VOL. LXII. NO. 47. Port Angeles, Washington, Friday, February 13, 1948 THE OLDEST WEEKLY IN CLALLAM COUNTY

PSN Co. Will Cease Operating All But Triangular-Run Ferries Feb. 29, Midnight, Capt. Peabody Announces

SEATTLE—(AP)—The Puget Sound Navigation Company announced today it would suspend operations on its routes within Washington state at midnight February 29 unless the state leases its ferryboat system.

Capt. Alex Peabody, president, said company stockholders made the decision at a meeting today. He said the company would surrender the certificates of convenience and necessity under which it operates, unless the state accepts its lease proposal.

The company, Peabody said, will suspend all its routes except the international line operating to Victoria, B. C., via Port Townsend and Port Angeles.

The decision, Peabody said, was made as result of failure of Gov. Mon C. Wallgren to act on notice given by the company February 3 that it could not continue to operate without the 30 per cent rate increase recently denied.

Company stockholders adopted a resolution calling attention to the lease offer, saying no reply had been received and adding that "continued operation losses are effectively confiscating the investment of the stockholders, making it imperative that operations cease."

Wallgren has said he was strongly opposed to the state taking over the ferry service.

After learning of Peabody's statement today, the governor said "I have no comment at the moment."

His office said he probably will confer with Paul Revelle, state director of transportation, "some time during the day."

The stockholders' resolution directed that Wallgren and Paul Revelle, state director of transportation, be notified that failure to lease the ferries on or before March 1 would force the company to "surrender its certificate . . . and abandon all service as of midnight, February 29, 1948."

The company has been ordered by Revelle's department to lower its present rates 20 per cent and refund approximately $645,000 in tolls paid "under protest" by ferry patrons during the past year. This sum represents the difference between the 10 per cent fare increase authorized by the department and 30 per cent asked by the company and put into effect pending the final decision made recently by the Thurston county superior court. No announcement has been made as to when refunds would be paid.

Suspension of ferry service would cut off water transportation to Bremerton, Vashon, Bainbridge and San Juan islands and other across-Puget sound points.

Under state law, a company holding a certificates of convenience and necessity must give 15 days notice of suspension. The company said formal notice was being sent to Olympia today.

Routes included in the announcement of pending suspension are: Seattle-Bremerton; Point White-Bremerton; Seattle-Suquamish-Indianola; Fauntleroy-Vashon-Harper; Point Defiance-Tallequah (on south tip of Vashon Island); Edmonds-Kingston; Mukilteo-Columbia Beach; Edmonds-Port Ludlow, and Anacortes-San Juan islands.

The Anacortes-Sydney, Vancouver Island, service, now suspended for the winter, would be resumed in the spring as it is an international route with rates not under control of the state.

Mrs. James Reagin Is Fatally Burned At Her Home Thursday

Mrs. Lillian Reagin, 28, of 1621 East First street, English war bride of James M. Reagin, was fatally burned at her home Thursday morning when her clothing caught fire from an electric hot plate. She died at a local hospital at 4:40 p. m., five hours after the accident.

A family member said Mrs. Reagin was alone at the time of the accident, and all her clothing was burned off before she could summon aid. Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Reagin, who live nearby, went to the aid of their daughter-in-law when they heard her cries. They summoned Mrs. Reagin's husband from work, and he took her to the hospital.

Lillian Mosley and James Reagin were married at Cambridge, England, May 23, 1944. Reagin returned here in November 1945 and his wife followed in March, 1946. They have a 10 months-old son, James Ronald.

Harper Funeral Home will announce services later.

Roughriders to Play Bainbridge Tonight At Eight

OLYMPIC LEAGUE

	Won	Lost
South Kitsap	10	0
Bainbridge	7	1
Port Angeles	5	4
North Kitsap	5	4
Sequim	2	7
Central Kitsap	1	7
Port Townsend	1	8

Roosevelt's basketball team gets a last chance to break even with a highly touted Bainbridge five tonight at the Roosevelt gym.

The Spartans have an earlier decision over the Roughriders to their credit—a hectic 48-47 struggle in which neither team had a decided advantage.

The meeting tonight is a crucial one for Bainbridge. A victory over the Roughriders would leave the Spartans in a position to tie the league leading South Kitsap Wolves. The two clubs meet next week at Bainbridge.

The Islanders are a Class B team and are touted as the team to beat in the state "B" tournament next month.

A scoring duel is also slated for tonight when Don Ekoos matches points with Bob Buchanen, high scoring Bainbridge forward. Both are battling for second place scoring honors in the league.

Tip-off time for the varsity encounter is 8 o'clock. Reserve teams from both schools will open play at 6:45.

At halftime an exhibition contest is slated between a clever Roosevelt seventh grade squad and a picked team of eighth graders.

Tomorrow night the Roughriders face Central Kitsap's unpredictable basketball squad. The Cougars, currently in the lower division, were edged by Roosevelt, 47-46, in an earlier game.

Sequim takes on Central Kitsap tonight and meets Bainbridge tomorrow night.

Radio KONP is on the air at 8 with a play-by-play broadcast of the Bainbridge-Roosevelt clash.

The probable starting lineups:

Port Angeles	Pos.	Bainbridge
Halberg	f.	Uglesich
Thomassen	f.	Buchanen
Ekoos	c.	Woodman
Phillips	g.	Nadeau
Blore	g.	Sigle

YMCA Fund Drive to Start April 5 and Last for Two Weeks

Starting Monday, April 5, a drive will start here to raise $15,000 for the installation and support for 18 months, of a Clallam county YMCA.

The association has been formed here for more than a year and is now in process of incorporation.

In charge of the drive is L. V. Venable, who will be assisted by YMCA officers and directors and many civic groups.

The drive that starts April 5 will continue two weeks and if successful, the YMCA, with a trained supervisor in charge, can be operating by July 15, Venable said. Three sites are being considered for YMCA headquarters.

The YMCA has the endorsement of school authorities, Ministerial Association, Parent-Teacher Association and civic leaders, officers have been assured.

"The YMCA provides recreation and education for both boys and girls under a trained supervisor. The need of such a facility here has been pointed out many times and the group of local volunteer workers will do everything possible to fulfill the need," Venable said.

Local officers of the association are William Warren, president; Dan Robertson, vice president, and Henrietta Haugland, treasurer.

Directors are J. W. Bussing, Jack Henson, Roy S. Jensen, Dr. Irving E. Kaveney, Rex McCarty, Mrs. Peter McGoff, B. N. Phillips, Daniel Pierson, Lee J. Reynolds, V. A. Samuelson, William H. Shore, Judge Ralph Smythe, L. V. Venable, Ray Warren and William Clark.

Rain, Sleet, Snow, From Border to Gulf

CHICAGO —(AP)— Freezing rain, sleet and snow pelted areas from the plains states to the east gulf region today as winter's heavy snowfalls and severe cold prompted the placing of a partial embargo on rail freight movements into parts of New England and New York state.

There was an absence of extreme cold weather in the chilled north central and New England areas today. But federal forecasters said a mass of cold air was piling up west of the Hudson Bay district and appeared headed across the Canadian border.

Freezing rain and sleet extended from southeastern Kansas and northeastern Oklahoma through Missouri, parts of Illinois and Indiana. Snow fell in parts of Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota and southern Missouri.

Most of the south was drenched with heavy rains. Nearly all of Texas shivered as temperatures dipped far below normal. In Corpus Christi, on the gulf, the mercury early today slid to 35, one degree colder than in far-north Edmonton, Alberta, Can.

Temperatures moderated in the eastern states and were slightly below normal west of the rockies. There were some sub-zero readings in Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Idaho and also in parts of New Mexico and Nebraska.

Jerusalem Areas Out Of Bounds to British

JERUSALEM —(AP)— The Jewish quarter of Rehavia and the business sector of Zion Square in Jerusalem were placed out of bounds to British troops today. There was mounting tension over police reports of the deaths last night of four Jews.

Police said they found the Jews' bodies near Stephens gate in the old city shortly after the four reportedly were picked up by British troops at a presumed Jewish gunpost. The British said they released the Jews after brief questioning.

The circumstances of their deaths have not been disclosed.

Police said five Arabs were killed and 12 wounded last night when Hagana, the Jewish militia, made a heavy bomb attack on the Arab village, of Abu Kebir. Hagana said its men made a similar sortie against the Arab village of Yazur.

The unofficial Palestine death toll since the United Nations decision to partition the Holy Land Nov. 29 now stands at 1,161.

INDIAN COMMUNITY IS PARADISE FOR SHOPPING PUBLIC

ANADARKO, Okla. —(AP)— This largely-Indian community may not be paradise, but at least it's a happy hunting ground for housewives.

With a little shopping effort Anadarko women can turn up these prices today:

Sliced bacon, 49 cents a pound.
Margarine, 31 cents a pound.
Flour, $1.95 for 25 pounds.

Other cuts slashed six cents from a 10-pound bag of sugar, six cents a pound from round steak prices, six cents from three pounds of lard, and four cents from a pound of coffee.

But even paradise has flaws: Potatoes went up 25 cents per hundred.

Non-Operating Crew PA Western Granted Retroactive Pay Raise

A pay increase of 15½ cents an hour, effective September 1, 1947, for employes of maintenance of way and mechanical crafts departments of the Port Angeles Western Railroad Co., was agreed upon and signed, February 9, the national mediation board announces.

Effected under the agreement are 25, non-operating employes of the Port Angeles Western Railroad Co., operating out of Port Angeles. Signing of the agreement is nation-wide among all the "short-line" railroads of the nation, Vice President Harry G. LeGear said.

The pay raise is retroactive to last September 1, the date on which the negotiations started. The agreement is to remain "in effect until changed as provided by the railway labor act, amended, the mediation agreement declares.

Signing the agreement for Local 2-90, International Woodworkers of America, CIO, was Rex McCarty, secretary. Harry G. LeGear, vice president and general manager, signed for the company. C. E. Hurley, mediator, witnessed the signatures for the board. The local is certified as bargaining agency for the non-operating employes of the railroad.

Price Controls Still Necessary Despite Slump, Truman Insists

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Truman still thinks the country needs price controls in spite of the several breaks in the grain market.

The word from republican leaders in congress today is that he still has little chance of getting them.

Chairman Wolcott (R-Mich) of the house banking committee went even further. He said congress may have to start thinking about ways to keep prices from going too far down.

And two GOP senators—Young (ND) and Bushfield (SD)—asked congress to repeal a two month old law which they say helped cause the commodity slide. That law specifies there can be no further wheat exports once reserve supplies in this country drop to 150,000,000 bushels.

Wolcott took the view that there will be no harm if congress waits a couple of weeks to think over the anti-inflation picture before it acts.

He listed one exception: Rent control. That should be extended for one month beyond February 29, the date the present law expires, Wolcott told newsmen. Meanwhile, he added, congress could consider a longer extension.

Wolcott said a two week's ban on discussion of other proopsals would "let us see where the economy is headed."

"We cannot legislate on economic questions until we know what is happening," he continued. "If this (price decline) goes too far we may have to give our thought to supporting markets."

But Mr. Truman responded with a positive yes when a reporter at his news conference late yesterday asked whether the major economic problem facing the country is still inflation, and not deflation.

Furthermore, the chief executive said flatly that the market break has not lessened the need for the economic program he outlined to congress November 17.

Among other things, he asked then for standby power to restore price-wage controls and rationing on a limited basis.

KILLED BY AUTO

EVERETT—(AP)— Eleven-year-old Alvin Gentry, of Monroe, was fatally injured Wednesday afternoon when he was struck by a car as he attempted to cross the Stevens Pass highway a mile and a half east of Sultan, Sgt. C. L. Hall of the Washington State Patrol said. He was struck by a car driven by Cecil Whitchey of Sultan, according to Hall, and died two hours later in Snohomish hospital.

Early Meeting of European Recovery Plan Nations Now Favored by United States

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The United States has withdrawn objections to an early meeting of the European recovery plan nations.

The state department said the British and French ambassadors were told that this government has no objection to a meeting after the end of February.

A proposal for reconvening the 16-nation conference was discouraged last month by the state department. It took the view that the European aid legislation before congress was not in suitable form for consideration.

Press Officer Roger Tubby said the two ambassadors were advised Tuesday that the department considered that "a preliminary draft bill indicating one aspect of congressional thought might be ready by the end of this month."

He said this was an estimate that the senate foreign relations committee might be ready then with a report to the senate on the $6,800,000,000 aid asked by President Truman.

The 16-nation conference on European economic cooperation met in Paris last September and drafted a recovery plan based on self-help as proposed by Secretary of State Marshall. Officials said they understood the move to reconvene it was based on a desire to put it into effect some of the self-help projects.

Political Brickbats Tossed At Truman by Lincoln Day Talkers

By Associated Press

Political brickbats showered down on President Truman from a full battery of republican campaign speakers today. Another came sailing up from a southern stronghold of his own democratic party.

On the side, two candidates for the GOP presidential nomination differed publicly over how generous this country should be in helping Europe.

The added attraction featured Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Senator Taft of Ohio.

Both gave the Truman foreign policy a severe raking, but they split in their discussion of the Marshall plan.

Dewey told a Boston Lincoln Day audience the foreign policy "should be thrown overboard — lock, stock and barrel." Taft, speaking at St. Paul, blamed it for "the losing of the peace thus far."

However, Dewey said it would be better to give the administration all it has asked for spending under the Marshall plan than to "limit it with an amount which might fail to do the job."

ESSENTIAL AID ONLY

Taft insisted that foreign aid spending should be held to essential food and industrial pump-priming. He said he is against inviting the 16 western European nations to "add up their desired imports, subtract their possible exports and hand us a bill for the difference."

Former Governor Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, who also is running for the republican nomination, said in Germantown, Pa., he thinks the Marshall plan should be carried out as finally developed under the leadership of Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich). Vandenberg is chairman of the senate foreign relations committee.

The administration wants $6,800,000,000 to get the Marshall plan under way and finance it for the first 15 months.

California's Governor Earl Warren, who also aspires to the White House, told his republican listeners at Los Angeles that if the GOP wants to follow Lincoln it should be the party of the poor and rich alike.

SOUTH PROTESTS

The new outburst by southern democrats who have been steaming over civil rights proposals from the White House came at Jackson, Miss.

There were 5,000 party members called for a conference of "all true white Jeffersonian democrats" to consider withholding the south's electoral vote from Mr. Truman in November.

The date of the meeting was left open.

Those present adopted resolutions condemning White House support of anti-lynch, anti-poll tax and no-color-line-in-jobs bills.

An election sidelight from Washington:

The census bureau says there will be 93,941,000 persons over 21 in this country next November. At the time of the 1940 presidential election there were 83,996,629 persons of voting age. Only 49,815,312 of those voted.

Eleven Members of One Family Die In Dwelling Blaze

UTICA, N.Y. — (AP)—Eleven members of one family perished today in a fire that swept a two-story frame dwelling in Utica's west side.

Six bodies were recovered by firemen from the smoking ruins. Four were children. One was a woman, clasping an infant.

Victims included Mrs. Ruth Hoage and nine children ranging in age from five months to 19 years. Mrs Hoage was the second wife of Richard Hoage, 48.

Fire Chief Leo Barry said 14 other persons had escaped. Three members of one family, who jumped from a second floor window, were hospitalized.

Firemen found the charred body of three-year-old Dana Lois Hoage in the rubble. She was identified by her uncle, Dana Paye, Jr.

The walls of the long ramschakle building, in Cedar street, collapsed before most of the second floor occupants could get out, firemen said.

St. Elizabeth's Hospital said Mrs. Ella Paye, 48, was in critical condition with three-fourths of her body burned.

Her husband, Dana Paye, Sr., suffered first and second degree burns of the face and head.

Their daughter, Catherine Paye, 19, received first and second degree burns of the face and arms and suffered shock.

Magnuson Opposes 1% Vacancy As Basis For Rent Reduction

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senator Magnuson (D-Wash.) said today he is against a proposal which might end rent control in a community where one percent of the residential units are vacant.

He cited Seattle as one of 17 urban centers which would be decontrolled under such legislation.

The senator said he was opposed "to the preliminary draft of the Cain rent control bill" because he had been informed it contains a section "which calls for the practical elimination of rent control if there exists in any community a one percent vacancy."

"National surveys show this would drastically affect rents in 17 urban centers including Seattle," he said.

A senate banking subcommittee headed by Senator Cain (R-Wash.) is considering extension of rent control.

Cain, in a form letter to persons inquiring about his plans for a rent control bill, said today "no bill has yet been written and will not be until the committee agrees on its recommendations to congress."

The subcommittee reported reaching an agreement last week on an extension bill. But, when it reported to the full committee action was delayed until next week. It was understood numerous members of the full committee objected to the subcommittee's proposal.

Rebells Against No Pay for Withholding Workers Income Tax

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— Miss Vivien Kellems, Westport, Conn., manufacturer, said today her firm will stop withholding federal income taxes from employes. She offered to fight the issue out with the government in the courts.

"If High Tax Harry wants me to get that money for him," she said in an address prepared for a Los Angeles Rotary Club meeting, "then he must appoint me an agent for the internal revenue department, he must pay me a salary for my work, and he must reimburse me for my expenses incurred in collecting that tax."

Miss Kellems is a dynamic woman who lost out in a congressional republican primary race in Connecticut to Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce in 1942. She is the only woman electrical engineering manufacturer in the nation. Her Connecticut office said her firm, which manufactures cable grips, now employs about 30 persons.

Grains Rally But Butter Takes Downward Skid

CHICAGO—(AP)—Grains rallied in the last half of the session on the board of trade today after a morning of wildly fluctuating prices.

Touching off the rally was introduction of a bill in the senate which would repeal a provision requiring that the wheat carryover on July 1 should be at least 150,000,000 bushels. New buying and short-covering entered wheat and soon spread to corn.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Commodity prices began to show signs of gaining a little strength today but a violent down swing hit the wholesale butter market.

The price of wholesale butter slammed down 5 to 6½ cents a pound on the New York mercantile exchange.

The drop was immediately reflected in some retail prices.

The National Association of Retail Grocers said key city surveys showed reductions in flour, bacon, eggs and butter, and in some cases beef.

These price cuts were not loss leaders posted to attract trade, said Patsy D'Agostino, president of the association. They are genuine reductions, made possible by the flexibility of grocers to adjust to market conditions quickly, he said.

GRAINS UNCERTAIN

Cotton fell almost $4 a bale at New York. Shortly after the opening, however, mills began buying and there was a rebound that brought the price about $2 above the lows at the start.

At New Orleans, cotton was $1.25 to $2.60 a bale lower.

Stocks were irregular and activity was moderate. Price changes were small.

At Chicago, sellers were holding hogs at about yesterday's prices of $23.75 to $24.25 a hundred pounds. The best bid shortly after the opening was $23.50.

The pits hardly more than opened at Chicago when soybeans were offered at the eight cent limit decline from Wednesday's prices.

INFLATION OR DEFLATION?

The question in economic and political circles was whether the problem was inflation or deflation.

President Truman saw in the recent commodity price drops, a step in the right direction. But inflationary dangers have not been removed by the market decline, he said.

The president said he felt as strongly as ever that congress should give him legal powers to curb living costs.

Chairman Wolcott (R-Mich.) of the house banking committee proposed a two weeks congressional recess in considering anti-inflation legislation.

"We cannot legislate on economic questions until we know what is happening," he said. "If this (price decline) goes too far we may have to give our thoughts to supporting markets."

Representatives of major grain exchanges were called to a senate hearing Monday on the governments requests for powers to fix margin (down payment) requirements in commodity purchases.

Republican national Chairman Carroll Reece said the downward trend in commodity prices was what republicans had expected would happen once "normal forces were permitted to operate."

Wheat Farmers Puzzled At Grain Price Skid; Farm Belt Solons Blame Break on Reserve Law

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Two mid-west senators today proposed repeal of a law which shuts off wheat exports when reserve supplies in this country fall to 150,000,000 bushels.

Senator Young (R-N. D.) said he thinks this provision in a foreign aid bill passed last December is one of the reasons for the sharp break in grain prices.

He said it forces foreign buyers to look for wheat in other exporting countries when U. S. supplies fall to the fixed level. That, he declared, tends to shut American producers out of the world market and depress prices in this country.

Young said congress should investigate the motives of officials of all four major commodity exchanges who supported the reserve requirement before it was adopted.

The automatic ban on exports, he said, (1) helps speculators who gamble on a drop in the cost of wheat and (2) penalizes U. S. farmers.

The North Dakotan gave his views in a statement explaining a bill he has prepared with Senator Bushfield (R-S. D.) to wipe out the wheat carry-over clause.

"Carry-over" is the portion of a crop held in storage from one crop year to the next, excluding seed. The 150,000,000-bushel requirement was written into the stopgap foreign aid bill passed at the 1947 special session.

Young said it is working out as "unreasonable, unfair and discriminatory" to the American farmer and may prove "disastrous."

GARDEN CITY, Kas.—(AP)—Kansas wheat farmers looked across snow-covered fields with puzzled frowns today as they sought to fathom the cause for the sudden slide in commodity prices.

In wheat field interviews, the grain growers pointed to continued high demand for wheat and prospects of only a fair 1948 yield as reasons for their inability to understand the week-long market plunge.

But there were no signs of a stampede by the producers to dump their holdings.

The concensus seemed to be that everything will work out all right—if other prices come down accordingly. Some thought an immediate investigation was in order. Others said future planning was out of the question "until we see what is going to happen."

John Boyd of near Garden City said he didn't "like it, but we'll tighten our belts. The spring wheat outlook here is far short of what the experts expect. I don't understand the break with demand for wheat still unsatisfied."

L. L. Lile, also of near here, had this to say:

"I can't see any reason for the break. It was dirty politics. If other prices come down accordingly, though, everything might work out."

Dewitt Craft, another Garden City operator, said farmers haven't been thrown into panic.

"We've taken enough in paper losses out here to build all the schools and hospitals Garden City needs, but we're still riding with the wheat," he said. "I regret we didn't sell at the peak."

Cripps Warns Britons Wage Freeze May Be Imposed If They Refuse Voluntary Holddown

LONDON —(AP)— Britain's top economic planner says the labor government may have to use force to keep down wages and profits.

Sir Stafford Cripps, chancellor of the exchequer and minister of economic affairs, told the house of commons so last night. He urged Britons again to accept voluntary controls.

The French government also moved against price boosts. It sent the national assembly in Paris a bill to outlaw all price increases since Jan. 15 not justified by production costs. A lawbreaker could be jailed for a year and put out of business.

British unions some 5,000,000 strong have been insisting upon higher pay despite Prime Minister Attlee's hold-the-line plea in last week's government white paper. They are in coal mining, railroading, shipbuilding, engineering and civil service.

Cripps reiterated the appeal for voluntary measures to stem wage and profit rises. Then he asked the house:

"Can we take them in a democratic way by free choice, or are we to demand the imposition of them by force?

"Unless we exercise restraint," he said, "the sheer facts of the case will demand compulsion, which this government is anxious to avoid."

Sir Stafford asked that wage negotiations either be postponed or "conducted in the light of the principles laid down in the white paper"—that is, no boosts.

FBI Arrests Sixth Ex-GI in Atomic Photograph Probe

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. — (AP)— Indictment and arrest of another former soldier on charges of taking secret photographs from the Los Alamos, N.M., atomic project was disclosed today.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Maurice Sanchez said the ex-soldier, Fred Gerard Michaels, 28, was arrested in Rochester, N.Y., last night by the federal bureau of investigation.

He was indicted by a federal grand jury which reported its findings late yesterday. U. S. Dist. Judge Colin Neblett fixed Michaels' bond at $5,000.

Formerly a sergeant in the Los Alamos photography department, Michaels was accused of stealing and concealing both classified and unclassified pictures on June 24, 1946, the same year he was discharged from the army. He was transferred there Dec. 22, 1943, from the Oak Ridge, Tenn., atomic installation.

Michaels is the sixth former soldier to be accused of taking classified information from the Los Alamos project.

The special plane carrying the assassin, Naturam Vinayak Godse, arrived in Bombay before dawn Thursday. Elaborate precautions had been taken against attempts at suicide.

Police reported they traced a Bombay driver engaged by Godse for visits to friends just before the assassination.

The average number of persons per U. S. dwelling unit declined from 4.7 in 1900 to 3.8 in 1940.

World Could Do With a Bit More Tolerance

By Dewitt Mackenzie
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Surely newspaper columnists must have been in mind when it was pointed out in the book of proverbs that "the way of trangressors is hard."

Your columnist has had his knuckles soundly rapped by a reader for views expressed at the same time of Mahatma Gandhi's assassination. On that tragic occasion I wrote:

"Gandhi-Ji was my friend — the friend of all humanity, for that matter. He was indeed a holy man whose outlook was not restricted by race or dogma. His whole code was summed up in goodness, and he took it where he found it.

"His own life encompassed not only Hinduism, in which he was born, but Christianity, Mohammedanism, and other religions. And he once told me that the greatest influence in his life had been Christ's sermon on the mount."

My reader critic (and heaven bless 'em all, just so long as they are readers) demands how I explain that statement about Gandhi's life encompassing Christianity, "in the light of Exodus 20:3 — 'Thou shalt have no other Gods before me'?"

Well, I'm too old a hand to get involved in technical religious arguments, being the son of a Methodist minister and thus knowing something of the pitfalls for amateurs—especially on Friday the thirteenth. So I am going to stand pat and tell a story about some little incidents which long have seemed to me to be an invitation to tolerance, in a world which needs it.

On my first visit to India a generation ago I was the guest of the late Maharajah of Bikanir, an Arabian Nights prince who was among the greatest of the sub-continent's potentates. He was in every respect a grand gentleman who followed the highest moral code himself and insisted on the same from his officials and court.

But his highness was a Hindu, and through his only friendly connivance I saw him in a ceremony which probably no other non-Hindu ever had witnessed.

I saw him and his two little princes prostrated on the floor of the great temple before a stone idol. I was shocked and troubled as I tried to weigh that sight against his grand morals. Then came that little incident inviting tolerance.

The day I left Bikanir the maharajah also was traveling by train to Delhi and he invited me to ride in his palatial private car. We pulled out of the capital at sunset, and I stood by a window admiring the picture made by the golden rays striking across the towers and turrets of the city. Suddenly I became aware that the prince was on his knees in prayer, and when he arose after several minutes he turned to me and said:

"I owe you an explanation. When I leave my capital I always pray God to keep my people safe, and bring me back to them again."

Middle Ages Dream Basis Principle of A-Energy Project

SEATTLE — (AP)—The scientific dream of the middle ages—changing of one element into another—is the basic principle of the Hanford atomic energy project, a project engineer told a gathering of electrical engineers here.

C. P. Cabell, a member of the Hanford works technical department, said the plant was the first practical application of the principle of transmutation sought by scientists for 700 years.

Although nuclear reactors such as used at Hanford are capable of making mercury from gold or gold from platinum, Cabell said the program is directed exclusively at the production of plutonium—"a new metal of almost incredible value."

Plutonium, he said, "releases almost unimaginable energy under proper conditions and, like uranium 235, it can be used as a shattering atomic bomb."

He described the plutonium as the "hope of modern engineers" as a nuclear fuel in the production of electric power, but predicted that realization of that hope still is decades away.

Cabell said the new metal is converted from uranium and described the objective of the Hanford project as the continued production of plutonium "to make the operation both more efficient and less expensive."

Cabell stressed that the Hanford works is not an atomic bomb plant. He said bombs have never been made there and that no one employed there knows anything about how to make an atomic bomb.

He emphasized also that the project is not an atomic power plant, nor does it produce electricity.

SPEED GENERATOR WORK

COULEE DAM —(AP)— Workers hastened today to complete installation of the ninth—and last—generator in Grand Coulee dam's west powerhouse.

The eighth generator went into production yesterday to increase the giant power plant's record production as bureau of reclamation officials reported the powerhouse had set a production record last week of 150,705,000 kilowatt hours. The previous record was 145,690,000 kilowatt hours, set in February, 1944.

Personal Incomes Reach Top Level In U. S. in 1947

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Personal incomes reached a record total of $197,000,000,000 in 1947. This topped 1946, the previous record, by $20,000,000,000.

Announcing the 1947 totals, the commerce department said incomes, rising through the year, hit an annual rate of $209,700,000,000 in December.

The December rise, compared to an annual rate of $204,200,000,000 in November, was attributed chiefly to increased farm income. That fact made it appear that a drop will show up in personal incomes for early 1948 because of recent slumps in farm commodity prices.

Personal incomes include: Wage and salary receipts, which accounted for $120,700,000,000 of the 1947 total, plus net incomes of business owners and partnerships, dividends and interests, net rents received by landlords, veterans benefits, relief payments, etc.

'If You Paid' Tax Deadline Is Monday

WASHINGTON—(AP)—If you paid $500 or more to a doctor, lawyer or servant last year, there's a tax collector's deadline to meet Monday midnight.

It applies, too, if you paid $500 or more directly to a landlord—not through an agent—or to anyone else if the payment wasn't subject to the wage-withholding tax.

Persons making such payments must report them by Feb. 15. But Monday will be the final date this year because Feb. 15 falls on a Sunday.

The reports are called "information returns." They are used by the internal revenue bureau as a check on the income tax returns of people who received such money.

All information returns must be sent to the internal revenue bureau's processing division at Kansas City, Mo.

Price of Meat Going Down, Butchers Hear

PORTLAND —(AP)— The price of meat is going down. That's what AFL butchers heard here today as they gathered for a Pacific northwest meeting.

Earl W. Jimerson, national president of the union, said that even if the commodity market skid is temporary, the days of heavy spending are over.

He and Patrick E. Gorman, secretary-treasurer, were here for one of a series of regional meetings.

Water-powered sawmills were built in America before they were used in England. The workmen who constructed them came from Scandinavian countries.

PEP MISSING BECAUSE OF A SINGLE NOUN

I don't think I'm going to write a column today.

Let me tell you why.

The other afternoon I did a piece about a certain Congressman who always shouts at the top of his drawl. In my analysis of what the country gets for the $12,500 a year it pays him, I referred to the lawmaker once or twice as a "baboon."

A few minutes after the column was delivered to the syndicate which handles my stuff, the phone rang. It was one of its editors.

"That's a very funny piece you sent over today," he purred.

"Thanks," I said modestly. "I guess it was one of my better efforts."

"That baboon line ought to get a big laugh," the editor went on, "but I thought I'd better check with you before we sent the column out. Are you prepared to pay $100,000 for publishing this joke?"

"Stop press," I yelped. "I'll grab a cab and be right over."

"What goes?" I asked as soon as I had perched my Adler Elevators on his blotter. "Why can't I refer to this simian as a simian?"

"Because it's libel," smiled the syndicate man. "It would also be libel to call him a hypocrite, scoundrel, robber, liar, perjurer, deadbeat, ignoramus, paranoiac, drug addict or communist. All of these words, at one time or another, have been ruled to be libelous by our courts of law."

"I thought we had freedom of the press in this country," I pouted.

The editor stubbed out his half-finished cigar and laid it on an ashtray for future reference. "The trouble is readers have freedom too," he said. "The freedom to sue. And unless a writer wants to adjective himself into the almshouse, he'd better tnot forget that a thousand lawyers are always looking over his shoulder."

"Well, then," I geniused, "why don't you print the usual gibberish at the top of my column—'Any resemblance to persons living or better off dead is purely coincidental'?"

"It would be a waste of ink," killjoyed the syndicate man. "It's not your meaning that counts, but the meaning the general public reads into the item in question. And even twisting names and calling it fiction doesn't always make it foolproof.

"Not so long ago, the Bobbs-Merrill Publishing Company brought out a novel called 'God's Man.' One of the characters in the book was a crooked magistrate named Cornigan. Because the name of the fictional crook sounded like his own, Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan of New York sued and was awarded twenty-five grand.

"Only last week I read that an obscure Frenchman named Henri Verdoux is suing Charlie Chaplin. The Frenchman claims that Charlie's movie depicts him as a murderer, and that consequently women are avoiding him. Well, that's a pretty serious matter in France, and it may cost Charlie a fancy buck."

"Doesn't that old line of big Tim Sullivan's stop a lot of people from suing?" I asked. "You know the one—'Never sue for libel because the son of a gun is liable to prove it.'"

"It's a good line," smiled the editor, "but libel lawyers are still eating regularly. A few years back it looked as if the roof of a New York high school was about to cave in. One of the papers said, 'This does not speak very well for those who designed the school.' The architect took the publisher into court and won himself a bundle."

"On what grounds?" I asked.

"On the grounds," said the editor, "that such an accusation would injure him in his business. Remember we're living in a country that's enterprise-minded, and unless you're more interested in being strident than solvent, never say anything which may hurt a man in the pursuit of his trade or occupation."

"What happens if you blame the printer and claim the whole thing was a typographical error?"

The syndicate man chuckled. "If you haven't the cash," he said, a certified check will be acceptable. Some years ago, one of our metropolitan papers conducted an anti-vice campaign. One day it printed a map showing the location of certain disorderly houses. By mistake, a respectable house was included. That night until all hours, sports kept ringing the bell. Next morning the banker who lived in the house threatened suit. The paper settled promptly.

"The courts have also held that perfectly innocent words may be thrown into such juxtaposition as to become libelous. As for instance, the words 'free' and 'love.' Put them together and connect them up with some couple, and you may have a summons served with your breakfast.

"I'd make some changes in that congressman column if I were you, and after you make them, get yourself a copy of Philip Wittenberg's 'Dangerous Words—a Guide to the Law of Libel'."

Well, I just finished reading Mr. W.'s book, and it scared the adjectives out of me. It's full of examples of what happened to guys who were caught with their pens down. As for instance, the one about Stanislaus Zbyszko, the wrestler.

The Sunday supplement of a New York newspaper once included an article entitled, "How Science Proves Its Theory of Evolution." To illustrate the piece, the paper ran a picture of a gorilla beside one of Zbyszko.

Mr. Zybszko (rhymes with Yjwszko) got himself a lawyer. The lawyer claimed the gorilla comparison held his client up to contempt, derision, infamy and reproach. He added that because of the piece, the wrestler was being shunned by neighbors and relatives. The court shed a sympathetic tear and found in favor of the grunt-and-groaner.

All of which is behind my decision to knock off early this afternoon. If a fellow can't even call a wrestler a g———a, there doesn't seem to be much point in doing a column today.

Sequim Jersey Cow Makes State Record In 305 Day Test

A registered Jersey cow, Lilac Jester Cherry 1524225, owned by Lewis J. Gates, Sequim, won the Washington 305 day state milk and fat championship in her class.

The cow produced 11,897 pounds of milk and 662 pounds butterfat as a senior two-year old and all tests of her record are verified by the Washington State College and American Jersey Cattle Club, that announces the record.

In addition to making the record the cow earned the club's gold and silver medal awards and was classified for type by the club as good plus.

Another registered Jersey cow, Vol. Standard Susette 1484698, owned by Helen F. Yates, Sequim, has completed a production record of 9,967 pounds of milk and 512 pounds of butterfat to qualify for the silver medal award of the club. The record was made over a 365-day test at the age of one year and 11 months.

EX-CG CREW COACH, PHIL LEWIS, AND WIFE, VISITING HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Lewis, former residents of Port Angeles while Lewis was stationed at Ediz hook air station during the war, returned here this week to vacation and visit.

Lewis, who was coach of an Ediz hook racing crew while he was here, said he was surprised to find that so many former coastguardsmen from the air station had settled in Port Angeles. Three of his coast guard friends started businesses here recently, he said.

"Port Angeles treated all of us so well when we were stationed here. No wonder many of the fellows have decided to make this their home," Lewis said. He recalled several incidents, like the time his dog was sick and someone volunteered his car to take it to the veterinary, and said he wanted to express the thanks of himself and all the other service men for the kindnesses.

During their stay in Port Angeles Mrs. Lewis was a rural mail carrier on route three. Lewis is now sales manager of a Seattle boat company.

Angell Suggests Use Of Balcony Money For Homes For Vets

WASHINGTON — (AP)—The $15,000 it is costing to build a balcony on the White House "could more profitably have been spent for a couple of homes for veterans," Rep. Angell (R-Ore) said today.

The Oregonian reviewed in a statement the rumpus caused by President Truman ordering the construction.

Angell said the president is "only a tenant of the White House by sufferance of the voters and his term of occupancy may expire next January."

"The important point is in these days of scarce materials and manpower the president on his own and against the advice of the fine arts commission and without authority of congress proceeds to spend $15,000 of your money for a back porch to the White House.

"The $15,000 under the circumstances, could more profitably have been spent for a couple of homes for veterans and their families without roof over their heads."

Gross output of goods in the United States in 1944 was almost twice the dollar volume of 1940 and allowing for price differences, it is estimated the actual physical volume was more than 50 per cent more.

Edward Joseph Conradson, 13-year-old schoolboy, testified in Los Angeles court that he is becoming a giant as result of an accident a year and a half ago. Shown with his mother, Mrs. Edward Conradson, the boy stands six feet, one-half inch tall and weighs 197 pounds. The boy's parents, who contend his "giantism" is a result of a fall caused by a dairy truck, are seeking $75,000 damages from the dairy

Former Sekiu Woman Aboard Ship that Goes To Rescue of Burning Craft in Atlantic

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Ackerman of Sekiu have news from their daughter, Mrs. Robert H. Anderson, who sailed from New York, January 8 to join her husband in Heidelberg, Germany.

The ship on which she was a passenger went to the rescuue of the burning funeral ship, the Joseph V. Connolly, and stood by for five days.

On her arrival in England Mrs. Anderson writes of the thrill of seeing the white cliffs of Dover.

"We took aboard a pilot at Dover who guided us through the channel and from all indications we needed guiding. We saw several ships grounded on the sands, commonly called the "Goodwins Sands" or the "ships graveyard." Several dozen ships were sunk here during the war. We could see the tips of the masts sticking out of the water. A horrible sight.

"We passed several charming little English seacoast villages, one being Dungeness."

Of her arrival in Germany she writes: "When we finally pulled into the Wieser river and Bremerhaven I was pretty excited. A first class train awaited us at the pier and before I knew it we were in Heidelberg. . . . Heidelberg is very picturesque with sturdy old buildings, none of which were bombed."

Dr. and Mrs. Anderson have comfortable living quarters at the foot of a high hill on which stands Heidelberg castle.

While Mrs. Anderson was crossing the Atlantic, her brother, Loran H. Clark, was crossing the Pacific during a storm, bound from San Diego to Pearl Harbor where he is now stationed.

New Apparatus for Smoke Curing Fish Is Announced by State Fisheries Department

SEATTLE—(Special)—The state department of fisheries has unveiled a radical improvement in the age-old process of smoke curing fish.

The smoking of fish can be traced back to the earliest men. The Indians of the Pacific Northwest were well acquainted with this method of preserving salmon when the white men arrived.

Through the years, the methods of smoking fish have been passed down mainly by word of mouth, and the quality of the smoked product has depended largely on the skill of the individual operator.

The technology division of the state department of fisheries five years ago began experiments designed to produce a method of smoking salmon through a controlled process that would turn out a high quality, uniform product on a large scale.

The research work resulted in a design for a new-type smokehouse with a motor-driven blower, automatic temperature and humidity indicators, automatic control of chamber temperatures and manual control of air velocity, smoke density and dampers.

A pilot model of the new-type smokehouse was erected in the state department of fisheries' laboratories on the University of Washington campus and successfully operated. The model was eight feet long, six feet high and three feet wide, and could smoke up to 250 pounds of fish in one lot, but the design can be altered for large scale commercial operations by merely increasing the overall dimensions.

The new smokehouse has many advantages over the traditional designs. It is a compact unit, and portable in smaller sizes. It permits shorter smoking time, cut down wood fuel consumption, minimizes the fire hazard, and is adaptable for any species of sea food, Director Milo Moore, of the state department of fisheries, announces.

Since all factors in the smoking process are controllable, the smokehouse permits the operator to follow specific directions and turn out a uniform, high quality product.

Eight large commercial smokehouses built from these designs have been installed in fish processing plants in the State of Washington and are enabling these concerns to turn out an improved, uniform product.

The research work for the new smokehouse was done by Clarence L. Anderson, assistant director of fisheries and chief technologist under Director Moore.

The department has prepared a bulletin with the designs for the new smokehouse, and directions for producing kippered salmon, cold smoked salmon, hot smoked salmon, hot smoked smelt, smoked anchovies, smoked oysters and smoked razor and rock clams.

The bulletin may be obtained from the state department of fisheries, 1308 Smith Tower, Seattle 4, Washington. A fee of 25 cents is charged for the publication and money received will be returned to the state's general fund to finance the publication of other scientific publications for the trade and industry, Moore said.

Pointers On Right Way to Do Pruning

Time for reviewing the fundamentals of pruning is at hand as many families are now pruning the one or two trees they have on their lot or in their backyard, according to Melvin Michel, county extension agent.

Pruning is merely a means to an end and that end should be better quality fruit production. The old trees often lack uniformity of vigor throughout due to low nitrogen level root injury or poor pruning practices. Certain limbs become devitalized.

Pruning young trees is a dwarfing process. It is advisable therefore to prune young trees just as light as possible to secure the form of head and structure that is desired.

Heavy pruning delays fruiting. Vegetative growth in young trees is encouraged and fruit bud formation delayed by excessive cutting.

A strong 'head' is developed by selecting wide-angle crotches. Observations have shown that narrow angles are weak and subject to breakage when under the strain from weight of fruit and leaves, Michel said.

The 'head' or main structure of the tree should consist of a minimum of large limbs. From three to five leaders have been found best for the type of tree used in Washington fruit districts.

Dormant pruning is most stimulating to the tree growth. Summer pruning has a dwarfing effect on tree growth. Individual limbs may be dwarfed also by cutting back and heavy thinning.

A modified leader type of head is best for most varieties of young fruit trees. The vase-type tree may be entirely satisfactory for peaches and other soft fruit varieties. Central leaders are seldom satisfactory in forming the structure of a fruit tree.

While pruning you may see a silver mass of eggs on branches, limbs or in crotches of the tree. These gray masses are tent caterpillar eggs, so to prevent a large caterpillar mass as in 1947, try and peel or pull these masses off and destroy.

The bulletin on pruning is available at the County Agent's office—Farmer's Bulletin No. 1870, "Pruning Hardy Fruit Plants."

ABANDON BUILDING PLAN

ELLENSBURG —(AP)— Central Washington College trustees have abandoned for this biennium all plans for construction of a new physical education building, President R. E. McConnell said today.

The decision was reached yesterday when the lowest bid for the project figured $290,291 plus $36,544 for electrical work. A $250,000 figure was provided for construction in the budget.

Chinese Reds Admit Capturing 5 U. S. Marines; One Died

SAN FRANCISCO —(AP)— The Chinese communist radio today confirmed the capture of five United States marines in North China. It said the reds demanded that the U. S. navy "apologize."

The broadcast said one marine, Pfc. Charles J. Brayton, died of wounds received in a fight preceding the capture. He was from Fort Jay, Governor's Island, N. Y.

U. S. Adm. Charles N. Cooke, Jr., said in Shanghai Monday he could not confirm the reported death of one marine. He added there was no news concerning the five since their presumed capture on a hunting trip Christmas day.

The communist broadcast, from a secret station in North China was recorded here by The Associated Press. It said in part:

"Five American marines in a jeep advanced against a position of the peoples liberation (communist) army at Wanglintao (north of Tsingtao on the Shantung peninsula) on the 25th of December as fierce fighting raged in this area between the peoples liberation army and eight Kuomintang (government) brigades.

"In a defensive action, the peoples liberation army captured the five marines together with five rifles, wounding one of the marines in the process.

"The wounded marine, private first class Brayton, died in a field hospital of the peoples liberation army. The captured American marines included a corporal (named by the navy as Cpl. William L. Pollard, Fort Worth), privates Dickenson (Pfc. Carroll W. Dickerson, Olathe, Kas.), Hart (Pvt. Robert Hart, Pittsburgh) and another private (Pfc. Thomas Kapodistria, Buffalo, N. Y.)

"They all serve in the headquarters of the west Pacific American fleet.

The military headquarters of the east Shantung peoples liberation army has lodged a strong protest with the American navy in China, demanding that it apologize and guarantee no recurrence of such actions, otherwise the American troops and the United States government will bear the full responsibility for the consequences resulting from such actions."

The broadcast added that, if the U. S. accepts these demands, the marines would be treated "with clemency in accordance with the spirit of friendship between the Chinese and American peoples."

Miss Cowling Speaks To Parents Forum

Parents Forum heard Merle Cowling, English supervisor and girls' advisor at Roosevelt high school, discuss the topic "Manners and Etiquette" Tuesday night. Mrs. Raymond Porter was hostess for the evening.

Miss Cowling explained Roosevelt boys and girls have an opportunity to become familiar with the common practices of courtesy in various classes. Classes in health, home economics and English along with others include some definite instruction in the various branches of manners, she said. She added that the true test of what impression the teaching of courtesy has is in the way in which students apply their knowledge.

The high school offers varied opportunities for the practical application of courtesy rules learned in the classroom through its activity program of dances, banquets, games, club meetings, assemblies and other activities. These activities range from the student receiving school visitors to participating at a formal ball or tea, the speaker said.

Miss Cowling concluded her remarks by saying "the rigid adherence to rules of etiquette has little place in our planning. Consideration for the feelings of others plus knowledge of a few custom-dictated practices is our goal."

Mrs. Lemuel Ross and Mrs. Darrell Hermann were appointed to make plans for a party in the near future with the Busy Blue Jay Camp Fire group as guests. This group is sponsored by the Parents Forum.

Members were asked to suggest topics at the February 24 meeting for next year's program.

Mrs. Don Frodle was in charge of the evening's program.

Mrs. Porter served Valentine refreshments assisted by Mrs. Palmer Swenson.

History of Ballet Dancing Outlined

The history of dancing since days of antiquity, and its development into the ballet dancing of today was outlined by Norma Fata at the Tuesday meeting of Beta Sigma Phi sorority at the home of Mrs. George Gouker.

Soldiers of ancient Greece were taught ballet to give them strength and agility. Simplicity was the characteristic of Greek ballet, the same simplicity practised in all Greek culture. In art, simplicity is often called the sign of a healthy vigorous nation, Miss Fata said.

In pagan Rome ballet dancing degenerated into a display of vulgarity and evil. But under the influence of the Christian church the ballet was saved from extinction. For one thousand years dancers performed mass before the altar in ceremonial vestments.

Catherine de Medici is credited with introducing ballet into the French court. In France women first appeared in ballet. A woman dancer, Camargo, discarded the flowing robes and introduced the ballet skirt. She also substituted the modern ballet slipper for the high-heeled shoe, Miss Fata explained.

The French revolution ended the popularity of the ballet, believed to be the dance of aristocrats. Although opera houses persisted in performing ballet, its perfection disappeared. Only in Russia wes the traditional ballet preserved.

MODERNIZED

An American dancer, Isadora Duncan, revolutionized the ballet, the speaker said. Miss Duncan had appeared all over Europe in her interpretation of the art without much acclaim, but in Russia she created a sensation.

The Russian artists overlooked Miss Duncan's limited knowledge of ballet as the American had brought them a version of ballet not known to them.

Rimski-Korsakov had written "Scheherazade" for a concert performance but changed it into a ballet suite due to her influence.

All Russian dancers who adopted Isadora's style were dropped from the Russian Academy. Nijinsky, Bolm and Pavlovav followed Miss Duncan's ideals of dancing. The rift assumed the proportions of a political battle, Miss Fata remarked.

In 1911 a Russian ballet group performed in New York, but since that time have seldom appeared in this country. The revival of interest in ballet in America is attributed to the performance by the Russians in New York that season.

Mrs. Melvin Kennedy assisted Mrs. Gouker at the evening affair.

Benito Mussolini, son of a blacksmith, started his career as a school teacher.

New Elwha Home Economics Group

Young women of the upper Elwha district announce formation of a home economics club. Officers include Rose Ellison, president; Kay Hansen, vice-president and Nadine Critchfield, secretary-treasurer.

Regular meetings are scheduled for the fourth Thursday of each month. The February 26 meeting will be with Kay Hansen at 1 p. m. No lunch will precede the meeting.

Members decided to meet in each other's homes for the present.

At the first meeting Ruby Knudson, home demonstration agent, described dresses and aprons suitable for house wear.

The group decided to make the fashioning of house dresses its project for the year.

And every creature which is in heaven and on the earth and under the earth, and such as are in the sea, and all that are in them, heard I saying, "Blessing and honor and glory and power be unto Him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb for ever and ever."

Lions Club Bringing Three Broadway Plays To City This Season

Lions Club members and their wives are now selling tickets for the series of three Broadway plays whose appearance here the club is sponsoring this season.

Selected and produced by the Civic Drama Guild of New York, the attractions are "Dream Girl" by Elmer Rice. "Made In Heaven" by Hagar Wilde and "Kiss and Tell" by Hugh Herbert. They will be in Port Angeles, March 4, April 21 and May 24, respectively. Each play has had long runs in New York, Chicago and on the road.

Author of "Dream Girl" is Elmer Rice, who has 25 plays to his credit, among which are "Street Scene," "Counselor at Law" and "The Adding Machine."

"Dream Girl" deals with a bookshop proprietress who dreams of her brother-in-law (with whom she thinks she is in love), a wolfish publisher and a rude newspaper man. The play covers a day in her real life and a day in her dreams in which she sees herself on an amorous weekend in Mexico, as a tragic trollop, as an overnight success as an actress, and in other imaginative and amusing circumstances until 4 a. m. when she finds herself a real bride in Greenwich.

"Made In Heaven" was produced in New York last season by John Golden, and authored by Hagar Wilde. The plot deals with the humorous side of married life — the adventures, quarrels and making-ups of Zach and Elsa Meredith. The situations are so true to life that every married couple will see themselves in the shoes of the Meredith's.

"Kiss and Tell" was selected for the Festival because the directors of the Guild voted it the funniest show ever written.

All three plays are cast, produced and directed in New York. The actors are all seasoned professionals, members in good standing of the Actors Equity Association. The sets are designed and executed by Eugene Dunkel.

Ticket price for the series of three plays, to be staged at the Olympian Theatre, is $5.00 plus $1.25 taxes. Lions Club ticket chairman Nels Sutherland points out that the opportunity for people to see these Broadway plays here at this low cost compared to Broadway theatre prices, is dependent upon a club guarantee for a minimum sale.

Aviation — And — Shipping

West Coast Airlines carried a total of 8,668 passengers in and out of Port Angeles during the eight months it operated here last year, according to a year-end report of R. E. Lieurance, station manager.

Between the time the airline service was inaugurated on May 17, and December 31, 1947, West Coast planes made a total of 914 flights to fly 590,424 passenger miles between Seattle and Port Angeles. It carried 7,905 pounds of air mail and 14,470 pounds of air express shipments.

The Hunter Liggett, army transport being towed to San Pedro for salvaging, has been buffetted by storms and heavy seas ever since she left Port Angeles on February 1.

The Agnes and Donna Foss, the two tow tugs, report they were first hit by the storm that swept the Oregon coast and now heavy seas off the California coast are battering them.

At present the ship is off Point Reyes about 30 miles north of San Francisco.

The Christine, another Seattle tug with Captain Vince Miller of Port Angeles as skipper, is enroute to aid the Agnes while the Donna stops in San Francisco to repair towing equipment.

During much of the trip the tugs have been unable to make any headway in the heavy seas, but have had to stand by and let the big ship drift so that the tow lines will not snap.

Mary Margaret Tiller was born December 22, 1872 at Moorsville, Tama county, Iowa and later moved to western Kansas with her family and married Samuel Rhodefer, March 24, 1889. The Rhodefers went to Oklahoma territory in 1891 and came to Sequim in March, 1897. During the first world war, Mrs. Rhodefer was awarded one of the two medals presented in eastern Clallam county for Red Cross work. She is credited with organizing the Red Cross in Clallam county in June 1917. Although first organized at Sequim, headquarters were moved to Port Angeles.

CG On Third Mercy Flight; Boy Taken To Seattle Hospital

The Ediz hook coast guard air station made the third mercy flight in less than 24 hours, Thursday when it flew Kenneth Lund, three-year-old son of M. C. Lund, Route 2, to Seattle for transfer to the Orthopedic hospital.

The little boy, who is suffering from a respiratory ailment, was accompanied to Seattle by Nurse Mary Ashworth and his father. Lts. M. W. Tiehen and M. A. Perry piloted the plane.

Previously Thursday the coast guard had flow a Clallam Bay housewife and a stricken fishboat crewman to Seattle hospitals.

Today coast guard planes were awaiting a break in the weather to continue the search for the fishing boat Rose Ann, still unreported since last weekend's storm. The search for the fishboat Paul L. was secured Thursday after the fishing company reported they had made radio contact with the boat.

Returning from the fishboat search yesterday, the coast guard PBY was diverted to Race rock where the freighter Hawaiian Lumberman reported another fishing boat in distress. The PBY crew located the boat and dropped marking flares to guide Canadian rescue officials to the scene.

The search for the plane reported missing near Everett, Thursday, was discontinued late yesterday after planes and ground crews failed to find any evidence of a mishap, and no planes were reported unaccounted for in the area.
