeting were: Don Burwell, Methodist Church; Elmer Romberg, Agnew Citizens League; Charles McLean, Baptist Church; Claude Jarvis, Elks; Harold Perkins, Kiwanis; Don Divine and Frank Archer, American Legion; Hugo Hankins, for the parents of the new Cub group at Washington school; Dick Wray, for the new Sea Scout organization; Fred Beale, for Jefferson school Cub pack sponsored by the Presbyterian Church; Dan Pierson, Lincoln PTA; Iris Marshall, Sequim Rotary; John Hardy, assistant district commissioner; J. V. Venables, district secretary; V. R. Shore, district treasurer; Wally Samuelson, district committeeman, and J. C. Marshall, Powers, Brazel, Kaas and Charnell.

Members of the district committee unable to attend were Larry Venable, Arthur Smith, Jack Loewen, James Maxfield, Rev. Evan David of Forks and S. A. Taylor of Sequim.

RC Volunteers Get Citation From British War Workers

In appreciation of the "invaluable and most generous help afforded to the Red Cross and St. John war organization" in the British isles, a certificate of recognition has been received by the Clallam County American Red Cross.

Addressed to the volunteer workers of the production corps, the certificate is signed by the president of the central hospital supply service and signed by Her Royal Highness, the Duchess of Gloucester, the written signature being simply "Alice." Thanks are expressed for the hospital supplies made during the world war from 1939 by American Red Cross chapters.

Also recently received at the Clallam county chapter office is a handsome map with coats of arms of districts of northern Ireland and Great Britain printed in brilliant color, the message being an expression of gratitude from the Women's Volunteer Services on behalf of the "war-distressed people of Great Britain . . . who tender thanks to you for your generous help given during the long years of battle against Nazi tryanny."

Both papers are displayed in the office of the local Red Cross chapter at present and it is planned to have them in a public spot so that the hundreds who gave their services to the Red Cross volunteer production work will have an opportunity to view them.

The program opened by the group singing "God Bless America" and then Charles Browne of the national park service showed colored films of the wild flowers and animals in the Olympic national park.

A skit presented by the ladies from Quilcene entitled "The Operation" afforded much merriment.

Buy Cereals If You Need Them

Information from an official statement issued by the production and marketing administration, U. S. department of agriculture says if you see plenty of ready-to-eat cereals on your grocery shelves, there's no reason why you shouldn't buy and use them as your family needs them. Remember . . . the curtailment of production for the famine relief program is at the manufacturing level ,and under present restrictions, cereal food manufacturers can distribute only 85% of the amount of their products that they did on a monthly level in 1945.

You should not buy more of any cereal product than you will use in a short time. These foods are semi-perishable and should be kept in a cool, dry place. Summer weather is no respecter of cereals, crackers and flour.

It's a good idea, during warm weather, to keep a careful check on opened packages of foods of this type, and to see that they're completely used up before new packages are opened. And remember that the carton and the inner bag should be carefully closed after each using.

Lewis Family Holds Reunion

Four brothers and three sisters of the Lewis family, some of whom had not seen each other for 27 years, held a reunion here last weekend. The brothers were Gomer Lewis of Winnipeg, Manitoba, Rhys T. Lewis, Kelowna, B. C., Alun Lewis, Hoquiam and D. J. Lewis of Port Angeles. Sisters attending were Mrs. Edith Dickerson of Vancouver, B. C., Mrs. Henry Jones and Mrs. Robert Jones both of this city.

Others of the family present for the reunion were Mrs. Gomer Lewis, Mrs. Rhys Lewis and sons Glenn and Tommy; W. H. Dickerson and son Bobby; Mrs. Alun Lewis and daughter Janet Jean; Robert Jones and daughter Joyce; Henry Jones, son Ivor and daughters Merle Jones and Mrs. Charles Konrad; Mrs. D. J. Lewis and Charles Konrad.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Snowden of Winnipeg, Canada and Johnny Page of Port Angeles.

Each evening the family gathered for an old-fashioned Welsh song fest. Special favorites were old hymns and folk songs sung in Welsh.

The Gomer Lewises and Snowdens of Winnipeg visited Yellowstone park and other points of interest on their way to Port Angeles. This being their first trip west the group was impressed by the greeness and cool climate here. They returned to Canada Tuesday to visit other relatives in Vancouver and Kelowna, B. C. and planned to stop at Glacier National Park, Montana, before returning to their home in Winnipeg.

One sister of Flin Flon, Manitoba and a brother in Worchester, England were absent from the reunion.

Encampment Of GAR's Planned At Indianapolis

SEATTLE — (AP) — The Grand Army of the Republic, its ranks cut to 88 members whose average age approximates 99 years, will hold what may be its last encampment in Indianapolis August 25 to 30.

With each passing year thinning its ranks—16 veterans have died since the first of the year—the once huge veterans organization probably will be represented by less than the 13 members who attended the 79th encampment at Columbus, Ohio last year. (The United Confederate veterans held their last reunion in 1940.)

There will be a parade and the United States Marine band—traditional at G.A.R. encampments. Commander-in-Chief Hiram R. Gale of Seattle, who will be 100 years old in November, probably will attend. Theodore A. Penland of Portland, Ore., junior vice commander-in-chief, also will try to be there.

The G.A.R. numbered more than 309,000 in its peak year in 1890, and its 88 survivors are not the only union veterans surviving. Probably there are as many more who do not belong to the organization.

Only one state, California, has as many as ten and a majority of the states have no surviving members.

Following is a list of surviving members of Washington:

Hiram R. Gale, Seattle, commander-in-chief; Jacob Cheadle, Olympia, and John J. Keyser, Spokane.

KILLS LAST BILL

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman wound up the work of the 79th congress today by decreeing death for the last measure it sent him.

Mr. Truman signed 204 bills after congress quit and pocket vetoed 16.

Leading Red Sox Open Four Game Series With Yanks

By Joe Reichler
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The pennant bound Boston Red Sox—and even the most conservative Red Sox rooters now feel certain their team will win this year—can all but sew up the American League flag if they are able to sweep the four-game series that opens today with the New York Yankees.

Although it may be another month before the Sox can make it a mathematical certainty, the race has reached a point where a mild winning streak by the pace-setters, especially against their closest competitors, will make the Yankees and Detroit Tigers start thinking about next year.

If the Red Sox, now enjoying a 12-game lead, beat the Yankees in all four games and go on to play .500 ball in their remaining 37 contests, the Yankees will be faced with the difficult task of winning 37 of their remaining 39 games in order to steal the pennant.

Boston has 41 games left, eight with the Yankees with whom they've split even in 14 engagements. The Yankees have 43 games left.

YANKS PREPARE

The Yankees prepared for their hub invasion yesterday by sweeping a doubleheader from the Washington Senators at the Yankee stadium 6-1 and 7-2. Homers in each game by Charlie Keller, his 21st and 22nd, helped Rookie Pitchers Bill Wight and Randy Gumpert gain their second and eighth victories, respectively.

Outfielder Sam Chapman ran riot in Philadelphia, hitting three home runs, to lead the Athletics to a 5-3 victory over the Red Sox. Ted Williams of Boston is the only other big leaguer to hammer three round trippers in one game this season.

Hal Newhouser, whose hopes of winning 30 games this year suffered a serious blow when he lost two games in succession following his 20th victory July 27, came through with a splendid 3-0 shutout victory over the Chicago White Sox in Detroit to give the young Tiger lefthander a fighting chance to yet realize his ambition.

In the torrid National League race, the first place Brooklyn Dodgers increased their margin to two games over the runner-up St. Louis Cardinals by trampling the New York Giants 7-1.

TIES RECORD

Catcher Bruce Edwards of Brooklyn tied a major league record for assists with three in the fourth inning. The last time it was done was by Bill Dickey of the Yankees in 1929.

The Cincinnati Reds snapped a nine-game losing streak when they defeated the Cubs in Chicago 9-3 in the first game of a doubleheader but reverted to their losing ways when the Cubs beat them 3-2 in the nightcap.

The Boston Braves and Philadelphia Phils divided a twin bill at Boston, the Phils outlasting the Tribesmen 15-11 in a free-hitting first game and the Braves winning the second 3-1. Jim Tabor, with a grand slam homer, and Johnny Wyrostek also got three of Philadelphia's seven hits off Bill Lee in the nightcap.

Aided by Manager Lou Boudreau's two-run triple, the Cleveland Indians pushed over three runs in the fourth inning of their home night game with the St. Louis Browns to win 3-2.

The scheduled night contest between the St. Louis Cardinals and Pittsburgh Pirates was postponed by rain.

STILL ROOM FOR 3,500 VETERANS IN SCHOOLS

OLYMPIA — (AP) — A total of 3,500 enrollment openings are available to freshmen and sophomore college students in Washington, Mrs. Pearl Wanamaker, superintendent of public instruction, said today.

The university and state college already have closed their registration books. Public junior colleges at Centralia, Vancouver, Everett, Aberdeen, Longview, Mount Vernon, Bremerton, Wenatchee and Yakima still can accommodate students.

The Central, Eastern and Western Washington Colleges of Education have openings, Mrs. Wanamaker said. However, education colleges give preference to students preparing for teaching. All colleges give veterans preference.

Four private institutions—Seattle College, Pacific Lutheran College, St. Martin's College and Gonzaga University—also have openings.

Mrs. Reta Hayes of Hemstead, N. Y. went out to watch the experts fish for salmon off Hope Island, in Puget sound, and amazed experienced fishermen by catching a 17-pounder herself. She's shown with the big fish caught on a day when most of the skilled fishermen were coming in empty-handed. (AP PHOTO).

Hopped-Up Roadsters To Race This Sunday; Track In Better Shape

Returning to the peninsula for the second auto racing event, drivers of the Roadster Racing Association will compete at the fair grounds Sunday. The first race was July 28.

The cars won't be the only thing "hopped-up" Sunday, promoter Chester Pratt promises. The races will be run off much faster and will take less time, he says.

The track will also be faster, according to race officials. It is being regarded with "super" on every turn and the straightaway is being widened for more speed.

Pratt said the grandstand is being painted and repaired, and bleacher seats are to be added to take care of the large turnout expected.

"Racing officials from all over the Pacific northwest will be present at the next event and we expect in the very near future that this will be the biggest race track this side of the midwest," Pratt added.

"When that happens the fastest cars in the world will compete here," he said.

Officials revealed that officials of the Automobile Association of America will time the Sunday races with an electric timer, which will make the track an official AAA track.

Stars Regain First Division After 6-2 Win

By Bill Weatherby
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Hollywood's Stars, winners of six out of eight games under new management, regained the first division of the Pacific Coast Baseball League in a battle that has broiled hotter than the first-place fight.

The Stars' 6-2 victory over the Seattle Rainiers last night ousted the losing Sacramento Solons from the fourth rank and left them in the lower bracket half a game behind. Just before Jimmy Dykes took over as manager of the Stars, Sacramento had buried Hollywood down the ladder to gain the first division.

Hollywood made three-run innings out of the seventh and eighth to come from behind and win the Stars first in three games in the current series with the Rainiers. The first three runs were unearned. Glenn Stewart's double scoring three topped the seventh-frame attack.

The Oakland Oaks hung up their third straight defeat of the Solons, 7 to 3, also coming from behind and scoring three-run clusters in the seventh and eighth frames.

The reduction of the Solons to the second division came shortly after the Sacramento board of directors gave Manager Earl Shelly a tumor-quieting vote of confidence.

San Francisco's circuit-leading Seals staved off late inning threats to defeat the Portland Beavers 5-3. Portland collected 13 hits off winner Bill Werle and Relief Hurler Frank Rosso, but the Seals made four of their total of eight bingles count for two runs in the fifth and three in the sixth.

The victory maintained the Seals' three-game lead over second-place Oakland.

The San Diego Padres nosed out the Los Angeles Angels 2-1 behind the seven-hit hurling of Tom Seats.

SEA-MONSTER

SOUTH HAVEN, Mich. — (AP) — Wide-eyed fishermen scrambled ashore at nearby Swan lake at dusk last evening to report sighting of a "horned sea-monster with a long tail."

The "sea-monster" proved to be a black cow, which had leisurely swam a half mile into the lake, returned to shore and wandered back home to Carl Ferris' farm.

Sports Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK — (AP) — You may not agree with baseball Commissioner Happy Chandler's rulings opening the doors to John W. Galbreath and closing them to Mickey Owen, but you'll have to agree that Happy made his own decisions. At various times the commissioner has been charged with avoiding such things. Maybe it is tough on Owen, but Mickey must have known when he went to Mexico that he would be considered a contract jumper, even though his just-out-of-the-navy status was unusual. If Chandler had been lenient this time, a lot of other players might figure: "I'll get more dough in Mexico and if I don't like it I can always jump back." That would make running a ball club difficult, to say the least. As for Galbreath, who should know better than a Kentuckian that horsemen aren't necessarily undesirable?

ALL FIGURED OUT

John Beer, who collects caddy yarns for the Newark Sunday Call, relates this one. A club toter was explaining to his employer how he kept a record of his mileage caddying in New Jersey and Florida. The kid took the yardage for the course and added 20 percent for criss-crossing, he explained. Just then the golfer cut loose with a drive that carried a terrific slice. The caddy shouldered the clubs and started after the ball, muttering: "Some days I add 75 percent for criss-crossing."

PAPERMAKER GAME AT CAMAS SATURDAY

The Papermaker baseball team, currently tied for the local league lead, takes its first road trip this Saturday, meeting the strong Camas town team in an afternoon contest.

Justice Department Studies Complaints Of Price Fixing, Artificial Shortages In Meat

By Brack Curry

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The justice department disclosed today that it is studying complaints of price fixing and artificial shortages in meat.

An official fully acquainted with the study said that since OPA price controls on meat lapsed July 6 the department has received numerous reports of various illegal trade tactics from many sections of the country.

Some of the complaints have come from within the meat industry itself, this official told a reporter, emphasizing that many meat handlers have no part in the purportedly illicit operations.

The department's investigation is being made to determine whether anti-trust prosecutions should be undertaken.

OTER ATTEMPTS

In addition to reports of artificially created shortages and price-fixing agreements the official said other complaints being received include:

1. Attempts to coerce retail meat dealers into making "tie-in purchases." Some dealers have said they are being forced to buy unwanted products in order to get fresh meat.

2. The assertedly large scale entry of some meat wholesalers and packers into the retail business. The anti-trust division is studying to what extent this threatens the survival of independent meat retailers.

3. Withholding of hides from the market in an attempt to get higher prices. A civilian production administration drive also is underway in this field in an effort to avert a threatened shutdown of shoe production.

OTHER INDUSTRIES

In addition to the meat and hides industries, the justice department official said the agency is receiving "a very large number" of complaints of private price fixing agreements involving other industries producing commodities no longer controlled by price ceilings

He declined to name these industries.

Meat and livestock products were among several items which congress, in reviving OPA last month, decreed should be left free of price control until at least August 20. Final say on restoring ceilings was left up to the new decontrol board which concluded four days of public hearings on the subject yesterday.

MEAT STRIKE SETTLED

EVERETT—(AP)—Settlement of a strike that has kept most Snohomish county butcher shops closed for three weeks was reported last night by government Conciliator Harry H. Lewis.

A 40-hour week was granted and wage terms reached, he said. Terms of the wage settlement were not disclosed but the Meat Cutters' Union (AFL) had demanded $13 a day and the operators had offered $11.20.

Harold ICKES

POLITICAL FUTURE DIM FOR GEORGE E. ALLEN

By Harold L. Ickes

Political omens are not favorable to Mr. George E. Allen, for a long time the "fair haired boy" of the Truman administration. President Truman has reached the conclusion that the administration would be better off without Allen and his jokes. Before a great while Allen will be offered an "important" special mission to some point in Europe—a favorite fire ladder frequently thrown out of the window by President Roosevelt.

It was a foregone conclusion that Mr. Allen in time would come to be appraised as a political liability. He kidded his way through the senate committee on banking and currency when his name came up for confirmation as a member of the RFC. Then President Truman proposed to extend the RFC for five years. Once again when this committee met it struck up "For it's always fair weather, when good fellows get together." An amendment that Mr. Allen be shorn of his twenty-five directorships in corporate enterprises was only a humorous interlude, and the bill duly passed the senate.

I do not know whether the representatives had the keen appreciation of Mr. Allen's type of jokes that the more jovial senators had. In any event the house cut the proposed extension from five years to seven months. So now it may be expected that, shortly after election Mr. Allen will be handed his passport for a temporary sojourn in Europe or Asia, or any place except this country. In any event, his hat will be handed to him either as an alternative to his departure for parts at present unknown or for his permanent retirement to private life clasping a "Dear George: I hate to do this" letter.

Standing with one foot in his political grave and the other on a banana peel, it is hardly to be expected that Allen's value will be enhanced to the corporations onto whose payrolls he has ingratiated himself.

Now that President Truman has vetoed so incisively the so-called tidelands bill, which would have given away the federal government's title to what may be this nation's last great reserves of oil, perhaps he will reflect that this crisis was by his dour friend Edwin W. Pauley. The record of the hearings on Mr. Pauley's nomination for under secretary of the navy make it clear that, as an incentive to possible oil contributors, Mr. Pauley pressed that the tidelands bill would be passed. It is not logical to hang onto Mr. Pauley since this bill was vetoed.

But how President Truman can continue to regard Mr. Pauley as other than another liability to his administration it is difficult to understand. His swashbuckling about in airplanes in all parts of the world at the expense of the government has been as spectacular as his press agents could make these junkets appear. But what tangible results they have produced for the United States could be dropped into an observant eye without causing the slightest irritation. Perhaps it will be found that the chief value of these peregrinations is that they served as a pattern for Mr. Allen's graceful exit.

A by-casualty of that of the mirth-provoking Mr. Allen will be Judge Samuel I. Rosenman, who originally came down to Washington to serve President Roosevelt. Judge Rosenman lost no time in making himself very much at home on the bandwagon of President Truman. However, he made one great mistake. He entwined his arms about Mr. Allen and now that that gentleman is in disfavor, some of the friends of the president of an earlier vintage, who resented Allen from the start, will do what they can to see to it that Judge Rosenman's head will also roll in the dust.

All bananas, even those eaten locally in the tropics, are picked green, because they are not fit to eat if permitted to ripen on the plants.

Nevada Survives Two Wars, Both A-Bombs

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Two wars and two atomic bomb blasts and the threat of the scrap pile have failed to break the backbone or the spirit of that proud old dowager of the fleet, the battleship Nevada.

And if test "Charley"—the proposed deep-under-water atomic explosion—comes off as scheduled next spring, the scarred battlewagon almost certainly will be on hand for another rendezvous with destiny.

That was the word today from the navy, which takes more than a little pride in the never-say-die record of the Nevada.

A spokesman for the department said that "in general" the condition of the ships subjected to the two Bikini bombs tests will determine their disposal. The Nevada is still in good shape, and most probably will be taken to Pearl Harbor to await test "Charley", or other tests, the official said.

Probably the Nevada would have wanted it that way. Before the atomic bomb tests were proposed, she appeared headed shortly for scrapping in some shipyard.

With other old veterans of two world wars the battleships Arkansas, New York, Texas, Pennsylvania and Mississippi—the navy announced last November that she was slated for retirement.

That announcement seemed to mark the end of a long career. From her decks, in the first world war, Admiral William S. Sims directed American naval operations in European waters.

When the Japanese struck at Pearl Harbor, Dec 7, 1941, she was severely damaged, but refloated and modernized went forth to war against both Germany and Japan. She took part in the Aleutians campaign, delivered bombardments on 52 missions during the Normandy invasion, and returned to the Pacific for the Iwo Jima invasion.

At the first Bikini test, the Nevada was the "target ship" for the atomic bomb. Her superstructure was damaged, and a hole blown in the afterdeck, but otherwise she took the blast pretty much in her stride.

Navy officials reported the Nevada was among the ships "not damaged" in the second underwater bomb test last July.

So her tough old hide is expected to take her back for more.

GOING TO PLANT FRUIT TREES?

With the trend in home ownership being to get away from the crowded cities, many thousands of home owners have already acquired or are planning to buy a place in the suburbs or right out in the country, where fresh air is abundant and sound, lakes, rivers or mountains provide a reason for choice of the location. Where the lot or acreage around the chosen home site is of sufficient size, a small orchard of desirable varieties of fruit trees may be planned and set out with every reasonable expectation of excellent results.

Each chosen small orchard area will have its own particular problems, such as choice of location and proper soil, but, if possible, the trees should be located in close proximity to the house or buildings for obvious reasons of care.

It would be advisable to look around at the many dilapidated and neglected orchards in the vicinity before any actual planting is made. Remember that the trees will be there in the orchard for many, many years and, with proper care and forethought, they may be relied on to produce a most satisfactory crop every year. A few minutes spent in choosing the most satisfactory site and conditions for the trees will be repaid a thousand-fold when the crops are regularly harvested.

TIME TO PLANT

Fruit trees may be set out at any time while they are dormant. The best time is between late November and early April, with the first two weeks of December, provided the weather is mild, as the best of all. Early December planting gives the trees a better chance and a longer period to establish a sufficient root system before both leafing-out and the dry weather make the job harder.

DISTANCE APART

A casual inspection of any group of fruit trees in an established orchard, large or small, will be sufficient evidence that one of the great mistakes one can make in tree planting is to set them too close together. The only excuse that can be found for this mistake is that over-zealous nursery salesmen have tried to sell as many trees as possible for planting in any given area, and recommending a closer planting than is wise, to sell more trees.

No hard and fast rules for spacing are possible, but as a general rule, all trees should be about 30 feet from the next one.

PLANTING THE TREE

To ensure that every fruit tree selected for the garden will grow properly and produce a fine crop of fruit every year regularly, the actual work of setting and planting should be done with great care. The more thought given to the correct methods of planting BEFORE the work is actually done, the better the RESULTS will be.

Some soils here are very clayey and consequently poorly drained. Other garden soils are so open, sandy and porous that the moisture just "runs off." In some gardens or planting areas the subsoil is very poor. In others the hardpan is so close to the surface that deep-rooted trees find it impossible to thrive.

First, it must be fully appreciated that no tree is capable of thriving in soil that, at any time, becomes so saturated with water that it lies in pools or fills the planting hole. For this reason alone a good piece of advice is that the holes in which the trees are later to be planted should be dug and prepared as long in advance of that planting time as possible.

A further reason why it is wise to prepare the holes where the trees are to be set, as much in advance of planting time as possible, is that the soil from the dug hole, being placed around the area, will be exposed to the natural elements such as rain, sun, wind and frost. This exposure will result in a far greater soil fertility, which is so necessary for the soil which is returned and placed around the roots when the actual planting takes place.

When the hole is prepared for the tree, it should be remembered that every tree has branches both above and below ground. Those, which grow longer and larger below ground each year we generally call roots, although they are actually root-branches which elongate every season below the soil in much the same manner as the branches above ground.

It is during the first two years, after a tree is set out, that nature, with your assistance, will determine the results that will come in later years. The greatest determining factor in this is the "start" which the tree gets while it is young.

The gardener who gives the apparently too simple job of digging a planting hole a few minutes careful forethought and planning will be amply repaid in the years to come and will also be the one who is constantly saying, "Look what a fine tree I got from my nursery."

Next week I will discuss some of the best varieties of Fruit trees for this locality.

In the crowd was former King Umberto of Italy. Adm. Hewitt waved to him.

(The fleet, including the aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt, the cruisers Houston and Little Rock and destroyers is entering upon a Mediterranean cruise and possibly joint training exercises with British units. The cruise coincides with developing tension in the Mediterranean and Middle East revolving around disputed Trieste, Russia's proposal for a hand in military control of the Dardanelles and her possible emergence into the Palestine situation.)

Local Veterans Administration Office Observe End Of Bradley's First Year As Administrator

The veterans administration in Port Angeles yesterday observed a milestone in company with other VA agencies throughout the country.

It was just one year ago today that the VA began a new phase of its work under the command of Gen. Omar Bradley, national VA administrator.

Fresh from tactical triumphs over the enemy on the battlefields of Europe, Bradley took charge on August 15, 1945, the day following V-J Day, at a time when future prospects for the VA were not too bright. Old methods and clumsy organization were already proving inadequate for the efficient handling of veterans' claims and benefits.

The VA in the state of Washington was no different than VA agencies in other parts of the United States. A huge volume of work loomed ahead as a result of impending demobilization and the facilities of the VA were already overtaxed with the work brought about by early discharges from the armed forces.

Gen. Bradley's job was to streamline procedures, to reorganize the VA by decentralizing activities to regional areas and to expand sufficiently to do the job.

A year later the effects of this program have been felt in many ways.

STATE EXPANSION

The VA in the state of Washington has expanded enormously, growing from an organization with only three offices in the state and 181 employes, to the point where it now has twenty-five offices and 871 full-time employes. There are 230 more part-time workers.

Contact officers serve nineteen cities in the state and through itinerant service reach out to more than ninety more small communities.

Decentralization was accomplished in the Pacific northwest by the establishment of branch 11 headquarters in Seattle with authority over regional offices in Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana and Alaska. It is no longer necessary, in most instances, for the regional offices to resort to the time-consuming process of appealing to Washington for authority to do things.

Improved procedures, resulting in speedier processing of veteran applications, were installed under branch 11 direction. Today, in a majority of cases, certificates of eligibility are issued on the day requested, subsistence checks are issued within a week and pension claims processed through to completion within a month of receipt.

The transfer on August 1 of 500,000 national service life insurance policies to branch 11 headquarters in Seattle will speed up the handling of premiums, reinstatements and conversions and expedite settlement of death claims.

OFFICE NEW HERE

The VA's office in Port Angeles was established on April 15, 1946. Francis R. Crouch is in charge of the offices in the Lauridsen building. Itinerant service by the Port Angeles office is provided to these other communities in the area: Port Townsend, Quilcene, Clallam Bay, Neah Bay, and Forks. Joseph L. Harley renders itinerant service; Robert L. Rogers is attached to the local office as training officer, in charge of education and on-the-job training.

Many Killed In Moslem Strike Against Independence Plan

CALCUTTA — (AP) — Fifteen persons were killed and 250 injured today in riots between Moslems and Hindus during a Moslem league "direct action day" protest to the British plan for Indian independence.

(Reuters reports from Calcutta said the death toll had risen to 56 by early evening and that 750 persons were injured.)

The Moslem league, second largest political party in India, called a nationwide strike for today to start its "direct action" program.

Shops and markets closed. Some buses and cabs attempting to operate were stopped by Moslem volunteers, who squatted at street junctions halting traffic. Police were not molested.

The casualties resulted from clashes in various parts of Calcutta. Of the injured, 100 were taken to hospitals by noon. Pedestrians were reported assaulted and some stores were looted.

The Moslem league, which claims to speak for India's 90,000,000 Moslems, recently rejected the British independence plan after first indicating acceptance. The Moslems have insisted on Pakistan, or partition of India's predominately Moslem areas from the rest of the subcontinent.

Jawaharlal Nehru, president of the predominantly Hindu congress party, largest in India, met last night in Bombay with Mahomed Ali Jinnah, president of the Moslem league, but made no progress toward agreement.

Nehru said the congress party would go ahead with formation of an interim Indian government, with or without the Moslem league. Commenting on the Moslem league's "direct action" plans, Nehru said.

"It either knocks the government over or the government knocks "direction action" over."

U. S. May Back Russ Rights In Dardanelles

By John M. Hightower

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The United States reportedly is ready today to advocate some special transit right for Russia through the Dardanelles.

But this country is said to oppose outright current Soviet demands for a hand in the military control of that strategic waterway.

Diplomatic officials suggest that a possible step toward trying to work out the developing controversey may be a Turkish-called conference of the nations now parties to the Montreux treaty governing the straits.

At the state department officials said there is no reason to believe there has been any change in United States policy as previously announced by Secretary of State Byrnes. The principal point of this policy in relation to Russia is that the straits should be open at all times to the transit of warships of Black Sea powers. Under the Montreux convention Turkey has the right to close the straits in time of war or other danger.

The question of how far this government should go in backing Turkey's declared opposition to Russia's demands is known to be a matter of considerable concern to top officials here. Many are hopeful that the whole issue may be ironed out amicably in negotiations among the powers.

Vets Ask Walgren To Ask Moratorium On Industry Building

SEATTLE —(AP)— War veterans' spokesmen today asked Governor Mon C. Wallgren to request an immediate moratorium on all commercial and industrial building, so that all critically scarce materials could be diverted to complete the 2,300 residents under construction for war veterans.

Spokesmen for the American Legion, American veterans' committee, disabled American veterans and Veterans of Foreign Wars made the suggestion, as part of an eight-point program, at a joint meeting of the governor's advisory commission and the Seattle mayor's emergency housing committee.

It also asked that the civil production administration re-examine all priorities and cancel all permits on which construction has not begun, and that priorities issued by the federal housing administration after August 1 become effective only after the moratorium.

It urged that ratings be set up for veterans' housing, giving first priority to all rental housing started before August 1; all houses being built for or by veterans and all units being constructed by federal public housing authority. Second priority would go to speculative housing under $7,500 for sale to veterans and third priority would go to such speculative housing costing $7,500 or more.

The proposals were endorsed by M. H. Gregerson chairman of the Seattle housing center's operating committee.

SUICIDE ATTEMPTED

OLYMPIA—(AP)—Jack H. Palmer, 20, recently discharged serviceman, received a broken leg and internal injuries last night in what police officer Jack Hayes described as a suicide plunge from the third floor of the Kneeland Hotel.

LAKE CRESCENT BOULEVARD!

With state highway maintenance collapsing so that Highway 101 around Lake Crescent has deteriorated to a fourth-class road and the road to Neah Bay impassible and dangerous at times, it is more pleasant far from these worries. Our legislator is politically wise when he accepts a state job and moves to Olympia! When our problem isn't roads it is the critical financial condition of our schools.

Voters will also be wise in November if they vote for candidates who live here and who will fight for our share of the half billion dollars available for appropriations!

This Year — Vote Republican!
