County Notified All Liability Insurance Voided

Clallam county commissioners received cancellation notice this morning on the entire comprehensive liability insurance policy covering all county roads, bridges, buildings and vehicles. Previous verbal notice was for cancellation of the bridges only.

The cancellation will be effective at midnight November 25.

Receipt of the written notice followed an appearance by the United Pacific Insurance Company representatives at a county commission meeting Wednesday.

The commissioners refused to sign a bridge cancellation endorsement suggested by the insurance company.

Then the company decided to cancel the entire policy in order to avoid any legal entanglements involving a partial cancellation. This was explained today by the Aldwell company, local agent for United Pacific, who said they are willing to rewrite the insurance on all county property except the bridges.

The commissioners will meet Monday morning at 10 a.m. to consider the insurance problem, according to Deputy Prosecutor Howard Doherty.

In the meantime State Representative Gordon Sandison is in Seattle today to find out what can be done to get coverage on part of the county bridges and on the rest of the county's property.

The cancelled policy gives the county comprehensive liability coverage on bodily injury and property damages. It also gives insurance protection to the county commissioners individually in case they are sued for damages incurred on or by county property.

A commissioner's resolution dated June 20, 1947 authorized a $4,059 payment to the Thomas T. Aldwell and Company as a deposit premium for the present policy.

Hearing Date Set For Proposed Addition To Road District's Funds

Clallam coun commissioners Wednesday ordere. a public hearing at 10 a.m. December 1, on a proposed additional 1947 appropriation of $13,301 to Road District No. 3.

This money is available from additional revenue not anticipated in the original 1947 road budget. The commissioners decided to use all of it in the west end district. District 3 has 21 bridges listed by the county engineer as dangerous or needing repair.

The change will increase road district 3 budget from $129,242 to $142,543.

District 1 budget is $120,165 and district 2 is $119,575.

NEW BRIDGE

In connection with road improvements on the Hoko road district 3, the commissioners signed a resolution authorizing replacement of the unsafe timber trestle number 2 at Green creek. New untreated material will replace all of the existing structures above the piling cut-off. The job is estimated to cost $3,252.

In the east end of the county, the commissioners resolved to place a 15 miles per hour safety speed limit on a portion of the Romo road. The limit will apply from the intersection of the Burlingame road north for three-fourths of a mile.

Cmdr. Wild of Local Coast Guard Station Transferred to East

Cmdr. Frederick G. Wild, commanding officer of the Ediz hook coast guard air station for the past 18 months, has been transferred to Norfolk, Virginia.

Wild turned over command of the air station to Lt. Cmdr. Clement Vaughn at noon Wednesday. Vaughn will be acting commander of the base until the arrival about two months hence of Cmdr. William H. Snyder from Norfolk.

This is the second time Wild has served with the Ediz hook station. He was based here for a time during the war.

While in Port Angeles, Wild has won many friends among townspeople as well as at the coast guard base. Under his command the coast guard has cooperated closely with townspeople during emergencies and in routine matters. He has assisted in the establishment of a naval reserve here and has worked with the coast guard auxiliary under Dr. Melvin Bondelid.

Last year Wild caught one of the prize winning fish in the salmon derby. He is a member of the Naval Lodge of Elks, the Rotary club and the Peninsula Golf and Country Club. He expects to remain here a few days before leaving for the east.

CG Cutter Sinks Mine Near LaPush Thursday

A floating derelict mine was sighted and exploded 15 miles southwest of LaPush Thursday by the coast guard cutter McLane.

Coast guard planes from the Ediz hook air station started a search for the mine after the steamship Gunner's Knot reported it 20 miles west of Destruction island on Wednesday.

Aviation pilot Rex Oakes flying the coast guard PBY sighted the mine just before dark Wednesday, but when the coast guard cutter McLane arrived at the scene from Aberdeen a few moments later, she was unable to locate the mine because of rain and darkness.

Ensign C. R. Howell flying the PBY resumed the search Thursday morning and the McClane succeeded in sighting the mine and sinking it by gunfire about 1 p.m.

THERMOMETER DROPS TO LOWEST POINT OF WINTER EARLY TODAY

When the thermometer went quivering down to 30.5 degrees above zero at the Laurel bluff weather station between 6 and 6:30 o'clock this morning, Port Angeles got its coldest weather of the winter.

The low reading indicates killing frost, the first of the winter, Leon G. Sutton, volunteer weather observer said between shivers.

Port Angeles had other frost this winter, but the weather bureau designation of "killing frost" means many types of plants will shrivel, turn black and turn up their toes under its influence.

Noticeable around town this morning is ice coatings over puddles of water, and on trout and goldfish ponds.

Wholesale Marketing Of School Timber And Land Opposed by Case

OLYMPIA—(AP)—State Land Commissioner Otto Case today vigorously opposed the proposal of State Treasurer Russell Fluent that the state take advantage of present high prices and sell land and timber belonging to the state school system.

Case maintained Fluent's proposal would "kill the timber goose that is laying the school system's golden eggs."

He said sale of the 1,000,600 acres of educational grant timber would glut the market, force prices down and result in a greatly reduced long-time return to the school system.

"The timber market can absorb only about seven billion board feet of timber each year in Washington," Case said. He disclosed the state normally disposes of about six hundred million board feet a year and maintained sale of "the state's present holdings of some forty billion board feet" would glut the market.

Fluent had urged sale of "idle logged-off lands and ripe and overripe timber" to build up a permanent school fund of $250,000,000. He said investment returns on such a fund would pay nearly one-sixth of the current school operating costs and "save the taxpayers more than $6,000,000 a year.

Case declared logged-off lands are unsuitable for agriculture and maintained they should be retained by the state for growing new timber, the sale of which will enrich the school funds in future years.

Case said timber still unsold is inaccessible at present because lack of roads. For this reason and because of the current high prices, he said buyers do not want the timber at present.

In this connection, he said there has been a marked reduction in recent months in the number of applications from buyers asking that state-owned timber be put up for sale.

Abandon Search For Fliers Lost at Sea

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—(AP)—Search for nine navy fliers lost at sea was abandoned today as two survivors of the crash of a Lockheed Neptune medium bomber were landed here by the submarine U.S.S. Pomadon.

The plane was one of five which left Camp Miramar, near here, last night on a scheduled 14-hour operation flight in maneuvers with the fleet. Cause of the crash early today was not disclosed. Names of those missing are being withheld pending notification of next of kin.

PRINCE AKIHITO PRAISED

SEATTLE — (AP) — The tutor of Crown Prince Akihito of Japan expressed the belief today that "he has a better chance than his father because he is free of the restrictions imposed upon the emperor by centuries of tradition and policy." Mrs. Elizabeth Gray Vining, the royal teacher, will speak here tonight on "Young People in New Japan." Her appearance is sponsored by groups seeking relief funds for Japan. Mrs. Vining said the prince, who will be 15 next month, "is an honest boy and does his own thinking."

Truman Says He Sees No Reason To Halt Sale Of Heavy Machinery to Russia at This Time

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman said today he sees no reason to stop the sale of heavy machinery and farm equipment to Russia at this time.

Questioned at a news conference about such shipments, Mr. Truman said the Soviet government has a purchasing commission here and has been allowed to purchase machinery for the rehabilitation of electric dams destroyed by the Germans, as well as the farm equipment.

The Russians have purchased $113,700,000 in goods from this country during the first nine months of this year. Included was several million dollars worth of industrial machinery.

Russia also got 216 freight cars valued at $1,240,000 from this country between April and October, commerce department records show, but who made the sales is a puzzle.

Officials, unable to trace the transactions directly, surmised that the Russians bought them from Americans who in turn had bought them from the war assets administration, possibly on veterans' or other preferences for surplus goods.

BROAD-GAUGE ENGINES

The freight cars—like the 145 locomotives Russia got from the United States between January and April—were specially built to fit the Soviet's broad-gauge railways, which have rails set six inches farther apart than those in America.

This factor, regarded as making the cars unusable for American railroads, was said by an official to account for their being let out of this country after freight cars were put under export license control July 1 because of the domestic shortage.

The first seven cars were shipped to Russia in April. The number increased each month to a peak of 100 in August, then dropped to 60 in September, the last month for which export figures are available.

Some may have been obtained by the Russians on lend-lease credit before congress banned further lend-lease transfers to the Soviet in 1947, but most of them were cash-on-the-barrelhead transactions.

NO LEND-LEASE

Government records showed that no goods whatsoever of the lend-lease credit class went to Russia in August, although that was the peak month of freight car shipments.

Officials expressed belief that when Russia shipped home 20 freight cars valued at $486,000 last year, it pretty well cleaned out the supply it bought from the U. S. under lend-lease terms.

The war assets administration said it has sold no freight cars to Russia this year.

Bellingham's Stores Feel Results Of Canadian Austerity

BELLINGHAM—(AP)—Retailers of this marketing center 22 miles from the border began to feel the results today of the new austerity program put in effect Tuesday by the Canadian government as women's clothing, shoes, jewelry, electrical appliances and other items were banned for import into that country.

Meanwhile Canadian customs reported little trouble with tourists returning to British Columbia with "forbidden merchandise."

"They were forewarned and most of them didn't purchase those items.

"Those who did usually traded them in Blaine," said State Inspector Jack Tucker of the Pacific highway port of entry, denying that "confiscation" of goods bought by Canadians was taking place.

Bellingham has always done a large business with British Columbians when regulations permit.

Alaska Transportation Situation Bemoaned By Crawford of Mich.

WASHINGTON — (AP)—The special Alaska transportation committee was told today by Rep. Crawford (R-Mich) that congress must solve the transportation problems of the territory at the next regular session.

He added:

"If this congress can't find an economical way to solve the problem and prevent the economic guillotining of the people of Alaska," Crawford said, "it ought to stop and go home."

Crawford, chairman of a house public lands committee which held hearings on statehood in Alaska last summer also argued that the territory should be granted statehood. He said Alaskan defenses should be strengthened and added:

"Russia can take it on short notice and use it against the United States."

Crawford said that the maritime commission, congress, the interior department and the White House all were partly to blame for permitting a bad transportation situation.

He said neither water, air nor road transportation is adequate and that the shipping situation out of Seattle "borders on an absolute monopoly."

"I am going to do my best to bust up this combination," he said in referring to the Seattle shipping interests which serve the territory. "Are we going to continue to let those two or three companies hold this power over the territory?"

Crawford said he intended to ask legislation to permit Canadian ships to serve the territory.

Three Naval Bases At Japan Recommended By House Subgroup

WASHINGTON — (AP) — An early peace treaty with Japan and possible retention there of three naval bases was recommended today by a house armed service subcommittee.

After a two-month tour along the "waist line of the world," the group headed by Rep. Cole (R-NY) also urged:

(1) More and speedy help for the Chinese government;

(2) Authority for an American military mission to train Greek combat forces;

(3) Development of Truk atoll as a major Pacific naval base;

(4) Deemphasis on the military establishment at Guam;

(5) Retention of Okinawa under the American flag for strategic purposes and

(6) Expansion of fuel oil storage at Pearl Harbor, Hawaiian base, so it can provide a year's supply in the event of war.

The subcommittee's report submitted to the full armed services committee was signed by Cole as chairman. Those who made the tour with him were Rep. Clason (R-Mass), Hess (R-Ohio), Hebert (D-La), Norblad (R-Ore), and Srivner (R-Kan).

While it visited Turkey, Italy, Austria and Germany, as well as Greece, the group confined its report and recommendations to the Far East and Greece.

ASKS EARLY PEACE

It said it is "highly desirable" that a peace settlement with Japan "be concluded as promptly as possible by the concurrence of the nations concerned." It reported receiving assurances, but did not say from whom, that U. S. military forces could be withdrawn as soon as a treaty is concluded.

With apparent reference to Russia, although not by name, the subcommittee added:

"If the reluctance or refusal of any one of the powers to participate in the negotiations and execution of a Japanese treaty should continue, it is believed that an independent settlement could well be made of the differences between Japan and the United States, but only upon the conditions that the United Nations take over in Japan where we leave off."

The subcommitee said it recommends strongly that American treaty negotiators "bear in mind the highly desirable retention of the navy base at Yokosuka with subsidiary location at Sasebo and Kure."

The visiting representatives said they were sufficiently impressed by the urgency of conditions in China to message President Truman while they were in the east urging that more military supplies and training be given immediately to the Chinese government.

President Compton Of WSC and Wife Hurt In Automobile Mishap

COLFAX, Wash.—(AP)—Dr. Wilson Compton, president of Washington State College, and Mrs. Compton were injured last night when their car left the icy highway five miles north of here and rolled over an embankment.

Dr. Compton suffered a broken rib and cuts and bruises. Mrs. Compton, the more seriously injured, received a possible concussion and cuts and bruises. Both were taken to the Bryant-Weisman clinics at Colfax.

Three other state college officials riding in the back seat of the car were shaken up but not injured. They are E. H. Hopkins, WSC vice president; Robert A. Sandberg, executive assistant to the president, and Mrs. Eleanor Newell, secretary to Dr. Compton.

Omar Bradley Named as Army's Chief of Staff

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley is to be the army's new chief of staff, President Truman said today, and will be succeeded as veterans administrator by Carl R. Gray, Jr., Chicago railway executive and industrialist.

Bradley will take over the top army job when Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower retires next spring to become president of Columbia university in New York.

Omar N. Bradley

Just when this shift will take place, Mr. Truman said, is indefinite, but Gray will start his new duties as veterans administrator Jan. 1.

Meanwhile, the president told a news conference, Bradley will make a survey of the army's department's facilities.

GRAY A RAILROADER

Born in Wichita, Kans., 58 years ago. he served as captain, major and lieutenant colonel in the army in world war I, then became a colonel in the United States engineer reserve. He was appointed Brigadier general in charge of railway transportation in the allied European theater of war in 1943.

Mr. Truman said he is appointing Gen. C. V. Cates as commandant of the marine corps succeeding Gen. A. A. Vandegrift.

At the same news conference, the president disclosed that Maj. Gen. Robert M. Littlejohn is resigning as war assets administrator November 28.

The president said Deputy Administrator Jess Larson will take over Littlejohn's duties as acting head of the war assetts administration which is to be liquidated by next June except for real property.

Mr. Truman said he could not say what job Dillon S. Myer will take when he leaves his present post as commissioner of the public housing authority. Myer, the president said, has not made up his mind what post he wants.

BRADLEY LEAVES DEC. 1.

Veterans administration official said Bradley will leave his desk there on Dec. 1. And for the rest of the month Omer Clark, executive assistant administrator, will be in charge.

Mr. Truman said Bradley himself requested an early return to the army department in order to study its present setup.

The president said he does not know what Littlejohn proposed to do when he leaves the government. He said that war assets sales have progressed rapidly under Littlejohn's direction and that liquidation of the agency will be started by next June.

He said Littlejohn has done a good job, that he was just tough enough to do it.

The new commandant-designate of the marine corps, Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Cates, won three decorations for fighting the Japanese in the Pacific. After service on Guadalcanal in 1942 he commanded the fourth marine division, marine fleet force, from July 1944 to November 1945.

He now is commanding general at Quantico, Va., base.

Charwoman Interrupts Scrubbing To Say Prince Philip Is a 'Proper, Nice Fellow'

LONDON—(AP)—The cokney charwoman was old and wrinkled and bent, and she wore a broad wedding band on the proper finger.

She straightened over a bucket of sudsy scrubwater and replied:

"Philip? 'E's a proper nice fellow."

So Philip, born to be a prince of distant troubled Greece, has become a "proper" prince of Britain, sharing whatever affection Britons hold for their royal family, whose eldest daughter he wedded yesterday.

Since the first rumors spread from Athens that there was marriageable affection between him and Princess Elizabeth, he has grown steadily and increasingly in public esteem, which first assessed him indifferently as a little known youth from the rear ranks of one of Europe's less stabilized royal families.

He has been built up—and yesterday he answered the buildup with a full dress performance of a man who knows his place, a man who must ever bear himself as a king and never wear a crown.

His place is that of a companionate shadow, a reflector of public adulation upon his wife. He must also, perhaps, be a target for criticism, as was "Albert the Good," consort of Queen Victoria.

Critical eyes watched yesterday to see how he would behave as he was thrust upon the stage:

He drove to Westminster abbey and the crowds cheered, but he looked neither to right nor left nor waved his hand to accept any acclaim. For he was less than 12 hours a duke, an earl and a baron, his lordly titles having been carefully withheld until his last bachelor night.

Returning from the abbey with his wife, he was different. A line was drawn between an old life and a new one.

Now he grinned broadly, waved his right hand to the cheering crowds as did Elizabeth. Yet he never outdid her.

Then Philip was on the palace balcony.

Once he sprang aside to put aged Queen Mary in better view of the crowds, again, he noticed his young sister-in-law, half hidden behind Elizabeth, and motioned her forward with a brotherly grin.

Alone on the balcony with Elizabeth, he waved to the crowds—but not as often as his wife. Deftly, he kept her in the center of the spotlight, himself on its less intense perimeter.

FIGHT WITH KEROSENE; WIFE DEAD; MATE CRITICALLY BURNED

POINT MARION, Pa.—(AP)—Mrs. Harold King, 32, died today and her coal miner husband, 36, was in a critical condition following a quarrel in which they threw kerosene on each other, Coroner Lee R. Herrington reported.

Herrington quoted King as saying he tried to rescue his wife after she set her fuel-saturated clothing afire.

With King carrying her, they emerged from their home like two blazing torches, but the miner collapsed on the back steps. Burned from head to foot, Mrs. King was found dead on the steps.

Italian Peasants And Carabinieri In Fierce Street Battles

ROME —(AP)— Peasants battled Carabinieri today in the streets of Bitonto, near Bari, in a new outbreak of the violence which has taken a growing toll of lives throughout Italy in the past week.

The fight was touched off by an attack by an unidentified assallant upon a priest, the Rev. Pasquale Pileo. The cleric, on his way to say mass, was shot three times in the back. In the subsequent fighting, two Carabinieri were gravely wounded. Armed mobs ranged the streets. Headquarters of the Christian democratic and the rightest uomo qualunque (common man) parties were reported wrecked.

Disorders turned into bloody skirmishing in the strike-bound Apulia region in the heel of Italy yesterday, and four persons were killed, dispatches to Rome newspapers said.

NEARLY SCORE KILLED

The total dead in the recent epidemic of leftist-led disorders throughout all Italy was near 20.

In this capital, Premier Alcide De Gasperi, whose Christian democratic government is a target of a concentrated leftist attack, conferred with the general commander of the Carabinieri.

At least 13 persons, seven of them Carabinieri who were reported to have their arms in self-defense, were wounded in skirmishing yesterday at Campi Salentina and Gravina in the Apulia region, the independent newspaper Messagero reported.

Telephone communications with Bitonto were out. Communications between Bari, principal city of the northern Apulia region, and Rome were interrupted. Lines also were broken elsewhere in the trouble zone, particularly in the area of Corato, where three persons have been killed.

Government sources in Rome said the Bitonto rioting began with bomb explosions and the crackle of gunfire. A mob gathered quickly and attacked the Christian democrat and uomo qualumque headquarters, the informants said. The mob set fire to the buildings and also to a hunters' club and the headquarters of the Agricultural Association, they reported.

'Green Bowl' Secret Society Banned By Navy Order

By Robert M. Farrington

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The navy today issued orders banning forever the 40-year-old Annapolis secret society known as the Green Bowl, because of "rumor and speculation" that its members had the inside track for promotions and high-ranking jobs.

A navy "memorandum to the press" said there is no evidence that the group had any such influence. But there had been, it added, an "adverse effect to a limited degree on service morale, because of the fear of the potentialities of an alleged self-serving secret society."

The report said a total of 156 naval and marine officers now on active duty belonged to the Green Bowl in midshipmen days. Armed Forces, an unofficial service publication, said recently 18 of these are admirals.

COMES AFTER PROBE

A full-scale investigation of the Green Bowl was ordered after Capt. J. G. Gromelin, Jr., testified before a congressional committee that it was an innocently-started organization "grown vicious with the years."

Seventy-five officers were questioned during the two-month inquiry which followed. It was under the direction of Rear Adm. Frank J. Lowry.

Today's memorandum said the Green Bowl's "sole purpose was social" and aimed at evading strict academy rules against smoking or drinking by midshipmen.

"The investigators did not receive any persuasive evidence that the Green Bowl, or any of its members, discriminated against nonmembers, or that the association attemtped in any way to obtain promotions or preferential duty assignments for any of its members," the navy declared.

REPORT CONFIDENTIAL

The full report of the investigation is classified "confidential" by the navy, and officials declined to disclose the names of the 56 Green Bowlers now on active duty.

Admiral Lowry's "findings" on which the memorandum is based could not be obtained immediately, but one high-ranking officer promised it would be made public later.

No evidence was produced, the memorandum said, that any Green Bowler "had benefitted professionaly or financially by his membership in this association."

The highest ranking Green Bowler, Admiral C. Ramsey, vice chief of naval operations, told a reporter recently he had never discovered how to resign from the organization since it held no meetings, collected no dues, and had no officers or records.

Tempers Flare As Meyers Testifies About Automobile

WASHINGTON —(AP)—Red-faced and flustered, Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers acknowledged today that he once signed a false affidavit concerning use of the Cadillac automobile which has figured in the senate investigation of his wartime activities.

The acknowledgement came as members of the senate war investigating committee cross-questioned him on his story that he set up the Aviation Electric Company solely to help "my girl friend," Mrs. Mildred Lamarre, wife of the man who became its president.

Mentioning the Cadillac, which B. H. Lamarre said Aviation Electric bought for Meyers, Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) asked Meyers whether the car ever had been used by Aviation Electric prior to the Jan. 1, 1942—that is, prior to a wartime government freeze order on deliveries of news cars.

"No," Meyers replied.

Then why, Ferguson shot back, had Meyers signed an affidavit to the District of Columbia auto license bureau that the car had been "bought, paid for and used by the Aviation Electric Company before Jan. 1, 1942."

"Is that your signature?" Ferguson demanded, turning the affidavit over to Meyers.

Flushing Meyers said it was, but that he had signed it as "just a routine thing." He said "anybody would have signed it."

"Why would an officer in the United States army file a false affidavit when there was a rationing order coming up?" Ferguson demanded.

Meyers repeated that he had signed it simply as a routine matter. When Committee Counsel William Rogers took issue with him on this, Meyers shouted:

"I think you would have signed it, too, Mr. Rogers."

Rogers angrily declared there was no call for such a statement.

Ferguson commented that there would not be much point to affidavits if they could be explained away as Meyers was trying to.

QUESTIONS VALUE

Meyers said he did not know about that, but that he wondered about the value of affidavits in the light of "some of the testimony that had been taken here."

Under a series of questions, Meyers insisted that he had no plans to cash in on government contracts when he set up Aviation Electric—that it was done solely for the Lemarres.

Lemarre, who left a $35 a week job to become head of the concern, has testified that Meyers got more than $150,000 in profits from the firm's million-dollar-plus aviation subcontracts.

Meyers acknowledged that he also signed a second affidavit that "was incorrect" to obtain a District of Columbia license for the same large blue car.

The second affidavit also listed the Electric Company as owner and user of the car at the fashionable apartment here where the general lived at one time during the war.

INTEREST ELSEWHERE

While the senate hearing progressed, the Meyers case got attention elsewhere.

The justice department has announced it is investigating and proposes to bring an income tax case against Meyers when the senate hearings conclude.

When Rogers brought out the second affidavit, Meyers looked it over and said, "I signed it without reading it."

Rogers: "You admit it's false."

Meyers: "Yes, I'll admit it is not correct."

Rogers: "But it's false. Would you like it better if I asked you if it was untrue instead of false?"

Meyers: "Yes I would. Not one person in a thousand reads such things when signing them."

Ferguson wanted to know where Meyers obtained gasoline for two Cadillac cars during wartime rationing.

Meyers insisted that he had only one Cadillas during the war. He said the other belonged to Aviation Electric.

(Lamarre's story is that Meyers got the car for himself and Aviation Electric paid for it. Meyers said he only arranged to buy the car for Aviation Electric).

The general said he did not recall where he obtained the gas for his own car, or what type of ration card he held.

"Isn't it true," Ferguson asked, "that you obtained gasoline from one of the air fields?"

Meyers replied he never had bought gas for the car he said belonged to Aviation Electric, but that he "may have gotten some government gas for my car."

GOP To Develop Own Anti-Inflation Plan

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator Millikin (R-Colo) said today that senate republicans will develop an anti-inflation program based on "sound measures," as their answer to President Truman's cost-of-living proposals."

The Colorado senator is chairman of the senate republican conference and talked with reporters after a meeting of that group.

He said the drafting of a GOP program will have to await a study by committees of all of the proposals thus far made. He said these would include President Truman's 10 suggestions for legislative action.

"We will have a program to do the best we can with anti-inflation and it will consist of sound measures," he said.

First Breakfast Alone Finds Royal Couple Having Bacon and Eggs

ROMSEY, England—(AP)—Princess Elizabeth and Philip, her prince, wed yesterday in the tradition of a thousand years of English pomp and circumstance, began the "ever after" days of their royal romance today with one of rationed Britain's rare treats—bacon and eggs for breakfast.

Outside their honeymoon retreat the day was almost springlike, with soft breezes surprisingly rustling the foliage after a spell of cold.

From the time the oaken door of Broadlands, estate of Earl Mountbatten, closed on them late yesterday, the royal couple has been alone.

Two girls, delivering wedding evening greetings from Romsey's townspeople, said they saw nothing of the couple. But Philip's navy officer cap, they related, was tossed casually on a hallway chair—the hat of a man who has come home in the evening.

TO APPEAR SUNDAY

Today the people of placid Romsey, a Hampshire market town a bit off the beaten paths of commerce, pursued their modest vocations with suppressed excitement over the prospective public appearance of the 21-year-old bride and her 26-year-old husband at Romsey abbey religious services next Sunday.

In grey old London, the excitement subsided after yesterday's joyous celebration of the wedding.

CROWD LINGERS ON

Celebrants, clustered thickly around Buckingham palace, lifted their voices till past midnight in unheeded pleas for one more balcony appearance of their monarch. But the lights that flooded the palace finally flickered off and all the rolling shouts of "we want the king" and "we want Margaret" brought no sign from the wide windows.

When it became clear that the great day was at an end, the masses drifted slowly away and some 150 romantic youths and their maids snake-danced about the base of Eros, the cupid god who stands amid the swirling traffic center, London's trademark, Piccadilly.

Exuberant youths even climbed upon Eros but firm and patient bobbies sent them on quieter paths.

SISTER STEALS SHOW

The earlier scenes at the palace projected Elizabeth's mischievous 17-year-old sister, whose happy handwaving shifted the center of the spotlight from her royal parents.

But despite the entreaties of the throng, Margaret did not appear in the final balcony appearance of her father and mother.

In Romsey, little was known about the immediate plans of the honeymooners, if, indeed, they had any detailed plans.

Official functions are largely out of their way for the next several weeks and their time will be their own, to ramble as they please over the brick walled 6,000-acre estate of Broadlands or along the twisting, fenced by-ways of southern England's soft hills, 70 miles outside London.

QUAKE RECORDED

PASADENA, Calif. — (AP)—A severe earthquake, just short of a "major" type, was recorded today by observatories in this country and Mexico, and seismologists here fixed its center off the Mexican coast in the vicinity of Cape Corrientes.

Dr. Charles F. Richter, assistant director of California Institute of Technology's laboratory, put the distance at 1,170 miles southeast of here.

Russ Relations With Iran Strained Over Voided Oil Rights

LONDON —(AP)— Russia has delivered to Iran a stiff note charging that by voiding proposed oil concessions to the Soviet Union a month ago the Iranian government committed a "hostile" act, Moscow radio said today.

The broadcast said the note, delivered to Premier Ahmed Qavam yesterday in Tehran, was a "resolute protest" against "the hostile actions of the Iran government in regard to the Soviet Union, which are incompatible with normal relations between the two states."

In making this strong hint at a break in diplomatic relations, the note "charged the government of Iran with responsibility for the consequences of this," the broadcast added.

The note was dispatched, Moscow said, in response to a message from Qavam dated Nov. 5, advising the Soviet Union that the Iranian Majlis (parliament) "considered the agreement on the foundation of a joint Iranian-Russian Oil Company, concluded on April 4, 1946 as null and void."

IWA Wants Wage Hike, Price Controls

PORTLAND, Ore. — (AP) — The International Woodworkers of America (CIO) wants wage increases plus federal price controls on lumber.

The executive board of the IWA, meeting here yesterday without Canadian delegates, asserted that lumber prices have "increased 62 percent while average hourly earnings in sawmills and logging have increased only 17 percent."

The board urged "wage increases that can be granted and at the same time allow a reduction in lumber prices."

Adjournment followed, so that the board could go to Vancouver to meet with Canadian delegates who were turned back by U. S. immigration officials.

JOBLESS INCREASE

OLYMPIA—(AP)—The number of non-agricultural workers in Washington increased 11,800—from 679,700 to 691,500—during the year ending in September, John D. Davis, state commissioner of employment security, disclosed in a report today.

Employers subject to the state unemployment compensation act increased from 41,269 to 46,930 during the period, a gain of 13.7 per cent, Davis said.

"There were, of course, many other new owner-operated enterprises and partnerships not employing workers and" not subject to the act, he said.

New Proposals by Russia at Minister's Meet Will Come as Surprise to Other Nations

BERLIN—(AP)—Will Russia present new proposals at the London conference in which the foreign ministers of the Allied big four will attempt to break their deadlock on the German peace treaty?

If they do, it will come as an immense surprise to Americans, British, French and Germans working in this divided country.

In the seven months since the Moscow conference there has not been a single indication on the part of the Russians in this four-power capital that any compromises were in the offing.

Not one major issue has been decided by the allied control council in that time.

The council was directed to make recommendations as to the number of occupation troops each power should have. After several fruitless meetings the control council could not agree even on a basis of counting occupation forces, let alone deciding their numbers.

Only the occasional sharp blasts of protests by western powers or Russia against one another disturb the clam of the tri-monthly meetings - many of which are postponed because of a lack even of items to disagree upon.

HOPE ABANDONED

Fundamentally there is no hope for a functioning control council while the United States and Russia are engaged on such opposing courses.

The United States is studying a Marshall plan to make western Europe self-sufficient without the help of the Soviet orbit.

Russia opposes the Marshall plan and what it stands for and will fight it at every opportunity, while welding eastern Europe into a Molotov "plan."

Russian leaders declare their belief that economic crisis will shake the United States and smash not only the Marshall plan but American influence in Europe.

CONFIDENCE IN PLAN

American leaders express confidence the Marshall plan will work and contain Soviet expansion and believe that Russia in turn cannot economically support eastern Europe.

European diplomats and soldiers here assert that neither program has had a chance to prove itself nor is either likely to do in less than a year or more.

They point out further the council of foreign ministers is now about to try to solve a fundamental problem while driving in different directions.

They expect nothing from this meeting and no change in Russia's unyielding position until the Marshall plan proves itself or fails.

They expect Russia to maintain the positions she took at Moscow again at London with a "take it or leave it" attitude and to use the meeting to propagandize her aims as much as possible to win German support.

'LADY COP' GETS HER MAN AFTER A THRILLING CHASE

PITTSBURGH— (AP) —Mary Conway has proved her ability to hold her own with male policemen even when it comes to chasing an errant motorist while standing on the running board of a commandeered car.

Mary—member of the auxiliary police group formed here a year ago—jumped on the running board of an automobile yesterday when another motorist failed to heed her signal to stop at an intersection.

The "lady cop" succeeded in forcing her quarry to the curb after a chase of several blocks amid much tooting of her whistle. The driver was released on $25 bond after a hearing on two charges—failing to heed a uniformed officer's command and disorderly conduct.

Truman Seeks Control Of Credit Margins

WASHINGTON — (AP)—President Truman said today he wants congress to grant authority for control of credit margins on commodity market transactions in the same way the government regulates the stock exchange dealings.

He made that response at a news conference when he was asked for amplification of his anti-inflation proposal for regulation of speculative trading on commodity markets, which deal in wheat, cotton and similar products. The proposal was one of 10 steps for combatting price rises which he outlined in a message to congress Monday.

The federal reserve board sets credit margins on stock dealings. It can require up to 100 percent margin—which means no credit and all cash for stock purchases. At present, however, the margin is 75 percent—meaning 75 percent cash must be put up in buying stocks.

Asked whether he wanted to establish the same margins on commodity trading, Mr. Truman declined to discuss specific figures but said the government ought to have the same type of authority. Commodity trading margins at present are fixed by individual exchanges.

His discussion of economic and foreign aid programs also included:

1—He isn't ready to say when he thinks the economic situation might require use of consumer rationing and limited price controls which he asked congress to provide. He'll have more to say about that, he added, when he gets the authority to use them.

2—He hasn't anything to say about a charge by Senator Taft of Ohio, senate republican leader, that Mr. Truman's anti-inflation proposals are "totalitarian." He added that his message to congress Monday, as well as Taft's speech later the same day, speak for themselves.

3—Told that republicans contend he has export controls now that he is not using, Mr. Truman said that probably is correct to some extent. What he asked for, he said, was extension of export controls.

4—He expects to submit to congress in about 10 days the administration's long range plan for European economic recovery. Emergency aid to tide France, Italy and Austria over the winter already is under consideration in congress.

Initial hearings by the senate-house economic committee on the president's request for the inflation controls were scheduled after the meeting of GOP senators.

Cain 'Pressured' By Postal Card Barrage

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A postal card barrage from members of the Prosser, Wash., Business and Professional Women's Club prompted a reiteration by Senator Cain (R-Wash) today of his dislike for what he calls "pressure mail."

Cain issued a statement saying his first such mail of the special session arrived Sunday from members of the club. He said there were 43 postal cards signed by club members urging equal rights for women in employment.

"All the cards bearing the same postal cancellation date of 11:30 a.m. of Nov. 12 asked me to support equal rights for women in employment," Cain said. "All the cards apparently were written on the same typewriter, and not a comma or period was misplaced.

"However, here's a tip to the women of Prosser, who take an interest in their government: One good letter listing reasons, arguments and illustrations, is worth 10,000 pieces of identical pressure mail."

Cain added he has always been for equal rights for women.

"They already have my vote," he said.

Seven hundred delegates of the American Federation of Labor open their first convention since enactment of the Taft-Hartley Law in the Civic Auditorium at San Francisco. Number one topic of discussion was the labor-management law and leaders made it clear that an all-out drive for repeal of the act would be made. Delegates present represented 105 unions and 7,577,000 members.

'Giant' Scorns Sports For Literary Career

By Cynthia Lowry

NEW YORK—(AP)—Feike Feikema, whose publishers have Pulitzer Prize hopes for his novel "This Is The Year," undoubtedly is the biggest thing in modern literature. He stands six feet nine inches in his stocking feet: even more in his size 15 shoes.

"And my size," he said, attempting unavailingly to get comfortable in a normal-sized chair, "is a serious disadvantage. Most people seem to think that all great big guys are just naturally stupid. That isn't good for a big guy who writes serious books."

Feikema's a husky blonde man of 35. He comes from a race and family of huge, powerful men. He is a second generation American, whose parents—both over six feet tall—were Frisians, descendants of hardy seafaring natives of the rugged North Sea islands.

Feikema's parents joined the stream who left Holland and Germany, came to the United States, and settled in the midwest. Feike, the Feikema's eldest son, was born on his father's half-section (320 acres) in Iowa.

He knows the farmer's world of rain and sunshine, good and bad harvests. He went to a midwestern Calvinist college and then set off to see the great United States of which he was determined to write.

He bummed and worked his way around the country. Once he picked up a job as a sportswriter in Minneapolis because Bernie Bierman, football coach of the University of Minnesota Gophers, believed he could help interest his five younger brothers in forming a superman half of a football team.

"I was a very poor reporter," Feike said. "I could blot up all sorts of information, but I couldn't sit down and write about it quickly."

Tuberculosis almost killed him before he really settled down to writing. He spent two years in a sanitorium. He met his wife there and they were married in 1942.

"I knew that I must write or die," Feike said, without any drama at all. "We had $70 a month coming in and I started to write on it."

They now have a little place in Minnesota and Feike still is working hard. He writes in the morning and does his research in the afternoons.

"It has worked so far," he said. "I still haven't much money but I think I'm over the hump now."

He is in the preliminary stages of "a big book" now which he says will take him three or four years to finish.

"It's about a giant," he explained.

A "giant"—he refers to himself as one—has a hard time of it quite apart from the difficulty of buying clothes. Door knobs come off in his hand, friends cringe at the strength in his handclasp when he's glad to see them.

"I love music; I should have been a musician," he continued. "And to most people it is a strange sight to see such a big guy who loves music. All I'm supposed to love is sports."

But New York tires him; he is puzzled by the slang and his brain spins at the questions put to him.

"I'll be glad to get back to Minnesota," he said.

ADM. GAFFNEY DEAD

OAKLAND, Calif. — (AP) — Rear Adm. John J. Gaffney, 56, died in Oak Knoll navy hospital in Oakland today of a heart attack.

The admiral was admitted to the hospital several days ago.

He recently was made a permanent rear admiral.

Admiral Gaffney was commanding officer of the naval supply center here. He had been in command since August, 1945. Before that he was supply officer of the 14th naval district, Pearl Harbor.

One of the worst bottlenecks in the housing shortage was cracked, if not broken open, when AFL building and metal trades unions signed a two-year contract in Chicago with manufacturers of prefabricated houses to permit union members to work on the ready-made homes. Until now, unions have fought all forms of prefabricated houses. Above, smiling after signing the pact, are Carl G. Strandlund, president of Lustron Corporation, which hopes by next summer to turn out prefabs at the rate of 30,000 a year; Martin P. Durkin, president of the AFL plumbers union; and Omar B. Ketchum, Veterans of Foreign Wars' legislative director, who said the agreement would help make "The hope of our GI's for a home become a reality."

High Wind, Snow Is Weather Menu In Parts of Midwest

(By Associated Press)

Heavy, blowing snow and colder weather hit parts of the middle west and parts of the Rocky mountain area today and further drops in temperature for a wide section of the country was forecast for tonight and tomorrow.

Strong winds accompanied the snow storm in South Dakota, eastern North Dakota and northern Minnesota, and there was much drifting. Federal forecasters in Chicago said the mercury would drop to below zero in western North Dakota tonight and also would fall over the entire midwest and southwest regions.

There was light snow over Nebraska, Montana and Wyoming and the early morning low temperatures of near zero were in those states. Rain fell from southern Minnesota and western Wisconsin southward to the gulf.

Temperatures fell below freezing in parts of the middle Atlantic states, with Philipsburg, Pa., reporting a low of 13. Normal seasonal temperatures were reported over most of the Pacific coast areas, with rain in the mountain regions.

Insurance Hiked As Mine Menace Grows

SEATTLE — (AP) — Marine underwriters reported here today an increased interest in extra-premium insurance as a result of the number of Japanese mines found floating off the Oregon-Washington coast.

One company reported a canning company fleet still operating off the Oregon coast has applied for such insurance, now commanding a premium of but 20 cents a $100 a year.

Meanwhile the coast guard announced that two more derelict mines were detonated off the Washington coast yesterday by the cutter McLane out of Grays Harbor.

One was found off Destruction island and a second seven miles offshore, north of Cape Elizabeth and south of the Quillayute river.

Twenty-three mines now have been sighted and 18 exploded since Nov. 1.

Tips on Preparing That Holiday Bird

With holidays rapidly approaching, it's time to retrieve the turkey platter from its top-of-the-cupboard hiding place and to check to be certain that you have a turkey-sized roaster for the holiday bird.

And now let's go on to the preparation of the holiday turkey. Select a plump, meaty bird with clean, waxy skin. Ask your butcher to dress it. Singe and clean the bird. Then wash thoroughly, both inside and cut. Drain thoroughly. Rub body and neck cavities lightly with salt. Make your favorite stuffing and fill the body and neck cavities loosely. (Do not pack the stuffing too tightly because it will expand during the roasting.) Close openings by inserting skewers or heavy toothpicks and lacing with string. Tie the legs securely together, close to the body, running the cord around the tail to hold them in place. Lift the wings up and out, forcing the tips back until they rest against the neck skin.

Grease the skin with melted fat and place, breast down, on a rack in the roaster. (Turn turkey breast side up about halfway through the roasting period to allow it to finish browning.)

Cover and roast at moderately low temperature, 300-325 degrees, until nicel ybrowned and tender. A 10 to 14 pound turkey will require from 3½ to 4 hours roasting time; a 14 to 18 pound one, from 4 to 4½ hours.

Mrs. Benham Speaks To Junior Mothers

Mrs. Shirley Benham discussed "Sex Education for Children" for Junior Mothers Club Wednesday night.

Mrs. Benham explained this education not only teaches the facts of life but all scientific, ethical, social and religious knowledge. It is an influence, which directly or indirectly, may help young people to solve for themselves the problems of sex that inevitably come in some form into the life of every normal human being, she said.

Mrs. Merton Sturtevant was accepted into the membership at the meeting.

Mrs. Albert Acorn, hostess for the evening, was assisted by Mrs. E. H. Keeling in serving refreshments.

Spies From All Enemy Nations at Oak Ridge.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Rep. Cannon (D-Mo) reported today a house committee learned on a secret wartime visit to the Oak Ridge, Tenn., atom bomb plant that foreign spies were working there.

"In fact," Cannon said in an interview, "we were told there were spies from all the enemy nations."

After their discovery, he said, they were permitted to stay on the job so they could be watched and the spy network traced. He added:

"We were told these spies couldn't do any damage because workers in one building were never allowed to know what workers in another building were doing. Besides, a system was set up to fool them."

He said he never had heard what the government did with those who were known to be enemy agent.

The Missourian was chairman of the house appropriations commmittee which made the trip in May, 1945, after some congressmen, he said began to grumble about the "foolishness" of spending millions on the then secret atom plant.

See Floating Bridge Free of Debt in '50

OLYMPIA — (AP)—If tolls on the Lake Washington floating bridge continue their present trend, the span may be paid off and become free in 1950, one year sooner than predicted.

That was the estimate today of Webb Hoover, recorder for the state toll bridge authority, who had predicted earlier that the bridge would be paid off in 1951.

As of Sept. 1, there was an outstanding indebtedness of $3,220,000 in revenue bonds against the bridge. At the same time the bridge's insurance fund had accumulated $1,000,000 which is invested in government securities.

Sequim-Chimacum Football Game Is Scheduled Tonight

The Sequim Wolves face a powerful non-conference foe tonight, meeting the strong Chimacum Cowboys at Civic Field at 8 o'clock.

The Cowboys have a colorful eleven and play a wide open game often throwing double and triple laterals sprung from the quick opening "T" formation.

Led by C. Johnson, a 190-pound quarterback, Jim Parker, a 175-pound left half, and K. Swanson, a 180-pound fullback, the Chimacum team has overpowered the majority of its opposition this year, including a 26-6 win over their perennial rivals, the Port Townsend Redskins.

Two former Sequim students, Harvey and Gil Binsfield, are in the Cowboys' first string line. Incidentally, there are only three graduating seniors on the powerful Chimacum club, Phinnell, Swanson and G. Binsfield.

Sequim has exhibited a wide open offense throughout the Olympic league season. The Wolves have an ace passer in Kenny Smith, a fast, shifty runner in Bud Tulin, and a good line plunger in Bill Hamilton, a 180-pound fullback. With this crew running in the backfield the Wolves are always poised for a touchdown threat.

KONP will broadcast a play-by-play description of the game, starting at 8 o'clock.

The probable starting lineups:

Sequim	Pos.	Chimacum
Thornton	L.E.	Thacker
Priest	L.T.	Hogland
Jarvis	L.G.	Coulter
Mills	C.	H. Binsfield
Clawson	R.G.	Howe
Nason	R.T.	G. Binsfield
Woodcock	R.E.	Lopeman
Campbell	Q.	Johnson
Tulin	R.H.	Phinnell
Smith	L.H.	Parker
Hamilton	F.	Swanson

Sale of Christmas Seals Begins Nov. 24

Design for this year's seal, which shortly will make its appearance in millions of homes throughout the nation, depicts a team of oxen pulling a load of evergreens across a snow-covered landscape, a scene reminiscent of rural life in the great northwest. It was designed by Raymond Lufkin.

Thirty-six tuberculosis associations in Washington will conduct local sales. Funds received support educational, case-finding, and rehabilitation activities conducted by the local associations and contribute to state and nation-wide projects for the control of tuberculosis.

LOCAL SALES

This sale which provides the sole source of income for the tuberculosis association is directed in Clallam county by Mrs. Mabel Parshall. She is assisted in this work by a corps of district chairmen. Rev. W. G. R. Dann is chairman for the Sequim area. In Forks, sales are directed by Mrs. Harley Witherow and Mrs. Charles McCarthy. Mrs. Sidney O. Blanchard is chairman at Neah Bay; Hazel K. Murray at Clallam Bay; Mrs. E. E. McFarlane at Beaver; Mrs. L. R. Eaton at Sappho and Elinor Dartois at LaPush.

Mrs. Parshall and Mrs. Arthur A. Smith, eexcutive secretary, have been assisted the past weeks by Girl Scouts and Camp Fire girls putting seals in envelopes preparatory for mailing.

Seals are available for early Christmas mailing and may be obtained by calling 1466.

New Crisler Film Packs Houses For Three Showings

Lois and Herb Crisler will show their new picture, "A Biotic Community," at the First Methodist Church Saturday evening, Rev. James Albertson announced Thursday night. Many people were turned away because the church was filled to capacity before the opening hour for the show.

Last night was the third showing of Crislers' new film to capacity crowds.

Tonight at the high school auditorium "The Web of the Living Wilderness, An Olympic Adventure" is scheduled. This is the picture that the Crislers have just shown on a tour of northwest states and will show in California and other states this winter.

Preceding the film, Mrs. Crisler introduces the biotic community in a dramatic lecture. The new film shows the flowering of the alpine meadows in spring, the rush of water from melting snow, and alpine lilies blossoming through snow patches. Close-ups of alpine flowers in brilliant color are followed by the main theme of the film—the animal life of the Olympics.

Amazement of the audience at man's ability to so photograph the living wildnerness was indicated last night in the frequently repeated comment:

"I never saw such animal pictures."
